Council celebrates its one-year anniversary

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Visitors were treated to cakes and coffee during a 10-minute break in the Ruidoso Village Council meeting last Tuesday.

The party marked the first year anniversary of this council's administration.

Resident Jacqueline Rawlins, speaking as a citizen for good government, gave an anniversary speech.

"Today we are celebrating the first anniversary of the present administration servicing the Village of Ruidoso. This is a time for reflection, appreciation and a vision of the future," she said.

"The first year of any administration is handicapped by lack of experience; by what has been done or not done by the previous administration; and by seeing so much to be done in such a short time."

Rawlins also expressed appreciation for the openness of council meetings, the continued planning of the convention center, the initiation of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority and the creation of a study to correct water loss.

Mayor Victor Alonso said the council with three new councilors and three carry-overs, was able to reach consensus and take dramatic actions.

"I'm only 45, but I can't ever remember being anywhere in any city or county or state where taxes were cut. And we did that in Ruidoso, and it took all of us collectively," he said.

Alonso said the cuts were made even though the county assessor reappraised all the properties and reduced the village's valuations by $600,000.

"There are so many needs and so little money," Alonso said. "Our sewer is in desperate need of work. Our water system leaks like a sieve. Our roads need repair. Infrastructure is in a bad way. I don't know if we have the answers at this point, but we accept the challenge and will try."

Councilor Al Junge heaped praise on the village's solid waste department.

"The solid waste department has done a fine job in the last five years," he said. "It has paid for a $400,000 installation cost and we've got over $300,000 in the bank. And we've got a system that our new solid waste authority is going to pay us up to $1,000,000."

Rawlins called for a continuation of filling the purpose and needs of the village — continuing to attempt to lower taxes and costs.

State cites Ruidoso for wastewater violations

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A two-day spill of solid wastes from the Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant into the Rio Ruidoso drew fire from the New Mexico Health and Environment Department (EID) and may draw fines from a federal agency.

The EID disapproved a report submitted by John Ramos, treatment plant director, on corrective measures for the overflow that occurred on both December 28 and 29, 1990.

The EID correspondence was discussed during Ruidoso's regular village council meeting last Tuesday.

"The washout of solids from the wastewater treatment plant into the Rio Ruidoso has historically been and continues to be a very serious problem at this facility," wrote Jim Piatt, acting bureau chief for the surface water quality bureau of EID.

"The villages have committed to resolve this problem on several occasions. The number of reoccurrences indicates an obvious need for a greater urgency in the rectification of this problem."

The EID indicated that if the excessive hydraulic loading that has resulted in repeated violations is not corrected, the village may have to limit the number of residents living in the Ruidoso area.

March seems to be the month that financial institutions in Ruidoso get new presidents or branch managers.

Ruidoso State Bank, Sun World Savings Bank and Pioneer Savings and Trust are involved in top personnel changes.

Jerry Ingram with Sun World in Alamogordo and former Roswell banker has been named acting president of Sun World Savings, replacing David King, who has resigned.

Janet Reed, branch manager of Sun World in Ruidoso, will be leaving also. After marrying Ralph Jones in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount here March 23, she and her husband will move to Grand Island, Florida, she says.

Don Shaw, vice president and branch manager of Pioneer Savings and Trust in Ruidoso, this month will be become president of the Bank of New Mexico at Springer.

Tom Batten, 55, who has been president and CEO of Plains National Bank in Plains, Texas, will become president of Ruidoso State Bank as of Monday, March 18. He replaces Jim Atwood who resigned recently.

Batten's State board of directors was revealed by the chairman of the board, Phillip Mote, who said a formal announcement and biography will be forthcoming when Batten arrives in Ruidoso.

David King has joined the Steve Stroud organization and is associated with Stroud, owner of Stroud Crops, Inc., of Ruidoso, in the File Investment Co., a Stroud enterprise.

No replacement for Shaw has been publicly announced by Pioneer, headquartered in Roswell. Shaw says an official announcement is forthcoming.

Shaw has been in Ruidoso more than 10 years. He was senior vice president and later president at Security Bank in Ruidoso in 1981 when the bank was purchased by Ralph Petty. He remained with the Bank of Ruidoso for a few months.

He then became branch manager of Pioneer.

Shaw is a native of the Springer area.

"I love Ruidoso, but I couldn't pass up this opportunity," Shaw told The Ruidoso News.

Shaw and his wife, Barbara, have one son in Ruidoso. Justin is a fireman with the Ruidoso Fire Department.

They have two daughters, Elena Shaw, senior range management specialist with the BLM at Twin Falls, Idaho, and Desiree Power. She is married and has just completed an advanced degree at New Mexico State University.

Shaw's last day in Ruidoso will be March 22.

The board of Sun World will name a new president at a board meeting this month.

Batten's wife's name is Juanice. The couple has two grown children.

MainStreet schedules big meeting

A board of directors election and election of officers will be highlights of the annual membership meeting of MainStreet Ruidoso, March 20.

Other facets of the program at 6:30 p.m. that day at Mountain Bayou Cafe, 113 El Paso Street will include awards presentations by Bill Hirschfeld, president of the organization, and remarks by MainStreet New Mexico director, Ursula Boatwright, and co-director, Julie Johncox.

Mary Maul will give a project director's report, including what assistance was obtained from the 1991 New Mexico Legislature.

Treasurer Alden Deyo will report on finances. Bonnie Mattox will submit the nominating committee report.

Janet Reed was scheduled to move up from vice president to the presidency, but she will be married three days after the annual meeting and will be moving to Florida.

A reception will follow the completion of business at the meeting.

Entertain at RHS

The Ruidoso High School Indian Club and sponsor Jim Dickinson presented the Hondo Dancers one day this week in the RHS gym to help fund an April Pow Wow of Ruidoso and Tularosa Indian Clubs. Porfiria Zinn, coordinator of the Hondo Dancers, presented a dozen or more dancers doing various colorful Spanish dances.

Apache Trails maps its mission

by AL STUBBS
Ruidoso News Business Editor

The loose-knit Apache Trails organization is not quite so "loose" after a monthly luncheon meeting at The Lodge in Cloudcroft, Wednesday.

"It's amazing what we've been able to do in under a year's time, acting chairman, Jerry Watts, of Ruidoso, told the group.

Representatives from member communities Wednesday adopted a "mission statement" and agreed that a committee will work on a set of by-laws, to be ready for the next meeting, noon, April 10, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The mission statement approved by members is as follows:

"Apache Trails is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to the cooperative promotion of the South Central New Mexico region. The participating communities which form Apache Trails are Alamogordo, Cloudcroft, Tularosa, Mesalero, Lincoln, San Patricio, Capitan, Carrizozo, Ruidoso Downs and Ruidoso.

"Apache Trails is organized to promote attractions, natural beauty and the history of the area.

"Any person, association or organization having an interest in the ... objectives shall be eligible to apply for membership. Applications for membership shall be in writing, signed by the applicants, and shall be accompanied by the payment of scheduled dues.

A dues schedule will be contained in the by-laws which Watts, Bob Hart of Lincoln and Gary Wood of Cloudcroft will shape up before the next meeting.

Frank Gentile of the Alamogordo City Promotion Board said that the outlook is favorable for the New Mexico Highway Department to assist with signage along the Apache Trails route even to the point of possible furnishing the signs.

Gentile suggested that Apache Trails, when dues money is available, assist the state in providing proper signage because of the dearth of money at the state level.

He said such participation would provide signs quicker than otherwise. Communities were asked to recommend locations for the arrowhead sign which would feature the Apache Trails logo.

Watts told members that cases of Apache Trails brochures have been sent to the seven Ports of Entry in New Mexico.

"We still have 100,000 in storage," Watts said.

Distribution of brochures has been made based on participation in Apache Trails.

Watts presented a financial support showing participation and a bank balance of $554.75 after expenditures for brochures and for distribution through Southwestern Advertising of Alamogordo.

Participating communities and levels of support are as follows:

Cloudcroft Chamber of Commerce, $1,500; Village of Ruidoso, $1,000; Alamogordo, $1,000; Capitan Chamber of Commerce, $500; Eagle Ranch, $250; La Rinconada at San Patricio, $250.

Mt. Spring Ranch at Carrizozo, $250; and Lincoln County Heritage, $250.

The state of New Mexico provided $4,996 toward the $9,992 cost of 200,000 brochures.

