NO. 87 IN OUR 45TH YEAR 50¢

Measles cases diagnosed here

The measles outbreak which has coursed through Chaves and Eddy County apparently is reaching into Lincoln County.

Dr. Arlene Brown told Lincoln County Medical Center trustees at a meeting Thursday that one confirmed and several suspected cases have been reported in Ruidoso.

She told The Ruidoso News that several cases have been reported down the Hondo Valley.

The New Mexico Health and Environmental Department has issued an immunization recommendation for the area.

In a release to health care providers, the department says that half of all individuals with measles have required hospitalization. The majority of cases in Chaves, Eddy and Lincoln counties have occurred in unvaccinated infants two years of age or younger.

Immunization recommendations are as follows:

—Initial measles immunization recommended at six months of age. Those infants receiving measles immunization under 12 months of age will need to be re-immunized at 15 months of age and again at four to six years of age.

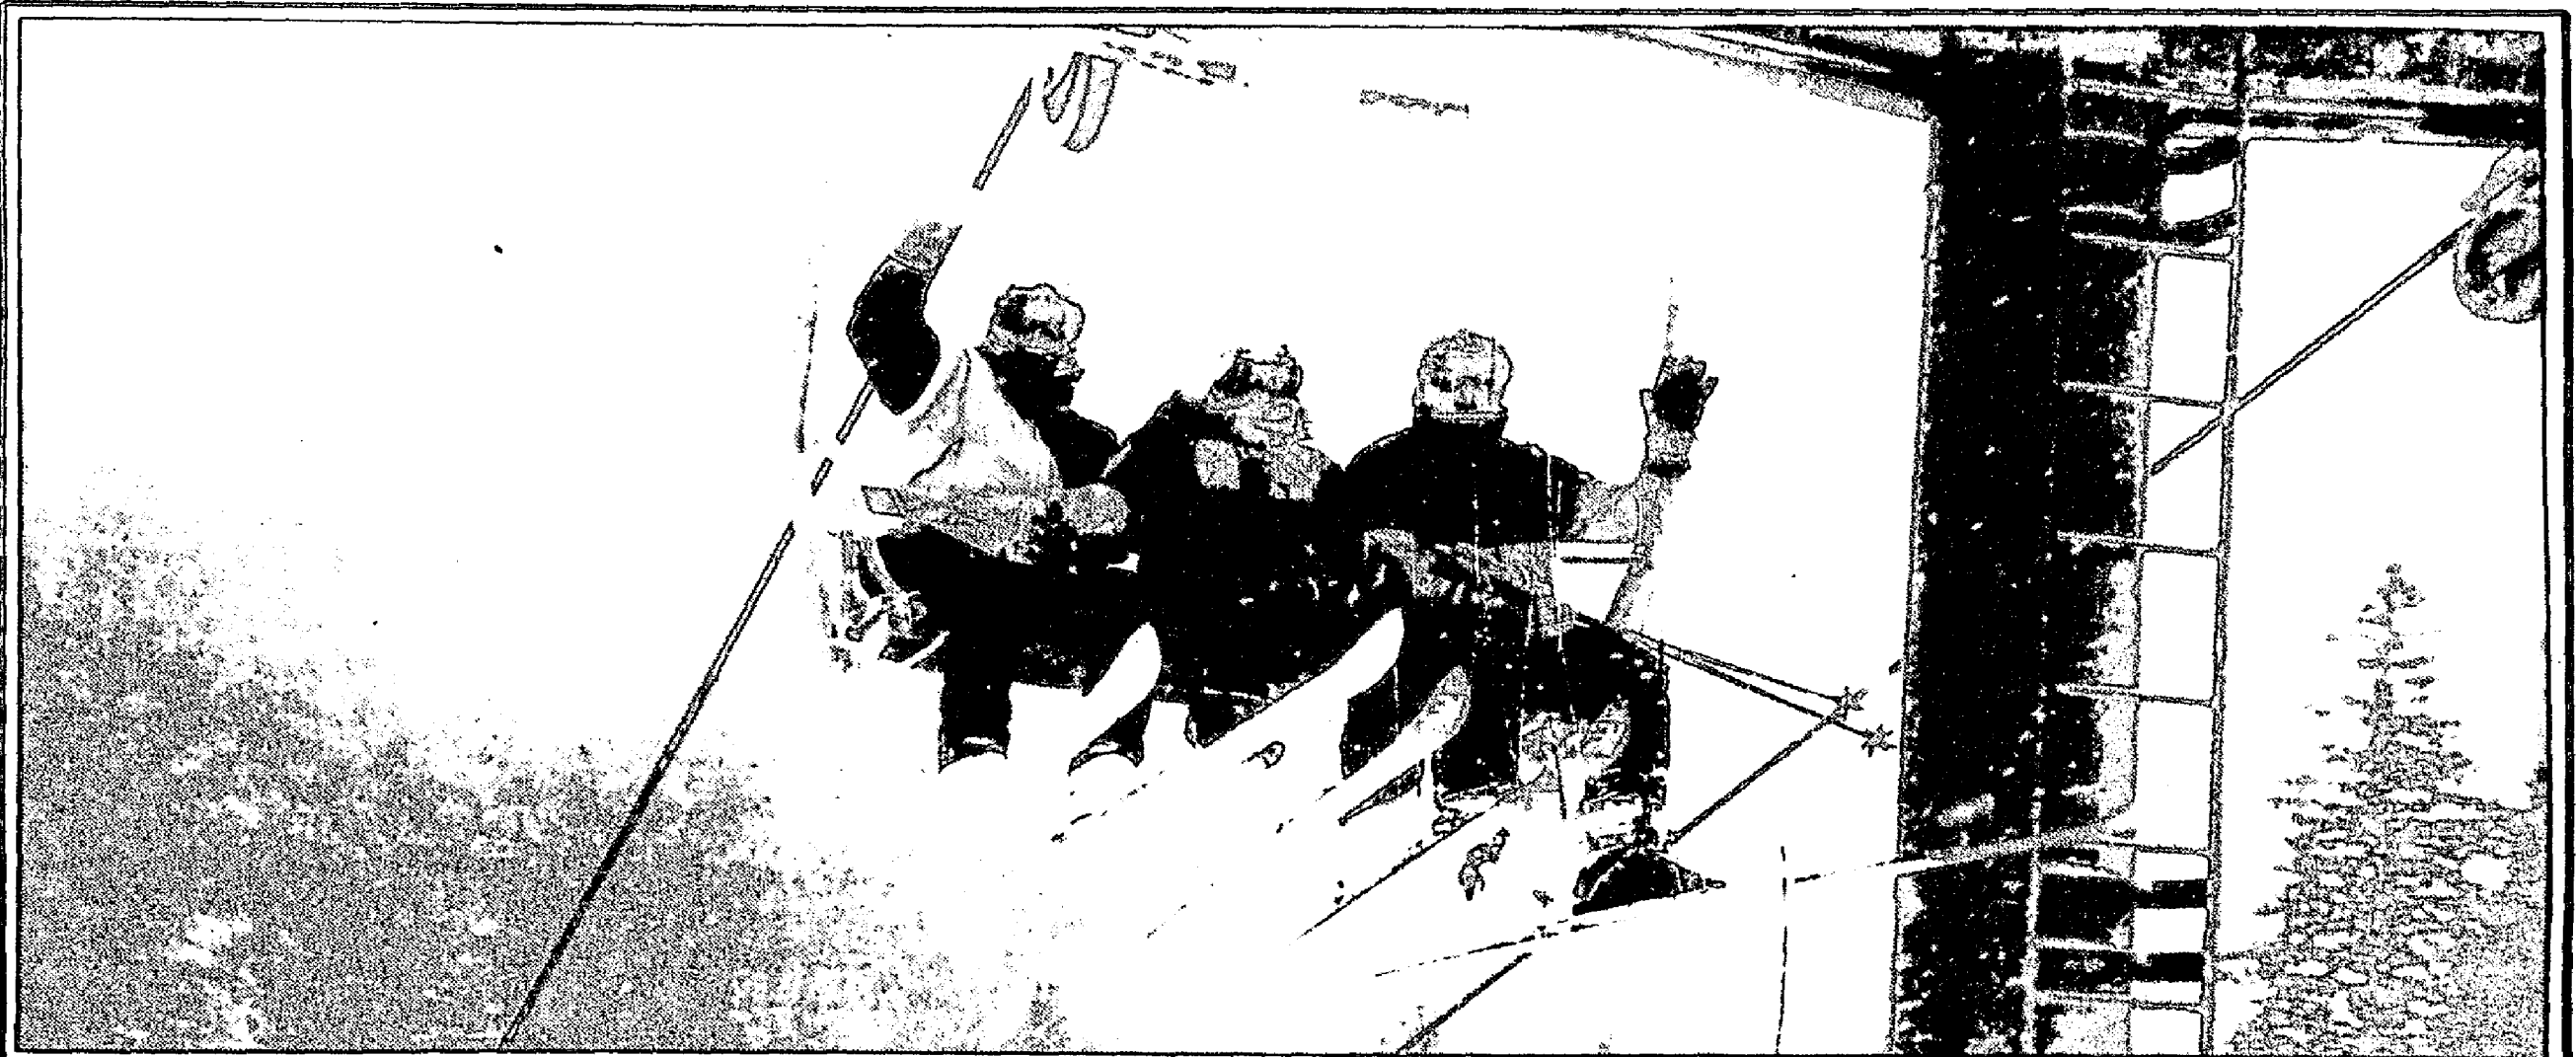

—Administration of a second shot is recommended at four to six years of age.

