Firefighting

Colly Parks (left, foreground) and Fred Failla (right foreground) operate a Ruidoso Fire Department pumper at a Friday morning fire at the Juan Ramos home on Ponderosa Drive in Brady Canyon. Jesse Reynolds, assistant fire chief, said Monday that the fire apparently began in the chimney of the structure which consists of a trailer with a wood frame addition. Seven units and 16 firefighters fought the blaze for about an hour, said Reynolds. A second Friday fire, at 9:36 p.m. at Lookout Estates, caused fire damage to two units and water damage to two other units, said Parks. He said 20 firefighters and three units spent an hour containing the fire and several more hours on the scene for cleanup. The cause of the fire remains unknown, and Parks said an estimate on damage was unavailable Monday morning.

Groups set meetings

The Ruidoso Village Council will have a special meeting at 4 p.m. Tuesday, December 3, in council chambers of Village Hall. The meeting was called by Mayor George White for the governing body to review options for the disposition of the current site of the Ruidoso Municipal Airport.

The Ruidoso Board of Appeals, Abatement of Dangerous Buildings, will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday, December 4, in council chambers of

Village Hall

The Adult Recreation Committee of the Village of Ruidoso will meet at 11 a.m. Thursday, December 5, in the Adult Recreation Center behind the Ruidoso Public Library. Members should bring a sack lunch to the meeting.

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission will meet at 3 p.m. today (Monday), December 2, in council chambers of Village Hall.

1:30 p.m., Saturday, December 7, at New Mexico State University's football stadium in Las Cruces.

That time, date and location will be on the minds of most of Ruidoso's residents this week.

The reason? Simply that the state high school varsity football championship game between Ruidoso and Silver City will be played then. The contest will pit District 3-AAA rivals and co-champions.

The Warriors gained the state finals by defeating host Aztec, 35-13, Saturday. Silver City had to struggle in beating Grants, 7-0, Friday night to gain a finals berth.

"We started off a little sluggish but came on pretty good," said Warrior head coach Cooper Henderson in a happy lockerroom after the Aztec game.

"We'll have to play better to beat Silver City, though."

But the Warriors had plenty of weapons to handle Aztec, starting with senior quarterback Russell Easter, a tough offensive line and a defense that blanketed the Tigers until the last quarter.

Easter merely ran for 183 yards and four touchdowns, and accounted for the other Warrior score with a 23-yard touchdown pass to split end Brian Davis.

"I'd have to say it was one of Russell's better games," Henderson remarked.

Many people were comparing Aztec quarterback Scott Steffan with Easter before the game since both quarterbacks like to run with the ball.

"Russell responded well to that," Henderson said. "There's no comparison. He's a much better quarterback."

Easter opened the game's scoring with 7-48 remaining in the first period.

He broke through a hole and rambled 50 yards for the score. On the previous play, Easter had connected with tailback Michael Williamson for a 26-yard pass out of the backfield.

Garret Henson kicked the extra point and Ruidoso led, 7-0, the first time in five games the Warriors had scored in the first period.

Ruidoso apparently scored again late in the opening quarter on a

Ruidoso quarterback Russell Easter (17) runs in for the Warriors' second touchdown in the state semi-final football game against pass from Easter to Davis. However, the play was called back because of a holding penalty.

Three plays later, Henson's field goal attempt fell short.

The rest of the first half was a defensive struggle until Ruidoso's Bubba Miller intercepted a pass at the Warrior 30 and returned it to the 35.

Easter then completed a 10-yard pass to tight end Bobby Dickinson that put the ball at the 30.

After an incomplete pass, Easter raced 16 yards up the middle for a first down at the 34.

Jeff Willingham came in at quarterback for one play and threw a screen pass to Easter that netted 19 yards to the 15.

Easter then connected with Davis for an eight-yard gain to the seven. On the next play, the senior quarterback cut inside for seven yards and the touchdown. Henson's extra point kick made it 14-0 at halftime.

Ruidoso broke the game wide open in the third quarter.

Three plays into the second half, Easter ran 52 yards for a touchdown. Henson's kick was wide but the Warriors had a 20-0 lead.

After Aztec got two first downs on the next series, the Warrior defense stiffened and the Tigers had to punt.

Ruidoso then drove 60 yards in seven plays for another touchdown.

Easter gained 13 yards on a keeper and connected with Dickinson over the middle for 13 more yards to put the ball at the Tiger 36.

Four running plays brought the ball to the 21.

On the next play, Easter found Davis at the left sidelines. The 62

junior eluded an Aztec player, cut to his right and ran into the end zone.

Ruidoso went for the two point conversion and succeeded. Willingham took the center snap and pitched the ball to Tobe Rice, who ran into the end zone.

Aztec then scored its first touchdown, driving 66 yards in 12 plays. Simon Rudder banged over from the two for the touchdown. The conversion was good and Ruidoso led, 28-7.

The Warriors came right back, driving 68 yards in six plays for their final touchdown.

Again Easter scored the touchdown. From the 13, he broke down the left sidelines for the score. Henson's kick was good and Ruidoso led, 35-7.

Aztec scored its final touchdown on a 6-yard pass from Steffan to Scott Goumarac with less than two minutes left in the contest.

Ruidoso dominated the statistics, rolling up 375 yards total offense to 247 for Aztec. Much of the Tigers' yardage came in the final period with the outcome of the game no longer in doubt.

Besides running for 183 yards, Easter completed seven of 16 passes for 108 yards.

Willingham was the second leading Warrior rusher with 35 yards in seven carries.

Both Miller and Willingham intercepted passes. Willingham has nine interceptions and Miller five on the season.

"We're coming together," Willingham said. "We're getting ready and we're going to get Silver City."

So the stage is set. Ruidoso is 11-1 on the season and Silver City is 12-1. The Colts handed the Warriors their only defeat of the season, 17-13, last month.

NOTES-In the AAAA-division semi-finals, Alamogordo crushed Highland, 28-6, and defending champion Clovis topped Cibola 31-21. Annas topped Jal, 33-14 for the AA-division crown.

Rotary Club leads 'Y' spruce-up project

Ruidoso Rotarians are spearheading a project to beautify the area around the traffic "Y" at the entrance to the village. A huge white fir, now decorated for Christmas, is the first step in that project.

Steve Sams, chairman of the environmental committee of the local chapter of Rotary International, said the group decided that present conditions around a big "Welcome to Ruidoso" sign at the "Y" are "portraying an image less than what we represent."

"I don't believe we can sustain the village cutting down a big pretty tree every year," said Sams, who is also district ranger for the Smokey Bear District. That's one reason the project implementers began by planting a "Christmas" tree.

Sams has already identified a variety of trees on national forest land that are suitable for replanting. Aspen, Rocky Mountain red maple, Ponderosa pine, Southwest white pine, gambel oak and Colorado blue spruce are some of the kinds of trees to be included in the "Y" facelift, said Sams.

"What I need now is money," he said. Transplanting the huge trees is expensive, and is only possible with very large equipment, such as a machine owned by Ray Heid, explained Sams. He added that Heid, who planted the Christmas tree, is offering Rotary a "substantial discount."

Rotarians are challenging all local clubs and organizations to have a part in the project. Sams, who can be contacted at 257-4095, will accept cash donations from anybody interested in "sprucing up" the "Y."

