Dam cleanup faster than was expected

Measures to correct problems at the Grindstone Canyon Dam are working even more quickly than expected.

Village manager Frank Potter and infra-structure division head Becky Bell Durham said Wednesday the white water that has poured into Grindstone and Carrizo creeks is nearly gone.

"There's like zero white water," said Durham, noting technical experts said the white substance would dissipate rapidly, but she was surprised with the speedy improvement. Durham said by the time the waters flow into the Rio Ruidoso, there's no white substance at all.

"Apparently the ph has stabilized, too," said Durham. She said she doesn't have the latest test results, but village crews are monitoring water conditions on both sides of the huge dam.

"By eliminating the seepage of high ph water, it's clearing itself up," said Durham.

Potter said a huge pump is in place at the dam, pumping the seeping water back into the reservoir.

Durham said water engineer Jackie Atkins has made application with the State Engineer for the village to recapture the seepage loss by pumping it back into the huge lake.

Meanwhile, fill operations are at a standstill, with the Upper Canyon valve closed, and water following its natural course instead of flowing into the dam.

With village water demand expected to peak in July, Potter said the Eagle Creek wells are in operation, with the water flowing into Alto Lake. The pipeline from the Eagle Creek well field gives the village the option of sending water into the lake or directly to the treatment plant.

Ex-village employees protest terminations

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Some former village employees took their grievances to the village Personnel Board Wednesday.

Jim Alston, Mike Davalos and John Salas, whose jobs were abolished in the budget adopted for the fiscal year that started July 1, and Jimmy Neeley, fired by village manager Frank Potter, appealed their cases before three members of the appointed five-member board.

Alston, Davalos and Salas, represented by attorney Robert Beauvais, and Neeley, representing himself, asked for an open hearing before assistant village attorney Mike Runnels explained the scope of a personnel board session.

Runnels said he was on hand to represent the board and former employees, and denied any conflict of interest when questioned by Neeley over his normal representation of village staff and elected officials. He stressed to board members Arnold Cantu, Jim Baker and Henry Diaz that they would conduct the non-adversarial hearing.

Beauvais, noting a common thread among his clients' cases, said their position was that public employees have a property right vested in their jobs and can only be dismissed for cause.

Cantu asked Potter to describe why the jobs were abolished, and he explained a budget process that included cutting funds to establish a reserve fund as required by the state Department of Finance and Administration. He said the council, after an executive session on May 31, 1988, instructed him to abolish the Engineering Department where Davalos and Salas were employed.

Potter said he decided, after discussions with the chief of police, to abolish Alston's position as deputy chief.

Beauvais said management violated its own ordinance, noting no attempts were made to provide comparable employment as required in that ordinance. He said written reports required in the ordinance also weren't provided the dismissed employees.

Beauvais said his clients have been deprived of their livelihood without even being told why by the council. Runnels said the council decision, "logical or illogical" is a legislative determination.

It was learned that Salas has accepted a job in the Water Department, but Davalos applied unsuccessfully for the Street Department superintendent job.

Davalos, a professional engineer, said he was told he wasn't even considered.

Potter explained the village has a policy of promoting from within the same department, and moved the number two man in the Street Department up. Infrastructure division head Becky Bell Durham said she didn't have the exact dates involved, but recalled she and Potter decided to promote Charlie Armstrong.

"A person within the department has first priority," said Durham. Salas said he applied for the job vacated by Armstrong, but learned the next man in the Street Department chain of command already had been promoted by Armstrong.

Potter said hiring employees was up to the department and division heads, not the village manager. He said he could notify the heads of the availability of the terminated employees, but it's up to them to make application for various jobs.

Salas, a village foreman for 15 years, said Durham told him he wasn't qualified for the second in command job at the Street Department.

Alston said he was never offered the vacant patrol officer's job, and for him to apply would have been "acquiescence to a no cause demotion." Chief Bill Newman said, "Technically the job was never offered."

After a recess Davalos asked to make a statement, but Cantu said the board already had made a decision. He said a written decision will be provided within the time-frame set forth in the ordinance (five days).

Neeley then addressed the board, calling his dismissal "capricious." Please see Employees, page 2A

Standish on racetrack: not bankrupt

by J. KEVIN BALLARD
News Staff Writer

Rumors that Ruidoso Downs Race Track is in the process of filing for bankruptcy have been rejected by track officials.

Bob Standish, general manager of the track, said his office has been

"plagued" with calls inquiring about the rumor, but insists that the "racetrack is alive and well."

"We are not bankrupt, and everything is fine at the track," he said.

Standish said he received a call from someone at the New Mexico Racing Commission asking about the possibility of the track filing Chapter 11; however, when contacted, no one at the commission was aware of the rumor.

Harris Hartz, chairman of the commission, said he hadn't heard about the rumor until contacted by The News.

"I hope it's not true," he added.

Petition calls for new form of government in Ruidoso

A petition is being circulated among Ruidoso voters calling for major changes in village government.

Village clerk Tammie Maddox approved the form Tuesday on a petition to change the type of government of the Village of Ruidoso from mayor-council to commission-manager.

Maddox said the petition was presented by former village employees Jimmy Neeley and Mike Davalos.

According to state statutes, the petitioners have 60 days from the date of the first signature to get the required number of registered voters to sign. Maddox said state law requires 15 percent of the number of registered voters who voted in the last mayoral election to sign in order for the petition to be valid.

The Village of Ruidoso has 2,443 registered voters, and, using the counts from the last mayoral election, 195 signatures are needed on the petition, said Maddox.

Once the required number of signatures are affixed to the petition, and it is returned to the village clerk, she will be charged with verifying the signatures and certifying the petition. Maddox, quoting the statute, said she must certify the petition as valid within 10 days "or after the expiration of the period within which the petition can be filed," whichever occurs last.

Once the question is asked, it will trigger an election on the question of changing the form of government. That election should be called within 90 days of the verification.

If voters choose to change from mayor-council to commission-manager government, an election will be scheduled to elect five commissioners. If voters vote "no" on the question then the municipality shall continue under its current governing body.

Questioned over the cost of special elections, Maddox said it's estimated at approximately $2,000 for one election, not counting her time and salary.

New Mexico law provides for commission-manager form of government in municipalities over 3,000.

"The governing body of a municipality organizing under the commission-manager form of government shall district the municipality into five commissioner districts," according to state law. The separate districts should be "compact in area and equal in population as nearly as possible."

Commissioners elected during the special election choose the mayor from their number to act in that capacity for two years. The mayor presides at meetings and has all the same powers and duties as commissioner, including the right to vote.

The commission shall pass ordinances and "perform all acts required for the general welfare of the municipality," including appointing a manager to administer the municipal government.

Ruidoso, under the mayor-council government form, has an elected mayor and six councillors. About four years ago a petition calling for reorganization reformed the council from three to six members.

That petition set off an election process that called for a new election of councillors, but the mayor was not included. In the proposed change the mayor and all councillors will be affected.

Neeley and Davalos, contacted Wednesday, confirmed their part in the petition process. The two said they will be circulating the petition for signatures.

Hospital headway

LCMC facelift looking good

Construction at Lincoln County Medical Center is ahead of schedule, said hospital administrator Steve Keller.

Walls on the new laboratory and lobby, located on the Sudderth Drive side of Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC), are complete and the roof is being installed.

The main emphasis of the construction at LCMC is unseen, Keller said, as the entire complex will be reroofed and insulated. All windows will either be replaced with modern double-paned windows or remodeled with double panes.

All outside walls will be insulated and stuccoed with a fiberglass stucco in a new color somewhere between the wall colors of Nob Hill Elementary and Ruidoso Middle School, Keller said. Trim will either be dark blue or maroon.

Physical therapy and housekeeping departments will be remodeled as well as the Obstetrics and Gynecology rooms in the Emergency Room. Keller said he wanted the remodel to provide more storage and privacy for patients using the new mammogram machine.

New X-ray equipment also will be purchased with county funds, Keller added.

