Performances of the Billy the Kid pageant are set for 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and a matinee performance at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

This will be the 38th year the drama of Billy the Kid's last escape has been reenacted. The pageant began in 1940, but was discontinued during the war years and started anew in 1949, according to Dan Storm, a longtime pageant participant.

This year, as he has for many years, Storm will play the part of Buckshot Roberts.

Ronnie Barone will play the part of Billy the Kid. The speaking role of Billy will be done by Barone's brother, Randy.

Lanny Maddox will play the part of Pat Garrett and Dave Parks will narrate.

Events during the weekend will begin with a dance and Calcutta at 9 p.m. Friday in White Oaks.

A Pony Express race starts from Double Crossing, three miles west of Lincoln, at 8 a.m. Saturday, ending at White Oaks approximately two hours later. A barbecue at noon, followed by a rodeo at 2 p.m.

Sales tax going to 6.5

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Ruidoso cash registers will ring up 6 1/2 percent sales tax starting January 1, 1987.

While voicing concern for raising taxes and predicting a negative referendum on its action, the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday adopted an ordinance increasing gross receipts tax by .50 percent, hitting the 6 1/2 percent figure.

Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr. cast the deciding vote on the ordinance that split the council down the middle, with councillors Larry Simon, Jerry Shaw and Ray Dean Carpenter voting yes and councillors Victor Alonso, William A. "Dub" Holt and Elmer Pirelli dissenting.

A small audience, made up mainly of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Economic Development Task Force members, applauded the mayor's vote. The task force issued a statement early in the meeting recommending the tax hike be limited to .25 percent.

Councillors Alonso and Holt both preferred that .25 percent tax hike. They suggested identifying other village funds for the balance needed to invest in the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Alonso proposed an amendment to the proposed ordinance that would have cut the tax increase in half, but was defeated four to two.

with Holt joining him in supporting the change.

All agreed the village needs $2,676,000 to invest in the new airport and keep the old Ruidoso Municipal Airport land. All agreed that, according to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), the sooner a plan for raising those funds is presented the sooner a new airport can be constructed.

That's where unanimous agreement ended Tuesday, with plans presented that included revenue bonds, a Farmer's Home Administration loan through the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC), using economic development funds earmarked for a convention center and saving money by cutting municipal government.

At June's chastized the council for not making plans sooner for raising the money, and recalled the cash surplus in the village budget when he was on the governing body. Junge, noting that The News left the proposed tax ordinance off the published agenda, wondered if there was a conspiracy to keep information from the public.

Revealing figures that indicate the village payroll has grown by $1 million dollar since 1983, Junge recommended exploring all options before we slap a new tax on the taxpayers.

Later in the meeting Junge cautioned the council that there is a limit in putting the tax question before the public. He said voters are likelier to "buy" the .25 than the .50 percent increase.

Councillor Carpenter disagreed with Alonso's and Holt's recommendations to cut village government by three percent, use lodgers' tax funds and hold the tax increase down to .25 percent. He said the village will lose services if it continues to cut expenses.

"I will oppose to my dying breath taking any money out of the general fund," said Carpenter, who also voiced opposition to using lodgers' tax funds.

Village clerk Leon Eggleston explained if the question had been put to the voters, as was discussed, an election could have been set for September 19, giving plenty of time to implement any tax increase by January 1.

However, he said a negative referendum would result in an election no earlier than December 22, postponing any tax hike until July 1, 1987.

Ralph Petty wondered how the Village of Ruidoso will make the SBAC accountable for the funds invested toward constructing the new airport. He also wondered why the other governments that make up the commission aren't investing funds.

Petty questioned a SBAC report in which Tim Moris revealed the McKnight grand jury selection begins; court maneuverings continue

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Judge Richard A. Parsons apparently is convening a grand jury to investigate the McKnight murders in spite of efforts by Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan and Terri Bussey to have him barred from the proceedings.

According to a report in the Roswell Daily Record, Parsons is utilizing a computer to randomly select the names of 225 registered voters. The report said Parsons, with the help of the state attorney general, will select 24 jurists on August 25, 27 and 29 in District Court in Carrizozo.

Both Sullivan and Bussey, sister of the slain Judy McKnight, thought the affidavit filed last Thursday would disqualify Parsons from being involved in selecting the grand jury.

Bussey previously submitted signatures and petitions to Parsons to convene a grand jury, but when he failed to act, her attorney, Gary Mitchell, took her case to the State Supreme Court. On July 21 that body gave Parsons authority to act on the petition, which is a violation of the State Constitution.

Since Parsons filed a writ of the original petition, Bussey said, she fears he'll make a mockery of the grand jury, and want both disqualified.

District Court Clerk Maria Leal said Wednesday the affidavit have been filed with that information on the McKnight case that was sealed, but order to seal it was not followed. She said all the information of the case, even the fact that would normally be public information, are sealed.

Parsons said he will not act on the petition until he has received a writ of certiorari from the State Supreme Court. Parsons said he will not act on the petition until he has received a writ of certiorari from the State Supreme Court.

Deputy Attorney General Stephen Westheimer said the affidavit has also been sealed. Westheimer was unavailable for comment on the case, but said that the affidavit is sealed.

investigation. There seems to be a never-ending trail of writs and affidavits. Sullivan, Westheimer, Bussey, and Parsons, the state attorney general, and the McKnight family have all filed writs of mandamus with the District Judge, Sandra Terham, who stayed by the Supreme Court.

The petition by Bussey to have Parsons removed from the case was denied by the Attorney General. At the District Attorney's office, the New Mexico State Police (NMSPI) from the McKnight case.

But before a hearing scheduled for August 11, Judge Terham's court could be indicated the Supreme Court, and a writ order to pay further action.

later after a hearing before the District Attorney.

Westheimer was reported by the Albuquerque Journal as saying the case was sealed because a show cause hearing would have compared the affidavit to the fact-sensitive information of their case, and the state attorney general.

The case was filed in November 1984, when Thomas D. Cotton, McKnight's brother-in-law, was charged with the murder of Judy McKnight. The case was later moved to the District Court in Carrizozo.

murder investigation has lately been compared with the Lincoln County War, but without the gunfire.

Sullivan says he has evidence to convict a suspect in a plot, and has pointed the finger at a member of the NMSPI. He wants that state attorney off the case, and accused the NMSPI of a conflict.

The DA has called the sheriff's evidence "anted" and has questioned that office's investigation.

And several members of the family have said repeatedly they want to see the case brought to trial and resolved once and for all.

Groups schedule meetings

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) will meet at 3 p.m. Monday, August 4, in council chambers of Village Hall.

Public hearing on a request by Albert Shaw to locate a trailer camp on Tract 2, Airport Tracts Subdivision.

Request by Wendel King for front and west side lot line variances for new construction and a front lot line variance for existing structure on Lot 80, Block 1, Ponderosa Heights Subdivision.

Request by Paul Crown for rear and west side lot line variances for new construction on Lot 1, Block 20, Ponderosa Heights Subdivision.

Request by Wendell L. Walker for rear lot line variance for new deck and existing mobile home on Lot 10, Block 9, Second Addition, to Wingfield Homestead Subdivision.

P&Z meetings are preceded by a workshop session at 2 p.m. Both the meetings and workshops are open to the public.

The Parks and Recreation Committee for the Village of Ruidoso will conduct its regular meeting at 1 p.m. Monday, August 4, in council chambers of Village Hall.

Mescalero bingo draws big crowd

by STEVE STEIN
News Staff Writer

Big-time bingo began last night Wednesday, July 30, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods as the Mescalero Apache Tribe, MAT, offered individuals in the bingo playing public a chance to win nearly $60,000.

Bingo lovers lined up all the way outside the door to have a chance to win $59,925, which will be the total jackpot every bingo session, according to recently appointed MAT bingo manager Jack Valliant.

The Inn of the Mountain Gods will offer bingo from 6 to 10:30 p.m. on Wednesday through Saturday, and at special matinee sessions which begin at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Mescalero Room at the inn's Convention Center.

Assistant MAT bingo manager and lead bingo caller James Natchez said the tribe expects inn guests to fill the Mescalero Room with bingo players, but Mescalero bingo is open to the general public.

The tribe offers the public a somewhat sophisticated bingo program.

The tribe bought their elaborate bingo equipment from a firm in the Midwest which specializes in Indian-run bingo operations, Natchez said.

According to federal statutes, as long as Indian tribes can show their bingo operations are being used to promote the general welfare of their members, they can offer bingo games with no prize limits.

State law restricts bingo awards for non-profit organizations in the private sector.

Earlier this year the Bureau of Indian Affairs approved the MAT's bingo operation plans.

For $22, people can play 15 games which have a $75 pot, and five games which offer the public the chance to win from $150 to $30,000.

Mescalero Bingo premiered last night to huge crowds who crammed into the Mescalero Room at the Inn of the Mountain Gods for the chance to win nearly $60,000. Some people waited in the hot sun outside the inn's convention center as long as an hour to participate in the first night of bingo. Admission for 20 games of bingo is $22.

Casino-type rules will be in effect for "Mescalero Bingo," but Natchez said several floor walkers will be available at every session to help the games run smoothly.

Several electronic bingo-number screens and television monitors are strategically placed in the Mescalero Room at the inn so all players can keep up with the fast paced MAT bingo operation.

Concessions, but no alcoholic beverages, are served at the bingo games, Valliant said.

Special "pull tab" cards, which essentially operate on the same premise as slot machines, are also offered during the games.

If a person pulls the tab on the special prize cards and a matching set of gold bars or some other set of symbols shows up, the player is an instant prize winner.

Natchez said as soon as a person is determined to be the valid winner of any bingo game, the prize is awarded, no matter the amount.

The most a player can win on an individual bingo game is $30,000. But players can continue to play even if they have already won large amounts, Valliant said.

