Opposition to tax hike scattered

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles on the proposed one-half cent sales tax increase that Ruidoso voters will decide March 22.)

By DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Opposition appears to be isolated against the proposed one-half of one percent raise in gross receipts tax in Ruidoso for infrastructure improvements.

The proposed increase will be decided by voters in a special election Friday, March 22.

Funds raised by the tax, estimated at $602,000, will be used for repair and replacement of sanitary sewer lines; storm sewers and other drainage improvements; streets and alleys; acquisition of rights of way; and related facilities.

During a meeting January 25, the Ruidoso Village Council voted to schedule the election, allowing voters to decide the fate of the increase.

At that meeting, Lincoln County Home Builders members voiced their opposition to the tax.

"Of course we all sort of joined hands to go against it," commented Home Builders president Jack Reid Tuesday. "The boys just feel like it's way out of line."

Also contacted Tuesday, Home Builders Political Action Committee chairman Buddy Bundick pointed out that any increase in the gross receipts tax will affect sales of homes in Ruidoso through increased building costs.

"It will be a detractor," he said of the tax's impact on the decision of a person to buy a home in Ruidoso.

Home Builders member Earl Snyder outlined at the meeting what the increase would do to the cost of a new home. If a home sold for $275,000, of which $35,000 was the value of the lot, the taxable amount would be $240,000. At the present rate of taxation, gross receipts taxes would come to $13,200.

If the one-half percent were passed, the tax on the same home would be $14,400, a $1,200 jump, according to Snyder.

Faced with the prospect of future requests for bond issues, it has been suggested that the Ruidoso Municipal Schools and Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital would be concerned about the tax increase. But both schools superintendent Sid Miller and hospital administrator Ken Moore took somewhat neutral stands on the issue.

"We don't want the community overtaxed," Moore said of the hospital's position. "But there are services that have to be provided by the village."

"We're almost in a non-position," he added. Moore explained that hospital support for the increase depends on what the generated revenues are to be used for. Moore said he would favor the raise if the monies were to be used to straighten Gavilan Canyon Road.

Moore noted plans to build a hospital along the road. He said it is a definite concern of the hospital that voters may become overtaxed with another tax raise, especially when one considers possible requests for bonds to help fund the new hospital.

But Moore reiterated his feeling that limiting taxes should not lead to limiting "needed and controlled growth" of Ruidoso.

Also speaking of growth of the village was Miller. He pointed out that the tax raise may help the schools indirectly by helping the village grow.

"It's going to help us if the village grows," he commented. "I would be for it if it helps the village grow."

Miller, too, indicated the effect of the increase on the ability of the schools to pass a bond issue is a concern. He noted that the next request for bonds is expected probably in 1986 or 1987.

Ruidoso senior citizens do not seem to stand steadfast against the sales tax measure. Contacted after a Golden Age Club meeting Wednesday, Marion Olson said he would rather see the one-half percent gross receipts tax pass than have to bear a large hike in property taxes.

A property tax raise of as much as 344 percent has been proposed in Santa Fe as part of the provisions of House Bill 511. The bill proposes to withhold for state government purposes 35 cents from the 1.35 cents on the dollar gross receipts tax currently remitted to cities.

The bill then proposes to allow local governments to raise property taxes and share in state income tax revenue to partially compensate for the withholding of sales tax funds.

The proposal has resulted in much concern.

Also preferring the half-cent sales tax hike to the property tax increase were Erma and Ernest Carter.

"We'd just have to move," Erma Carter said of the proposed property tax increase.

Only a few members of the Golden Age Club voiced opposition to the half-cent tax increase.

"I've already decided to vote against it," one group member remarked. "It's going to make a big difference, we already have the highest gross receipts tax in the state."

Ruidoso resident and businessman Archer Wilson has strong feelings against the increase.

"I personally don't want to see it passed," he said. "I haven't heard anything positive about it."

Wilson opined that the tax is not really needed. He said he would favor a one-quarter of one percent tax instead of the full one-half. Wilson believes the one-half is excessive for just the purpose of raising funds for infrastructure improvements.

The businessman noted that other expected tax increases—coming bond issues for the school system and hospital in addition to the current level of taxation—are placing a large tax burden on the shoulders of Ruidosans.

"I'm just getting anti-tax, myself," Wilson remarked.

Wilson, who owns the Roadrunner gift shop, said he did not believe passage of the tax would reduce tourism in the village. He believes tourists pay little attention to the levels of taxation when traveling.

Lobby set for appropriation

By DARRELL J. PEHR

Ruidoso officials plan a trip to Santa Fe Saturday to lobby for the Ruidoso-Lincoln County request for a direct appropriation.

The measure will be discussed at the meeting of the Senate Finance Committee at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Ruidoso Village Councillor Bill Karn will leave for Santa Fe Thursday, with other councillors expected to follow. Senate Bill 296 primarily asks for $525,000 for the funding of repairs and improvements to Gavilan Canyon and Carrizo Canyon roads.

Senate Bill 297 asks for $583,500 for flood-related bridge replacement and drainage repairs in Ruidoso.

Twins of the bills in the House of Representatives, according to State Representative Ben Hall, are House bills 484 and 485.

Those bills probably will be sent to House committees next week, Hall reported.

Hall said the tax reorganization measure, House Bill 511, had not yet been assigned a committee hearing date.

The bill proposes to withhold, for state level expenditure, .35 cents from the 1.35 cents on the dollar of gross receipts tax revenue currently remitted back to local governments. To compensate for the expected loss in revenues, the bill proposes to allow local governments to raise property taxes and to share in the state income tax revenue.

Hall said a reassessment of property tax valuation scheduled for 1986 will help raise revenues locally. Hall said the reassessment, unrelated to Bill 511, will readjust property valuations from 1975 levels to 1980 levels, thus raising collections.

The legislator said that if House Bill 511 is passed, the reassessment may enable local governments to avoid raising property taxes by the full 344 percent, as would be allowed.

"It's going to make a lot of difference," he said of the reassessment.

Ad effort by chamber, racetrack, Inn?

By SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Staff Writer

In what Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce Advertising Committee chairman Tommy Morel described as an "historical effort," the chamber is joining forces with the Ruidoso Downs Race Track and the Inn of the Mountain Gods to pool money for summer advertising.

On Wednesday, the chamber committee met with its advertising agency, Epstein Enterprises; Rick Henson, manager of Ruidoso Downs Race Track; and Steve Tally from the Inn. After discussion, the group decided to have their three advertising agencies create a campaign that they could consider and present to their respective organizations.

"You really all are interested in the same thing—bringing people to Ruidoso," said Bob Epstein of Epstein Enterprises. "It seems natural to see if we can combine."

Henson said he budgeted $25,000 for the cooperative venture. Each of the parties would contribute an equal amount.

If the three entities agree on a campaign, they will each get three times the advertising for one-third the money. With $75,000, they would be able to advertise in Dallas, a goal all three seemed to share.

The cooperative effort would help the chamber's advertising efforts. Morel told his committee that the advertising budget would have to be cut by $18,000 because this year's lodgers' tax collection had not met projected figures.

Since the chamber's funds are matched on a 50-50 basis by the state, the chamber will lose an additional $9,000 of state funding. However, the money from the racetrack and the Inn may be able to qualify for matching funds and would help make up for the losses.

Most of the advertising budget is comprised of lodgers' tax collection money. Some people present at the meeting feared that the lodgers would object to a Ruidoso advertisement that featured the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Tally said that even though the ads would have the Inn on them, they would help all of the lodgers.

"All of the people who come to Ruidoso won't stay at the Inn," he said.

Chamber member Budgie Green agreed. "Anything that helps Ruidoso helps all of Ruidoso," he said emphatically.

Morel said his committee and the Lodgers' Tax Committee must consider the "whole" of Ruidoso in their promotion, not just one sector.

Acknowledging that some people might be displeased with the arrangement, Morel said, "We may have to take some heat, but that's what we're here for."

The group agreed summer advertising should package horse racing together with the beauty and cool pines of Ruidoso. Epstein said last year's "Horse Racing in Texas" campaign was very successful.

Since most summer tourists come from Texas, everyone at the meeting was concerned about the possibility of Texas legislation allowing pari-mutuel racing there. Henson said his "estimated guess" was that it would pass by a 3-2 margin.

Even if it passed, referenda would have to be conducted locally in Texas. "We won't see a Class A track (in Texas cities such as Dallas) until 1990," said Henson.

Henson said that having racing in Texas would actually help Ruidoso by involving more people in all aspects of the sport.

"When it's 110 degrees in Dallas, and the humidity is 100 percent, they'll come here," he said.

Epstein restated the importance of having continuous advertising in Texas so that when they have racing there, they will still come to Ruidoso. "Ruidoso has what Texas doesn't," said Epstein, citing the cool climate and shops as examples.

Epstein will meet with the advertising agencies of the Inn and the racetrack next week, and the three will face the "creative challenge" of making a viable campaign.

In other business, Morel asked his committee members to recommend people to fill two vacancies. Morel said former member Bill Happel moved to Hawaii and Roy Parker had other commitments in the summer.

First 'Business After Hours' a hit

By SHARON MAKOKIAN

Spirits were high as more than 80 people socialized at the first "Business After Hours" reception of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The premiere gala event at Buck Scott's All American Motors started at 5 p.m. and lasted until after 6:30. Drinks and snacks were served.

Chamber president James Paxton said he was impressed with all the people who took the time to attend the get-together. The party was such a success, he said, that three people volunteered to host the next three socials.

The chamber will sponsor one "Business After Hours" reception each month. Different member businesses will host each party and supply the refreshments.

This was the first chamber social since the morning Coffee Cart ended some time ago. Paxton was pleased that the parties are informal and take place at an hour when people do not have to rush. He stressed that the socials are open to everyone, not just chamber members.

"It gives you a chance to meet new businesspeople as well as talk to old friends," he said.

Chamber executive director John Jeffers was thrilled with the large turnout.

