Tax hike backers seek RVC match

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Staff Writer

A majority of participants at a community meeting Monday evening about lodgers' tax recommended that the village raise the tax to three percent from two percent only if the collections were matched with village funds. The group decided that if the village could not agree to that stipulation, the tax should be left at the present rate.

The meeting was called by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, Spirit of Ruidoso, Ruidoso Lodgers' Association and the Lodgers' Tax Committee (LTC) to gather input on the issue. Of the more than 50 local businesspeople attending the meeting, about half were lodgers.

Chamber executive director John Jeffers moderated the meeting. Panel representatives included chamber president James Paxton and president-elect Paul Crown, LTC chairman Budgie Green, Spirit president Pat Breedlove, Lodgers Association president Bill Rawlins and Ruidoso Village councilors Rick Evans and Ray Dean Carpenter. Mayor pro-tem Jerry Shaw also was present.

May 28, the village council will vote on two proposals. One would eliminate the lodgers' tax, the other would raise the tax to three percent. If neither proposal passes, the tax would remain at the present two-percent rate.

Councillor Evans explained his reasons for initiating the two proposals. He said there is division among attitudes about advertising Ruidoso and the funds used for promoting the village. Lodgers' tax funds are used for those purposes.

A bill was proposed during the state's regular legislative session to raise the gross receipts tax by one-fourth of one percent and abolish the lodgers' tax. Although the bill was tabled, Evans said it showed him that lodgers felt the tax was inequitable and unfair.

Evans said his proposals were intended to create a forum to see what the community wants, specifically to determine if the majority of the people feel that lodgers' tax is a fair way to promote the town.

"If the majority of the town doesn't want the tax, I'd vote to abolish it," said Evans.

Evans said the first proposal questioned the fairness of the tax while the second asked what level of taxation is acceptable.

"If the tax is bad at three percent, it's bad at two percent. I don't see how it can be in the middle," he said.

Evans echoed the sentiments of many of the night's speakers when he told the group the village needs a lot more money for advertising to have an impact.

"We have no choice to spend more on advertising. We have to expand to Dallas, San Antonio and Austin (Texas)," said Breedlove. He said Colorado cities, such as Keystone and Durango, have spent a lot of money to attract tourists.

"If we stay at two percent without increasing our revenue, we'll be in serious trouble," said Breedlove.

Breedlove said most other tourist towns have at least a three-percent lodgers' tax.

Many of the lodgers said they felt that lodgers' taxes are unfair, especially in a tourist-oriented town such as Ruidoso.

"Lodgers feel it's unfair to add an increased burden when everyone benefits from tourists," said Rawlins.

He said lodgers would "welcome an effort for the village to aid in

Attorney general timeshare discussion scheduled

by SHARON MAKOKIAN

Anita Miller, an assistant New Mexico state attorney general in the Consumer Division, will conduct an open meeting about timeshare promotions at 7 p.m. at Ruidoso village hall today (Thursday), May 23.

The public hearing is designed to provide Miller with input for regulations regarding promotion of timeshare units, membership campgrounds, condominiums and subdivision lots. Miller said her office has received many complaints about contests, mail and phone solicitation and contests involved with promotion.

Miller said she hoped to create a set of standards so that people who receive the literature in the mail, or enter the sweepstakes posted on boxes around town, would know that they would receive a timeshare sales pitch.

"They (the companies) send out stuff that's basically deceptive," said Miller, adding that many are in violation of the Unfair Practices Act.

Proposed regulations would require the companies to be more specific about the true value of the prizes and the actual chances of winning the prizes offered. Regulations would also require the companies to state clearly who is sponsoring the contest, so that consumers are made aware that a sales program is involved.

Miller said there is a tremendous amount of promotional activity in Ruidoso by such places as Crown Point Condominiums, Chateau de Shay, Triple Crown Condominiums and Four Seasons condominiums.

This is the first of three public hearings. The next two will take place in Santa Fe and Albuquerque.

Miller said she will give an introduction to the topic and the proposed regulations. The audience may then give their input and ask questions.

The public will have until June 15 to voice or write their opinions. The regulations are planned to be adopted July 1.

Rep. Ben Hall happy with special legislative session

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

State Representative Ben Hall came home happy from the eight-day special legislative session. He hopes the governor won't call the state lawmakers back for another special session.

"We addressed all but two issues on the governor's agenda... there's no reason to go back," Hall said in an interview Monday.

Hall's name was on the amendment to the capital outlay bill that will net Lincoln County $88,900 for flood disaster relief if Governor Toney Anaya signs the bill. The governor has until midnight June 7 to either sign or veto bills passed during the special session.

An Anaya aide said Wednesday that the major bills haven't yet reached the governor's desk.

Hall introduced another bill for $225,000 in funds for Gavilan Canyon and Carrizo Canyon road repairs. That bill did not pass, however Hall still sees ways for that work to be accomplished.

The Village of Ruidoso was allocated $585,000 for bridges and road repairs in the capital outlay bill, and Hall says that if the governor signs that bill, part of the money might be used for the two canyon projects.

The Department of Finance and Administration is the agency through which funds are disbursed, and they would have to concur with using the funds for Gavilan and Carrizo canyon road repairs.

"We think we can work it out," Hall said.

One item of business that came before the special session was to "fix" Public Law 874 (PL874). That law affects school funding and New Mexico has been notified by federal regulators that the state is out of compliance with federal regulations.

In New Mexico, a portion of property tax has been apportioned to the school districts in which it was collected, and according to federal education agency regulators that is illegal. Funds must be distributed on a per-unit or per-student basis, Hall said.

Hall said the state has been unable to find out if there are other areas of non-compliance. He and some representatives wanted to apply a temporary correction to PL874, and then undertake a complete study of federal rules and regulations regarding funding for public education.

Since that failed during the regular session, legislators passed a bill during the special session allocating the property tax to school districts according to student population.

"We hope it will get us into compliance," Hall said. "Some of us are kind of doubtful, but we had to do something," he added.

The governor is expected to sign that bill.

Hall estimates the change will cost Ruidoso Municipal Schools about $21,000, but the Hondo system should gain about $6,800. Artesia schools, also in Hall's district, are expected to lose as much as $230,000 with the new allocation process.

"We've appropriated more money to help school districts that can't afford this loss," Hall added. He explained that the money will be distributed through the state Department of Education to schools that show a special need.

Even though Hall doesn't support the governor's quality education package, he favors providing better funding for schools.

"I would like to see school districts get at a minimum enough to cover inflation... I don't like to see them going in the hole," he said. "The raise they got didn't even cover the rate of inflation. I'd like to

Questions arise in Carrizozo pilot's death

Unanswered questions surrounded the death of Robert Leitzman, 47, killed in a helicopter crash near Carrizozo last week.

According to Verlin Tranter, investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB), the official date of the crash was Friday, May 17. At 7 a.m. that day, a Soviet satellite detected a signal from the helicopter's emergency locator transmitter (ELT). The signal was received by Scott Air Force Base in Illinois. The base contacted the Carrizozo airport, the air facility closest to the crash site. An airplane pilot spotted the crash and emergency crews were alerted.

The crews found the wreckage on the west side of Carrizo Peak. According to Rosemary Zink, Lincoln county deputy medical examiner, there was evidence that Leitzman's body was thrown from the craft upon impact. She said Wednesday that the body was found next to the craft. It appeared that Leitzman had lived long enough to get back to the craft.

Tranter said that a pool of blood was found 24 feet away from the wrecked helicopter.

Zink said that Leitzman's body was sent to the state office of medical examiners in Albuquerque. She said the procedure is routine for all air crash victims. According to Zink, preliminary reports from the autopsy show that Leitzman died of internal injuries. She said there was no evidence of foul play.

Many questions have arisen over the time sequence of the crash. Tranter said that the helicopter was last seen at Robertson Aircraft at the Albuquerque International Airport about 5 p.m. Wednesday, May 15. Leitzman was last seen in Albuquerque, Sunday, May 12.

Friday, May 17, will be the official date reported to the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington, D.C., Tranter said.

According to Zink, the decomposition of the body indicated that Leitzman had been dead 24-48 hours when found Friday at 12:30 p.m.

Tranter said the preliminary field reports he made on the scene Saturday showed that the aircraft tail rotor struck a tree, throwing the helicopter forward into a rock and another tree. He said the Plexiglas cockpit area of the Entrom Model F28F helicopter was completely shattered and that Leitzman had been thrown from the craft upon impact.

The craft's ELT was not activated until early Friday, yet authorities say Leitzman had been dead for up to two days when he was found. According to Tranter, the ELTs, which are triggered upon impact or can be started manually, are very reliable, provided they are properly maintained by the craft owner. He said the ELT antenna in Leitzman's craft was not damaged.

Tranter said that parts of the craft will be examined to determine if there were any special mechanical malfunctions. He said that the lack of fuel in the craft posed a question.

Leitzman is survived by his wife Carolyn. Contacted by The News Tuesday evening, Carolyn Leitzman said that she was "trying not to be conclusive" on the circumstances of the death.

There were many things coming to light, she said. "I'm trying to be objective until I have all the information," she concluded.

Leitzman's body was cremated at French's Funeral Home in Albuquerque Wednesday with no services, Mrs. Leitzman said.

