Flood problems

The Carrizo Creek area has become a collection of washed-out bridges, uprooted trees and railroad tie-strewn creek banks due to flooding. Village officials will discuss the future of waterway cleanup efforts and construction of new bridges at a special council meeting at noon Friday.

Downs trustees take care of business

by TIM PALMER

The Ruidoso Downs board of trustees ran through a routine agenda in short order Monday night, then took a few minutes to discuss problems facing the village.

A request by Paul Vordermann to build a permanent structure for his Highway 70 business, The Port of Ruidoso Downs, was approved. Also approved was a rezoning request (from planned unit development to commercial) for property behind the municipal building, owned by trustee Jake Harris.

Harris plans to develop a trailer park on the property. His request, previously approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission, was approved unanimously by the trustees. Harris abstained from voting. Mayor J. C. Day expressed satisfaction with the state's recent decision to award the village a $145,000 Community Development Block Grant for street improvements. He noted that the grant was one of just two awarded the village in its history.

"I'm glad that we got what little we got," he said. The village had asked for $463,000. Day credited attorney Don Dutton, who accompanied him to Santa Fe, for helping obtain the grant.

Trustee Jacquelyn Branum reported on concerns of residents in the River Park area. They included flooding of yards and trash being disturbed by at least one dog.

The board discussed the possibility of acquiring dumpsters to place around the village.

Trustee Conrad Buchanan voiced the need for engineering services in designing flood repair work in the village. Village clerk Wilma Webb said Wednesday that village officials learned Wednesday morning that through a "grant in lieu," emergency flood repair funds could be used for engineering.

In other business, trustees: —Approved the resignation of Wilma Sandoval and the hiring of Sharon Payne, bookkeeper, and J. D. Knops, enforcement officer.

—Approved a contract agreement for a state Water Supply Construction grant and loan for a water tank and other water system improvements. Day said bids would be opened at 10 a.m. Wednesday, January 23.

—Approved Resolution 85-1, authorizing transfer of bond money to the Fire Department Acquisition Fund.

—Approved the appointment of Sonny Wood to the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District.

Ruidoso P & Z to meet Monday at village hall

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission will meet at 3 p.m. Monday, January 21, at village hall. Items on the agenda include:

—Request for a seven-foot, four-inch front lot line variance on lot 82 and the east half of lot 83, block 1, Ponderosa Heights subdivision, as requested by Jerry Pusley.

—Appeal of a sign denial by the Planning and Zoning enforcement officer for Wild West Ski Shop, as requested by Dan Wimberly and Ron Anderson.

—Preliminary review of the American Guesthouse Hotel, tracts B, C and D, block 13, of the amended plat of Riverside Addition.

—Committee reports concerning zoning recommendations for the Ruidoso Airport property and Cree Meadows Country Club Golf Course.

Motorcycle Festival on

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

"Yes it will be held next year and it will be bigger and better than ever before," said Gary Boyd of the 1985 Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival, set for September 25-28.

Boyd, president of the newly incorporated Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival, Incorporated (RMF), stressed that plans for the festival are under way. He said final negotiations for leasing of the Super Select Sales Arena will take place next week.

The 1985 festival will be handled by many of the same people as the 1984 event, but no longer will be under the direction of the Ruidoso Business Association (RBA). Boyd explained that the name of that organization has been dropped and RMF, Inc., has replaced it. He also reported that the group will remain non-profit.

The secretary of the festival group, Flo Maul, said the name change came as a result of a recent RBA meeting. She indicated the name change had been long contemplated, due to the confusion between the name of the association and the name of the event.

Boyd also reported on the recent controversy surrounding allegations of financial mismanagement of the 1984 festival. Boyd said he recently traveled to Santa Fe and was awarded a Certificate of Good Standing from the State Corporation Commission for RBA/RMF, Inc., for March 1983 through March 1985.

"Everything's in good order," he noted. Boyd said the group had planned to send a representative to the Lodgers' Tax Committee (LTC) January 9 meeting as requested by the committee, but the organization's attorney, Dan Bryant, did not attend the meeting as planned.

At that meeting, LTC members voted to withhold $3,000 in lodgers' tax budgeted funds from RBA until a financial accounting is presented.

Boyd and Maul indicated they had become somewhat disenchanted by the LTC actions against the motorcycle festival group. They have decided to forfeit the $3,000 and not appear before the committee.

"This way we can go ahead and pick up and keep going," Boyd said, indicating his belief that positive steps are necessary now to ensure the success of the 1985 festival.

The root of the problem with the accounting of the 1984 festival, according to Boyd, was the way the books were kept, and not any actual discrepancies.

"It's all accounted for, it's just not in a neat little package," he said of festival finances.

Boyd noted that a certified public accountant has been hired for the group.

The festival organizers said preparations for the upcoming event are in full swing. Boyd will attend a motorcycle convention in San Francisco, California, this month. The group also will be represented at a convention February 15 to 17 in Houston, Texas.

Maul reported that members take Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and Spirit of Ruidoso material to the conventions, which are usually attended by 8,000 to 15,000 people.

"You can't promote the festival without promoting Ruidoso," she pointed out.

Maul reported that major manufacturers of motorcycles and motorcycle accessories have indicated their interest in attending the Ruidoso festival this year. She said the Ruidoso event is one of the major shows in the country.

Last year's event brought about $500,000 worth of business into Ruidoso, Maul estimated. The organizers said preparing for the event is a lot of work, but very rewarding.

"Lots of work, sure is," Boyd said. "It makes you feel like it's all worth it."

'Ambush' sponsors will ski with pros

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

A limited number of "Ambush" spots are still available in the Celebrity Pro-Am Race of the All-American Pro Ski Classic, race chairman Tommy Morel announced Wednesday.

Morel reported that the spots are available for $250, and include two invitations to the Calculta Party the evening of Friday, February 1; two invitations to the Celebrity Pro-Am luncheon Saturday; one participant entry in the Celebrity Pro-Am race Saturday afternoon; and two invitations to the Celebrity Pro-Am Awards Dinner-Show and Dance Saturday night.

Pro-Am racing will take place at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort; related events are at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The calculta, Morel explained, is an auction of ski racing teams made up of one celebrity, one pro racer, and three Ambush amateur racers. Morel said the teams will be formed as evenly as possible, taking into account all skiers' ability levels to keep competition in the race as close as possible.

During the calculta, auctioneer Clay Mack will sell each team to the highest bidder. Each team will then be owned by a bidder, and all the money raised through the auction will be pooled.

About 25 percent of the money raised by the auction will go to the two charities the Pro Ski Classic will benefit: the Handicapped Skiers' Association and Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital. A part of the money will go to costs of conducting the calculta.

The remaining 75 percent of the money raised will be used as prize money for the top three teams in Saturday's competition. The first-place team's owner will collect 50 percent of the prize money; second-place owner will collect 30 percent; and the third-place winner will get 20 percent of the prize money.

Morel pointed out that it is customary to award each of the three winning pro skiers 10 percent of their owners' winnings.

Ambush participants may choose to ski in the competition or designate another amateur skier to take their place in the race. But being an Ambush participant entails many other benefits, Morel noted.

Both the calculta and the Celebrity Pro-Am luncheon will afford Ambush participants a good opportunity to meet pro racers and internationally known celebrities.

During the Celebrity Pro-Am Awards Dinner-Show and Dance, Ambush participants will be treated to a cocktail party (cash bar), dinner, silent auction of various items, dinner show by the celebrities featuring a 13-piece orchestra, dance and a live auction of items donated by local merchants and artists.

Also to be auctioned will be a salt water fishing trip in Louisiana, a helicopter skiing trip in Canada and an elk hunt in Colorado.

Much of the fun of being an Ambush participant will be meeting the celebrities, Morel said. Tentatively coming to Ruidoso for the event will be celebrities LeVar Burton, of "Roots"; Wayne Northrup, who plays Roman Brady on "Days of Our Lives"; Randi Oakes, who plays Bonnie on "CHiPs"; and Lynn Holly Johnson, who starred in the James Bond thriller, "For Your Eyes Only," and starred opposite Robbie Benson in "Ice Castles".

Other celebrities include Steve Kanaly, who plays Ray Krebs on "Dallas"; Cindy Gibb of "Fame"; Kari Michaelsen, Katie on "Gimme A Break"; and Ed Marinaro of "Hill Street Blues".

"We're doing it first class," Morel said of the Celebrity Pro-Am events. He said the experience of skiing in the Celebrity Pro-Am race has been likened to sitting beside Bobby Unser at the Indy 500. Morel also pointed out that for $250, Ambush participants get what sponsors at other ski areas paid $350 to $400 for. Golfers in the Gerald Ford Open pay as much as $1,500 to $3,000 to play beside top golfers, Morel said.

"We feel we have a good value for them," he said of the Ambush participants.

Morel said 40 Celebrity Pro-Am teams will be set up for the race, leaving 120 spots for amateur racers. Of those, 20 already have been committed to major sponsors' guests. Of the remaining 100, only a limited number are still available due to a high demand from out-of-town skiers who want to participate, Morel said.

Others may attend the calculta and Awards Dinner-Show and Dance. Morel said tickets for the calculta are $10 each, and tickets for the dinner, show and dance are $40 per person.

Reception for chamber executive today

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce invites all interested persons to an informal reception for new executive director John Jeffers at 5 p.m. today (Thursday) at the Carrizo Lodge main building.

Chamber president James Paxton said he hoped people would take advantage of the opportunity to meet and visit with Jeffers. The duration of the event (it will end at 8:30) should give everyone ample opportunity to chat with the new exec, said Paxton.

Jeffers recently assumed the executive director's position, moving to Ruidoso from Arkansas. He has expressed a desire to broaden communication between chamber officials and the organization's general membership.

Few fires and a new building under construction were Smokey Bear Ranger District highlights this past year, according to District Ranger Steve Sams of the U.S. Forest Service.

In this Lincoln National Forest district, 25 fires were reported. Sams said that was a low number for a year. The U.S. Forest Service uses a November through October fiscal year, he noted. Total number of acres burned in uncontrolled fires was 20.25.

Sams said the Forest Service, under prescribed burning, razed 285 acres. This year prescribed burns are scheduled for 450 acres. In addition, fuel breaks (for residential areas) will total eight acres.

Temporarily the Smokey Bear Ranger Station remains in converted housing, Sams said, due to weather delays in construction of new office space.

Come to think of it, 1984 was quite a year for the village of Ruidoso. The truth of that statement is documented in Darrell Pehr's comprehensive wrapup of the news of the year, presented today on page 3A.

Racetrack busy expanding

A $7.75 million expansion project at Ruidoso Downs Race Track includes infrastructure to handle a 100-year flood.

Unfortunately, the work was not quite finished when December's 50-year flood struck, which set things back a bit. Work is progressing, however, and several improvements will be in place for the 1985 racing season.

A new seven-eighths-mile racetrack (scheduled for completion before the 1986 season) requires three river crossings—one for the new entrance road and two for the racing surface. The Rio Ruidoso had been diverted so that huge culverts could be installed in the river channel.

The culverts were in place at two crossings but backfilling had not begun when the flood occurred. The diversion dam gave way as the river sought its original channel.

Silt and debris clogged the culverts and settled in the channel. Once the flood receded, the river again was diverted and work resumed, with much cleanup and channel-deepening necessary.

On the bright side, excavation that had been done on the channel protected the present racing surface. Without the dirt piled between it and the river, said racetrack assistant manager Richard Lidberg, the track could have been washed away.

