Volunteers lend helping hands at police department

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

The first face visitors to the Ruidoso Police Station see is usually not that of a police officer. Three women have volunteered their services to the Police Department, and staff the reception desk, answer the telephones and help out with a variety of clerical tasks. Gayle Rogers, Pam Ray and Laura Proffit spend as many as 40 hours each as unpaid members of the Police Department staff. Lou Wardwell, the department computer operator who supervises the volunteers, said the volunteers fulfill the duties of at least two full-time positions. She said volunteers must pass the same extensive screening check as salaried department employees. Wardwell said the department had a paid receptionist position before staffing cuts of the past few years. She said the volunteers primarily are in charge of the reception area, answering questions and helping "walk-in" traffic. The three volunteers give a variety of reasons for donating their time to the Police Department. Ray, a part-time dispatcher for the Village of Ruidoso Downs, is interested in learning all she can about law enforcement to fulfill her ultimate goal of becoming a full-time police officer. But both Rogers and Proffit said they had the time and simply needed something to do. Rogers, who contributes nearly 40 hours every week, was the first to volunteer. She said she moved to Ruidoso last summer, didn't know many people and needed to "get out of the house." Upon hearing that the Police Department needed some help, she walked in and volunteered. "My mind was wasting," said Rogers. Proffit, who became a volunteer in November, also serves as the call-out officer for White Mountain Search and Rescue. She said she finds her police work very fulfilling. Wardwell said workers are being cross-trained to fill in wherever they are needed—for instance Rogers worked for Municipal Judge John Cupp while the court clerk was on vacation for a week and Ray has worked with the detectives in the Criminal Investigation Division (CID). Ray, who served in the U.S. Army before moving to Ruidoso by way of Lubbock, Texas, said she loved her experience working in CID where she found the work fascinating. Rogers, too, said she loves her volunteer work. "It's very enlightening," noted Wardwell.

"I think I've probably been amazed at people's response... they won't accept the responsibility for their wrongdoings," said Rogers. "Someone else is always at fault," she added. But all three volunteers say the contact with people is one important plus of working as Police Department volunteers. "You get a variety, but it's great," said Rogers. She said she formerly owned an area ranch and moved to Ruidoso from Texas. Rogers serves on the board of directors of the Ruidoso Downs Muleskinners and is a member of Sertoma. "This place is like a family... it's really neat to see the way people get along," said Ray. Police Chief Richard Swenor is happy to have the added help, and treats his volunteers with the same respect he does his salaried staff. Wardwell, too, welcomes the help. She said the volunteers have freed her to spend more time on her computer and other job responsibilities, and less time at the front desk and on the telephone. "I think they deserve some recognition," said Judge Cupp.

Fire damages cabin

A fire Monday at Dan Dee Cabins in the Upper Canyon caused extensive damage to one rental cabin, according to Ruidoso Fire Department reports. Assistant Fire Chief Jesse Reynolds said the alarm was sounded at 11:10 a.m. and firefighters responded by 11:14 a.m. Two class A pumpers and 20 firefighters were on the scene until nearly 1 p.m., he said. Although the cabin, owned by Clark Carpenter, was rented, it was unoccupied when the fire broke out, said Reynolds. He said damage was estimated at $30,000. Reynolds said a cause was not determined for the fire.

Suicide report leads to marijuana find

When called to the scene of an apparent suicide late Friday afternoon, the Ruidoso Police confiscated 93 pounds of marijuana with a street value of $150,000, according to Detective Lanny Maddox. Police, called by a neighbor to the Sterling Badger residence on Timber Road, discovered Badger's body on the first floor. Maddox said Badger apparently shot himself in the head with a .30-caliber Remington. Haying information that a child was on the second floor of the residence, Maddox said he went upstairs to investigate and saw a quantity of marijuana "in plain view." After determining that Candace Badger, the wife of the victim, was a resident of the house, Maddox said he read her her rights and arrested her for possession of marijuana. She was jailed and later released to her attorney, Gary Mitchell, said Maddox. Candace Badger signed a search waiver and police discovered marijuana in suitcases, drawers and garbage bags, said Maddox. He said some of the substance was found in a 1978 Cadillac Coupe de Ville registered to the victim. Maddox said the vehicle is being held at the Ruidoso Police Department subject to forfeiture procedures. The marijuana was bagged in packages of about a pound each, said Maddox. He said the investigation is continuing.