—Older children between seven and 18 years of age who have had only one dose of MMR (serum) should be re-immunized.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Carrizozo Health Office, 648-2412.

As of late last week, more than 40 measles cases have been reported in the area.

The New Mexico office of Epidemiology recommends that persons traveling to Roswell, Artesia or Carlsbad be adequately immunized against measles.

Lincoln County Medical Center finances get a clean bill of health; board hires nursing director

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor Lincoln County Medical Center trustees approved the hiring of a new director of nursing and heard good financial news at a regular monthly meeting Thursday evening.

Jule Duffalo, R.N., will report for duty as director of nursing by April 1, trustees were told. Until 1989 she was assistant administrator of Kaseman Presbyterian Hospital in Albuquerque; since 1989 she has been associated with Medicus, an organization which furnishes emergency room personnel to hospitals.

Duffalo replaces Dawn Kaitfors who resigned to take a position with Risk Management at Southwest Community Health Services, the LCMC parent organization headquartered in Albuquerque.

Fifteen people were interviewed for the director of nursing position.

"The decision was unanimous" on Duffalo, Valerie Miller, LCMC administrator, said. She cited Duffalo's experience "in the areas we were concentrating on."

In a report to trustees, Miller said January of 1991 is the highest gross revenue month since I have been at the Lincoln County Medical Center. She said net revenue was up by 21 percent over January of 1990.

"This month (January) would have been a positive bottom line in the amount of $84,822 and without mill levy funds would have remained positive to the amount of $37,573, except for a CD&A (Charity, Discounts and Allowances) of $60,000. This $60,000 adjustment is due to a reconciliation of actual CD&A to the estimated total required for the entire year."

Miller said that indigent care costs the hospital from 35 to 36 percent of its revenue on the average.

She said the figures in many rural hospitals runs as high as 49 percent.

Trustee Gary Mitchell said that the mill levy helps fund indigent care, that without the fund, "we wouldn't have a hospital."

The January financial report was welcome. The hospital reported losing $15,490 in December, $61,004 in November and $18,425 in October.

The ambulance service was in the black by $8,890 in January and $16,888 for the first seven months of the hospital year.

Trustees were told that high school counselors throughout the county have details on the scholarship the hospital provides each year for a student wanting to enter the health care field.

Students are encouraged to ask counselors about the scholarship.

Miller distributed a flier that will go to Hondo Valley residents and perhaps others in rural Lincoln County concerning the many medical needs which can be met at LCMC, "from simple laboratory tests to orthopedic surgery," the flier says.

The past summer six new physicians joined the medical staff of the hospital, "further expanding its capabilities," the brochure says. The flier is in English and Spanish.

Miller said LCMC along with Socorro have been selected for an "Operations Improvement — Pilot Site" whereby personnel from Albuquerque will come to Ruidoso periodically to provide additional training for support staff and medical staff.

The program, Miller said, is to provide "getting at the root" of any problems and solving them permanently.

She said "Band-aid" approaches to problem solving are out.

During the meeting seven Medicus doctors were approved as part of the medical staff. The doctors serve in the emergency room on a rotating basis. They are Dr. Robert Crook, Dr. Delmar Kampe, Dr. Ray Begay, Dr. Berry Cornell and Dr. Robert Desko.

LCMC Board appoints new health center advisory panel

A number of county residents have been approved as members of the advisory board to the Lincoln County Health Center (Carrizozo and Corona).

Stirling Spencer will be the county commission representative on the board.

The following persons were named:

One-year terms — Sara Gnatkowski and Sue Stearns.

Two-year terms — John Allen

Hightower and Aileen Lindamood.

Three-year terms — Joan Means and Hal Sims.

Lincoln County Medical Center Administrator Valerie Miller will also serve on the board.

Ex-officio members are Ernie Gonzales, physicians assistant at Carrizozo and Dr. Dale Goad, D.D.C.

The appointees were approved at a regular meeting of the LCMC trustees, Thursday evening.

In another development, Miller reported that after 4:30 or 5 p.m., calls to the Health Center (Gonzales) will automatically switch to LCMC.

Miller said Gonzales "has no time for himself" when answering after-hours calls at all hours, often concerning very routine matters.

Friday blaze destroys the Mescalero sawmill

A fiery blaze gutted the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe's sawmill on the reservation Friday, just over a year after the Bent-Mescalero Elementary School was destroyed by fire.

That school fire came just a couple of weeks after an arson fire that caused severe damage to The Ruidoso News plant in late January 1990.

The cause of the blaze at Mescalero Forest Products has not been determined, according to Associated Press reports.

John Gray, superintendent of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs in Mescalero, was quoted as saying the fire broke out at about 5:45 a.m. Friday.

The mill reportedly was engulfed in flames when the first of four firefighting units arrived. Gray told the AP that the fire was brought under control by about 7 a.m. Friday.

He said no one was on the scene when the fire began, and no injuries were reported.

Firefighters reported that containers of flammable material used for lubricating saws and chains exploded in the blaze. There was concern that the building would collapse.

Firefighters said the heat inside the mill was so intense that it caused major structural damage to the steel beams.

Responding to the blaze were firefighters from Mescalero, Ruidoso, Tularosa, Holloman Air Force Base and Bent.

Just a year ago, the elementary school fire completely destroyed a school building that was built in the 1950s. Some materials used in that building are no longer used in school construction, and firefighters said they might have contributed to the extent of the damage.

That fire left 200 youngsters in the Tularosa School District without a school. The elementary school conducted classes for Mescalero students in the Community Center the rest of that school year.

Tularosa's school board opted not to replace the building, and the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe, aided by the BIA, is currently operating an elementary school on the reservation.

The Ruidoso News fire caused thousands of dollars of damage, but crews were able to get the plant in shape to continue on a regular publishing schedule.

The State Fire Marshal determined that unknown persons set the elementary school fire and the news office fire using accelerants. No arrests were made in either of those cases.

In both of those 1990 fires, the arsonists reportedly piled up papers and other materials, doused them with an accelerant and set them ablaze.

Rebuilding the sawmill will take about eight months, according to Carl Monroe, manager, of Mescalero Forest Products division.

"We are still running the planers," Monroe said. He said Forest Products has about a two-month supply of lumber to be planed.

He said an insurance inspector is expected to be on the scene.

Village Council to meet

The Village Council will meet in the council chambers for a regular session Tuesday to discuss a variety of subjects on the agenda.

Items will include a memorandum on the Arts and Film Commission that suggests an ordinance be created as the best way to establish the commission.

Main Street Ruidoso will request funds for 1991-92.

The chamber of commerce is requesting $17,314 for brochures and an 800 number. The Lodgers Tax budget must be increased by this amount in order to grant the request. Currently the entire $140,000 budget has been allocated except for $2,100.

The chamber will also give a report.

The village council will create and appoint a committee relating to transportation.

Reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic: reminiscing about the way it was

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Progress and growth, the goals ambitious local promoters and developers seek for Ruidoso with their advertising dollars and color brochures.

But they are the same forces that relegated to history the old community school houses and the sharing of common values that laced together the educational life of Lincoln County.

Those values were very much in evidence 50 to 60 years ago when Alice and Herbert Lee Traylor, Marie Hull Rooney and Wynema Tully taught in the small school houses scattered throughout the Lincoln County countryside.

"School was the center of social life," Mrs. Rooney said. "We were one big family and all got along fine."

"The school house was the community center at Christmas. We performed plays and music."

It was a simpler time when the community was too preoccupied with survival to worry about the problems that come with idle time and extra money.

