One car accident

Gloria Taylor of Capitan was involved in a one car rollover accident Monday morning near High Country Lodge. According to State Police, the car was southbound on New Mexico 48 and slid across the roadway to avoid an oncoming vehicle. The vehicle hit a fence and turned over one time. Taylor was taken by ambulance to Lincoln County Medical Center.

Valley residents resist landfill plan

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

It was either American grassroots democracy in action, or special interest politics pressuring local government.

The commissioners meeting room was filled during a regular meeting Monday with Hondo Valley residents who said "Not in my back yard!"

The residents expressed opposition to a proposed landfill site on property owned by Kenneth Nosker. The Village of Ruidoso Downs submitted the application for a permit to the state Environmental Improvement Division (EID) office.

"I ask you for myself and my neighbors to do something," said Calvin Wesch of Glencoe.

The residents attended the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners (LCBC) to take action to stop the authorization of the landfill, citing as reasons possible damage to the environment, the beauty of the valley, and to property values in the vicinity.

"Let's keep these assets that are irreplaceable," said Michael Hurd.

According to the residents there, the proposed landfill site is located on a hillside above the Rio Ruidoso.

"It doesn't take a grade school child to know when you put rain on a hill it will run into a river," said Charles L. Caperton, an attorney from Dallas, Texas, and a landowner in the Hondo Valley.

Jim Tully said the county's history is known world-wide and is a source of tourism dollars.

"They know about Billy the Kid in Pongo-Pongo," said Tully. "What a shame it would be to place here where (all this history) was made a garbage heap."

Commission Chairperson Karon Z. Petty told the crowd it was the opinion of the county attorney, J. Robert Beauvais, the county had no enforcement power with the zoning ordinance without zoning maps in place.

However, Beauvais changed his opinion and offered a new interpretation to the commission during another meeting (see related story).

Caperton said the county does have the authority to stop a landfill.

"You have the power to say no," said Caperton, who then paraphrased Edmund Burke: "All it takes for evil to win is for good people to do nothing."

"I think we have been complacent," said Petty.

The commissioners then discussed the drafting of a special ordinance to give the county the authority to prevent any landfill be-

Sammy Lopez joins Ruidoso News staff

Sammy M. Lopez, 34, has been named business manager of The Ruidoso News this week by publisher Ken Green.

Lopez is currently publisher of the Deming Headlight, a daily newspaper in Deming. He will continue as publisher of the Headlight, but Ruidoso will serve as his home base.

Both newspapers are owned by Rajlon Publishing Inc.

Lopez and his family have lived in Deming for a year and a half. They moved from Taos, where Lopez was business manager at the award-winning Taos News for eight years.

He has more than 15 years experience in the newspaper business that ranges from photographer to advertising and production manager to his present dual duties as business manager of one paper and publisher for another.

A native New Mexican, Lopez grew up in Belen where he graduated from Belen High School. He started his newspaper career at the Valencia County News Bulletin in Belen, where he has served as photographer, production manager and ad salesman.

Lopez was publisher of the DeBaca County News in Fort Sumner for five years and the Vallejo Voice in Los Lunas for a year before moving to the Taos News.

A former president of the New Mexico Press Association, Lopez also has been a consistent winner in that professional association's state-wide contests. He has won awards in photography, supplements and special editions and advertising.

He and his wife, Kathy, have a four-year-old son, Anthony.

"I'm excited to be back in a resort community," said Lopez.

Both he and his wife enjoy all kinds of outdoor sports, including hiking, camping, hunting and skiing.

Lopez has been active in civic organizations in the communities where he has lived. He has been president of chapters in the Lions Club and Jaycees, and has been a member of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

Lopez and his family are getting settled in their new home, and he is on the job at The Ruidoso News.

Davis appoints Hawthorne judge

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Mayor Lloyd L. Davis, during a regular meeting Tuesday, named local attorney Charles Hawthorne to fill the municipal judge's position left vacant by the death of Bill Payne.

Davis said he wanted to appoint someone from the legal profession.

The Hawthorne appointment was just one of nine items on the Ruidoso Village Council agenda on Tuesday night.

During the meeting, Davis expressed his respect for Payne, who died on Sunday. Payne was elected Ruidoso municipal judge in March 1988, after he had been appointed by Davis to fill the position left vacant when former Municipal Judge John Cupp died.

Hawthorne was sworn into office on Wednesday by village clerk Tammie Maddox.

During Tuesday's meeting, the council also passed Resolution 89-22, which endorses the selection by the New Mexico State Highway and Transportation Department of the 45 mile per hour alternate routes for the expansion of State Highway 48.

The Highway Department required the formal endorsement of the selection by the village council in order to file an application for a Finding of No Significant Impact from the Federal Highway Administration.

During the discussion of the resolution, Stan Cape of A-Frame Cabins asked Highway Department representatives present at the meeting if a date to begin construction had been set. He said the construction will affect everyone on Highway 48.

Cape also asked who will be picking up the bill for moving the village utilities caused by the construction.

Councillor Al Junge told Cape the village is required by law to pay for moving the utilities.

"I still have a lot of questions about scheduling," Cape said.

Allan Whitesel of the Highway

Department told the councillors the project study team recommended the 45 mph alternates and recommended acquiring rights of way on both halves of the project before any construction begins.

He said that process will probably begin in August 1990, and bids on construction will be opened in January or February 1991, with construction to begin soon after the bids are awarded.

When asked by Cape if there will be any more public meetings on the project, Whitesel said there will be a design public hearing in the future which will provide a more detailed look at the actual design.

Attorney Charles Hawthorne is sworn in Wednesday as the new municipal judge by village clerk Tammie Maddox. Hawthorne fills the position left vacant by the death of Bill Payne on Sunday.

Cape said the months of January and February will be bad months to start construction, because of weather conditions and the economic impact on businesses.

Davis said he hopes whoever is sitting in the council chairs at that time will go to bat for the businesses and have the construction delayed awhile.

He said the widening of Mechem has been delayed for at least 10 years that he knows of, and he hopes the resolution will get the Highway Department off deadlock and get them going on the final design.

"We just want them to get started," said Davis.

The council gave Davis approval to send a letter to the Otero Federal Credit Union asking them to allow the Ruidoso village employees to join as a group.

Division director Leon Eggleston said the village has been trying for several years to get a credit union started or to get one to come into Ruidoso. He said joining the credit union won't affect the village except with the initial deductions from individual village employee's paychecks.

Councillor Jess Stinson asked if joining the credit union will be on a voluntary basis, and Eggleston replied that only those who want it will join. He said most employees will probably join.

Schools put TV news in classrooms

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso Municipal Schools signed a contract Tuesday to allow a controversial televised newscast into secondary grade classrooms.

The program, called Channel 1, is a 10-minute current events style broadcast with teen-age announcers. Superintendent Sid Miller announced its adoption at a regular meeting of the Ruidoso Board of Education.

The broadcast focuses on major news events and identifies the location of the event on a global map, enhancing geographic knowledge and student awareness of current events.

The system is free and the communications firm, Whipple, installs, at no charge, all the equipment which includes satellite dishes, televisions for every 23 students and VCRs.

The controversy concerns the inclusion of two minutes of commercials during the daily broadcast.

"They have a captive audience," said Miller.

Those commercials, by such large firms as Levi Strauss, and the manufacturers of cosmetics, toiletries and other items generally purchased by teen-agers, is the reason the program is free to school systems. The program and equipment is paid for by the sponsors.

Miller said the firm guarantees the commercials will not be of controversial items such as over the counter drugs, contraceptives or other products that potentially could be objectionable.

"We feel like it's a real good program," said Miller.

"It's very informative," said Tom Hansen, principal of Ruidoso High School.

Ruidoso Middle School principal Mike Gladden said the program has the potential to enhance global knowledge, an area in which students throughout the country perform very poorly.

Gladden believes the two minutes of commercial time are insignificant.

"You see a commercial on our score board at our football field," he said.

The program is transmitted to the school at 6 a.m. daily, and is then taped for replay at a later time at the school's discretion.

The equipment installed by the firm is available for use by the schools for other purposes without any charges or restriction by the firm.

If the school does not use the daily broadcasts, however, the firm comes by and takes the equipment back.

"We feel it is worth every risk," said Miller.

A representative of the firm came to the schools promoting the program. The contract was signed then because the representative was not able to return, but the contract is not binding, said Miller.

Members of the board said they would like to review the program and obtain feedback from the community before authorizing its use.

In discussion of the audit report, Terry Jones said, overall, things were handled well by the central administrative office.

"Though once in a while something will slip through," he said.

The system is on sound footing, but Jones said he would like to see the central office do a better job in evaluating on-site expenditures, with special attention placed on the use of federal monies.

Jones noted one case where monies designated for materials under the Drug-Free program were used to purchase non-drug related items.

When federal monies are spent on items other than what they were intended, they can be taken back, said Jones.

A proposed use of new revenues was presented by the central office which included the addition of two

In a single motion, approved by village attorney John Underwood, Junge moved the village set December 12 as the public hearing date for five different requests.

The public hearings on December 12 will be on a zoning map amendment for Lot 6 and Tract P Block 16, Palmer Gateway Subdivision and a zoning map amendment for the north half and southeast quarter of Section 25.

Also set for public hearing on December 12 will be the initial zoning of Wingfield Park and the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

The final public hearing will be on Ordinance 89-8 regarding the Airport Hazard Zoning Regulations.

The two zoning map amendments involve the rezoning of properties from C-2 Community Commercial to I-1 Industrial.

The applicant of Lot 6 and Tract P Block 16 Palmer Gateway Subdivision, Maurice S. Cole Incorporated, is requesting the old Gibson's building be rezoned in order to accommodate an electronics assembly operation which is not permitted in the current C-2 community commercial district.

The applicant of the north half and southeast quarter of Section 25, J.B. Close, is requesting rezoning to accommodate industrial level activity on property adjoined to the north and east by property now zoned I-1 Industrial. The tract of land is located on Gavilan Canyon Road and is currently occupied by a mobile home park.

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission on November 6, recommended to the council, Wingfield Park be zoned planned unit development-mixed and the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport be zoned planned unit development-industrial.

