Tax increase appears likely

By BARBY GRANT
Capitol Correspondant

A tax increase appears likely to come out of the 1984 Legislature, Senator Charlie Lee and Representative Mickey McGuire both acknowledged after week two of the current 30-day session.

Lee said he opposes a tax increase along with the majority of the Senate. But taxes will probably be raised as a part of a Senate-House compromise, he believes. The move will be necessitated by the general appropriations bill likely to be approved later in the session.

McGuire spent the greater part of last week—all seven days—working on that bill as a member of the House Appropriations and Finance Committee. The committee will present House Bill (HB) 2 to the full House of Representatives this week with a state budget giving an average 10 percent pay increase for school personnel.

McGuire said he generally agrees with the committee's decision on the appropriations act. McGuire said he sees the decision as an intended compromise between Governor Toney Anaya's desired 16.2 percent pay hike for school faculty and a legislative Finance Committee's proposed five percent salary increase.

Although the legislation would not insure the money would go into teachers' paychecks, the bill does include language requiring a school district to justify any decision not to use funds for that purpose, McGuire pointed out.

Schools also are encouraged through wording in HB 2 to examine the needs for establishment of career ladders and incentive pay proposals for faculty, an effort towards an improved teacher accountability.

Representative McGuire, a Ruidoso school teacher, supports the bill because it addresses both the need for upgrading education, as advocated in numerous state and national education reports, and the public's demand for more accountability.

McGuire said he could support a tax increase to generate the revenue HB 2 will appropriate for spending.

The House Taxation and Revenue Committee reportedly will propose an increase in the gross receipts and compensating (use) taxes. The committee will also reportedly propose a one year phase-out of the food and medical/dental rebates in the income tax program for New Mexicans with salaries above $18,000.

"I wouldn't object strongly to that," commented McGuire.

His experience as a school teacher has convinced him, he said, of the importance of education. He said he believes education spending represents an investment in New Mexico's future.

Although membership on the Appropriations and Finance Committee leaves McGuire little time to work on other legislation, he is sponsoring three bills during his second session as a legislator.

Introduced in the House Monday was HB '77, which appropriates $112,598 for replacement of furniture at Camp Sierra Blanca and the Roswell Correctional Center.

The furniture to be replaced is military surplus which has been in the institutions for several years, according to McGuire.

He also is co-sponsoring HB 95, authorizing a $20 million severance tax bond issue for the Public School Outlay Fund. Ruidoso High School has requested a $1.9 million Capital Outlay appropriation for completion of the new high school. The local school district has received $5,031 million in Capital Outlay funds since 1978.

The third piece of legislation McGuire is sponsoring is a measure appropriating $235,000 for Soil and Water Conservation districts.

The revenue could be used by local districts to pay for a referendum on a self-imposed tax or to help pay for audits required with receipt of federal funds, McGuire said.

Senator Lee will co-sponsor a bill to provide Capital Outlay monies for upgrading and restoring the historic Wortley Hotel in Lincoln, he said Sunday. The state-owned landmark needs plumbing and electrical repairs, Lee pointed out.

"If it's going to be a state run hotel, it should be in better shape," said Lee.

Lee said he decided against requesting severance tax bond money this year for Gavilan Canyon Road, fearing defeat of the entire bill. Instead, he will introduce a measure to make the road a part of the State highway system, which he hopes will speed the process of upgrading the road. Funding may be easier to come by next year for such a project, he believes.

Legislative activity is expected to intensify this week as the House and Senate debate the General Appropriations Act and the tax package. Lee expects the tax increase issue to generate heated debate before final action is taken.

Up to 400 additional bills will require action by the 112-member Legislature before the end of its 30 days in Santa Fe, Lee said, meaning long hours and lots of work ahead for the state's lawmakers in the next couple of weeks.

Candidates file Tuesday

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

The local political season will begin in earnest Tuesday with candidates filing for office in Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and Capitan.

Political observers will get a chance to see who got cold feet and who will come out of the woodwork to toss their hats into the political ring.

Candidates must file between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday, January 31, in the administrative office of their municipality. Order of appearance on the ballot will be determined by draw shortly after 5 p.m.

Candidates must be registered voters living within the village limits and registration is free.

Tuesday's filing will not necessarily reflect the final list of candidates, however. Persons who file Tuesday have until 5 p.m. Friday, February 10, to withdraw their names from candidacy, said Ruidoso village clerk Leon Eggleston.

Eggleston should be a busy man Tuesday, with six council seats open for the March 6 election in Ruidoso. A special election last November increased the council size from four to six members, but also required present council members to resign.

Estimates have ranged anywhere from 15 to 30 candidates who will be vying for the six open seats.

It appears very possible none of the present council members will run for reelection, although three of them are holding off on their final decisions until Tuesday.

Councilman Frank Sayner, who has served six years on the council, has made it clear that he will not run this time.

Councilmen Benny Coulston, Don Dale and Al Junge all said they were leaning against running for office, but would not commit themselves before Tuesday.

Dale and Junge said their decisions will be at least partly influenced by other candidates. Dale said he will not run if there are candidates whose views he supports. Junge echoed Dale's sentiments.

So far, Terry Coe is the only other candidate who has officially announced his candidacy for the Ruidoso council.

Incumbent Ruidoso municipal judge John Cupp said he plans to run for office. No others have officially announced their candidacies, but the recent salary increase from $1,000 to $1,500 per month may entice additional candidates.

Ruidoso Downs has three board of trustee openings and one opening for municipal judge.

Two seats now occupied by Conrad Buchanan and Harrold Mansell will be open for four year terms. The seat now occupied by LeVerne Cole will be open for a two-year term.

Cole was appointed to the council to fill a vacancy. She must run for office during this election even though that trustee seat would not normally come up for election until 1986.

Cole and Buchanan both said they plan to run for office. Mansell plans to run for a different office, challenging incumbent Paula Smith for Ruidoso Downs municipal judge.

Mansell has been a vocal critic of judge Smith and changes she has tried to implement in the office. Smith said she plans to run for the municipal judgeship.

Barry Smith has also announced his candidacy for trustee in Ruidoso Downs.

Two board of trustee seats and a municipal judgeship are open in Capitan. Incumbent councilman Maggie Trujillo said he does not intend to seek reelection. Councilman Norman Renfro, who was appointed to the board of trustees last summer, said he does plan to run for trustee in Capitan.

Judge Leroy Montes plans to run but may face some competition since a recent salary increase from $100 to $300 per month was approved for the Capitan municipal judge.

Lincoln County candidates do not have to file until April 3. The primary election is June 5 and the general election November 6.

Lojero campaign progresses

The Mexican advertising campaign spearheaded by Mexican businessman Arturo Lojero continues to grow, but still has a long way to reach its goal. According to a letter being circulated by Lojero, the account at Ruidoso State Bank for the campaign now totals $3,025. Lojero says in the letter that the total advertising goal for the campaign is $110,000.

Lojero's letter also stresses that Preston Issacs, of Ruidoso State Bank, is the only person in custody of the money.

According to the Lojero letter, the advertising dollars will be spent on advertising in Mexico. The money will go to a Mexican advertising agency who will buy spots on 10 large billboards at the "most important" airports in Mexico.

Funds will also go to the printing of 50,000 brochures both in Spanish and English that will be distributed to travel agencies in Mexico City, Monterrey and Guadalajara.

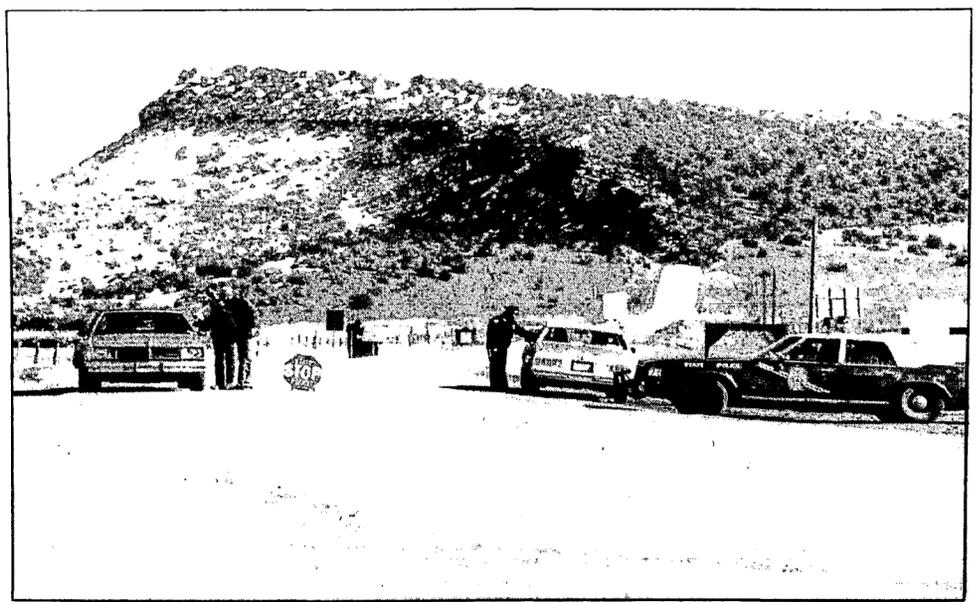

Money will also go to advertisements in three Mexican magazines; Aeromexico, Mexicana and El Viajero Feliz.

The letter adds that if the full amount of money needed to complete the campaign is not collected, all money will be returned to the people who donated it.

