Sheriff uncovers garbage dump site

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

Sheriff James McSwane and his deputies went in search of trash Wednesday.

Using a backhoe and walking the approximately 250-acre property owned by Kenneth Nosker and located across U.S. Highway 70 from Nosker's, McSwane and his men unearthed garbage they believe measures 413 yards.

McSwane executed a search warrant about 10:30 a.m. to look for garbage investigators believed was dumped on Kenneth Nosker's land by the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

The warrant, issued by District Judge Richard A. Parsons, named Nosker and the Village of Ruidoso Downs. McSwane served Nosker with the warrant at Nosker's meat processing plant, and then took his men and backhoe across the highway to begin the search.

The search warrant came as the result of an intensive investigation. In the affidavit for that warrant, McSwane said he believed that Nosker and the Village of Ruidoso Downs "illegally deposited solid waste from the municipality of Ruidoso Downs in one or more dump sites in violation of Lincoln County Ordinance 85-3."

McSwane said he and his men uncovered garbage, about 413 yards of it, in a ravine above the area pointed out in a previous search. McSwane said he found dated documents inside the garbage indicating it came from Ruidoso Downs.

"We have plans to go to District Court," said McSwane.

"That garbage could go into the Hondo River if it's washed down," he added.

McSwane said the garbage he uncovered was covered with dirt and layered, so that removal will require workers to take out as much dirt as garbage.

County attorney Robert Beauvais said the investigation that led to the search warrant indicated Nosker was paid $1,500 for allowing Ruidoso Downs to dispose of trash on his property.

Beauvais said criminal penalties, if the allegations are proved in court, can amount to $300 a day and 90 days in jail for each occurrence, meaning each day. He said the county believes the dumping went on over a 15- or 16-day period.

Beauvais said remedies imposed could include having the groups named in the complaint clean up the garbage, or having the county do the clean up and pass those costs on to the property owner.

Nosker and Ruidoso Downs Mayor Jake Harris joined the sheriff and his men as the search warrant was being executed, and Nosker took Polaroid pictures of the deputy operating the backhoe and deputies driving over his land. He watched as Sheriff McSwane waded through a pile of garbage in a ravine that included an old bicycle, empty cans, old car batteries and papers.

McSwane said he has reason to believe that trash, found in a different location than the 413 yards alleged to be from Ruidoso Downs, is from Hondo.

Nosker didn't comment on the search.

However Mayor Harris noted that everybody knew there was still trash on the site. He said representatives of the Environmental Improvement Division (EID) walked the land with him and agreed to "turn their backs" until he worked out a solution to the messy problem.

Commissioners want county landfill

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

Lincoln County Commissioners are determined to have a county landfill.

But meanwhile, the three commissioners agreed Wednesday to advertise for a contractor to pick up and dispose of county garbage.

Commission Chairman Karon Z. Petty, making the recommendation as a temporary fix for trash troubles, said the county should tell any successful bidder to take the garbage anywhere it wants, so long as it isn't the county landfill on Fort Stanton Road.

She said that landfill, which has an estimated life of six months, should be reserved for county business operators and residents in areas where they have to dispose of their own garbage.

New state Environmental Improvement Division (EID) regulations have hit Lincoln County, as well as other governments, hard as New Mexico counties and towns have been forced to close existing landfills and look for new ways to dispose of solid waste.

County attorney Robert Beauvais suggested commissioners wait for some word from the State Legislature before getting into any long-term contracts or arrangements. He said a legislative committee has talked of a regional authority. Beauvais predicted that some legislation, and perhaps funding, will come out of the 30-day legislative session early next year.

Petty said the county's priority is for a collection system and landfill to replace, not only the old dump site, but also the antiquated collection system. Discussions on buying new equipment for that system initiated the lengthy talk about trash Wednesday.

Commissioners rejected all bids for equipment to use with the current system. That system is set up for a county employee, using a trailer, to pick up each green trash container and take it to the landfill. Commissioners agreed that system entails too many trips to the dump, and is inefficient.

Rehashing many past discussions over landfills and trash, Petty said the reason she jumped from the collection/transfer system recommended by a county committee to a county landfill was over costs. She said the collection/transfer system the volunteer committee recommended costs four times as much as a landfill.

"The letter from FAA (Federal Aviation Administration) puts us right where we were in July," noted Commissioner Robert Hemphill. That letter informed the commission that a proposed site is too near the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

"I believe a county landfill is going to be the answer to everybody's problems," said Petty. "Why fight with Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs? Let them do their own thing," she added.

Ruidoso has entered into a six-month agreement to haul trash to Roswell, and Ruidoso Downs is seeking a permit for a municipal landfill.

Gary McCaslin of the EID Roswell office said Ruidoso and Roswell are planning to pursue a large regional landfill they hope will be used by a number of towns. He said plans are for a consortium to own and operate a regional facility, so that all participants will have an equal say in operations and costs.

"County lines, too, disappear when you do that," said McCaslin.

Petty noted that plans to haul trash across county and state lines are what led to some of the current changes in waste disposal.

"The public said 'uh uh, you're not bringing your garbage here,'" recalled Petty.

In discussions over construction waste, McCaslin told the commission that getting a permit for a landfill for that kind of trash should be an easy and speedy matter.

Petty said Ruidoso seems to be the area with a need for such a specialized landfill, since that's where some major construction projects are planned.

Commissioners also discussed an incinerator system, like one described in a video viewed by Carrizozo Rotarians last week. That system is in Colorado, a state said to have even more stringent regulations than New Mexico.

Jim Edwards of EID warned that any solution, including an incinerator system, will have accompanying problems. He said incinerated waste, if it includes any toxic materials, form toxic ash that could be a problem.

"There's no magic answer," said Edwards. Electronics, touted as a clean industry, produces a great deal of toxic waste, noted Edwards.

Commissioners instructed county manager Nick Pappas to inform all users of the county landfill that a change is being discussed. The board also authorized Pappas to investigate working with any other county or group toward a mutual solution.

"I think we should look at every avenue," said Hemphill. Petty warned Pappas not to enter into any agreements with anybody.

"I don't want to see a contract at the next meeting," said Petty.

Also Wednesday, the commission went into executive session to negotiate a new contract with county attorney Beauvais, who submitted one of three proposals for the county legal contract.

After that closed meeting, the commission voted to negotiate a contract with Beauvais.

During the open meeting, Petty questioned the mileage and hourly charge from Ruidoso to Carrizozo, since the county attorney is expected to travel often to the county seat. She wondered if that is included in the out-of-town travel in the proposals.

Beauvais said he charges at half rate when traveling from Ruidoso to Carrizozo.

"We need an attorney in Carrizozo a lot of the time," said Petty. Commissioner Rick Simpson suggested establishing a flat rate for time in Carrizozo, and Hemphill noted such details can be negotiated.

Proposals were received from Beauvais, O'Reilly and Wardlaw and from the Hawthorne law firm.

Ruidoso adopts new zoning rules

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council conducted five public hearings on as many different zoning issues during its regular meeting Tuesday.

The council approved four of the zoning issues, and tabled the fifth until village officials and council members study it further.

Councillors unanimously approved airport hazard zoning regulations for the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, Ordinance 89-8 (see related story).

Planning administrator Cleatus Richards said the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) approved the regulations and recommended their adoption.

Richards said the regulations currently cover the height of construction and objects in the flight zones, but don't address the use of the land in the flight zone areas. Richards said, because of a recent letter from the FAA concerning the county's proposed landfill, an amendment dealing with non-conforming uses of land around the airport was added to the regulations.

The amendment states, "Incompatible uses no use shall be allowed within any zone established by these regulations which is in conflict with Federal Aviation Administration Order 5200.5 relating to Safe Flight Operations."

The council tabled a request to rezone the J.B. Close tract on Gavilan Canyon Road.

Richards said the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) recommended zoning the tract I-1 Industrial. It's now zoned C-2 Community Commercial. He said the 19 percent objection rate from neighbors is coupled with the fact the property is bordered on the north by the village street department and on the east by the McCarty tract, both already zoned I-1 Industrial.

Harlen McCraw, who owns the property to the west of the Close tract, told councillors people in the area don't want the tract zoned industrial. McCraw called the tract trashy and said it is full of junk. He said if the zoning is changed, Close will be able to put anything he wants down there.

Councillor Frank Kolb asked Richards if the development of the tract can be controlled.

"Any industrial development will have to go to P&Z for site development," Richards said.

When asked by the council how much junk is located on the tract, McCraw replied, "30 years of junk." McCraw also said if Close can put in anything he wants, he can too.

"He can't keep me from putting in a hog farm if I want," he said.

Richards said P&Z originally wanted to zone the tract industrial, but Close objected.

Councillors asked Close if he had any intentions of putting in any industry.

"As far as plans for industry, I don't have anything in the plans," Close said.