Citizens doubt new well; officials defend

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

A group of citizens with questions on the Eagle Creek well field continue to wait for answers from village officials. John Schuller said last week he still has had no reply to a request he submitted some weeks ago to Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr. Schuller and others want an independent hydrology study on the wells in which the village already has invested well over a million dollars. Although the State Engineer has offered the village the right to 5,648 acre-feet from the wells, Schuller and others want further tests to establish whether the wells will indeed yield that water. They also question the contracts with Atkins-Landfair and Yucca Drilling. The citizens have questioned whether Atkins-Landfair Engineers, paid on the basis of water yield, should have supervised the pump tests to establish that yield. And according to Ruidoso Village Council minutes of February 12, 1984, another firm was supposed to supervise those tests. Those minutes read: "Mr. (Frank) Potter requested the council authorize the test pumping of the Eagle Creek wells by Atkins-Landfair under the supervision of Boyle Engineering. Councillor (Rick) Evans moved that this request be approved and Councillor (Ray Dean) Carpenter seconded. The motion carried with all ayes." "I remember that was going to be the double check on Atkins' deal," said assistant manager Potter. But village manager Jim Hine, Potter and village engineer Mike Davalos said Boyle Engineering was never involved at the Eagle Creek site. Neither Hine nor Potter could recall why. Davalos was then working for Atkins-Landfair, and joined the village staff later. "No, that never happened," said Jackie Atkins of Atkins Engineering, formerly of Atkins-Landfair. Atkins speculated that the recommendation was a mistake in the minutes. Village records indicate that Atkins-Landfair supervised the drilling and two separate tests on the four wells. The firm was paid $200 per acre-foot as well as engineering fees of about $165,000. Some questions on the Atkins-Landfair contract include: Why did Mayor George White sign it on April 3, 1984, but the council didn't approve it until April 24, 1984? In the meantime, Hine received a letter from then village attorney Lee Huckstep dated April 16, 1984, that recommended some clarifications to the contract before signing it. In his letter Huckstep noted that "the payment of sums based upon projected water right yields is not clear," adding that he didn't understand the intent of that paragraph. He suggested having Atkins redraft provisions of that paragraph "to set forth clearly what the payment provisions are." "Considering the magnitude of this proposal, I cannot recommend accepting a vague understanding of the meaning of the paragraph as now written," wrote Huckstep. The contract uses the term "stabilized," and Schuller, along with water experts with whom he has consulted, claim the wells never stabilized during the 24-hour pump tests; thus the terms of the contract were never met, they claim. Davalos disagrees, and says he is comfortable with the wording of the contract. "The contract has specified certain results—I believe Atkins-Landfair has attempted to satisfy the terms of the contract," said Davalos. "I believe the terms have been fulfilled," he added. "I feel that we've delivered on our contract," said Atkins. He said the wells were "stable enough" to make the claims that were made to the State Engineer. The village engineer added that none of the questions on the contract have come from the two parties involved. "The biggest absurdity of the whole thing is to believe that we're going to drop a pump in a well and stabilize that well in 24 hours," said Davalos. He said the State Engineer, who accepted the results of the 24-hour pump tests, developed the 24-hour standard by which the character of the aquifer and yield can be predicted. Davalos said the 24-hour standard is applied all over the state, and the State Engineer approved the figures. But Maryann Wasiolek, a hydrologist in the State Engineer's Office, said a longer test is usually used. She said engineers can use a 24-hour test to predict how much water is available. Wasiolek said the drop in water level must be timed precisely as the well being tested is pumped at a steady rate. She said a mathematical formula can then be used to analyze the tests. After a period of time the drop in the water level will stabilize and won't continue, said Wasiolek. "The cone of depression reaches out far enough that you're drawing water from a representative sample of the aquifer," explained Wasiolek of the stabilization process. "Basically on a 24-hour test it just gives you your potential yield to determine if you should start testing," said Kenneth Huey of Captain Huey, a longtime well Please see Citizens, page 2A driller, said 24 hours really doesn't break the cone of depression. Huey said it takes a minimum of 10 days to stabilize a well. Wasiolek said she'd recommend at least five days.

Citizens

"You'd be surprised at what can happen in 10 days," said Huey.

An unsuccessful bidder on the Eagle Creek project, Huey claims the specifications and terms of the contract were violated over and over. Huey said he was awarded the bid on an earlier Eagle Creek well, and completed his contract with no problems.

He said bid documents called for drilling 1,200 feet deep wells, but the successful bidder, Yucca Drilling Co., discovered water at much shallower depths decreasing the amount of drilling by nearly half. He said the size of the hole was reduced, and a change order issued to pay for the smaller hole.

Huey said a further change order reduced the amount of casing from the amount specified in the bid. He said the contract was decreased at one time and then increased by $14,000.

But Hine said the contractor was paid just $344,000, over $22,000 less than the original contract price of $366,813. He said the decrease resulted from liquidated damages charged against time overruns and reductions in unit pricing.

Davalos said the contract had seven change orders, and was increased to $377,787.34.

Huey said the bid documents were approved without the proper signatures, but Davalos displayed the signed, sealed documents filed at Village Hall.

Although Atkins-Landfair employees did supervise some well tests, Davalos said Layne-Western pump tests were done independently. He said the results of the two tests were "within reason."

The larger yield figures were presented to the State Engineer in efforts to obtain the highest offer of judgment, said Davalos.

"As far as we're concerned the water rights are adjudicated and the village has the water," said Atkins. He said the rights are to the aquifer system, not limited to just the four wells.

While some question the yield of the wells, Davalos and Potter point to the emergency pumping that took place last summer as proof that the water is available.

Davalos said the village pumped 2.4 million gallons a day from one well for four consecutive days, and water was still flowing as the pumping continued for 26 days.

"We have the water rights and we have the water," said Davalos.

But Huey and Schuller calculate that to pump 5,648 acre-feet, the wells would have to yield 5,000 gallons per minute, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

"I can't visualize the production they're claiming," said Huey.

Atkins disputed Huey's figures. He said to utilize the entire water right the wells would have to yield a total of 3,530 gallons per minute around the clock. He said those figures are well within the capabilities of the wells.

During the emergency pumping, Huey said he visited the site several times and noted production of 725 gallons per minute when the water level was at 307 feet, 625 gallons per minute with a level of 380-400 feet and 540 gallons per minute, but Huey didn't have a record of the water level at that point.

"The last time I was down there it was down to 320 gallons per minute," he said.

Huey and Schuller also question the quality of the well water.

Schuller said a high iron content is borne out by the staining of rocks in the creek bed.

"All this publicity about this wonderful water just falls apart like a cheap watch," said Schuller.