In the letter, Lojero says that if the campaign only draws one half of one percent of all the Mexicans, 375,000 people will be coming to Ruidoso. The letter ends with a request for a donation.

"If you agree that this campaign will benefit everybody in Ruidoso, please send us your contribution. Ultimately, it will be the less expensive and the best way to advertise Ruidoso and your business," writes Lojero in the letter.

Lojero said earlier that he would like to raise the necessary funds by mid-February.

Special assessment buys more

by BETH HALLER
News Staff Writer

Some may say you can't fight city hall, but there is no reason for a fight when your needs can be met quickly with a special assessment district.

Village manager Jim Hine explained that a special assessment district is a way for residents to get certain services in their area before the city has the financial ability to provide them.

A special assessment district can be used for an area to get water or sewer, or any type of street improvement or beautification of streets, he said.

"The city doesn't have the money for all these things," Hine noted, "so the property owner pays for whatever special thing they're asking for that a municipality can provide."

The property must already be in the corporate limits, he said. Also, a special assessment district is for property owners, not developers.

"A developer needs to absorb his own costs rather than the Village of Ruidoso," Hine said.

"We don't think it's fair to people already in the corporate limits to subsidize those being annexed."

Hine explained the process property owners go through to get the special assessment district.

The property owners petition the village council for a special assessment district. The council passes a resolution stating it will do a study and present findings on creating a special assessment district.

An engineer is employed to find out everyone who will benefit, and comes up with the total estimated cost.

A protest meeting is held, and everyone whose property would be affected is notified. Anyone who is against the district voices their objections. The first protest meeting is to justify the need, and then there is a second one on cost.

Although the majority usually rules, Hine said they could have 100 percent protest against it, and the district could still be voted in.

The cost of the necessary services and the amount each property owner will pay is based on the front footage, acreage, or area size divided by the total acreage that will benefit.

The assessment cannot exceed the estimated maximum benefit, Hine said.

A special assessment bond is usually needed for the district. In essence, the village lends its name to get the bond, Hine explained. The village uses a firm in Albuquerque that acts as the fiscal agent.

The property owners have the choice of paying in a lump sum, or they can spread their payments out over 10 years. They are then charged the rate of interest; the bond is issued at.

"If they pay cash, that's that many fewer bonds we have to sell," Hine noted. There are 30 days before construction in which a property owner can pay his portion and keep costs down.

If a property owner fails to pay for his part of the special assessment district, the city can file a lien against the property and take the property away, he said.

A special assessment district is being used to finance a sewer system for portions of Alto Crest, Forest Heights and Snowflake Ridge.

Church Street will become a special assessment district in the spring for paving.

Hine said he thinks "special assessment districts are the answer for people who want to go on with their plans before the city is financially ready."

"I think it's the fairest way because it benefits the property owner who pays for it," he concluded.

Pink Ladies Thrift Shop saves, earns

by BETH HALLER
News Staff Writer

Mounds of jeans rise as if leaping to the ceiling; dresses, skirts and blouses from other decades line the wall in military attention; shoes and sweaters ooze from shelves.

But this shop offers more than clothes, it offers a bargain. Saving money and earning money is what the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital Pink Ladies Thrift Shop is all about.

Filled with donated items ranging from clothes to books to household items, the five-year-old shop is located in the former Methodist parsonage on Nob Hill Road.

The Thrift Shop gives all the money raised from sales to the hospital for the purchase of new equipment and general improvement of the hospital. The Pink Ladies have plans to redo the hospital lobby.

The Pink Ladies and their Thrift Shop were responsible for over $90,000 in donations to the hospital, minus $25,000 used to purchase the building, said Lorene Ross, president of the Pink Ladies.

In addition to their donations to the hospital, Ross explained, the shop also helps the community.

"I feel like we serve the community because we have good things to sell, and they're cheap," she said. "It's a boon to the community."

People come to shop at the shop from as far away as Juarez, Mexico, Alamogordo and Capitan, Ross mentioned. The shop has as many as 20 to 30 customers a day.

When the idea for the shop was conceived, there was concern among some of the Pink Ladies whether the idea was feasible, Ross said.

However, they have never asked for a donation, and they have more than they can do now, Ross explained.

"We are appreciative of the support from the community," she said.

The shop, which is open Wednesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the winter, has two shifts of Pink Ladies—two work in the morning and two in the afternoon. Pat Hayden is manager of the shop.

The workers go through and sort everything that is donated, Ross said. They wash and mend clothes and make sure any other items work before they sell them.

Anything they cannot or do not want to use goes to the Salvation Army, she said. Nothing goes to waste.

"We don't put out anything that isn't good," Ross noted.

The mounds and racks of clothes achieve a level of disarray during a busy day, showing the mark of several eager customers. But a Pink Lady comes along quickly and straightens the clothes back into neatness, ready for the next bargain hunters.

Shirts hang at attention ready for eager shoppers seeking a bargain at the Pink Ladies Thrift shop.

Barry Smith candidate in Downs

"The town has the potential to grow and expand," said Ruidoso Downs trustee candidate Barry Smith.

Smith, 37, believes he can bring new ideas to the board which will foster that potential in Ruidoso Downs.

"I believe that we need some new ideas, thought and people," said Smith.

Smith said he wants to work towards improving the general appearance of Ruidoso Downs. He believes a better looking village is more attractive to potential residents and business owners.

As those people and businesses come into Ruidoso Downs, the tax base increases and there will be more money for paving roads, garbage collections, water supply and other public services, said Smith.

Smith has lived in Ruidoso Downs for one and a half years and is employed as a carpenter with Crowley Construction.

He received a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from the University of Texas—Permian Basin in 1978. He also completed a minor in business.

This candidacy is his first venture into the political ring. He has six years experience as a security officer with the United States Marine Corps and Walt Disney World. He also worked as a police officer for eight years in Texas and Ruidoso.

Smith said he believes his education, working background and acquaintance with other village's experiences will help him bring new ideas to the board of trustees.

Smith said he also wants to make the village administration more accessible to public input.

"I want to represent the village as a whole," said Smith. "I don't believe in special interest."

White Mountain students to publish literary magazine

by BETH HALLER
News Staff Writer

Sixth-graders at White Mountain Middle School are getting their chance to be publishers with the forthcoming edition of the "Sixth Grade Sensation," their literary magazine.

The magazine was formed to give the sixth grade something special and something to call their own, said Catherine Palmer, sixth-grade language arts teacher and one of the sponsors.

The sixth-graders cannot be in organized sports or be cheerleaders, and some of the dances are just for eighth-graders, she noted.

Palmer got hold of a literary magazine from an Albuquerque middle school, and she showed it to the kids at White Mountain. They got excited about the idea, she said.

The sixth-graders submit original poetry, short stories, plays, essays and art.

A group of about 10 sixth-graders act as the artists and editors of the magazine, she said. The editors were chosen from volunteers who filled out applications used by the Ruidoso

Public Schools for non-certified personnel.

The editors and artists meet every other Tuesday afternoon. They go through each of the writings, reading them carefully. They put the unacceptable efforts in one pile and the ones to keep in another pile.

Those that are kept may not necessarily get into the magazine because they are read and reread, Palmer said. At least two people read each story, and if it stays in the magazine, several people must decide it's publishing.

"The kids do all the editing, and they're told not to look at the names, but just to look for quality writing," she said. "We're teaching them to judge something on its quality, not whether they like the person who wrote it or not. We're teaching them what makes good writing."

The editors judge more on literary effort than grammar and spelling, Palmer explained.

Palmer and the other two sponsors, Frank Cannella and Joette Maskew, trust the students' judgement but retain final say about what gets published, said Palmer.

Most of the material submitted is from assignments in the sixth-grade language arts classes.

Palmer said they will probably only publish one edition of the magazine this year, sometime before the end of school.

They will try to sell it, she said. It will probably be mimeographed sheets, but someday they would like it printed. She estimates it will be a 10 to 15-page publication with about 30 entries.

The work on the magazine began about 10 weeks ago, and they have received about 70 submissions so far, Palmer noted.

"Some of the kids have written about meaningful, heavy things," said Palmer.

The editors and artists will learn about laying out the pages, she said. The children get to practice reading, editing and working in groups.

"The purpose of the magazine is to give every child an outlet for their creativity," Palmer explained.

The "Sixth Grade Sensation" should be a sensation at White Mountain Middle School with the authors of the future filling its pages.

Editors and artists for the "Sixth Grade Sensation" literary magazine at White Mountain Middle School read copy for the magazine. From left are Amy Sayner, Chad Seals, Eric Brown, Erin Hair and Brenna Jones. The magazine will be published before the end of the school year and will contain work of sixth graders.

Guards spark Warrior boys past Hot Springs

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

A couple of the smallest players on the Ruidoso High School boys varsity basketball team came through with the biggest plays to give the Warriors a thrilling 50-49 win over host Hot Springs Friday night.

Guards Gilbert Rivera and Cyrus Simmons came through in the last two minutes of the game to give Ruidoso its first district 3-AAA victory in two seasons and a 4-11 overall mark.

With the score tied at 47-47 and two minutes left on the clock, Hot Springs had the ball and was hoping to stall for a last shot.

But the 5-6 Rivera stole the ball and drove the length of the court for a layup and a 49-47 Warrior lead.

The Tigers came back when 6-3 sophomore Chris Harrison hit a field goal with 30 seconds left.

Ruidoso then decided to work for the last shot and the win.

The Warriors worked the ball around to Rivera on the corner, but the senior missed the shot.

