"No doubt about it," he answered. "He's got it all." Dallas finished with a 4-7 record last year, the Cowboys' worst record in 20 years. It was the first time in 10 seasons the Cowboys failed to make the playoffs.

DeOssie will join seven Cowboy teammates in Ruidoso this week for the All-American Pro Ski Classic. The Cowboys will compete in the Celebrity Pro-Am Race Saturday at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort.

Alonso new councillor; rail study funded

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Appointment of a new council member and a mayor pro tempore allocation of $20,000 toward a cog-wheel railway study, and progress on a narrow-gauge railway project highlighted the Tuesday evening meeting of the Ruidoso Village Council.

Ruidoso restaurateur Victor Alonso was appointed by Mayor George White and unanimously accepted by the council to fill the seat vacated by the recent death of Sherman Atwood. Alonso was immediately sworn in by Ruidoso Municipal Judge John Cupp and took his seat at the council table.

At the suggestion of White, councillors and members of the audience stood for a moment of silence for Sherman Atwood.

Alonso thanked fellow councillors for their confidence in accepting him for the position.

"He did a good job," Alonso said of Atwood. "I know it's a big set of shoes I'm stepping into. Trusting in God, I'll do a good job for you."

Also during the meeting, the council unanimously approved the naming of councillor Jerry Shaw as mayor pro tempore in the event of White's absence.

"It's been a real pleasure to work with this council," she commented.

Later in the meeting, the council voted to allocate $20,000 of the next fiscal year's budget to a feasibility study for a cog-wheel railway.

Presenting the request was Ruidoso

Valley Chamber of Commerce president James Paxton. Paxton spoke in place of state Planning and Development director Ron Sheek, who was forced to cancel due to weather.

Paxton said a feasibility study for the state-initiated $43 million proposed railway project will cost about $80,000. Of that figure, the state has promised $20,000. Ruidoso banks have pledged $10,000 and local investors have pledged $5,000.

Together with the Ruidoso pledge, $55,000 has been raised so far for the study. Paxton indicated the remaining funds will be sought from other area entities.

Of the state pledge, $15,000 will go to a travel demand study and $5,000 to a tourism origination study. Paxton said bids have been let for the studies but awarding of contracts awaits other financial support for the study.

Chamber executive director John Jeffers pointed out that the state's support of the two studies is just a part of those studies' total costs.

Paxton said the studies would be valuable to Ruidoso advertising efforts even if they did not show favorable indications for the railway.

Councillor Bill Karn expressed interest in seeing more detailed information of the study costs before offering his support. He also noted that if the study proved to be unfavorable for the system, the community would not get the benefit of having the railway here.

Also during the discussion, it was learned that the railway system, as planned, will travel from the proposed airport site on Fort Stanton Mesa to Ruidoso, from Ruidoso to Ruidoso Downs Race Track, from the track to the Inn of the Mountain Gods, and from there to Sierra Blanca Ski Resort.

Councillor Shaw suggested that the money be requested from the Lodgers' Tax Committee. At Councillor John Underwood's motion, however, the council voted to allocate the funds from the 1985-1986 fiscal year budget—contingent on the total $80,000 being raised.

Also on the subject of railways, the council heard a presentation from Mike Mulholland, president of the Ruidoso Territorial Narrow Gauge Railway. Mulholland said he had been working on establishing a narrow-gauge railway in the Ruidoso area since 1970.

For the past two years, Mulholland said, he has conducted in-depth research on the project. He said he was before the council Tuesday for their careful consideration of the system.

Mulholland disclosed few details of the system, saying only that the project would be a step-by-step process, beginning with planning of a patron parking and ticket sales area.

The railroader said he would return to the council with more information later. He noted that ownership of the railway system would be through the purchase of shares of stock.

Through the stock purchase plan, Mulholland said, "We can all say that 'it's my railroad.'"

White voiced his support of the project, recalling fond boyhood memories of hearing train whistles piercing the cold night air.

"I do think it would be a tremendous asset to our community and its surroundings," he stated.

In other business, the council:

—Voted to present a letter of credit for collection to complete the sale of the Overlook Park property. Purchaser Greg Masters indicated he originally had presented the letter with the intention that the village close the deal by taking the letter to the bank for collection, but a misunderstanding prevented the village from completing the deal.

Contacted Wednesday, Masters said the misunderstanding, coupled with his being out of town on business, led to the delay of finalization of the purchase.

—Voiced agreement with Councillor Rick Evans' denouncement of a recent editorial cartoon in The Ruidoso News regarding Mescalero Apache Tribe president Wendell Chino.

"I, for one, do not condone the prejudice depicted in this cartoon," Evans stated.

—Heard a report from resident and former missionary Carl Foerster regarding a children's home. Foerster detailed occurrences in Ruidoso that indicate a need for a foster or alternative home for troubled children.

"I've seen needs that somehow have never been budgeted," he said. Foerster said he was before the council to inform them of progress on the children's home project. He noted that donations are being accepted and a site for construction of a non-denominational Christian home is being sought.

"When a child comes to us, they're hurting," he said.

—Approved White's appointment of Lori Griffin and Karen Foster to the Architectural Plans Review Committee.

—Approved White's appointment of Rick Davis to the Parks and Recreation Committee.

—Approved a restaurant beer and wine license for Sutphen's Restaurant.

—Approved, with Alonso and Karn dissenting, the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission to rezone from R-1 to C-1 a tract of land in the Young Heights subdivision. A neighboring property owner had protested the rezoning request in an attempt to prevent the construction of an office complex there.

—Representing the request was attorney Dan Bryant, who noted efforts to create a buffer between the two properties with a planned cedar fence.

—Approved the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission to rezone from R-1 to R-2 several tracts of land in the Woodland Ridge subdivision.

—Decided to wait on action to obtain an emergency access route into Paradise Canyon Heights until property owners there contact the village administration and go before the council.

—Approved Ordinance 84-30, providing a procedure for determining probation violations and contempt arising from disobedience in Municipal Court.

—Approved Ordinance 84-1, providing a procedure for removal of members of boards, committees and commissions for more than three unexcused absences in a year or two in a row.

—Approved Ordinance 84-2, providing for a 20-foot front lot line setback for all commercial property north of Terrace Drive on Highway 37, excluding business signs.

—Approved Ordinance 84-3, providing for a penalty for not obtaining a building permit. The ordinance was approved with the stipulation that the maximum jail sentence for violators be reduced from 90 to 30 days.

—Approved Ordinance 84-4, providing for annexation of the Clayton Bennett property. Village attorney Lee Huckstep noted that it was mistakenly believed the property had been annexed earlier.

—Voted to abolish the Ruidoso Water Commission, with thanks to those who served.

—Directed Planning and Zoning enforcement officer Paul Davis to request that planners BRW include consideration of a special zoning classification for the Cree Meadows golf course property.

—Heard Davis assure Karn that a land use map and zoning map would be included in the BRW studies.

—Adjourned into executive session to discuss threatened litigation and a letter from the Atkins-Landfair engineering firm.

Federal flood relief $12,000

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

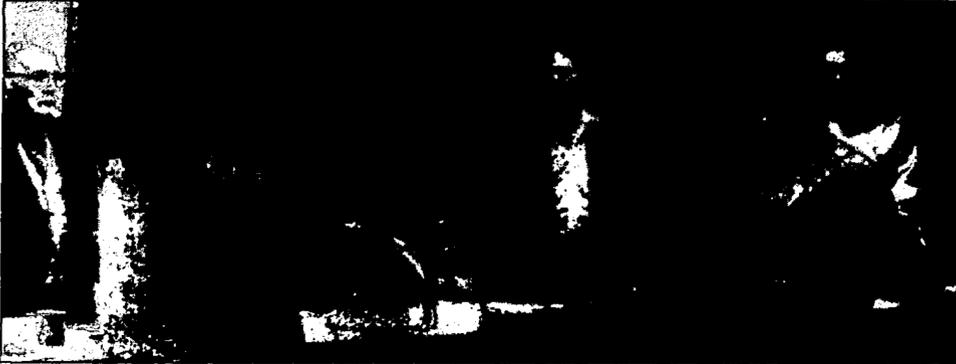

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) officials have determined that Ruidoso is eligible for about $12,000 in flood relief for damage caused by the December flooding.

Responding to a January 18 declaration by President Ronald Reagan, FEMA officials conducted an applicant's briefing in Carrizozo Friday for all those who sought funding for flood damage in Lincoln and Torrance counties.

Attending the briefing from Ruidoso was assistant village manager Frank Potter. Potter indicated FEMA's offering of funding turned out to be less than was hoped for.

He outlined the relief as $8,157 for a sewer line in Paradise Canyon, $2,725 for roadwork on the Tomahawk Drive crossing of Carrizo Creek and $812 for the Reese Drive crossing of the Rio Ruidoso. A request for damaged Cedar Creek Drive went unfunded.

Those figures came from Damage Survey Reports conducted this week by FEMA engineers in Ruidoso. Potter said no problems are foreseen in the village collecting the funds, but he said FEMA audits of how the funds are spent can prove troublesome.

Ruidoso Municipal Judge John Cupp (right) swears in newly appointed Ruidoso Village Councillor Victor Alonso at the Tuesday meeting of the council.

P&Z to meet Tuesday

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission will meet at 3 p.m. Monday, February 4, at village hall. The regular study session will precede the meeting at 2 p.m. Items on the agenda are:

—Various variances on lot 16, block 12, Ponderosa Heights subdivision, Unit 2, for N. L. Taylor.

—Replat of lots 17 and 18, block 4, Black Forest subdivision, for David Karber and Paul Knight.

—Replat of tract A, a tract of land in block 16, Alto Crest subdivision, Unit 2, for AVC Development Corporation and Albert Niess.

—Request for a change in use from townhome to condominium of Vista Del Lago phase 1 and 2, for TES Investment Corporation.

—Second replat of the Sierra Professional Center, being lots 54-61, block 8, Palmer Gateway subdivision.

Airport

Public hearings will be conducted sometime this summer, Heckman indicated. It is hoped that completion of the EIS and a Department of the Interior decision on a land transfer to allow an airport will be completed within a year from now.

Heckman said geological, archaeological, soils and alternative site plans have been completed, with only the EIS to be done.

Heckman predicted the EIS will repeat findings from earlier studies of the airport site.

"We've got a pretty good idea of what's going on on that mesa," he commented.

Heckman said steps toward achieving an airport pose no problems, it is only the site decision that still blocks progress.

The coming of summer in Ruidoso signals the increase of air traffic—a cause for worry, according to Heckman. The airport has been the site of 17 crash deaths in the past 20 years.

Heckman said the presence of air traffic controllers at the airport will help the situation somewhat.

"At least there's someone out there talking to them," he said.

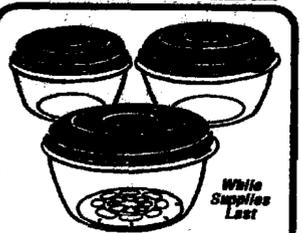

Heckman praised the efforts of Governor Toney Anaya, Federal Aviation Administration officials and other federal agencies for their efforts on the airport situation.

"Everybody's trying," he said.

Heckman said the airport commission is operating with the expectation that approval of the land transfer will occur in a year, and that construction of the airport will be completed within three years of that approval.

Downs to rebid water storage tank

BY TIM PALMER
News Editor

The Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees decided Monday to rebid a 500,000-gallon water storage tank project.

Engineer Barrett Atkins told the board that the low bid on the tank—by Cooper Scott of Lubbock, Texas—was $145,337. With engineering and other expenses added to that figure, the project's estimated cost was put at $171,587.

That is about $28,000 more than the Community Development Block Grant and Water Supply Construction funds the village has available.

Atkins said the project could be scaled down to a 350,000- to 400,000-gallon tank to bring it within budget. He also suggested that the village could pay the cost overage and collect it from future developers.

The engineer predicted that no more state money would be available until next fall. He said site preparation and foundation work had driven up the bids.

Trustees and Mayor J. C. Day were opposed to scaling down the tank size. Village attorney Lee Griffin pointed out that site work would have to be done whatever size tank was installed.

Attorney Don Dutton suggested bidding the tank and the site work separately, and the board concurred.