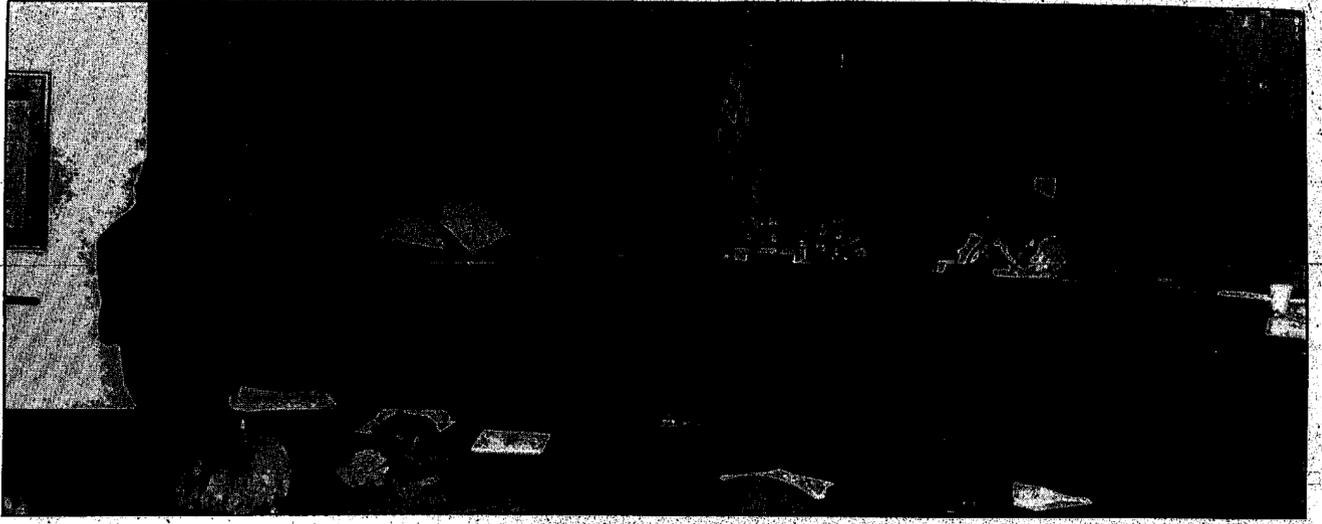

The commission recommended the zoning on Wingfield Park because it is compatible with the PUD zoning on adjoining properties and it conforms to the Village Comprehensive Plan. The zoning on the airport was recommended because it is compatible with the development requirements of the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport Master Plan.

Both Wingfield Park, comprising 6,687 acres, and the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, comprising 1,663.1 acres, are village owned properties and are currently before the village council for annexation. The initial zoning is required along with the annexation procedure.

Ordinance 89-8 deals with airport hazard zoning regulations for the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport. Those regulations are required and have been approved by the Federal Aviation Administration to control development surrounding the airport.

Following all regular items on the agenda, the council went into executive session, with Underwood, to discuss pending or threatening litigation.

After the executive session, the meeting was adjourned.

Dallas attorney Charles L. Caperton speaks to the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners during a regular meeting Monday. Caperton told the commission its members do have the power to stop a landfill proposed in the Hondo Valley which is opposed by many residents in the vicinity. A petition with about 200 signatures condemning the site was presented the commission at the meeting. "You are good people," Caperton told the commissioners.

gining operations in Lincoln County without first getting the permission of the LCBC.

All the commissioners agreed an ordinance is in order, which would require a public hearing.

But both commissioners Robert E. Hemphill and Rick Simpson noted that Hondo Valley residents previously were opposed to any zoning ordinances in the county, but were now requesting a special ordinance be drafted at that meeting.

Valley resident George Mendoza questioned Simpson in particular if he would support the group in stopping the proposed landfill.

"I will go with the direction of the public hearing," said Simpson. "If that's what the public wants, then that's what I'm here for."

Representatives of EID were also present at the meeting.

District supervisor Gary McCaslin told the commission that Section 503 of the new regulations states the county can pass any law on regulations of landfills as long as it is as stringent or more stringent than EID's.

Petty made a motion for a special meeting to discuss a special ordinance that would preclude any new landfills in the county without first obtaining permission from the LCBC and only after a public hearing.

The special meeting was scheduled for 3 p.m. Wednesday in Carrizozo, and is reported in this issue of The News.

McCaslin told members of the audience the process to permit the proposed site has been moving along faster than what was expected.

One member of the audience asked if the valley residents could be secure knowing the site would not be permitted before the county conducts a public hearing in December on any new ordinance.

"I would not rest easy," said McCaslin.

Solid waste bureau chief Neil Weber said he believed it would be months before the process would reach a public hearing.

Drilling for core samples at the proposed site began Wednesday morning as required in the permitting process (see related story).

The commissioners took action to direct the county Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) to begin preliminary mapping of the county according to proposed zones.

The process includes public hearings on the proposed zones before they become law.

"There is so much misinformation about the zoning ordinance itself, this is the only way to get any the present board and the selection of a new one.

Simpson said he would like to see the LCMC board remain in the hands of professionals and not the politicians.

"At the same time I would like to see us represented," said Simpson.

"We have a very large board now," said LCMC administrator Steve Keller. The board is well-represented throughout the county from both incorporated and unincorporated municipalities and areas, said Keller.

A motion to leave the appointment process as is passed unanimously.

Immediately following that vote, the commissioners voted to change board positions with Petty and Hemphill.

Commissioner Petty is now the county representative on the LCMC board, and Hemphill is now the county representative on the board of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County (EDCLC).

George Puckett presented the EDCLC's first quarterly report to the LCBC as requested by the commission. He also presented an audit report.

Recommendations made in the audit call for EDCLC to change from a cash accounting method to an accrual accounting method.

Puckett said he is pleased with EDCLC's progress so far.

CALVIN WESCH

real information out," said Hemphill.

County manager Nick Pappas suggested the commission consider a consultant to help P&Z with the zoning process, but no action was taken on the suggestion.

Discussion followed on a proposed contract amendment to allow the LCBC to appoint the members of the Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) Board of Trustees.

Petty, making the request, said the county may wish to take a more active role in LCMC management.

Hemphill said he would agree to the LCBC appointing a member to the LCMC board from each district, but would not agree to disbanding

MICHAEL HURD

"Since February, when an executive director was hired, progress has been made," said Puckett, who is the executive director of EDCLC.

High-tech businesses are being sought. It is hoped a firm manufacturing circuit boards can be established in the county, said Puckett.

Warp Speed is one such business already established in the county with 10 employees.

"It could be explosive, really," said Puckett of Warp Speed. "They are business partners with IBM."

Puckett also said projects are in the works for companies to come to both Corona and Carrizozo, but he declined to discuss them in front of the media.

There are also plans to offer a penny stock in the county in the future, said Puckett.

In other business the LCBC: —Approved the minutes of the October 23 regular meeting.

—Accepted a letter from District Judge Richard A. Parsons, who was absent, regarding storage space for court records and other problems the judiciary faces in the county facilities.

—Approved a senior employment program with the state agency on aging.

—Approved an amendment for legal services and for research with the Water Defense Association.

—Approved a split contract for base course gravel to be picked up from the one of two sites closest to the job being completed.

—Approved resolution number 78-24, a prior year bills and budget increase.

—Approved resolution number 78-25, a budget increase and the creation of a new fund for mill levy appropriations.

—Approved the payroll register and the accounts payable register and accepted the treasurer's report.

—Approved the designation of polling places.

—Heard a request from Tim Worrell that the Capitan Gap county road be made a higher priority for maintenance.

Medicine gone

Don Swalander, pharmacist who owns Don's Pharmacy, points to an empty space on a shelf where the medicine L-Tryptophan formerly was located. Shelves in other Ruidoso drug outlets and health food stores also were cleaned out after state health officials banned the sale of the dietary supplement. It is suspected of causing a rare blood disease among some users, especially in New Mexico.

Commissioner's call a halt to garbage dumps

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The county can take action on illegal dumping and does not have to allow a landfill permitted by the Environmental Improvement Division (EID).

This was the new interpretation of the county zoning ordinance offered by county attorney J. Robert Beauvais to the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners (LCBC) during a special meeting Wednesday.

Lincoln County has the police authority to take either civil or criminal action, or both, in the case of illegal dumping, and can regulate the establishment of new landfills in the county through the permitting process.

The special meeting was scheduled to discuss the formation of a new ordinance governing the establishment of landfill operations in the county.

A previous interpretation of the county zoning ordinance made by Beauvais was the special use permit ordinance was not enforceable without the comprehensive zoning ordinance in place.

Because of this interpretation, the LCBC was under the impression it was powerless to stop, or at least regulate, the development of a landfill in the county.

Beauvais changed his opinion after the commission requested he take another look at the ordinance, he said.

"The county does have the authority to regulate landfills through the permitting process," said Beauvais.

The county attorney began his explanation by citing state statute 4-56-3, paragraph C, which states "The board of county commissioners may determine that the collection and disposal of refuse is in the interest of public health, safety and welfare, and regulate such collection and disposal within the county."

Beauvais said the county took this power through the enactment of the county zoning ordinance in 1985 when it created the special use ordinance, citing landfills among operations regulated by such a permit.

Rereading of the severability clause of the ordinance provided further evidence the special use ordinance could legally stand on its own.

In most circumstances, severability clauses are established to protect an ordinance from becoming invalid in the event a portion of the whole ordinance is found to be unconstitutional or void for some reason, said Beauvais.

"This severability clause is different," he said.

Language in the clause can be interpreted to say each section of the ordinance is a whole unit itself and, therefore, separate and independent of any other section of the ordinance, said Beauvais.

In conclusion, no landfill, or any other operation falling under the special use permit category, can begin operation without approval of the LCBC.

"I am very certain of this," said Beauvais.

But Richard Hawthorne, attorney for the Village of Ruidoso Downs, who was present during the special meeting, disagreed with Beauvais' interpretation.

Hawthorne believes, because the county does not have a comprehensive zoning ordinance, it has no police authority over the establishment of a landfill.

—Ruidoso Downs has applied for a permit to operate a landfill on land owned by Kenneth Nosker in the Hondo Valley.