He went on to say there are no disadvantages to the tract being zoned industrial and he has been working on getting the undesirables with the junk off his property.

Councillor Jess Stinson made the motion the council table the issue until such time as village officials and council members can take a look at the property first hand.

In the other public hearings, the council unanimously approved rezoning the old Gibson's building from C-2 community commercial to the new designation of C-4 heavy commercial. The C-4 designation is a less intensive zoning than I-1 Industrial.

The council also unanimously approved the initial zoning of both Wingfield Park and the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport. Wingfield Park will be zoned planned unit development-mixed (PUD-M) and the airport will be zoned planned unit development-industrial (PUD-I). Both properties are owned by the village and were annexed at the last council meeting.

Under regular items on the agenda, the council unanimously voted to award the contract for architectural services on the village's convention/civic/events center to the Albuquerque architecture firm of Holmes, Sabatini, Eeds.

Village manager Frank Potter told the council the contract for total architect fees will be $81,000. He said as part of this contract, Holmes, Sabatini, Eeds will design a center, at least 12,000 square feet, and the firm will also design two additional building phases through the schematic design phase.

Potter said during the initial first design phase of the project, the firm will be coordinating with the hotel and golf course architects in designing the parking, landscaping, surface and subsurface drainage, and parking area lighting through the construction design phase.

In other business Tuesday, the council: —Awarded the bid for asphalt concrete aggregate and basecourse to two local companies.

—Extended by one year the contract with Owen Electric. Village clerk Tammie Maddox said the work done by Owen Electric over the past year had been satisfactory. The contract entails the repair or replacement of defective wiring, electrical pumps, motors and electrical components, electrical appurtenances, or installation electrical service for remodeling or relocation projects of less than $5,000 in any or all village facilities.

—Adopted the 1990 holiday schedule for the Village of Ruidoso. It includes all major holidays observed by local banks, gives village employees two days off for Thanksgiving and Christmas, and the employee's birthday off as a personal

MainStreet seeks $100,000

MainStreet Ruidoso will be seeking $100,000 from the 1990 New Mexico Legislature to develop a comprehensive master plan for development of the MainStreet project area.

A packet explaining Ruidoso's needs is being put together by MainStreet Ruidoso project director, Mary Maul, and Margaret Lahey. A cover letter is being drafted; also a letter from the Village of Ruidoso will be included.

Black and white photos of "dangerous areas" in the project area are being processed for inclusion in the packet.

The MainStreet project area runs from the Standard Station below Pinetree Square to below the Gazebo Shopping Center. It includes streets paralleling Sudderth, like El Paso Street, portions of which are considered "blighted areas."

The master plan would include expanded parking facilities, sidewalk work and storefront upgrading. Traffic flow also is a factor.

State Representative Ben Hall has met with MainStreet members and will introduce a bill in the Legislature, Maul told board members Wednesday at a regular meeting.

Also, a packet will go to State Senator James Lee Martin of Socorro who also represents Lincoln County.

"We'll go for the master plan and then for grant money," Maul told board members.

Any master plan money allotted to the project would be channeled through the Village of Ruidoso.

Ordinance protects airport

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council on Tuesday adopted Ordinance 89-8, regarding airport hazard zoning regulations for the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

According to planning administrator Cleatus Richards, these regulations, approved by the Federal Aviation Administration, set limits on the height of objects in and around the airport and because of the amendment added to the regulations on Tuesday night, they also control the types of land uses around the airport.

There are four types of zones surrounding the airport, with each zone having a different height restriction.

The four zones are the approach zone, the transitional zone, the conical zone and the horizontal zone.

The approach zone extends nine miles out from the ends of the primary runway. The approach zone is cone shaped, meaning it is narrow at the ends of the runways and wide at the end. As an example, at the ends of the runways the approach zone is only the width of the 100 foot wide runway, but as it extends from the end of the runway it gets wider. At two miles from the end of the runway, the approach zone is three miles wide and it keeps widening. In the approach zone for every 50 feet of slope from the end of the primary runway, the approach zone rises one foot. This slope to vertical rise ratio continues to a horizontal distance of 10,000 feet from the end of the runway. At that distance, the ratio changes from 50-to-1, to 40-to-1.

What all this means is an object 50 feet from the end of the runway can be no taller than one foot. At a distance of one mile, an object 106 feet high would be allowed under the airport hazard zoning regulations.

For the proposed crosswind runway at the airport, the approach zone would be a 20-to-1 ratio extending from the ends of the runway for a distance of 5,000.

Richards said when the crosswind runway is built, the distance of the approach zone could be altered depending on the type of aircraft which use the runway.

The transitional zones run parallel to the approach zones and have a slope to vertical rise ratio of seven-to-one.

The conical zones circle the airport like a race track, but are not included in the approach zones or the transitional zones. In the conical zones there is a slope to vertical rise ratio of 20-to-1.

The horizontal zone covers the actual area above the runways, taxiways, ramp area and terminal area. In the horizontal zone, anything above 150 feet tall is prohibited.

Richards said these regulations not only cover the height of things like towers and trees, but also certain types of lighting within those zones.

He said the amendment on incompatible uses of land, which was added to the regulations before it was approved by the council, covers the use of the land in the four zones and prohibits the development of certain types of industries.

Richards said these regulations were the same ones previously adopted by the Lincoln County Commission on November 10, 1987. At the time the regulations were to be enforced by the Sierra Blanca Commission.

He said by passing Ordinance 89-8, the Village of Ruidoso becomes the responsible agent for enforcing the regulations.

"Any construction or improvement in those zones has to be approved by planning and zoning," Richards said. "Tim Morris (airport manager) reviews them and checks with the FAA to see if they interfere with safe navigation."

Ruidoso will continue to haul trash to Roswell

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Village of Ruidoso will continue to haul its trash to the Roswell landfill for the next six months.

According to Becky Bell-Durham, infrastructure division director for the village, the Roswell City Council on Tuesday night unanimously approved a six-month extension of an agreement between the two municipalities, which allows Ruidoso to use Roswell's landfill.

Bell-Durham said the village currently hauls 75 cubic yards of trash to Roswell every day. She said it costs about $1.56 per mile and 61 cents per cubic yard to dump.

She said the village began hauling trash to Roswell on May 14. That was the day strict Environmental Improvement Division regulations governing landfills went into effect.

Bell-Durham said currently the Village of Ruidoso and Roswell are jointly seeking requests for proposals (RFP) for an engineering feasibility study on a regional landfill site.

According to the RFP, the two municipalities are seeking to determine 10 specific items from the engineering feasibility study. Those 10 items are:

- Establishing a preliminary regional boundary.
- Identifying a minimum of three potential landfill sites.
- Determining current quantity of solid waste generated within the region.
- Determining area requirements for a minimum 50-year landfill site.
- Determining locations and types of transfer stations required to serve the region.

—Determining costs associated with landfill construction and operation, transfer station construction and operation, and transportation of solid waste.

—Determining anticipated annual per capita solid waste disposal costs for each governmental agency within the region.

—Determining annual per capita costs for each governmental agency utilizing existing individual landfill sites to comply with solid waste regulations.

—Identifying all governmental agencies which could be economically served by the regional landfill.

—Producing a written report incorporating analysis of the above items and evaluating the economic feasibility of one or more regional sites versus individual landfill sites.

Bell-Durham said the proposals are due in by December 27 and administrative staff from both Ruidoso and Roswell will be doing the evaluation.

No change is in sight for chamber booth allocations

by AL STUBBS
Ruidoso News Business Editor

Consideration of changing policies on how booths are allocated for Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce-sponsored events has been put on a back burner.

An ad hoc committee, a sub-committee of the financial oversight committee, met last week and voted to recommend some radical changes to the oversight committee.

But, the oversight committee including Ronnie Paulger, president of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, referred the matter back to the ad hoc committee.

That committee was appointed by the board of directors to only consider the booth problem and a problem with free admissions to various events including the annual Art Festival and Bavarian Bash or Octoberfest.

The Art Festival is one of the major fund raisers for the Chamber of Commerce each year.

Paulger, when he heard the recommendations of the ad hoc committee, said, "Why fix it if it isn't broken?" He suggested that any action be postponed until after the first of the year because the events in question are months and months away.

The present system of allocation and control over "menus" is working well, he said.

The ad hoc committee had suggested that people desiring booths be allowed to serve any kind of food they might wish.

Sunny Hirschfeld of the chamber staff had recommended such a change in policy in a memo she left when she went on a short vacation last week.

The ad hoc committee also recommended that booths be allocated on a first-come, first-serve basis. Applications hand-delivered to the chamber at a certain time on a certain date would have to be accompanied by a check and an outline of what foods would be served. Civic clubs and organizations seeking booths would be required to pay a fee up front to sell foodstuffs.