Keller complimented project architect Will Harris and construction supervisor Eloy Candelaria for their expertise in handling problems and hidden obstacles, such as unknown plumbing lines.

The remodeling and additions are being financed with county hospital mill levy funds, taken from Lincoln County property taxes.

"The patients have been great about the construction," Keller praised.

Keller hopes that visitors and patients at LCMC will continue to tolerate the inconvenience of the remodeling. He apologized for the inconvenience but stressed the expanded labs, lobby and remodeled rooms will be worth the wait.

cious, arbitrary, political and based on untruths and falsehoods."

Potter fired Neeley for "non-cooperation by an employee with fellow employees or other personal conduct which substantially interferes with the performance of his or another employee's work."

He signed affidavits describing a complaint received on May 17 from Gloria Payne of Midland, Texas, and an incident he witnessed on June 1. Potter said Payne told her Neeley was rude. Potter quoted Neeley as calling a man a derogatory name.

Neeley denied both charges, noting his supervisor, Mike Davalos was in the office.

"Mr. Neeley and I share an office—people frequently get heated. I've never heard him use that language," said Davalos.

Neeley, certified through the state Construction Industries Division in Santa Fe, said complaints about him should be handled through that office. But Potter disagreed.

Neeley cited several instances of village management not complying with the personnel ordinance, including the handling of his grievance by Potter instead of his supervisor.

Runnels said he advised Potter, since he dismissed the employee, to answer the grievance.

"Isn't that inconsistent with what we heard earlier?" asked Baker, noting in one case Potter said he wouldn't interfere with department heads' personnel decisions, and in the other he handled it.

"Mr. Davalos had responsibility for the building inspector and somebody up and fires him. That doesn't sound like standard procedure," said Baker.

"These letters are not very impressive to me—nobody likes an inspector," said Baker, asking Potter why Neeley wasn't reprimanded.

"It is my perception I have been fired for doing my job well," said Neeley, citing his personnel record that includes excellent evaluations and letters of commendation.

"We are public servants," said Potter, saying he had lots of complaints about Neeley's attitude.

Potter and Neeley disagreed further over the pre-termination meeting, with Neeley saying Potter said the firing was council action, and Potter denying that.

Potter said Neeley believed it was council action, and told him, "I'm going to teach them a lesson."

Neeley admitted he believed there was a "hidden agenda" in his dismissal, recalling a case in which he met with the mayor and councilors over a building permit he wouldn't issue because of 20 code violations. He said the council agreed to issue the permit, but then decided against that.

In that case, Neeley said a complaint to CID resulted in an investigation by a state employee who upheld his decision and added one more exception to the list of violations.

In discussing the fact that all four dismissals were dated the same day, following the same executive session, Alston noted the budget action was never discussed in open meeting. He said budget discussions are not a subject for closed meetings, according to the open meetings law.

In closing, Neeley asked to have his job reinstated, his attorney fees paid, an annual raise of $4,000 and a public apology. If the village doesn't want him back, Neeley said he still wants the public apology and a year's severance pay.

Cantu adjourned the hearing, saying the board will abide by the ordinance.

After the meeting, Davalos, who said he wasn't given an opportunity to go through his grievance in the meeting, wondered how the engineering duties will be handled.

"Those duties aren't going to go away," said Davalos.

"If these actions are allowed to stand, no employee for the Village of Ruidoso—I don't care who he is—will have a personnel ordinance they can rely on," said Davalos.

Rainy day wreck

Melissa Henderson, 18, was treated and released at Lincoln County Medical Center Monday after her 1984 Honda was rear-ended by a 1983 AMC Eagle driven by Gary Lynch, 37, according to Ruidoso Police. The two local drivers were northbound on Mechem Driven when Henderson stopped for a vehicle making a left turn, said police. Wet streets and a dip in the road contributed to the fender bender, said police. No citations were issued.

MainStreet is looking for a logo

MainStreet Ruidoso is looking for a logo—a symbol to reflect the concept of the creation of a cohesive, marketable downtown Ruidoso.

The group is offering a $500 shopping spree as the prize in a contest to acquire a MainStreet Ruidoso logo. The winning artist will have a chance to use gift certificates donated by merchants in the MainStreet project area.

Entries should be submitted by 4 p.m. Friday, July 15, at the MainStreet Ruidoso office, 2415 Sudderth Drive in the Ski West Center.

The contest is open to all residents of the Ruidoso area, and entries will be judged by the MainStreet board of directors, design committee and the state coordinator and architect, Ed Boles.

According to contest rules, submissions must be in black and white; easily photocopied or reproduced; able to be reduced significantly without loss of clarity or detail; and submitted on 8 1/2 by 11 inch matte finish paper, illustration board or other similar matting.

The creator's name, address and phone number should be printed on the back, not shown on the front or within the logo.

The winner will be asked to agree to take the shopping spree all in one day, according to the contest announcement. Certificates have been donated by the Artisan's Shop and Gallery, Fifth Street Nursery, The Aspen Tree, Candle Power, Mary's Fashions, Magic Touch, Merle Norman, Brunell's, Ski West Center, Heart's Delight, Hooked on Kuntry and Carriage House.

Project director Donna Edwards said other merchants still may donate certificates by contacting her at the MainStreet Ruidoso office.

For further information on the logo contest, call Edwards at 257-6346.

Man is arrested on sex charges

A Carrizozo man is free on $250,000 bond, charged with first and third degree sex crimes involving a minor female child, according to official records.

Marcos B. Barela Sr., 68, was arrested about 2 p.m. Wednesday by Ruidoso Police Detective Lanny Maddox. Barela was charged with 14 counts of criminal sexual penetration of a minor, a first degree felony, and with two counts of criminal sexual contact of a minor, a third degree felony.

Maddox said the defendant was arrested and made his first appearance after a warrant was signed by Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean. He appeared before Judge J.R. "Jim" Wheeler who released him on $250,000 with a property bond and stipulations, said Maddox.

Barela, represented by attorney Bill Payne, waived his preliminary hearing. After hearing testimony in a preliminary hearing the judge decides if there is probable cause to believe a crime was committed and the accused could have committed the crime. By waiving that hearing the case goes to district court.

By waiving that hearing, the young victim won't have to testify until the case gets to district court, said Maddox.

The investigation began about three weeks ago, said Maddox. He said he was assisted by Assistant District Attorney Scot Key.

Dozen children hikers lost then found

A dozen young hikers were lost for close to three hours Sunday.

Ruidoso Police said the 12 El Paso, Texas, youngsters, from 2 to 12 years of age, headed out from Cedar Creek picnic area about 10 a.m. Sunday, and apparently became lost in the system of hiking trails.

Officer David Perkins hit the back trails on his motorcycle unit and found the weary group close to Alto Village, said Sergeant Richard Swenor.

"They were dead tired," said Swenor, noting the children may have walked seven or eight miles. "All they knew was to keep walking," said Swenor.

He said anytime hikers get lost around Ruidoso they should head downhill, and they'll end up on a road.