A motion from trustee Jake Harris to reject all bids on the project and rebid it in two parts passed unanimously. Trustee Conrad Buchanan said he hoped local contractors would bid on the site preparation work.

Atkins said the project could be rebid immediately and bids could be received in about five weeks, keeping the water storage tank project close to schedule.

The tank will be built due east of the former Red Men Club on a hilltop overlooking Highway 70.

In other business Monday, the board:

- Approved the hiring of police officer Cathryn Mounsey.
- Approved travel of village employees Wilma Webb and Sharon Payne to Governmental Finance Officers meeting in Santa Fe February 7 and 8.
- Heard a report from enforcement officer J. D. Knops on designation of the White Mountain Inn as a historical site. He said the state had sent an application in response to his request.
- Heard a report from Buchanan on Federal Emergency Management

Agency (FEMA) action on flood damage in the village. He said a damage survey report on a bridge at Entrance Road had been lowered by $300, to $11,300.

However, FEMA recommended construction of concrete "wing" walls for the bridge, which Buchanan said would be cheaper and better than repair of the bridge with manual labor. The damage survey report on the Friedenbloom bridge was unchanged, and FEMA added $943 reimbursement to the village for costs incurred in the December flooding.

- Voted to accept a $154,000 grant from the state for street and drainage work. The action was a formality required after the state mistakenly sent notification of the grant to the Village of Ruidoso.
- Confirmed to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Thompson that they would not have to continue paying a double sewer charge. Their property with its two residences cannot be hooked onto the sewer because of terrain. The Thompsons were to be credited for past payments.
- Appointed Buchanan the applicant's agent on a flood grant application.
- Adjourned into executive session to discuss acquisitions and litigation.

Ski enthusiasts Charlie Kemp, Jan Summers and Audrey Allison of Amarillo became 'SKI' to win best float honors in the Winter Madness Parade Saturday. Plaza D'Oros sponsored the winning entry.

C of C board

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors voted Wednesday to participate in a vacation show in New Orleans, Louisiana, in late March.

Favorable reports on trade shows attended by chamber representatives in San Antonio, Texas, and Amarillo, Texas, preceded the action. The chamber will send its classic Cadillac to the New Orleans show, in the hope of selling more tickets for the car drawing.

The board also voted to participate in next year's San Antonio show, provided funds are available. Nancy Radziewicz, who went to San Antonio and will go to New Orleans, reported that bad weather hurt attendance at the Texas city's show this year.

Also Wednesday, the board voted to invite the Mescalero Apache Tribe and Ruidoso Downs Race Track to name representatives as ex officio Chamber of Commerce board members. Ex officio members have voting privileges.

In other business, the chamber board:

- Heard Paul Crown report that 18 dropped members had rejoined the chamber after a telephone calling campaign, with the callers being paid a five percent commission on membership dues.
- Acknowledged donors of lodging, meals and other amenities that make up the ski packages given away at trade shows.
- Voted to let the Art Festival Committee open its own bank account to expedite handling of funds.

- Heard board president James Paxton report on the village council's appropriation of $20,000 for a railway feasibility study and approval in concept of a narrow-gauge railway.
- Heard Paxton urge members to push auction tickets and Pro Am spots for the All-American Pro Ski Classic.
- Voted to send a letter to the editor of The Ruidoso News concerning a recent editorial cartoon. The letter will state the views of the newspaper as expressed in the cartoon are not shared by the Chamber of Commerce. A copy of the letter will go to Mescalero Apache Tribe president Wendell Chino.
- Voted Buddy Bundick to an additional year on the board and appointed him to chair the Nominating Committee. Sue Slidow will chair the HN'ZU'NA committee.

Ruidoso cagers open district action in Wildcats' den

Boys nipped by Tularosa

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

If the Ruidoso High School boys varsity basketball team could ever put a complete game together, the Warriors could be tough.

Tuesday night Ruidoso fell to visiting Tularosa 52-49, after a late surge just missed catching the Wildcats. Last Saturday against Portales, the Warriors played well until the last two minutes when the Rams pulled away for a 53-36 win.

Now the Warriors have to open the District 3-AAA season Saturday at Deming. The Wildcats tied for the district round-robin title last season, and are at least as strong this season.

Against Tularosa, the Warriors ran into an effective zone defense which bothered them all night.

"I hate playing against the zone," said Warrior coach Gene Segura. "Our game plan was to try and get the lead, hold the ball and take them out of their zone."

But the Warriors couldn't get the lead, and trailed all night. Tularosa grabbed a 6-0 edge before Ruidoso's Tracy Gann hit a bucket.

Tularosa led 12-5 at the first-quarter break and 26-19 at halftime.

Ruidoso trailed Tularosa 39-32 entering the final quarter, but gradually cut into the Wildcats' lead.

Tularosa stretched its lead back up to 10 points twice in the final period, but the Warriors kept coming back.

The Wildcats had a 52-45 lead with two minutes remaining. However, Gann hit a bucket and Dion Lopez made a driving layup for the final points of the game.

Gann led the Warrior scoring with 13 points, netting six field goals and a free throw. Lopez added eight points on four field goals.

Juan Ramos led Tularosa with 16 points.

"I think we outbounded them," Segura commented. "But our shooting was terrible. When you can't hit five and 10-foot shots inside the lane, that kind of puts a damper on your game plan."

The Deming game could be one of the Warriors' toughest of the season.

The boys varsity game will follow the boys junior varsity contest and girls varsity contest.

Girls fall to Roswell

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

Now the real race begins.

The Ruidoso High School girls varsity basketball team will open District 3-AAA play Saturday at Deming. And it's unlikely the Warriors will face anyone with the scoring touch of Roswell's Julie Medrono.

Medrono swished the nets for 36 points as Roswell beat the visiting Warriors 71-49 Tuesday night. She scored 23 points in the first half as Roswell took a 42-27 lead. Ruidoso dropped to 2-9 on the season.

"She just got hot and we couldn't stop her," said Warrior head coach Sergio Castanon. "She hit most of her shots from the outside."

The young Warriors again were hurt by turnovers, committing 44 of them. Ruidoso trailed the hosts 61-36 entering the final period. However, the Warriors outscored Roswell 13-10 in the final quarter.

Warrior sophomore Katherine Sanchez had her best game of the season, scoring 19 points and grabbing nine rebounds.

Senior Diane McClure added 13 points, 11 rebounds and did a good job blocking shots. Susan Davis added six points and picked off 11 rebounds.

Senior guard Sheila Espinosa played well, scoring five points and doing a good job on defense.

Castanon had praise for sophomore guard Berdine Smith, who started just her second game.

"She handles the ball well and feeds very well inside," he said.

"We played well with the depth we have. They had a lot more players than us. Our players showed a lot of hustle." Now the Warriors must prepare for Deming.

The game will be played between the boys junior varsity and varsity games. The boys junior varsity game will start at 4 p.m.

"I don't know much about Deming," Castanon said. "They're not ranked."

Castanon thinks the key to the Warriors' chances will be to cut down on their turnovers, get the ball inside and get outside shooting from the guards.

"Our guards' shooting should come around," he said. "They're getting more experienced."

Deming and Ruidoso both lost in the first round of the district playoffs last season. The Warriors split with Deming last season, winning at home and losing on the road.

Silver City, Hot Springs and Cobre look like the toughest teams in the district this season. All three have been ranked in state polls.

Warrior junior varsity edged by Roswell Coyotes, 26-24

The Ruidoso High School girls junior varsity basketball team lost a tight 26-24 decision to Roswell Tuesday night on the winners' court.

Ruidoso missed a last-second shot that would have tied the game.

Roswell jumped off to an 18-10 halftime lead, but the Warriors fought back.

Ruidoso held the Coyotes to two points in the third period, and trailed 20-13 entering the final period. The Warriors cut Roswell's lead until the last-second shot missed. Lillian Duffy scored 12 points to lead the Warriors. Eight Ruidoso players scored.

"I think the girls played very well," said Warrior varsity coach Sergio Castanon. "They made a good comeback and almost pulled the game out."

The Warrior junior varsity is 4-4 on the season. The junior Warriors will play their next game Tuesday night, February 5, at Tularosa. The game will start at 5:30.

Are the Ruidoso High School boys and girls varsity basketball teams ready for District 3-AAA play?

Ruidoso will open the district schedule with games at Deming Saturday.

Deming tied for the boys district round-robin title last spring and is probably even stronger this season. The Wildcats have one of the top AAA-division boys programs in the state.

The Wildcats girls, however, are not rated as one of the favorites for the district championship. Hot Springs, Silver City and Cabre have veteran squads and rate as favorites for the district crown and playoffs.

Ruidoso is 1-12 in boys play and 2-9 in girls' action. Thus, it seems the Warriors will be in for a tough time in both games Saturday.

The Warrior boys need to improve their shooting to have a chance against Deming. In the 52-49 loss to Tularosa Tuesday night, Ruidoso did not find its shooting touch until the final quarter.

By then, Tularosa had built up a seven-point lead and the Warriors couldn't make up the difference.

The Warriors' rebounding has improved, but Ruidoso will have to show even more improvement against the tall Wildcats Saturday.

If the Warriors can be competitive against Deming, they should do fairly well in district play.

The Warrior girls have a strong inside game with senior Diane McClure leading the way. McClure made the all-district first team last season and is a good scorer and rebounder.

But Ruidoso's outside shooting has been erratic, and that must improve for the Warriors to be a contender.

Coach Sergio Castanon plans to bring some junior varsity players up to the varsity for district play. That could improve the team's outside shooting.

All in all, the Warrior boys and girls teams look like spoilers in district play right now. If the teams can improve their shooting touch, they could rise to the role of contenders.

Turning to college basketball, it looks like the University of New Mexico Lobos will again be a strong contender for post-season action.

The Lobos made the National Invitational Tournament (NIT) last season.

The Lobos are 6-2 in Western Athletic Conference play and 13-6 overall. That's not bad for a team that was supposed to be rebuilding this season.

New Mexico lost a 71-69 decision to defending conference champion University of Texas at El Paso Saturday.

Even if the Lobos don't win the conference championship this season, they might have a good shot at a National Collegiate Athletic Association or NIT berth.

Warrior wrestlers take on Roswell

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School varsity wrestling team hopes to complete a seasonal sweep over Roswell when the Warriors meet the Coyotes in Roswell Friday.

Junior varsity competition will start at 6 p.m. The varsity match will begin at 7 p.m.

The Warriors are 3-2 in dual-match competition, including a 39-21 victory over Roswell earlier this month in Ruidoso. They also outscored Roswell in the Carlsbad Tournament last weekend.

However, the Warriors picked up four forfeit victories and the Coyotes gained two.

This time, both teams should fill more of the weight classes. The Warriors will have wrestlers in every weight class except 114 pounds. Roswell probably will have three more wrestlers this time.

"I think the key to us winning could be Scott Yeatman beating their guy again at 107 pounds and Kerry Jameson winning at 157 pounds," said Warrior head coach Gerald Ames. "Scott beat their guy last time, but he's only a freshman while the Roswell guy is a junior."

Jameson beat his Roswell opponent at 147 pounds last time, but will be in a heavier class this time.

The only other Warrior matman to defeat his opponent in the first Roswell match was Jameson's brother Kevin at 187 pounds. Jameson has improved considerably in the last two weeks and just missed placing at the Carlsbad Tournament.

Ruidoso should have an edge in the heavier weight divisions. Roswell could be slightly stronger in the lighter weights.

James Herrera has been the most successful Warrior matman this season. The 169-pound junior has a 5-2-1 dual-match record and finished fourth in the Carlsbad Tournament. Earlier this season, Herrera took second in the Los Lunas Tournament.

Zach Swalander at 140 pounds has also done well. He finished fourth at Carlsbad.

The Ruidoso junior varsity will also wrestle, although it's not certain how many wrestlers Roswell has.

Some of the top Warrior junior varsity wrestlers this season have been Augustine Apache (157 pounds), Lance Willard (134), Dustin Volquardson (140), Don Eder (160), Robert Harris (155), Al Holt (107), Don Jones (155), and Jimmy Frost (heavyweight).

The Warriors will travel to Tucumcari Monday. Ruidoso will meet Tucumcari and Penasco.

Following are the tentative starters for the Warrior varsity Friday.

100: Jeff Schmidt; 107: Scott Yeatman; 121: Cory Garner; 128: Manuel Montano; 134: Tony Breaud or Lance Willard.