Also recommended was a policy as it exists now be reaffirmed. That policy says only German-type foods would be served at the Bavarian Bash.

The new plan would have allowed anyone seeking a booth to inspect records of prior applicants to see what, in detail, they planned to serve.

Crocker indicated he is opposed to such radical changes.

"People come over the years with one idea. I hate to disassociate them," said Crocker. He said he favored giving preference to organizations that have been faithful supporters over the years.

"People who have worked their butts off for years deserve consideration," he said.

Members opposed to change said they'd hate to see four or five organizations serving hot dogs. Others said the free enterprise system would provide checks and balances.

Ad hoc committeeman Eddie Parker, who had a high school booth this year, said he has only one complaint. He said the drink concession should be located near the center of food booths at the Art Festival.

Proximity to the drink concession provides an advantage, he said.

The chamber of commerce retains the drink concession each year at major events. Beer sales are a big money maker for the chamber.

Regarding admissions to events, the ad hoc committee recommended a policy whereby organizations be allocated so many tickets.

"No ticket, no entry," was the feeling of the committee.

There have been abuses in the past where people working booths crowd into the grounds seeking entry with families in tow.

The booth allocation question came up after A.D. Powers, representing the Sertoma Club, complained to the chamber board some time back that his club was frozen out of the Bavarian Bash for next year.

He said he came to the chamber the day after the 1989 bash and asked for permission to sell sausage next year at the event.

He said he was told two years in a row by Hirschfeld, "You can't do that." Another club, he said he was told, had the "sausage concession."

The oversight committee has referred the whole question back to the ad hoc committee which Crocker says will be expanded to include civic club representatives.

But no official action of the board is contemplated until the whole question is reviewed in detail.

Paulger indicated he believes the booth question is too important to rush into revised policies.

Get ready to be counted

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

With 1990 rapidly approaching, the Bureau of Census of the U.S. Department of Commerce is gearing up for the beginning of the decade count of the nation's population.

The U.S. Constitution calls for a census of the country's population every 10 years so that the 435 congressional seats can be evenly divided based on a state's population. Preliminary indications are that California could gain six congressional seats and Texas and Florida four each, while New York may lose three seats and some other frost belt states could lose one or two.

In 1980, New Mexico gained an extra representative because of an increase in the state's population. Although New Mexico will probably not gain another congressional seat, an accurate census count will give state officials an indication how far the state needs to go to obtain a fourth seat.

The census is important, not only to the nation, but to the state, the county and the individual municipalities.

The state government uses the census figures to allocate funds and redraw legislative districts. Census information is used by all levels of government in planning the placement of new roads, schools, hospitals, housing projects and crime prevention programs. Business uses the information to determine where to put shopping centers or how to target advertising campaigns.

The Bureau of Census will hire 30,000 temporary employees to help compile lists of the country's 106 million housing units and to follow up on people who do not return the census form, which will be mailed to each household on March 20, 1990.

According to Nora Marrujo and Abel Chavarria of the Bureau of Census in Las Cruces, the bureau likes to hire people who are familiar with specific communities and know the people.

"We are recruiting people to help with the count," Marrujo said.

She said the Bureau of Census will hire people for four to six weeks, train them for two days at minimum wage and then pay them $5.50 an hour plus 24 cents a mile during the follow-up process.

Marrujo said applications are available in Ruidoso at the Senior Citizen's Center, the Ruidoso

Chamber of Commerce and village hall.

Chavarria said it is important to get word of the census out to everyone, because an accurate census helps everyone.

"We have lots of information to get out to a lot of people," Chavarria said. "We are trying to get a real good count."

People who receive the census questionnaire in the mail are asked to fill it out and return it in the mail by April 1, 1990. Some rural areas may not receive the questionnaire in the mail, instead the census may be taken in person by one of the temporary workers. This will be done between May 1 and June 15, 1990.

After the census information is returned and tabulated, the Bureau of Census must deliver census figures to the president to be used in the reapportioning of congressional delegations. The bureau must also deliver, by April 1, 1991, census figures broken down to the block level to the states to enable the redrawing of legislative districts.

Following these reports, the Bureau of Census spends years afterwards producing many other detailed reports from the census data.

Just 11 more days to help!

With only eleven days left until Christmas, Ruidoso's Santacops program is in full swing.

According to one of Santacops organizers, officer Lou Wardwell of the Ruidoso Police Department, a number of Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops will be out Saturday collecting canned goods for Santacops.

Cub Scout troops 59 and 95 recently placed bags on a number of doors in Ruidoso. The young scouts will be going around on Saturday collecting canned goods and picking up the bags.

Girl Scout Troop 7 will be collecting canned goods in the area behind the Ruidoso Police Station on Saturday. Another Girl Scout Troop will also be out on Saturday collecting goods.

Wardwell said this Sunday, December 17, clowns from the Ruidoso Police and the Ruidoso Elks will be going to the Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School for a party. Later that evening there will be a party at 6:30 p.m. for the Santacops kids at Elks Lodge on Highway 70.

In other activities, Elaine Garrity's aerobics class at the Ruidoso Athletic Club will have a benefit for Santacops. A $3 donation is requested and a box will be set up for anyone wanting to donate toys.

Wardwell said several Ruidoso police officers will be personally visiting Santacops families during the next week.

Even though Santacops has received a lot of food items, organizers A.J. Bogue and Cleston Pritchett said Santacops still needs baby food, diapers, powdered milk and cereal. They said there are a lot of small babies on the Santacops list.

Santacops will begin delivering the food items and toys to the Santacops families on December 22 and 23.

Christmas is coming, the geese are getting fat. But don't say anything to these guys yet. They're much too dignified to worry over who's coming to dinner.

These stuffed toys are just some of the many collected by Santacops. Organizers say more toys are needed, but they also need more baby items, including baby food, cereal, powdered milk and even diapers.

Services Resumed At Saint Anne Chapel
For a while the historic little chapel of Saint Anne at Glencoe was closed pending installation of new heaters.

Regular services were begun last Sunday at eleven-thirty. The Reverend Anne Gaddy came over from the nine-thirty services at San Juan Bautista Church in Lincoln, right on time. We all appreciate the good work of Anne, Father Penn and the Reverend Bob Batton for bringing services to Lincoln, Ruidoso, Carrizozo and Lincoln.

At the services blessings were given for the birthdays of Lucie Page, Hugh Johnston, Jean Morgan, Betsy Seiler, Dusty Skellett and Albert Cooper, father of John Cooper.

Also the wedding anniversaries of Gary and Karen Thompson and Bob and Gretchen Batton were remembered in prayers.

John's father was born in Texas eighty-nine years ago today, December ten, and was brought to New Mexico as an infant. After Church John went to Roswell to attend a birthday party in honor of his father. One of these days we will have a little something about Albert Cooper, a true pioneer.

We missed organist Debbie Sanchez and Mary Cooper who are under the weather. We pray for their speedy recovery.

Little Camille Hilliard, our youngest member, was walking for the first time in church. She is the daughter of Carrol Hilliard of Ruidoso Downs.

We are all grateful to Frank Crawley who supervised the installation of the two fine new heaters.

For the rest of this month services will be held every Sunday at ten-thirty a.m., at least through Christmas. There may be change in time later.

Christmas Receptions At Financial Center

Christmas decorations were bright and a festive spirit of goodwill prevailed at Financial Center on Mechem Drive the night of Friday the eighth.

On the main floor an open house with refreshments was held at the Territorial Abstract Company. Then on the third floor there was a reception and demonstration by the Warp Speed Light Pin Company.

Then at the office of Dean, Noltensmeyer and Barraclough, William A. Dean and his wife, Karita, and the office staff, were hosts at a banquet of fine food, some of it in Christmas colors of red and green. The offices were decorated throughout in sparkling radiance of Christmas.

At these gatherings I met many long-time friends including Mr. and Mrs. Neal Chapman who live in their home amid the pines out on the top of the world, at Alto.

Also I became acquainted with some folks who had been my friends for a long time, unbeknownst to myself. In the offices of Dean, Noltensmeyer and Barraclough Mr. Mark Van Auken said that he felt a common bond with me through reading The Silver Lining and The Dreamer because I often mentioned my brothers, Mark and Lynn. Mark also has a brother named Lynn. He then introduced me to his charming wife, Frances. Both Mark and Frances are happy in Ruidoso and appreciate nature's wonder and all God's creatures, they were very gracious in their kind words about my messages in the Ruidoso News.

So once again I have reason to be grateful for the honor and the blessing of reaching all of you through the magic of the written word. It is always wonderful to meet for the first time folks who have been reading my words, I hope to meet all of you some day. This may take a little while, because The Ruidoso News is read in many distant places. Just the same to all of you who read my columns, thank you and God bless you.

Lighters of The Way
The early Spanish colonists and pioneers had many Christmas customs which sprung from their natural gifts at creating beauty and charm out of things of nature close at hand—the forested wilderness and the desert.

