New technology used to replace old symbol on Round Mountain

A century-old peace symbol has been replaced on Round Mountain near Bent.

One hundred and twenty-one years ago, in 1868, the Battle of Round Mountain was fought between the settlers of Tularosa and the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe.

Following the battle, both sides agreed to peace and a treaty signaling peace was signed near Round Mountain.

Many years later, in 1957, about 12 men from the Tularosa and Mescalero parishes climbed Round Mountain and placed a simple white cross there to symbolize the peace between the two communities.

On Tuesday, several of these men and many other people from the two communities returned to the top of the mountain and erected a new cross.

According to Father Larry Gosselin of the St. Joseph Mission, the original cross had become damaged by the weather and was finally blown over by the wind. The residents of the nearby area thought the mountain looked empty, so someone climbed the mountain and placed a small temporary cross in its place last year.

But residents wanted a large permanent cross like the old one on the mountain top. So Joe Padilla and Wylie Bunting began constructing the new cross. They made the cross twenty feet tall with 10-foot arms. They constructed it out of treated lumber and gave it two coats of paint to protect it from the rain. Four steel guide wires were attached to the top to give the cross stability in the wind.

Bunting said the cross took the better part of an afternoon to build. Before completing the cross, they placed a bolo tie belonging to Jim Hiles, a prominent member of the Bent community, inside as a way of remembering him.

Father Gosselin said the cross remained at the Big Chief Store in Mescalero waiting for the opportunity to be placed on the mountain. In 1957, the cross had to be carried up the mountain part way by burro and the rest of the way by hand.

But Father Gosselin decided to enlist some modern help in getting the cross to the mountain top. He called the Army base at White Sands Missile Range and explained the problem.

On Tuesday morning, with many of the area residents looking on, a U.S. Army UH-1 helicopter from the Army Air Operations Directorate at White Sands landed just west of the mountain to lift the cross to the peak.

The cross arrived on a flatbed trailer shortly after 8 a.m. from the store. After surveying the cross, the pilot, Warrant Officer John Parker decided to take all the tools, cement, and water needed to stabilize the cross up first before trying to lift the cross itself. He explained to the group of about 20 men, the helicopter was full of fuel and it would have to be lightened before lifting the cross.

While the helicopter and its crew began their task, about thirteen men began the long slow climb to the top of Round Mountain.

For one of these men, Ted Chavez of Nogal Canyon, the climb up the mountain had special meaning. As a young man of 18, he was one of the people who placed the original cross on the mountain.

Chavez said it took them almost half a day to get the cross up the Secretary Dewey Lonsberry of the New Mexico Highway and Transportation Department spoke to District II personnel Wednesday, praising them for their efforts and outlining planned projects for the district.

Lonsberry addressed about 50 District II employees at the Ski Apache Resort thanking them for their work and encouraging them to keep it up.

He told the group the Highway and Transportation Department is one of the biggest businesses in New Mexico.

He said this was a successful session of the legislature for the Highway and Transportation Department. Lonsberry said approval had been given for a four percent increase in salaries, and funds had been approved for a study on reclassification and a career ladder for maintenance people.

"Not everyone will get a raise, but there will be a career ladder for those who go through increased training," said Lonsberry.

He went on to tell the group about projects planned for Lincoln County during the Highway and Transportation Department's Five-Year Construction Plan.

The Five-Year Construction Plan is the department's basic long-range planning document. The plan is updated each year, with the closest year becoming the agency's annual program and new work added to the plan's fifth year.

The plan calls for the expenditure of $1.3 billion from July 1989 through June 1994. This includes $965 million in the six highway districts and another $345 million in statewide activities.

This year the plan calls for an overlay of four miles of New Mexico Highway 48 south of the New Mexico Highway 37 junction.

In fiscal year (FY) 89-90, $2 million is scheduled on a four lane reconstruction of 2.6 miles of Highway 48 south of the Highway 532 junction.

For FY 90-91, $3.7 million will be spent on the overlay of 7.32 miles of U.S. Highway 70 starting 2.8 miles east of the New Mexico Highway 214 junction. Also that year there will be new construction of five miles of Highway 532, the Ski Apache Road.

An additional $4 million will be spent in FY 93-94 on various projects.

Lonsberry told the group the department is going to be purchasing new equipment and working toward less paperwork and more automation.

He finished by saying, "we consider the Highway and Transportation Department aspect to be the backbone of the governor's five-year economic plan."

"I am proud to be a part of what I consider to be the best department in the state," Lonsberry said. "When we go down to the legislature they seem to listen to us because of the professionalism of our employees."

Before leaving for a speech in Roswell, District II engineer Lou Medrano presented Lonsberry two pictures of the Ski Apache Road taken by one of the district's employees.

Lonsberry rode to the gathering on the district's new snow blower.

State racing staff conducts hearing at Ruidoso Downs

State Racing Commission representatives visited the Ruidoso Downs Race Track Tuesday and heard area citizens look forward to the upcoming racing season.

Executive secretary Thomas V. Golder and investigator Joe E. Alessandrelli conducted a public hearing at the All American Sale Barn at the track.

Rick Henson, Ruidoso Downs general manager, reported on the millions of dollars in improvements under way at the facility.

"People like to be associated with nice things," said Jack Foster, president of Ruidoso State Bank, adding the new ownership and refurbishing at the track are the most positive things he's seen in the six years he's been in the area.

Ronnie Paulger, president of the First National Bank of Ruidoso, also had words of praise for the progress being made by the new track owners.

"They're going to see a success story in horse racing right here at Ruidoso Downs," said Paulger.

Tracey Moran, director of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said the investments in the track already have brought new business and other new investments to the area.

Village manager Frank Potter noted the $120 million racing industry has a tremendous impact on the area economy. He said the renovations in progress have contributed to a new excitement in the

Ruidoso residents tour Holloman AFB

by RICHARD A. HARROLD

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Thirty-nine area residents toured Holloman Air Force Base in Alamogordo Tuesday and saw an aerial exhibition of the $23 million F-15 Eagle jet fighter in action.

The tour, sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, was prompted by the air force base to increase public awareness about base activities.

"Take a look at what your air force is doing," said Captain Betsy L. Well, chief of public affairs at Holloman.

Bill Hirschfeld of the chamber advertising board said he hopes to have more trips to the base in the future.

"It's good for both of us," said Hirschfeld, because base personnel become more aware of what the area offers them with recreation, and residents develop greater awareness of how their defense dollars are spent.

The highlight of the trip was an aerial exhibition of an F-15 Eagle piloted by Captain Richard G.

McSpadden of the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing.

Members of the tour watched while McSpadden maneuvered his plane overhead, the aircraft capable of speeds in excess of two and a half times the speed of sound.

Visitors also saw T-38 Talons, the aircraft used for training and chase purposes, in action.

The event began with a window tour of the 4449th Mobility Support Squadron, or MOBSS, the unit in the Tactical Air Command which maintains the ability to transport the equipment needed to set up an air base in a war zone anywhere in the world on short notice.

The F-15 Eagle aerial exhibition was next.

Colonel Stephen A. Mosier, Deputy Commander for Operations, 49th Tactical Fighter Wing, was on hand to answer questions.