Lincoln County Sheriff's Office undersheriff Charlie Cox, who was with the original rescue crew, said a briefcase with $10,000 in cash and traveler's checks was found with the wreckage. Cox said the money was turned over to Leitzman's daughter, Lori Melich. Melich was residing at the Flying W ranch, also owned by Leitzman.

Reports may take up to six months to complete before the unanswered questions are solved. But for now the mysterious death of an apparently reclusive, wealthy, famous man still baffles authorities.

Leitzman was reported to be a multi-millionaire with residences throughout the world. He was also co-owner of the O Bar O Ranch near Carrizozo.

Carrizo Peak, upon which Robert Leitzman died, adjoins the ranch.

see a permanent fix address that issue."

Hall emphasized that education is a top priority, but he feels it can be addressed in the 30-day regular session in January, 1986.

"The only teachers I've heard from are in Albuquerque," he said. "I represent three districts and none of them (teachers in those systems) have called me."

"If there really is a need, I want to know it," he added.

According to Roger Sowder, principal of Nob Hill Elementary School, members of his staff wrote letters and telephoned Representative Hall's office to state their concerns during the regular session.

Nellie Jones, a first-grade teacher at Nob Hill, said that she also contacted Hall's office during the special session, but was unable to reach Hall.

"This staff is very informed on what goes on up there," Sowder said. "We check the New Mexico Education Association hotline everyday, and post that information in the faculty lounge."

When contacted by telephone Wednesday, Hall said that he did get a letter from Jones, but he restated that he hadn't heard from other Ruidoso schools. He plans to visit Ruidoso schools.

Superintendent Sid Miller and his office were still at work on the funding issues when contacted earlier this week. He was not ready to predict the impact the fix to PL874 might have on Ruidoso schools.

Hall admitted that he voted reluctantly for one item of business passed in the special session. That was the day-care funding bill that added $400,000 to the Department of Human Services budget.

The representative explained that Juan Vigil, Director of Human Services, had overspent his budget which left day-care services out of money by May. According to Hall the deficit was caused by mismanagement.

"The governor told Vigil to go ahead and deficit spend and they would force the legislature to appropriate more money," Hall charged.

According to Hall, Vigil spent $400,000 remodeling his office. He said that pushed the department into the red financially. Hall added that Vigil's employees got raises that other departments couldn't afford.

"We passed the bill for day-care services, not for Vigil," Hall stated. "We don't condone mismanagement of money."

Hall didn't want to predict when Anaya might call legislators back to Santa Fe.

"I don't have any idea—I don't know what he's thinking," Hall said, with a laugh. "I hope he changes his mind and we don't go back."

But one source close to Anaya told Hall before he left Santa Fe, "You can go home and unpack, but don't get too comfortable."

C of C finances improve

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce apparently will be able to make it through, financially, to the next fiscal year which begins July 1.

The possibility of having to close its doors loomed over the chamber office last month, as it faced a deficit of more than $40,000.

The chamber's efforts in donation solicitation brought in more than $25,000, said executive director John Jeffers. The chamber will borrow the rest on a draw from a local bank.

Chamber office manager Doris Baca said the chamber should be able to pay their back bills.

Ruidoso summer school class schedule dropped

Ruidoso Municipal Schools will not schedule a summer session because of lack of interest, said Associate Superintendent Mike Gladden.

Gladden said that having summer school required charging tuition.

"Until we can provide (summer school) through state funds or some other manner, we probably won't have it," Gladden said.

This was the first year in "some time" that the Ruidoso school system had offered summer classes. Students were provided interest forms at school, and a form was published in The News.

According to Gladden, very few of the forms were returned, indicating a lack of interest in summer courses.

tourism and phase out the discriminating (lodgers') taxes." Rawlins said the majority of Ruidoso's visitors do not stay in lodging facilities, and thus do not pay the tax. According to Rawlins, only 16 cents of every tourist dollar is spent on lodging, while 30 cents is spent on food and 20 cents is spent on automobile usage.

Jackie Rawlins received a long round of applause when she addressed the fairness issue.

"I think it's a philosophical point ... the lodgers feel put upon—rightly or wrongly," she said.

Rawlins said she felt a "we and you" division between the lodgers and the other businesses in the community.

"We need each other," said Rawlins. She said lodgers are the first contact tourists have with the village. After they check in, they usually ask the lodger or desk clerk where to eat and shop, she said.

"We have 70 families (owners of lodging establishments) in town who are responsible for the advertising costs for this city," said Clabe Webb, owner of Blue Spruce Cabins.

"Folks, this ain't the welfare department—we can't continue to help out the entire village," he commented.

Members of the audience and panel reminded the group that tourists actually pay the taxes and the lodgers collect it.

Lodger Joan Bailey said the lodgers currently collect a total of seven and one-half percent in total taxes, including lodgers' tax and gross receipts tax.

Breedlove said that figure was not out of line with other tourist towns. He said Durango collects total taxes of more than nine percent, Denver collects 11.6 percent and Taos collects almost eight and three-quarters percent.

Budgie Green told the group that LTC had to cut back on requests for funding this year because lodgers' tax collections were down. Green expressed a need for advertising funds.

"We just can't live with a zero budget for advertising Ruidoso. We depend on advertising dollars to bring people in," said Green.

Tommy Morel, manager of the Quality Inn Motel and chairman of the chamber advertising committee, said he felt Ruidoso should compete with other markets to promote tourism.

Morel said a one-percent increase, roughly $50,000, would be a "drop in the bucket" for what Ruidoso needs. Even with a match from the state, that money would barely pay for three television commercials in Dallas, said Morel.

To accomplish the extensive advertising discussed would require a budget around $400,000, said various people at the meeting. Many participants also expressed their desire for a convention center in Ruidoso.

The group discussed the possibi-ty of the village matching lodgers' tax funds for advertising and convention center revenue. Last year, the village contributed $40,000 to lodgers' tax revenues—half went for the All-American Pro Ski Classic, the other half paid for billboards in Texas.

"Using the general fund is the fairest way I can see to make everyone pay (for promotion)," said Evans.

In a compromise agreement, the group said they would accept a three-percent lodgers' tax if the village would agree, by ordinance, to match the collected funds with eight-tenths of one percent of the village budget or a 100-percent match. They voted to keep the tax at two percent if the village would not agree to match the funds.

The decisions reached at the meeting will be presented to the council at the public hearing on May 28. Jeffers said the goal of the gathering was to collect input and make decisions to present a united front about the tax situation.

P&Z denies commercial rezone

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

Uncomfortable with allowing commercial zoning three lots deep on Highway 37, the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission Monday denied a rezoning request on three lots in McCarty Subdivision.

Ken Carr had made the request to rezone lots 6, 7 and 8, block 7, of the subdivision from R-1 (single-family residential) to C-1 (light commercial). Carr outlined plans to build lodging units and parking areas for the Thunderbird Lodge on the lots.

No correspondence was received protesting the rezoning, said enforcement officer Paul Davis, but John Steele spoke against it on behalf of neighboring property owner Joe Sellers.

Sellers' concern was over commercial property encroaching into residential. Mike Callaghan's motion to deny the rezoning listed encroachment and lack of parking as reasons to disallow it.

P&Z member Don Shaw mentioned a recent similar request, and said the commission would be "totally inconsistent" to approve Carr's.

Member Martin Rose cast the lone vote against the motion to deny the request. Callaghan, Shaw, Karon Petty and Milt Alcorn voted in favor of denial.

In other business Monday, P&Z: —Approved the rezoning from C (all commercial) to C-1 for 28 lots in Palmer Gateway subdivision, including the Hospital Tract.

Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital administrator Ken Moore expressed concern that the hospital's zoning maximize the value of the property. Sale of the property would help fund a new hospital, he noted.

Moore was told by Shaw that P&Z could not take property values into account in zoning decisions, but that C-1 zoning was preferable.

Planning and Zoning Commission members (from left) Karon Petty and H. Ray Bishop watch as Planning and Zoning enforcement officer Paul Davis explains a set of plans.

LeVerne Cole sought to have the rezoning reconsidered after missing her turn to address the issue. She wanted a zoning that would have allowed an automobile dealership.

The commission voted down a motion to reconsider the ruling. Callaghan said to exclude Cole's property from the C-1 area would constitute spot zoning.

—Approved replat of two lots in Debord subdivision and part of Tract G in Palmer Gateway subdivision for Charles and Margaret Gaddy.

—Accepted a dedicated right-of-way in Alto Crest Unit II for Tim Collins. Collins said the property was part of the access into Snowflake Ridge.

—Appointed Shaw to convey a request to the village council that councillors attend P&Z meetings on a rotating basis.

Who has jurisdiction over the Rio Ruidoso?

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

Should the Village of Ruidoso have control over any altering, filling or building in or along the three rivers that pass through town?

Doesn't it already have such control?

Confusion over river jurisdiction resurfaced recently in a dispute over fill material placed along the Rio Ruidoso in Ruidoso Springs subdivision.

Property owners Alma Russell and John Anderson protested to the Ruidoso Village Council May 14 that fill placed on the riverbank upstream by Leland Jordan could cause their land to flood.

The council declined to get involved in the dispute, noting that the river is under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Russell said a representative of that agency had looked into the matter. He, too, left it to the individual owners.

It has proven a frustrating endeavor for Russell to try to get an answer to the question: Who has authority to determine whether water flows down the old riverbed?