Among these are "Luminarios" or "Lighters of the Way." In earliest times as Christmas drew near, the early Spanish people would direct travelers to the church by lighting fires on high places near by. And also by placing lighted pitch pine along the pathway to the church, and all around the church itself—especially at Christmas eve—signalling that midnight mass would be celebrated.

My pioneer neighbors have told me of a great fire on the top of the hill north of San Patricio, sending the signal of Christmas services up and down the valley and across the hills. Two or three young men would take turns keeping the fire going, after a supply of wood had been gathered, and taken to the hill top. The Church of San Patricio would be lighted with small fires round about, and pitch pine torches.

Homes away out in the lonely wilderness would have their own "Lighters of the way" sending a message of welcome to the traveler in the dark night to come and share a Christmas celebration.

Also the lighters of the way were a welcome to the Christ Child.

In later years "Luminarios" have taken many forms, such as electric lights. One form going back through the years is made by filling a paper bag half full of sand, and placing a candle inside. This sends a mellow golden light out into the night.

Another ancient custom is the "Nacimiento" or Manger Scene which takes many forms rich in tradition of the Southwest. We will have more on Early New Mexico Christmas Customs, meanwhile keep the pathway of days leading up to Christmas bright with "Luminarios" of thoughts and deed of Christian kindness welcoming the birthday of our Infant Saviour, Christ Our Lord.

All three are located in Ruidoso.

Beauvais and Hawthorne bid $60 an hour and O'Reilly and Wardlaw bid $80 an hour for routine legal services; while Beauvais proposed $80 and O'Reilly and Wardlaw $100 an hour for complex legal services. Hawthorne didn't include another figure for complex legal services.

Beauvais said in his proposal that complex service is for litigation.

"So, if you don't do the job right the first time, it really costs us a lot the second time around," said Petty.

In other regular business Monday, the board:

A fireplace can add to the beauty of your home, but it can also add to your heating cost. To prevent this heating energy from being wasted, remember to close the damper tightly to keep warm air from being pulled up the chimney when the fireplace is not in use.

Ruidoso Downs may hike garbage rate

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

Ruidoso Downs residents may soon see their garbage rates increase.

Mayor Jake Harris and the Downs board, during a meeting Monday, postponed increasing the monthly fee after discussing a hike from the present $5.40 to $6. Trustees asked village staff for more information before raising the residential solid waste disposal charge.

It was noted in that meeting that Ruidoso and Capitan residents already pay $6 a month, and Carriozo residents pay $12.

Harris said the village has held to charge to $5.40 for quite awhile, but has been hit hard by increases in the amount it costs the village to dispose of the trash. He said the cost to dump a load has gone from $35 to $100, and the village's monthly payment to the landfill operators has gone from about $600 to $1,000 a month.

"If we could get a landfill, we wouldn't have to raise the rates," said Harris. "But I don't know when that will be."

Trustees, intent on holding the line on costs in Ruidoso Downs, indicated they'll make any increase temporary. Harris told the board that solid waste disposal costs will be less when the village operates its own landfill. Ruidoso Downs has made application for a landfill on property owned by Ken Nosker.

Harris said he expects something to happen on that permit within the next 30 days. He wondered why the Environmental Improvement Division set up a process to obtain permits and then won't issue any.

Harris also said that in a recent meeting with EID, he asked for some answers to a number of questions. "I asked if they're afraid to issue a permit," he said.

"Someone's going to have to do something," said Harris, telling the board that he submitted a very detailed application with all the information that EID requires.

"I don't think EID can drag their feet forever," said Harris. "Everybody's going to get in an emergency situation; every one of us is going to have to handle our own (trash)," he added.

In other regular business Monday, the board:

—Approved sending Sanitation Department staff member David Weibrecht to a three-day school in Carlsbad to upgrade his classification.

—Issued a certificate of appreciation to L.D. Jameson who has been storing Christmas lights for the village at no charge.

—Conducted a public hearing and approved a change on the name of a liquor license for Norman and Gail Wheeler.

—Learned that Ruidoso Downs Police officer Bobby Angermiller has been promoted to sergeant.

—Adopted an ordinance increasing the animal pickup charge from $10 to $15.

—Conducted a closed session over personnel and then adopted a job description for a full-time position that combines animal control and parks and recreation duties.

The Plant Corner

by Sally Black

Dear Readers:

It's that time of year again to warn you the danger of poisonous plants. I believe it is better to be safe than sorry.

My sources of information are the U.S. Dept. of Health Education and Welfare, Public Health Service, the Poison Control Center, University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston, Texas and a release from N.M. State University—College of Agriculture dated December 8, 1989.

Also, I'm reading Santa's mail for him that comes to the Ruidoso Downs and Old Lincoln Town post offices. If anyone is interested in helping me—help Santa, write to the same address as the Plant Corner.

POISONOUS PLANTS

I remind you again to be careful with certain poisonous plants we use to decorate our homes to reflect the season. I believe an ounce of prevention is better than a big veterinarian or doctor bill. Often small children and pets are attracted to the poisonous plants.

Some plants to avoid are: Amaryllis, holly, mistletoe and poinsettias. These plants are poisonous and can be harmful. These plants can look inviting to small children and pets—even inviting enough to eat. But they can cause severe gastrointestinal illness. It's best to keep them out of reach of both toddlers and pets.

Evergreen hollies with their bright red berries are a favorite for Christmas decorating. Most species grow tall if allowed to grow, doubt, the favorite Christmas plant of all.

Although the poinsettia has a wide reputation for being a very toxic plant, its reputation is, for the most part, unjustly due. I hear from flower shops every year, complaining of the bum rap poinsettias get, however, they do remain on the poisonous plant list.

Sensitive persons may experience contact dermatitis when they handle the leaf or contact the milk sap that exudes from the plant whenever it is injured.

Some symptoms are nausea and vomiting with diarrhea following. There may be some blistering of the lips and tongue, also some blistering on the skin, while these symptoms may not be fatal, who needs these symptoms on the holidays.

Poinsettias may carry a pest that threatens other house plants, a NMSU cooperative extension service specialist said. Check poinsettias for white flies before you buy. These tiny, powdery white insects suck juices from plant leaves. Large numbers of the insects will fly off the leaves when the plant is disturbed and land on other houseplants.

I would avoid "tinsel" and "glass" ornaments if possible. Do take care to use paper and bows rather than glass on the bottom of the tree if there are little ones and pets around.

The silk variety of plants can be very beautiful in the low places. Save the real plants for completely safe, out of reach places.

although usually they are kept trimmed and used as hedges.

The leaves appear either dull or dark shiny green. Bundles of small branches are sold for home decoration.

The toxic part is ingested of the bright, red berries. They contain the bitter principle, "ilicin" which is responsible for several poisonings in children and pets every year.

So keep the holly berries out of reach of small children and discard later in a safe way so animals cannot be harmed.

Mistletoe is another Christmas ornamental. It is a semi-parasitic plant growing on deciduous trees. Its leaves and branches are yellowish-green to a dark green, with small white berries.

All parts of mistletoe, contain toxic principles. The berries are the portions most frequently involved in poisoning. Death has occurred in about 12 hours after ingestion in some cases.

Don't take kisses if there are pets or small children around. The new silk plants are just as effective for kisses and no harm can come from silk mistletoe.

The poinsettia is, without a

Lady Warriors lose to Goddard

Roswell Goddard edged out the lady Warriors Tuesday, 32-27.

The Warriors junior varsity girls basketball team warmed up the court for the varsity, beating Goddard, 43-32.

But Ruidoso couldn't keep the court hot enough to beat the Rockets in the second game.

The varsity girls made three baskets before Goddard could make any points. At the end of the first quarter, the score was in Ruidoso's favor, 10-9.

The Warriors cooled off during the second quarter putting the ball through the hoop only two times. The score at the end of the first half was in Goddard's favor 17-14.

It was a low scoring third quarter and the Rockets led until the last two minutes of the game. Senior Rosie Shanta gave spark to the Warriors, tying the game at 25-25 with a three-point swisher.

The Warriors went ahead, 26-25, after being fouled.

Ruidoso's defense couldn't contain the fast breaking Rockets.

Ruidoso only scored one more point before the game ended in defeat, 32-27.

Turnovers were a main reason for the loss, but the Warriors also couldn't get the ball inside during offensive attacks. The Warriors had a hard time controlling the ball throughout the game.

Leading scorers for the Warriors were Ardena Comanche with 8 points and Rosie Shanta with 7.

Last weekend the girls were in Carlsbad and lost to Goddard by two points, 30-28. Junior DeAnna Swanner was the driving force in that game with 19 points. She also had 15 rebounds.

Swanner was nearly shut out Tuesday night, scoring less than five points and having only a handful of rebounds.

