Heavy rains soak village

Some village employees worked around the clock Tuesday and Wednesday monitoring village bridges and river crossings endangered by heavy rainfalls. Jack LaMay, head of the Street Department, reported Wednesday that his crews made a trench across the bridge at Paradise Canyon Drive to form a channel for waters that were overflowing that structure.

Forming the channel necessitated closing that road, but LaMay explained that it saved area homes from being flooded.

Frank Potter, assistant village manager, reported that other bridges were in good shape. He said the heavy rains were causing some problems in the municipal sewer system, but maintenance crews were clearing debris from the system before serious problems occurred.

Jim Hine, village manager, reported Tuesday to the Ruidoso Village Council that the Environmental Improvement Division and the Office of Civil Emergency Planning had been alerted to the possibility of flooding in the village.

As waters topped the Paradise Canyon bridge crossing, the village administration chose to dig a channel across the road as a precautionary measure.

Water woes occupy council

by FRANKIE JARRELL

Water—from wells and from the sky—was a major topic of discussion Tuesday for the Ruidoso Village Council. Councillors heard questions from a citizen on the Eagle Creek well field, asked questions about the Hollywood well cleanup and were told that if Tuesday's rain continued some areas of the village might experience flooding.

Ruidosoan J.D. James read a prepared statement during the regular council meeting in which he raised some questions about the Eagle Creek well fields and the city's contract with Atkins-Landfair, the engineering firm credited with finding the water.

"It is obvious that there is real reason to doubt the engineers' reports on these wells," said James, who recommends that a hydrologist be appointed "to appraise the water find attributed to the Atkins-Landfair Corporation."

The council offered no response to James' remarks, but Village Councillor Bill Karn assured him that he'll get an answer later.

In other water-related discussions, Frank Potter, assistant village manager, reported that cleanup is under way on the contaminated Hollywood well. He explained that preliminary cleaning operations must be completed in areas surrounding the well, before the status of the well itself will be addressed.

Potter said a recent broken water line near the Pinecliff area caused a recurrence of diesel-contaminated water in the distribution system, but said those problems were cleared up after about four days.

Customers have received credit for additional water costs incurred when water lines had to be flushed, and some water users have filed claims for damaged hot water heaters, according to Potter.

Mayor George White questioned Potter as to the future of the well and recovery of funds spent because of the contamination.

Potter and John Underwood, village attorney, assured the mayor and the audience that they are in touch with the Environmental Improvement Division and will make efforts to recover the well and the funds.

"We got close to having another flood today," said Jim Hine, village manager. He reported that village employees were closely monitoring the rainfall, and watching bridges with a history of washing out in heavy rains.

Hine reported that the first step has been implemented toward rebuilding those village bridges and culverts with direct appropriation funds from the state. He said requests for engineering proposals have been published, as required by the state Highway Department.

He estimated that the first bridge project will go to bid in May.

Another water matter was brought up as Mike Davalos, village engineer, reported on various projects in progress in the village. Davalos reported on three major projects, but was questioned on a fourth job which he said he hadn't planned to discuss.

"There's a lot of work to be done," said Davalos, when asked for an estimate on the completion date of the transmission lines and intake structure in the Upper Canyon.

Davalos confirmed that the project is behind schedule, and reported that the contractor, Brait, Inc., has not been cooperating with the village on the project.

"It has caused a terrible situation to some of the homeowners in the area," said Davalos. He said the work site wasn't properly prepared, which caused flooding in the area.

"Are you telling us we have a problem with this contractor?" asked Village Councillor Victor Alonso.

"I hope I wasn't saying anything you didn't already know," answered the engineer. Davalos has been the village engineer for about a month.

Councillors expressed surprise and concern about the problems, and Councillor Karn instructed Davalos to "stay on top of it."

Besides answering questions on the intake structure project, Davalos also gave councillors detailed charts on the progress of three other construction jobs in progress. He reported that construction of a metal building to house the village trash compactor is 12 percent behind schedule, but still within a "safe" range for a December 14 completion deadline.

The engineer said the Ponderosa Heights sewer job is about 25 percent behind schedule. Mayor White said the council allowed the contractor on that job to start a little late.

Davalos reported that "a lot of work is being done in a short period of time" on the Grindstone Canyon dam project, but that construction is six percent behind schedule. He said that he will continue to monitor all projects.

First item on Tuesday's agenda was a presentation from Stuart Gail and Charles Noble on an eight-to-nine-story hotel/convention center

Lodgers Tax Committee declines rail study support

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Staff Writer

After a lengthy discussion at its regular meeting Wednesday, the Ruidoso Lodgers' Tax Committee (LTC) voted not to appropriate funds for the feasibility study of the proposed Swiss railroad.

At their last meeting, LTC tabled action on the railroad until a project representative could be present. James Paxton spoke to the committee on behalf of the cog-wheel railroad feasibility study.

Paxton told LTC that results of the study would provide valuable information for the community, regardless of the outcome of the feasibility of the railroad. The study will include such information as tourist origins and traffic patterns.

So far, $50,000 has been collected to pay for the $80,000 study. The proposed railroad will go from the new airport to Ruidoso Downs to the ski area and Inn of the Mountain Gods (one possible route).

Paxton said one company,

Unified Industries, would underwrite construction of the initial installation if the study proves favorable. The New Mexico Transportation Department would then step in with funding alternatives, said Paxton, who stressed a sense of urgency in completing the study in time to get funds from the state Legislature next year if the project goes through.

"I admit that to a certain extent, the idea seems far-fetched... radical," said Paxton, but he said he felt the state would not have funded $20,000 if it did not feel that the project had some validity.

LTC chairman Budgie Green said he supports the railroad, but is committed to spending lodgers' tax collections in a manner that would provide the earliest returns for the money, specifically through advertising. With decreasing lodgers' tax collections and a tight budget, Green said he did not see how the committee could make any such financial investment.

With the exception of Rod Adamson, the committee declined the request for railroad study funds.

During the financial report, village clerk Leon Eggleston said $26,661 in lodgers' taxes had been collected for the month of August.

Eggleston said the figures represent a drop in collections if the increase in the rate of collections, from two percent to three percent, is taken into account.

In other business, Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce executive director John Jeffers thanked LTC for the $4,949 appropriated for this year's Aspen Festival. Jeffers said he felt the crowds were "phenomenal" and that the advertising dollars were well spent.

LTC member Bill Rawlins reported that he spoke to State Representative Ben Hall about an upcoming lodgers' tax committee act in the Legislature. Rawlins said that if the act passes, it would create standing committees which would not be under financial control of the village councils.

Music Festival searches for larger, permanent home

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Staff Writer

The Board of Directors of the Ruidoso Summer Festival, Incorporated, told a small group at its public meeting Tuesday that the main problems with the music festival are the lack of a larger facility, funds and public support.

After this summer's festival, the board issued a notice that the festival would be suspended next year. The board wanted public input and ideas for continuing the festival in the future.

Board president Carl Anderson told the group that last year's gross costs were $210,193. Board member Don Shaw reported that ticket sales, to a full seating capacity of 750, brought in $46,000. Shaw said that even in metropolitan areas, ticket sales never cover the costs of such festivals, and that more public support is necessary to keep the program going.

Board member Ted Bennett told the group that 80 percent of the contributions to the music festival come from out of town.

