Hurry-up ad effort skips most lodgers

by CHARLES STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Some Ruidoso area businessmen feel they were left out of a recent major magazine promotion put together by the Regional Advertising Board.

The majority of businesses that will benefit from that advertising promotion to be subsidized by lodgers tax money are represented on the regional advertising board.

Ruidoso lodgers collect tax money to funnel into advertising and promotion for the village. The money is collected by the Lodgers Tax Advisory Board to promote the entire area in a fair and equitable effort.

Several months ago, the Ruidoso Village Council created a Regional Advertising Board. For the most part, the members of lodgers tax and the advertising board are the same people, with the same goals and the same lodgers tax money collected by all Ruidoso lodgers.

Those boards are to represent the best interests of the community in tourism and lodging.

But the board's recent action has some people questioning if that representation is applied to all businesses equally.

Recently, the advertising board created a three page ad to run in two separate publications.

One publication is called the Sun Country Guide, a private publication that has been defunct for years and was resurrected in 1990. It has a 50,000 one-time circulation that comes out near the end of the year with a questionable year-round period of impact.

The other publication is the New Mexico Vacation Guide, a superior state publication with an enormous 750,000 circulation.

At a recent advertising board meeting, Patricia Morrison of Ski Apache and Mark Doth of the Ruidoso Downs Race Track and The Links golf course said their companies were going to be in both publications.

At some unspecified point, Dick Weber of Shadow Mountain Lodge and an adviser to the board, called Jay Frances, board member and general manager of Swiss Chalet. He also called Clark Carpenter of Dandee Cabins and asked both to share a third of a page in advertising with him.

The board members of Morrison, Doth and Frances and others decided the Village also should take a page to piggyback on the advertising of Morrison, Doth, Frances, Weber and Carpenter.

Joan Bailey, chairman of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce promotion committee, and Weber were to call all the owners of other lodges and motels in the area to offer them a chance to participate.

It was the height of the tourist season for Ruidoso, which probably explains why many lodgers say they were not contacted.

According to Frances, the calls had to be made within 48 hours. Weber said they had four days to act. Bailey said the time sequence was somewhere around seven days. There was no attempt at written correspondence, they said.

Weber said he told the lodgers he contacted that the cost of their ad portion would be somewhere around $3,000 or less. Weber said the ad was still in its infant stage and not much information could be given.

The cost of the ads and the production for the three pages is about $26,000.

If broken into thirds per page, each third would cost about $2,900 (1/3 of $2,600 for the New Mexico Guide plus 1/3 of $2,650 for the Sun Country Guide).

The village's share was $10,650 for its full page in both publications including $2,000 for production charges that covered all three pages.

Weber said he thought his 1/3 cost was about $2,700, which probably accounts for a special rate given for three pages.

Had 30 lodgers participated, the proportionate share of the cost would have been much less, but the individual business's por-

FBI arrests suspect in Mescalero killing

Lamar Treas-Wilson, 20, of the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation was arrested by FBI agents just before 8:30 p.m. Wednesday on charges of committing a murder on the Reservation.

Treas-Wilson was named in an indictment returned this morning by a federal grand jury seated in Las Cruces, according to FBI public information officer Doug Beldon.

The indictment charges Treas-Wilson with the murder of Kelvin Ray Davis an 8-year-old Mescalero boy whose brutally murdered body was found on January 26.

On the morning of January 26, the boy's body was found in a wooded area behind his home in the Pena Canyon housing area on the reservation.

Beldon said investigation determined that Davis was murdered with a knife on Friday night or during the early morning hours of Saturday, January 26.

Wednesday's indictment and arrest culminate an intensive investigation conducted by the FBI, the BIA, the Mescalero Tribal Police the Ruidoso Police Department and the Otero County Sheriff's Office.

Treas-Wilson, a Mescalero resident, was arrested driving his vehicle between Las Cruces and Mescalero, according to reports.

He is employed as a part-time firefighter on the Mescalero reservation and also works seasonally at Ski Apache as a lift operator, said Beldon.

Treas-Wilson will have an initial appearance before U.S. Magistrate Judge Joe H. Galvan at Las Cruces sometime today.

Meanwhile, he's being held at the Dona Ana County jail in Las Cruces pending the initial hearing.

Beldon said if the accused man is convicted as charged of the offense, he faces a penalty of death or any term of death up to life imprisonment.

The murdered boy was the son of Zandra Smith and Douglas Davis of Mescalero. He was a student at White Mountain Intermediate School in Ruidoso.

Study says room tax increases hurt small hotels most

by CHARLES STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Room taxes have been the conclusion of an abbreviated study Bill Rawlins, owner of the Ruidoso Lodge, submitted to the Lodgers Tax Advisory Board Tuesday.

Rawlins was concerned over the recent one percent lodgers increase to four percent, and of the recent talk of going to five percent.

Rawlins gave the board statistics from a recent American Hotel and Motel Association study that indicated increased room taxes will drive away customers.

"While such taxation may appear to generate 'new dollars' it also significantly reduces the attractiveness of a destination for meetings and tourism, thus removing tourism and visitor dollars and ultimately reducing tax revenues," wrote Edwin Griffin executive vice president and CEO of Meeting Planners International.

The report wrote that a new study done for the American Hotel and Motel Association indicates that, on average, the number of rooms rented declines about 4.4 percent for every 10 percent increase in either room rates or taxes.

The report stated that smaller properties, those with 150 rooms or less, are hit hardest by the tax.

The drop in occupancy rate for the small motel owner averages 5.4 percent compared to 0.7 percent for hotels with 600 or more rooms.

The report indicated that "Special taxes on away-from-home lodging services are often viewed as a painless way to raise revenues in a community, particularly if the need is for revenues to build convention centers, to purchase assets for use

Tunstill calls for showdown over the Kid

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

It was the lack of an invitation that annoyed William Tunstill. And he'd like a second shot to tell his side of the story.

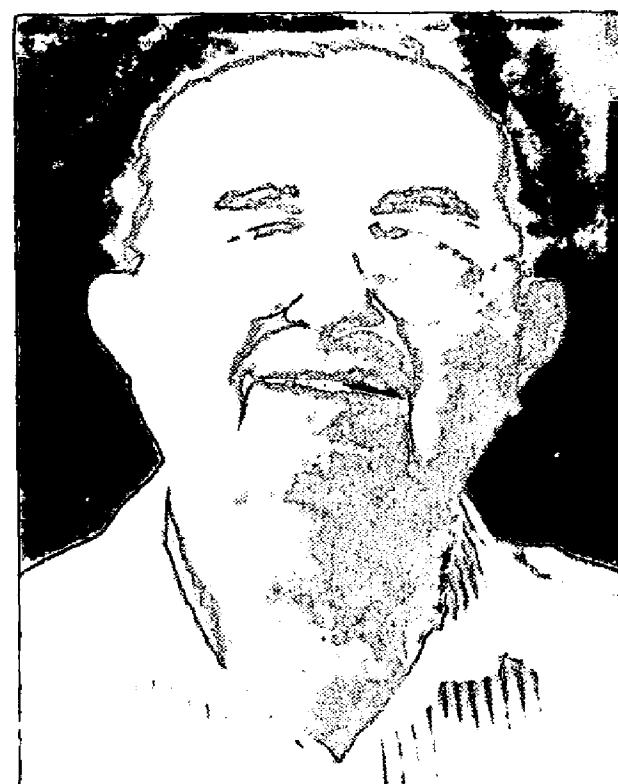

Tunstill, the Roswell-based author of "Billy the Kid and Me Were the Same," the story of Brushy Bill Roberts, was in Ruidoso earlier this week.

He told The Ruidoso News that he thought it was unfair for the Lincoln County Heritage Trust to put together a symposium on The Kid without inviting him.

The five-day symposium, which ended last Sunday, consisted of sessions by experts who had analyzed letters and photographs of Billy, scholarly lectures on social impacts of The Kid's brand of violence and field trips to significant sites connected to his legend.

One of the conclusions offered was that the late "Brushy" Bill Roberts of Hico, Texas, was not Billy the Kid as he claimed.

But Tunstill said he doesn't want to hear conclusions, he wants to see the evidence. And he says he has plenty of evidence to prove that Sheriff Pat Garrett did not kill The Kid and that Billy lived a long life as Brushy Bill Roberts.

"They keep making statements, but we never get to see the evidence," Tunstill said. "All they know is what they go to the library to read. They take things from already published sources."

"These professors are sincere, but they don't have the background. I've found Billy's relatives."

Tunstill said at one point he became so frustrated that he offered $10,000 if trust officials could come up with legal proof.

"They never took me up on it," he said. "I don't know what else I can do."

But Tunstill said he plans to send a letter to the trust directors challenging them to an open meeting where both sides can lay out their evidence.

Trust official Bob Hart said Thursday that he doesn't have any intention of staging a public confrontation with Tunstill.

"He's welcome to publish his conclusions," Hart said. "We will be publishing our findings in short order and leave it up to the scientific community to decide."

Tunstill initially cooperated with the photograph analysis project sponsored by the trust, Hart said.

"All of the photographs came from Mr. Tunstill. We didn't copy them out of a book, but about 1 1/2 years ago when he realized the results might not be in line with his theories, he ceased to cooperate and said some nasty things," Hart said.

"This symposium was not a publicity stunt. He, in fact, has received plenty of publicity with television programs, but wasn't satisfied with the way they were handled. He and (historian) Robert Utley sat in the same room and gave their opinions."

Hart said he never heard of any $10,000 reward for conclusive proof.

Brushy Bill Roberts wasn't the only contender to Billy's throne examined at the symposium, Hart pointed out.

Representatives of a man named John Miller, who also claimed to be Billy, were disappointed by expert conclusions too, Hart said. In the

Investigators rule out engine failure as in fatal air crash

Engine failure didn't cause last week's fatal airplane crash in Ruidoso, according to a federal investigators who also ruled out propeller and structure failure.

But Arnold Scott, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator, said an open door on the plane's cabin is being studied further.

"We found the cabin door unlocked. That's a fact," Scott said. "Now, whether one of the occupants unlocked the cabin door prior to impact, or had the door open in flight, we don't know yet."

The Wednesday crash killed two men and seriously injured Beldon Waldon, 46, of Hobbs. Waldon remains hospitalized in Roswell.

Zip Franklin of Lovington, father of well-known stunt pilot Jim Franklin of Alto, was killed in the crash.

Scott said investigators hope to find out more about the unlocked door and other items when they are able to interview Waldon.

The twin-engine airplane was on its way to Reno, Nevada, when it crashed and burned shortly after takeoff from Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Ruidoso Downs Lodgers Tax group can't meet, no quorum

The chairman of the Ruidoso Downs Lodgers Tax Committee, Mike Warren, heard reports on lodgers tax income for July at what should have been a regular meeting, Monday evening.

But of the five members of the committee, Warren was the only one who showed up for the meeting. Absent were Tony Wilcoxson, Karen Stephens, Shelley Barnes and Camille Mansell.

Deputy village clerk Barbara Kilough reported lodgers tax income for July at $5,625.50.

Since the LTC was formed in the spring, total income including July added to $12,551. June receipts were $3,599.67, May receipts, the first month, $3,326.05.

Ruidoso Downs has a five percent tax on lodging.

By law, lodgers tax funds must be spent primarily for advertising designed to draw visitors into an area.

Drug Free program is funded

The Drug Free Schools program headquartered in Ruidoso has received funding for another year.

The Region IX Cooperative Center announced that the Drug Free Schools and Community (DFS&C) consolidated grant has been awarded in the amount of $21,291.

The purpose of the grant is for substance abuse prevention programs in the following Region IX school districts: Tularosa, Cloudcroft, Hondo, Ruidoso, Capitan, Corona and Carrizozo.

Community members may get involved in planning activities by attending the DFS&C advisory board meetings. Contact Kathy Echols at 257-2368 for more information.

The Region IX Cooperative Center, along with six other New Mexico cooperative centers, has received the Drug Free Schools and Community Emergency grant award for the purpose of funding a staff drug prevention coordinator.

According to a news release, the coordinator, Kathy Echols, acts as a resource person in the area of substance abuse prevention to all seven school districts.

Corona Range and Livestock Center hosts open house

New Mexico State University has scheduled a research double-header Tuesday, October 1, at the new Corona Range and Livestock Research Center.

The first official open house and field day at the new research center begins with registration at 9 a.m. The event is open to the public, and the open house includes tours of the new research facility.

The morning program focuses on a year-long range ram study just completed, and the afternoon will cover long-range research plans for the Corona Center, according to Bob Rankin, head of the Animal and Range Sciences Department.

NMSU's Corona Range and Livestock Research Center is made up of the former Nalda and Adams ranches. Acres is from US 54, two miles north of Corona (Railroad overpass), then eight miles east on a gravel road to the ranch. The ranch's north headquarters, site of the morning program, is another five miles north.

Lunch at the open house and field day will be prepared by the Crown Cowbells, and is courtesy of the NMSU Animal and Range Sciences Department.

Spencer given appointment

Stirling T. Spencer, chairman of the Lincoln County Commission, has been named to the national Association of Counties' Agriculture and Rural Affairs Steering Committee by Association President Kaye Braaten, a county commissioner from Richland County, N.D.

The organization's 12 steering committee form the policy-making arm of county government. Each committee is composed of about 50-60 county officials who meet during the year to examine issues critical to local government.

Their recommendations on county legislative goals are presented to the nation's county officials at the group's annual conference. If approved, the recommendations become part of the American County Platform, which is the basis of the organization efforts in representing counties to Congress and the White House.

Civic center construction gets started with groundbreaking

Construction will begin on Ruidoso's new civic center, billed to be the most versatile and unique facility in Southern New Mexico, after the Ruidoso Village Council hosts a groundbreaking ceremony on Saturday, September 28, on the grounds at 111 Sierra Blanca Drive.

Kathleen Michelena, director of the new facility, said everyone is invited to join in the festivities at ground breaking, scheduled for 10 a.m.

The new center will house an exhibit hall, six meeting rooms and 50 breakout umbrellas. The center contains 33,000 square feet to open in the spring of 1992.

Regional board reviews ad agencies

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor
Regional Advertising Board (RAB), not the Visitors Promotion and Service Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, will conduct an "agency review."

Joan Bailey, chairperson of the promotion committee who also serves on the RAB, reported on her committee's plans to RAB at a regular RAB meeting Tuesday.

She said the promotion committee would be conducting a review of advertising agencies which might be qualified to service the promotion committee and RAB.

"I think RAB should do the agency review since we allocate the funds. We have the responsibility of the money," Mark Doth, RAB chairman, said. Doth also serves on the Ruidoso Lodgers Tax Advisory Board (LTAB) which has statutory responsibility for advising the Village Council on allocations of lodgers tax funds.

Bailey said her committee's

"plate is full already" and said she welcomed RAB's taking on the review, with input expected from the promotion committee.

RAB, which is made up of members of the lodgers tax committee of Ruidoso plus Bailey and Jerry Watts of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, heard a complaint from lodger Stan Cape.

Facing an advertising deadline to place Ruidoso advertising in Sun Country's publication and the New Mexico Magazine Vacation Guide, RAB developed in a short-time a three-page, full color spread to appear in both magazines.

One of the pages features lodgers only and was paid for by lodgers. Only three lodgers participated.

Cape's complaint was that he called several lodgers Tuesday who said they were not contacted to participate in the subsidized page of advertising.

"I wasn't contacted," Cape said.

Bailey said she called Cape's father, Slover Cape, who said A-Frame Cabins couldn't participate, she said.

Bailey said she and Dick Weber of Shadow Mountain Lodge divided up the lodgers, with Bailey to call A through M in the phone directory, Weber, N through Z.

The other advertiser was Swiss Chalet whose manager, Jay Francis sits on LTC and RAB.

"I'm just happy we're doing something," Francis said of the three pages of advertising. Previously various entities placed separate ads in Sun Country and the Vacation Guide. The cooperative effort this year is a first.

"I did my job," Bailey said.

Weber, when contacted, said he never said he would contact all lodgers, that he couldn't reach some.

"We called as many as we could ... we had only four days," he said.

Weber said he hopes for "eight pages" next year sponsored by lodgers. He said he will start contacting lodgers next week for deposits toward next year's pages.

"Every business can afford at least an eighth of a page," Weber said.

Bailey said the promotion committee she heads has adopted a theme, "Feel the Fall," for Aspenfest advertising. A brochure has been mailed out, she told RAB members.

She said a six-week advertising campaign has been mapped out, including use of print media, posters and radio.

The board emphasized that RAB will not retain an advertising agency on a year-round basis.

Doth said in effect agencies would be used on a "per project" basis, that RAB would dictate what is desired from any agency utilized.

Watts said that the Mithoff Agency, used to develop the three pages of advertising, gave us a "product and a price. That's what we want."

RAB has only been functioning since the first part of August. It was created by the Ruidoso Village Council.

'Zozo Superfund site cleanup begins soon

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has decided to move ahead with a Superfund cleanup plan to contain and neutralize contaminants at the old Sierra Blanca milling site south of Carrizozo.

The work will begin within six months, said Donn Walters, community relations coordinator with the agency's Dallas office.

Despite contentions from local residents and mining experts at a public meeting last June that the $79,000 plan amounted to overkill, the agency struck with its original proposal. It was the least expensive of several outlined.