Also, during the Carlsbad Invitational last weekend, the Warriors lost to Lovington and beat Carlsbad 56-50.

The varsity has a 3-5 record so far this year, beating Tularosa, Roswell's JV and Carlsbad.

The next game will be against Portales at 6 p.m. Saturday, December 16, in the RHS gymnasium.

Go Warriors!

Junior Joellyn Comanche shoots as a Rocket defender takes a swipe at her hand. The girl Warriors lost a close game against Goddard Tuesday night. Ruidoso was ahead with less than two minutes left to play, but couldn't score additional points. The next game will be against Portales at 6 p.m. Saturday, in the RHS gymnasium.

Wildlife population changes year to year

If you have recently gone bird hunting or big game hunting you might have noticed a reduced population of game.

Ben Hanson of the Department of Game and Fish tells hunters not to worry. Populations of living creatures fluctuate year to year. It would be nice if there was an abundance of animals every year, but due to natural phenomenon population densities change, (humans influence animal populations also).

The study of population numbers and how they fluctuate year to year is a complicated subject. Wildlife populations are dynamic, sometimes changing day to day.

Two main factors determine the number of animals found in the wild, birth rate (natality) and death rate (mortality). It's easy to see that if the birth rate of a given population exceeds the death rate then the population will increase. So then, if the death rate exceeds the birth rate then the population will decrease.

Easy. The next question is what types of phenomenon affect populations.

The best example of a drastic decrease in a population was the tragic decline of the buffalo populations across the United States during the past 100 years. It's easy to understand that before buffalo were hunted with rifles the birth rate in most populations of North America, was higher than the death rate.

The abundance of food and the small number of predators that could kill buffalo allowed them to thrive.

Of course, everyone knows what happened. It was easy to predict that when the buffalo declined from a total population of over a billion, to under a 100,000 that the death rate was higher than the birth rate.

Each species of animals has its own birth rate. The number of young being born depends on a multitude of variables. For instance, what is the age at which adults reach breeding age? If there are a few bad years and the adult population goes down, the number of young produced will be reduced. Also the number of young produce in each litter or hatch and how often the animals breed is important.

The health of a population can cause a decrease in the number of young being born. If disease or starvation is common, then the number of surviving young will decrease accordingly.

Knowing all of this, Ben Hanson used the severe Roswell hail storm of last summer as an example of why the population of pheasant was lower in that area of the state.

Added to this the precipitation state-wide has been less, which means less food and cover, especially during the winter months that have the greatest affect on wildlife populations.

With all of this scientific sports talk, many of you might prefer to forget about the reasons why you didn't bring home the beef. Sometimes blaming the unsuccessful hunt on yourself is the reason.

That's one added advantage of fishing. Stocking lakes and rivers always increases the population on a regular basis.

Wallyball invades Ruidoso

by ROD MAYS

Ruidoso News Sports Writer Anyone who has played volleyball is sure to love wallyball. No, it's not named after the man who created it, wallyball is played on a racquetball court and all four walls can be used during play.

Believe it or not, Ruidoso, wallyball is here.

The Ruidoso Athletic Club (RAC) has all the equipment to play this new sport, according to Jeannie Whitwam, owner and manager of the club.

A Newsweek article explained this new sport very well.

In 1979, Joe Garcia, then assistant manager and racquetball pro at a racquetball club in Calabasas, California, invented wallyball.

"Why not play volleyball on the courts?" said Garcia, after pondering ways of enticing people into the club.

So, Garcia strung a volleyball net across the courts and the game was invented. A new ball was needed, but other than that, the sport is like volleyball with four walls to play off.

This is perhaps the biggest sports/fitness craze to hit upscale America since nautilize became a verb, according to Newsweek magazine. The five-year-old sport has more than 300,000 players and has turned many normal people into fanatics.

"I changed a sales meeting so I could be here tonight," said electronics technician Danny Serlich, 31, as he arrived for wallyball night at SportsLife, a health club in suburban Atlanta. "I'll give up a lot of things, but not my wallyball," he added.

Richard Gold, director of the Omnihealth & Racquet Club in Southampton, New York, also supports the idea. "I've worked in a lot of clubs and I've found that as soon as you add the game, people embrace it," he said.

The Newsweek release continued, adding that aficionados claim wallyball has an angle for everybody. The rules are basically the same as volleyball: each two-to-four-member team can hit the ball three times to send it over the net. The balls are softer than volleyballs and the walls bounce mis-hits back into play, making the game easy for novices and intriguing for experts.

"You meet a lot of people this way," said Jeff Allen, 23, an Atlanta lab technician.

St. George, Atlanta, is home of three national championship teams and has been the courting ground for at least two marriages. Rubbing elbows with the opposite sex does strange things to people.

Ruidosians can also enjoy rubbing elbows while playing this exciting new sport, so be sure to ask for the electric-blue rubber ball next time you're at the RAC, says Whitwam.

Time will tell if Garcia's blue rubber ball ranks with James Naismith's peach basket and other famous sports inventions. But that won't stop today's wallyballers from dreaming of the big time.

"Madison Square Garden in 1990. In 1992 wallyball could even go to the Olympics," said George Casius a player/coach at St. George.

So, have some fun and get in shape, find a partner and play wallyball this winter. Ruidoso has all the facilities to play this fast growing sport, so why not give it a try.

New Mexico Coaches Association creates scholarship for handicap

The New Mexico High School Coaches Association (NMHSCA) has created a scholarship program with proceeds from the North-South All-Star Football and Basketball games.

Coaches from high schools around the state decided to put the money earned at those annual games to work by providing scholarships for physically handicapped New Mexico high school graduates.

As the senior recipient of the scholarship graduates from college, a new incoming freshman will be awarded the four-year scholarship.

College-bound high school seniors who are physically handicapped may apply for the Ledbetter-Stratton Scholarship.

Applicants must attend an accredited New Mexico College or University.

To apply or to learn more about the scholarship and its requirements, contact Henry Sanchez, New Mexico Highlands University, Las Vegas, NM 87701.

Scholarship applications are due by April 1 1990.

SPORTS RAP

By Rod Mays

It is hard to predict which sport will be invented in the coming years. Just think of the new sports invented during the past 20 years.

My favorite new sport is windsurfing. This sport has taken off internationally and is now part of Olympic competition.

Windsurfing, or sailboarding as some may call it, is a dynamic sport which continues to improve with technology. There are many types of boards and sails for different environmental conditions. It can become very complex and scientific when trying to adhere to the changing weather conditions.

The Colombian River in Oregon was once surrounded by small logging communities, with an unpredictable future. Now, the "Gorge" is the hottest spot in the nation and possibly the world for windsurfing. Just imagine what that has done to the economy in the area.

Windsurfing at the "Gorge" is for experts and takes lots of equipment.

For the most part, however, the sport of windsurfing is easy to learn and can be enjoyed at any age.

I remember the first time I tried to balance myself on top of a windsurfer.

"What the #%&#@ am I doing this for," I said to myself, after falling off the board about 100 times.

One of the reasons I didn't give up was because the person who was teaching me, was about 50 years old.

It was an encouraging sight when I saw him sailing around the bay, doing tricks and smiling like it was the easiest thing in the world.

The day I went out to learn, the ocean was choppy, the wind was gusty and the board I was using was not a standard teaching board. All of this I found out, of course, after three to four hours of flailing around. I didn't think the conditions were so bad, after all, I could swim just fine.

The surly instructor kept calmly telling me, "... get up, pull the sail out of the water slowly ... no, no ... get up ..."

After that first lesson I felt I would never learn to windsurf and wondered how this old guy could do something I couldn't.

Later I had a few more lessons, on the beach, on a land simulator. This showed me how to control the board and the wind. Then, the veteran instructor let me practice windsurfing on a calm ocean, with a huge board and a small sail. This student-board was easy to stand up on and I could finally balance myself for more than a second or two.

Realizing the importance of learning at the beginning level, I eventually became a windsurfing instructor.

Now it was my turn. When I was a student, jealous of the "old man," I was blind. I did what I thought was right, not knowing any better. No matter what the instructor told me, I wanted to do things my way, and I punished myself because of it.

While teaching windsurfing I had the opportunity to instruct Jay Berwanger.

Does anyone know who Mr. Berwanger is?

He was the very first Heisman trophy winner. I didn't realize this until after the lesson was over, and after I had demoralized the poor man.

He just couldn't get the hang of it and wouldn't listen to me. He had his mind set on how this sport should be done and nobody was going to tell him any different.

I started him on the beach and treated him nicely, using the big board and small sail. The conditions were good but the student would not listen.

I found myself sounding just like the "old man."
"... get up, pull the sail out of the water slowly ... no, no ... get up ..."

Over and over again this hero of football tried to sail on the board, but he finally gave up. He never asked me for another lesson, but always said I was a good instructor.