"We had no problems compared to what teachers have today," Mrs. Tully said. "I listen to teachers now and they tell horrible tales. We had a fun time. We played with our students and threw snowballs with them. Then we socialized with their parents at dinners where the best baked pies were served and we all got together for student plays and programs."

"And the parents stood right behind you on everything," Mrs. Traylor added.

A teacher was responsible to cover all subjects for the two or three grade levels in her or his room. Principals usually doubled and tripled as teachers, school nurses and school janitors, Mrs. Tully said.

Mrs. Rooney, who did not have a college degree, earned $80 a month in 1934, a sum that delighted her.

"We didn't have any money then and $80 was enough to buy anything I needed," she said.

Mrs. Tully, who had a junior college degree, earned $110 a month.

"We worked a year for one half of what teachers get now in one month," Traylor said.

The children were willing to put in extra time too. They stayed after school to help clean the classrooms and to learn music from Mrs. Rooney, who had attended a music conservatory before moving to Ruidoso.

The older children also helped with the younger students since no one had heard of a teacher's aide.

"And older children learned more while doing it," said Mrs. Rooney, who was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hull.

She moved with her family to Ruidoso when she was 18 in 1930. They'd been visiting the area since 1921 and had built a cabin here.

"My parents went broke in the Depression and lost everything in Roswell," she said. "I was at a music conservatory in Sherman, Texas."

She didn't resent giving up school to move. "Mother adjusted to everything, and she made it wonderful," Mrs. Rooney said.

The Hulls added onto their cabin and created the Ye Olde Pine Tavern lodge, which was located across the street from what is now the post office on Sudderth Drive. They eventually added other businesses such as shopping centers and a gas station.

"When gas went up to 21 cents a gallon, my father knew he had to get out," Mrs. Rooney said. Her father also served as mayor and as postmaster for 21 years.

In 1934, when she started to teach, classes always began with the pledge of allegiance to the flag, Mrs. Rooney said.

Two other teachers besides Mrs. Rooney worked at the T-shaped adobe school house on Wingfield Street that now is used as the Ruidoso Police Station. Mrs. Rooney taught second, third and fourth grades. Dick Traylor, Herbert Lee's brother, was principal and taught seventh and eighth grade.

At one point, Mrs. Rooney had nearly 50 students in her room.

"Teachers were very supportive of each other," Mrs. Rooney said. "We had lessons plans for each day and we gave tests to see if a child could come up a grade level."

"The Mesqueros came in while I was teaching and they were wonderful, eager to learn and very artistic. Most were from Carrizo right here, not from Mesquero."

Visits to the homes of her students were frequent, Mrs. Rooney said.

"It didn't mean trouble, it was just a visit," she said. "We had real good communication. Parents also often visited schools. I encouraged that because I was proud of what we were doing."

"The parents and the district really allowed teachers to be resourceful. We were familiar with all the children. We knew what every child needed and did something about it."

"We did more than teach reading, writing, arithmetic, history and geography, mainly we were building character. We were part of the child's life."

"So many of our students have become very successful and it wasn't because we had a lot of money to teach with," Mrs. Tully said.

When the school at Ruidoso needed playground equipment, the parent teachers group bought it. The Lions Club built the outdoor restrooms, Mrs. Rooney said.

"If families had to go to El Paso, they'd send the baby to school with one of the older girls and we'd look after it until they returned," she said.

Ruidoso students traveled to Tularosa, Hondo or Capitan for high school because they were larger communities. Ruidoso was just a small winter settlement that swelled each summer with tourists.

Soup and homemade bread was the menu for the first hot lunch served in Ruidoso, Traylor said. Before that, children carried their lunches, often tortilla and bean sandwiches, because there was no electricity, telephone or indoor plumbing.

When the new school was built at Stetson where Mrs. Tully taught, it had a furnace, running water and hot lunches for 25 cents.

The school day lasted from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Some children in the 1930s traveled to and from the Ruidoso school on a bus, but it often couldn't climb the hill and the teachers would walk the children down to the street, Mrs. Rooney said.

Wynema Tully's husband, Gerald Tully, far right, joined the Tularosa High School basketball team in 1921-22. Although he lived in Glencoe, Tully and students from Ruidoso had to travel to larger towns to attend high school.

Families were very self-sufficient, the former teachers recalled. Everyone was short of money, but children were properly clothed and fed, they said.

"People didn't feel poor because they knew they were ambitious and that we would come out of it," Mrs. Rooney said. "They were too proud. No families would admit if they needed help. It was a different world then."

Teachers who were single and not local often lived with a family in the area. Mrs. Rooney said Eric Bruce, a principal and teacher, lived with her family for 15 years.

Traylor recalled that Bruce, who taught for 40 years, wore a different hat for every mood.

"You could always tell how he felt by what was on top of his head," Traylor said.

Although the community stayed out of teachers' personal lives, there were standards that couldn't be violated, such as smoking, Mrs. Rooney said.

Supervisors for the county would travel to the schools in unincorporated areas to sit in on classes and offer suggestions.

Looking at an old photograph of the Parsons school at the turn of the century, Traylor told a story about Edith Rockwell (later Sloane), who was 17, just out of school and weighed less than 100 pounds when she went to teach at Parsons school in the mining settlement.

"They had some pretty rough kids and Lizzie Grafton was worried that this little slip of a girl wouldn't be able to discipline them," Traylor said. "She took Edith aside and cautioned her that she was going to have to whip them from time to time. It turned out one of the first to be whipped was Mrs. Grafton's daughter and that didn't sit so well."

The Parsons school was torn down in the early 1920s, then rebuilt and moved to the Monjeau area in the 1930s.

More than 15 schools operated at one time. Putting their minds together, the former teachers ticked off Sunset, Picacho, Tinnie, Arabella, Blue Water, Hondo, San Patricio, Stetson, Ruidoso, Alto, Angus, Carrizozo, Monjeau, Parsons, Jicarillo and Mesa school out of Capitan. Another school was located across from the Canyon Trading Post on U.S. 70.

Traylor moved to Ruidoso in 1914, following his father who had arrived a year earlier pulling freight by mule to work in the sawmills and Parsons mines.

After graduating from high school and attending two sessions of summer school, Traylor was offered a job coaching basketball and teaching in Madrid in 1930. Two years later, he taught at Monjeau, three years later he shifted to Angus and so on for the next 30 years. Along the way, he earned his bachelor's degree and narrowed his teaching field to industrial arts.

Before the adobe school house was built in Ruidoso, Traylor said a one-room frame building that later sat on the Gateway golf course, was used as a school house, as was a frame structure on Wingfield Street.

Some of the early teachers at the adobe school were Joe Evans and his wife, Bessie, and a Mrs. Posey, Traylor said. Carl Craig was a familiar name at Stetson as was Gene Rhodes at Alto and Eagle Creek in the 1890s. Other teachers of the area included Mrs. Tod Browning of Ruidoso in the 1920s and Effie Gross at Parsons in 1917.

Mrs. Traylor came to New Mexico in 1930 from Vermont. She married Herbert Lee Traylor in 1933 and taught under the supervision of her brother-in-law R.V. "Dick" Traylor.

Mrs. Tully lived in northern New Mexico. Her parents were teachers and moved around a great deal.

"Teachers didn't have any stability then," she explained. "If they didn't like you, you would move to another place. But good teachers always seemed able to find a job."

Traylor said he is not a believer in tenure for teachers.

"It was my theory when I was a principal that teachers didn't have to have tenure. A good teacher can always find a job. Tenure only protects poor teachers," he said.

After graduating from the Junior College of Eastern New Mexico, Mrs. Tully heard about a position in the Hondo area. "And positions were hard to come by back then," she said. "My uncle and aunt brought me down. When we went over Alto hill, I thought this was the most beautiful place in the world. I made up my mind I was going to find myself a husband and stay."

In 1940, she married rancher Gerald Tully.

Before her marriage, she lived in a motel at the junction of U.S. 70 and Junction Road. She taught at the old Stetson school one year and then a year at the new school.

But jobs were scarce and locals frowned on both husband and wife working. She quit teaching but World War II quickly changed the situation and she went back to teaching in 1941 in Ruidoso.

Teachers were involved in everything connected with the school, she said.

"When we wanted to have a nice basketball court, we went out and picked up all the rocks," she said.

At one point, the Stetson and Ruidoso school systems consolidated under the county. The students were sent to Ruidoso.