The exhibition was followed by a brief window tour of the 479th Tactical Training Wing.

After pilot school and training on simulators, would-be fighter pilots get first hand training under the guidance of experienced pilots in the T-38 Talons. The T-38 is capable of climbing to nearly 30,000 feet in one minute, and a speed of 812 mph.

The tour, which cost seven dollars, included lunch and a brief video which provided a more in-depth view of all the activities at the base.

Please see Ruidoso, page 2A

Members of the Holloman tour look up while Captain McSpadden demonstrates his routine in an F-15 Eagle jet fighter.

Each time McSpadden flies the aircraft he must complete his entire routine while a ground crew videotapes each mission.

TODAY

The F-15 Eagle sponsored by the Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce (LCCC), will have an aerial exhibition and remodeling sale from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Friday, April 21, the shop at 1200 S.E.

Billy the Kid wars continue in court

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Once two lawsuits over the use of Billy the Kid's name are settled, it will be possible for the man who identified the remains of Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele to identify any remains in the grave alleged to be the outlaw's.

The lawsuits are between Don and Lula Sweet of Fort Sumner, and Joe and Marilyn Bowlin, who have a home in Ruidoso, each contending the other has no right to use Billy the Kid's famous name in connection with their separate businesses.

Since 1953, the Sweets have operated the "Billy the Kid Museum" in Fort Sumner.

The Bowlins run the "Billy the Kid's Old Fort Sumner Museum," which is adjacent to the cemetery where the Kid is alleged to be buried.

When the Sweets began their business in 1953, they registered the name "Billy the Kid" with the Secretary of State of New Mexico which gave them sole right to use the name as a business trademark.

However, state law requires that a trademark be re-registered every 10 years, or one loses the monopoly right to use the name.

Robert J. Beauvais, the attorney representing the Bowlins, said in a telephone interview that state records show the Sweets did not re-register their trademark in 1963, 1973, or in 1983.

The Bowlins then registered the name, "Billy the Kid" in 1987.

It would seem, then, that there should be no argument over who gets to use the name, but things aren't quite that simple.

"State law does not abrogate common law," said Beauvais.

This means common law supports the Sweet's lawful use of the trademark because they have employed it since 1953.

But the Bowlins have it lawfully registered with the Secretary of State.

Both parties, according to Beauvais, may be close to settling their differences out of court.

When this happens, famous forensic scientist Clyde Snow may wish to examine the grave site next to the Bowlins property.

Snow achieved notoriety when he positively identified Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele from partial skeletal remains.

Snow presently is involved with a Los Alamos project proposed to examine the one authentic photograph of Billy the Kid using the high tech photo-enhancement capabilities of a computer.

By using high resolution techniques, the computer can enhance specific facial characteristics that do not change in a person over time; for example, the shape of one's nose, or the height of one's cheekbones.

These characteristics in the known photograph are then compared with those from other photographs to verify their authenticity.

Snow has the capability of doing an above-ground examination of the Kid's grave, without having to disturb it, to see if, in fact, there are human remains present.

The Kid's grave in New Mexico, that is...

Claims have been made that a Brushy Bill Roberts, buried in Hico, Texas, is the real Billy the Kid, but Joe Bowlin has a very different opinion.

"Certainly the fellow in Hico is not Billy the Kid," said Bowlin.

Even if that is the case, and Bowlin has an abundance of material to back his claim, there is still a possibility that no remains are present under the caged-in tombstone at Fort Sumner.

When Fort Sumner was decommissioned, the property was turned over to the U.S. Department of Interior.

The cemetery at the Fort contained gravesites for soldiers as well as civilians, and the army made an attempt to move all the military remains to the National Cemetery in Santa Fe.

There is a possibility that some civilian remains were moved inadvertently, which may have included the Kid's.

If remains are discovered in Billy the Kid's grave, the next logical step would be to exhume the remains for Snow to make a positive identification, which would have interest worldwide.

Bowlin, however, said before that happens, the living relatives should be consulted and their permission granted.

"I'll be there with bells on," said Beauvais should the grave ever be uncovered.

Beauvais said he received a letter from the Sweets' attorney, and he is preparing a draft settlement.

One dispute over the legend of Billy the Kid may end soon, while another is just about to begin.

Modern technology replaced back breaking labor and placed the new cross on top of Round Mountain. An Army helicopter from White Sands Missile Range lifted the cross to the mountaintop in five minutes.

community, having a positive effect even before the racing season begins.

Ed Hyman, a member of the executive board of the New Mexico Horsemen's Association, said the money spent in the barn areas may get some of the owners and trainers back to this track who left because of the previous bad conditions.

"Improvements on the back side are something that was needed for a long time," he added.

Bill McCarty of McCarty Construction, Tony Wilcoxson of the Inn at Pine Springs, Jerry Wright of KBUY Radio, John Hall of Cold-well Banker, SDC, and Dr. Richard Gally, a practicing veterinarian, all spoke of the positive impact on the economy of the new ownership and improved conditions at the track.

Bob Powers, a Spaghetti Flats resident, who has lived in this area since 1974, wanted to know if the sale barn area will be secure. He said with the racing offices in that building, it will be important to have good security, and voiced concern over emergency vehicle access into the Spaghetti Flats.

Henson addressed Powers' concerns, saying the racing office doesn't have to be in a secured area.

Thomas V. Golder, executive secretary, and Joe E. Alessandrilli, investigator, conduct a State Racing Commission hearing at Ruidoso Downs Tuesday.

After lunch, the tour went out to the rocket sled test track.

Tony Schauer, a civilian analyst at the test area, was on hand to answer questions, as well as give an on-site briefing at the ten-mile-long track.

Members of the group were even surprised during a movie by a sonic boom which rattled the conference room windows, as well as a few nerves.

"That was a test," said Schauer.

The air force is currently testing a new aircraft, and the sonic boom which the visitors heard was from a seat ejection test being conducted at the time of the visit.

Many of the rocket sleds accelerate with a force of 50 G's, reaching speeds in excess of 1090 feet per second.

Schauer held up a 3/4 inch aluminum plate that had a baseball-sized hole through it.

"This is what happens when you run into a bird," at 1,200 feet per second, said Schauer.

Schauer also said the track, the longest in the world, is the site of some Star Wars research.

The tour was led by Sergeant Diane Howard. Civilian Peter Lisec drove the bus, provided by the Air Force.

mountain. Most of the work was done by hand, but pack animals were used to haul equipment halfway.

"We carried all the water in barrels," said Chavez. "We had four horses and a burro in the bunch, but it didn't take a lot of equipment."

Once Chavez, Father Gosselin and the other workers had reached the top of the 5,850 foot mountain, they removed the temporary cross and began preparing the 11 and one half by 11 and three quarters, 27 inch deep hole to receive the cross. According to Chavez the hole was originally blasted out with dynamite.

The plan called for the helicopter to try and place the cross in the hole, but if that was impossible then to simply set the cross down on the peak.

As the workers waited on top of the mountain, a crowd of onlookers began to gather at the base of the mountain and along the highway.

When the helicopter began to lift the cross toward the mountain, the workers had to retreat down the side a little because of the tremendous downdraft of the rotor.