"We have a few gracious people, but we can't continue at that rate," said Shaw, adding that some of the festival's regular supporters are having financial troubles of their own.

The key problem outlined by the group is the lack of a facility large enough to hold more than 750, the capacity of the Super Select Sales Barn, location of last year's festival. Bennett said he felt that if the festival could at least double seating capacity and ticket sales, it would help the financial situation tremendously.

"We could have sold 1,600 tickets to Al Hirt," said Bennett of the limited seating capacity. He said that when Diane Warwick sang at the festival, they had to turn down more tickets than they could sell.

"If we had a facility we could count on year after year, 90 percent of the problem would be washed away," said Anderson.

A larger facility would enable more people to attend the festival at lower ticket prices. Anderson said he felt it is important that people who want to go to the concerts, but cannot afford it, be able to attend. He felt a larger seating area would aid that situation.

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce executive director John Jeffers told the board that he felt it is "obvious" that the community needs a facility to house the festival, conventions and other gatherings. Jeffers said that several groups are working on the project and suggested that all concerned groups meet for a collective "brainstorming" session.

Anderson and Shaw said the festival board would be pleased to participate in such a meeting, which Jeffers will organize for the coming week.

Jeffers told the group of the possibility of the state developing 500 acres on Moon Mountain. If the project develops, it could be a possible site for the center.

Anderson opined that Ruidoso would be able to attract other events if it had the facility for them.

A suggestion was made to broaden the scope of the festival to include such genres as country-western music. Anderson said he welcomes all suggestions from the public.

Shaw emphasized that the suspension of next summer's festival does not mean the festival is permanently disbanded.

"We don't plan to give up the festival for good," said Shaw.

Shaw added that the current situation is not a sudden problem. He said it has gotten progressively worse over the past three years.

Chemical dependencies vastly affect families

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Editor

Things are not right in the family. The father has condemned the son's problem, and has ordered it stopped. The son refuses to communicate with the father. The mother, "enabler" for the son, becomes the only line of communication between son and father. The mother covers up for the son, shielding him and his problem from the father and others. The problem grows. Family rituals, such as dinner time, are disrupted. Often, the problem results in violence.

The problem is that the son has a chemical dependency.

Chemical dependencies and their effects on families were the subject of discussion during the Tuesday night session of IMPACT '85-Awareness Week at the Ruidoso schools. The meeting, at the Ruidoso High School meeting room, was the second in a series of three sessions on chemical dependency scheduled for parents of students in Ruidoso schools. The sessions are running this week concurrently with a program of drug awareness that is scheduled for students in kindergarten through high school.

Monday night, at the first session for parents, the schedule called for Mike Gladden, assistant superintendent of schools, to introduce and explain the program. Representatives from CareUnit in Albuquerque also were at the meeting to answer questions of meeting-goers.

During the Tuesday session, Skip Wardlow and Lisa Edgett of the Albuquerque CareUnit presented a program on "Substance Abuse, a Family Illness."

Wardlow, a chemical dependency therapist, outlined several scenarios, such as the one leading this article, in which one or more chemical dependencies in the family lead to family problems.

Diagraming on a chalkboard,

Wardlow described how communication channels begin to "dysfunction" when a family member develops a chemical dependency. A major problem with chemical dependencies, Wardlow said, is when the chemical dependent child begins to control the family.

"They're too big to spank and they can run away," Wardlow said. "They can make things happen the way they want them to happen."

One way chemical dependent youths gain control of a family is by using an "enabler."

Wardlow explained that enablers are people who pretend not to notice that someone is chemically dependent. The enabler helps cover up the problem by doing the schoolwork or job of the chemically dependent person. The enabler avoids confronting the problem, so becomes a way to enable the chemically dependent person to continue his dependency.

Enablers often go to great extents to cover up for chemically dependent people. Wardlow related a case of his in which an 11- or 12-year-old girl supported her chemically dependent father, mother, grandfather and grandmother. The girl cashed checks, fixed the automobile and shouldered many other adult burdens as a result of the chemical dependencies in the family.

Wardlow said such situations force youngsters to grow up too quickly, which can lead to worse problems later in life.

Sometimes a chemically dependent child may draw the enabling parent away from the other parent, causing strife in the marriage. A chemical dependency may be present in both parents, or in a sibling and a parent.

In the case of a son and father with chemical dependencies, the mother becomes trapped. When she tries to intervene in the dependency, she may be threatened by divorce or violence by the father and running away by the son, Wardlow said.

Albuquerque CareUnit representative Skip Wardlow gestures during his animated presentation during the Ruidoso schools drug awareness session Tuesday night. The week-long schedule of sessions continues tonight.

Wardlow described the signs of a chemical dependency as being:

—Dysfunction in social or employment settings.

—A pattern of compulsive use that lasts at least one month.

—Not being able to go without the chemical, at will, for a week.

—Dependent to the point of having withdrawal symptoms.

An audience member asked at what point children need help. Wardlow said when a child lies about drinking, smoking or another dependency; shows a pattern of compulsion; or is caught in possession of a chemical substance, help is needed.

"Raising the bottom" was one treatment technique discussed during the meeting. Edgett, a CareUnit call center supervisor and intake counselor, said the technique involves preparing family members, friends, the employer and other people who are important to the chemically dependent person. Each person completes a list of past events in which the person's chemical dependency affected the family, job or other setting.

After two rehearsals, the group joins the chemically dependent person and, one by one, they read each of their lists out loud. The chemically dependent person hears over and over how he let down his family, friends and employer because of the chemical dependency. After each list is read, the reader ends with "I love you" or "I care about you." The last to read a list ends with "I want you to get help."

Edgett said the technique is very effective.

Both CareUnit representatives stressed the seriousness of a chemical dependency problem in the family.

"Chemical dependency is a slow form of suicide in most cases," Edgett said.

The sessions continue tonight (Thursday), October 10, with the showing of the award-winning film "Soft is the Heart of a Child."

The film will be shown at 7 p.m. in the meeting room of Ruidoso High School and will be followed by a discussion on what help is available locally.

complex to be built on a 14-acre tract overlooking the racetrack in Ruidoso Downs. Noble said the 31,000-square-foot convention center and banquet hall will accommodate as many as 8,000 people. He said the facility is scheduled to be complete in October or November 1987.

"It would really be nice if we could figure out a way to annex that area," said John Jeffers, executive director of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. He told the developers that listeners would be more excited if they would benefit from the hotel's gross receipts taxes.

In other business Tuesday, the council:

—Heard John Jeffers thank the village for participating in Saturday's Aspenfest activities.

—Heard Flora Elliott report on activities of the Adult Recreation Advisory Board. She said the board wanted council action on a proposal to hire Carl Ross to drive the center's van two days a week instead of just one day as he currently does. Councilors didn't discuss or act on the proposal.

—Approved a call for bids to demolish several structures as recommended by the Appeals Board, Abatement of Dangerous Buildings after seeing a slide presentation by Jimmy Neeley, building inspector.

—Heard Hine report that anticipated revenues were below projections by at least 10 percent for the first quarter of this fiscal year. He said the first quarter traditionally yields the year's highest revenues.

—Scheduled a meeting of the Finance Board and the Village Council at 2 p.m. Tuesday, October 22, in Village Hall. Besides discussing shortfalls in revenues, the governing body will also hear from the village bonding agent on plans to refinance bonds.

