Architects ask for more money

The Civic Events Center Architect's request for $13,000 in additional fees will be discussed during the regular scheduled meeting with the architects on April 16.

Councilor Al Junge asked Mayor Victor Alonso, during Tuesday's meeting, if the council would have an opportunity to sit down and go over the new program schedule and costs.

The council was given a document that, according to Junge, had three to four parts.

"Apparently they think we are going to have them do something additional, they're asking us for $13,000. Are we going to have a chance to discuss this?"

Alonso asked the attorney if this was a negotiation that needs to be open to the public.

"The closest exception I can think of to the Open Meetings Law would be threatened and pending litigation. That is an assessment the council would have to make," David Thomsen, village attorney said.

"I have not reviewed the letter within the last day or so, so I can't say how threatened the litigation might be. But if there is a significant possibility of the litigation to which the village may be a party, then we can enclose to discuss the threatening litigation," Thomsen said succinctly.

"Let me respectfully disagree with the honorable Mr. Thomsen," said attorney Don Dutton. "I don't know that there's been threatened litigation. I don't think that letter is a threat of litigation. I'm not real sure that you can go into an executive session."

Dutton said he was aware of the contract with the architects and he felt Councilor Junge, Andrews and James were right in wanting to discuss the matter in public so everyone can have input.

Alonso said there was a provision with the architects that said if the scope of the work changes that they are entitled to renegotiate their fees.

"In order to do that they have to come before this body," Alonso said. "So what I'm doing here is inviting them to come before this body."

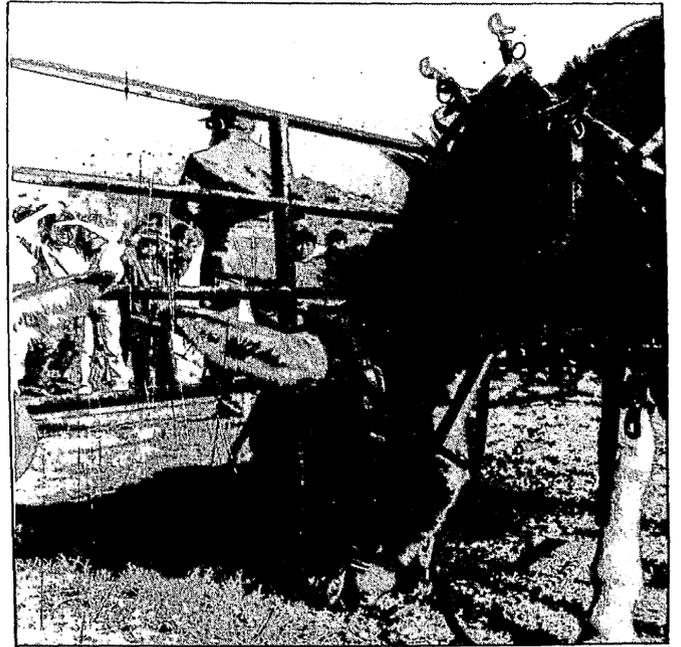

Alonso said the reason for the overruns were changes that had to be made by the council in order to compromise with the hotel developer.

"There may be a discussion as to who might want to share those costs," Alonso said.

"The only problem I have with entering into negotiations in public, is that it's very cumbersome," Alonso said.

"They're already on board with the contract, Mr. Mayor," said Councilor Karn. "I think everyone here at the council knows that all it's going to be is a difference of opinion, their opinion of what they've done and our opinion of what they haven't done."

The mayor and the council decided to ask the architects to justify their costs in the public meeting scheduled for April 16.

Village may open its boards to outsiders

The Ruidoso Village Council members were in agreement Tuesday to examine the legality of allowing non-village residents to serve on village commissions and boards.

Councilor Ron Andrews asked the council to investigate the possibility of opening up service on the boards and commissions by people who live in Alto, Ruidoso Downs and some of the adjoining areas.

"I submit it's bad enough that some of these people own property, but don't have any say in the village because they live off the village limits," Andrews said. "I do think we can get some input and get very capable residents of the county by opening up the membership."

Andrews said a business or earned income within Ruidoso could be a criteria.

Councilor Bill Karn noted that the Public Library Board does not require persons on the board to be Ruidoso residents.

Attorney David Thomsen said he would research the matter of resident requirements for the council.

Andrews proposed and the board approved that committee members absent three times in a calendar year are automatically off the board or committee.

It's spring cleanup time

Spring Clean Up '91, Ruidoso's annual village cleaning before summer tourists flood the town, will run from Saturday, April 13, through Saturday, April 20.

On both Saturdays, dumpsters will be placed at the chamber of commerce and village hall for public use. The fire trucks will also drive around town picking up trash. Saturday will also be the annual clean up day for Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Boy scouts, girl scouts, any of the sororities or service clubs that would like to get involved should call this year's coordinator Judith Word at 257-4116.

The village will have some bags available for any volunteer group to clean a roadway or other areas. Group representatives should coordinate that area by calling Word.

Village Council meeting erupts over chamber of commerce plans

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A sad chapter in Ruidoso politics surfaced Tuesday when a scathing personal attack on Chamber of Commerce Director Jerry Watts was allowed by Mayor Victor Alonso.

An apparent long standing feud between Watts and Craig Rawlings, Chamber of Commerce board member and chairman of the advertising committee erupted with a lengthy prepared statement by Rawlings.

Mayor Alonso, early in the agenda, had asked if anyone from the floor wished to speak to the council. Rawlings said he wanted to speak when the consideration of the marketing of the Civic Events Center was discussed.

Rawlings, stating that he was addressing the forum from a personal point of view, then lashed out at chamber director, as well as at Councilor J.D. James.

Rawlings said his comments were personal and not representative of any board. He said it was important to clear the air on some important aspects of the political climate.

He said the different bodies of the chamber had reached a crisis and he then criticized James for what he interpreted as divisive comments.

"You especially attack the chamber, mostly behind closed doors, in private meetings by making statements toward the chamber as if the chamber was some river monster to be slain by the citizens before the powers of the city," Rawlings told James.

"The citizens committee formed to study the promotion of the civic events center has unanimously recommended that the village contract with the chamber to promote our new civic events center. Before I can support that proposition, the chamber has to address its own internal problems," Rawlings said.

"The chamber has been split in half over the proposed dismissal of its executive director Jerry Watts."

Rawlings said he disagreed with Watts' management of the chamber.

"He has single-handedly perpetuated dissent, driving a knife between entities and between dedicated volunteers."

"The situation is identical to that of police chief Darrel Gates. To quote Mayor Tom Bradley, 'we cannot heal our wounds and move on to positive future until Mr. Watts removes himself from that position.' I'm now publicly asking you to resign," Rawlings said.

"I thought chief Gates was a good chief," someone on the council remarked.

Mayor Alonso told the council they would have the chance to rebut, but to allow Rawlings to speak his mind.

Rawlings said the board was composed of workers and others standing in the way.

He said those active in the daily roles of the chamber know the capabilities of the director and want him gone. He said passive members who sit back and let others do the work have been convinced by Watts to keep him.

"I will not continue my volunteer efforts in such an adverse arena," Rawlings said. "My name is listed in the proposals as the person responsible for its enactment. I hereby remove my name from its support. I ask the council not to give support to the chamber at this particular time. I strongly believe the chamber is a group of individuals that should promote the new center and should also continue to promote the tourism in this community. However, it cannot fulfill its promise with so much dissent within its rank."

"I ask the executive committee of the chamber to call an emergency meeting of the board of directors to air its problems and solve them."

"If Mr. Watts does not resign or the directors of the chamber do not remove him, then I will resign because I refuse to work with him because I don't want to stand in the way of progress and do not want to be a part of the problem."

Councilor James rebutted the attack.

"You said I talked against the chamber in closed sessions, Mr. Rawlings, everything I've said has been in open meetings," James said. "I have not said anything about this request for proposal or calling names or anything. I've said I wanted the village to manage, sell and operate the civic events center, and I'll say that to anyone, straightforward."

James said his statements were made in the public study session. He said a reliable source told him a member of the chamber said, "Don't worry about the contract, that's already been locked in." James said he didn't like that type of thinking.

After the meeting Councilor Al Junge said was surprised at the unusual attack.

"We thought he was going to talk about the subject at hand, the civic center, but he went into a tirade about the chamber of commerce executive director," Junge said.

"I think his remarks were simply in bad taste. Remarks such as he made tell us more about the speaker than the subject addressed. He has an executive board and many members of the chamber that could address. He's been in Ruidoso a very short time. Apparently he has a lot to learn about how the things are developed here in Ruidoso."

Watts said the personal attack was unfair to his staff.

"I work at the pleasure of the board of directors," Watts said. "If they have a problem with my performance the board meeting is where that is addressed."

"He attacked the staff. It's one thing to have a personal crusade against me. It's another thing to attack a hard working dedicated staff."

Alonso said he felt part of Rawlings speech did address the marketing of the events center. He said he would have preferred chamber problems be handled within the chamber. He said Rawlings' decision to come to the council showed a lack of support of Rawlings from his chamber board.

Alonso noted that the council did not vote in favor of Rawlings' request to withhold consideration from using the chamber for its civic center management.

A motion was approved to appoint a group to negotiate with the chamber of commerce for the marketing of the events center to report back to the governing body. J.D. James was the lone dissenting vote.

In other business the council:

-Approved the transfer of ownership of a liquor dispenser license from Ruidoso Inn to Handi Hanks.

-Listened to a Keep New Mexico Beautiful proclamation by Mayor Alonso.

-Extended the lease agreement for the Lincoln County Humane Society.

-Voted to discontinue using compensatory time instead of overtime, and will cash out the non-exempt employees who have banked comp hours. Department heads will be instructed to work with employees in eliminating any comp time. Councilors were critical of the practice of allowing comp time for salaried employees, such as village attorney David Thomsen and assistant village manager Leon Eggleston. Department heads, too, have banked comp time hours.

Council considers sewer improvements

A request for a new sewer system for Town and Country North was submitted to the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday by Carl Stubbs of the Environmental Improvement Division.

Stubbs said that areas exist today within the village limits which are unacceptable for on-site disposal.

Stubbs considered the areas with the greatest problems to be Town and Country North, Airport West First Addition, Paradise Canyon Heights, Wingfield Homestead Second Addition and White Mountain Heights and Holiday Acres.