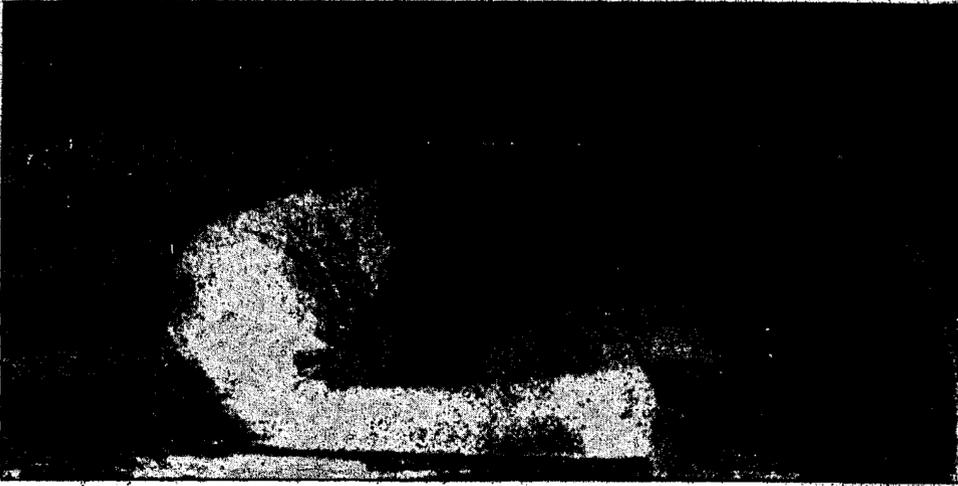

"I love it," he said. "I had no idea of what kind of crowd to expect the first time."

Jeffers said the high attendance was a "good indication of how chamber members want to be involved with the organization."

Jeffers said the monthly socials provide members with a good opportunity to meet one another, talk with chamber board members, show off their (host) businesses and just have a good time.

Gateway property rezoned commercial

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

In an attempt to clear up a longstanding discrepancy, the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) voted Monday to rezone from residential to commercial a tract of land in the Palmer Gateway Subdivision.

With a unanimous vote, the commission voted to rezone from R-1 (single-family dwellings) to C-1 (light commercial and office) about half of block 15 of the subdivision. Rezoned lots are 1A, 1B, 2, 3, 4, 5, Tract 1, 2A, 3A, 6, 7 and 8A.

According to Planning and Zoning enforcement officer Paul Davis, a request to rezone the block from R-1 to C-1 was presented to the commission in 1981.

The rezone request was granted, but the Ruidoso Village Council overturned the commission's decision. The zoning map in the Planning and Zoning office, however, was changed at that time to reflect the zoning as if it had been passed.

Since that time, several property owners in the area have been mistakenly led to believe that their land was commercial.

The commission heard the request Monday as an administrative review to rezone the entire block 15.

Protesting the rezone were property owners Mr and Mrs Jeff Beavers of Clovis. Mrs. Beavers told the commission that she and her husband had opposed the rezone in 1981 and still opposed it.

"That's the way we'd like to keep it," she commented, noting the couple's desire to leave their property residential.

Speaking of the proposed P&Z administrative review to rezone all of block 15, commission member Don Shaw made a motion to rezone the half of the block that does not include the Beavers property. The commission passed the motion unanimously.

In other business, the commission: —Approved various lot line variances of lot 16, block 12, Ponderosa Heights subdivision, Unit 2, as requested by N. L. Taylor. According to Taylor, the need for the variances arose when plans for an addition were made.

Taylor reported that when he bought the lot and mobile home seven years ago, encroachments into the setback were already present. Taylor pointed out that the proposed addition would not increase the encroachments.

—Approved, with the stipulation that an encroaching deck never be enclosed, a front lot line variance of lot 23, block 2, Cree Meadows Heights subdivision, Third Addition, as requested by William Gray, trustee.

It was indicated during the meeting that the variance would allow the deck to remain an encroachment in the setback from a right of way that is not yet being utilized as a road. Member, Shaw, protested the measure

"We're talking about abandoning a street," Shaw remarked. He noted his belief that the request was monetarily motivated.

Shaw and P&Z member Reed Stirman cast two opposing votes to the four-vote passage of the measure.

—Received a copy of the Ruidoso Village Council ordinance providing guidelines for the removal of members of committees and other bodies who commit two unexcused absences in a row or three in a year.

"They tend to forget that this is voluntary," Shaw said of the council's move.

"I find it unnecessary," P&Z member Karon Petty added.

"Especially when we attend more meetings than they do," Shaw concluded. P&Z acting chairman Ray Bishop opined that the intent of the attendance requirements were meant for other arms of the council.

"I don't think it applies to P and Z," he said. "I know it doesn't."

—Directed Davis to include all window signs that are visible from the outside of a building when enforcing the sign ordinance.

—Heard Davis report that the Kentucky Fried Chicken sign ordinance violation had been taken by the company to District Court.

—Heard Davis report that an alleged sign ordinance violation by Ralph Rush of Discount Ski Rentals was decided in Municipal Court to be guilty by default. A $300 fine was levied and the offending sign ordered removed.

Local Special Olympian to nationals

Beth Lindborg, a 15-year-old Ruidoso High School freshman, will represent Lincoln County in the Special Olympic finals in Park City, Utah, next month.

"I'm so excited. Every time I think of it, I get chills up my back," said the downhill slalom racer.

Lindborg proudly said she had skied very fast during a recent practice.

"After all, I'm trained for racing," she said happily, but with a matter-of-fact tone.

Last year, one of her teachers got Lindborg interested in Special Olympics. She has been training in skiing for over a year.

Not a one-season athlete, Lindborg also runs, jumps and does the softball throw in the summer Olympic games. Prior to her Utah trip, Lindborg will ski in the games at Sandia Peak in Albuquerque on February 27.

When she competes at the games, she will have pins to exchange as gifts with Olympic delegations from other places. Money ($175) for the pins was donated by the Ruidoso Multiple Listing Service.

Woman in critical condition after accident

State Police investigated two traffic accidents Tuesday, one of which resulted in the hospitalization of a Ruidoso woman.

Hospitalized in critical condition is Sonya Mobley, 27, of Ruidoso, police said. Mobley was hurt about 5 p.m. Tuesday when the car she was traveling in down the mountain road near Arle Bend when she lost control of her car and the accident occurred. She will be cited for improper passing, police said.

State Police also investigated an accident Tuesday about 4:30 p.m. on Highway 37 just north of the Swiss Chalet Inn. According to police, Vincent Tognaci, 15, of Ruidoso, was traveling northbound on 37 when he lost control of his vehicle, skidded into the southbound lane, returned to the northbound lane and left the roadway, hitting a tree. A passenger in the vehicle, Angela Tognaci, 14, received minor injuries in the accident, police said.

Vincent Tognaci was cited for careless driving.

Police said Mobley was traveling at a high rate of speed and was illegally attempting to pass a line of cars also traveling down the mountain road near Arle Bend when she lost control of her car and the accident occurred. She will be cited for improper passing, police said.

State Police also investigated an accident Tuesday about 4:30 p.m. on

Downs policeman faces embezzlement charge

James Roger Riley, a Ruidoso Downs police officer, has been charged with embezzlement and submitting a false public voucher.

Riley formerly served as director of the Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department. The charges were in connection with Fire Department business.

The state Attorney General's Office in Albuquerque began the investigation on December 28. According to Jo Ann Jenkins, Downs police dispatch supervisor, Riley was suspended with pay at that time.

He was arrested February 12 and released on $10,000 bond. Jenkins said he was suspended without pay from the Police Department the next day.

Charges against Riley are two counts of embezzlement of over $100 and one count of submitting a false public voucher.

All charges involve transactions between 1982 and 1984. They are felony charges and each carries a maximum penalty of 18 months in jail, a $5,000 fine or both.

As director of the Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department, Riley submitted all purchase orders and requisitions through the Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees. The department used two funds, one with state-appropriated monies and the other with donations and payments for fire calls.

Downs village clerk Wilma Webb said the trustees carefully monitor those funds in the same way they handle all state funds.

Ruidoso Downs mayor J. C. Day said the investigation was instigated by the Attorney General's office. Neither he nor Webb knew of any local requests for an investigation.

"I think it would be inappropriate for me to comment since charges have been made," Day said.

"If you are planning for a year, sow rice. If you are planning for a decade, plant a tree. If you are planning for a lifetime, educate a person."

That old Chinese proverb was the theme for in-service training shared by Ruidoso Municipal Schools, Capitan Municipal Schools and Region IX Cooperative Center. The workshop was billed, "A Cooperative Venture."

Teachers became students during the two-day program that included projects from cheesecake baking to energy conservation.

Sessions were taught by experts from throughout New Mexico.

"Child Abuse and Its Impact on Educators" was presented by Samuel London. He is chairperson of the Dona Ana County Coalition for Children and Families. His focus was on "detection, procedures of reporting and the educational response necessary for lessening the trauma for the victims."

Ruidoso High School teacher Galen Farrington presented "Photography in the Classroom."

"Classroom Applications for Computer Use" was taught by Ruidoso teachers Jim Dickinson and Leigh Carter.

The computer sessions were designed to "make computer use profitable and non-threatening."

"Increasing Achievement through Self-Esteem," "Legislative Update," "Southwest Legends" and "Elementary Science Demonstrations" were among the other course offerings.

Dr. Jack Cole of New Mexico State University (NMSU) presented ERIC, Educational Resource Information Center, a clearing house for finding available educational curriculum materials.

Gene Sellers and Kathy Echols made some medical screening available at reduced rates for teachers at the workshop. They did blood typing, complete blood counts and coronary screening all day Thursday.

"Car Care for the Mechanically Handicapped" was presented by Dan Shaver of Ruidoso's Goodyear Tire and Auto Friday. His course included "practical, common sense, hints to help the less-than-competent mechanic learn when and how to take care of simple problems and when to call the car doctor."

Lynn Moore's cheesecake baking was a change of pace for participants, who were cautioned to "bring an apron."

Teachers participating in the "Classroom Energy Projects" workshop found themselves flying kites in the schoolyard. Dusty Milson of El Paso was coordinator for the hands-on energy projects.