The "pick-your-own" bingo game card offers the public the chance to win $30,000, and the "bonanza bingo" game card offers someone a chance to win $20,000, Valliant said.

A special $4 card packet is offered to people interested in the "early-bird" session from 6 to 7 p.m. on bingo nights and from 1:30 to 2 p.m. on Sunday.

"Early-bird" jackpots are $25. Though bingo has already started, the official grand opening day for "Mescalero Bingo" is Friday, August 15.

Bingo will be offered at the Inn of the Mountain Gods year-round, Valliant said.

Doors open for bingo at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, and at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Mescalero children plague victims recover

by STEVE STEIN
News Staff Writer

Last month, two children from Mescalero, a two-year-old girl and an eight-year-old boy, contracted bubonic plague on the Mescalero Apache Reservation, according to officials at the Santa Fe office of the state Health and Environment Department (HED).

The names of the children are being withheld at the request of the families.

The girl responded to antibiotics and recovered quickly, according to Alan Crawford, who is the service unit sanitarian at the Mescalero Service Unit located in the Mescalero Public Service Health Hospital.

However the eight-year-old boy is "still very sick," according to Crawford.

Crawford said the boy, who has been at the William Beaumont Army Medical Hospital (WBAMH) in El Paso, Texas, for the last few weeks, is expected to recover completely.

The Mescalero children, who are not related, probably contracted the plague as they played with some sort of dead rodent outside their babysitter's house in late June, Crawford said.

Crawford said the eight-year-old boy has been too sick to give Mescalero authorities any clues that might help them trace the source of the disease.

Bubonic plague, which is transmitted by fleas, is characterized by painful swollen lymph glands in the arm, groin and neck, high fever and extreme nausea, according to Dr. Harry Hull, epidemiologist for the state offices of the HED.

"We helped in the diagnosis of the two Mescalero children, but our main job is to control the disease," Hull said.

"Normally if the Mescalero Hospital cannot handle a problem it is referred to Holloman (medical unit at Holloman Air Force Base), and if necessary to William Beaumont," Hull said.

For unknown reasons, two-thirds of all diagnosed cases of plague in the U.S. occur in New Mexico, Hull said.

Hull said the rate of plague in

New Mexico, which is compiled on a year-to-year basis, could be considered a phenomenon.

The plague is highly treatable if it is diagnosed at an early stage, Hull said.

Crawford said the two cases of plague in Mescalero were probably isolated incidents.

After the children were diagnosed as having the plague, Crawford sent samples of rodent tissue and ground up fleas to the Regional Center for Disease Control in Fort Collins, Colorado.

None of the samples showed any traces of the bubonic plague, Crawford said.

Crawford believes most of the rodents that contracted plague in the Mescalero area have already died from the disease.

He said the recent cold weather and the rains probably killed or washed away most of the fleas that were carrying the deadly disease.

But, he said he inspects flea-infested burrows for signs of abnormal rodent behavior daily.

If a prolonged dry spell occurs, Crawford said he will send more flea and rodent samples to the disease control lab at Fort Collins.

Crawford said members of his unit have not found very many rodents in recent days.

"Of course the members of the Tribe (Mescalero Apache Tribe) were very nervous (after the children were diagnosed as having plague). But when the samples were found to be negative in Fort Collins, we were pretty sure we were dealing with an isolated incident because both of the children probably contracted the plague at the same place," Crawford said.

"We have encouraged the people of Mescalero not to panic, and our education program on the plague seems to have worked pretty well also," Crawford said.

Crawford said children in the area should not be allowed to play with stray or dead animals. Household animals should be dusted for fleas on a weekly basis.

If anyone thinks they, or their children, have any symptoms of the plague—coughing, high-fever, a feeling of weakness, or nausea—they should consult their physician immediately, Crawford said.

Expert tells plague signs

EXPERT'S ADVICE CONCERNING THE PLAGUE

Symptoms of Plague

- High fever
 - Painful swollen glands in the neck, arms and or groin
 - A general feeling of listlessness
 - Coughing
 - Extreme nausea
- If one or more of these symptoms occurs, see a physician immediately. The plague is highly treatable if caught in its early stages.

Ways to Avoid Contracting The Plague

- Adults and children should avoid all contact with rodents and rodents' burrows.
- Children should not be allowed to go near dead animals of any kind.
- Household pets should not be allowed to roam when plague cases have been reported in an area.
- Dogs often recover from the plague without treatment, but cats often need medical attention if they contract the plague.
- Any commercial flea powder should be dusted over household pets on a weekly basis. Flea-collars usually only work on the area around the head of a household pet.
- Any sickly looking animal should be taken to the vet or reported to animal control authorities.

Country-western Maines Brothers to play Saturday

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Aggressive is the word Steve Maines uses to describe the Maines Brothers Band's special brand of country and western entertainment.

"We generate a lot of energy on-stage and try to pass that on to the audience," said Steve in a telephone interview Monday. "It makes it a lot more fun for us and for the audience," he added.

And the seven-member West Texas group will bring their energetic show to Ruidoso Saturday as the third in the Ruidoso Summer Festival summer concert series. The Maines Brothers Band is set to perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, August 2, at the All-American Sale Pavilion.

Saturday's concert will be the Maines Brothers Band's first Ruidoso performance.

"We're real excited about it," said Steve from his Lubbock, Texas, headquarters. He said he and the other band members have enjoyed horse racing and skiing, but haven't previously had the opportunity to bring their show to the Ruidoso area.

Four of the seven members of the Maines Brothers Band are really brothers, and have been picking and singing together for 19 years.

"Our dad and his brother had the original Maines Brothers Band," explained Steve. He said those two musicians passed on their love of music, and the four young brothers played their first dance in 1966, when the oldest was just 14.

"We were known as the Little Maines Brothers Band then," noted Steve.

They've come a long way since those days, racking up six "chart" records since they signed with Mercury Records. "Everybody Needs Love on Saturday Night," made it to number six on the national charts, said Steve.

The Maines brothers—Lloyd, Kenny, Steve and Donnie—were joined nearly eight years ago by band members Cary Banks of Big Spring, Texas; Jerry Brownlow of Lamesa, Texas; and Richard Bowden of Durham, North Carolina.

Steve said the musicians realized they really had something when they opened for Alabama in Lubbock in 1980.

"The response that we got was just phenomenal," said Steve. The national recording contract followed, and since then the Maines Brothers Band has travelled throughout the U.S. with its show.

Last March and April the West Texas group opened Barbara Mandrell's nationwide tour.

"We covered quite a few miles," recalled Steve, who said the band varies its time on the road. He said the band does a lot of studio work.

The group continues to work out of Caldwell Studios in Lubbock, where they did their first four albums on the Texas Soul album.

The group recently released its second major-label record, "The Boys Are Back in Town," for Mercury/PolyGram.

"This is definitely our best effort," said Lloyd Maines, the eldest of the group. "We feel with this album we can bridge a gap to young people and rekindle a genuine interest in the spirit of country music," he added.

The new album, as the past releases, features positive material, said Steve.

"We're not your crying in your beer type," he added. "That's just not our style."

Festival-goers can expect a fast-paced upbeat show when the Maines Brothers Band hits town Saturday night.

Stun-gun suit is filed

A suit filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Albuquerque alleges four people were injured by a "stun gun-wielding sheriff's officer in Carrizozo," according to a report in the Albuquerque Journal.

Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan confirmed Wednesday his office and the Lincoln County Commissioners are charged in the suit which claims Michael Lee, then a member of the Sheriff's Office, broke into a Carrizozo residence and attacked four of its five occupants with a stun gun.

Sullivan said the April 6, 1985, incident began with a call that someone was being beaten up in the house right across the street from the Sheriff's Office. He said Lee responded and an ambulance was dispatched to the scene.

Sullivan said Lee and eye witnesses reported that the five people turned on Lee when he arrived. He said Lee did not injure anyone with a stun gun.

"We don't even use them anymore," remarked Sullivan, noting that the charge on a stun gun is usually so small that it barely disables one person long enough to be handcuffed, much less injuring more than one.

Our officers had problems with stun guns because they didn't phase people," added Sullivan. He said a stun gun is a small battery-operated weapon designed to deliver an electrical charge, but the guns formerly used by his office had to be recharged too often to be effectively used.

The five plaintiffs listed in the Journal are Pauline Chavez, Margaret Chavez, Refugio Chavez, Labrado Torrez and Paul Collins. It was noted that Margaret Chavez and Collins are Carrizozo residents.

None of the plaintiffs could be located for comment on Wednesday, but according to the Journal they claim that Lee "maliciously prosecuted" them and filed groundless criminal charges against them.

Sullivan said none of their charges are true.

"It's a joke," he added.

commission spent $76,000 drilling a water well. Petty said a similar well on his property cost just $9,000.

"What if they put our money down the well?" asked Petty, suggesting the council put some strings on money turned over to the airport group.

Councillor Shaw explained that the county is the fiscal agent for the SBAC and will be approving expenditures.

Also Tuesday the council debated and finally approved a $7,096.92 change order on the Eagle Creek well field contract. Village water engineer Jackie Atkins of Roswell explained that some changes were caused by Forest Service requirements and others came about through changes in design.

Condo convictions

Court upholds some, dismisses others

Two men who were convicted in a Lincoln County District Court trial on charges arising from the sale of timeshare memberships in the Ruidoso Condo Share Vacation Club had their convictions upheld in part and reversed in part by the state Court of Appeals last week, according to a published report.

The men, James Vincent and Dean Shade, were charged in a 21-count indictment in 1983. Vincent was convicted in December 1983 of sale of unregistered securities, fraud with regard to offer or sale of securities, criminal conspiracy, two counts of criminal solicitation and two counts of fraud over $2,500, according to court records. He was sentenced in February 1984 to 7½ years for the crimes, with all but one year suspended.