"I realize the village may not have the money for the cost of a sewer in those areas," Stubbs said.

"But your manager had some suggestions on how that money could be raised by assessment district."

Stubbs recommended that the village investigate the cost to the property owners of providing public sewer versus on-site disposal.

In Brief

Puzzlers plan to try their hands at Saturday seminar

Richards Puzzles has scheduled a puzzle seminar and contest for 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 13, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Convention Center. The contest will feature several degrees of difficulty and the grand prize winner will receive a complete set of the company's geometric hardwood puzzles. Ten other prizes will be awarded and every attendee will receive a puzzle. "This will be a fun time for everyone," said Greg Richards, company president, in his invitation. Company management will also present a brief history of puzzles and an overview of the company's history and plans.

School Board to meet tonight

The Ruidoso Board of Education will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday, April 11, in the Administration Office.

- Items on the agenda include:
- Recognition of ACT scholars from Ruidoso High School.
 - Board preparation to review policy manual.
 - Announcement of Region VII board meeting at 6:30 p.m. May 23, at RHS.
 - Consideration of proposed changes in graduation requirements.
 - Appointment of advisory board for the off-campus instructional center.
 - Budget adjustments.
 - Open bids for seasonal grounds maintenance and sprinkler system.
 - Call for bids for financial auditor and band instruments.
 - Transportation addendum.
 - Accept the resignation of language arts teacher Lynn Moore and consider recommendations to hire Toby Wilson as a bus driver and Sonny Silva and Cindy Gomez as substitute bus drivers.
 - Conduct a closed session to consider personnel contracts for the 1991-92 school year.

United Way distributes funds

The Otero County Combined Federal Campaign is accepting applications from local non-profit organizations in Lincoln and Otero counties that want to be listed in the 1991 Combined Federal Campaign brochure.

The listing of eligible non-profit organizations in the fall fundraising brochure will allow local federal employees to designate their donations to eligible local non-profit organizations.

The deadline for applications is April 29. Contact United Way of Otero County, 1601 10th Street, Suite B, 437-8400, for applications and information.

Capitan School Board will consider new alcohol policy

Discussion of a policy to cover students caught with alcohol or drugs on campus is on the agenda of the Capitan School Board Thursday.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the board room of the school complex.

A proposed employee assistance program for those with problems that might affect job performance also will be reviewed.

Garden Clubs meet at the Inn

The 42nd annual New Mexico Garden Clubs convention will be April 15 through 17 at the Inn of the Mountain Gods in Mesalero.

State President June Wood of Albuquerque will preside over the convention coordinated by Cecile Bellah and Shirley Neuhaus of the Ruidoso Garden Club.

Program will include a flower show, floral design workshop, wreath workshop and speakers. Some programs are open to the public for a small charge.

'Zozo paper has a new owner

The Lincoln County News is under new ownership, according to publisher Ernest Joiner.

Carrizozo businessman C.O. "Chuck" Rominger purchased the paper and the official transfer was made on April 1. Rominger bought the weekly paper from Joiner who had owned the Lincoln County News since 1982.

"The transfer was made on April 1," said Joiner in a telephone interview Wednesday. Joiner is still acting as publisher.

"I'll probably stay here for awhile, eventually I have a book in mind to write," said Joiner who moved to Carrizozo from Sebastopol, California, where he published a weekly newspaper.

"I bought and sold it three times," said Joiner. "They'd sell it back to me at two bits on the dollar," he added.

Joiner still has a lot of loyal readers in California. He counts about 300 Californians among his subscribers.

Rominger, a real estate appraiser and broker, owns the Rominger Co. in Carrizozo. He couldn't be reached for comment.

According to information Rominger provided when he was a candidate for county commission last year, he established his permanent residence in Lincoln County in 1971 after moving here from Roswell.

He was a state employee for several years, and served as right of way director for the New Mexico State Highway and Transportation Department.

Rominger and his wife, Rachel, live in Carrizozo.

Space Center announces summer fellowships

Math, science and elementary education majors in their junior or senior year are invited to apply for fellowships working at the Space Center. The programs run from May 29 through December 13 or from January 9 through August 7, 1992.

This fellowship will allow the student to gain experience working in the field of space science education, participate in the Space Center's education programs, and provide many opportunities in the space science education field.

To apply, the student must be enrolled in a teacher certification program, have a cumulative grade point average of 3.25, be a U.S. citizen, submit a two-page statement detailing how the experience will better prepare the student in the teaching career, and submit the above with the application, which is available at the Space Center or at New Mexico State University.

R. Downs municipal building is moving up to Redmens Club

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor
Ruidoso Downs trustees cleared the path to lease the old Redmens Club to be used at least two years as a village hall.

Trustees Monday night authorized the mayor, village clerk and village attorney to enter into a lease agreement with the owner of the club.

Gary Mitchell, village attorney, called the owner at the Monday meeting; apparently all terms of the lease were agreed to, and the contract was to be faxed to the owner for signing on Tuesday.

Ruidoso Downs will pay the owner some $12,000 over a two-year period with an option to purchase the building at the end of the two years.

Mitchell said the owner also agreed to plow $9,000 of the lease amount back into the building to renovate it for possible purchase by the village. The building has been sitting empty for some years.

Village offices must be moved out of the existing Municipal Building because of a sanitation problem and structural defects.

Broken sewer lines under the building have created major health considerations, and rectifying the problems would cost between $25,000 and $35,000, according to an engineer.

Trustees have indicated that vacating the old building permanently is desirable over "patching up" an old structure.

Trustees Monday night also voted to approve shutting down Village Hall for 48 hours to make the physical move once the deal on the Redmens Club is complete.

Moving the police and fire radio tower will be required.

Work to be done at the Redmens Club includes partitioning large open spaces for offices, some electrical work, lines for computers and miscellaneous projects, the village clerk says.

She anticipates a move within two weeks.

Trustees welcomed back Trustee Jim Rethmel who was called up for military service because of Operation Desert Storm. He is back at his old job as a Lincoln County deputy sheriff.

Trustees went into executive session to discuss the Redmens Club lease and litigation involving insurance.

Downs Auxiliary airs its complaints; lack of communication is a problem

Ruidoso Downs trustees addressed a number of concerns of the Ruidoso Downs Ladies Auxiliary at its regular Monday night meeting.

Apparently some feathers have been ruffled over several things which have transpired in the village.

Trustee Jackie Branum said "lack of communication" is part of the problem.

Mayor Bonnie Addy said she attended a meeting of the auxiliary, Ruidoso Downs' only civic organization, recently to address some concerns.

Branum said some auxiliary members are unhappy because the village gave away the village's Christmas angels and lights.

The village tried to find a buyer for the decorations but ended up giving them to Tularosa.

Branum also said the auxiliary was disturbed that barrels containing shrubs were removed from the median which runs through town on U.S. Highway 70.

Village clerk Maurice Gudgel said the auxiliary president asked her to have the barrels removed. Irma Capps is auxiliary president.

Branum said that even though the auxiliary's Arts and Crafts Fair makes money for Ruidoso Downs, the auxiliary feels the "village is not very concerned."

Branum said the auxiliary has other concerns, adding that plans for the Senior Citizens Center don't include partitions so that smaller meeting areas can be created.

And, Branum said, members are upset that the ball park at the All American park may not be ready for use this summer.

Dennis Riddle, maintenance supervisor, said that partitioning open spaces in the Senior Citizens Center would add $4,000 to the cost.

Mayor Addy said that $30,000 in legal costs have undercut development of the baseball complex at the All American Park. She said some $42,000 is needed for grass, concession areas, etc., to complete the project. Only $4,000 is available, she said.

Also, the auxiliary would like the trustees themselves to donate time during the Arts and Crafts Fair during All American Week.

Mayor Addy commented that the auxiliary should bring its concerns to meetings of trustees.

"They must come to the trustees if they have something to present ... if they want to keep lines of communication open," Mayor Addy said.

Trustees approved a minor amendment to the joint powers agreement between the village and the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.

Mitchell told trustees that all village employees have been accepted under a new health insurance plan and that the village will let the courts decide if the village should pay 60 percent of Harrold Mansell's insurance premiums.

Mansell is municipal judge and is considered a part time employee.

During the Monday meeting grant clerk Barbara Kilough reported that construction should begin very soon on the new Senior Citizens Center at All American Park.

She said the contractor is expecting a shipment of metal momentarily so that construction can get under way.

The contractor, Gentry Construction, Inc., of Alamogordo, has 120 days to complete the project. His bid of $114,467 plus a gross receipts tax figure of $6,868 was successful last month.

Trustees approved the period of April 15-26 for the annual village "clean-up." Mayor Bonnie Addy urged citizens to develop pride in the community.

The village will pick up bagged trash, she said. The mayor cited "raw trash" seen in a number of yards in the village.

She said all it takes to dress up the community is an expenditure of energy, say, on a Saturday, to rake up trash.

They also authorized the village clerk to advertise a 1984 Dodge Diplomat for sale.

Trustees approved a request for Ray Montano Jr. to attend an Equipment Operator 101 school in Roswell, April 29-May 10. Cost will be $200 plus travel and per diem.

The village clerk was authorized to advertise for proposals for an auditor to audit village books.

Trustees also approved a plan whereby employees who complete training and who consequently obtain licenses become eligible for raises.

The raises will come at the beginning of the fiscal year so that they can be budgeted.

Three trustees said they wanted to attend the New Mexico Municipal League meetings in Tularosa, Wednesday.

Routine departmental reports were accepted.

Letter raises questions over Medicaid; how does new program really work?

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor
A flap over a letter written by a medical provider to persons eligible for Medicaid care is just one small chapter in the Early and Periodic Screening Diagnostic and Treatment Program in Lincoln County.

The EPSDT program is one where basic health care can start even before birth for individuals who qualify for such Medicaid care. Eligibility is based on income, generally.

The program which uses federal funding but is administered at the state level, requires a certain level of participation to keep the flow of federal dollars strong.

"The EPSDT program provides your child with a physician examination by a clinic or doctor of your choice. The physical examination includes vision, hearing, blood and urine testing ... If a problem is found during the examination, your child may be treated ... These services are provided at no cost to the child throughout the first 20 years of his or her life," according to a flyer which the medical provider says was sent out with the controversial letter.

The letter sent out by Family Practice Associates of Ruidoso resulted when that provider was urged by the district health officer, Dr. Evan Nelson, to generate participation in the program in any way possible, according to Dr. Arlene Brown of Family Practice Associates (FPA).