A Hot Springs player tipped the ball and Simmons grabbed it with seven seconds left. He tried to shoot but was fouled and awarded with two shots.

The 5-8 senior missed the first one, but made the second for the Warriors' margin of victory.

Hot Springs dribbled the ball down and tried to pass inside. However, the ball was tipped by Russell Easter and the Warriors' Dan Ullmann grabbed it. He threw the ball down court as time ran out.

Ruidoso started the game out as if it were going to win easily, taking a 14-6 lead in the first quarter.

But the hosts came back in the second period, largely because the 6-5 Ullmann sat on the bench for four minutes with two fouls.

Hot Springs outscored the Warriors 18-13 in the second period, but Ruidoso still led 27-24 at halftime.

The two teams battled fairly evenly in the third period, but Hot Springs outscored the Warriors 13-10 for a 37-37 quarter-break tie.

In the final period, the lead changed hands several times with the hosts' biggest lead being two points.

But Rivera and Simmons came through and the Warriors evened their district record at 1-1.

"Oh yes, it was definitely our biggest win of the year," said a happy Warrior coach Ron Geyer. "It's a district game and it should help us a lot the rest of the season."

"Gilbert had his best overall game of the season and he did a great job. I think a big key to our win was the way some of our smaller players like Cyrus, Tommy Crow and Gilbert blocked out on the boards. Little guys can rebound too."

Ullmann equaled Rivera's 16 point total as both led the Warriors in scoring. Easter added 10 points on field goals. Harrison tallied 16 points for Hot Springs.

Geyer felt the victory would give the Warriors a lift the rest of the district campaign.

"We're still a young team but I'm pleased with the way we played," he said. "Hot Springs is a good team that is physical and teams are going to have a hard time going in there (the Hot Springs gym) and winning this season."

The Warrior coach also praised the Ruidoso fans who came to the game.

"We had a whole busload of fans that came and watched us," he remarked. "I'd like to thank them for coming and also thank Jim Ramsey for driving the bus."

Ruidoso will host Cobre this Friday night and travel to Silver City the next night.

Lady Warrior cagers defeated twice

It was a tough weekend for the Ruidoso High School girls varsity basketball team.

Ruidoso lost a close 56-53 decision to Hot Springs Friday night in Truth or Consequences, before returning home Saturday to lose 67-51 to a talented Silver City club.

The Warriors, now 1-2 in district 3-AAA action and 5-10 overall, fought from behind to almost defeat Hot Springs.

Ruidoso trailed the entire game until the final two and one half minutes when the Warriors took a brief three-point lead.

But mistakes killed the Warriors' chances as Ruidoso committed six turnovers and fouled the Tigers twice.

Hot Springs had just a one-point lead with 10 seconds left before getting a clinching bucket.

The hosts led 19-18 at the end of the first period, 37-26 at halftime and 45-37 at the third-period break.

Ruidoso then made a fourth period comeback which just fell short at the end.

Center Diane McClure led the Warrior scoring with 16 points. Stacy Ivy and Gia Rose each added 11 points, Mayis Gerommo had eight and Lillian Lopez scored seven.

The Warriors couldn't seem to get going the next night against the quick and talented Colts from Silver City.

The Warriors had a brief lead early in the first period when McClure layed a shot in for a 6-4 Ruidoso advantage.

But from then on, the speedy Silver City five got their fast break and press going and pulled away from the Warriors.

Silver City led 13-10 at the end of the first period, 31-20 at halftime and 56-34 at the third quarter break. The Warriors put on a brief spurt in the final period to outscore the Colts 17-11, but it was too late.

McClure again led the Warrior scoring, tallying 23 points. That gave her 39 points on the weekend.

Ivy added nine points, Gerommo seven and Rose five for the Warriors.

"The girls just weren't ready for the game," Warrior head coach Sergio Castanon said about the Silver City contest. "A couple of the kids played well, but you can't win with just two players."

But Castanon praised the team's efforts against Hot Springs.

"The kids played tough," he said. "In the end, it just got away from us."

Castanon felt McClure and Ivy played well in both games.

"They played well," he remarked. "They're our two main rebounders and we need them on the boards."

"Diane has shown a lot of improvement and she's really going to help us."

The Warriors will host Tularosa in a non-district game Tuesday night. The junior varsity will play at 5:30 with the varsity contest following it.

Ruidoso will host Cobre Friday and travel to Silver City Saturday.

Davis sparks Tigers

Eddie Davis was the star as the Capitan High School boys varsity basketball team opened the district season over the weekend.

Davis scored 24 points in the Tigers' 50-46 loss to visiting Cloudcroft Friday night and came back with 28 points in Capitan's 78-63 win over Hagermann Saturday on the loser's court.

Cloudcroft jumped off to a 15-12 edge at the first quarter break and led 29-24 at halftime.

The Tigers fought back to lead 36-35 at the end of the third period, but the Bears came back to outscore Capitan at the end.

"We didn't shoot well enough to win," said Tiger coach Kendall Lawlis. "We matched them on the boards. We probably outrebounded them, but we shot just 26 percent to 42 percent for them."

Dewey Koller added 10 points for Capitan. Danny Cummins had six, Todd Proctor scored four and Eric Hamm tallied two.

Koller had 13 rebounds and Cummins picked off 12.

The Tigers came right back after the Cloudcroft loss and displayed an excellent offense in beating Hagermann.

Capitan jumped off to a 17-7 first period lead and gradually increased its edge from there.

Besides Davis' effort, Proctor added 19 and Koller 15. Davis is now averaging 20.5 a game.

The Tiger junior varsity lost 61-60 to Cloudcroft and 49-44 to Hagermann.

Capitan, now 1-1 in district varsity play and 10-5 overall, will host Hondo Friday night and Lake Arthur Saturday night.

Tiger girls top Cloudcroft, Hagerman, raise record to 2-0 in district action

The Capitan High School girls varsity basketball team stamped themselves as a top contender for the district title by taking a pair of impressive wins over the weekend.

Friday night the Tigers nipped visiting Cloudcroft 49-48 and Saturday Capitan traveled to Hagerman and took a 40-26 victory. The Tigers are now 2-0 in district play and 10-7 overall.

The victory over Cloudcroft was especially impressive since the Bears were considered to be the favorite for the district crown by some people.

Shawna McDaniel provided the winning points for Capitan by hitting two free throws with less than 20 seconds left in the game.

Cloudcroft had a chance to win the game at the buzzer but a shot rolled off the rim.

Capitan trailed most of the game, as Cloudcroft had a 15-6 lead at the first period break and a 31-17 edge at halftime. Cloudcroft led 42-39 going into the final quarter before the Tigers made their comeback.

Shelly Eldridge led the Tiger scoring with 19 points, seven of them coming on free throws and five from the charity line.

Tiffany Huey added 12 points. McDaniel only scored four points, but two of them were the winning free throws. She also played a top defensive game.

Susan Peek led Cloudcroft with 19 points and Molly Burds added 11.

Against Hagerman, the Tigers jumped off to a 13-3 edge at the end of the first period and cruised in from there.

Huey and Audrey Joiner each scored 10 points and Tracy Herd added nine points for Capitan.

Tiger head coach Darrel Ray was naturally pleased with his team's wins.

"We came back strong in the second half," he said about the Cloudcroft game. "The game against Hagerman was kind of boring but it's hard to come back after a game like we had the night before."

Braves play Socorro

The White Mountain Middle School boys A and B basketball teams hope to extend their records when they travel to Socorro today.

The B game will start at 1 p.m., with the A contest following it. White Mountain is 8-3 in A competition and 9-1 in B action.

Last Thursday the Brave A team lost to host Holloman 37-29 but the White Mountain B team won 18-12.

Saturday the White Mountain girls rolled over host Cloudcroft 41-18 and the Brave boys B squad won 50-16.

Against Holloman, the White Mountain A team ran into a couple of hot shooters and could never overtake the hosts.

"We played terrible," sighed Brave coach Dean Hood. "They played real well and they had two guys who hit from all over the floor."

Kirk Ryan led the Brave scoring with 10 points, Clint Bob added nine and Lance Willard scored five.

Dennis Ullmann led the Brave scoring in the Holloman B game with 12 points. He also did a good job on the boards.

Jennifer Jimenez had an excellent game in leading the Brave girls past Cloudcroft. She scored 15 points and Shannon Lee added six.

"They played great," said Brave girls coach Jean Wright about her team's win. "Jennifer played real hard and put it all together today (Saturday)."

Wednesday, the Braves will conclude the season against Tularosa on the White Mountain court.

There will be boys A and B games and a girls game. The first contest will start at 1 p.m.

Junior varsity defeated

Getting off to a slow start, the Ruidoso High School girls junior varsity basketball team lost a 44-16 decision to strong Silver City Saturday night in the Warrior gymnasium.

Silver City took a 13-2 first-period edge over the Warriors and gradually increased its margin the rest of the game.

Ruidoso, now 5-3 on the season, was led in the scoring column by Berdine Smith, who tallied six points.

The Bicycle Motocross Racing Association (BMX) of Ruidoso is trying a different route to raise funds.

Association president Roy Propsner will clean fireplaces for $45 apiece in an effort to raise funds for the association. Originally the association was asking people to sponsor riders.

"I'm optimistic about the program succeeding," Propsner said. "There are a lot of fireplaces around." There are 21 youths in the association, with four to a team. There are four teams and five alternates.

"That's more than I thought I would have originally," Propsner commented. "I was first planning on going with just four kids on one team, but a lot of kids have been interested in the program. We need the alternates also."