The diversion, culverts and new parking areas along the entrance road are just one aspect of the huge expansion project. Six new barns are to be erected to the east of the racing oval, which has required moving an enormous amount of earth.

To facilitate drainage in the area of the new barns, the earth had to be cut as much as 16 feet in some places. Dirt "pads" have been constructed for four barns, and work has started on the foundations.

The racetrack will gain 394 stalls with the new barns, Lidberg said. To the east of the barns is the Western Highlands practice track, which is coming down to make room for a new All-American Sales Pavilion.

That job will go to bid soon and is scheduled for completion by the first of June, according to Lidberg. The building will be a prefabricated structure. Stalls for horse sales will number 800.

Lidberg, who has been overseeing the entire project since the '84 racing season ended, has found the project to be a new experience.

"I've never worked in this end of racing," said the former jockey. "I enjoy it because it's learning something new."

Lidberg predicted that the expansion project will result in a great improvement in the quantity and quality of thoroughbred horses racing at Ruidoso Downs.

General manager Rick Henson agreed. He explained that the present five-eighths-mile track with its tight turns had discouraged thoroughbred owners and trainers from racing here, partly for fear of injury to their horses. The new racetrack will have wide, sweeping turns.

Henson wants Ruidoso Downs to become the "Hot Springs of the Rockies," referring to the well-known Arkansas racetrack. He said a greatly improved incentive program of the New Mexico Horse Breeders is attracting better thoroughbred studs and mares to the state.

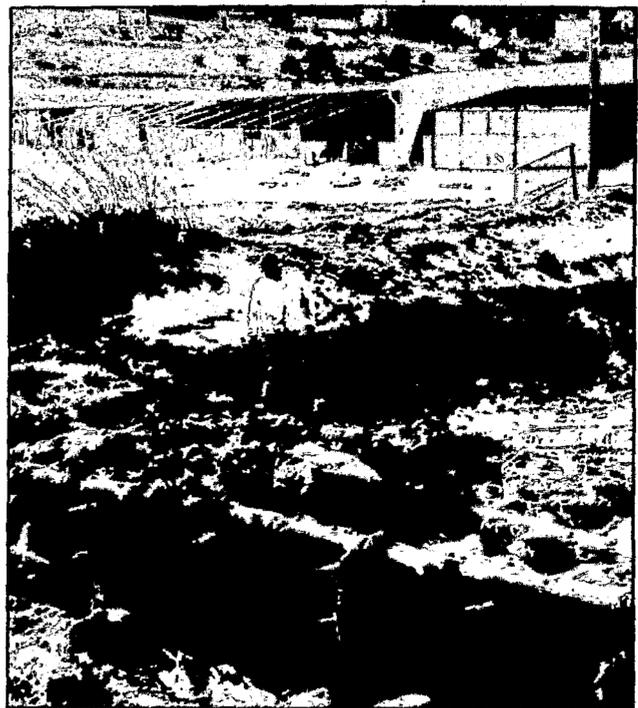

Lidberg and his crews have their hands full for the next couple of months getting ready for horses to start arriving in April.

Barring another flood or other catastrophe, racing fans will see an improved facility this May, with still greater changes over the horizon.

A workman assembles a culvert that will carry the Rio Ruidoso beneath the racetrack running surface. The culverts are shipped in pieces, which are bolted and welded on site. When completed, the culvert will be 144 feet long and more than 20 feet tall. Total cost of culverts for the project—before erection—was $179,000.

Leroy Givens of Boyle Engineering checks the diversion point for the Hale ditch, uncovered when the Rio Ruidoso was diverted. "How many engineers get to design a racetrack?" he said of his involvement in the project. "I thoroughly enjoy it."

One side of a 13-foot-tall "double-barrel" culvert was nearly clear of debris Tuesday from the December flood. The racing surface of the new seven-eighths-mile racetrack at Ruidoso Downs will cross the Rio Ruidoso over the double culvert.

Floods, airport progress and new council: a busy year

The year 1984 was an eventful period for the Village of Ruidoso. The devastation of two floods, a dramatic water discovery, the excitement of a recall election and the tragedy of an airplane crash brought every emotion from horror to elation to village residents.

The airport

Possibly the most significant of all the news stories during the year was the May 4 fatal airplane crash. The following public and political activity brought some progress in the slow-moving fight to acquire a new regional airport.

The crash of the single-engine plane left one Texas man dead and three Texans injured. Many blamed the accident on the difficulty of landing at the windswept, box canyon airport that afternoon.

The resulting public outcry culminated in a May 8 meeting of the Ruidoso Village Council, attended by 200 persons. Residents expressed impatience at the 15-year-old controversy surrounding the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) petition to the Department of the Interior for an airport site.

SBAC asked for transfer of 1,666 acres on Fort Stanton Mesa Site B from the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) to the Federal Aviation Administration for the airport.

The New Mexico State University Board of Regents had opposed that petition on the grounds that construction of an airport would disrupt valuable rangeland experiments.

During the meeting, the council resolved to request Interior Secretary William Clark to release Site B; seek the support of U.S. Senator Pete Domenici; and thank Governor Toney Anaya for his support of the airport.

May 9, Anaya requested that the regents relinquish control of Site B. But NMSU officials steadfastly sought location of the airport at neighboring Site A, a site considered unsuitable by many due to housing encroachments and difficult terrain.

May 10 saw the formation of the Sierra Blanca Airport Relocation Committee, organized to begin a massive mailout campaign to seek state and federal officials' support of the airport at Site B.

By late May, relocation of the airport to Site B had confirmed support of U.S. Representative Joe Skeen, U.S. Senator Jeff Bingaman and state Aviation and Transportation Department officials.

A May 26 meeting of the NMSU regents and BLM, state and local officials resulted in the regents' insistence that Site A was still feasible and that the decision to relinquish Site B was up to top BLM officials.

By June 11, however, local officials' meetings with BLM, Interior, the New Mexico Congressional delegation and officials of the Department of Transportation in Washington, D.C., revealed that the future of Site B was up to the regents. Also at the time of the Washington meetings, Interior Secretary Clark ordered an environmental impact statement (EIS) on all potential airport sites.

Scoping meetings to determine the topics of study for the joint BLM-Transportation statement were held August 29 and 30.

The meetings in Ruidoso and Carrizozo resulted in a long list of topics of study, which were compiled into the scope of the study September 14. Before and during the meetings, local and state officials urged EIS organizers not to let preparation of the EIS needlessly stand in the way of finding a site for the airport.

Early in September, the regents finally backed down from their no-compromise stand. The regents noted that negotiations for the land at Site B were possible, but not without full compensation to the university.

But solving the problem still seemed a long way off as SBAC chairman Fred Heckman announced November 30 that awarding of the EIS contract to a private consulting firm was expected in late January 1985. Completion of the study is expected by October, and final preparation of the EIS is not expected until January 1986.

The Rio Ruidoso began to jump its banks and flood areas Thursday, and village crews began removing small footbridges and clearing debris from the rain-swollen river. Crews constructed a large earthen dike in an attempt to save the Paradise Canyon Drive bridge near Sudderth Drive.

By Friday, the waters had risen as much as three feet above normal levels. Sandbagging efforts were begun by area volunteers and crews. Turbid water in the river caused the shutting-off of water to some areas of the village to enable backwashing operations at treatment plants.

Most river crossings were threatened or already underwater.

Saturday morning saw village officials declare a State of Emergency due to the continuing flooding. Paradise Canyon Drive bridge was lost and Ruidoso Downs Race Track closed for the first time in 12 years. Village officials requested Governor Toney Anaya to ratify the declaration and send 10,000 sandbags.

Sandbag-bearing National Guard troops arrived Saturday evening to relieve exhausted village crews and volunteer workers. Sunday dawned clear—the first time in a week—but by that evening, another downpour brought officials' concern to the overflowing spillway at Lake Mescalero.

Rains abated enough to allow the waters to recede Monday, but another shower that afternoon resulted in mudslides and the creation of a massive lake across the intersection of Hull Road and Paradise Canyon Drive.

Eventually, the river resumed its normal level, and village officials determined that $1 million worth of damage to private property and $817,000 in damage to public property had been suffered. Village manager Jim Hine also estimated $500,000 was necessary to effect a thorough cleanup of the river area.

Results of a "windshield survey" by officials of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) led Anaya to request federal flood help. President Ronald Reagan made an official Declaration of a State of Emergency September 6 for areas of New Mexico including Ruidoso.

Hine reported September 25 that FEMA officials had downgraded earlier damage estimates to $114,000, with FEMA picking up 75 percent of the bill. A state agency and the village split the difference.

The first flood

Mother Nature also had a hand in the top stories of 1984. Devastating floods raised havoc in Ruidoso in August and again in December.

The more serious August flood began as a result of persistent rains early that month. Rains became continuous by Wednesday, August 8, and continued through Friday, August 10.

The Rio Ruidoso began to jump its banks and flood areas Thursday, and village crews began removing small footbridges and clearing debris from the rain-swollen river. Crews constructed a large earthen dike in an attempt to save the Paradise Canyon Drive bridge near Sudderth Drive.

By Friday, the waters had risen as much as three feet above normal levels. Sandbagging efforts were begun by area volunteers and crews. Turbid water in the river caused the shutting-off of water to some areas of the village to enable backwashing operations at treatment plants.

Hine reported September 25 that FEMA officials had downgraded earlier damage estimates to $114,000, with FEMA picking up 75 percent of the bill. A state agency and the village split the difference.

The year also saw a move toward increased organization in the village, with the contracting of the BRW planning firm to prepare a comprehensive plan for Ruidoso.

BRW had been hired by the village in October 1983 to complete a transportation plan for Ruidoso. Village councilors decided the plan was becoming so involved that taking the step to a comprehensive plan was the logical move.

Nearly $100,000 was set aside for the total costs of the plan, and BRW representatives estimated 12 to 15 months for completion of the plan. Goals such as the preparation of a new land use map and zoning map and suggested amendments to the village zoning and subdivision ordinances were agreed upon.

In a series of update meetings in mid-October, the planners reported that the comprehensive plan was about 25 percent ready and the transportation plan was about one-third complete. Also during the meeting, rough drafts of new subdivision and zoning ordinances were reviewed.

At that time, the planners estimated completion of the project by April or May of 1985.

"I think it will be the greatest thing since pockets on a shirt," councillor Sherman Atwood said at the time.

The second flood

The scenario seemed to be repeating itself in December, as warm temperatures and rain caused heavy snowpack around Ruidoso to melt rapidly. The Rio Ruidoso rose again, and by the night of Wednesday, December 19, a flood was under way.

Earlier flood repairs on Paradise Canyon Drive bridge quickly gave way under the brunt of the raging flood waters. Residents in the Apache Park subdivision were cut off by flooding conditions in Carrizo Canyon that many said were worse than the August flood.

Ruidoso schools were closed Thursday. Residents of Hollywood Trailer Park were advised to move to higher ground.

The Ruidoso Village Council met in emergency session Thursday morning. The council stayed a decision to declare a State of Emergency until later that afternoon, in the hope that flooding would cease.

As the rains continued, however, and some damage became apparent, the council went ahead with the decision. Heavy on their minds, though, was the adverse effect the publicity of the flood could have on Christmas vacationers.

By late Friday, the waters again receded, and public property damage was found to be minimal. Private property damage, though, appeared to be high. Village officials announced a rechanneling and cleanup effort early in 1985 in an attempt to deal with a root of the flooding problem—a clogged and impeded waterway channel.