FPA put together a letter to possible Medicaid clients outlining the services available to eligible persons.

The mailing list used was provided by the district health office, according to Dale McManus, planner of the Medical Assistance Division of the HSD (Human Services Department) in Santa Fe.

McManus said release of the potential client list was a mistake because of the confidentiality provision in the Medicaid program.

Family Practice Associates was advised by HSD to revise and rewrite the letter which was sent out.

That was done. The original letter no longer is used.

The original letter said, in part, that "... Family Practice Associates has been designated by New Mexico Medicaid to perform the early and periodic Screening Diagnostic Testing in our area. According to state records (child's name) is eligible for a well child physical at our office, fully paid by the state of New Mexico ... we are required to keep track of those patients who fail to keep their appointments. Failure to contact our office for an appointment may jeopardize your Medicaid eligibility ..."

That letter has been criticized by HSD people and by a few individuals on two counts, that it implies that Family Practice Associates is the only provider which provides the screening and testing under the program and that Medicaid eligibility is not jeopardized if there is no response.

Dr. Arlene Brown said there was no intent in the letter to imply that Family Practice Associates was the only Medicaid provider under the program.

In fact, several providers in Lincoln County are screening clients under the program, McManus says.

They include Family Practice Associates (Brown, Michael D. Spence, M.D., James A. Fenimore, M.D., and Rosemary Zink, CFNP, Michael N. Carbuto, D.O., of Ruidoso and Christopher Robinson, M.D., along with Ernie Gonzales, physician's assistant, of the Carrizozo Health Center.

Dr. Nelson was at a workshop in the east this week and wasn't available to comment on the letter or mailing list.

Bruce Weydemeyer, director of the Medical Assistance Division of HSD which operates Medicaid, told The News there is no penalty for potential clients, it's not a mandatory program.

He said any penalty would be against the state from the federal government "if we don't get much participation."

He said Medicaid allows providers up to $38 for an initial screening for clients, plus "about 75 to 80 percent" of the provider's regular fee, on the average, for follow-up visits.

McManus said there are "50 categories of eligibility" under the Medicaid umbrella.

The number of children eligible for EPSDT in January in Lincoln County was 425. But 220 of that number remained unscreened, McManus said.

He said "another upsetting thing" is that there are no dental providers in Lincoln County or in Otero County for the EPSDT program. "And very few in Roswell," he said.

Weydemeyer said the EPSDT program is "just an opportunity" for people and even unborn babies to get medical care. That care can run through 20 years of age.

Four categories exist. They are as follows:

1. Infancy. a. newborn exam, b. an exam at two weeks, c. an exam at eight weeks, d. an exam at four months, e. an exam at three years, f. an exam at four years.

2. Early childhood: a. an exam at 15 months, b. an exam at 18 months, c. an exam at two years, d. an exam at three years, e. an exam at four years.

3. Late Childhood, Adolescence: a. an exam at five years, b. an exam at eight years, c. and exam at 10 years.

4. Adolescence: a. an exam between 13 and 16 years, b. an exam between 17 and 20 years.

Information on eligibility and other aspects of the program can be obtained through New Mexico Health Services offices at all levels.

Supreme Court nixes motion on Robert Leitzman estate

Carolyn Lietzman Wilcox and her husband, Harry Wilcox, continue to work their way through a legal maze over the estate of Mrs. Wilcox's late husband, Robert W. Lietzman.

On Tuesday, the State Supreme Court denied a motion by Wilcox, an attorney, that would have restrained District Judge Richard A. Parsons from carrying out a court order in the case.

Parsons ruled recently on one phase of the complicated chain of financial dealings in the multi-million dollar estate when he concluded that a note and mortgage between the husband and wife are void.

"The court ... concludes that the mortgage given by (Carolyn Lietzman-Wilcox) to Harry G. Wilcox Jr. was, considering the relationship of the parties, not an arm's length transaction, violated the Fraudulent Conveyances Act, violated the provisions of the Probate Code ... and was intended to create a preference among creditors," said Parsons in his ruling.

Wilcox, after that ruling, filed a writ of prohibition in the Supreme Court to overturn Parsons' ruling. After setting a hearing for April 17, the Supreme Court Tuesday summarily denied Wilcox's petition without a hearing, said Parsons.

U.S. Attorney Calvin Hyer and the IRS responded to the petition.

"Whenever a judge gets a writ of prohibition it's up to the lawyers whose position he sustained to respond," said Parsons.

The continuing problems surrounding the estate of Robert W. Lietzman all started when Lietzman, an international business operator, died in a helicopter crash on his Lincoln County ranch, the O-Bar-O, May 17, 1985. Although Lietzman was involved in a multitude of multi-million dollar business transactions, he died without a will. He also died owing the U.S. government a big chunk of taxes.

Lietzman was a colorful character whose mysterious death and adventurous lifestyle prompted one Albuquerque television station to produce a documentary program on his life.

His widow, Carolyn Lietzman, was appointed personal representative of his estate on October 3, 1985, and since then she's been in and out of court.

Judge Parsons ruled on July 30, 1986, that the O-Bar-O Ranch was community property of Carolyn and Robert Lietzman, and on January 18, 1990, a U.S. District Court agreed, adding that federal taxes against the deceased were solely his and attached a tax lien against his half of the property.

She married Harry Wilcox December 14, 1987.

The two were both parties to a court case that began when Carolyn Lietzman arrested two employees of the United States Forest Service on her ranch.

Lietzman-Wilcox took the two into custody, claiming they were trespassing. She took them to the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office where she filed charges.

Wilcox, who was then an assistant district attorney, later lost his job, apparently over that case.

Then District Attorney James Weldon said he ordered Wilcox to dismiss the case against the two USFS employees, and when he didn't follow those orders, he fired Wilcox on November 11, 1987, for what the DA termed insubordination.

The newly-weds lived on the O-Bar-O Ranch for some time after their marriage. On January 29, 1988, Lietzman-Wilcox granted her new husband a mortgage on the O-

Bar-O as security against future legal services.

That mortgage was for $3.5 million, but was later reduced to $460,000.

The IRS filed a motion June 3, 1988, to strike the mortgage, saying it was not reasonable in basis or amount, and claiming that the mortgage attempted to encumber property of the estate without court approval.

Wilcox made a partial assignment of that mortgage on May 31, 1989, to John S. Campbell of United New Mexico Bank at Vaughn. In August, Wilcox assigned part of his mortgage to Dennis K. Wallin to secure legal fees in connection with his representation of the estate.

Wallin was counsel of record until the entry of appearance of Wilcox and Campbell. Parsons scheduled a hearing October 29, 1990, to review evidence on the mortgage, and Wilcox claimed then, and still claims, that the district judge did not have the jurisdiction to consider whether the mortgage violated the Fraudulent Conveyance Act.

Wilcox said that the Supreme Court, not the district judge, had jurisdiction in the case. In asking for relief, Wilcox claimed that District Judge Parsons acted in excess of his jurisdiction.

Parsons had determined that the mortgage between Wilcox and his wife, Lietzman-Wilcox, was void. He also determined that Wilcox was not entitled to any attorney's fees or costs.

Wilcox disagreed, claiming he was deprived of due process.

He also said in his writ that the ruling "will cause ... grave and irreparable injury to petitioner's (Wilcox) reputation as an attorney."

Volunteers devote time, efforts to Hubbard Art Award for Excellence

The Second Annual Hubbard Art Award for Excellence will bring together this nation's finest realistic artists May 31 through June 1, in Ruidoso Downs.

When Joan Dale and R.D. Hubbard presented artist Howard Terping with their quarter of a million dollar art award last June, it was the culmination of countless hours of work and preparation.

It started with the Hubbards' dream which came true through their dedication and support, backed up with lots of hard work.

The First Hubbard Art Award for Excellence fulfilled the Hubbards goal of recognizing the finest of America's representational artists.

"The show and gala were met with even more enthusiasm than expected," reads a news release provided by the Hubbard Museum.

Masters in the genre of realism will be arriving in Ruidoso from all over the world to exhibit their works created especially for the purchase award of $250,000. The Hubbards will present the award during a gala on June 1.

The art will be on display throughout the weekend, and that exhibit will include works of five artists from the Soviet Union.

One piece from each participating artist will be displayed from mid-June through Labor Day weekend in the Hubbard Museum's Turf Club Gallery at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Hundreds of volunteer and staff hours have already contributed to the coordination of the project which promises to be even more extraordinary than the last, continues the release.

In addition to the individual volunteers serving on the Hubbard Museum Art Council, the museum is asking the real estate community to contribute three host homes for the artists visiting from the Soviet Union.

"With thanks to our locals, this year's request for Hubbard Museum volunteers was met with such success by residents of the Ruidoso area that all available volunteer positions have been filled," said John V. Hall, museum director.

Tickets are now available for the Second Annual Hubbard Art Award for Excellence. The weekend package includes the Hubbard Art Show and Sale on Friday, May 31, at the Anne Stradling Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs; the Artists' Signing Party and Luncheon on Saturday, June 1, at the Ruidoso Downs Turf Club, and the awards and dinner on Saturday, June 1, at the Anne Stradling Museum of the Horse.