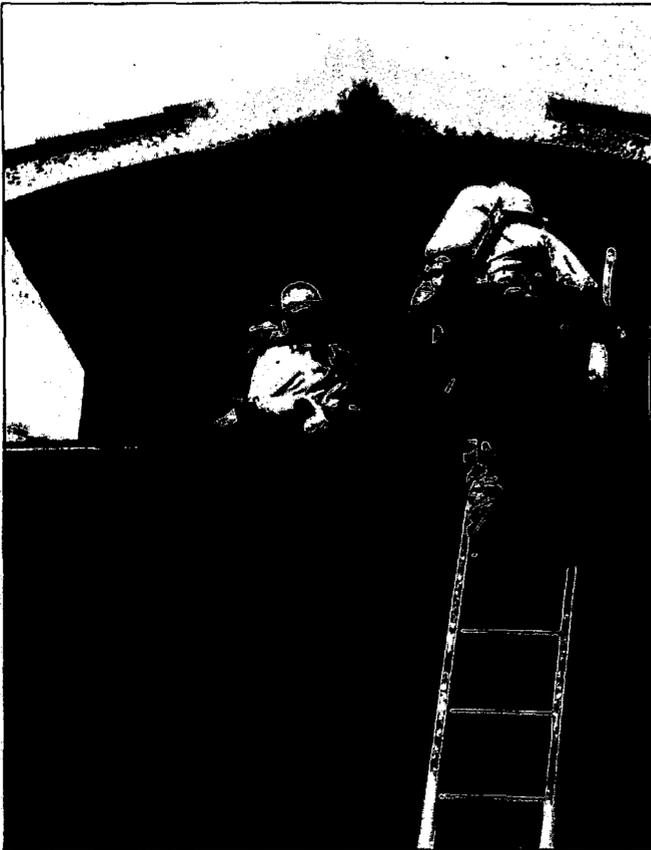

Swenor and Lincoln County Sheriff's Deputy Dave Pfeffer delivered the children back to their family picnic about 1 p.m. Sunday. Ruidoso Police responded Saturday to a three-wheeler accident at Alto Lake.

Police said the driver and passenger, both of El Paso, were taken to the Lincoln County Medical Center for X-rays after their ATV went over the bank and landed in Alto Lake.

The driver, Raymundo Melendez, 21, told police he was traveling about 10 miles per hour when he lost control, according to the report.

No citations were issued.

Village Lodge fire

Ruidoso firefighters responded to a one-alarm fire at Village Lodge at about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday. Three units and 15 firefighters spent about an hour and a half putting out the blaze that apparently started in a hot water closet. Investigators are still trying to determine what might have caused the flare-up. (Photo by J. Kevin Ballard.)

Pilot: My hangar is of no value

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Thursday was a sad day for Jim Hatton.

"I'm real disappointed—I'm stuck with a hangar and no place to go," said Hatton as he prepared for his final take-off from the Ruidoso Municipal Airport.

Hatton calls Ruidoso home, and has been flying in and out of the municipal airfield for the past 25 years. He and a handful of private hangar owners were required to vacate their hangars when the RMA was closed to all operations by a village ordinance adopted Thursday.

Before taking off in a Kingair dual engine plane, Hatton packed up equipment and tools he keeps in the hangar he purchased several years ago. Hatton said he has an investment of $14,000 in the building he can no longer use.

"My hangar is of no value except as salvage," said Hatton.

When he bought the building, to work on and house the planes he flew in and out of the area, Hatton said he didn't know the airport was going to move.

A commercial pilot for United Airlines, and the owner and operator of a Cessna dealership in Alico, Texas, Hatton said he has brought many people into the airport who have later bought homes and property in the Ruidoso area.

Hatton said he, as well as other private hangar owners, has been supporting the airport for years, through ground lease payments, fuel purchase and the like. But when it came to the airport move, he said that group wasn't considered except in the counts used to help obtain Federal Aviation Administration funding.

In effect, Hatton said they were told: "Sorry boys, no money to provide a place for your hangars."

"I believe we were overlooked and omitted," said Hatton, showing a packet of letters and materials to show how he has tried to get an extension on Thursday's moving deadline.

Sierra Blanca Regional Airport manager Tim Morris has said repeatedly that access area for private hangars has a very low priority with FAA. He said facilities for those planes and owners are now available.

Hatton said he has a place to park, but will be deprived of the hangar he needs to store tools and equipment. He has taken his complaints to FAA officials and to Senator Pete Domenici, asking for consideration and help.

"Not one answer have I got to date from this stack of letters," said

Hatton, holding letters he has sent to Morris and village attorney John Underwood. He said he asked for extensions and offered to meet with village officials to work out a solution.

He said now he's faced with paying storage at the village's chosen rates, without having the facilities he needs for the Ruidoso branch of his Alice distributorship.

"I hate to depart this old airport and not give it its dues," he added. "This is a good airport."

Hatton said the RMA is no more dangerous than many airports he's used, but because of the altitude, it requires good navigation. He added every accident he knows of at the old airport was caused by pilot error—not the airport.

"I'd like to go out saying the airport has been good—it's served the community well," said Hatton, pointing out the thousands and thousands of safe operations over the years.

"I don't want this old airport to go out as a killer."

And Thursday afternoon, Hatton climbed aboard the large aircraft and headed for the regional airfield on Fort Stanton Mesa to arrange for a parking place for the plane and his vehicles.

"I accept defeat—I'm defeated," said Hatton sadly.

Downs Trustees to meet

The Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees will meet at 7 p.m. Monday, July 11, in the Council Chambers at Ruidoso Downs Village Hall. Meetings of the trustees are open to the public.

Parks & Rec talks of medians, drag strips

With three of five members present, the village Parks and Recreation Committee discussed upcoming projects and drew terms of office Wednesday.

Lynn Willard and James Stephens will serve until March 1, 1991, and Walterine Hughes will serve until the second Monday after the municipal election in 1990. Charlotte Jarratt and Betty O'Dell were absent Wednesday, but will be contacted by Parks and Recreation director Daryl Obermueller to see if they still want to serve. Their terms will end after the 1990 municipal election.

Members discussed ways to get the community involved in the Adopt-a-median project, with Obermueller praising Hughes for her work in beautifying the median on Sudderth near Mescalero Trail.

He said the Fire Department has "adopted" the median at Sudderth and Mechem, and the Rotary Club is interested in taking on the "Y."

The circle at the entrance to the Upper Canyon was "adopted" years ago by the Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club. Obermueller said members of that group have been unable to do the physical work on the circle, but the club has arranged to make a monetary contribution to support the care and maintenance of the circle.

Obermueller said the Noon Lions Club donated $100 to Adopt-a-median, adding the village administration is behind the project. He said he hopes to get other civic organizations, individuals and businesses involved.

"These things are contagious," said Willard, noting when people see others caring for public areas, they'll be willing to help.

Obermueller said he'll be making a big push this fall to get areas adopted before next spring.

Also Wednesday the committee discussed the summer day camp that is under way, with Stephens wondering how more interest can be generated.

Obermueller said three or four youngsters are enrolled for this week's session that goes from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for a cost of $50 a week per child. He said the two teachers, Tammy Ylanda and Claudia Branum, are working half-time on the small camp.

Obermueller said he was contacted by State Police Officer Steve Standridge about having drag races on the old airport runway one weekend a month. He said Standridge said the races would get kids off the street and provide some revenue.

Members of the committee questioned the noise that activity would create in the residential area.

With 10 acres set aside in the airport master plan for recreation development, Obermueller said the Parks and Recreation Department offices might be moved to the old airport.

The committee meets at 7 a.m. the first Wednesday of each month.

The Silver Lining

A Very Joyful Fourth Of July

Happiness was in the air everywhere on the slopes of the Sierra Blanca over the weekend of the Fourth of July. The weather was perfect and there were so many happy occasions all with themes of true American patriotism, with love of family and neighborly goodwill the guiding spirit of it all.

The Perry Family Reunion

The descendants of Elzy Perry and Mayme Coe Perry held a family reunion under the giant cottonwoods at the family home in Glencoe on the third and fourth of July. More than eighty were present for the celebration, including children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

The Perry children are: George, Nina, Gladys, Ruth, Leroy, Elzy Jr., Don, Jane and Charles.

I was happy to have a visit with Nina, Gladys, Ruth, Leroy, Don, Jane and Charles, as well as with many of their grandchildren. The place was beautiful, with the rose bushes and other flowering shrubs in full bloom.

Memories came back to the year 1925 when I and brothers Mark, Joe and Lynn picked apples for Mayme and Elzy. Mayme's father, George, and mother, Phoebe, were there then; and we often ate dinner in the George Coe home. The Perry Ranch has from the beginning been a garden spot of fine apples and other fruit and flowers of all kinds.

This reunion was in a way a family reunion for me; because the Storm Brothers were raised with the Perry children. And George and Phoebe Coe, and Elzy and Mayme Perry and their children have always been fond friends of the Storm Family.