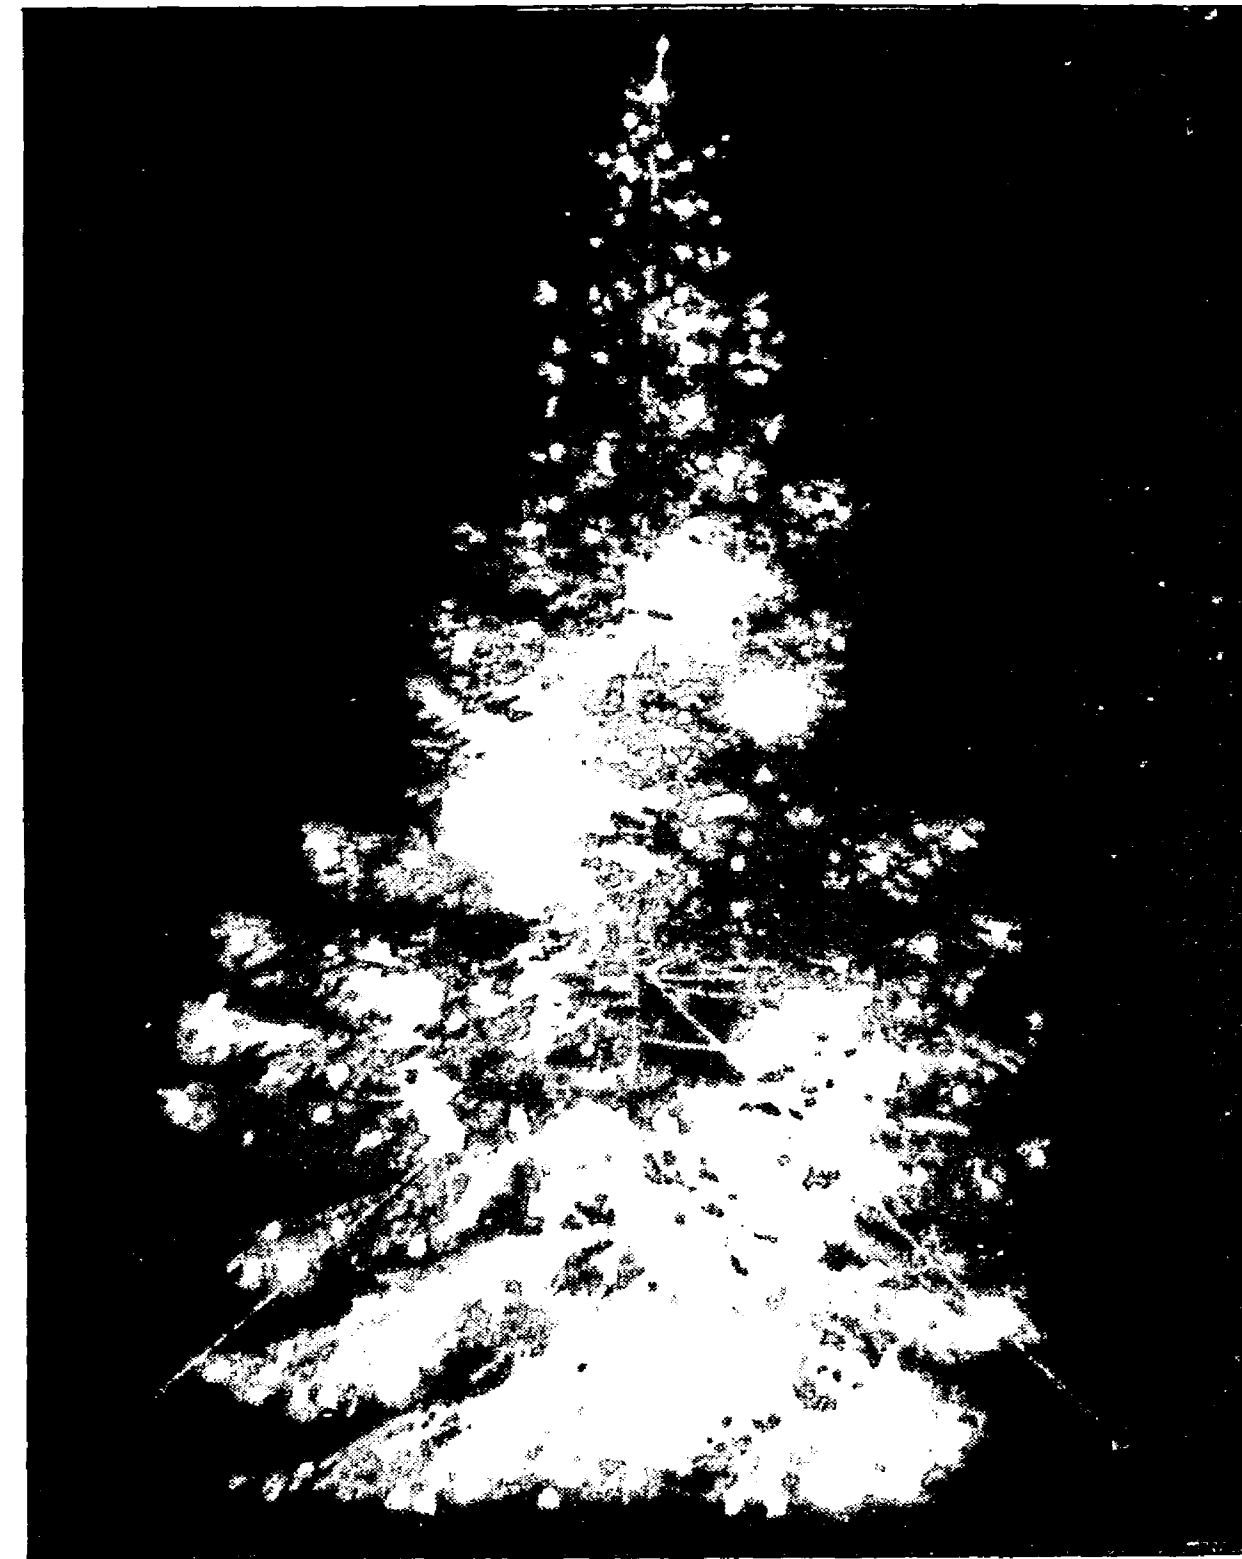

He said other areas of the village may get the same treatment after this project is complete.

Although past transplants of large trees haven't always been successful, Sams said he has reason to believe trees moved with Heid's equipment will survive if they receive the proper care.

Since the big machine leaves so much dirt around the root during the moving process, Sams said trees don't suffer as much from shock as in old transplant processes. Heid said the ball of dirt around the Christmas tree at the "Y" weighed 3,200 pounds.

"The critical thing is care," said Sams. He said the Village of Ruidoso, through the Parks and Recreation Department, has agreed to provide proper care and maintenance for the trees.

"We're trying to really make this a success," said Sams, who urges citizens to adopt the "Y" tree-planting and make it a community project.

Lighting up the "Y" at the entrance to Ruidoso is a huge white fir tree. The giant tree, the first of many to be planted by Ruidoso Rotarians as part of a community beautification project, will be decorated each December and will serve as the village Christmas tree. Coordinators will accept donations toward the "Y" beautification project.