She contended that blocking the old channel, in which water had flowed since last summer's flood, put her "island" of land between the new channel and the old in the path of high water. The old channel was an effective overflow outlet in a flood, she claimed.

Another question raised was that of public right of way along the river. The 1924 plat of Ruidoso Springs shows 25 feet of right of way on either side of the river, but the river since has moved.

Russell supports the proposal to have the village develop a "riverwalk" along the Rio Ruidoso as a scenic attraction to visitors, but wonders if the exact location of the right of way can be found.

Though the Ruidoso Springs matter appears to be close to resolution, the issue illustrates the lack of local control over what goes on along the Rio Ruidoso, Cedar Creek and Carrizo Creek.

"I would like for the village to have total authority—control over it," said Planning and Zoning enforcement officer Paul Davis.

He pointed out that besides the Corps of Engineers, other agencies claim some jurisdiction on waterways. He listed FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency), the Soil Conservation Service and the Environmental Improvement Division.

"Sooner or later we're going to have to eliminate the confusion," said Davis.

As it stands now, a person who inquires at village hall about a permit to do work along the river is directed to the Corps of Engineers office in Albuquerque.

Small jobs—those involving less than 10 cubic yards of fill material, for example—fall under a nationwide permit and are automatically authorized, explained Corps of Engineers biologist Jim Wood.

Larger projects require individual permits. That involves giving notice to adjacent property owners and to the appropriate local, state and federal agencies. An environmental assessment of the project is required also.

Wood said he would favor the type of local control advocated by Davis.

"We would very much encourage the city to take control of activities on the river," said Wood. He pointed out that a permit issued by the Corps of Engineers is not a blanket permit.

If the Village of Ruidoso developed its own ordinances on waterway activity, he noted, the public would have to abide by the regulations of both entities.

Wood said other cities have developed such ordinances, governing setbacks from streams, work in waterways and the like.

In some places, he noted, applications are processed jointly by the city and the Corps. Since local officials live in the community, he reasons, a better system results when they take an active role.

Wood said he would be glad to discuss general guidelines for regulations on waterways with village officials.

He pointed out that a lot of times people have work done along a river without talking to their neighbors, and that is what causes problems. A city ordinance could require notification of nearby property owners before work was undertaken.

Davis confirmed that the village does have an interest in what goes on along the river, from the standpoint of protection of public property and seeing to it that streamflow is not hindered in any way.

He summarized a law of nature that seems to dictate what happens whenever there is a flood.

"Because anything in the way gets washed out of the way."

Chamber leadership plans at weekend retreat

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Staff Writer

The board of directors of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce conducted their annual retreat in Las Cruces last weekend.

Chamber executive director John Jeffers said the meeting took place away from Ruidoso so that participants would not be distracted by phone calls or interruptions.

Jeffers described the weekend as a "working retreat," in which board members and guests brainstormed plans for the chamber and the village of Ruidoso. Invited guests—such as Ruidoso Mayor George White, Village Councillor Jerry Shaw and Ruidoso School Superintendent Sid Miller—were on hand to contribute their input and share ideas and needs.

The goal of the retreat was to form objectives for the 1985-86 program of work. Each participant was given a worksheet which broke the chamber's work into six categories: community development activities, economic-business development, governmental relations and legislative affairs, tourism promotion activities, education and transportation. Jeffers said these are the areas with which most chambers of commerce are usually involved.

During the brainstorming session, participants divided into three groups. Each group had to come up with three projects under each category, creating more than 50 potential projects.

The next day, the groups joined together to narrow down the ideas to three or fewer in each category. The ideas generated will combine with ideas mailed in from the general chamber membership to form next year's program of work.

Under community development activities, projects include a clean-up and beautification program and the establishment of a task force to identify and develop historical and artistic attractions. The chamber will apply for funds from the New Mexico Main Street program, which was approved by last year's State Legislature to revitalize small communities.

In the area of economic-business development, the chamber will establish a business research and promotional council. Also created will be a small business seminar committee which will sponsor local business education programs. The chamber board also decided to spearhead the development of a Southern New Mexico film commission.

The chamber board will create a governmental relations-legislative review committee. In addition to keeping the chamber informed of pertinent issues in the legislature, the committee will try to attract various departments of government to plan meetings and receptions in Ruidoso.

In the area of tourism promotion activities, the chamber will establish an annual events committee which will schedule and oversee such events as the Aspen Festival and summer art show. Another goal the group voiced was to establish a full-time visitors-convention bureau in Ruidoso.

To enhance cooperation with colleges, the chamber will establish a higher education development committee. Jeffers said he hopes to see a full-time junior college come to Ruidoso. Also in the area of education, the chamber will establish a task force to work with the local schools to develop adult education classes.

Under the final category of transportation, the board will set up a transportation study committee and an airport promotion task force. The latter will also handle the proposed cog-wheel railroad.

The various committees and task forces will be formed as soon as the new board of directors takes office July 1, 1985. When the chamber sends out idea forms to the general membership, they will ask for volunteers to serve on the committees. As the groups are formed, people will be called from the volunteer pool.

"I firmly believe that once we have a program of things the chamber is doing, it will alleviate the problem of membership retention," said Jeffers. Because of all the activity, the next membership drive will probably not be conducted until August, said Jeffers.

The retreat began at 1 p.m. Friday, May 17, and went through Saturday afternoon. Guest speakers were J.J. Johnston, executive vice president of the Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce, and Anthony V. Popp, Ph.D., of New Mexico State University.

Johnston gave the new board members an initiation lecture about their duties and responsibilities. Popp spoke about economic development and the importance of a quality business environment.

Most of the people in attendance said they felt the retreat was a big success.

"The only bad comment I heard was that it didn't last long enough," said chamber employee Sunny Hirschfeld.

Barbara DiPaolo, a newly elected board member, said "fantastic" ideas came out of the weekend's work. She was pleased that village officials and representatives could go to the retreat and work together with the chamber.

"We've got a lot of the plan of action and areas of emphasis defined," said chamber president James Paxton. He said the retreat provided a good chance for the new board members to get acquainted with the board and their future jobs.

Exercise—even mild, such as walking—helps prolong life. That was a major finding when a large sample of middle-aged and older men were studied at Harvard and Stanford.

In a number of big cities, doctors have established house-call services that are on duty 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. They're said to be faster and less expensive than emergency rooms.

To keep grafted veins from becoming obstructed after coronary bypass operations, doctors at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota are prescribing a combination dose of pyridoxine and aspirin. Regimen proved effective in a controlled test.

Stroke is followed by depression in as many as 40 to 60 percent of patients. Psychiatrist and neurologist at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine recommends nortriptyline for post-stroke depression; most patients get almost complete relief.

Now being tested: antihistamines that DON'T cause drowsiness. Terfenadine is expected to be approved soon by the FDA.

Bob, Gann, McClure win top honors at Warrior banquet

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

Tracy Gann, Diane McClure and Cisco Bob won the top honors at Monday night's Ruidoso High School winter and spring sports banquet in the school cafeteria.

Gann won the Outstanding Warrior award for the boys, McClure took the girls' Outstanding Warrior award and Bob was honored as the Outstanding Athlete.

The awards were given out at the end of the banquet, which was attended by 369 people.

The Outstanding Warrior awards go to athletes who participated in at least three sports.

The 6-3 Gann was an all-district honorable mention defensive back in football, a center and most valuable player on the basketball team and a state meet competitor in five events in track.

McClure was a standout on the Warrior volleyball team, a first-team, all-district player in basketball and a discus and shot put competitor in track.

Bob won the state 1,500- and 3,000-meter championships for the second straight year, setting a state meet record in the 1,500 meters.

The Texas Tech-bound athlete finished second in the state cross-country championships last fall.

Athletes in basketball, wrestling, track, tennis and golf were honored during the banquet.

Head boys varsity basketball coach Gene Segura talked about his young team which finished with a 4-18 record.

"You can see there are a lot of big kids coming back, so I'm excited about next year," he told the audience.

Besides Gann's most valuable player honor, Brian Davis was named top rebounder and Russell Easter was the top free-throw shooter.

McClure won all the honors for girls basketball. Besides the most valuable player honor, the 6-0 senior won the top free-throw shooting award and the top rebounder award.

Ruidoso's girls were 4-4 in District 3-AAA play and 7-13 overall, the best district record the Warriors have had in several seasons.

Coach Sergio Castanon praised his departing seniors. Ruidoso had two sophomores and one junior on the varsity team this season.

Wrestling coach Gerald Ames praised his team and expressed optimism for the future. There were six juniors in the starting lineup, plus a strong junior-varsity squad.

Senior Kevin Jameson was named most valuable wrestler. The 189-pound athlete was one of seven Warriors who qualified for the state meet. He took second in the district meet.

The boys track team was next on the agenda.

Head coach Ronny Maskew praised his team's efforts this season. The Warriors took second in the district meet and qualified eight athletes for the state meet.

Ruidoso finished fourth in the state meet last weekend, its best-ever performance in the AAA division.

"We had 40 guys come out for track this spring and we hope to do even better next year," Maskew said.

Maskew thanked assistant coach Ed Davis for his help. Davis will be moving to Eunice.

Girls track was next with head coach Castanon citing his team's youth.

Of 13 girls on the squad, there were seven freshmen, three seniors, two juniors and one sophomore.