The money from the fireplace cleaning will go towards buying uniforms for the racers. Each uniform will have the word Ruidoso on the back and the sleeves, and have red, yellow and black colors.

Each youth must provide his or her own bicycle.

"I think some of the kids have raced before, I'm not sure how many," Propsner said. "We're hopeful that we'll be able to race for the first time in April or May. It will take some time to get the uniforms."

Propsner would like to race in places like Roswell and El Paso, Texas.

Roswell is scheduled to open its season March 3.

"It's doubtful we'd be able to start that soon," Propsner said. "We'd like to compete at Roswell. That's the closest."

But what about a race track in Ruidoso?

"It'll probably depend upon availability of land," Propsner answered. There apparently aren't too many places available in Ruidoso now for a bicycle motocross track. Perhaps a location may be found in the future, but right now land is a problem.

If a local racing track was started soon, it would be a big boost to bicycle motocross, one of the fastest growing sports in the country.

Let's turn from sports to politics for a second.

I'm sick, sick, sick of people who continually point to the Vietnam War as the greatest sin in this country's history.

There are many instances in the 208-year history of the United States which deserve that infamous tag far more than the Vietnam War.

Try the institution of slavery or the murder and relocation of the Indian people.

Ironically, many of the people who criticized the Vietnam War (and ridiculed its veterans) have encouraged Israel in its criminal and hypocritical conduct in the Middle East, supported the late Shah of Iran and cheered on National Football League defensive backs while they hit and paralyze wide receivers.

A good number of these people are responsible for the deaths of over 60,000 Vietnam Veterans who committed suicide largely because of the way they were treated when they came home.

That's enough said about the hypocrites of this society.

Warrior matmen beat Goddard, Roswell

Lots of strength in the heavier weight classes was the key as the Ruidoso High School wrestling team took a pair of victories over the weekend.

Thursday night the Warriors rolled over visiting Goddard 36-24 and Saturday Ruidoso took a 36-32 win over Roswell in the Coyote gymnasium. Ruidoso, now 4-2 in dual-match competition, will travel to Roswell Wednesday afternoon to take on New Mexico Military Institute. The match will start at 5.

The Warriors trailed in both matches but came back to win.

Against Roswell, Ruidoso won four of the last five matches to clinch the victory.

James Herrera started the Ruidoso competition with a second period pin of Luther Fisher in the 148-pound division.

Gervase Peso followed up with a pin in the third period of the 187-pound match. Scott Ciraulo of Ruidoso wrestled well but lost a tight 7-5 decision to Odie Rodriguez in the 168-pound class, and Gary Burgess, of Ruidoso pinned his opponent in just 51 seconds of the first period of the 187-pound division.

Heavyweight Phillip Herrera provided the winning margin for the Warriors by pinning Jamie Ramirez in 1:56 of the first round.

Earlier in the match, Cory Garner of Ruidoso pinned Billy Gallagher in the second period of the 100-pound competition and the Warriors' Bronson Rue took a forfeit win in the 107-pound division.

The match against Goddard also started out badly for the Warriors. Bronson Rue took an exciting 6-5 decision in the 107-pound division and Jeff Slatton took a forfeit win in the 121-pound class. Slatton wrestled in an exhibition and took a pin win.

Rue was tied 8-5 in his match, but got an escape with 30 seconds left to win the competition.

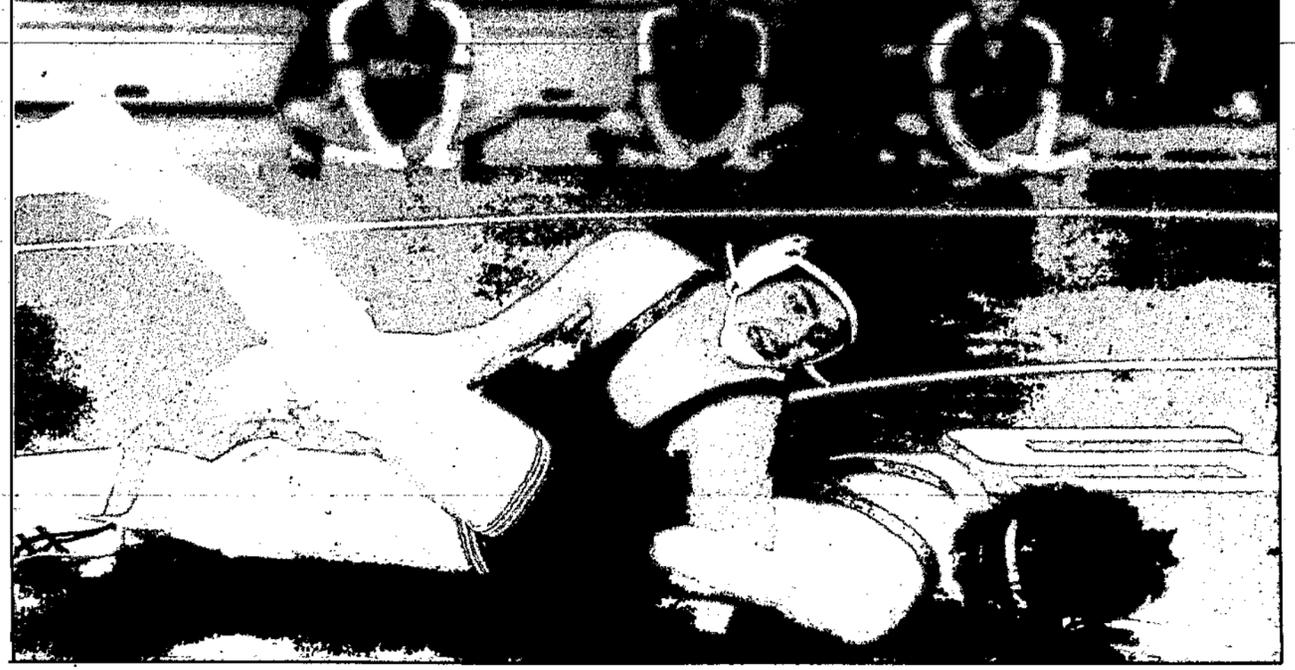

After Slatton's victory, however, the Warriors lost the next two matches.

From then on, however, the Warriors dominated the competition.

Peso at 187 pounds, Ciraulo at 169 pounds and Phillip Herrera at heavyweight each pinned their opponents, while Burgess took a forfeit victory at 189 pounds. Herrera's victory was particularly impressive. He was wrestling in place of Joe La Rue, who was injured.

The Warrior athletes led 3-1 before pinning his opponent in the third round.

Ciraulo and Peso pinned their opponents in the first round. Ruidoso will travel to New Mexico Military Institute Wednesday for a 5 p.m. match. The Warriors will compete in a four-way match Saturday at Deming, with Silver City and Cobre also competing.

James Herrera (top) of the Ruidoso High School wrestling team tries to put his Goddard opponent over on his back during Thursday night's match. Herrera lost a narrow decision but came back to win Saturday against Roswell.

Ruidoso netters begin practice

With bright prospects for the 1984 season, the Ruidoso High School boys and girls tennis teams will begin practice at 4 p.m. today at Sierra Swim & Racquet Club.

Coach Mike Crocker has several players back from last year's team on both the boys and girls squads. Ryan Brown, the top-seeded player on last year's boys team, and Laura Trapp, the top-seeded girl, are both returning. Trapp was undefeated in district play last season, but was upset in the district tournament. She should be one of the top players in the state this year.

Crocker has several other talented players to work with. Some of the other top boys include Mike Smith, Jim Smith, Bart Bowen and Cache Mundy.

Ruidoso Sierra Blanca Ski Racing Team hosts first race here

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Sierra Blanca Ski Racing Team held its first invitational ski race of the season at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort Saturday and Sunday.

Over 40 racers from the Ruidoso club and Conquistador Ski Team, from Colorado, participated in the event.

"We did very well, we won most of the classes. It was a total success," said Coach Gary Vogel after Sunday's race. "Even though it wasn't a great turnout today, everything went perfect."

Vogel said the team had hoped for a field of over 100 racers, but many teams invited were not able to attend the race.

"We didn't get a large response, but in a way that was good," Vogel said. He added that the race was the first at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort in about six years.

"It was a real good training process for all involved. We learned an awful lot," he said. Vogel said the team hopes to host a qualifying race next year at the resort. Attendance at qualifying races is necessary for teams wishing to advance in the United States Ski Association junior racing program. Having such a race at Sierra Blanca would greatly increase the exposure of the local team, he said.

The team, coached by Vogel, Schar Ward and Fran Heid is made up of 27 area youths. According to Vogel, the club represents racers ranging in age from grade school to high school. The team follows the guidelines of the United States Ski Association in its training and racing.

In addition to last weekend's results, the team also fared well in another invitational race, held January 21 and 22, by the Conquistador club at Conquistador Ski Area in Colorado. These races are preparatory races to a qualifying race that will be held February 4 and 5, at Monarch Ski Area in Colorado, Vogel said. That race will determine which racers qualify for the championship races to be held in March at Winter Park Ski Area and Crested Butte Ski Area, both in Colorado.

According to Vogel, the Ruidoso club has been responsible for a large number of college athletic scholarships compared with other sports in Ruidoso. The club is a non-profit organization that relies on donations and membership dues, according to Vogel. He said contributions to the club are tax-deductible. According to Vogel, area people were a great help in the weekend event.

"The help from townspeople and the ski area was excellent," he said.