The Lincoln County Lodger's Tax Board has pledged $250 to Apache Trails, it was pointed out.

Purpose of Apache Trails is to encourage visitors to spend at least one extra day in the area when visiting and/or vacationing.

Members agreed that the brochures should contain a flyer listing special events in each community involved, the flyer to be updated every quarter.

New Mexico Literature Exchange (Barbara Downs of Ruidoso) will provide 23 brochures racks to Apache Trails for a nominal fee.

Southwestern Advertising is putting brochures in 89 racks in the Apache Trails trade territory.

James Hobbs of Ruidoso invited the group to be his guests at the Flying J Ranch north of Ruidoso "sometime in the summer."

Hobbs publishes a Visitor's Guide which will contain the Apache Trails map, showing the physical relationship of member communities.

Members present and their cities or organizations were as follows:

Max Goodwin, Lincoln National Forest; Bob Hart, Lincoln County Heritage Trust; Hobbs; Richard Brandner, deputy director, the Space Center at Alamogordo; Frank Gentile, Alamogordo; John and Olga Secross, Alamogordo.

Gary and Gloria Wood of Cloudcroft; Michael Nivison, mayor of Cloudcroft; Sue Preslar, Cloudcroft Chamber of Commerce; Joy Dean, director, Cloudcroft Chamber of Commerce; Marty Mills and Giddings Brown, both of The Lodge, Watts of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and Molly Schweers, Eagle Pistachio Ranch out of Tularosa.

"I challenge you to not raise taxes for any group or people in the village; to complete the convention center with assurance to the citizens that the purpose of the facility will be suitable for all the people, regardless of other plans and demands from other entities," Rawlins said.

In other regular business the council:

—Approved Rex Beatty of Forest Home Cabins to take Jay Frances' seat on the Lodgers Tax Committee.

—Approved Joe Lopez and Carol Wall to take the vacated seats of Dan Sisson and Mary Noltens-meyer on the Parks and Recreation Board.

—Decided to hold action on the transfer of priorities from co-op to Municipal Arterial Program (MAPs), until the council is clear it can qualify for MAPs and the MainStreet project qualifies for co-op. The mayor said planning administrator Cleatus Richards and consulting engineer John Shaw were looking into the qualifications as well as costs.

—Renewed and updated a building lease, at no financial increase, for gymnastics. The Activities Center lease is for $800 a month.

—Approved a resolution supporting, but not financing, a community education project.

—Appraised Parks and Recreation director Moe Masters for the handling and completion of the Grindstone Lake parking area and her upcoming plans for this year's village swimming pool program.

—Approved an April 9 date for a public hearing on an ordinance to establish an Arts and Film Commission and a Transportation Board.

—Tabled the Joint Powers Agreement of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority until the special meeting scheduled for Thursday, March 14, at 10 a.m. at the village council chambers. That meeting will also hear and possibly take action on a water study report presented by the Ruidoso Water Study Committee and Wilson and Company.

Heavy earth moving equipment chews away to cut out and smooth a new 25-40 car parking area for Grindstone Lake fishermen. Officials of the Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department said the state stocked lake is pulling many residents and tourists who are catching their limit of rainbow trout "within a few hours."

State

nowledged the severity of the village's problem.

"This governing body already knows that we have very serious problems with the EPA and the EID over our waste treatment plant," Alonso said.

"As everyone can recall, a couple of years ago we were fined $200,000 for violating the environmental laws. We were able to negotiate that down to a $25,000 fine."

Alonso said that although a fine was not mentioned, he did not rule out the possibility.

"What we have is a system that is overburdened when it rains or snows and that impacts our ability to treat sewage."

Alonso said the village has a serious problem of broken sewer pipes, manhole covers that allow infiltration.

Alonso characterized the need to correct the existing problems as "urgent."

Piatt wrote that the waste department's corrective action report was disapproved because "from the information submitted, this Division cannot ascertain whether the villages had taken corrective actions that are necessary or appropriate to contain and remove or mitigate the damage caused by the discharge."

In a recent reply to Piatt's letter, Ramos said the solids washout was due to "excess peak flows caused by a lack of sufficient solids handling capabilities, i.e. sludge bed and digester full."

Piatt had asked why the effluent wasn't monitored during the solids washout.

Ramos responded that the monitoring was "overlooked by operators on duty that were trying to maintain washout ... and keep up with all other operational and maintenance duties."

Ron Wicker, new village manager, said the "statistics showed the plant was never actually overloaded as for as gallons per day." He said the EID's report indicated a very high level of solids was not being wasted properly. Wicker said there were a number of ways to correct the problem in the long term, but suggested a bell press as a short term immediate solution. He said if the village could show the Environmental Protection Agency they were acting diligently to correct the problem, the village may forestall action.

Piatt was also critical of the village's collection system, the infiltration into the collection lines and the resultant repeated problems that have not been "adequately addressed to resolution."

The EID served notice of several violations regarding regulations.

—The village was to orally notify the ground water bureau within 24 hours of learning of a discharge. The oral notification was on January 2, 1991, at 4 p.m. More than five days after the initial spill around noon, December 28, 1990.

—Written notification was required within a week. The department responded 11 days after the discharge.

—A written report describing corrective actions is mandatory no later than 15 days. The department's report was 25 days after learning of the discharge.

"If we know we are having problems and we're trying our best to comply, I submit we need a better handle on how we file our reports," said Councilor Ron Andrews.

Piatt said that the EPA will take whatever action it feels appropriate regarding these bypasses and the solids washouts at the treatment plant.

School Board seats new members, elects officers

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Veterinarian Lynn Willard unanimously was elected president of the Ruidoso School Board Tuesday as new members took their seats for the first time.

Rod Adamson was selected unanimously as vice president and newcomer Susan Lutterman was named secretary. Mike Morris, re-elected last month to a third term, and the second new member Ron Hemphill round out the board.

Lutterman, speaking for a group seeking to use school facilities after hours for community education and associated functions, asked the board to pledge its support for the effort. The group also is asking for contributions from the community to pay for the $30,000 annual salary of an administrator to head the program and to conduct surveys to identify community needs.

But on a recommendation from Adamson, the board decided to table the request.

Adamson said he is concerned that service organizations approached by the group might be confused about its relationship to a college instructional center that also plans to use district school facilities.

Voters last month approved an annual tax allocation to support the college classes.

"I don't want to dampen your spirits," Adamson told Lutterman and others connected with the group. "But I'd like to see you work with the higher education director first" and that appointment should be decided soon, he said.

Many of the functions being proposed by the community group appear to be in conflict with or duplications of programs already planned by the college organization sponsored by Eastern New Mexico University, Dr. Willard said. He does not want to see the college program derailed.

"We've been working on this a long time," he said.

After input from school principals based on discussions with their staffs, the board approved a calendar for the 1991-92 school year.

The first day of school will be August 22, with a holiday on September 2, Labor Day. Thanksgiving holiday will be November 28-29; the Christmas break will run from December 23-January 3; February 17 will commemorate President's Day and February 26 tentatively is set as a teacher in-service day. Spring Break will start March 23 and go through March 27, with April 20 off for Easter vacation. May 29 will be the last day of school.

In other business, the board:

—Reappointed all school principals after a closed executive session of more than one hour.

—Accepted the resignation of Doyle Howell from his administrative post at Ruidoso High School after 21 years in education. Howell donated the 90 days of sick leave he has accumulated to the employee sick leave bank to help others with catastrophic illnesses.

—Decided on a trial basis to conduct two board meetings during the months of September and November.

—Approved advertising for bids on a sprinkler system for the playground site of Nob Hill Elementary school and for a summer outside grounds maintenance crew to handle all school campuses.

—Added $2,681 to the athletic fund, which pays for travel and meals for athletes. The money was generated by basketball ticket sales. The total of gate receipts for all sports to date this school year is $28,721.

—Accepted a $21,500 budget increase, reflecting money granted to White Mountain Intermediate School under the 21st Century program for summer school. The program will serve 34 "at risk" students and will provide transportation for a six week session.

State review gives Ruidoso Schools passing report card

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso school district as a whole is very healthy, according to a state official who conducted an on-site review late last year.

His staff's summary and critique was distributed Tuesday to the Ruidoso School Board during its regular meeting.

School superintendent Mike Gladden told the board the on-site visit occurred November 1, but he did not receive the report until February 13. The district's responses to cited deficiencies must be submitted to the state by April 15.