—Heard Mayor White report on a Municipal League meeting he attended Saturday. He warned that the state is in bad shape financially. "They're going to be taking more monies from the local governments to finance the state government," said White. He recommended that councilors begin lobbying efforts now.

—Discussed insurance costs, after hearing Potter warn that rates probably will increase dramatically when bids come in on vehicle and general liability coverage. Potter said insurance carriers nationwide are raising premiums by 300 to 400 percent while providing just half the coverage they provided at the old rates.

—Heard Hine report that a new federal law requiring that firemen and police officers be compensated with overtime pay for all duty hours will cost the fire department this year the equivalent of an extra month's payroll.

—Approved a recommendation by Councilor Rick Evans to write a letter of thanks to the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe for their participation in Aspen Festival events.

Lodgers hear ski pitch

The Ruidoso Lodgers Association heard a presentation about Ski New Mexico at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Elizabeth C' deBaca, executive director of the non-profit trade association, told the lodgers about the organization. Ski New Mexico provides a statewide voice for the varied businesses that make up the ski industry and advertise New Mexico skiing in large publications such as "California Magazine," "Skiing" and "Texas Monthly."

C' deBaca solicited memberships to the organization, which provide special privileges for the $150 dues.

Also at the meeting, Barbara Loyer, representing Clear Publications, told the lodgers that her company would produce a pocket-size Ruidoso Guide which will come out in December. The magazine will contain maps, stories and calendars of events.

In other business, the group decided to have a Christmas party again this year. Details will be discussed at the next executive board meeting.

Zoning commission struggles with commercial areas

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning (P&Z) Commission approved all six requests presented during Monday's meeting, and then discussed what the zoning designation "C" (commercial) left over from the old ordinance means in the current ordinance.

Although an old zoning ordinance included the broad "C" commercial category, the current regulations include designations for light commercial (C-1) and heavy commercial (C-2) as well as industrial (M-1). P&Z chairman Mike Callaghan said many areas have never been rezoned because the Ruidoso Village Council instructed the commission to stop the rezone project.

That left some parts of the village, like the Carrizo Creek Road area, with the old commercial zoning.

Bob Dolgener appeared before P&Z Monday to present development plans for Lots 497-503 of Skyland Addition, an area on Carrizo Creek Road that still is zoned "C". Dolgener's proposed business of pouring septic tanks and curbing would be classified industrial and using today's regulations could only be placed in an area zoned M-1.

Dolgener and James Paxton, the real estate agent who sold him the property, contend that the old "C" allows anything from light commercial through industrial uses. At least one commissioner stated firmly that "C" would allow the most liberal interpretation of commercial uses, but stopped short of industrial.

"I need a clarification," insisted Paxton, who cautioned the commission to be careful in their interpretation of zoning regulations.

"I don't interpret that's what the village attorney is for," said Paul Davis, village enforcement officer. Davis added that the attorney had stated that it (Dolgener's proposal) would be permitted in the location under discussion.

Paxton reiterated his need for specific information when representing property to potential buyers.

"I think the problem is going to get solved with the new master plan," said Callaghan.

"There are an awful lot of people going to need a septic tank before the new master plan," said

Dolgener.

Finally, commissioners unanimously approved Dolgener's development plans.

"It appears that this area is quickly becoming industrial and I would suggest that it be brought to the attention of BRW (village planners)," stated P&Z Commissioner Karon Petty.

Commissioners approved with a five-to-one vote front and south side lot line variances on Lot 28, Block 12, Ponderosa Heights, Unit 2 for C.S. Warren. Davis reported that encroachments were found by the village building inspector when he "red-tagged" the deck construction which was done without the required permits.

"Out of ignorance we built the deck thinking we could do it with the existing permit," said contractor Don Russell. He obtained a permit for interior repairs which stated that no square footage would be added to the structure, said Davis.

"I think the question is whether or not ignorance is a good reason for granting a variance," said Commissioner David Smith, the only member who voted against approving the variances.

The motion that was approved included the condition that the deck never be enclosed.

In other business Monday, the commission:

—Approved development plans of Tara Woods Condominiums, Tract 2, Panorama Lodge Addition for Mike Radziewicz after seeing plans and architectural drawings presented by Al McChesney.

—Granted approval of development plans for a recreation and sales office for High Sierra Condominiums located on lots 14A and 15A, Block 1, Camelot Mountain Tracts. The commission stipulated that handicapped parking be provided and indicated on final plans.

—Approved front and west side lot line variances for a new carport on the west half of Lot 35, Block F, White Fir Subdivision for Dan Swearingin, but added the condition that the carport never be enclosed.

—Approved development plans for Arby's Restaurant on lots 13 and 14, Block 2, Palmer Gateway Subdivision for Fresquez, Inc. Lanny Fresquez displayed pictures of possible architectural styles to be used, and reported that Arby's should be open by the end of November.

Service Club Council is happy with Aspen Festival

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Nancy Radziewicz received a standing ovation Monday from members of the Service Club Council (SCC) who gave her much of the credit for the success of last weekend's Aspen Festival.

John Jeffers, executive director of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, thanked Radziewicz for a "beautiful, wonderful, phenomenal weekend."

Radziewicz said she had a strong committee working on the Aspenfest project, and commended Cal Cowden, Charlotte Jarratt and Barbara Downs for their contributions to the event.

"There were so many things going on all over ... people wanted to be here and they wanted to be there," said Barbara Duff, SCC president. Radziewicz said her committee would recommend to the chamber board that the festival be changed to another weekend because of conflicting events throughout New Mexico.

"I don't believe we can change the weekend of Aspenfest," said Pat Breedlove of Spirit of Ruidoso and chamber, adding that the first weekend of October is the "peak weekend for the aspens."

Breedlove proposed, on behalf of Spirit of Ruidoso and the chamber, that each club pick one special annual project to be implemented in cooperation with other area organizations. His plan includes publishing a yearly brochure listing activities for almost every weekend.

The proposal calls for the sponsoring organization to receive two-thirds of the monies earned and for the other one-third to go into an advertising fund to be administered by the Chamber of Commerce.

"We want to bring more people to Ruidoso so we can all make more money and live fat and happy," said Breedlove.

Jeffers said that the Telluride, Colorado, Chamber of Commerce promotes special events from May 1 through October 1 each year. Typical projects that Jeffers mentioned include a winter carnival, mushroom festival and rockhound group.

"We could have a super apple festival in September," said Breedlove.

Also Monday, Geri Collins, president of the Lincoln County Mental Health Association, reported that the counseling center has changed its name to the Professional Counseling Association.

Collins said it's the "same people ... same services ... but a more professional-sounding name." Besides counseling services, Collins said the association provides educational programs to interested groups.

Current and readily available programs are on alcohol and substance abuse, stress management and an overview of association services, but Collins said programs can be structured around particular needs or interests of a group.

In other business Monday:

—Sally Avery of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital Auxiliary reported that her group will be selling emergency "Please Call Police" signs in the hospital gift shop for $3 each. Avery said the large plastic signs are designed to be folded, carried in the car and taped to the car window if car trouble occurs on the highway.

"It (the sign) has saved people's lives, literally," said Avery.

—Helen Townsend of Rio Ruidoso Lionesses reported that she has been unable to locate the missing club signs that used to be displayed on Sudderth Drive.