Capitan gives nod to Fair Board funds

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Irritated by the repeated delays in approving a $1,500 annual allocation to the Lincoln County Fair Board, Capitan Trustee Norman Renfro Monday vented some steam. "This is four times in a row you've come up with something else for the fair board to do to get this money," Renfro said to Mayor Frank Warth. "It's ridiculous. I'm willing to give them the money tonight and take my chances. "If you don't want to give them the damn money, why not just say so," Renfro challenged Warth. For the past few months, Warth has been trying to determine under what conditions the money could be allocated by the village without violating the state anti-donation rule. Monday, it appeared that the allocation was about to be postponed again until the fair board could establish the number of times the public uses fair ground facilities each year and a fair market charge for each use. "I say give them the money tonight if they'll bring a statement in the morning," said Trustee Gilbert Montoya. Fair Board member Jody Roberts said, "It will be here." The board unanimously approved a motion by Trustee David Rouleau instructing Warth to pay the fair board whenever it presents an appropriate verification statement. Warth said he did not try to kill the allocation. "I just wanted it documented," he said. Two months ago, Warth had requested a legal opinion on the allocation from the attorney for the New Mexico Municipal League. The attorney responded that in its present form, the allocation amounted to a donation and did not appear to be legal. Guided by Village Attorney J. Robert Beauvais, the trustees decided the best way to avoid violation of the state prohibition against donations was to pay the fair board for use of the facilities during elections and other public functions. Beauvais contacted the local government division of the Department of Finance for an opinion from its attorney Michael Righter. In a letter dated March 21, Righter wrote that several conditions would have to be met to use that plan. The village would need to show that the fair space is required for public purposes in addition to all currently available village facilities, that the space is to be used by the general public on an equal opportunity basis, that the payment must bear a direct relationship to the space rented and for the periods rented, and that the space is provided for public activities by public organizations and not for private or for-profit groups. "Just compute the value and if it is close to the appropriation, there's no problem," Beauvais said. "The facilities definitely benefit the village and the public has use of them without charge." Renfro and Roberts said they were concerned that after compiling the statement, there still might be a delay in receiving the money. "Are you saying we'll have to go back to the state again for another opinion?" Renfro asked. "When are they going to get the money, next year? The annual county fair and the Smokey Bear Stampede (put on by the fair board) both bring lots of money into the village." At that point, Rouleau settled the issue with his motion to approve the allocation contingent on receipt of the fair board statement.

Capitan board backs Senate realignment

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan Board of Trustees Monday unanimously backed a proposal to realign state senatorial districts. The realignment was suggested by the Raton City Commission and Mayor Mickey A. Baker in a letter sent to the 90-plus members of the New Mexico Municipal League. Baker told The Ruidoso News Tuesday that his commission became involved in the effort because their senator represents a vast area covering several counties. "We're not heavily populated and our representative and senator cover a large area," Baker said. "We feel that's unfair. Under this plan, each county would have one senator. Right now, places like Albuquerque control both the House and the Senate. It's not fair." During the meeting Monday, Capitan Mayor Frank Warth said the aim of the proposal is to have one senator elected from each county to insure more direct representation. "There would be no increase in the absolute number of senators, just a redistribution," Warth said. Capitan village attorney J. Robert Beauvais pointed out that reapportionment, scheduled this year, will realign legislative district based on population. "This is trying to realign based on geography, not population," Warth explained. "Lincoln County will never have enough population for a senator of our own. "State Senator Jim Martin (R-Socorro) is doing the best he can, but..." In other business and with little comment from customers, the trustees eliminated a $10 a month stand-by charge for customers who are absent from their homes. Instead, those customers on water and sewer will be charged the minimum usage of $27.11. Those receiving only water service will be charged $20.75. The new system will simplify the village's bookkeeping and is the approach used by other communities, Warth said. The trustees also passed a resolution establishing a water and sewer emergency repair and replacement fund with a $60,000 reserve. Warth explained that by putting the money into the fund, it could only be spent for utility system upkeep and improvement. A revised Joint Powers Agreement among members of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority also was approved by the trustees. As rewritten, the agreement absolves the other five members of the authority from any financial responsibility for closure or post-closure costs connected to Capitan's Class B landfill. Beauvais said state officials have estimated those costs could reach as high as $150,000. But he said he is optimistic a compromise can be worked out. It is the state's stance that the village is subject to new closure regulations that took effect in 1989. The trustees contend that the village is exempt.

Thespians relive forest fire

Capitan High School's drama class under the direction of Molly Weber has a busy few weeks ahead. They will relive the days of the May 1950 forest fire that swept through the Capitan mountains during a performance at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 16, in the school's multi-purpose room. It will be part of the Friends of Smokey Bear kick-off campaign. Tickets may be purchased from Friends members or at village hall. On May 2, the students will perform a two-act comedy entitled "Girl Chase," and a one-act play, "Halycon Days." The evening of entertainment will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room. The first play has been double cast to allow more students to participate and to present the play to clients of Fort Stanton Hospital.

Cowboys & woodcutters raise funds to go to camp

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Terry Cox and his son Trevor were out cutting wood last weekend, but it wasn't to store for next winter. The two were donating their time and muscle to the fund to send Capitan basketball students to training camp this summer. Sunday, area cowboys will be roping cattle to benefit the boys and girls. The following weekend, adults and students will compete in a volleyball tournament. "We need to raise about $250 for each boy for the basketball camp June 23-28 at Texas Tech," said Linda Cox, who is helping organize the events. At least six boys and six girls will be going to basketball camp, she said. "If we raise more money, more on the teams will go."

The team roping competition will be staged at Jody Roberts Arena on School Road about a quarter mile off Highway 380, west of Capitan. The entry fee is $24 a team or $12 per person. Roberts said a $200 buckle will be awarded to the highest money winner. The competition will begin at 1 p.m. and run until dark. Roberts is donating his arena and Dean Brewer is giving a portion of his stock fee. Signup for the volleyball games April 20-21 will be accepted through April 17. The entry fee is $60 per team. Trophies will be awarded for first through third place. The cedar cut by Cox and others will be delivered to the Ruidoso and Capitan area for $100 a cord. For information, contact Cox at 257-4651.

Board of Trustees vote to hire another officer

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Capitan needs at least two full-time police officers, a group of local residents told the village Board of Trustees Monday. Police officer Tom Hammontre has been patrolling the village by himself since a part-time officer resigned March 25. Despite their insistence and against the recommendation of Mayor Frank Warth, the trustees decided to advertise for a part-time officer instead. "I recommended that we hire another full-time employee, however, the trustees opted for part-time to help Tom," Warth told the audience. David Cummins, owner of a grocery store in Capitan, said Hammontre needs full-time back up. My Coke machine was broken into over the weekend," Cummins said. "I'm going to have to stay down there Friday and Saturday nights to protect my property." Hammontre, who was first hired by the village in 1984, earns an annual salary of $17,010. His position was phased out by the village in November 1989, but he was rehired in April 1990. In November of that same year, the village police chief resigned to join the Ruidoso Police Department, leaving Hammontre on his own. The trustees decided not to replace the chief and a part-time officer, who worked only on Hammontre's days off, was brought on board just after Christmas. She quit in March, according to village records. Twice in one week since then, no officer was available in Capitan to respond to complaints reported to the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department. Cummins said the village, which has a population of slightly under 1,000 residents, really needs three officers. Even though three county deputies and a state police officer live in Capitan, they have their own jobs to do, he said.

Electrical safety... something an employee shouldn't learn on the job

On-the-job training is a dangerous and expensive way to teach employees about electrical safety. Employers can avoid serious accidents by teaching employees before their jobs begin that they should never contact underground or overhead power lines with anything.

This advice is especially important for employees who operate backhoes, winches or other equipment that could come into contact with power lines. For more information, contact your local TNP office today.

CRIME STOPPERS

"CRIME OF THE WEEK"

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000.00 for information that leads to the arrest and Grand Jury indictment or Magistrate Court Bindover of the person or persons who committed this crime or any other involved felony crime in Lincoln County. Let's work together to call a stop to crime.

Phone 257-4545

In the early morning hours of March 24th or late night hours of March 24th, unknown person or persons unlawfully and forcibly entered the Elks Lodge located on Hwy 20 west in Ruidoso, New Mexico. Numerous coin operated machines were broken into, and five small safes were pried and money removed. Missing money and damage to the lodge was in excess of $4,000.

Anyone having information relating to this crime or any criminal activity is urged to call Crime Stoppers. The Crime Stoppers phone line is manned twenty-four hours a day, and persons calling Crime Stoppers do not have to give their name to be eligible for a reward. Anyone calling Crime Stoppers outside the local exchange may call collect within Lincoln County.

Golfers scramble at the Links

The Ruidoso High School golf team will be hosting a Golf Scramble beginning at noon Sunday, April 14, at the Links of Sierra Blanca. Signups will continue through Saturday, April 13.

The Warrior golfers have presented this series of scrambles to raise funds for travel expenses this season.

Kent Beatty, assistant golf teacher for the school, said that all of the area golf courses are participating in the scramble and many local golfers have made it a point to participate each time as well. To join the regulars, meet new friends and help the student golfers call the Links at 258-5330 and tell them to put you with a foursome.

Final signup date set for women's softball league play

Women's softball signups and registration will be at 6 p.m. Monday, April 15, at the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center. This is the final date to sign up.

According to a news release, it is very important that coaches and players attend this meeting. Fees are due at the meeting.

For more information, contact Jana Townsend at 257-4043 or 354-2237 (after 5:30 p.m.), Debbie Hobbs at 257-4043 or 257-2820 (after 5:30 p.m.) or Sherry at Day Light Donuts, 257-9516.

Fishing season opens; it's time to purchase new license

With the opening of a new fishing season April 1, came the reopening of several waters that had been closed for several months to allow waterfowl to winter and feed.

Those waters include Bonito Lake which can be reached by turning toward Carrizozo off of State Highway 48. It is open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. No boats or floating devices are allowed, and the posted portion near the outlet is closed to fishing.

A new fishing license is required of anglers over 12 years of age, and children under 12 fish for free. Licenses are available from more than 230 vendors statewide, and from game department offices in Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Raton, Roswell and Las Cruces.

Cost of fishing licenses is $8.50 for residents ($14 with trout validation) and $18.50 for nonresidents ($25.50 with trout validation). Junior-senior and handicapped licenses, for residents 12 and 13 years old and 65 years and older and for residents with severe physical impairments, are available for $4.50 with trout validation.

A general hunting and fishing license is available to residents for $31.50 with trout validation.

The $5.25 wildlife habitat improvement stamp is not required at Bonito Lake.

Little League signup Monday

Signups for Little League Baseball will be from 6-8 p.m. Monday, April 15, in the lobby at Nob Hill Elementary School.

Little League is open to boys and girls who will be at least eight years old, but not older than 12, on July 31 of this year. A birth certificate and parent's signature are required.

The fee will be $20 per player, or $30 for more than one player in the same family.

Scott Schrader, coordinator, reminds parents that youngsters must be signed up on April 15 to assure them a spot on a team. Late signups will be placed on a waiting list and placed on teams as openings occur.

For further information, contact Schrader at 257-9818.

Golfers open season in Roswell

The Ruidoso Warrior golf team got its first tournament of the season Friday, in the Roswell High-Goddard High Invitational Tournament, at Spring River Golf Course.

In perfect conditions, the boys team shot 360, finishing in ninth place.