"All in all I feel very good about the report," Gladden said.

His assessment falls right in line with that of Joe Baca, who headed the team that came to Ruidoso from the New Mexico Department of Education.

"Most of the stuff in the report was very positive," Baca said, noting that many more strengths of the district were cited than deficiencies. He was particularly pleased with the board's development and implementation of policies.

"There is not much of significant concern," Baca said, however, a few items are noteworthy.

Under the administrative section, Baca pointed out that a district-wide program-needs assessment was conducted in 1988, but it did not include the library-media, health services, guidance and counseling and activities program.

"With a little planned coordination, the district should be able to come up with a solution," Baca said.

Although Gladden has not yet drafted his responses to the report, he told the Ruidoso News that budget restrictions have been standing in the way of expanding guidance and counseling staff.

Some student records lack information required to be complete.

"That could lead to complications along the way," Baca said.

Under the section dealing with adequacy of buildings, the high school vocation shop was cited for mechanical systems suspended from the ceiling, high noise levels, a broken dust collection system and oxygen regulator.

"One of the more serious items was the sidewalks at the middle school and high school," Baca said.

"If they are not addressed soon, they will get worse and the board will be liable for any accidents."

Baca said seven classes at the middle school and five at the high school exceeded the state limits on number of students, others did not include an assistant to help the teacher at the appropriate level.

Gladden said the board has worked with the administration to solve the overload problems by hiring additional teachers and assistants.

Baca said there may be a district-wide problem with the health education curriculum.

"What's on paper is not the same thing that's being delivered in the classroom," he said. "There are some inconsistencies."

Another area of concern is the requirement that students be notified in writing in ninth grade that to graduate from high school, they must pass a competency test in tenth grade, Baca said. His staff could not verify Ruidoso was following that rule, he said.

Gladden said most of the items noted by Baca and others listed in the report have been corrected or soon will be handled.

Survey shows most high school seniors drink alcohol

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Alcohol is the drug of choice among Ruidoso High School seniors surveyed by the state last October.

One third of those students frequently drink beer and wine coolers, while more than 14 percent consume liquor at least every few days. And 100 percent of the seniors had tried alcohol, 20 percent more than the state average.

Those are some of the statistics revealed in the survey conducted in Ruidoso and 86 other school districts statewide. The survey was sponsored by the Drug Abuse Bureau of the New Mexico Health & Environment Department and prepared by Shaening & Associates, a Santa Fe consulting firm.

The results of the survey were presented to the Ruidoso School Board Tuesday by Linda Hawthorne and Kathy Echols, who supervised the local effort.

Hawthorne said the survey indicated the need for an aggressive approach to anti-drug activities and education prior to the seventh grade.

"Ruidoso students appear to mirror the nationwide trend toward drug experimentation or use at earlier ages," Echols and Hawthorne noted in the survey summary.

Because Ruidoso was selected to participate in a similar survey in 1986, the summary showed trends in the use of drugs.

In the 1986 survey, seventh graders answered never to all questions regarding the use of tobacco, beer and wine, liquor, marijuana or inhalants," Hawthorne and Echols stated in the summary. "The 1990 survey showed positive answers in varying percentages in all categories."

They concluded that the middle school years are critical periods for drug use.

"Therefore, the middle school teacher needs to be well versed in prevention strategies, attuned to the symptomatology of drug use and supportive of strong intervention efforts," they stated.

They recommended that school personnel become more alert to possible student use of inhalants at school, "something that can be overlooked by busy teachers." Inhalants can be as innocuous as marking pens, fingernail polish and hair sprays.

To make a dent in use of alcohol, Hawthorne and Echols said the schools need the help of parents and the community to achieve a clear "no-use" message.

"Even though the children know drugs are dangerous and the knowledge level is there, society sends another message through the entertainment industry that shows use as acceptable, through movies, billboards and advertising," Echols said.

Children need to be bombarded with the fact that the repeated and excessive use of alcohol during the formative years can negatively impact health, learning and future lives, they said.

"I think we need to start in kindergarten with developing self-esteem and how to say no," Hawthorne told the board. "We need to incorporate in the curriculum how to live healthy lifestyles."

Echols added, "The onset starts at fifth grade, so we need to get there early."

The number of students surveyed in Ruidoso were 21 fourth graders, 26 seventh graders, 16 ninth graders and 27 twelfth graders. That represents 15.8 percent of the existing enrollment in those grades.

Statewide, the numbers surveyed ranged between 4,000 and 5,500 for each grade. The composition generally mirrored the school population on ethnic and sex characteristics. Hawthorne said 6 percent of the returned surveys were thrown out for possible falsification.

The local survey showed that beer and wine coolers were the only drugs used by the fourth graders, but by seventh grade, all the listed drugs had been sampled. Inhalants topped the list for seventh graders with 8.7 percent of those surveyed admitting use.

Cigarettes were their second choice at 7.2 percent, but beer and wine coolers lagged far behind at 3.2 percent.

Cigarettes really took over in ninth grade, with 16 percent of the students surveyed saying they smoked regularly, although that figure was down from the 1986 survey. About 7 percent said they drink beer and wine coolers, but combined with the 5 percent that admitted drinking liquor, alcohol use totaled more than 12 percent.

Although alcohol use was high in both surveys, the use of chewing tobacco, inhalants and cigarettes by seniors all decreased since 1986. Cigarettes dropped to last on the list for seniors at 5 percent, just a bit lower than marijuana use at 5.6 percent.

"Projected to current enrollments, 12.5 percent of the freshmen and 5 percent of the seniors may be harmfully involved with cigarettes; 6.3 percent of freshmen and 9.5 percent of seniors may be harmfully involved with chewing tobacco; 6.3 percent of the freshmen and one-third of the seniors may drink wine or beer daily or every few days," the summary states.

Echols and Hawthorne were pleased with the percentages that indicated drug education in the schools is having a positive effect on student knowledge. Healthy percentages, which appeared to increase as the grades went higher, were recorded on all questions regarding harmful effects of drug use.

Under the attitude section, they reported that students seemed to be fairly realistic and strongly positive in seventh grade against drug use, but then faltered with age, pressure and experimentation.

About 85 percent of the ninth graders and 47 percent of the twelfth graders felt that alcohol and drugs are problems in Ruidoso schools. Thirty percent of the seniors felt students could use drugs at school without getting into trouble.

"This number was significantly reduced from the 1986 figure of 62 percent, probably as a result of sniff-dogs visits" and other efforts, they said.

About 73 percent of the students felt they could get help at school for drug or alcohol problems.

Students in all three of the upper grades were most likely to use alcohol and other drugs on weekends and at night, primarily at parties and places away from home. And they would use them most often in the company of school friends.

The youngest children in the survey reported that their parents provided them with beer, wine and liquor.

Marijuana most often came from friends. About 14 percent of the fourth graders said children their age knows where to get drugs.

Almost 40 percent of those using substances cited an unspecified "other" reason. Simply liking to get high was more popular as a reason for use with older students.

Those students who said they did not use drugs primarily cited its harmful effects.

"Not being able to get alcohol and drugs was never chosen as a reason by any grade," Hawthorne said.

"Personally, I feel the schools are doing a good job. But we can't have success unless we get help from the home and community too."

Echols said she would like to go back into some of the surveyed classrooms and talk about the results. School superintendent Mike Gladden said he will distribute copies of the survey to staff members during training sessions.

Ruidoso High School teacher Gerald Ames recommended that future surveys be conducted toward the end of the school year.

"Ninth graders at the end of the year have different expectations than at the beginning of the year," he said. "They need to be checked again."

The Redmens Club, a large structure tucked away in the hills in Ruidoso Downs, is one of three locations being considered for a new municipal building. The present village hall will be razed or repaired. A decision may be made at a special meeting at 7 p.m. today in Ruidoso Downs Municipal Building.

Downs trustees in the market to rent a piece of real estate

Ruidoso Downs trustees are expected to make two important decisions at a special meeting called for 7 p.m. Thursday, March 14, in the Municipal Building.

Bids were opened at a regular meeting, Monday night on construction of a Ruidoso Downs Senior Citizens Center. The bids were being studied and compared subsequent to the meeting, and a decision is expected Thursday night.

Also, trustees have three possible building complexes which could serve as a village hall because of serious problems with the present Municipal Building.