Charolette Hill, county Extension home economist, displayed free materials available through her office for classroom use.

Ruidoso educators planning and teaching in the educational enhancement opportunities included Farrington, Dickinson, Carter, Bonnie Brock-Wood, Frank Cannella, Page Hubbard, Jackie Brantum, Moore, Sandy Gladden, Karen S. Tillman, Texie Cole and Paula Land.

Neal Poesse (right) of Tacs led a workshop on video equipment during teacher in-service training. Ruidoso teacher Sue Vinsant tried the video taping equipment and got tips on its use. Poesse's class included tips on choosing the right equipment.

Dusty Milson (standing) taught a class on understanding energy during Ruidoso and Capitan schools' in-service training Thursday and Friday. Milson shows Ruidoso teacher Susan Keeton (seated) how to make a Ben Franklin-type kite.

Warrior boys top Tularosa; cagers face tough weekend

Good shooting helps Ruidoso

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

Making free throws has been a problem for the Ruidoso High School boys varsity basketball team the past two years.

But the Warriors broke out of that long slump Tuesday night, sinking 24 of 29 charity attempts to down Tularosa 60-54 on the losers' court.

Ruidoso will host Deming in a District 3-AAA game Friday night. The Warriors will travel to Hot Springs Saturday. Ruidoso is 1-3 in district action and 3-15 overall.

But for now, Warrior head coach Gene Segura is happy with his team's win over Tularosa—and the Warriors' excellent free throw shooting.

"It's something we've been working on," he said after the game. "Each day we have the kids make five free throws in a row before they can leave practice."

The game was close most of the way, but Tularosa had a 52-50 lead with less than two minutes left.

Then the Warriors' youngest starter put them ahead.

Freshman guard Kirk Ryan drove through a couple of Tularosa defenders for a layup. He was fouled on the play. Ryan made the free throw and the Warriors had a one-point lead.

Tularosa came back and had a two-shot foul. However, both shots were missed and the Warriors got the ball.

Toby Rue was fouled and made one of two free throws, giving the Warriors a 54-52 advantage.

Then the Warriors put the game away.

A Tularosa player took an inbounds pass but stepped back over the mid-court line, giving the Warriors the ball.

Russell Easter was fouled and provided the eventual winning points with two free throws.

In contrast to the first game between the two teams, Ruidoso took an early lead and forced the Wildcats out of their zone defense.

The Warriors had a 4-0 lead early in the first quarter and led 10-7 at the end of the quarter.

Ruidoso's fast break worked more effectively in the second period. The Warriors outscored Tularosa 14-11 for a 24-18 halftime lead.

The third quarter saw Tularosa come back and tie the score several times, the last at 34-34.

However, the Warriors took a 36-34 lead on a jumper by Easter.

Two free throws by Easter and one by Dion Lopez, plus a bucket by Trent Tolbert, gave the Warriors a 41-37 lead going into the final quarter.

The final period was a see-saw battle before Ryan's bucket and free throw gave the Warriors the lead for good.

Segura was pleased with the Warriors' performance.

"We got a lead and took them out of their zone early," he said. "The kids are improving."

Sophomore Brian Davis led the Warriors' scoring with 14 points. He connected on eight of 10 free throws. He fouled out late in the game.

Tolbert and Easter each added 12 points. Ryan and sophomore guard Jeff Willingham each scored eight points.

The Warriors had a 30-23 rebounding edge. Easter led with nine boards.

Tolbert was particularly pleased with his game.

"That's the best offensive game I've ever had, scoring and rebounding," the 6-3 junior said.

Now the Warriors must prepare for Deming and Hot Springs, both tougher teams than the AA-division Wildcats.

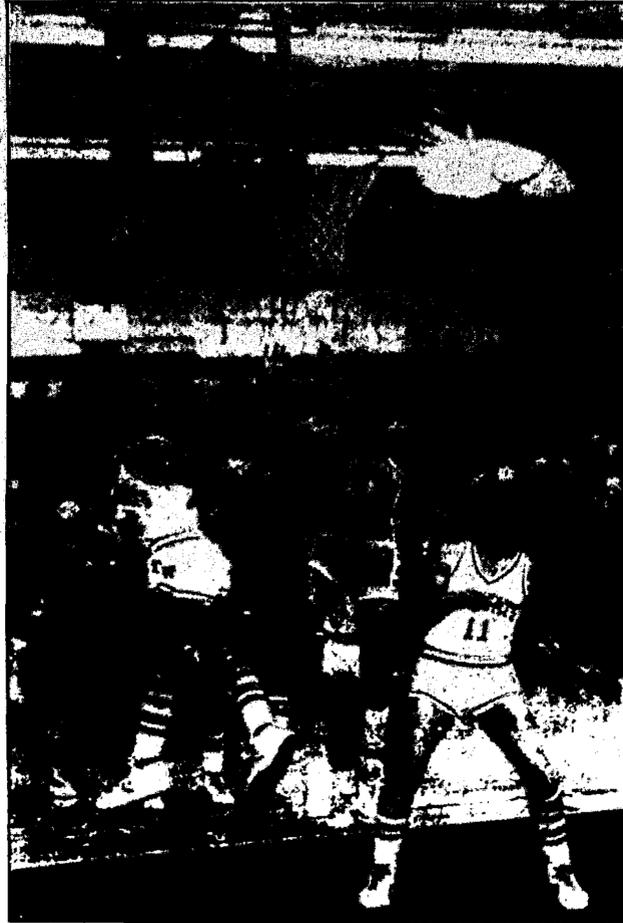

Deming belted the Warriors 74-30 and Hot Springs topped Ruidoso 69-43 in games earlier this month.

Hot Springs and Deming are tied for first place in the district, each having a 3-1 record. Deming is 16-5 overall and Hot Springs is 13-5.

Silver City is 2-1 in district play and 11-4 overall. Cobre is 0-3 in district action and 4-10 overall.

The Warriors will be going into the weekend games without 6-3 senior Tracy Gann.

Gann broke a bone in his thumb late in the Silver City game and is out for the season.

Ruidoso's Trent Tolbert (32) puts up a shot during Tuesday night's boys varsity basketball game at Tularosa. Tolbert scored 12 points as the Warriors won 60-54.

Girls seek repeat win over Deming

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

Hoping to duplicate their only District 3-AAA win, the Ruidoso High School girls varsity basketball team will host Deming Friday night.

Ruidoso, 1-4 in district play and 5-13 overall, will travel to Hot Springs Saturday night for another district game.

Ruidoso beat Deming 39-37 in overtime on the Wildcats' court earlier this month. Warrior head coach Sergio Castanon plans some changes this time.

"We hope to adjust our style of play and run the ball more," he said. "Deming is bigger than us but slower."

Diane McClure, a 6-0 all-district returnee, has been tough inside for the Warriors. Stacy Ivy and Susan Davis also have played well. Ivy scored 28 points in two games last weekend.

However, Davis has been sick and her status for the games is questionable. Sophomore Katherine Sanchez (5-11) also is questionable with an injured leg.

Gia Rose, Judy McCoy and Zeba Morris should see plenty of action at the guard position.

The guards probably will be a key in the Warriors' chances against Deming and Hot Springs.

"We plan to press a lot with a man-to-man full court," Castanon said.

Ruidoso lost to Hot Springs 42-30 on the Warrior court two weeks ago. However, the Tigers were missing some starters for disciplinary reasons.

"They'll be tough now," Castanon remarked. "It's hard to say which team is the best in the district now. I thought Silver City might be, but Cobre looked awfully tough last weekend."

Last Friday Ruidoso fell to Cobre 76-39. Saturday the Warriors lost to visiting Silver City 46-39.

Ruidoso junior varsity beaten

The Ruidoso High School boys junior varsity basketball team dropped a 64-50 decision to host Tularosa Tuesday night.

Tularosa built up a 57-34 lead after three quarters. However, the Warriors came back strong in the final period, outscoring the Wildcats 16-7.

Tularosa had a hot hand in the first period, outscoring the Warriors 21-12.

The Wildcats added 19 points in the second quarter, while holding Ruidoso to six points.

Four Warriors made the scoring column, all in double figures.

Justin Shaw and Alan Kirgan each tallied 14 points. Toby Rue added 12 points and Garret Henson scored 10. Rue scored six points in the first half to pace the Warriors.

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

Action abounds on the Inn of the Mountain Gods tennis courts this week.

Ruidoso High School tennis coach Mike Crocker is having a double-elimination tournament to determine who makes the squad and how his ladder will be made up.

"We've got about 12 girls and 10 boys so far," Crocker said. "That's a little bit less than what we had last year, but I think some kids came out last year and didn't know how tough it was going to be."

The Warriors lost their top singles players from both the boys and girls teams.

Top girl player Laura Trapp graduated and is a student at the University of Texas at Austin. Ryan Brown, the top boy player, moved to Texas.

But Crocker is optimistic his team can improve on last season's records. The Warrior boys were 6-4 and the girls finished 2-8.

"I think we've got a little more depth this year in both boys and girls," the outgoing and exuberant Crocker said. "We've got some good eighth graders who I think I might let try out for the varsity."

Crocker probably will build his boys team around the Smith brothers, Mike and Jim.

Mike was the second player on the singles ladder last season. Jim was third or fourth.

However, Crocker thinks Jim Smith has improved a lot during the off-season.

"Jim has come a long way," the coach commented. "He hits hard and has improved a lot."

Both Jim and Mike played on the Warrior doubles teams in the district meet. Mike teamed with Zach Swalander (another returnee) and Jim teamed with Bart Bowen.

Both teams won first-round matches, but lost in the second round.

Donna Mobley is probably the top returnee from last year's girls team. She was the Warriors' second singles player last season.

But Crocker is especially high on his eighth graders.

Eric Collins, Dusty Skellett, Marnie Warlick and Cassie McIntosh are the top eighth graders.

"They're not as good as our seniors," Crocker said. "But they're probably as good as some of our juniors. They've got a lot of talent and have been playing for some time."