Blood drive is scheduled

Organizers of a community blood drive scheduled from 8:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. Wednesday, December 4, at Ruidoso High School (RHS), hope to have the best participation ever.

Judy Radtke, RHS librarian, is working with students to recruit enough donors to keep technicians from United Blood Services in El Paso busy all day. Drive organizers want to meet local blood needs through local participation.

It was learned recently that local donations are far behind supplies used at Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital this year, and Radtke hopes to remedy that situation through a successful blood drive.

United Blood Services (UBS) representatives, in Ruidoso recently for an awards luncheon, revealed that misunderstanding about AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) has had a negative impact on national and local blood supplies.

A pamphlet provided by UBS explains that there is no danger of contracting AIDS from donating blood since only sterile equipment and disposable needles are used.

UBS, as well as all blood banks, performs a test for the antibody to the HTLV-III virus that is associated with AIDS on all blood donated. Although the presence of the antibody is rare, and does not indicate that the blood donor has the disease, units that are positive are destroyed and the names of those donors are placed in a confidential "deferral directory."

The donor is notified by mail the he or she "has had an unexpected test result," according to UBS. The same letter is used to notify donors of positive test results for hepatitis or syphilis.

RHS students will be contacting previous donors, and also identifying new donors for Wednesday's blood drive.

Take time this week to return any overdue library books you may have.

It's a simple task—locate the books, gather them up, get in the car, drive to the library and drop them off. You don't even have to go inside the library and risk embarrassment, you can drop them anonymously in the outside drop-off box.

But be sure to do it this week. Ruidoso Public Library librarian Mary Lou Gooch reports that if all overdue books were returned, the number of books at the library would nearly double. That excess of overdue books, coupled with a reduction in the library's book-buying budget this year, makes the prospect of finding the book someone might want at the library a little dim.

A simple solution exists to the problem, though, and it's all up to you.

Do yourself and other readers a favor. Collect any overdue books you may have and return them this week to the Ruidoso Public Library.—DJP

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—It looks like Bill Sego agrees with Bruce King's message about the New Mexico governorship. The message is short and sweet, and it goes like this: "The way things are now, who wants it?"

That, at least, is what a lot of us think King was saying when he let it know he doesn't plan to run next year. All those other items that got specified at that teary-eyed gathering at which Bruce spoke out were so much gilding on the lily. The heart of the message was the words in quotes above.

The same spirit runs through most of the remarks on the same topic Sego made recently, though he had his say in conversation with a single interviewer. For instance, the man who filed this story quotes Sego as observing that "the next governor may inherit an ugly financial situation."

"May," did he say? Why not try "certainly will?"

And the news story goes on: "He (that is, Sego) said he is doubtful that the 1986 Legislature will do much to improve the state's revenue forecast."

True, and you can add this: By the time 1986 rolls around that severe shortage of money with which to run the state won't be a forecast; it will be a stark reality.

Finally, deep in the story, we get a clear, direct quote. "Sego warned that, 'State finances are not good and it's not going to be a fun time up there (at the Capitol) in the next four years.'"

"Not a fun time"—what a quaint way to put it.

But it does make one think. If Bruce King, who appeared to be the front-runner on the Democratic side, took himself out of the race, only to be followed by Bill Sego, the man with the "best-known" rating on the Republican side, shouldn't some of those other would-be governors be looking at their hole cards?

Regardless of the details of that plan the Anaya folks eventually put forward for pruning the size of government, some agencies and programs are going to have to go. Clashes can be expected, however, when the process of picking those to be done away with gets into high gear.

You can tell that from the ones already being targeted.

The Anaya folks have let slip the fact that they are considering the Energy Research and Development Institute as a candidate for extinction. That thought is going to displease some lawmakers, who feel we need more, not less, of that very sort of activity.

Some conservative legislators, on the other hand, will take advantage of this opportunity to try to abolish the Commission on the Status of Women and maybe the whole Human Rights Commission as well. Since those are not the kinds of operations the Governor will want to see trimmed, he will be forced to mount a campaign to save them.

Whichever side the war starts on, you can count on its developing into an artillery battle.

Is there any news medium that hasn't done a major story or series on the topic of "no pass, no play" regulations?

From the attention the subject gets, you'd think it was one of the most significant educational developments of the decade. It isn't, it simply generates more emotion than most such proposed changes.

And that latter fact is itself something of a condemnation. When extra-curricular matters assume more importance than curricular ones, as the great stir on this point suggests they have to many, it can only be because some of us have gotten priorities badly mixed.

A brief note, in an effort toward thinking about things clearly: When New Mexico sells its stock in companies operating in South Africa, somebody else buys those stocks; and neither the firms nor South Africa suffer in even the slightest fashion.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

Every year millions of dollars flow into cities like El Paso and Albuquerque during the holiday season. All these dollars come from the citizens of towns just like Ruidoso and it's all going to Big City Merchants rather than the local businesses. I would like to congratulate Dan Kelley for his idea and efforts in getting the Get S.M.A.R.T. campaign off the drawing board and hopefully into the minds of the Ruidoso residents.

The Shop Merchants Around Ruidoso Today is a good one and one we should all take to heart. I also would, as a local businessman, like to thank The Ruidoso News for helping get the word out.

This Christmas could be the last

Christmas for some local shops if we all don't do business with them. And business failures hurt everyone:

The Banker, the Realtor, the Attorney and the Physician.

I think it is worth noting that the "WISE MEN" traveled afar bearing gifts from their native lands rather than returning from their journey with camels burdened down.

In the (3) three years my wife and I have had the privilege of living in Ruidoso we have made every effort to shop locally and we find it more fun to shop with our friends and neighbors.

Thank you,

"Kee, kee, Da?"

Sound like meaningless babble or the barbaric tongue of some South Pacific islander? Well, close, but no Kewpie doll.

Actually, the opening quote in this column comes from none other than our daughter, Renee.

If you just said, "Huh! I was right, it does sound like meaningless babble,"—sorry, you are still wrong. Renee does not babble meaninglessly, she speaks a highly advanced form of language—"babyglish"—as do all little kids.

The opening quote, for example, illustrates the beautiful simplicity of babyglish. The sentence translates in English as "Hey Dad, I want a vanilla wafer cookie, right now."

Isn't that amazing?!

But wait, there's more.

Renee has a whole vocabulary of babyglish, possibly the most amazing word of which is "poe-poe."

This word has many uses, all of which mean some sort of dog. Whether it be a Saint Bernard, German Shepherd or tiny poodle, poe-poe covers it all. (By some strange coincidence, poe-poe is also the name of Renee's grandmother's dog, Poe-Poe, a friendly, stoutish chihuahua mix. Renee calls Poe-Poe "poe-poe," too.)

"Woof-woof" is a babyglish term that refers to any poe-poe that is barking.

Science tells us that babyglish is known by all babies, regardless of the language of their parents. As they grow up, babyglish gives way to whatever "higher form" of communication is preferred by the baby's parents, like English.

But which is the real "higher form" of communication?

The beauty of babyglish is its efficiency. In journalism school, they made us believe that E.B. White was almost like God because he said, "Omit needless words."

"Read Hemingway," our professors told us, pointing out his detailed descriptions through use of very few words. More communication with fewer words is a rule journalists live by.

So to a journalist, babyglish is a marvelous example of communication without wordiness.