After several attempts at trying to place the cross in the hole, the pilot finally decided to place the cross gently on the mountain. Warrant Officer Parker later explained rising heat was causing the helicopter to lose lift and it made lifting the cross very difficult.

Once the helicopter had departed, many of the onlookers began climbing the mountain to get a better view of what was going on. Men, women and small children climbed to the top, in all about 25 people made it. Among them, were two more men from the 1957 cross erection.

Steve Martinez, 69, of Mescalero said getting the first cross to the top required a lot of work.

"We would pick it up and bring it up 10 to 15 feet at a time, then take a five minute break to rest," said Martinez. "Actually, it took a whole day of manual work."

Martinez said the climb this time was a lot harder.

"I could barely make it up this time, I'm not as young as I use to be," he said.

Marshall B. Provencio, 63, of Tularosa also remembered the hard climb up with the first cross.

"The cross was about the same size as this one," Provencio said. "We would pick it up by ropes and bring it up little by little."

With plenty of help, the men were able to lift the cross up with the help of the guide wires and place it in the hole. After Father Gosselin and several men applied the cement and others attached the guide wires to the rocks, a couple of the men took a moment to reflect on what they had accomplished.

"We worked on it long enough, it feels pretty good to get it up here," said Wylie Bunting of Bent.

"It looks great," said Father Gosselin. "We owe a great deal of thanks to everyone who helped put it up here."

"It was a lot easier this time, about ninety percent easier," said Ted Chavez.

Father Gosselin reminded the group gathered on top of the mountain what the cross symbolized to the two communities. He further reminded everyone the cross was also a symbol of peace to the Tularosa Basin, the site of the first atomic explosion. He blessed the cross to the Tularosa Basin from Our Lady of Guadalupe.

With that the group began the trip back down the mountain. In 1957, it had taken all day to place the first cross on the mountain. Tuesday, it took just three hours.

Visitors on the tour to Holloman AFB check out the visiting F-16s on the tarmac. All aircraft must be kept in constant readiness, according to tour leaders.

Tour members watch T-38 Talons in take-off formation. The T-38s used for training, are painted blue/gray camouflage making them more difficult targets.

P&Z approves six, denies one request

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) met Monday and approved six motions while denying an appeal of an administrative determination.

The commission approved a request by Mike Seelbach to replat Lots 18A and 18B, Block LKM to eliminate the encroachment of a house constructed on Lot 18A onto 18B.

The Commission considered an amended variance on Tract 3, Block G White Fir Subdivision. The applicant Paul J. Stout filed the amended variance to comply with a P&Z action which directed him to relocate a proposed carport.

Mrs. Clyde Williams, a neighbor of the applicant objected, saying the granting of a variance would place the proposed carport too close to her property line.

Consulting engineer John Shaw assured Mrs. Williams there was a difference between the original survey of the two properties and one he had done. After being assured the variance will not place the carport too close to the property line and that the commission and the engineer will work with her to see the survey is corrected, she agreed and the variance was approved.

A variance and a site development were approved for lots 14 and 15, Block L Ruidoso Springs Subdivision. The applicant, Danny Fenton proposed an addition atop an existing portion of a building.

Permission was granted for a conditional use of Lot 2, Block 6 Juniper Hills Subdivision. The applicant, Arthur G. Wright wants to place a travel trailer on the property to live in while building a house on the lot. The commission agreed to the request because none of the neighbors objected.

An appeal of administrative determination was denied by the commission because the complainant and her attorney did not prove that planning administrator Cleatus Richards had misinterpreted the statutes governing legal non-conforming use. The appeal involves Lot 2D, Block 4 Hamilton Terrace Subdivision.

Neither the complainant, Jerrice McCarty Pratt, or her attorney, Charles E. Hawthorne, were present at the meeting.

They contend Archie & Evelyn Corbin are in violation of the zoning code by reason of using a home located on R-1 property for business purpose of a drapery shop and use of a private easement for ingress and egress to the business.

The commission and Richards contend, while the current zoning ordinance requires street frontage for commercial use, there was no such provision under the previous zoning ordinance. Therefore the village had no grounds for denying the use at the time it was established. The Corbin's use of the subject property is a legal non-conforming use.

Finally, the commission called for an administrative review on Lot 1 and 1A, Block BB Sleepy Hollow. The owner is asking to change from residential (R-1) to neighborhood commercial (C-1).

In other business, Richards said he discussed extending the extraterritorial zoning from the present one to three miles with county manager Nick Pappas. He said Pappas will talk to the county commissioners about the staffing of the area, but Richards said the city and the county will be working together on this project.

This was the first meeting for new P&Z commissioners Jordan Cameron and Cindi Clayton.

EDCLC welcomes new business, Apache Future, Inc., to the area

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

Apache Future Inc., a new business that could employ from 200 to 300 people by next year, has located on the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation.

Gary Bousquet, Terry Ryan and Keith Hasty, principals in the company that specializes in bus maintenance and repair and part manufacturing, announced Tuesday that their operation is in place.

During a news conference Tuesday at the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County offices, the three told how they worked with the EDCLC and the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe to put their operation together.

Bousquet said Apache Future Inc. will have its headquarters in the old Job Corps buildings on the reservation, where training for field service will take place, as well as the manufacturing of a number of items.

Apache Future Inc. already has field service contracts in Los Angeles, California, and in Cleveland, Ohio, and has a staff of seven on the road. Bousquet said the crew will fulfill contracts to work on buses and railroad cars all over the United States.

"We hope to be in 20 cities by this summer," said Bousquet.

The machine shop will initially manufacture wire harnesses and sub assemblies, but will diversify to fulfill contracts for other items.

The New York City men, who will now make their homes in Ruidoso, made the initial contacts last summer. The agreement was signed with the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribal Council on Friday. The company has a five-year lease on the 35,000-40,000 square foot facility.

"Our primary purpose is to hire and train members of the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe," said Ryan, adding that the company hopes to draw from the surrounding communities and from the state as a whole.

Ryan said he was very pleased with the outstanding technical background he found with the applicants he interviewed on the reservation. All three men commented on the positive effect on their future the able and willing employment pool offers.

Hasty said one applicant walked four miles to apply for a job, hoping to make as much as $4 an hour, and very anxious to work. He said that is typical of the kind of applicants in this area, and will make for a successful business.

Apache Future Inc., according to its owners, will have an annual payroll of around $2 million.

George Puckett, executive director of EDCLC, said payroll dollars can be expected to turn over in the community four times, expanding the impact on the area economy.

"We're extremely pleased to be able to announce the location of this group on the reservation," said Don Shaw of the EDCLC board.

"What benefits the tribe is going to benefit the whole area," added Buddy Bundick, EDCLC president. He said this is the second new enterprise attracted to the area utilizing tribal resources.

EDCLC representatives and principals in Apache Future all spoke with pride of the cooperation, coordination and assistance of the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe in location this new industry in the area.

"We're open for business," said Bousquet.

Apache Future, Inc. is located in Canyon #8, Box 746, Mescalero 88340. The telephone number is 671-4895.

School Board reviews contracts

The Capitan Board of Education deliberated more than three hours in executive session over the recommendations to hire certified personnel Thursday.