Three girls competed for the Warriors in individual competition. Shannon Hathcock shot 104, Aimee Reynolds had 119 and Tabatha Parnell scored 134.

The individual scoring for the boys included:

West Texas Derby winner

Piebyeu kept his three-year-old unbeaten streak alive by winning the $80,752 West Texas Derby at Sunland Park, and beating arch rival Go Go By Yawl. Jockey Joe Martinez was aboard the rangy son of Pie In The Sky. Piebyeu has won three races this season and collected $40,376 for his Derby win. He is owned by Jean Chavers of Bloomfield, Colorado. J.B. Montgomery trains Piebyeu, as well as See Me Gone, winner of last year's Sunland Fall Futurity. Montgomery indicated both Piebyeu and See Me Gone will compete in the Derby series at Ruidoso Downs Race Track this season. Racing begins at Ruidoso Downs on May 9, and horses will begin arriving next week when the barns open on April 15.

Apache Trails is making plans to extend tourism

by AL STUBBS
Ruidoso News Business Editor

What is now called Apache Trails Promotion Council Wednesday will elect officers for 1991-92 at a monthly meeting set for 4 p.m., May 8, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods in Mescalero.

Apache Trails has been an informal alliance of chambers of commerce, cities and other entities from Alamogordo-Tularosa through Cloudcroft to the Mescalero Apache Reservation, through Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, Hondo Valley, Lincoln, Capitan and Carrizozo.

Its purpose is to urge visitors to "stay an extra day" in the area when vacationing or just visiting in the area. Area tourist attractions are highlighted in an Apache Trails brochure.

A regular monthly luncheon meeting was conducted Wednesday at the Inn of the Mountain Gods by Jerry Watts, informal chairman. The group meets in various communities on a somewhat rotating basis.

Members also adopted a fee schedule and by-laws at the Wednesday meeting.

The by-laws say, in part, that "Apache Trails Promotion Council is organized to promote attractions, natural beauty and the history of the area."

Membership categories and the fee schedule are as follows:
1. Municipalities, $1,000 annually;
2. Communities with paid chamber staff and other community entities with paid staff, $500; 3. Communities with volunteer chamber staffs, $250, 4. Attractions and individuals, $250. 5. Associate members, non-voting, $50. The latter can include individuals.

Mark Doth, representing Ruidoso Downs Race Track said he had a concern, that no representative of the Mescalero Apache Tribe was at the April meeting.

Watts said he had talked to Mescalero tribal President Wendell Chino, Tuesday, and that Chino was in Washington on Wednesday.

Doth said the track is still willing to split with the tribe on the costs of billboards, as discussed in the past.

"We need more visible support from him," Doth said of Chino.

The Apache Trails concept was originated by Chino some years ago.

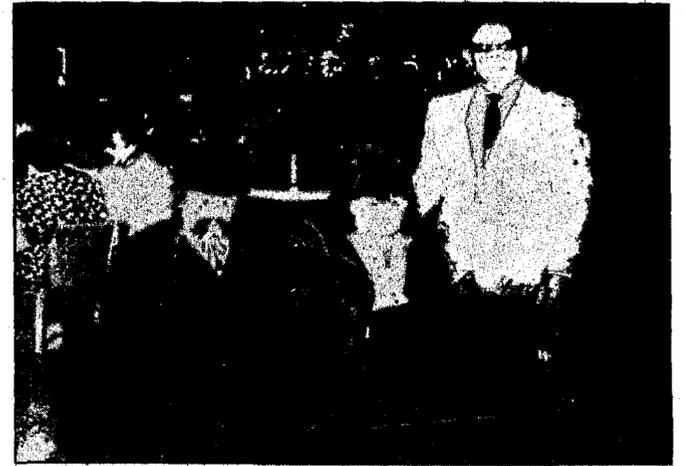

Members agreed that the next priority will be signage along the Apache Trails route.

The New Mexico Highway Department has promised cooperation, Frank Gentile of the Alamogordo Promotion Board said.

Signs will feature an inverted arrowhead.

Doth suggested that Apache Trails be expanded to include Roswell, that the move might enhance prospects for state matching funds.

He cited several tourist attractions in the Roswell area, including Bottomless Lakes State Park and the Roswell Museum and Art Center.

Connoisseurs

Gonzales named top physicians assistant

Eastern New Mexico Emergency Medical Services Region III recently honored Ernest David Gonzales, physician's assistant, at an awards luncheon. Gonzales received the "Outstanding Contribution to EMS Award" during the organization's fourth annual awards luncheon, March 16, in Portales.

Region III covers the counties of Chaves, Curry, DeBaca, Eddy, Guadalupe, Harding, Lea, Lincoln, Otero, Quay, Roosevelt and Union.

Gonzales, of Carrizozo, has devoted a great deal of time and energy to the EMS system and is always available to lend a hand, give advice and offer support.

Although Gonzales is not an EMT or physician, he attends EMS conferences and stays on top of the ever-changing world of EMS. He works as a physician's assistant at the Carrizozo Health Center under the delegation of Dr. Chris Robinson of the Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso.

The Carrizozo Health Center, which also serves Corona, is a satellite of the LCMC.

In a release, Region III said of Gonzales:

"He has been known to take food to patients who couldn't get it for themselves and travels to hospitals in Alamogordo, Roswell and Ruidoso, not to make rounds, but to let his patients know he cares."

The Dreamer

A little bird told me spring is here

Messengers of Spring

This is being sent to you just at noon on April 8, a bright and shining day with the south wind gently blowing a warm and balmy wave of springtime air into the vale.

After holding back for most of the springtime season, the true spring weather arrived yesterday with a band of piñon jays feeding at the feeding tables singing their special songs of spring: "A high, the sky, A high." The squirrels were everywhere running out on the limbs of Walnut trees, and racing over the small meadows and rocky banks.

Two little striped chipmunks appeared on the little apricot tree outside the sunroom doing acrobatic stunts on the windblown branches, delighted to be up and about after their long winter sleep. Friends tell me that the hummingbirds have arrived — these little summer visitors are pretty sure of their weather.

The early pear tree here at the place is out in full silvery white bloom, and the apple fruit buds are just showing their pink and white colors.

However, down in the lower reaches of the valley, the apples are beginning to bloom, and in the mid-section of the valley, the peaches, plums and sweet cherries are coming into flower although they are a little later than usual this year. This is a good sign.

Swallow Scouts

Just a few minutes ago I saw two swallow, up from Mexico circling high in the sky, testing the air currents, trying to determine what message to bring back to the main colony down south.

Just today about ten o'clock my little pet lizard, Oswald, appeared on the steps of the front door, blinking at the bright sunshine, and taking a sunbath. He is always right on time to celebrate the true spring weather. All in all we are entering a wonderful spring season.

Remembering Dennie Klein

The other day I met Mrs. Virginia Klein Armstrong and her three charming children up town, and she handed me a paper with a drawing of her brother Jerome Don Klein affectionately known as "Donnie." Also on the paper was a poem by Donnie's uncle, Charles Gent. Charles had composed this tribute to his nephew some years ago.

Virginia told me that on March 24 it was 21 years ago to the day that Donnie had fallen in combat in Vietnam. Donnie is the son of Romeo and Katie Klein of Ruidoso. And the local Chapter 7072 Jerome D. Klein of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is named for Donnie.

Let us send up a prayer of thanks to God for Donnie and all our veterans,

Morning Prayer At Saint Anne's Chapel

On the first Sunday of Easter, April 7, morning prayer was conducted by Lay Reader Nellie Ruth Jones, who preached a sermon based on the Gospel according to Saint John: "Do you believe because you have seen? Blessed are they who have not seen and believe."

In the prayer of the people, Nellie Ruth gave blessings for the birthdays of Bert Shrecengost, Bill Weber, Pat Tate and Tom Sullivan; and for the wedding anniversary of Bill and Lois Hostetter.

Easter Birthday

After church last Sunday I drove up to the barn where there were several cows and a group of calves lying close together. One of the calves, startled at the noise of the pickup, jumped up and ran up the hill. He was the newest of six calves, who had come down from the hills with his mother and made himself at home with the older calves.

After while he came down to the barn again and began rubbing noses with his brothers and sisters, who treated him as their pride and joy. The handsome little bull calf looked to be one week old, which would make his birthday on Easter Sunday. So let us call him Easter Boy.

All through the mountain land there is a spirit of thankfulness to God for a blessed Easter season and a wonderful springtime and countless other blessings.

All tied up

KEEP THE PRESSURE ON

LIKE A PRESSURE COOKER, YOUR CAR'S COOLING SYSTEM IS PRESSURIZED TO KEEP THE BOILING POINT AT A TEMPERATURE TO PREVENT OVERHEATING. WHEN PRESSURE IS LOST BECAUSE OF A LEAK IN THE SYSTEM, THE BOILING POINT DROPS AND THE ENGINE OVERHEATS.

CAUTION: SUDDEN RELEASE OF PRESSURE, SUCH AS REMOVING THE PRESSURE CAP FROM A HOT ENGINE, CAN CAUSE A BLAST OF SUPERHEATED STEAM. SOMEONE COULD BE SCALDED. FOR COOLING SYSTEM EFFICIENCY, RE-SURE PRESSURE CAP IS CORRECT. FOR SAFETY, DO NOT REMOVE THE RADIATOR CAP FROM AN OVERHEATED COOLING SYSTEM UNTIL PRESSURE HAS BEEN RELEASED.

Post offices paint a historical picture

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Since Lincoln County was first carved out of the New Mexico Territory in 1869, about 70 post offices have sprouted within its boundaries.

Many lasted only a few years, some only a few months.

They were the lifeline for isolated ranches that fanned out over the countryside and for miners who left their families back East to seek their fortunes in gold.

Often housed in the community mercantile store, the post office provided a place to meet neighbors and to exchange gossip and advice.

But the fortunes of the post offices were tied to the fortunes of the settlements they served. As gold played out, railroads declined and small farms were bought out by larger ranches, the stores closed. Some post offices hung on with postmasters operating out of their living rooms. But most eventually succumbed.

A few died by violence. According to a 1962 pamphlet, "A History of Lincoln County Post Offices," put together by postmasters of that time, Red Cloud was one of those victims.

Red Cloud
Located in the Corona area, it opened in March 1882 with Maggie Thomason as postmaster.

As Mary Fuller explained in the pamphlet, "The office was discontinued because the mail carrier was killed by outlaws before he reached the stage stop where the office was located."