140: Zach Swalander; 147: Kyle Jameson; 157: Kerry Jameson; 169: James Herrera; 189: Kevin Jameson; Heavyweight: Phillip Herrera.

Recreation cage teams resume action Saturday

The Village of Ruidoso Adult Men's Basketball League will have its second round of play Saturday and Sunday at White Mountain School.

The Cobras will meet Alamo Pipe at 6 p.m. in the first game Saturday. The second Saturday game will have Aspen Pharmacy taking on Reddington Investments at 7:30.

In action Sunday night, Pizza Inn will take on Moncor at 5; the Chiefs will battle T&C at 6:30; and the Shockers will play The Incredible at 8.

Play opened last week with five games.

Moncor topped the Chiefs 98-81. Jerone Holly led the winners with 39 points. Warren Coleman added 24.

Gordon Howell scored 32 and Mark Williams had 25 for the Chiefs.

Warrior junior varsity loses in triple-overtime

The Ruidoso High School boys junior varsity basketball team lost a 52-50 triple-overtime decision to visiting Tularosa Tuesday night.

Freddie Leal hit two free throws to give the Wildcats the margin of victory. Ruidoso is now 4-7 on the season.

Ruidoso led most of the game, but the Wildcats came back to tie the game in the final seconds of regulation time.

The Warriors had a 16-9 lead at the first-quarter break, and were ahead 27-18 at halftime. Ruidoso led 35-29 entering the fourth quarter.

In the first overtime, Ruidoso's Jeff Willingham rebounded in a missed shot for a 50-48 Warrior lead.

There wasn't any scoring in the second overtime, and Leal's free throws were the only points of the final overtime period.

Carl Lueras led the Warriors with 13 points.

Fort Stanton getting federal look

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

Dr. Fitzhugh Mullen, secretary of the New Mexico Health and Environment Department, confirmed Wednesday that Fort Stanton Hospital for the Developmentally Disabled is under investigation by the Civil Rights Division of the United States Justice Department.

Mullen said the Justice Department is concerned with the "quality and appropriateness" of patient care at Fort Stanton. Over the next several months, the department will send several experts to inspect Fort Stanton and make a report. A physician specializing in the developmentally disabled will be included on the panel.

Mullen said the Justice Department emphasized that there is no prejudice on its part. The investigation is an "obligatory response to complaints," said Mullen.

Mullen said he did not know which group brought the complaints to the Civil Rights Division and what specific complaints were made. He said the Justice Department will not divulge its sources.

However, Mullen's aide, Roy Lopez, said that a file listed Protection and Advocacy Systems in Albuquerque as the group which filed the charges. Although he was unsure of the specific charges or complaints, Lopez said one issue was related to the death of an elderly patient in October 1983.

According to Lopez, HED chief counsel Bill Walker met with counsel from the Justice Department Wednesday to review the case. No conclusions were reached.

Elizabeth Church of Protection and Advocacy Systems refused to comment on the specifics until she received future word from the Justice Department. According to Church, the Justice Department contacted her organization a long time ago, asking for information. Church said her organization responded with several issues.

Mullen said his office would cooperate fully with the Justice Department.

"In my estimation, the facility (Fort Stanton) is in good shape," said Mullen.

According to Mullen, the Justice Department is not concerned with the controversial deinstitutionalization issue.

"Their concern is quality care and potential abuse in client civil rights," he said.

The issue of deinstitutionalization was addressed in the recently released special task force report on Fort Stanton. The task force was formed last year by a mandate in the state Legislature after the state administration proposed plans to close or change the hospital. The committee was composed of legislators, families of patients and experts in the field.

"The committee's work exemplified the controversy in the field," said Lou Landry, task force head.

New Mexico code mandates that developmentally disabled patients be placed in the "least restrictive environment possible." In keeping with that, the task force recommended that as many patients as possible be transferred from Fort Stanton and Los Lunas Hospitals to community situations such as group homes.

Landry said the majority of the patients at Fort Stanton could be treated in a non-institutional setting. Currently there are not enough group homes available, but Landry said that over 100 spaces will become available soon in group homes that are now being built.

According to Landry, the task force is still investigating the types of developmentally disabled people who need the support of an institution. These patients include developmentally disabled people who have mental illness and substance abuse problems, and those who fall in the community.

Landry said care of the mentally retarded has undergone an "evolution" in the past 10 years. In the early 1970s, the only alternative to home care was institutions, said Landry.

Now, group homes and other alternate facilities have evolved, forcing all involved to re-evaluate the role of the institution.

Some people acquainted with Fort Stanton do not feel that all of the patients there could live in community settings.

"There are about five or 10 people on a statewide 'group home blacklist,'" said one person involved with the hospital. Those patients have been sent back to Fort Stanton because they disrupted group homes.

The task force recommended that 10 beds at Fort Stanton be used for respite care, a temporary stay for someone whose family needs to have them away for some reason.

The task force also recommended that a national committee be brought in to look at Fort Stanton for accreditation and quality control purposes.

Landry does not foresee the closure of Fort Stanton in the immediate future. The 1984 Legislature mandated that the facility remain open for the rest of this fiscal year, and Landry thinks this Legislature will make a similar mandate for the next year.

Fort Stanton administrator Mark Delgado was in Santa Fe this week to discuss Fort Stanton with HED officials. He could not be reached for comment.

Greg Haussler of the Soil Conservation Service holds an auger, a tool for sampling soil. A free publication titled "Soil Survey of Lincoln County Area" was released recently by the service.

Soil survey report completed

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

Everything you have ever wanted to know about Lincoln County's soil, but were afraid to ask, is now available in a free publication by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS).

The "Soil Survey of Lincoln County Area" is a comprehensive book that describes all the soil in the county (excluding the White Sands Missile Range area in the western region). To prepare the report, surveyors spent six years doing field work in the county and two years compiling the data.

The purpose of the book, according to Greg Haussler of SCS, is to help people find the best uses for their land. Using the extensive maps and tables, a person can locate his area and determine the types of soil that makes up his land. With that as a guide, people can plan land use and solve soil-related problems.

The book begins with a chapter on how to use the 200-page survey and the many pullout maps it contains. The first 11 maps, covering the more developed area of the county from Capitan through Ruidoso, are done in a higher detail than the rest of the maps.

There are 96 different "mapping units" that serve as keys to the survey. To find out what type of soil you have, you would locate your area on the map, jot down the unit numbers and read the description about it.

One mapping unit may contain different types of soil, and an area of land may contain different mapping units.

All of the soil types are charted on extensive tables that give various information about each type's uses and restrictions. Major tables detail recreational development, wildlife habitat, building site development, sanitary facilities, construction materials, water management, engineering properties and physical and chemical properties for all the land covered.

The survey is part of a study made by the United States Cooperative Soil Project. Lincoln County was chosen because of its subdivision and recreation development.

"It was felt that people needed to be aware of the physical features of the soil," said Haussler.

The SCS works with landowners, farmers and ranchers to help develop conservation plans. Haussler said on-site inspections can be arranged to help people solve different problems related to their soil and its capabilities.

The SCS, along with members of the local soil and water conservation districts, regularly inspects proposed subdivisions, preparing valuable reports for the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Commission.

When inspecting the land, they look at all things related to terrain management, including the use of soils, possible flooding hazards, erosion and liquid waste disposal.

Another function of the SCS is to provide resource information to the community. Haussler is available to speak to any group or organization.

Haussler can be reached at his Capitan office (next to the United States Forest Service office) at 354-2220. Survey books are available there and at the county office in Carrizozo.

Bond issue, mill levy on school ballot Tuesday

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

Voters in the Capitan School District will decide the fate of the proposed school bond and two-mill levy in the election Tuesday, February 5.

The bond issue, for $975,000, is to be used for expansion of school facilities. The master plan includes the acquisition of adjacent Forest Service land, the construction of a new library and larger cafeteria, and the relocation or renovation of the football field and track.

The cafeteria was built in 1967 to accommodate 100 students. Presently, more than 500 students use the facilities, eating in five different shifts.

"We desperately need more space for the cafeteria," said Capitan school superintendent Leonard Hays.

The library also was built for one-fifth of the current student enrollment. Over the past eight years, the student population has grown 10 percent each year.

Hays said the new elementary school was built in 1978 with the idea that it would provide enough space to last 10 years. Five years later, it is already full.

"We really have very little room for growth," said Hays. He stressed that he felt the bond revenue funds for expansion were a necessity for the school.

"It's not just something we'd like to have," he said.

If passed, the bond issue will require a tax levy increase of approximately $3.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. For example, if a taxpayer's property has an appraised value of $15,000 (market value is usually higher) and an assessed valuation of $5,000 (one-third of the appraised value), the cost increase will be $17.50 per year, or $1.46 per month.

The tax increase will show up in the November 1985 tax notices. There would be no change in taxes for this year.

The two-mill levy is currently in effect, having passed in 1982. A "yes" vote on Tuesday will extend the levy for three more years.

Passage of the levy will not increase taxes, it will keep them the same as they have been since the levy was first voted in in 1977.

According to Hays, the mill levy generates approximately $60,000 each year. Those funds are primarily used for building maintenance, repair and minor expansion, but also can be used toward the major expansion plan.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesday at the fair building in Capitan. The school board race - between Tom Trost, Armando Quinones and Robert Rannels - also will be on the ballot.

The Capitan school district includes Capitan, Lincoln, Angus, Bonito, Pine Ridge and Nogal Mesa areas. The district boundaries extend from the south side of Alto, not including Rancho Ruidoso, to the west, one mile south and one mile east of Nogal. Voters must be registered in Lincoln County to vote in the election.

David Collins broadens his students' horizons

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

David Collins is a "cool" teacher. He relates well to his Capitan students while trying to get them to experience what they are learning.

Collins teaches junior high and high school social studies and Spanish. Before coming to Capitan six years ago, he taught in Carrizozo for one year and in Blythe, California, for six years.

While earning his degree in Spanish and history from the University of Nevada at Reno, Collins spent his junior year studying in Madrid, Spain. Prior to college, he was stationed in Germany while serving in the Army.

"It's hard to believe I was in Europe twice before I was 25," Collins said with an air of surprise. He uses slides he took abroad in his teaching.

Collins brings his experiences to his students in hopes they will learn to see things in terms of process.

"I want them to see beyond the present," he said, citing the situation in Central America as an example. "Some of these kids could end up fighting over there ... they ought to be aware of what's going on."

DAVID COLLINS

Collins integrates topical discussions with his history lessons. In a recent chapter on the Industrial Revolution, Collins tried to show the impact of machines on today's society as well as in the past.

A self-proclaimed "energy-ecology freak," Collins stresses aspects of that interest in his classes. In the American History unit on whaling, Collins sang some folksongs to the class, lamenting the nearly extinct species.

Whales are slaughtered for their oil, which is used in manufacturing such products as cosmetics and shoe polish. According to Collins, all the uses for the oil can be duplicated synthetically, so there is no need to kill the whales. Japan and Russia kill more than 100 whales each day, said Collins.

Collins exhibits his enthusiasm for ecology and natural energy in the passive solar adobe house he built in Capitan.

Students in Collins' classes also have a chance to be creative. Collins requires them to do one hand-made project each semester.

"I want them to learn how to use their hands. Everything today is factory made," he said.

Collins also requires one drawing with every unit studied. He hopes this exercise will encourage students to look through books to get ideas for their pictures. His classroom is lined with shelves of various books and magazines.

As one who values education highly, Collins reminds his students that their right to schooling is a privilege that was fought for and won.

"I have less and less patience with student mediocrity. I want them to strive for excellence," said the teacher.

Collins enjoys teaching in a small school, such as Capitan, where he can get to know his students. The kids know that they can joke around to a certain extent, but "they also know where my boiling point is," he said.

When not in school, Collins often can be found working on his adobe house or in his greenhouse. He and his family - wife Sandra and children Brooke, five and a half, and Hunt, 19 months - enjoy camping, hiking and traveling.

Meet school board candidates Armando Quinones, Robert Rannels and Tom Trost at the candidates forum tonight at 7 in the multi-purpose building at the school. The program will include prepared statements and questions from the audience. Refreshments will be served.