Shade was convicted of criminal conspiracy, criminal solicitation and tampering with evidence. He received an 18-month sentence, suspended, and was placed on probation.

The Appeals Court upheld Vincent's convictions for sale of unregistered securities and fraud with regard to offer or sale of securities. The court reversed one of the convictions for fraud over $2,500 and ordered a new trial on the other fraud conviction and the criminal conspiracy and solicitation convictions, according to the report.

Shade's conviction for tampering with evidence was affirmed, but the court ordered a new trial on the conspiracy and solicitation convictions, the report stated.

School administrators gather for institute

On July 1, a new teacher and principal performance evaluation system went into effect in the state of New Mexico, according to Win Christian, coordinator of Provision 3 of the New Mexico Department of Education staff accountability program.

Christian, who was in Ruidoso last week for the New Mexico State Department of Education Summer Leadership Institute for administrators, said the new performance plan would not only make the administrative evaluation of educators more uniform, but would also lead to better instruction in the classrooms.

Christian said his department had been working on the new evaluation plan for more than three years.

He said he was proud of the new evaluation format, which rates instructors on specifics related to their field and school situation, because it was based on nationwide research on teaching practices.

Teachers and administrators have been given workshops on the new state evaluation program for educators and will know what to expect when school begins this term, Christian said.

However, Christian said recent state legislation and proposals by the New Mexico Department of Education may tie items like merit pay raises and teacher certification requirements to the new evaluation program in the future.

The teacher shortage in New Mexico, especially in the fields of math, science, music and special education, makes state administrators and legislators more cautious when developing evaluation programs, according to Christian.

Christian said the goal of the new evaluation program was to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of teachers and principals—and not to give school boards reasons to dismiss employees.

"We really believe the new evaluation plan will improve instruction for kids in the classrooms, which is always our final goal," Christian said.

The leadership institute in Ruidoso was conducted to help administrators and lead teachers in the southern part of the state understand the finer points of the new evaluation plan, Christian said.

The state sponsored leadership institutes began three years ago with one meeting and less than 90 educators in attendance, grew to two sessions and more than 200 educators in attendance last year and grew again to more than 300 educators in attendance at the two leadership institutes this year, Christian said.

Christian said more than 160 educators were in Ruidoso last Monday through Friday for the special state leadership institute.

Evaluating educators

School administrators from southern New Mexico met in Ruidoso last week for special summer leadership institutes which were conducted at Ruidoso High School. The special sessions dealt with a new program for the evaluation of educators in New Mexico, which began July 1. Teacher evaluation programs have long been a source of controversy with the nation's educators. But the New Mexico State Department of Education, which sponsored the Ruidoso leadership seminars, believes it has a fair and effective evaluation program for the teachers of New Mexico, according to state officials.

Panel planning

More than 180 administrators met in Ruidoso last week for the New Mexico State Department of Education Summer Leadership Institutes. The administrators met Monday through Friday for six hours daily to better understand the new state educational evaluation program which went into effect July 1. The educators attended both small group discussions and panel discussions. At one of the final panel discussions on Friday, the discussion of the possibility of new state certification requirements in certain areas seemed to spark some lively comments among several of the educational management specialists.

Easter, Reynolds to play for All-Stars

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

Former Ruidoso High School football players Randy Reynolds and Russell Easter will compete for the South when it plays the North All-Stars at 7:30 Friday night, August 1, at Albuquerque's Wilson Stadium.

Easter was a quarterback and Reynolds a defensive back for the 1985 Warrior state champion AAA-division team.

The South leads the All-Star series with 25 wins to 14 for the North. There have been three ties.

However, the South will be looking for revenge as the North took a 19-12 victory last year.

Easter and former Artesia standout, Shaun Standard, will be the South quarterbacks.

Easter, who will attend New Mexico State University on an athletic scholarship in the fall, made the All-State AAA-division first team and All-District 3-AAA first team. He also was named the Warriors' most valuable player.

The 6-1, 185-pound Easter passed for 17 touchdowns and ran for 16 more in the 1985 season. He also was the Warriors' starting quarterback for most of the 1984 season before being injured in the ninth regular-season game.

Reynolds was an aggressive hitter and defender from his cornerback position on defense. He made the All-District 3-AAA first team and was second-team all state.

The 5-10, 160-pounder also was named the team's best hitter at the fall sports banquet.

The South has a number of outstanding players besides Easter, Reynolds and Standard.

State AAAA-division champion Clovis has seven players on the team.

Leading the way is running back Darren Kelley, who was a prime reason Clovis won the state title in 1985.

Other Wildcat players on the team include offensive guard Grayson Wicker, defensive downlinemen David Griego and Anthony Hancock, defensive end Anthony Hall, linebacker Sam Dickey and defensive back Drooper Greenwalt.

State AAA-division runner-up and co-District 3-AAA champion Silver City has defensive end Shane Stevenson and linebacker Mike Mares on the South squad.

Alamogordo follows Clovis in selections with six and 1984 state AAA-division champion Artesia has four players on the squad.

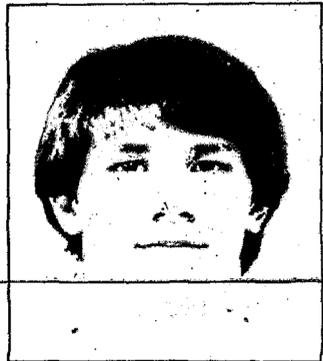

Santa Fe's Rick Jaramillo, Eldorado's Pat Royce and Aztec's Scott Steffah will be the North quarterbacks.

Steffah is the biggest at 6-1, 185 pounds. However, Ruidoso handed Aztec easily in a 35-13 state semifinal victory.

Former Alamogordo coach Gary Hveem is the South coach. St. Michael's coach Jerry Koller is the North coach.

Hveem will be assisted by the Alamogordo staff. Koller's St. Michael's assistants will help him.

Softball Results

Action continued in the Lincoln County Men's Softball League and the Lincoln County Women's Slo-Pitch Softball League at Eagle Creek Sports Complex this week.

In women's action, defending champion Flamingo Club raised its record to 11-2 with a forfeit win over Ole Taco. The two teams played a scrimmage instead.

The Flamingo Club will compete in the state tournament Saturday and Sunday, August 2-3, in Santa Fe.

The Shady Ladies belted the Cobras, 11-1, as Toy Sanchez hit a home run.

Other games saw the Unicorns belt the Fire, 17-2, and nip Khaos Klan, 11-10. The Lady Braves clubbed Khaos Klan, 18-5.

Women's action continued late Wednesday night.

Men's action saw unbeaten (in league play) Royal Electric belt The Incredible, 17-7, to raise its record to 11-0.

Other games saw Trinity Mountain Fellowship top the Ruidoso Bowling Center Nads, 9-5; the Cut Above Clippers top Ski West, 11-9; and Aspen Pharmacy belt the White Mountain Exxon Tigers, 16-6.

The Clippers are 12-3 in league action and Aspen Pharmacy is 10-4.

Action will continue tonight (Thursday), July 31.

The Ginks will play the Knights and the Pumas will take on the Amigos at 6:15.

At 7:30, the Nads will play the Merchants and the Tigers will take on the Aces.

In 8:45 games, Super 8 will play Ski West and the Beavers Sand & Gravel Crushers will meet Alto Construction.

No decision has been made yet on the protest in last weekend's tournament.

The Crushers were the top local team in the tournament, and will finish between second and fourth, depending on the final decision.

The Clippers also may end up in the top four.

Ruidoso will have another men's tournament Labor Day weekend.

Organizers hope to have 40 teams entered in the tournament, which will go around the clock.

There was plenty of action in Lincoln County Women's Slo-Pitch Softball League play Monday night. At left, the Flamingo Club's Vickie Eckerdt pitches against Ole Taco. At right, the Shady Ladies' Lorena Rue goes into third base against the Cobras. Women's games are played Monday and Wednesday nights.

Around Sports with Gary Brown

Why do people run?
What makes them want to huff and puff up hills and along mountain paths for several miles—often with the only award a short rest after the long run.

With the third annual Ruidoso Runners Classic coming up Saturday, it's only natural to find out why the running craze has hit this country.

People of all ages and both sexes do it. And they do it in all kinds of weather.

"I run about as much as anyone in Ruidoso," said Dr. Paul Whitwam. "It depends on the season about how much I run."

"When I was training for the Los Angeles Marathon in March, I averaged about 60 miles a week. Now this summer I've been running, bicycling and swimming a lot."

Whitwam thinks there are lots of reasons why people run. "Keeping in shape is one, health reasons are another," he said. "Another big reason is stress release."

"It's a real good way to blow off steam. If you want to start running and have any questions or are over 40 years old, you should ask your physician about it before actually running."

"Anyone starting to run should start out slow and increase it gradually, going at your own pace. You also need some very good running shoes."

Whitwam plans to run in the Runners Classic, but he is not sure if he'll run the 10-kilometer run or the five-kilometer run.

He may run in an Albuquerque race Sunday. If he does, he'll probably run the five-kilometer run in Ruidoso.

Another local individual who runs a lot is Bob Clarke.

Clarke started running in June 1984. His first competition was at the Snokey Bear Run in Capitan that summer.

"I started running to improve my personal physical condition," said Clarke, an insurance adjuster. "When I first started, I was just walking and jogging. I gradually worked up to races.

"I've run in a number of races around the area. I joined the Roswell Runners Club and things like that."

"The biggest race I've been in was up in Albuquerque last fall, the Duke City marathon."

"I ran the half-marathon in that race. That's 13.1 miles. I hope to run the full marathon in that race this fall."

Clarke takes satisfaction in his running.

"I get an overall feeling of well being," he remarked. "I feel good all-around."

"It also works for stress relief."

And most people who run get enjoyment out of it, even if it requires a lot of physical work.

I used to run; competitively in high school and just for fun afterwards.