Junior racer Dusty Skellett brushes against a gate in Saturday's slalom race at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort. Skellett placed fourth in his age group.

With the beginning of a new year we are offering a SPECIAL to those who may or may not know about Pat Walker's Figure Salon Program.

The key to our whole program is circulation. The Patron is totally reclined on a unit that is built much like a lounging chair. There is no effort generated by the Patron, therefore the parton is neither stressed nor tired in any fashion.

Let me say that most of our Patrons are here for one purpose: TO LOSE WEIGHT. That's the primary goal for all of our Patrons, but we have had so many of our Patrons tell us of improvements in many other areas, such as arthritis and bursitis, either clearing up or getting noticeably better. These are added benefits to the better circulation and toning/firming of the muscles that the unit treatment provides.

Because a treatment of this nature is extremely difficult to describe in words, we invite you to take two weeks unlimited treatments for $25.00.

The Dreamer
by Dan Storm

Birthday Of Franklin Delano Roosevelt
This will reach you on the eve of January's last day and the birthday of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, our thirty-second president, born January 30, 1882, in Hyde Park, New York.
As a youth, he was good in his studies and also a great lover of sports, being active in polo, tennis, riding after the hounds, shooting, sailing, ice-boating and swimming.

He went to Harvard and graduated from Columbia University Law School, being graduated in 1904. In 1905 he was married to Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, his sixth cousin; the wedding being attended by then president Theodore Roosevelt, a fifth cousin.

The turning point came in Roosevelt's life in August of 1921 when he was stricken with Infantile Paralysis. This left his legs paralyzed, but did not stop the progress toward his destiny as a national and world leader.

Exercise and treatments at Warm Springs, Georgia, restored him to good health, other than his disabilities. After having served in the department of the Navy during World War I, during which time he made very important innovations which bore fruit in World War II, he found himself as one of the Democratic candidates in the convention at Chicago in July of 1932.

In the third ballot, Texas and California threw their delegates to Roosevelt, giving him the nomination. That November he was elected President; and here began perhaps the most remarkable political career in American History.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "His first task, as the nation seemingly stood on the brink of an abyss, was to restore its morale. An eloquent inaugural address caught the popular imagination.

"The 99-day session of Congress which began March 9, 1933, witnessed the most daring Presidential leadership in American history. Congress, dazed and planless, found itself subjected to a carefully-planned bombardment of Bills.

"The fact that Congress was passing bills to order was never concealed; never before had the American Government so closely approached the British system of ministerial leadership.

During World War II Roosevelt rose to his full stature and stepped from a national to a world leader. His great genius as a morale builder together with his military turn of mind pulled the United States and The World through the War.

His record of serving almost four terms during the most trying times in American history, from a wheel chair, remains unsurpassed as a record of iron-willed determination and unwavering faith under great adversity.

On April 12, 1945, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the unanimous choice of History as a great American President, was called Home.

One of the great legacies he left us was uttered in his first inaugural address: "We have nothing to fear except fear itself."

Happy Ground Hog's Day

This is being sent on January 27, a balmy, still, summer-like day which all day has sent the snow to melting with the snow water forming many a tiny waterfall, lake and quite sizable patches of swampy ground.

Yet this is not fooling anybody. As long as there is snow on the mountain this acts as a cold maker in all directions, especially when the wind is off the peak.

Also the snowy mountain—"the Cold Mountain" as my nephew, Scott Joseph Storm, named it when he was about three years old—is truly a cold mountain, acting as a magnet attracting cold waves from every direction.

Soon after the beginning of "The Birthday Month" that great little national and international holiday, Groundhog's Day will fall on the Second of February.

The Jolly little Ground Hog or Woodchuck comes out of his home deep in the fond protection of Mother Earth, and takes a look at how the land lays. He is a little jumpy this time of year and a trifle blind from his winter underground. So "being scared of his own shadow," he will make a swan dive back into his home if he does see his shadow. This means of course that he knows that if it is sunny on his special day we will get six weeks more of hard weather, with a whip-cracking effect of late weather punishment way up into March or even April.

So beware. There is a lot of professional jealousy between us weather prophets; but I am free to admit that the little Ground Hog beats me most of the time.

And so a happy Ground Hog's Day one and all.

Inside the Capitol by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—One speaker, two occasions. Governor Anaya to the New Mexico State Legislature in Santa Fe on Tuesday, January 17, 1984: "...state government is not bankrupt..."

Same Governor in Washington, D.C., to members of the United Auto Workers, exactly one week later: "The state of New Mexico went bankrupt..."

Confusing? To most of us, yes. Though in one instance our Govern-nor was talking only about state government and in the other was talking about the state as a whole, it's hard to see how the larger unit could have gone bankrupt while the part of the whole did not.

It's not the first time we have had trouble making Governor Anaya's statements work their way into a consistent pattern. He often says one thing one place and another in another. Maybe the differing spirit of the two occasions makes him think he can ignore the law of contradiction—or maybe he just has different speechwriters. But let's be fair about this thing. So you won't say McCaffrey has wrenched his words out of context in the interests of another of those drubbings he so likes to administer to the Governor, look at the words for yourself, in context.

Here's what he told the Legislature: "I am proud to report to you that compared to this time a year ago, the state of the state is healthy, encouraging and full of promise. Unemployment is down, per capita income appears to be up, state government is not bankrupt, the economy is rebounding, there is a tremendous spirit of interest in our state by many industrial prospects, tourism is on the increase, the construction industry is improving and there is renewed hope for some of our extractive industries. There are excellent reasons for guarded optimism by New Mexicans."

Then see what he said in Washington: "The state of New Mexico went bankrupt due to Reagan's recession—our main sources of revenues having been dried up with thousands of miners thrown out of work, as coal, copper, uranium and potash mines shut down; with our oil and gas industry at a standstill; with our farmers and ranchers going broke at a record pace; with construction workers sitting idly by; with our travel and tourism trade having shrunk as people could not afford to travel; with worthy federal programs for education, infrastructure, job training, health care, housing, programs for seniors and children (to mention only some) having been drastically cut or eliminated under the battle cry of New Federalism and the need to balance the federal budget."

There, with no intervening comments from smart aleck political columnists, are the unvarnished words. Judge them for yourself.

Which speech got covered on national television? Why, the Washington one, of course.

And which portion of that did the editors excerpt for use on the air? Why, the statement that New Mexico is bankrupt, of course.

So here is our major salesman, who has told us about that "tremendous spirit of interest in our state by many industrial prospects," now assuring them on network television that we have gone bust.

Which Toney Anaya are we supposed to believe? Most New Mexicans probably would say they think the speech here at home (written by Harvey Fruman) is closer to the truth as they know it than the words to the anti-Reganites (which may, from internal evidence, have been dictated by the Governor himself).

But which one is a true expression of Toney Anaya's view of the state he governs?

It cannot be both. Or are we to conclude that our Governor has no distinct and clear view of New Mexico, that he changes his picture of us all to fit the occasion? If that is so, it may be worth remarking for the record that is not New Mexico or its people who are changeable and inconsistent; that fault would appear to be solely in the mind of the speaker at these two affairs, who tailors what he says to what he thinks his audience wants to hear.

Editorial

The Ruidoso village council took a farsighted step last Tuesday when it hired the BRW company to complete a sorely needed Comprehensive Plan.

Zoning battles over the past six months have clearly demonstrated Ruidoso's existing Comprehensive Plan is not in step with our growing community.

All the projects outlined in the 1976 Comprehensive Plan, except the Grindstone dam and reservoir, have been completed.

If this community is to grow in an orderly manner and retain its mountain charm, it needs a new guide. A new Comprehensive Plan will provide direction for public works, housing, transportation, industry and general development.

The $100,000 price tag, which includes the transportation study now under way, is considerably less than the almost $150,000 spent on the 1976 plan.

Reports from other communities about BRW are positive.

Public input will be an integral part of the plan's formation. BRW plans four community workshops and numerous meetings with the village council and Planning and Zoning Commission.

It would have been easy for present council members to lameduck their way through the closing days of their terms. But they showed true concern for the future of Ruidoso by commissioning the plan, which should help keep Ruidoso a jewel above the desert.—BA

On the Village Beat with Tim Palmer

Ralph Petty Jr., who recently assumed the presidency of The Bank of Ruidoso (formerly Security Bank), had some interesting observations about banking in Ruidoso and New Mexico when I talked to him last week.

A holding company made up of Ralph and his brother John, along with Derwood Knight, bought the bank from Bank Securities Incorporated.

"All that a one-bank holding company is is a tax vehicle," Ralph explained. It enables a bank to pay its tax accrual into the holding company, which can take a much larger interest deduction than could individual owners.

The concept was developed by the Federal Reserve to allow local ownership of smaller banks, Ralph said. It has succeeded in its purpose, he added.

Local ownership now means local management at The Bank of Ruidoso. Ralph's considerable previous experience in New Mexico banking showed him the value of local management. He formerly controlled five banks—in markets as small as Las Vegas and as large as Albuquerque.

"It was obvious to me from watching ... that these banks had to be managed and controlled from the market where they do business," he said.

Ralph acknowledged Security Bank had had problems over the past 10 years. "It seemed like they changed presidents like musical chairs."

"The cardinal sin was they were trying to manage and oversee this bank out of Albuquerque—and this is a different market than Albuquerque."

Management here had to live with policies set in Albuquerque, he explained. But: "A policy that is very good in Albuquerque may not work in Ruidoso."

And what does a change to local management mean in terms of policy, I wondered.