"My advice to the village is if EID issues that permit ... to go ahead and do as they choose," said Hawthorne.

Many residents in the vicinity of the proposed site are opposed to the landfill and approached the LCBC to do what it could to stop the process.

Of particular concern to the area residents is the potential contamination of groundwater.

"I don't want my grandchildren to run around with four legs or three arms because my groundwater is polluted," said San Patricio resident Mike Randall.

The commission directed county manager Nick Pappas to draft a letter to be sent to EID notifying the state agency that the county has an ordinance regulating the establishment of landfills in Lincoln County.

Also discussed was what kind, if any, of police action could the county take in the event of illegal dumping.

In section two, paragraph (a) of article one of the Lincoln County Zoning Ordinance, it says "No person shall permit to accumulate upon premises owned, leased or occupied by him, which are within 200 feet of another inhabited premises, any garbage or refuse, except in covered, watertight containers made of metal or plastic."

And in paragraph (d): "Any unauthorized accumulation of garbage, refuse, or debris is hereby declared to be a nuisance and is unlawful."

The ordinance further gives authority to the County Sheriff to inspect and enter private property, with probable cause that unlawful disposal of refuse exists.

EID is currently involved in a legal battle with Nosker and Ruidoso Downs Mayor Jake Harris over alleged illegal dumping on Nosker's property.

Nosker refused to allow EID officials onto his property to dig test holes to verify the removal of the garbage there.

A contempt order was filed in Santa Fe, which was delayed because the attorney of record for Nosker was out of the country. The contempt hearing was rescheduled for Monday, November 20.

Members of the audience during the special meeting Wednesday asked if the LCBC could take action against Nosker for the alleged illegal dumping considering it was a published fact and that Harris admitted at the meeting garbage was still buried there.

"This commission does not act on hearsay," said commission Chairperson Karon Z. Petty. "At this time we do not have a formal written complaint."

Beauvais said a complaint filed in the Sheriff's Office would come to the commission, who would then have to make a decision on whether or not to take action.

Should an individual be charged with illegal disposal of refuse, the county can take either criminal or civil action, or both.

The commission also moved not to begin the process to develop a five-member county board with each member to serve staggered four-year terms.

"If it works, don't fix it," said Commissioner Rick Simpson of the current three-member board.

Beauvais also gave the Pappas to follow through with repairs and improvements to the heating/cooling system in the county buildings.

After inspecting the basement of the county courthouse, it was discovered pipes were continuously leaking posing an immediate threat to records stored there.

The Plant Corner

by Sally Black

DEAR SALLY:

I'm not sure of the name of my plant that I'm concerned about. Some say it looks a bit like the marijuana plant, for sure, it is not. I have had the plant for many years. It does not look as healthy as it once did. Perhaps it is "old" and needs to be replaced or better yet, repotting just may do the trick. Will appreciate your help.

Thanks,
Betty Mc.

DEAR BETTY:

I am so pleased to tell you to repot your plant. They grow as small trees when cultivated in ideal surroundings in zones 16 and 17, and 22, 23, and 24. They grow from five to 10 feet tall, are evergreen and live for many, many years. The leaves on the plants are lacy-divided like fans into very narrow, nine-inch long leaflets with notched edges. After the plant reaches about five feet tall, the leaves begin to lose their fine, rich blue-black filigree appearance, and become much coarser and broader. When grown in the garden they produce pretty little flowers but rarely flowers as a house plant. The leaves are coppery in color when they unfold, but then become so dark a green they seem nearly black.

Soil—Fast drainage is absolutely essential. Porous soil with lots of vermiculite and sharp sand. Prepare your new, larger pot. It would be good to get a tall 10- to 15-gallon size plastic pot. Fill the bottom with about eight to 10 inches of plastic do-dads in the bottom. Next, dribble sand over the plastic chunks to fill in the cracks, add about four inches of potting mixture, water thoroughly before placing the plant into the new pot. Holding the plant in place, fill in all around with new soil mixture. Cover only to the level previously covered. Water again very thoroughly. Let the water flow through before placing the pot in the drip tray. Never feed a newly potted plant for at least four months.

Water—Keep a slightly moist soil at all times. The sand and vermiculite help hold a good, moist, not wet, soil. Small but frequent waterings will help keep a moist condition. Water-logged or dry, dry soil will cause the leaves to drop. After the newly potted plant is so thoroughly watered, wait until it is just slightly moist before the next watering.

Light—Give the aralia ample light but no direct sunshine. Curtain-filter sunlight if the plant is in a west or south exposure. The aralia does best with an overhead light such as a sky-light or a grow-light attached over the plant and if only artificial light is available, provide at least 400 foot candles.

Temperature—Evenly warm conditions are as essential as fast draining soil mix. A range of 65 degrees to 85 degrees is ideal, but it will tolerate a night temperature of about 60 degrees and days of about 90 degrees. Also, only water with room-temperature water. It helps to keep the roots warm if you place the planted pot inside another container, such as a more decorative basket or brass planter.

Fertilizer—Feed established plants every two weeks from early spring to early fall with a standard house plant fertilizer, such as Peters, diluted to one third the strength recommended on the label, but do not feed during the rest of the year. Propagate in the spring or summer from stem cuttings.

Pests—Spider mites and scales can be a problem on plants grown inside. These don't seem to bother the plants if grown in the garden. Probably because the wasps eat these pests in the garden. Check often for pests so they don't get a head-start on the plant. You can place the plant in a shady, protected area from the winds, such as a deck or patio in summer for a few weeks to allow the wasps to clean them for you. Also, they love a gentle summer rain.

Fire danger is high

The sign outside the Smokey Bear Ranger Station indicates that the conditions for fires in the Lincoln National Forest is high. The conditions are extremely dry due to the lack of precipitation in the area over the last month.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

Paul Cunningham

On November twelve I received word from Mrs. Jeanette Browning of Glencoe, that her brother, Paul Cunningham, was called home by Our Lord on November nine from his home in Fayetteville, Arkansas. Private services were planned for November thirteen, and Military services the same day with burial at the National Cemetery at Fayetteville. Paul was a good friend of the Storm family and greatly beloved throughout Lincoln County.

Jeanette gave me a story on the life of Paul, of which a portion follows:

In Memory of Leslie Paul Cunningham

"Born, May 1, 1918, in El Paso, Paul lived in the Glencoe-Ruidoso Area from age three to twenty three. He attended Ruidoso Valley grade schools and Hondo High School. A natural musician he played the piano and other instruments by ear. He played for dances and other gatherings through the Ruidoso-Glencoe area, and also at the U.S.O. Clubs while in the service.

On December one, 1941, Paul was married to the former Bethel Payton, a member of a prominent Lincoln County family. She was the daughter of Elmer and Maymie Payton.

Shortly after the wedding they moved from Hagerman to Huntington Beach, California. Within a few months Paul was called into service, completing his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood in Missouri. Immediately after training he was sent to the battlefields of the Pacific Area with the 854 combat engineers Battalion. He returned home after four years in World War II in the Pacific, in 1945.

Paul and Bethel then settled in Fayetteville, where they lived the life of farmers and ranchers. Bethel has been a professor at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville for thirty-two years.

Survivors include his wife,

Bethel; two sons, Paul Ray and wife of Little Rock, Arkansas, and Leslie of Fayetteville; two granddaughters, Sarah and Paula Cunningham; two sisters, Flora Mae Cunningham Reed and family of Prairie Grove, Arkansas; and Jeanette Browning and family of Glencoe, N.M.

His great sense of humor, a kind and loving sense of responsibility to his family friends, neighbors and country were Paul's guiding principles in his life.

Paul will ever hold a fond spot in our hearts and we are happy that this Christian gentleman is safe and happy with our Lord in Heaven.

Keeper of the Vineyard

I have walked as one with grass and sky and stream, filled the soil with seeds for the seasons of rebirth.

I have worked under stars and lightning and rainbows, I have blessed the sunlight and cried out for the rain.

I have shared in creation, shouting the joy and pain, and shaped the cheekbones of the earth with orchard, cattle and plow.

Love and laughter have given me strength, made me whole, as the fields have fed my body and the mountains fed my soul.

Veterans Day Ceremonies
Veterans Day ceremonies were held at eleven o'clock last Saturday at the Legion hall in Ruidoso Downs. All three Veterans organizations were represented: Post 79

Robert J. Hagee post of the American Legion; Coe-Curry Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans; and Jerome D. Klein Post 7072 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The flag was raised by Elwood Gradine and Bob Easterday and the hand salute led by Romeo Klein, organizer of the day's activities. Lemuel Clarke, commander of the local American Legion welcomed the veterans and their wives.

Dub Williams gave an inspiring talk reminding us of our many blessings, saying that when he prays at night he gives thanks for his family, friends, country and God. He went on to say that God has truly blessed us in our native land, and that on this day we honor veterans both fallen and living, and also their families. He reminded us that we began celebrating this day seventy one years ago, the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, The Armistice Day of 1918, ending World War I.

Merrell Pet, Chaplain of the American Legion, gave a prayer asking God's blessing upon all Veterans saying he was thankful for his family, friends, Country and for God's blessings upon us all.

Among the men and women present I was pleased to meet John and Edna Dittmar who have moved to Ruidoso from Oklahoma.

Dinner At Elk's Club
Up at the Elk's Club a grand dinner was served under the direction of Ray Walker, to all veterans and their families. Bob Easterday and his wife, Kay, helped with the serving. Ray said that he served about ninety people.

Ray, who is Veterans Service Commission Chairman for the Elks, and also the Chaplain, has been serving this dinner for ten years. "I can't quit" he says.

Ray is also working on a project to raise money for Michael Malis for his liver transplant. We are all proud of Ray, and thankful for his good work.

All in all it was a fine veterans day. I remember the Day on November 11, 1918 when the loud whistles began blowing at the railroad yard in the town of Ashland, Oregon, and church bells began ringing and the town went wild with happy celebration as the word spread that the war was over. Our Mother came to the door with hands clasped in prayer of thanks and her blue eyes filled with tears of joy as she called out to the neighborhood: "Thank God, the war is over."