Barbecue Picnic At Felix Gonzales

I stopped by the home of Felix Gonzales where they were having a grand barbecue picnic and "All Day singing and dinner on the ground."

Guitar music and song echoed through the orchard trees. It was a reunion of Gonzales and Rue families, with friends welcome from everywhere.

Memories came back of the early days with Mr. and Mrs. Prospero Gonzales and their sons, Rube, Porfirio, and Prosperito, and daughter, Arsenia. Thunder boomed overhead nearby, and yet the day remained perfect for the Gonzales picnic.

Festive Gathering At George Lore Home.

George and Nancy Lore, my neighbors just up the way, located at the Old Lone Pine Inn Ranch, were hosts to a Fourth of July gathering beginning about four in the afternoon and extending into the night. A great host of folks from nearby and distant places were on hand, joining in typical Fourth of July activities of the finest of food, volleyball, horseshoes, and softball, fireworks, and all around rejoicing and goodwill. I met countless friends of many years and made many new ones, about which I will tell you from time to time.

A feature of the evening was the reading of the Declaration of Independence, by Mel O'Reilly. I was glad to see Mrs. O'Reilly, Monica; and the O'Reilly twins, Mel Dylan, and Colm Brian, and their little brother, Patrick Brendan. These lads are growing into strapping young men.

Billy The Kid was there, in the person of Ronnie Barrone, who plays the Kid in the Lincoln Pageant.

The fireworks were grand, bringing back memories of years ago. The bonfire with the burning in effigy of "Old Man Gloom," surely will get us off to a good beginning through the year.

When we first came here the Lone Pine Inn and the White Mountain Inn were the only stopping places between Roswell and Alamogordo. The Lone Pine Inn was run by Jack Land, an Englishman who was a walking story book, full of stories of his world travels. The Lone Pine Ranch is still a landmark in the valley, under the beautification work of George and Nancy Lore.

We all thank George and Nancy for the fine Fourth of July Spirit they showed in inviting us to their beautiful celebration.

Other Fourth Of July Birthdays

On the fourth of July Cara Mae Smith told by telephone that fourth of July is her birthday and also the birthday of her son-in-law, Jim Williamson. I had a fine visit up town with Jim and his wife, Cara Mae's daughter Gloria.

Cara Mae was born to William C. Marable and the former Bertha Mae Coe, who was the daughter of Jap Coe, one of the Lincoln County pioneers. Cara Mae was born July four, 1916, on the site of the old Butterfield Stage Coach Stand just south of Artesia. She has been working for years on a history of the Coe Family, and her book is ready for publication.

We will hear more of this book on the Coe's later on. Cara Mae has shown me some of the photos that will be in the book. They are real historical treasures.

This is being sent to you at ten minutes after one on July the fifth. The rain crow has been calling lately and this morning he struck up a pretty strong note or two. And now a nice shower has moved into the vale.

I will tell you of the rain crow and some of his helpers a little later. Meanwhile let us thank God for our Blessings.

John H. Beater

John H. Beater, of Arrey, New Mexico, died June 30 in Las Cruces. He was 55.

Beater was born July 31, 1932, in El Paso, Texas, and was a 1950 graduate of Ruidoso High School. He had a degree from Western New Mexico University in Silver City, and was a recipient of the Wall Street Journal Award.

Obituaries

Beater attended Brookings Institute, and received many awards while serving with NASA in Washington D.C. for 15 years.

Beater was a Naval veteran of the Korean Conflict. He retired as a programs management officer of the U.S. Government.

Services for Beater were Tuesday in the Fort Bayard National Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Tina, of Arrey; son Gary of Fort Worth, Texas; daughter Vicki Magenitz of Pocatello, Idaho; brothers Jim Beater of Alto and Joel Beater of Stone Mountain, Georgia; sister, Jeanine Graham, of Alamogordo; mother, Lucille Beater, of Alamogordo; and four grandchildren.

Louise Pauline Wistinghausen

Louise Pauline Wistinghausen, 91, died Wednesday at Lincoln County Medical Center after a lengthy illness.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Friday, July 8, at Saint Benedict's Catholic Church in Houston, Texas. She will be buried in Forest Park, also in Houston, Texas.

A Ruidoso resident since April, Wistinghausen was born May 1, 1897, in Texas. She married John Wistinghausen January 1, 1979, in Alvin, Texas.

She is survived by her husband in Texas City, Texas; son, Tony Fenack Jr. of Ruidoso; brother, Louis Schattel of Angleton, Texas; sisters Emma Munch, Ann Welton and Joan Howard, all of Galveston, Texas; and Clara Agnus Hugland of Montrose, Colorado; two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are by LaGrone Funeral Chapel in Ruidoso and Forest Park Funeral Home in Houston, Texas.

Edward L. Peterson

Former Ruidoso resident Edward L. Peterson, 71, died Sunday at Saint Catherine's Hospital in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Peterson was born May 31, 1917, in Kenosha, Wisconsin. He was educated in Kenosha and California.

He was a Quality Assurance Engineer with Hughes Aircraft Company, having worked for Hughes in various cities in the Southwest. He retired from Hughes in 1972.

He married Bonnie, on September 11, 1952. She died in 1975.

He is survived by his sister

Astrid Peterson, his nephew Clarence E. Corkins and 12 nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his sisters Viola Corkins and Judith Peterson.

He will be laid to rest in Ruidoso, next to his wife, Bonnie, in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

The Plant Corner

by Sally Black

We have started new plants from seeds and air-layering, now we must do new plants from cuttings. This is the time of year to start new plants and get best results.

I have read and re-read my Time-Life Encyclopedia of Gardening so we may go about the happy task of multiplying our plants a little more knowledgeable and with more success.

For plants that do not form natural divisions or new baby plants, the commonest form of propagation is from cutting. It is so common, in fact, that almost everyone who has house plants tries it sooner or later.

If the proper procedures are followed, many kinds of plants can be grown from cuttings. Stem cuttings from the ends of branches or, in the case of some plants, a single leaf can be used. These cuttings are best detached from the plant during its period of active growth, generally in spring or summer, and induced to form roots on their own.

Cuttings form roots most readily if the stem is cut about one-quarter inch below a leaf-joint, or node. Plants such as Coleus, devil's ivy and heart-leaved philodendron will grow roots easily from cuttings that are simply placed in a glass of water. Experienced gardeners have found that roots form more sturdily and adapt more easily to permanent potting if the cuttings are inserted in a moistened rooting medium.

Satisfactory materials to start the cuttings in are sharp sand, peat moss, sphagnum moss, vermiculite, perlite or an equal part mixture of two or more of these materials. They all combine high water-holding capacities with an open structure that allows air to enter.

The stem ends of the cuttings can be dipped, before potting, into a rooting-hormone powder, available at garden stores. The hormone will shorten the rooting time.

Before setting a cutting into a rooting medium, remove any leaves that would be below the medium, they will decay if covered. Certain plants, such as philodendrons, have such long petioles, or leaf-stems, that the lowest leaves do not need to be removed, even though the petioles are buried. So long as the leaf blades themselves protrude above the rooting medium, burying the petioles does no harm. In fact, it often results in bushier, more compact plants because extra stems are apt to rise from the point between the petiole and the main stem.

A simple way to start new plants is to plant pieces of stem in a self-contained environment improvised from a clear, one-gallon size food storage bag. Use a rooting medium of two parts peat moss and one part sharp sand; moisten this mix and put it into the bag to make a base about four inches deep.

Take three- to six-inch long cuttings from the ends of young, light-green stems, slicing just below a leaf-point with clean, sharp shears or knife. Strip off the lower leaves. Insert the ends of the cuttings, one to three inches deep in the rooting mixture in the plastic bag. The ends should be dipped in hormone powder before planting to stimulate root formation. To prevent rot, space the cuttings so the leaves do not touch. Firm the rooting mix around the stems to keep them upright. Using a spray bottle, mist just enough water over the leaves to wet them, then pull the edges of the bag together at the top to inflate the bag before sealing with a twist-tum.