The trash compactor

Trash compaction remained an undisposed item of discussion throughout 1984. Proponents of a trash transfer system pointed to the estimated $85,000 savings possible to the village through use of a compaction system to cut down on trips to the Fort Stanton landfill.

Discussions of the 1983-proposed trash system centered early in 1984 on where to locate such a system.

At January 3 and February 7 meetings of the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission, public protest blocked the zoning of a possible site for the proposed system. At a February 14 meeting, the village council voted to purchase a $172,000 trash compaction transfer system, with delivery delayed for 90 days until a site for the system could be found.

Finally in late April, village manager Jim Hine reported that the village had traded for a plot of land on Gavilan Canyon Road near an abandoned rock quarry. Installation of the compactor and related structures soon began at the site, but was stalled when the $275,000 allocated for the project drew thin.

In October and November, former village councilman Al Junge confronted the council, asking why the project had not been completed. It was explained that the delay was due to overextension of the budget.

By December 11, the council approved an intradepartmental lending of funds to accomplish the $100,000 of additional work to complete the system.

Goals such as the preparation of a new land use map and zoning map and suggested amendments to the village zoning and subdivision ordinances were agreed upon.

In a series of update meetings in mid-October, the planners reported that the comprehensive plan was about 25 percent ready and the transportation plan was about one-third complete. Also during the meeting, rough drafts of new subdivision and zoning ordinances were reviewed.

At that time, the planners estimated completion of the project by April or May of 1985.

"I think it will be the greatest thing since pockets on a shirt," councillor Sherman Atwood said at the time.

NEW COUNCIL!

DAY OF THE YEAR: 66 - TUES., MAR. 6 - 300

Council recall election

Also significant during 1984 was the Ruidoso Village Council recall election. Through a petition circulated late in 1983 by resident Ralph Rush, a necessary number of voters in Ruidoso called for a special election.

The referendum was on the question of whether enlargement of the council from four to six—with recall of those councilmen then serving—was needed. Voters chose by a significant margin to have the election, set for March 6.

Then-councilmen Frank Sayner, Don Dale, Benny Coulston and Al Junge were recalled. Only Junge chose to run again.

The election, set for March 6, drew a whopping 21 contestants. After a month of intense campaigning and public appearances, Ray Dean Carpenter, Jerry Shaw, Bill Karn, Sherman Atwood, John Underwood and Rick Evans emerged from the fray victorious. Mayor George White remained in his position at the helm of the council, unaffected by the recall.

Grindstone Canyon dam

Progress on the Grindstone Canyon dam included the resolution of two protests and the actual start of construction during 1984.

The first protest was resolved February 7, at the announcement by State Engineer Steve Reynolds of a compromise between the village and downstream farmers.

The compromise will allow Ruidoso to discharge treated wastewater into the Rio Ruidoso at the Biscuit Hill treatment plant and to claim effluent credit for Eagle Creek water discharged into the Rio Ruidoso under certain conditions. Ruidoso plans to use the water from the effluent credit to fill the Grindstone reservoir.

It was announced at a June 12 meeting of the village council that the entire right of way for the extension of Grindstone Canyon Road to Carrizo Canyon Road had been obtained.

By June 23, the final protest impeding the project, that by the Carlsbad Irrigation District, was dropped. That cleared the way for the approval by the State Engineer's Office of Ruidoso's application to change the point of diversion from the Rio Ruidoso 126.5 feet downstream to the site of the intake structure.

August 28 saw the council approve the bid of Brait, Incorporated, of $767,211 for construction of the intake structure and pipeline for the reservoir. Village officials and dignitaries broke ground for that project October 1.

By the end of the year, assistant village manager Frank Potter reported that work on the intake structure, pipeline and road extension was well under way. He also said bidding for clearing of the reservoir site and construction of the dam itself is scheduled this February.

The year also saw a move toward increased organization in the village, with the contracting of the BRW planning firm to prepare a comprehensive plan for Ruidoso.

BRW had been hired by the village in October 1983 to complete a transportation plan for Ruidoso. Village councilors decided the plan was becoming so involved that taking the step to a comprehensive plan was the logical move.

Nearly $100,000 was set aside for the total costs of the plan, and BRW representatives estimated 12 to 15 months for completion of the plan. Goals such as the preparation of a new land use map and zoning map and suggested amendments to the village zoning and subdivision ordinances were agreed upon.

In a series of update meetings in mid-October, the planners reported that the comprehensive plan was about 25 percent ready and the transportation plan was about one-third complete. Also during the meeting, rough drafts of new subdivision and zoning ordinances were reviewed.

At that time, the planners estimated completion of the project by April or May of 1985.

WATER FIND ANNOUNCED!

DAY OF THE YEAR: 346 - TUES., DEC. 11 - 20

The water find

Possibly the best news of the year was the water find near Sierra Blanca. Village officials announced during a December 11 council meeting that the drilling of five exploratory wells on Forest Service land had resulted in the discovery of water in amounts estimated to meet the village's needs for the next 100 years.

Water engineers advised the council that the find, in an area then undeclared by the State Engineer's Office, appeared to be part of a previously untapped underground basin. The engineers opined that the water was unconnected with any other water system and represented the establishment of a new water right.

It was estimated at the meeting that the water resource would be worth about $65 million if the same amount of water rights had to be bought on the open market.

Late in the year, State Engineer Steve Reynolds announced a decision that brought ominous clouds of uncertainty to the water find. The engineer decided to extend the Hondo Underground Water Basin to include the area of the find, bringing the find under the jurisdiction of the State Engineer's Office.

The decision unearthed the possibility that the engineer could rule the water to be part of the Hondo system, threatening the Ruidoso find.

DAY OF THE YEAR: 173 - WED., JUNE 20 - 194

Sports complex progress

Sports participants were kept anxiously awaiting the start of the Eagle Creek Sports Complex throughout 1984.

Early plans for the soccer and softball field complex called for use of Ruidoso Schools' land near White Mountain Elementary. At a June 12 meeting of the Ruidoso Village Council, however, Parks and Recreation Department director Pam Graves reported that the schools could promise only a three-year lease of the land. The project had to be relocated to Eagle Creek Intercommunity Water Supply Association land on Ski Run Road near Alto.

Graves said state-administered federal funding, of which $30,000 was promised, was dependent on obtaining at least a 10-year lease.

At a meeting June 20, the water association agreed to grant a 12-year renewable lease for a 22-acre site for the complex. That agreement was signed October 11, and $30,000 in federal funding of the project was confirmed at the December 11 meeting of the Ruidoso Village Council.

Newly hired Parks and Recreation Department director Bobby Bailey pledged late in 1984 to make realization of the project one of his major concerns.

Warrior hoopsters to play home tilts Saturday

Boys seek end of losing streak

by GARY BROWN
News Staff Writer

Hoping to break a three-year home losing streak, the Ruidoso High School boys varsity basketball team will entertain the New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) Colts Saturday night.

Ruidoso, 0-9 on the season, has not won a home game since the 1981-82 campaign. All four of the Warriors' victories last season came on the road.

But the Warriors have a good chance of breaking the losing streak Saturday night. The boys games will follow the girls contests in the afternoon.

NMMI is winless on the season, sporting an 0-5 record after losing to Portales 44-36 Tuesday night.

Ruidoso was defeated by Portales 45-23 last month. But the Warriors did not shoot well in that contest. They have improved in most facets of the game since then.

"The experimenting is over," said Warrior head coach Gene Segura. "We've settled into the type of game we can do best."

"That's more of a slow, controlled game. We've played solid man-to-man defense and have improved."

Ruidoso is coming off a 62-39 loss to Lovington last Friday. Lovington is ranked second in the state's AAA-division and has defeated some AAAA-division powers.

"Our players have gotten more used to playing with each other in this style of game," remarked Segura.

The game could be a low-scoring affair since NMMI has traditionally been a deliberate team with a controlled offense.

Segura will start the same lineup that has started the past few contests.

Seniors Dion Lopez and Patric Pearson will start at guard. Junior Russell Easter will go at wing while senior Tracy Gann and sophomore Brian Davis will be at the posts.

Gann and Davis played well in the loss to Lovington.

Gann was the Warriors' leading scorer against Lovington with 16 points. Davis scored five points, grabbed 10 rebounds and blocked two shots in one of his best efforts of the season.

Easter is rounding into form after breaking a collarbone during football season. Lopez and Pearson have been steady performers all season.

The Warrior junior varsity is 1-5 on the season, but has lost several close games.

Ruidoso lost to a tough Lovington junior varsity 47-40, but closed the gap to one point before the Wildcats pulled away in the final two minutes.

Following Saturday's games, the Warriors will visit NMMI Tuesday night for varsity and junior varsity games.

NOTES. St. Pius leads the Associated Press state AAA-division poll. Lovington is second, followed by Deming, Grants and Silver City. West Las Vegas is sixth, Los Lunas ranks seventh, Hot Springs is eighth, Goddard rates ninth and Robertson is 10th.

Tough schedule could help girls

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

Tough competition earlier in the season may prove beneficial to the Ruidoso High School girls varsity basketball team Saturday.

That's when the Warriors take on visiting Hatch. A junior varsity game will start at 3. The varsity contest will follow.

Ruidoso has played mostly AAA and AAAA division teams this season, while Hatch is one of the better AA division teams in the state, boasting a 6-2 record.

"I think tough competition will help us against Hatch," Warrior head coach Sergio Castanon said. "I don't really know that much about them. They made the state finals of the AA division last season, and defeated Cobre last night (Tuesday)."

Cobre is a member of Ruidoso's 8-AAA district and rated a strong contender for the district title.

The Warriors are 2-6 on the season, with both victories coming in the Goddard Tournament last month.

Castanon is still worried about his team's outside shooting.

"I don't have anyone who can consistently score from outside," he said. "So we have to be under control and work inside to our big people. We have to take our outside shots when we have them."

The Warrior inside game has generally been good this season. However, the inside game suffered in last week's 57-42 loss to the Artesia Bulldogs because senior all-district star Diane McClure was sick.

McClure should be in the lineup against Hatch, and that should benefit the Warriors.

Castanon hasn't decided on his starters yet, and a lot of girls could see action against Hatch.

Some of the girls who could play a lot include: Gia Rose, Stacy Ivy, Katherine Sanchez, Susan Davis, Sheila Espinosa, Lillian Duffy, Berdine Smith, Zeba Morris and Veralyn Platta.

Senior Judy McCoy has an injured Achilles tendon and her status for the game is uncertain.

Rose, a 5-2 senior guard, had a good game against Artesia, scoring 16 points.

Ivy and Sanchez play in the front line along with McClure. Sanchez, only a sophomore, has improved considerably in the last few games.

Against Artesia, Sanchez scored 10 points and grabbed nine rebounds. The talented sophomore probably will split playing time between the varsity and junior varsity.

Cage league rosters due

The Village of Ruidoso Adult Men's Basketball League has set this Sunday as the due date for team rosters and fees.

All rosters and fees must be turned in by 7 p.m. on that date at the White Mountain School gymnasium.

Each roster must have the name of the team captain, the names of the players and their telephone numbers.

Each team must pay a $145 fee, payable by cash or check. Checks should be made out to the Village of Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department.

The league is open to men 18 years old and older.

For information, call Parks and Recreation Department director Bobby Bailey at 257-2795.

Central top team

A coaches' poll for an Albuquerque newspaper has Kirtland Central ranked first among the state's girls AAA-division teams.