For example, "Shoosh?" can mean, "Are these my shoes?" "Whose shoes are these?" "Is it time to put my shoes on?" or "My shoes became unlaced, will you tie them?" Imagine, all those meanings in one little word!

Other efficient words include "Lie" (lights of all sorts, including Sylvania Blue-Dot), "gall-gon" (anything that is no longer there—"all gone") and "zhacks" (socks, see "shoosh" for related uses).

Another amazing babyglish term is "uh-oh."

"Sure," you may be saying to

On the Village Beat

with
Darrell Pehr

Renee with Da's shoosh.

yourself, "I know that phrase, it's English, huh!"

Yes, that's true, but "uh-oh" illustrates another amazing facet of babyglish. Babies use words we use for their own purposes.

For example, "uh-oh" to an English speaker means about the same thing as "whoops."

But in babyglish, uh-oh can mean "I dropped my jelly sandwich on Mom's shoosh." "The car just crashed into a tree" or "The poe-poe just did you-know-what on the carpet."

Hand motions are very important in babyglish. "Zat?" is always supplemented by a pointing finger, to indicate of what is being asked "what's that?"

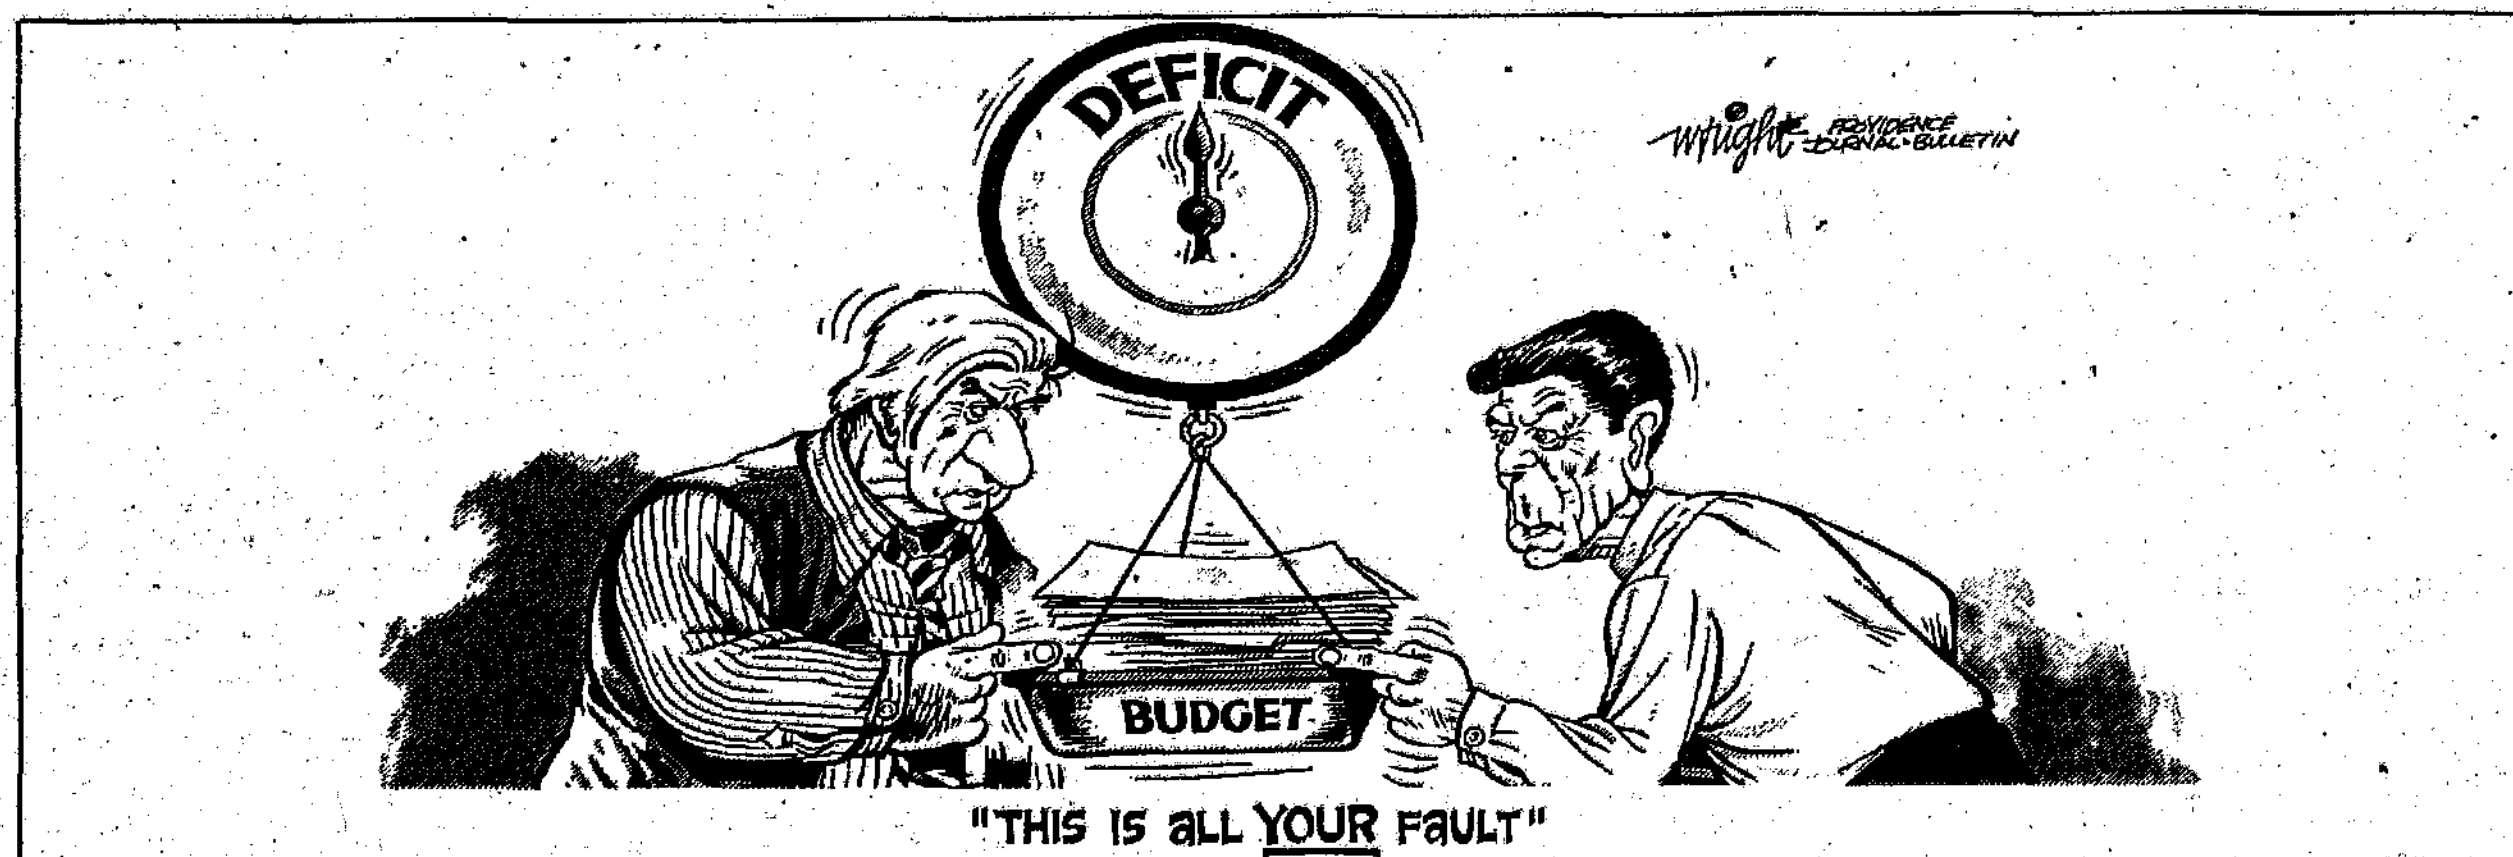

"Nooooooo," meaning "There's no way in the world I want to go to bed now," or "I've had enough lima beans, thank you" is always accompanied by a vigorous side-to-side shaking of the head.