What is the meaning of this story?

Well, maybe it is a story about sports in general. There are many times when you may think the instructor is stupid, not qualified or just arrogant. Don't let that get in the way of your learning. New sports are going to be foreign to each of us but the progress you make in mastering the sport depends on your attitude.

Also, I think Ruidoso needs windsurfing nearby. Elephant Butte is too far, besides windsurfers spend money and Ruidoso might like a few extra dollars. There are plenty of golf courses, why not a windsurfing area?

Local man wins national ESPN contest

The chances must have been a million to one that someone from Ruidoso would win the ESPN/NFL Watch and win contest, but Weaver Ballard won anyway.

Lincoln Cablevision announced Ballard had picked the correct four teams which kicked off in the second half during four pre-season NFL games this season.

"Weaver was selected out of thousands of entries in this watch and win contest which is conducted on a national basis," said Paul Crown, General Manager of Lincoln Cablevision.

Weaver and his wife, Diana, were awarded a trip to Miami, Florida, to watch the Miami Dolphins take on the New England Patriots, Sunday. The prize included two round-trip airline tickets, a room at the Holiday Inn (only two blocks away from Joe Robbie Stadium) and two tickets to the game. Lincoln Cablevision also gave the Ballards $100 spending money. The total package was estimated at $1,000.

The Ballards left for Miami Saturday morning and returned Monday. Weaver Ballard predicted Miami would win and the Dolphins did.

Weaver Ballard is the owner of Butch's Refrigerator and Appliance

Repair, located in Ruidoso. He and his wife have been living in Ruidoso since 1972, and have five children.

"It's the first time I've ever won a contest," said Weaver. The Ballards said it was the first time to see a live NFL game.

"I told Diana all these years that it paid to watch football, and it does," said Weaver.

Before the trip to Miami, the Ballards take some spending money. They received $100 from Lincoln Cablevision and tickets from ESPN to see the Miami Dolphins play the New England Patriots. Hotel and round trip airline tickets were also included. Weaver and Diana Ballard accept the prize from Paul Crown, general manager of Lincoln Cablevision.

Freshmen beat Alamo

The Ruidoso High School freshman basketball team won its second game of the season by beating Alamogordo Chaparral, 56-46, Saturday.

The freshmen lost the season's third game to Alamogordo, 64-41, Wednesday.

"Our guards and forwards did a super job of getting the ball inside to our post players. After settling down, we took control of the game and played well," said freshman basketball coach Clifton Neal, after the team's victory Saturday.

At the end of the first half the Warriors led 28-22. The team slowed down during the third quarter but rallied over the Chaparrals in the fourth quarter.

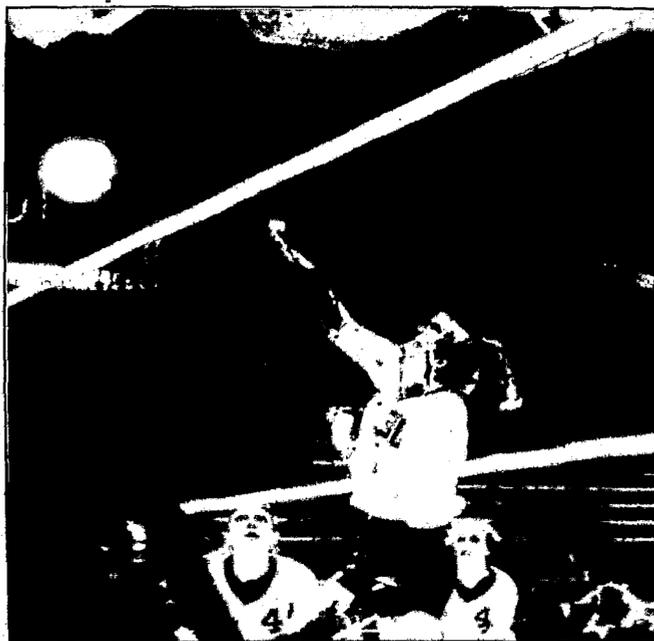

Eric Evans and Wally Murrillo were the high scorers with 16 points apiece.

Neal said the freshmen played an excellent game during the first half against Alamogordo Wednesday night. The Warriors couldn't hold on during the second half against the sharp shooting Alamogordo freshmen.

Jamie Ordorica was the top scorer for Ruidoso with 16 points.

Coach Neal's team has a record of 1-2 and will play Santa Teresa at 2 p.m. Saturday, December 16, in the RHS gymnasium.

Go Warriors!

Hard hitter, Chantel Bowen, delivers another spike during a volleyball match this season. The senior from Ruidoso High School has been selected for the AAA/AAAA South All-Star Volleyball Team.

Bowen named All-Star player

Anyone that watched the lady Warriors during volleyball season, saw Chantel Bowen's splendid spikes.

She was awarded the "Hardest Hitter" award Sunday at the fall sports ceremony.

Bowen has also been selected for the 1990 New Mexico High School South All-Star Volleyball Team. She is invited to participate in the seventh annual North/South AAA/AAAA All-Star matches on June 15, 1990, in Roswell.

All-star players were chosen by a committee of head volleyball coaches in each section of the state, representing each class and the districts within those classifications. Graduating seniors were the only players eligible.

Coaching the South All-Stars this year will be Andy Sweet from Carlsbad High School.

Texas racetrack calls early halt to first meet

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—The Texas Racing Commission, faced with regulating an industry that can't get on its feet, said lowering the state's 5 percent cut of pari-mutuel betting could help horse racing grow.

"The principle of giving some form of tax relief to a new industry so that it can grow healthy and strong is a sound and proven policy," said the commission report approved Monday and sent to Gov. Bill Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis.

The commission said lawmakers might well consider lowering the state's take, which is 5 percent of the pari-mutuel handle, or betting revenue, at horse tracks.

Commission Chairman Hilary Doran said he has received a strong signal from Clements the issue might be added to a special legislative session on school finance reform this spring.

"I'm getting the signal that the governor realizes there's a problem, and I'm very optimistic he's going to include it ... this spring," Doran said.

Sheila Allee, deputy press secretary to Clements, said no decision has been made on adding other issues to the agenda.

The commissioners addressed the handle take issue the same day G. Rollie White Downs in Brady, the only Texas pari-mutuel horse track running, said it will end the season early because it can't make money on cold-weather racing.

The track, which had been scheduled to run weekends through the end of January, will hold its last races Sunday, said track manager Richard Lerma. The track earlier dropped Fridays from its racing schedule.

"Due to our low handle and our low attendance, we just don't see how we can continue during this cold spell," Lerma said. "We're just not getting the fans out."

The track wants to race from the last part of March through October, Lerma said, instead of October through January as it was assigned.

While the commission must approve new racing days, legal counsel Paula Carter said it doesn't have rules allowing it to interfere in a track's decision to drop days. She said she hopes to present an outline of rules for dropping days in February.

The commission probably will act on requests for new racing days in January or February, said Assistant Attorney General Bill Conover.

In other action Monday, the commission moved the application period for a Class 1 license for Harris County from March to May.

-Refused to act on a request that it reconsider a decision not to award a Harris County Class 1 license this year. The failure to act means the motion by one of the two license contenders, Houston Turf Club, will be automatically overruled under a legal deadline later this month.

Turf Club President Kirwin Drouet said he didn't know if his group would appeal in state court or submit a new license application to the commission.

-Declined to act on a motion to reconsider its granting of a Galveston County greyhound license to Lone Star Greyhound Park.

School Board sets February mill levy election

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Board of Education adopted a resolution to call for a two mill levy election early next year.

The mill levy election, to be conducted February 6, 1990, is a renewal of mill levy funds already in place and does not represent a tax increase.

These monies, known as SB-9, were first passed in 1972, and have been in place as part of the regular budget to maintain buildings and for the purchase of equipment. They are not part of the bond election passed in October, said superintendent Sid Miller.

The board also accepted a resolution to advertise for the sale of $1 million worth of the bonds in the first sale of the bond issue.

Miller said he had received complaints that taxes had gone up because of the bond issue passed in October, but this is not true.

School taxes have not gone up, although other tax rates may have for certain tax payers, said Miller. Also, none of the bonds were sold yet and, therefore, could not have an effect on anyone's tax rate.

The board accepted a proposed budget of $187,391 in new revenues as of the 40th day that would increase certified staff salaries by an average 2.36 percent and provide for an additional teacher at the high school and one aide at Nob Hill Elementary.

The salary adjustment schedule also included a 5.72 percent average increase for non-certified personnel, and a 2.64 percent increase for administrative personnel. A food service supplement package of $11,000 was also included.

This salary adjustment represents a commitment to quality education by making teachers a priority in the education of youth, said board member Rod Adamson.

Miller said officials in Santa Fe do not like mid-year budget increases but believes it will be accepted given the board's approval.