St. Pius is ranked second, Portales is third, Hot Springs is fourth, Cobre is fifth, Goddard is sixth, Silver City is seventh, Bloomfield is eighth, Belen is ninth and Los Lunas is 10th.

Little League basketball will have team tryouts

The Ruidoso Little League basketball program will have tryouts for its teams from noon to 4 p.m. at the White Mountain School gymnasium Saturday.

The program is for boys and girls in the fifth through seventh grades. Any youth who has not signed up can do so at the tryouts.

Fees for the program will be $10 per child or $15 per family (if more than one child plays).

All coaches, referees and members of the Sertoma Club and Optimist Club should be at the tryouts.

Anyone needing further information can call Roy Seay at 257-4043.

Brave cagers defeated by Chaparral, travel to Capitan Tigers' den today

The Ruidoso Middle School boys and girls basketball teams hope to have better luck against host Capitan today than they did against Chaparral Monday in Alamogordo.

Ruidoso's boys A team fell to Chaparral 38-29. The Brave girls lost 22-18.

The Brave boys, now 3-2 on the season, fell behind 16-5 at the end of the first quarter and could never catch up.

Ruidoso trailed 18-11 at halftime and 32-18 at the end of the third period before cutting Chaparral's lead in the final period.

Charles Smith led the Brave scoring with 14 points. Ron Sanders and Dusty Beavers each scored six points. Matt Bailey added two points and Bubba Lane hit one free throw.

"We just couldn't hit," said Brave coach Dean Hood. "We didn't really play that bad. We didn't rebound well in the first quarter but did better after that."

The Brave girls almost pulled off a comeback before falling to Chaparral. Ruidoso has a 7-2 record.

Ruidoso trailed 21-12 with a minute left, but scored six points to just miss tying the game.

With the Braves trailing 21-18, Ruidoso's Bertha Chavira put up a shot with five seconds left that went into the basket and then fell out.

Chavira was fouled on the play but missed two free throws.

Ruidoso had to foul a Chaparral player to get the ball back, and the hosts scored their last point.

Chavira led the Brave scoring with six points and played a fine all-around game. Jennifer Jimenez and Mikki Roller each added five points and Shelly Hickerson scored two points to round out the Ruidoso scoring.

"We hadn't played since December 12," said Brave coach Jim Hofstad. "We were really ragged."

Today's competition at Capitan will have a boys B game at 1:30 p.m. The girls game will follow at 2:30, followed by the boys A game at 3:30.

Watch each week for a new power resolution.

Who will win the Super Bowl? Several people have asked me for my prediction on the big game Sunday between San Francisco and Miami.

And I've had a hard time trying to determine the winner. This match-up could be the best in the history of the Super Bowl. But then again, a lot of people thought last year's game between the Los Angeles Raiders and the Washington Redskins would be a great contest.

The Raiders won that game by the most lopsided score in the 18-year history of the Super Bowl, 38-9.

But this year's game should be different. The teams are evenly matched and both should put some points on the scoreboards.

It's unlikely that either team's defense will be able to stop the other team's offense. But the team that CONTROLS the other team's offense the best will probably win.

Miami has an awesome passing game with quarterback Dan Marino throwing to Mark Clayton and Mark Duper. Certainly no other second-year quarterback has ever had a year that even compares with Marino's 1984 season.

The Dolphins don't have great rushing statistics, but that's mainly because they pass the ball so much. Miami has adequate running backs.

On the other hand, the 49ers have an excellent short- to medium-range passing game with Joe Montana at the controls. They have also gone deep better than ever this season with Freddie Solomon and Dwight Clark catching a lot of passes. The 49ers have depth in their receiver corps. Teams can't key on any one or two receivers.

San Francisco's running game is solid with Wendell Tyler and Roger Craig. Both are fine receivers, with Craig—only a second-year man—catching 71 passes during the regular season.

But the 49er offense stuttered a bit in the playoffs, a fact that probably has the San Francisco coaching staff worried.

Thus, Miami would appear to have a slight advantage offensively. But that advantage is a very thin one.

Now we turn to the defense. Miami's defense was erratic for much of the season, but seemed to catch stride during the playoffs. Still, the Dolphins have had problems stopping the run all season. If the 49ers can run the ball on them early, that could give San Francisco a decisive advantage.

San Francisco's defense has been underrated all season, and the 49er defenders only allowed three points in the playoffs. The only touchdown scored on San Francisco in the playoffs was an interception return by the New York Giants' Harry Carson.

In fact, the 49er defense gave up the fewest points in the league during the season.

San Francisco has been tough against the run all season, with outside linebacker Keena Turner, a group of defensive linemen, and defensive backs Carlton Williamson and Ronnie Lott being particularly tough in the category.

The 49ers weren't ranked as high in defending the pass as they were in defending the run. But that's partially because teams were trailing them and had to pass to catch up.

But the San Francisco defensive backs—particularly Lott—like to gamble. On occasion, they've been burned because of that.

The 49ers can't be burned often against Miami or Marino will run up the score on them. But San Francisco made enough big defensive plays during the season to show it can stand against any offense.

Thus, the advantage defensively goes to San Francisco.

Now come the special teams and kicking game.

Here San Francisco again has the overall edge, although Miami punter Reggie Roby has an edge over his counterpart Max Runager. Both punters had good seasons. San Francisco placekicker Ray Wersching had another consistent season in 1984, much more so than the Dolphins' Uwe Von Schamann.

The 49ers' punt and kickoff return teams are also superior to Miami's, with Dana McLemore one of the top return men in the league.

The teams are about equal on punt and kickoff coverage. Give the edge to San Francisco in the special teams and kicking departments.

Now the coaches: Both mentors are winners.

Don Stula of Miami has been perhaps the most successful coach in the league. He built the Dolphins into a powerhouse after taking Baltimore to the Super Bowl in 1969.

San Francisco's Bill Walsh raised his team from 2-14 records in 1978-79 to a Super Bowl champion 14-3 team in the 1981 campaign. He had a bad year in 1982, but rebounded to make the National Conference finals in 1983, and won the conference crown this season.

It's a tie in the coaching department.

Home-field advantage: Despite the fact the 49ers are playing just 30 miles south of their home park and about five miles south of their training facilities, they won't have any home-field advantage.

Season-ticket holders from both teams will be in attendance.

The media has been paying more attention to the 49er players than the Dolphins, with some San Francisco players already weary of the attention. This will negate any home-field advantage.

Thus, it looks like a close game. San Francisco has the edge in two areas (defense and special teams) while Miami has a slight edge offensively. The teams are tied in the coaching department.

It will be the special teams and Wersching's toe that will win a close game for San Francisco.

Look for the 49ers to nip the Dolphins 30-27 on a 38-yard field goal by Wersching with 15 seconds left in the game. McLemore will set up the field goal by returning a punt.

And the best Super Bowl ever will be history.

Ruidoso wrestlers compete against Goddard, NMMI

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School varsity wrestling team will tangle with host Goddard and New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) in Roswell Saturday.

Competition will begin at 11 a.m. with each team having two matches. Ruidoso, 1-2 in dual-match competition, defeated the Roswell Coyotes 39-21 last week. Goddard also defeated Roswell in dual-match competition.

The Rockets should have a full team for the match, while NMMI probably will have to forfeit some matches. The Colts are strongest in the 145-187 pound classes.

"The Roswell coach told me that if they had wrestled as well against Goddard as they did against us, they would have probably won," said Warrior head coach Gerald Ames. "I think we've got a pretty good chance of winning both matches. "We're going in there with the idea of winning both."

James Herrera at 169 pounds has been the Warriors' most successful wrestler this season. Herrera has a 5-1 record, including a second-place finish in the Los Lunas Tournament last month.

Kevin Jameson at 187 pounds and Zach Swalander at 134 pounds also have done well, although their records may not indicate it.

Jameson has a 1-4 record and Swalander is 3-4, but both have wrestled tough competition.

"Their records are misleading," Ames said of Jameson and Swalander. "They've both done well and are improving."

Jameson's younger brothers, Kyle and Kerry, compete in the 140-pound and 147-pound divisions, respectively.

Kerry took a third-round pin victory against Roswell. Kyle had a forfeit victory against the Coyotes.

The team has not had any eliminations for Saturday's competition yet, but the same wrestlers probably will go at their regular weights.

Jeff Schmidt is slated at 100 pounds. Scott Yeatman is scheduled at 108 pounds, but the Warriors probably will have to forfeit the 114-pound division.

Cory Garner has done well at 119 pounds; Manuel Montano is at 128 pounds. And Don Jones is at 155 pounds.

Some Warrior junior varsity wrestlers will go to Goddard. They will wrestle if Goddard and NMMI have any junior varsity matmen.

The Ruidoso freshmen also will compete Saturday, participating in a Carlsbad tournament.

James Herrera (right) of the Ruidoso High School wrestling team does a hip toss on Manuel Montano during practice Wednesday.

Herrera wrestles in the 169-pound division and has a 5-1 record. Montano competes in the 128-pound class.

Water plant gets go-ahead

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

At a special meeting Tuesday afternoon, the village council passed a resolution permitting engineer Ted Asbury to begin work on the new water treatment plant in Capitan.

Capitan has $593,000 in grant money to spend on its new treatment facilities. Asbury came down from Albuquerque to present the plans and to answer questions concerning the water situation.

Capitan currently receives its water from Bonito Lake and Eagle Creek. Bonito Lake has a seasonally high level of manganese, a chemical element that eats away at the chlorine that is added to the village water supply to kill bacteria.

"As a chemist, I was alarmed at this situation," said Asbury, who was instrumental in helping the village obtain the grant money. The new water treatment plant will rid Capitan of this potentially hazardous situation.

When manganese reacts with chlorine, the water turns brown. This chemical reaction presents a problem in doing laundry - the water turns black when chlorine bleach is added to it.

"We propose to take the manganese out so that the people of Capitan can bleach their clothes again," said Asbury.

The plant will run the water through certain chemicals that react with the manganese and iron, causing removable solid particles to form. The water then will be filtered, chlorinated and ready to use.

The new filter will remove debris such as the brown sand particles that currently plague Capitan's water. Asbury said the sediment forms on the bottom of the lake due to decay and lack of oxygen.

When a large quantity of snow melts and dumps cold water into the lake (which occurred during the recent flooding), the sediment at the bottom is pushed up into the water supply. A similar reaction occurs in the summer when the lake heats up and the molecules start to move.

Capitan's present filter system is so overloaded it cannot filter out all the sediment that comes through.

Asbury's engineering firm now will begin designing the plant. Asbury figured the bidding would open by summer and construction would begin in the fall and be completed by the spring of 1986.

The new facilities are expected to be sufficient to get Capitan through 1990. If the population outgrows the plant by that time, parallel systems can be added onto it.

Capitan also is drilling an exploratory well that they hope will produce quality water that could be piped into the system at a later time.

Sheriff comments on bus incidents

From all available evidence, there are no indications of any sexual molestation or criminal sexual penetration on the Alto route school bus last fall, according to Sheriff Tom Sullivan.

Sullivan said older students used profanity and threats to keep younger children from going to the back of the bus.

In one instance, said Sullivan, one child was forced to close his eyes while an older student put a finger into the young child's mouth, leading to the young child to believe it was something else.

In a meeting with the former district attorney's office, police, and a boy accused of threatening a child with a pocket knife, it was determined that the boy had exhibited no criminal intent with his knife.

"We're not even sure if he had the knife open," said Sullivan.