—Spirit of Ruidoso President Teri Sodd asked for help with the Halloween Hoo-down scheduled for October 31, at Tall Pines RV Park. Sodd said Spirit will rent booths to other organizations for $20.

The Winter Wonderland will begin the Friday after Thanksgiving with a Christmas parade. Sodd said local groups will be invited to staff the cider booth and act as Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus during December.

Breedlove said Spirit hopes to have more participation from church choirs this year than last.

—Duff reminded SCC of the third annual Health Fair planned from noon until 8 p.m. Friday, November 8, in the Gibson's building. She said if participation isn't good this year, the fair won't be conducted again next year.

—Cal Cowden said the American Legion will soon plant trees in honor of veterans who have died in the past 10 years.

—Cowden also reported that the Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts are selling packets of firestarter for $3.50 each. The starters are made in Denmark and come in packets of 21.

—Free flu shots will be given at the Adult Recreation Center, said Cowden. Call 257-4565 for further information.

—Cowden said the Humane Society of Lincoln County needs members. Enrollment forms are available at local veterinarians' offices, and dues are $10.

—Myrtle Arrington told the council that the Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club has organized a walking group, called Mountaimarschers, which is a part of an international folksport organization. She invited everyone to an organizational meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday, November 16, at the Woman's Club building.

SCC will meet next at noon Monday, November 4, at K-Bob's. All clubs and organizations in the county are invited to send representatives to the council.

Shimmering poplars stand out from approaching gray storm clouds during a few sunny minutes Tuesday afternoon. The trees have turned from green to a brilliant yellow-gold all around town.

Game pick winner

Richard Portillo shows off his $25 check and winning picks in this week's Ruidoso News football contest. He won with his tiebreaker score after posting a 16-3 record which had him tied with two other contestants, Donna Sparrow and Dale Perry. Portillo is an avid football fan. This week's contest was only based on 19 games due to a schedule mixup regarding the Georgia-Alabama game which was aired at an earlier date for television purposes. There were 57 contestants in this week's contest.

Crime of the Week

State Crime Stoppers highlight a crime this week which took place in Lincoln County.

Many people grow weary while driving and pull over to the side of the road to rest. Usually people are able to rest and then continue their journey. In this week's Crime Stoppers case involving an Odessa, Texas, man and his son, their stop turned into tragedy.

On May 10, Gregory Keene and his nine-year-old son were traveling from Odessa to Ruidoso when Keene got tired of driving and pulled over to the side of the road to rest on Highways 70 and 380 just west of Roswell in Lincoln County.

About 11 p.m. an unknown suspect pulled the passenger door open, grabbed Keene's son and opened fire with a gun. Keene was shot in the face and the bullet lodged behind his heart. Even after being shot, Keene was able to return fire at his assailant, who then fled the scene.

The suspect is described as a white male, six feet tall, 25 to 30 years old, thin, with long black hair and a sparse black beard. He was wearing a red baseball cap, dark blue T-shirt and cutoff blue jeans.

This week state Crime Stoppers joins with Carrizozo Crime Stoppers in offering up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the offender in this case.

Anyone having information about this crime or any other serious crime, should call state Crime Stoppers at 1-800-432-6933. Callers may remain anonymous and still be eligible for a cash reward.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

Late Summer Days Pay Us a Visit During Early Fall

No sooner did the Weather Spirits give us a perfect October day for the Aspenfest, than they brought in their water wagons of the sky and soaked out mountainland with a day and night of steady rain.

On mid-morning of October eight you could hear that sound down among the walnut, oak, and box elder trees along the river, that water voice like a mighty whisper that has given our river its name, Ruidoso, Spanish for noisy.

Much as you welcome the rain, whenever you hear this voice of the flood, you go down and have a look at the water gaps. (Water gaps are your fences crossing the river.)

A large flood will take the water gaps out. Too many big logs and limbs and what not for the wires of the fence to stand. There is a fortune waiting for anyone who can invent a fence across a stream so built that it will somehow rise upon "the foaming brine" of a raging flood and then settle back into place when the water calms down.

Although this was the highest water of the year, the water taps have held up, through the kindness of some little water elf, or maybe the luck of the Irish.

The Oak Brush
What the heather is to Scotland, and the bluebonnet to Texas, the autumn oak brush is to that part of the Ruidoso Valley beginning around Glencoe, going up through the narrows, and on up to where sing the pines and murmur the aspen leaves.

On October second Jack Frost came in with the first freeze. The night before the crickets had shut down their music. I said that they had put up their instruments till next year. But I was "a shade previous on this" as the fellow says in the Zane Grey story.

The next night the orchestra of these little evening troubadors was in full swing.

And now with the rains, the late summer flowers have made a second blooming and the autumn blooms are extra colorful. The coloring of the tree leaves has come to a stop and the grass has taken on a new green.

Just the same, that first light freeze and the crisp coolness of the early mornings have given the oak brush on the south side of the valley their first coloring of light yellow and dim orange.

This is a promise of an especially beautiful oak brush tapestry through autumn. The interludes of warm days combined with the light frosts will make the oak brush turn color gradually, in contrast to the sudden change in color that comes after a very hard frost.

The green river trees and the emerald meadows form a summer foundation for the oak brush on high, making a fall-in-summer mantle for Mother Earth.

Every day now will give us a new autumn color picture on the patches of oak brush among the pines and cedar: pumpkin yellow for October, golden orange and light crimson for November, and purple and Christmas red for December.

This will be an autumn season long to be remembered.

Ruidoso hopes to declaw Tigers in District 3-AAA opener

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

It all counts from now on for the Ruidoso High School varsity football team.

Friday night the undefeated Warriors will host Hot Springs High School in the District 3-AAA opener. The game will start at 7:30.

Hot Springs only has a 2-3 record. One of the Tigers' losses was a 55-0 defeat at the hands of Artesia, who Ruidoso beat, 14-13.

But Ruidoso head coach Cooper Henderson is not taking the game lightly, particularly because the Warriors took a hard-fought 15-8 contest over Hot Springs last season.

"One of the keys for us will be to make sure we're mentally ready to execute," Henderson said. "We have to play smart football."

One of the things the Warriors will have to correct this week is turnovers. Ruidoso has made more than its share the past two weeks in 13-6 and 29-0 wins over Portales and New Mexico Military Institute.

But otherwise, the Warriors had played like a team that deserves to be ranked first in the Associated Press state poll and Albuquerque Journal coaches state poll.

Ruidoso has scored 157 points and given up just 62 so far this year. The Warriors have allowed just 12 points in the past three games. Ruidoso limited New Mexico Military Institute to 58 yards total offense last week.

Quarterback Russell Easter leads the Warrior offense with his 656 yards passing on 35 completions in 72 attempts.

Tailback Michael Williamson has 494 yards in 72 attempts for seven touchdowns and two points.

Wingback Kirk Taylor had his best game last week, running for 115 yards. Fullback Billy Harrison also has done well.

Split end Brian Davis is the Warriors' leading receiver, having caught 25 passes for 596 yards.

Tackle Phillip Herrera and guard James Herrera lead the Warrior offensive line. Center Mark Flack is back strong after an early-season injury.

The Warrior defense was outstanding against New Mexico Military Institute. Middle linebacker Jeff Maxwell and cornerback Randy Reynolds tackled a Colt runner for a safety, and the losers never really threatened to score.