Last year personnel willingly took a pay cut because enrollment was down at the 40th day, said board member Lynn Willard.

"We can do what we want to do and let Santa Fe do what they feel," he said.

The board accepted a recommendation to finalize a contract with Greer Architects and Associates of Albuquerque to be the architect for the building remodeling projects to be funded by the bond issue passed in October.

Willard said the goal of the architect is to have all the plans ready and the contractors selected so that construction can begin after the last day of classes in May.

The estimated cost to the district for the architect is 6.5 percent, said Miller.

One area of the contract still to be negotiated is the inclusion of an arbitration clause for disputes over items up to $30,000 in cost, said Miller.

"We would like to have that clause," he said.

The board approved the installation of Channel 1 into the secondary program on a one-year trial basis. Channel 1 is a news program designed for teen-age audiences and is provided free by Whittle Communications.

Miller said he contacted Cable News Network which has a similar program available without commercials, but did not think it was attractive to students.

Ruidoso Middle School principal Mike Gladden said he had unanimous support for the program's use, and parent support as well.

The board rejected the one bid received for snow removal services because the bid did not meet the specification that removal was to be complete by 7 a.m.

Bids for a maintenance building were also rejected until it was certain monies would be available.

Five bids were received and all were above the expected amount of $30,000.

In other business the board:

- Heard the administrative office is still pursuing post secondary education in Ruidoso.
- Approved the warrants.
- Approved a budget transfer for federal projects.
- Approved a budget transfer for 874 monies.
- Called for bids for re-roofing at White Mountain Intermediate School.

- Accepted the 1988-89 audit report.
- Called for bids for the lunch program.
- Accepted personnel recommendations to hire Lee Ann Longbotham as an 874 aide at White Mountain Elementary School and to hire Jan Mullican as attendance secretary at the middle school.
- Accepted the resignation of Nancy Schmidt.
- Approved policy revision regarding credit for coursework.
- Received information regarding travel to the National Association of School Boards Convention.
- Approved holiday closing dates for the administrative offices as December 25, 26, and January 1, 1990.
- Retired into a closed session.

MainStreet merchants will be open Sunday

Groups of carolers will be spreading the Christmas spirit Sunday during a Christmas Open House sponsored by MainStreet Ruidoso. Member merchants on Sudderth Drive will have their doors open from noon to 5 p. m. Sunday. Carolers will be performing in various businesses. Several church groups will be singing.

Refreshments will be served in a number of businesses, according to Mary Maul, project chairman of MainStreet Ruidoso.

Also, a horse-drawn trolley or streetcar will provide free transportation up and down Sudderth during the afternoon. Santa Claus will be dispensing candy canes.

Sharon Wells, chairman of the MainStreet Special Events Committee, is in charge of scheduling.

Retirees gear up for spring ad campaign

With a total proposed budget of $31,156 for the 1989-90 program, the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Retirement Committee will spend about $24,220 on magazine advertising.

Chairman Roy Crocker, Phil Price Advertising Agency representative Chris Allison, chamber executive director Jerry Watts and committee member John Chappell worked out a program Monday for advertising in slick national magazines next spring.

Three one-third-page, two color advertisements will appear in "The Rotarian," official magazine of Rotary International with a 524,247 circulation. These will appear in the March, April and May issues.

One advertisement will be placed in the "Retired Officer" magazine in March. It also will be a third page in two colors.

Another third-page in two colors is scheduled for "Mature Outlook."

An advertisement identical in size and with two colors will go into "New Choices," which has a circulation of 556,265.

Purpose of the advertising is to attract retirees who have discretionary income to Ruidoso.

A survey shows that readers of "New Choices" have an average household income of $35,900. Rotarians who subscribe to "The Rotarian" have average household incomes of $84,000.

Crocker says advertising in "Retired Officer" last year brought 3,000 inquiries which the advertising committee answered.

Some 2,000 inquiries about Ruidoso came as a result of advertising in "New Choices."

An ad in "Retired Officer" brought 1,000 inquiries. Retired officers have incomes averaging $45,000 per household.

Cost of national magazine advertising to be used costs from $2,115 to $7,775 per insertion.

He said seven or eight property purchases have been traced to magazine advertising.

The advertising committee will be taking the $31,156 budget to the chamber board.

Anticipated income will come from the following sources:

- Ruidoso Lodgers Tax, $1,500
- Lincoln County Lodgers Tax, $1,000
- First National Bank, $1,000
- Ruidoso State Bank, $1,000
- Pioneer Savings and Trust, $200

- Don and Marjory Dye, $100
- State matching funds, 1989-90, $10,000
- Chamber of commerce, $8,500
- Carryover from prior year, state match and private funds, $7,856.

The advertising committee last year had a budget of nearly $60,000, but this year the committee won't have to print full color brochures. The committee has enough on hand.

Also, artwork for the advertisements already is in hand. Few new color separations will be needed.

Production costs by the Phil Price Agency of Lubbock, Texas, have been held to $1,500, while miscellaneous expenses connected with advertising are figured at $200 including a $200 travel allowance.

Don't forget Santacops.

It's the time of year when Santacops, a group of volunteers led by members of area law enforcement agencies, coordinates a drive to provide Christmas gifts and food to the needy in the area. Just a few people take the lead, and they are well on the way this year.

But Santacops can't do it alone.

That's where individuals, families, churches, clubs and service organizations come in. It's up to us to provide plenty of food and enough toys to take care of the Santacops shopping list. A number of clubs already have pitched in with members buying new toys for the Santacops drive instead of exchanging gifts. But more toys are still needed.

Food, too, is required to fill the Christmas baskets for needy families in the area.

Warm jackets are always needed, and Varnadore Cleaners will clean good, used outerwear free. Just drop the items off at the cleaners and they'll be cleaned and passed on to Santacops for distribution.

Food collection containers are set up at a number of locations, including grocery stores and the post office. Donations of food and toys can be taken to the Ruidoso Police Department.

And so, make yourself happy by helping someone else this Christmas. Join Santacops.—fj

BOB PALMER
SPRINGFIELD (MO) NEWS-LEADER

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

A juxtaposition of your recent editorials with regard to Mescalero is both baffling and bewildering. Your most recent editorial against Mescalero is, to say the least, disgusting and belittles the knowledge and caliber of the editor of Ruidoso News.

In the first of your three editorials regarding Mescalero you thought it was your business when you were hoodwinked into coming to Mescalero and write about the November Tribal General Election. You made Mescalero's business your concern at that time. With your recent editorial this is not the case.

In your second editorial Mescalero was "all right" because the school children attending Ruidoso schools represented quite a "few dollars." The schools could operate without having to ask the Lincoln County taxpayers to cough up additional dollars to support the schools because of the Mescalero dollars.

In your most recent editorial Mescalero is "no good" because the Village Convention and Visitors Bureau in their good judgment selected the Inn of the Mountain Gods to promote an activity that will mutually benefit Ruidoso and Mescalero. Evidently Mescalero is not in the Ruidoso area according to your editorial.

Mescalero would ask the editor, do you want us to draw the line between Mescalero and Ruidoso so that only those persons from Mescalero can work at Ski Apache and the Inn of the Mountain Gods? Will Ruidoso News take up the slack and support Ruidoso residents who presently work for Ski Apache and the Inn of the Mountain Gods upon their release? Think about it Miss Editor! Will Ruidoso allow the Ruidoso News Editor to drive a wedge between Mescalero and Ruidoso? The campaign against Mescalero by Ruidoso News must stop.

As editor you made a gross error (which is inexcusable) in your most recent editorial that Mescalero does not pay sales tax. How dumb can you get? Every time Mescaleros trade in Ruidoso for groceries, furniture, appliances, floral arrangements, auto repairs and automobile purchases (the list goes on) they pay sales taxes for which they in turn receive no services or benefits from the Village or State of New Mexico. Before you attack Mescalero—please, please, get your facts straight otherwise you show you don't belong in the job.

Mescalero has capitalized Ski Apache to the tune of multi-million dollars so that it could benefit Mescalero and Ruidoso. In addition to the dollars spent on capitalizing Ski Apache it also pays gross receipt taxes, and we repeat again, without any tangible returns or benefits to Mescalero!

Miss Editor don't fool yourself and go on false ego trips at the expense of Mescalero! Get and check your facts before you put them into print!

Very truly yours,
Wendell Chino
Mescalero Resident
President, Mescalero
Apache Tribe

EDITOR'S NOTE: We called on the Ruidoso Convention and Visitors Bureau to promote the village at home instead of in another town, be that Mescalero, Santa Fe or else where. We did not say Mescalero is "no good." We also said gross receipts taxes are not paid at the Inn, we did not say members of the Mescalero community do not pay taxes on purchases they make in Ruidoso. We welcome Mr. Chino's comments and opinions. The Ruidoso economy would not be so strong without the Mescalero Apache tribe and its members.