Sullivan said his department spent a lot of time on the case, conducting extensive interviews with all who were on the bus.

County lodgers' tax

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

At their regular meeting Tuesday, Lincoln County commissioners decided to draft an ordinance imposing a two percent lodgers' tax on hotels in county jurisdiction. This would affect the Carrizo Lodge, High Country Lodge, Wortley Hotel and La Junta Lodge.

Leon Eggleston, Cal Cowden, John Jeffers and Bill Rawlins, representing the Ruidoso Lodgers' Tax Committee (LTC), approached the commissioners requesting that the tax be imposed and that the funds be added to those collected in Ruidoso. Revenue generated from the tax pays for advertising of tourism in Lincoln County.

The Ruidoso group pointed out that the money collected there already is used to promote the entire county, in such materials as maps with points of interest countywide.

Commissioner Ken Nosker favored the proposal.

"In the last three years, tourism has brought in more money than ranching and agriculture in Lincoln County," he said.

Chairman Bill Elliott agreed, and said he felt that lodging institutions in towns other than Ruidoso have been "getting a free ride" from advertising bought with Ruidoso tax money.

The commissioners and the LTC representatives expressed hope that the proposed ordinance would urge the municipalities of Capitan and Corona to impose such a lodgers' tax also.

County attorney Steve Sanders will draft an ordinance for the next meeting.

Richard Parsons, newly elected judge for Lincoln County, reported to the commissioners that the renovation of his chambers is behind schedule and far from complete. Parsons said the conditions are "pitiable" and impossible to work in.

Prior to the election, the candidates looked at the room and specified what changes were needed. The cost of those changes was estimated at $1,500. So far, the actual work has cost double that amount, not including carpet and paneling.

The commissioners said they would not be able to provide the latter items until the next fiscal year. Parsons said the expenditures would come out of the judges' funds. County clerk Fran Siddens asked for partitions for her office. The commissioners agreed to tour the room and decide.

In an effort to obtain road maintenance money from the Department of Game and Fish and the state Legislature, the commissioners passed a resolution asking the agencies to provide funding for maintaining county roads that serve as access to state lands.

The state has 301,600 acres of property in Lincoln County. There are 189 county roads that access public land.

The resolution asks for a marking program that would indicate to hunters which lands are public and which are privately owned.

The resolution also asks for the imposition of a county gasoline tax to help fund the roads. Currently, all road maintenance funds are derived from license and registration fees.

The resolution will be sent to the Legislature this month.

After a request from Devil Bill Adams, director of Emergency Medical Services in Lincoln County, the commissioners approved an increase in fees for the county ambulance system. Adams said the county's fees were way below all other ambulance services, and that more money is needed to maintain equipment.

The old county fee was $45 for the first patient mile; $2 for the next 50 miles; and $1.50 for every mile after that. The new fee will be $75 for the first mile; $2.50 for the next 50; and $2 for each additional mile. Adams said the prices were still below those of Ruidoso and Roswell ambulance services, which both charge around $100 or more for an ambulance run.

Although the county's ambulance service lost money two years ago, it was $12,000 ahead last year, Adams noted. The service has a 75 percent collection rate and does not charge indigents who need the service.

In an executive session on litigation, the commissioners voted to sue SeeGee Engineering, the firm that contracted the new county administration building. County manager Suzanne Cox said the roof is still leaking despite numerous contacts with the firm.

"It has not been fixed to our satisfaction," said Cox.

Capitan to seek funding for roads

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

The Capitan village council voted to apply for a matching grant from the state Highway Department for road repairs. The board will budget $15,000 in the next fiscal year in hopes of getting matching funds from the state.

Ed Naveretti of the Highway Department came from Roswell to explain to the council how the grant program works. A municipality such as Capitan can apply for a grant in which the state pays for 60 percent of the work and the town pays the rest.

According to Capitan road worker Guy Henley, it would cost approximately $12,500 to gravel one mile of road. The council hopes to do three miles through the matching grant program.

Henley told the council he had trouble blading the roads because people leave junk cars in the street and fill their borrow ditches with gravel. The board moved to have the Police Department crack down on both types of violation.

Henley said people fill the ditches to make driveways. But since the ditches are needed for drainage, Henley said, he must shovel them out. He said he would install a culvert if the landowner bought it.

The council approved Ordinance 84-8, requiring a $50 water security deposit for all new hookups. Trustee Kelly Beavers said the ordinance is intended to stop delinquent accounts when people leave town.

Capitan will begin work soon on its exploratory well outside of town. Water Advisory Board chairman Vern Goodwin reported that he was working on other water right negotiations.

Jimmy Wright approached the council to ask that Wright's Trailer Park be given commercial rates on water usage. The council agreed that the trailer park qualified for commercial rates.

Wright, an emergency medical technician in Capitan, reported that the village had been awarded a state EMS grant. The money will be used for equipment.

Village clerk Gini Spall informed the council that the United States Forest Service will begin charging easement fees for the use of the land that holds the water transmission line from Bonito Lake. Capitan paid $20 in 1984 and will pay $30 this year.

In other business, the council:
-Decided to pursue possible acquisition of land and water rights.
-Approved some line-item budget revisions.

-Discussed the need for road repairs behind the Methodist Church.

-Heard Benny Coker report on the recent grant hearings in which Capitan was awarded $400,000.

The Tigers are ready to take on Weed this weekend. Shown here is a play from a recent game against Dexter.

Is this what they mean by "Judge's chambers?" District Judge Richard Parsons doesn't think so and is upset that his office in Carrizozo is not ready to use. Shown here is the current state of his quarters.

Around Town

The LINCOLN COUNTY PLANNING AND ZONING COMMISSION will hold a regular meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, January 17, at the county courthouse in Carrizozo. The agenda includes a conference review plat of the Tall Pines Subdivision and a replat of the Magado Creek Estates Subdivisions.

Tim Collins will represent both requests.

Carrizozo Schools announced the start of the 1984-85 graduating SENIOR SCHOLARSHIP DRIVE. Purpose of the drive is to encourage scholarship donors to increase the amount of their contribution, as well as to encourage others to begin new scholarships and grants.

Presently, the Carrizozo scholarship program includes over 20 awards varying in size from $50 to $500. However, the recent closure of Belcro Industries has reduced significantly the availability of large scholarships, with the loss of three $500 scholarships.

The school recently received the students' ACT scores. Many students scored well and will be bound for college or vocational school.

With the cutbacks of federal grant and loan programs, the need for scholarships is even greater this year. Areas targeted for new scholarship contributions include technical-vocational, fine arts and low- and moderate-income students.

Additional information is available in the high school counseling office. Call Hal Roueche or Jim Miller for additional details, including assistance in establishing scholarships and tax information.

"CHANGES," a film about the stress involved with personal loss and separation, will be shown at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Methodist Church. The film kicks off a five-week stress management workshop that is open to everyone. For further information, call Birgit LaMothe at 354-2761.

The "MEET THE CANDIDATES NIGHT" will start at 7 Thursday, January 24, in the multi-purpose building at Capitan school. Come and ask the questions you feel are important for school board candidates to answer.

The BOYS BASKETBALL team will play Weed at 2 p.m. Saturday, January 19. They are ready and energized from last week's win at the Smokey Bear Classic Tournament.

Capitan High School's senior drama class will present three ONE-ACT PLAYS at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the multi-purpose building. Admission prices are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Senior citizens are invited to Friday's 9:45 a.m. performance free of charge.

Storm cancels Sunday program

Sunday's twelve-race program at Sunland Park was cancelled due to a major snowstorm which deposited over six inches of snow over the Southern New Mexico-West Texas region.

The storm created hazardous driving conditions in Dona Ana and El Paso, Texas, counties.

Sunland Park general manager Rick Henson stated, "This decision was made primarily with the safety of our fans in mind. We had received several hundred phone calls by 9:30 a.m., which indicated that many people were considering attending the races. However, we felt that in racing we would be putting hundreds of cars on the roads when police were requesting that travel be kept to a minimum, and that we would thus be exposing our patrons to hazardous travel over treacherous roads."

The planned giveaway of a free quartz digital watch in all paid attendees on Sunday has been rescheduled for Sunday, January 27.

Sunland had completed its program on Saturday, as the jockeys and their mounts braved bitter cold during the twelve-race program as the storm developed in the area.

Saturday's Pic-Six carryover of $12,009.98 will be carried forward to Friday, January 18.

Before 2,194 fans who braved Saturday's stormy weather, James Mahaffey's Negative Value drove to a neck victory in the third leg of Sunland Park's Rio Grande Marathon Series.

The winner, trained by Ralph Henson and ridden by Brent Overton, returned multiples of $15.20, $7.20 and $5.40.

Saturday's headliner was the first mile and one eighth race of the season, and the winning time was 1:52 4/5.

Favored Stanel was second and returned $5.20 and $3.80. Wrongway, who held on for show after setting the pace for the first mile, paid $8.00.

Negative Value and Stanel raced as a team down the backside, stalking Wrongway, who had drawn out to a comfortable lead. By mid-turn the three were head and head and remained that way through the upper stretch, with Stanel appearing to take the lead at the sixteenth pole. In the drive for the money, Overton's mount proved to have the most left and prevailed in a driving finish.

Negative Value reached the finish line in the eleventh about the same time the snow did, as the threatening weather which had left the track dry through most of the program finally dusted the racing surface with a snowy covering as the feature was being run.

In Saturday's ninth race, a $15,000 claiming race for older horses, Sea Horse, an 8-1 choice ridden by F.O. Martinez, raced six furlongs in 1:09 2/5, the fastest running time for that distance in two years.

Instant Glory displayed a powerful closing drive in scoring his third consecutive win in Friday's 6 1/2 furlong headliner at Sunland Park.

The winner's time of 1:03.4 equaled the fastest time for the distance this season.

Although a winner in the same class in his last two, Instant Glory closed at 4-1 and returned $10.00, $5.60 and $4.20 across the board.

F.O. Martinez has been aboard Instant Glory for each win in his current streak.

Ocean Champ was a half length behind the winner at the wire and returned place and show prices of $7.40 and $5.00, while third place finisher Troop Seven paid $5.60 to show. Favored Yet Time finished fourth after being in close quarters on the rail in the stretch drive.

Instant Glory raced with the leaders in the early going and was third at the top of the stretch. Martinez took his mount to the outside in the drive for the money and the winner showed he had plenty left as he surged by the leaders in the last hundred yards to win going away.

In Friday's sixth race—at six furlongs, for maiden claimers—rank outsider Dolls Reward proved to be the longest priced winner of the meeting, as the three-year-old lit up the tote board with a $2 win price of $174.80.

Negative Value hangs on for a neck victory Grande Marathon Series #3 at Sunland Park. Brent Overton is up.

Dadburn hayburner

William and Bill Laursen's Dadburn shoulders top weight heading a full field of older rivals going for a winner's share of $2,100 in Friday's 1 1/4-mile headliner at Sunland Park.

The feature is carded as the eleventh on a 12-race program that gets underway at 10:30 a.m. Friday's Pic-Six wagering will start off with a carryover pool of $12,009.98.

Sunland Park's management chose to cancel last Sunday's racing program after a severe winter storm dumped more than six inches of snow in the Southern New Mexico-West Texas region, creating extremely hazardous driving conditions. Sunland Park's digital watch giveaway, which was originally scheduled for that day, has been moved to January 27.