Castanon said the top two vote-getters in the team's most valuable voting were freshmen. Distance standout Sherri Alexander won the most valuable award.

Jim Smith was named most valuable boys tennis player and Donna Mobley was the most valuable girls player.

Smith had a winning record and made it to the semi-finals of the district singles competition. Mobley was the top player on the Warrior girls ladder all season.

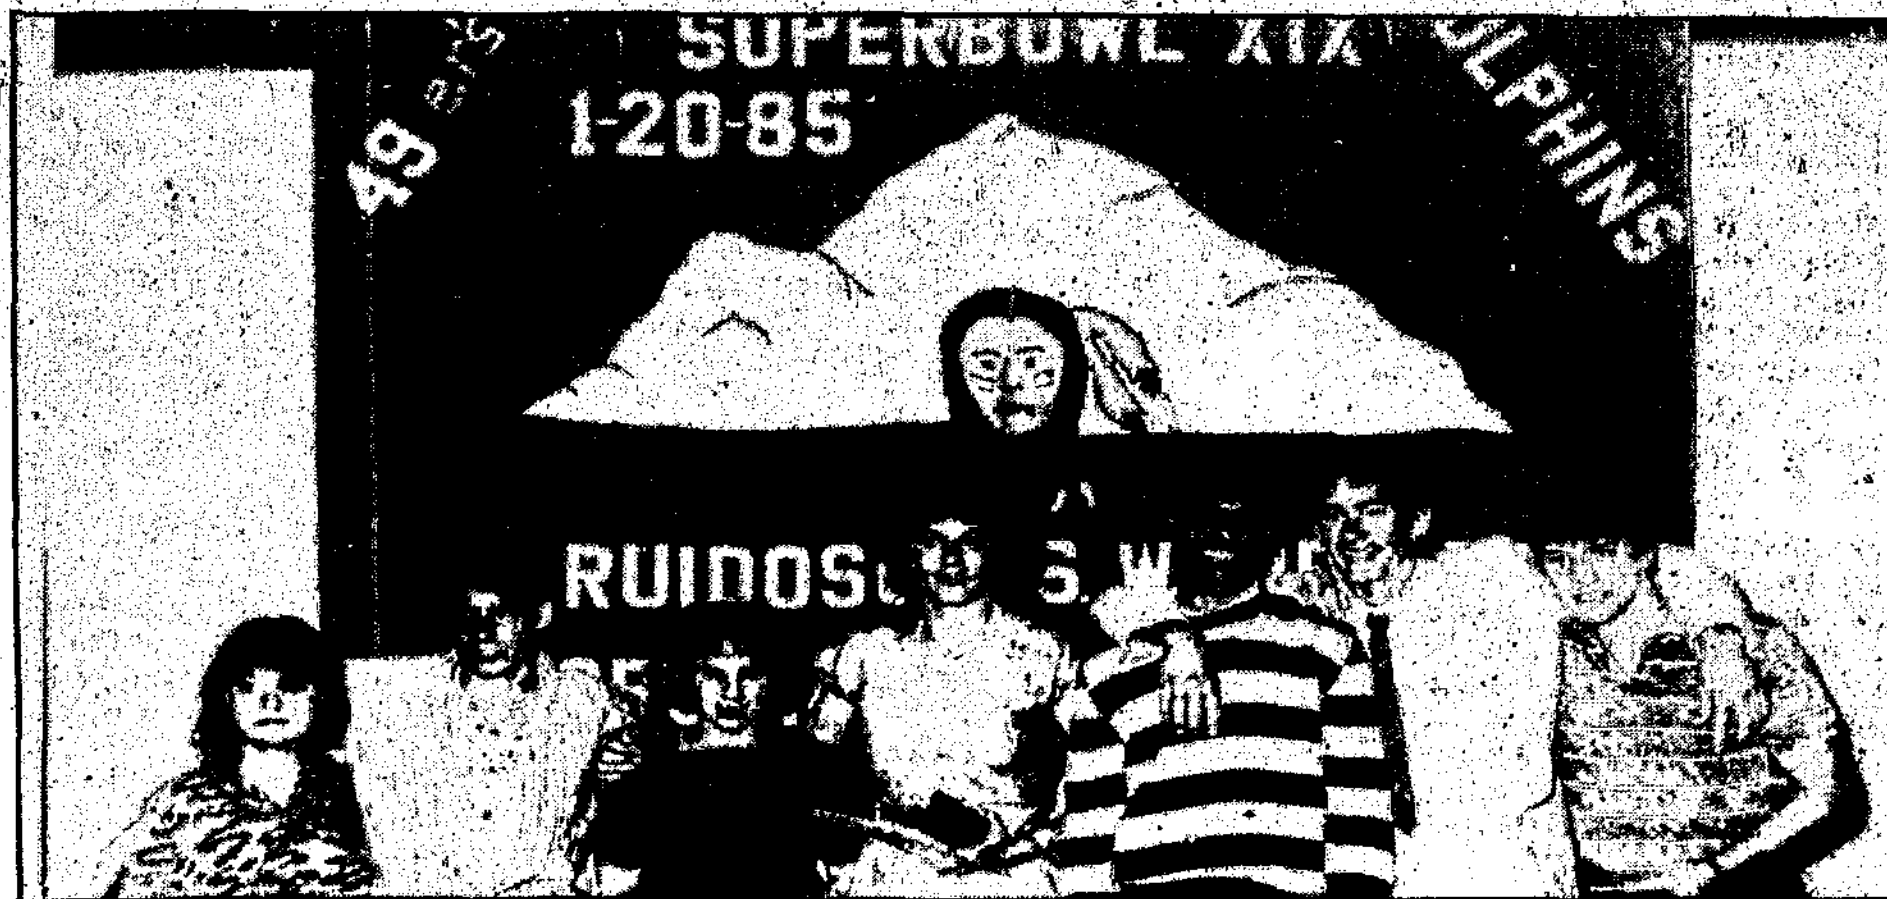

Coach Mike Crocker had special praise for his state-qualifying doubles team of Mike Smith and Zach Swalander.

"Tennis is like golf, kind of a specialty sport," he said. "But Zach was an all-state wrestler and Mike was an all-state wide receiver."

There was no most valuable player named for the golf team, but coach Segura praised his players.

He also mentioned the Warrior girls team. This was the first year Ruidoso has had a girls team.

NOTES-Officials for the Warrior Booster Club were announced at the banquet. Don Shaw is the new president, Clarence Richardson is the vice-president, Karen Morris is the treasurer and Jeannie Ryan is the secretary.

Diane McClure, most valuable girls basketball player and Outstanding Warrior; Brian Davis, top boys rebounder; Tracy Gann, most valuable boys basketball player and Outstanding Warrior; and Kevin Jameson, most valuable wrestler.

The Ruidoso News

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

Anyone who saw last weekend's state AAAA-AAA track meet probably would agree with me that some changes need to be made. Heavy rain delayed part of the meet, and the 1,600-meter relay trials had to be run Saturday morning instead of Friday night. Why not start the trials and finals earlier in the day? It always seems to rain more at night.

The idea of running the relay and individual running event trials in heats could use some changes, too.

Present state regulations say that the fastest qualifiers must run together in one heat, and the slower qualifiers run together in another heat. The fastest six relay teams or runners from the heats advance to the finals.

But the idea of lumping the fastest state qualifiers in one heat is unfair. What about the seventh-fastest qualifying team, which Ruidoso's 1,600-meter relay team was entering the meet?

The Warriors won their heat easily, but did not qualify for the finals because the faster heat had six teams run better times.

If Ruidoso had run in the faster heat, the Warriors might have qualified for the finals. There would have been more competition and runners can push themselves more with competition.

Someone might say that the rule is fair because the faster qualifiers earned the right to run in the fast heat.

But what if some of the slower qualifiers had run their fastest times in bad weather or against little competition?

Why not mix the fast and slow entrants together in the heats? For example, put the fastest entrant in one heat and the second fastest entrant in another heat.

That way both heats would be sure to have some tough competition. It would balance the competition and give everyone an equal chance to qualify for the finals.

Under the present set-up, people have a good idea who will win or be a strong contender going into the finals. The fastest teams run together in a heat and you can generally figure out the favorites going into the finals.

Mixed heats would add to the suspense and excitement of the state meet.

And they also would be more fair.

Handgliding trophies

Riker Davis shows off some trophies which will be awarded at this weekend's Annual Memorial Day Dry Canyon Fly-In. The hand gliding competition will be Saturday, Sunday and Monday. It will begin at Dry Canyon and end near the International Space Hall of Fame in Alamogordo. Davis is a judge.

Hussman, Petty first in Border golf tournament

Ann Hussman and Karon Petty won the top honors in the Border Golf Tournament at Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club Wednesday.

Hussman was the tournament low gross winner with an 82. Petty won the low net title with a 69.

Hussman is from El Paso, Texas, and Petty is from Alto.

Cindy Carroll won the championship flight with a 73. Gertrude Kretek was second with a 74.

Diane Lamb took the first flight title with a 73. Gerry Kretek was second with a 74. Ruth Sierp won the second flight with a 71 and Helen Wright was second with a 73.

Mincola Stewart and Glenann Hanson tied for the third flight championship with 72s. Mary Madden took second with a 71.

Ellen Wood and Louise Van Doren tied for the fourth flight crown with 72s.