Trustees are expected to decide, possibly Thursday, on a new site for village hall.

The three sites are the Redmens Club, Fantasy Mountain complex and an old Texas-New Mexico complex near the present village headquarters.

Monday night trustees went into executive session to consider possible lease agreements and other facets involved with building owners, including possible renovations. Gary Mitchell, village attorney, also said the trustees would discuss litigation while in executive session.

The New Mexico Board of Finance has provided $15,000 for Ruidoso Downs to move a police radio tower and equipment and for rent on another village hall.

Serious structural and sewer problems at the present building have brought about the search for new quarters.

Five construction firms bid on the senior center, each giving a base bid plus an amount for gross receipts tax.

Base bids were as follows: T.E. Arrington, Ruidoso, $119,000; Gentry Construction Co. of Alamogordo, $114,467; ESA Construction, Inc., of Albuquerque, $124,000; Taylor-Faust Construction, Inc., of Roswell, $141,190; Paul D. Goar Construction Co., of Albuquerque, $217,700.

Mayor Bonnie Addy appointed a committee to study and compare bids and to see if each bid matched specifications.

Ruidoso Downs board repeals village business license law

Gary Mitchell, village attorney for Ruidoso Downs, is recommending that Ordinance 86-2, a "business licensing ordinance" be repealed.

"It may be unconstitutional," Mitchell told trustees at a regular meeting, Monday night.

Repeal of the ordinance will in no way affect the $35 business registration fee now in place, Mitchell told trustees.

The ordinance does levy a special fee of up to $100 for "palm readers, clairvoyants, temporary merchants, junk shops and seasonal merchants."

Mitchell said that now that the village of Ruidoso Downs has a Planning and Zoning Board, that board can control any businesses which might be termed objectionable.

It was indicated that itinerant hay haulers have been a problem in the past, that P&Z could require that people selling hay must have a permanent structure from which to dispense that commodity to horsemen at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Trustees approved the purchase of a new pump for the Spring House pump station. The low bid of $794 from T-P Pump of Albuquerque was accepted.

Bill Heinecken told trustees that by reducing pumping costs with the new pump, "we can save money by spending a little money." An old "energy user" will be put on standby.

The trustees adopted Resolution 91-01 approving a revised Joint Powers Agreement with the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.

Mitchell told trustees that by adopting the resolution the "village is not obligated in any way financially" at this time.

He said every effort should be made to keep village sanitation employees employed when LCSWA becomes operative throughout the county.

Trustees gave approval to people who had been appointed to the Planning and Zoning Board and to the Lodgers Tax Board. Members of both boards were presented at a previous meeting and received tacit approval at that time.

The mayor announced a district Municipal League meeting set for April 10 in Tularosa. Trustees will indicate at a future meeting if they plan to attend. Registration fee is $50.

A letter was read from John Shaw, professional engineer, stating that it will take $25,000 to $35,000 to correct conditions at village hall.

Abandoned dog dies in the county; neglect, abuse are ongoing problems

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The owner apparently moved away, leaving behind two pet dogs to fend for themselves.

Weeks later, they turned up at Pixie Arthur's house near Capitan, their backbones outlined by their clinging skin.

"They obviously were starving," she said Sunday. "They had shown up before and eaten cat food that I put out for my barn cats, but I didn't mind."

When she saw them on February 21, one of the animals had been injured. It appeared his left leg was broken, possibly from being caught in a trap. She tried to approach it, but the dog wouldn't let her touch him. In desperation at watching the animal's suffering, Arthur called the Lincoln County Sheriff's office, which contacted County Animal Control officer Angelo Vega.

On March 1, Arthur found the injured dog on her property. It was dead.

Vega said he responded to Arthur's call and picked up two dogs. He even talked to a woman he thought was Mrs. Arthur, but he apparently was at the wrong location.

When he went back to pick up the dead dog, it had decomposed too badly to load into the trunk of the county car he was using, Vega said. He usually has a pickup truck provided by the county, but is waiting for a new one that is on order and should be available in a couple of weeks, he said. His department is responsible for picking up dead animals along public roads, but seldom on private property.

"I've called a couple of times since then trying to get the county to do something, but the dog's body still is there," Arthur said. "I haven't seen the other dog lately."

She's furious that the neighbor would just leave his dogs like they were pieces of furniture instead of living creatures.

"I'm sure my neighbor didn't want to put them down, but it would have been kinder than letting them starve to death or die in pain as the one did," Arthur said.

Vega said he sees too many abandonment and abuse cases in Lincoln County.

"I work about one abuse case a week," he said.

"I know (Mrs. Arthur) is upset, but I'm doing the best I can until the new truck comes in. We don't have the capabilities of transporting dead animals. I did make an effort to pick up the dogs right away. I just picked up the wrong ones."

State OKs $30,000 for Ruidoso roads

State Representative John Underwood reports that House Bill 2, worth $30,000 in matching highway department funds for Ruidoso, passed the House and Senate Wednesday. The bill will now be sent to the governor's office to pass or veto.

Underwood said another $130,000 previously slated for Ruidoso civic-events center furniture, was changed to construction money for the center.

Although the state representative's gaming bills and resolutions were defeated 33-27, Manny Aragon's gaming Resolution 19 that links the lottery to video gaming for resort communities is still alive.

Aragon's resolution would impact Ruidoso, Angel Fire and Sunland Park as well as horse racetrack areas. The resolution was amended by the House Appropriations Committee yesterday to include motels of 100 rooms are more, instead of the 150 originally recommended.

Underwood said the resolution now leaves the committee and should be on the floor today.

The state rep said he voted against a proposed five percent tax increase imposed on municipalities against the purchase of tangible items.

Although the Legislature has stressed over and over that there is very little state money, the Taxation and Revenue Committee was able to come up with some funding by reviewing past allocations that were never spent.

The clock runs out on this 60-day session at noon Saturday.

Fire destroys one condo unit

Fire destroyed a rental condo at Champions Run at Ruidoso Downs and damaged two adjacent ones just after midnight last night.

Champions Run co-manager Shelly Barnes had nothing but praise for the Ruidoso Downs Fire Department today for "preventing a real disaster."

Barnes said two couples from Roswell had rented Unit 107 for the night, had built a fire in the fireplace and gone to bed.

A log rolled out onto the carpet. The renters called the complex office and said the situation was under control.

Mike Barnes, co-manager, went over to the unit. The fire wasn't out. It destroyed the unit.

The fire department was called at 12:21. The Ruidoso Fire Department also responded.

Unit 106 was destroyed, 107 had severe damage and unit 108 experienced heavy smoke damage.

Ruidoso Downs firefighters were on the scene until 5 a. m. today.

Trustees back off on trash ordinance

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Concerned that they might drive away customers at the community landfill, Capitan Trustees Monday backed away from an ordinance to penalize drivers with unsecured loads of debris.

Instead, they decided to notify customers in writing that they intend to crack down on violators.

"I really don't like this ordinance," said Trustee Alfred Montes. "I think this will be bad for business. I was at the landfill Saturday and nearly everyone had unsecured loads."

He expressed concern that contractors and others using the landfill on School Road might decide to lease dumpsters and have their debris picked up and hauled elsewhere if they are hassled at the Capitan landfill.

The proposed ordinance would give the landfill gate attendant the power to cite a driver if debris was blowing, spilling or leaking off a truck.

"I wouldn't like to create any more problems," Montes said. "How can we be liable for trash that falls off from Ruidoso to here? We're not responsible for the highways, the state police are. We're responsible for what happens within our village limits."

"Once the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority buys the landfill, they can do with it as they like. I don't want to get stuck with it. If the authority doesn't buy us out, I'm afraid we'll get stuck with a $40,000 to $50,000 landfill that only is just paying for itself now."

Mayor Frank Warth, who sits on the authority, and village attorney J. Robert Beauvais, who represents the authority, assured Montes that the Capitan landfill is an essential ingredient in the solid waste collection and disposal system designed by the authority. The landfill primarily handles construction and demolition debris. It does not accept garbage.

"The authority will do everything in its power to acquire the landfill," Beauvais said.

One of the problems that limits the village's ability to cite offenders is that the landfill is not within the corporate limits of the community. Beauvais said he hadn't considered that fact in drafting the gate attendant ordinance.