Keep the bag in bright light, but not in the sun. Cuttings are kept moist by the droplets of water that form and run down the sides of the bag.

When the roots are about an inch long, open the bag and gradually roll down the sides (top) over a period of about a week. This will let the cuttings adjust to room conditions before planting them.

The length of time required for rooting varies with the kind of plant. Usually they form in one week to a month.

Remove cuttings from the bag very carefully with a spoon and plant in prepared pots, using the recommended soil mixture specified for each species. Plant at the depth at which it stood in the bag. This level can be easily determined by color, as the stem of the rooted cutting will be slightly darker above ground.

sergeant at arms; Jon W. House, secretary; and Buddy Bundick, board member. Not pictured are Paul Vordermann, treasurer; Earl Randall, board member; and Gary Thompson, board member.

June weather ranged from freezing to 90 degrees

June weather in the mountain town of Ruidoso is a potpourri of highs and lows.

According to information from Bill Hostetter, a cooperative observer for the National Weather Service, the mean temperature for June was 62.4 degrees, 0.7 degrees above the average of 61.7 degrees. The mean temperature is derived from adding the high and low temperatures, divided by two.

The coldest temperature and last spring freeze was 29 degrees on June 1. The freeze occurred seven days before the average last spring freeze date of June 8. The average minimum of 44.3 degrees was 3.0 degrees above normal.

The warmest day was 90 degrees on June 9. The average maximum temperature was 80.5 degrees, 1.5 degrees below the normal.

June's total precipitation measured 1.69 inches, which was .44 inch or 21 percent below the 46-year average of 2.13 inches. This brings the 1988 yearly total precipitation to 7.04 inches or 0.51 inch below the long-term average for the first six months of the year.

Rain fell on 15 days with thunderstorms observed on 13 of them. The greatest 24-hour amount was 0.62 inch on June 11. A trace was measured on six days.

Significant fog was observed on one day, early in the morning of June 27.

Rodeo queens

Lincoln County rodeo queens grace the July 4th parade. Crowned at the first performance of the Smokey Bear Stampede rodeo in Capitan, Tonya Payton of Capitan was crowned as Lincoln County Queen by former queen Kelly Marr. Marcia Heiker of Carrizozo (right) is the queen-in-waiting and will be crowned next year. Stacey Gowen (left) is the 1988 Capitan Junior Riding Club queen.

Girl Scout to travel, learn

Lori Longbotham, daughter of Jerry and Leeann Longbotham of Capitan, was selected to participate in a Girl Scout Wider Opportunity: "Her story: Discoveries Through Time" this summer.

Wider Opportunity is Girl Scout jargon for a travel-learning experience. Her story participants will travel to historic sites throughout Delaware Valley in Pennsylvania. The program concentrates on the roles women played in the development of the United States.

Her story is a discovery program designed to let the participants experience the lives of early American women as closely as possible. They will get a sense of spirit and vision of the women who molded our country. The Delaware Valley area's historical organizations have created special programs that use hands-on activities to recreate historical events and allow the Girl Scouts to be a part of them.

Longbotham, a freshman at Capitan High School, has been a Girl Scout for seven years. During that time she earned the Girl Scout Silver Award, was an aide at White Mountain Day Camp in Ruidoso and was elected to attend the Zia Council Meeting as a delegate from Sierra Association.

Her school activities include volleyball, track, band and Odyssey of the Mind.

Mayor Benny Coker and State Representative Dick Knowles send their best wishes to parade viewers at the July 4th Capitan Smokey Bear Parade.

Around town

Capitan Church of Christ has scheduled Vacation Bible School for 9:30-11:30 a.m. Monday, July 11, through Friday, July 15. The Joy Bus will run to pick up interested children.

The Southeastern New Mexico State Library Bookmobile will visit Capitan at 9:30-11:30 a.m. Wednesday, July 13, at Smokey Bear Restaurant parking lot.

The Capitan Extension Homemakers Club will meet at 9 a.m. Wednesday, July 13, at Mae Crouse's home. The program on 4-H will be given by Lincoln County 4-H members.

Lincoln County Extension Homemakers who won at the State Extension Homemakers Cultural Arts Contest are Molly Mason for her latch hook hanging and painting; Bonnie Thetford for her Quiet Book; Angie Provine for her afghan; Betty Joiner for her poncho; Jaunita Magnone for two of her

Pets, pony, posse, Plymouth parade

Capitan residents and visitors lined the village streets to cheer riders and collect candy at the annual Fourth of July parade.

Sponsored by the Capitan Chamber of Commerce, all entries in the parade, with the theme "Frontier Times," were judged by Leota Pfingsten, Don Shaw, Elmer Firelli, Bill Allen and Mildred Crocker. The chamber selected El-fego Montoya as grand marshal and Lois Aldrich as grand lady of the parade.

The first place award for floats went to the Corriente CowBelles, B and L Pizza won second and the Ruidoso Elks Lodge was third.

The best mounted group was the Chaves County Mounted Posse. The Capitan Junior Riding Club won second and the New Mexico Territorial Army was third.

Bill Hill of Carrizozo had the best classic car, a 1964 cherry red Mustang convertible. Carrizozo resident J.P. Aguilar's 1948 Jeep was second and Larry Caywood of Capitan was third with his Plymouth New Yorker.

The most original award was given to Juan Baca of Ruidoso Downs with his wagon, pony and small dog rider.

Heather Wooddell and her brother Ryan, of Capitan, won first and second places for their decorated bicycles. Stephanie Childress was third.

Mona McEuen won for best walking group, with Larry and Jackie Bandy second and the Capitan Boy Scouts third.

Best dressed cowboy was Douglas Smith and best dressed cowgirl was Cheyenne Underwood of Capitan.

Bob fastest in Smokey Bear Fun Run

Cisco Bob, former Ruidoso High School track star, was the fastest runner in the 10 kilometer race of the Smokey Bear Fun Run in Capitan, Saturday.

174 runners from communities as far away as Huntington Beach, California, the state of Oregon, Albuquerque, El Paso, Texas, and Las Cruces participated in the annual Smokey Bear Fun Run. Sponsored by the Ruidoso Athletic Club (RAC), the Fun Run featured a two-mile run and a 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) run.

According to race organizers, the race was "outstanding" with 21 of the 88 two-mile runners breaking 40 minutes. 86 runners participated in the 10-K race.

Although all the runners began at the same time, the two-mile contestants were in before the 10-K runners neared the finish line. The two-mile runners had the chance to see Bob finish first, crossing the line within 12 seconds from the record winning time. Bob, a Mescalero resident who attends Colorado University, finished the 10 kilometers in 31:35. Bob was a national cross-country star in high school.

The other men's winners in the 10-K race were Stan Waquie of Jemez Pueblo, with a time of 32 minutes and Scott Long of Alamogordo with a time of 32:32. Long, a two-time Smokey Bear 10-

K winner, still holds the course record.

The top three winners in the women's 10-K division were Jean Herbert from Las Cruces with a time of 40:07, Olivia Sanchez from Oregon with a time of 43:99 and Kathy Marshall of Dexter with a time of 44:49. Herbert was unable to break her own record of 38:36.

The first overall male and female finishers in the open and masters (over 40) divisions received New Balance running shoes provided by the RAC. In the masters Jerry Sutherlin of High Rolls won the men's and Sue Robles won the women's. Medals were given to the top three finishers in each age group for the two runs.

The top three winners in the two-mile men's division were Shawn Carr with a new record of 10:12, Sergio Hernandez of Ruidoso with a time of 10:42 and Kelly Hobbs of Roswell with a time of 11:22.

In the women's two-mile division, the top three winners were Lucinda Romero, formerly of Capitan, with a record time of 13:15, JoAnne Vance of Dexter and Tamara Hobbs.