"I drank it," said Davalos. Both he and Potter aver that the water is of very high quality. Davalos said the iron content is "pushing the high end of government standards."

Atkins, too, said the water is good quality. He said the water from two wells is "excellent." He said the other two contain a little bit of calcium sulfate, but the plan is to mix the water to attain high quality drinking water.

Potter said a planned pipeline will allow the village to, someday, simply chlorinate and distribute the well water—bypassing any expensive treatment.

"The more I read about the water situations going on, the happier I am that we have the Eagle Creek wells," said Potter.

But one group won't give up until they get answers to their questions.

"I guess what bothers me ... it was public money, but they were just handing it out like Santa Claus," said Huey.

He plays Christmas music

by SHIRLEY BOWINGTON
News Staff Writer

Some people view retirement as the end. Others, like Bob McKinsey, view retirement as a beginning and an opportunity to realize lifelong dreams.

Those who have transacted business at The Bank of Ruidoso the past two weeks will recognize McKinsey as the distinguished gentleman playing Christmas music on the Yamaha organ—probably with a big smile and word of greeting for those who stop to listen.

McKinsey smiles, because he's "having a ball" doing what he loves, and besides, he "can't play golf all the time." McKinsey, who was trained in piano and organ at Oklahoma State University, was never able to use that training due to his successful business career.

The McKinseys moved here from Lubbock, Texas, a year and a half ago. There, McKinsey owned KCBC-TV, the NBC affiliate, and was director of the Texas Commerce Bank. He also enjoyed activities in Rotary, the Red Cross, United Way and acted as a guest conductor and soloist for the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra.

McKinsey said he may get involved in civic affairs at a later date, but right now, he's enjoying his time off. He added that he is available to play various engagements and anyone interested may call him at 257-2229. He and wife, Muriel, made 20 visits to Ruidoso the year before they moved here and finally decided they may as well make it official. Mrs. McKinsey is a registered nurse at the Lincoln County Medical Center.

Don't drink, drive—take taxi

Intoxicated would-be drivers may soon have the option of calling the "Topsy Taxi" and leaving the driving to some sober citizens.

Laura Ashley of the Committee for the Sober Ride Program said Tuesday that she and Arlene Brown are coordinating resources to get the Topsy Taxi on the road before New Year's Eve.

A private telephone line has been offered by Contal, and Ashley said plans call for installing the line at the Lincoln County Medical Center. She said volunteers will answer the line from 9 p.m. until 3 a.m. on Fridays, Saturdays and holidays.

The committee is now soliciting the donation of a telephone instrument and answering machine to be installed on the line. Ashley said, since the line won't always be in service, then a recording on the answering machine will inform callers of the hours of operation.

Anyone calling for a ride when the Topsy Taxi line is not in operation will be told to call the Ruidoso Police Department, said Ashley.

Members of the committee plan to appear at the next meeting of the Ruidoso Village Council and ask for the use and maintenance of a village-owned vehicle.

Some funds already have been committed from local bar owners to pay for the three drivers, said Ashley. She said Mary Craig, Imogene Miranda and Nancy Chavez of Simpson Bus Lines will drive the Topsy Taxi.

Donations will be needed to keep the service going, said Ashley.

Although the Topsy Taxi is entirely independent of the Ruidoso Police Department, Ashley said Chief Richard Swenor has authorized the use of the village government channel for dispatching.

"We're just trying to get something on the road for the holidays," said Ashley.

Ashley said she, Brown, Gary Hall, Dana Parsons and Bobby Parsons are members of the Committee for the Sober Ride Program.

To volunteer to answer the Topsy Taxi line, to contribute money to the service or to learn more about it, contact Ashley at 257-7365 or Brown at 257-7712.

Michael's Restaurant, between Triple Crown and Phillips 66, will be serving free Christmas dinners for the needy or lonely, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Christmas Day. Transportation, for those who need it, may be obtained by calling by the Ruidoso Downs Police Department at 378-4421.

Dinners will be free

by SHIRLEY BOWINGTON
News Staff Writer

At a small restaurant in Ruidoso Downs, the Christmas spirit abounds. There, at Michael's, final plans are being made for a holiday offering of love.

Tomorrow, Christmas Day, between the hours of 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., restaurant owner Michael Tellez, and Ruidoso Downs merchants and Village Hall will be feeding the needy and the lonely.

"We served 65 people Thanksgiving," said Tellez, "and we hope to double that number on Christmas Day—no matter who it is, transients, people in need, or those who just don't want to prepare a dinner for one—we'll feed anyone who walks through that door, free."

The menu, which was donated by Downs merchants and Village Hall, will include "Ham, yams and all the trimmings." Tellez said that this is his way to repay the community for their support in helping him build and start his restaurant.

Anyone needing a ride to the restaurant may call 378-4421 (the Ruidoso Downs Police Department) and transportation will be provided. Tellez stated that he has asked the help of the social services and welfare people in contacting those in need.

If you can't afford an elaborate Christmas dinner, or just don't want to eat alone, come share the food and the spirit at Michael's. In order for some to give, there must be others willing to receive.

Downs wants same deal on cable as Ruidoso

Ruidoso Downs Trustees approved a resolution granting Lincoln Cablevision a 15-year franchise, with the stipulation that if the company negotiates in Ruidoso a rate increase ceiling less than that the Downs agreed to (five percent), then that new rate will apply in the Downs as well.

The agreement came on a three-to-one vote, with Trustee LeVerne Cole casting the lone dissenting vote.

The stipulation was the suggestion of Trustee Conrad Buchanan.