The procedure is based on solidification/stabilization and onsite disposal of soils contaminated with lead in excess of 500 parts per million. The EPA estimates that 43 cubic yards of tank sediments, 182 cubic yards of materials pile soils and rock and 345 cubic yards of discharge pit sediments and site soils are contaminated above that level.

The 7.5-acre site is about one-half mile east of U.S. 54. The facility, which has been closed for years, used precious metal extraction processes that resulted in unpermitted discharges of contaminated liquids, and the stockpiling of contaminated material piles and other waste sediments, according to the EPA.

After being shoved on a government back burner in 1985, interest was renewed a few years later while the EPA was investigating the Cimarron Mining and Milling operation to the north. That site is considered to be the mother operation of Sierra Blanca and involved some of the same corporate connection. Cleanup of the Cimarron site should begin next month, Walters said.

The Sierra Blanca facility originally was owned by Scott-Tex Inc., and was used to recover a variety of metals from ores brought to the site. It shut down in the early 1970s and later was acquired by the village of Carrizozo.

Photographs from 1975 show no discharge pits and only a few piles of material, according to an EPA summary.

In 1979, the site was leased by investors under the name of American Minerals Recovery Corporation. The aim was to recover silver from ore materials, but a state site inspection report prepared on November 1, 1980 states that "this operation extracts whatever there is a market for - one week gold, the next silver, platinum and so on."

According to the EPA, two buildings on the site were owned by different companies. The northern processing building was owned by Sierra Blanca Mining and Processing Co., a former owner of the Cimarron Mill.

The southern building was owned by the Double Eagle Mining Co. and was to be used to extract gold from ore transferred from the Cimarron site.

future, the project also will look at the claims of Walking Henry Smith.

"We consider Brushy Bill Roberts a legitimate piece of research, a legitimate piece of folklore," Hart said. "But we do not consider him of historic significance."

Tunstill said he never met

Roberts. Brushy Bill Roberts died before Tunstill became interested in the story. But that interest has grown into an obsession over the years. A sequel to his first book is due out soon.

His focus isn't just Billy. He also believes he has established the identity of the killer who shot Pat Garrett in the back of the head in 1908. "It was one of Billy's best friends," Tunstill said.

State lawmakers winding up session task

by FRANKIE JARRELL

Ruidoso News Editor

The Democratic majority loves it and the Republican minority hates it.

Love it or hate it, the state House of Representatives has passed a congressional redistricting plan for New Mexico's three districts that will make changes in all three.

According to the plan, Lincoln County's congressman, Joe Skeen, loses Union, Quay and Curry counties to the 3rd Congressional District, represented by Bill Richardson.

Lawmakers are winding down this special session called to redistrict the state using federal guidelines and the 1990 Census count.

The House endorsed a plan that reshuffles counties and combines San Miguel and Bernalillo counties in a new 1st Congressional District.

The Senate isn't expected to agree, and the plan will probably go back to a joint committee between the House and Senate.

The plan as passed also removes De Baca county from District 2, and moves Catron, Valencia and Socorro counties from Richardson's to Skeen's district.

Congressional districts must each contain a population of 505,000, plus or minus 5 percent, and the redistricting has to reflect shifts in population.

The Senate on Tuesday passed its own district lines for the state's 42 Senate voting districts. The bill includes 14 districts with Hispanic populations majorities, three with Indian majorities and three more with combined ethnic and racial majorities to form 20 "majority minority" districts.

The House already redrew its lines with at least half the 70 districts in the plan containing a majority of Hispanics and/or native Americans — almost exactly the same percentage as in the state as a whole.

"It's pretty much the plan that came out of all of our redistricting hearings," said State Representative John Underwood Monday.

The big change for Lincoln County is that it will have one representative instead of being divided among three districts.

Lawmakers already have passed a redistricting plan for the State Board of Education's 10 elected members.

The plans will go to Governor Bruce King for his signature.

P&Z nixes Parks plan

It's back to square one for the Parks and Recreation Department's master plan after it was reviewed by the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) last Monday.

P&Z chairman Robert Donaldson, after much discussion, concluded the Parks plans submitted for local improvements could not be considered a master plan.

Donaldson said that a new conceptual plan should be resubmitted to the commission. He said that new conceptual plan should consider current assets, what the village has and what is needed. He also said more input from the general public and users is needed.

Donaldson said the future plans of the forest service are needed so that the village will not duplicate their efforts.

Donaldson asked commission members to review the new plans with the village council and come back before the P&Z at the October 7 meeting with their ideas.

In other commission action, the P&Z:

—Approved a minor amendment on a commercial site development. Anthony Dunbar asked permission to build two decks to the two front A-frames at Ski West. He also wants to divide the main building into three sections and add a deck to those sections. Parking was to be given future consideration.

—Approved a replat for two lots of Jerome Mattox and Marth Demaret of County Club Estates. The replat was to cure a side yard encroachment stipulated by a restrictive covenant. Commission requested lienholders as well as applicants sign replat.

by tourists or to promote local tourism."

The report warned that taxes are not always used to promote tourism.

"Room tax receipts often are collected for other purposes, such as general support of the government, or even for no purpose specifically designated at the time of the imposition of the tax."

Lodgers board chairman Mark Doth said lodgers tax money collected in August and incurred during the month of July was about $27,000, up substantially from previous years.

The lodgers board moved $3,700 previously designated for Ruidoso lapel pins into the contingency fund.

With that money, the board approved $3,000 for Oktoberfest, a non-profit corporation with 27 unnamed members as requested by Mike Radziewicz. Radziewicz said a carnival will be added this year so the whole family can participate.

Radziewicz said any profit would go for seed money for next year.

The Lincoln County Barbecue War for October 25-26 received $700 of the $1,500 requested for advertising from Chuck Reynolds.

Reynolds said the barbecue war was being brought in town this year to bring more people into the downtown area.

Reynolds said more than 12 barbecuers had signed up at this time for the war and he said that figure would jump to 30-40.

Reynolds mentioned several towns throughout Texas that will participate.

Some Ruidoso students start the day off right

School breakfast program is a big hit

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer
A stream of smiling faces flowed into the cafeteria at White Mountain Elementary about 7:30 a.m. Friday.

The elementary-age children brought more than their school books with them that morning. They brought their appetites.

And cafeteria workers were prepared to satisfy those young stomachs with muffins, cereal, milk and juice.

Under a new program initiated this year, the Ruidoso School District is offering breakfast at prices no mother could match in her kitchen.

For 45 cents, a child will receive a well-rounded meal from menus that will include eggs about every sixth day, pancakes, waffles, slices of ham and bacon, breakfast burritos, cereal and toast, said program director Mac McIlwain.

He visited the Alamogordo school system to observe its program and to review sample menus that offer proper nutrition but also appeal to children.

Students from families eligible for reduced price or free lunches also may receive a 25-cent or free breakfast, he said.

Schools serving breakfast are nothing new in a nation where huge numbers of children are malnourished and leave for school each morning with empty stomachs. But often children just opt not to bother with breakfast at home. Sometimes with two working parents, eating at school eases a tight morning schedule.

McIlwain, who took over supervision of the district's cafeterias this year, said School Supt. Mike Gladden proposed adding the breakfast program.

"When Gladden was principal at Ruidoso Middle School, he observed some children coming to school without eating," McIlwain said. He became interested in the possibility of starting a local program.

"The state also is on the verge of mandating the program in a couple of years. There have been numerous surveys national pointing out the need," McIlwain said.

The program has been well received. About 160 students at White Mountain Intermediate and Elementary schools participate. Nob Hill Elementary feeds about 70 and Ruidoso High School about 60. To date, the middle school lags behind with only 25 students taking advantage of the district's efforts to ensure all children start the day with some food to fuel their young bodies.

"It's the lowest because of the time factor with the buses, but we're working on it," McIlwain said. Serving at White Mountain begins about 7:35 a.m. and most children are finished by 8 a.m.

"We don't want to take time from the school day," he said.

Officials from other school districts have told McIlwain that a good goal is to feed about one-third of the number of children who buy lunch at schools. Ruidoso is close to that figure at White Mountain and Nob Hill.

Munching on muffins Friday were Summer Snow and Chelsey Stroud, both fourth graders at White Mountain.

The two girls and best buddies said they enjoy eating breakfast together.

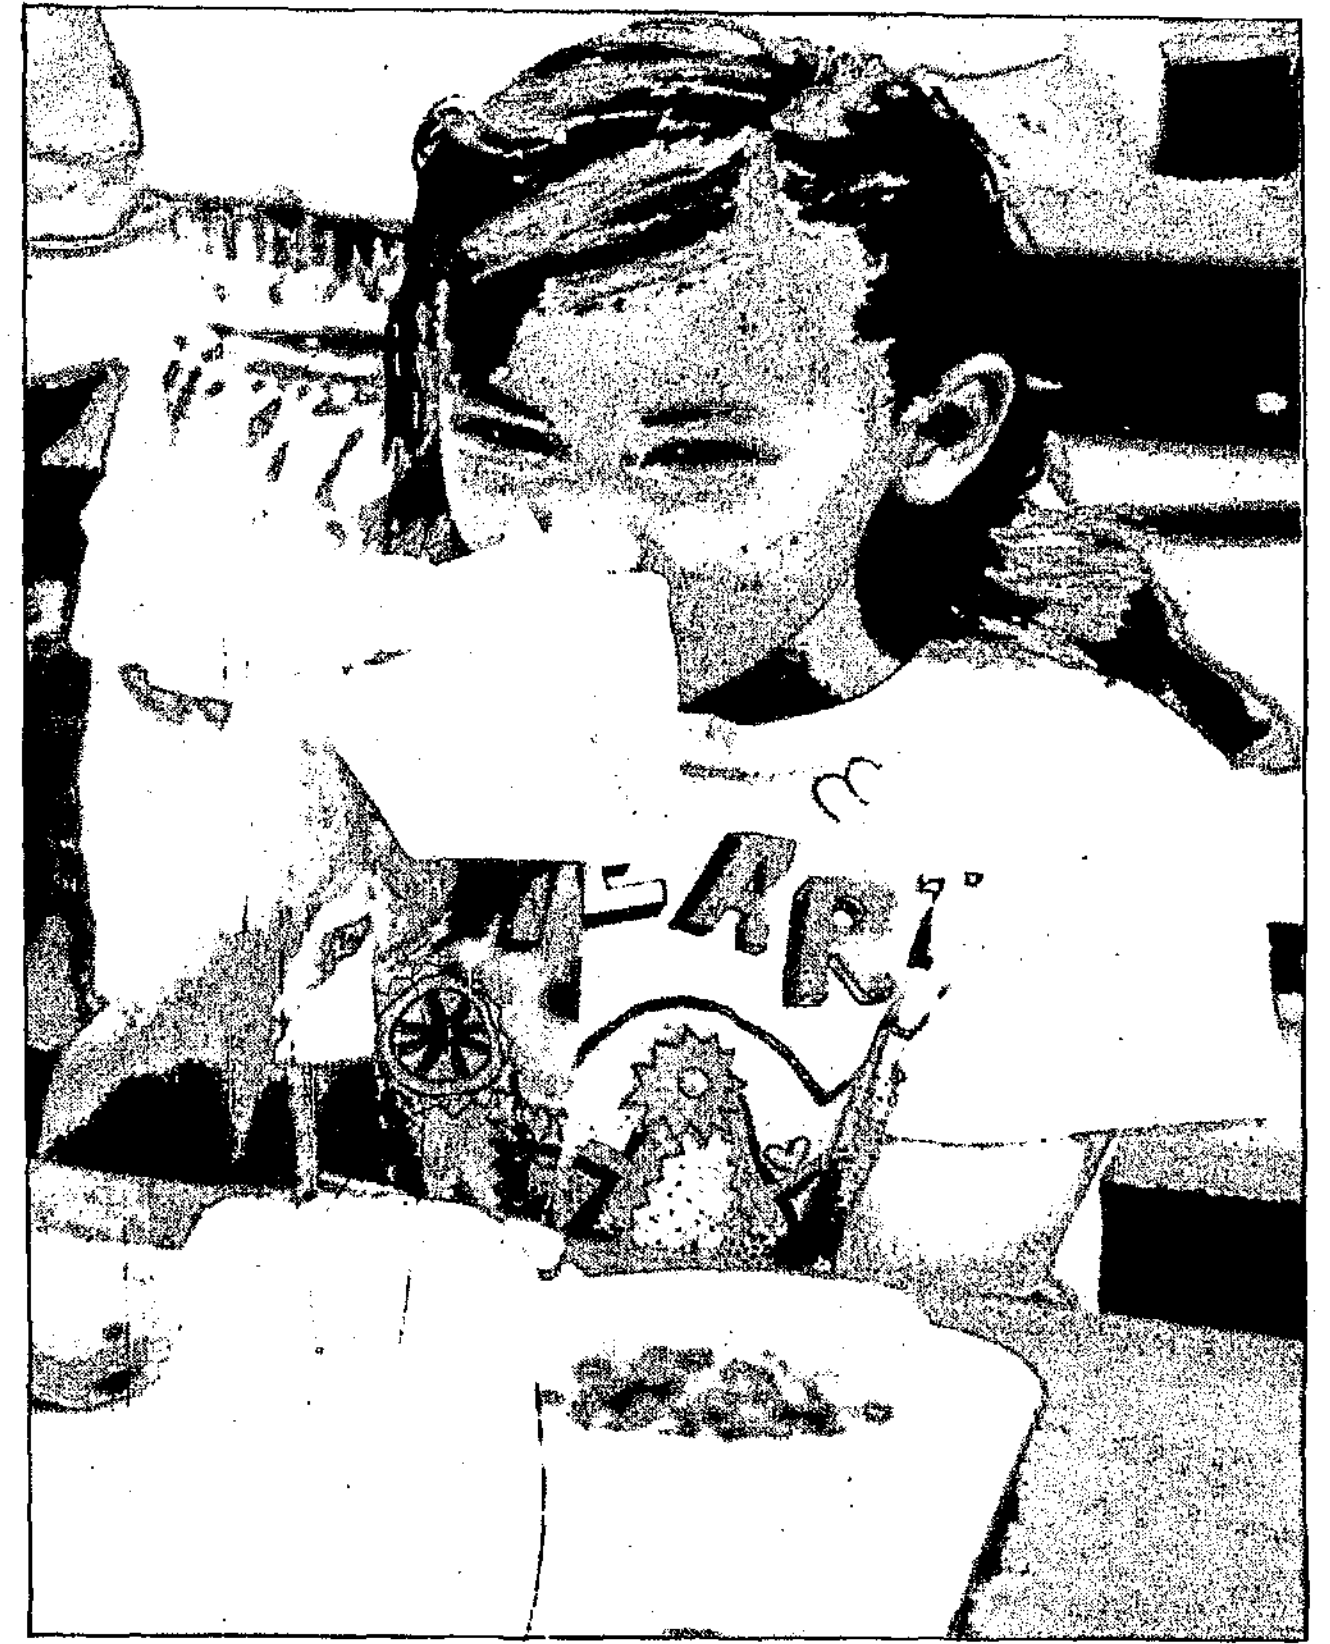

"We like the cereal and we like the hot breakfasts too," Miss Snow said.

At each meal, a child is offered five items and must take at least three for the school to count them for federal reimbursement. Some federal surplus commodities, such as flour for the muffins, also are used in food preparation, McIlwain said.

"We have to document everything carefully and that slows the line," McIlwain said. "We can produce the food and feed the children faster than the accounting. But we can appreciate the need as taxpayers."

Students who want to eat breakfast at school and would be paying full price just have to show up, McIlwain said. He said students from families qualified for free and reduced meals already have been notified and those records are confidential.

Chelsey Stroud, left, and Summer Snow, fourth graders at White Mountain Elementary enjoy breakfast together under the district's new program. Clockwise, milk tastes great in the morning while others wait in line for their trays of food. Mac McIlwain, who heads the Ruidoso school district's breakfast and lunch programs, counts out change.

Winless Warriors brace for 2-A foe Tularosa

Tularosa, homecoming, a history of toughness - all the elements are there for a good ballgame this Friday between the Ruidoso Warriors and the Wildcats in Tulieland.

If the Warriors are going to turn their game around, this weekend is the perfect place to start, against the 2-A Wildcats.

Traditionally the Wildcats have made this a tough tilt, sometimes taking the play off the field and into the stands.

It has been relatively tame the past few years, but the ballgames are still nip and tuck.

For Tuli, the incentive is there. It is not only homecoming, but the last time their coach Bob Cerney will coach the 'Cats against Ruidoso. Cerney retires this year.

The Wildcats have had injuries, and although they're big up front, they're not the quality of team the Warriors have faced the last three weeks.

Tuli's quarterback doesn't throw often, but he throws well, according to scouting reports given Warrior coach Mike Speck.

A pair of running backs are quick, but small, 130 pounds each. The Wildcats defense is similar to the Warriors, 4-3.

Speck said the Warriors enjoyed three days of quality practice. He said the team is down 0-3 and mentally ready for a big game.

Speck was quick to say that he also knows that with Tuli anything can happen.

Many Warriors were downed this past week by the viral infections that have ravaged the village recently.