Fort Stanton
The first Lincoln County post office was established in 1857 at Fort Stanton two years after the fort was built on the bank of the Bonito River, a few miles north of the junction of two major trade routes. David S. Garland was appointed postmaster.

Except for a brief period during the Civil War, the post office has given continuous service.

According to information in the pamphlet, the stage with mail and passengers arrived each day from White Oaks, then a flourishing mining town. Another stage carried mail twice a week from Mesilla, which was the capitol of Arizona and New Mexico territories.

From Fort Stanton, the mail was moved by stage 15 miles east to Roswell and west to Mesilla. Letters from points in the western part of the state took about three days to reach Fort Stanton.

Some well-known people received their mail at the post office there. John J. Pershing cashed a money order on April 22, 1887, during his first tour of duty after graduating from West Point.

But other post offices also had their share of famous customers.

San Patricio
Actresses Helen Hayes, Linda Darnell and Teresa Wright received mail at San Patricio in Hondo Valley, and renowned artist Peter Hurd lived there.

The post office was opened in 1904 in the home of the first postmaster Ignacio Olguin, son of one of the original settlers. It still operates today. Other valley post offices were opened at Hondo, Glencoe, Tinnie and Picacho.

Corona
Before Corona started its own post office in 1902, residents faced a long ride by horseback or wagon to Pinos Wells to pick up their mail delivered from Las Vegas.

According to the postmasters' pamphlet, patrons would board a hack (a small buggy) at Corona with writing materials. They would ride 20 miles northwest to the post office, collect their mail, answer it and then ride back home. The route was known as the "Gringo Mail."

The method of distribution often was equally as interesting.

Pinos Wells
Rebecca Salas was postmaster at Pinos Wells in Torrance County (where many resident in northern Lincoln County received their mail) and when patrons arrived to collect their letters, the custom was to hand over the bag and let the them sort out their own mail.

That was an improvement over the system used in the mining community of White Oaks before its post office was opened in 1880.

According to Roy Harmon, former postmaster at the county seat of Carrizozo, a story handed down over the years paints a picture of a practical but unreliable method of mail distribution.

"A passerby would bring the mail," Harmon said. "The letters would then be tied loosely on a burro and the animal would be made to gallop down the trail strewn letters for the miners to pick up."

Nogal
The Nogal post office also

Roy Harmon, former postmaster of Carrizozo, researched the history of many of the old post offices.

opened in 1880, but under the name of Galena. It still operates in a building across the street from the original site.

Former Nogal Postmaster Pearl Stearns received national recognition in 1959 for being the oldest active postmaster in the United States at the age of 76. She continued to serve for another 16 years, according to current Postmaster Judy Fletcher.

White Oaks
When Harmon was a young boy, he said the mail came from White Oaks to Carrizozo by hack and then later by four-cylinder car. However, unlike the horses and burros, the cars sometimes couldn't putt their way up the mountain roads.

The closing of the post office in White Oaks in 1954, marked the end of a 74-year history, he said. The mining town faded after being by-passed by the railroad for Corona.

Two other towns that opened their own post offices around White Oaks in the late 1890s were Reventon/Rabenton, six miles east and Jicarilla, to the west. Both closed in the 1920s.

White Oaks and its neighbor to the north, Ancho, which also had its own post office for more than half a century, exist today only as remnants of former bustling communities.

Deseo
Herbert Traylor, owner of the Bear's Den in Capitan, has vivid memories of post office operations when he was a young boy. His mother was acting postmaster at Deseo and his daughter now lives in a building that once housed the Spindle post office.

"The government opened the area for homesteading about 1914," Traylor said.

His family stayed in the area until 1919, but by then a larger ranch was buying up all of the smaller stakes and the post office had closed.

"My father and W.H. Sellers went out there in 1915," Traylor said. "The mail was carried in a hack from Meek (northeast of Lincoln) to Capitan. The driver would stay over night and then head back to Meek (which was a sheep and cattle settlement)."

Sellers was the first postmaster in Deseo, 12 miles north of Capitan, when the post office opened in 1916.

About 80 families spread out as far away as 20 miles received mail from a small corner of the Sellers' store, Traylor said.

"They had small boxes for post office customers, but no locks on them," Traylor said. "The mail had to be handed out by the postmaster. You could mail a letter for two cents and a post card for one cent."

By the time Traylor's mother took over, the mail was being delivered by car.

"I can recall a tall fellow named VanWinkle delivering the mail about three times a week in a Model T Ford," he said.

According to the postmaster's pamphlet, there were three other post offices north of the Capitan Mountains: Encinosa, which lasted five years; Richardson, which was open for 17 years; and Spindle, which only lasted three years. Two delivery routes, called star routes, ran from Capitan to the Alto post office and to the post office at Pine Lodge to the east. When Pine Lodge closed in 1924, the mail was delivered to Arabela, a ranching community of about 125 people on the east side of the county.

Capitan originally was named Gray for Seaborn T. Gray, who was the major landowner in the area and the only postmaster while under that name from 1894-1900.

One of the shortest terms of service occurred in Manchester, a settlement that in 1881 had ambitions to challenge the dominance of White Oaks.

As Roy Harmon recalls, the settlers proposed to open a bank as proof of their commitment.

"They even went so far as to have a shipment of money sent in for the bank and when the shipment arrived, it had been packed in a keg," he said. "Everyone gathered around to see the keg opened and much to their dismay, they found a few silver dollars on top with only nails underneath. The bank never was opened and the post office lasted only four months."

Some other names that burst on the county scene only to quickly fade include: Vera Cruz 10 miles east of Carrizozo; Three Rivers, later changed to White Mountain; Chisum near Roswell; Parsons, which served the gold mining area of the same name at the foot of Nogal Peak; Bonito City, now under Bonito Lake; Bass, Kennedy and Churchill, all closed in 1890; Cole closed in 1892; and Eichel and Holloway.

Hurlburt, Bogle and Coyote Springs were established around a railroad pump station as was Oscura.

Many others became part of other counties as they were sliced from Lincoln, but most still died out with changing fortunes.

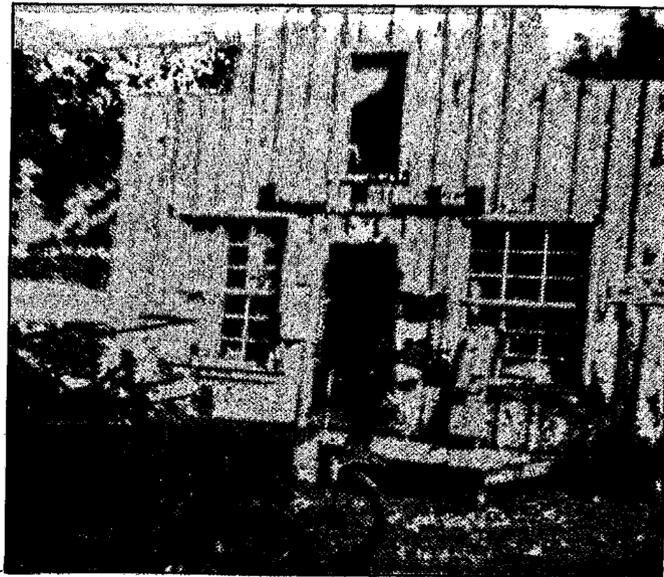

Rudolph was renamed Sunnyside and now lies in San Miguel County, Seven Rivers, Eddy, Hope and Lookout are in Eddy County; Elk, Crowflat, Pine Springs and Weed in Otero; Upper Penasco in Dona Ana; and Lower Penasco is in Chaves.

White Sulphur Springs, which is part of Otero County today, was changed to South Fork and became the site of one of the bloody battles of the Lincoln County War in the 1870s. It eventually was moved to Mescalero.

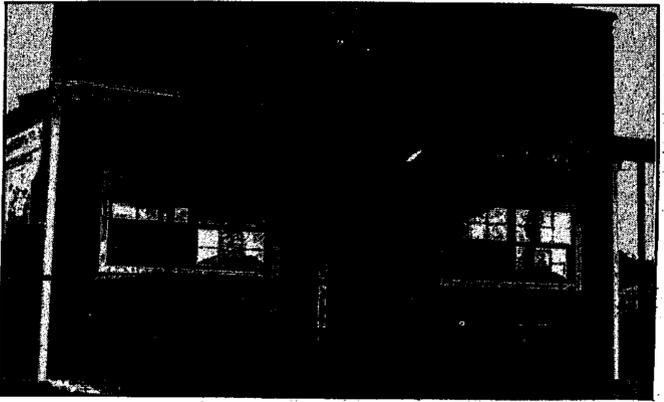

Lincoln
The settlement of Lincoln, formerly the county seat, is another name famous for its association with the War, Billy the Kid and the Regulators.

Writing in the 1962 pamphlet, Mary (Hattie) Phillips said the mail was carried by buckboard from Roswell in late 1800s until 1912. The driver stopped at Picacho and near Diamond A ranch to change horses before reaching Lincoln.