"I just don't want our next door neighbor to get a better negotiated contract than we do," Buchanan said.

Cablevision manager Paul Crown agreed to the amendment.

In other business, the trustees:

—Agreed to call for a public hearing at which Community Development Block Grant officials will explain a special grant that is available. The grant would be administered through the village to area businesses in the form of low-interest loans.

—Heard Crown report that Cablevision will offer seven new channels by February 1.

—Agreed the Bentley Construction Bill agenda item should be discussed during executive session. —Conducted an executive session.

Village gets top tax rate

The Ruidoso Village Council, meeting Monday as the official election canvassing board for last Thursday's tax balloting, certified those election results.

The board certified that the .50% gross receipts tax increase had passed in a 435 to 329 vote.

Sales tax in the Village of Ruidoso will increase from 6% to 6.5% on July 1, 1987.

The tax hike will give Ruidoso the highest gross receipts tax rate in the state, according to the Taxation and Revenue Department in Santa Fe. Raton follows with 6.25% and Taos, Red River and Questa all have a 6.125% sales tax. Bayard has a 6% gross receipts tax, and all other New Mexico cities have rates of less than 6%.

Revenues from the tax hike are pledged as security for $2.7 million in revenue bonds. The village will use the $2.7 million to purchase the site of the Ruidoso Municipal Airport when the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport opens late next year.

Paving district bid awarded

by LINDA PONDER
News Capitan Bureau

Lincoln County Commissioners awarded the Alto paving assessment bid Tuesday.

The low bidder on the the paving district, which includes Alto Village, Eagle Creek and Sun Valley, was Bill McCarty Construction Company of Ruidoso. Of the five bids received, McCarty's bid of $2,836,563 with modifications was accepted as the low bid.

The modifications change the double penetration road surface to an all asphalt pavement for the entire paving project.

Original estimates of costs per property owner of $2,260, $1,130 and $678 have now been lowered. The highest assessment is now $1,640 for property located on the road, $820 for property off the direct road and $541 for property owners who are not directly on the road, but will benefit from the use of the new paving to gain access to their property.

According to county attorney Steve Sanders, payment can be made in a twice yearly payment for 10 years or it can be prepaid. Payments will be subject to interest not to exceed 12 1/2 percent.

A protest hearing has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday, January 20, at Ruidoso Village Hall.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

A White Christmas And Blue Sky

This is being sent to you in late in December twenty-three, and after many days of sleet, snow and freezing rain and freezing fog and mist, the sun shone over sunrise mountain onto a white world with a pure blue sky.

The sun turned the top of the mountain horizon of pinon, pine and cedar all in silvery white, outlined by a glow of rose and gold.

The sun itself was a fiery ball, shimmering and pulsating like a round live coal in the fireplace.

The white fields became great stretches of tiny sparkling precious stones of every color and hue—diamonds, opals, amethysts, pearls, rubies and emeralds, the last two predominate, being the Christmas colors.

Now just an hour before high noon, all the downy tufts on the pinon and cedar are dripping streams of melting snow water. The drops cling a while to catch the sun's colors, and then join the downward falling parade of rainbow colored drops. There is a sacredness in all the vale, letting us know that the day of the birth of the Christ Child is near.

Solo Vino The Snow Bird Protector

Most of us who have known dogs know that they have mental powers that surprise us. It seems they can foretell things to come; and their sense of direction in finding their way home from hundreds of miles away is well-known. Also they can read your mind.

Solo Vino, given the name by Mike Gonzales, which means "he came by himself," knows that the snow birds are our friends. Perhaps in some mystic way he senses that since my earliest childhood in Alaska, the snow birds have been my dear companions at Christmastide. He will lie near the feeding stations and watering rocks and the birds will come within three feet of him and he will not bother them.

A few days ago, he was lying near a snow patch in the yard while a band of snow birds were feeding nearby. Suddenly he leapt to his feet and began barking up into the sky toward the large cedar tree overshadowing the feeding grounds. Then a dark shadow appeared low over the birds and a sparrow hawk swooped down. Before the hawk reached the birds, Solo sprang into the air at him, barking fiercely. Then the hawk sailed away on his way.

Animals Sacred In Tradition.

My friend of many years, Elfege Polaco, once built for our mother and I a very charming manger scene, for Christmas to be put in the church, out of Cedar branches. I have rebuilt this every year since 1951 and placed it in the Church of Saint Anne in Glencoe, along with the three sacred figures, Mary, Joseph and the Christ Child.

I will always remember something Elfege told me: "Always remember to put the stable animals in this 'Nacimiento'" (manger scene). Because on that sacred night the animals welcomed the Christ Child's mother into their home. That is why the animals are sacred in the eyes of God.

Thanks For So Many Great Blessings

Never have I felt more deeply the blessings given so abundantly by our Lord as during this season. I thank God at this time of year for so many treasured, precious friends who have been faithful in time of need, and are always ready with help a cheer. May God bless you all, and may the spirit of our Lord and Savior abide with you always.

Warrior boys prepare for Lovington Tournament

Ruidoso's Tammy Osborne (12) puts up a shot against Roswell in last week's girls varsity basketball game. At right is Tammy's twin, Amy. Ruidoso won, 65-63.

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

Ruidoso High School's basketball teams will not be active this week, but the Warrior boys will resume action Monday, December 29, in the Lovington Tournament.

Ruidoso's boys, 3-1 on the season, will take on Seminole, Texas, in a noon opener.

Other opening-round games will see Artesia playing LaMesa at 2 p.m., Lubbock Cooper playing Aztec at 6 p.m. and Pojoaque taking on Lovington at 8 p.m.