First-place winners in the two-mile run men's division were Lucho Sutherlin of High Rolls in the nine and under group; Kyle Traylor of Capitan in the 10-14 group; Hernandez of Ruidoso in the 15-19 group; Shawn Carr in the 20-24 group; Hobbs in the 25-29 group; Bob Clarke of Ruidoso in the 30-34 group; Saw Pinoda of Roswell in the 35-39 group; Dimas Apodoca of Albuquerque in the 45-49 group; Don Deartholt in the 50-54 group; and Glenn Marshall of Dexter in the 55-59 group.

First-place winners in the women's two-mile category were Jan Marshall of Dexter in the nine and under group; Tamara Hobbs, 10-14; Romero in the 15-19 group; Cindy Moses in the 20-24 group; JoAnne Vance of Dexter in the 25-29 group; Barb Kizer of Ruidoso in the 35-39 group; Mary Shanks of Capitan in the 40-44 group; R. Sue Long of Alamogordo in the 45-49 group; Eva Clarke of Ruidoso in the 50-54 group; and Jane Gatis of Pamp, Texas, in the 55-59 group.

First-place men winners in the 10-K race were Matt Berndorf of Roswell in the 15-19 group; Bob in the 20-24 group; Quinn Smith of Portales in the 25-29 group; Waquie in the 30-34 group; Olen Hedges of Santa Rosa in the 35-39 group; Jerry Sutherlin of High Rolls in the 40-44 group; Jerry Bunton of Deming in the 45-49 group; Norm Pittenger of El Paso, Texas in the 50-54 group; Donald Navrkal of El Paso, Texas in the 54-59 group; and Tony Quici of Roswell in the 59 and over group.

Other first-place women's winners in the 10-K race were Sanchez in the 15-19 group; Yelena Seelbach of Ruidoso in the 20-24 group; Herbert in the 25-29 group; Kathy Marshall of Dexter in the 30-34 group; Joan Blodgett of Roswell in the 34-39 group; and Sue Robles of Las Cruces in the 45-49 group.

Mescalero runner Cisco Bob finishes the Smokey Bear Fun Run in Capitan with a smile. His time of 31:35 was 12 seconds short of the course record.

All contestants received a T-shirt and winners received ribbons and medals. Other "fun" awards were given to the Marshall family for having seven runners and Mac McDougal, owner of Ruidoso's Ski West Sports for his most patriotic running suit.

High Wire Acrobat, A Bit of Style head Jockey Club 'Cap' divisions

W. L. Clifton Jr.'s High Wire Acrobat and Carl Davidson's A Bit Of Style drew top-weights in their respective divisions of the $15,000-added Jockey Club Handicap, set for Saturday, July 9.

The 7 1/2 furlong tests are slated as the ninth and eleventh aces on a 12-race card. First post is 1:00 p.m. Gates open at 11:00 a.m.

High Wire Acrobat, conditioned by William Leach, is coming off a strong second-place showing in the Norgor Derby, a 6 furlong sprint run here June 11th. The Miswaki colt has won three of 12 lifetime starts, and finished second three other times, good for an impressive bankroll of more than $68,000.

Larry Payne was on board High Wire Acrobat in the Norgor. The 3-year-old has been assigned a 120 pound impost for Saturday's showdown. No rider has yet been named for the Jockey Club 'Cap'.

Also expected to be in contention in the first division are Shutup And Deal, ridden by Joe Martinez, and Blue Hoss, a Winabon gelding who is coming off a recent win over allowance company. A Bit Of Style will carry high-weight of 122 pounds and reinsman Glenn Murphy in the second division. Murphy guided the Golden Eagle II gelding to victory in his last start, a one-mile allowance race in which the Doyal Roberts Sr.-trainee equaled the track record for the distance, 1:38 3/5.

Also expected to get attention at the betting windows in the second division are E. Lee Ivey's Knight's Odds, who has never been off the board in his short career, and Sheriff T. Matt, who is likely to set the pace.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

WASHINGTON — Obesity may be controlled naturally with a new type of pill, discovered by accident, a research scientist confirmed recently.

In studies with potential cholesterol lowering agents, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Patients receiving an ingredient in what is now being called FS-1 all lost weight, in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, while body weight in control groups remained constant.

Scientists say the mechanism behind the weight reduction is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calorie-rich dietary fats. Although scientists for some time have known of substances with the capability of producing this effect, the dramatic impact on weight reduction was not known until recently. Substances with a greater potential to block absorption will produce greater weight loss results.

The director of research and development at National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the investigation and research of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, states, "The mechanism by which FS-1 works to decrease body weight is actually a more complex and sophisticated process called nutrionding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, FS-1 releases nutrients with low calorie content into the body, while high-calorie fats are eliminated, thus providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of calories."

Studies with FS-1 indicate weight loss results clearly superior to products currently available for the treatment of obesity. In a comparative study by NDR, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, FS-1 was found to be the most effective treatment for obesity and the most acceptable to patients.

The discovery comes as welcome news to thousands of obesity sufferers waiting years for this type of breakthrough. According to a spokesperson at NDR, FS-1 can be made available to the public immediately, because it is not a drug and contains only natural ingredients recognized as safe. A drug with essentially the same weight loss capabilities might take as long as eight years to be available, due to lengthy delays encountered in the approval process.

FS-1 is currently available on a limited basis through physicians and pharmacies, but may also be obtained directly from National Dietary Research, Suite 563, 1877 K St. Washington, DC 20006 for $24.95 plus $2 postage and handling. An instruction sheet for proper use and optimum results is provided with each bottle of 100 tablets.

Hoofbeats

The 1988 4th of July weekend handle at Ruidoso Downs was up significantly from last year, with a total of 23,385 fans wagering more than $2.62 million during five days of racing.

That marked an 8.6% increase over 1987's Independence weekend betting total, $2.41 million.

This year's attendance figures also showed gains over last year's 4th of July standard. The 1988 increase above last year's five racing days, during which 21,939 fans came through the turnstiles, weighed in at a healthy 6.59%.

Despite the big 4th of July crowds and handle, no one was able to correctly handicap the exotic Twin-Trifecta wager over the five-day period, causing the carry-over pool to swell to its seasonal high of $58,386. Fans will get an opportunity to take home a cut of the Twin-Tri prize Thursday, July 7, when racing resumes at Ruidoso Downs with a 1:00 p.m. first post. Gates open at 11:00 a.m.

Fred Van Winkle's Tilt The Odds walked on the track June 25 as the local record-holder for the distance of 5 1/2 furlongs. A Tilt Up product, Tilt The Odds established a mark of 58 seconds for the distance September 5, 1987. At odds of 10-1, Tilt The Odds proceeded to romp to victory in the June 25th allowance event in a winning time of 57 2/5, shaving 3/5 of a second off his own record. Larry Payne was aboard the Cecil Crabtree-trained horse.

Apache maidens round the ceremonial basket during puberty rites at Mescalero's Fourth of July ceremonies. The basket is filled with eagle feathers, gramma grass, yellow pollen, and other items—all symbols important to the Apache traditional beliefs.

Photos and story by J. Kevin Ballard

Mescalero maidens celebrate womanhood in coming of age rite.

As the golden early morning sun peeks above the mountain to the east of the ceremonial grounds, there is a host of bustling activity to prepare the grounds for the day's events.

It is July 1, the first of eight days of coming of age ceremonies for eight Mescalero Apache girls taking place during the Mescalero Apache Reservation's annual Fourth of July ceremonies. The first four days will be open to the public, and will include traditional dances including the sacred Dance of the Mountain Gods, the annual Mescalero Rodeo, and traditional food.

On the west side of the grounds, several men are busily setting up the main ceremonial tepee. First, four main poles are placed in each of the four directions of the earth. The poles of pine are strong and straight—about 25 to 30 feet high, with evergreen branches left at the top. The remaining young tree poles are placed, and a young man climbs to the top of the frame and places a small white piece of canvas, which is wrapped around the top of the tepee. The tepee is completed by adding scrub oak branches and young pine boughs to serve as protection from the coming wind and rain.