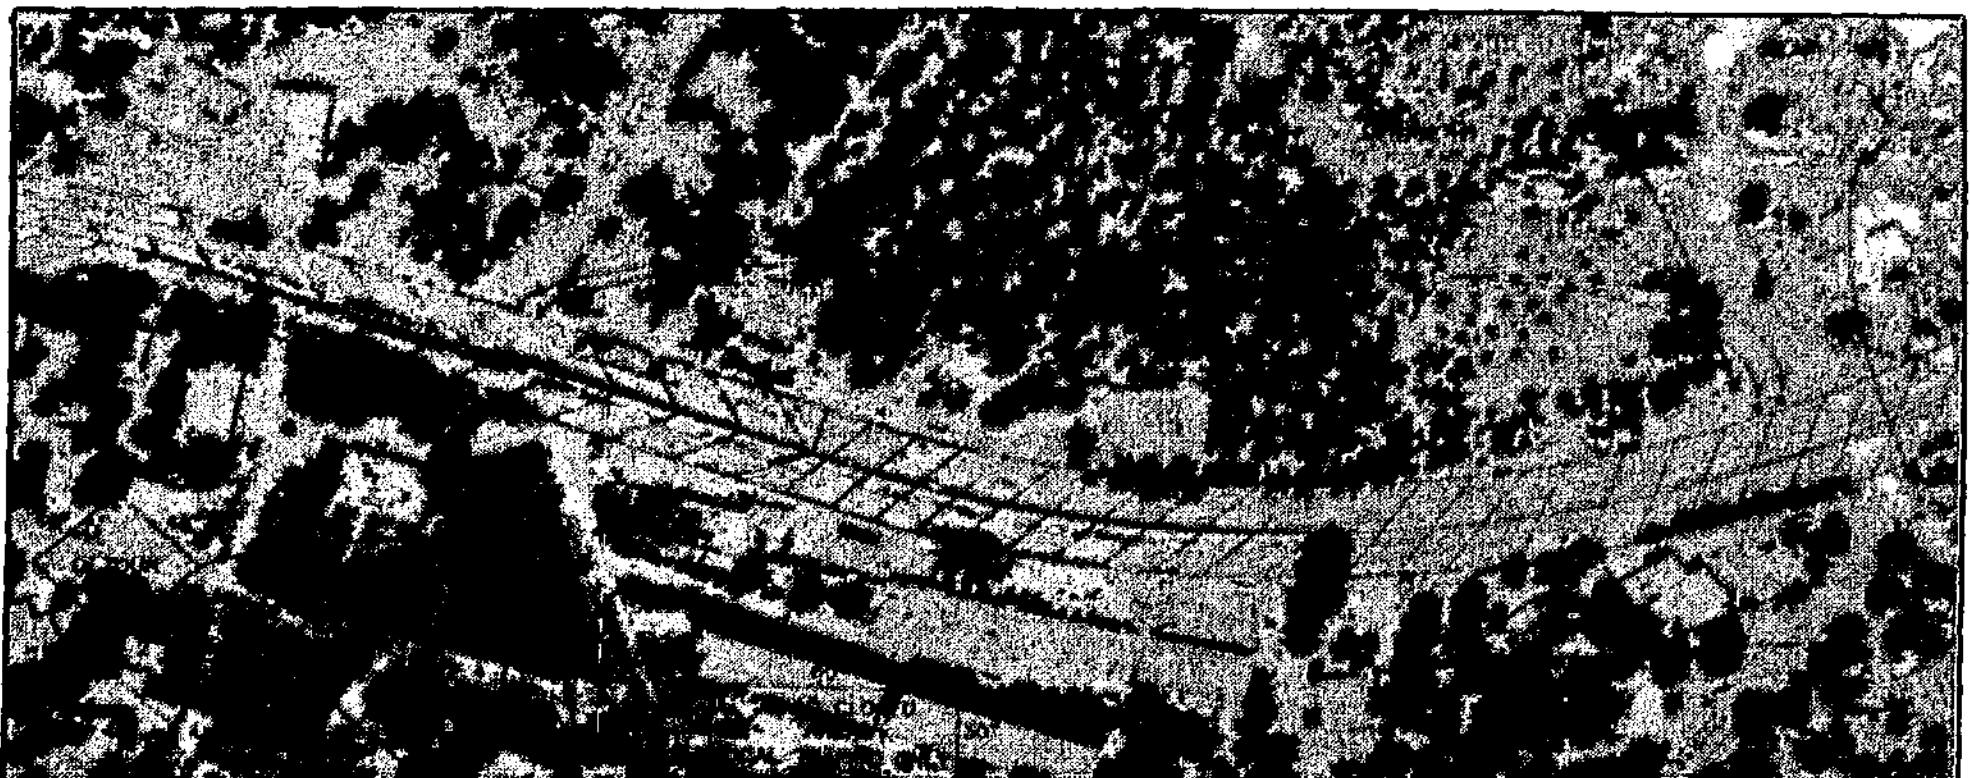

"I was so mad," Mrs. Tully said. "Stetson had 125 students and Ruidoso had less than 100 and yet, we had to go out in the cold world for classes. I wanted classes at the lower elevation where it was warmer. There's 10 degrees difference."

When Mrs. Tully left teaching, she didn't leave education. She served on the Ruidoso school board for eight years about 25 years ago.

Traylor went on to devote several years to gathering material for a book he wrote with Louise Coe Runnels called "The Saga of the Sierra Blanca." The book, published in 1986, contains many photographs of schools from the turn of the century through his own early days as a teacher.

Herbert Lee Traylor and his wife, Alice Tully, joined Marie Rooney and Wynema Tully for round table reminiscing about their days as teachers.

Mechem facelift

Plans to widen Mechem Drive (Highway 48) will be discussed at an open meeting from 3-8 p.m. Thursday, February 28, at the council chambers in village hall. The improvements will bottleneck at the corner of Sudderth and Mechem, see above, and reach to Ski Run Road. Many area businesses will be affected by the four lane change that will cross many existing parking areas and driveways. Two areas impacting traffic conditions are shown at left. The top picture is of Handi-Hanks convenience store, the bottom picture shows the highway beside Furr's Supermarket. The road grade will also change along several areas of the highway. Construction is slated for January 1992. Anyone with questions on the project should attend.

Scottsdale art critics may not have last word on Luis Jimenez sculpture

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

While Arizona art boards and gallery owners haggle in Scottsdale over his "Progress II" sculpture, Luis Jimenez has been busy at work on other commissioned pieces for the cities of San Diego and El Paso.

But late last week, the Hondo Valley-based Jimenez told The Ruidoso News the controversy in Scottsdale is indicative of the lack of support for contemporary artists in the west.

"I'm not an isolated incident," Jimenez said. "There are good contemporary artists in the west, but there is no support system for them, so they move to the east or remain invisible where they live."

Raised in Texas, Jimenez moved to New York for encouragement from the art world there. He later settled in the Hondo Valley to work on public art, but has established a network of art critics, gallery owners and museum curators in the east who recognize the value of his sculptures.

He has been selected as one of the contributing artists for the Whitney Museum's Biannual Exhibition of American Art from April 19-June 16 in New York.

Curator Lisa Phillips is to select two examples of Jimenez sculpture from three that have been submitted, said El Paso gallery owner Adair Margo. The three works are The Steel Worker, The Border Crossing and Fiesta Dancers.

In 1979, the Library of Congress chose the very same brightly painted cowboy on horseback roping a rearing bull that's at the core of the Scottsdale debate, as its entry piece for an exhibit on the American Cowboy, Jimenez said.

The flack in Scottsdale started late last year after an art selection panel picked the Jimenez piece as its nominee for a sculpture to be erected in a major Scottsdale intersection. Some local gallery owners objected.

Some objections were aimed at Jimenez and his work. But others contended they had not been notified of the competition. They said they disapproved of the way the process was handled.

Last week, the Scottsdale Art Collections Advisory Board voted unanimously to start the selection process over, to appoint a new selection panel, to create a new mailing list and to set new criteria.

It's not the first time Arizona has fussed over Jimenez work. About a year ago, a Phoenix city councilman objected to plans for a huge fiberglass feathered serpent at Sky Harbor International Airport and in 1983, Jimenez' "Vaquero," a brightly painted Mexican cowboy on a bucking bronco, met with some negative comment in Scottsdale.

But other cities seem to appreciate the talent of Jimenez.

His fiberglass "Sodbuster" is displayed in Fargo, North Dakota, "The Border Crossing" in Los Angeles and the Smithsonian Institute selected his work for permanent exhibition in front of the National Portrait Gallery in Washington D.C., Margo said. He also is working on commissioned pieces for the city of El Paso and for the Otay Mesa Border Crossing in San Diego.

A casting of "The Steel Worker," originally created for the city of Pittsburgh, is scheduled to be shown in the Santa Fe Museum review of New Mexico sculpture, Jimenez said.