If Ruidoso defeats Seminole, the Warriors will play at 8 p.m. Tuesday against the winner of the Pojoaque-Lovington contest.

Ruidoso is coming off a 57-37 victory over Portales last Friday, and head coach Gene Segura has been pleased with the team's progress.

The Warriors have been successful starting a three-guard offense.

Junior Kirk Ryan has teamed well with seniors Alan Kirgan and Jeff Willingham at the guard position. The other Warrior starters have been 6-2 Brian Davis and 6-2 John Walker.

Ryan scored 18 points and Davis tallied 14 against Portales.

The Warrior girls will not resume action until Saturday, January 3, at Socorro. Both the varsity and junior varsity will play.

Ruidoso is 1-4 in girls varsity action, having defeated Roswell, 65-63, last Thursday.

The Warrior girls had balanced scoring in the victory over Roswell.

Zeba Morris scored the winning basket and led the Warriors with 16 points. Tammy Osborne added 13 points, Tara Miller scored 10 points, and Amy Osborne and Verilyn Platta each scored eight points.

Around Sports with Gary Brown

two of those games does not deserve to be in the playoffs. I know, I know, all those injuries. But injuries are part of the game, and good teams overcome those problems. The Seahawks, on the other hand, have won five straight games and have the same record (10-6) as you guys have. They showed their class by dumping Western Division champion Denver, 41-16, Saturday. Seattle possibly is one of the top four or five teams in the league right now, and definitely deserves to be in the playoffs. But you Jets do not, unfortunately. The best thing to do now is to bow out gracefully and let a better team compete. This column is written with apologies to Arty Chavez, the only local Jets fan I know. I'm sorry, Arty, maybe next year the Jets will be better. I've gotta tell it like it is.

Attention, New York Jets. For the good of all National Football League (NFL) fans, will you please withdraw yourselves from the playoffs in favor of the Seattle Seahawks. Now I know you're not going to do this, but the playoffs would be a lot more exciting if you did so. Any team that has lost five straight games and allowed 97 points in The NFL playoffs will start this weekend with the wildcard games. Washington will host the Los Angeles Rams in the National Conference wild-card game, while the Jets will host Kansas City.

Look for the Redskins to edge the Rams, 21-17, due mainly to the homefield advantage. The Chiefs should make use of their outstanding special teams to whip the Jets, 28-17. The following week, the Giants will host the San Francisco 49ers and the Chicago Bears will play the visiting Redskins in National Conference playoff games. Cleveland will play Kansas City and Denver will take on the New England Patriots in the American Conference playoff games. Who will win those contests? Tune in here next week.

Wrestlers go at it

Ruidoso High School wrestler Clint Bob (top) wrestles with a Roswell opponent in the 145-pound match last week. Bob pinned his opponent as the teams tied, 33-33.

Capitan boy, girl hoopsters beaten

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

Capitan High School's boys and girls varsity basketball teams lost over the weekend. The Tiger girls fell to Tatum Friday night and Elida Saturday night, both games on the road. No exact scores were available at press time. Katherine Sanchez did a good job for Capitan, leading the Tigers in scoring both nights. "We didn't play worth a flip," said Tiger head girls coach Jim Bizzell bluntly. Capitan's girls are 3-4 on the season. Capitan's boys lost a 90-69 game to host Elida Saturday and are now 0-5 on the season. The Tigers fell behind, 20-14, at the end of the first quarter and trailed thereafter. Ronnie Sanchez led the Tigers with 20 points and eight rebounds. Jay Eldridge and John Parker each added 11 points, while Will Grimes scored 10 points. The teams will practice next week before resuming action. The Tiger boys will resume action Friday, January 2, at Tularosa.

Capitan's girls will resume action Saturday, January 3, against visiting Dexter. The Tiger boys also will play Dexter that day. NOTES—Capitan's annual Smokey Bear Classic will be Thursday through Saturday, January 8-10. Varsity boys and girls teams will play.

PROVIDENCE JOURNAL-BULLETIN

SANTA FE—If you can't beat 'em, join 'em.

Some of those who profit from horseracing in our state are backing down from their former stiff resistance to a state-operated lottery. Instead, they are now making moves to capture such a gambling mechanism for themselves, just in case the 1987 crop of lawmakers rushes to adopt some form of lottery or other as a way to help the state pay its future bills.

Preeminent among those whose minds are running in this direction is Ken Newton, owner of Santa Fe Downs and operator of springtime racing at the State Fair track in Albuquerque that we taxpayers own. Up till now, Newton has been about as opposed to any form of lottery as it is possible to be, on the grounds that every dollar siphoned off into a competing form of gambling would be bound to hurt trackowners. Now Newton has offered a counterproposal of his own.

That Newton plan has three parts: He'd put in off-track betting in the state, with a specified number of outlets in each major community. Under the Newton plan, for instance, Albuquerque would have 50 betting stations, Santa Fe would have seven and Farmington would have five.

He'd also set up inter-track betting, which means that if the horses were running at La Mesa in Bates and at Santa Fe Downs on the same day, you could attend either track and get a bet down on both sets of races in the same quick and easy manner in which the track the bettor attends can take his or her money.

—He'd then throw in a form of lottery to supplement the two previous proposals, using a variation of lotto-type gaming on one or more races actually being run at one of the tracks in-state.