But because it is not part of the village, Capitan police officer Tom Hammontre would only be able to cite trucks as they drove through town, Beauvais said. To eliminate that restriction, the trustees could annex the landfill, he said.

But Warth said he didn't favor starting that process when acquisition of the landfill by the authority is close at hand.

Beauvais explained that the village's existing ordinance provides that haulers must secure loads. State law also provides penalties for allowing debris to fall on the highways.

But the laws depend on state police or village officers seeing the violations and that is a hit and miss proposition, he said.

The proposed ordinance and existing ordinance also provide for penalties of up to a maximum of a $300 fine and 90 days in jail.

If the village directs Hammontre to start stopping trucks as they go through town to the landfill or enacts the gate attendant ordinance, first offenders could be given a break, Beauvais said. They could be issued a warning with no penalty. Or the trustees could establish a grace period during which drivers would not be cited. That would give the customers a chance to become familiar with the requirements and to comply, he said.

Montes' concern that the ordinance might be challenged successfully in court is unfounded, Beauvais said.

"I don't think this is legally insufficient," he said. "But you're right, virtually everyone using the landfill is out of compliance with the existing law."

A resident in the audience suggested the trustees establish an incentive by giving discounts to companies that arrive with tarps or other devices covering their loads.

Trustee Gilbert Montoya agreed that littering by landfill-bound trucks is a major problem.

"You can always find your way to the dump, just follow the trash," he said. "But I think we would be running our business off if we gave citations at the gate."

Montes said the village should instruct Hammontre to patrol the streets more often during landfill hours, and the same request should be relayed to the state police about the highways.

But Beauvais said realistically "anything like that certainly would be a low priority for law enforcement."

Arbor Day

Capitan Elementary students pose with the puppets they used Friday to present an Arbor Day program in conjunction with the U.S. Soil and Conservation Service, the State Forestry Division and the U.S. Forest Service. Each child received a seedling tree from Smokey the Bear, was briefed on fire prevention and instructed on how to successfully plant the trees. Seated are Drew Smith and Angie Hutchison. Standing are Cody Erwin (left) and Randy Hutchison. The puppets were created by Janet Baca of the U.S. Forest Service in Alamogordo. Patrick Luna, son of Barbara Luna, supervisor of the Capitan District of the State Forestry Division, accepts a tree from Smokey the Bear Friday during an Arbor Day celebration at the elementary school.

Capitan adopts a solid waste agreement

The Capitan Board of Trustees Monday approved a joint powers agreement to enable the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority to issue revenue bonds.

Capitan is a member of the authority along with Lincoln County and the towns of Carrizozo, Corona, Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs.

The members have pledged their revenue from the environmental gross receipts tax to repay bonds the authority plans to issue for the acquisition of equipment and property necessary for the operation of a countywide solid waste collection, transportation and disposal system.

The authority was formed to consolidate the systems and needs of the communities for cost effectiveness.

The agreement provides for representation on the authority board consisting of two county members, five from Ruidoso and one each from the other municipalities.

"It is based on the fractional percentage of revenue generated by garbage collection," said Capitan

Mayor Frank Warth.

Authority members will serve staggered terms of two years.

Warth pointed out that since decisions about collection rates will be made by the board during the first year and will directly impact residents, the initial members are elected officials. But that may be changed as their terms run out and new appointees are selected.

The authority initially will be involved only in collection and transportation. It will be using the landfill in Roswell. But at some future date, the authority may decide, in concert with another county or region to guarantee a larger user base, to open and operate its own sanitary landfill.

Collection rates have not yet been determined, but village attorney J. Robert Beauvais, who also represents the authority, said they should fall within the existing range of $6 at Ruidoso and $12 in Carrizozo. The authority hopes to be able to start handling collection on its own by mid-summer, he said.

Everyone within the county will be charged a flat collection fee, but Warth said outlying areas in unincorporated portions of the county might have to pay a surcharge for collection. Or they may be able to obtain a waiver to handle their own garbage, which many ranchers also may do.

The criteria for granting waivers will have to be strict because it will be tough to regulate when dumpster are accessible throughout the county, Beauvais said.

However, granting waivers could be a cost effective option if excessive mileage is required for one or two customers, he said. County Commission Chairman Stirling Spencer, who is involved in agriculture, will head the committee handling waivers.

"You probably won't get a waiver if you only have a half-acre of land," Beauvais said.

The joint powers agreement also provides that authority board members will receive a $25 payment for each meeting, plus travel and per diem expenses.

Actions by the authority will be approved by a simple majority unless they relate to collection rates, tipping fees and other costs charged to consumers. Those will require a majority of the full 11-member board.

The authority must provide quarterly reports of its activities to the member boards.

"Murder" thrills audiences

Capitan students took their hit comedy, "Murder Most Fowl," to Eastern New Mexico's 36th Annual Drama Festival and came away a winner, according to drama coach Molly Weber.

Playing to a packed house of high school students from 25 schools in New Mexico and Texas, the Capitan players received a standing ovation and an honorable mention in overall production.

"Since we are a 1A school and we competed against many (larger) 4A schools, we were doubly happy," Weber said.

During their days in Portales, the 15 cast members attended eight plays and two workshops. Some of the players were Keri Champion, Danial Parker, J.R. Smith, Christopher Smith and Weldon Smith.

Weber said, "Plans already are under way to attend next year's festival with another comedy."

Capitan considers fate of Fair Board

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Some changes may lie ahead for the Lincoln County Fair Board and the county fairground in Capitan.

Village attorney J. Robert Beauvais told Capitan trustees Monday that the Lincoln County Commission is re-evaluating its relationship with the fair board. And the State Legislature is taking a hard look at the existing prohibition against donations by government to private and public entities that are performing beneficial services for communities and counties.

"They are going in the direction of liberalizing the regulations," Beauvais said.

Last month, the trustees received a decision from the attorney for the New Mexico Municipal League that their annual $1,500 contribution to the fair board violated state law.

But the trustees directed Beauvais to find a way to continue the support. After meeting with fair board officials, he drafted a proposal by which the trustees would pay the money each year in return for use of the fairground building for regular and special elections.

"I wrote the assistant attorney general assigned to the local government division and asked (in the department's opinion if it was) fair market value for the money if we used it for municipal elections," Beauvais explained. "Then it becomes a purchase of services, not a contribution. I'm sure he'll tell us as long as we consider it justified (it's all right)."

"It's up to this board, but I think it is incumbent on them to be sure they are not in violation of the statutes of this state."

New Mexico has one of the strictest laws concerning contributions, he said. "A lot of people feel it has a chilling effect on economic development," Beauvais said.

He explained that the fair board is a private, non-profit entity that leases the fairground from the county for $1 a year.

A recent decision by the county's insurance carrier not to cover participants in rodeos and other arena events has prompted the county commission to reconsider its relationship with the board, Beauvais said.

"The county owns the property, but it can't dictate to a private corporation," Beauvais said. Yet, the commission appoints the members of the fair board and serves as fiscal agent.

As it stands now, the commission ends up paying a lot of the bills for the fairground, he said.

"The discussion is on-going," said Beauvais, who also is county attorney. "They need to clarify roles and responsibilities and reduce it to writing. They don't want to see the county fair hurt."

Board member Jody Roberts pointed out that many organizations use the fairground on a weekly basis without charge.

"They don't charge rent for a lot of the organizations to use it for non-agricultural (purposes)," he said. "They only charge money when it is a private party or a dance, but not for non-profit groups."

In other action, the board also approved a resolution in support of Fort Stanton Hospital and Training Center, noting that it is the single largest employer in the county and an integral part of the economic base of the area.

The resolution, which is to be sent to the governor, state officials and state legislators, calls for a study of the existing services at the hospital. It asks that if those services cannot be continued, a comparable program be established taking into account the current levels of staffing.

Mayor Frank Warth said he talked to Fort Stanton administrator Erwin Aldaz recently. "And he feels fairly optimistic that there will be another mission for the facility."

As a result of a lawsuit and shift in philosophy on a state-level, the hospital has been told to move many of its developmentally disabled clients to community-based facilities.

Following an executive session behind closed doors, the trustees voted to expand the job of Motor Vehicle Department/Water Department Clerk to a full-time position.

Landfill hours announced

The Capitan landfill on School Road is opened from 8:15 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, but is closed Sunday and Monday. Capitan Village Clerk Jan Starnes said people have been confused about the operating times and have shown up when the gate is closed. The village doesn't want to discourage customers, she said. The landfill accepts no garbage, only construction and demolition debris.