"The real problem is that we have a process in this country for the selection of public art, but when some people (in Scottsdale) said they didn't like (the selection), they did an end run around the selection panel," Jimenez said. "It was a political decision and subverted the system. It depends on who yells the loudest."

The Scottsdale situation is not a dead issue, Jimenez said. Depending on the new criteria drafted by the selection panel, he could submit the same piece or a new entry.

Randy Basch, director of the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter, says Lady would be a great family pet.

Protesters petition for some changes in telephone rates

Petitions are being signed like hotcakes in protest of new rate structures for telephone service, according to one of the protesters, Ann Ellis.

Ellis and her group have called for meetings at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. March 11 at the Woman's Club building to air complaints.

John Van Tussenbroek, manager of the Contel of the West office in Ruidoso, said he is looking forward to meeting with the protesters.

"We'll try to answer all of their questions," he told The Ruidoso News.

Ellis says the basic complaint concerns metered service where, after a basic service charge, calls are billed at 20 cents each.

She says such a system heavily favors vacation home owners who live elsewhere and who don't use their telephones much during a specified period of time.

Ellis says she would like to see a system where everyone pays the same regardless of the number of calls.

She says a second rate schedule where Contel offers unlimited calling is "too high."

The group also doesn't like a $3 surcharge for service outside the "base rate area."

Van Tussenbroek says that results from expense involved in serving areas with a lighter population density.

The phone company now has two plans. Residential customers can pay a flat monthly rate of $29.48 for unlimited local calls or pay $11.48 per month plus 20 cents per call.

Business customers can pay $44.98 with unlimited calls or $26.98 plus .0375 per minutes on all calls.

The protesters have invited corporation commission members to be present at the March meetings.

"We're subsidizing part time residents," Ellis alleges.

Solid Waste group selects five finalists

The Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority selected five resumes for consideration for the first manager to guide the board.

The five candidates are James Edwards of Ruidoso, Gene Green of Hondo, Kyle Jones of Roswell, Gene Clement of Albuquerque and Robert Dorr of Socorro.

Frank Warth, vice chairman of the authority, said the committee approved a joint powers agreement outlining policy. Warth said the agreement will be sent back to the county commissioners and the respective councils.

Lady wants a home

Four-year-old Lady, an affectionate mixed breed resident of the local animal shelter, is looking for a new home, preferably a house with some acreage where she can exercise.

Randy Basch, manager of the Humane Society of Lincoln County, said Lady gets along well with children and with other dogs.

She has lived at the shelter since December 11 after being abandoned by her previous owners at a boarding kennel in Capitan. Lady is part bloodhound, walker and blue tick.

"She has a very good personality, very gentle," Basch said.

"She was an outdoor dog before, but has made good progress at being housebroken. It would be ideal if the new owners had a secure fence and someone was home most of the day to keep Lady company."

The adoption and rabies inoculation fee at the shelter is $27.50. The new owners also should have Lady spayed (about $45) unless their veterinarian recommends against the procedure, which Basch said sometimes is done with older dogs.

The shelter is on Gavilan Canyon Road and may be contacted by calling 257-9841.

Major ranch transactions show on real estate scene

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor

Two major ranch properties in Lincoln County have new owners or will have new owners in the very near future.

Steve and Joan Stroud are negotiating a trade which will provide them with a 31-section ranch 16 miles north of Capitán.

And Dr. Philip D. Jeffers of Columbus, Ohio, has finalized the purchase of the O-Bar-O Ranch headquarters complex near the foot of Carrizo Peak eight miles east of Carrizozo.

Ruidoso Realtor Karon Petty was involved in both ranch deals.

Steve Stroud told The News that he has owned an 8,000 acre ranch in northwest Kansas for 30 years.

"We wanted a ranch closer to home," Stroud said.

Steve and Joan Stroud last year moved their Stroud Crop, Inc., from Oklahoma to Ruidoso. They also purchased the Financial Center on Mechem and renamed it The Stroud building.

The Strouds had maintained a second home in Ruidoso for a number of years, but built a new home at Alto after moving to the area.

The Strouds have negotiated successfully with Jack and Chris Harkey for the Harkey ranch north of Capitán.

"I'll be moving 600 mother cows on to the ranch," Stroud said. It will certainly be a working ranch.

Also, his foreman, Glen Powell, and family will be moving to New Mexico.

"He's really looking forward to the move," Stroud said.

"Ranch exchanges" are very common in real estate," Petty said. Dollar value involved in the purchase (exchange) of the two Lincoln County ranches is about $2.8 million, she reported.

Stroud said a new house will be built on the old Harkey ranch for the foreman and family.

Petty said she has admiration for Steve Stroud's negotiating ability.

"Five offers have been refused on the property the last few years," she said. The property has been in Chapter 11 bankruptcy, she said.

Petty said several people were involved in the ranch exchange. Harkey is her uncle, she said.

Dr. Jeffers, an orthopedic surgeon who enjoys skiing in Ruidoso, has hired a ranch manager to oversee the O-Bar-O property.

Petty said she has been searching for a ranch for Jeffers for a long time, that when photos and a story appeared about the sale of the ranch to the mortgage holder (United Bank of Vaughn, Carrizozo Branch) she shipped off a clipping to Jeffers.

"It met his family's needs exactly," Petty said. Jeffers and his wife, Kelsey, have three boys.

Jeffers bought redemption rights and paid a total of $568,000 for the O-Bar-O headquarters complex which includes a huge main house, four other houses, two swimming pools, corrals, a pond and helicopter pad and 640 acres plus another 20 acres which contains a spring which provides water for the complex. Mineral rights were included in the sale.

The O-Bar-O ranch was bought early in the 1980s by Robert Lietzman. He became embroiled in litigation with the IRS over back taxes. Lietzman was killed when a helicopter he was piloting crashed atop Carrizo Peak four years ago.

His widow, Carolyn Lietzman Wilcox, surrendered the property to the United Bank of New Mexico last November as a result of a foreclosure action.

The main house on the headquarters complex is of native rock and contains 10,000 square feet plus seven bedrooms and even more bathrooms.

Work continues by the contractor, John VonRosenberg, on the Douglas Lad McBride home on McBride Drive. A building permit in the amount of $454,759 was issued at Village Hall last June for the structure, which sits on the ridge separating a view of Sierra Blanca and Gavilan Canyon.

Single family dwellings dominate 1990 building picture in Ruidoso

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor

Single family dwellings in Ruidoso and Alto sort of "took off" in 1990 compared to the year before. Commercial construction was improved, too, according to a year-end building permit report prepared by the village of Ruidoso.

Permits issued for single family dwellings in 1990 added to $6,185,474 compared to $4,618,124 the year before.

Commercial construction seemed to be coming back somewhat, too, over recent years when Ruidoso was feeling a "slump" because of several factors, one being declining oil prices which kept many Texas and Oklahoma visitors away.

Permits for new commercial structures last year were for $824,000. This compares to only $222,00 for the whole of 1989.

Biggest month for single family dwelling permits last year was June.

One such permit was for $454,759 for a home in White Mountain Estates No. 3 on the ridge at 313 McBride.

Some eight permits totaling $1,362,743 were issued in June for single family dwellings.

Another good month for single family dwellings was April, when permits were issued in the amount of $926,632. Eight SFD permits were issued that month.

Strangely enough, only two more building permits were issued in 1990 compared to 1989, but the total value was almost $2 million more. Some 330 permits were issued in 1990, 328 in 1989.

Residential add-ons and alteration permits in 1990 were for $1,612,443. That compared to $1,497,811 for 1989.

Commercial add-ons and additions in 1990 were down from 1989. In 1990 they totaled $705,730; in 1989, the figure was $1,287,625.

Permits early in 1990 showed dramatic increased dollar value five of the first six months in 1990, but declined each month the rest of the year except for September.

Month by month totals, 1990 figures first, 1989 figures, second, were as follows:

January,	$256,950	in 1990,
February,	$660,289	and
March,	$556,183	and $937,350.
April,	$1,204,455	and $286,787.
May,	$1,183,012	and $488,575.
June,	$1,681,865	and $292,075.
July,	$538,512	and $947,546.
August,	$360,050	and $506,589.
September,	$869,199	and
October,	$1,135,873	and
November,	$874,378	and
December,	$277,100	and $367,129.

Aid available on homefront result of war

Some employers may need answers concerning their obligations to their employees involved in Operation Desert Storm.

Similarly, there are thousands of members of the National Guard and the U.S. Armed Forces Reserves in New Mexico who need to know their responsibilities to their employers.

Some answers are available according to Stephen L. ReVeal, state chairman, New Mexico Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve.