When the board returned to open session at 11 p.m., they renewed contracts for first grade teachers Pat Sullivan and Linda Turnbow; second grade—Mary Shanks and Dottie MacVeigh; third grade—Mary McIlwain and Lou Roberts; fourth grade—Linda Smith and Amy Riddle; fifth grade—Idy Eldridge and Pat Holland and sixth grade—Ruby Johnson and Mecca Aldridge.

Contracts for special education teachers Mary Lee Daniel, Tommie Neal, Sandra Bean and Joanne Washburn also were renewed.

Warrior girl netters beat Goddard

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

The Ruidoso Warriors tennis squad and the tough Goddard Rockets whacked it out on School House Park courts Tuesday for a Warrior girls win 6-3 and a boys loss 0-9.

The Rocket girls were not so easy to bump off as the 8-1 beating of their last meeting three weeks ago.

Marnie Warlick continued her dominance over Kristen Davenport, 6-2, 6-1. In their last meeting Warlick won 6-0, 6-1.

Chrissy Crocker battled a new Rocket number two seed, Kristen Neria. Crocker passed the Rocket silly walking off the court with a 6-0, 6-2 victory.

Mikki Roller and Shauna Tucker, Goddard's number two seed last time, had a grand duel with Tucker slipping by Roller 6-4, 7-5.

Cassie McIntosh jumped off to a fast start against Kristen Norton, winning the first set 6-3. Momentum turned in the second set and Norton eased to a 6-4 victory. McIntosh seemed to tire in the third set and suffered a 1-6 loss. Norton also won their last meeting 6-4, 6-4.

Donna Garcia needed some great baseline salvos to push past newcomer Jennifer Sturges 7-5, 6-2.

Amy Thornton, back on the team after her ACT tests, raced through Preetta Nayak 6-1, 6-2. Nayak was the former fifth seed for the Rockets.

The Warriors doubles team of Warlick and Crocker banged away at Davenport and Neria for a 6-3, 6-1 victory.

Roller and McIntosh have created a formidable doubles partnership. The two Warriors swept through a good Tucker-Norton team 6-1, 6-2.

Warriors head coach Mike Crocker was very proud of his JV netters Jeannie Garcia and Wendy Vincent who pushed the Rockets varsity team of Sturges and Nayak to the limits before losing 6-4, 7-5.

WARRIOR BOYS

The Warrior boys were zipped for the second time by the Rockets 0-9.

The Goddard Rocket boys are a 100 percent senior squad and an odds on favorite to win the district.

Dusty Skellett battled Jeremy Crow to two close sets, but lost the match 6-4, 6-2.

Eric Collins showed measured improvement in his contest with Ronnie Tucker. In their last meeting, senior Tucker easily dropped Collins 6-1, 6-2. Collins lost Tuesday's first set 4-6, and then beat Tucker 6-4, setting up the rubber set which ended with Crow winning a tie-breaker 7-6.

Shane Long lost to senior Shayne Waggoner 6-1, 6-2. Waggoner bested Long their last meeting 6-1, 6-1.

Eric Brown was downed by Kevin McCormack 6-2, 6-0. McCormack won their last meeting 6-1, 6-0.

Hemanth Pai fell to a tough senior Jose Solis 6-1, 6-1. It was their first meeting.

Chaitanya Pai fought a good match with Rusty Thompson, but the senior had too much experience and grabbed the match 6-3, 6-2.

The team of Skellett and Collins continued to lose the close ones to Crow and Tucker 7-6, 6-4. In their last meeting, the Warriors lost in three sets.

Long and Brown dropped two to Waggoner and McCormack 6-0, 6-1. Pai and Mashon Swenor lost to Solis and Thompson 6-0, 6-1.

A birds eye view from off the hill of School House Park furnishes a unique look at the Goddard-Ruidoso game in progress. The girls won, boys lost.

The tennis gallery was small but mighty in Ruidoso. Fan support came from as far away as Shreveport, Louisiana.

JOCK TALK

By Charles Stallings

Bang!
The sound of a rifle discharging to split the desert silence and release echoes, tiny ripples of power.

Bang! Power!
Just in, with pride, from Wildlife News.

"Oryx quest challenges White Sands hunters," is the headline. According to the release, Roxanne Rhea saw her first oryx just after daylight. She looked through her scope, squeezed off a round from her rifle and ended up with a trophy-class animal with 42-inch horns.

"It is a big animal that can be hard to bring down," she said, in an interview with New Mexico Wildlife magazine.

It was dawn, the release had said, usually a metaphorical symbol for the beginning of life.

The blood must have been racing through Roxanne's veins from the excitement she experienced in just viewing this beautiful 400-pound, long-horned antelope transplanted from Africa. Remember, this was the first time she had ever witnessed such a magnificent beast. Her look through the scope was undoubtedly larger than life as she squeezed the trigger.

Imagine her thrill as the bullet jolted the animal on impact. They always look startled don't they? Like, "Why me?"

Before you get to thinking I'm against wiping out Bambi's mom, forget it. I know the importance of culling the herd. Excuse me, "harvesting" the herd.

There are about 600 oryx grazing on the White Sands Missile Range, which covers only two million acres or 3,152 square miles, roughly three times larger than the state of Rhode Island.

The release states some hunts have been set up to reduce oryx numbers, with the goal of containing them to the north of U.S. 70, which runs between Alamogordo and Las Cruces.

I figure this to be roughly the equivalent of a median strip. There is another good reason for confining the oryx to a smaller area as the release points out:

"Since oryx do not require free standing water, but can get their water from plants, a hunter cannot simply establish himself near a water hole."

We can't have hunters stalking two million acres now, can we? I thought they had secret stuff out there in White Sands.

The first oryx were released at the range in 1969, the last in 1973.

There was no picture to accompany the release.

Since this appears to be a wildlife issue of JockTalk, let me tell you about my drive to Roswell last Tuesday.

My buddy Susan and I were driving along the desert when I saw a snake crossing the highway. At least I thought it was a snake.

I slowed down to avoid hitting it and saw the object was really a stick.

"I thought that stick was a green snake," I told Susan.

"Wrong again," she said as we passed it. "It's a green piece of garden hose."

"Oh, so it is," I said.

Looking through my rear view mirror for one last look, I watched whatever it was slowly crawl away.

The Ruidoso community run last week in conjunction with the high school track and field meet was so successful that the organizer, Dr. Paul Whitwam, says to watch for a repeat on a larger scale next year.

Whitwam said most runners were extremely happy to finish the race on the track in front of the crowd.

Highlights of the race included male and female winners in the 5-K run: Pilar Carrasco 18:15 and Cynthia Prelo 25:11.

Eight-year-old Meredith Keaton was the youngest participant. Ethel Pabst, 73, was the oldest racer.

Twelve-year-old Luis Martinez Jr., a race walker, finished the first in the 5-K walk at 25:55, only 44 seconds behind the winning female time in the 5-K run.

Sally Cammon was the first female to cross the line in the walk.

Scott Long 31:56 and Sue Robles 46:16 were the big 10-K winners. The remarkable Robles, at age 54, has been receiving national recognition.

Stan Waquie, winner of the 30-39 division of the 10-K run learned his technique from brother, Al, who has won the annual Empire State Building Run and the Pikes Peak Run several times.