Ruidoso police officer Mark Paz will speak on teenage drug abuse and its prevention at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 5, in room five at Capitan High School. The lecture is sponsored by Birgit LaMothe of Capitan Counseling Services.

Both the girls junior varsity and varsity teams won their games against Hagerman Tuesday. The varsity team beat Hagerman 59-25. Becky Phillips was the team's high scorer with 25 points.

The girls take on Clouderoff (away) on Friday. Coach John Blea said this important game will be a "dogfight," representing an old rivalry between the two girls teams.

Blea said Clouderoff is an excellent team, rated third in the state. Capitan is rated eighth.

Blea said winning Friday's game will "put us in the driver's seat for district games." The team that places first in the district goes to state playoffs without having to compete in the district playoffs.

The girls junior varsity team beat Hagerman 24-13. High scorers were Kateri Sanchez with 10 points and Chantilla Points and Michelle Navarez with six points each.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

Thanks for a Fine Warm and Moist January. This will reach you on the last day of the first month, and a very unusually good January it has been. First of all, it has not been really cold, while the rest of the world—Europe, the Southland, the Middle West—all are breaking records of cold weather. Orange groves laid low, snowball fights in Georgia, Inauguration parades cancelled... And here in Lincoln County we have had balmy weather—alongside of the unmerciful cold in other places.

Through the many winters I have spent here in The Vale, hardly a one has gone by without bringing at least one or two days of below-zero weather. I mean nights that cold. Very seldom do you see zero weather up in the day. The coldest day I ever saw here was January sixteen, 1963—sixteen below. This was in the wee hours of the morning; toward evening Shady Logan, the Little Coyote-Collie, came to the house through the deep snow and across the frozen river, to the house as a puppy two weeks old.

So all told, we have had a very wonderful January, no matter what happens on the last day.

Ground Hog Day
February second will be very carefully watched. On this day the little groundhog, also called woodchuck, will come out from his apartments underground to have a look around and see about the lay of the land. If it is a fair day, he will see his shadow. After his long slumbers deep in the earth, his eyesight is just a little dim, and also he is a little spooky. So when he sees this shadow of his, he thinks it is something dangerous; so not taking any chances, he makes a swan dive back into his home beneath the sod, so warm, so safe, so free from the upper world's care and strife.

On the other hand, if it is a dull and cloudy day, or if the snowflakes are flying, the woodchuck will not see his shadow. Therefore he will not be frightened and will stay aboveground, for he knows that Spring will arrive early.

Of course, as I write this, there is one night and day and a night left in January, so the warm spell could be broken by a sudden blast out of the North. However, up to today the coldest it has been here at the house is six above, and that lasted only a couple of hours.

On the other hand, this has been the wettest January I have seen in a long time, with rain and snow and sleet and hail—Old Man Winter trying out all the ammunition in his arsenal—and all of it going into the ground with the help of warm winds and sunny days.

The ground everywhere is miniature swamps and marshes, wet weather springs, and seeping trickles of water running down the cliffs and rocky palisades.

This moisture has made the creatures of Mother Earth eager and anxious to spring forth. Some of the herbs and weeds are greening up with several inches of growth; there are types of grass already growing in the sunny and sheltered places—much to the delight of the grazing creatures of the pastures and the wild.

St. Valentine's Day
Here around the house are some of the homemade Valentines we made for each other out of red paper, in the days before we went to school—in Juneau, Alaska. And also there are some that we received in the first and second grades from the other pupils. It used to be the custom to send Valentine greetings by telegram. Our father used to send our mother verses he made up by telegram, as Valentine greetings, when he was away in a different part of Alaska on some work as Government surveyor or taking specimens from a mine.

Valentine's Day comes but once a year, and it is a great opportunity. Whether a bouquet of roses, a box of Valentine candy, a card, a letter, a telephone call, or the spoken word—the message of fondness and love will be treasured always.

Thanks for making this a very wonderful January; and we look forward to a blessed February.

Fireman Eddie Espinosa inspects fire damage at the Calvin Cowden home Monday.

Fire puts two in hospital

Ruidoso Fire Department personnel responded to a fire twice Monday on Johnson Road. The blaze sent one firefighter and the resident of the home to the hospital.

Firefighters were called about 5 p.m. to the Upper Canyon home of Calvin Cowden. The fire was quickly extinguished and apparatus to clear the home of heavy smoke was set up. Cowden was taken to the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. He remained in intensive care until Tuesday. Cowden was released from the hospital Wednesday.

Firefighters were called back to the home at 8:30 p.m. Monday when the fire apparently flared again. Again the fire was extinguished, but firefighter Mike Baptiste was taken to the hospital for smoke inhalation. He was treated and released.

No damage estimate was available for the home, and cause of the fire is still under investigation.

A fire on Mustang Drive was quickly extinguished Wednesday by Ruidoso Fire Department personnel.

Firefighters responded to a 6:16 p.m. alarm at the Barry LaBrecque residence at 308 Mustang Drive. The home received minor damage in the electrical connection-caused fire, but no one was hurt.

According to Fire Department personnel, a portion of the floor of the home and some straw under the home was burned.

Alice Yazzie (left) signs 350 Pro Ski Classic posters highlighting her original artwork. Ruidoso artist Gordon Snidow (right) crafted a "remark" original drawing on a proof of a Colorado Coolade Coors collector series print. Both the Snidow proof and several Yazzie-signed posters will be among items featured at tonight's Charity Auction.

Grant Goodeve will entertain Saturday night at the Celebrity Pro-Am Awards Dinner at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. He is a singer and actor who has appeared on "Eight Is Enough" and "Dynasty."

Pro-Am Saturday will feature luncheon, clinic

Final preparations are being made for the Celebrity Pro-Am ski race at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort Saturday.

Forty teams will compete, each made up of three amateurs, a pro skier and a celebrity.

A drawing Friday night will determine who will be on what team. The drawing will be based on the skills of the skiers.

The race will start at 1:30 p.m. and will be contested on Sierra Blanca's short course. It will be below the second jump on the pro course.

Some pre-race activities are planned.

A Celebrity Pro-Am luncheon will be at noon in the ski area's hospitality tent. Following the luncheon, there will be a clinic conducted by pro skiers at 1 p.m.

After the race, the Inn of the Mountain Gods will host a Pro-Am dinner and awards banquet at 7 p.m. in the Wendell Chino Room.

Crime of the week

Sometime between January 7 and January 9, 1985, the R.W. Sewell residence located in the Cree Meadows Country Club subdivision of Ruidoso was burglarized. Entry was gained through the west side living room window, which was apparently kicked in. Once inside, the burglars ransacked the house and stole the following items: a Jerrold Starcom

III cordless converter, a Hoover upright vacuum cleaner, 5 pillow cases, a bedspread, a color television, assorted canned goods and assorted liquors.

The Crime Stoppers telephone is manned 24 hours a day and anyone who has information on criminal activity is urged to call Crime Stoppers at 257-4545.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

Rhyme Red shines

SUNLAND PARK'S new "Horses In Trouble" guide appeared to pay off in Friday's fifth as Sakelares' Smiling Beau was backed down to the 5-5 favorite in a 6-furlong maiden claiming sprint after finishing eleven lengths back in his first appearance at the track.

The day's program noted that the son of Beau's Eagle had been "bumped and shuffled back at the gate" in that start. In Friday's appearance the Theresa Flores-conditioned colt raced just off the pace rounding the final turn four lengths off the lead. In a strong stretch drive, Smiling Beau battled 5-1 Mora Place for the winner's share on a neck decision.

The colt returned mutuels of $4.40, $3 and $3. Sunland's "Horses In Trouble" feature was initiated last December under the supervision of track veteran Harold Payne.

JOCKEY O.A. MARTINEZ JR. spent most of Friday afternoon getting his picture taken as the young rider accounted for five wins on the day's 12-race card. Four of the victories came on wagering favorites.

Martinez opened the first of four straight scores in the sixth, daylighting 6-furlong claimers with a 1 1/4-length margin on Odum's AK Christian.

Picking up a mount for leading rider Casey Lambert in the seventh, Martinez took a head verdict at 870 yards with Burner's Olympic Truck.

Fans backed Martinez' eighth-race mount, Harry Prairie, down to 5-5 and watched the James Curry-conditioned gelding take a commanding two-length victory at 6 furlongs with those carrying $3,200 price tags.

In the ninth, it was Martinez in the winner's circle again on even-money favorite Houkaku, who came from well off the pace to put three lengths between himself and a $2,500 claiming field at 1 1/16 miles.

Just when everyone figured Martinez to have had more than his fair share, the jockey mounted Nolen's Hopeful High in the featured eleventh and battled California ship in Aircraft Carrier for the winner's share of a $2,700 allowance purse at 6 furlongs. Hopeful High upset wagering favorite Now See This, who finished a disappointing fourth. It was the second straight win for the Partner's Hope gelding who had broken his maiden only two weeks earlier with Martinez at the helm.

IN STEWARDS' RULINGS: Trainer Dawn McDaniel was fined $250 for her second offense of a high phenylbutazone test for the horse Lead And Plead in the sixth race on January 6.

Jockey Christopher O'Dell was fined $100 for failure to maintain a straight course aboard Night Of Fire in the third race on January 18.

Jockey Arturo Vallejo was fined $50 for lodging a frivolous foul claim after the running of the seventh race on January 19.

Groom Jose Villalobos was fined $25 for disobeying a direct order of a security guard and driving in the barn area without a sticker. Groom Felix Gonzalez was fined $10 for illegal entry into the barn area.

Trainer Kenneth Pape was fined $100 for entering two horses without an owner's license registered with the New Mexico State Racing Commission, necessitating two scratches.

The following trainers were each fined $50 for the same offense: Carl Draper, Paul Smith (twice), Ronnie Mendez, Richard Fry, L. Larae Lovell (twice), Coy Hendrix, L.B. Johnson Jr. (twice), Jake Cascio, Gregory Henson, Joe Welch, Carlos Calderon, Michael Smith, Kenneth Grisham, Patrick Swan, Jimmie Richardson, Gerald Marr and Neva Bekken.

RICHARD WORLEY'S Reverend Blu Jeans burned up the track in Saturday's tenth—going a mile under the guidance of rider Eugene O'Neill in 1:38 3/5. The clocking was less than a second off the all-time track record of 1:35 4/5 established by Cabin Fleur in 1962.

Reverend Blu Jeans went postward at more than 5-1 and raced an even fourth before taking a 1 1/2-length lead at the top of the stretch and crossing the wire with the same margin.

It was the first of two wins for O'Neill who went on to capture the twelfth on Robert Ivy's Bronze Medallion.

JOCKEY SALUSTIO BURGOS turned in a good day's work on Saturday, accounting for three of 12 races. The veteran rider won the first half of the Daily Double with Way Of Command and was up in the seventh for Break And Take's one-length win over high-dollar claimers at 6 1/2 furlongs.

The jockey, who was fifth in the overall rider standings at the beginning of the week, surprised almost everyone in the eighth with a dramatic whisker win on the 52-1 longshot Gopher Green.

SUNDAY MARKED THE MID-POINT of the 1984-85 Sunland season, and figures for the first half of the current stand reflect gains in both attendance and handle. Daily average attendance is running 6.6% ahead of last season, while the daily average handle is 2.2% to the plus. The average amount wagered per race this year is 3.9% over that number at this point last season.

Current daily averages are: attendance, 3,055; daily handle, $325,618; per race handle, $29,109.

Troy McCarty's versatile Rhyme Red, under a clever ride by leading jockey Casey Lambert, drove through on the rail in the final furlong to capture Sunday's 5 1/2 furlong feature race at Sunland Park.

Rhyme Red was sent off as the fourth choice in the field of seven $15,000 claimers, and paid $13.00, $5.00 and $3.00 across the board. He covered the distance over a track labeled slow after overnight showers in a respectable 1:04 4/5.

The winner has been a threat at longer distances through the Sunland meeting, notching an allowance win at a flat mile in October for trainer Clifford Lambert.

In Sunday's sprint, jockey Lambert kept his charge within three lengths of the pacesetters through the first half mile then, as his horse began overtaking the leaders, swung his charge to the inside to overtake Southern Ship a few strides from the wire, drawing off to a half length victory.

Southern Ship saved the place and returned place and show prices of $4.20 and $3.40. Tibron was third. Favored Stephanasian finished a disappointing sixth.