The prime example, said Ralph, is that if someone goes into the bank today with a "quote, bankable" deal, it can be decided on, funded and closed the same day—"immediately."

Does this translate into a more aggressive lending policy?

"I think it will probably translate into a more aggressive lending policy, and a much more aggressive policy in the community—not just in lending but in many things."

He mentioned local contributions as one of those other things. "We're going to be part of the community."

I asked about the change in name, which puts the name of the community in the bank's title.

"We felt it was in line with changing the image of this bank," said Ralph. He added that major remodeling will be done on the main office in Gateway and the uptown branch near the post office, to be consistent with the new image.

I asked Ralph, who served four years in the state House of Representatives (1968-72), about the major banking-related topic at the current session of the Legislature: Citicorp.

Unlike many of his peers in the state Bankers Association, Petty would like to see the $130 billion East Coast conglomerate be allowed to do business in New Mexico.

He gave me a little background before going into why. Back in the 1950s, Western Bancorporation (now First Interstate) started buying banks across state lines. Then the federal government passed a law saying there would be no interstate banking unless the states allowed it.

First Interstate's operation in New Mexico was "grandfathered" in, however.

Now, Citicorp has said it would like to put a credit card processing center in Albuquerque that would employ more than 1,000 people. It could handle Visa and Master Card along with Citicorp credit cards, serving the small banks that have to "piggyback" their credit card business on such large regional centers.

According to Ralph, there is a primary reason the Bankers Association opposes legislation that would allow Citicorp to buy a single bank in Albuquerque and set up shop.

The reason is that the association is controlled by the large holding companies—notably Sunwest and First City National—and those companies would like to see Citicorp have to buy one of them out to get its foothold in the state. The price would be premium, Petty indicated.

"Why should we—the banking industry—be protected from competition?" Ralph asked. "It's a question of 'do you believe in free enterprise or do you not believe in it?'"

Ironically, according to Petty, Citicorp is interested in New Mexico because we do not have a usury law (interest ceiling).

The bankers got it repealed. Ralph is obviously a firm believer in competition. He recalls Ruidoso before it got its second bank in 1970.

"It was a little town and it was held up by only having one bank."

The town's improved fortunes have paralleled an increase to three banks and two savings and loan associations—with another on the way.

"The more financial institutions a town has, the more prosperous the town," believes Ralph Petty. "Competition makes it that way."

And he is very content to be back home, with his wife Mary Margaret and their eight-month-old daughter, Jennifer.

I commented on Ralph's dress (casual in that he wasn't wearing a tie). He said he wore a tie, a vest and a suit for 10 years.

"I guess I may have to do it again," he said. "But I sure hope not."

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:
A JOB WELL DONE
Along with several others I was privileged to make a tour of our newly completed high school.

What an agreeable surprise!
What we have here is a fine example of excellent team work in planning, execution and follow up.

It is evident that many hours were expended by messrs Miller, Hansen and others in spending tax dollars to obtain as perfect a high school as possible.

system could be beaten. Sidewalks around the school area will be placed where the students "would normally walk", not where the sidewalks would normally be placed.

Our high school will be a fine facility, well planned, and built within a budgeted cost to the taxpayer and at a completed cost of less than we would expect in most public construction.

J.A. "AL" JUNGE
RUIDOSO

The areas for Administration, Library and Cafeteria are planned to handle many years of expected growth in student enrollment. Class rooms and other teaching facilities are so situated that they can be expanded without disturbing other fixed facilities.

So often as is the case when a public use building is completed it is immediately filled to capacity due to inadequate planning for expected growth.

A number of innovations were involved in the planning of the high school. All of these were very impressive. A central heating system idea was rejected and in its place individual systems were installed in the place of a single system. The failure of a central single unit system could possibly close the entire school. Individual systems will eliminate this problem. The individual systems are easily serviced, in case of a problem, by school personnel.

A detection system in the library insures that all library books are "signed out" before the student leaves the library. This system was tested with a group of students and a change was made in the original installation after students demonstrated that the

DEAR EDITOR: Ruidoso sunsets are glorious...spun gold draping the mountaintops, radiating streaks of color and images throughout the crystal blue sky. Nighttime falls and clear skies begin to come alive with uncountable flecks of fire, with the Milky Way stretching from horizon to horizon. The sky lights up with anticipation as a full moon begins its ascent over the shadowy mountains. Suddenly, the night is no longer darkening...the moon reflecting sparkling white snow back into the heavens. And I'm caught somewhere between wonderous delight and childlike curiosity. Have we lived so long on this earth that we take these simple things for granted. Not I...every day and every night on my two short years in this amazing town, I have marveled at these pleasures of nature. I cannot imagine living again in a place where this pure beauty cannot be enjoyed every day.

Ruidosans, thank you lucky stars, moon, sun and blue skies you have so much beauty surrounding you. I'll miss all these things almost as much as all the wonderful friends I have made here. Thank you for your acceptance and friendships.

Judge Doughty seeks re-election in 12th District

Robert M. Doughty II has announced his candidacy for re-election to the office of District Judge of the 12th Judicial District, Division II, of Otero and Lincoln Counties.

Doughty was appointed to the position by then-Governor Bruce King upon the resignation of his predecessor. He took office February 23, 1979. In 1980, he was re-elected to a four-year term. He is seeking re-election to a six-year term that will begin January 1, 1985.

Doughty is a life-long resident of New Mexico. He graduated from the University of New Mexico School of Law in May 1973. Doughty practiced law in Alamogordo until February 1975, when he was appointed District Attorney for the 12th District by then-Governor Jerry Apodaca.

He was re-elected to a four-year term as District Attorney and served until he received his appointment as District Judge in 1979.

While he was District Attorney,

Doughty graduated from the National College of District Attorneys of the Bates College of Law at the University of Houston. He has also completed the General Jurisdictional Session and the Civil Litigation Session of the National Judicial College at the University of Nevada-Reno.

Doughty said he has taken part in numerous judicial conclaves and training sessions conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts for the state and the Southwest Judicial Conference. He served on the planning and training committee of the Administrative Office of the Courts for the 1983 Judicial Conclave in New Mexico.

"In addition to my function of resolving conflicts and disputes among litigants and other courtroom functions, I have been instrumental in revising the Local Rules of Procedure for the 12th Judicial District, in the legislative process in the attempts of the bench and bar of the 12th Judicial District to obtain a Division III Judgeship to sit and reside in Lincoln County, and in the efforts of the bench and bar to computerize the Otero County Law Library and to provide such a library in Lincoln County," he said.

Doughty said if he is elected as the Division II District Judge, he will become Presiding District Judge due to his length of tenure on the bench. Doughty said the responsibilities of the Presiding Judge include administrative duties of the Court and serving as a member of the Supreme Court Presiding District Judges Council.

Doughty is married to Tommie Jane Doughty. They have two children, Rob, 11, and Matt, 8. The Doughtys are members of the Grace United Methodist Church in Alamogordo.

Doughty is a member and past president of the Rotary Club of Alamogordo, a Paul Harris Fellow, a member of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International, a member and past president of the Otero County Bar Association, and a member of the Democratic Party. He was selected for the Outstanding Young Men of America in 1982.

"I pledge to continue a fair, impartial and efficient administration of justice," he said.

Mark Dutton, manager of T. L. Wilson Sporting Goods ski shop, scrapes the wax on a ski in the new ski shop and repair center.

T.L. Wilson adds ski shop

T. L. Wilson Sporting Goods recently added a ski shop to its services. The shop's rental equipment includes Elan skis with Geze bindings, Lange boots and Reflex poles.

It is all new equipment, manager Mike Dutton said. They also have ski bibs for rent.

The shop carries accessories for sale, such as moon boots and goggles. They also sell tire chains and ski racks.

"It is a full-line ski shop," Dutton noted.

The shop also offers ski tune-ups and repairs.

"We have excellent equipment for repairing—probably the best in the city," he said.

The shop sells custom Sierra Blanca patches, hats and T-shirts also.

The ski shop portion of the two and a half-year-old sporting goods store has been open since Thanksgiving, Dutton said.

"We hope to get into the ski shop business a lot bigger next year," he concluded.

NORMAN D. BLOOM JR.

Norman D. Bloom Jr., Alamogordo attorney who has announced his candidacy for the position of judge of the 12th Judicial District, said he plans an active campaign in Lincoln County. Bloom is seeking the Division I bench seat currently occupied by George L. Zimmerman.

As the first district attorney appointed by then Governor Bruce King to serve the newly created judicial district in 1971, Bloom noted that he is conversant with the legal needs of the county and its residents, and said that if elected he will pursue a policy of equal and active service to the Lincoln County area.

"I hope to see as many of the voters in the county as possible in person between now and the June 5 Democratic primary," Bloom said, adding that he will welcome the opportunity for public appearances in Lincoln County communities.

Bloom, 55, is a native of Albuquerque and graduated from high school in Clovis before winning a bachelor's degree from the University of Colorado. After military service and several years' employment in the potash industry at Carlsbad, he returned to school to take his law degree from the University of New Mexico.

He entered practice with George Fetting in Alamogordo in 1966 and in 1971 was appointed the first District Attorney for the new 12th District, a post to which he was elected the following year for a full term.

Returning to private practice in 1975 with the firm of Fetting and Bloom, he since has been active in all phases of the law. He claims a reputation for his "common sense" approach to legal matters while building a broad base of experience in practice before all state courts and the federal courts up to and including the Supreme Court.