The Ruidoso High School track facilities are excellent, although bleachers for Saturday's meet were brought in by the Parks and Recreation Department.

Winners, by category, in order of their age group and finish are (home runners with asterisk):

Eat & support basketball

Ruidoso area residents can eat at K-Bobs and financially assist the Ruidoso High School Warriors basketball squad at no extra cost.

Basketball coach Dean Hood said the basketball team is selling coupons at $4 each, good toward a meal at K-Bobs. K-Bobs will give back $2 of each coupon to the Warriors basketball squad.

Hood said the money from the 200 coupons to be sold will help pay for the team's summer basketball clinic.

Warrior coaches study the stats to see who finished where and why did they do it. Head track coach Ronny Maskew said his greatest pleasure is to see any athlete beat his personal best. Coaches, from left: Clifton Neal, Maskew and John Ussery.

Coach Ragsdale buys a home in Ruidoso

Ruidoso High School's new head football coach Doug Ragsdale has caught the Warrior spirit. He and his family purchased a home in Ruidoso last week and will be moving in this weekend.

Sharon Wells and Karen Morris have organized a community social to welcome the new coach and family on Thursday, May 4, at the Sierra Mall.

"We want the whole community to come to the Sierra Mall that Thursday to let this likable coach know how a quality town treats a newcomer, like one of the family," said Morris. "We are a community of traditions. We want Coach Ragsdale to be proud to be a part of those traditions."

Wells said Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., members of the Ruidoso Village Council, school board and a host of principals, teachers and other local dignitaries will be present.

Wells said hors d'oeuvres will be served compliments of Wayne and Sandy Dacy, new owners of Kelley's Restaurant in the Sierra Mall.

Capitan qualifier

Fly Dragoness, owned by Fletcher Hall of Capitan, just beats Straight Reality in a qualifying heat for the Riley Allison Derby. Fly Dragoness will be one of 10 entered for the $36,000+ final on April 23.

Special Project posts fastest qualifying time in Sun Country trials

Special Project overpowered the competition in Friday's Sun Country Futurity trials to log a :17.545 timing at 350 yards and nail down the fastest qualifying spot for the Grade I final.

Trainer Iris Buchanan had the freshman ready to run for owners Lindsey Burbank and John Douglas. The son of Special Effort—Mildly Jealous faded somewhat to the inside midway through the dash, but was well clear of the competition to earn a 3 and 1/2 length win and a 102 speed index.

Special Project made his career debut an impressive one in the fourth division of the trials and under rider Gary Sumpter the two-year-old paid $8.60, $4.20, $3.20.

Buchanan and Sumpter shared the spotlight along with Special Project as both qualified three runners for the $191,480 final.

The Buchanan-trained and Sumpter-ridden Timely Rhythm took a wrong step shortly after the break in the fifth division, but the daughter of St Bar quickly found her stride to log a one length win for owner/breeders Shaw, Pitman, and Shaw. In the very next heat, another Shaw and Pitman-bred get of St. Bar named Power Train powered to a 1/2 length win under Howard Pierce to beat Rockin Alene in a time of :17.755. Power Train was the upset of the day paying $27.20 to win.

Qualifying with an identical time of :17.755 was another Sumpter-ridden runner, Peg Ego.

The Bold Ego filly is owned by Billy Enloe and is trained by Jerry Lazenby and she came out of the ninth division of the trials to just nose out Homer Garza's Staunch Haunch. Staunch Haunch (Staunch Avenger-Fair Frisco) is the only West Texas Futurity finalist to also make the Sun Country field.

11 trial heats were run under perfect conditions as 107 two-year-olds competed for a berth in the April 30th finale.

The second fastest qualifier was the Post Oak Farms' Do No Wrong. Another Special Effort offspring, Do No Wrong ran a near flawless race to run off a two length win in :17.65 under Darrell Blevins. Other trial winners to make the cut were Strawberry Silk and Obelisk.

Strawberry Silk (Beduino-Painted Bug) and Rockin Alene were both ridden by Jacky Martin and are both from the stable of Jack Brooks. Strawberry Silk wore the silks of Jacqueline Spencer and the gray filly rocketed to a two length win-her second straight.

Brooks entered a trial-high 24, but might have had his best shot eliminated when Howard Moore's Telesis Too flipped in the starting gate and was scratched before the third division. Telesis Too qualified for the Grade I West Texas Futurity finishing fourth.

Darla Davidson's Obelisk (Dash For Cash-Winter Dreams) was ridden by James Lackey and will carry a perfect two for two record into the final.

Ruidoso Handicap is a heartstopper

Raise An Impudent and Classy Comment hooked up early and battled back-and-forth for the whole race before Raise An Impudent could come away with a nose decision in Sunday's $9,750 Ruidoso Handicap. The winner blistered the Sunland Park straightaway, running the 400 yards in a time of :19.45 under Jerry Rodriguez and earning a speed index of 104. The pair went into the race as co-highweights and Raise An Impudent avenged an earlier defeat.

Track 'n Tack

Special Project looked awesome as the freshman overpowered the competition to run a :17.545 at 350 yards and earn the fastest qualifying time in last Friday's Sun Country Futurity trials.

The son of Special Effort was making his first ever start and the colt took center stage early in his career by turning in a strong performance to win his division by 3 and 1/2 lengths.

The Burbank/Douglas color-bearer's showing was so convincing that he will probably be made the top choice in the $191,480 final.

Trainer Iris Buchanan and rider Gary Sumpter shared the spotlight as, in addition to Special Project, the pair qualified two others for the Grade I finale on April 30th.

The Buchanan-trained and Sumpter-ridden Timely Rhythm took a mis-step shortly after the break in the fifth division, but the daughter of St Bar quickly found her stride to log a one length win for the Florida-based owners/breeders Shaw, Pitman, and Shaw.

In the very next heat, the Florida connection struck again as the Buchanan-trained Power Train powered to a 1/2 length win under Howard Pierce to become the second St Bar offspring to make the final for Shaw and Pitman.

The other Sumpter-ridden qualifier was Billy Enloe's Peg Ego. The Bold Ego filly came storming out of the ninth division to just nose out Homer Garza's Staunch Haunch.

11 trial heats were run under perfect conditions as 107 two-year-olds competed for a shot at a final first prize worth $76,679.

The second fastest qualifier was the Post Oak Farms' Do No Wrong. The colt lived up to his name as the son of Special Effort ran a nearflawless race under Darrell Blevins to run off a two length win.

Other trial winners to make the cut were Strawberry Silk, Obelisk and Tellin Stories. Strawberry Silk (Beduino-Painted Bug) and Rockin Alene both qualified under rider jockey Martin for trainer Jack Brooks.

Strawberry Silk rocketed to a two length win, her second straight, for owner Jacqueline Spencer.

Darrel Davidson's Obelisk (Dash For Cash-Winter Dreams) was ridden by James Lackey and will also carry a perfect two-for-two record into the finals.

Jose and Victor Diaz's Tellin Stories (Real Easy Jet-Bold Renny) used his talent to run off to a two length win in the final trial heat to tie Shirleys Stardust for the tenth fastest time.

The colt then used some luck to win the "shake" for the final spot.