Rhyme Red's victory came before a throng of 6,399, the largest crowd at Sunland Park in 1985, and the ninth-largest attendance number in the track's history.

Rhyme Red's upset win contributed to the fact that no one on hand selected all the winners in the Pic-Six. Seven handicappers selected five winners for consolation payoffs of $799.00 each. The carryover for next Friday stands at $14,879.65.

Coming from far back, Cecil Pearson's Naskra's Star drove through on the rail turning for home and had enough in reserve through the stretch run to garner a neck victory in Saturday's 6-furlong feature at Sunland Park.

The Kentucky-bred winner returned mutuels of $10.00, $4.20 and $3.00 to his backers among the 2,961 on hand. Jerry Rodriguez was aboard for the colt's second victory in three lifetime starts. The winner covered the six panels in 1:11 2/5.

The public made Racing Pals and Hidden Motive each 8-5 at post time. Racing Pals faded to fourth after forcing the early pace, while Hidden Motive mounted a stretch charge on the outside of horses to easily take second. Hidden Motive returned place and show prices of $3.00 and $2.60. Generalissimo finished third.

In the co-featured tenth race, six-year old Reverend Blu Jeans, under Eugene O'Neill, took a 1 1/2 length victory over $6,250 claimers at one mile, and his winning time of 1:36 3/5 was the fastest mile time at Sunland Park in the last three years, only 4/5ths of a second off the track record set by Cabin Fleur in 1962.

Six winners eluded all Pic-Six players Saturday, and three tickets selecting five winners returned a consolation prize of $1,616.20 each.

Jockey O. A. Martinez Jr. captured his fifth win of the day in Friday's 6-furlong allowance feature at Sunland Park with a half-length margin on the 5-1 shot Hopeful High.

The rider held the Partner's Hope gelding midway in the second flight in the early going before making a strong move around the final turn, overtaking the pacesetter Mince Meat Pie and battling second-place finisher Aircraft Carrier for the winner's share.

Hopeful High returned his backers $13, $9 and $5.40. Aircraft Carrier's place was worth $13.80 and $7.60. Mince Meat Pie had enough left to save the show and return $3.60.

Rider Martinez found himself in the winner's circle in four straight races after winning the sixth through ninth on Friday's card. The day's work boosted him from third to second in the overall jockey standings—nine wins behind leading rider Casey Lambert at 39 for the season.

In Friday's Pic-Six wagering, no one was able to pick the winners of the fifth through tenth races.

Opinion

Editorial

Does the word, "Peugeot," mean anything to you?

First of all, we should know how to pronounce it. It's Poooh- (as in Winnie the) zsoh (like half of Zsa Zsa Gabor's first name, only with an "oh" sound).

Peugeot is a French automobile and bicycle manufacturer with a U.S. subsidiary. Peugeot is also the sponsor of the Peugeot Grand Prix, the richest and most prestigious professional ski racing circuit.

As we all know by now, this week's stop on the circuit is Ruidoso, New Mexico, and Sierra Blanca Ski Resort, for the All-American Pro Ski Classic. Ruidoso will play host to world-class skiers and Hollywood celebrities. Even a contingent of Dallas Cowboys football players will be on hand.

The news media will be well represented. Broadcasts of racing on the ESPN and Metro Media television networks will give Ruidoso and Sierra Blanca national exposure, and coverage by regional media will be extensive and immediate.

Without the time and efforts of many volunteers, the race would not be happening. We thought it appropriate to acknowledge them here.

Our thanks on behalf of the community go to Dorothy Faye Kimsey, Becky and Teddy Durham, Georgia Griffin, Elona Rush, Mary Maul, James Paxton, Coral and Tommy Morel, Emmitt Mundy, Mike Hennington, Fran Heid, Dan Kelley, Terri Waterfield, Cheryl Sanders, Tommy and Pati Hornbuckle, Helen Zink, Steve Talley, Gary Boyd, Joe Corff, and Sara K. and the Boys Without Sleep.

They have given their best effort. Let's all put our best foot forward this special weekend.—TP

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

In regard to the comic drawn by D. Pehr printed in the Monday, January 28, 1985 Ruidoso News:

Is this responsible journalism? The media is a powerful tool that can be beneficial or very damaging in certain cases. Relations between the town of Ruidoso and the Mescalero Apache Tribe have always been pretty weak. This particular article will not help strengthen these relations. The Sierra Blanca Ski Area is owned and operated by the Mescalero Apache Tribe. As owners of a business it is indeed their right to change or choose the name of this business.

Attacking Mr. Chino through the paper is not going to change things. The proposed name change was approved unanimously by the whole tribal council. It was not a one man decision. We seem to forget that the ski area is a major source of income during the winter not only to the Tribe, but the whole town. Everybody that owns a business benefits from the people who come here to ski and lodge in Ruidoso. I believe an apology is in order although the damage is already done.

Sincerely,
VINCE CAMPBELL

DEAR EDITOR:

In the 37 years my family and I have owned property in Ruidoso, we've watched all kinds of mentality come and go with the Ruling Class here. Or so we thought. But the thinking of some of the current village officials—elected or appointed—defies description. When I wanted to divide my 500-foot lot on Sudderth last April—an area that was designated commercial by the village in the mid-1970's—I spent several thousand dollars to be denied this privilege. It'll create too much traffic if she builds her office there, the trees will be disturbed, and there is poor lot configuration, the P&Z declared. More dollars later, to comply with their wishes, and fire codes, I was granted permission to divide my lot (on paper) in exchange for granting a 20-foot front easement to the city. It took an attorney to argue the legality of condemnation without compensation to the village council. When the council overturned P&Z's ruling, statements were made by councilors and Greg Masters, that the P&Z would immediately begin work sessions to place restrictions on commercial properties.

During the Christmas holidays, a used car lot set up business next door to my residence, but not before destroying all but three mature pines on the front of the lot. No problem. There are no restrictions on commercial property, city hall said. Last Friday, the real estate for sale sign on my property was removed by order of the Village of Ruidoso. Too big, they said.

It is certainly reassuring to know there are no restrictions on commercial property, unless you go before P&Z to have arbitrary stipulations placed on your request, and it's nice to know that "oversize" signs and pines won't blight the landscape.

If you want to find out how really interesting some of the thinking, or non-thinking gets, talk to our local contractors or ask me about the early morning when the dog catcher stopped me to deem I could no longer walk with my dog unless he was on a leash (and this while his dog jumped from his pickup and attacked my dog), or watch for the upcoming new "leash law" that will supersede the current ordinance declaring "one's" animals must be "under control."

BILLIE SURMICK

DEAR EDITOR:

Rebutting the Rebuttal
In my opinion the State of New Mexico has some of the finest law enforcement officers in the country. If I have been lied to by the witnesses, I sincerely apologize to the lady in question. If the Sheriff has been lied to, he in turn owes the public an apology. The Sheriff answered my Letter to the Editor quite angrily and almost hysterically. Who was I to criticize someone in his department for allegedly speeding and driving recklessly with 3 human beings, locked in the rear of the car? Is this a case of "The king can do no wrong"? I just have a few questions:

1) If you are a suspect, are you automatically transformed into a liar?

2) If you wear a uniform does this transform you into a saint whose every word is gospel?

3) If you comment or criticize (The Powerful) is your letter considered "cowardly" when you boldly sign your name?

4) If you admit to the Sheriff to exceeding the 55 mph speed limit do you get a ticket if you are in his department?

5) If you state "I do not wish to make a federal case out of this" are you obligated to file a formal complaint with an agency expressing obvious bias and prejudice?

I will not impose on this newspaper any further with this matter. The Sheriff can have the last word if he wishes. I have accomplished my objective of bringing this situation before the public, whether we find out who is lying, or not, it may save lives in the future, if by reading this some driver with passengers, eases up on that gas pedal. Again my sincere apologies to the lady deputy in question if I have been lied to or misinformed.

WALLY HESSE

DEAR EDITOR:

The political cartoon in the Monday, January 28th edition of the Ruidoso News was most inappropriate and unfortunate.

Contributed Comment

(Editor's note:

Ms. Powell is the mother of Janet Warlick Pearson of Ruidoso.)

... NOT EASY TO GROW UP
"It is not easy to grow up," my father used to say.

He said this with compassion, a slight smile and a hint of humor in his voice—not teasing or being superior in his adulthood, but genuinely sympathetic with the anguish one of us children might be feeling.

Countless fathers and mothers surely have said these same words to their children, until both the children and the adults begin to think that growing up is the work of childhood and that it becomes accomplished somewhere in the early 20s.

How wrong that concept is! Human relationships are so difficult because we are all growing up, all at the same time, all together.

But none of us, ever, at exactly the same stages.

And to compound this situation, none of us has the full experience with which to meet and solve the problems of the day.

Oh, we become skilled workers at a trade or craft or profession. But in the living of Life, no one is ever experienced in the living of the moment.

Parents marvel that each child presents different problems and finally realize that raising one child does not clue you in on the problems which may need to be faced with another child, or a third or fourth or fifth.

Because we are all growing up, all at the same time, all together.

The child looks forward to becoming older, with the power and freedom which this obviously grants to grown-ups.

But the adult begins to look backward when the bloom of youth starts to fade. All of you over 30, when you look in the mirror, do you accept what you see? Not really. Subconsciously you expect a vision of yourself at least five years younger. By 40 you look for a reflection 10 years younger. By 60 you judge your appearance by your memory of 15 to 20 years ago.

The memory lags behind the reality of the moment, the NOW of life.

Also, you have no experience living today. Not until it is over. By then tomorrow has become today, and you are again inexperienced. So only in retrospect do you know what you are doing because of firm experience.

We have built so many universities that we think we educate people and that the "School of Experience" disappeared with the "self-made man." These are trade schools. The only school in existence for the living of Life is the School of Experience.

And we never catch up with it. The minute we learn something time has moved us onto new ground.

It is so hard to get along because we are all growing up, all at the same time, all together.

I cannot inject my experience into someone else. Nor can I ever completely understand the life experience of others. We moan that all of our children had the same environment. "What went wrong?" We agonize, when one of them appears to have learned a proper lesson and another has not.

But it never is the same environment. The parents are a different age, with different life experience of their own, as they relate to each child. And this relationship changes each day, almost each hour, and is different for each member of a household. We never quite know how to act and think and feel—not out of experience. So we react, and sometimes we do so without taking into account that both we, ourselves, and the one or ones to whom we react are in a constant state of change, even including the time it takes to act and react.

It is hard to get along because we are all growing up, all at the same time, all together.

If adults could remember that each child has only his or her life experience out of which to think and feel; if children could realize their parents are also growing up, each day; if older people could remember their own lack of understanding when younger; and if younger people could imagine that older people are not just old but are also having to learn "how" to become older—if we all could realize that everyone is growing up, all at the same time, all together, then we surely could find a logical reason for listening to each other, to try to understand each other's viewpoints.

It is not easy to grow up. Ever.

SANTA FE—If there is mismanagement, who should get fired for it?

The manager.
In the case of our state's Department of Economic Development and Tourism, there is no question about the mismanagement. Alex Mercure, the boss there, has said publicly, "We blew it the first year. We had some incredible examples of stupidity."

Those are the words of the manager, you understand—the man responsible for seeing that his department did not commit "incredible examples of stupidity."

Will he be fired for that—as he should?

At the moment, it looks as though he won't.

Instead, some of the department heads under his direct supervision are apparently being picked to take the fall. The man at the top, responsible for them all, will annually be retained at his fat salary on the state's payroll.

You can imagine what has happened to his credibility, at least as far as legislators are concerned. They have perused the report of that special audit of Economic Development which was ordered by the Legislative Finance Committee. They know that to charge after charge after charge, all Mercure's department could do by way of response was to say the equivalent of "we plead guilty." (At one point, the phrase "we agree" is repeated in succession ten times, as a plea of non-defense to ten separate charges.)

A remarkable cross-section of legislators, from every point of the political spectrum, have agreed in conversation with this columnist that Mercure must bear the ultimate responsibility for what went on, and therefore should receive the ultimate sanction. "If that doesn't happen," one said, "I hesitate to think what will become of this department and its future."

Toney Anaya, who came into office wanting to build a record as the economic developer of the state, should keep that thought in mind. If Mercure stays, he will be an albatross around the administration's neck for the remainder of his term.