Dadburn finished a disappointing fifth his last out at 1 1/16 miles going up against a bunch carrying $2,500 price tags as the 2-1 favorite. The seven-year-old son of Burned Up showed much better form his previous two starts at Sunland, where he beat $2,500 claimers at a mile and ran second in $3,200 company at 1 1/16 miles.

The Paul Smith trainee has finished no worse than third in six of eight starts at a mile or longer since last September. A popular property, Dadburn has been claimed four times.

Threatening from Friday's feature field are: Dr. Traffic, the Claire Coombs trainee who was second against $3,200 claimers at a mile his last; Prancing Royalty, a Kentucky-bred who collected second-place money amid $2,500 claiming company at 1 1/16 miles two weeks ago;

Houlaku, a son of Fleet Host, who goes out light after finishing second at a mile last weekend; Joey Baba, a proven distance runner who was second at 6 1/2 furlongs his last trip to the gates; and Fleet 'N' Slek, the gelding trained and owned by Bob Arnett who has lit the boards on several routes against higher priced fields.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats Sunland Park Results

JAMES GRICE'S SEA HORSE shattered Sunland Park's seasonal record in Saturday's ninth, sprinting three-quarter-mile distance in 1:09 2/5. Jockey F.O. Martinez positioned the well-mannered gelding just off the pace in the early going of the sprint, before overtaking the pacesetter Stephanasian at the top of the stretch and posting a half-length win over second-place finisher Southern Ship. Stephanasian had enough left to save the third.

Sea Horse's victory upset favored Rhome Red, who finished sixth. At more than 8-1, Sea Horse handed his backers $19, $5.80 and $3.60.

Saturday's tenth found Haynsworth and Mayer's Candy Store in the winner's circle after posting a head verdict over a group of allowance rivals at 6 1/2 furlongs. The son of Against The Snow stepped the sprint in 1:16 1/5—a seasonal best for 6 1/2 furlongs.

On Friday, Sunland's 5 1/2 furlong seasonal benchmark was equalled as Schauer and Leon's Instant Glory upset wagering favorite Yet Time in the eleventh-race feature fashioned for $8,000 older claimers. The Captain Courageous gelding showed a strong stretch drive to win by a half length in 1:03 4/5 with jockey F.O. Martinez aboard.

JOCKEYS O.A. Martinez Jr., F.O. Martinez and Salustio Burgos accounted for more than half of the wins on Saturday's program.

Brothers O.A. and F.O. Martinez found themselves out front in five of Saturday's races. Together the two riders captured both ends of the daily double.

O.A. Martinez Jr. opened the day's work with a neck win on Comcarumindummy in the first—a 400-yard dash for high-dollar claimers. He was back in the winner's circle in the third with Real Snake after posting a neck decision over similar company at 400 yards. In the eighth the young rider surprised almost everyone with a front-running 1 1/4-length score on True Twister at 6 furlongs. True Twister set all the pace to finish in a sharp 1:10 2/5 at more than 23-1.

Brother F.O. Martinez took his first win in the second half of the daily double—a 6-furlong sprint for 4-year-old maidens. The jockey brought Joe R. from just off the pace to nose out Elite Mystique for the winner's share. Joe R. broke at more than 42-1 to return payoffs of $86.20, $27.60 and $14.80.

In Saturday's ninth, F.O. Martinez was up for Sea Horse's seasonal 6-furlong best of 1:09 2/5.

Salustio Burgos captured the fifth and tenth races on Saturday. The veteran rider won with Typically True in the 440-yard fifth and came back to set a seasonal best for 6 1/2 furlongs with a 1:16 1/5 clocking on Candy Store in the tenth.

SUNLAND PATRONS let Dolls Reward loose at more than 88-1 in Friday's sixth and watched the Freeland colt post a length victory over 3-year-old maidens to return seasonal high win and place payoffs of $174.80 and $87.80.

It was the first money run for Dolls Reward who had showed no better than sixth in four previous outings.

BREEDER/OWNER J.H. Sheet's Racing Fols made his first start at an official track in Sunland's ninth race on Friday, drawing out to a 1 1/2-length margin over three-year-old allowance rivals at 5 1/2 furlongs.

The J.W. Jamison trainee overtook Twilite Curfew midway and wasted no time in daylighting the bunch as the 1-9 favorite. The final time was a respectable 1:05 1/5. Jockey Richard Bickel was up for the victory.

TRAINER JAMES CURRY strengthened his win column with back-to-back victories in Saturday's eighth and ninth races. Both of the scores came with outside wagering shots.

Curry tightened the girth on True Twister in the eighth and watched the True Balcony gelding show the way with a 1 1/4-length win at 6 furlongs to return $48.60, $13.80 and $11.

True Twister (23-1) combined with 9-1 Great Policy and Truly A Prince (3-1) for a hefty eighth-race trifecta payoff of $3,188.

In the ninth, the Curry trainee Sea Horse established a seasonal 6-furlong best of 1:09 2/5 to return his backers $19, $5.80 and $3.60.

MAHAFFEY'S NEGATIVE VALUE battled favored Stanel neck-and-neck in the final yards of the third leg of the Rio Grande Marathon Series on Saturday, taking the 1 1/8-mile route on the final jump.

The six-year-old son of Just The Time went postward at 7-1 with jockey Brent Overton aboard. It was the first win since last September for the horse trained by Ralph Henson, who claimed the runner at Sunland in December. Negative Value earned more than $26,000 last year with six wins from 28 trips to the starting gate. A popular property, he has been claimed for times since last August.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

The Warm Snow

Last time we were in a "cold snow," with the temperature hammering down close to zero, with frozen flakes driven by a wind directly off the North Pole; in other words, a blizzard.

Yesterday, the fifteenth, there came a lull in the north wind and the west wind saw its chance and came drifting in off the deserts of southern New Mexico, Arizona, and northern Mexico.

Before your very eyes the world began to change. The large stretches and patches of snow on the meadows began to melt and run with sparkling little streams of snow water, onto the open stretches of winter grass. The cliffs on the hillsides shone and shimmered with miniature waterfalls flowing from the melting snow.

By high noon every trace of snow has gone from the hillsides on the north side of the valley, and most all of it had disappeared from the meadows, knolls and shelves on the south side of the river.

It was all a fairyland of miniature lakes, lagoons, rivers, waterfalls, marshes and swamps as the melt water—finding the ground full of moisture from former rains and snows—wandered and lingered trying to find some place to go as it was turned away from soaking in. Happily enough, all the melt found some hollow place on the ground where it could wait and take its time before being received gratefully by Good Mother Earth.

About mid-afternoon, Jack Frost and the rest of the Weather Spirits came by and must have said: "Boys, this will never, never do. A day in mid-winter looking more like March or April. And San Antonio, Texas, paralyzed with a foot of snow, and Jolly England and Sunny Spain shivering in blizzards. Something is badly out of kilter, and the weather picture puts us in ridicule throughout the world."

That evening the temperature was up to fifty-five, with the balmy west wind finishing off most of the rest of the snow.

Of course this was the tip-off for the picture that greeted your eyes the next morning—this morning, January 16. A brand new snow, decorating the mountain world which was like a picture, with not a breath stirring nor a sound to be heard from one side of the vale to the other.

The temperature was just barely thirty-two in the shade and warmer of course out in the half-light of the morning an hour before sunup. The sun, by the time it appeared over Sunrise Mountain, was nothing but a little patch of silver mixed with pale blue, behind the thick-and-thin pattern of the cloud ceiling.

The "warm snow," being soft and moist, was just right to adorn all the creatures of Mother Earth—from the thickest head of graminia grass, and the smallest weed and herb, to the pine and cedar evergreens of the hillside, and the oak and walnut and box elder and wild cherry near the river.

Each had its shape and character—its personality—brought forth: a little winter bonnet here on an infant oak brush plant; a caps made of white tassels on a large pinon tree; large tufts of white outlining the form of a bushy cedar; the bare branches and limbs and twigs of the giant walnut, all outlined in the soft, clinging snow, tracing the form of the tree in crystal white.

For proof that this is truly a warm snow, all you have to do is look across the valley at the hillsides on the north side, and see that now at twelve noon, with the sun still hiding behind the clouds, the snow has faded away, melted into the steep slopes, to help the grass spring forth come March and April.

On the shady side of the world the picture is the same as in early morning—snow in the winter mountain land, a joyful sight to behold.

Birthdays Of Benjamin Franklin

This will reach you on the birthday of one of our greatest and most beloved men, Benjamin Franklin, born in Boston January 17, 1706.

The encyclopedia says of Franklin: "Franklin's achievements are so great and so numerous that it is impossible to sum up all of them."

Like many of our early great men such as Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln, Franklin in his make-up combined unusual physical strength with great mental power. And like these others mentioned, his moral sense was of the highest.

The breadth of his range of abilities is unsurpassed in world history. He was first a printer, then writer, journalist, philosopher, scientist and statesman.

With all this he was the most humble and modest of men, and perhaps his outstanding trait was a deep-dwelling kindness.

He was a typical American, a dreamer yet with his feet firmly on the ground, always cheerful, hopeful and forward-looking, never tiring of doing good deeds of help for his fellow man.

He left us countless little jingles of down-to-earth guides for successful life.

"If we do not hang together, we shall all hang separately" (at the outbreak of the Revolutionary War).

And, "Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, and wealthy, and wise."

He was founder of The Saturday Evening Post, for nearly two centuries America's greatest magazine.

Opinion

Editorial

(Editor's note: The following was amended from an editorial in the Socorro Defensor Chieftain. We felt it spelled out our position on the Opinion page of The Ruidoso News very well.)

The first of the year seems a good time to reiterate the purpose of the editorial (Opinion) page and The Ruidoso News' ground rules for publishing readers' opinions—either in the form of a letter or a lengthier "Contributed Comment" piece.

In any newspaper, the editorial page ideally is the only one in which opinion should be written, where the objective facts of a story are stripped away to reveal a subjective point of view.

Readers' opinions have as important a place on this page as the opinions of the editorial staff. However, those who exercise their right to voice their opinions on this page also may—as editorial staff members already have learned—be subject to questioning by other letter writers, or by their neighbors and friends.

But all of this falls under the category of free press and freedom of speech as granted by the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States—rights shared by one and all. An opinion doesn't fall under the headings of "right" or "wrong." An opinion is an individual's point of view.