"Uh-oh," by the way, is emphasized by placing either hand over the mouth.

Renee and her friends have a whole list of other similar words and phrases, many of which we haven't yet been able to figure out. But we're trying to be open-minded about it and are trying to learn Renee's language while she learns ours. That's fair, right?

Well, it's late, and time to end this column. I guess I'll put on my shoosh and zhacks and go walk the poe-poe before he uh-oh's on the carpet.

Did I say that right, Renee?

Ruidoso High School's varsity basketball team opened the season on a losing note Saturday night, falling to visiting Cloudcroft, 49-36.

The Warrior junior varsity also lost, dropping a 38-34 contest.

Cloudcroft's quick guards proved to be too much for the Warriors. The Bears broke out to an 11-8 first-quarter lead and gradually increased their margin from there.

Cloudcroft led 23-16 at halftime and 38-29 at the end of the third quarter.

Center Katherine Sanchez led the Warriors with 23 points and 22 rebounds. She had 15 rebounds in the first half.

"Our inside game was tough but we have to work on our outside shooting," said Ruidoso head coach James Sanchez. "Cloudcroft had those quick little guards and they shot well from the outside."

Zeba Morris added five points for the Warriors. Other Ruidoso players who scored included Ber-dine Smith with four, Amanda Samuels with two and Lynell Scott with two.

Scott also grabbed five rebounds to help Sanchez on the boards.

Ruidoso's junior varsity led, 20-19, at halftime. However, the visitors outscored the Warriors, 13-5, in the third period to turn the game around.

The Warriors outscored Cloudcroft, 9-6, in the final period, but could not catch up.

Sonja Urdiales led the Warriors with nine points. Lori Walker added seven points, Jennifer Jimenez scored six, Stacy Gear had five and Ellen Graham scored four.

Ruidoso's varsity will compete in the Goddard Invitational Thursday through Saturday in Roswell.

The Warriors will open against Roswell High School at 8 Thursday night.

If Ruidoso wins, the Warriors will play Friday against the winner of the Silver City-Goddard game. If Ruidoso loses, the Warrior will tangle Friday with the loser of the Silver-Goddard game.

"It should be a tough tournament," Sanchez said. "All the schools are AAA and AAAA schools. There is one El Paso (Texas) school, Jefferson."

Banquet set for Warriors

A "Dinner for the Warriors" banquet will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, December 5, at Cree Meadows Country Club.

The public is invited. There will be a $5 fee per person. All proceeds will go toward paying expenses for the football playoffs.

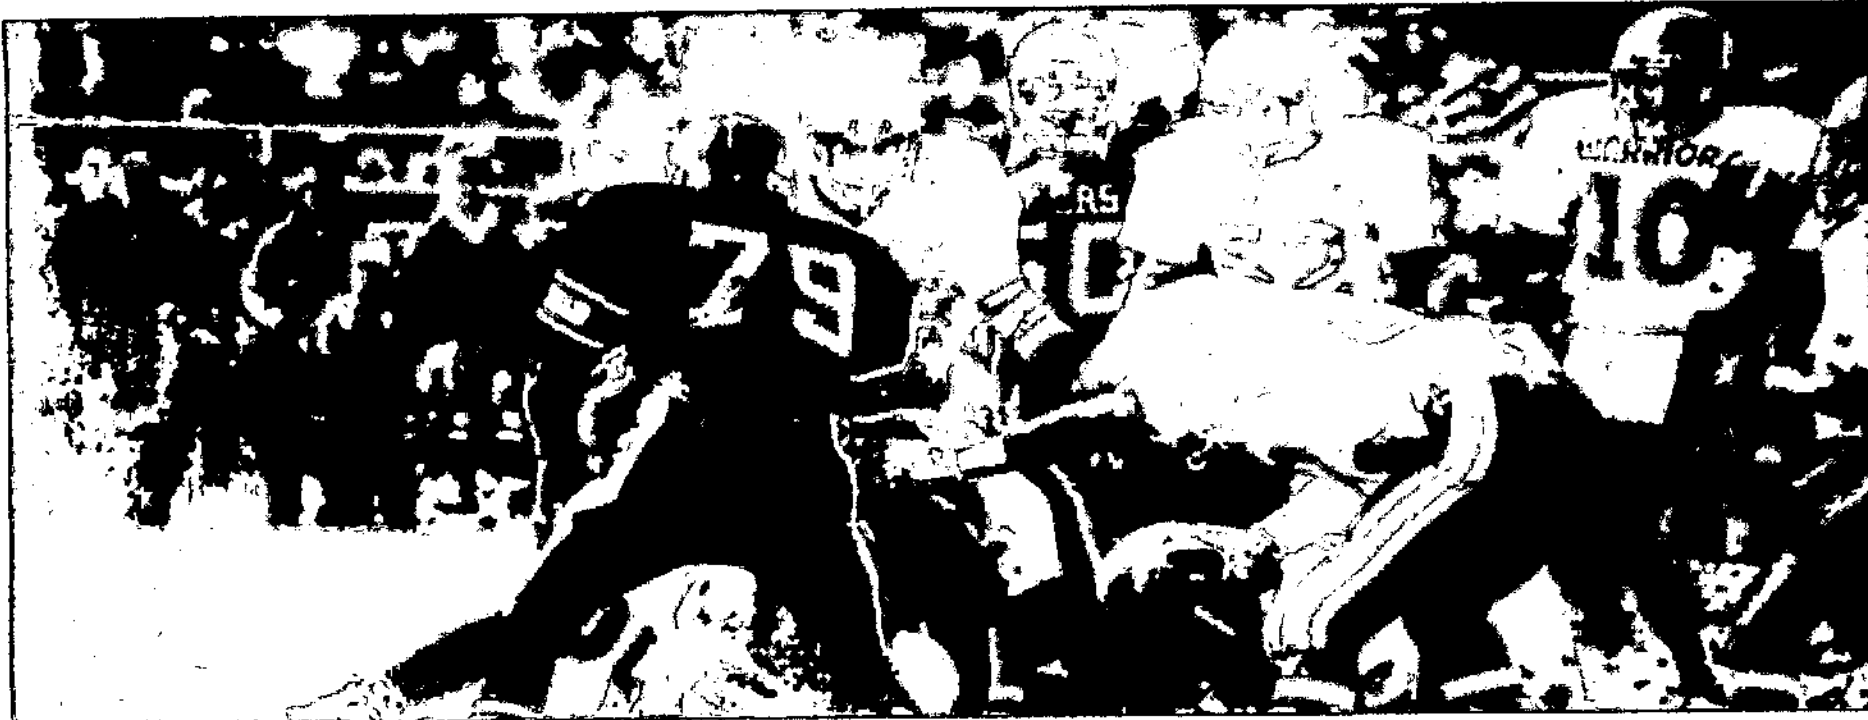

Items will be auctioned off after the banquet.