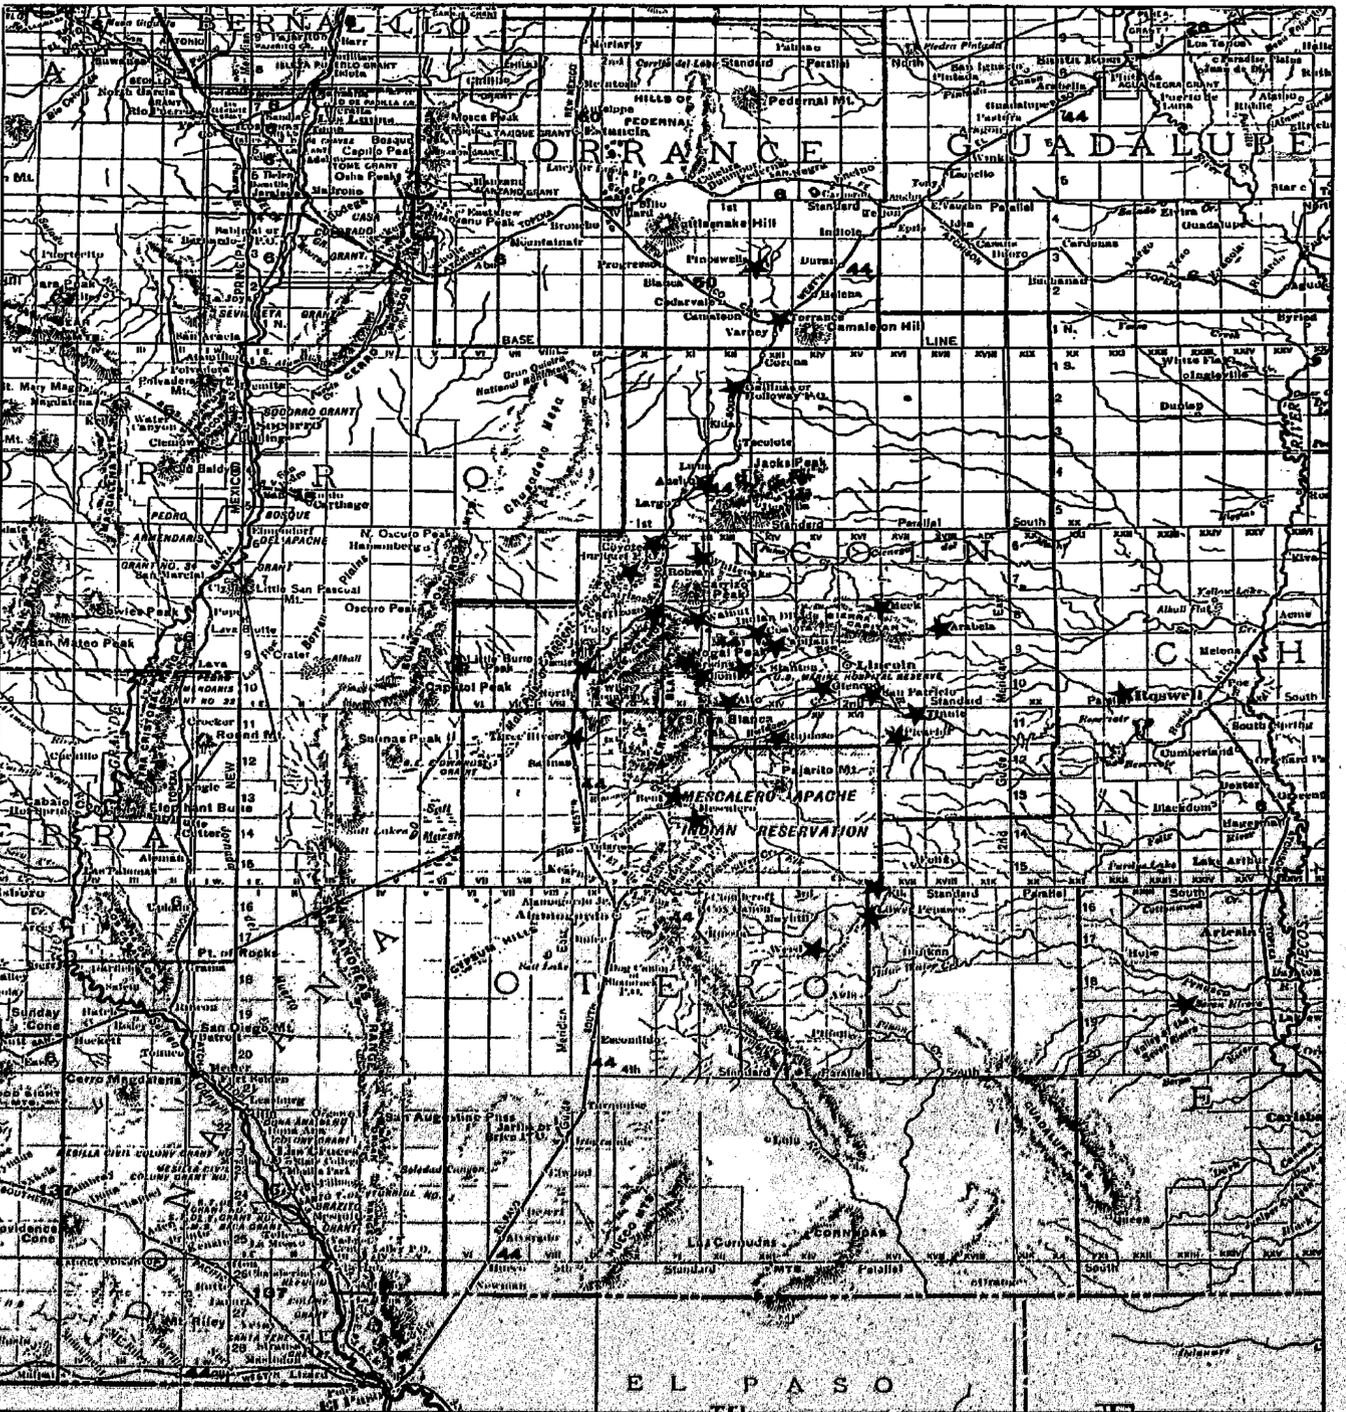

Charles Wingfield was one of the star route carriers who changed teams at the Angus post office around the turn of the century while delivering mail to and from Ruidoso. Angus was closed in 1913.

The old Ruidoso post office (above) in the mid-1920s was situated on U.S. 70 about half a mile southwest of town. Below is the Nogal post office, which replaced the original opened in 1880 under the name of Galena.

Then and now
That same year, 26 post offices were operating. Today, the county is served by 14 post offices, all of them the survivors of changing times. They are: Corona, Carrizozo, Capitan, Nogal, Fort Stanton, Lincoln, San Patricio, Alto, Glencoe, Hondo, Picacho, Ruidoso Downs (formerly Green Tree), Tinnie and Ruidoso, which opened in 1982 and was located for a time in the Old Dowlin Mill on Sudderth Drive.

UNM keeps its secrets

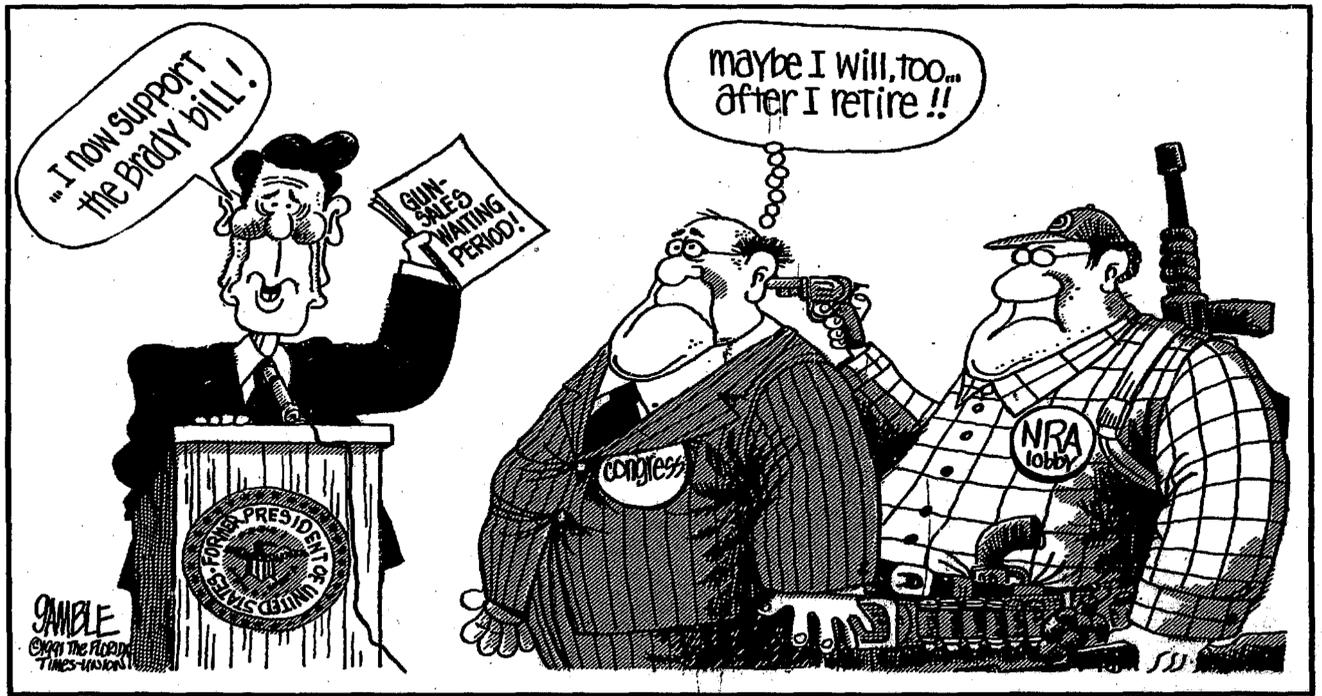

What you don't know could very well hurt you. That's why this newspaper, as well as most other publications in this state, is in support of the Albuquerque Journal's lawsuit that questions the secrecy used by the University of New Mexico in its search for a new president last year.

That lawsuit is in the courts in Albuquerque this week, and we applaud the Journal and its editor for pressing the case. UNM, despite its previous plans to announce the names of all finalists to be interviewed, provided only two names when it hired President Richard Peck. The Regents traveled to Dallas, Texas, and interviewed nine candidates.

New Mexico Foundation for Open Government (FOG) has joined in the case, too; and is asking the court to stay with an earlier decision where Eastern New Mexico University was ordered to hand over the names of all finalists for the head coaching job.

While we, as well as the parties to the suit, have no problems with President Peck, the ends don't justify the means when tax money is involved. Peck is a fine president, and perhaps he was the best of the lot. But the veiled search has cast a cloud over his tenure.

Taxpayers still don't know how many women, how many men or how many minorities applied for the highest paid public job in this state. And now tax dollars are being used to fight the very people who have a right to know.

On The Record

What are the odds on more gambling?

Gambling: you pay your money, and you take your chances.

To gamble or not to gamble — that's the question that keeps coming back before New Mexico lawmakers. The question is on the agendas of many state legislatures, as the search continues for new sources of revenue to keep feeding the bottomless pits we call state governments.

Maybe more and different and bigger and better gambling is just the ticket. Or, then again, maybe it's not.

Pari-mutuel betting on horse racing has been a part of the New Mexico scene for a long time. I lose a few dollars at the race track every year whether I need to or not.

That wagering was extended to simulcasts a couple of years ago, providing for betting between horse race tracks and extending that season with operations like the Sports Theater at Ruidoso Downs.