The Warriors will open the season Thursday, March 21, at New Mexico Military Institute. That match should give the Ruidoso boys a good idea how they'll fare this season.

"I think NNMI will be the team to beat," Crocker remarked. "After them, I could see us finishing second."

"Goddard won the title last year, but I think they lost two or three top players."

"I see Goddard being the favorite in the girls division. Portales could be tough, and we might be able to finish third."

If Crocker is correct in his opinions, it could be a banner year for the Warriors.

Ruidoso wrestlers ready for district, face stiff competition from three teams

Some tough competition awaits the Ruidoso High School wrestling team in the District 3-AAA meet Saturday at Silver City.

Deming, Cobre and Silver City have very strong teams and have defeated the Warriors in dual matches this season. Ruidoso finished 4-5 in dual-match competition.

"I look for Deming to win, Cobre finish second and Silver City finish third," said Warrior head coach Gerald Ames. "We should finish fourth."

"If we really have an all-out effort, we could finish higher."

Other teams in the tournament are Goddard, New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) and New Mexico School for the Visually Handicapped.

Ames thinks NNMI could beat out Goddard for fifth place.

"It could be very tight for fifth place," Ames commented. "We should beat those teams (Goddard and NNMI)."

Ruidoso beat NNMI and Goddard in dual-match competition.

The top four finishers in each weight class will qualify for the state AAA-AA division championships at Los Lunas High School Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2.

Ames thinks a number of Warrior wrestlers have a good shot at qualifying for the state championships.

"Kevin Jameson (189 pounds) has a good shot at taking second," Ames remarked. "He has lost to only one wrestler from the district."

Jameson, a senior, has a 10-8 record and finished second in the Roswell-Goddard-NMMI Tournament last weekend.

James Herrera at 169 pounds has the best season record with a 13-5-1 record. He has lost to wrestlers from Goddard and NNMI, but finished second in the Los Lunas Invitational and in last week's Roswell tournament.

Ames thinks Herrera has a good shot at third place and possibly higher. He finished fourth in the district tournament last season.

Other wrestlers who rate good chances at qualifying for the state competition include Jeff Schmidt (100 pounds), Scott Yeatman (105), Cory Garner (121), Zach Swalander (140), Kyle Jameson (147), Kerry Jameson (157) and heavyweight Phillip Herrera.

Freshman Al Holt at 114 pounds and senior Manuel Montano at 128 pounds probably will compete. Montano has been bothered by the flu, but should be ready.

Competition will begin at 10 a.m. Weigh-ins will start at 8:30 a.m.

Pizza Inn, Shockers unbeaten in men's cage

Pizza Inn and the Shockers are the only unbeaten teams going into the fifth week of play in the Village of Ruidoso Adult Men's Basketball League.

Both teams are 4-0. Following those two teams in the standings are the Cobras, Chiefs and Aspen Pharmacy at 3-1; Moncor at 2-2; Alamo Pipe at 1-3; and The Incredible, Reddington Investments and T & C, all at 0-4.

Last Saturday the Shockers dumped Alamo Pipe 87-57, Sunday Pizza Inn belted Reddington Investments 103-39.

Clyde Reynolds scored 33 points and Bill Word had 18 for the Shockers. Deke LaMay scored 20 for the Shockers.

Mike Weirs tallied 22 points to pace Pizza Inn to its win. Jack Valliant added 16. J. W. Hermes and Clyde Lutsch each scored 14 points for Reddington Investments.

Other games saw the Cobras beat Aspen Pharmacy 91-85, the Chiefs beat The Incredible 89-54 and Moncor defeat T & C 90-84.

Tom Hinds had 29 points and Dave Hoffer scored 25 for the Cobras. Bill Richardson had 35 points and Rickey Montano scored 32 for Aspen Pharmacy.

Blane Miller scored 25 points and Mark Williams had 18 to lead the Chiefs past The Incredible. Jimmy Warren scored 16 points and Nick Mattson had 12 for The Incredible.

Warner Coleman scored 26 points and Eddie Roberts had 24 to lead Moncor. Gene Segura scored 23 points and Ridge Bowden scored 24 for T & C.

This week's schedule at White Mountain School will have two games Saturday and three Sunday.

Saturday night's games will see the Shockers play T & C at 6, with Aspen Pharmacy and Moncor providing the officials.

At 7:30, Moncor and Aspen Pharmacy will play. T & C and the Shockers will have the referees.

Sunday's first game will have the Chiefs playing Alamo Pipe at 5. Pizza Inn and the Cobras will have the officials.

Pizza Inn and the Cobras will tangle at 6:30, with The Incredible and Reddington Investments providing the officials. The Incredible and Reddington Investments will play at 8, with Alamo Pipe and the Chiefs having the officials.

Freshmen end season with wins

The Ruidoso High School boys freshman basketball team closed out the season with two victories this week.

Wednesday the Warriors topped visiting Tularosa 55-46. Tuesday Ruidoso traveled to Hondo and came back with a 39-33 victory.

The Warriors had a slight lead

(16-15) over Tularosa at the end of the first period. Ruidoso increased its lead to 28-23 at halftime and gradually increased its margin in the second half.

Eric Ford scored 17 points to lead Ruidoso. Sean Moore added 11, Clint Bob scored 10 and Jeff Arvizu tallied eight.

Dulce victorious in All-Indian tourney

Dulce won the third annual Mescalero Apache All-Indian Women's Basketball Tournament last weekend at the Mescalero Community Center.

The Mescalero Accettes were second; the Mescalero Braves finished third; Fort McDowell (Arizona) was fourth; and the Mescalero Classics took fifth.

Norma Cavazone of Dulce was the high scorer with 30 points. She made the all-tournament first team.

Dulce's Glenda Vigil won the most valuable player award.

Other members of the first team were Jackie Little of the Classics, Hollie Jones of Fort McDowell, Mavis Geronimo of the Braves and Jennifer Smith of the Accettes.

Verilyn Platta of the Braves won the hustler award. Platta, Geronimo and Waconda are Ruidoso High School students and played on the Warrior basketball team.

The Braves also won the team sportsmanship award.

Capitan FFA wins first place in judging

by DORIS CHERRY
News Capitan Bureau

Future Farmers of America (FFA) nationwide are celebrating FFA Week. To commemorate the week, the Capitan chapter honored its first place livestock judging team and will present a skit to the kindergarten and first grade classes about where food comes from.

The Capitan FFA livestock judging team, consisting of Sergio Boyle, Ronnie Sanchez, John Parker and Mike Lunn, took first place at the Block and Bridle Invitational Livestock Judging event held recently in El Paso.

Of the 25 FFA teams at the competition, the Capitan team was high scorer. Of 130 individuals competing Ronnie Sanchez and John Parker placed second and fourth overall.

According to Capitan FFA advisor Mark Daugherty, the judging consists of the selection of steers, hogs and sheep according to their market value.

The participating judges were expected to select the best of each group of four.

The total of the individual scores determined the placement of the team. High scores by Capitan FFA individuals put the team in first place which earned a plaque.

The Capitan FFA chapter, now five years old with 48 members, is one of the newest chapters in New Mexico.

Ninth through twelve grade students enrolled in an agriculture class at school are eligible to join FFA.

FFA, founded in 1928, is one of the largest youth organizations in the world. FFA has chapters in other countries. All of the members are future farmers, but the last initial in the name is changed for the country involved: FFJ in Japan and FFE in England, for example.

The Capitan chapter is planning a skit for the lower elementary grades which will tell where and how we get our food. They hope to involve live baby animals in the skit.

Daugherty said that the FFA motto - "learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live and living to serve" - summed up the purpose of FFA.

Capitan FFA president Shamarie LaRue presented a certificate from Governor Toney Anaya as part of FFA's 40th birthday celebration.

FHA celebrates 40th birthday

The Capitan Future Homemakers of America (FHA) and their associated group, HERO, recently celebrated the fortieth birthday of FHA.

Capitan chapter president Shamarie LaRue, currently FHA state treasurer, presented a proclamation by Governor Toney Anaya to her chapter and helped organize a birthday party for FHA. Capitan school faculty and other student organization presidents were invited.

LaRue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith LaRue of Capitan, will serve as state treasurer until April. Yvonne Montes will take over the job at that time.

The state FHA officers are elected from the different FHA districts.

The Capitan chapter has twenty members, including two boys. According to sponsor Laura Jones, the two boys are the first to belong to the Capitan chapter.

FHA-HERO has over 2000 members statewide. Students in home economics or home economics occupations classes through grade 12 can be members of FHA-HERO.

Nationally, FHA-HERO has 350,000 members with over 12,000 chapters.

Francke clarifies comment

by DORIS CHERRY
News Capitan Bureau

In a telephone interview Wednesday, Director of Corrections Michael Francke clarified his statement about the number of vacant beds at Camp Sierra Blanca (CSB).

Quoted last week by the Roswell Daily Record, Francke stated that 60 out of 70 beds at CSB were vacant.

Francke told The News the vacancies he referred to in the Roswell interview were for all minimum security facilities in New Mexico: CSB, Los Lunas and Roswell.

CSB, the smallest of minimum facilities, has a 70 bed capacity and per capita costs slightly higher than the larger facilities. The total capacity for all three facilities is 420 beds.

Francke said vacancies change from day to day as inmates are released or transferred. Presently there are a total of 33 vacancies in the three facilities.

Francke requires daily reports from the wardens at the minimum security facilities. With these reports, Francke's office can know where vacancies are and where inmate transfers can be made.

With the use of community based inmate programs, the Department of Corrections has kept the number of vacancies in state prison facilities high. The community prison facilities operate through non-profit and local government entities with funds from the Corrections department.

Francke said the total number of inmates is down this year from last.

"Camp Sierra Blanca is a good place to be, to go there is a powerful incentive for inmates," Francke stated. However, this does not mean it is cost effective, Francke added.

Francke's office has developed a plan to close CSB, but cannot make the decision to close the facility. That decision is up to the state legislators.

Troupe brings enthusiasm

by DORIS CHERRY
News Capitan Bureau

For twenty years, the Up With People group has been entertaining crowds all over the world.