Another Cabinet Secretary about whom lawmakers have considerable doubt is the boss at Corrections, Mike Francke.

They all know he has the kind of tough job you would not wish on your worst enemy.

What many of them resent, however, is the way he goes about doing what he has to do, particularly his habit of trying to "blackmail" lawmakers into getting with his program.

All those statements Francke has made to the media about how lawmakers will have to do this or that, about how there are no further choices left to them and about how it is the legislators who have to shape up, not his department, have not been well received.

One lawmaker asked last week, "Have you read his annual report?" We had, and had also noted what the legislator went on to point out: Even in this kind of document, normally a self-serving puff piece Cabinet members turn out to praise their own performance; it is impossible for Francke to claim he is doing a good job. Repeatedly, under a variety of headings, there are phrases like "we are behind in meeting our goal" and "we have experienced significant delays in start-up."

Francke is liable to meet an attitude from legislators that comes out something like this: "Who are you to be repeatedly telling us how to do our job when it is clear that you have little success in doing your own?"

Again, it will be sad to see programs suffer because the person in charge has been unable to create an atmosphere in which he is seen as an efficient and dependable performer of the tasks to which he is assigned.

The 1985 crop of legislators is not likely to be fobbed off with salesmanship from those in positions of power. They will be measuring performance—and some will be found wanting.

Nob Hill Elementary students raised $200 to help save the Statue of Liberty. (From left) Jake Hemme, Erik Padilla, Jessica Varley, Michael Tweed and C. J. Saenz said they heard the statue was breaking and wanted to help. Kindergarteners paid $1 each to see the movie "Dumbo," and parents donated popcorn and drinks.

Why Should the Statue of Liberty be Saved?
by Angella Maldonado

As a young man with a passionate interest in sculpture, Bartholdi was out in the streets of Paris on the December day when Louis Napoleon Bonaparte's coup d'etat toppled the Second Republic.

There he witnessed a scene which was to mark him deeply. A group of republicans had erected a barricade. Night was falling when a young girl, bearing a torch, leaped over the barrier crying, "Forward!"

Bonaparte's soldiers opened fire and the girl fell dead. From then on, the unknown girl with the torch was for Frederic-Auguste Bartholdi the symbol of liberty.

Frederic-Auguste Bartholdi was the Frenchman who designed the Statue of Liberty. He first got the idea to build it when a friend of his said that he was "an ardent admirer of the United States and its model democracy." Knowing that America would celebrate its centenary, Bartholdi decided to give and build something. The Statue of Liberty—to the United States as a symbol of hope and friendship to the immigrants who came.

Strangely enough, when Bartholdi asked the United States to purchase only the pedestal for liberty, fund raising was slow. The people didn't know what to expect and, therefore, did not want to spend money on something they couldn't see beforehand.

If only they had known what we know now about how much that statue means to the American people and to those immigrants who traveled here from various places!

"Americans" not only means those people born in America but also those immigrants who came from many different countries. They came with the hope to find jobs, better lives, and better living conditions, plus many other reasons.

Can you just imagine what went through their minds when they saw the Statue of Liberty greeting them in?

"This statue stands for all the things in life that are good."

Emma Lazarus' poem says:

"Send me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to be free."

The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed to me,

ANGELLA MALDONADO

I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

Isn't it fitting for that to be written on the Statue of Liberty! The Statue of Liberty stands not only for hope, but also for friendship, opportunity, chance, home, and a better way of life in general. This statue also stands for peace in the United States and for the friendship throughout France for the U.S.

The Statue of Liberty isn't "just another statue." Lady Liberty is a true friend and a remarkable person. The question shouldn't be why we should save her but how fast can we put her back on her pedestal?

SHEILA ZUMWALT AND BRIAN SULLIVAN

Couple announces engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zumwalt announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheila Marie, to Brian P. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sullivan.

The bride-to-be is a 1981 graduate of Carrizozo High School. She is a certified dental assistant working with Dr. Dale Goad at the Health Center in Carrizozo.

Sullivan is a graduate of Capitan High School. He has been attending Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, and will enter the University of New Mexico in the fall.

The couple plan a spring wedding.

Decca's

Does he help out in the kitchen now?
 "Not, of course," he said. Pascale's eyes twinkled and she had a good laugh at Richard's words.
 Pascale was trained in French schools and has cooked in many restaurants, one a five-star Houston establishment. There she trained under world-renowned chef Paul Bocuse.
 The Givros lived in Texas for seven years, but Pascale and Richard prefer New Mexico to Texas.
 "It's a more charming state," Pascale said. She mentioned the climate as a plus for New Mexico.
 Pascale finds Americans less sophisticated in their eating style than Europeans.
 "We never stop with the main course," she said. "We end with cheese and fruit, and Americans don't seem to do that much."
 Home cooking?
 "Never," Pascale said with a smile. Richard seconded that. They just don't have time.
 Pascale likes skiing, or relaxing at home sewing and knitting.

When asked what she misses about France, Pascale was quick to answer.
 "The food for sure ... the cultural activities."
 But she and Richard are doing their part to bring European cuisine to southern New Mexico.

Sierra Blanca Ski Resort: One of Southwest's top ski areas

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

The All-American Pro Ski Classic will be run at scenic Sierra Blanca Ski Resort, one of the leading recreational ski areas in the Southwest.

Resort manager Roy Parker stressed that the ski area will be completely open during the races, except for the left side of the Capitan run, where the races will take place. The Capitan triple chairlift will be open to skiers and racers alike.

Parker pointed out that skiers will be able to ski to the race site, watch the racing, then resume skiing down the Capitan run. The manager noted that the Capitan run is only a small fraction of the available skiing area at the resort.

People coming to watch the race are urged to ski, but can attend just as spectators. Parker encouraged car and van pooling and utilization of the Rick Simpson bus line to avoid traffic congestion and parking problems that might occur if the race draws a large crowd.

Sierra Blanca is now experiencing the best ski conditions so far this year. As of Tuesday, the area boasted 26 inches of snow at mid-way, with 15 inches of new snow since Saturday. Conditions at the area are reported as excellent. A Tuesday snowfall promised to add even more to the growing snowpack.

Parker reported that attendance at the resort is up 20 percent from last season. Last season's snowfall time high number of skiers at the area.

The resort has a four-passenger gondola, three double chairlifts, four triple chairlifts and a mitey-mite handle tow.

Freemier of the lifts is the new 2,000-skiers-per-hour novice triple chair that serves the Smokey Bear and Snow Park runs. The lift was installed last year.

The resort has one of the largest ski schools in the Rocky Mountain region, with all instructors certified by the Professional Ski Instructors of America. Over 100 instructors are available for classes of all types.

Also featured at the area are a series of amateur racing programs, including weekly NARSA races.

Eyes of ski world on Peugeot

from PEUGEOT GRAND PRIX

The day is perfect—warm and sunny. Five thousand fans line the courses. You can almost feel the electricity in the air as spectators and racers wait for the final run—the run that will determine the national champion and the world's best skier for 1984. We are down to the final four, one of whom will walk away with the $10,000 check and title. In the running are the Halsnes brothers, Edvin and Jarle, the new Eastern and Western champs, Reidar Wahl, the defending national champ and Cary Adgate, runner-up on the Eastern Tour. In a single performance of outstanding decision-making and action, Adgate wraps up the title along with the check, a silver trophy and the accolades that go to the winner of the Peugeot Grand Prix national championship.

After this exciting end to the 1984 season, pro ski racing comes charging back for 1984-85 with the bigger and better Peugeot Grand Prix national men's pro tour. One tour, one schedule is the big news in pro racing this year.

It marks a whole new era for pro ski racing. After following the regional concept for several years, the Peugeot Grand Prix is going national with one schedule and larger prize money at each event. The tour covers major resorts throughout the United States and will attract pro racers from around the world.

The 1984-85 Peugeot Grand Prix men's pro tour has an eleven-event schedule covering major resorts from Maine to California. Well over $400,000 in cash and prizes will be awarded on the way to the Peugeot Grand Prix U.S. Pro Championships at Stratton, Vermont, on March 7-10. The season finale will be the Bridgestone Pro Championships-Peugeot Grand Prix World Finals at Vail, Colorado, on March 21-24. This event will include additional racers from Japan, Europe, Canada and South America.

On course for 1984-85, the Peugeot Grand Prix is the oldest established tour in the country. What started as a small regional tour in the East eight years ago has grown dramatically to become the hottest circuit for dual competition anywhere. With each of the race weekends worth $20,000 to over $60,000, thrilling, dynamic pro ski racing is alive and thriving in the U.S. This season the Peugeot Grand Prix will bring world-class athletes to selected ski resorts to test each other and the mountain in international competition.

Ask reigning national champion Cary Adgate from Boyne City,

Michigan, what he thinks about the coming season and he quickly replies, "I'm really excited about it. Pro ski racing will have more credibility with all the best racers together. In the past, the East/West rivalry was a good thing and I'm sure we'll see some of it even though we're all together now."

The 1984-85 Peugeot Grand Prix with its national schedule and larger races, not only brings pro skiing back to the level of a national sport but unites several well known events under one tour. This marks a unification of pro ski racing not seen since 1961.

The oldest established pro event, the First Interstate Bank Cup at Winter Park, Colorado, is joining the tour this year to add its prestigious race to the national Peugeot Grand Prix schedule. First held in 1975, the Winter Park event is the longest running major pro race held today.

Innovation marks the First Interstate Bank Cup which held the first-ever dual Super G during last year's event. This year's event is scheduled for February 6-10.

The Ruidoso-New Mexico All-American Pro Ski Classic is also part of the tour. Started last year and organized by the State of New Mexico and the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce, this southernmost race is the first pro race of its kind to be promoted by state and local government. It is projected to be the world's richest ski race event. This complements the world's richest horse race, the All-American Futurity, a $2.5 million race held each Labor Day at the renowned Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

The Peugeot Grand Prix will produce expanded television coverage of pro ski racing. Scheduled for this season are three half-hour shows syndicated to broadcast stations throughout the country, reaching approximately 60 percent of all U.S. households. Metro Media stations will carry the shows as part of a Recreation Network package.

ESPN will carry a full show of the Sierra Blanca race at Ruidoso. This show is being produced by Tatum Communications of Hollywood, California. The Boyne Highlands, Michigan, pro race weekend will be syndicated in the Midwest states by Motor City Video.

With the advent of one national tour for the Peugeot Grand Prix comes more prize money for the racers. In fact, this year will bring prize money back to the former level of the best days of World Pro Skiing (WPS). Earnings for the top racers will approach six figures for this season. WPS was disbanded in 1981 leaving the sport fragmented. Even with several gloom and doom prophecies for dual racing, the sport remained active and exciting for the fans.

The bulk of the racing fell to the regional Peugeot Grand Prix tours. With tours in the East, Rocky Mountains and at times, the Midwest and Far West, the head-to-head pro format was proving itself durable and popular. The dual format, first developed by Bob Beattie, has been a winner with the racers since its inception some 14 years ago.

Dual format racing is growing as a spectator sport. The seemingly simple format is easy to follow, exciting to watch and attracting fans worldwide. Last spring saw the formation of the World Association of Pro Skiing (WAPS), an organization of tours worldwide which will schedule and sanction events. Member tours will award in excess of $1 million for 1984-85.

With over $400,000 in the Peugeot Grand Prix, a big chunk of the action is right here in the U.S. Tours also take place in Europe, South America, Japan, and Canada. With non-conflicting dates for major races, international pros can compete in the U.S. and other countries as well.

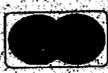

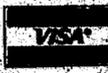

The Bridgestone Pro Championship-Peugeot Grand Prix World Finals will crown a World Champion for the first time since 1981 when Andre Arnold took his unprecedented fourth world title. Bridgestone Tires made their first appearance in pro racing at the National Championships last spring and liked the action so much they are coming back for more this year. They will sponsor the opening event of the season at Hunter Mountain, New York, the Snow Summit, California, event and the season finale at Vail, Colorado.

The top 10 to 20 racers from each of the established pro tours worldwide will compete in Vail on March 21-24 for the World Championship crown. The race will be televised to a global audience. The Bridgestone Pro Championship-Peugeot Grand Prix World Finals is an outgrowth of the National Championships, an invitational race held the past three years for each of the regional Peugeot tours. For the World Finals the prize money will be doubled to $50,000 with $15,000 going to the winner. Other WAPS tours will be included in the competition.