The qualifiers and their times are: Special Project, :17.545; Do No Wrong, :17.65; Timely Rhythm, :17.685; Strawberry Silk, :17.705; Power Train, :17.755; Peg Ego, :17.755; Staunch Haunch, :17.755; Obelisk, :17.815; Rockin Alene, :17.83; Tellin Stories, :17.835.

The $27,604 Sun Country Consolation will be run on Saturday, April 29th and will have in the field; Shirleys Stardust, The Hooking Bull, Masters Lady Jet, Ima Real Pie, Le Tusk, Bonito Chickie, Satins Easy Jet, Race Car Red, Rate Me, Contessa Cash.

Beginning with the Wednesday, April 26 program, the first post-time for all race days will be at 1 p.m. Gates will open at 11:30 a.m.

The change was announced by Sunland officials and will be in effect through the remainder of the season, which ends Monday May 8.

50 promising two-year-old thoroughbreds led by Choke'N Tell, Nutmeg, Five R's Koolady, Mr Langolf and Crunchydontchaknow have entered this Friday's Riley Allison Futurity trials at 5 furlongs.

The Riley Allison is Sunland's premier thoroughbred event and five trial heats (races 6, 8, 9, 10, 11) will determine who returns for the Sunday, May 7 final and the May 6 Consolation.

V.J. Callaway's Choke'N Tell lived up to all expectations as the daughter of Full Choke slaughtered the competition in her April 7 five furlong debut, winning by five lengths in :53.1.

Glenna Lambert's Crunchydontchaknow ran like two different horses in her April 8 start. She blew the turn badly and dropped way back, but rider David Lidberg got her going again and the pair accelerated powerfully in the stretch to win by a neck, again at 5 panels.

There is always a horse that no one expects to do well that blossoms under the pressure, and the Long/Gerhards' Mr Gandolf fits the bill perfectly. The Jerimi Johnson colt appeared to have no shot to win his career opener on March 31, but no one told him or rider Rodney Carter so the pair rode to the upset at better than 110 to one odds, paying $222.20 to win.

The Riley Allison trials will also have a trio of unknowns shipping in from Louisiana as last year's winning trainer, Caroline Dodwell, will bring in Monkeysee Monkeydo and Moving Tiger. Trainer Al Baldarez will bring in the only supplemental nominee, Copper Kenny.

The first two finishers across the wire will run in the final while the third and fourth place finishers will make the consolation.

Ladies Day is back this season at Ruidoso Downs Race Track

The popular Ladies Days at Ruidoso Downs Race Track will once again be held every racing Thursday.

Ladies Day will feature fashion shows by local dress shop proprietors and, for the first, time will benefit the community as a whole.

"This year we are trying something new," said organizer Laura Doth in a news release. "Ladies will be admitted to the Turf Club at the reduced rate of $7 per person. Of that admission price, $5 will be donated to a designated local charity. In this way, we are able to present an enjoyable afternoon for the area ladies and generate some interest as well as income for some very worthy local charities."

Ruidoso Downs is also trying to interest New Mexico and West Texas wineries in participating in each Ladies Day event. The winery will be able to showcase its wines on that day to all Turf Club patrons. The track is looking forward to a diverse fashion show schedule featuring local shops. Any shop interested in presenting a fashion show should contact Laura Doth at 378-4431.

There will also be an organizational meeting at 9 a.m. Friday, April 21, Cree Meadows Restaurant. All interested parties are invited to attend.

Heartbeat opens at the Inn

Heartbeat is now appearing in the Inn of the Mountain Gods piano bar in the lobby overlooking the majestic Sierra Blanca from 4:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Heartbeat can also be heard in the Ina Da Lounge from 9 p.m. until 1:30 a.m. Saturday, April 22.

According to a news release, Heartbeat is a contemporary singing duo featuring a versatile repertoire in Top 40s music, oldies, country and rock and roll. The group's live performance combines the latest in full sound, programming and dynamic stage presence.

Lead vocalist Susie Stevenson is also featured on keyboards and bass guitar. Her keyboard set-up includes several synthesizers and synth sound modules. In addition to her live performance, she uses a computer sequencer, programming it to get just the right sound to play today's Top 40, continues the release.

Stevenson has spent the last several years performing in resorts, casinos and hotel lounges across the United States.

Cindy Collins is the guitarist for the group and occasionally doubles on keyboards. According to promotional materials, she is an excellent lead vocalist and her harmonies blend perfectly with Stevenson's.

Art in the Downs

Dance set for Friday at the Teen Center

Ruidoso High School will host a golf tournament this weekend and visiting golfers will be special guests at a teen dance at the Teen Center.

All area teens are invited to the dance at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 21, in the big yellow hangar on the old airport land.

A disc jockey will provide dance music and the concession stand will be open.

Racefest performers wanted

Racefest, sponsored by the MainStreet Ruidoso Promotions Committee, is set for Saturday, May 13.

Street performers, musicians, mimes, jugglers and storytellers are invited to take part in the big festival planned for opening weekend of the 1989 racing season.

Performers are asked to contact Gaye Miller, 257-5309, or Mary Maul, 257-6346, for more information.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

Ginoveva Herrera
Services were held April fifteen at Saint Jude's Catholic Church in San Patricio and the Hondo Cemetery for Ginoveva Herrera, who was called home by our Lord on April twelve.

Ginoveva was born September 12, 1910, in Hondo, to Mr. and Mrs. Celestino Vigil. She was married December 23, 1936, in Carrizozo, to Santiago "Jimmy" Herrera, who survives her.

Other survivors include one son, Roger Herrera of San Patricio; four daughters; Oralia Brady of Alamogordo, Olympia Griego of Colorado, Minnie Luevano of Roswell and Victoria Hanson of Washington. Also three brothers: Ermiljo Martinez of Arizona, Fermin Martinez of Dexter, and Ernest Martinez of Tennessee. Also two sisters: Luisa Salas of Hondo and Martha Cadena of Tennessee. Also nineteen grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Greg Brady, Robert Griego, Ray Herrera, Ruben Herrera, Danny Luevano and Kenn Stallings.

Honorary pallbearers were Justin Hanson, Joshua Hanson, James Herrera, Ben Montes, Adam Parra, Chris Archuleta, Brian Archuleta and Mark Archuleta.

Father David Bergs, in charge of services, read from the Book of Isaiah: "And God shall wipe away all tears..."

Also the Twenty-third Psalm: "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want..."

And from the Book of Revelation: "And I, John, saw a new Heaven and a new Earth..."

Also from the Gospel according to Saint Matthew: "Rejoice and be exceeding glad for your reward in Heaven is Great..."

Father David said Ginoveva was a true Christian lady who brought great blessings to all of us by her kindness and goodwill, and her lifelong service to our Lord.

Ginoveva will always hold a fond spot in our hearts and we rejoice that she is safe and happy with our Lord in Heaven. Marcelino Valenzuela served as altar boy.

Angelic Voices
For the services four ladies sang: Angelica Ponce De Leon, Lynda Montoya, Patsy Brady, and Mary Mata.