Young trees are set in place at the sides of the tepee entrance, and more branches and boughs are lashed to form two walls leading out about 30 feet from the entrance. A pit is dug in the center of the tepee for a fire to be built later by the maidens.

The girls' medicine men preside over the preparations and offer chants to drive away evil spirits from the grounds.

On the south of the grounds, a huge arbor has been built, with eight entrances—one for each of the girls' family tepees. Inside the arbor, food is being prepared for the feast that will follow the morning ceremony.

When the final preparations are completed, the maidens emerge, one by one from their family tepees, through the arbor and to the ceremonial tepee. The girls are dressed in traditional buckskin dresses with long fringe and intricate beadwork, and are led by their medicine men. At each girl's side is her mother and godmother.

Each girl carries a small buckskin full of yellow pollen that has been painstakingly gathered. As the girls kneel on buckskins in front of the tepee, facing the sun, their attendants pass in front of them and the girls are marked with pollen on their backs, chests, shoulders and noses. In return, the girls mark their godmothers.

By this time, two long lines have formed out from the entrance of the tepee. Security guards are busily trying to keep young children from crossing in front of the activities, usually to no avail.

Anyone wishing to, may go through the line to be blessed and marked by the girls, who are entering their womanhood.

A mother kneels to let each girl bless the newborn child that she carries in a covered cradle board.

The medicine men continue to sing and shake their deer-hoof rattles.

As the last person makes his way through the line, the girls slowly begin to stretch out face down on the buckskins that they have been kneeling on for nearly an hour. They are massaged by their attendants, preparing them for their pending run, and praying for strong bodies, strong arms and sturdy legs.

A medicine basket containing eagle feathers, gramma grass, pollen, red and white clay and other items—all symbols important to native beliefs—is placed about 50 yards from the girls.

On a signal, the girls run to the basket, around it and back to their places. The basket is moved closer to the girls, and once again they run. In all, four runs are made.

After the last run, the girls pick up their buckskins and shake them toward the sun. The gesture, according to tradition, is meant to drive away any evil spirits that may be near and frighten off the supernatural bearers of illness.

The rugs are given one last shake, and a basket of fruits and candies is spilled over the head of one of the girls as youngsters scramble to get all they can.

As the commotion continues at the main tepee, tribe members in pick-up trucks begin to throw more treats out of baskets into the crowd. The audience members quickly gather around the pick-ups, in anticipation of catching as many treats as they can. More than one person gets hit by an uncaught apple or orange, and a couple of arguments break out over who's going to get a box of Cracker Jacks.

The maidens retreat to their tepees, and food is brought to the center of the ceremonial ring. After a blessing by the medicine men, the food is offered to all.

In the afternoon, traditional dances are performed by visiting tribes and the rodeo gets under way.

Late in the afternoon, the girls again emerge and form a circle on their knees at the entrance of the tepee.

The girls take turns spinning a short stick on a small piece of wood with a hole in it, while one of the medicine men places small tinder near the point of contact of the two elements in an attempt to start a fire by friction. After several tries by each girl, a small flame is started. The medicine man continues to gently blow and gradually add more wood, and the fire is moved inside the tepee to the hole that has been dug, where it is built into a larger, more comfortable fire.

In the evening, at dusk, a large bonfire is built in the center of the ceremonial ring, and the sacred Dance of the Mountain Gods begins. After the dance is completed, the audience is invited to join in a round dance. The dancing continues late into the night.

By about midnight, the crowd has become sparse, and the fire is extinguished. Stragglers try to find their way in the dark to the tents they have set up around the outside of the arena or to their cars to go home and get some sleep before the activities continue again at sunrise tomorrow.

Charis Blake receives an anointing of yellow pollen from a medicine man during the ceremony. The yellow pollen is painstakingly gathered from water plants and is considered a symbol of strength and fertility.

Candace Chee annoints the nose of a medicine man with yellow pollen (above) as she receives his blessing during the early morning portion of the girls' coming of age ceremonies. Below, spectators crowd around trucks on the grounds in an effort to catch some of the fruit and candy being thrown as part of the ceremony.

Fernandó Cellizion (left), leader of the Zuni dance group from Arizona, and Florentine Johnson provide the beat and singing for the group's performance. The group's demonstration was one of several provided by different groups representing various tribes from throughout the Southwest.

Earlena Marden tries her hand at starting a fire by friction, as maidens Corlene Chino (left, bending down), Lyndell Enjady and Lori Lee Palmer look on. The fire was started and later moved into the main ceremonial tepee.

Plains Indians from Oklahoma take part in a round dance at the ceremonial grounds, during a break in the coming of age activities on the Mescalero Reservation last weekend.

Eye On The Capitol by Tom Warson, Ph.D.

Subtotal: 25 votes for the Republican coalition, 17 votes for the Democratic coalition.
For reasons given above, the Democrats will whittle down the Republicans' four-man edge in the November elections.
The question is: will they take off enough?

"Fight for The State Senate" Who will control the State Senate?

That's the hottest question in the Capitol these days.

Democrats and Republicans currently are tied, with 21 seats apiece.

Back in 1987, the Democrats took control by converting 3 Republicans: Jack Morgan, John Budagher and James Martin.

In 1988, the scales tipped the other way. Les Houston, leader of the senate Republicans, forged a coalition with 5 dissident Democrats: Ben Altamirano, Manny Aragon, Tom Benavidez, John Pinto and Joseph Harvey. The result was a 23-19 Republican margin of power.

That's basically the way it stands today. Too close for comfort.

Whoever wins the senate in November, will dictate the post-1990 reapportionment. "You get control of something like that," Democratic Senator Dennis Chavez told me, "and you can get control for years."

No wonder both sides are edgy about the 1988 elections. Look for plenty of the same hollow phrasology displayed in this Albuquerque Journal headline above its post-mortem primary analysis (June 9): "Both Sides in Senate Optimistic After Election."

Well, to find who is really ahead, you must go beyond what politicians will tell you.

Let's look at real outcomes.

Below is a list of senate seats won in 1984, by fewer than 500 votes:

1. McKinley. Smitty Eoff (Republican) over Gary Tomada (Democrat). Eoff's margin of victory: 132 votes.

2. Bernalillo. Wendell Cosner (R) over Shannon Robinson (D). Cosner's margin: 312 votes.

3. Eddy. Marvin Watts (R) over Louis Whitlock (D). Watts' margin: 52 votes.

4. Dona Ana. Fernando Macias (D) over William Ikard (R). Macias' margin: 280 votes.

A simple fact: 4 out of 5 toss-up seats are held by Republicans. With that kind exposure, the GOP will have a tough time not getting burned.

Let's move out further, into the orbit of possible upsets beyond the 500-vote limit:

1. Bernalillo. Incumbent Republican Skip Vernon is being challenged by Democrat Ted Asbury, former House Representative. Asbury is already waging an aggressive door-to-door campaign.

2. Bernalillo. Republican Mary Guffey versus Democrat Martin Chavez, ex-workman's compensation fund director. This seat was vacated by Republican Joseph Carraro. Eye took a close look at this district (May 12); although Carraro defeated Democrat Paul Noland by 1,500 votes in 1984, the Republican stronghold precincts may not be strong enough.

Conclusion? Definitely an exciting confrontation.

3. Bernalillo. Democrat Janice Paster will battle Republican David McMann for the seat vacated by Republican John Budagher. Something to keep in mind: this senate district has only 1.06 registered Democrats for every registered Republican. That makes it one of the ten most Republican districts in the state. Presently, all ten have Republican Senators.

4. Valencia. Republican incumbent Anthony Williams is being tested by Democrat Tony Romo. In 1984, Williams unseated Democrat Lucy Brubaker by 1,096 votes—but Valencia politics continue to be extremely complex and unpredictable.

5. Chavez. Democrat incumbent Timothy Jennings will face Republican Robert Corn who gave up his house seat to enter the fray. This race will be one of the hottest ones in the state. An important fact: in 1984, Jennings defeated his Republican opponent, Betty King, by 1,449 votes.