From start to finish, the 1984-85 Peugeot Grand Prix will bring top racers and top money to the best ski resorts in the United States for one of the most exciting winters in the history of pro ski racing.

SKI RENTAL HEADQUARTERS

Grand Prix a super challenge

from PEUGEOT GRAND PRIX

Will 1985 be the year of the Halsnes? Can Cary Adgate repeat winning the national crown he won last year? The 1985 Peugeot Grand Prix presents a new challenge for the top-ranked pro racers from around the world.

Close to 90 top notch racers will be following the tour beginning with the Bridgestone Cup at Hunter Mountain, New York, in January, criss-crossing the country and ending at Stratton Mountain, Vermont, in March. Stratton is the site of the U.S. Pro Championships where a new national champion will be crowned and will receive a new Peugeot 505 Turbo.

The Norwegian Halsnes brothers Edwin, 24, and Jarle, 27, are odds-on favorites to win the national title and the season-long battle between the two should be close. They were the top money winners in 1984 and are a real threat to the competition.

Most experts feel that if anyone can knock them off, it will be Cary Adgate of Boyne City, Michigan. Adgate, 32, has a remarkable pro record. The former Olympian has already chalked up three titles in his four-year pro career. The question is, will Adgate's age keep him from upsetting the Halsnes' plans.

The younger Halsnes brothers already have a sensational record for their short careers. Jarle, named Ski Racing's pro skier of the year two consecutive years, was Eastern champion for 1984. At the same time, brother Edwin stopped pro veteran Lonny Vanatta's reign as Western champion.

Jarle, winner in the first three pro races he entered, has few weaknesses. Fatigue at the end of the season has cost him his concentration and a shot at the national title for the past two seasons. Even with his successes, judgmental errors have cost Edwin several race victories. If the two can overcome these problems, they may be unbeatable in 1985.

After a mediocre 1984 season due to a bad back, Peter Dodge has returned to top form. This past summer he won the South American pro title against an extremely strong field. Peter has beaten both the Halsnes' in the past and may be the upsetting factor this year.

Reidar Wahl is the only racer to have made the final four in all three nationals. He won the title in 1983 and was runner up in 1984. His drive to win could make the difference.

With a so-so record for 1983, former national champion Wayne Wright proved to be the comeback racer of 1984. Wright would love to add another title to his great pro record. Another consideration is Sweden's Gunnar Grassl. After winning three out of five races at the end of last season, he may be just finding his niche as a pro and could be the spoiler for all the predictions.

The 1985 Peugeot Grand Prix national tour will be the most competitive pro tour the world has seen in several years. It will visit new mountains with new terrain. The difference in hard-packed eastern snow and softer, powdery western conditions will present different challenges to the racers.

In trying to determine best bets, there are other factors to consider that are not easily measured. Each year a new group of racers joins the pro ranks as rookies. One of these could cause the upset of the season by beating the established veterans for the crown. This possibility is what makes these young racers so enthusiastic and hard charging.

Though the Halsnes' seem to be the pick of the experts, there are no sure bets. The two brothers are so evenly matched few are willing to name one as the possible winner. They cannot "coast" to the championships. A season of grueling work lies ahead for both Jarle and Edwin if they want to make it to the top.

A banner to hang across Sudderth Drive, displayed by Coral and Tommy Moral, was just one of many details attended to by the ski race committee.

'The race:' What it means to Ruidoso

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

In perhaps the understatement of the year, Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce president James Paxton called coordination of the All-American Pro Ski Classic "no minor task."

Paxton and race co-chairman Tommy Moral took a few minutes from their busy race week schedule to discuss the race and what it means to the village of Ruidoso.

"I think we've come a long way in one year," said Moral. Both men were involved in last year's U.S. Open professional ski race at Eagle Creek Ski Area.

They pointed to Peugeot's sponsorship of this year's race as a significant change. Moral explained that after the U.S. Open, Peugeot representatives contacted the Chamber of Commerce about including a Ruidoso event on their racing circuit.

Peugeot offered what Moral called "home office capabilities"—a permanent staff to help local race organizers. He said Peugeot's people had been great to work with, and complimented Ed Rodgers and Mike Collins in particular.

"They're as responsive to you as if you were their only race," he said. The local race is actually the fifth event on the 12-race Peugeot Grand Prix circuit.

Its $80,000 purse makes it the richest stop on the tour.

"We still think we have the world's richest ski race," said Moral. He acknowledged a big race in Japan, but jokingly said he was unable to convert yen into dollars to tell which race was richer.

Paxton mentioned the fact that this year's race will be televised on ESPN as another significant change. The all-sports network reaches an estimated 33 million homes.

Besides greater local control of race-related activities, this year will see another change that Paxton called "a real bonus." That is the site of the race: Sierra Blanca Ski Resort.

The expertise of manager Roy Parker and his staff in putting on the actual races means the organizing committee is free to concentrate on peripheral activities.

A waxing room for racers and a press room for members of the media are among the amenities the "big mountain" will offer.

Moral is proud of the fact that "at least 25 major media representatives" will be on hand for the race. Paxton credited Moral with lining up three sponsoring media—the El Paso Times newspaper, KOAT-TV Albuquerque and KRLB-FM radio in Lubbock—that have given the event great exposure in their markets.

"How could you put a dollar value on that?" the two men wondered. The national exposure on ESPN and the Metro Media syndicated network (50 million viewers) would cost millions of dollars if the air time were purchased.

Moral called the pro ski race "an image-enhancement concept." He pointed out that the international flair of professional skiing makes the race an ideal vehicle for enhancing Ruidoso's resort image.

"I think everyone sees the promotional value of the race," he said.

Paxton acknowledged that local businesses are interested in a direct economic benefit from the race.

"I think our goal is to be able to have both things ... national TV coverage ... and a lot of people in town," said Paxton. He predicted that goal will be partly reached with this year's race.

Moral and Paxton are optimistic about the future of the pro ski race. They pointed out that the event would be helped greatly if one major sponsor could be found.

Representatives of firms that might fill the bill have been invited to observe this year's event. Moral pointed out that two years of hard work allows the race committee to offer a sponsor an event with a proven track record.

The work and fun that have gone into the event and the response to the call for volunteers have been rewarding, the organizers noted.

"It's just a belief in the concept and a willingness to participate," Paxton said. He questioned, however, whether most people around town knew how much went into preparations.

"It reminds me of a real fancy wedding," he said. "If you're not involved, you never see anything of that."

"I don't know what I'm going to do after the race, not having to lie awake at night worrying," said Moral.

Moral does not understate the importance of the work and worry when he speaks of the All-American Pro Ski Classic itself.

"It's the premier winter sporting event in the state of New Mexico."

The idea to bring eight Dallas Cowboy football players to this year's All-American Pro Ski Classic started about three months ago.

"About the first part of November, some of us were sitting around playing with some ideas to make the ski race and everything around it more exciting," said Joe Corff, a member of Spirit of Ruidoso, the group sponsoring the Cowboys. "We felt it would be a good idea."

The local organization contacted the Dallas organization and found out what players were interested in skiing and whether their schedules would allow them to attend.

"I don't think you can give credit to any one person for starting the idea," Corff said. "It was a group effort."

The Cowboys who will compete in the All-American Pro Ski Classic are Bill Bates, Tony Hill, Drew Pearson, Dexter Clinkscale, Glen Titensor, Steve DeOssie, Fred Cornwell and Brian Baldinger.

Pearson is one of the Cowboys' all-time greats.

The 6-0, 193-pound wide receiver became the Cowboys' all-time leading receiver in 1980 when he passed Bob Hayes' 365 catches.

Pearson played 11 seasons with Dallas. He retired before the 1984 season because of an automobile accident injury, but he might make a comeback in 1985.

Bates made the Pro Bowl this past season as a special teams standout.

The 6-1, 199-pound safety has played two years with Dallas. He played college ball at the University of Tennessee. He was named second-team All-Southeastern Conference his junior and senior seasons.

Hill is another outstanding wide receiver. He played college ball at Stanford University and has been with the Cowboys for eight seasons. He has made the Pro Bowl twice (1978-79).

Hill set a club playoff record with nine receptions in the 1983 National Conference wild-card loss to the Los Angeles Rams.

Clinkscale, a safety, has been with the Cowboys five seasons. He played college ball at South Carolina State University. He was a 1979 first-team Black College All-America safety.

He has intercepted two passes in playoff games.

Titensor is a center and played college ball at Brigham Young University. He has been with Dallas for four seasons.

The 6-4, 251-pound athlete also has played guard in his Cowboy career.

DeOssie is a 6-2, 249-pound middle linebacker who just completed his rookie year.

DeOssie started four seasons at Boston College. He played with 1984 Heisman Trophy winner Doug Flutie. He led his college team in tackles each of his final three seasons.

Baldinger is a 6-4, 255-pound guard who has been with Dallas for three seasons.

He played at Duke University and started 11 games his senior season. Baldinger was an All-Coastal Conference tight end at Nassau Community College before transferring to Duke.

Cornwell, a 6-6, 236-pound tight end, was a standout at the University of Southern California before coming to the Cowboys in 1984.

He made second-team All-Pac-10 in 1983 and played in the Blue-Gray All-Star game.

Football fans will have a rare opportunity to meet some of the Cowboys' top players this weekend during the All-American Pro Ski Classic.

STEVE KANALY

... Kanaly said the ... will be with him this trip. ... residents, too.

"Brent was the second fastest woman in the race at Sun Valley," Kanaly said. They also have a three-year-old, but she won't be making this trip.

Kanally plays one of "Dallas" fans' favorite characters, Ray Kreb. The part of a down-to-earth Western millionaire appeals to viewers.

It's a good role for Kanaly, who prides himself on being a "straight-shooter" in more ways than one. He is a down-to-earth family man.

He is also an expert shooter. That's how he got into show business.

The Vietnam veteran was discovered at a shooting range, and began his Hollywood career as a technical advisor for a war film.

It didn't take long for Kanaly to go from advisor to actor. This season he'll get his chance at directing some segments of "Dallas."

He's confident that directing will come as easily to him as past challenges.

"I have 15 years of experience in the entertainment business," he said. "Besides, you couldn't imagine a nicer place to start."

Kanally said the cast and crew of "Dallas" are a great bunch, and he'll get all the help and cooperation any director would want from them.

What can viewers expect on "Dallas" this season?

"Some strife may be developing between Ray and Donna ... maybe some conflict with the Ewings."

They promised me a little more Western, earthy storyline," Kanally said.

As far as horseback riding and Ray Kreb's more adventurous exploits, Kanally says he does everything himself unless it becomes too dangerous.

Kanally nearly settled in New Mexico 15 years ago just before he got into acting. He was painting and making silver jewelry.

"I had a good hunch," he said. Santa Fe and Taos were just emerging as art centers then.

"I play the piano some now, that's as close as I get to art besides my acting," Kanally said.

His busy schedule doesn't leave time for painting and jewelry design.

Kanally's year in Vietnam had a definite impact on his life. He was drafted into the Army and spent a year in the jungle war, camping out every night and living with constant danger.

"Once I got through that, the toughest thing in my life, I could handle anything," Kanally said.

"You learn to appreciate America. Everybody that lives here is spoiled. In Vietnam every day was a chance that you might not see the next day," he said.

Kanally is active in Vietnam veterans' projects.

The greatest lesson Kanally learned from that Vietnam experience?

"I'm alive ... you make something of your life."

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce occupies a scenic spot on the edge of Two Rivers Park. Visitors are welcome to pick up information.

Chamber offers visitors a lot

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Staff Writer

If you need information about Ruidoso, the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce is the place to go. At 720 Sudderth Drive, the chamber building receives more than 50 visitors daily.

The chamber has information about everything from lodging and skiing to childcare. The enclosed porch of the chamber, which is always open, is stocked with pamphlets, maps and other valuable information. A recorded message tells visitors what they can do in Ruidoso and the surrounding area.

Besides cheerfully answering the in-office questions, the chamber staff handles over 125 phone and mail inquiries each week. Receptionist Sunny Hirschfeld was giving someone directions to Cloudfroft over the phone when this reporter entered the office.