The troupe recently visited our area, showing a Carrizozo audience their newest show.

Their third year to start their tour in Carrizozo, the cast of 131 (including staff, public relations people and stage crews) rode into town hoping to find homes for everyone.

Housing is a big problem.

Four cast members brought their enthusiasm and excitement to Capitan, lodging in the home of Julie Urech.

Doug Hasler from Paris, Illinois; Brian Connel from Wyoming; Jerry Denham of Ukiah, California, and Chris Mergener from Grand Rapids, Michigan, toted along their musical instruments as well as their visible excitement.

As new members of the cast, the four young men were looking forward to performing the show for the public.

The group originates in Tucson, Arizona, and travels by bus to destinations over the country.

With the largest cast ever, Up With People hopes to produce a new album this March.

The four young men who stayed in Urech's Capitan home have backgrounds as varied as their home towns.

Hasler, with a degree in economics, said he joined the group for the traveling experience and the cultural exchange. Hasler plays guitar and is a featured soloist.

Saxophonist in the 13 piece band, Connel wanted to be in a band for the experience. "Everywhere is different," Connel stated of his travels.

A music major at the University of North Colorado at Greeley, Connel became interested in Up With People after he saw them perform at the university.

Denham is hoping to make theatre arts his major area of study when he attends college. He is currently a member of the all-important set crew.

Chris Mergener, an advertising student at Michigan State University, came into the group with encouragement from friends who were already members of the cast.

Up With People invites interested persons 18 to 25 years old to be interviewed after each show. Not entirely based on singing talent, the group selects new members on the basis of maturity and interest in the program.

After the interview, potential members must apply to the Tucson-based non-profit organization.

The members estimated only one out of six people interviewed are actually accepted to the cast. However, this year, that estimate was low. The largest turnout in the group's history created the largest cast that Up With People has ever sent on tour.

There are five Up With People casts on tour simultaneously. Two casts are in Europe now and three are in the United States.

This week's Carrizozo performance marks the beginning of the new show, to be taken to Mexico and Europe later this year.

After leaving Carrizozo, the group will travel to Chihuahua, Mexico, to perform.

And how did Julie Urech find these enthusiastic young people in her home?

"They were needing places to stay so I said, 'yes, I'll take some,'" said Urech.

Urech is one of many people who take in the cast members when they are on the road. This practice is an important part of the Up With People shows, since the cast members pay tuition and are not paid a salary.

By staying in people's homes, the Up With People troupe members bring the excitement of the show directly to the host community.

Capitan Baptists build church

by DORIS CHERRY
News Capitan Bureau

(Editor's note: As we move into the Easter season, the Capitan Range will feature a different church each Thursday, giving a brief history and description of each.

Any special events or notices concerning the area churches are welcome, and need to be received the Wednesday before the event.)

Incorporated in 1905, the Capitan First Baptist church now has about 65 members.

Pastor Dan Carter came to the congregation in 1981. Before assuming his permanent position, Carter commuted from the Faith City Bible School in Amarillo, Texas, every Sunday for six months. After receiving his two year certificate from the school, Carter became pastor of the Capitan congregation.

Carter said he felt there is an "excitement" in the congregation presently. He meets at 6 a.m. on Tuesdays with the men's prayer group at the fair building. At 6 a.m. on Fridays, the men meet for Bible study at the same place.

The women's Bible study group

The First Baptist Church recently held a work day. Pastor Dan Carter and congregation members Bobby LaMay, Stan Cox, Blane Miller and Frank Silva donated time for various projects.

meets 10 a.m. on Tuesdays. They meet in member homes on a rotating monthly basis.

This week, the women's group held a mother-daughter banquet. The boys of the congregation served the food for the dinner.

The banquet featured Alpha Lane, of the Capitan Church of Christ. She spoke on mother-daughter relationships.

Currently, the congregation is remodeling their building, originally constructed in 1968.

Modernizing with insulation, members donate their time and labor to the church. They hope to be able to put siding on the building within this year.

Services are: Sunday school, 10 a.m.; worship, 11 a.m. on Sundays. The congregation also meets at 6:30 on Wednesday nights in the Carter home.

Pastor Carter and his wife, Denise, have two children, Mandi and Maggie.

Carter is helping to organize an Easter sunrise service in conjunction with other Capitan churches.

The First Baptist Church invites everyone to join their services.

They will consider allowing a non church related organization to use their facilities.

The Backwoods Food Co-op and the LaMaze childbirth classes currently meet at the building.

For more information call the church at 354-2458 or the Carter home at 354-2362.

The regular meeting of the LINCOLN COUNTY PLANNING AND ZONING COMMISSION will be 7 p.m. Thursday, February 21, at the county courthouse in Carrizozo.

The agenda consists of a conference review of Eagle Creek Acres subdivision plat submitted by Tim Collins.

The WE CARE group of Capitan was given credit for their loan to the Capitan schools of the video tape, "Strong Kids, Safe Kids."

The tape is being shown in the school currently, and deals with child sexual abuse.

We Care, a pro-life group, held different fund-raisers to purchase the tape. Group spokesperson, Sandra Collins, said the tape would be available for loan to other schools or groups after the showings at Capitan Elementary.

The We Care group donates time and money to worthy causes.

For more information call Sandra Collins, 354-2465.

LINCOLN COUNTY EXTENSION agent Charolette Hill said she would like to remind all extension members about the Cultural Arts competition February 28 in Capitan.

Competition is open to Extension members only, but the exhibit will be open for public viewing at 1:30 p.m. in the fair building.

Sandy Perry will present a program in flower arranging. The program will follow the noon covered dish/potluck luncheon.

The CAPITAN TIGERS will meet first place Cloudcroft for district play Friday in Capitan.

Varsity and junior varsity boys and girls will begin play at 2 p.m.

The girls will have one more meet, with Hagerman, before district play-offs.

The boys will have to play Hagerman and Tatum before their district games, to be held in Hondo, March 5-9.

Anyone interested in forming a PARENT TEACHER ORGANIZATION is urged to attend the meeting at 7:30 tonight, Thursday, February 21, in the Capitan school multipurpose building.

The group will concentrate on nominating officers and chartering committees to determine if they wish to become an official PTA.

The MOUNTAIN VIEW ANIMAL CLINIC will begin a weekly morning clinic in Capitan. The clinic will be held at the Blue Columbine (formerly the Wood Shop). The clinic will be open on Tuesday mornings from 9-11 starting February 28.

The clinic will handle minor procedures such as examinations, vaccinations and worming, according to veterinarian Earl Leslie.

Leslie, who runs the Mountain View Clinic, said the charge will be dependent on the procedure and will be the same as a regular office charge.

Appointments are desired but everyone is urged to "stop in and say hello."

Veterinary assistant Cyndi Livingston will also be participating in the clinic.

ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS and AL-ANON will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesdays at the Fair Building in Capitan.

Lincoln County homemakers attend legislative day

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

"We are very fortunate to have a citizen Legislature. When you come to them you come as a neighbor, as a friend, as a voter."

Those were Donna Smith's opening remarks to a group who attended a legislative day for homemakers in Santa Fe recently.

Smith is executive director of the New Mexico Association of Counties. She is a lobbyist, or "paid gun," for city and county interests in the Legislature.

Twenty Lincoln County residents were among the 200 homemakers and home economists at the two-day session. The event was sponsored by New Mexico Cooperative Extension Service and New Mexico State University (NMSU).

Family Community Leadership (FCL) is a branch of the Extension service charged with educating and informing homemakers and homeowners on government issues affecting them.

Kathy Treat, dean of home economics at NMSU and co-chairman of the regional board for FCL, explained that FCL began as an idea in 1974. Women wanted to speak to public issues and deal with government, but lacked the confidence.

FCL obtained a grant from the Kellogg Foundation and has been providing leadership skills training for the past three years. This legislative day was funded by Kellogg and was part of FCL's goal to encourage people to be informed and involved in policy making.

Smith advised the group on "working legislators"—or lobbying for or against legislation. She cautioned them to be sure to have accurate facts, to put as much in writing as possible with the bill number clearly on top, and to take as little time as possible.

Legislators' time is short since they are in session for just 60 days and divide their time among office hours, committee meetings, floor sessions and research. Smith said a clearly marked note handed to a legislator would be much more effective than a long conversation.

Smith talked the group through a typical house or senate bill. She explained where to locate bill numbers, how to find out the status of bills, and what to expect at the Roundhouse.

Legislative Day was also the 30th day of the session and the last day to introduce legislation, so Smith said representatives would be very busy presenting bills. Many, many more bills are read and entered than are ever enacted.

"The process is such that it prevents legislation that is not well thought out from being passed," she said.

The process also leaves voters with plenty of opportunities to make their wishes known to legislators.

That is what legislative day was all about.

Donald Hooker, president of the New Mexico Extension Support Council, was scheduled to speak to the group about issues of importance to the Extension service.

Every county in the state was represented at legislative day, making for an ideal lobbying situation, according to Hooker.

"We want to maintain the Extension system just like it is ... we're doing many good things ... we would even like some increases," Hooker said.

Hooker urged the group to press for continued funding for the Extension service at the same level or higher.

Palemon Martinez, Cooperative Extension Service's Northeast District director, had prepared a list of bills of interest to homemakers and homeowners. Some bills on his list are:

HOUSE BILLS

HB85—Norma D. Hood, et al.—relating to child abuse; authorizing the coordination of certain reports; requiring certain confirmations.

... Allows school boards to adopt coordinating policies and tracking of reports by school personnel ... but shall not require any prior notification to school district before report is made directly to one of several offices of authority ... and requiring confirmation of investigation to reporting person within five days.

HB102—Mary L. Thompson et al.—relating to crimes; prohibiting certain retail display of sexually oriented material harmful to minors; providing penalty.

HB189—Hood et al.—relating to children's code providing for substance abuse screening and treatment for certain children.

HB193—Mary L. Thompson—refund requirement on beverage containers.

HB200—Hawk—Appropriation State Agency on Aging to provide counseling to senior citizens on purchase of Medicare and Medicare supplemental health insurance.