It's that latter, or sweepstake, feature Newton is hoping will catch the imagination of the pro-lottery people. He obviously trusts that if they can be satisfied with this kind of approach, they will not go to a more extensive lottery system of the sort most states who use this form of revenue-raising have adopted. That kind, of course, has nothing at all to do with any horses running around any track, and thus trackowners and horseowners alike make no profit on its operation.

Besides this new approach to the question of using a lottery to raise money for the state, there is also the factor of Senator Les Houston to watch in the session of the Legislature that's just ahead of us.

The good Senator says he has resigned his position as attorney for the Horsemen's Association; whether he resigned them or they resigned him, it is true that he is no longer on retainer to that organization, as he has been during the two years in which he was the top dog in our Senate.

While he occupied those two positions that some thought implied considerable conflict with one another, he was effective in seeing that legislative proposals in favor of lotteries got axed. Now he's not on the horsebreeders' payroll, and he's not the boss in the Senate either. That suggests the anti-lottery people will have to find some new folks on the floor of the House and Senate to carry their water for them.

That could be one of the elements that led Ken Newton to decide he'd better try to establish an intermediate position between the violently pro-lottery folks and those who make their living in the horseracing game.

It should further be noted that Houston has put himself on record as saying the Newton proposition has little or no merit. "Stupid" may have been the adjective he used to describe it.

You'll give you one sure winner if you're the type who can't resist getting a bet down. There will, without doubt, be one or more bills introduced during the 60-day legislative session just ahead that will provide for the state to get into the lottery-running business in one way or another. Will such a bill pass? It's hard to say, but its chances are greater than they have been up till now, as the Houston split with the horsemen and the Newton defection from the ranks of the strong anti-lottery set suggest.

Where is Garrey Carruthers in all this? Who knows? He got through a whole campaign without telling us where he stands on almost anything.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

Thank you are in order for everyone that helped make the Warrior Appreciation Dinner a huge success December 4. It certainly is heart-warming to see so many people group together to honor our fine young men and ladies of our football and cheering squad, our coaches and their wives.

The mothers of the senior football players organized the dinner and many others worked hard to produce a homecooked spaghetti dinner. The fresh apple cobbler was made of local apples peeled with tender loving care. We were able to serve dinner to the complete football team, cheerleaders, coaches and their wives as a compliment from the community. In all we served around 310 dinners and then held a Warrior Memorabilia auction.

We certainly appreciated the use of the school cafeteria and the expert help of Ida Hale, Loriane Barber (Ida's sister from out of town), Lu Boyer and Rita Herrera who helped work and supervise the kitchen operation. The 6th period Home Education class helped set up the decorations and prepare the Barbara Bowden for overseeing the preparation of the food. More thank you go to Mr. Jack Watkins from Kingsville, Texas, for a cash donation, Doris & Jeff Darden for making and buying the decorations, Peggy McClellan for making copies and Ruidoso Ice & Water Co. for furnishing the ice.

We all had a great time working together and getting to know each other on a more personal level. We have a common goal of supporting our school and community and look forward to a continued successful school year. Your support was greatly appreciated and we know everyone enjoyed having an opportunity to meet and talk with the honored guests.

Sincerely,
Senior Parents of Ruidoso

DEAR EDITOR:

Upon reading an article in the Ruidoso News, I was shocked to read that the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce chose to take sides in the Mesacelero Apache water litigation. I am certainly not against individuals fighting for what they truly believe in; however, to take an organization like the Chamber and speak for all who are members, makes me wonder if all the members of this fine organization have been contacted and, at least, maybe, had one mass meeting to vote on this issue before its spokesman took it upon himself to speak out.

It might also be recognized that most of the money derived for the Chamber comes from the taxes that this city provides from motels, hotels, restaurants, etc; so once again I am wondering if any of those businessmen have been contacted for their opinion on the water litigation.

I know that Mr. Jeffers is a fine man and a responsible family man. It just makes me wonder if there is more than meets the eye in this decision—or perhaps some other unknown, unseen and unheard power giving the chamber undue influence. I really wonder!

It's Christmas, and we wish you the best during this holiday season.

Being in this mountain wonderland during the Christmas season is a gift we can all be thankful for. Where else can one find such a spectacular light and decorations display, such a deep concern for those in need, and such a feeling of the general "spirit of Christmas" as in the Ruidoso area.

Now, we look toward the new year—1987—and all the trials, challenges and triumphs that the year will bring our way.

We've made great progress in 1986. In 1987, let's make it, too, a year to remember.—DJP

Happy New Year!*

Reporter's Round

By Frankie Jarrell

I know I shouldn't read other people's mail, but when I found a packet of letters on the steps of the Ruidoso Post Office I just couldn't help myself.

After all, reporters are nosy. Right? Now I'm not just making excuses, but these letters weren't addressed to anybody who would really mind my taking just a little peek. I'm sure Santa Claus won't mind a bit when he finds out I read his mail.

Here are some excerpts from just a few letters to Santa Claus:

Dear Santa,
Please don't believe all the stories you've been hearing about me this year. I've been kind to everyone and haven't said any bad words. The voters of Ruidoso love me so much they even elected me mayor again.

I could use some bright-colored clothes to liven up the council meetings.

Santa, I'll leave you a drink right beside my stocking.

Love,
Lloyd L. Davis Jr.
Ruidoso Mayor

Dear St. Nick,
Now that my boys have finished another great season, I'm planning for next year's race to the state football finals. But Santa, I'm a little worried.

Could you please send me another Jeff Willingham, Brian Davis, Carl Bowden and Matt Evans. And also, Santa, how about delivering us some of our very own officials. It seems to help.

Sincerely,
Cooper Henderson
RHS football coach

Dear Santa Claus,
Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow!