FROM PINSTripES TO PRISON STRIPES

Joe got caught stealing cable TV and almost traded in his executive suit for a not-so-executive suite—at the county jail.

Cable theft is a crime punishable by a stiff fine, imprisonment, or both. And cable thieves can get caught, because improved technology makes it easier to identify homes that are illegally receiving basic and premium services.

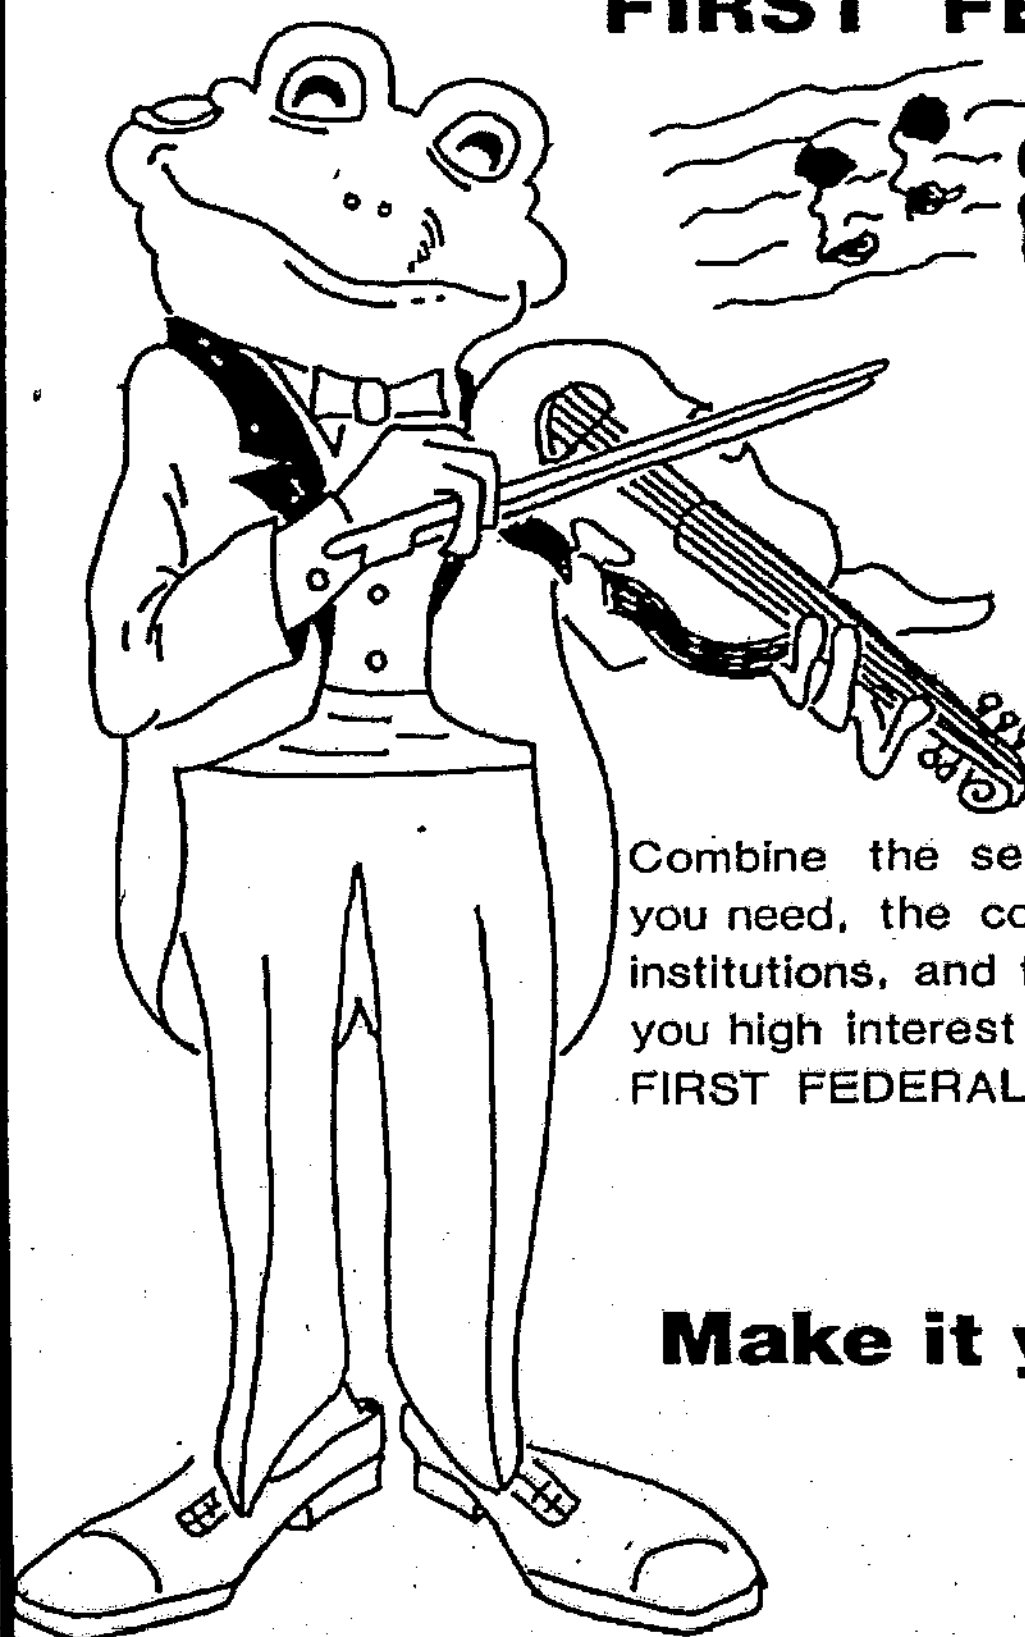

We don't want anyone to go to jail for stealing cable TV, so we're offering a painless solution. Just report improper hookups by giving us call at 257-5121 or come by our office at 117 Wingfield Avenue. Until December 16 there will be NO QUESTIONS ASKED. Act now. Our "amnesty" offer runs for a short time only. A prison sentence could run a whole lot longer.

Terry Strickland (left) and another volunteer battle the blaze that demolished the Sammy Castillo home in Capitan Saturday. Volunteer crews took more than two hours to extinguish the fire, which was reported at 3:15 p.m.

Capitan Corner

by Doris Cherry

Watching the Capitan third-graders perform a Thanksgiving skit was a treat—the kids were cute and did their jobs quite well. But something else was there. Many parents came to see their children, to encourage them. The family is hardly endangered it seems, when parents care enough to watch their youngsters.