Active in civic and community affairs, he served in 1971 as president of the Otero County Bar Association, a position to which he was elected again for 1984; and was one of the principal organizers and longtime president of La Placita Children's Home, Incorporated, which resulted in the building of a facility capable of housing 24 young people and which now is being operated by the state as a reintegration center.

He has been active in the Otero County Democratic party at all levels since his residency in Alamogordo, is a member of the Elks Lodge, the Kiwanis club, the Chamber of Commerce, and the VFW.

Bloom and his wife, Betty, have 10 children, all but one of whom are grown, and as active foster parents for the New Mexico Human Services Department provided for a total of 23 children in their home at different times for periods ranging up to three years.

The sun, the earth's closest star, gives scientists the opportunity to observe the behavior of matter at extremes of density, temperature, magnetic constraint and sheer scale that are inaccessible elsewhere in the laboratory or on earth. (Photo courtesy of AURA, Incorporated, National Solar Observatory)

A "prominence" erupts from the surface of the sun, sending atomic particles out into space. This mass of gas is carried outward by its supporting magnetic field. (Photo courtesy of AURA, Incorporated, National Solar Observatory)

This is a sunspot. This sunspot is typical of spots that appear near the solar minimum, in the sense that it is a single spot and not a part of a complex sunspot group. (Photo courtesy of AURA, Incorporated, National Solar Observatory)

Sacramento Peak scientists try to unravel solar mysteries

A great mass of fiery energy affects every person on the earth, but how does it work and what is it made of?

These are just a few of the questions to which answers are sought at the National Solar Observatory at Sacramento Peak in Sunspot.

Astronomers and physicists at the observatory spend their days carefully observing the sun and performing experiments to unlock its mystery.

In addition to the staff's research, outside researchers come from around the country and the world to use the observatory's vast amount of astronomical equipment, Dr. J. B. Zirker, director of the observatory, explained.

In addition, between 5,000 and 10,000 laymen go there each year to see the facility.

THE 33-YEAR-OLD OBSERVATORY was established by the Air Force but has since come under the auspices of the National Science Foundation, Zirker said.

Facilities for the research consist of the big dome, the vacuum tower telescope and the hilltop dome.

The big dome houses telescopes for the study of the sun's surface, its lower atmosphere, and its overlying corona or outer atmosphere.

The big dome also contains a coronagraph. This instrument creates an artificial eclipse, blotting out the brightness so the corona may be studied, Zirker explained.

This is the largest coronagraph in the country, he noted.

THE VACUUM TOWER TELESCOPE contains a telescope that rises 13 stories and is buried 220 feet underground. The telescope resides in a vacuum to avoid any distortion of the experimental data by temperature or dust. This telescope is used to observe small details about the sun.

The hilltop dome houses several telescopes that televise the sun throughout the day and show its activities. It also has telescopes that record the sun's daily events, such as sunspots and flares.

All the data collected is put on tapes and disk, Zirker said.

He explained that the sun provides unique opportunities for study.

IT IS THE NEAREST STAR, and it is typical of lots of other stars in this universe and others, Zirker noted. It displays characteristics that other stars have also.

"The sun gives the great advantage of being able to look at a star close up, do physics and test ideas in a quantitative manner," he said.

The sun's importance also lies in the fact it is the center of our solar system, Zirker explained.

Because it may influence climate, weather and other aspects of the earth's environment, he said, "we need to know as much about it as we can."

The sun provides a natural lab for physical processes, such as magnetic fields and charged particles, he noted.

"These processes are easier to understand when you look at a big chunk of gas like the sun," Zirker said.

"Because we can't get a handful of sun and bring it into the lab, we use remote sensing," he explained.

THE SCIENTISTS COLLECT THE LIGHT RAYS, radio waves, x-rays and gamma rays, and make pictures of them. They study the chemical composition of the sun and the speed and strength of magnetic fields.

However, Zirker pointed out, at Sunspot they can only study what comes through the earth's atmosphere, although there is some co-investigation on space experiments.

Stellar astronomers and solar astronomers are also trying to work together to help each other in their investigations, he said.

There are many aspects of the sun being studied, one of which is sunspots.

SUNSPOTS ARE MAGNETIC PATCHES on the sun. Their frequency increases with a regular cycle of 11 years, Zirker said. "Something generates and regenerates this magnetic clock."

Researchers want to know why sunspots have an 11-year cycle, how they disappear and why they last.

"Sunspots are interesting gadgets; they vibrate, jiggle, oscillate and send up waves," he noted. "The area around the sunspot will explode, causing a solar flare, and this affects communication systems on earth."

The effect on communications and the radiation solar flares cause were two of the main reasons the Air Force established an observatory so solar flares could be predicted, said

Dr. David Hathaway, an astronomy theorist at the observatory.

Scientists also are interested in the interaction between internal rotation and the bubbling on the surface of the sun, he said. The rising and falling of the bubbles connects with the rotating motion.

Another major question is how solar dynamos work, Zirker said.

Much of the data gathered about the problems which arise in the sun can be understood when put into a computer and computed, he said.

SCIENTISTS HAVE QUESTIONS about the temperature of the sun—how does it vary inside the sun and what is the temperature structure.

They are also trying to measure the neutrinos in the sun. A neutrino is what is believed to be a massless elementary particle.

Scientists are concerned also about the interior of the sun, something that up until several years ago was almost impossible to study, according to Zirker. However, a tool was devised to study the vibrations of the sun, and these vibrations go very deep.

"We see the characteristics on the surface and can infer what it is like inside," he explained.

THE SUN'S ATMOSPHERE is another source of study. Its atmosphere extends throughout the solar system.

This solar wind blows at 400 miles per second and is a thin gas by the time it reaches the earth, Zirker noted.

"This stream of gas comes by all the time, and we want to know about this gas," he said.

Special conditions are needed to see this gas, and clear blue sky is one of them, Zirker said. High on Sacramento Peak, above the Tularosa Basin, the observatory rises over any type of smog, pollution or city lights.

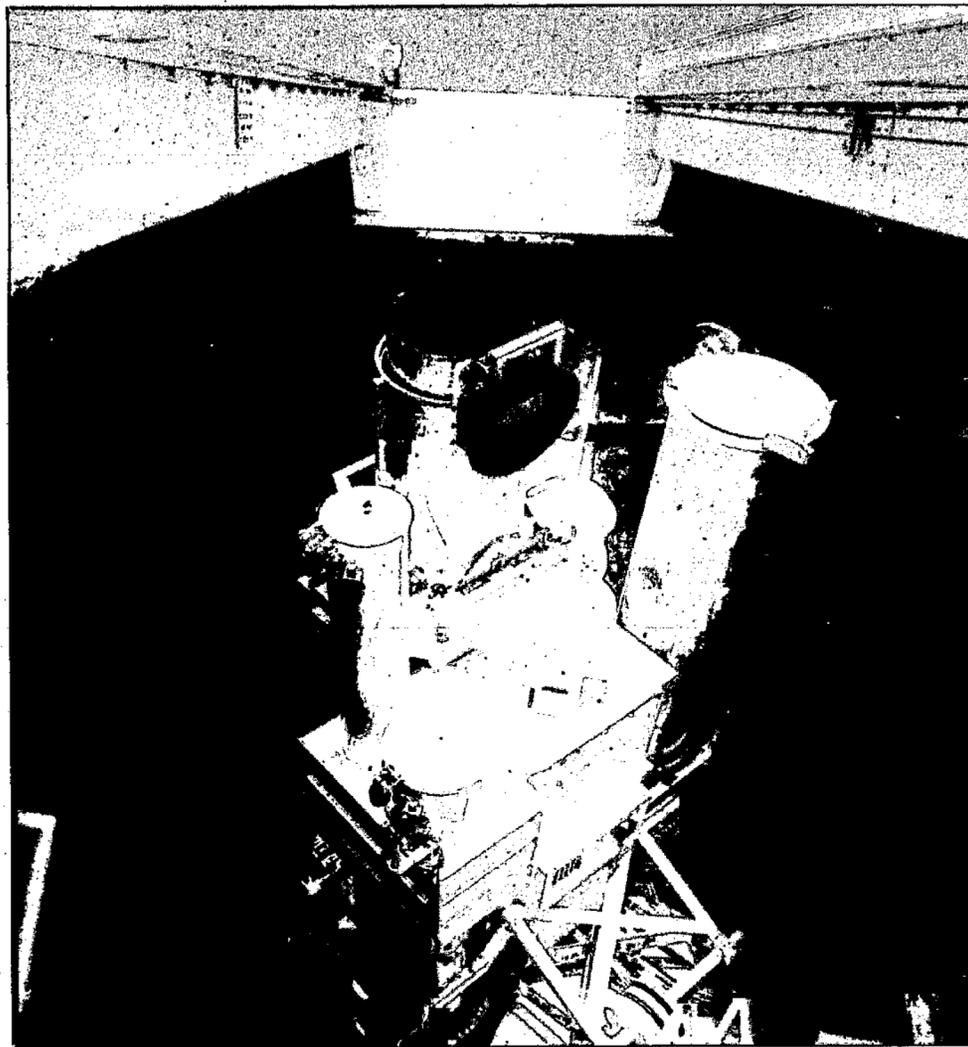

THE TROUBLE WITH SOLAR OBSERVATIONS, Zirker pointed out, is that the sun sets, so 12 hours a day are lost. Some scientists go to the South Pole for the summer, where the sun never sets.

In addition to study and experimentation at the Sacramento Peak observatory, the 50 astronomers and physicists try to think up new instruments to do new jobs.