To accompaniment of guitar the following songs were sung: "Just A Closer Walk With Thee," "Un Espirito Dorado" (A Blessed Message), "Un Dia a La Vez" (One Day At A Time), "Bendito Bendito" (Blessed, Blessed), "Tomado De La Mano De Dios" (Ahold of God's Hand), "Pescador De Hombres" (Fishers of Men), "Adios Con El Corazon" (Goodbye, Be With God, We Say It With All Our Heart), "Adios Reina Del Cielo" (Goodbye Queen of Heaven) and "Si Tu Hablas Con Dios" (If You talk to God).

Inspired by fond love and devotion, the voices were truly angelic, and sent Ginoveva "On her Way Rejoicing."

Artistic Talent In Ruidoso Downs
The second annual art show, sponsored by the Ruidoso Downs Post Office was held at the post office last Friday, April fourteen.

Postmaster Shirlene Fitzner, originator of the project, and her helpers, Cathrine Grantham, Wayne Bradley, and Joe Collins, welcomed the folks from two till four. Refreshments were served. Shirlene said, "I thought this special day should be set aside to recognize the many talented artists in our small community—and to respond to the fine community spirit that prevails in Ruidoso Downs and surrounding area."

Among the paintings, all done by Ruidoso Downs residents were: Saint Joseph's Mission, Mes-calero, and Edge of the Grand Canyon, by Dorothy Bermudez; and Gun Fighter and Old Truck by Gay Stokes.

A two-generation selection was presented by the Wilson family. Irma painted Saint Jude's Church, San Patricio. Jim painted the butterfly and two skunks. And their son, Jason, painted a moonlight tropical scene. For this he won his Cub Scout merit badge.

Lorena Rue presented her picture of the old church at San Patricio; An ocean scene was presented by artist Judy Russell; Helen Sylling showed a painting of "Desert Sand" and Virginia Daniels presented a crewel stitch picture resembling embroidery of a covered bridge and horse and buggy.

Lucy Allison presented life-sized large pink iris, very timely for this season, and a sunrise scene, over a rustic bridge.

A three generation ensemble was a feature of the show. Alan Heard showed a painting of a wayside village church; his daughter, Sue McCasland, brought in two pen and ink portraits of her two sons, James and John; and her son, John, presented a pen and ink sketch entitled "Fantasy."

Each painting had its own individual charm, showing great talent in the artist, and a love of beauty and historic tradition. I almost forgot: Billie Long's picture of a yucca plant with sunset in the background, struck a chord in the hearts of all of us.

I hope I have mentioned everybody because we are all proud of these very gifted folks. We all offer them every encouragement in their creative gifts. And we thank Shirlene and her helpers for bringing us this special day.

The Plant Corner

by Sally Black

DEAR SALLY:
Generally speaking, is the aloe vera plant as good a medicinal plant as claimed these days?
Thank you for your opinion.
Kitty M

Dear Kitty:
Yes, the plant is all "they" say it is and more in my opinion. It has healing properties that are very good for burns, cuts and scratches. It's a natural for sun and wind protection.

As early as 334 B.C., the Greeks identified aloe vera as a medicinal herb. "Aloe vera" is a term heard frequently in cosmetic circles these days. But aloe is a plant that has been traced back to ancient Egyptian times. In those days, the plant was a symbol of immortality, and pictures of aloe plants have been found inside tombs in Egypt, Algeria, Cape Verde and the Canary Islands. As a rejuvenation cream, aloe vera mixed with ginseng is often sold in health food stores.

While there are many commercial products which may be very good, there are those, one being my doctor in El Paso, who prefer the simple home remedies for cleaning and moistening facial skin. A plastic surgeon suggests the following procedure: apply plain Crisco shortening mixed with aloe vera and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Massage this into the pores of the skin. Leave on the face about five minutes, then rinse with warm to hot water, followed by cold water. There, you have a soft, clean face at a fraction of the cost of most creams.

Aloe vera barbadensis, also known as medicinal aloe, or Barbados aloe, is a member of the lily family. It forms clumps of fleshy, pointed leaves, stiffly upright about one foot long. Once in a while the plant will bloom with yellow flowers on a spike atop a tall center stalk.

These tips are helpful for growing your own aloe plants.

Soil: Do not use a rich potting mixture. Mix 50 percent sand with 50 percent number two peat-based type potting soil. Then add some vermiculite to help maintain an airy soil and the essential, fast draining condition.

Water: Keep slightly moist at all times. Never allow the soil to become completely dry and never over-water or allow to stand in a tray of water for a few minutes. This will cause "root rot." You have to learn to give enough water to keep the leaf plump and healthy. The amount of water needed will depend on the heat and humidity. The plant stores water in its juicy leaves, where the medicine is made, so you want to supply enough water to produce the healing properties.

Light and Temperature: The aloe needs a west or south exposure with five or six hours of direct sunlight, or where artificial and sunlight average 1,000 foot-candles over a twelve hour day. Aloe will survive, but not thrive on less light.

Ideal temperatures are from 50 degrees to 75 degrees, but they will tolerate a wider range.

Fertilizer: Do not fertilize newly potted plants the first year. Established plants should be fed once each fall with a standard house-plant fertilizer diluted to half the recommended strength on the label. Add a tablespoon of bone meal once a year, and also a spoon of limestone.

Repot overcrowded plants at any time of the year, but be especially careful not to set aloes any deeper than they previously grew.

Pests: I have never found an insect of any type on my aloes. However, my book says to watch for spider mites and the tacky little cotton headed mealy bugs. You know what to do with these two little suckers.

Opinion

EDITORIAL

Governor Garrey Carruthers may not have picked a good time to plan his vacation in the Ruidoso area.

Just after affixing his veto to a video gambling bill that seemed to be supported by the vast majority of Ruidoso area residents, Carruthers announced that he and his wife, Kathy, will tour southern New Mexico with a stopover in Ruidoso. According to office staff at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, the Carruthers advance team stopped in and asked them to arrange for free lodging and at least one free meal on this leg of the spring vacation.

A wide cross-section of Ruidoso residents put forth the biggest lobbying campaign we've seen in this area to persuade Carruthers to sign the video gaming legislation. Two separate petitions, with several thousand signatures, were delivered to Santa Fe. Signers wanted legislators and the governor to know that Ruidoso is in an economic slump. The bill, to allow video gambling machines in one location each in Angel Fire, Ruidoso and Taos, passed both the House and the Senate.

That's when the lobbying campaign was waged to persuade Carruthers to sign the bill. We understand that thousands of telephone calls were made to the Governor's Office in support of the bill. It seemed pretty close, and Carruthers surely must have been giving the wishes of the constituents serious consideration; otherwise he would have vetoed the measure as soon as it reached his desk instead of waiting until the very last minute.

It seemed the people of Ruidoso sent Governor Carruthers a very clear message—through petitions, letters, telephone calls and personal visits: we need a year-round tourist attraction as a boost to our economy. Many Ruidoso residents believe video gambling is just the ticket.

In the end, Carruthers vetoed the bill. And now he's coming to Ruidoso.

The Carruthers entourage might be well-advised to bring a tent and pack a lunch.—fj

DEAR EDITOR:
I take this opportunity to thank Mr. and Mrs. Moore who encouraged me and coached me in my participation in the local and regional spelling competitions. Their efforts enabled me to stand 2nd and 4th places in the regional competitions in El Paso, Texas, for the years 1988 and 1989 respectively. I also thank Beta Sigma Phi, my friends and, last but not least, my family who encouraged me all through.

it be known that we are 100% behind simulcasting.