HB206—Hood, Smith et al.—relating to substance abuse; broadening scope of the community alcoholism treatment act.

HB208—Louis Sanchez—alternative education (at home and standards).

SENATE BILLS:

SB62—Michael Alarid—relating to adults; amending a section of the Adult Protective Services Act to continue the pilot program for protective services to all adults.

SB67—Tito D. Chavez—making an appropriation to the State Agency on Aging to provide adult day care ($1,010,000).

SB77—I.M. Smalley—State lottery.

SB156—Les Houston—relating to motor vehicles; prohibiting consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages in open or closed containers in motor vehicles; exceptions, penalty.

During the 30th day many more bills were presented in both houses.

Homemakers and home economists entertained legislators and visitors to the Roundhouse with a coffee in the capitol rotunda. That was their opportunity to visit with lawmakers about pending legislation.

Issues of particular importance to the Lincoln County group were bills that might affect Camp Sierra Blanca and Fort Stanton. There was also concern over House Bill 27 and repeal of the lodgers' tax.

United States Senator Pete Domenici spoke to a joint session of the House and Senate while legislative day participants listened from the gallery.

FACTS OF LAW
by SAM A. WESTERGREN, ATTY.
"Law is experience developed by reason and applied continually to further experience."
—Roscoe Pound, American educator in law
Schools must excuse a child from school to observe a religious holiday, if so requested, and must allow him to make up the work.
A prison cannot stop an inmate from mailing to a government official or agency a written complaint which concerns violation of basic civil rights in the prison.
The crime of robbery requires some type of force or intimidation causing fear. Thus, under its legal definitions, picking a pocket will probably not be considered a robbery.
In a divorce action where one spouse claims the other has deserted, proof of both abandonment and lack of cohabitation must be shown.

Mardi Gras

Tommy Morel (center, with crown) served classmates in Connie Forrest's kindergarten class at Nob Hill a king cake from New Orleans Tuesday. The king cake is a Mardi Gras tradition and is sprinkled with purple, green and gold sugar. It is baked in the shape of a ring and has a hidden plastic baby within. The guest who finds the baby is the king or queen of the party.

More cities to see pro ski race on television

Updated broadcast times of the All-American Pro Ski Classic were announced Thursday by race co-chairman Tommy Morel. Morel said several showings of the film were added that were not expected at first. Morel said the increased exposure of the 30-minute film will bring the total potential audience to 61 million homes—about 72 percent of the total households in the United States. Total expected audience of the ski race film is 9.75 million homes. The unexpected showings included a local showing on KBIM, Roswell, at 4 p.m. Sunday, February 17. Also yesterday, the show aired in Honolulu, Maui and Hilo, Hawaii; Portland, Oregon; Palm Springs, California; Seattle, Washington; Boise, Idaho; and Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Other unexpected showings include a February 20 showing in Chattanooga, Tennessee; a February 23 showing in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; March 2 showings in Glendive, Montana, Leesburg, Florida, and Greenwell, Wisconsin; a March 3 showing in Anchorage, Alaska; March 9 showings in San Francisco, California, and Johnstown, Pennsylvania; and a February 19 showing in Terre Haute, Indiana. Showtime of the race film in Sacramento, California, remains to be announced. First local showing of the race on ESPN television will be at 4 p.m. Saturday, March 2. Another ESPN showing of the 30-minute program will follow later in March. The race program will be shown earlier than the ESPN showings on Metromedia Syndicated Network stations. However, Ruidoso does not receive any of the stations. Those showings begin with a 9 a.m. (Chicago time) showing February 16 on Chicago station WFLD. That showing will be followed by airings of the race at (all at local times for the stations listed) noon February 16, on KTTV Los Angeles; 1:30 p.m. February 17, on WCVE Boston; 9:30 p.m. February 24, on KRLD Dallas; 2:30 p.m. March 2, on KRIV Houston; 11 a.m. March 3, on WTTG Washington, D.C.; and noon March 9, on WNEW, New York City. Morel said the value of the television coverage of the event is very high, since 30-second commercials during the show cost $13,000 each for sponsors. Showing of the race on Lincoln Cablevision will be announced soon after the national showings begin, Morel reported.

Ruidoso Downs Race Track announces '85 stakes schedule

Anchored by the prestigious All-American Futurity, Ruidoso Downs' 1985 stakes schedule will feature 48 added money events during the 70-day summer meeting.

The stakes program, released by general manager H. Rick Henson totals $977,000 in added money.

The seventy-day season will commence on May 17 and run through Labor Day, when the track will—in its traditional style—close with the running of the All-American Futurity, which offers a gross purse of $2.53 million with $1 million going to the winner of the finals.

Closing weekend will also feature the two major thoroughbred races of the season—the traditional Ruidoso Mile for older horses racing for a guaranteed $50,000 and the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity at six panels. The $25,000-added futurity is expected to gross in excess of $140,000. Three-year-old thoroughbreds will renew the Ruidoso Derby over a flat mile when the $25,000-added event is run on August 11.

In addition to the renowned All-American, the major quarter horse attractions include the other two Grade I events which make up the Triple Crown for juveniles, the $500,000 (estimated) Kansas Futurity and the Rainbow Futurity, projected to gross $750,000.

The $1.4 million (estimated) All-American Derby, the world's richest three-year-old quarter horse race, heads a trio of Grade I sophomore events, including the $250,000 (estimated) Kansas Derby and the Rainbow Derby, expected to reach $500,000.

Four-year-olds are showcased in the Grade I, $400,000 (estimated), All-American Gold Cup, and the older quarter horse set will contest the Grade I World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic for an anticipated $100,000, and the Jet Deck Handicap, newly classed as a Grade III event.

The summer schedule calls for racing Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the first two weekends, with Thurs-

The Silver Lining
by Daniel Agnew Storm

We Pray for Recovery of Elzy Perry Jr.
I received word on the nineteenth from his son, Robnie, that Elzy Perry Jr., affectionately known throughout southern New Mexico as "Junior," is recovering well from triple bypass heart surgery which he underwent in the Veterans Hospital in Albuquerque two weeks ago today.
Junior was born on the historic Perry Ranch in Glencoe to Elzy Perry and Mayme Coe Perry. He grew up along with his brothers and sisters with his close friends, the Storm brothers. Junior was always a great favorite with all the neighbors round about, always wearing a friendly smile which has always been his trademark. Following in his well beloved father's footsteps, he was four years a water well driller. As a guitar player and singer he was a star in the Coe Ranch orchestra which for years played for celebrations at the Bonnell Ranch and the Coe Ranch and other famous spots.
Junior is a veteran of World War II in the Marine Corps, and took part in the Battle of Iwo Jima, an important turning point in the war.
He had another heart operation twelve years ago, and we hope and pray that this favorite friend of ours through the years will have a lasting recovery; and we wish this smiling troubador all God's blessings.
Happy Anniversary to Gib and Liz Munro famous other ones such as "The Strawberry Roan," to a "standing-room-only crowd."

It was all greatly appreciated, and the cowboy one-of-a-kind humor regarding his unconquerable bashfulness brought down the house time after time.
One, before reading his poem "Bronco," said, "I had rather ride one than read this."
One fellow--in expressing his attack of stage fright--said, "I've ridden the desert for years and I've never been this dry."
Speaking of the desert, here is a poem sent to Mrs. Mary Kelley by her daughter Susie Vigil of Las Cruces. Mrs. Kelley was a cowgirl second to none in her growing up days.
The author is unknown but he or she could very easily be a desert rider.
MY DESERT
If you have ever seen a desert
You have seen part of my heart,
The grandeur of its vastness
Seemed to thrill me from the start.
How can one express God's beauty
Words could never say it right,
He is everywhere, He is everything,
He is every star at night.
The cactus bloom in rainbow hues
That warms my very being
I sometime hold my breath in awe,
Then breathe in the beauty I am seeing,
Even when the wind blows hard
And the sand swirls everywhere,
The tumbledweed roll by my door
And I'm thankful I can share.
Through images in our heart and soul
We paint pictures in our mind,
The desert fulfills reflections of love,
The nearest to God I'll ever find.
Washington's Birthday
This will reach you on the eve of Washington's birthday. With the changing around of birthdays, they get lost in the shuffle. Later I would like to bring you a little about the Father of Our Country; but for now let us send up a prayer for the spirit of George Washington: "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."
Fruit Buds Holding Back
However, there are some signs of a late Spring, in spite of the fair weather. The apricot fruit buds, those earliest of all to blossom out, are close wrapped in their winter coats. In years past it has been a common sight to see the apricot trees out in bloom by this time. Maybe Jack Frost will give us a break, and we can help out with our apples with the vitamin C shortage caused by the grapefruit, orange and lemon set-back.
Memories of Teddy Roosevelt
You may remember, last time I brought up the little American jingle, "If they don't like you, they won't kid you." Since then a classic example of this has been running through my mind.
One of the most popular men in American history was president Theodore Roosevelt, affectionately known as "Teddy." One of the things people admired about him was that he never took a backward step on his principles. He came out swinging and spoke out in a loud voice, beating his fist into the palm of his hand.
His word for "very good" was "bully," and his trademark was a great wide toothy grin. With this the cartoonists were in their glory. They made the grin one-third the width of the cartoon itself.
A fellow once told me of a Fourth of July parade in New York when Teddy was at the height of his legendary popularity. At the head of the parade was Teddy in a slow moving open car. A small boy aged about ten, red-headed and freckle-faced, ran out from the crowd and, walking alongside, looked up at Teddy. Taking his two forefingers and putting them in the corners of his mouth he stretched his mouth as wide as he could in an imitation of Teddy's grin. The president quickly put his fingers into the corners of his own mouth and made the same face down at the boy.
A roar of laughter arose from the crowd jamming the sidewalks, and the straw hats went sailing into the air.

Opinion

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

During the current furor over an editorial cartoon in The Ruidoso News, an important issue is being obscured: A Free Press and Freedom of Expression. Indeed it is typical that the erosion of Freedom of Expression begins with a case that is difficult to defend. But Free Expression must be carefully handled, for it is truly a precious fabric woven with delicate threads.