Outside linebackers Bobby Dickinson and Chuck Daniels have been consistent, while tackle Shayne Fedrick has been a standout.

Safety Jeff Willingham leads the Warriors in interceptions with three.

Middle linebacker-fullback Chris Harrison probably is the top Tiger player.

Chris Pape (230 pounds) and Gene Armijo (215 pounds) give the Tigers some size up front. John Faulkner is an outstanding free safety on defense.

"They run basically two offenses," said Henderson. "Sometimes they'll run out of the shotgun and at other times, out of the Pro-I where they will use the option a lot."

"They use a 6-1 or 5-2 on defense a lot."

Following are the probable Warrior starters on offense and defense

A host of blockers clear the way for Ruidoso High School quarterback Russell Easter (right) during Friday night's game with New Mexico Military Institute. Ruidoso beat the Colts, 29-0, to stay undefeated. Blockers include James Herrera (foreground), Jason Hill (75) and Kirk Taylor (27).

with their class and weight.

Offense: Quarterback, Russell Easter, senior, 180; tailback, Michael Williamson, senior, 140; fullback, Billy Harrison, junior, 160, or Bryan Alexander, senior, 144; wingback, Kirk Taylor, junior, 156.

Tight end, Bobby Dickinson, senior, 162; tackles, Phillip Herrera, senior, 230, and Jimmy Frost, senior, 180; center, Mark Flack, senior, 180; guards, James Herrera, senior, 175, and Kerry Jameson, senior, 165; split end, Brian Davis, junior, 170.

Defense: Middle linebacker, Jeff Maxwell, senior, 155; outside linebackers, Chuck Daniels, junior, 150, and Bobby Dickinson, senior, 162.

Spikers impressive in loss to Tigers

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

It may not have been a victory, but it was the next best thing.

The winless Ruidoso High School varsity volleyball team lost to defending District 3-AAA champion Hot Springs in four sets Tuesday on the winners' court.

Ruidoso was the first district team to win a set against the Tigers this season. Hot Springs won the first set, 15-8, and took the second set, 15-4. However, the Warriors came back to top the Tigers, 15-11, before the hosts won the final set, 15-2.

Saturday, Ruidoso will host Cobre's varsity and junior varsity. The first match will start at 1 p.m.

"We played as a team," said Warrior head coach Pixie Arthur. "Everybody on the team played well. It was definitely the best we've played this season."

In the third set, the two teams were nip and tuck before the Warriors pulled away for a 13-8 lead.

Hot Springs cut the margin to 13-11, before Shannon Lee served the winning points for the Warriors.

"She had a great game," said Arthur.

The first and second set also were close, with the score tied a number of times.

Hot Springs was the state runner-up last season and won the state championship two years ago.

"I think this will give the kids the confidence that they need," Arthur enthused. "This shows they can play with anybody."

The Warrior junior varsity fell to Hot Springs, 15-3, 15-5. Ruidoso's C team played better, losing in three sets, 12-15, 15-6, 17-19.

"The junior varsity just didn't play well," said Warrior junior varsity coach Jim Hofstad. "But Stacy Gear played well for the C team."

Monica Jaramillo came off the bench to do a good job in the C match.

Cobre is not supposed to be one of the better teams in the district. Does that mean the Warriors have a good chance to win?

"They're not as good as Deming (a team the Warriors lost in four sets to last week)," Arthur said. "But you never know."

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

Well, even with the football season in high gear, the baseball playoffs and World Series probably will grab the national spotlight over the next few weeks.

St. Louis and Los Angeles will battle for the National League crown, while Toronto and Kansas City will vie for the American League title.

This is the first time the playoffs will have seven-game series. Previously, the playoffs were best three-out-of-five series.

Look for the Cardinals to nip Los Angeles in seven games for the National League championship.

St. Louis has perhaps the best eight-man lineup in the major leagues and a solid pitching staff. The Cardinals like to run and are excellent defensively.

The Dodgers, on the other hand, were poor defensively during the regular season despite an excellent pitching staff. This will hurt against a running, strong-hitting team like the Cardinals.

Toronto should defeat the Royals in six or seven games. The Blue Jays won the American League's Eastern Division (probably the toughest in the major leagues), but aren't quite the powerhouse Baltimore and Detroit were the last two seasons.

Both of those teams swept through the playoffs and World Series in impressive fashion.

But the Blue Jays' pitching should be enough to push them by Kansas City.

As for the World Series, let's just wait until the playoffs are over for a prediction.

Turning to the National Football League (NFL), the Chicago Bears continue to lead my weekly poll.

Chicago is undefeated at 5-0, but had to rally to defeat Tampa Bay last weekend.

The Los Angeles Rams are second and the only other unbeaten team in the NFL. They had to hold off Minnesota at the one-yard line to gain a 13-10 victory Sunday.

Los Angeles' offense is still sluggish, but the defense has been outstanding, particularly against the run.

Miami and Dallas are tied for second, both with 4-1 records. Both teams have won some close games this season, something that a team needs to do in order to make the playoffs.

The New York Jets are also 4-1 and rate fifth place. This could be the year the Jets make the playoffs.

San Francisco, New Orleans, Cleveland, Denver, Kansas City, Minnesota, the Los Angeles Raiders and the New York Giants all rate honorable mention recognition.

The Ruidoso Little League football Lions wave at the crowd in last Saturday's Aspen Festival parade. The Ruidoso Little League football and Ruidoso Soccer Association teams participated in the parade.

Youth sports summary

Soccer

Young soccer enthusiasts have seen action all week in the Ruidoso Soccer Association at White Mountain School.

In under-10 action, the Western Auto Wranglers topped the Radio Shack Raiders, 2-1, the First National Bank Cosmos beat the Valley Transit Tigers, 3-1, the Raiders topped the Ruidoso State Bank Warriors, 3-0, and the Tigers edged Coulston and Associates United, 2-1.

No under-14 matches were played due to rainouts. Some more matches are scheduled this week.

The under-10 standings have the Cosmos in front with a 3-0 mark. The Wranglers are 3-1, United and the Tigers are 2-2, the Raiders are 2-3 and the Warriors are 0-4.

Under-14 standings see United leading with a 3-0-1 record. The Pioneer Savings Eagles are 2-2 and the Sierra Blanca Motors Bandits are 0-3-1.

Weather permitting, the league will have playoffs for tie matches Saturday, and have a picnic afterward.

If more games are rained out, the season will end next week.

Football

The Bank of Ruidoso Colts stayed unbeaten in Ruidoso Little League football major-division play with a 20-6 win over the Ruidoso Evening Lions Cowboys last Saturday.

The other major-division game saw the Elks Lodge Steelers defeat the High Country Insurance Broncos, 20-0, Thursday. Saturday, the Ruidoso State Bank Raiders beat the Ruidoso Noon Lions Lions, 20-0, in the minor-division game.

The Colts are 3-0, followed by the Steelers at 2-1, the Broncos at 1-2 and the Cowboys at 0-3. The Raiders are 3-0 and the Lions are 0-3.

In action this Saturday at the high school stadium, the Broncos will play the Cowboys at 9 a.m., the Colts will meet the Steelers at 10:30 a.m., and the Raiders will take on the Lions at 12:30 p.m.