"We are a volunteer arm of the U.S. Department of Defense," ReVeal said.

"Our members are charged with educating employers and employees; assisting in resolving problems and assisting the public to better understand the requirements placed on members of the Reserve and National Guard."

Volunteer advisers are available to meet with individual employers and any other groups desiring information or assistance.

Regional chairmen include Don W. Bartlett, Box 126, Roswell, NM, 88210, and Wade R. Hedgecoke, 2705 Johnson St., Las Cruces, N.M., 88001.

BLM proposes land swap

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

As much as 5,000 acres along the lower Rio Bonito may be acquired by the Federal Bureau of Land Management (BLM) under a proposed land swap.

The bureau has set a public meeting for 7 p.m. Wednesday, February 27, at the San Juan Church in Lincoln to receive input on the plan from area residents.

"We want the public to tell us what they want to see there and how it should be managed," said Paul Happel, outdoor recreation planner with the BLM.

"We also need to be sure they support the proposed swap," he said.

The property, which starts at Fort Stanton and runs east to Phillips Bridge, previously was owned primarily by the Shreengost family, but was acquired by a holding company about 1 1/2 years ago, he said.

Maps generally outlining the area will be available at the meeting for review.

Sandy Allen, who is in charge of the resource area for the BLM, said the acreage near Lincoln would probably be swapped for lands owned by the BLM in the Las Cruces and Albuquerque area.

"We're in the process of working out an exchange now," she said. "We started last spring and have been negotiating for several months. We had to conduct surveys to define the boundaries between private and federal land and then arrange the appraisals."

"We hope to be able to complete the exchange this year."

Several different parcels would be involved in the exchange for the Rio Bonito acreage, she said.

"We are required to equalize value and that's real difficult to do," Allen said. "We had to look throughout the state at different BLM districts for appropriate land."

The acquisition would be part of the Roswell district resource management plan that the bureau has targeted for completion by the end of 1993 and is aimed at enhancing recreation values and wildlife habitat in the area.

Only interim programs would be implemented on the land until the major resource plan is approved, she said.

Although the bureau received the authority to swap land in the Federal Land Management Act of 1976, most of the activity has taken place in just the last five years, Allen said.

"It allows the agency to meet objectives without selling off land," she said. "Exchanges are going on bureau wide."

Acreage with riparian areas, such as the shorelines along lakes, rivers and streams, are considered especially suitable for bureau acquisition, she said.

"They have great value for our wildlife biologists, range management and recreation. We're really excited about this opportunity."

Join in the fun at 13th annual Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association fundraiser and race

Win fabulous prizes, help out a favorite and cause and have lots of fun cheering for your favorite skier.

How? By attending Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association activities Tuesday and Wednesday, March 5-6, invites a release provided by the association.

First, Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association invites you to its silent auction and pre-race party from 6-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 5, at Cree Meadows Country Club.

Bid on artwork, jewelry, clothing, ski items and others with all proceeds supporting the association programs, said Diana Person, director of the program.

Anyone wanting to donate merchandise to the auction, may still do so, by calling Terry Hemphill at 257-9065.

"We've scheduled activities early in the evening so that families can attend," said Person. "We have items children can bid on," she added.

In addition, try for a door prize of a chance on a 1991-92 season pass to Ski Apache, valued at about $500. That drawing will be at 9 p.m. and the winner need not be present to win. Tickets are $2 each and are available at Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association office at the Ski School desk or at the office of Ronnie Hemphill, CPA, on Mechum Drive.

Both the silent auction and pre-race party offer a no-hose bar and complimentary hors d'oeuvres with no admission charge.

"The next day, cheer on your favorite skier at the 13th annual Businesspersons-handicapped skiers race Wednesday, March 6," continues the release. 20 teams composed of two businessperson and one association student will test their skills on Ski Apache's East Easy Street beginning at 11 a.m.

"Not your average ski race, businesspersons must race on one ski with the free leg tied down," reads the release. "To maintain balance, they use outriggers, forearm crutches with short skis attached, instead of poles."

Each team runs twice and the best combined times win, said Person.

Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association offers skiing opportunities to the blind, deaf, developmentally disabled, to those with cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, missing limbs and others. For information, call 336-4416.

The Dreamer

Always look for the silver lining

Spring Weather After Cold Snow

After bringing us a light little snow on the 18th, Jack Frost the next day, fired the other barrel with one of the most beautiful and also cold snows I have seen in a long time.

Although the sun rose bright and clear on the 19th and continued sunny throughout the day, decorations of snow stayed on the trees away up into midday. It was an artist and photographer's dream, in mountain winter scenes!

Even today with a warm west wind and the temperature up to 62, the warmest day in the year here at an hour past noon on the 21, the snow still lingers stubbornly all on the shady side of the world glistening and shining under the pines and amongst the oak brush.

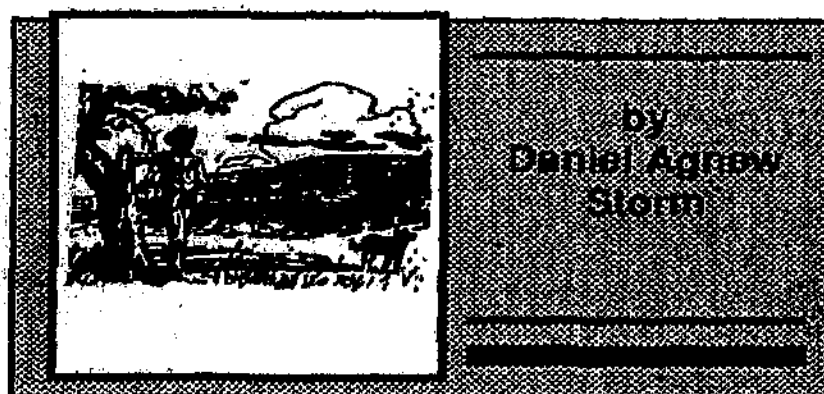

This is all to the good, this snow is a signal for more to move in later.

With this snow all along the hillsides, and a good cap on Sierra Blanca, the battle between winter and spring for possession of the Mountain Land will be tipped in favor of winter. Sure, the willows by the creek are turning a little orange, and the pollen is beginning to form on the cedars, and now grass is springing up — still spring is very cautious.

The way you can tell this is by noticing the apricot buds, the bell withers of the fruit blooms. Oftentimes, in years past, these blooms have come out in early February, only to be stopped in their tracks later by Jack Frost.

"The Lion's Skin"
More on the walls of the house, among these family treasures, Mark's Early paintings — there is an old print I found somewhere that never fails to set you thinking, especially these last few weeks.

It is an African lion hunting scene. In the

by Daniel Agnew Storm

near background is a hunter standing paralyzed as he ejects the last shell in his gun.

In the foreground, the lion has one hunter down, while a young native African, clad only in his breech cloth, is poised over the lion in the act of bringing down his sharp spear, thus saving the lives of both hunters.

This picture holds you in a spell, bringing you many messages; about humanity, nature, wildlife, and other things besides which make you study this picture again.

An Arabian Proverb
I had a book of proverbs of all nations one time, and in it was one, like this picture, that makes you stop and think. It is an old Arabian proverb:

"The Lion's Skin is Never Cheap"

Think that one over. The lion, if you come into his territory after his hide, is going to make somebody pay, and maybe pay through the nose. If he goes, he will take somebody with him if he can; and if they do get his hide, it will cost somebody some way.

You can not help but wonder if Saddam Hussein has ever heard this proverb, and thinks he is a lion. The noble "King of Beasts" would not approve of this comparison.

You may take this proverb and apply it in many ways. Other proverbs have the same theme. "Nothing great is lightly won," "Faint heart never won fair maiden," "You have to pay the price." This last one was a favorite of Coach Clyde Littlefield, legendary track coach of Texas University, when telling his men about excelling in track, football or any other sport.

Women Gain A Little After Each War

You might call this a small Silver Lining behind the dark tragic clouds of war, but advances in medicine and other science often follows wars. And women have taken a step ahead into what is called "The Man's World."

I remember after World War I in Ashland, Oregon, when the soldiers coming home said, "While we were gone, the women took our jobs." It turns out that before then all stenographers, file clerks and typists jobs were held by men.

Before the Civil War all school teachers were men.

During and after World War II women became welders; structural steel workers, truck drivers, jack hammer operators — you name it.

Today women are doctors, lawyers, senators, governors, scientists, university professors — and good ones. Next will be generals and presidents — power to the women folks and God bless them.

And yet now that women have "gone about as far as they can go" as the old song goes, We surely don't need any more wars.

General Douglas MacArthur, after a life time in wars said:

"War is outmoded. It no longer will serve in solving international disputes."