My high school running experience was in track and cross-country. I was not a star, but it helped my self-confidence and also was a way for me to work off stress, keep in shape and meet other people.

The competitive aspect of it also was fun. I learned to work with my teammates in doing well and helping the team score.

However, I didn't keep it up, particularly after I joined the work force. I just couldn't find enough time.

But around two years ago, I started to run again, mainly to keep in shape but also to get the satisfaction of improving my times and running longer.

I ran on the trail near Cedar Creek and actually felt good for a while.

I'd get that tired, aching feeling in my legs while running and try to push myself further. Then, after I finished the workout, I'd generally get a satisfying feeling that I had accomplished something.

I couldn't keep it up, though. I just didn't find the time or keep the willpower to continue running.

But Saturday you'll see a lot of runners who have been able to keep the willpower to run.

And enjoy the art of running besides.

Runners' Classic Saturday

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

The third annual Ruidoso Runners Classic will be Saturday, August 2, at Ruidoso Village Hall. There will be 10-kilometer and five-kilometer runs in the race. The competition will start and finish at Village Hall. It will begin at 9 a.m., with registration starting at 7:30 a.m.

"We've got about 30 people pre-registered," said Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department Director Bobby Bailey. "We're hoping for about 130, the same as last year."

Soccer competition continues

The Ruidoso Soccer Association summer season continues Saturday morning, August 2, at White Mountain School.

There will be matches in both the under-eight and under-11 divisions. The first match will start at 9 a.m.

In under-eight action last Saturday, the Hot Spurs blanked the Raiders, 4-0. The under-11 match saw the Tigers defeat the Wranglers, 6-1.

The under-12 teams and under-14 teams probably will soon be formed for the fall season in Alamogordo.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

Lucy G. Morgan

With the wild mountain flowers smiling more brightly than in many a year, and the Pine and Douglass Fir humming hymns in tree voices overhead, services were held July twenty eight in the Mesalero Cemetery for Lucy Gaines Morgan, who was called home by Our Lord on July twenty four.

Church services were held earlier in the day at the Mesalero Community Center on account of renovations in progress at Saint Joseph's Catholic Mission, on the hill overlooking the historic village of Mesalero.

At the graveside Father Larry Gosselin, in charge of services, read from the First Letter of Saint John.

Members of the Saint Joseph Choir sang "Amazing Grace" and "Only A Shadow."

A blessing was cast over the pristine mountain loveliness of the Mesalero Cemetery by this service for this dearly beloved and highly honored lady who has brought an everlasting benediction upon her people by one hundred and four years of life on her native home, the Mesalero Apache Reservation.

There was a great out-pouring of love, admiration and gratitude from the throng of loved ones, kin-folks, and friends of all ages at the services.

In keeping with the summer mountain beauty of the day was the eulogy, delivered by Tribal Chairman Wendell Chino. In true Native American eloquence he compared Lucy to a storehouse of treasures—treasures of history, healing and wisdom.

With her long life on the reservation, she was rich in the volumes of traditions and history of her people.

As a medicine lady, she was expert in the natural medicines of the wilds, and had healed many people of illness and suffering.

And she was a guide and inspiration to all her people through her deep wisdom, handed down in traditions of her race and through close study of all God's guiding principles.

Mr. Chino quoted an old Apache saying, "The fruit is ripe," and pointed out that the Apache people do not grieve at the services of one who has lived long, because their life has been full, that life's fruit has become ripe, and the life has been richly fulfilled.

We all rejoice at the blessing Lucy Morgan has been in our lives, and we are happy that the Lord has received her into Heaven.

Happy Birthday To Dave Parks

Word got out just at the end of Monday's practice for "The Last Escape of Billy The Kid" in Lincoln, that it was the birthday of Dave Parks; for many years a mainstay in the pageant as narrator and originator of many of the interesting points in the show.

We all sang him "Happy Birthday" and meant it from the heart. Dave has made us a hand for many a year in the Lincoln Days, and also in his life long home of Lincoln County. Also he is a true and worthy son of his great mother, Mrs. Nell Crain Parks.

We all wish Dave Parks many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

The Pageant In Thirty Eighth Year

Going back to the original pageant in 1940, this will be the thirty-eighth presentation.

During World War II the show was discontinued, and then revived in 1949.

Everybody has worked hard on this year's show, and a fine spirit of enthusiasm is in the air. This year's show should be one of the best. Remember August one, 8:30 (p.m.); August two, 8:30 (p.m.); August three, three in the afternoon.

LANCE W. KIRKEGAARD, M.D.

Pilot regains control after jet loses engine

A Lear jet taking off from the Ruidoso Municipal Airport Sunday afternoon lost an engine while gaining altitude, according to an airport spokesman.

"When we heard it, he was probably right over Cree Meadows golf course," said Mark McNutt of the airport staff.

The plane, owned by Cleber Massey of Abilene, Texas, apparently hit a small bird, said McNutt.

"The bird was sucked up in the intake," said McNutt, adding the invasion caused one of the plane's two engines to cut out. He said the pilot coasted down over the valley after losing altitude and was finally able to start the engine and continue on to Santa Fe.

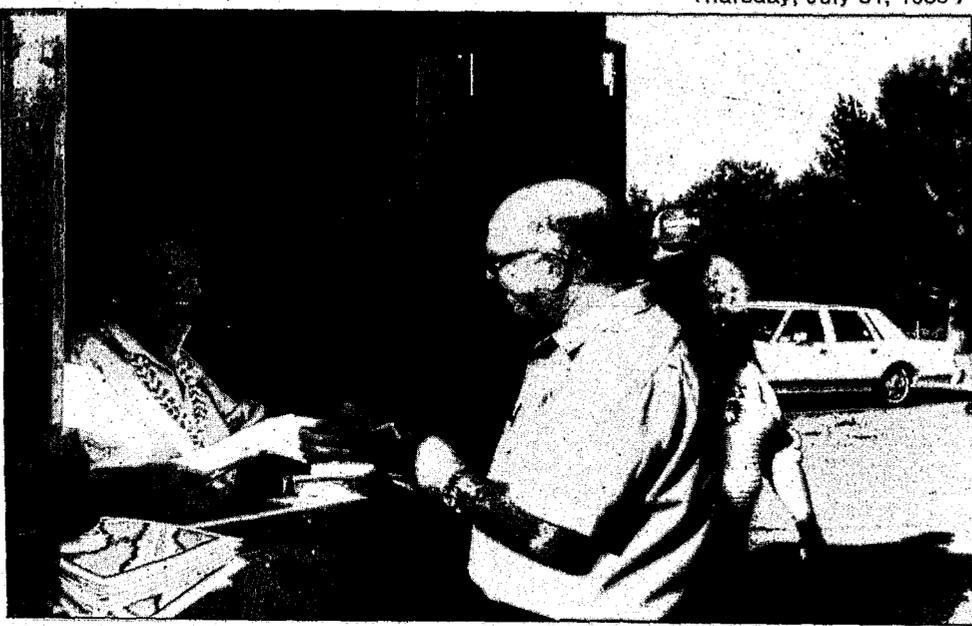

Airport Manager Tim Morris reported the incident to the Ruidoso

Village Council Tuesday night. He said the incident was a reminder of the daily risk to highly populated areas in the airport's takeoff pattern.

The Ruidoso Municipal Airport has been called one of the most dangerous airports in the country due to its record of 17 aircraft crash related deaths in the past 21 years. That safety record is a factor in the push to replace the facility on Fort Stanton mesa.

Bill Howard of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), in the village for a meeting last week, reminded listeners that the FAA has always been a proponent of moving the air field to a safer site.

"Every airplane that leaves this airport goes right over the main street of town," said Morris in an interview in The News on February 3. He said in case of an emergency there's just no place to go.

Campaign called 'successful'

Organizers of the "Discover Ruidoso" advertising campaign agree the project was "very successful."

The national advertising campaign was designed to promote tourism as well as real estate investment opportunities in the Ruidoso area with a "Discover Ruidoso" advertisement, buttons and bumper stickers.

A group of 37 Realtors joined forces to place the "Discover Ruidoso" ad in Southwest Airlines' magazine, Spirit, for the months of April, May and June 1986.

"I think it was commendable of the Realtors to join together and do something was beneficial to the whole community," Kevin Clear, of Clear and Company said. Clear's company carried out the campaign for the group of Realtors.

The ad suggested the year 1986 is the "time to discover Ruidoso," and listed the expansion of Ruidoso Downs Race Track, Ski Apache Resort and the Sierra Blanca Airport with commercial airline capabilities as indicators.

"The ad basically said we've got a lot to offer down here, a lot more than Vall," said John Hall, president of Coldwell Banker SDC, Realtors.

A toll-free number for a free information packet was included in the ad. Names and addresses of people responding to the ad were then distributed to participating Realtors.

"We have made two sales so far, and possibly a third, because of the ad," Hall said.

The ad drew 400 responses, and was very successful, he said.

Dick Loverin of Century 21-Aspen Real Estate agreed.

"I think the campaign went very well. I think it is something we should continue doing. Maybe it's something for the chamber to consider," Loverin said.

Area merchants and individual community members contributed by displaying and wearing buttons that said, "Discover Ruidoso ... We're Glad You're Here."

Group ponders airport funds

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Economic Development Task Force (EDTF) expressed their reactions Friday to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and Ruidoso Village Council's workshop Thursday at Village Hall.

FAA officials Bill Howard and Ray Hampton answered questions raised regarding funding and construction of the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Task Force co-chairman Buddy Bundick said as a result of the meeting, it is evident that any delay in funding could possibly delay construction of the new airport.

Chamber Economic Development Division Vice President Don Shaw said the meeting dissolved recent confusion regarding the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport funding and the purchase of the existing airport land.

"All of the conflicting reports we've been getting for the last six months have been erased.

"I think it is clear that we immediately need to try to raise the money, the $2.6 million, if we want to have that new airport," Shaw said.