Of the starters, Bryan Streety, Eric Beck, Richard Rippey, Craig Turner and Able Chavez have all missed practice.

Speck said there would be no trick plays for Friday.

"We're having trouble enough getting our fundamentals," he said. "We just played three tough teams. Goddard appears to be the best we've played. It's time we put our game together and play up to our potential," Speck said.

The Warriors have no easy path after Tularosa. The next two games will be at home against Portales and St. Pius.

The St. Pius game will be the homecoming game for the Warriors. The next week they will travel to Deming for the first district contest.

The Warriors were treated to a picnic last Sunday by the Quarterback Club and Dub Williams at Williams huge ranch.

Speck said the players and their dates piggied out on hotdogs and horseshoes along with campfires and marshmallow roasts.

Speck said the coaches and their wives have gone through losing seasons before. He said the consensus was to get the bad games out of the way at the start of the season instead of the end of the season.

On their opening three losses, Speck was philosophical.

"It's the way of the Warriors, unfortunately," he said. "We haven't been able to break the habit. We hope the turning point is this weekend."

A Warrior appears to defend against the mat. Below, the spirit line before every game is filled with many admiring fans.

Volleyballers up record to 4-1

Hard cracking spikes and tough competition greeted the Ruidoso Volleyball Warriors who upped their record to 4-1 with three wins and a loss during the Hobbs Tournament last week.

The Warriors handled Carlsbad and Lovington in three straight games. They struggled but won against Clovis, but turned flat as a pancake against a strong Portales team.

In the Lovington match, the Warrior defensive line prevented any runs of consequence, while the Warriors great run game in game three, a nine point serve effort by Monica Martinez.

The Warriors won the three games by a margin of 15-7, 15-6 and 15-8.

Against 4-A Carlsbad, the Warriors barely survived the first game 15-13, Betsy Cull serving the winning point.

The next two games the Warriors won easily, 15-7 and 15-8.

Against 4-A Clovis, Amy Wishard served for five points in the winning first game effort, 15-9.

Clovis rebounded with a 15-10 victory of Ruidoso in game two.

Game three was highlighted by Wishards serve, good for eight straight points and enabled the Warriors to put the game away in three more serves by Cicelee Makowski and Betsy Cull.

The Warriors won the final game 15-10, scoring on the last two serves of Mandy Parker.

The Portales Rams grabbed the first game with an easy 15-3 victory before the Warriors broke a sweat.

Warriors came within two points in game two, leading 13-11 before the Rams put together a four point binge to win 15-13.

Game three belonged to the Warriors and the long service winners of Amy Wishard.

The Rams were leading the Warriors 11-8 before Wishard put together seven strong serves for the first Warrior victory.

Game four was rock bottom for Ruidoso. Parker served the only Warrior point as the Rams one by a quick and decisive 15-1 score.

Fast Braves whip Dexter, 27-0

"Pride" was the word used by the coaches to describe the performance of the Ruidoso Middle School Brave football team in their 27-0 victory over Dexter.

Brave coach Borde Williams said his players displayed total concentration on what was needed to gain a victory.

"We were pleased with the play of the offensive line of Jesse Fromknecht at center, guards Byron Soules, Jason Wilson, tackles Eric Simpson and Chris Ortega, and Robert Guardiola. They really controlled the line of scrimmage and allowed our running backs some good holes," Williams said.

Running backs Rex Comanche, Cory Hood, Justin Weber, Beau

Jarvis, Jackie Roe, Dennis Randolph and Randy Randolph did a fine job of finding the holes and running with the ball according to Williams.

Williams said the defense performed its best, making fine tackles and holding Dexter scoreless.

Billy Garcia, Rex Comanche, Dennis Randolph, Eric Simpson and Jackie Roe all contributed to the cause.

Williams said the team played hard as a single unit.

"We are working hard and improving with each game we play," Williams said.

The 1991 Brave Roster includes, Lief Anderson, Matt Bell, Joey Bewley, Nathaniel Chee, Rex Com-

Turner turns contest titan

And one man stood alone on top of the mountain surveying all below him. And that man was Bill Turner of Tularosa, a $25 richer kind of guy.

It was just a matter of time before one of the Turner boys won the Ruidoso Football Contest. Out of 51 entries in week three, Bill picked 16 winners in a tough schedule of teams.

His four losers were Gadsden over Cobre, El Paso over Las Cruces, Southern Cal over Penn State and the Bears over the Giants.

Five prognosticators were nipping at Bill's heels — Doyle Howell, Luvin Sanchez, Angel Montoya, Kimberly Herrera, Joan Lueras and Bob Lueras.

According to our guessers, Penn State's loss to Southern Cal and Socorro's victory over Grants were the two biggest upsets.

A number of experts picked Dallas over the Eagles. Boy, did they get short changed.

Worst guesser this week claimed eight wins. Seven wins is still lowest.

The breakdown: 16 winners for 1 guesser, 15 for 6, 14-6, 13-13, 12-7, 11-12, 10-3, 12-2 and one submitted was for the wrong week.

Fishing fans angle for $10,000

Bill Hostetter, meteorologist and Ruidoso weatherman, predicts clearing and possibly some sunshine for the annual Kiwanis Fishing Tournament Saturday and Sunday, September 21-22, at Grindstone Lake.

Some 6,000 trout were put in the lake Tuesday, many of them tagged by Ruidoso Kiwanis Club members, in preparation of the two days of intensive fishing where some lucky angler could win $10,000.

The two-day event has traditionally been staged at Alto Lake, but was switched this year to Grindstone Lake, located southwest of Ruidoso about a mile. Fishing will be from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Tagged fish, five $100 ones, 50 $50 ones and 94 $30 ones were among the 6,000 fish placed in the lake Tuesday.

The big prize could bring an angler $10,000.

Last year the tagged fish caught missed the big one by two numbers on each side of the prepicked number. We are looking for the big ones to be hit this year, Dick Mound, tournament director, says.

To enter the tournament a person must be big enough to throw a hook in the lake and retrieve it without help. Rules are dictated by the New Mexico Game and Fish Department.

Tickets are $15 for one day or $25 for two days.

Bicycle racers get set for the White Mountain Challenge Cup

It's that time again for the gut wrenching 12-mile bicycle climb up White Mountain.

The Seventh Annual White Mountain Challenge Cup is scheduled for Saturday, October 5, at 8 a.m. on the road beside Eagle Creek Sports Complex.

The climb starts at 7,300 feet and for the next 10 miles it's uphill to the 10,000-foot mark. The last two miles enjoy a 200-foot descent.

Jason Strauch is the record holder for the event with a time of 46:45.

Awards include first, second and third place medals in men's and women's citizens classes. A special first place trophy will be awarded the overall winner. Commemorative water bottles will be handed out the first 100 entrants. Over $400 in cash will be given to the USCF classes. There will also be a Final Finisher Award.

Fee for the race is $10. Registration will take place on Friday, October 4, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Century 21 Real Estate office, 727 Mechem Drive.

There will be no race-morning registration. All numbers will be placed on the right hip and helmets will be required of all participants.

Refreshments will be available at Ski Apache beginning at 9 a.m. An awards presentation will take place at Ski Apache at 10:30 a.m.

Race organizers have scheduled five categories in the USCF class and four in the citizen's class, ages starting at 18.

The event is being sponsored by Ski Apache Resort and Sierra Blanca Motors. For further information call 258-5355.

"A Setting Second to None"

Elderberry crop yields winter of jams & jellies

Juicy berries are ripe for picking

by YVONNE LANELLI
Special To The News

It's happening now; elderberries are ripening, ready to be made into rich-tasting jam, jelly, pies or wine.

Old-timers talk of piling the family into the pickup and following a rutted path into the woods to search for the dark-clustered shrubs. After filling their buckets with juicy fruits, they returned home where kettles steamed with sugar concoctions that filled Mason jars, corked bottles and pastry shells.

Then all winter long, the family enjoyed their homemade elderberry treats. Old-timers smile in remembrance of those happy family times.

"Young-timers" smile, too, because the tradition continues today. Over this Labor Day weekend, elderberry-scouting locals joined visiting campers and bow-hunters in the canyons around Lincoln County.

"They're ready," reported one veteran elderberry picker, filling a lug box with gray-blue berries from Nogal Canyon. "They're ripe when they're this color," she explained.

When berries first appear, they're green. Next they turn purple, then ripen to a silvery-grayish blue. That's when they're ready, but you can't prove it by tasting. Picked from the tree, they're almost as sour as a sour cherry but sweetened, are perfect for canning, jamming, pies or wine-making.

Elderberries ripen during the first two to three weeks in September. An elderberry bush may have ripe gray-blue berries, white blossoms, and unripe purple and green berries at the same time.

Recognize the elderberry by its long, thin branches, long drooping leaves and clusters of dark berries. Bushes are most often found in open areas rather than deep woods. Since bushes can grow taller than head-high, use a stepladder to get those just-out-of-reach bunches, rather than bending branches or climbing a bush.

"Elderberry branches are fragile, so take care when you pick," advises Forester Sam Tobias of the US Forest Service (USFS). This area's prime elderberry locations seem to be within National Forest land: up Nogal Canyon, on the way to Monjeau Peak, and in some canyons around Bonito. "But don't collect berries from within the Wilderness Area," reminds Tobias. These boundaries are clearly signed, as well as noted on USFS maps.

USFS does not require a permit to harvest berries for household use and does not issue commercial permits. But be mindful of the bushes and do not drive off-road to them. And pick only what you'll use. "Leave some for the wildlife."

To use the versatile berries, bake them in a pie or can them using your favorite berry recipe. If you fancy an elderberry wine, find recipes at Victor's Grape Arbor, a wine-making supply shop in Albuquerque.

For a tasty jelly, try this easy recipe. Whatever use you choose, you'll be continuing a Lincoln County tradition!

Elderberry Jelly

Yvonne Lanelli, writer of this story and prize-winning jelly and jam cook, cooks up a winter's supply of jam after picking elderberries earlier this month. The elderberry (pictured at left) and its bush both are known for their distinctive shape. Lanelli says it may be too late to pick the ripe berries this year, but don't miss the season during the first three weeks of September next year.

3 cups prepared juice (below)
1/2 cup lemon juice
7 cups sugar
1 pkg. Certo fruit pectin liquid

First, prepare juice. Remove large stems from 3 pounds fully ripe elderberries. Place berries in saucepan or blender and crush. Heat in saucepan until juice begins to flow then simmer, covered, 15 minutes. Place in jelly cloth or bag and allow juice to drip. This process may take several hours if you do not squeeze the bag. Squeezing the bag results in a cloudy jelly.

Measure three cups squeezed juice into very large saucepan and add lemon juice.

Add sugar, mix well.

Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. When mixture reaches a hard boil that can't be stirred down, add entire contents of box of liquid pectin which is both foil pouches.

Stir well over heat. Bring back to full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat, skimming foam with flat metal spoon and pour quickly into sterilized glasses. Either cover with hot paraffin or use two-piece canning lids and process in a boiling water bath using standard canning procedures.

Yield: 7 cups jelly.

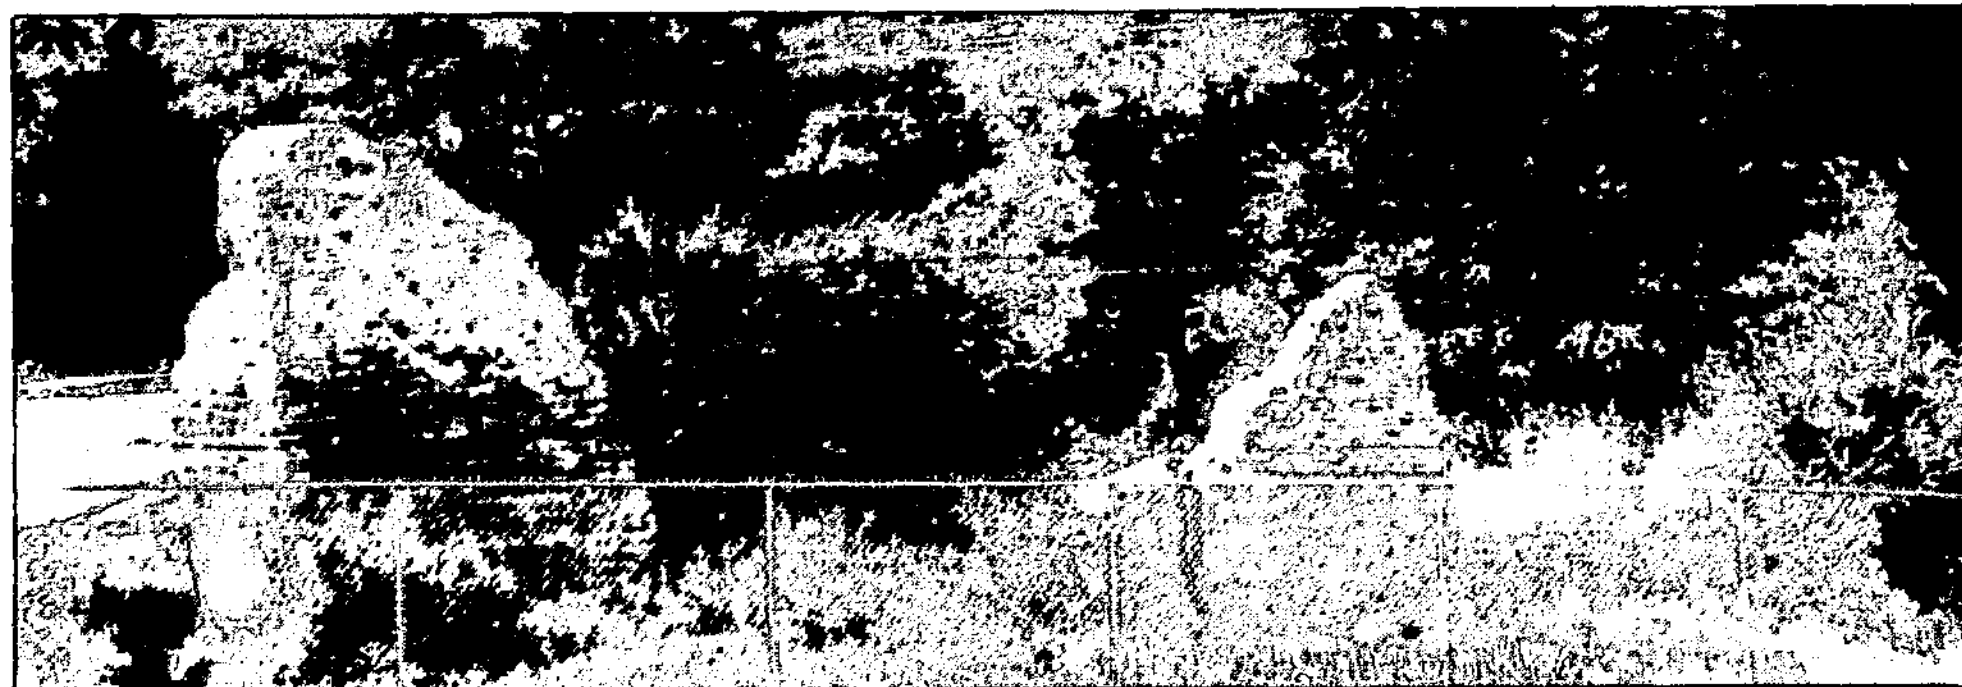

Elderberries are tart, but combined with sugar make great jellies, jams and pies.

Past Tense

Best wishes to the big one that got away

After World War II, Denny O'Hara had been transferred to Holloman Air Force Base near White Sands, where he struck up friendships with several other hunters.

Denny and his family lived in La Luz and we hunted together often with Richard Davis, Marcus Quick, Manuel Garcia and Harris Blankenship.

The boys from the base set up a hunting camp near the head of Cottonwood Canyon in the San Andreas. They invited Denny and his friends to join them on a hunt. Marcus knew the terrain and brought his family, my wife and me along.

The nonmilitary were to furnish their own equipment and food. Denny and the Quicks left before us. After school was out Friday, my wife and I headed west on the "Old Eagle Highway" toward Rhodes Canyon, following the markers left by the Quicks.

At the mouth of Rhodes Canyon, we turned south for four miles, entered Cottonwood Canyon and followed it in and out for three or four miles west. At 8:30 p.m., we found the base's camp and they directed us up the canyon to the Quicks.

They family welcomed us with campfire coffee, Dutch oven biscuits, pinto beans with red chili and fried kid goat one of the boys was supposed to have bought as they entered the area (no livestock was permitted on the range). Regardless of the source of the meat, it was a most appetizing meal.

Marcus had scouted the country and found deer sign in a rinconada bounded on three sides by steep cliffs. He planned for everyone

by Herbert Traylor
Historian

to make a drive in the morning, but during the night, one of the men from the base became extremely ill. The soldiers and Denny returned to the base early the next morning, leaving only Marcus, his son, Ray, and me to hunt.

The next morning, we entered the rinconada from the south by crossing a deep canyon running west to east. We separated, Marcus taking the extreme west position, Ray the middle and I took the area east.

We closed the distance between us to a radius of about two hundred yards. I saw a deer standing slightly concealed by the shadow of the cliff. I watched it for a moment to determine whether it was a buck or a doe. I felt sure from its physical features, size and being alone, it was a buck; yet, I wanted to be sure before shooting. I had been told the deer in those mountains, having little molestation from man, would freeze, not moving an ear or switching a tail for several moments before stampeding.