Let us hope the world will take MacArthur at his word. And let us pray that the Gulf War will soon be over, and let us pray for our armed forces.

Carrizozo man is on list of child support evaders

A Carrizozo man was included on the state Human Services Department's 10 Most Wanted List of child support offenders just released.

Alfonso R. Lucero, last known to reside in Carrizozo, with one child, owes $13,404, according to the fifth "10 Most Wanted List."

Joe Allen Walton, last known to live in Albuquerque, continues to owe the most of anyone on the list. Walton appeared on the first list HSD published in October of 1989, and he still owes $54,116.

HSD Secretary Dick Heim said the Most Wanted Program is part of a crackdown to get more parents to pay child support ordered by the courts.

"One of the main reasons we publish this list is to solicit help from the public in locating absent parents," Heim said.

Three people from the previous list were located and made arrangements to pay, Heim said. As a result, they had their names removed from the list. Absent parents on the most recent list include:

Joe Allen Walton (DOB 2-16-29). Walton owes $54,116 for four children. His last known address is 112 Cardenas, NE in Albuquerque, NM.

Alfonso R. Lucero (9-22-53). Lucero's last known address is P.O. Box 501 in Carrizozo, NM. He owes $13,404 for one child.

Wayne D. McKinley (1-20-53).

McKinley owes $9,600 for two children and was last known to live at 941 Calle Mejia #209 in Santa Fe, NM.

Juan Trujillo (4-24-55). He owes $35,529 for five children. Trujillo's last known address is 2410 Cholla in Las Vegas, NM.

Diston Zion (5-3-47). His last known address is Rt. 1, Box 29C in Portales, NM. He owes $16,717 for two children.

Ernest S. Romero (5-15-52). Romero owes $37,564 for three children. He was last known to live at 1451 Barcelona, SW in Albuquerque, NM.

David Mullins (4-19-48). He owes $13,380 for three children and his last known address is 705 Debgillion St. in Lafayette, LA.

Robert Muniz (4-15-45). Muniz owes $39,255 for two children. His last known address is 1415 Sunset in Rio Rancho, NM.

Anthony P. Perea (10-21-61). Perea's last known address is Rt. 14, Box 250 in Santa Fe, NM. (La Cienega). He owes $11,400 for two children.

Heim said the program has generated an additional $610,583 in collections. Last year HSD collected a total of $18.8 million in child support payments.

Anyone with information about the 10 Most Wanted should contact a regional HSD child enforcement office or call 1-800-492-6217.

Warrior girls win big at Socorro and Deming

Warrior Amy Wishard sinks a layup. Wishard will be among the boys and girls basketball team and wrestlers honored at the Winter Sports Banquet slated for March 12 at the high school cafeteria. Preparations for the banquet will be discussed at the school this Tuesday at 7 p.m.

By beating the Deming Wildcats Saturday, the Ruidoso Warriors will begin tournament play tonight against Silver City in Ruidoso at 7 p.m.

Senior Deanna Swanner finished her Ruidoso Warrior basketball career with a sparkling 22-point performance to lead her team over Deming, 50-45.

The win leapfrogged the Warriors over the Wildcats for a third place division finish and gave them the home field advantage tonight.

The game never seemed in doubt with the Warriors jumping to a quick 16-5 first quarter lead. Kansas Miranda established herself as a force in the post and intimidated the Wildcats with her blocking skills.

Warrior coach Jody Blanton had her team's shooting percentage up and the passing crisp. The Warriors walked into the locker room at half time leading 30-17.

Both teams turned cold in the third, as the Warriors played more of a control game. Going into the final frame the Warriors were leading by a comfortable margin, 37-25.

Although no Warrior fouled out, Miranda and McMasters both finished the game with four fouls. The Warriors felt the absence of both, especially the strong Miranda at center.

Swanner added a masterful 10-12 free throw shooting to her five buckets for 22 points and 10 rebounds.

Amy Wishard scored 8 points; Kansas Miranda and Diana McMasters 6; Cicelee Makowski and Candace Muniz 4.

JV WARRIORS OVER WILDCATS

The JV Warriors thrilled the small but vocal home town crowd with a down to the wire victory over the JV Wildcats, 35-34.

The seesaw match found the Wildcats up after the first period 8-4. Monica Martinez hit the only pair of buckets for Ruidoso in that quarter.

Coach Dennis Davis gave his Warrior troops a message between quarters and they responded to outscore the Wildcats 11-3 to take a halftime lead of 15-11. Five Warriors scored in the second period.

The third period was all Wildcats, dominating Ruidoso 12-4, to lead 23-19. Martinez again hit the only field goals of the period.

The fourth quarter was Ruidoso's turn and the game was knotted at 34-34 with a 1:10 to play.

The girls raced up and down the court several times without anyone scoring. Then with five seconds left, Cicelee Makowski was fouled. She sank the front end of a one and one, and the Wildcats couldn't get another shot off before the buzzer sounded.

Martinez, a stalwart in the post, finished the game with 10 points. Makowski, Jeri Ann Keeton and Tabatha Parnell each had five points. Sarah Dix and Kim Floyd scored 3; Brandy Pfeffer and Adrienne Ames sank a bucket each.

WARRIORS DUMP SOCORRO

For the first time in six years, both the varsity and the JV Warriors beat the Socorro Warrior girls at Socorro.

The Warrior varsity played an outstanding game according to Coach Blanton. All six of her regulars scored in a game where neither team could advance further than a four-point lead. The Warriors dropped the winning free throws for a 46-44 win.

Ruidoso grabbed the first quarter edge 13-10, but fell behind at the half mark, 24-20. The Warriors were cold at the free throw line that second period, hitting only 3-9.

The game was tied at the end of three 34-34 to set up a fan screaming final frame. Both teams walked to the charity line often in the fourth quarter, but the meager success belonged to the Warriors. They hit 4-9 while Socorro threw bricks, 0-5.

Diana McMasters led the Warrior scoring with 10 points. DeAnna Swanner, 9; Cicelee Makowski, 8; Kansas Miranda, 7; and Amy Wishard and Candace Muniz, 6.

JV'S WIN WEIRD ONE

The Warrior JV's improved every quarter to easily girl-handle Socorro 55-39 in the most remarkable display of fouling and free throw shooting in Warrior history.