Hopefully,
Roy Parker,
Ski Apache manager

Dear Santa

Last year we celebrated our centennial and the year before that our 40th birthday, so dear Santa, please send me a gimmick for next year's Aspenfest. Not everybody moves at my pace, so I don't think I can persuade them to go for bicentennial next year. But, whatever we call it, send us thousands of parade entries and millions of tourists.

Thanks,
Nancy Radziewicz
Aspenfest boss

Dear St. Nicholas,
Well, here we are, nearly through a whole year without a name change. We've got our fingers crossed. Help us out on this one, Santa.

Proudly,
The First National Bank of Ruidoso

Dear Santa

You may not recognize Ruidoso when you fly in with your sleigh this year—we've just about painted the whole town blue. Won't you please bring us buckets and buckets of blue paint so we can finish the job.

Thanks,
John Hall
SDC-Coldwell Banker

Dear Santa Claus,
After serving as the only woman on the Ruidoso Village Council for so long, I think I deserve an extra special present this year. Santa, just imagine sitting between Lloyd Davis and Elmer Pirelli for meeting after meeting...

Since I've been so good, please send us a convention center.

Your friend
Jerry Shaw
Village Councillor

Dear Mr. Claus:
We want a new airport, and we want it now!

Names not for publication Editor's note: The above letter was signed by four members of a five-member commission and their contract administrator. They are working to get a new regional airport. Since most of the real business of this group is transacted in executive session, behind closed doors, its members preferred to keep their names off the record, too. However Santa knows, for we understand he is making a list and checking it twice.

Dear Santa,
Wow! What a great year. We couldn't be happier to be serving the people of Ruidoso. Santa, please send us at least a thousand STAMPS OF APPROVAL so that we can keep giving everybody whatever they want.

Willingly
Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission

Dear Santa Claus,

I'm not asking for anything this year, as a matter of fact, I've got something for you. On your flight over this mountain, please take Bones Wright and Gary Mitchell. You can have them, I don't need them.

Generously,
Jake Harris
Ruidoso Downs Mayor

Dear Santa,
Give me water—lots and lots of water.

Respectfully yours,
Wendell Chino
President, Mesacelero
Apache Indian Tribe

And, what did I ask for in my letter to Santa Claus this year? Another great year writing stories about the most unique and interesting people I've ever encountered.

And, by the way, dear Santa: just send money.

Love,
Frankie

Entertainment

Jockey/Trainer Standings

Jockey Danny Sorenson brought home an amazing six winners last weekend at Sunland Park Racetrack to take the Jockey-of-the-Week honors, while trainers Bob Arnett, Waldo Morgan, and Emmitt Burelsmith Jr. saddled two winners each over the same period to take the honors in the training department.

Mike Lidberg and Salustio Burgos remained atop Sunland trainer standings with 28 winners. Lidberg still maintains the edge, however with a 16.7 winning percentage compared to Burgos' 15.9 winning mark. Sorenson jumped into a tie for third place with Pedro Benitez with 27 tallies and Joe Martinez stayed in fifth place with 18 win pictures.

Other riders in the top 11 include Glen Murphy at 13 wins; Darrell Blevins, Lewie Germany and Duane Sterling with 12 winners; and Glenn Lowry and Leroy Coombs own eleven wins.

Defending champ Fred Danley continues his hold in the training department with a three-win margin over Doyal Roberts. Although he had no winners this week, Danley has saddled 20 winners for the season, while Roberts has 17. Lewis Germany is next with 13 trips to the winner's circle and Cliff Lambert Sr. has 11 wins.

Viva Ridge is Sunday winner

The young thoroughbred Viva Ridge fired back off a six-week rest to outrun a field of veterans in Sunday's mile-long feature race at Sunland Park Racetrack.

Sunland plays host to three stakes events next weekend with programs scheduled Friday through Sunday beginning at 12:30 p.m. each day. The final leg of the Savannah Swinger Series heads Friday's card, with the $60,000 Fall Thoroughbred Futurity scheduled Saturday. The holiday weekend is capped on Sunday with the El Paso Chamber of Commerce Handicap.

Jockey Mike Clark drew off to a five-length lead through the backstretch in Sunday's headliner and was never seriously challenged for the remainder of the journey. Kenneth Roller and Colonel Gem made a game run at the leader in deep stretch, but only trimmed the winning margin to two lengths.

Viva Ridge traveled the mile in 1:43.4, earning $1,400 for owner

Fletcher Hall. Jimmie Claridge saddled Viva Ridge for his fourth trip to the winner's circle this year.

Donald Hoover gave the leg-up to Roller for his second-place effort aboard Colonel Gem. Aggariva, a strong choice at 2-1 on the board, checked in a distant two lengths behind Colonel Gem for third. Jose Lopez had the riding assignment for trainer Eliseo Herrera.

Hoofbeats

by Kent Beatty
Construction began last week on approximately $500,000 in renovations to Sunland Park's Clubhouse that were approved recently by the New Mexico State Racing Commission. A target date for completing the extensive project has been set for late January. The work includes installing suspended acoustic tile ceilings, construction of a mutual wagering island and a 2,100-square-foot lounge, in addition to a complete remodeling of the Clubhouse dining room. A valet parking driveway to the Clubhouse also is included in the plans.

Hugh Mellon, who worked in Sunland Park's publicity department many years ago under the direction of Dick Alwan, has returned to head the track's marketing efforts for the 1986-87 season. Mellon has a San Diego-based consulting firm that handles accounts for such tracks as Hialeah Park in Florida and Penn National in Pennsylvania.