Tam takes first for harriers

Ruidoso High School's boys cross-country team will not compete this weekend after finishing in a fifth-place tie at the Carlsbad Invitational last Saturday.

Junior Gabe Tam led the way, taking first in the individual competition with a 16:09 time over a rough, hilly course. Tam's best this season was a 13:29 run on a flat course in Las Cruces.

Ruidoso had 130 points. Alamogordo won the meet. Nine teams competed in the invitational.

GABE TAM

Sophomore Clint Bob followed Tam, finishing 22nd in 18:04. Travannon Ash was 34th in 19:53, Daniel Martinez was 35th in 19:55, Trey VonTrotha was 45th in 20:32 and Lantz Hawthorne was 54th in 21:18.

In junior varsity competition, Michael Reynolds was 28th in 21:20, Mark Reynolds was 28th in 21:22 and Levi Lueras was 38th in 23:04.

"I think Gabe's time was one of the fastest ever run on that course," said Warrior coach Ronny Maskew.

"The runners are gaining a lot of experience. There's not a senior on the team. They're doing real well. Each week they're getting tougher. Each week they're getting better."

The Warriors will resume competition Saturday, October 19, in the Lovington Invitational.

Bowling workshop set Saturday

A workshop for Ruidoso bowling league officers is set for 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, October 12, at the Ruidoso Woman's Club. The meeting is mandatory for all league officers. The workshop will include instruction of how to properly fulfill the duties of each office.

All interested bowlers are encouraged to attend.

Frosh gridders to take on Goddard Rockets

The Ruidoso High School freshman football team will travel to Goddard High School in Roswell for a 6 p.m. game today (Thursday), October 10.

Ruidoso Middle School had been scheduled to host Portales today, but the game has been canceled due to wet grounds. The game could be made up later.

The Warrior freshmen are 1-2 on the season after losing to Tularosa, 28-0, last week.

Quarterback Michael Swanner and running back Dusty Beavers have been standouts for the Warriors this season.

Other players who have done well are Dusty Skellett, Bubba Lane and Chris Long.

Lane scored the Warriors' only touchdown in Ruidoso's 6-0 victory over Chaparral Junior High two weeks ago.

The middle school team is 2-1 in A competition and 1-0 in B competition.

Rusty Silva, Ira Sago, David Dickinson and Logan Stirman have been standouts for the Braves this season.

More than a million dollars in prize money is up for grabs at Sunland Park

Sunland Park Race Track will be offering more than $1.6 million in prize money for major stakes and handicap races during the upcoming 1985-86 season that gets underway Saturday, October 12.

The track kicks off its 27th season this Saturday with the opening-day $10,000-added Mr. Vale Handicap, a mile race for three-year-olds. Also carded are trials for the Shue Fly, an $8,000-added event for quarter horses at 400 yards. Quarter horses are also spotlighted Sunday, when the opening leg of the Savannah Swinger Series is contested. Three-year-olds will compete over a 350-yard course for their share of $8,000 in added prize money.

Races will be held every Friday, Saturday and Sunday until May 4. There will be one Monday program on February 17. Programs get underway at 12:30 p.m. each day.

Highlighting the meet will be the 21st running of the Sun Country Futurity for quarter horses on April 27, and the Riley Allison Futurity for two-year-old thoroughbreds on May 4.

The Sun Country is a Grade I race for two-year-olds over 350 yards with a projected purse of $275,000. Dashing Phoebe, winner of last year's Sun Country, went on to capture the Kansas Futurity at Ruidoso Downs and qualified for the final field of the $2.53 million All American Futurity.

The Riley Allison is also written for two-year-olds, covering a distance of five furlongs with an estimated purse of $350,000. Last year's winner was Senator Billy B.

Other major stakes races for quarter horses to be run at Sunland this season include:

— The Grade II West Texas Derby on October 15 with three-year-olds competing for a $100,000 estimated purse over 400 yards.

— The Grade III Sunland Park Fall Quarter Horse Derby on December 1 for three-year-olds over 440 yards with a purse of $25,000.

The Grade II Sunland Park Fall Quarter Horse Futurity on December 15 for two-year-olds over 400 yards with a purse of $125,000.

— The Grade II West Texas Futurity on March 23 for two-year-olds over 330 yards with an estimated purse of $420,000.

Also on tap for quarter horses is the $175,000 estimated Sunland Park All American Sale Futurity on November 17. The race is run at 400 yards for two-year-olds purchased in the 1984 All American Select Quarter Horse Yearling Sale at Ruidoso.

The Savannah Swinger Series continues on November 10 at 400 yards and December 14 at 440 yards.

Major races for thoroughbreds during the 1985-86 season include:

— The Riley Allison Derby on April 20 for three-year-olds at one mile with an added purse of $12,500.

— The Sunland Park Fall Thoroughbred Futurity on December 28 for two-year-olds at six furlongs with an estimated purse of $100,000.

— The Thoroughbred Sale Fall Futurity on November 3 for two-year-olds purchased at the 1984 Summer Select Thoroughbred Sale at Ruidoso. The race is six furlongs with an estimated purse of $30,000.

Thoroughbreds will also compete in the five-part Rio Grande Marathon which opens on October 27 with a mile event. The Marathon will continue on December 8, January 11, February 16 and March 29.

All active duty military personnel receive free general admission throughout the season, with free clubhouse or grandstand admission for ladies every Friday.

Curriobot won't race on muddy track

A muddy track could mean an early vacation for Curriobot, last year's Horse of the Meet at Sunland Park Race Track.

Trainer J. Doyal Roberts said Wednesday that the outstanding distance runner would be scratched from Saturday's Mr. Vale Handicap if the track was muddy. Whether he runs in the race or not, Roberts has said Curriobot would be turned out for a rest following the Mr. Vale, and would not return to competition until after the first of the year.

Roberts said the decision not to run Curriobot in the mud is because the eight-year-old gelding "will not run on an off track. He's been hurt twice on muddy tracks and has gotten so he won't run on one."

Roberts said that while racing on a rain-drenched track in the Ruidoso Mile in 1984, Curriobot "took a bad step and pulled the shoe off his hoof. He has injured himself on a muddy track one more time since then and now he just won't run on an off track."

Curriobot, winner of last year's Mr. Vale Handicap, has been Horse of the Year at Sunland Park the past two seasons. He was also named the Best Handicap Horse and Best Router for the 1984-85 season.

The Mr. Vale Handicap will be Curriobot's only fall start at Sunland Park, according to Roberts. "He's been up and running for a long time and he's getting pretty tired. We plan to rest him for the rest of this year then bring him into action sometime after the first of 1986."

Following last year's campaign at Sunland Park, which he topped with his second straight win in the Sunland Park Handicap, Curriobot had a heavy summer season, racing at both Santa Fe and Ruidoso Downs, where he was second in the Ruidoso Mile.

He's returning to Sunland after competing at the New Mexico State Fair meet in Albuquerque, where he won a mile allowance race and finished third in the New Mexico State Fair Handicap.

The track veteran is just one of an outstanding group of horses currently stabled at Sunland Park and preparing to compete in the upcoming meet. Nearly all of last season's champions have returned. Senator Billy B., who was voted Best 2-year-old Thoroughbred and Best 2-year-old Colt after posting three wins last season, including the $350,000 Riley Allison Futurity, will be returning in the juvenile ranks.