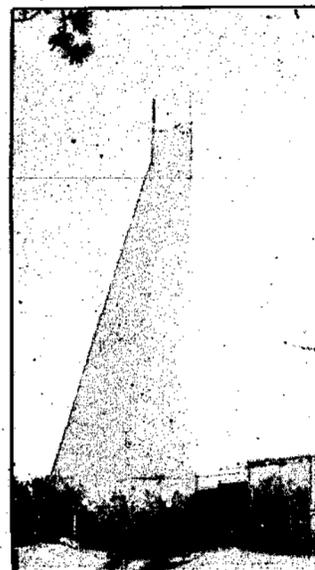

The observatory is more than just a place to work to the scientists and staff and their families. About 70 people live at the observatory.

Hathaway said this is one of the few observatories where some of the staff actually live at the observatory.

As long as sun shall shine, there will be questions about it, and the scientists at the National Solar Observatory in Sunspot will continue their probe.

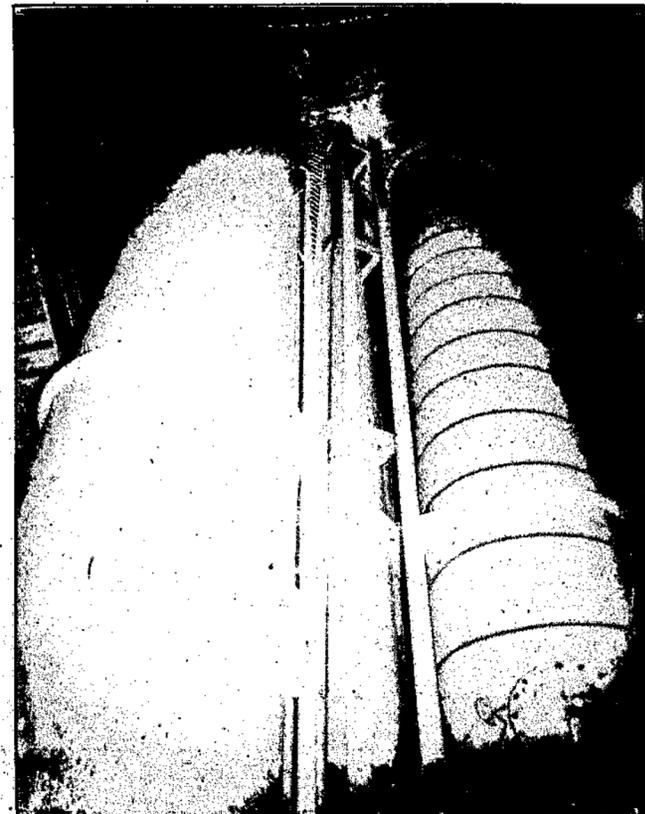

The coronagraph on the telescope in the Big Dome at the Sacramento Peak National Solar Observatory aims its lens toward the sun. The coronagraph creates an artificial eclipse, so scientists can see the outer atmosphere of the sun.

The Vacuum Tower Telescope houses an evacuated telescope to prevent distortion of telescope readings.

Horst Mauter, an observer at the National Solar Observatory, looks at a spectrum of light from the sun.

Evacuated tubes surround telescopes in the Vacuum Tower Telescope at the Sacramento Peak observatory.

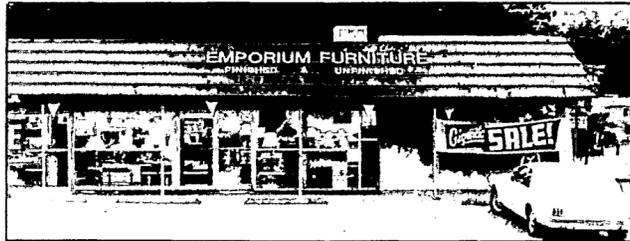

Dr. David Hathaway, public information officer for the National Solar Observatory, points out sunspots projected by a telescope onto a piece of paper.

Emporium Furniture caters to locals

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

"Our emphasis is on local people. To cater to the local populace is our goal," said Jan Covert, manager of the newly opened Emporium Furniture. The furniture store, located at 2900 Sudderth Drive, has been open since late September, according to Covert.

The store stocks a wide range of furnishings from inexpensive unfinished furniture to more expensive items.

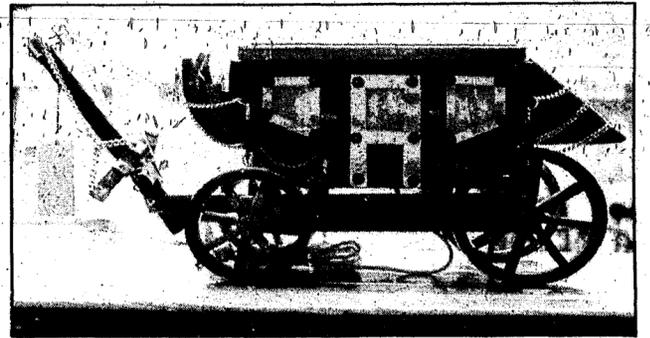

"We're trying to cover as wide a range as possible," Covert said. He said the store has furniture for every room of the house. In addition to furniture, the store also has lamps, mirrors, pictures and plant stands. They carry gun cabinets, drafting tables, desks, computer tables and entertainment centers.

The store is a branch of the original Emporium Furniture, located in Alamogordo. The Alamogordo store has been open for about 11 years, according to Covert. He said the Alamogordo store is much larger, and customers can order items through a catalog from the other store. He said it takes a few days for ordered merchandise to arrive in the Ruidoso store.

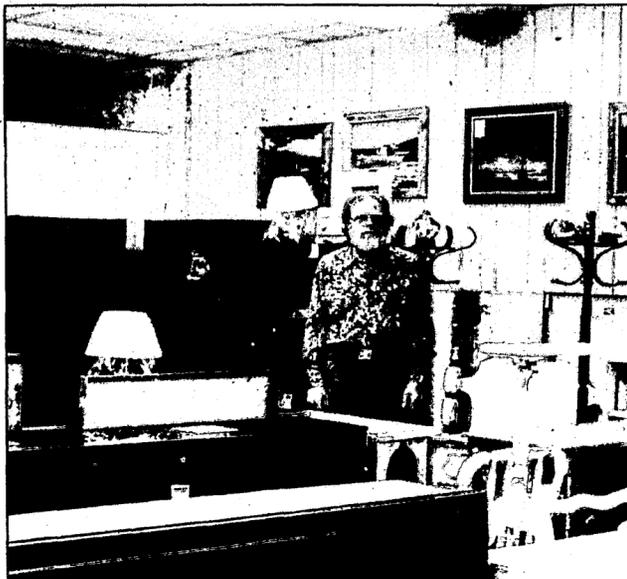

Both stores are owned by Jay Crossland.

According to Covert, the furniture and accessories in the store are made by several manufacturers. He said the store continues to have new stock arriving daily.

Emporium Furniture is open Tuesday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. It is closed Sunday and Monday. Emporium Furniture's phone number is 257-2224.

This stagecoach lamp and a host of other accessories are scattered throughout the aisles of furniture at Emporium Furniture.

Emporium Furniture manager Jan Covert said the store caters to locals and people with small vacation homes.

Living room furniture, such as these easy chairs, fills much of the floorspace at Emporium Furniture.

If such titles as "Double Shot (of My Baby's Love)," a huge hit for the Swingin' Medallions in 1966; "Poor Side of Town," a smash for Johnny Rivers in 1966; "Brown-eyed Girl" by Van Morrison; and Paul Anka's "Put Your Head on My Shoulder" bring back memories, then give a listen to Joe Stampley's new LP, "Memory Lane."

These songs, as well as new tunes with the feel of the 1960s, have been packaged in Stampley's latest vinyl effort. "We produced the songs to sound like they were being played by a band rather than a studio group. But it is definitely an '80s production. The piano may be banging away like the 1960s recordings, but the drums are out front like the records of today," says

Stampley.

Mickey Gilley and Charly McClain who had a hit with their first duet single, "Paradise Tonight," are preparing to go into the studio for a duet album.

Both artists have released new solo albums. Gilley's LP is "You've Really Got a Hold on Me," while Miss McClain's is "The Woman in Me."

What has William Katt been doing since "The Greatest American Hero" left the air?

Katt is co-starring with Sean Young, the heroine replicant of "Blade Runner," in "Baby," a Disney film now shooting in Africa's Ivory Coast.

OUTLAW STATUS — I just saw "The Long Riders," in which Randy Quaid played one of the outlaw Millers (brother Dennis played the other). Am I correct that he played the same or a similar outlaw role just before or after that movie?

The elder of the acting Quaid's played one of the Dalton brothers in the 1979 TV movie "The Last Ride of the Dalton Gang." The Doolin-Dalton Gang's demise was similar to the Northfield, Minn., raid depicted in 1980's "The Long Riders," in which the James-Younger Gang was, in effect, wiped out.

ALIVE AND WELL — Can you tell me if Marlene Dietrich is still alive? If not, when did she die?

Miss Dietrich is alive and well and living in Paris, at age 82.

WEALTHY WALTER — There was a TV show in the mid-1960s that starred Walter Brennan as a madcap millionaire. Can you tell me its name and whether it was his last series?

The sitcom was "The Tycoon," running during the 1964-'65 season on ABC. Brennan went on to co-star in two other series, "The Guns of Will Sonnett" (1967-'69) with Dack Rambo, and "To Rome with Love" (1970-'71) with John Forsythe. The crusty character actor passed away in 1974 at the age of 80.