Little hoop shooter hits the big time

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

She stands barely four feet tall, but for the past two years Mariah Runnels has challenged and conquered a basketball hoop that towers six feet above her.

In April, the nine-year-old, fourth grader at Capitan Elementary will leave New Mexico and travel to Oklahoma to compete in the Regional Semi-finals of the "Hoop Shoot" Free Throw Program of Elks National. She has lobbied her way to the contest in Midwest City for the second consecutive year.

Twice now Mariah has beaten other top basketball hoop shooters her age at Capitan Elementary, in the Ruidoso district, in the Alamogordo regional contest and in the state competition in Albuquerque.

"When I was little, I shot baskets a lot with my sister," Mariah explained. She hopes to join the basketball team and follow in her older sister's footsteps. She gets lots of encouragement from her parents, Debbie and Benny Runnels of Bonito, Mariah said.

Using a basketball slightly undersized, Mariah this year sank five practice shots and 23 out of 25 point shots to win the state championship in the 8-9 year old group. Her closest competitor hit 19 shots.

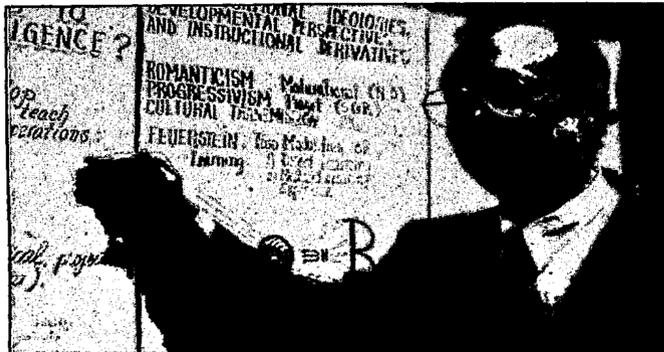

On April 13, she will face the same girl who beat her last year in the semi-finals, with a score of 23-20. Three other girls will be competing. Whoever wins will be on their way to Massachusetts for the finals. And this time, Mariah said she intends to be the one heading east.

State hoop shot/winner Mariah Runnels will head to Oklahoma in April for the National Elks Semi-finals.

Seeing is believing

Dr. Maria Veronica Hannel (above), and her husband, Dr. Lee Hannel (below), recently conducted a two-day workshop for Capitan teachers. They reviewed methods to help students develop reasoning skills and critical thinking. The couple serves 31 New Mexico school districts.

Capitan athletic fund falls short, needs help

Capitan School Board members will be asked Thursday to approve a new schedule of activity ticket fees to help feed the hungry coffers of the district's extracurricular program.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Capitan school board room. School Superintendent Scott Childress said the extracurricular program is facing increasing costs due to higher state association fees for nonathletic activities and to rising student travel expenses.

"Only two basketball games covered expenses this season," Childress said.

He has proposed that athletic ticket fees be increased from $2 to $3 for adults and from $1 to $2 for students. A new family price of $10 would be added as an alternative.

Another option for high school students would be to purchase an annual $15 student activity ticket that would cover all athletic and extracurricular events. A $10 ticket would be available to elementary students for athletic events only.

Childress also is recommending that an adult season pass be initiated.

"A seasonal pass would be offered for each athletic season (football, volleyball and basketball) with the cost equivalent to the student rate times the number of home games," he said. For example, a football season pass would be $10, or five games times $2.

Tournaments run by the district and state would not honor local passes.

The board Thursday also may reorganize for the year with the seating of newly elected member Jack King and re-elected members Kenneth Cox and Tom Trost.

Music program planned

An evening of good taste starting with pies, cakes and gourmet coffee and ending with musical entertainment is set for March 21 in Capitan.

The third annual Dessert Pops Concert, "Spring Sing, Strings and Things," presented by the Capitan Music Boosters, will feature a long list of area musicians and singers performing selections from Broadway and movies.

The doors of the new Capitan school gymnasium will open at 7 p.m. Desserts will be served just prior to the program at 7:30 p.m.

Featured performers will include John and Cindy Foglesong of Capitan, Bill Wise from Carrizozo and Mary Shanks, Agatha Long and Jacque Childress of the Capitan school district.

Johnny Lang, The Best Bet Jazz Band, Jennie Stephens, Mario Cordova and Mike Frances with jazz selections also are on the evening's agenda. Paul and Barbara Westbrook of Ruidoso, the Capitan High School Band and Chorus and invited guest performers from New Mexico State University will lend their talents.

Tickets are on sale for $5 a person from Capitan music students. Reserved seating and ticket information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Dick Valenzuela at 354-2238 during regular school hours.

Proffit and Sanchez bowl over the competition in local tourney

Laura Proffit and Nora Sanchez were big winners in the 18th Annual City tournament at the Holiday Bowling Center in Ruidoso.

Proffit pulled down the top singles scratch series with a 506. Proffit's feat was also good enough to land her the singles handicap series winner at 623.

Sanchez topped all bowlers for the All Events scratch games at 1406. All Events handicap winner was Victoria Sanchez - 1803.

Top doubles scratch team was Darlene Martinez and Nora Sanchez with a 929. Doubles handicap winners were Pam Perry and Judy Wesch at 1186.

Carrizozo Bowlers won the Team scratch series with a 2159.

Team handicap 1st Apache Future grabbed top honors with a score of 2898. Carrizozo Bowlers were second at 2753; Holiday Bowl, 2736, was third; Foxy Five, 2692 finished fourth.

Canyon Cabins squeaked to the head of the class by a single game over Holiday Bowl in the Monday Nite Ladies League.

Mary Blackmon had the high single score of 206.

Bonnie McEuen scored high series with a 520; Linda Jackson, 515; and Dorothy Ryan, 502.

Last week Mary Dominguez dominated the high single score with a 217 and Rayann McGarvey stood alone in with the high series of 492.

Golf fees lowered at The Links

With recent spring-like temperatures coaxing golfers to the courses, the new Links of Sierra Blanca has reduced its green fees according to Jeff Miller, golf course manager.

Miller said the new fees were designed to better accommodate local golfers with special emphasis on resident seniors.

For green fees only, a Ruidoso senior can play a round of golf for $12.

Miller said carts are only mandatory on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and holidays during peak hours.

Miller said the Links management favored resident golfers by lopping six bucks off their regular charges. A resident pays $18 for green fees only, while a non-resident pays the regular $24 green fees.

For a 10 dollar 1/2 cart fee, non-resident golfers can play 18 holes for $34, residents would be charged $28 and resident seniors can enjoy a $22 bargain.

Dode Forester is the club pro.

Banquet honoree

Cody Willard will be among basketball players, wrestlers and cheerleaders honored at the Winter Sports Banquet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 21, in the school's cafeteria.

clude new rules, tournament dates, fees, starting dates and deadlines.

NEW TIRES CAN GIVE CAR NEW LEASE ON LIFE

Have you ever noticed how different your favorite shoes feel with new soles and heels? The wear was so gradual you had not realized how worn they'd become. Now you're walking straight again.

This is similar to the improvement in the feel of your car when you replace worn tires. You had become accustomed to the vibrations and noise of the old ones. Then, with new rubber on the road, the car seems to glide.

The old tires may have aged prematurely and developed lumpy, flat spots because of incorrect wheel alignment or imbalance. Or they may have been underinflated tires, says Ruidoso Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, a condition which wastes gas as well as accelerating tread wear.

How do you know if your wheels need aligning? Your first clue may come from erratic steering. The car may wander or pull from one side to the other. The condition may cause a shimmy similar to the action of an out-of-balance tire. This is known as the shopping cart syndrome.

The pulling to one side or the other also may be caused by a tire on one side being underinflated. As a preventive measure, it's wise to have alignment and balance checked twice a year. And you certainly want to be sure the wheel alignment is OK before installing your expensive new tires.

ANN SILCHENSTEDT AND VERA DIGMANN

New Yorkers get a taste of the Southwest

Vera Digmann of Manhattan, New York, was the lucky recipient of New Mexico Connection's Ruidoso Winter Give-Away Package.

Digmann and friend stopped in Cornubus, Texas, for hamburgers they said they read about in New York.

Digmann and her friend Mary Ann Silchenstedt were in Ruidoso recently to enjoy the fruits of their good fortune.