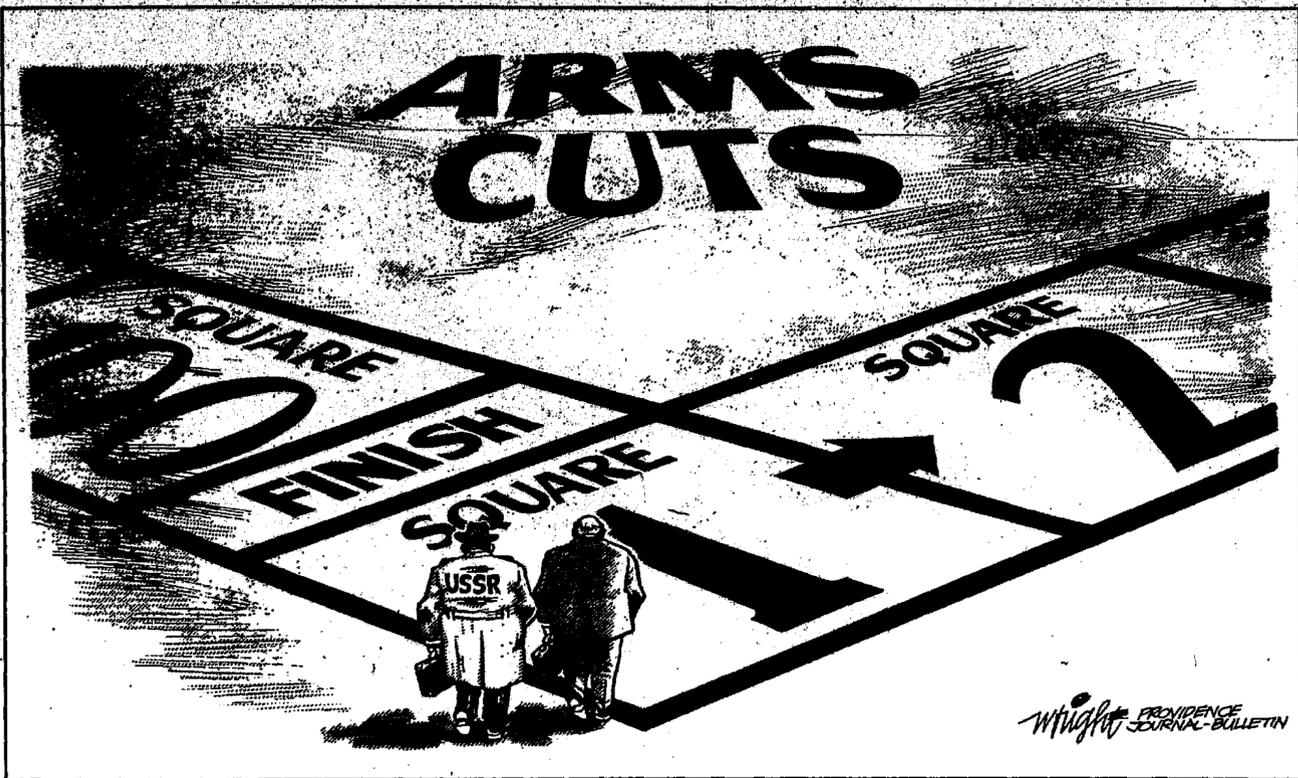

Letters to Box 128 must be signed and include the writer's address and telephone number to confirm the authorship. No letter will be printed unless signed by the writer.

Letters also may be subject to legal review. The News will not print a letter that is libelous. Letters will be edited for spelling and grammar; to delete a potentially libelous phrase; or possibly for length. We also reserve the right to reject any letter.

Keep in mind that often a lengthy letter will be bypassed by the reader in favor of a short one (brevity is the soul of wit). However, longer letters do have a place on this page—what we call the "Contributed Comment" column for those who want to take their opinions the extra yard.

We encourage letters to the editor as they give both the newspaper and its readers an idea of where the community stands on an issue. It is, also, the best feedback a newspaper has.

Any other questions about letters to the editorial page can be answered by a call—or better yet, write them down, and mail them to Box 128, Ruidoso.

Letters to the editor

(Editor's note: The December 10 letter had quoted a Ruidoso policeman asking if the writer's vehicle was from out of state and saying not to worry about it if it was.)

DEAR EDITOR: A recent letter which I wrote to your newspaper, and which appeared in the December 10th '84 issue, created a situation which somewhat embarrassed the Ruidoso police department. Apparently, due to some misinformation which I had received, my letter was in error. The police officer which made the statement about my vehicle was apparently not a Ruidoso police officer. Captain Pfeiffer of the Ruidoso police department went to a great deal of trouble to investigate this case, and to report the details to me. I would like to thank him for his work on this case and apologize for any embarrassment my letter might have caused the Ruidoso Police Dept.

Sincerely,
STEVE EVANS
Hamlin, Texas 79520

DEAR EDITOR: On behalf of the children of Assurance Home, I would like to thank everyone who remembered us this past holiday season. The expressions of love and concern from the people in your community was overwhelming and greatly appreciated.

Because so many people cared, our children's holidays were brighter and this helped them realize that, despite their situation, they have much to be thankful for.

Thank you again.

With kindest regards,
RON MALONE, DIRECTOR
ASSURANCE HOME

DEAR EDITOR: During a time when Village services have been criticized from time to time, I thought I might take a minute to thank and applaud the services as rendered by our fire and police departments.

Over the recent Christmas holidays we had occasion to seek assistance from the Fire and Police Departments. To put it simply, these departments were prompt, courteous, businesslike, helpful, concerned, and in all respects they did an excellent job. To the gentlemen and ladies of these departments, we would like to say Thank You very much!

Sincerely,
MORGAN & KAY CLOUGH

DEAR EDITOR: Everyone prays that during their lifetime they never have reason to call the Fire Department. Early, the morning of the 11th, we needed to make that call. It was cold and dark. The Fire Department's response was quick, their work efficient, and no one was hurt. We thank them for their fine work.

LARRY AND DORIS LANGFORD
JEFF AND KIL LANGFORD

DEAR EDITOR: Negligent Homicide The following scenario has come to my attention today. Imagine yourself one of the helpless prisoners in the back of a Sheriff's car—your chauffeur is a "concrete headed" female deputy driving close to a hundred miles an hour. This woman, responsible for the lives of the three youths in the back, is totally oblivious to the many possible hazards incurred at such an insane speed such as blowouts, animals on the road, mechanical failures, steering, brakes, etc., etc. Should a car at this speed crash or roll over, she possibly could open her door and jump prior to the vehicle bursting into flames—the youths in the back, being unable to open the locked rear doors, would just sit and roast to death. I am not going to make a federal case out of this, since this time she and her prisoners were very lucky and no accident occurred. Had it gone the other way, she, the county, et. could have been sued into bankruptcy; and also relatives seen to it that this woman would have been charged with a felony—criminal negligent homicide. Also lesser charges of speeding and reckless driving—since there was no emergency of any kind.

Obviously this woman is not in the majority of employees of the Sheriff's Dept. I was told by the same witness that on another occasion a diffent officer drove the entire distance from Ruidoso to Carrizozo at the legal, sane speed limit of 55 mph.

I would suggest the Sheriff's Dept. check out the men and women in their employ that fantasize they are race car drivers and give them a one-way ticket to Indianapolis. These people not only endanger the passengers in their vehicles but also the other traffic on the highway.

I have no criticism of extreme high speed driving in a "life or death" situation—no one should. But senseless endangering of innocent lives should be extremely discouraged. This is not an indictment of the Sheriff's Dept., which cannot be blamed in toto for the antics of one "idiot apple in the barrel." There is no possibility of "whitewashing" this incident since there were three witnesses present.

Just a word to the wise.
WALLY HESSE

Reporter's Round

by Darrell Pehr

It's something none of us like to think about, some even cringe at the mention of it. But ever since we threw our dependency for transportation from the horse to the horseless carriage, the topic of car repair has become a part of our lives.

Some motorists, of course, are able to avoid the unpleasantness of car repair by purchasing new cars every year, never leaving the safe harbor of the warranty period. When something goes wrong, be it as minor as a loose door lock knob, back goes the defective auto to the dealership for a complete overhaul.

After all, it's under warranty! Ha! Let them fix it!

But for those of us who cannot afford such luxury—for those of us who find ourselves in the unprotected wasteland of post-warranty auto maintenance, such a light treatment of the dread subject is not possible.

Some of us pretend to be like the "Warrantees," always preferring to take the car to the repair shop at the first sign of trouble. These "Shop-Hoppers" believe that it is a minor sin to lift the hood of a car. (Shop-Hoppers also frequent full-service gas stations!)

You can always tell a Shop-Hopper by the way they ask for rides.

"May I have a ride to the post office, my car's in the shop," they might say, indicating by a shrug of the shoulders that they had nothing to do with their car's demise—it was probably an act of God that caused the brake pads to wear out, who knows?

Shop-Hoppers are also identified by the looks of dismay that cross their faces when they read the bill from the shop for the first time. Shop bills can even be hazardous to one's health—one report tells of a Podunk, Georgia, woman who even now remains in a deep coma since 1969 when she saw the shop bill for her 1962 Ford Fairlane.

Somewhat more adventurous than Shop-Hoppers are the "Simple Replacers." These brave folks take the bold step from "Let someone else do it" to "I can't afford to let someone else do it."

Simple Replacers limit themselves to parts of a car that may be taken out in one piece, then simply replaced with a new or rebuilt piece. Anything requiring disassembly or adjustment is taboo in the realm of Simple Replacers.

Replacers realize that to venture into the arena of auto repair is akin to preparing for a pagan sacrifice to the God Maticatchi—no matter what happens, some blood will be shed.

From the moment the hood is lifted, Simple Replacers know the chances are ripe for skinned knuckles or perhaps a smashed pinkie.

Simple Replacers also avoid any part of a car that cannot be carried without grunting. You can tell just by looking at transmissions, engines, radiators and all that stuff that the rear wheels hook onto that those things are too heavy to carry without emitting some sort of grunting noise—better not fool with them.

Of course, there are some of us who will tackle any auto repair job, no matter how complex or demanding. "Ratchet Recreationalists" actually seem to enjoy spending the weekend immersed in an engine replacement job.

R.R.'s often speak in phrases few really comprehend, telling of projects to "adjust the valves," "check the timing" or even "bleed the brake lines."

Ratchet Recreationalists will go on and on about how much money they saved by fixing it themselves, never mentioning the fact that they spent the entire weekend lying underneath a greasy, dirty car during a driving snowstorm.

"I fixed my transmission, and all it cost me was this 58-cent pack of cotter pins," they might boast, holding up the cotter pin receipt with a hand that was mangled when that last bolt supporting the transmission finally came loose.

And where do you find yourself? Are you a Simple Replacer or a Warrantee; or maybe somewhere in between?

In my case, I have made an informal agreement with myself about our two cars. If I can't fix it by wiggling a wire or tapping the offending object with the handle of an ic scraper, I leave it alone in the hopes that the problem will somehow fix itself.

If, in two weeks time, the problem doesn't go away, I limit my repair efforts to the abilities of the screwdrivers, wrenches and hammer in my toolbox. If that doesn't do it, I take it right to the shop—after all, putting up with the problems of an automobile sure beats riding a horse to work... doesn't it?!

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—It's the day—Grand Opening Time for your friendly neighborhood Legislature, followed by 60 days of lawmaking that our Governor suggests sometimes resembles sausage-making.

Let's hope this session won't go like the 1984 one, when Representatives Lynn Tyler and Jim Martin were parodying what was wanted at the start as

Something for Toney,
Something for Francke,
Something for everyone—
A comedy tonight.

By the close of that session, their song ended up, as citizens remember with dismay, by saying,
Nothing for Toney,
Nothing for teachers
Nothing for anyone—
A special is in sight.

From that latter—a "special"—may the good Lord deliver us in 1985.

One thing to watch for this year: Early introduction and early voting on a Right to Work bill.

The idea is to get it past both houses quickly, and onto the Governor's desk, where it will be vetoed. Then it can be brought back, its sponsors hope, for a resounding override of the Anaya veto.

And what's the spirit in the capitol as the session begins? Antsiness, pure antsiness.

Two groups this column has long said deserved special scrutiny, the Investment Council and the Board of Finance, are now getting that kind of close supervision, ever since officials connected with both bodies were indicted for reportedly trying to drum up political contributions in a highly illegal manner.

That heightened pressure may have convinced some Anaya appointees they should slip quietly away. Santa Fe attorney Don Montoya asked not to be reappointed to the Finance Board; and Laree Durham of the Investment Council resigned without warning because, she said, developments in her career might lay her open to accusations of conflict.