6. Dona Ana. Republican incumbent Harold Foreman must fight off Democrat Bruce Wilson. Foreman won the seat in 1984, defeating Democrat Steve Glover by 1,106 votes.

7. Otero. Democrat Tom Overstreet will battle Maurice Hobson for the seat held by Democrat Bill Vandergriff (who Overstreet defeated in the June 7 primary). Hobson is a 17-year veteran of the State House of Representatives. As with the Corn/Jennings race, this election will be one to watch.

For Republicans, then, out there the air is thin. Three of the seven "problem" seats are held by GOP freshmen. What's true in college also holds in politics: freshmen are the most likely to flunk out.

The reality is when it comes to the State Senate, the Republicans are underdogs.

But don't count them out. As the 1988 fight for control demonstrated, the GOP has excellent coalition-building abilities.

They'll need those skills in January, when the senate power struggle reaches its summit.

Republican dissident Jack Morgan isn't running for reelection. Given the hard-core Republican registration of his district, scratch one vote for the Democratic coalition.

Budagher, too, isn't running for re-election. Paster or McMann? It's too early to predict. But for sake of argument, let's give the Republicans the benefit of the doubt: scratch a second seat for the Democrats.

EDITORIAL

When it rains, it pours, and in Ruidoso, pouring rain means flooding streets, water gushing into canyons and turbulent waterways.

And that can mean danger to the pedestrian or motorist surprised by the quickness of the water's rising.

The rivers can be especially dangerous, since they carry the rushing rainwater downstream, where skies may be blue and the threat of rising water can come as a surprise.

The rainy season is here, and afternoon thunderstorms will be frequent visitors to the Ruidoso area. Keep safety in mind outdoors, especially near the rivers, when it rains ... and pours. -DJP

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:
Ruidoso Care Inc. is a group of people in Ruidoso who are serving meals 2 days a week to the elderly and homebound of the Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs area. We are receiving no state or federal funds.

We want to thank the County of Lincoln, the Villages of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs and the many individuals who are donating money to keep this program going.

We also wish to thank the Lincoln County Medical Center and Nancy Berg (head of the dietary Department) and her staff for preparing the meals. The meals are served at the Senior Citizens Center. Our thanks to Bette Romans (the Director of the Senior Citizens Center) and her staff and all the volunteers who are vital to keeping this program going.
Thank you each and every one who are helping.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:
I would like to express my appreciation to all who helped make the Lincoln County Cub Scout Day Camp a great success. Without the assistance and participation of so many, it would have been impossible to have the camp here.

Staff members Anna Remington, Cal Cowden, Lee Ann Longbotham, Dolores Rue, Cookie Hanna and Carolann Staley worked many long hours so our sons could have fun while learning about first aid, archery, crafts, nature, sports, songs and dance. Den Leaders Shirley Gray, Terry Ostler, Laura Christiansen and Jounell Wright did a terrific job of keeping track of boys and helping with everything.

Den Chiefs from Earl Randall's Ruidoso Boy Scout Troop 195, Casey Ward, Marc Randall, Joe LeCrone, Leonard Buckley, Earl Holstein, and Allen Young of Roswell, were outstanding assistants to the staff members.

Jackie Young, a volunteer Scouter from Roswell, deserves a special thanks for sharing her time, energy, advice and knowledge as Program Director.

Donations of supplies, food, time and cooperation were given to the Cub Scouts by: McDonald's, Bennett's Shur-Sav, Roger Buckley at 7-11, Michael Pritchett of White Mountain Search and Rescue, Bob Turner, Channel 11, Ruidoso News, First Christian Church, Dr. Paul Echols, Lincoln County Medical Center, Pat Hale, Earl Randall, Sierra Blanca Motors and Judy Tyson Perkins.

I am so proud of all the Cub Scouts. They worked and played, sharing accomplishments and getting along with "buddies". Most importantly, they "Did Their Best."

Sincerely,
MARILYN WARD
Director, Cub Scout Day Camp

DEAR EDITOR:
The Ruidoso Noon Lions Club would like to thank all the area businesses, professionals, and business people who purchased or sponsored tickets to their recent magic and variety show.

Not only did a large crowd of area youngsters enjoy a truly entertaining show, but through their contributions, each business is participating in and supporting the many Lions Club programs and charities in the community.

Because our business community is so very supportive of the Lions Club, the number of businesses who helped is too numerous to list. Therefore, the Ruidoso Noon Lions Club wishes to express a heartfelt "Thank You Ruidoso!"

Special Program Chairman

DEAR EDITOR:
The Ruidoso Little League Baseball season is just finishing with the exception of the District Tournament in Roswell July 15. We enjoyed one of the best seasons to date with the involvement of 151 boys and girls on 11 teams.

Making the league work are coaches, umpires and our sponsors; THE BANK OF RUIDOSO, SIERRA BLANCE MOTORS, THE CUT ABOVE, RUIDOSO ELKS LODGE, MESCALERO BINGO, OLD ROAD RESTAURANT, WESTERN AUTO, DIAL ELECTRIC, J.F. CONSTRUCTION, RUIDOSO ROTARY CLUB and THE RUIDOSO NOON LIONS CLUB. It takes over $4,000 a year to equip, insure, and maintain the baseball program for the 8 to 12 year old boys and girls.

Another special thanks to Texas N.M. Power for supplying and installing two short poles for the scoreboard. The Gavilan Baseball Field has never looked or played better thanks to the tremendous work done by Smokey and Jim Stover.

I hope for all future seasons to be so lucky as to have people help as they have assisted me this year.

Also thanks to Ruidoso News for printing my game pictures and supplying the film.
Sincerely,
FRANK SAYNER, President
Ruidoso Little League Baseball

DEAR EDITOR:
We want to thank you once again for your continued support and coverage of the 1987-88 school events. It would be easy to take your coverage for granted, but we try not to do so.

Every time we have an event and we see a reporter or photographer present, we are amazed at the amount of time these people give to attend these events and write their stories.

Thanks again for your help. It is noticed and appreciated.
Sincerely,
TOM HANSEN
Principal

WHEN LOW OFFER PRESENTED

Even though you may be selling your home at a fair market value, expect most buyers to offer a lower price. In fact, a first offer can be low by thousands of dollars. Some buyers play the low-ball game, or "What have I got to lose by coming in with a ridiculous bid?" If happens.

If the owner is trying to sell the home himself, he may panic and think he has overpriced his home. He might make the mistake of calling the prospect back and asking if he would be interested in buying at a price a little more than the low offer but much less than the property is worth. Now he becomes an anxious seller. The prospect led to believe that his tactics have worked and may even insist that the price be reduced further by the amount of the broker's commission. This won't happen when you sell through our office. Verbal offers don't work. Every offer must be in writing and accompanied by a check. No panic, just a business-like approach.

Ruidosoan Velma Johnson celebrates her 95th birthday July 1 (left) at the Ruidoso Care Center with flowers given to her from the center van driver Sally Rue. Velma celebrates with friends (above) and other ladies who ride the center van to lunch at the Senior Center. (From left) Polly Wittenberg, 85, Velma, 95, Josephine Pollard, 84, and Caroline Norton, 76, enjoy cake. Johnson was born in 1893, on a farm near Itasca, Texas. She married her first husband, Carroll Holloway, in Midland, Texas, in 1917. Holloway died in the flu epidemic of 1918. Later, Velma was the first woman to serve on an election board for a national election, during the Wilson election. She became Mrs. Harold Johnson in 1927. She outlived Harold, who died in 1968. Velma remembers her mother picking her up on the train to look out the window at a horseless carriage on the street. She now has three children living, nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Most of her family lives in Texas, but Velma lives in Ruidoso, where she enjoys the pleasures of meals at the Care Center. "I fully intend to live to be 100," she says. She is proud of the letters she has received from President and Nancy Reagan on her last three birthdays. So happy birthday Velma, and many more!