"No one could eat that big a hamburger," Digmann said of the famous half pounders.

The two women flew into El Paso, Texas, and then drove to

The two women from New York were given an added treat when a bunch of good looking westerners entered the colorful cafe to surround them.

The group of perfectly attired cowboys turned out to be part of a group filming a Marlboro commercial.

The promotional package in the winter give-away included two American Airline round trip tickets from New York to El Paso; a week's free car rental with Advantage Rent-A-Car; three days of lift tickets from Ski Apache; three days of ski rentals from Ski Techniques; two nights lodging at Shadow Mountain Lodge; two nights lodging at the Inn of the Mountain God Resort; two days bus shuttle to Ski Apache; a Bingo packet and video gaming tokens from Bingo of Mes-calero and a restaurant packet.

New Mexico students can win prizes for buckling up!

Traffic safety awareness will be heightened for New Mexico high school students during March and April as a school based safety belt campaign gets under way.

New Mexico high school students can help their schools win cash prizes by conducting "Buckle Your Bod" seat belt campaigns prior to their Spring Break. Winners will be determined not only by the creativity of activities but by the number of students wearing seat belts (determined by observations).

University of New Mexico basketball center Luc Longley and new Mexico State University point guard Randy Brown appear in a poster and public service announcements to encourage teenagers to buckle up. In addition to Longley and Brown's involvement, Coach Bliss and McCarthy jointly sent a letter to high school coaches encouraging them to include information on seat belts and drunk driving in their training.

"A number of high school students tell us they don't buckle up because it's not cool, it's wimpy," said Mary Justice, director of Safer New Mexico Now. "We hope that by using athletes and coaches, that mistaken and deadly notions of some young people would be overcome."

Traffic crashes continue to be the leading cause of death among young people. In 1989, 12,723 teenaged (15-19) drivers were involved in crashes on New Mexico roads; 4,453 teens were injured or killed, and of those killed, 90% were not wearing their seat belts.

The Silver Lining

Ruidoso rallies for troops, veterans

The Victory Rally

Dr. Willie Horton was looking down from Heaven happy and grateful for the tribute to the men and women in our armed forces, held in the stadium named in his honor.

And all those fallen in all our wars were grateful for the prayers said for them and the expressions of thankfulness for their devotion to our country, which will be remembered and treasured always. They also were watching from Heaven.

As master of ceremonies, Dub Williams won the hearts of all of us with many a heartfelt message, of patriotism, and gratitude to God for the end of the Gulf War and the new appreciation and thankfulness to God for the blessing of living in our country.

Father Richard Catanach gave the invocation in which he gave thanks for the prayers of the American people for those in our armed forces.

Ed Hyman led the large crowd in the pledge of allegiance.

Our National Anthem was sung by three young ladies, members of the Ruidoso High School Choir, accompanied on the keyboard by LuAnne Ellison.

Dorothy Apodaca sang "America the Beautiful" and "God Bless America". And the crowd joined in the chorus.

Event Inspired

By Trudy Lopez

Trudy Lopez was in Hereford, Texas, visiting her mother, Mrs. Gergorita Olguin, and attended a Support Rally there. She thought we should have a similar rally in Ruidoso, but by the time she got back, war was over so she decided we should have a Victory Rally.

She called Harry Griffin, Commander of the local V.F.W. and Romeo Klein. At a meeting of the V.F.W. it was decided to have Dub Williams as the Master of Ceremonies.

Veterans Introduced

Dub mentioned the names of all the men and women in the Gulf War and asked the parents to stand and receive the cheers of the crowd.

Veterans introduced were Romeo Klein, District Commander district five of the American Legion; Pat Huffsmith, Commander of Disabled American Veterans chapter twenty three; Harry Griffin, Commander Jerome D. Klein post number 7072; and American Legion post 79 Vice Commander Julius Fitance.

Commander Elwood Gradine was unable to attend.

J.D. James was wearing the same American Flag arm band that he wore in World War II, which he said was 47 years, six months and six days old to the day. J.D. made four invasions, including Italy and southern France, and was on the front lines over a year, and was wounded twice. He was with the 36th Infantry division a Texas National Guard Unit. He received a great cheer from the crowd.

Pat Valliant looked young and handsome in his World War II Air Corp uniform. Dub in introducing him said, "I would have worn my uniform, too, but I no longer weigh 130 pounds."

Ida Kohler, of the American Legion Auxil-

By Dan Storm
The Ridge Runner

ary was introduced among cheers.

Lucky Mulqueen, winner of the bronze star for service in the Vietnam War, was introduced amid prolonged cheers.

Special Songs

Amber Perry, daughter of Dale and Sandy Perry, sang "God Bless the U.S.A."

"I'm glad to live in America, for at least I know I'm free. And I'll not forget the ones who died for me." Dub called Amber back later to sing the song again with crowd joining in the chorus.

Cindy Hobbs of the Flying J Ranch sang "From a Distance." And her husband, James, sang a song of his own composition in which the crowd joined in the chorus:

"I'll live in New Mexico where the mountains touch the sun, where you and Nature may be One."

Prayer For

A Soldier

Mary McCully and Trudy Lopez both stepped up to the podium, and Mary said:

"The reason two of us are here is that if Trudy breaks down I will finish this prayer."

Trudy did choke up a little. (She and her husband, Pete, have a son, Paul, in the Persian Gulf.) Then Mary took over, and she broke into tears. And Trudy finished the prayer which ends:

"No matter how far he is forced to roam, Dear Lord, just bring my G.I. Home."

Barbara Duff Makes

Inspiring Talk

Barbara Duff commended the V.F.W. and Auxiliary and all those who worked to make this tribute something long to be remembered. And said:

"Our heartfelt feelings go out to all those who have lost loved ones. Our prayer is that a memory of pride for their service to this nation will heal those wounds."

She quoted President George Bush: "We are a caring and good and generous nation in all we do. Let us continue to honor those who have served us—by serving others."

Tom Hansen Remembers

His Students Fondly

In an inspiring talk entitled "The Lessons of War" Tom Hansen traced our military history from World War II to the present war just ended, and said we had learned our lesson of the past well—that we had stopped a tyrant before he got out of hand, and that we had allowed the military to conduct the war.

Tom said: "As a longtime high school principal, these young men and women assume the identity of my children. We had a number of our young people in the Persian Gulf. All are alive.

Thank God for that."

"Only when we pray for the hope of all mankind can we be truly free."

Dub Williams told us to look up always to God, to read the Bible, and to reach out always to help one another in this Nation Under God.

The Reverend Wells

Gives Benediction

In the benediction, the Reverend Ray Wells thanked God that we live in the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave. And ended this day of tribute on a note of pride, happiness and thankfulness.

Saint Patrick's Day

Saint Patrick was born in the year 389 in what is now Wales, during the Roman occupation of Britain.

As a lad of sixteen he was captured by some Irish pirates and taken to Ireland where he was put to work herding sheep.

Here Patrick began telling the Irish about Our Lord, and they gathered around eager to hear more. He became a great favorite with the Irish; and yet he escaped on a boat carrying Irish wolf hounds to France.

Here he studied at a monastery, and began hearing voices from Ireland saying: "We pray the, Holy Child, to come and walk amongst us as before."

Patrick did go to Ireland where he was joyfully received and founded a church. This was the beginning of the spread of Christianity throughout Ireland; and later for Ireland to be the source of bringing the Faith to other parts of the world.

The Irish have migrated to the distant corners of the Earth, and are one of the predominant strains in the population of America. Wherever the Irish have wandered they have brought their music, charm and devout nature—and the celebration of Saint Patrick's Day, which is now a World Wide Celebration Day. Be sure to wear your green on Saint Patrick's Day and say a prayer of thanks for the Emerald Isle.

Blossoms in the Wind

This is being sent to you in mid afternoon on March 11, and the wind is calling down the vale in the strongest wind of the year, at full blast. Outside the window the limbs of the little apricot tree are thrashing and waving causing the apricot blooms to be dancing and bobbing in the western gale. A few hours ago when the wind was about half speed the bees were working the blossoms. They would fly to the bloom and be blown away, then return, with the sun shining through their buzzing wings making them look like little fireflies in the daytime.

Now the bees have retreated around the corner of the house where some limbs are in the lee of the wind. They still have to put up quite a battle.