Malaika Tully To Visit Hawaii

Malaika Tully, twelve-year-old daughter of Gerry and Jane Tully, my good Across-the-Creek neighbors, will leave this Saturday for Hawaii. She is going with Davis and Claire Greenwood of Anthony, N.M. and their daughter, Tara Coombs.

Tara is Malaika's companion in riding in the horse shows throughout the southwest. Many times Malaika and Tara have come riding across the pasture to see if I am all right and to bring me homemade cookies that they have made themselves.

Malaika is carrying on the horseback tradition of the Tully family by riding jumping and show horses in the Horse shows. With her golden hair flying, she is like a little angel on horseback as she goes galloping across the field. I know that Malaika and her friends will have a great visit in our fiftieth state and we will be interested in what they have to tell us when they return.

Let us wish these folks a safe and happy journey, and let us thank God for all our blessings.

Community Involvement

Neighbor helping neighbor, that's how Contel views its efforts in the communities we serve.

Why does Contel contribute money, time, and other resources to community organizations?

On the surface, charitable contributions fulfill corporations' responsibilities to society and give satisfaction for a job well done. But they accomplish more than that. They are investments in the community we share.

Our kids, like your kids, go to neighborhood schools. We sit together at PTA meetings. We travel the same streets and bump carts at local markets. We vote in local elections. Like you, we share community problems and we share community pride.

While Contel can't fill all requests, we do try to choose those that best serve our community.

Ruidoso Downs trustees welcome volunteer fire department chief

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

The Ruidoso Downs Trustees met the new chief of the Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department, proclaimed the Great American Smoke-Out for today (Thursday) and reviewed routine department reports during Monday's regular meeting.

The board unanimously approved the Fire Department's officers who were elected last week; and welcomed Chief Sonny Asbury, who was present for the meeting, Humberto Maldonado was elected assistant chief; Ben Jeffrey, captain and training officer; and Mark Hazel, secretary.

"We're proud of the Fire Department," said Trustee LeVerne Cole. "You are doing a good job," she added.

Mayor Jake Harris also had words of praise for the Police Department, noting that department is staying busy and doing a good job.

Police Chief Skip Hazel, in his written report, said that in October Downs police made two DWI arrests, two felony arrests, two reckless/careless driving arrests, one assault arrest and one detox.

The department investigated one burglary, one assault/battery, five larceny over $100, four vandalism reports and 56 general cases. One stolen item was recovered.

Ruidoso Downs Police issued 93 traffic citations and responded to one accident without injuries. Members of the department spent 18 hours doing special community service and 25 hours in training.

Hazel said his department logged 988 telephone calls.

In a written report, animal control officer Justin Clark reported handling 29 animals during October, including eight dogs, nine cats, three skunks, six horses and three squirrels. He issued three warnings and euthanized 15 animals.

Also during the meeting, Harris asked acting clerk Leann Weibrecht to correct the minutes from the last meeting. During that meeting, discussions took place about allegations that Trustee Wilma Webb, while municipal clerk, purchased a gun with village funds.

Webb said the gun was for a village police officer, and she had the purchase cleared with the Department of Finance and Administration before making the purchase.

"The gun wasn't bought for the Police Department, it was bought for a private individual and it is in his possession," said Harris Monday. "I want that clarified," he added.

In regular business Monday, the trustees voted unanimously to accept the lowest bid and purchase 15,000 utility bill forms from Bishop Printing Co. in Albuquerque. According to the bid, the forms will cost $283.36 per 1,000, for a total of $4,250.44.

Weibrecht said the village uses 683 billing forms a month.

She said Ruidoso Printing said they couldn't do the job, and didn't submit a bid. The only other bid was from Coats and Clarke for $459 a thousand.

Trustee Travis Hicks wanted to know if the Police Department ordered the tires that were discussed last meeting, and learned that those tires are already on and mounted. Hazel said the village took the lowest bid.

Harris noted that the village has many used tires, and he is checking to see if they can be recapped.

"Can you still throw tires in the county dump?" asked Cole.

"Well, yes; we can dump anything there," answered Harris.

The Village of Ruidoso Downs is in the process of getting a permit to operate its own landfill.

Texas man selected to head Ruidoso Chamber

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board appointed a new executive director Tuesday.

Jerry Lee Watts, a chamber executive in El Paso, will report for duty in Ruidoso in the very near future said chamber president Ronnie Paulger.

Watts replaces John Jeffers who resigned last spring to accept a position in Las Cruces.

The board approved hiring Watts at a base salary of $32,000, the same salary Jeffers was drawing when he resigned. Watts, in addition, will receive up to $2,000 in moving expenses, $150 per month for auto expense and $100 per month toward personal insurance.

"Tough questions he handled well... I like the guy," said Cindy Lynch, a member of the search committee.

Tony Wilcoxson, also on the committee, said he was impressed with the man.

"He's certainly adequate," Wilcoxson said.

"He is a good technician, an organizer," Paulger said.

At present Watts is director of member services for El Paso Chamber of Commerce. He has held executive vice president positions with chambers in Duncanville, Texas; Shawnee, Ardmore and Miami, Oklahoma.

Just before coming to El Paso in 1987, he was regional vice president with Timbercon Builders in Fort Worth, Texas.

Early in his career Watts was Metropolitan Tulsa Chamber of Commerce manager in the membership department. He also was director of information services, Greater Lake Charles Chamber of Commerce in Lake Charles, Louisiana.

Watts is a graduate of McNeese State University where he majored in economics and minored in business administration.

Malis fund hits $45,000

The Michael Malis Fund continues to grow with the support of the community.

According to Connie Boehm at the Ruidoso State Bank, as of today (Thursday), there is $45,998.02 in the fund.

Fundraisers continue this weekend with Ruidoso's first all-city garage sale, planned from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, November 19, to benefit the six-year old child who needs a lifesaving liver transplant.

In Appreciation of the Arts, a benefit for Michael Malis, is planned from 4-6 p.m. Sunday, November 19, at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount.

The afternoon will include music, wine and cheese, door prizes and exhibits of unique items ranging from American Indian art to antiques. Some art will be available for sale. Advance tickets are available at the Aspen Tree Bookstore, Dr. Annala's office or from members of the Episcopal Church. Tickets will be available at the door.

Other fundraising projects include:

—The Ruidoso Jaycees and Ruidoso's Discovery Travel are having a benefit for Michael Malis. They are selling tickets to win a trip for two for two nights and three days to San Diego. It includes airfare, hotel, rental car with unlimited mileage and two Walt Disney attractions in San Diego or Los Angeles.

Classic car is donated for benefit garage sale

A 1963 Plymouth Belvedere in almost mint condition will be an attraction at the "First All-City Garage Sale for a Special Little Boy."

A flyer about the sale calls attention to the event set for noon to 4 p.m. Sunday at Ski West Center.

The car has been donated to the auction by a civic-minded individual in Ruidoso who prefers to remain anonymous.

The old car, almost a classic, is valued at $1,000. The odometer shows 51,000 miles.

Sealed bids are being accepted by personnel at Ruidoso State Bank and Brunell's.

Or, bids will be accepted Sunday at the Ski West Center parking lot at the Midtown parking lot. The car is currently on view at the Ruidoso State Bank parking lot.

All proceeds from the garage sale will go to help with expenses for Ruidoso's Malis family. Six-year-old Michael Malis, needs a liver transplant operation in Children's Hospital, Denver, Colorado.

Donations of items for the sale will be accepted anytime after 3 p.m. at the Ski West Center parking lot.

Anything left after 4 p.m. Sunday will be picked up by charitable organizations.

Capitan eliminates police position, sends annexation requests to P&Z

Capitan trustees cut the village police department in half Monday.

During a regular meeting, trustees eliminated one of two police positions from the village force and referred two annexation requests to the Capitan Planning and Zoning Committee (P&Z).

After an executive session to discuss personnel, Trustee David Rouleau moved to eliminate the junior police position.

Capitan Mayor Benny Coker explained that two deputy sheriffs, one state police officer and the Lincoln County sheriff all live in Capitan. He said the trustees have to think of the taxpayers, that Capitan has an abundance of law enforcement officers.

The action saves a salary of $1,610.72 plus benefits each month, according to Janet N. Keel, village clerk-treasurer.

The move leaves Chief Randy Spear as the only city police officer. Tom Hammon, whose position was eliminated, was to be terminated as of November 15, the end of a pay period.

Trustee Myrl Ray cast the only dissenting vote.

Also Monday, Tom Sullivan asked the village to annex 10.36 acres of land he owns adjacent to the village limits just off the Carrizozo highway.

Sullivan said he has his own well and doesn't need water service. He said he had paid $1,000 in 10 years in taxes and "there has been no blade on the road that I know of."

Ben and Adrian Taylor asked the village to annex 8.43 acres they own in the Mesa Verde Subdivision. They seek water service for a home they plan to build. The Portales couple plans to move to the Capitan area in the near future.

Coker asked the village clerk how the village was doing on water meters. She said additions and deletions about average out. Capitan has had serious water problems in the past.

Both annexation requests were referred to P&Z for consideration during a hearing at 6 p.m. Tuesday, November 21, at village hall.

Coker said he had hoped to have test results on the new village water well ready for the Monday night meeting, but testing had been delayed by one day.

"Some of the new equipment didn't work," he explained.

In other action, the trustees agreed to contribute $500 to a sign fund.

Capitan High School principal Bill Stowe, making the request, said a sign giving the location of Capitan schools will also be used as a marquee to proclaim village events.

Stowe said the sign, which can be in place by Christmas, will cost $2,500, and that $1,800 is in hand. The village contribution puts the fund within $200 of the goal.

Village attorney Don E. Dutton said it is legal for the village to contribute to such a fund.

Dorothy Smith, who represents Capitan on the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County board, reported on a recent meeting.

She said the board will meet at 11 a.m. Thursday, December 14, at the Smokey Bear Restaurant in Capitan. She urged Capitan residents, and especially village officials, to attend the meeting.

Village clerk Keel was singled out by Mayor Coker for recognition after she completed all requirements, for certification.

"It took a lot of extra time ... she will be up on municipal government," Coker said in presenting a certificate to the clerk.

The mayor signed a proclamation setting November 23 as "UNM Centennial Homecoming Day" in Capitan. The University of New Mexico is celebrating 100 years of existence this year.