Chamber board members 'arrested' for cancer drive

by SHARI LEWIS
News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Board of Director's meeting was interrupted Wednesday when nine board members were "arrested."

The nine suspects were "arrested" and charged with various crimes by local American Cancer Society President Charlie Kemp and her posse of sheriffs and deputies for the second annual American Cancer Society Jail and Bail fund-raiser.

Those arrested included: Robert Boverie, Duane Byars, Barbara DiPaolo, Becky Durham, Harvey Foster, John Jeffers, Buster Hill, Bill Hirschfeld and Charlie Smith. The meeting returned to order and members heard the chamber office activity report, chamber division reports and Art Festival, Aspenfest and annual meeting reports.

The present chamber membership stands at 451 with two new members joining and 16 members being dropped during the month of July.

Economic Development Division Vice President Don Shaw reported the Economic Development Task Force has been "extremely active."

The major thrust of the task force has been lobbying the Ruidoso Village Council in regard to options for raising the funds needed for the Ruidoso Municipal Airport land and the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, Shaw said.

Task force member Charlotte Jarrett presented a recommendation, adopted by the chamber board July 15, to the Village Council Tuesday, that supported the 0.50 percent gross receipts tax increase but recommended it limit the increase to 0.25 percent, he reported. The council opted to approve the 0.50 percent increase.

Advertising and Promotional Division Vice President Robert Boverie said his seven-member Advertising Committee had also been active.

The committee chose Epstein Communications, of Albuquerque, in conjunction with Crume Public Relations to perform its advertising and public relations work. Boverie said a promotional video of Ruidoso is presently being planned. The video will be sent to some 250 national television stations. A market research effort to define possible advertising target markets is also being designed.

Chamber Executive Director John Jeffers said the chamber's Annual Banquet and Membership Meeting, which took place at the Carrizo Lodge July 17 was a big success.

Jeffers said the banquet was very successful.

In other business, board members agreed to co-sponsor the Ruidoso Wurstfest with the Spirit of Ruidoso during Aspenfest. They also agreed to check the feasibility of publishing an official Chamber of Commerce village map.

Downs Trustees approve radio equipment purchase

At their regular meeting last Monday, the Village of Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees voted to purchase over $4,000 worth of radio equipment so the Downs Police Department will be able to operate on an independent radio channel.

At present all village departments share the same radio band.

Ruidoso Downs Police Chief Skip Hazel and newly appointed special village administrator Charles Robinson told the trustees they could document several situations when members of the Downs police force were at risk because other departments were using the village's radio frequency.

The new radio equipment will be paid for with operating funds from the village's fire and water departments.

No unauthorized village employee will be allowed to use the special police radio channel except in extreme emergencies.

All other village departments will share a separate channel.

Hazel, who seem relieved because of the trustees decision to purchase new radio equipment, told them a separate police channel was necessary to insure the safety of his officers in critical situations.

Trustee Conrad Buchanan and Downs Mayor J.C. "Jake" Harris told Robinson to devise a penalty for village employees who used the police channel without authorization.

In other business the trustees: —Approved the purchase of $17,212 worth of equipment to update the village's computer system. Harris told the trustees it would be hard to justify the continuous purchase of new computer equipment because the village put in a brand new $48,000 computer system just two years ago.

—Discussed the acquisition of a new vehicle for Robinson.

—Discussed sending delegates to the September Municipal League conference in Clovis. Trustee Jackie Branum will once again act as the voting delegate for the village at the conference in Clovis.

—Suggested more village residential streets have speed limits of 15 mph. The village recently put 15 mph speed limit signs in the River Park area. Harris told the trustees the village had the obligation to protect both the elderly and the children who either walk or play in residential streets in the Downs.

—Indicated trustee J.L. Wilson was not present because he was on vacation from his job.

—Adjourned into executive discussion.

Commissioners handle road business in marathon meeting

by LINDA PONDER
News Capitan Bureau

Lincoln County Commissioners reviewed the paving assessment report, listened to protests concerning the proposed paving assessment and narrowed the field of engineers who submitted proposals on the Sierra Blanca Airport road study at their Tuesday meeting.

A report from Pajo Technical Services, Inc., on the July 18 paving district public hearing, was presented by Joseph Shain. As a result of the hearing, commissioners agreed:

—the assessment methodology decided upon is correct, meeting state law, and has been approved by the bonding attorney.

—to correct all errors by reviewing the assessment rolls.

—to delete everyone north of the Fort Stanton road lying outside of Alto Village, beyond the entrance to Alto Village.

—to include lower Eagle Creek Road and Shangri La (only if Shangri La roads are brought up to condition in time).

—Alto Drive will be included.

There were 108 verbal and written responses to the paving assessment. Shain said only eight of those were objections.

Another public hearing on the paving district will be heard at a later, publicized date.

Commissioners Bill Elliott, Ken Nosker and A.W. Gnatkowski considered engineering proposals for the location study, preliminary engineering and right of way acquisition for the access road to the new airport, in a marathon meeting lasting until nearly midnight.

Three firms—Bohannon Huston, Incorporated, Wilson and Company

Engineers and Leedshill Herkenhoff, all of Albuquerque—were asked to continue negotiations on the project. Each agreed to submit, within a week, their reservations on the "hold harmless as written" agreement and a cost breakdown of the project.

In other business, the commissioners:

—Approved an agreement with Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District.

—Approved an NMCA project grant agreement amendment for solid waste.

—Accepted a Community Development Block Grant project feasibility study of Fort Stanton as a historical site.

—Awarded the bid for lots 16, 17, and 18, Block 5, McDonald Addition Carrizozo to Paul Otero who had the high bid of $3,000.

—Accepted a bid for automobile insurance coverage of $71,519 liability and comprehensive coverage for 100 vehicles, including all emergency vehicles.

—Accepted comprehensive general liability insurance coverage from low bidder, Perteet-

Parks (Travelers), of $24,376.

—Approved the replat of lots 1-4, Block 11, Palo Verde Ranchettes Subdivision.

—Approved a road opening on the Canning Ranch of road B-045.

—Agreed to vacate, with the deed restriction "county reserves" the right to retake the property at no expense to county, if the need arises to widen the road." a portion of Canyon Road in Agua Fria Estates Subdivision.

—Accepted road B-015 north of West Bridge in a westerly direction .20 mile.

—Appointed a road review committee, made up of Mac Bell, Bill Rawlins, Leota Pfingsten and Peggy Holden as alternate, to review road requests from Withers and others, Carruthers and others and Carolyn Lietzman.

—Reviewed a letter from Kelly Stephenson refusing access on their private land to any further road review committee.

—Approved payment of prior year's bills.

—Approved carry over of funds for fire districts.

—Granted a request for office space from county assessor Marian Schlarb (see related story).

—Approved a joint powers agreement with State Highway Department regarding airport access road study.

—Approved a request from the Guadalupe County Commission to assist in providing a facility for the incarceration of Guadalupe prisoners during the closing of their facility for repairs. Stipulations to the agreement are approval by the Lincoln County Sheriff and if Lincoln County needs space there will not be a problem removing Guadalupe prisoners.

—Approved (after review of correspondence from Department of Finance determining the legalities) emergency purchase for professional services of Mel O'Reilly—services during the Moncor Bank closure.

Court rules county had say-so in office space spat

by LINDA PONDER
News Capitan Bureau

A squabble for office space in county buildings between the District Attorney's Office and the Lincoln County Assessor's Office led to a ruling Tuesday by District Judge Robert M. Doughty.

In court in Carrizozo, Doughty ruled that the Lincoln County Commissioners have the final say in how county office space is used, setting aside a temporary restraining order requested by District Attorney James Weldon and issued by District Judge Richard Parsons.

Doughty indicated he based his decision on testimony and extensive research of similar cases.

Assistant District Attorney Harry Wilcox, Jr. represented Weldon's plea to restrain the commissioners from changing the district attorney (DA's) offices from their present location in the assessor's office to the upstairs of the court annex building.

County manager Suzanne Cox, commissioners Bill Elliott, Ken Nosker, and A.W. Gnatkowski, county attorney Steve Sanders and county assessor Marian Schlarb testified during the proceedings, with county representation by Gary Mitchell. Their testimony affirmed that the DA's office was assigned in the assessor's office on a temporary basis. That space could be used only until the assessor had need for the space. That need is now apparent, due to the state mandate to update property appraisals, which has required the employment of three additional people in the assessor's office, testimony showed.

In further testimony, all witnesses stated the DA had requested additional office space from commissioners at their June 6 meeting.

Elliott said at that time "no other space was available and we (commissioners) had to table the request pending their investigation of alternatives." Between the June 6 meeting and the June 17 regular meeting, "space became available with the vacating of the ASCS offices in the court annex." Part of this office was allocated to the DA.

Currently the annex houses offices for the County Extension Office, Soil and Water Conservation, New Mexico State Police, Magistrate Court—Judge S.M. Ortiz, Probation Office and County Health Nurse.

Following three re-cross examinations of Cox, Wilcox asked "isn't there any other space available other than the upstairs office?" Cox replied, "the basement."

Elliott stressed that the assessor's office was the fastest growing office in the complex and the commissioners' first concern was the easy access for residents of the county to the most often used offices of county officials.

Nosker was asked if there had been any communication with the DA's office about the proposed space.

"The county manager was instructed to send a letter to you, isn't that communication?" he asked.

"But you didn't talk to me directly," Wilcox asked.

"No. We did the best job for you and the people of this county that we could do. She (Schlarb) needs the space. You asked for additional space and we found you that space. There was a time in this county when there was no space at all for the DA," Nosker replied.

In closing statements Wilcox reiterated, "the decision by the county commissioners was arbitrary and capricious. There was no criteria used in making their decision and we request the temporary restraining order stand until after the first of the year and we continue to be allowed to use the current office space."