The reason so many of us wanted simulcast was to attract tourists to Ruidoso in the winter. Our summer takes care of itself.

We wish Mr. Hubbard would see fit to help the business people here in Ruidoso both winter and summer.

Thanks,

Capitol Comments

by Kate McGraw

If You Really Wanta Know...
...Who's running for what in 1990, drop by your Democratic Party county meetings.

The politicians do. Drop by, I mean.

At the Santa Fe meeting last week, you'd have seen Bruce King and Paul Bardacke, both interested in the governor's slot, and Ernesto Ortega, lieutenant governor (count state Senator Tom Rutherford in there, too, and state Representative Tom Atcity of Shiprock).

Kay Marr and state Representative Dick Minzner were there to chat people up about attorney general (I hear Mike Runnels is interested in that race also), and Luke Otero for state corporation commissioner.

David King, who's already announced that he's running for state treasurer, was there, and Shirley Hooper, who's already told the county clerks she'll be in the race for secretary of state next year, along with Stephanie Gonzales, Phillip Archuleta is running for state-land commissioner, and he was making the rounds.

The silly season has definitely begun. Al Romero, who confirmed to me last week that he's running for state auditor again, commented wryly that "in this game, there are no winners or losers—only survivors."

He's been around long enough to know...

Meanwhile, Back in Congress...
...U.S. Senator Jeff Bingaman has introduced a bill that would allow states to reject solid waste being disposed from other states. Doesn't include radioactive waste, just the "ordinary" trash.

That could directly affect New Mexico in the wake of Governor Garrey Carruthers' veto of the landfill bill passed by the Legislature.

It could sure help the folks in Lordsburg...

According to Carruthers' press secretary Don Caviness, the governor "would probably be very supportive" of Bingaman's bill, since—again, according to Caviness—Carruthers is "very concerned about the issue."

Who knows, however, if that's really what Carruthers thinks of the Bingaman bill? Caviness declined to bother the governor with an actual inquiry about it.

And, as the folks in Taos County have discovered to their sorrow two years in a row, nobody speaks for the gov.

Getting a commitment from Carruthers' cabinet secretaries or legislative liaisons doesn't count.

Last year and this, he's vetoed appropriations for Taos that the lawmakers thought they had a promise on...and said, "Well, my people may have agreed to it, but I didn't agree."

As the political expedientists say, "A promise is not a commitment."

And to pull that kind of thing off, you really have to have loyal aides—the kind who don't bother you with anything you don't want to know...

Modern Eye Care
by Wayne A. Delamater, M.D.
Eye Surgeon

Diabetic retinopathy is a condition which affects nearly ten percent of all diabetics. It results from a proliferation of abnormal blood vessels on the surface of the retina (and sometimes in the vitreous) which frequently break. As they leak blood into the vitreous (the transparent gelatinous material that fills the eyeball), vision becomes clouded. In some cases, the further growth of rogue blood vessels may be halted through the use of laser therapy. The technique used, known as trans-retinal photocoagulation, employs the concentrated light beams to seal off leaking vessels. Success relies on early detection, semi-annual checkups, and controlling the diabetes itself. Left untreated, connective tissue may form along with the abnormal blood vessels, resulting in additional distorted vision and possible retinal detachment.

For further information, please call or schedule an appointment with your eye doctor. Dr. Delamater specializes in medical and surgical diseases of the eye. He is certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and of the American College of Surgeons. His practice is located in Roswell, New Mexico.

Local unit of the American Cancer Society organizes here

The Lincoln County unit of the American Cancer Society met April 14, for the second organizational meeting.

Dottie Dun was elected president with Ruth Wimberley, secretary, and Heidi and Frank Galley, treasurers.

Tom Hand, executive director of District 5, Las Cruces, was present for the meeting.

According to a news release, Jodie Keyes, chairman of the memorials committee, said: "More and more people are remembering their loved ones on special occasions by making contributions in their names to the American Cancer Society." She said she is getting requests for honor gifts for birthdays, anniversaries, retirements, Christmas and other holidays.

"Recipients cherish the notice of your special gift because they are helping save lives from cancer," continued the news release. When a memorial or honor gift is made, a card, which doesn't specify the amount of the contribution, is sent to the family or honoree. The donor also gets an acknowledgment card.

Keyes said donations may be sent to the American Cancer Society, PO Box 2328, Ruidoso 88345. She may be reached at 257-4862.

Boxes with memorial and honor gift envelopes have been placed in Ruidoso banks, pharmacies and some medical offices.

Dorothy Bailey is chairman of the service and rehabilitation committee, and conducts the "Reach to Recovery" program. Bailey and her committee hope to organize a support group for new and recovered cancer patients. They'll use the "I Can Cope" educational program for patients and families.

Dub Williams is chairman of the public education committee with Kathy Crane as his co-chairman. That committee has plans to stress cancer education in the public schools.

Doctors Paul Whitwam and Stephen Crowley serve on the medical committee.

The American Cancer Society, Lincoln County Unit, will meet at 11 a.m. the second Friday of each month in the multi-purpose room at the Ruidoso Public Library.

According to public information chairperson Lois Hostetter, a membership tea is being planned.

"There are no membership dues—we simply desperately need you to help the Lincoln County Unit of the American Cancer Society reach its goal, which is being ready to help cancer patients and their families with information and guidance, home care items, transportation, rehabilitation and patient education," said Hostetter.

Priorities of the local group will include cancer prevention through diet and lifestyle.

The American Cancer Society has a toll-free number: 1-800-ACS-2345.

Texas Aggies to muster at White Sands Friday

Area residents who are former students of Texas A&M University will assemble at 6:30 p.m. Friday, April 21, at the Officers Club at White Sands Missile Range for the annual Texas Aggie Muster, announced Chairmen Don R. Veazey, '64 and Wayne Dacy, '72 in a news release Tuesday.

The Officers Club is located on the southwest corner of the main post area on Raritan Avenue. Muster is open to all former students and their families, parents of students and friends of Texas A&M.

Texas A&M is in its "Second Century of Greatness," continues the release.

During the last 100 years, Texas A&M has grown from a small Land Grant College to one of the leading research and educational institutions in the nation, Veazey and Dacy report.

Aggie Muster dates back to 1883 and has been conducted annually every since. More than 400 Musters will take place around the world this year. "Wherever Texas A&M former students live or work," Veazey said.

During wars, Aggies mustered in foxholes, on the battlefield, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was on Corregidor Island shortly before the Japanese captured it in 1942.

Every Muster ceremony is the same, Dacy explained. Texas Aggies pay their respects to all those who are absent because of death since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers, "Here".

Reservations to the Muster dinner are required said Veazey. Those interested in attending the dinner are requested to notify either Veazey or Dacy at Muster Chairman, 2040 San Acacio, Las Cruces, NM 88001 or phone 524-0975 for further details.

carnival. Donations may be taken to the school office. For further information, or for pickup, call White Mountain Intermediate School, 258-4150.