Reporter's Round

By Richard A. Harrold

I suppose everyone is entitled to change their mind. After all, certain changes in opinions and habits often reflect maturity, the incorporation of new information through experience, or even just plain being tired.

For example, I used to be a serious smoker. Two-and-a-half packs of Camel Filters each day. Everytime I sucked in that smoke my face virtually caved in. I would then hold that smoke for about one-half second before letting it out, usually quite slowly.

I started to smoke when I was 14 because it was cool and, like most teen-agers, I was searching for ways to obtain peer acceptance. At first it was little cigars because these were unusual and drew attention more quickly. But I soon discovered cigarettes were more easily inhaled and more generally accepted.

My body did not like the idea of smoking. In fact, it did everything it could to convince me what I was doing was bad for me. I became dizzy, even nauseated, if I smoked too fast. I coughed and wheezed and my mouth had this nasty, bitter taste all the time. But my brain was more powerful than all my other internal organs combined; in the end, my brain won by convincing the rest of my body that social acceptance was more important than good health.

For the next 14 years I committed slow suicide. By the time I was 25 the idea of quitting became more attractive. I discovered I no longer had the energy to hike, backpack, ski or do other activities I truly enjoy. The price of tobacco also became a problem. But quitting is easy. To paraphrase Mark Twain, it's so easy I've done it about a hundred times. It's staying off the tobacco that is hard.

I had to convince myself I really wanted to stay off tobacco, that I had a reason to stop smoking, and that didn't occur until the summer of 1986. It was then I began to hate myself for always feeling terrible, and each time I lit up I looked at that smoking gun and began to turn that hate toward the tobacco.

I hated tobacco because it controlled my life, it limited my ability to use my hands, it sucked up my money and turned it into smoke, it made my clothes and body stink, it made me stop what I was doing just to accommodate holding a cigarette in my fingers—I hated tobacco because it ran my life instead of me.

On September 4, 1986, when I was 28 years old, I killed my habit. There was no withdrawal. No craving. I used my brain again to out-smart the rest of my body which had become addicted. Again, my brain won the battle, and this time the war. Other people change their minds about things too, but sometimes I wonder about their motives. For example, Charlie Daniels...

The Charlie Daniels Band has a new song out in which Charlie sings about hanging dope dealers from trees, leaving their bodies to rot and be scavenged by insects. Is this the same Charlie Daniels who in 1974 released the song "Long Haired Country Boy"?

If you forgot the song, let me remind you of the opening set of lyrics. "People say I'm no good and crazy as a loon because I get stoned in the morning, I get drunk in the afternoon." And then there's the refrain: "If you don't like the way I'm living/you just leave this long haired country boy alone."

Drugs are a major problem in our society, but it appears of Charlie is singing his new tune because it's economically popular, rather than morally correct.

In Charlie's new song, he talks about an eye for an eye, and fighting drugs with his Bible. But again, in that 1974 song, "Preacher man talking on the TV/puttin' down the rock-and-roll/Wants me to send a donation/cause he's worried about my soul/He said Jesus walked on the water/and I know that is true/but sometimes I think that preacher man/ought to do a little walkin' too."

Sounds like Charlie could stand a little walking as well. But maybe he just thinks people won't remember his old song, and he's probably right.

Cat Stevens is no different.

Stevens had many popular songs in the 1970's, such as "Peace Train," and "Wild World." But now Stevens condemns Salmon Rushdie along with the rest of the Arab world for satirizing the Islamic faith. How come a bounty wasn't asked for Michael Palin, or John Cleese, for their production of "The Life of Brian"?

Oh well, like I said before, people are entitled to change their mind. I'm so glad I changed mine.

DEAR EDITOR:

First of all, a warm welcome to Mr. Sammy Lopez, the new publisher of The Ruidoso News. Welcome to our contentious community that is!

It was like a fresh breeze...like having the wind at one's back to find that for two weeks in a row on the opinion page we were treated to some humorous political cartoons! Hope springs eternal. Does this foreshadow further change? Except for the fact I am a fiscal conservative, I would rush out and subscribe to The News on a regular basis, but I shall take a cautionary position such as wait and see, at least for a bit.

And then, a well-done article by our editor, in the December 7th issue. To the point. Have the highway commissioners get their feet on the ground and try to navigate that which they have provided...a marginal road system. A passing thought. Might we not have the same hard hitting article directed at local road conditions which do not seem to be improving much? Something like getting our own house in order?

A nicely written letter from Los Lunas by Mr. Avery. It does seem to suggest the middle road in corrections: incarceration plus rehabilitation. Quite a contrast to the Attorney General's report on "Crime in New Mexico" which suggests rehabilitation has failed and we need bigger and better prisons; longer sentences etc., the usual authoritative solution (rather non-solution) to criminal behavior.

In any event, a Happy Winter Solstice to the staff of The Ruidoso News. They all labor long with little positive support. Change is in the air, a new broom sweeps clean, and let us hope that all of this means a new beginning for the New Year.

John A. White

DEAR EDITOR:

What rules or bylaws govern the Convention and Visitors Bureau? I'm not taking sides in The Connoisseur Classic, because I don't even know the people or events involved, but the ethics (based on what information I've gotten from the paper) do raise a few questions.

Was the "verbal" agreement awarded to Lindavida contingent upon anything? Pending approval? In contract matters, does the committee have to make a quorum? Knowing that last year's classic was such a success, and location was to be a priority, why didn't the committee know ahead of time that larger facilities would be needed and Lindavida would be inadequate? Couldn't the choice have been tabled if the decision required her (their) input?

Do any rules govern the process of rescinding decisions? Whatever happened to "A man's word is his bond?" How secure will other businesses feel about doing business with the bureau?

Parents, teachers, ministers, and social leaders spend a lot of time teaching young people values...honor, commitment, ethics, principles, morality, fairness, etc., and one public, capricious, arbitrary decision can annihilate a lot of social conscience.

"The wines will be complemented by marvelous hors d'oeuvres..." Those wines will surely leave a bitter taste in some businessmen's mouths. And the hors d'oeuvres? Probably made with fish, because this whole thing smells!

Sincerely,
Bonnie Coe

Modern Eye Care

by Wayne A. Delcamfer, M.D.
Eye Surgeon

OUTPATIENT CATARACT SURGERY

In days past, it was more likely that a patient undergoing cataract surgery was administered general anesthesia. Not only did the patient awaken with a feeling of grogginess, but he might have experienced soreness in the area of the eye. Today, these circumstances are largely avoided through the use of local anesthesia during cataract and/or lens implant procedures. The patient is first given a tranquilizer to calm and relax him. He then receives a local anesthetic in the area of the eye which numbs the nerves leading to the eye. This leaves the patient unable to feel or see the instruments while surgery is being performed. After the procedure, the patient feels little or no pain, and is quite alert. Because the majority of patients can go home immediately after this surgery, it is widely conducted on an outpatient basis.

For further information, please call or schedule an appointment with your eye doctor. Dr. Delcamfer specializes in medical and surgical diseases of the eye. He is certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and of the American College of Surgeons. His practice is located in Roswell, New Mexico. 624-0370

The toys took over

The Captain, played by Steve Lane, and his soldiers, Melissa Richardson and Amber Perry, leave the stage to count votes during the performance Monday night of the Ruidoso High School drama department. The characters in the play encouraged audience participation by asking the question: Should Santa Claus be the master toy maker?

The stage is set for a Christmas gift to the Village of Ruidoso from the First Baptist Church.

A Christmas pageant, featuring an adult choir of 60 voices, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, December 17, and at 7 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, December 18 and 19. All three programs will be given in the gymnasium of the First Baptist Church, 420 Mechem Drive.

The musical and dramatic production will also feature a 45-voice children's choir, a string trio from the Roswell Symphony and several soloists.

The pageant, directed by Michael Sanford, will contain music from two cantatas, "The King of Love" and "A Family Christmas."

Everyone is cordially invited to this musical event celebrating the Christmas season.

According to Sanford, admission is free, but tickets are necessary to make sure enough seats are available for each performance. They may be obtained at the church office or from members of the church.

Holiday Calling

'Tis the season to be calling. We at Contel know that most people call family and friends during the holidays. We have some suggestions for holiday calling.

The best time to call on Christmas is early in the morning or between 2 and 6 p.m., when telephone traffic is lighter. Delays in completing calls occur when telephone circuits are overloaded.

If you find it necessary to call long-distance directory assistance, make sure to write the number down. You'll probably be calling them on the next holiday.

Finally, did you know there are special rates on long distance calling on Christmas Day and New Year's Day? The evening rate applies all day on dial direct calls, unless a lower rate would normally apply (consult your Contel phone book information pages).

We at Contel wish you a happy holiday season.