Coker told trustees the village needs to work on personnel policies. He appointed the village clerk and Trustee Pogue to study personnel policies and municipal governmental standards. He also named Dr. Bernhard Reimann to the board, pending his acceptance.

Capitan Mayor Benny Coker (right) presents a certificate of recognition to village clerk Janet Keel for completion of course work for certification as an official village clerk and treasurer. Coker said Keel put forth great effort to obtain this.

Lady Tigers lose semi-final in state tourney, finish season 21-1

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan Lady Tigers couldn't get any breaks during the semi-finals of the state tournament and lost to Texico in five games.

Both volleyball teams scored 60 points in the semi-final match, but Texico came out on top in the last game.

"Texico came in real fired up," said Capitan coach Pam Allen. "I think (Texico) played above themselves."

Capitan lost the first two games of the match 8-15 and 13-15, came back to win the next two 15-6 and 15-9, then lost the final one 9-15.

"We couldn't get a break," said Allen. "The ball would roll along the length of the net then fall on our side."

Allen also said Texico played exceptionally well.

The Lady Tigers advanced to the semi finals after first beating Roy in three games, 15-11, 15-3, 15-0.

In that match, Kerie Cox and Leslie LaRue had four service points in the first game; Kim Eckland had nine in the second; Lora McKay had seven in the third while Vickie Sedillo had six.

Versus Texico, LaRue had six in the second game and the third while Cindy Castillo had five in the third. LaRue and Cox had five in the fourth.

In the third place match, Capitan beat Fort Sumner in four games, 10-15, 15-13, 15-7, 15-7.

"There was nothing left after Texico," said Allen. "The girls had to dig pretty deep."

In the first game, Cox had five service points; McKay and Sedillo had four in the second; McKay had nine in the third while Sedillo had four; LaRue had six in the fourth while McKay had five.

The Lady Tigers finished the season with a record of 21-1.

Allen had praises for senior players McKay and Eckland.

"Both those girls are two of the best volleyball players I've ever coached," she said. "I will sorely miss them."

Allen also said the support from the students and the community during the tournament and the season was great.

"And we appreciate that," she said. "We had an exceptionally good year."

Public hearing for federal monies in CDBG grants scheduled for Carrizozo

A public hearing is scheduled to discuss a federal grant for low to moderate income housing, as well as other community development needs.

The hearing will be conducted at 5 p.m. Tuesday, November 23, in the commissioners meeting room of the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo, said a news release.

The topic will be the 1990 Small Cities Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program, and the purpose of the hearing is to gather public input on community development and housing needs.

The hearing will also discuss plans for using economic development funds for a regional revolving loan fund.

The CDBG program is designed to meet activities which address one of three state and national objectives:

—To benefit principally low to moderate income families.

—To aid in the prevention or elimination of slum and blight.

—To meet other community development needs or recent origin which pose a serious and immediate threat to the health and welfare of the community.

All counties and incorporated municipalities less than 50,000 in population are eligible to apply.

Applicants may apply for funding assistance under categories including community infrastructure, housing, public service capital outlay, economic development, emergency and planning. Past program performance will also be discussed at the hearing.

The State of New Mexico expects to receive $8.4 million for distribution state-wide.

Complete information concerning this program can be obtained at the public hearing along with information on how to receive technical assistance on preparing a proposal for consideration.

Warriors to Sartans: we're headed for state!

by ROD MAYS

Ruidoso News Sports Writer
This is what sports is all about. A hometown crowd, watching the team play at home, in a championship playoff game. Saturday night at W.D. Horton Stadium, the Ruidoso Warriors will face off with the St. Pius Sartans. I'm sure sports fans remember the last encounter with this slick team from the northern city.

When the final straws were counted, the Warriors lost 46-35 in one of the most exciting football games of the year.

Now it's a rematch, and look forward to another riot maker.

Maybe the Warriors had other things on their minds, September 29, when they played St. Pius last. It was Ruidoso High School's homecoming celebration.

Ruidoso was not favored in that football game and the Warriors are not favored Saturday night either.

St. Pius is ranked second in the Class AAA prep football poll and Ruidoso is ranked fourth.

Losing only two games, and those against Class AAAA Eldorado and Rio Grande, the Sartans have overpowered the district competitors. St. Pius has earned respect.

Head coach Dick Archuleta plays

with an I-formation offense that's elusive and quick to score.

During the last encounter with Ruidoso, senior Brent Moore of St. Pius rushed for 132 yards on 16 carries and scored one touchdown. This same six foot, 170 pound running back returned two kickoffs for 160 yards and two touchdowns. That's a total of 21 points scored by one individual. He also received three passes for 25 yards. Altogether, Moore gained 317 of the 421 total yards earned on the St.

Pius Sartans. The two teams meet again at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday, November 18, in the first game of the playoffs.

Pius offense. He was 75 percent of the Sartan scoring game plan.

Another receiver who beat Ruidoso's defense was senior, Gavin Pearlman. He received six passes for 85 yards and scored one touchdown.

Shutting down the Kenny Trapp rushing machine was a Pius big defensive line. Six-foot-three, 240-pound senior Monte Nash; six-foot-one, 220-pound senior Devin Chapman and six-foot-three, 215-pound senior Sergio DeLourenco formed a wall in the middle of the line. Kenny Trapp only scored one touchdown, but left plenty of room for Ruidoso's Jose Marquez who sprinted for two touchdowns.

One noticeable part of this season's statistics is the absence of St. Pius as a leader in Class AAA passing, rushing and receiving.

Ruidoso is found among the leaders.

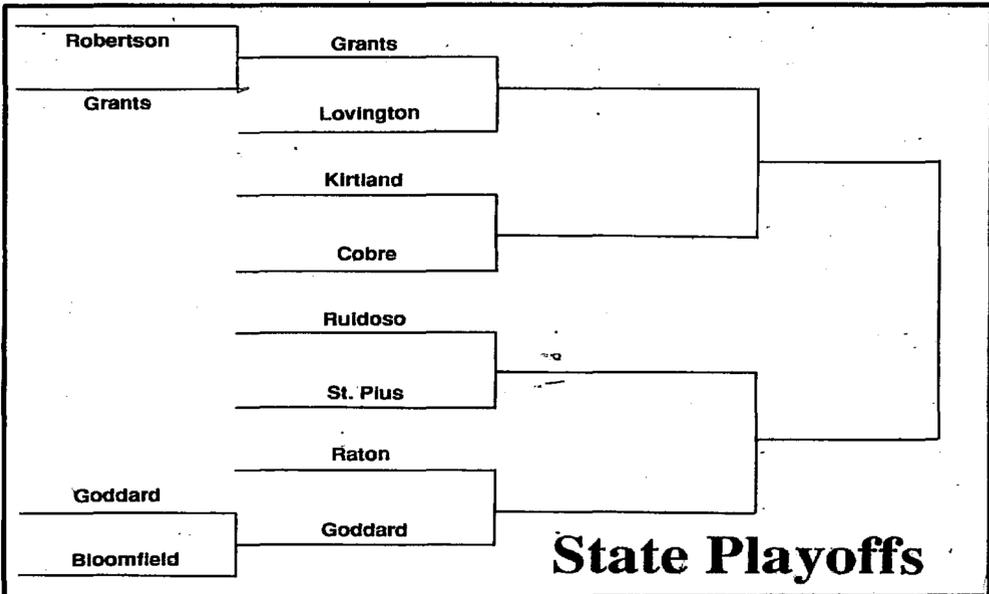

Sophomore Manny Guardiola was fourth in Class AAA standings, completing 44 passes out of 104, for 701 yards.

Senior Kenny Trapp was fifth, rushing 168 times for 1,037 yards. Senior Alfred Rue was eleventh, receiving 15 passes for 242 yards.

The season starts over at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, November 16, here in Ruidoso.

Associated Press Class AAA prep football standings:

1. Lovington 10-0
2. St. Pius 8-2
3. Roswell Goddard 8-3
4. Ruidoso 6-5
5. Artesia 3-7
6. Grants 8-2
7. Kirtland Central 7-3
8. Raton 7-4
9. Bayard Cobre 8-3
10. Portales 6-4

Ski areas vary on facilities, rates

by ROD MAYS

Ruidoso News Sports Writer
How much does it cost to spend a day on the slopes?

Downhill skiing is an expensive sport and if there's a chance to save money, most skiers will take advantage of it. But price isn't the only factor to consider when choosing a ski area.

Some of the characteristics that are important when comparing ski areas are lift ticket prices, number of trails offered, number of lifts, vertical drops from summit to base and packages offered.

Of course, the final qualifier is skiing on the slopes. Statistics won't tell you if an area is well groomed or compatible with your individual skiing ability.

Travel time and accommodations are also key factors in choosing a ski area. If the area requires a long drive, will it leave enough time for full days of skiing? If the accommodations are very expensive, will it cut down on the number of ski days?

But, before you go skiing this year take a look at this comparison of costs to ski. (Ski areas are listed, followed by lift ticket price, season pass price, number of trails offered, number of lifts, vertical drop).

ANGEL FIRE: $26, $222, 54, six, 2,180 feet.

CLOUDCROFT: $22, $100/family (pre-season), 26, two, 660 feet.

PURGATORY: $20, $475, 62, nine, 2,029 feet.

RED RIVER: $26, $375, 36, five, 1,550 feet.

SANDIA: $24, $350, 10, four, 1,700 feet.

SANTA FE: $27, $600, 38, six, 1,650 feet.

SKI APACHE: $30, $490, 41, seven, (and one four-man gondola), 1,800 feet.

SKI RIO: $24, $300, 56, three, 2,150 feet.

TAOS: $32, $1,000, 71, seven, 2,800 feet.

WOLFCREEK: $23, $300, 56, three, 2,150 feet.

VAIL: $36, $1,000, 120, 20, 2,000 FEET.

Certainly, there are many other ski areas which could be listed and compared, but these were contacted at random.

Also the various areas have special packages for groups and beginners. Some ski areas have package deals through hotels, for instance the Inn of the Mountain Gods offers ski packages for Ski Apache.

The number of lifts at each area refers mainly to double and triple chairs. All of the areas also have surface lifts, (tow bars, etc.).