Kay Ahl shot a 74 to win the fifth flight and Winnie Cain was second at 76.

Kathy Olsen won the sixth flight with a 73. Jo Petrello and Jean Frederick tied for second with 75s.

Gwen Sluyter won the seventh flight with a 74. Dixie Richie took second with a 77.

A total of 89 women from New Mexico and Texas competed in the tournament.

Bob will compete in Tempe meet Saturday

Ruidoso High School standout distance runner Cisco Bob will compete in the Golden Southwest track meet in Tempe, Arizona, Saturday night.

Bob, who has won the state 1,500- and 3,000-meter championships the past two seasons, will run those two events at the meet. He set a state meet record in the 1,500 meters last Saturday.

The Warrior athlete has bests of 3:57.88 in the 1,500 meters and 8:37.80 in the 3,000 meters.

Athletes from the West and Southwest will compete in the meet. Only seniors with outstanding marks can participate in the competition.

Some funds may still be needed for Cisco's airplane flight to Arizona. Anyone wishing to donate money can call Warrior coach Ronny Maskew at the high school at 258-4910.

Competition to continue in baseball, soccer this week

Both the Ruidoso Little League baseball schedule and the Ruidoso Soccer Association schedule have been active this week.

The Elks remained undefeated in Little League major division action with an 8-4 victory over Bank of Ruidoso Monday night.

Pitcher Mashon Swenor came back from a cracked wrist injury to pitch three strong innings for the Elks. Jose Marquez also pitched for the Elks. The winners had a well-balanced attack.

In a major division game Tuesday, Bank of Ruidoso defeated

Sierra Blanca Motors 23-14.

Manny Guardillo and Steve Dankert pitched for the winners. Cody Rushing and Cody Willard pitched for Sierra Blanca Motors.

Rotary defeated the Old Road Restaurant Padres 23-8 in a minor division contest Tuesday night.

Action will continue tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Little League field. There will be two minor division games Saturday night, the first one starting at 5.

There will be two under-10 soccer matches Saturday morning at White Mountain School.

Busy memorial Day weekend set at Downs

Ruidoso Downs hosts an expanded holiday card Memorial Day weekend, with 12-race programs scheduled Friday through Monday, featuring added money events totaling more than $43,000.

Racing gets under way at 1 p.m. each day, with Ruidoso Downs' gates opening at 11 a.m.

Here's a quick look at the highlights of this weekend's horse racing action:

FRIDAY - Trials for the $39,675 Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity share the spotlight with a six-furlong allowance event for sophomore sprinters.

Friday's main event features a full field of three-year-old fillies matching strides over three-quarters of a mile for a $4,500 purse. K.M. and Betty Brown's Old Broad looks like the one to beat.

The daughter of Pass Catcher will be making her first start after an impressive campaign at Ruidoso last summer.

More than 30 of New Mexico's most promising young thoroughbreds try their legs over a half-mile in Friday's four trial divisions for the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity. The top two horses in each division will qualify for the Kindergarten, which offers a winner's purse of nearly $20,000. The final two qualifiers will be determined by a drawing among the four third-place finishers.

SATURDAY - Southwest stakes star Fill Mackis Cup totes highweight in the featured $10,100 Barlaris Handicap. Saturday's co-feature is the $7,500-added Mr. Jet Moore Handicap, which brings out some of the top older quarter horses in the nation seeking the winner's share of this stake over Ruidoso Downs' 400-yard straightaway.

Fill Mackis Cup, a seven-furlong track record holder at the Downs, will compete Saturday in the $10,100 Barlaris Handicap.

Fill Mackis Cup will be making his first appearance at the mountain track since being named Horse-Of-The-Meet last season after setting a new seven-furlong track record.

He'll be going up against a fine field for the Barlaris that includes Pop's Spirit, Pride Of Loom, and Bourbon And Blues.

Friday's Mr. Jet Moore Handicap promises to be a barnburner, as Mr. Crimson Bug - Ruidoso's 400-yard track record holder - shoulders top weight against Coda Mundi, Dynago Victory and 1984 Kansas Derby winner Racy Roman.

SUNDAY - The Go Together Handicap features a stellar field of fillies and mares racing for a $9,000-added purse over 350 yards. Nominations for this year's edition of the Go Together closed on Wednesday with more than 25 horses.

The nominees included such standouts as: Meganette, 1984 Rainbow Derby Consolation winner; Tyns Rosebud, the No. 3 qualifier for last year's All American Derby; and Amy Jo Mito, a finalist in the 1984 World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic.

MONDAY - The 1985 renewal of the Memorial Day Handicap brings out a strong group of sophomores racing for a $10,000-added purse over three-quarters of a mile.

The Southwest's top sprint specialists face off in Monday's co-feature - the $8,000-added Fine Loom Handicap at 370 yards. Nominees for the Fine Loom include: Sheeky Who, who was voted Best 870-Yard Horse in 1984; Special Hank, the eight-year-old who nabbed the same honors in '81 and '82; and Bozart and Short Shrift, two well-respected sprinters.

THESE ARE "DELETE" SIGNS

THEY LOOK NICE... IF I EVER NEED SOMETHING DELETED, I'LL CALL YOU...

I'D LOVE TO DO IT!

FORGIVE ME, MANAGER, FOR MISSING THAT FLY BALL!

Fill Mackis Cup a favorite Saturday

Southwest stakes star Fill Mackis Cup shoulders high weight in the featured $10,100 Barlaris Handicap at Ruidoso Downs on Saturday, as the mountain track hosts the second card in its expanded Memorial Day weekend program.

Twelve-race programs are scheduled Friday through Monday, offering more than $43,000 in added money events. Racing gets under way at 1 p.m. each day, with Ruidoso Downs' gates opening at 11 a.m.

Sharing Saturday's feature spotlight is the $7,500-added Mr. Jet Moore Handicap, which brings out some of the top older quarter horses in the nation matching strides over Ruidoso Downs' 400-yard straightaway.

Fill Mackis Cup makes his '85 debut at Ruidoso Downs in the 5 12 furlong Barlaris Handicap after accounting for three added-money events at the mountain track last year to be named Horse-of-the-Meet for the 1984 season.

The Bill Leach trainee ran out close to $75,000 last year to boost his lifetime bank account to $242,82. The seven-year-old gelding heads into Saturday's main event off a fourth-place finish in the La Portida Handicap at Santa Fe earlier this month totting 121 pounds with rider O. A. Martinez Jr. aboard. He'll carry that same impost on Friday.

This year's edition of the Barlaris has attracted a fine field of sprinters. Fill Mackis Cup will have to be at his best to find the winner's circle.

Pride Of Loom gets out five pounds under the frontrunner off a wire-to-wire win in allowance company at Sunland Park in late April. The Bob Arnett trainee won three of five starts this year, and ran out of the money only once after shipping to Ruidoso from Louisiana Downs.

Pop's Spirit, Ruidoso's Champion 3-Year-Old Gelding in 1982, will be trying to capture his second straight Barlaris Handicap. The son of Red Viking was first and second with allowance horses at Sunland last month, after shipping back to the Southern New Mexico oval off a disappointing campaign at Oaklawn Park in Arkansas.

Saturday's co-featured Mr. Jet Moore Handicap promises to be a barnburner as Mr. Crimson Bug - holder of Ruidoso Downs' 400-yard track record - carries high weight (123 pounds) against a field comprised of some of the top older quarter horses in training.

The speedy son of Mr. Crimson Ruler will have to contend with Coda Mundi, who appears to be in excellent form off two handicap victories at Albuquerque this spring.

Also threatening are 1984 Kansas Derby winner Racy Roman, and Dynago Victory, the four-year-old who pocketed more than $34,000 last year in eight appearances.

The remaining field for the Mr. Jet Moore includes Easy Demand, Rollin In Dough, Board Chairman, Rocket Jet Bug, Mr Suspenders and Bar Forth.

Enjoy the music of the mountains.

Rio Grande Futurity Friday

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. M.
 Ruidoso Downs kicks off an extended holiday program this weekend with Friday's trials for the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity and a featured six-furlong allowance event for sophomore sprinters.
 The mountain track will be racing Friday through Monday—Memorial Day, featuring added-money events totaling more than $43,000. Ruidoso Downs' gates open at 11 a.m. each race day. Racing gets under way at 1 p.m.

Friday's headline race spotlights a full field of three-year-old fillies matching strides over six furlongs for a $4,500 purse.

K.M. and Betty Brown's Old Broad looks like the one to catch in Friday's feature. The daughter of Pass Catcher will be making her first start of the year, after a standstill campaign at Ruidoso Downs last summer.

The Richard Fry trainee last raced in August of '84 in the $9,400 Futurity Prep Handicap at Ruidoso Downs, where she finished fifth on an off track to Black Jack Mack. Old Broad accounted for the $3,250 Ruffast Handicap going into the futurity prep, and had lit the board in all of her four previous starts.

The Florida-bred sustained a knee injury in the Futurity Prep and was laid off for the winter following an operation to correct that problem, Fry said.

"She was kind of a small filly with a lot of speed," Fry said earlier this week. "We wanted to lay her off for the winter and give her time to mature. We've worked her a couple times and she's running well. We're using this race as a prep for the Aspen Handicap in June."

The frontrunner will get a good race from several in Friday's feature field.