When it did jump, it entered the canyon by a game trail. I could see the upper as well as the far side of the canyon and the sagebrush area between Ray and me. There was a large boulder about ten yards from the canyon that gave a perspective of the entire region. I sat down on it to watch. The deer didn't go up or down the canyon, nor did I see it cross the canyon toward Ray. I figured there was another game trail accessible from the canyon and the deer would be hiding in the sagebrush toward Ray.

When Marcus and his son came to my station, I explained the incident. They combed the sage and greasewood area for a quarter of a mile each way as I continued to observe the three directions the deer would exit.

There were no tracks until Marcus came to the game trail leading from the spring and the cliff.

The deer had turned southeast hugging the bank, but not more than ten steps from where I was sitting, slipping along the west bank out of my sight for a hundred yards down the canyon before starting to run. We trailed him to the mouth of the canyon, where he left it and entered the sagebrush, not too far east of our camp.

His tracks were larger than a calf's tracks. From all indications, he was very old. The outside cleft of his right front foot was missing. We named him "Old One Toe."

As I recall the incident, some 43 years past, I can only live in the hope that "Old One Toe" continued to evade other hunters, sired many more little "One Toes" and died a natural death.

Festival preview

Larry Brady of Ruidoso Downs is just one of 90 artists who will exhibit and sell their arts and crafts during the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association's Sixth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair during Aspenfest weekend, October 5-6. The Fair, with 75 booths, will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, October 5, and from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, October 6, across the street from The Gazebo on Sudderth Drive. Admission is $1 for adults with children free.

Chamber promotes Aspenfest

A layout for print media and even a poster advertising Ruidoso events through Thanksgiving was approved by the Visitors Promotion and Service Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Committee members outlined print and electronic media advertising for Aspenfest, an identifiable period of time between the end of racing season and Thanksgiving.

Committeeman Jerry Mattox designed the Aspenfest poster which will also be used for print media advertising. The committee was allocated by the Regional Advertising Board as approved by the Ruidoso Village Council.

Some 500 posters will be printed, along with 1,000 flyers. Advertising in newspapers and radio will be in Ruidoso and within a 400-mile radius of Ruidoso.

Aspen weekend is one of the bigger Aspenfest events. It occurs October 4-6 and includes a massive parade, art show, street dance at Cochera and other special events.

A follow-up meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, September 24.

Capitan Tackle Clint Tate mowed down Wolverines during last Friday's game, Head Coach Pat Ventura said. He also lauded the on-field performances of Stormy Trost and Damian Roybal. Despite Tigers efforts, the wily Wolverines whalloped the tenacious team. Ventura said he's confident Tigers will be ready for district play next month.

Wolverines wallop the Capitan Tigers

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

For the first time this season, the Capitan Tigers were zipped on the scoreboard last Friday.

But Capitan head coach Pat Ventura said overall he was "very pleased" with the Tiger offense and defense in last week's game against the Texico Wolverines.

"We improved again on the fundamental," he said of his young, inexperienced team. "We went down there with the idea that we had to move on the offensive and that's what we did. But we were hurt by a couple of fumbles and interceptions that resulted in touchdowns for the Wolverines."

"We got down within 15 yards of a touchdown a couple of times without a point. We should have had three or four."

The final score of 31-0 is the result of consistent scoring over the length of the game by the Wolverines, Ventura said.

"For their first score, they really drove the ball, but other than that, they scored because of our errors," he said. At the end of the first quarter, the score was 6-0 and by halftime, 18-0.

"We had a chance to score twice in the first half, but the turnover was killing us," he said.

Tackle Clint Tate pounded his opponents, providing good defensive play, Ventura said. Runningbacks Stormy Trost and Damian Roybal piled up yardage.

Until he pulled his leg and hip muscles in the third quarter, tight end Weldon Smith also performed well, he said. Smith has provided some of the best play in the last three games. But Ventura said Smith may not be in shape to take the field against the Hagerman Bobcats in the home game this Friday.

"Hagerman is going to be tough," Ventura said. "They've got big linesmen and they execute well. They were ranked fifth last week and then won last weekend. They run well and throw the ball."

Ventura said he plans to continue his emphasis on the fundamentals with his Capitan team.

"We're going to keep drilling and hopefully by the time of district play (October 11), we'll be okay. We have three games before then."

Seventh and eighth graders played head-to-head with Tularosa last Thursday, walking away with a tie score of 6-6.

"It was a terrific ballgame," said assistant coach Nell Davis. "We had more first and tens and more penetration."

"The coach of the Tularosa team told me his players thought they were going to whip Capitan and got a big surprise. We fought a good ballgame and played well."

RUBY JOHNSON

Capitan science teacher is TOPS

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruby Johnson has been tops with her students for years, but now it's official, she's been selected to be one of the participants in the U.S. Department of Energy's TOPS program.

Conceived for middle-school teachers, the program called Teacher Opportunities to Promote Science (TOPS) is federally sponsored in conjunction with the national laboratories at Sandia and Los Alamos.

"Out of 90 plus applicants (statewide), 50 were selected, with half in the southern part of the state assigned to Sandia and others in the north to Los Alamos," Johnson said during an interview in her classroom earlier this week.

"It's a three-year commitment, both mine and the school system to support me."

Over the summer, Johnson spent three weeks in an initial training session at Sandia. During the school year, she will attend three, two-day sessions. The next will be September 26-27 at Los Alamos.

"Some of the things that happened during the summer session were mind-boggling," Johnson said, especially because she considers science one of her weaker background areas.

In fact, that's why she applied for the program. She hoped to strengthen her science know-how and bring back more enthusiasm and projects to her sixth grade students.

"Language arts is my strong point, but I felt I was lacking in science and couldn't properly motivate the kids," Johnson said. "I felt the way to get the training would not be to sit in a physics class, but to participate actively."

"I felt very green. But there was a range of abilities from teachers who taught physics to those with similar backgrounds to mine. Some were stronger in zoology or botany and we complemented each other."

"We visited a solar lab and worked with the scientists there and saw solar projects of private companies being tested," Johnson said. In one test, they were extracting contaminants (other than heavy metals) out of water using solar power.

Teachers had a chance to operate a solar ice maker and to visit a lab that performed nuclear fusion research.

"We even made terrariums out of light bulbs, those small Christmas-tree types," she said. "It was incredible, they were so small."

They built and launched rockets and took tours of a nearby volcano, ice cave and sandstone bluffs as part of a section on geology.

A more practical session dealt with kitchen chemistry, using household items.

The goals of the program are to increase the teachers' knowledge of science and math, to enhance their teaching skills in those areas, to provide hands-on activities and materials to take back to their schools, and to enable the teachers to train colleagues in their school districts. The program also aims to provide a mechanism for teachers to encourage students to pursue careers in science and math and to realize how those disciplines are applied at national labs.

Johnson already has fulfilled some of those goals, trying new projects in her classroom and making plans for a school science fair this year.

"The main thing is to bring back the enthusiasm," she said. "I've already done some of things with my kiddos such as cooperative learning, working them in groups."

That approach encourages participation by some of the students who had appeared to be struggling with the material, she said. It often turns out, they're not lacking in ability or knowledge, but may not have felt before that they had anything worthwhile to contribute. Working in a group, everybody's opinion is solicited and no one dominates.

Johnson also hopes to set up a program that would involve parents and students (grades sixth through eighth) on Saturdays.

Bring part of the program through Johnson's participation, Capitan also will have access to equipment on loan from the labs.

"One of the nicest things about the entire experience is that no matter what our backgrounds in science and math, we were treated so professionally," Johnson said.

She's looking forward to the next session at the end of the month.

Musicians march for California travel fund

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

The Capitan Band and Choral Department is marching to the beat of a California drummer, raising funds to head west to perform at Disneyland in 1992.

Music director Dick Valenzuela said his band and choral students will parade through seven miles of Lincoln County in a March-a-Thon on Saturday, September 21.

Sponsors can play the March-a-Thon game by making pledges in support of the students who will carry their musical instruments on the parade routes that include three miles in Capitan, two and a half miles in Carrizozo and one and a half miles in Ruidoso.

The "game plan" calls for pledging 50 cents a mile for the first three miles in Capitan; doubling that amount to $1 a mile for the two and a half miles in Zozo and then doubling again for the last leg of the long march in Ruidoso to $2 a mile — that comes to just $7 for the hardy marchers who make the entire trek.

Since choir members as well as band students are included in the group of 51 that's California-bound, the choral students will be playing the March-a-Thon game by spelling the band members who carry heavy instruments, providing food and transportation.

To play the game, make a pledge of any amount for any (or all) marchers, by calling Capitan Schools at 354-2238, or by contacting any Capitan music student.

And to watch the marchers, and maybe cheer for "your" hero, be at the Capitan music room at 9 a.m. or at Carrizozo Industrial Park at 11:30 a.m. or watch for the band marching down Swallow Drive to the Wal-Mart and Furr's parking lot. They'll start that march up in Pinediff at 2:30 p.m.

This is the first in a series of fundraisers designed to raise from $6,000 to $9,500 for the trip.

"This is going to be a good part of it," said Valenzuela.

Next up will be the annual enchilada dinner, followed by the 4th annual pops concert in March and an M&M candy drive.

"That should get us there," said Valenzuela.

The Capitan band also will be marching in the Aspenfest parade at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 5, down Sudderth Drive in Ruidoso. After the parade, the Capitan band will take part in the annual marching band contest beginning at 1 p.m. at W.D. Horton Stadium in Ruidoso.

Capitan trustees purchase additional water rights

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

By waiting an extra week to look around for other options to solve its water problems, the Capitan Board of Trustees saved the village $5,000.

In a short meeting Monday, trustees unanimously agreed to pay $5,000 to lease 29.9-acre feet of water rights for three months from Richard Phillips, owner of J & R Oil Co. The water will come from land in the Hondo Valley around the historic settlement of Lincoln, according to Capitan Mayor Frank Warth.

During a regular trustee meeting September 9, Warth had suggested leasing 46.15-acre feet of rights for $10,000 from The Lincoln Valley Land Company.

But Trustee Norm Renfro and several other trustees questioned whether they could find a better price.

Without the extra water rights, the village would fall about 30 acre-feet short in a five-year allocation from the State Engineer's Office. The village would be subject to a $10,000 fine and double penalty of 60-acre feet against its next five-year cycle, village attorney J. Robert Beauvais explained at the meeting.

Volleyball girls drop the ball to Dexter in Cloudcroft meet

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan Tigers' confidence faltered briefly during the Cloudcroft tournament last weekend, but it was enough to give Dexter the edge for a 3-2 game win.

"They beat us in five games with Capitan scoring 14-16, 7-15, 15-4, 15-6, 10-15," Coach Pam Allen said Tuesday. "I don't think we played with a great deal of confidence. We served pretty well the first game, but not that well after and it hurt."

The team's mistakes were due to lapses in concentration and a failure to communicate with teammates, she said.

"Those will pass with more experience," Allen said.

Dexter ended up as champions of the two-day tournament. "We felt they had the two best teams playing against each other in the first round," Allen said. "We came home with the realization that we are the better of the two. I felt the girls rise in confidence when Dexter won in three games over Cloudcroft."

The Tigers stomped their next two opponents with swift wins. They beat Tularosa 15-6, 15-6, 15-11 and then took on Eunice, chalk-ing up scores of 15-7, 15-3, 11-15 and 15-10.

"Senior Jennifer Eldridge led the team in all three of the matches in blocks, followed closely by Tammy Payne," Allen said. "Tycie Traylor and Kelly Cox turned in the best serving percentages for the team.

Tycie was 18 for 18 against Dexter and continued to serve well through the rest of the tournament. Kelly was 23 for 25 serves against Dexter."

Traylor and Eldridge also led the team in kills.

Allen said Eldridge, who is the only senior on the Tigers team, also was named to the All Tournament Team at the Cloudcroft match.

"She's a very intimidating force at the net," the coach said. "She blocks very well and that takes its toll late in a volleyball match just like rushing will in a football game."

"I feel we've come out of this tournament with a real positive attitude and the knowledge that we are a good team," Allen said. "I have a tremendous amount of confidence in these kids."

The players' heritage is strong, she said. At the varsity level, the record is 81 wins to 10 losses for the past four seasons and to date this year. The junior high players have an undefeated or only one loss, she said.

"Certainly the fundamentals are there," Allen said. "It's only a matter of getting them to gel together as a team."

Next Tuesday, the varsity and junior varsity teams will meet the Tularosa Wildcats. The junior high team will be playing in Alamogordo today.

Capitan offers season tickets

Season tickets for all home-game athletic competitions in Capitan are on sale at the high school office during regular school hours. Athletic Director Norman Cline urged parents and students to support the district's athletic programs by buying the season tickets. All proceeds go to the athletic activities fund.

"The tickets will be good for every home game whether junior high or varsity, including invitationals, but not regional or district contests," Cline said.

The cost of a ticket for adults covering all sports is $45. For individual sports, they are $8 for football, $17 for volleyball and $22 for basketball.

Student tickets are $15. "We hope all athletic boosters in the community purchase a full season ticket to show support for our kids and to acknowledge their dedication," Cline said.

The Silver Lining

Mother Earth welcomes summer

Mother Earth Begins Summer Celebration

This is being sent to you a little after high noon on September 16, and Mother Earth is smiling brightly under a sunny sky, and all the Mountain World is in the midst of a glorious celebration of late Summer.

All the children of Mother Earth are bright and cheery in their finest colors in tribute to one of the best rainy seasons in many a year. The Vale in glowing with this celebration of green and flowery Summer welcoming in the gold and purple Fall.

Out across the mountain meadows and up the green hillsides you can see how all the growing things are responding to the days of bright sunshine which have followed the recent heavy rains.

The Gramma grass is waving its purple little banners trimmed in golden pollen two feet high—twice the usual height. The apricot trees are shining with a deeper and brighter shade of green. The oaks, walnut, and box elder and wild cherry are in full leaf, closely massed in the most abundant leaf growth in memory.

The wild grape and woodbine are climbing high in river trees and in piñon and cedar, sometimes hiding the tree in a rounded tent of light green.

Here in the yard the four o'clock bushes planted by our Mother are three feet tall with the bright crimson blooms cheering the early morning and the late evening. The purple morning glories are twice the usual size, climbing the tall stalks of white daisies help to form a display of Autumn's purple and gold, a flowery welcome to the early days of Fall.

Gold and Purple By the Wayside

Just today the New England Purple Asters have come out in full bloom among the sunflowers on their tall stalks and the many varieties of golden flowers all along the way.

Down in the lower end of the Ruidoso Valley the apples are red and gold among the green leaves, shining in the bright ripening rays, of late summer.

As you journey up the valley you will notice that the box elder trees along the river have taken on just a touch of light gold, and the hillsides are soft in a light gold, and the hillsides are soft in a light purple haze. Mother Earth is sending you a joyful message which fills your heart with the pride of life and gratefulness to God.

Little Visitors From Across the Creek

Late yesterday evening I heard small voices calling from over near the East fence. And here were three little horseback figures; Kelsy Davis from Carlsbad on her horse, Heifer; her twin sister Chezie on her horse, Wylie; and Carrie Morris on her horse, Katie. The little dog, Moses, belonging to my across-the-creek neighbors Gerry Tully, Jane, Malaika, and Gerry Mack, swam the river to accompany the young riders.

It always brightens the day to be remembered by my little horseback friends.

Mexican Independence Day

The American flag floating in the breeze out over the Blue Bird tree, with the green mountain and blue sky beyond, reminds me that this is Mexican Independence Day, corresponding to our own Fourth of July.

On this day, September 16, 1810, Father Miguel Hidalgo Y Costilla gave the "Grito" (shout) of independence in Dolores, Mexico: "Viva la Independencia. Viva Mexico" (Long live independence. Long live Mexico.) The Mexican people revolted against the rule of Spain.

Let us join our good neighbors to the south in celebrating their day of independence. And let us thank God for all His blessings to all His children.

Skyland development reflects Ruidoso history

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The sign posted on the side of Sudderth Drive says "Skyland," but for most of the people whipping past, the word has no meaning.

They don't know that before Ruidoso incorporated, before chain stores and restaurants discovered the Sacramento Mountains, Skyland accounted for much of the mountain settlement.

The development boomed, in part, because it became the stepchild of the El Paso Herald-Times. Depending on who's telling the story, lots were either sold at discounts with a new subscription to the paper or were given away with a five-year subscription.

"The Times actually delivered every morning to each cabin," said Lyle Hosmer, who summered in the area with his parents and continued the tradition with his children.

Hosmer provided copies of warranty deeds filed in November 1930 and August 1931. Conveying the lots were developers Arthur and Ruth Smadbeck from Manhattan Borough in New York City. The 1930 buyer was Edna L. Dunbar of El Paso and the 1931 buyer was Ed E. Williams of Ruidoso.

The restrictive covenants contained in the deed were reflective of another age. Prohibited by the covenants were slaughter houses, asylums, manufacture of gunpowder, or establishments for "tanning, dressing or preparing of skins, hides or leather." Outshouses had to be suitably screened.