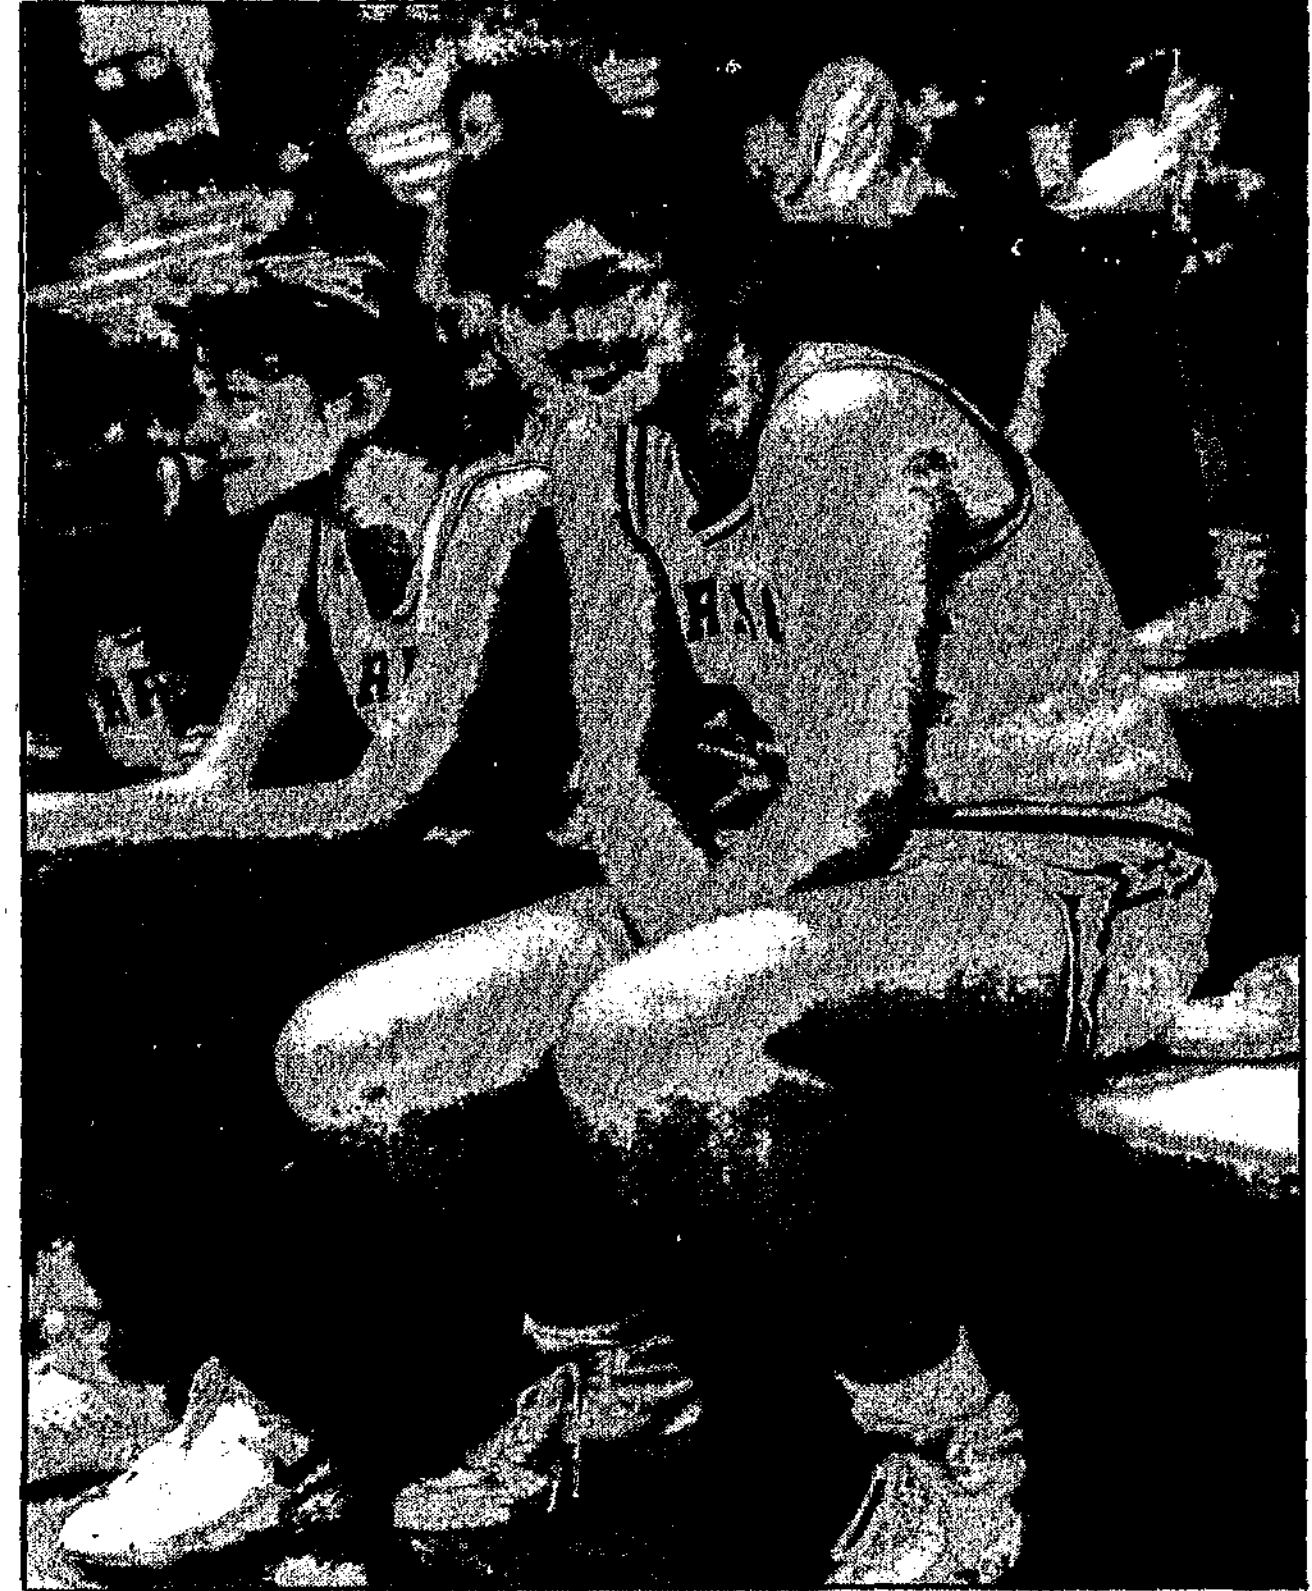

The whistle blowing marathon featured 36 fouls against Ruidoso and 28 against Socorro for 64 total fouls. With play action stopping with each foul, that's about 64 minutes of game time.

Socorro's Monica Greenwood sank 16-18 free throws, a near unbelievable performance for a JV player. She finished the game with 22 points. Unfortunately for Greenwood, the rest of her teammates could only muster 7-31 from the charity stripe. Socorro scored 23 points in free throws and only 16 in field goals.

Ruidoso, as a team, shot 41 free throws, hitting 17.

Michelle Morris had her career best night with 5-6 at the charity line and five buckets for a game high 15 points.

Cicelee Makowski scored 9 points; Sarah Dix, 8; Monica Martinez, 5; Adrienne Ames, 4; Brandy Pfeffer, 3.

Warrior Kansas Miranda enjoys the companionship of her friends after four fouls forced her to bench time.

RHS sends seven wrestlers to state

The wrestling Ruidoso Warriors qualified seven matmen for the state finals scheduled for Albuquerque.

Last Friday, the Warriors boarded the bus for Silver City. After a 45-minute delay for a missile launch in White Sands, the bus finished the trip in six hours and the Warriors began their two-day tournament.

Ruidoso finished the district tournament in fifth place with one champion, James Atwood.

Warrior coach Gerald Ames said Atwood was at his peak. His first victory was a 3-25 pin over John Cook from Silver City.

In the championship finals, Atwood wrestled what Ames called his best match of the year destroying David Udero who had a record of 27-5. Atwood took Udero down three times and used his speed to confuse his opponent, 8-5.

A surprising Poncho Portillo, 160 pounds, continues to improve and grabbed a strong second. The sophomore wrestler first defeated Mike Baeza with a pin at 1:01. He then pinned Danny Rios of Cobre in the third period. In the finals, Portillo led Joey Wisner, an Oñate senior, by 4-1 in the first period, but Wisner came back strongly in the next two periods to defeat Portillo 7-4. Portillo qualified for the state match.

Able Montelongo, 189 pounds, fell short in his grueling overtime loss to Oñate's Jamie Garcia. The nine-minute match really lasted 28 minutes and ended in a 5-4 decision in Garcia's favor.

Montelongo was penalized three times for four points.

Wildcats whip the Warriors, 62-53

The Deming Wildcats helped Ruidoso repeat a season long story by repelling a great comeback to defeat the Warriors 62-53.

Coach Norm Wright's magnificent six (one player quit last week), came from behind in the third quarter to take a one point lead. The fourth quarter was the same old story, a downhill fight.

The score was much closer than the nine point difference. With less than a minute to go, the Warriors had to foul in hopes that the Wildcats would miss their free throws. They didn't.

The Wildcats led by three, 19-16 after one and by four, 33-29 at the half mark. At the end of three, it was a five point edge, 47-42. It was that close of a game.

The Warriors are now 0-8 in the district. They play Cobre here Friday and then travel to Silver Saturday for the final regular season's game. In all likelihood, they will have to travel back to Silver Monday to start tournament play. That's 22 hours of quality bus time in three days.

Deming sat on Cody Willard all night long and the Warrior superstar was held to 20 points, including 8-12 2-pointers and 4-6 freethrows. The whiz shot went 0-8 in the 3-point department, with Wildcats hanging on both arms.

Heath Huey had a very good 12 points and Dan Holt hit the double digits, 10, for the first time in his career.

Q. How Much Can Putting Your
Retirement Money in Bank CDs
Cost You?

A. A Lot!

Pioneer II outperformed Bank CDs Over 20 years

Growth of $2,000 a year 7/1/70 through 6/30/90*

Bank CDs would have cost you $189,636! That's the difference between accumulations in Pioneer II and Bank CDs. So, while the principal is insured and the interest rate is fixed until maturity, "safe" bank CDs simply don't have the growth potential of Pioneer II. While CDs are fine for your short term needs, Pioneer II is ideal for your long term retirement goals.

If you have long-term retirement savings in CDs...
Maybe it's time you switched to Pioneer II

New Mexico Perspective

Having connections is what counts

What is so heartening is that the new Governor and Legislature, truly on a bipartisan basis, are recognizing and acting on these politics of linkage more than ever, understanding more than ever the wholeness of our plight and possibilities. E.M. Forster would have been pleased. He knew that if we could "only connect," the rest would follow.