La Leona, a Copper Mel filly trained by Jack Palmer, heads postward off a first and third to allowance company at Sunland Park. Palmer claimed the runner in mid-March, running her back for a fifth in the City of Las Cruces Handicap at the Southern New Mexico oval.

Cert'n Deal, a daughter of Free Dealin trained and owned by Johnny Montes Jr., lit the board for six straight races at Sunland. Montes set the filly with allowance company at six furlongs her last out, where she ran an even seventh.

Fair Grecian Lady and Tilt To Win could get part of Friday's action. Fair Grecian Lady ran seventh to Draquilla in the $42,000 Thoroughbred Sale Futurity at Sunland last November.

Tilt To Win is a two-time winner, overtaking female allowance horses at six furlongs at Albuquerque last fall after breaking her maiden at Ruidoso Downs. Tilt To Win is part of Tilt Up's first crop that also included Tiltalating, one of the nation's top two-year-old fillies in 1984.

The second, fourth, sixth and ninth races on Friday's program will run as four-furlong trial divisions for the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity. The finals of that stake is slated for June 1 offering a purse estimated at $50,000.

Thirty-two of the region's most promising New Mexico-bred juveniles entered Friday's trails. The top two horses in each division will qualify for the Kindergarten. The final two qualifiers will be determined by a drawing among the four third-place finishers.

Nomination for Saturday's co-features, the Barlaris and Mr. Jet Moore Handicaps - closed Sunday with several outstanding runners. Fill Mackis Cup, last year's Horse-of-the-Meet at Ruidoso, heads a list of eight nominees for the five 1 1/2-furlong Barlaris, which also attracted Pop's Spirit, and Bourbon and Blues.

The Mr. Jet Moore closed with 18 nominations. Mr. Crimson Bug, Ruidoso's 400-yard track record holder, will probably tote high weight in that dash facing off against the likes of Coda Mundi, Dynago Victory and Racy Roman (winner of last year's Kansas Derby).

Opinion

Editorial

Congratulations to the Ruidoso High School class of 1985. This Friday, RHS will graduate 93 senior students, the first to graduate from the new high school.

Graduation signals the end of the students' required schooling and the end of their juvenility. From graduation, the students will step forward to be faced with their futures.

Like blobs of clay, the students' futures will be theirs to shape as they wish. In the next few years, they may choose to mold their futures in the direction of college, employment, marriage, travel or idleness, or some combination of activities.

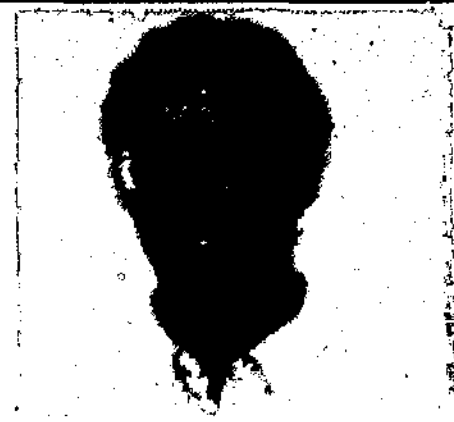

As the years pass, the students may face college graduation in the late 1980s, the challenges of child-rearing or developing their careers in the 1990s and the maturing of their career ambitions in the 2000s.

Later, they may encounter the graduation of their own children in the 2010s and the challenges of aging and becoming grandparents in the 2020s and 2030s.

But the most important thing they should realize now as they graduate is that their future is in their hands to mold as they wish.

Congratulations and good luck to the class of 1985, the future is yours.—DJP

On the Village Beat with Tim Palmer

"They don't make 'em like that anymore," I told Cathy as we pulled out of the driveway.

She agreed. The gentleman to whom I was referring had just cut her a fresh rose from a rosebush in his front yard.

That gentleman was George White—George P. White, Mayor of Ruidoso. We had gone to his house to borrow a chainsaw.

Some people in newspapering would think it inappropriate for the editor to borrow a chainsaw from the mayor.

But in Ruidoso, the newsmakers are also your friends and neighbors. George is one of hundreds of people who have been very good to us in our three and a half years here.

The farewell column.

Billy Allstetter said he had been mentally composing his for a month before he actually left. I have been composing mine for a lot longer than that, which is one reason I knew it was time to move on. As I write now, though, the words do not come easily.

How do you describe your feelings when you're leaving the town that has been more of a home to you than almost anywhere you've ever lived? When you're leaving the job you have held longer than any you've ever had?

Those feelings are mixed, obviously.

The farewell columns of past reporters come to mind. "Life is full of changes," wrote Barby Grant in 1983.

Perhaps it was a feeling that life had been lacking in change that prompted Cathy and I to decide to answer when opportunity knocked in El Paso.

David Sheppard recalled his "hello" column when he checked out two years ago. He told how he had expected Ruidoso to be a backwater burg where going for coffee at Gertie's Diner was the big event of any day—and how he had been surprised to learn otherwise.

Ruidoso is an emerging city, and it has been a pleasure to observe its gradual coming of age. I often have thought to myself that Ruidoso is being dragged—kicking, scratching and howling—into the 21st century.

But I think the conflict between provincial and progressive attitudes (which will be played out again next week between anti- and pro-lodgers' tax forces) is basically a healthy one.

It keeps things from happening too fast. Granted, it can try one's patience—believe me, I know. But it keeps things from being done without due process—everything is thought out and fought out beforehand.

And everyone pretty much remains friends through it all. People can't stay mad at each other, someone pointed out once—the town is too small.

On our exploratory trips to El Paso, Cathy and I have remarked on the strangeness of going into crowded restaurants and stores and not knowing a soul.

We have come to know many people quite well in Ruidoso, and I would like to acknowledge a few. To all of the reporters who ever worked for me—a big "Thank you!"

I want to single out one in particular—sports writer Gary Brown. It is one of life's unfairnesses that professional athletes make so much money, while most of the people who cover athletics make relatively little.

Suffice it to say that if life were fair, Gary could declare himself a free agent and sign a $1.2 million a year contract. He's worth it.

The three reporters who followed me on the "village beat" were and are good friends and esteemed colleagues. I am glad to be joining Dave Sheppard and Billy Allstetter in the ranks of daily-newspaper reporters, and I feel good about turning over the reins here to Darrell Pehr.

DJP is certainly the most versatile reporter I've ever known, being a whiz at writing, photography and graphics. He also has gained a certain measure of fame as an editorial cartoonist, and I hope he continues his efforts in that direction.

In Sharon Makokian, Frankie Jarrell, Doris Cherry, intern Kristie Jones and Gary, Darrell has a top-notch crew to take The News through the summer.

I will miss the entire Ruidoso News family. It has been a great place to work.

Cathy and I would have to name more people than I have room for if we were to try to acknowledge everyone who has made our time here so enjoyable.

The Ruidoso school system has been a professional "home" to her as the newspaper has been to me, and we will miss our friends there, especially our best friend Maggie Hawthorne.

In five years or so, when our child is ready to start school, I hope it will be in a school system that we can feel as good about.

Something we will remember always about Ruidoso is that we found our first church home here. The feeling of belonging and of having people care about you is wonderful. To pastor Winston Presnall and the congregation at First Presbyterian, God bless.

I wonder as I leave if I have not been enough of a Christian witness in my time here. Perhaps I find myself lacking in comparison to another mainstay of The Ruidoso News—and the finest Christian gentleman I could ever hope to meet—Daniel Agnew Storm.

That "they don't make 'em like that anymore" could apply to Dan as well as to George. But I don't really believe the truth of my own statement.

After all, there are many, many wonderful and outstanding people in the world. It's just a nice coincidence that so many can be found in Ruidoso.

And we are glad to have enjoyed knowing all of you.

Inside the Capitol by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—It must take a certain kind of talent to choose the wrong battlefields with such consistency.

If you have followed the developing story of the 37th session of the New Mexico Legislature, you know that both of the houses that make it up have been polarized to a degree not seen here in decades. War as a metaphor for what goes on comes close to being literally accurate.

What's to be excited about? Doesn't everyone agree that legislation is hammered out only after two sides (at least) have developed on every issue? Isn't thesis and antithesis the way to synthesis in a democratic society?

Well, yes, but that could be accomplished with rather less emotional wear and tear than this year's crop of legislators seem intent on inflicting on one another.

It is possible to disagree in a genteel fashion, without requiring that a great chasm be developed between opposing positions and then hurling rocks back and forth across the gap at one another.

And you can do your fighting over subjects that merit warring over.

It's hard to imagine any skillful legislative leader letting that problem of how to adjust the payment of property taxes to satisfy the federal government's requirements in regard to PL874 money become a major issue. All this is a technical problem, which should have been solved in a matter of hours. Instead, it became one fraught with emotion, which was battled over for weeks. It's hard for sensible people to picture adults arguing over such matter as whose names were going on the bill that would finally and inevitably solve it, but that actually happened.

Even worse, the dinosaurs in the Senate, wanting to take a knock at Juan Vigil, the man who runs Human Services in pretty much total defiance of that the Legislature wants done, chose two pieces of legislation affecting children as point on which to take their stand.

How can anybody win who wants to cut the funding for child-protective services 90 percent or more? Who can look good taking a stand like that, and actually standing up and using the language to defend the position? All those inexperienced greenhorns who chose this point on which to attack Vigil, no matter how merited the attack might be, could manage to generate a picture of themselves as favoring child abuse.