Most areas are planning a Thanksgiving day (weekend) opening and have adequate snow-making equipment to accomplish this.

As for the snowboarding enthusiasts, all the listed areas allow snowboarding except Taos and Ski Apache. Certain rules apply to snowboarding, such as required certification, mandatory lessons and designated trails.

Season passes at many areas are available for weekdays only, with a reduced price. Special discount cards can be purchased as well, saving money on lift tickets and in some areas giving discounts on lodging, food and entertainment.

It's becoming a habit

Bill Turner can't seem to quit the football contest. This was his second time to win the $25 cash prize, missing only four of his picks. Congratulations Bill!

State pageant kicks off with costumes, dancing

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor
Miss New Mexico USA contestants stepped back into the twenties Tuesday to show off their costumes that ranged from flapper-style dresses to gangster suit and hat.

The 21 women, representing their various hometowns, took the audience back to the twenties with them as they paraded by in their glittery costumes.

Joanna Brooks, Miss University Park, was judged first runner-up in the costume contest which was the highlight of opening ceremonies of the Tuesday night at the Inn of the Mountain Gods in Mesalero.

Miss Ruidoso Kelly Moseley was judged Number one in a dance contest. Her escort and dance partner was Tech Sgt. Don Campbell of Holloman Air Force Base, Alamogordo.

The winner of the costume contest will be announced during the pageant finale Saturday night at the Inn of the Mountain Gods at Mesalero.

At that time the 1990 Miss New Mexico USA will be chosen.

The new Miss New Mexico USA will be crowned by last year's winner, Traci Bubaker of Alamogordo.

A Miss New Mexico USA Presentation Show will be open to the public at 8 p.m. Friday, November 17, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. After the show, members of the audience will be able to meet and greet the delegates in the lobby at the Inn. Admission will be $5.

Saturday night's finale will also start at 8 p.m. Admission will be $10 per person.

Today (Thursday) and Friday rehearsals dominate pageant activities.

Case and Helen Kowall of Las Cruces stage the annual event.

Miss New Mexico USA will go on to compete in the Miss USA contest in 1990.

Contestants competing in the contest are Miss Alamogordo, Charlotte Holland; Miss Albuquerque, Larissa Canaday; Miss Clovis, Shelley D'Ann Lockmiller; Miss Deming, Lisa Ra Gee; Miss Fairacres, Nicole Ohrtzeigler; Miss Gallup, Rae Vargas; Miss Las Cruces, Jennifer (Ginger) Leyendecker; Miss Las Vegas, Lynette Williams; Miss Los Alamos, Michelle Banasek.

Miss Mesilla Valley, Kara Williams; Miss Metroplex, Sharry Martin; Miss Norte Las Vegas, Cheryl Chavez; Miss Northern New Mexico, Bridget Berg; Miss Portales, Colby Diddle; Miss Ruidoso, Kelly Moseley; Miss South Central, Melissa Cobb; Miss Southwest, Kristen Billings; Miss Taos, Clairen Samora; Miss University of New Mexico, Stephanie Barrack; Miss University Park, Joanna Brooks, and Miss Westgate, Laura Brito.

Lockmiller, compete for the state title at the Inn of the Mountain Gods during opening ceremonies. Contestants all wore Roaring '20s costumes Tuesday.

Kelly Moseley Miss Ruidoso, won a dancing contest during the first night's activities of the Miss New Mexico USA Pageant Tuesday at the Inn of the Mountain Gods at Mesalero. Here the Ruidoso contestant and her partner, Tech Sgt. Don Campbell of Holloman Air Force Base are in action.

Join the auto caravan

An auto caravan to White Sands National Monument's Lake Lucero, the source of the white sands, is scheduled for Saturday, November 25.

The trip will begin at 10 a.m. at the Small Missile Range Gate intersection with U.S. Highway 70/82, 25 miles west of the White Sands National Monument Headquarters, between mileposts 174 and 175. Park rangers and military police will brief the group on regulations that apply during the trip.

The caravan will proceed over paved roads, through the White Sands Missile Range, to the trailhead to Lake Lucero. Approximately two hours at the lake area allows time for the half-mile conducted walk to the lake, picnic, photograph taking and the return to the vehicles. The caravan will then be escorted back to the starting point on U.S. Highway 70/82, arriving there about 2 p.m.

All vehicles should have a spare tire and sufficient gasoline for the 35 mile roundtrip to the Lake Lucero trailhead. Each person should have sufficient drinking water, a lunch if desired, sunglasses, stout walking shoes and suitable dress for the weather. Cameras may not be used while passing through the Missile Range, but are encouraged for use while at the Monument lake area.

All persons will need to be at the Small Missile Range Gate intersection by the departure time of 10 a.m. No vehicles may join the caravan once it leaves for the lake.

Reservations are required and can be obtained by calling Monument Headquarters at 479-6124. The caravan is limited to 30 vehicles.

Big hug for winner

Indian cowboys compete

Several Mescalero cowboys are expected to take part in the Coors Indian National Finals Rodeo Pow-Wow and Trade Fair this week in Albuquerque. Top Indian cowboys representing 10 regions in the United States and Canada will be competing for $80,000 prize money and awards November 16-19, at the New Mexico State Fairgrounds in Albuquerque. Tickets are $7, $9 and $12, to performances at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday in Tingley Coliseum.

Correction

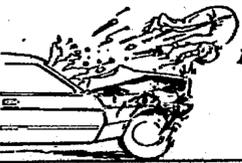

In the recent listing of winners in the BBQ War at Circle B Campground, Dean Fowler was listed as Dan Fowler. Dean Fowler is the correct name. He was a cook for a Win, Place and Show team in the competition.

Drilling begins for proposed landfill

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Only two applications for landfills are under serious consideration in New Mexico, and one of them is in Lincoln County.

Environmental engineer David Bollschweiler said only two applications for landfills contain the technical information required by the Environmental Improvement Division (EID) to warrant serious consideration.

One of these applications is from Albuquerque, and the other is for a proposed site on land owned by Kenneth Nosker in the Hondo Valley, said Bollschweiler.

The Village of Ruidoso Downs submitted the application, which names Nosker as the operator.

Bollschweiler said he is doing the engineering for the proposal and at this time is not under contract or being paid.

Drilling for core samples, as required by EID, began Wednesday morning at the proposed site.

Three sites for drilling were randomly selected by EID with two holes to be 70 feet deep and the third to be 18 feet deep.

Three engineering representatives of EID were also present to observe the drilling process.

Bollschweiler showed The News blueprints of the proposed site, which he said will have an estimated lifetime of 50 years.

Information in the blueprints said preliminary test wells do not reach water bearing strata until about 400 feet down in the north section of the site, and at about 150 feet down at the south section.

Also, engineering of the site indicates 240 feet of clay at the north section, and 140 feet at the south.

Compacted clay is the best impermeable soil type required by EID for a landfill site, said Bollschweiler.

The proposed plans for operating the site described the trenches to be 18 feet deep, nine feet wide, and 150 feet long when fully used.

The material removed for the trenches will be placed uphill to protect the trench in use from runoff.

Also, the trenches will be protected by dirt berms 30 feet wide at the base and nine feet high.

Studies of the prevailing winds indicate the primary direction coming from the north. To lessen the chance of wind-blown debris, the layout of the trenches is such that the wind will blow across them rather than along the length of the trenches.

"We've spent four and a half months gathering technical information," said Bollschweiler.

Residents in the area of the proposed site claim the landfill is a threat to their groundwater.

A petition of about 200 signatures was presented to the Lincoln County Commission on Monday requesting the county do something to stop the proposed landfill.

Charles L. Caperton, an attorney from Dallas, Texas, and a landowner in the Hondo Valley, challenged Ruidoso Downs Mayor Jake Harris on how he expects the residents of the village to pay for the site.

"It's not good for the people you're supposed to be the mayor of," said Caperton during a special meeting of the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners on Wednesday.

Harris said he is applying for the permit because he can't be certain the county will provide a landfill for the village's use.

"I think the county is trying to discriminate against Ruidoso Downs," said Harris.

County Commission Chairperson Karon Z. Petty said during the special meeting the county is attempting to find a solution to the solid waste disposal issue for the entire county.

"I urge you, Mayor Harris, to consider we have numerous residents in Lincoln County who suffer from the same problem as you," she said.

"We are going to pursue whatever we can to obtain a landfill," said Harris.

The Ruidoso Downs mayor believes he has no choice but to establish a landfill for the village because the county cannot be relied on for providing one of its own.

Harris said the county panicked when it closed the original Fort Stanton site in May, which left Ruidoso Downs without a site to dump its trash.

"We may have panicked like some people panicked and dumped illegally on someone's private property," said Petty.

When Ruidoso Downs was left without a dump, it sent its garbage to be disposed on land own by Nosker with Nosker's permission.

This activity was considered illegal by EID, which is currently seeking a contempt order against Nosker for refusing to allow EID to inspect his property according to an inspection order issued by District Court in Santa Fe.

When EID has completed its investigation of technical data of the site, the proposal will go to public hearing.

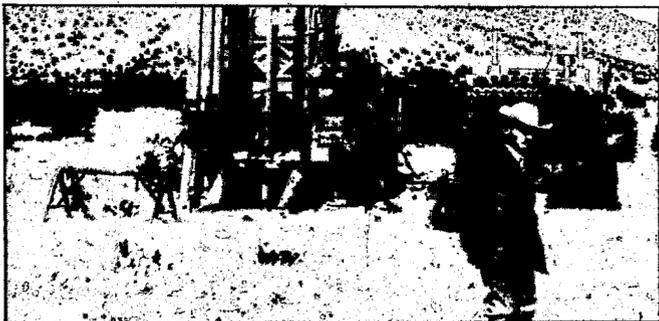

EID officials in Santa Fe previously told The News that technical information presented by engineers during the public hearings will be given more weight than other information.

Notification of the hearings is done through the local media, but anyone wishing to be personally notified may contact EID and request such notification be sent to them.

Bollschweiler said he will be surprised if the proposal goes to public hearings before January.