"Why do you wish the restraining order remain in place until after January 1," asked Doughty.

"At that time new commissioners will take office," was Wilcox's reply.

"According to law the only thing the county is required to furnish the DA is an adequate office with utilities and maintenance. The county commission has certainly done that," Mitchell summed up. "That area has always belonged to the assessor and she shouldn't have to ask for it, it has always been set aside for her."

"The law does not reside with the DA's office in this case," Doughty said, "and the restraining order will be set aside."

Mitchell, on behalf of the commissioners, told Wilcox, "we extend an invitation to the DA's office to try to settle this matter amicably."

Art Festival draws weekend crowd

by SHARI LEWIS
News Staff Writer

The 1986 Ruidoso Art Festival, sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, is being termed one of the best shows Ruidoso has had.

Art Festival chairman Charlie Smith said although attendance was about the same or slightly lower than last year, the show was a big success.

"The show was a tremendous success. The entire show was well received," Smith said.

The Art Festival is the chamber's top fund-raiser. About $25,000 of net income was budgeted for the festival. Smith said the festival actually netted close to $23,000.

Attendance for the show was calculated each day with Saturday being the peak day with more than 3,000 people passing through the gates. The total attendance figure for Friday, Saturday and Sunday was 6,940, netting the chamber some $13,000 in gate ticket sales.

Smith talked with a number of artists who said they enjoyed the Ruidoso show.

"Many of the artists consider Ruidoso an exceptional show. They love to come up here; it's a fun place for them."

He also said the quality of the show was very high.

"A big majority of the people I talked to felt the artisan quality was up from last year. I think the variety in price and in art media was widespread," Smith said.

The success of the show was attributed to volunteer work and to local business people.

"Two people who were vitally important to the success of the show were Flodie Wilson and Paul Crown. Both worked consistently and both deserve a great deal of recognition," he said.

Other volunteers deserving recognition include Buddy Bundick, Mike Callaghan, Robert Boverie, Frank Potter, Sid Miller and the school administration, and the community as a whole to name a few, Smith said.

The entertainment also added to the success of the show.

"All of the entertainment was volunteer. We had everything from rock and roll music to country and western to barber shop quartet music. I think the variety pleased everyone," Smith said.

The Ruidoso Festival is one of few art shows that provide a dinner for the artists and their families. This year's dinner was provided by the Elks Club and was attended by 115 artists and family members, Smith said.

High Rolls artist Trish Adams handles a customer, her baby, Ryan, and her daughter, Jayme—all at the same time—during the Ruidoso Art Festival Friday. Mirrored in one of her works, Adams creates a dazzling array of designs with stained glass. Adams teaches art at Chaparral Junior High School in Alamogordo.

Michael Thiele creates a spontaneous rhythmic tune as he demonstrates one of his handmade wooden drum boxes to a passerby. The Sedona, Arizona, craftsman was a center of curiosity during the Ruidoso Art Festival. His drums sell for $45 to more than $200.

Rose Knapp shows off one of the puppets in the Pakaluk Puppets booth at the Ruidoso Art Festival. Rose and her husband, Fred, made the puppets. The two are from Fredericksburg, Texas.

Editorial

The Wild West will come alive this weekend in Lincoln County through a saddlebag full of activities.

Highlight of the weekend will be the annual folk pageant reenactment of "The Last Escape of Billy The Kid" in Lincoln. The Old Lincoln Days pageant will be Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 and Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Old Lincoln Days also includes a weekend-full of activities Saturday and Sunday—spinning and weaving, a black powder shoot, blacksmithing, a Civil War encampment, an afternoon old fiddlers contest Saturday and a parade Sunday.

White Oaks, too, will join in the celebration of the history of the West. A pony express ride from Lincoln to White Oaks, plus a rodeo, dances, and mud wrestling in White Oaks, should be some fun Saturday.

More history of this area will be brought to light during the weekend as the excavation of the McSween site continues. Archaeologists already have made several interesting finds at the house, site of the final confrontation in the Lincoln County War.

Many more activities await the traveller in Lincoln County this weekend. It's a great chance to see a juicy slice of the West's history come alive. DJP

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

I remember reading that the less moral a nation becomes, the more it talks about morality. There is a great deal of talk coming from this country about the un-morality of apartheid. This was demonstrated by the Democratic representative from Delaware in his indignant statements about the lack of "moral backbone" shown by the President's stance against imposing economic sanctions against South Africa. This man, and those with his kind of thinking, have a curious kind of moral standard.

South Africa cannot have apartheid, but we can kill over 15 million babies since 1973, thousands in abortion mills not far from where he made his impassioned statements, and their silence is deafening.

South Africa cannot hold in prison an avowed Marxist revolutionary, but we can allow AIDS to approach epidemic proportions with no legislation or cries of immorality against the obvious cause which is male homosexuality. It appears that this man and those who share his thinking have the kind of moral backbone with the substance of the wind and the direction of popular opinion.

Those who complain about the dirty yards of others should clean theirs first.

SANTA FE—One thing that is bad about politics is that there is too little lying fallow.

We all know in ourselves that urge to hang it all up for a while and drop into a mood of quiet contemplation. It isn't only the fields that grow our crops that need that sort of rest; the human spirit hungers for it as well.

But politics, which is a multifarious activity, carried on by large numbers of people who respond to their own rhythms, never seems to become totally quiescent. Somebody's always up to something.

Right now, for instance, in the midst of a hot summer, might seem like a good time to lay the political load down. Instead, we have candidates starting to scurry about, campaigns getting organized (with, in the larger of them, that elbowing for room near the candidate which seems to be an activity we are never without) and even those who are still going back and rehashing the battles of yester-year. Someone in the political field always seems to be pointing ahead or pointing back. The one thing never achieved is complete rest.

One awakes on a warm July morning, for instance, to find that there is trouble in the state's Mortgage Finance Authority, where the three top employees have been given the boot or have chosen to resign. It's no surprise; we had spoken here recently about a new wave of politics taking over that operation in a peculiar fashion. But once again we find ourselves facing one of those messes in state government which have become so familiar to us in recent years—turmoil which would seem to be the ordinary citizen of relatively good judgment to be wasteful and unnecessary, brought on, in almost every instance, only by the clashing of small egos.

In the news on that same day are the first inklings of what was being discussed in those lengthy private meetings between a federal judge, our Governor and his wife, and attorneys for the latter pair. We know now that the Internal Revenue Service is involved in the subject matter, though with all the discussions taking place behind closed doors, we have so far learned little else.

Those who find that particular group of meetings of major interest are largely the ones who take themselves seriously in that political party to which Governor

Anaya belongs. If they want to see their candidates victorious at the polls in November, they can hardly help thinking something like this:

"If that clown creates one more major embarrassment for this party between now and November..." Just when there were indications the last months of the man's term might quietly ebb away, storm-clouds are seen to be gathering over the neighboring mountains.

How much nicer it would be to find ourselves afflicted with a large dose of peace and quiet.

But government must go on, and in America at least, politics is an essential by-product of the art of governing. Because we choose our major officials by elections, everything done by those in office or by those aspiring to office is politicized in tone and in the manner in which we view it.

What's more, what we ourselves, the citizens who hold and want no office, think and say about those others is politics in the making. Like the clouds spoken of above, our views and opinions form and reform, coming together or breaking apart. What results is the political climate of our place and time.

During this long, hot summer, those who want to take on the responsibility of ruling us might do well to spend more than an ordinary amount of time taking in that political atmosphere and adjusting themselves to it. If you are asked who is likely to be New Mexico's next governor, you may not know his name, but you can say with assurance that he will be that one of the two candidates who best understands and articulates the hopes, fears and yearnings of the people of New Mexico at this point in their existence.

The wisest thing a candidate could do this summer would be to get out and listen—listen deeply, with more than just his ears and brain—to what New Mexicans are touched by. The winner will deserve to win, not because he does the best job of telling us what he must do, but because he does the best job of learning what he must do by listening to us.

Reporter's Round

By Frankie Jarrell

The judicial branch of government wields awesome power.

That power, and the responsibility that it carries, are getting a lot of attention during confirmation hearings for a new chief justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Witnesses talked of the honor and integrity required of, not only a Supreme Court justice, but also any member of the judicial system—presumably from municipal and magistrate to district and appellate court judges.

Those optimistic drafters of the United States Constitution apparently expected judges to be above politics and petty self-interest. I, too, thought that was possible.

Until the Watergate years I pictured some offices as able to command so much respect that those people elected or appointed to fill them would rise to meet the office. I wanted to believe Richard Nixon's rape of the presidency was an isolated incident.

Not having spent a lot of time in courts, it has been my belief that a judge could put aside his or her own personal prejudices and sit on the bench as a representative of equity and justice for all.

That isn't always the case—but sometimes it is.

Courtrooms apparently take on the personality of the judge, and of late I've witnessed very different proceedings in municipal, magistrate and district court—all three presided over by elected judges.

Municipal Judge John Cupp conducts his court from his office, where his desk sits on a raised platform about a foot above the floor where the defendant or petitioner stands.

Judge Cupp, who sees lots of young people accused of traffic violations, uses a fatherly tone in putting the offense in legal terms and describing what those terms mean.

He doesn't normally wear the traditional black judicial robe, but people who have been before Judge Cupp know they've been to court. They also understand the charges and the sentence.

Magistrate Judge J.R. "Jim" Wheeler looks like a judge. When he enters the courtroom, his bailiff announces "all rise," and the black-robed Judge ascends the bench. One wonders how this man could ever have been anything else.

Judge Wheeler, in a strong, clear voice, announces to those assembled in his courtroom just exactly who is charged with what.

He reads the statutes on those charges, including possible sentences and/or fines, and then asks the defendant if he or she understands.

Judge Wheeler calls each defendant by name, and in cases I've covered he treats them all the same.