They also strictly forbid the sale, lease or rent of a house to "Africans, or any persons other than of the Caucasian Race."

Evidence of the newspaper's involvement in the project is shown in the last line, which requires that plans and specifications for all buildings must be submitted to the subscription department for approval.

Hosmer shows that the old hand pump works.

"Skyland is the oldest area around here," said former Ruidoso mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr. "It went all the way up to the (Mescalero Apache) reservation. It's probably the earliest down river area." The development roughly was defined by Park Avenue on one side and Carter Park on the other.

Two agents representing the development, Stella Campbell and Madeline Burdett, operated out of an adobe house that still stands at the corner of Sudderth Drive and Laurel Road, Davis said.

Local real estate appraiser Dan Swearingin had a chance to talk with them before their deaths about those early days.

"The land was subdivided by the Smadbecks, who did recreational developments all around the United States," he said. They submitted their plat about 1927.

"Back then, newspapers were immensely powerful because they were the only way to advertise," Swearingin said.

Although he doesn't know the specifics of the arrangement, Swearingin said Burdett came to Ruidoso to sell lots in Skyland during the summer. In the winter, she operated out of an office at the Times.

"It was a pretty progressive development," Swearingin said. "They built what is now the Ruidoso Woman's Club as a meeting place for the property owners association and a place for new lot owners to live until their cabins were built."

"They issued title insurance when no one else did. They set up a property owners association, put in a water system and dedicated park land where the clubhouse, chamber of commerce and Two Rivers Park now stand."

The deeds also specified that if the Ruidoso area ever incorporated, Skyland would be included within its boundaries.

Swearingin said as the cycle of boom and bust started on the downside, the Smadbecks called Burdett to tell her to sell the remaining lots for whatever she could get.

"But she said that would ruin the investment of the people who bought at the higher prices and she offered to buy the lots herself," Swearingin said.

Burdett didn't have enough money, but at a dinner party in El Paso she met Stella Campbell.

They talked and left the party as partners. Their first winter here, they lived in the clubhouse, Swearingin said.

The biggest problem was the narrow width of the lots, a mere 20 feet.

"People had to buy two or three to put up a house," he said. "They did it on purpose."

Hosmer's father, Ford B. Hosmer, bought six lots and a 20x30-foot cabin across the road from the Ruidoso River in 1938 for $800. The annual property tax was $2.20. The lots face a sliver of park land that borders the river.

Hosmer has traced ownership of Skyland property back to Frank and Annie Lesnet, who in February of 1888 conveyed the land to James Edward Cree, owner of the Angus VV Ranch and a resident of Scotland. In May 1927, Cree sold to Warren Smadbeck, who sold in February of the following year to Arthur Smadbeck.

That last deed reserved water and ditch rights in the area for the Dowlin Mill, which then was active and now is a curio and book shop on Sudderth. The deed also specified that any necessary work for maintenance, repair or laying of pipe was to be allowed.

Evidence of an old ditch that ran from Flume Canyon (near Sherwood Forest) back of the Midtown section and through Skyland on Carter Road and Begonia near the office of the Ruidoso News still is visible. It eventually emptied into Carrizo Creek by the Property Owners Club. Hosmer is not sure, but it may be the same ditch referred to in the 1927 deed.

While lots in Skyland away from the river were being sold and deeded for $75 (only $50 along Sudderth), people who wanted to live in Upper Canyon could only lease lots from the railroad.

"Dad ruled that out because the leases were only for 99 years," Hosmer said. "The Southern Pacific owned Bonito Lake, Eagle Creek and lots of other riverside property."

Hosmer said cabins could be built in 1930 for about $250.

"I first came to Ruidoso in June 1934 when my family rented a cabin on Willow Road for $15 a month from 'Uncle' Charlie Weems, a carpenter and early builder," Hosmer said.

He was nine years old.

"We came into town on a gravel road and stopped at Brooks Barbecue for lunch. Then we went next door to Holloman Lumber Co. and there were bunches of men sitting around the stove and visiting."

In 1939, the Holloman building at the corner of Willow and Sudderth was converted into Ruidoso's first movie theater, "The Apache." The owner of the theater was killed in the September 1941 flood in Hondo Valley, Hosmer said. The building now is used by Murray's Cleaning Service.

Doc Benninghof's Log Cabin Pharmacy was situated where Ruidoso State Bank now stands.

"It was an interesting place to me because he sold ice cream," Hosmer said.

One block down the street, sitting side-by-side were the Jack Lee and Robinson grocery stores.

"With no refrigerators, people went into the meat markets everyday to buy fresh," Hosmer said.

To keep supplies as cool as possible, people either submerge them in the river or used a box they called a California cooler, with a screen top to bottom, and screen shelves.

An outhouse is a reminder of days gone by.

"Things stayed cooler and it kept the flies out," Hosmer said. "The coolness from the ground was drawn up."

The Midtown section was already in existence then, but the Gateway portion didn't really get going until after World War II, he said.

Besides outdoor recreation, there was a bowling alley in the vicinity of the La Lorraine Restaurant, and a shooting gallery.

"Most everything ended at the highway to Alto," Hosmer said.

Carter's 40 Acre Lodge, with cabins and a riding stable, cut across the canyon near Whitlock Street from the river to Carrizo Creek. Tall Pine R.V. Park now is part of that site. The Carter Lodge grocery supply and souvenir store was the forerunner of what is now Sierra Ski Rental.

The water in the Ruidoso River was so good back then that people actually drank from it, Hosmer said. A horseback patrol was hired to keep children from wading or playing in the clear water.

A spring off River Road now hidden by dense foliage was a place for families to fill their water jugs. About 5 p.m., it was the busiest place in town, he said.

"(The river) was pretty impressive to me," Hosmer said. "I could see the fish and I wanted to catch them with my hands while watching for the patrol."

The downside was that by the time Hosmer was 13, he was expected to carry water from the river in buckets back to the cabin. "They really got heavy and I really got interested in digging a well," he said.

The hand pump on that well still operates today.

Hosmer remembers four footbridges that crossed the river and a clean and attractive park in Skyland, which was maintained by the property owners association until after World War II.

"All the footbridges (in back of the Ruidoso State Bank building) were wiped out by the 1941 flood," Hosmer said. The flood also straightened out a loop in the river.

Two U.S. Forest Service campgrounds were operating in 1938, one on the river beneath the existing fire tower in Ruidoso and the other where the public library now sits, he said.

Pharmacist Benninghof was the closest thing to a doctor and when Edna Dunbar, a nurse came up for the summer, she quickly was pressed into service, delivering babies or whatever was necessary.

The legends of the wild days of Lincoln County were very vivid in the 1930s.

"George W. Coe walked out on a stage next to the library and held out his hand with a missing finger, shot off at Blazers Mill," Hosmer said. "I was 15 and it really impressed me."

He remembers drinking a soft drink called Ruidoso Cola, produced in Alamogordo. He saved a cap for his scrapbook.

In 1989, Hosmer remodeled the family cabin, Cuyahoga, but he kept the original wood burning stove.

"We had an oil burning stove too and used it in the summer when it was too hot to burn wood," Hosmer said. But it was removed during the remodeling.

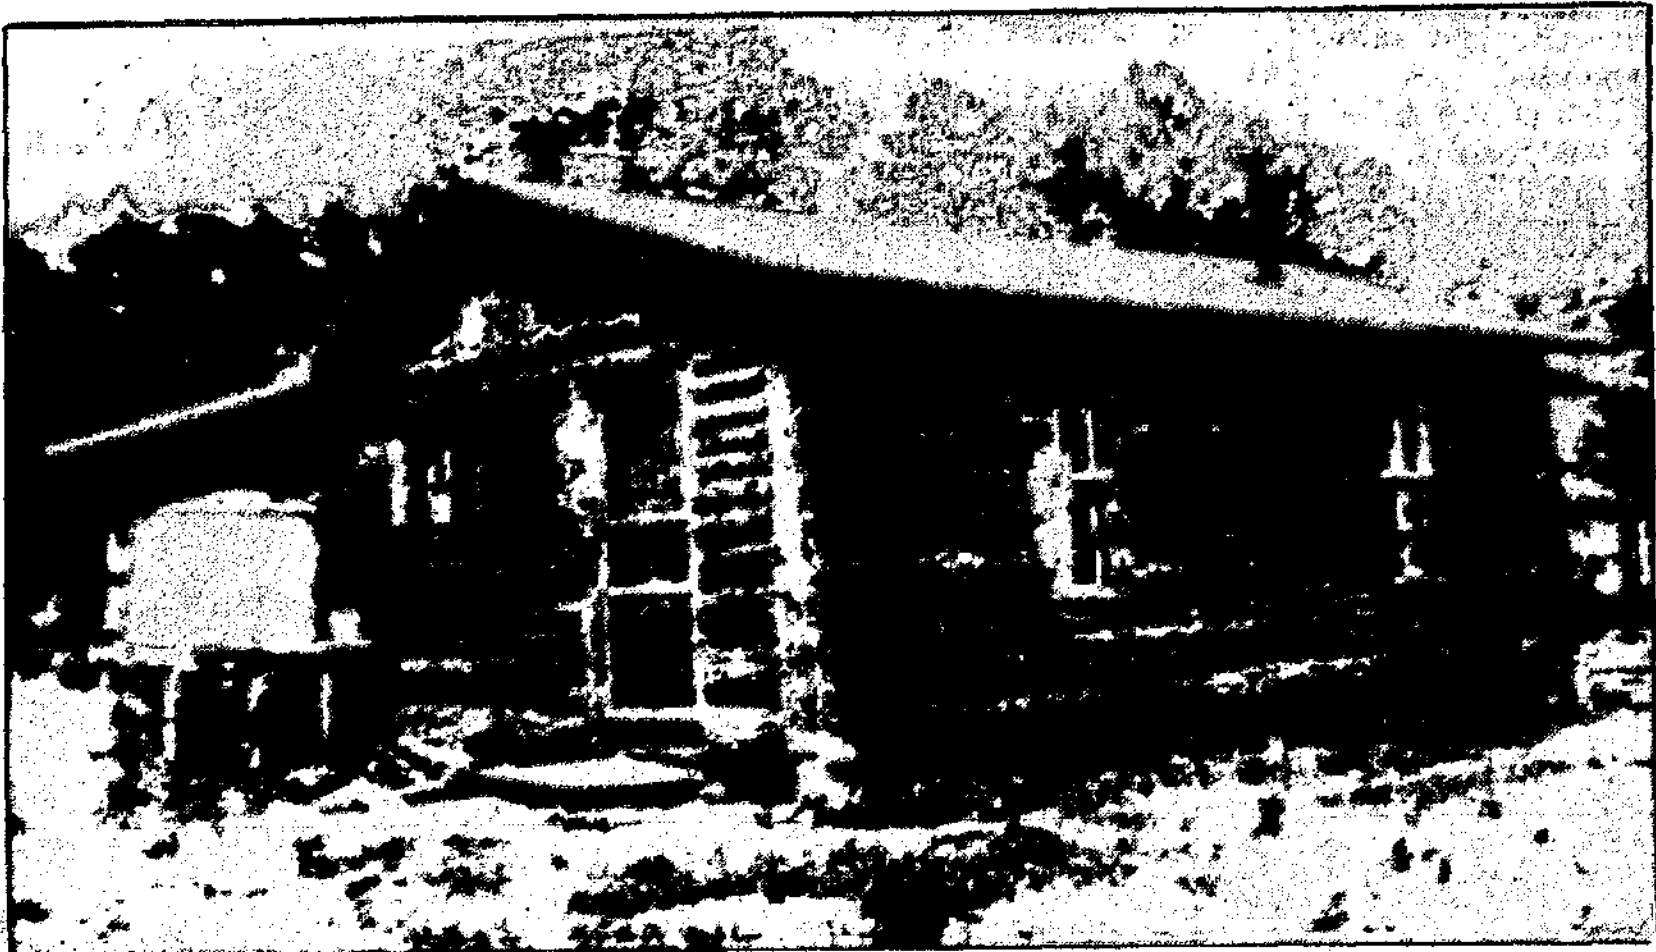

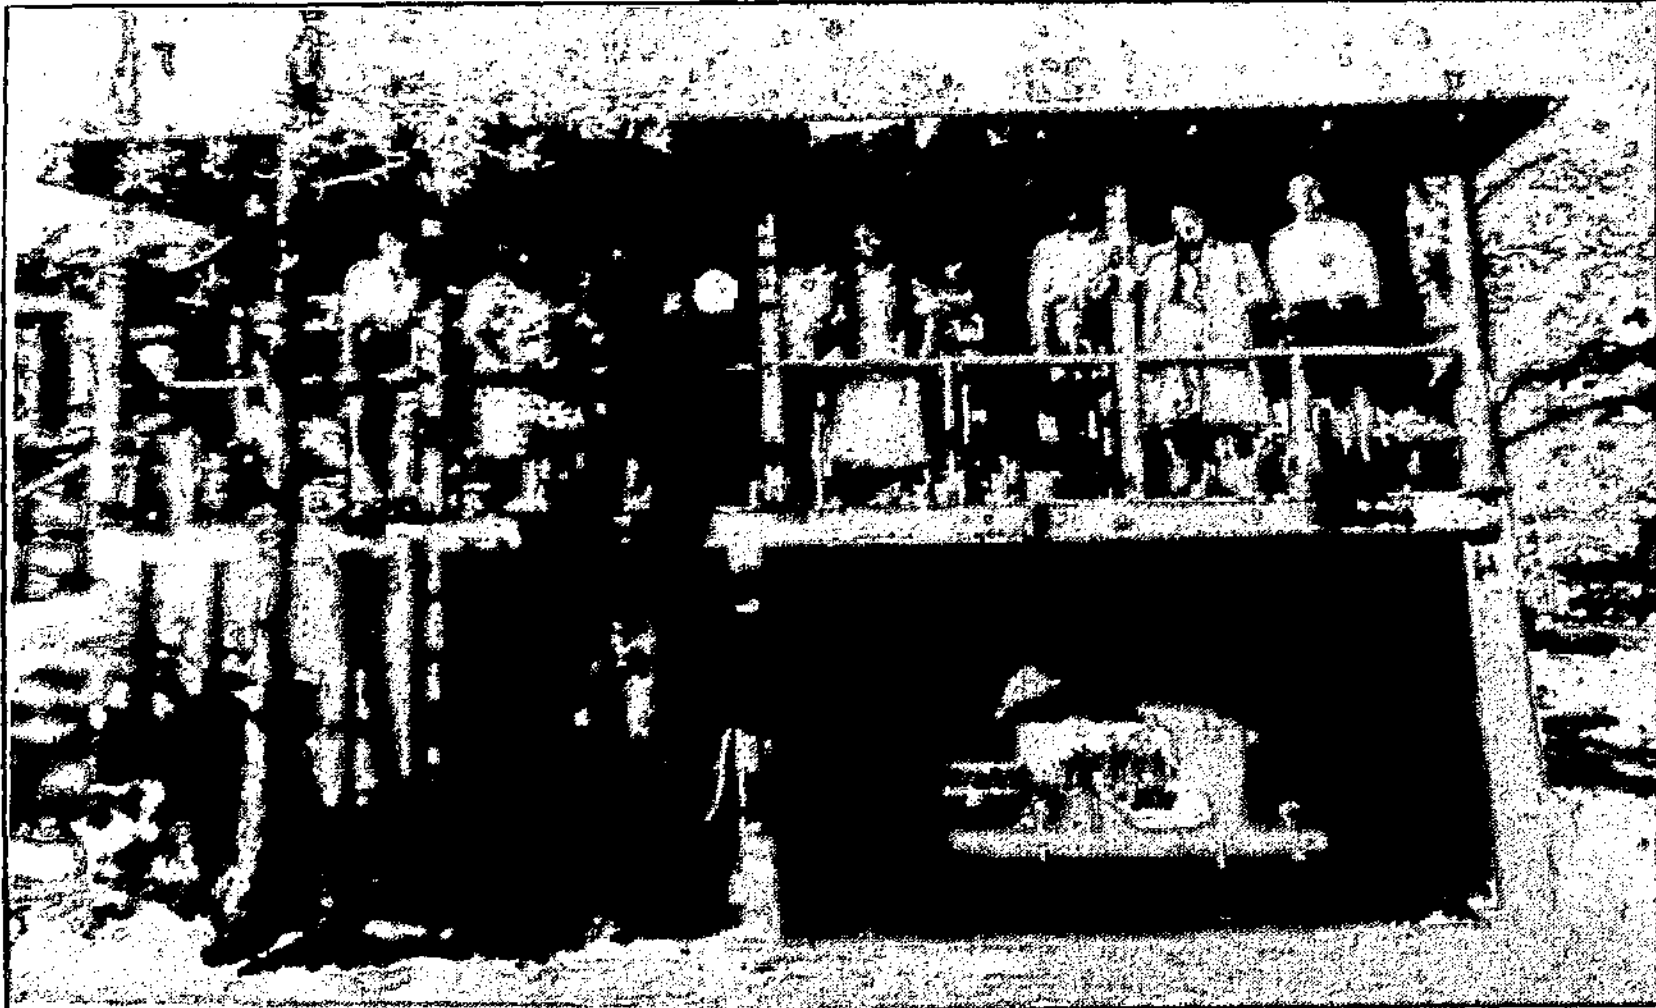

Many other original items remain such as the small doors on the bedrooms, an old iron bed and his brother's bedspread. Outside stands a Ponderosa Pine that measures 144 inches around its base. A smaller tree with 178 rings blew down in a strong wind storm in 1985, "so it must be around 200-250 years old," Hosmer said.