Sunland's Clubhouse was buzzing with action this weekend. World renowned Mexican bullfighter Antonio Lomelin and Hollywood actress and model Beverly Sasso were guests Saturday, when they announced their upcoming marriage. Lomelin was in El Paso to head a bullfighting card in Juarez for the John Hancock Sun Bowl festivities.

The 16 Miss El Paso contestants made their third appearance of the season modeling furs in the Clubhouse on Sunday. Also on hand were several members of the national media on assignment to cover the John Hancock Sun Bowl.

Jockey Glen Murphy continued his recent success with longshots last weekend. The 18-year-old reinsman brought in 70-1 shot Queens Squaw in the second half of the Double that returned a seasonal high of $1,632. Then on Sunday, Glen booted in 12-1 shot Tyte Peace, in the Trifecta for a $700 payoff.

Addendum, a 5-year-old California-bred, won Saturday's running of the Winham Lad Handicap at 1 16 miles. The gray speedster was the longest shot on the board, sent off 24-1. The win was worth over $7,000 to El Pasoans Frank and Carol Tisdale who purchased Addendum for $10,000 last year. The gray speedster has earned over $23,000 thus far this season.

Longshot King Afton Bar takes Friday headliner at Sunland

Both favorites and longshots found their way to the winner's circle in Friday's co-features at Sunland Park Racetrack. Jockey Joe Martinez piloted even-money choice King Afton Bar to victory in the headliner, while 30-1 outsider Bid Speed raced to a major upset in the co-feature.

After finishing second in three straight appearances this season, King Afton Bar ran down stakes veterans Blade Seeker and Truckle Wind with a half-length margin in Friday's 400-yard main event.

The veteran quarter horse stepped off the muddy course in 20.21 seconds for trainer Bob Arnett. The win earned $1,300 for owner Mary Robertson of Odessa. Blade Seeker checked in a head in front of Truckle Wind for runner-up money.

Jockey Sterling held Bid Speed well off the pace through Friday's mile-long co-feature. The young reinsman began moving on the leaders as the field rounded the far turn and dug in with a strong stretch kick to nip even-money favorite Chantel's Banquet on the final jump. The winning margin was a neck with a final time of 1:46.4. Chantel's Banquet finished second, more than five lengths in front of stablemate Irish Tribute.

Bid Speed's surprising effort returned $65 on a two-dollar win ticket. Ralph Shamas saddled the winner for owner Elizabeth Shamas.

Addendum surprises fans in Sunday Sunland win

El Pasoan Frank Tisdale wasn't the only one who thought his horse Addendum would have a rough time winning Saturday's $12,000 Winsham Lad Handicap at Sunland Park Racetrack. A crowd of more than 2,000 fans had similar thoughts as they let the thoroughbred loose at more than 24-1 odds.

"This is the toughest field he's ever been up against," Tisdale commented following Addendum's stunning upset after leaving the gates as the longest shot on the board. "But my trainer said he was going to run well because he's been working working real good and likes an off track."

Addendum didn't disappoint trainer Albert Dominguez as he stalked the pacesetter duo of Flemish Slipper and Our Angel throughout the 1 1/8-mile Winsham Lad Cap. Jockey Gilbert Villescas laid the 5-year-old veteran third through the early stages, moving to within a length of stakes winner Flemish Slipper at the head of the stretch.

Villescas cut Addendum loose in the final furlong to post a three-quarter length win in 1:49 4 over a course listed as slow. The victory returned $50 on a two-dollar win ticket and earned more than $7,000 for Tisdale, a Tony Lama Co. director who campaigns six other horses with his wife, Carol.

Despite his pre-race optimism, Dominguez was surprised to find himself in the Winsham Lad winner's circle.

"I thought he would light the board, but to tell you the truth, I didn't think he could win it," the conditioner said. Dominguez, a native of Mexico who was raised in El Paso, says his affiliation with Tisdale is "the best thing that ever happened to me."

Dominguez advised Tisdale to purchase Addendum from Dub Phillips of Albuquerque last year after negotiating the sale price from $17,500 to $10,000. The stakes winner has won more than $23,000 this year with 10 percent of those earnings going to Dominguez.

While Addendum stole the show in Saturday's Winsham Lad, it was another 14-1 longshot - Mr. Nicholas - that closed to finish second under rider Richard Bickel. Cliff Lambert Sr. saddled the place finisher for owner Charles Smith, who pocketed $2,600. Spanish Reb checked in third with Juan Arteaga aboard. Johnny Dennis conditions the horse for Sam and Donna Pilcher. Third-place was worth $1,400.

"I JUST MADE MY FAMILY FEEL BETTER."

This holiday season my family is giving me a Lifeline[®] focket. It's a tiny transmitter that weighs about an ounce and is given to people who might need emergency help at home. "But I'm the picture of health, so why do I need it?" I asked. "Because it will make us feel better," said my family. "How so?" said I. "Because Lifeline can electronically alert the police, or an emergency service, or a neighbor, in case anything ever happens. You'll feel a lot more secure. After all, you do live alone, you know." "If that makes you feel better," I said, "then I feel better. Matter of fact, at this moment, I never felt better in my life."

Christmas candles

The candles of an advent wreath, a religious Christmas tradition, grow brighter as Christmas approaches. Wreaths usually have four candles, which are lighted, one-by-one during the four Sundays preceding Christmas, until all four are lighted the Sunday before Christmas, symbolizing the arrival of Christmas. (Photo by Darrell J. Pehr.)