The same can be said for the other point on which they decided to stick. There they looked as though they wanted to see day-care cut back so it would not be available for mothers who need it desperately.

Only rare individuals can stumble into such blunders, and do it repeatedly.

When Tom Bolack was in his prime as a Republican leader, he used to look at his own political party and ask this plaintive question: "Do we raise these people for ourselves, or does somebody come along and drop them into our laps?"

our Legislature, have been augmented by an infusion of Democrats, none of whom appear to have any more practical political sense than those members of the GOP who, incredibly, put them into positions of power.

When passions were at their highest during the closing hours of this year's special session (Senators were battling over that child-protective money referred to above), there was one pause for calmness and contemplation.

Both House and Senate shut down long enough so their members, along with Governor Anya, could attend a memorial Mass for the late Republican leader in the House, Bob Moran, who died just before the session started.

It was appropriate for that gathering to be held in the Cathedral of St. Francis. That is where Bob Moran began every legislative day, during the 17 years he served here—down on his knees, saying his prayers.

He understood legislators and Legislatures so well he probably wouldn't have minded the fact that lawmakers were back at the battling, hammer and tongs, within the hour after the memorial Mass was completed.

Care Center has busy residents and staff

Ruidoso Care Center is more than just a place to live or work. It is a center of activity for residents and employees alike. Besides providing daily care for the residents, the employees are involved in a variety of projects and contests.

Employees also work closely with volunteers who visit the center and provide parties, entertainment and special events. One regular activity is a weekly bingo game for residents.

Residents also are treated to an occasional meal out through the dine-a-friend program. Participating restaurants invite Rick Glenn, social services director, to bring two or three center residents in for a free meal.

Glenn says the adopt-a-grandparent program is still available for families or individuals. The program is very flexible, and can be as limited or as involved as an individual may desire.

RCC has a monthly staff meeting and even staff members who aren't on duty usually show up for the party-type meeting.

One incentive to attend is that meetings are held the day before payday, but attendees may pick up their paychecks at the meeting—a day early.

Employees who have celebrated a birthday are honored during monthly meetings. Last month the birthday celebrants were given Baskin-Robbins certificates in their birthday cards.

An employee-of-the-month award and key-staff-member-of-the-month award are also presented at the monthly meeting. Beverly Enterprises, owner of RCC, provides prizes and certificates for the winners.

Martha Oldaker was named employee of the month for March and Glenn was key staff person of the month.

The RCC safety committee recently sponsored a Safety Poster Contest. Glenn was the winner in the contest which was open to all employees and their immediate families.

A day off with pay will be first prize in a special drawing at the center. Employees may buy drawing tickets for 50 cents each, and if their ticket is drawn the administrator or regional supervisor will do their job for a day while the ticket-holder has a day off.

Administrator Britta Strickland says that she feels that a happy staff provides the best care for Care Center residents.

MILT ALCORN

Alcorn honored for 60-years in Scouts

Milton Alcorn recently was honored for 60 years of service to the Boy Scouts of America. The Ruidoso resident admitted that he had seen many changes in the program during that time.

"Every boy I meet, I still encourage to get into scouting," Alcorn said. With all the changes, scouting continues to offer varied experiences beneficial to growing boys, Alcorn noted.

Alcorn retired in 1978 after serving as a professional scout in the Los Angeles area. He joined the staff of that huge council in 1946, right after a tour of duty in the United States Navy.

"My first memory of scouting was just having fun," Alcorn said. "I grew up in it." As a boy, he liked the outdoor activities, such as hiking, hunting and fishing.

"You lose direct contact with boys when you go in as a professional," Alcorn said. While he regretted that part of his job, Alcorn knew that planning programs and raising funds were helping more scouts than he could have reached on a personal level.

Even though Alcorn is retired from his career in professional scouting, he stays busy as a local volunteer. He serves on the village Planning and Zoning Commission and serves as chairman of the Extra-Territorial Planning and Zoning Commission.

Alcorn is president of the Golden Age Club and has been president of the Neighborhood Watch Program.

"If you can work with people you can do most anything you want to do," Alcorn said.

That ability, to work with all kinds of people, has served him well through his years in the Navy, scouting and as an involved citizen.

Alcorn and his wife Barbara have three children. Their oldest son, Milton Jr., is a doctor in Dallas and their second son, James, is working in El Paso. Their daughter, Tori, is a University of New Mexico graduate, married and living in Detroit, Michigan.

The Alcorns have a grandson, Joshua, who is six years old.

"I'll keep on doing my volunteer work," Alcorn says of future plans. "I manage to keep busy."

Models choose casual wear

by Frankie Jarrell
News Staff Writer

School's nearly out, and student models are ready for summer fun and casual dressing.

Angie Olvera (upper left) has selected Jordache jeans and a cotton-blend shirt by Esprit. She's ready for chilly mountain evenings with a blue denim Members Only jacket.

Staci Spencer (upper right) is dressed for warm summer days in aqua shorts, a pink shirt and multi-colored over-blouse. The separates are cotton blends by Organically Grown.

Rose Anna Chavez (bottom left) is wearing transitional separates. The pants and sweater are the same shade of green, and the sweater is worn over a white cotton blouse. Multi-colored beads are a bright addition.

Ginny Cull's (bottom right) separates are by Esprit. She tops off crisp, cool white pants with a blue and white plaid blouse.

Models are from Charlie's School of Modeling. They presented a special styleshow at The Cochera as the final step in their modeling classes.

Fashions were furnished by The Tree House.

Q: How does TNP's purchasing of power help keep rates reasonable? How can I control my electric bill?

A: TNP shops the various sources of wholesale power supply to obtain power at the least possible cost consistent with the reliability you must have. This approach has resulted in the purchase of a portion of our power from cogenerators at a cost savings between 2 percent and 5 percent for the cogenerated power purchased, versus conventional sources.

A horse is led to the paddock prior to Friday's eighth race at Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Blinkers, shading the horse's eyes, are placed on young or inexperienced horses to keep the horse's attention on the finish line.

A day at the RACES!!

An outrider (left) leads ponyboy and jockey-ridden horses in Friday's seventh race from the paddock. After leaving the paddock, the horses are taken on the "post parade" before the grandstand for viewing by bettors. The outrider polices the pre-race activities, then remains ready to assist any jockey after the race who may lose control of his horse.

Hot Pie, ridden by Larry Byers, charges out of the gates in Friday's seventh race. The number nine horse got a good start but wasn't able to place in the race.

Veteran jockey Larry Byers prepares to enter the starting gates before the seventh race during Friday's first day of racing.

After the post parade, quarter horses in Friday's seventh race are each accompanied by ponyboy-ridden horses around the backstretch of the track in preparation for racing. Horses' muscles must be stretched out and warmed up just as do those of a human athlete before exercising.