The Hosmer family still spends many weeks a year in Ruidoso. His son, Ken Hosmer, maintains a home and studio next to the old family cabin.

"I have fond memories of these special places," Hosmer said. "I guess progress is good, but I wish we could slow it a bit."

Lyle Hosmer, top left, stands in front of the family cabin he recently remodeled inside, but the exterior looks much the same as it did in 1939. Clockwise, old photos show Bonito Lake in 1938; Hosmer's brother and father on horseback on Skyland's River Trail in 1939; and a typical cabin of the era. Top right is Hosmer with old wood burning stove he kept.

Golden Aspen Rally lights up fall season

The Golden Aspen Rally has hit town, and we want to join the rest of the community in welcoming these many visitors on their two-wheelers.

The Golden Aspen Rally is the first big weekend of the Aspenfest season, and it's the area's chance to shine. Motorcycle enthusiasts from all over the United States make up the more than 2,000 who swell the population for the week. Let's make them welcome.

One chance for locals to rub shoulders with these visitors is at the trade show in the Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs. The show is free for tonight only beginning at 6 p.m., and that's our chance to see what's happening in the world of motorcycles and make sure the Golden Aspen folks know we're glad they're here.

The big parade begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the corner of Sudderth and Mechem. If you haven't seen the long line of two-wheelers of all shapes and sizes stretch out along Sudderth Drive, you'll be surprised at the spectacle. It's a lot of fun for viewers and riders alike.

Golden Aspen adds some excitement to the fall season as well as an economic boost to the economy — and it's great fun for everyone.

Welcome, rally riders! Have fun in the mountains.

DOCTOR, PLEASE! THIS IS MY PATIENT! IF I JUST CUT HERE, AND MOVE THIS DOO-DAD OVER BY THAT THINGAMY, THAT OUGHT TO FIX HIM RIGHT UP.

YOUR PATIENT? WHY YOU OLD QUACK, YOU DON'T KNOW A SCALPEL FROM A CUCUMBER! I'LL GRAFT A SLAB OF HIS WHOSIS ONTO HIS WHATSIS, AND HE'LL BE SOUND AS A DOLLAR!

New Mexico Perspective

Leaders debate 'Incumbents Preservation Act'

The political reality was barely visible as the Legislature gathered last week in Santa Fe for their long-awaited special session on redistricting — otherwise affectionately known as the Jobs Bill for Politicians, or the Incumbents Preservation Act.

It is a solemn Constitutional function, this demarcation of political boundaries for the last decade of the century. It is also, behind a rather thin facade, a spectacle of hypocrisy and craven calculation — still one of the regularly scheduled embarrassments of the Republic.

Other states struggle fitfully with the 10-year plague in which politicians manipulate voting districts for partisan or personal advantage.

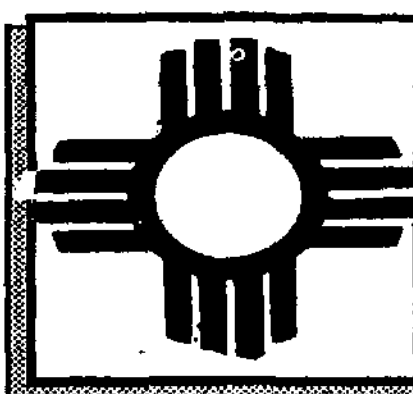

Believing democracy much too important to be left to Democrats or Republicans, Iowa mandated reapportionment to a professional, non-partisan Legislative Service Bureau, charged to draw lines politics-blind, entirely on the basis of population, minority rights and compactness. While the process has its flaws, the state legislature adopted the Bureau's first proposal this summer in Des Moines.

"The plan stinks," judged one Iowan, "but the old system smelled a lot worse."

In Illinois, they appoint a commission of four Democrats and four Republicans, none of them office-holders, none with careers or perquisites too obviously hanging on the new lines. In case of a 4-4 deadlock (as there was last time) they simply bring out Abe Lincoln's stovepipe and draw lots. Winning party remakes the political map.

"I'd far rather take a fifty-fifty shot with the commission," said one Illinois assemblyman, "than the usual death lottery in the Legislature."

of reapportionment politics, though most New Mexico legislators remain blithely unshamed. A joint legislative committee was created in Santa Fe to deal with 1991 redistricting. But it inevitably reflected the hoarded power and patronage of a body that cannot even bring itself to minimal standards of conflict-of-interest, much less a selfless architecture of representative government.

Even our most recent history of reapportionment is horrendous.

Federal judges found the 1982 mapping blatantly unconstitutional, drawn on a quaint "votes cast" formula rather than population. Two years and several deals later, the federal bench ruled that 16 of our re-drawn legislative districts still violated basic tenets of the Voting Rights Act. In discreetly worded disgust, the court placed New Mexico's redistricting under strict federal pre-clearance at least until 1994, a probation that makes the present session more sensitive to appearance if not substance.

Meanwhile, the good old New Mexico two-step plays on.

Reformers want to break off the Republican Anglo heights in Albuquerque, creating a new Democratic Congressional seat from the South Valley to south Deming. But insiders know that Democratic Governor Bruce King won't cross GOP Senator Pete Domenici on the issue, and doesn't want another Democratic Congressman anyway, one more potential rival to the family dynasty.

For their part, Republicans are ritually incensed about partisan plans to carve up their Sandia sanctuary. But behind the convenient furor over Congress, too many of the indignant are quietly, busily crafting their own safe legislative seats for the '90s. Too many held knives in the 1980's when they thought they were slashing northern Hispanics into a last-stand Congressional redoubt in the Third District.

Now the demographics have turned. A steadily accruing Anglo majority of the post-World War II period has slipped to a razor's edge four-tenths of a percent in the 1990 census. Non-Anglo minorities will be the majority of this decade and next century.

Already felt are tremors of what might be a vast shift in New Mexico politics.

Premonition is what makes this reapportionment so symbolic.

At stake is the maintenance of the old arrangements, the governing coalitions that interlock so comfortably Anglo and Hispanic, urban and rural, Democrat and Republican — those who really run New Mexico beyond labels.

At a dinner party in Boston in 1812, someone suggested that a newly drawn district looked like a salamander, or a Gerry-mander, after the governor who propagated it, yet that slithering creature seems too noble to symbolize what we witness in Santa Fe.

Reapportionment in fair New Mexico customarily belongs to a different species. It's the time of the toad.

New Mexico Prison work programs need more work

by REILLY JOHNSON
Sunmount Syndicate

Did you ever wonder what convicts do to pass the time? Well, wonder no more. The answer is "not much," another legacy of former Corrections Secretary Lane McCotter.

During his final days, McCotter penned a 21-page document he titled his 1987-1990 Accomplishments. One of the accolades he heaped on himself was a boast that "every eligible inmate was involved in work and/or educational programming by 1989." He compared this achievement with the administration of Corrections Secretary Michael Franke and claimed Franke turned over the prison with "approximately 50 percent of the inmate population idle and uninvolved." He called the lack of inmate activity, "an undesirable situation."

Inmates who were here prior to McCotter, remember the "situation" differently.

At the beginning of the McCotter administration, convicts were removed from front office jobs and jobs as helpers to plumbers, electricians and other prison maintenance workers. Prior to that, inmates had worked as "tool mules" since the Penitentiary came on line in 1957.

A couple of weeks ago, another remnant of McCotter's stopover in New Mexico circulated through the prison. A list of inmates and their job titles was passed from program manager to program manager with a request to review the information and mark that which was correct or incorrect.

Of real interest, the list's inventory included two convicts assigned to the prison newspaper; the prison newspaper that disappeared without a trace in early 1988. Additionally, neither "newspaperman" was aware of his job assignment.

Two Adult Education clerk positions (jobs that require a minimum of a high school education and prefer an AA degree) were filled by one man who knew nothing of his assignment and another who did not have a high school diploma and claimed he didn't read or write well. Forty men were assigned to clean the two recreation yards and the gymnasium, a questionable number given the amount of work available.

A caseworker admitted, "We have an inmate employment system in place but the only time they use it is when the administration wants to keep a particular inmate out of a job. Otherwise, we assign whoever the job supervisor wants."

Prisoners are paid for 160 hours a month at a rate of 20 to 50 cents an hour. Fifteen percent is deducted from each man's paycheck for victim's restitution. The remainder is credited to the prisoner's trust account.

But money isn't the real incentive to work.

A convict who has served 10 years in prison explained, "They want you to get up and make your bunk at 6am every morning like you have some place to go. I'd get up at 5am if I had a job to go to."

Listen — the reason everybody sleeps so much around here is because there's no jobs. When there's no work, time really drags."

A prison administrator described inmate work programs as having two important functions.

"First, work gets rid of the idle hands problem," he said.

"But more important than that, work programs teach how responsibility and trust go together."

LCMC and Altrusa to offer reduced-cost mammograms

Altrusa Club of Ruidoso and the Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) have joined for the fourth year to offer low-cost mammogram screenings. The service will be offered from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. starting Monday, October 7, through November 1.

Reservations are necessary. For an appointment time, call Sally Avery, project chairperson for Altrusa, at 257-2094 or call LCMC at 257-7381 and leave a message for Avery.

Screenings at LCMC are being offered to all women 30 years of age or older regardless of having had previous screenings.

Originally designed for women who had never had a mammogram previously, the service has been opened to all asymptomatic women. This is because of past interest shown in the project, Avery says.

Screenings are by appointment only. The fee is $50 to be paid at the time of registration, either by cash, check or credit card. No insurance will be accepted.

Women who have had previous screenings and who have possession of X-rays are invited to bring them for comparison.

Reading the X-rays will be Dr.

Richard L. Berry of Ruidoso who has offices in LCMC.

Berry received his MD from the University of Texas Health Sciences Center at San Antonio. He has had four years of specialty training in diagnostic radiology, at Arizona Medical Center and at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

He is a fellow in CT scanning and sonography with additional training in mammography at the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute at Houston, Texas. He has been in private practice, including mammography, for 10 years.

Berry says it is unusual for a hospital the size of LCMC to have such fine mammography equipment.

Cowbelles meet at Smokey Bear

Smokey Bear Restaurant was the meeting place of the September 9 meeting of Corriente Cowbelles.

According to a news release provided by the club, the group decided to give additional funds to the Lincoln County Fair Board. President Ruth Shannon will make the presentation at a potluck dinner the board is having on September 15. This dinner is to recognize the people who gave their time and efforts to make the Lincoln County Fair a success this year.

State 1st Vice President Inez Marrs reported she had just returned from Albuquerque setting up the Cowbelle booth for State Fair.

Cowbelles from around the state are manning the booth during this years fair. Ruth Shannon and Janice Herd will be working the last weekend of the fair from Corriente.

Poster contest material has been given to Betsy Eldridge and Debbie Bird for local schools to participate in this fall contest.

"We are happy to report our member Pat Schear is doing nicely after a set back of a kidney rejection problem," continues the release.

Corriente is giving two beef gift certificates to the Capitan Home Economics Department for class room preparation of beef.

The five-states meeting is September 26 in Clayton.

Concerts membership drive ends on Saturday

Ruidoso Community Concerts is winding down its annual membership drive.

Board President Robert Rowe reminds the community that admittance to the season's musical presentations is by membership only — so join this week or miss four great concerts.

Board members will be at Ruidoso State Bank until 4 p.m. today, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday to sell memberships and provide information on Community Concerts.

Membership for the 1991-92 are $25 for adults, $10 for students and $60 for a family.

Stop by Ruidoso State Bank or call 336-4015 to join.

Ruidoso's concert season opens at 7:30 p.m. when Trio Bell' Arte will entertain in the sanctuary at First Christian Church.

Trio Bell' Arte features three distinguished instrumentalists whose mastery of both solo repertory and chamber music thrills audiences worldwide, according to promotional materials.

Second in the series is The Moscow Balalaikas on November 18, at the First Christian Church.

Melvin Stechern and Norman Horowitz will perform here on January 18, 1992, and the Dutton Family will close out the season.

Trio Bell' Arte members, Daniel Waitzman on flute, baroque flute and recorders; Marsha Heller on oboe and oboe d'amore; and Elaine Comparone on harpsichord open this year's Ruidoso Community Concerts series on October 5.

The Plant Corner

Sally's plant sale is a big success

DEAR READERS:

We had a good response to the "share plant problems," and "solutions" get-together. The annual "potted plant sale" was a huge success.

I must give credit to Kurt, Ruidoso News Ad Manager, for the beautiful ad he composed for me. That ad — which ran twice, July 29 and August 1 — brought in more than 200 people, now that, dear friends, is success.

All my plants sold except for a few, which were too large to fit into the cars. I still have those, a pony-tail-palm and the 6' geranium tree. Should you be interested, come for them in a pickup or van.

Martha Proctor was here, our beloved county clerk, she took some plants home with her. We had a good laugh. Seems I misunderstood what Martha told me when I was at her home in the Spring and she gave me some of her plants to transplant.

I asked Martha to name a very beautiful plant in full flower, she said, "it's a Cone-flower." Well it sure didn't look like any Cornflower I'd ever seen. You see, I thought she was saying Corn-flower and I knew Corn-flowers are blue, these in question were not.

So, Martha, having respect for her elders and being a non-argumentative person, she simply said, "Sally, I was told they were Cone-flowers." I still believed she was saying Corn-flower, you know, as in Cone-pone. One would have to have very early speech training in West Texas to know that Cone-pone was pronounced Cone-pone — as same as Cone-on-the-cob.

The Coneflower blooms in spring and summer with daisy-like purple flowers resembling gloriosa daisies. Best to start in early spring from the nursery transplants, I did not have much luck from the seeds.

These plants are best treated as annual or short-lived perennials. They like full sun and sandy soil. Blooms start our lilac-pink, gradually turn reddish-purple. The petals surround unusual coffee-brown cones, not corns.

Mr. and Mrs. Gober, from Sterling City, Texas, were here for the "plant sale." They subscribe to The Ruidoso News and had read my beautiful ad. They told me they had read my columns for years but felt they had to see my plants after seeing the ad. They were pleased with what they saw and promised to return when not so many people were here.

Seems Mr. Gober was a very good friend of my brother, from Lubbock who died recently. That made their visit more important to me, of course. I look forward to your next visit, Gobers.

Irma Johnson, that other grandmother to Andrew Wallace Black-Johnson, sent a package of Lupin seeds a little while back when she was in England. She was visiting the town, Clacton-on-Sea and found the Lupins in bloom, not only there but almost everywhere in England.

The Lupin is a hardy perennial, which gives long, showy spikes of flowers on tall stems. The plant is easily-grown, provides beautiful color year after year. Colors range from red, pink, cerise, yellow, cream, blue and purple. They grow about three-feet and need the same type beds and growing conditions as the Hollyhocks I wrote about last week.

I do appreciate the seeds and plants my traveling friends either mail or bring to me.

Thank you again for the tremendous response to Kurt's ad for the "plant sale" and keep sending your questions.

Send questions to Sally Black, c/o The Ruidoso News, P.O. Box 128, Ruidoso, N.M. 88345.

Visit Broadway for college credit — or just for fun

"Broadway '92," a seminar focusing on the 1992 New York theatre scene, will be offered this spring by New Mexico State University at Alamogordo — the eighth Broadway tour offered by the University.

The seminar, Theatre 261S, will begin with an orientation session, led by instructors Lonnie Jarrett and Juanita Palmerhall, March 1. The four-day tour to New York City is scheduled for March 12 through March 15.

The package tour, which is a required part of the two-credit hour course, includes round-trip air fare, transfers and baggage handling, three nights at the Milford Plaza in midtown Manhattan, three Broadway shows, and a four-hour cruise around Manhattan Island. Visits to the Metropolitan Museum, the Empire State Building, and the Statue of Liberty will be included if time allows.

The instructors encourage adult students of all ages to call for further information. Students may audit the course, Jarrett stated, "Many of our students in 261S are senior adults. Auditing the course allows them to take the course for fun, without worrying about college credit, which most don't want or need. We have had several who have gone on the tour with us three or four times."

The tour must have 20 people enrolled by October 15, and a deposit is required at this time to reserve hotel rooms and bus show tickets.

Interested individuals should contact Jarrett at (505) 437-2729 or Palmerhall at the NMSU-A faculty office, (505) 434-0765.

Stroll under a full moon at White Sands this Saturday

The Full Moon Program series will continue at White Sands National Monument on September 21. At 7:30 p.m., the "Chihuahuan Desert Trilogy" will be shown at Picnic Area "A." This award-winning film, narrated by Burgess Meredith, is the first film ever made on the least known of North America's great deserts. The film reveals intimate portraits of unique animals and plants of the Chihuahuan Desert, which includes the Tularosa Basin, and discusses the effects of human occupation of the desert.

Prior to each program, a Sunset Stroll—a ranger-guided nature walk—will be at 6 p.m.

The park will remain open until 11 p.m. on the night of the 21st only. On all other evenings the park closes at sunset.