Lord Rubic, named Best 3-year-old Colt or Gelding and Best New Mexico Bred Thoroughbred after taking six wins, including the Sunland Park Derby, is back for the upcoming season, along with the Best 3-year-old Thoroughbred Filly Giboulee Wood, who accounted for the City of Las Cruces Handicap.

Eight-year-old veteran Reverend Blue Jeans, voted Most Improved Horse, also is back.

Sunland Park general manager Rick Henson is pleased with the quality of horses returning for the 1985-86 season.

"We had 2,400 applications for stalls. It was a tough decision to trim the list," Henson remarked. "We can house 1,400 horses on the grounds, and I think we have some of the very best horses on the Southwest circuit here to compete."

Bob Arnett, who was last season's top trainer at Sunland with 44 wins in 250 starts, will campaign with an impressive stable of horses as he seeks his 11th training title at Sunland.

Arnett trainee My Going Jesse is among the very best 870-yard competitors winning the Fine Loom Handicap and the Gene Hensley Handicap last summer in Ruidoso. He also conditions My Kinda Loom, who won the Norgor Futurity for 2-year-olds at Ruidoso, while Pride Of Loom captured the Barlaris Handicap.

Cliff Lambert Sr., who is seeking his eighth trainer title, has another strong stable headed by Copper Case who had impressive wins in the Governor and Isayolboy handicaps at Ruidoso.

Aspenfest draws many Aspenfest '85 was a success, said festival organizer Nancy Radziewicz Sunday evening. Radziewicz said she was pleased with the turnout and participation during the weekend's many events.

The festival began with the annual parade. This year, the grand prize sweepstakes went to the float by the Village of Ruidoso. The first place float was entered by the Inn of the Mountain Gods. The Lincoln County Democratic Women had the second-place float, and the Mesalero Head Start placed third.

In the band competition, Alamogordo Mid-Hi School took first place in the Class A division. Ruidoso High School took second place in that classification.

Texico High School took first place in the Class B division. Hatch High School was second.

The New Mexico State Open Chili Cook Off took place at Tall Pines RV Park Saturday. The first place title went to Norton Furman and the Del Norte Gourmet team of El Paso, Texas. In second place was Mel Burton and Classic Chili #13 of Seguin, Texas. Flying Squirtle

Chili, of Amarillo, Texas, took third place.

The People's Choice award, voted on by civilian tasters, went to Buz Bumgarner and Hot Stuff Chile of Mesilla, New Mexico. The first place showmanship title went to Shady Bunch Chili of Lubbock, Texas. Ben's Independent Chili, of Chaparral, took second, and Ain't No Flatland Chili (Lamare Osborn of Ruidoso) #1 took third in the showmanship honors.

The barbecue cook-off, scheduled for Sunday, was canceled due to lack of entries. However, many attended the fiddlers' contest at Tall Pines that day.

Other Aspenfest events included the frontier village at which people demonstrated blacksmithing, loom weaving, whittling and other crafts. Throughout the day, fashion shows, shoot-outs, singing and dancing took place throughout the town.

Saturday's festivities ended with the evening performance of Gary P. Nunn at Tall Pines and the Aspenfest Ball at The Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Country-western musician Gary P. Nunn entertains a good-sized crowd during a Saturday evening concert at Tall Pines RV Park. The concert capped off Saturday's busy schedule of Aspenfest events.

The youngest members of the Hondo Valley Flesta Dancers perform Saturday before a large and enthusiastic group of spectators at Serenity Plaza. The older members of the group also danced Saturday during Aspenfest.

The Alamogordo High School band plays a tune while marching in the Aspen Festival parade. The Alamogordo band was one of several high school bands to perform in the parade.

Larry Bandy forges a fork over a blacksmith's fire as he demonstrates the craft at Frontier Village during Saturday's Aspenfest.

Automobiles, from a classic Mustang to a futuristic Sterling, thrilled curious spectators during Aspenfest weekend. The automobiles were in the Aspenfest parade, then were on display in the Thunderbird Trading Company parking lot. Ruidosoan Ron MacWhorter is the proud owner of many of the special vehicles.

Middle school spikers lose twice

Ruidoso Middle School's volleyball team lost matches to Tularosa and Hot Springs this week.

Monday, the Braves fell to visiting Tularosa in both A and B matches. The A team lost, 15-7, 15-5. The B team fell, 15-10, 16-14.

Brandi Garrett was the top player for the Brave B team, doing well servicing and receiving. Tuesday, the Brave A team traveled to Truth or Consequences and dropped a 9-15, 15-13, 15-10 decision to Hot Springs.

Chantell Bowen did well serving and receiving. Maria Miranda also was impressive.

"They (Hot Springs) probably were the best team we've played this year," said Brave coach Jody Hopkins.

Ruidoso is 3-4 in A play and 3-3 in B play. The Braves will conclude the season next Tuesday against visiting Chaparral Junior High of Alamogordo. There will be A and B matches.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

Part of our democracy is being able to sit down and write a letter to a paper concerning our system of government, and you being able to print it.

People have said to me that they won't write letters like mine because of a fear of reprisal by the city or whomever. Thus far, I have made some people upset, councilors slightly angry or whatever, but they all realize that being criticized is part of the job. Without a free flow of opinion we would lose our democracy in a short time.

Now I have come across a person employed by the village, who thinks I should not criticize with my letters, nor I guess should I stand up against a local bureaucracy.

To him and to any others I say, I will stop only when there is no means whatsoever to communicate in writing. My only fear is someday we might lose our freedoms, because we did not act today.

MICHAEL RADZIEWICZ

DEAR EDITOR:

On behalf of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Aspenfest Committee, and its Chairman, Nancy Radziewicz, I would like to publicly thank a very "SPECIAL" group of people who donated funds to purchase the trophies, and plaques, which were awarded to the winners of the float, band, and fiddlers competitions, as well as to parade marshals Neil Parks and

Reporter's Round

By Sharon Makokian

While I was in the darkroom printing pictures, I heard Paul Harvey tell radio listeners that they've discovered water on Mars, thus making future visits and colonization a possibility.

The darkroom is a great place to hear news like that, because it lends itself to daydreaming while working in the red-lighted room. When the red light is on, everything has a rather surrealistic crimson glow, kind of like Mars.

I wonder if Mars is red when you're up there, or if it just looks like that from here. It's hard to comprehend visiting another planet, let alone living there.

And how would the Martians react to our visits? Would their chamber of commerce send us a tourist packet and roll out the red carpet when we got there? Maybe it will become the newest hot spot for meetings or weekend getaways.

It could have potential. If Mars has a lot to offer, their tourism board could start an aggressive campaign showing us earthlings the benefits of vacationing.

I wonder if they have a convention center there. If the scenery and climate are nice, a location for conventions, meetings and other activities would only lure more visitors. We assume there's nothing up there. We could be wrong.

If Mars could be used as a wonderful convention location, they'd have to educate other planets about its assets. If we don't know, we won't go. We could be missing a nice vacation. They're losing our business. What we don't know could hurt them.

Would life on Mars be a reflection of life here... shopping at celestial malls, skiing Mars Mountain, eating burgers from MarsDonalds?

And what about business there? Would Mars boutiques, motels and eateries be affordable for tourists to patronize? Would the stores close on Sundays or at odd times, shutting out potential customers?