Thanksgiving—strictly an American tradition, a time for reflection on the many freedoms we enjoy in this country, such as the freedom of speech. Of all our freedoms, this is the most precious, not only to persons such as myself involved in the business of reporting, but to the average citizen. Would we rather have such restrictions that one could not even write a poem or produce a play that was not as the "government" approved? I think not, after all, this is the United States of America, the great U.S.A. We were all raised to accept certain freedoms as our basic rights. The right to own and bear firearms is another freedom most of us accept, especially in this southwestern state of ours. Hunting is usually associated with the freedom to own firearms.

Deer hunting season for 1985 ended on Thanksgiving eve. Some hunters took home a buck to serve on the Thanksgiving table, others left empty-handed.

Hunting season gives an added boost to the small economy of Capitan—the grocery store was busier than usual, especially on weekends, and the local saloons became warm retreats for tired out-of-town hunters. The motel and cafe even were affected.

With hunting season unfortunately comes the trash and road damage associated with a large number of campers and travelers on the back roads of Lincoln County. The county has vast areas of back country, some of it public lands and much of it privately owned. Private owners sometimes complain about damage to roads and sometimes to buildings and livestock.

Those few hunters who are responsible for damage give the rest a bad reputation. Hunting should be a challenge, not an off-road driving excursion, drunken party or excuse to damage roads and property. Someone has to clean up camps, repair roads and buildings—if the hunters don't do it, then the job is left to the property owner or public land officials.

Lincoln County was lucky in some ways this year. Three hunts this November brought large numbers of people into the county and the weather cooperated and remained dry. Though some hunters prefer the snow for tracking and preservation of the game once killed, the muddy roads and countryside, wet from the melt-off, are sometimes damaged beyond repair. Many of the forest roads are in bad repair anyway and increased traffic creates more problems.

Hopefully more hunters will become aware of this. Many already are aware of the problems associated with hunting season. Hunter safety courses are mandatory for young hunters. The courses teach responsibility with the firearm and for the hunter in general.

Owning a firearm is a freedom just as are the freedom of speech and the right to vote. All these freedoms we often take for granted. There are many reasons to be thankful this Thanksgiving, even small ones such as children giving thanks for all that we have, and a brief dry season that ended with snow on the mountain when most needed and wanted.

Thank you snow and Capitan and all the rest of Lincoln County, we have much to be thankful for as we are part of this great country, the U.S.A.

Tigers lose three basketball games

The Capitan Tiger junior varsity boys basketball team began their season with three games in the Alamogordo Junior Varsity Invitational last week.

The Tigers lost to the Alamogordo sophomore team and to the Alamogordo junior varsity team Tuesday in Alamogordo. The Tigers returned to the invitational

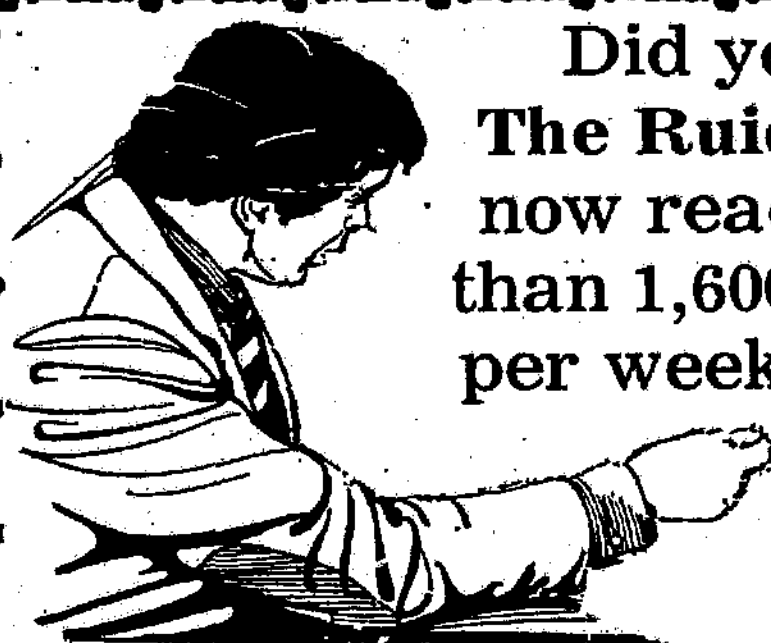

Wednesday to lose a close one to the Las Cruces Mayfield junior varsity team, 49-45. Junior Varsity Coach Mark Daugherty said that he thought the team did well considering all the schools that played are rated AAAA.

Daugherty said the team should play better against A-division schools. The first A-division game is at 4 p.m. Friday, December 6, against Carrizozo on the Grizzlies' home court.

The JV team will play Magdalena at 4 p.m. Saturday, December 7, at Cummins Gym.

Daugherty noted John Parker and Robbie Runnels for their outstanding play in the game against Mayfield.

Chamber board learns of boxing match

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Staff Writer

Ruidoso will be the location of a national boxing competition this spring, Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce executive director John Jeffers told the chamber board Wednesday that Cliff "Magic" Thomas plans to have a six-bout card in Ruidoso during early May.

Jeffers said that the specific location has not yet been chosen and that Thomas requires a seating capacity of 1,000. ESPN will broadcast the event.

At Wednesday's board meeting, Joseph Bledron, executive director of the New Mexico State University Aggie Booster Club, asked the chamber to involve Ruidoso in Aggie events and possibly have some events here. Jeffers suggested having some sports clinics and other events during the weekend of the boxing match, creating an all-sports weekend.

The board discussed the recent mini-membership drive in which 23 businesses were added to the chamber roster. During mid-December, board members will contact delinquent members so that they can be listed in the new brochures to be reprinted in January. Chamber president Paul Crown emphasized that businesses must pay their dues by December 31 to be included in the brochure.

In other promotional business, Bill Hirschfeld, vice president of advertising and promotion, reported that the chamber has had good response to the current contest advertising campaign. The advertising committee will choose the winners of the "Picture Yourself in Ruidoso" contest on Monday afternoon.

The reception for the winning family, planned by the Ruidoso Valley Greeters, has been postponed until January so that Governor Toney Anaya may accompany the Ruidoso delegation to Austin, Texas, said Jeffers. At the reception, the winning family will be presented to Texas officials and to the press.

Jeffers also told the board that chamber member Nancy Radziewicz is planning promotional trips to Austin, and San Antonio, Texas, in which she will schedule receptions for ski clubs, travel editors and ski shops to promote Ruidoso's winter season.

In other business, the board: —Discussed equipment and repairs needed in the chamber office.

—Heard Jeffers announce that the greeters will have a Christmas Charity Ball on Saturday, December 14, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. Tickets are $35 for couples and $25 for singles. Jeffers said part of the money earned will be used for the promotional trip to Austin.

—Discussed the addition of categories to the Christmas commercial lighting contest. Interested businesses should contact the chamber to enter the contest.

The board will have its December meeting at noon Wednesday, December 18, at the chamber office.

The Dreamer

by Dan Storm

We Enter December,
the Sacred Month

On Saturday, November thirty, the West Wind began blowing down the Valley early in the morning, and by mid-morning it was all silvery and white and gray from one mountainside to the other. Soon the upper end of the vale was filled like a bowl to the brim with the approaching low-traveling clouds, and the wind in advance carried to you the fresh moist breath of the approaching flurry, laden with the evergreens' aroma along the way.