Drilling begins on Ken Nosker's land in the Hondo Valley as required by the state Environmental Improvement Division because the land is named as the site for a landfill proposed by Ruidoso Downs Mayor Jake Harris (right). The flag at the top of the rig represents the American way of free spirit, free enterprise and fairness, said Nosker.

Thanksgiving

The Ruidoso News will publish next week on Wednesday, to observe Thanksgiving on Thursday, November 23.

full-time equivalent (FTE) positions through a half-time aid and teacher at the high school and a full-time aid at Nob Hill Elementary.

The package also included salary enhancements at an average of 2.768 percent for certified staff.

The new revenues were the result of an increase of 45 student FTEs over a projected loss in enrollment.

The proposal places the remaining teachers, not already on a matrix salary system on one, and puts all aides on the matrix system.

The salary committee reported that an eight percent increase in teacher salaries over the last five years has not kept up with the rate of inflation.

"We want to increase salaries as much as possible and still have a sound budget," said Miller.

The board raised questions over whether or not teachers need more supplies.

"We've learned to get by on as little as possible," said high school teacher Gerald Ames. "Some day it would be nice to have some of those things."

Hansen said in 1984 the instructional materials budget was $16,000. This year it is $9,700.

"We need to establish priorities," said Hansen.

Regarding classroom sizes, one classroom at Nob Hill is over state limits, and three classes at White Mountain Elementary are over by one student each.

A teacher's aide at the Nob Hill school takes care of regulations there, while waivers have been obtained at White Mountain.

Miller said while these classes may be too large at this time, the town has a historical tendency to lose students over the year.

If the increase in enrollment continues next year, new teachers will have to be hired, said Miller.

The board sent a letter to Eastern New Mexico University requesting assistance in a needs survey for post secondary education in Ruidoso.

The Commission on Higher Education has indicated to the town of Taos, which is also interested in establishing a post secondary program, state tuition funding in the amount of $120,000 would be made available as long as the town of Taos imposes a two mill levy.

The commission also indicated it would support building projects as long as the land is donated and a bond and mill levy are included, she said.

This represents a reversal in the commission's position of a year ago when it said it would not support any more campuses in the state.

The snow day procedure was evaluated. Donnie Weems said a determination will be made by 6:30 a.m. if school will be canceled.

Parents are encouraged to listen for information on the radio between 6:30 and 7 a.m. and not call the intermediate school unless they have no radio reception.

Any number of snow days beyond three will have to be made up, said Weems.

In other business, the school board:

- Accepted budget increases and transfers.
- Reviewed and approved the journal transactions.

—Accepted a recommendation to hire Emma Reyes as a DD aide at Nob Hill.

—Accepted the resignations of Gina Cochise and Jeanne Taylor, who both plan to attend school.

—Reviewed the ski program.

—Heard a report from Caron Snow of a meeting of the Association of School Business Organizations.

—Discussed the New Mexico School Board Association state convention scheduled for November 30, and the national convention scheduled for April 21-24, 1990.

—Scheduled a special board meeting for 7 p.m. November 30, to discuss issues with parents of Indian students.

—Reviewed a policy change on payment for college credit.

—Moved to suspend classes at Nob Hill on February 8 and 9 for staff to attend a regional conference of the International Reading Association, with a per diem of $1,500.

—Accepted the school board legislative package for review from Miller.

—Was informed that all responses from architects that will be accepted were received.

—Was invited to attend a meeting of the advisory council.

—Sent congratulations to the volleyball, cross country and football teams.

—Conducted a closed session over personnel.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. December 12.

When making out your shopping list for this year's Thanksgiving dinner, don't forget your neighbors who may not have the resources to provide that yearly feast.

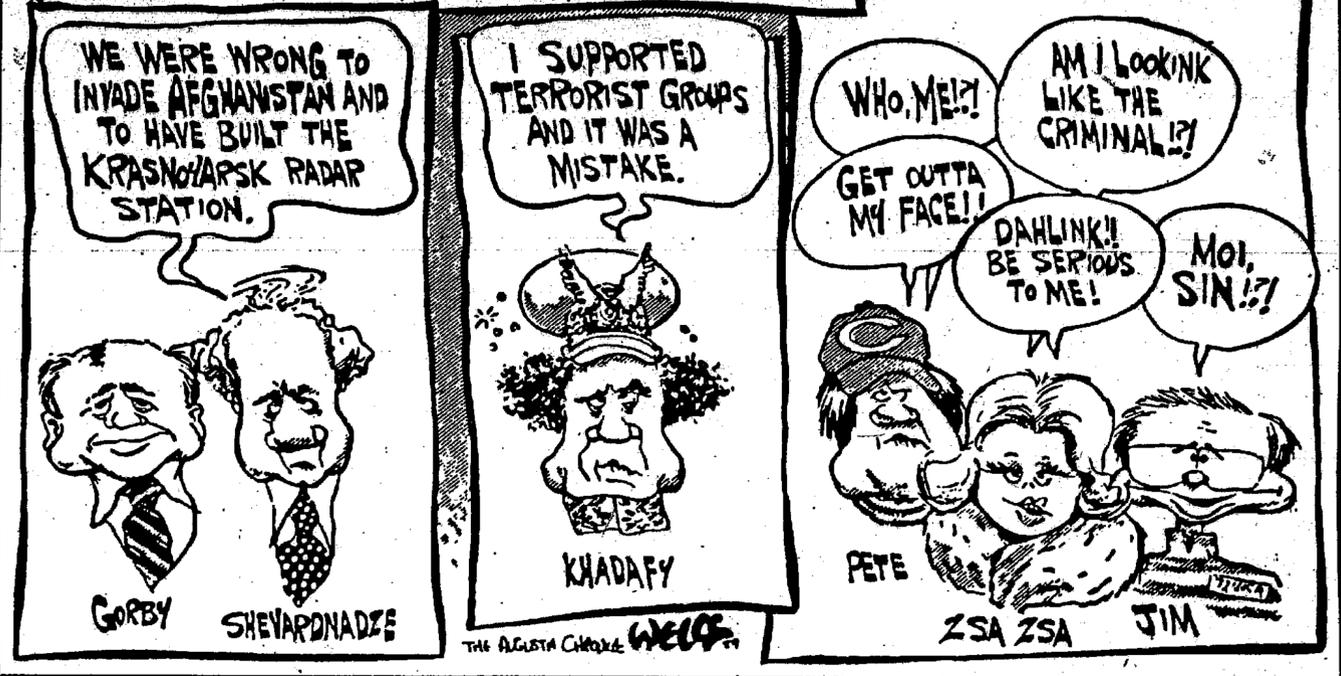

The Kiwanis Club is taking the lead on this project by collecting food and funds to provide food for area families whose names will be provided by social services. A screening process will ensure that the families with the most need will be sure to get some help.

Collection containers have been placed at all Ruidoso schools, in the main post office, at the Ruidoso Police Department, at both Safeways and at Bennett's Shur-Sav. What could be easier than dropping off some non-perishable food items while checking your mail or while doing your grocery shopping?

Members of Kiwanis are making regular collections and will distribute the food Thanksgiving week. The club will provide a turkey and some staple items for each basket. Cash donations will help with those costs.

Let's be sure everybody has a hearty meal for which to be thankful this Thanksgiving. We can do it if everybody helps.—fj

CONFESSON IS GOOD FOR THE SOUL...??

Reporter's Round

By Brian Blalock

A couple of weeks ago, Melodee and I returned to East Texas and my hometown of Crockett for the first time since we moved to Ruidoso.

I was a little excited and apprehensive at the same time. I was excited about seeing my friends and family, but I wasn't sure if the scenery on this beautiful mountain hadn't spoiled me.

We left El Paso and flew to Austin, where Melodee's dad met us at the airport.

The next morning my best friend, Doug, and I decided to play a round of golf before heading on to Crockett. Doug took me to play on a course that can best be described as gorgeous and it quickly proved to me there are still some places in Texas that are beyond description.

The course is called River Place and is located near Lake Travis in the hills west of downtown Austin.

The clubhouse sits on a hill and overlooks many of the holes, which wind their way through the hills and surrounding limestone cliffs.

Designed by Tom Kite, it is definitely a challenge for amateur golfers like Doug and myself. Winding throughout the course is a deep creek bed that Doug referred to as "The Gorge of Death." It's like the Bermuda Triangle, golf balls go in, but they don't come out. A word of advice to anyone who might have the opportunity to play this course in the future, take plenty of golf balls.

Leaving for Crockett that afternoon, I have to admit my description of fall in Texas, particularly East Texas, in my last column may have been a little harsh.

I said, having grown up in the muggy pine forests of East Texas, fall is something that lasts about three weeks. The leaves on the oak trees change colors one week, begin falling the second week, leaving the trees totally bare the third week.

Actually, fall in East Texas lasts a little longer than three weeks.

Having been here to see the changing of colors in the leaves of the aspen trees, I wasn't really sure if the trees of my native land would match up.

The trees of Texas don't have brilliant colors exhibited by the aspen trees, but in their own way, the colors are something to behold.

The subtle yellows, reds and browns, all combine with the green of the pine trees; and viewed in the late evening sunshine, form a kaleidoscope of colors that are uniquely Texas.

When we arrived in Crockett, the weather was nice and sunny, perfect for deer hunting, which was also the reason we decided to visit Texas at this time of the year. For both Doug and me, golf season ends when deer season starts.

The weather in East Texas was magnificent for only awhile. They, like we, are in the middle of an Indian summer. However, if there was ever a place in this country where the old saying, "if you don't like the weather, wait a while and it will change," applies it is in East Texas.

The nice, mild weather we enjoyed on Friday, was replaced a little after dawn on Saturday by gray overcast skies. The winds changed from a westerly direction, to out of the southeast.

In East Texas, when the wind comes from the southeast, it means only one thing, humidity. Sitting there on a deer stand, dressed for the cool of the morning, it suddenly became a little warm.

The temperature on Saturday was only in the middle 70s, but so was the humidity. I now remember why we ran our air conditioner last year through the month of November and into December. It was hot, sticky and muggy then, and it still is.

Saturday night we tossed and turned and tried to sleep with the windows open, but it was no use.

Sunday brought more of the same weather, and even an increase in the humidity to the point it eventually rained. The deer hunting was really lousy, until I got lucky and bagged my deer late on Sunday morning. Deer season is now over, it's back to golf season for awhile.