Call 479-6124 for more information.

Trinity Site Tour set Oct. 5

There will be a Trinity Site Tour on Saturday, October 5. The Alamogordo tour will depart at 8 a.m. from the Otero County Fair Grounds Parking Lot on U.S. 54/70. This tour will enter through the Tularosa Gate at 8:30. The Stallion Gate Entrance located on U.S. 380, 12 miles east of San Antonio, New Mexico, will be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and visitors are allowed to enter anytime during these hours.

Golden aspens light up the forests

Welcome to Aspenfest '91.

There's so much to do in and around the Ruidoso area during the Aspenfest season, it's easy to forget that it all starts with the brilliant golden aspens.

Sure, you're going to want to see the Golden Aspen Rally parade on Saturday, September 21, and the Aspenfest Parade on Saturday, October 5, but sometime this year, take a leisurely drive up the mountain and watch the aspens light up the forest.

For, the beautiful golden Aspens are the real stars of the show each year during Aspenfest.

From late September through early October the leaves of these tall trees turn a bright gold and as they fall they litter the ground with brightness, like a floor made of gold doubloons.

Aspens stand regally throughout the Lincoln National Forest — many within a few minutes drive of Ruidoso.

Depending on your sense of adventure, these viewing areas can be reached via paved route, or by taking some of the Forest Roads in the vicinity.

All along Ski Run Road, also known as State Road 532, are many spectacular vistas of Aspen trees, as well as smaller pockets of the tree right along the road at the edge of Eagle Creek.

This paved road leads up to Ski Apache Resort and has several turnouts along the way, providing panoramic views of the White Mountain Wilderness and the Ruidoso and Bonito valleys.

About halfway up is Oak Grove Campground, a forest service campground with picnic tables, cooking grills and toilets, but no running water. The use of the facility is free.

If you're willing to take a gravel forest road that is at times quite steep and rock-strewn, Forest Road 117 to Monjeau Lookout is worth the trip. A broad view of the northern slope of the White Mountains, with a view of the Capitans and Jicarillas, is available at the lookout.

Also, access to the Crest Trail is possible just below the lookout. By taking a short hike to the west, you will pass through large meadows, and by heading uphill off the trail you can reach the top of the ridge for a full view of the Eagle Creek basin.

Further up the trail the way becomes a little steeper, but another large meadow can be reached providing you with a view westward toward the Tularosa Basin and eastward back into the Eagle Creek basin.

The trail is at between 9,000 and 10,000 feet in elevation, so be sure to take your time and bring plenty of water.

Below the Crest Trail access is a small picnic/campground that also is a good spot for Aspen viewing and beautiful views. Trails also lead from this spot, but should be reserved for more experienced hikers.

As the Aspens change, so do the scrub and oak throughout the area. These hardwoods turn a bright red during their autumn change.

A drive through Nogal Canyon or from Bonito Lake can bring you to the Crest Trail access where you can hike to the top of Nogal Peak.

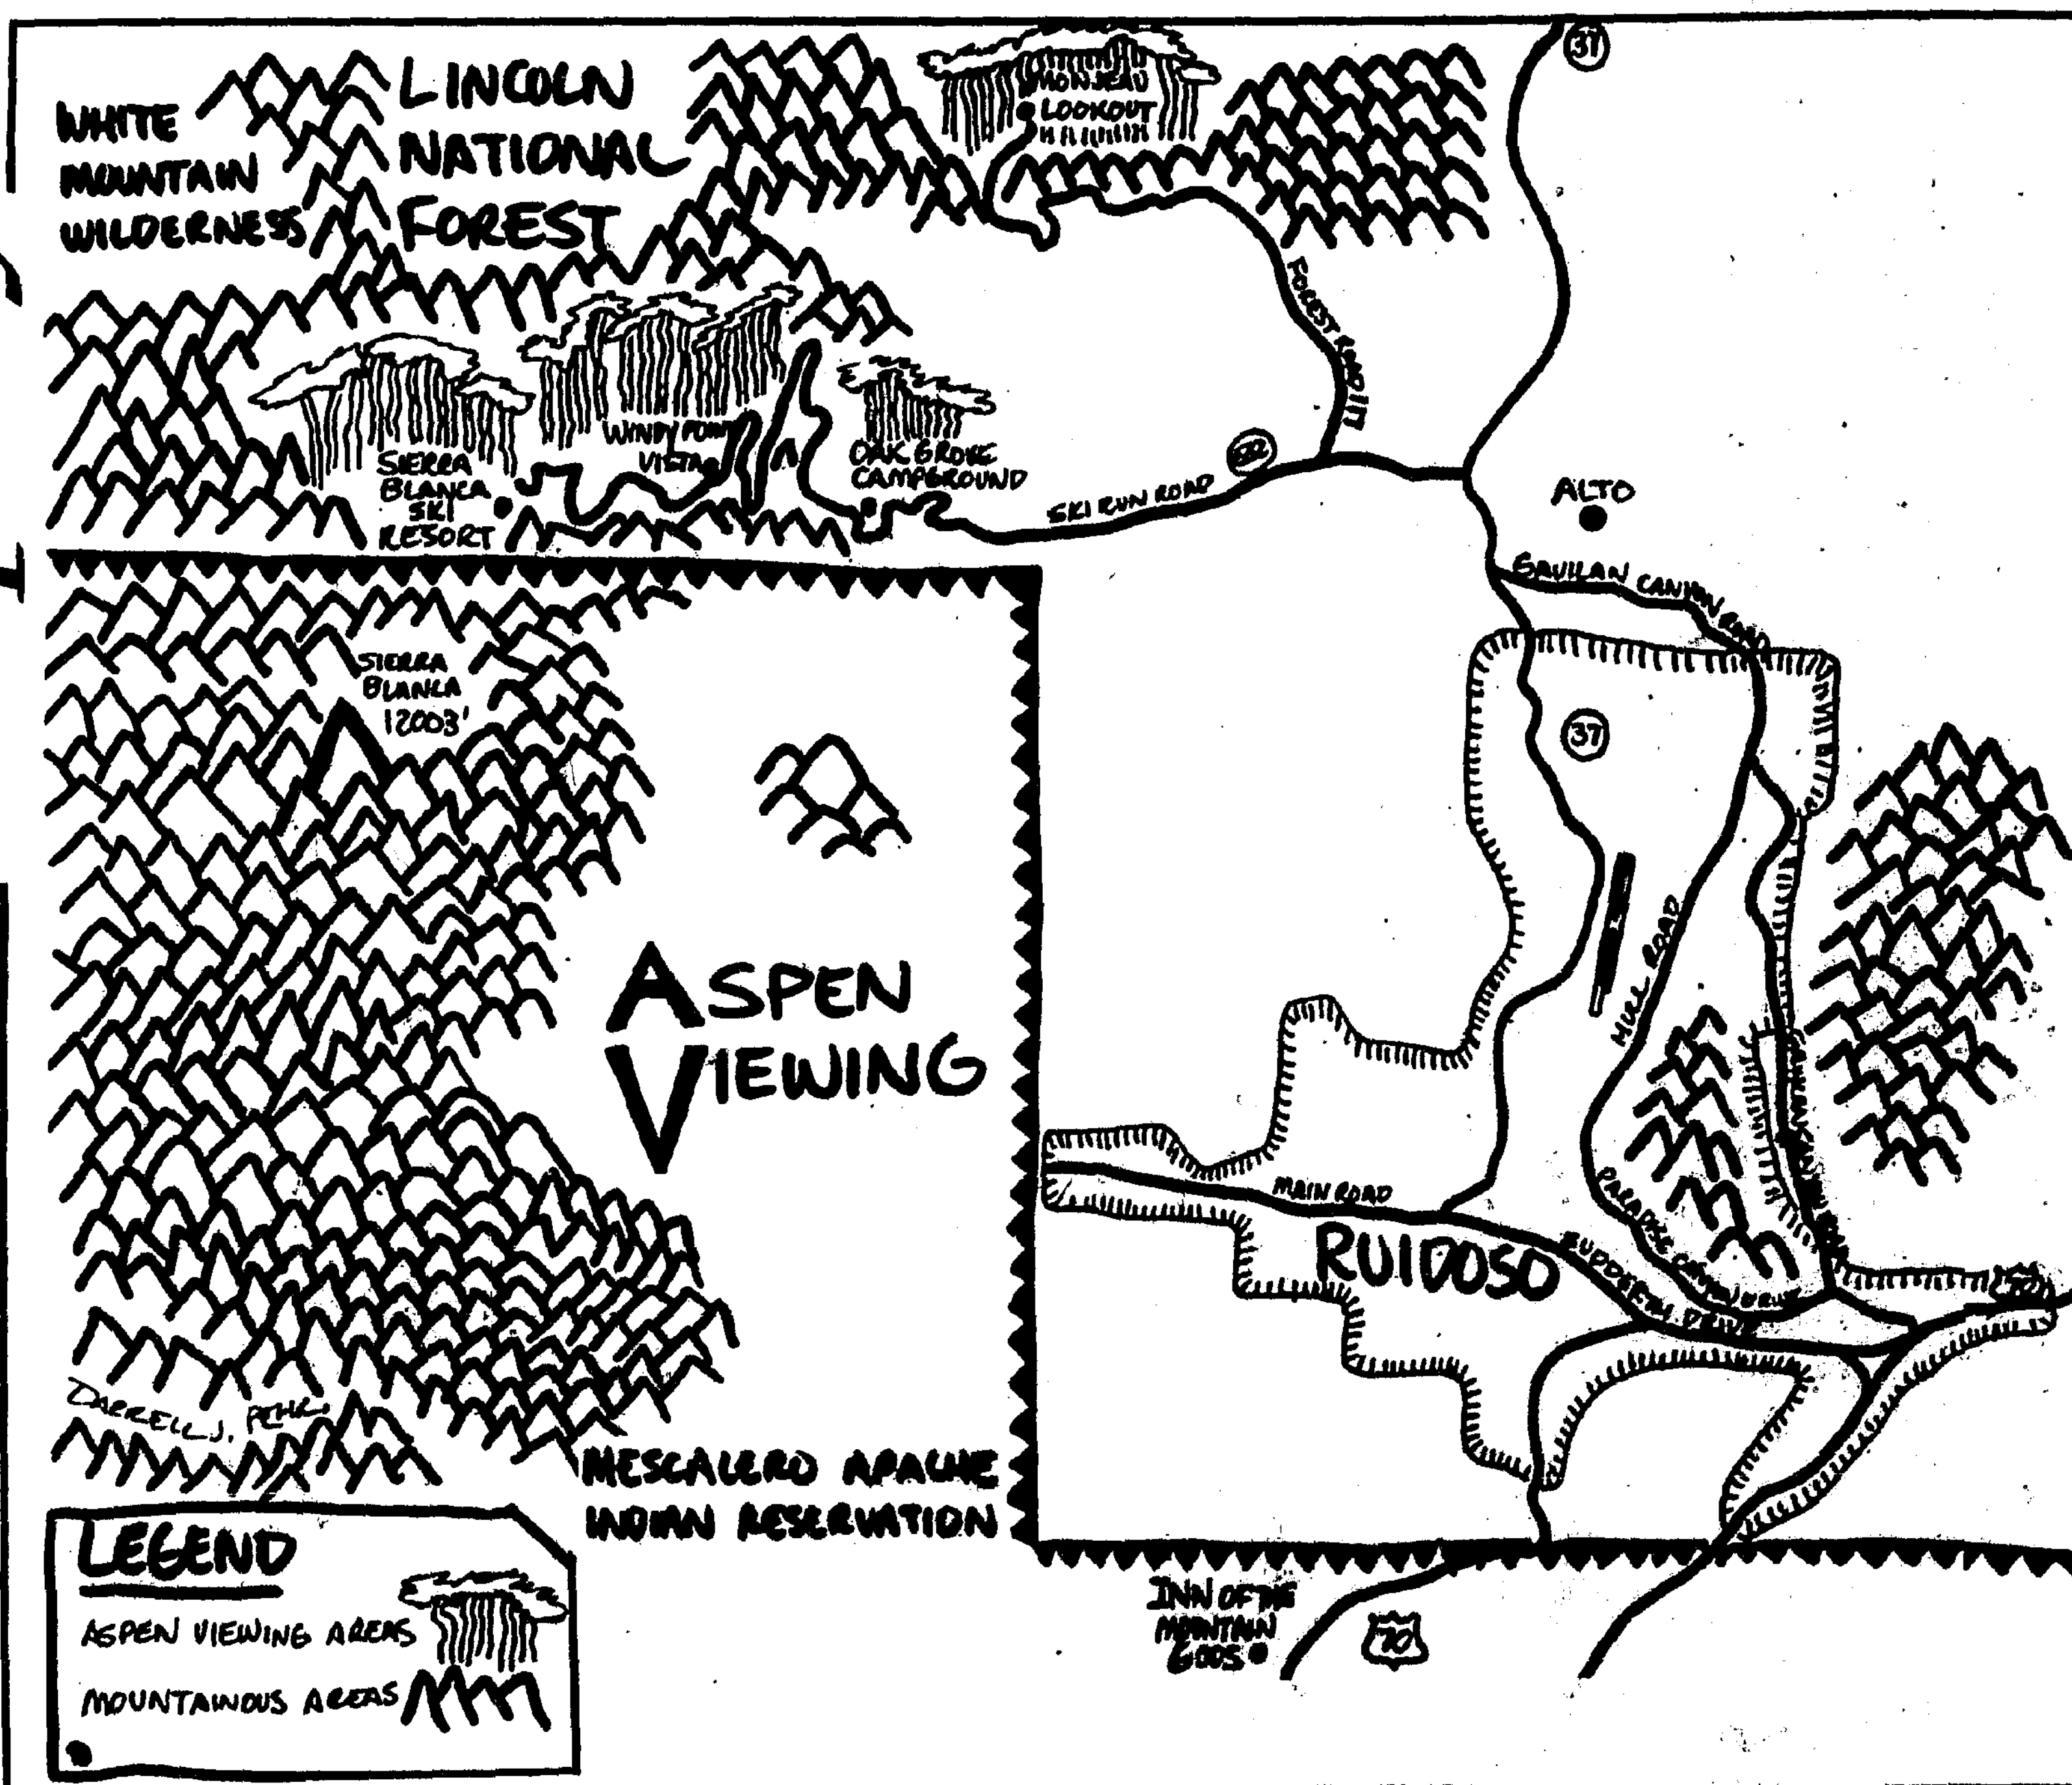

After a brief hike on the Crest Trail, a barbed wire fence with an "Oklahoma" gate will be off to your left. On the other side of the fence is the route leading to the summit of Nogal Peak.

This trail is often very steep and rocky so allow yourself plenty of time. The view from the top is spectacular.

The autumn change in leaves happens suddenly and lasts for just a brief time. Contrary to popular belief, the color change is not brought on by temperature changes or freezes, but by the lessening of the amount of sunlight during the autumn days.

If you need more information on trails or where to go in the forest lands, drop by the Smokey Bear Ranger District office on Mecham Drive in Ruidoso. They are happy to help you.

Golden Aspen Rally: Sept. 18-22

Two-wheelers take over the streets and highways for the Golden Aspen Rally, an annual tradition, set this year for September 18-22.

It's the week when "the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker," along with doctors, lawyers, engineers, insurance sellers and people who practice in every profession imaginable, don their leathers and hop on their 'cycles for a mountain adventure.

More than 2,000 bikers were expected to register for this year's rally with headquarters at the Anne C. Stradling Museum of the Horse on U.S. Highway 70 in Ruidoso Downs.

The rally is organized by Ron and Jill Andrews of Ruidoso and Dan Watkins.

It's fun for the 'cyclists and and "biker wannabees" alike. If you're not riding a Harley or Honda, you'll have fun watching them zoom up and down the streets.

The big trade show is set up in the Museum of the Horse Convention Center in Ruidoso Downs, and is open to locals at no charge on Thursday night, September 19, beginning at 6 p.m.

A special addition this year is the Harley-Davidson booth with demo rides available.

Special events include an Early Bird Breakfast Club, an "Iron Butt" run, Merchants Mystery Run and Poker

Run.

Field events and games are scheduled periodically in the five-day event, with the queen and king crowned at 3 p.m. Thursday. The Golden Aspen royalty will lead the parade that begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

All motorcyclists are invited to line up along Mechem, and the parade will begin at the intersection of Mechem and Sudderth drives.

The Nite Lite Parade, a popular special event, will start at 9 p.m. Thursday. Lighted vehicles will parade from parade from Rally Headquarters down

Non-denominational church services are to be conducted at 8 a.m. each day at headquarters.

A Battle of the Bands, another popular public event, is set for 5:30 p.m. Thursday, September 19, in the Winner's Circle parking lot. Voting will be conducted to determine the most popular band.

The Winner's Circle will also be the center of activity on Friday evening, with a street dance in the parking lot beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Once a year the folks at Ski Apache open the gondola for scenic rides, and it's for the bikers!" reads the program. For just $7, ride the gondola from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursday and see sights that usually are seen only by skiers.

Presentation of awards in many categories will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at headquarters. Awards will be for oldest riders, best dressed, longest distance traveled, for instance, plus a number of other categories.