And what of the Martian society? I wonder if they band together to promote the success of their planet, or if they break off into groups which could hinder the general progress at times.

Who knows? Maybe sometime we will be rocketing up for a visit. If Mars develops and promotes their facilities, I'm sure we'd use them. With new space shuttles and improved space-ports being built, the possibilities are limitless.

Nothing is easy. Anything worthwhile takes planning, perseverance, cohesiveness and work. But something tells me that the Martians have it all within their reach—they just have to realize it and make it happen.

See you on Mars. For now, it's back to the darkroom.

Dan Storm, parade captain Elmer Pirelli, and the judges.

"Thank you, friends and supporters," for your enthusiastic response to our needs: Adamson Appraisal Co., Ltd., Bank of Ruidoso, Dean Land and Cattle Company, High Country Agency, Inc., K.C. DEAR EDITOR:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our friends and relatives for their love and support during our time of loss.

All of you have made our grief a little more bearable. Thank you.
TOM and MISHAWN BELL

DEAR EDITOR:

The Lincoln County Democratic Women (LCDW), aka Jacks and Jennies, wish to thank everyone who participated in making the first Annual Aspenfest Ball such a success. This non-partisan affair was a perfect end to one of the best Aspen Festivals that has ever been held in our beautiful county.

Your comments, encouragement and requests for reservations to next year's ball are so appreciated.

Special thanks are in order to The Aspen Tree, Aspen Interiors, Bank of Ruidoso, Elliott Upholstery, First National Bank of Lincoln County, Harrison's Flowers, Jarratt Construction, Ruidoso State Bank, Ruidoso Flower Shop for your contributions and support.

To Tim Wishard, thanks for your expertise in designing our special annual Aspen Festival rings. They are unique treasures to be anticipated year after year.

We wish to thank all the service clubs and organizations, and especially the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce for advertising this new event. We'd also like to thank the Lincoln County News, The Roswell Record and The Ruidoso News for getting the word out.

The Chamber did an outstanding job on this year's parade and street festival, and the LCDW was honored to have a part in this great day. Winning second place on our float, Yesterday, was a highlight of the day.

Thanks again! We look forward to working with you in the days to come.

Editorial

Being an elected official means being a representative of the people, the voice of a constituency. And knowing what the people want is dependent on listening to what the people say.

This was not the case during Tuesday's meeting of the Ruidoso Village Council.

Audience member J.D. James presented the council with a prepared statement that questioned the payment of engineers Atkins-Landfair for the recent water find.

The engineers were paid about $1 million in taxpayers' money. James posed some interesting questions about the quantity of water that was found.

James asked the village council to look into whether we got what they paid for with taxpayers' money.

Their response? The council did not respond. They didn't offer answers to the questions, if they knew any, and did not act to get the questions answered, if they didn't know the answers.

When no response was forthcoming, one councillor, Bill Karn, promised James a response in the future. The majority offered no answers.

James, and the rest of us, at the very least deserve the courtesy of a reply.—DJP

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—They finally got around to it, but they're very late; the bosses of our state Legislature have named a committee to take a look at revenues.

That means five and half months when this could have been going on have been shot, apparently because those at the top in Senate and House had some secret plan they wanted to put into effect. It would appear they named their two overly large study groups to take a look at education in the belief they would have completed their work by this time. They haven't, and it is by no means clear when they will.

Thus the revenue committee, which was supposed to come into existence now and look at needs of next year with educational recommendations in mind, has nothing of that kind to consider. Instead, in the remaining three months before the Legislature assembles (which takes place on January 21), this new group has been ordered to hold five meetings and pack in a full year's work.

As for that unofficial committee that has been meeting for this purpose, that, according to Les Houston, should be paid no heed because it operated "outside the rules."

In this instance, that last phrase means "without pledging obedience to Senator Houston."

Shortly after this space noted that the number of prisoners in our corrections system taking college courses amounted to a slim handful, the education division of the Corrections Department rushed out a news release to tell us how hotsytotsy everything is there.

Almost every inmate in the penitentiary system took at least one course last year, the release says—leading some cynics to suggest that there must be some sort of orientation course required of every convict.

The story goes on to make the place sound like a veritable Cambridge, but it neglects one set of statistics. Nowhere does it say how many students there are in the college courses, which is the topic of the original discussion.

What do you want to bet the number there turns out to be a very small one?

When the Senate of the United States is considering such subjects as raising the debt ceiling of the nation, any kind of amendments at all may be introduced; it is not necessary that they have any relationship to the topic under consideration.

That's wild, but it's according to regulations governing such matters in that deliberative body.

Hence the Rudman-Grumm amendment.

If that's adopted, it certainly will be historic. Essentially what it says is that the nation has five years to end deficit spending and bring its budget into balance—a consummation devoutly to be wished. What's most unusual about the plan, however, is that it states that if Congressional budgets do not achieve the requisite cuts in spending in each of the forthcoming five years, the executive branch is empowered to do so.

That would mean that if the Congress voted too many bucks, the President could pick and choose among what is authorized and spend no more than is required to bring the budget under control.

Doesn't that suggest that some of those on Capitol Hill are finally getting as worried as they should be on this subject of spending more than we take in?

They're going to lock President Reagan into the White House so they can prepare him for his trip to Geneva, where he meets with Premier Gorbachev.

That's a good thing. It keeps him from going on and on with his repetitious speech about the glories of his tax-reform proposals. That notion has not set the hearts of the nation on fire, principally because most of us, having had a look at it, know what help it would give us does not amount to a hill of beans.

Perhaps while they have the President studying his fact books, somebody can convince him that being "revenue neutral" isn't going to solve the nation's problems. Only a tax raise (ugh!) is likely to accomplish that.

September building permits are mostly remodel projects

FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

More than half the building permits issued last month in Ruidoso were for remodeling projects, continuing a six-month trend toward fixing up rather than constructing new single-family homes. Those 26 additions and alterations permits accounted for more than a fourth of the total dollar valuation on permits issued.

The Village of Ruidoso in September issued 42 permits for all categories with a valuation of $878,069, down from August's 36 permits with a valuation of $1,023,806. September 1984 saw 53 permits issued for all categories with more than twice the September 1985 valuation. The September 1984 total permit valuation was $2,478,221.

Year-to-date permits issued in all categories number 485 with a valuation of $17,651,352, showing a sharp dollar decline from the year-to-date total at the same time last year, which numbered 459 with a valuation of $34,965,786.

Five permits with a combined valuation of $368,658 were issued in September for new single family dwellings (SFD), down slightly from last month's seven SFD permits with a valuation of $569,672, but down sharply from September 1984, when 17 SFD permits were issued with a valuation of $1,132,066.

The 26 permits for alterations and additions issued last month had a valuation of $272,753, close to the August figure of 24 permits with a valuation of $270,442. Last year in September, 23 alteration permits were issued, but the valuation was just $194,958.

Two commercial building permits were issued in September with a valuation of $79,620, down slightly from last month and down significantly from last year. September 1984.

During September 1984, the village issued seven permits for commercial additions and alterations with a valuation of $169,668.

One grading permit was issued in September with a valuation of $5,000. August saw four grading permits issued at $1,329. Also in August one foundation permit was issued with a valuation of $3,432, but none were issued in that category in September.