Lawyers in Judge Wheeler's court can all expect to be treated equally, too. Neither the prosecutor nor the defense attorney seems to have any built-in advantage—Judge Wheeler seems most concerned with upholding the law.

When you've been in Judge Wheeler's courtroom, you know you've been to court.

After spending Monday afternoon in a district courtroom in Carrizozo, I wasn't sure where I had been. It looks like a courtroom—the bench, the defense table, the prosecutor's table, the jury box and a fence in front of the spectator's section.

Nobody told us to rise when the judge entered, but we all did.

With a full docket of judicial inquiries announced, more lawyers than spectators were on hand. I counted six lawyers, besides Assistant District Attorney Harry Wilcox Jr.

Judge Richard A. Parsons had a large stack of red folders in front of him, and apparently was reading case numbers and names of defendants as he announced each case. He spoke in a very low voice, so it was hard to tell what the proceedings were all about.

Apparently judicial inquiries are called every so often to set trials and dispose of open cases within the six-month time period allowed by law. As Judge Parsons apparently called the names, the various lawyers in the courtroom were motioned forward for disposition of their clients' cases.

Most of those clients were not present for Monday's proceedings. Some of them apparently thought they had already entered into an agreement on their cases, according to one attorney.

Gary Mitchell recalled a day in May when he and the prosecutor agreed to pleas on a whole stack of cases, but never completed the day's docket in court because they ran out of time. He said he thought the plea bargains were still in effect.

But ADA Wilcox said they are not valid until they are signed, and Judge Parsons took the matter under advisement as he went ahead and set trial dates.

"The state's backing out on its agreements," remarked an audience member.

A reliable source at the scene confirmed that statement, and said the ADA could still sign off on the terms instead of bringing those defendants to trial. He said the defendants involved were all under the impression their cases were settled.

And so it went—with the assorted spectators trying unsuccessfully to hear and understand the proceedings. Many decisions were rendered in whispered tones with the prosecutor and defense attorney standing before the bench.

One spectator, a white-haired woman neatly dressed in a crisp pink dress, waited patiently through the proceedings to hear the outcome of her son's hearing. The young man was brought from the Lincoln County Jail for some kind of hearing, the judge told the lawyers something and the defendant was returned to jail.

The patient mom was overheard telling a story of driving to town, leaving her dog in a well-ventilated car and visiting with her son. She had to contact her son's lawyer after court was recessed to find out what happened.

Wanting to find out more about judicial inquiries and what was going on, I contacted Judge Parsons during a recess. Not only did he refuse to shake my hand when I introduced myself, he turned his back and refused to talk to me.

Another lawyer on hand for the day's hearings said Judge Parsons utilizes judicial inquiries more than most judges. He said historically a docket call is issued about twice a year to clear the docket.

"This is highly unusual," the lawyer said.

Although neither ADA Wilcox nor Mitchell were available for comment early Wednesday, Leandro Vega, chief investigator for the District Attorney's office, said the inquiries are a routine matter. He said there had been some agreements made, but it was up to Mitchell, the defense attorney, to get them signed.

"He just sat on them," noted Vega.

One case apparently involved a defendant charged with embezzlement who agreed to make restitution—now that defendant is set for trial and the payments have been returned. The defense attorney just shook his head and shrugged his shoulders.

So this is justice?

I don't know.

After a day in District Court I wasn't sure where I had been.

Star struck

Scroll Lock, owned by renowned California actor Richard Farnsworth, who starred in "The Natural" with Robert Redford, did not want to enter the gates on the backside last Saturday. He flipped jockey Casey Lambert into the dirt before the race began. But every jockey is a stuntman, and Lambert got back on the spunky horse to take a 7-length victory. Scroll Lock was campaigning in California, but did not begin to show anything until conditioner Cliff Lambert Sr. took the gelding to the turf. Scroll Lock could be the star as the gelding premieres in his first feature Friday at Ruidoso Downs. (Photo by Gay Stokes).

At the same time last year, after 45 race days and 545 races, the total handle was $20,076,953. The wagering average at this time last year was $446,155 with average per race wagering at this point last year $36,838. The daily wagering average is down 5.29 percent and the wagering per race is down 5.69 percent when compared to last year at this time. Average attendance at the track is down 3.02 percent below that of last year.

Track Talk

Trainer James Hambrick has won only four races at Ruidoso Downs this season, but it's a record most of the trainers at the mountain track would love to own. Of the four trips he has made to the winner's circle three have come in stakes races.

The $100,340 World Championship Classic was the first Grade I stakes race won by trainer Larry Keiter. "This was a really great win. Both for me and Sir Alibi," said the happy trainer in the winner's circle.

On Saturday (July 26) Hambrick won the $90,000 Kachina Stakes with Lubbock County. "You really don't know how satisfying this one is," said the beaming trainer following the race. "We raised this filly from a baby and that makes this win really special." Lubbock County is the first foal from Preponderance, who is owned by Hambrick.

"This horse hasn't been known as a quick breaker, but he's getting better every time he runs. He's improving as he matures," Keiter said of Sir Alibi. "Any trainer would love to have him. He always gives a good effort." The winning time of 21.45 seconds was the second-fastest clocking in the 18-year history of the 440-yard race.

The veteran trainer has also won the Governor's and Sierra Blanca handicaps this season at Ruidoso. Glen Lowry has been the jockey in all of those races.

Apprentice jockey Quyvet Bui won both halves of the Daily Double on Friday. Jockey Alex Baldillez Jr. picked up a win over the weekend in making his first appearance on the track since fracturing his leg in an accident during the Rainbow Futurity trials.

Run for the Rio Grande

Sid's Ego and Casey Lambert draw away for a 4-length victory in trials for the $50,340 Rio Grande Futurity run July 24 at Ruidoso Downs. The Bold Ego gelding will renew his rivalry with Riley Allison Futurity winner Big Bold Boz in the final of the Rio Grande Futurity this Sunday, August 3. Sid's Ego is trained by Cliff Lambert Sr.

for the Double B. Ranch of Santa Teresa. He stepped off his six-furlong trial division for the upcoming Rio Grande Futurity in 1:12 seconds flat. Sid's Ego will be seeking his second stakes win at Ruidoso this summer after accounting for an upset victory over Big Bold Boz in the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity on May 31.

It may take All American effort for Life Styles to beat Trucka Jet

All American Futurity winner Mr Trucka Jet tunes up for next week's $1.3 million All American Derby trials facing off against a talented field of veteran dashers in Thursday's allowance headliner at Ruidoso Downs.

The 400-yard main event brings out a full field of 3-year-olds that includes: 1985 West Texas Futurity winner Life Styles; Racin Image, a finalist in the Kindergarten, Dash For Cash and All American futurities; stakes placed Real Duck; Mach Six, Quite Awesome, Shameless Wrangler, Debonairress, Westheimer and Mister Mito Bug. First post Thursday is 1 p.m.