Special awards will be at 5 p.m. Saturday and the grand prize drawing — for a 1991 Honda GL-1500IM Interstate and for a Neosho Starlight Trailer will be at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Marching Band Contest
1 p.m. Saturday, October 5
W.D. Horton Stadium

Parade

"Circus on Parade" will take to the streets of Ruidoso as Aspenfest's center ring event at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 5. Aspenfest parade will roll from the corner of Sudderth and Mechem drives to Paradise Canyon.

Bands, clowns, animals, cars, Shriners, kids and just about anything else may show up for the big parade.

"A lot of fun, that's the main thing," said Aspenfest chairperson Judy Wicker.

This year's grand marshal, Howard Morgan, the popular weather man from KOAT-TV, will lead the parade riding in a 1944 convertible.

Miniature horses, llamas and some cars from the Tri-City Rod Run will add to the excitement of this year's parade. The mini horses are provided by Dr. and Mrs. Ron Freake of Tularosa and the llamas belong to Cheryl McCutcheon.

Holloman's color guard and the New Mexico Military Institute rifle drill team will add to the color of the day, as will McDonald's "Grimace."

As always, the marching bands in town for the annual Marching Band Contest, will take part in the parade before competing at W.D. Horton Stadium.

Kids on decorated bikes and "cute critters" will gather between 9 and 10 a.m. in the Pinetree Square parking lot. Judges will view that category and present ribbons and savings bond prizes before the parade takes off at 10 a.m.

Floats and other entries will line up along Mechem Drive beginning at 9 a.m. and the judges will view the entries between 9 and 10 a.m.

Deadline to enter the parade is September 30, and the cost is $50 for political entries and $35 for all others. It's free for kids on bikes and their "cute critters."

Float entries will be competing for a top prize of $250, second place of $200 and a third place $100, with a special large ribbon (no cash) for the most original.

Line up along Sudderth before 10 a.m. to watch Ruidoso's own "Circus on Parade."

Marching Band Contest

Seventy-six trombones, or thereabouts, will go marching straight from the Aspenfest parade to the Marching Band Contest at W.D. Horton Stadium.

Dick Valenzuela, band director at Capitan High School, has again pulled together a group of energetic high school bands to liven up the parade and then strut their stuff at the annual marching contest.

After the parade, the bands will be served lunch at the football stadium, take a quick break and then take to the field for some high-stepping.

Judges for the marching contest are Phillip Presslar from Lordsburg, Win Christian from Albuquerque and Ken Jordan from Roswell. They bring many years of combined knowledge to their job of rating these high school musical groups.

The competition should begin right around 1 p.m. at Horton Stadium. Stop by and see some good marching to some rousing tunes.

Street Festival

Aspenfest's street festival is fun for the whole family.

"Kids are so important that day — everybody makes it a family day," said Aspenfest chairperson Judy Wicker.

After the parade at 10 a.m. Saturday, the whole family can enjoy music, stomping, clogging, dancing, games, arts and crafts and chili from one end of Midtown to the other.

The plan is to have exciting things from one end of town to the other, and that plan is working. The response is great from groups and entertainers, including Nancy Shaver and her dancers.

Wicker said a lot of entertainment will be in The Gazebo shopping center parking lot right across the street from the Arts and Crafts Fair on Sudderth.

Stroll down Sudderth during Aspenfest — there's just no telling what you may find.

Chili Cookoff

"We're cooking up gallons of chili to be sure everybody gets a taste," says Ruidoso's own chili expert, Paul Crown.

The Tenth Annual New Mexico State Open Chili Cookoff will be for two days this year, Saturday, October 5, and Sunday, October 6, at Tall Pines RV Park on Sudderth Drive in Ruidoso.

Budweiser and Ruidoso State Bank join the Ruidoso Chili Society in sponsoring the annual cookoff that draws cooks from Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.

Gates open at 10 a.m. Saturday, with the show teams to perform at 1:30 p.m. and the fun continuing until 6 p.m. On Sunday the chili cookoff will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Admission is $2 on Saturday and free on Sunday.

Tex Scofield, the "mouth of the chili world" will be master of ceremonies as chili cooks and chili eaters get into the act and ham it up during the showmanship competition.

"You'll see everything from dancing bottlecaps to transmission chili," said Crown.

Lone Star Express will provide musical entertainment throughout the day.

Visitors to the chili cookoff will get a chance to sample the chili and can expect plenty of fun and excitement in the games and events scheduled throughout the day. Try your hand at the tortilla toss or the egg toss.

Plenty of cooks always show up for the New Mexico Championship, partly because the top three cooks are automatically accepted in the world championship cookoff in Terlingua, Texas.

"Actually, we have more here," said Crown.

Judges include a sportswriter from the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and a chili expert from Andrews, Texas.

Cooks can camp free Friday night at Tall Pines, and can set up camp from 6-10 p.m. Friday and from 6:30-10 a.m. Saturday.

The Cookoff officially begins at 9 a.m. Saturday when beer sales begin and cooks get together for a meeting. Cooking begins at 9:30 a.m.

Games and contests are scheduled from 1:30-3 p.m. and the chili is to be turned in for judging between 2 and 2:15 p.m.

The people's choice chili give-away is from 2:15-3:30 p.m. and the awards are set for 4 p.m.

Cost to enter the cookoff is $20, and Crown said entries will be accepted right up until the time for the cooks' meeting on Saturday, October 6.

Trophies will be presented to the top 10 chilis, the first through third place state chili, the first through third place showmanship and the top chili in the people's choice category.

To enter, write to Ruidoso Chili Society, PO Box 280, Ruidoso 88345; or call 257-5123.

And, if you're strolling through Midtown during Aspenfest, stop by the Ninth Annual New Mexico State Open Chili Cookoff.

Arts and Crafts Fair

Artists and crafters from throughout the area will gather in Ruidoso for the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association's Sixth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 9:30 a.m. until about 5 p.m. Sunday, October 5 and 6.

About 90 artists will display and sell their wares in the 75 outdoor booths across the street from The Gazebo shopping center on Sudderth Drive. Cost to enter the Arts and Crafts Fair is still just $1, and children are admitted free with an adult.

"We've never been rained out," says organizer Vicki Conley, who promises the sun will again shine on the successful and fun family fair.

And to add to the fun, Mike Gieb will be presenting his puppet shows free during the Arts and Crafts Fair.

Food booths will also be located in the fair area, with burritos by the Knights of Columbus; fajitas by the Ruidoso ski team; and hamburgers and soft drinks by the gymnastics booster club.

Money raised during the Arts and Crafts Fair goes into the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association building fund. The group is raising money to build a gym.

Street Dance

Cochera is joining in the Aspenfest fun this year by sponsoring the '91 Street Dance on Friday, October 4, in the restaurant parking lot.

Just head out Mechem Drive after dark until you hear the music provided by Power Glide, a group that plays everything from soft rock to country pop.

Entertainment will also be provided by cowboy entertainers dropping by from the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium.

Sample the "Cochera Team's" Chili Cookoff recipe or eat your fill of burritos, tacos and chili relleños outside under the stars. Popcorn and candy will also be available for sale, or take a break from the dancing and dine inside Cochera's dining room.

Join in the fun — the dance is free.

Flying J Wranglers Concert

The Flying J Wranglers, with special guests Don Edwards and cowboy poet Waddie Mitchell, will present a special western show at the Flying J Ranch during Aspenfest weekend, which just happens to be right in the middle of the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium.

James Hobbs of the Wranglers said this will be a brand new, special show, one that even the most dedicated Flying J fan hasn't seen before.

But, tickets are going fast (already half gone at press time), so go ahead and call 336-4330 to reserve your tickets right now. Tickets are $16 for adults and $10 for children 11 and under.

You can expect the usual fare — that's the best barbecue this side of Heaven served up the cowboy way on a tin plate with beans, potatoes, apple sauce, spice cake and, of course, plenty of homemade biscuits.

The Flying J Wranglers will be appearing during Cowboy Symposium activities at the Super Select Sale Barn in Glencoe, but they'll find time to cook up their usual great tasting chuckwagon grub with the dinner bell scheduled to ring promptly at 6 p.m.

James and Cindy Hobbs, owners of the Flying J Ranch, and the Wranglers appear six nights a week through the summer season. Other members of the Wranglers are C.H. "Red" Gilliam, a former Light Crust Dough Boy and Jimmy Wakely Trio member; Greg Carey of Ruidoso and Bart Trotter, a champion fiddler.

This Aspenfest/Cowboy Symposium appearance is a bonus, giving the Wranglers' many fans one more chance to hear the talented group perform this year. The Flying J Wranglers made national news when they were invited to take part in the Bloomingdale's New Mexico promotion in New York City.

Cindy Hobbs won the 1990 Grand National Western Yodeling Championship at the Western Music Festival in Tucson.

Don Edwards, America's Cowboy Troubadour, will join the Wranglers on stage for the show. He's a songster, guitarist, composer and one of the most respected and influential performers and musicologists in the genres of western and traditional cowboy music.

Waddie Mitchell looks so much like a cowboy poet that he must have just decided to be one — he is, and he's one of the best.

He'll have a few words to say during the Flying J Wranglers program on October 5.

Also appearing that evening are local poets John Underwood and Judy Coombs. It's going to be a night to remember.

Tickets (if any are left) will be available at the Cowboy Symposium, and for this show, they must be prepaid with reservations. For information, call 336-4330.

White Mountain Challenge Cup

Even the hardest of bicycle enthusiasts will be challenged by the White Mountain Challenge Cup course.

The Seventh Annual Challenge Cup, on Saturday, October 5, during Aspenfest, begins at the Eagle Creek Sports Complex and climbs up the winding Ski Run Road to Ski Apache at an altitude of more than 12,000 feet.

"Some people just enter to take the challenge; that's what I want to encourage," says race organizer Galen Farrington, coach of the Ruidoso High School racing team — the Alpine Shifters.

The race, open to citizen racers as well as members of the United States Cycling Federation (USCF), begins at 8 a.m. Saturday. Farrington says some racers make it to Ski Apache and are back in time to see the Aspenfest parade before it breaks up at Paradise Canyon Drive.

USCF racers have been notified of the race, which benefits the Alpine Shifters, and their entry forms are coming in now. But registration will continue from 5-7 p.m. Friday, October 4, at Century 21 Aspen Real Estate on Mechem Drive.

Racers will compete by classification and age, with citizen and USCF licensed cyclists winning medals for first, second and third in each class. Farrington says the race is usually comprised of about half USCF and half citizen racers.

Cost to enter is $10 for citizen racers, and the first 100 entrants will receive commemorative water bottles.

Entry forms are available at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. For more information, contact Farrington at 258-5355; or just show up at Century 21 on Friday, October 4, to register.

Take the challenge — the White Mountain Challenge.

Run to Ruidoso: October 5

Customized classic automobiles, hot rods and other examples of the era when the car was king will be rolling into Ruidoso for Aspenfest.

Street rodders from at least half a dozen states will join in the Run to Ruidoso Saturday, October 5, in School House Park.

The snazzy, pampered cars will be on display all day Saturday at School House Park near the Public Library.

Judges, street rodders themselves, will scrutinize these meticulously assembled cars and present awards for the cleanest undercarriage, the best mild paint or the best wild paint, the best flames, the chromiest motor, the best interior and even a hard luck award. Winners will be presented with handmade trophies designed and crafted by fellow rodders.

"It's not really a car show," explained organizer Robert Acosta. The categories are picked by fellow rodders and presented individually.

Mainly the family oriented event, is a chance for car buffs to show off their handiwork and visit with fellow rodders and their families.

Run to Ruidoso is supported in part by the Early Times Street Rod Association of El Paso, Texas, and the Southern New Mexico Street Rod Association of Las Cruces, is an annual event, and this year will draw more than 250 cars.

Both regional rod clubs are a part of the parent organization, National Street Rod Association.

Some of these "expensive toys" will take part in the Aspenfest parade, but don't miss a chance to visit the display that will take over School House Park from one end to the other.

Besides plenty of great looking cars, there will be T-shirts for sale and refreshment stands in the park.

Most of the rodders will roll in on Friday, in plenty of time for their '50s and '60s dance at Prime Time.

The contact for more information on the Run to Ruidoso or if you are interested in participating is Robert Acosta. He can be reached at 382-1526.

Sports Theater

The Ruidoso Downs Sports Theater, which features simulcasts of horse racing from across the nation, begins coverage of Sunland Park's 111-day meeting starting Oct. 12.

Of course, the Sports Theater is open every racing day through the end of the State Fair meeting from Albuquerque, which runs through October 6.

Sunland Park will operate this season on a four-day per week basis with simulcast wagering available at the Sports Theater on Wednesdays, and Fridays through Sundays.

Featured on the Sports Theater's fall simulcast schedule is the Nov. 2 Breeders' Cup races from Churchill Downs, which this year will include a nationwide Pick 7 wagering pool.

The Breeders' Cup races include the Juvenile, the Juvenile Fillies, the Mile, the Sprint, and the Distaff — all $1 million races — the $2 million Turf, and the $3 million Classic.

The nationwide Pick 7 pool — the first of its kind — offers racing fans a shot at possibly the biggest payoff in the history of the sport.

In the event that several longshots light the toteboard on Breeders' Cup day, the payoff could approach — or even surpass — seven figures.

The Pick 7 payoff is arrived at with 75 percent of the money paid to holders of tickets with all seven winners, and 25 percent of the total pool paid as a consolation to tickets holders with the most winners, but less than seven.

In the event that no ticket correctly selects all seven winners, the entire pool will be distributed to ticket holders correctly selecting the most winners.

The Sports Theater will also simulcast the 1992 Kentucky Derby on May 2 and a wide variety of races from the Southern California circuit, as well as most of the major stepping stone races on the road to the Kentucky Derby.

Ruidoso Little Theatre production

Ruidoso Little Theatre is getting into the act for Aspenfest, presenting a murder mystery that will keep you on the edge of your seat — and that seat just might be in the jury box.

When "Night of January 16" takes to the stage at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, September 26-28, October 3-5, and October 10-12, and at 2 p.m. Saturday, October 5, a jury of 12 will be selected from the audience to sit in the case of the State vs. Karen Andre, played by Tracey Moran.

Karen Andre has been arrested for murder — that's according to a news release provided by Ruidoso Little Theatre.

Carl Mori, director of RLT's upcoming production of Ayn Rand's "Night of January 16," is looking for 12 good folks to decide the fate of the accused.

Members of the audience will have a chance to sit on a jury and hear evidence in the murder trial with Andre accused of killing Bjorn Faulkner.

"Night of January 16" will be presented at Cree Meadows Country Club, where guests may come early and have dinner before the production.

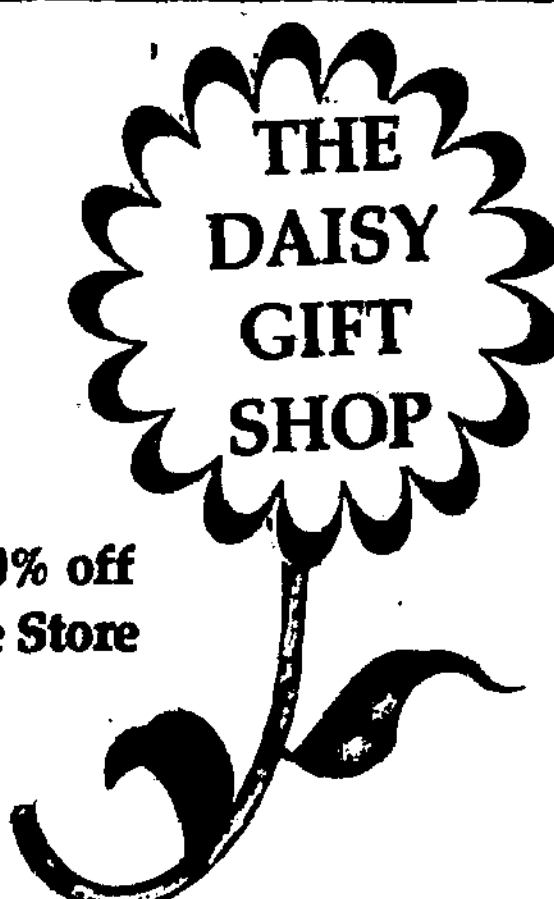

For dinner and theater reservations, call 257-9186.

Third Annual Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War

When a bunch of barbecue buffs declare war, it's not a pretty sight — but it can be a lot of fun!

The third annual Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War, the last Saturday in October, tops off a month of Aspenfest activities this year.

Barbecueurs will again vie for the title of the Best Bar-B-Q Cook West of the Pecos on Saturday, October 26. This year's cookoff will be almost in the heart of Ruidoso — at Tall Pines RV Park on Sudderth Drive.

Cooks will be checking in on Friday, but the fun really begins on Saturday when cooking teams start their fires and start preparing barbecued briskets and beans. Trophies will be given for brisket, beans, show, pit and the best of show.

Besides barbecue cooking, the Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War will include live western music, the 3rd annual K-BUY horseshoe pitching tournament, games, food and dancing all day Saturday.

Texas Cafe sponsors the war, and organizer Chuck Reynolds promises that this year's big competition will be just as much fun as the last two years.

To enter, or for more information on the Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War, call Reynolds at 257-9630.