Now here comes a housefinch with his crimson and gray colors to light on one of the branches. He rides his thrashing and bobbing perch for a while like an acrobat, and then flies up into the cedar tree.

This wind will bring out the leaves for Saint Patrick's Day. Let us thank God for all our blessings.

Chaitanya Pai of Ruidoso High School and Victoria Maria Sedillo of Capitan High School both received certificates from the program that makes awards to teachers and graduating seniors at American high schools.

The top two percent of each participating high school's senior class will receive certificates for overall academic excellence based on work in grades 9-11.

Almost 22,000 individuals will be recognized for their academic achievement by the Tandy Technology Scholars program at school awards programs.

Tandy Technology honors include scholarships to top teachers and students, with national finalists proclaimed "Champions of the Classroom" at a news conference March 6 at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C.

Almost one half, a total of 10,870, of all the secondary schools in the United States are enrolled in this major education initiative, which is funded by Tandy Corporation and administered by Texas Christian University.

"The Tandy Technology Scholars program exemplifies the growing spirit of cooperation between business and education, and the initiatives of business to become involved in and to help resolve issues of national concern," concluded John V.

Roach, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation.

One fourth of all high schools participated in the 1990-91 program.

"This is an unprecedented number," said Dr. Donald Stewart, president of College Board and member of the Tandy Technology Scholars National Advisory Council. "It is an incredible achievement for a new program to gain this level of participation."

The Tandy Technology Scholars program is a national program open to students and teachers in accredited high schools throughout the United States. The National Finalists were selected by a panel of educators and approved by the National Advisory Council.

Mescalero essay wins a computer for school

Mescalero Elementary School was the only elementary school in New Mexico to win second prize in the "Teaming up for Better Education" nationwide essay contest sponsored by Tide, Downy and IBM.

In all, 115 elementary schools were awarded free computer labs and equipment, including five Writing-To-Read Labs (grand prize), 10 Science Labs (second prize), and 100 Math Labs (third prize), valued at close to half a million dollars.

"Team Up For Better Education" was launched in September 1990, with a mailing to 70,000 elementary school principals. To qualify for the free equipment, principals were asked to submit a 200-word essay, describing how a computer lab could benefit their school. A distinguished panel of judges comprised of teachers and representatives from the National Association of Elementary School Principals, the National Association of Partners in Education and the United Negro College Fund reviewed the essay submissions and determined the five grand prize, ten second prize and 100 third prize winners.

The winning essays, which reflect a mixture of comments from teachers, principals, librarians, computer coordinators and children, point out how this free computer equipment will help their school. A sixth grader at Mescalero Elementary School, which burned to the ground on February 18, 1990, noted that, "We need computers because we are in the space age and they are the future."

Other schools in New Mexico to win prizes were John Baker Elementary School, third prize; Parker Avenue Elementary School, third prize; and Sweeney Elementary, third prize.

Rob Steele, Tide Associate Manager, commented that, "We created 'Teaming Up For Better Education' to provide elementary schools with the computer equipment necessary to give our young children regular experiences with technology that will help shape their adult lives." Steele added that no product purchases were required to participate in "Teaming Up For Better Education." "All we asked is that schools tell us how the equipment would make a difference in the quality of education in their schools."

The computer equipment is expected to be installed by mid to late April.

Separately, it was also announced that Tide will be co-sponsoring a second elementary school initiative with Dawn dishwashing detergent. In August Tide and Dawn will donate state-of-the-art multimedia teacher's aid equipment through local retailers. Schools will receive teaching aids ranging from a 30-student network math/science learning center to the new Compton's Multimedia Encyclopedia.

Both programs have received the endorsement of the National Association of Elementary School Principals and the National Association of Partners in Education. Advisers include the Department of Education, the National Foundation for the Improvement of Education and the United Negro College Fund.

Mescalero Essay

On February 18, 1990, the Mescalero Elementary School burned to the ground, leaving 283 students and a full teaching staff without a school. School resumed in the Tribal Center only four days after the fire.

The Mescalero Elementary School was in the Tularosa School District which desired to move the school 25 miles away to Tularosa. The Tribal Council did not approve the move, and with temporary funding from the Bureau of Indian Affairs, it became a private school of the Mescalero Apache Tribe.

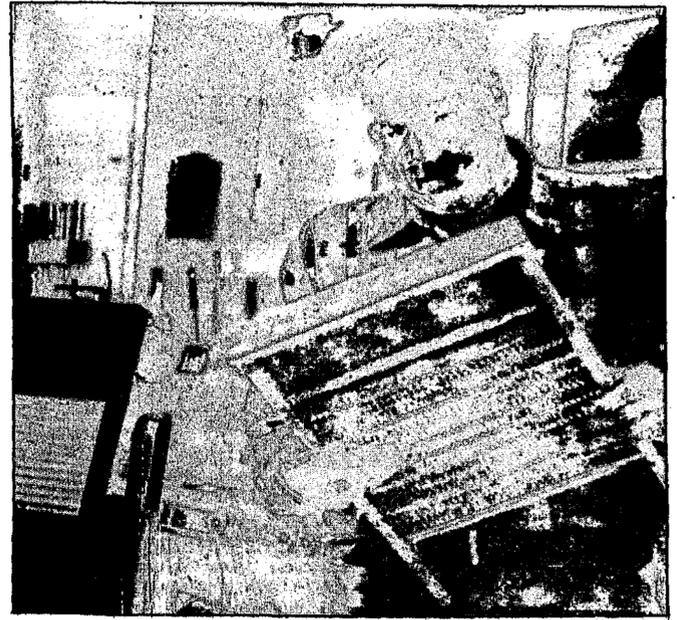

The loss of instructional equipment and support services is very evident in the computer field. There is not one computer in the entire school. Our technological society requires a basic knowledge of computers which begins on the elementary level.

Sixth-grader Pascal Enjady says: "We need some computers because we are in the space age and they are the future. ... Tularosa had to pay for the computers, and Tularosa took their computers, and so we are here with no computers. Can you please purchase us some new computers?"

Approximately 200 students will receive 45 minutes of computer instruction three times a week from a trained computer teacher.

Evaluation of computer effectiveness will be to set goals yearly, establish computer growth plans, and follow standards and competencies set by the New Mexico Board of Education. With the lack of a computer program, the Mescalero Elementary School is not meeting state-mandated competencies and will face serious competency deficiencies in the future.

Our goal is to educate children and prepare them to become useful citizens in our world. We must keep in step with the world. We need a computer lab.

Artists make good showing in Lincoln

When we walked in Dr. Woods Annex in Lincoln, March 2, to attend the one "Meet the Artist" program sponsored by the Lincoln Hospitality Group, of which I am proud to be a member, I was duly impressed. Mr. Henn displayed a magnificent showing, my favorite being a large painting Mr. Henn called "Force."

There were many comments and discussion about this particular painting and I believe it was Mrs. Henn who explained simply, "This painting represents the 'other' side of Walter." Indeed it does, talk about the gentle, but forceful, Giant. Do yourself a favor folks, don't miss the next "Meet the Artist" show held the first Saturday of April — besides a "good show" the locals prepare and serve a truly delicious meal with freshly baked cakes, some of which may be purchased to "take home."

You can call in your cake orders to Sharon Smith at 653-4372, the State Office. People we are talking "good grub."

Temperature—Transplants should be "set out" in the fall for best coloration and size. Use seeds or nursery transplants, in the pots they are to be grown. They have wide temperature tolerance.

Fertilizer—Greedy feeders, these plants—Feed about every 3 weeks with a complete and balanced garden fertilizer, or better yet, organic (manure) fertilizer. They require plenty of nitrogen is the middle number of the three numbers listed on the container.

Pests—Keep a constant watch for those wretched Loopers and spray with malathion. This spray will also take care of the cool weather aphids. If the Loopers get out-of-hand, use a spray of Bacillus thuringiensis.

If you are lucky you will have rosettes you can cut for a striking Thanksgiving arrangement. The rest of the foliage is edible, cook or raw, just like ordinary Cabbage or Kale.

Kale differs from Cabbage in being slightly looser in the head and has fringier and more colorful leaf edges. The flowers are spectacular.

Soil—Porous, fast draining, in containers, if grown in outside beds, best in a sandy soil. Plant one in small 6" pots and several plants in large pots, such as 1/2 barrel size.

Water—Best to maintain slightly moist conditions. Never allow to completely dry-out or to become soggy wet.