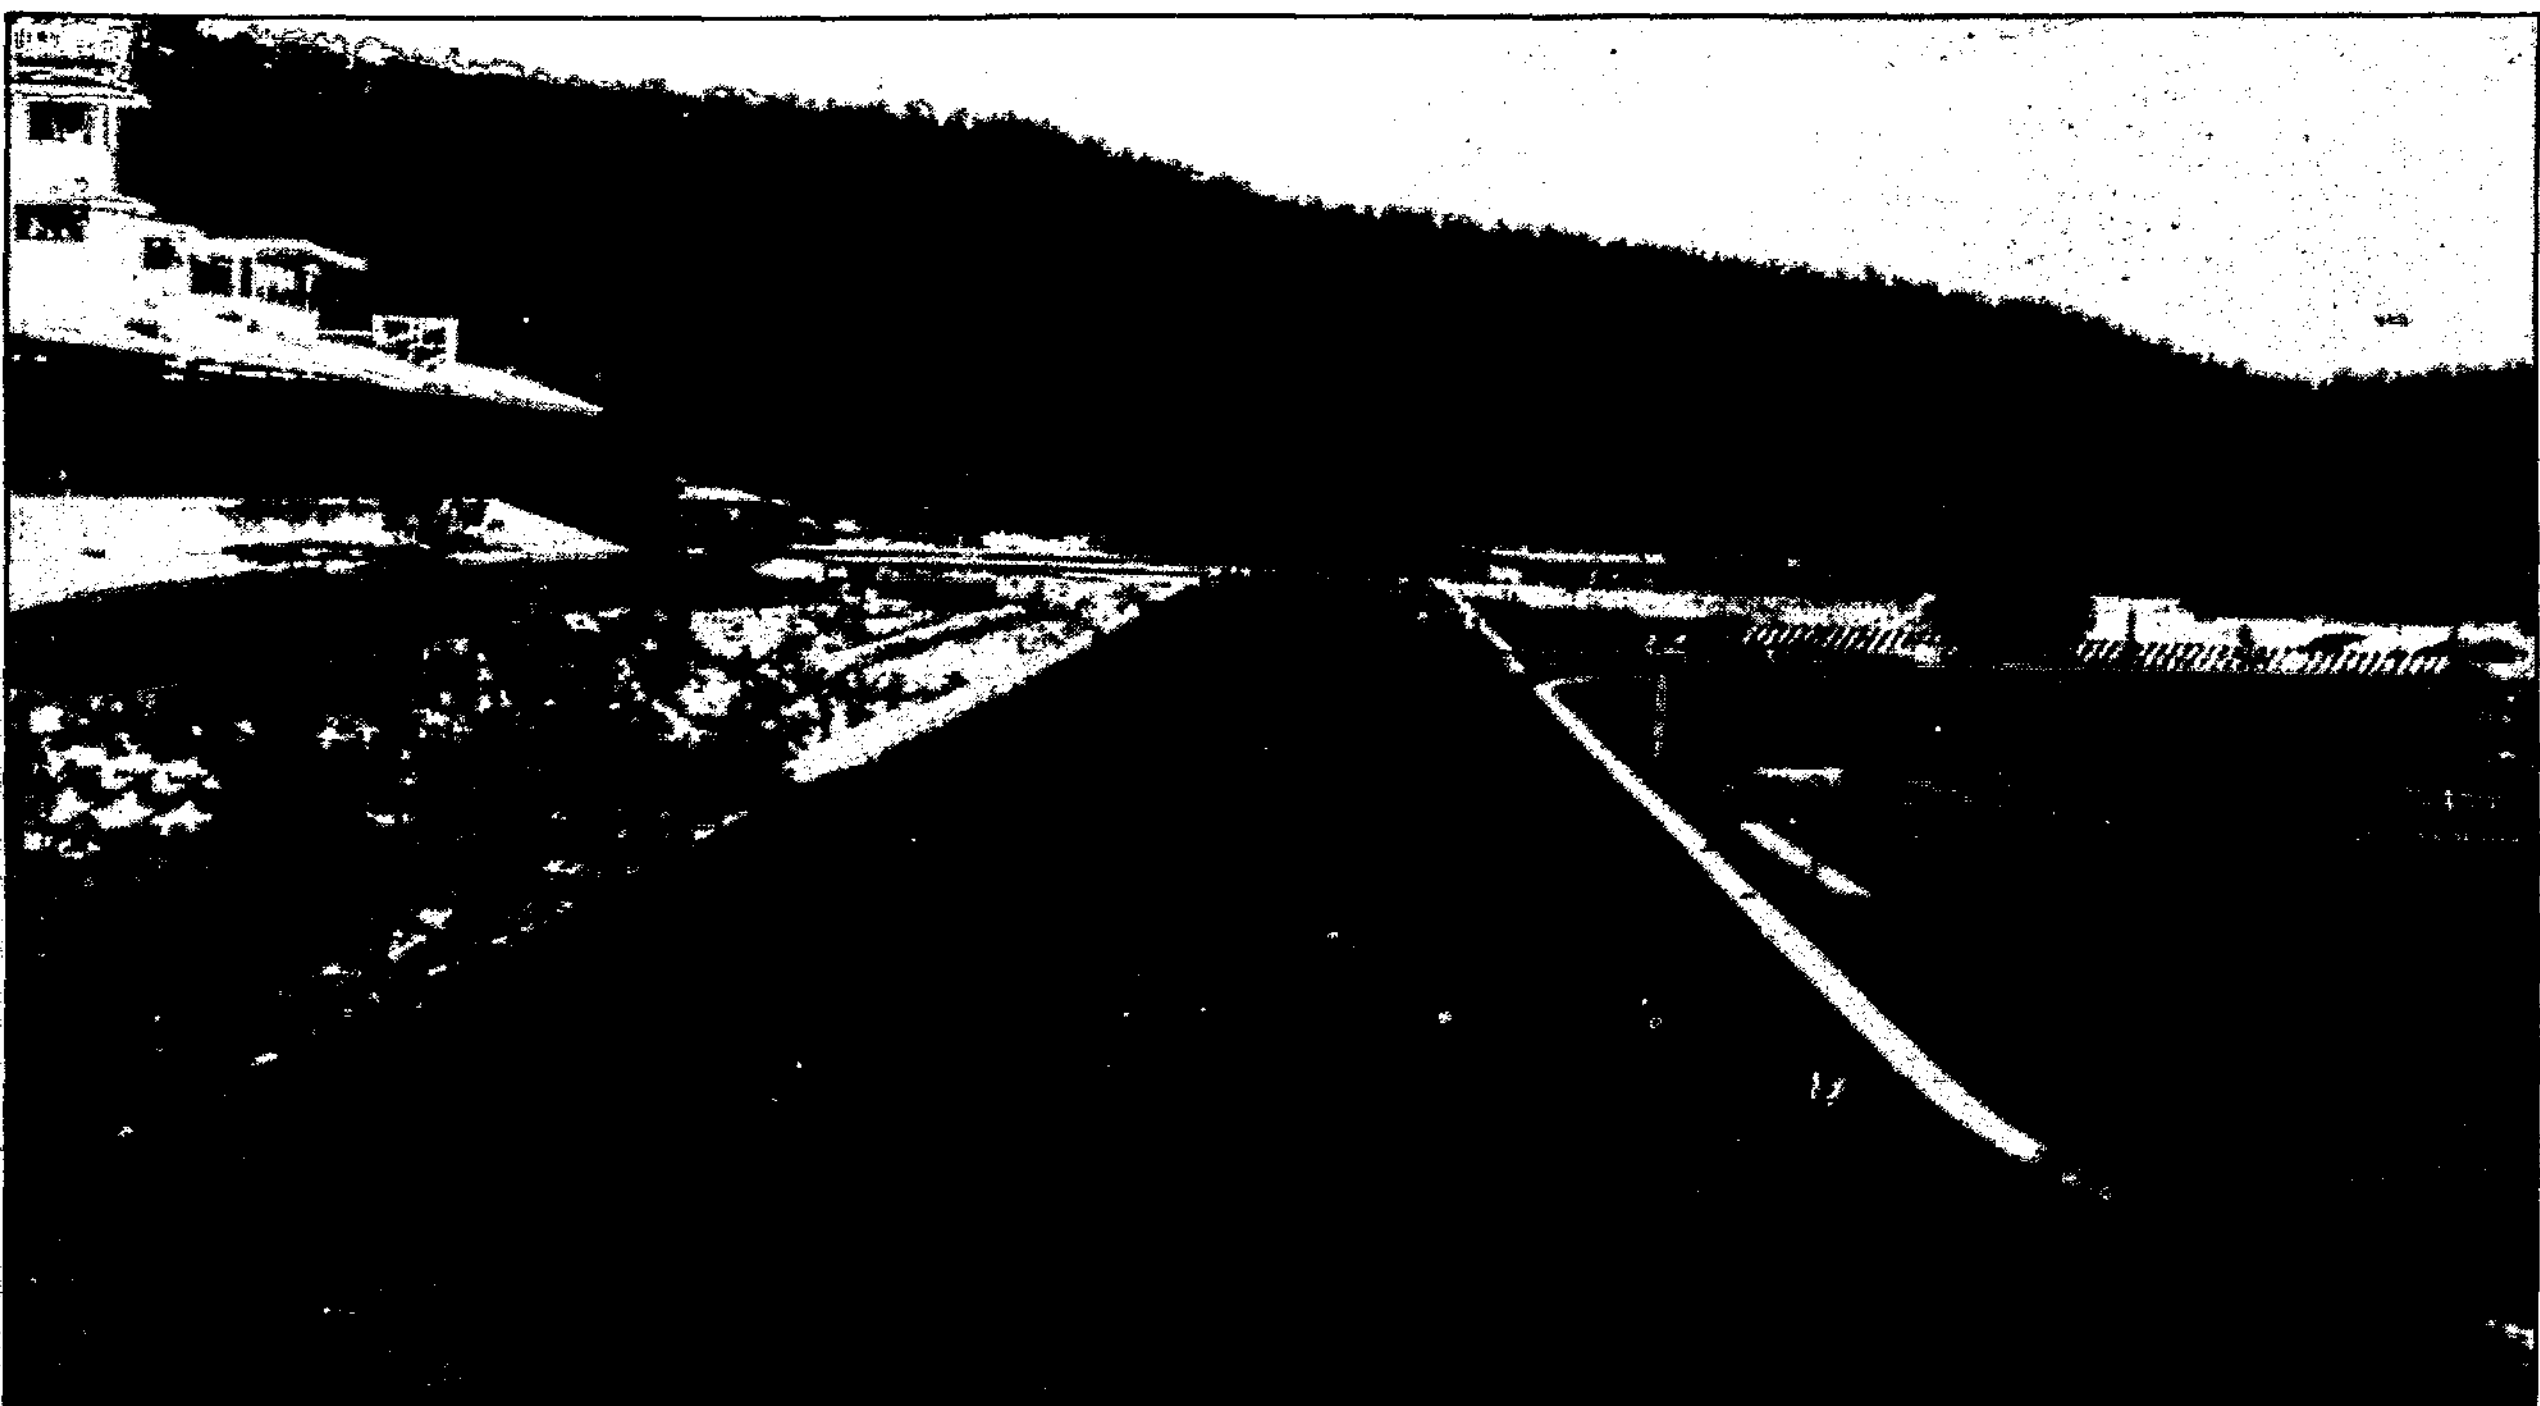

Assistant starters guide horses into the starting gate prior to Friday's seventh race. The assistant starters help keep horses in position up to the time a race begins.

Approaching the starting gates, race horses are readied for the start of Friday's seventh race. The first day of racing at Ruidoso Downs Race Track saw mixed weather conditions.

As dark storm clouds approach Ruidoso Downs Race Track, horses in the ninth race Friday thunder across the turf. The race was won by Blushing Bug with a time of just over 18 seconds.