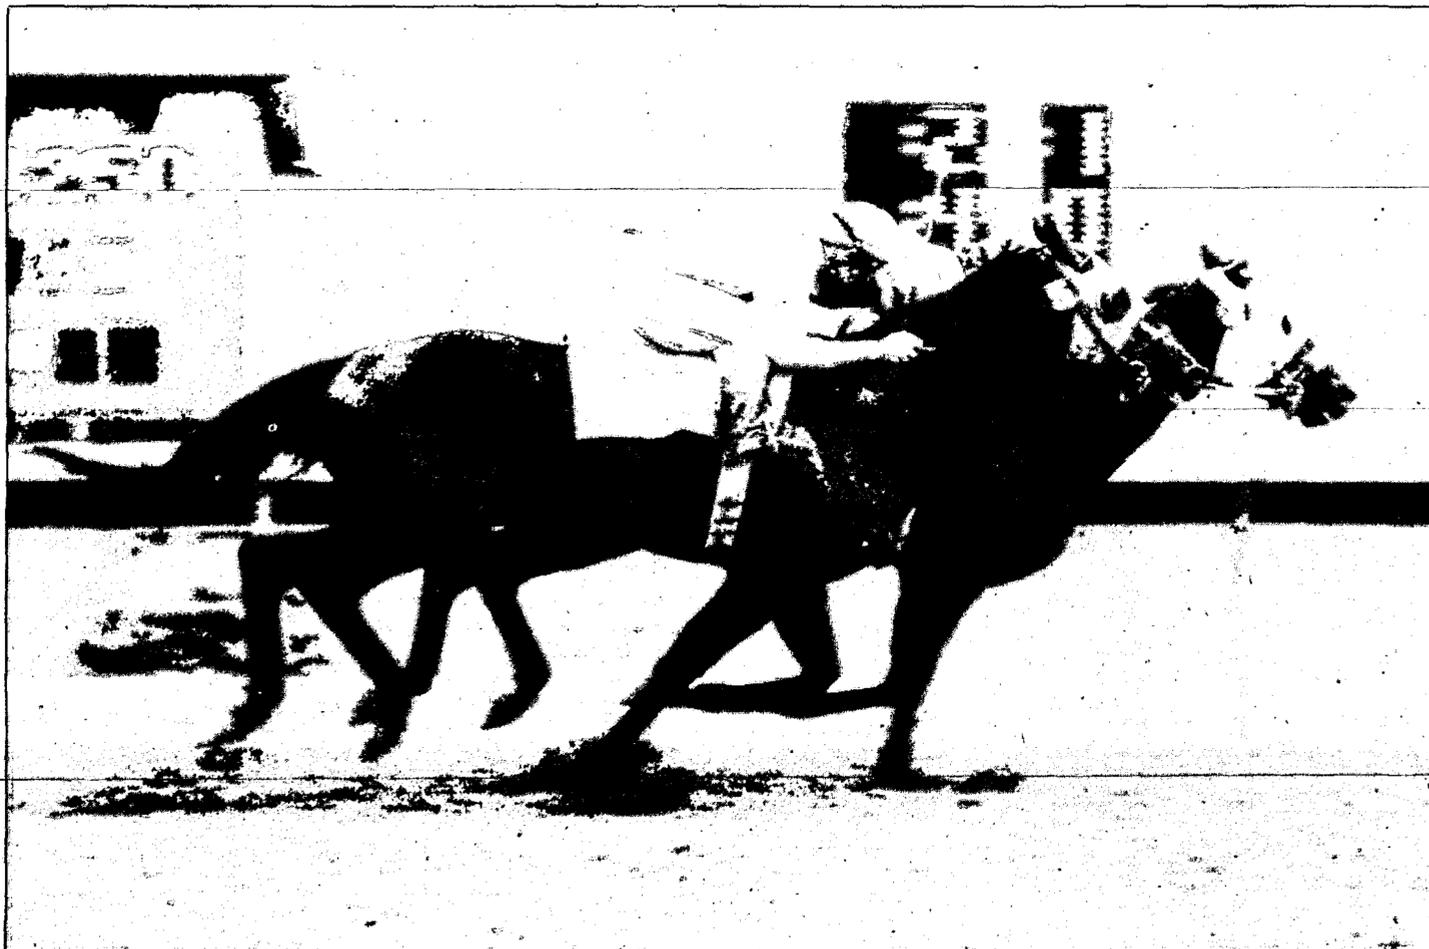

Trainer Jack Brooks brought Mr Trucka Jet out for his first start since winning the $2.53 million All American Futurity last year in trials for the Rainbow Derby on June 12. The Easy Jet colt was beaten a neck by King Of Sting and Sixarun, who both qualified for the consolation of the stakes race.

July Fourth weekend Mr Trucka Jet went up against allowance company at 400-yards. He broke alertly under rider Jacky Martin, but was caught by stakes competitor Six Fortunes at the wire. He'll break from the No. 4 post in Thursday's feature with Martin in the irons.

Conditioner Charles Cascio saddles Life Styles off a third-place finish to Cash Fever in trials for the Rainbow Derby. The Super Sound Charge filly ran out more than $118,000 last year, accounting for the $182,000 West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park and qualifying for the final of the Kindergarten Futurity at Los Alamitos Race Course. She was placed third in the La Primavera del Ana Derby at Los Alamitos in January of this year.

Racin Image takes his first assignment at Ruidoso Downs since lining up against Mr Trucka Jet in the All American Futurity last fall. The son of Streakin Six was also a finalist in the Kindergarten and qualified for the Dash For Cash Futurity in California his first year on the track.

Ego test on Sunday

Larry Byers and Big Bold Boz (No. 3 on the inside) hold off a strong challenge from Cowboy Posse, ridden by Leroy Coombs, to post a narrow victory in trials for the $50,340 Rio Grande Futurity run on July 24 at Ruidoso Downs. Big Bold Boz, who distinguished himself by winning the $250,000 Riley Allison Futurity this spring at Sunland Park, will be seeking his first stakes win at the current Ruidoso Downs meeting after collecting runner-up money in the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity and the Norgor Futurity. He'll be heading a full field of two-year-old sprinters in the final of the Rio Grande Futurity this Sunday, which offers its winner $25,170. Terrell Davidson trains the son of Bold Ego for Jackie Spencer of Alto.

Mountain men to rendezvous at Eagle Creek

by SHARI LEWIS
News Staff Writer

The 160 acre Eagle Creek Canyon site is ready for the First Annual Southern Rocky Mountains Rendezvous set for Monday through Sunday, August 4-10.

The pre 1850s era rendezvous has been advertised in numerous national magazines and hundreds of "primitive" participants are expected to attend. Conventional campers are welcome as well.

The rendezvous will feature "sippin', joshin', strummin' and singin'" as well as shoots, races, visitin' and other tests and challenges of primitive skills, for all mountain men, free trappers, Eastern long hunters, Courier De Bois, Taos traders and other pre 1850 representatives.

Organizer E.J. Stevenson hopes the rendezvous will be a big success.

"We are getting an awful lot of people who normally wouldn't come to Ruidoso. We've got people coming from Canada and all over the nation," he said.

The rendezvous shooting events can accommodate up to 300 people.

"We've been planning for and have targets enough for 300 shooters. If we can get that many, we will be doing real well," organizer Larry Bandy said.

The camp site has been divided into sections including a conventional campers area, a concession area, a range and headquarters area, a primitive camp and a traders row.

"The traders row is an area for people who have period (pre 1850) type articles they want to sell," Bandy said.

Rendezvous events include shooting, tomahawk and knife throws, survival courses, dog travois races, mule races, primitive bow matches, lance throws, foot races, frying, pan tosses, tugs-of-war, cooking contests, relay races, primitive campsite judging and more.

Instructional seminars on black powder shooting, buckskin clothing making, primitive fire starting, survival techniques and hunting with muzzle loaders will also be offered at the rendezvous.

The rendezvous is sponsored by the Lincoln Mountaimen, the Spirit of Ruidoso and the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

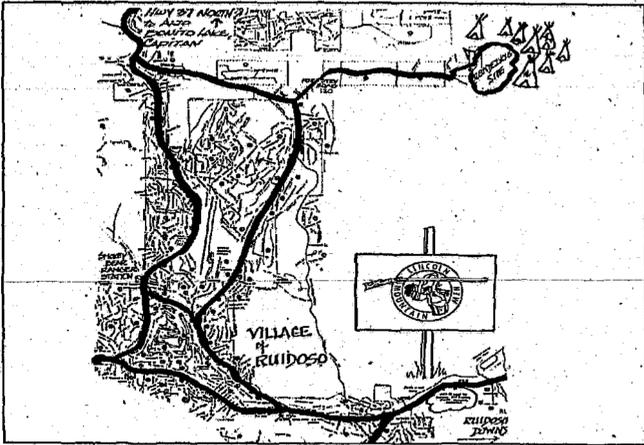

The Lincoln Mountaimen, sanctioned by the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, currently has 52 active members. Members said the rendezvous was initially going to be a regional event. It is now a national event with hundreds of participants expected to start arriving Friday, August 1.

"I'm really looking forward to it. There has been a lot of work involved, but we are all looking forward to it," Stevenson said.

The rendezvous site is open to the public from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. It is closed to all but rendezvous participants from 9 p.m. to dawn.

Participants may register at the gate or contact the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 698, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345.

The First Annual Southern Rocky Mountain Rendezvous is scheduled for Monday through Sunday, August 4-10, at the rendezvous site in Eagle Creek.

Congratulations and so long

Ruidoso Police Captain Dave Pfeffer congratulates officer Evelyn McKinney on completing the state Police Academy in first place academically, as she bids him farewell as he leaves the police force after nearly 11 years service. "Just be careful, be alert and be aware," was the advice the veteran officer had for the newly certified officer. Pfeffer, operations commander, is serving his last day on duty today (Thursday) before opening a new restaurant in Gateway Center tomorrow. Another Ruidoso officer, Kent Berkedal (not pictured), finished first among the class of 36 in driving and physical fitness.

Where there's smoke

The Ruidoso Fire Department last week quickly doused a small fire in the State Highway Department temporary laboratory facility on Carrizo Creek Road, according to department records. Kortney Hall of the Fire Department said the fire apparently started with a burner in the laboratory. She said a cabinet was damaged, but firefighters were able to contain the fire before any other damage occurred. Hall said most of the volunteers who responded within moments of the alarm were released to return to work.

Crime of the week

Last December a male identifying himself as Don Ramsey was charged with four counts of forgery and embezzlement stemming from an incident at Sierra Blanca Motors. The subject was later identified as Darrell Lynn Ramsey and an arrest warrant has been issued for his arrest. He is believed to be driving a 1986 Silver Oldsmobile Cutlass with Texas License 580-1.HZ.

Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information that leads to the whereabouts and arrest of Darrell Lynn Ramsey. Crime Stoppers will also pay cash rewards for information that leads to the recovery of stolen property and the solving of other felony crimes.

The Crime Stoppers phone number is 257-4545. People calling Crime Stoppers may remain anonymous. Anonymous callers are issued a code number which can be used for the payment of rewards.

There's a big, fat difference between our meat and theirs.

(Their Meat)

(Our Meat) with...
1/4-Inch Super Trim

We Trim The Fat, And That Trims The Price.

The steaks above are both T-bones. They both have the same price per pound. They both give you the same amount of meat to eat. The difference is, the one on the right (the Safeway steak) costs you alot less. It's cheaper because Safeway trims the external fat off all its steaks, down to a quarter of an inch. Our competitor doesn't. So if you buy the Safeway steak, you're not paying for alot of fat you can't eat. That gives you more for your money, and that's what an honest deal is all about.

Less Fat Means Greater Value!

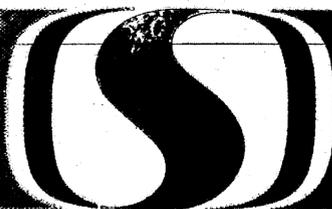

All Safeway Meats are leaner, in tune with today's lifestyles. Safeway Select Pork is younger and leaner than ever. Still corn-fed for that rich pork flavor. Safeway Select Lamb is all USDA Inspected Lamb, with every cut 1/4-inch Super-Trimmed for greater value. Safeway Veal is young, lean and tender. It's all USDA Inspected and re-inspected by Safeway's own meat experts.

Safeway Select Meats Are A Better Value Than Ever.

Safeway's new 1/4-inch Super-Trim, plus Safeway's famous Unconditional Guarantee of Satisfaction, plus the Safeway reputation for the finest meat you can buy...makes Safeway Select Meats the value-leaders. Come in now, compare the low Safeway prices, the new 1/4-inch Super-Trim, compare the variety and the selection. You'll know for certain why Safeway is America's Favorite Food Store.