Right now appears to many here to be a good time to jump ship.

It's the hurt look in their eyes that touches a columnist's flinty heart.

We who publicly express views on government and those who run it must perform rub elbows with those we criticize:

Some of them go into shock when they read their names in the paper. When you see them next, their expression mutely asks, "How could you do this to me?"

If they'd ever put the query into words, you could answer them frankly: "What? You thought you could have all the advantages of being a political bigshot without the disadvantage? How naive!"

When Representative Ray Vargas from Albuquerque was indicted by a federal grand jury, his response was to tell news reporters, "There's nothing to it. It's all a joke."

He'd better hope he doesn't have to eat those words. Despite the belief being presently put about by certain high-ranking Democrats in New Mexico, the feds don't just indict selected persons for reason of political connections. Nor are they joking when they do it.

How absurd, therefore, is the theory put forward by Vargas, which would have us believe Ronald Reagan sits around the White House thinking how to prevent Ray Sanchez from becoming Speaker of the New Mexico House of Representatives.

Here's an actual quote from a reporter who wrote, directly after speaking to the man, "Vargas claimed the indictment was timed to pressure him to shift his vote for the speaker of the House to a conservative candidate to break the virtual deadlock between mainline Democrats and a conservative coalition of Republicans and maverick Democrats in the House."

Can't you picture it? President Reagan, as he's dropping off to sleep at night: "Nance, do you think we ought to proceed against that Vargas fellow as a way of toppling Ray Sanchez from the throne?"

Special to The News from Ruidoso Little Theatre

Widely renowned gold magnate Bjorn Faulkner was found dead last night at approximately midnight outside his office building.

Reports indicate foul play, and Faulkner's secretary, Karen Andre (played by Tina Quartaroli), has been arrested and charged this morning with first degree murder.

The apparent cause of death is a fall from a great height. The body has been sent to the office of the medical examiner for an autopsy.

Andre appeared this morning in district court for arraignment. District attorney Flint (played by Dan Barrow), formally charged her with first degree murder.

Andre's attorney, Thaddeus Stevens (played by Sam Westergren), was not available for comment.

The judge set trial dates for 8 p.m.: January 24, January 25 and January 26 and January 31, February 1 and February 2. The trial is to be held in the Ruidoso Municipal Courtroom,

KAREN ANDRE (TINA QUARTAROLI)

421 Wingfield Street.

A jury will be selected each night for this case to determine the verdict.

Carl Mori, director of Ayn Rand's courtroom drama, "The Night of January 16," invites everyone to the exciting and realistic murder trial enactment.

Tickets are available at Don's Pharmacy and Schlotzsky's. Advance tickets are strongly recommended as seats for each performance are limited to the first 50 arrivals.

Tickets will also be on sale at the door. Cost of tickets is $5, but discounts are available for senior citizens and students.

Ruidoso Little Theatre also offers a package deal for the current production and for "Fiddler on the Roof," to be presented in May. The combination tickets are $10.

KAREN FOSTER

Foster reflects on MS

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Karen Foster presides over White Mountain Intermediate School's library from behind her desk. Her "Amigo" wheelchair, just an arm's length away, bears mute testimony to the multiple sclerosis (MS) that has invaded her body.

In a soft yet firm voice, Foster instructs 25 or so fifth graders to finish up and put away their projects. A few children come to her desk with questions or to check out books.

She has a smile for each one. She gets lots of smiles back, too.

The bell rings and student volunteers busily gather up scissors and materials, put them away and head on to class.

In the quiet library Foster reflects on living with MS.

She explained that MS is a degenerative disease that short circuits nerve impulses to all areas of the body. She had MS for years before she was felled by a major attack in October 1983.

Her life was changed from that day. "I do things day by day now," she said. "Today I may be walking, but tomorrow I may be in bed."

In spite of erratic symptoms like impaired vision, hearing and mobility, Foster remains active in her job as librarian, and in church and civic activities.

Her determination and independence are two qualities that impressed members of Pilot Club of Ruidoso.

They have chosen Foster as Ruidoso's Handicapped Professional Woman of the Year. She has been nominated for that title on the district level, and district selections will be submitted for national consideration.

Local clubmembers chose Foster because of her efforts to overcome and work around her disability, and for her service to the community and her attitude about herself and towards others.

In spite of the debilitating MS, Foster is working towards a bachelor's degree in elementary education. She attends local night classes during the school year; summers she attends the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

She and her husband, David, and daughter Heather attend First Christian Church, where she serves as a deaconess.

Foster is a member of the Architectural Planning and Review Committee for the Village of Ruidoso.

The limitation she regrets most is the one imposed by being dependent on wheelchair access wherever she goes.

She explained that she had always looked forward to sponsoring school field trips and being involved in Heather's activities. Her immobility and unpredictable health make that very difficult.

"It's not impossible, though," she said cheerfully. She isn't about to give up.

"Actually, the limitations MS has put on me are more bearable than some others I see," Foster said.

"Somebody else's problems always seem worse."

Education topic for Woman's Club meeting

High standards for students and teachers are maintained in Ruidoso schools, according to Ruidoso High School (RHS) principal Tom Hansen. He has an ongoing goal to improve those standards.

Hansen told the Ruidoso Woman's Club that 100 percent of RHS students passed a state-wide proficiency test last year. All New Mexico sophomores take the test; 88 percent is the statewide average passing rate.

Hansen and several RHS students presented the Woman's Club program last Wednesday. Program theme for the club was education, and Hansen explained RHS attendance policy, academic requirements and grading policy. He told members about the new facilities and extracurricular activities.

RHS students have several special opportunities that Hansen explained to the club. Students may work at the Ruidoso Care Center and earn credit for one psychology class.

High school students with a better than average grade point may be eligible to take university credit courses in the New Mexico State University extension program at the high school.

The Woman's Club supports education through scholarships and special projects. One special project provides books for school libraries. Genevieve Duncan reported on the book project.

Students Cassie McIntosh, Billie Strohmeyer, Laura Hankins, Glen Westergren, Mary Wiley and Fabienne Thirion were special guests at the meeting.

Thirion is a foreign exchange student at RHS. She is from Belgium, and she spoke to the women about her home country.

McIntosh and Strohmeyer reported on a government workshop they attended in Washington, D.C. Westergren will attend the Washington workshop next year.

Hankins and Riley were Ruidoso delegates to New Mexico Girls' State, and they told about that event.

Needles, boiled to all dents

Fresh garlic, minced
Half and half
Parmesan cheese, grated

In saute pan melt about four tablespoons of butter. Add minced garlic. Sauté the cooked noodles in the butter and garlic. Add some white wine, and heat through. Pour in half and half to "cover half volume" of noodles. Heat through and thicken with Parmesan cheese. Garnish with parsley and serve as an appetizer (for an entree, just serve larger portions).

In the service

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Mark D. Boggs recently returned from a seven-month deployment in Rota, Spain. He is the son of Mel and Bonnie Glenn of Ruidoso.

Boggs, a 1980 graduate of Ruidoso High School, is a member of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Four, based at Port Hueneme, California. He joined the Navy in 1981.

During the deployment Boggs and his group completed various construction projects and training evolutions.

The sailors' efforts ensured that the battalion is ready to respond to any emergency operation as the Atlantic Fleet alert battalion.

AFTER

I started Pat Walker's program in March of 1975 weighing 156 lbs. I was 5'2 and a size 16. I drove 170 miles to Lubbock twice a week. I had tried everything: diet doctor, Weight Watchers, heavy exercise and every fad diet that came along. My medical doctor sent me to Pat Walker's. He had seen it work on others. After seven months with Pat Walker's I had gone to a size 8. In January 1976 I purchased the Salon for Denver City, Texas at which time I was in a size 5 and have stayed a size 4 or 5 for the past 9 years.

I haven't taken regular treatments for 6 years, you don't have to continue once you get down and firm and tone. I DO stay on the Pat Walker balanced food program which helps keep me toned.

My dream for the past 10 years was to live in Ruidoso. My dream has come true, I now have my home and Pat Walker's in this beautiful area and I love it. Here is where I intend to stay.

I would like to invite each and every one to come and see what Pat Walker's can do for you, men, women, teenagers, thin or overweight.

L. Brown

Let me be quick to say that most of our patrons are here for one purpose — TO LOSE WEIGHT! That is the primary goal for all of our patrons. But we have had so many of our patrons tell us of improvements in so many other areas such as arthritis and bursitis, either clearing up or getting noticeably better. Women having had mastectomies, found that after several treatments, they had much better use of their arms. These are few added benefits to the better circulation, and toning/firming of the muscles that the unit treatment provides.

We can present a program to your club anytime just give us a call. There are special group rates available for businesses and clubs. If you can afford $18 a week, you can afford Pat Walker's (partial down payment required) There is no contract to sign just a minimum of three treatments a week — $6/treatment good thru January. $7 programs begin in February. Bring this ad in for a $50 discount.

Incumbents Stormy Edwards and Mike Morris are the only candidates for the two vacancies on the Ruidoso Board of Education. Voters will go to the polls on February 5.

Edwards and Morris to continue on board

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Two incumbents were the only candidates to file for the Ruidoso Board of Education election set for February 5.

Current board president Stormy Edwards and member Mike Morris will run unopposed for the two vacancies. Edwards has filed for the six-year term and Morris has filed for the two-year term.

Edwards, a 24-year resident of Ruidoso, graduated from the University of Texas. He has served on the board for 12 years. The 48-year-old businessman and his wife, Susie, have three children: Rowan, Michelle and Lori.

"I just feel like we've got a super school system, but I still have some goals that haven't been accomplished yet," Edwards said.

His major goal is for Ruidoso schools to be ranked number one in the state academically.

"We're not quite there. I think Los Alamos is number one and we're number two," he said.

Edwards praised the school system's teaching staff. He listed money as the major problem the board will have to overcome. They will be seeking further funding from the state for future projects.

Morris was appointed to serve out the vacancy caused by Charles McClellan's death in 1983.

He is 42 years old and has been a Ruidoso resident for about nine years. He and his wife, Karen, have three children: Todd, Michelle and Danielle.

Morris graduated from New Mexico Military Institute junior college and then received his bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of New Mexico.

"I have three kids in the system and want to invest some of my time in assuring a quality education for all Ruidoso students," Morris said.

"My philosophy is to bring forth the best educators that can be recruited. I think we have done a good job in that area. We have the best teachers in the state."

Morris commented that he had enjoyed working with the present board. He feels that they have done a good job in furthering the educational goals of the community.

"We've been complimented by the state (on the school system)," he said.

Morris also sees funding as a major area of concern. He said that capital outlay funds allocated for completion of Ruidoso High School will just barely do the job.

"Then we will have to go back for more," he said.

Susan Keeton's fifth grade science students are studying the senses. Test subjects (from left in blindfolds) Nick Nanz and Ricky Wohlgemuth decide whether the experimenters (standing, from left) Robert Campos, Danette Rice and (kneeling) Steve Grant are giving them samples of bitter, sweet or salty foods. Students learned that taste buds in different locations on the tongue react to different kinds of taste.

Subjects (from left) Brad Deelstra and Micah Whitlock just got a taste of something sour. Experimenter (standing) Katrina Gabaldon evidently found the right cluster of taste buds to register the sour or bitter taste.

Science tasty experiment

Kari Moore confers with teacher Susan Keeton on the tasting experiment. Students learned that certain taste buds only react to specific kinds of tastes.