The purpose of a Free Press is to insure that Truth does wrestle fairly with Falsehood. In a State-controlled press this contest does not take place. There are however less overt ways depriving the public of a free exchange of ideas. Intimidation by influential or powerful segments of a community can accomplish the same end.

The principal function of a newspaper remains: To inform about and conduct a continuing inquisition upon public affairs. If a newspaper reports events accurately and strives toward fairness in its coverage, it is serving the community. And if it opens its pages to a whole cross-section of opinions, it is well on the path to being responsible.

It is merely unfortunate when an editor saves his big type for safe topics and reporters learn not to scrutinize too closely the sacred cows of the community. But if a paper plays only those notes that a City Council, or a Mayor or a Chamber of Commerce wishes to hear, it has lost its independence and it can not be trusted. When a newspaper becomes a confederate of special interests, the people are denied free access to the means of expression.

The Ruidoso News may not be a great paper, but it should be encouraged to strive to preserve journalism's professional standards and one way to do that is for it to avoid slanting the news or its editorials to suit a dominant group in the community. I would much prefer to see a disagreeable, even foolish, editorial—and be given the opportunity to challenge or rebut—than to have that voice stifled or constrained or corrupted. That voice could be Truth.

HERB BECKLER

DEAR EDITOR:

Wendell Chino wants to abort a proposed railway in the Ruidoso area, according to the Albuquerque Journal of Feb. 12. Because, he says, you ran a cartoon poking fun at his ego.

This is per a press release he issued at a news conference in Albuquerque on Monday Feb. 11. (And the press release was provided to you by Mr.

Chino, and printed by you in full on Feb. 14.)

Seems like a scatter-gun retaliation, and also sort of like cutting off your nose to spite your face?

Wendell should think of the words—also in your Feb. 14 issue—of columnist Dan Storm. Referring to today's sentimental Valentines he says, "If they don't like you, they won't kid you."

Well, I'm sure Wendell has been liked, in this area, and respected as a hard-nosed business man. Mr. McBrinn (in "Letters to the Editor," your Feb. 14 issue) points this out, and refers to his ability to get federal money (some grants? some low interest loans, or guarantees of loans?) for the ski area, and for the creation of the fabulous Inn of the Mountain Gods. I think he also procured new homes for many of his tribe. Some of these can be seen on the road from the Summit to the Tribal Headquarters (also federally helped?) and some on the 30 mile road to Cloudfrost through the beautiful ranching country of the Tribe's cattle industry.

With it all, and as perennial tribal President, and spokesman, Wendell is a public figure. Like other public figures—presidents and otherwise—he should keep his cool at cartoons, even if they irk him. Harry Truman said something to the effect of "If you can't stand the heat, you shouldn't be in the kitchen." Or, in today's idiom, "Cool it, man."

The cartoon in question, in the opinion of many, had some aptness, and was not, nor on the face of it, offensive, or needing an apology from The Ruidoso News. This is in my opinion and as a friend (I hope) of Mr. Chino. And as a friend (I hope) of Tim Palmer.

Sincerely,
LELAND STONE

DEAR EDITOR:

The outcry stemming from the Ruidoso News cartoon (of questionable taste) and Chino's juvenile reaction, is becoming a proctological nuisance.

Let it lie!

DON EDWARDS

DEAR EDITOR:

Last week I attended an LTC Board meeting where I observed Mr. Wally Hesse attempting to secure funds for his Ruidoso area Video documentary. I was surprised at the seeming lack of enthusiasm encountered concerning his twentieth century advertising approach.

Billboards were mentioned without opposition even though they are considered antiquated and negative advertising, since all ecology groups are against them.

It was suggested his proposal be put to Bid.

Why does a idea that encompasses the latest technology and advertising methods have to be put up for bid?

Curiously enough, old fashioned billboards, trade shows and tiny coupons in TV guide are not required to be put up for bid.

All Ruidosians are paying taxes on Promotional ideas to bring tourists to Ruidoso but have no say so in the application of these funds.

The Board agreed that Wally's idea was great and so did the folks from the Chamber of Commerce.

Why don't we give him a chance?

JEAN RICHARDSON

DEAR EDITOR:

On behalf of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce and the Organizing Committee of the All American Pro Ski Classic, we would like to personally thank the literally hundreds of people that helped make the 1985 All American Pro Ski Classic—"The World's Richest Ski Race"—a resounding success. We have attempted to individually thank those responsible in another section of this issue of the Ruidoso News which was donated by Ken Green for this expressed purpose. As you can see, this list of volunteers is quite extensive and I believe demonstrates the extent of cooperative effort that the citizens of Ruidoso, Mesalero and the surrounding areas are capable of, when the occasion arises.

Just for the record, 25 more T.V. markets throughout the U.S. will carry the race in addition to ESPN, (1st showing, Sat., March 2nd at 4:00 P.M.) and Metro-media Syndicated Network. Research from Tatum Communications show that the potential reach for our show will be 61 million homes and the projected reach is 9.75 million! The cumulative share for two earlier Peugeot Grand Prix races in the respective viewing markets has been a 12 and Neilson a 4. These figures are higher than had been projected and the Producer and networks are very pleased. All promising for '86!

Editorial

We need to be careful not to let our pockets get picked while we're looking the other way.

Beneath all the fire and smoke out of Santa Fe is a very real threat of legislation that could cost Ruidosians dearly.

The state proposes to keep .35 cents of the 1.35 cents of gross receipts tax (sales tax) that currently goes to cities and counties. In return, the Legislature would let cities and counties increase property taxes and share in state income tax collections to make up for lost revenue.

Our brilliant leaders just now are realizing that the Golden Goose of New Mexico's mineral wealth does not go on forever. They are looking for ways to offset its loss.

It is patently unfair to take away part of the revenue from an evenly distributed tax—the sales tax—and increase local authority to raise a selective tax—the property tax.

The concept allows the state to benefit from visitors' contributions to sales tax revenue. Meanwhile, it forces municipalities to tax their own residents to pay for the demands on services caused by the visitors!

What is doubly annoying is that these taxation and revenue gymnastics take place so that lawmakers can go home and tell the voters, "You notice we didn't increase taxes."

A tax increase by any name smells just as bad, and it's worse when pawned off as a harmless "tax swap."—TP

DEAR EDITOR:

How many people have been told by their lawyers what a good case they have and how much their lawyer will be able to do for them only to be told at the last minute, right before going to court, to settle for much less because "this is better than you will get from the court". Of course, they are only told this after the lawyer has "worked" on the case and built up a sizable bill.

When a client is told by his lawyer that "it doesn't matter what the law is, it is up to the judge" it makes one wonder why we have laws at all and why bother with the justice system.

I feel, since legislatures all over the country are making it almost impossible to do anything without a lawyer, restrictions need to be imposed on lawyers to keep them from inducing false hopes in their clients and to be honest with them.

Sincerely,
CAROLYN DOUGLAS

Reporter's Round

by Sharon Makokian

With the change of reporters on The Capitan Range, some people have wondered where I am.

No, I haven't packed my bags and headed from the snow to the beach. I've relocated to Ruidoso and work in the main News office.

Here in Ruidoso, I cover the business page, Chamber of Commerce and Ruidoso Downs. I'm in close contact with Doris Cherry, our new Capitan reporter, so I can still cover Capitan in spirit.

The move to town was hectic, as most moves are. Although I had planned for a leisurely transition, we all know that life never works that way.

I traded in my Capitan apartment for a Ruidoso log cabin in the woods. Now I really feel like I'm up in the pine-treed mountains.

Adjusting to cabin life has been quite a change for this city girl. I love the quaint, rustic atmosphere of the knotty pine paneling, and the warmth of the wood in the fireplace.

However, there are a few things I did not plan on.

I knew that the cabin was small, but houses always look bigger before you move in your junk. There are no closets, just rods and nails in my bedroom, so that room had become one big closet with a bed in the middle. Of course, it would help the space situation if I had time to unpack and move the boxes from the middle of each room.

The wind was blowing ferociously the first night I slept in the cabin. Throughout the night, I heard noises that sounded like someone was stomping on the roof. At one point, I thought I heard a knock on the door and jumped up, startled, to answer it. Nobody was there.

When I awoke the next morning, I tiptoed cautiously into the living room, fearing that the ceiling had caved in after I had finally fallen asleep. But, lo and behold, my little house was still intact.

I noticed later that a leaning pine tree, intimately attached to the cabin, was responsible for the commotion. The "knocks on the door" were pine cones falling on the roof. Rustic.

My apartments in Capitan and California never had fireplaces, so I was very excited about building my first fire. Unfortunately, I'd forgotten to ask the landlord how to open the damper.

My friend and I looked for the damper latch. When we didn't find it, we thought that maybe the small cabin chimney didn't have one. We were wrong.

There wasn't too much smoke in the house at first, so we ignored it and opened the window. Within a few minutes, the little cabin was thick with a gray haze.

For a moment, I saw my life flash before my eyes. I could see Monday's News headline: "Reporter and friend asphyxiated in log cabin."

What would my family say? (I know what my friends would say—"why didn't the dummy open the damper?")

A few glasses of water and a lot of open windows solved the problem. I put damper on the list of questions to ask the landlord.

Other little questions on my list include how to get the front door open and how to light the bedroom heater without a big burst of fire.

I've never had a small gas heater like that. Each time I light it, another headline flashes through my mind: "Local reporter blown to smithereens in cabin explosion." Upon hearing of my funny furnace, a friend offered to sell me life insurance.

I turned down the life insurance offer. After all, I've made it up to now, and I always manage to survive even the craziest situations.

My city friends in California have trouble envisioning me in a cabin in the woods. But the more I get settled, the more I like it.

Living in Ruidoso is different from Capitan. In Capitan, I could go for days with seeing only people I knew in town. In Ruidoso, there are new faces every day, mingling with the friendly local people.

The Southwest hospitality that I'd experienced in Capitan is just as strong in Ruidoso.