"We go to all lengths to try to answer all correspondence," said Hirschfeld. She recounted one letter in which a lady requested a piece of dirt because she had fallen in love with Ruidoso on a visit. The chamber sent it to her.

The chamber will mail information packet to anyone who requests it. The office even has an answering machine so off-hours callers can leave their address and request.

Chamber executive director John Jeffers said that the information center is just one small portion of what the chamber does. According to Jeffers, the biggest concern of the chamber is economic development.

"The chamber is the only organization in the community whose specific charge is bettering the economy." The goal of the chamber is to make the town of Ruidoso a good place in which to live and do business.

According to Jeffers, Ruidoso is "basically a one-industry town" - the industry being tourism. Thus, the basic thrust of the chamber is to bring more tourists to Ruidoso.

Jeffers said the All-American Pro Ski Classic will expose a possible 85 million viewers to Ruidoso when the race is shown on ESPN and Metromedia television. The ski race is part of the chamber's overall effort to promote the area.

According to Jeffers, the chamber's long-range goals include improving communication with members, developing new members, and studying Ruidoso's image and possible marketing strategies.

Jeffers said the chamber will begin to sponsor monthly get-togethers at different member businesses. The chamber will have luncheons every other month to give progress reports to the members and present business-oriented speakers.

The chamber currently has 413 members. Retail stores, lodging establishments, real estate firms and restaurants make up a large percentage of the membership roster.

Other special events the chamber has a hand in promoting are the summer Ruidoso Art Festival, the fall Motorcycle Festival and the annual mule races.

Circuit leads to World Final

from THE STARTING GATE

The 1985 Peugeot Grand Prix, the premier tour of men's professional ski racing, will cover selected ski resorts from Maine to California with a ten-event national schedule. Capping off the season will be an eleventh event, the Bridgestone Pro Championship-Peugeot Grand Prix World Final where a World Champion will be crowned for the first time since 1961.

Prize money on the Peugeot Grand Prix national circuit will range from $20,000 to $85,000 per event. The World Final will award $60,000 with $15,000 going to the winner—the richest single prize in all of ski racing. This event will feature the top 30 racers from the American tour plus the top 20 from Japan, Canada, and Europe and 10 from South America.

Pro skiing tours worldwide will award close to one million dollars during the coming season. With $400,000 of it in the U.S.-based Peugeot Grand Prix, it is the largest of the tours currently held in the world. Because of its size and prestige, racers from around the globe come to the United States for the winter to train, race, and follow the tour schedule.

Up until this year the Peugeot Grand Prix has followed a regional concept. In 1984 tours were held in the East and West. This split the international pro field for much of the season. The National Finals at the end of the season brought the entire field together and provided some of the best competition of the season. With the Peugeot Grand Prix going national and one schedule covering the country, all the top-ranked racers will go head-to-head each week throughout the winter.

The 1985 schedule leads to the U.S. Pro Championship at Stratton Mountain, Vermont, on March 7-10. The Jarle Halsnes will attempt to duplicate the feat he achieved last year, when he won the U.S. Open professional ski race at Eagle Creek Ski Area near Ruidoso. This year Jarle and his cohorts will race at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort.

new National Champion will receive a 505 Turbo Peugeot. Season-long point standings will determine the champion with awards taking place at the conclusion of the Stratton event.

Two weeks later at Vail, Colorado, the stage is set for the Bridgestone Pro Championship-Peugeot Grand Prix World Final. All World Association of Pro Skiing (WAPS) tours will be represented for the dual format slalom and giant slalom competition to decide a World Champion for 1985. A World Champion has not been crowned since 1981 when World Pro Skiing (WPS) folded. The formation of WAPS last spring makes it possible again to hold such a title event. Andre Arnold won his unprecedented fourth World title in 1981. The world has had to wait until now for another title holder.

Grand Prix awards top $400,000

from PEUGEOT GRAND PRIX

The Peugeot Grand Prix is the world's largest and richest professional ski racing competition. The 1984-1985 circuit consists of ten events for the American tour, capped by the Peugeot Grand Prix World Final, an international event for the top 30 professionals from the United States plus the top 20 from Europe and Japan, and 10 from South America. This year, the tour awards $400,000 in cash and prizes.

Begun eight years ago, the Peugeot Grand Prix has expanded in events and prize money. Its first season consisted of a small New England tour with seven events and total purse of $23,000. Two years later, 1979-1980, 11 races were held for almost double the amount of prize money. With more sponsors supporting the tour, the 1980-1981 purse was boosted to $60,000.

The tour's fifth season, 1981-1982 saw drastic changes. Two divisions were created—East and West. Racers accumulated points to compete in their divisional finals, and the top 20 in each went on to compete in the first-ever Grand Championships. The prize money skyrocketed to $200,000 with $10,000 awarded to the first place finisher at the Grand Championships, Wayne Wright of Stratton, Vermont.

The following season's tour awarded over $300,000 with Norway's Reidar Wahl taking first place honors at the finale.

Last year, the tour's international importance grew. Almost 500 professionals representing nine countries—Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Austria, France, Chile, Argentina, Canada and the United States—joined Peugeot's U.S. circuit. In addition, a special 10-man pro team from Japan made its U.S. debut during the finals of the season.

This year, the prize purse at each Peugeot race weekend will range from $20,000 to $85,000. The overall winner of the American circuit will also receive a 1985 Peugeot 505 Turbo. The Bridgestone Pro Championship-Peugeot Grand Prix World Final will offer a $60,000 purse with $15,000 awarded to the winner of the single event.

The Peugeot Grand Prix is organized by North American Pro Ski and sanctioned by the World Association of Pro Skiing.

Dual-format racing offers excitement

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Professional skiers in the All-American Pro Ski Classic will race in dual-format courses down the Capitan run at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort.

The racers will ski two at a time, side-by-side, down the 1,400-foot course. Each of the courses, one red and one blue, will have about 35 gates the skiers must ski around as they travel down the course. A pair of racers will race one down one course, then switch sides. This evens out any advantages one course might have over the other. Making the race even more demanding on the skiers will be two 30-foot-wide jumps about six feet high. The jumps will hurtle fast-moving skiers a good distance through the air.

Constructing the racecourse and the jumps will be Sierra Blanca Ski Resort personnel. According to resort manager Roy Parker, the courses will be set as close to parallel as possible. He said the distance between the racecourses will be no more than 20 feet.

The actual setting of the gates will be done by one of the pro racers, Parker said. Horse race-style pro gates will be used at the start of the courses. The object of the skiers will be to beat their opponents. Pro racing is not a race against the clock. During the first race, the first skier to cross the finish line will trip a time clock that is stopped by the second racer. The amount of time that elapses between the two racers is the difference, or time differential.

The second time down the course, the racer who lost the first round must beat his opponent by more than the time differential to win the match. Dual-format ski racing uses a ladder arrangement for round-robin type competition. Racers are placed in the ladder using a qualification and seeding system. During qualification rounds, racers are eliminated down to a round of 32 skiers. Skiers race in both slalom and giant slalom competition.

The world's best skiers matched in dual-format skiing, speeding down the mountain side by side, surely will provide an exciting spectacle at Sierra Blanca this weekend.

Leader Award to top pro

from THE STARTING GATE

For the second season, Leader Sport Products, Incorporated, manufacturer of glasses and goggles, will present the Leader Award to the outstanding pro on the Peugeot Grand Prix national tour. A $2,000 check will be presented to the pro skier who has demonstrated the qualities of leadership and professionalism and a dedication to the healthy growth of pro ski racing.

Sabe Abel, Marketing Director for Leader Sports, said, "This award comes at a time when the pro tour is in a rapid growth period and the caliber of the individual racing is as important to the development of the tour as the racing itself. Leader is proud to have initiated this leadership recognition to an outstanding pro racer."

Last year's recipient was David Currier of Madison, New Hampshire. He has been active as a participant of the Eastern Professional Ski Racers Association Committee for the past three years and is well respected among his fellow racers. He is a former U.S. Ski Team member and 1972 Olympian who turned pro in 1977. He graduated from Dartmouth College in 1979 and served as president of the WPS racer association in 1980.

The Capitan run at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort annually hosts the Texas Cup head-to-head racing event. This weekend, the run will be used for the All-American Pro Ski Classic. Spectator visibility for the races should be excellent. Dual-format racing becomes an endurance event as racers advance through the draw. Racers must have the stamina to maintain their concentration through 10 runs or more in a single day.

Stars come out for race

LYNN HOLLY JOHNSON

Lynn Holly Johnson, Steve Kanaly and Wayne Northrop will be among celebrities arriving for the All-American Pro Ski Classic this week.

Johnson is no stranger to winter sports—she made her start in show business as a figure skater.

She has been seen recently in "For Your Eyes Only" with Roger Moore and "Ice Castles," opposite Robby Benson. She is starring in the feature, "Where the Boys Are."

Bruce Penhall portrayed Officer Bruce Nelson on "CHiPs." Ruidoso students may remember Penhall from his visit to White Mountain Middle School when he was in the village for last year's ski race.

Penhall was recently voted one of America's 10 sexiest male athletes. He is a two-time world champion in speedway motorcycle racing and a frequent guest on "Circus of the Stars."

Wayne Northrop plays Detective Roman Brady on NBC's "Days of Our Lives." Fans of the daily series will want to find out if Roman has really died, or if he'll be back.

Northrop was named number one among soap actors in 1983 polls by "Daytime TV," "Soap Opera Stars" and "Afternoon TV."

DEAN BUTLER

Dean Butler is a professional skier and actor. He has appeared in several feature films and television series.

"It's a very nice thing, really, because it's such a positive character. It's not a negative type to be."

Being a skater for five years definitely didn't slow Butler down. He recently completed a feature film, titled "Desert of the Heart," and has done guest appearances on a variety of shows.

"I'll be guesting on 'Hotel' on February 20," Butler said. Skating isn't the only sport Butler enjoys. He was a high school athlete, playing football and swimming.

His first public performance was over a microphone, announcing the starting lineup at his high school's varsity basketball game. He announced baseball and did radio play-by-play for college basketball games.

He never lost sight of his goal to become an actor, though, and during his sophomore year in college he participated in a special summer program with the American Conservatory Theatre in San Francisco.

He got his first big break that summer when he won a part in the 1977 CBS television movie, "Forever."

Butler said he was really happy to come to Ruidoso because the race events are benefiting two very good causes, Sierra Blanca Handicapped Skiers and the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital. "I have a very strong association with the Osmond Foundation," Butler said. He participates in the foundation's national tour, which benefits a children's hospital.

"I have a very strong feeling for anything that benefits hospitals," Butler said.

Watch for Butler in the Pro-Am ski race Saturday. What kind of skier is he? "I'd say I'm a high-intermediate skier," he said. "I'll give them my best shot."

BRUCE PENHALL

WAYNE NORTHROP

Tanya Tucker to entertain at Inn

Tanya Tucker will be among the stars in town for the All-American Pro Ski Classic. The country singing star will perform Saturday during the Celebrity Pro-Am Awards Dinner Show at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Gloria Loring, singer and actress, will be on Saturday night's program, too.

Loring is a regular on NBC's afternoon series "Days of Our Lives." She plays Liz, who among other things is a nightclub singer.

Other celebrities who will be a part of the weekend festivities include LeVar Burton. Burton is a stage and screen actor who played the leading role in the television movie, "Roots." Burton is currently starring in the feature films "And the Children Shall Come" and "Super Natural."

Gail Rae Carlson, who has just completed five years as Susan Moore in the number one soap opera, "General Hospital," is scheduled to be in town.

Carlson is host for the series "Style 84." She appears regularly in the television series "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer" as Linda Chambers. She is guest starring in "Hardcastle and McCormick" and is a singer and nightclub entertainer.

Grant Goodeve, remembered for his role in "Eight Is Enough," is scheduled to be a part of ski events. Goodeve also has been a cast member on the nighttime soap "Dynasty."

Currently Goodeve is pursuing an acting and singing career, and recently hosted "Solid Gold Hits" on ABC television.

"Dallas" star Steve Kanaly will join the group on the ski slopes. Kanaly plays the cowboy-type character Ray Krebs in the series.

He has acted in feature-length films and other television series. This season Kanaly will be back on "Dallas" as an actor and a director.