Looking back on the trip now, I can honestly say I enjoyed the visit with family and friends, but I can also honestly say there is no place like home.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

The article in The Ruidoso News (October 16, 1989) regarding options for a post-secondary educational program in Ruidoso deserves careful consideration.

As an instructor at a decentralized community college, I am acquainted with some of the instructional delivery systems mentioned. At this particular college, many courses are taught on site at the individual centers; however, more specialized courses would never have enough enrollment without distance delivery systems. I am, in fact, teaching American Literature through our audio system. Other courses, such as art history, are taught on the video. Certainly interactive video and audio classes are not the ideal methods of instruction. They are, however, both efficient and effective means of providing courses to smaller communities where college courses would not otherwise be available.

For the towns in Navajo and Apache Counties in Arizona which are served by Northland Pioneer College, distance instruction may continue to be the only way. For Ruidoso, distance instruction could be a way to begin, a way to build until such time as the FTE justifies Ruidoso's becoming a site for its own post-secondary program.

Sincerely,
Louise Russell, PhD

DEAR EDITOR:

The staff at White Mountain Elementary School would like to commend and thank our Parent Advisory Council for the many hours spent helping us at school. They have been very generous with their time in many ways by installing playground equipment, conducting our elementary school raffle, helping implement the use of computers, assisting in the library and classrooms and by hosting a wonderful luncheon for our staff members during parent teacher conferences. They have been a positive force strengthening the bond between school and home.

Capitol Comments

by Kate McGraw

State Sen. Les Houston...

...Has made it official. The Albuquerque lawyer is running for the Republican nomination for governor, he has announced.

That'll be a relief to some Democrats, who were a little afraid he might be planning to switch back to his old party.

Actually, they didn't seriously think so. Still, it made the Demo honchos a little nervous to see Houston hanging around the dais and chatting up the leadership at the Democratic Party's State Central Committee meeting in Cruces last Saturday...

Baffled The Local Leaders Even More...
...When Houston turned around and announced ingratiatingly to the assembled Demos: "I consider myself a cross between Ray Powell and Dave Cargo."

"Some of us are still trying to figure that one out," my source said with a giggle...

From The No-Comment Department:

... (But you remember last week's column, don't you?) — State Highway Department Chief Administrator Dewey Lonsberry announced this week that he's hired City of Albuquerque Property Manager Roland Fletcher to be the new manager of the SHD right-of-way section, starting in January.

Fletcher has been an appraiser/land manager for more than 20 years, Lonsberry said...

Un-Diplomatic Aside...

...From the governor at last weekend's press conference ballyhooing the new Martin Marietta plant coming to Albuquerque. Martin Marietta spokesmen were lauding the company's management section that handles the administrative headaches for Martin Marietta and, under contract, other entities such as Orange County in California.

Grinning, Gov. Garrey Caruthers turned and said in a stage whisper to aides, "Maybe we could get them to manage the Highway Commission!"

Yes, gov, and maybe the Highway Department, too...

On The Record...

By Frankie Jarrell

Here we go again. Apparently I've done the unthinkable, by questioning the Mescalero tribal election process.

Monday's editorial prompted a letter signed by three people, apparently members of the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe.

The very well-written, neatly typed letter was dropped off at the front desk at The Ruidoso News Wednesday morning. No, the person who left the letter wouldn't take it back to the editor to confirm authorship. And, no, that person, who claimed to be one of the three signers of the letter, wouldn't provide a telephone number for confirmation.

The three names listed at the bottom of the letter are not listed in the telephone directory.

Those letter writers tell me that less than one percent of one percent of the tribal membership reads The Ruidoso News, and that may be why they didn't know of our long-standing and strict policy regarding letters to the editor. We will not print a letter without confirming authorship, and that's why we require that letters include a telephone number or be handed in person to the editor.

It's too bad I won't be able to print the letter.

I will say this, those three people did not like my editorial, and they want me to mind my own business. Maybe they're right.

The Mescalero Apache Reservation is a sovereign nation, and we shouldn't be meddling in another nation's affairs. Or should we?

Didn't I read that some Americans were called in as election observers in Nicaragua as

But, back to my letter writers: if you'll contact me to confirm authorship of your letter, I'll be happy to print it on the Opinion page of The Ruidoso News.

And, since our letters policy continues to be questioned, I'll remind letter writers that we welcome your correspondence on local issues and matters of area interest.

We aren't in the business of providing an ongoing forum for private disputes of members of clubs and such, but we do provide a forum for matters of interest to the general readership.

Letters must be legibly written or typed, and they must be signed by the writer, including an address and telephone number. If you don't have a telephone, then bring your letter to the office and hand it, in person, to the editor.

It's just fine with me if you disagree with an editorial, dispute an opinion in a column or find fault with a news story.

You see, we don't have to agree. A diversity of opinions is the American way.

Let us hear from you.

Letters to the editor policy

The Ruidoso News welcomes "Letters to the Editor," and will publish them on the Opinion Page with all letters being subject to editing for length.

The name of the writer must be printed. A telephone number must be included for verification of the writer's identity.

While letters need not be typed, they must be legibly written.

Letters may be hand delivered to The News office at 104 Park Avenue or mailed to PO Box 128, Ruidoso NM 88345.

EDDIE BYINGTON AND STACY MOBLEY

Couple to wed in December

Johnny and Shay Mobley announce the upcoming marriage of their daughter, Stacy Lynn Mobley to Eddie Dean Byington.

Mobley is a native of Ruidoso and now resides in Alamogordo where she is a student at New Mexico State University-Alamogordo.

Byington is a native of Bristol, Tennessee, and a graduate of Western Texas College. He also resides in Alamogordo and works with the Dyncorp Support Group at Holloman Air Force Base.

The wedding will be at 4 p.m. Saturday, December 16, at the First Christian Church. The reception will follow and all friends are invited to attend.

Ruidoso Care Center observes National Alzheimer's Month

The Ruidoso Care Center has planned a variety of activities during November in honor of National Alzheimer's Month.

The special events offered by the Alzheimer's Living Center at the Ruidoso Care Center are designed to create public awareness and to promote understanding of Alzheimer's Disease.

A special program entitled, Show and Tell: activities to stimulate victims of Alzheimer's, was presented during the monthly Alzheimer's Support Group meeting, sponsored by the Alzheimer's Living Center and the Alamogordo Mental Health Services.

A Harvest Dance, planned for residents of the unit and their families, will take place at 7 p.m. Saturday, November 18, at Carrizo Lodge.

According to the sponsors, contributions from businesses in Alamogordo and Ruidoso have made this event possible.

The Alzheimer's Living Center is extending a special invitation to caregivers and those suffering from Alzheimer's Disease to attend.

The Alzheimer's Living Center

at the Ruidoso Care Center provides specialized care for Alzheimer's patients in a safe secure environment.

Dr. Michael Hickey, a psychiatrist, serves as the medical consultant for the unit. He is available to consult with patients, physicians and their families.

Individual activities and programs that take into account the patient's particular needs and capabilities are planned by the unit's full-time activities director.

The center features its own dining area, lounge, patio and yard area. Family support is an important dimension of the program.

Alzheimer's disease is a brain disorder that produces progressive intellectual impairment. It affects an estimated 2.5 million Americans. The disease is characterized initially by forgetfulness, especially about recent events. As the disease progresses, memory loss increases.

Other changes such as confusion, irritability, mood swings and personality changes are likely to occur. The behavior of the Alzheimer's victim becomes unpredictable.

Horizon Healthcare Corporation developed the Alzheimer's Living centers in response to the need for this type of care environment. A team approach involving family, professional and non-professional staff and auxiliary members is used to meet the needs of Alzheimer's residents at the Ruidoso Care Center.

STAFF
CHARLES G. EASLEY has been decorated with the Air Force Commendation Medal at Holloman Air Force Base.

The Air Force Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

Easley is an aircraft armament systems technician with the 49th

Tactical Fighter Wing.

He is the son of Billy C. Easley of Albuquerque and Linda A. Brewington of Ruidoso.

The sergeant is a 1978 graduate of Ruidoso High School.

ENMU-R graduates first EMS class

Gretchen Batton of Ruidoso recently received her certificate of completion in Eastern New Mexico University-Roswell's paramedic program during a brief ceremony for family and friends.

Batton was one of seven students to complete the new program.

"This is the first class to complete ENMU-Roswell's paramedic program," said Mike Buldra, emergency medical services coordinator. "And because this program is the first one outside the EMS Academy in Albuquerque, this class is also the first to graduate from a school other than the academy."

Keynote speaker for the ceremony was Dr. Mike McGuire, a Roswell physician and medical director for the paramedic program.

According to a news release, Dr. McGuire spoke on the difficult role paramedics play in the health care field and described the integration of pre-hospital and hospital emergency room care in treating the critically sick and injured. He also praised the high performance of ENMU-Roswell's paramedic students.

Lisa Mason, former program coordinator and the individual instrumental in establishing ENMU-Roswell's paramedic program, congratulated the new paramedics.

ENMU-Roswell's paramedic program consists of 1,000 hours of classroom and clinical work and includes an internship served on an ambulance.

In addition to the paramedic program, ENMU-Roswell's Division of Health offers EMS education at the basic, intermediate and continuing education levels.

Eye Surgeon
A VIEW OF CATARACTS
A cataract is characterized by opacity in the normally clear and transparent lens of the eye. It usually develops due to a change in the chemical composition of the lens. In its most common form, senile cataract, the condition develops as a natural consequence of aging. If the cloudiness occurs on the outer fringes of the lens, a person may not even be aware that a cataract is developing. However, if the cloudiness is located near the lens center, clear vision will probably be affected. As the cataract develops, vision may become increasingly blurred, and the eyes may be more sensitive to glare. Patients may find that frequent changes in eyeglass prescriptions help cope with the condition. However, there comes a time when sight is no longer improved by stronger lenses. At this point, the patient may wish to consider cataract surgery.
For further information, please call or schedule an appointment with your eye doctor. Dr. Delamater specializes in medical and surgical diseases of the eye. He is certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and of the American College of Surgeons. His practice is located in Roswell, New Mexico. 254-5299