You'll may be stuck with this city girl for good!

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—This is a column somebody else has written—and probably better than McCaffrey could have done it.

It's a long quote from a subcommittee of the House Appropriations and Finance Committee, set up to study the budget proposals of the Corrections Department. We won't cite the boring numbers here, but only some of the narrative that accompanied them. You may have heard part of this on television, as it was being presented to the full committee by Representative Gary Robbins of Portales, who is the chairman of the subcommittee to whom the task fell.

After some introductory material about what he called "the Corrections Department's almost cavalier pattern of incessant demand for additional funds and its obvious disregard for legislative intent," Robbins went on to say:

"It is apparent that the typical Corrections Department response to each problem or crisis that arises in its several institutions is to demand more money from this Legislature rather than to initiate sound management and supervisory practices.

"To some extent, perhaps, the generosity of legislative appropriations to this department since 1980 has conditioned its administration to the present pattern of operation. If so, this committee should now send the clear and unequivocal message to the Corrections Department that the earlier latitude no longer obtains.

"The state treasury is not an inexhaustible remedy for imprudent expenditures or poor management. The Legislature can no longer ignore the fact that overspending and poor management in the Corrections Department reduce the funding available for education and other vital programs. Nor, in its efforts to re-establish sound management and financial practices within the Corrections Department, can the Legislature quietly submit to any form of pressure imposed by the department's interpretation of the comment decree."

(The reference is to the agreement between plaintiffs about conditions at the state pen and the state of New Mexico, in which it is specified that certain conditions at that and other institutions will be corrected.)

"With respect to that document, the subcommittee recognizes the burden of compliance placed upon the state and the department by this too-hastily-entered-upon agreement. Nevertheless, we deplore the department's incessant policy of banding the consent decree before legislative committees and on television and in the newspapers to intimidate us into providing more and more funds for the department to spend."

When you hear that kind of language from a legislative committee, you want to ask those to whom it is addressed, "Is that perfectly clear?"

It's hard to see how it could not be. And when it comes from Robbins, who correctly describes himself as being one of the best friends the Corrections Department has in the Legislature, it's all the more dramatic.

Robbins goes on to explain that he has a considerable amount of admiration for Mike Francke, the boss at the department he was pummeling so heartily, especially for Francke's desire to choose top-quality people for the important posts in his department. (His success at keeping them after he has picked them is not nearly so good as his judgment in the picks.)

This message, therefore, was delivered with considerable reluctance.

Still, it leaves little room for misunderstanding. Nor to criticisms of other actions cited by the legislators, such as the fact that the department requested and got a deficiency appropriation of $2,660,400 last year, and then ended up with $1,542,700 cash on hand at the end of the period in which they said they needed extra money.

Corrections Department officials tried to put a good face on this rather devastating kind of condemnation. They accepted the judgments with as much grace as possible. What's tough, however, is that all this took place at just the first phase of the legislative process. What follows from here could be very hurtful indeed.

February is heart month

February has been designated Heart Month.

Heart disease is the number one cause of death throughout the United States, and New Mexico is no exception.

In 1983, almost 8,000 New Mexicans lost their lives to heart attacks, hypertensive diseases, rheumatic fever and stroke. Despite those figures, dramatic strides are being made in the fight against this killer.

The New Mexico Medical Society and the Ruidoso Mescalero Heart Association want to call attention to the advanced and new lifesaving techniques being used in the fight against heart disease.

Early detection and treatment, refined surgical procedures and changes in lifestyles are helping to keep hearts healthy.

The New Mexico Medical Society (NMMS) says that the key to surviving a heart attack is recognizing the warning signals and getting immediate attention.

"If you feel an uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest (that may spread to the shoulder, neck or arms) lasting for two minutes or more, you could be having a heart attack. Sweating, dizziness, fainting, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur."

The best emergency aid for a heart attack victim is cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). In Ruidoso that technique is taught by Emergency Medical Services, headed by Jim Stover. Contact Stover through Ruidoso Hoopie Valley Hospital for further information on CPR.

NMMS reports that recovery and rehabilitation can be complete for most heart attack victims. With the right care they can usually function as well as they did before the attack.

The following are some suggestions from the Presbyterian Heart Institute on how to reduce the risk of heart attack:

- Do not smoke. (You can cut your risk of having a heart attack by one third if you quit smoking.)
- Maintain body weight of no more than 10 pounds above your weight when you were 20 years old.
- Eat a diet that is low in saturated or animal fat and cholesterol. (No more than three eggs per week; red meat no more than three times per week.)
- Use skim milk instead of milk, margarine made with liquid vegetable oil instead of butter.
- Exercise regularly and vigorously—that is, for 30 minutes three times a week or more.
- If you have high blood pressure, have it treated, for high blood pressure is a serious factor in causing heart attacks.

Daughters of the American Revolution

Parents, grandparents and friends of the winners of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Essay Contest were honored with a tea by the Sierra Blanca Chapter February 17.

June Rawley was hostess for the tea in the hospitality room at Ruidoso High School. Members served refreshments, and decorations were red with a February theme.

Robert Burkstaller, DAR scholarship chairman, presented bronze medals to first-place winners Dorley Patton of Ruidoso, Roger Smith of Capitan and Stacey Maez of Hondo. Winners read their essays aloud to the group. Contest judge Genevieve Duncan complimented the students on the research and composition of their essays, and offered suggestions for their next competition.

Alice Traylor said the group wanted to thank the children, teachers and parents for participating in the essay contest. They hope to have every school in Lincoln County represented next year.

During business before the tea, members discussed the 65th state conference of the New Mexico Organization of DAR.

The March meeting will be in Roswell.

THINK

About Your Safety

Before you put yourself in harms way, always think about your safety. Never put any metal object in any operating electrical appliance. Be sure to unplug any appliance before attempting to service it even if it is turned off. Never use an electrical appliance around bathtubs or sinks filled with water because water, just like metal objects, also conducts electricity.

Enjoy the benefits of your electric service, but be sure to keep your safety in mind.

Edie Rooney is Today's Woman award winner

Edie Rooney was named "Today's Woman" by the Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club at a sweetheart awards luncheon last week.

"Edie performs a labor of love every day of her life," said committee members. They listed her service to the community as a foster parent as a major reason for the choice.

A 15-year Ruidoso resident, Rooney lives with her two sons—Wes, eight, and Will, ten—in an adobe house built by the boys' grandparents in the 1940s. The rambling house on a hilltop overlooking Ruidoso is a unique mix of today and yesterday.

One wall is decorated with a mural of the potter Maria painted by Joy Harris. Rooney laughed about how many times that wall had been painted, carefully preserving the colorful Indian maid with her pots.

Rooney has taught handicapped skiers, helped with Special Olympics, and used the swimming pool in her valley home as an exercise pool for handicapped patients.

She became a foster parent "accidentally" when a handicapped child needed a temporary home. Edie had become a proficient care provider because her husband, Pat, who died three years ago, suffered from multiple sclerosis.

According to Edie, one thing led to another, and she and her family were in the foster care business. She basically provides temporary emergency care.

She proudly displays a bulletin board covered with photographs. It contains pictures of most of the 25 or so foster children who have passed through her doors.

"My boys deserve an awful lot of credit for my foster care... they have to share, not only toys, but me," she said. "I'm awfully proud of the way my boys handle it."

Edie Rooney, winner of the first Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club "Today's Woman" award, displays photos of the many children to whom she has been a foster parent.

Rooney and her family attend First Christian Church and she is a member of Beta Sigma Phi.

Nineteen area women were nominated for the Today's Woman award. They were all special guests at the luncheon.

Flodie Wilson and Carlene Wadley were nominated in the arts category. Wilson is a 10-year Ruidoso businesswoman who has been active in the annual Ruidoso Art Festival.

Wadley is a music and drama teacher who contributes time to many musical benefits, to Ruidoso schools and to her church.

Jane Deyo was the nominee in the business category. Deyo owns and operates The Aspen Tree book store with her husband, Alden. Some of her civic activities include Girl Scouts and church work.

In the category of professions, the nominees were Verna Adams and Karon Petty. Adams is a registered nurse and executive director for Home Health Service of Lincoln County.

Petty is a real estate broker, serves on the Planning and Zoning commission, enjoys skiing and golfing, and is a native Lincoln County resident.

Community service nominees were Yvonne Lanelli, Pat Hume, Barla Ivy, Allene Lusk, Orby Neuberlin and Doti Quaid. They are volunteers in a variety of organizations—from the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital Auxiliary to the Bonito Volunteer Fire Department.

Texanita Cole and Ingrid Schmidt were the two nominees in the education category. Cole is principal of Ruidoso Middle School. Schmidt works with children through the Ruidoso Public Library.

Jackie Branun, Ruidoso Middle School science teacher, was the nominee in the science category.

Sports nominee was Walterine Hughes, a Ruidoso bowler.

Jerry Shaw, Ruidoso's first female council member, was nominated for service in government. She is now mayor pro tem of the village.

Ruth McGuire, a minister at First Christian Church, was the nominee in the category of religion.

Nancy Radziewicz was nominated in a special category for her work with the Special Olympics program.

Awards were given by category, leading up to Rooney's Today's Woman award.

By category the winners were: arts, Flodie Wilson; business, Jane Deyo; professions, Verna Adams; labor, Edie Rooney; community service, Yvonne Lanelli; education, Texanita Cole; science, Jackie Branun; sports, Walterine Hughes; government, Jerry Shaw; religion, Ruth McGuire; other, Nancy Radziewicz.

Barbara Minnick, president of the Woman's Club, said this celebration of women and their accomplishments will be an annual project of the group.

Members Charlotte Jarratt and Jackie Rawlins were on the committee that planned and presented the luncheon.

Charlotte Jarratt looks on as Jacqueline Rawlins introduces candidates for the Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club Today's Woman award. Jarratt is first vice president of the club. Rawlins chairs the Public Relations Committee and the Legislative Committee.

Karon Petty (left) was nominated for the Today's Woman award in the professions category. Genevieve Duncan (right) is past president of the Woman's Club.