You smell an airy touch of Winter now, and right away the first cool drops come flying in, shining in their flight, gently arriving on your cheek—gladsome little pilgrims of the air with their fond message, still more welcome each year.

Late Autumn and early Winter are mingled in hosts of wind-borne children of the late November clouds.

First to moisten the thirsty ground are the rain drops followed by the little half-frozen drops of half-ice, half-water called sleet. Here and there suddenly little flying bits of white catch your eye—among the slant-wise driving drops and you feel your heart give a little leap within you.

For the first snowflakes of the year are swirling, dancing, bouncing, darting in and out playfully amongst the rain and sleet, rejoicing to be back here with us in our hills.

All day the Fall and Winter gentle mountain storm came blowing down the way. And the snowflakes melted as they reached the ground with not a trace of their visit though they kept falling till the evening.

An hour after dark all the sky was clear and the world was glowing in the orange light of the almost full November harvest moon. And so the thankful month of November bid us a golden farewell for this time.

Today on December the first the world awakened to a pure blue sky all around the mountain horizon.

with the golden sun shining down upon a world of sparkling frost, and the mountain world was all silver and gold and melting frost jewels.

And so with early morning Christmas decorations on the evergreens, and a cap of silvery white on top of the mountain, December, the sacred month, arrived in all its glory.

Winter Visitors Moving In

This has been the first time in a long time, as well as I can remember, that the whole continent north of us is in the grip of record-breaking snow and cold—and still we are having really mild weather for this time of year. While in most years we have snow in the valleys in all of November and even in mid-October, here it is December first and new grass is growing in the meadows, and the dandelion and wild carrot or "crane bill" are blooming, reminding you of Spring.

And yet the little messengers of winter weather are flying in. New bands of snowbirds have arrived, heading straight for their feeding stations. And the little red and gray house finches have come in today, tame little fliers eating along with the Western bluebirds, snowbirds, and the handsome blue and silver scrub jay.

It is just dusk now, and I hear the robin red breasts down among the walnut and oak trees along the river, making their chirping calls to each other, settling down for the night.

All these birds are bringing us a message—especially the robin. When he appears there will be a change in the weather soon. And whatever the robin is trying to tell us—cold, wind or snow—we know that this will be the weather that Mother Earth needs for her children; and we will rejoice with them, throughout our beloved month of December.

LA VIÑA Wine Shop

Early in the seventeenth century, long before grape growing and wine making became established in California, missions along the Rio Grande River in New Mexico were making wine for use in their religious services. Travelers passing through this area in the mid 1800s were highly impressed by the quality of the wines being produced and spread the news throughout the southwest. In 1880, census figures showed New Mexico wineries were producing more than 900,000 gallons of wine from 3100 acres of vineyards and production was steadily increasing. Unfortunately the prohibition era forced the closing of these wineries, few of which ever reopened. La Vina winery follows in the age-old tradition of the New Mexico wineries—small, family-owned; making it ideal for the production of quality hand-made wines. Established in 1977, La Vina winery was built in an area where vineyards once flourished, the fertile and beautiful Mesilla Valley of the Rio Grande. It is here that La Vina produces wine to renew the old New Mexico traditions of quality and distinction. Vintners of Quality Wines from the Mesilla Valley

Council considers nuisance ordinance

"One man's junk is another man's treasure," remarked village attorney John Underwood Tuesday as he heard Paul Davis, village enforcement officer explain to the Ruidoso Village Council why he is recommending the adoption of a new nuisance ordinance.

Davis, in a workshop session preceding a regular council meeting, said the village now has two nuisance ordinances that are ambiguous and therefore unenforceable. He advocates repealing the two old regulations and adopting a streamlined, comprehensive ordinance.

Councillors questioned Davis about the problems of enforcing current regulations, and Underwood opined that the present ordinance could be contested.

Village Councillor Jerry Shaw suggested that a definition of junk might be needed in any municipal code.

"Junk to me and junk to you are two different things," noted Davis, who said his proposal "spells it (junk) out."

The proposal reviewed Tuesday by councillors states: "In the interest of the inhabitants of the municipality, it is necessary to prohibit the accumulation of junk, trash, and solid waste on property within the corporate limits of the municipality by declaring such accumulation a nuisance."

Littering, unsanitary premises, hazardous premises, accumulation of solid waste, and certain kinds of outdoor vehicle storage are declared to be a "public nuisance" by the proposed ordinance. They are also clearly defined and described.

"It is unlawful to commit public nuisance," states the proposed ordinance. The document gives the municipal code enforcement officer the right to issue a notice to a property owner on which a nuisance has been observed.

After receiving such a notice, the owner has from two to 30 days to "abate" the nuisance.

Village Councillor Victor Alonso recommended that the time allowed be set rather than variable so that everyone would be treated the same.

The proposed ordinance calls for a penalty of a fine of "not more than $300" or imprisonment for "a period of not more than 90 days" or both.

Underwood suggested that owners be notified by certified mail, and recommended allowing the possibility of an extension on the time allowed to correct the nuisance. He said some long-distance property owners might need additional time to abate the conditions.

Village Councillor Ray Dean Carpenter also recommended giving citizens the opportunity to remove items considered to be a public nuisance from the public view, rather than requiring that the items be removed.

Village Councillor Bill Karn voiced concern of situations when the ordinance could be unfairly used by feuding neighbors. He also suggested that many nuisances might be regulated through the Uniform Fire Code, and asked Underwood to discuss that with fire chief Virgil Reynolds.

Alonso asked that dumping of oil and grease be considered in the ordinance. He said he knew of instances where grease or oil were poured onto parking lots or public streets.

"I need to do a lot of work on the language," said Underwood, who was instructed to research several parts of the proposal. Before the council reviews the nuisance proposal again, Underwood will review provisions for proper notice, penalties and fines, extensions for proper cause and enclosure rather than disposal in some cases.

"If it's a nuisance ... it's harmful to public health," said Underwood.

Gymnasts compete in state competition

The Ruidoso Mountain Tops, competition gymnastics team, brought home eight individual awards from the State Class IV Gymnastics Meet in Alamogordo.

Ruidoso's five gymnasts were among 92 from throughout New Mexico who advanced to the state finals, but because of the small team size, the Mountain Tops were ineligible for team awards.

In spite of not being included in team rankings, individuals competed well and Terri Kennedy won third place as all-around gymnast in the 12-14 age category. Tricia Evans placed seventh for all-around gymnast in the 9-11 age group.

Kennedy won a ribbon for every event, placing eighth on the vault, fifth on bars, fifth on the beam and fourth for her floor routine. Evans won a second-place trophy on the bars.

Tara Candelaria placed eighth on the beam for 9- to 11-year-olds.

Rachel Garrett and Kristin Leslie also competed well, and coach Robyn Johnson said she was pleased with the efforts displayed by all five Mountain Tops. It was the first state meet for all five.

The state meeting is the final competition of the season for gymnasts, and the team topped off their season with an exhibition routine Tuesday which won first place in the Ruidoso High School Junior Class Talent Show.

The Mountain Tops contributed the $20 talent show prize to the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy.

Johnson said the current team members will advance to Class III in January, and will start working toward next year's competition. She said she has a talented group of young gymnasts in the program who may compete in Class IV next season.

Competition gymnasts are ranked from Classes IV through I, and then on to Elite- and Olympics-class gymnasts.