Charity bingo was expanded to provide for big money bingo on Indian reservations, and then some of those reservations, including Mescalero, added video gaming.

And every year, New Mexico lawmakers debate bills that would add to the gambling possibilities here in this state — from casino gambling to lotteries. Lobbyists line up on both sides, saying things like "gambling will save the state's economy" or "gambling will be the ruination of us all" and so forth.

Ruidoso has been at the center of controversy over video gambling for the past few legislative sessions. Bud Vuicich led the charge when Garrey was still the Gov, but an active citizen lobbying effort was unsuccessful that year.

by
Frankie Jarrell
Ruidoso News
Editor

I hear that Alice King doesn't like gambling any more than Garrey did, so Bruce isn't real likely to sign bills into law that extend gambling any further. Or, maybe it depends on who asks him to...

We hear a lot about the impacts of gambling on Laughlin, Nevada, and on Deadwood, South Dakota. The reviews are mixed.

"USA Today," in its April 5 edition, carried opinions of its readers. Bob Rowe dropped off a copy of that Opinion piece, that shows some "USA Today" readers are for it and some are against it.

Here are a few of those opinions as published in "USA Today":

Noreen Neary of Dunmore, Pennsylvania, said: "Although gambling in the Poconos may do a lot of good for people who are out of jobs, in the long run, it would do our area a great deal of damage."

Danny Liechty of Fort Wayne, Indiana, had a different view: "I think gambling is bad for any community. It seems the majority of those who are gambling are the ones who can least afford it. Apparently, they are grabbing for that get-rich-quick dream. They only ones who get rich quick are the casino owners."

But Mark Kappenman of San Bernardino, California, said: "Gambling is good for this country. It did wonders for parts of South Dakota. It brought cities back to bigger and brighter places than what they once were."

Bill Bolling of Indianapolis, Indiana, said: "I don't believe casino gambling is good for anyone it influences people to believe they can get something for nothing."

William Cobourn of Penacook, New Hampshire, had this to say: "I am not a gambling man, but I see nothing wrong with casino gambling, especially in New Hampshire where we have no retail sales or income tax. It would provide a good source of revenue. There is nothing immoral about gambling. No one is forced to do it, and it should be everyone's constitutional right. I am very much opposed to laws that protect people from themselves."

Kevin Hamm of Spartanburg, South Carolina, said that "Gambling is extremely bad for a community," and Chris McKemie of Atlanta, Georgia, believes the choice should be made by the voters.

Our state rep, John Underwood, said earlier this session, that he, too, wants the voters to decide.

Opinions are as varied as people on the issue of gambling, and I'd wager Ruidoso citizens would be split on the subject, too.

What do you think? I'd sure like to know. Drop me a note at The Ruidoso News, PO Box 128, Ruidoso NM 88345.

Meanwhile, I'm not taking any bets on the subject.

Zia Girl Scout Council honors leaders on "their day" — April 22

TO THE EDITOR:

The times are changing. Mothers are working more outside the home, parents are spending a lot of time commuting to and from work, and families have less time to spend together. But one thing hasn't changed. Parents remain vitally concerned about the wellbeing of their children.

One organization that shares parents' concerns is the Girl Scouts. The Girl Scouts understand that self-reliance, self-esteem and leadership experiences are three of the most important gifts a girl can receive. Girl Scout leaders find the time to give girls these gifts, and more.

Today, 79 years after the first

Girl Scout troop met in the United States, the Girl Scouts' goal remains unchanged—to help today's girls become tomorrow's leaders. The remarkable thing is that Girl Scout troop leaders make every developmental step along the way fun.

April 22 is Girl Scout Leader

Day. Zia Girl Scout Council takes great pride in the work of our leaders. I urge everyone to take a moment to say, "thanks."

And, if you are a Girl Scout leader, our caps are off to you. Enjoy your day.

Janet St. John, President
Zia Girl Scout Council

Reader says closed sessions are common practice all over USA

TO THE EDITOR:

Just think of it! Eight columns and two large photos, plus additional space labeled "editorial."

I don't recall ever, any such event, of a positive nature, which demanded such coverage. This combination likely was hatched at a closed session at The Ruidoso News.

Sports reporter, Charles Stallings, in his version of the event, when the Council withdrew into a closed session discussion, not an uncommon procedure with councils throughout the USA, reported that the Council "slammed the door in their faces." Other phrases written by Stallings include such gems as; "it appears, seems to, in my opinion, appears that and apparently intends to." Thanks, Chuck. This is very enlightening!

The city council committed the unpardonable sin of not inviting the paper's one-sided reporting and editing staff into a closed session at city hall. This mentality naturally assumes that if they are not included, there must be something underhanded going on. Given the abuse of The Ruidoso News on the open-meetings coverage, it is small wonder that they may not be welcome in executive discussions.

The editor expounds on "their obligation to fulfill the role as watchdogs." I agree with this precept completely, however, this editor doesn't seem to know the difference between a "watch-dog" and a "vicious attack dog," or just a plain old "hound dawg." A great pity for the readers.

Our present editor was once quoted as having said, that "one does not argue with a person who buys ink by the barrel." Translated, this means that the editor has the ink, the press, and control of reporters and what is printed, regardless of accuracy or objectivity.

The Ruidoso News readers deserve much, much better!

9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.—SOCIETY'S BIGGEST SECRET, "Codependency and Sexual Trauma" is the subject for a free workshop at the Ruidoso Inn.

Zia Council Girl Scouts to exercise their right to read

Zia Girl Scout Council is joining 332 Girl Scout councils throughout the country in a national service project to tackle the problem of illiteracy.

Called "Right to Read," the service project features a spectrum of activities designed to spark enthusiasm for reading and writing and to help bring about a literate society that exercises its right to read.

In the Zia Council area more than 200 Girl Scout troops are planning to raise money to purchase books for their local school or library.

Mrs. M.J. Lawrence, of Carlsbad, business woman and owner of La Casa Muneca Bed and Breakfast will serve as chairman of the project in the Zia Council. "We will observe the week of April 15 as Literacy Awareness Week and encourage everyone to take the challenge to spread literacy."

"This project comes at a time when our nation needs the help of all citizens to improve our literacy skills," said Council President Janet St. John. "With over 2,000 members in the Zia Council area, girl scouting is in a position to be an important part of the solution to this problem by improving girls' reading skills and encouraging them to help others improve their own skills."

In the spring of 1991, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. will present a report card and project summary of nationwide efforts to Girl Scout Honorary National President Mrs. George Bush and to President Bush.

Zia Girl Scout Council expects its project to be included in the report.

The Zia Girl Scout Council, a United Way agency, currently serves more than 2,000 girls in the counties of Chaves, Eddy, Lea, Lincoln and Otero.

Mental health pros offer workshop

"Society's Biggest Secret" is the title for a free workshop from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 27, in the La Paz Room at the Ruidoso Inn.

Codependency and sexual trauma are the subjects for the sessions to be presented by Jeanne Rigaud, corporate clinical director of Cottonwood Centers, Inc. Rigaud is the co-founder of Cottonwood de Albuquerque's sexual trauma unit.

Mental health professional in this area have joined forces to present the workshop designed to help people gain insight into and awareness of codependency, sexual trauma and abuse.

"Signs and symptoms, as well as treatment and recovery issues, will be discussed," according to literature provided by the sponsors. "Participants will gain insight in diagnosis, treatment, recovery and continuing growth," continues the information.

Sponsors include certified mental health counselor Birgit LaMothe, psychologists Paula Land and Bob Walters, certified hypnotherapist Melody Anderson, marriage and family therapist Richard Potter and mental health counselor Sandra Clark of the Counseling Center.

Rigaud is a nationally known lecturer and workshop presenter. She has been active in the recovery field for 17 years, developing and supervising five chemical dependency and three codependency treatment centers.

The workshop will be on codependency for the morning sessions and on sexual trauma for the afternoon sessions. Although the workshop is free, continuing education credit units are available for $10.

Pre-registration is recommended by writing to Birgit LaMothe, 445 Mechem Drive, #4, Ruidoso NM 88345. For further information, contact LaMothe at 257-6149.

"Greater Tuna" wins state award

Ruidoso Little Theatre (RLT) is on the move!

"Greater Tuna," RLT's upcoming spring production, took second place at the Theater New Mexico AACT/FEST '91 in Los Alamos.

AACT/FEST '91 is a statewide competition for one-act plays by community theaters, and is the first step in the national competition sponsored by the American Association of Community Theaters, according to a news release provided by RLT.

Starring Mary Danielson and Roger Sowder, "Greater Tuna" brought two of seven acting awards home.

The director, Dan Barrow, received a director's award, and the play received the Total Production Excellence Award. Danielson, Sowder, Barrow, assistant director Kim Kearns, stage manager Judith Palmer and dressers Karen Barrow, Tracey Moran and Debbie Sturdivant traveled to Los Alamos for the competition.

The winner of the state festival, Corrales Adobe Community Theater, will travel to the regional competition in Denton, Texas, in April. "Tough Cookies" hopes to win the regional competition and then travel to the national festival in Overland Park, Kansas, in June.

The Corrales production is an original play written by Denver, Colorado, playwright Edward Crosby Wells, and performed for the first time at the competition.

Competing community theaters included Los Alamos Little Theatre with "Gosforth's Fete," Santa Fe Community Theatre with "Aria da Capo" and the Community Players of Hobbs with "The Meeting." Also competing were Wagon Mound with "A Winning Season," Roswell Community Theater with "The Good Doctor" and Corrales Adobe Theater with "Tough Cookies."

"Greater Tuna" is written by Jaston Williams, Joe Sears and Ed Howard. Two cast members each play 10 different characters that live in Tuna, Texas, the "third smallest town in Texas." Arles Struvie, Thurston Wheelis, Aunt Pearl, Petey Fisk, Phinas Blye and Rev. Spikes are just a few of the fine, unstanding citizens of Tuna that will take to the stage here in May.

"Greater Tuna," starring Danielson and Sowder, opens at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 9, at Cree Meadows Country Club. The play continues at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 10-11, and Thursday through Saturday, May 16-18 and May 23-25.

Dinner theater tickets for RLT productions are available through Cree Meadows, 257-2733.

Tickets to the play are $4 for students and senior citizens and $6 for adults. For tickets or further information, call 257-7777.

In Brief

State SADD conference here

A statewide conference of SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) is scheduled at Ruidoso High School Friday and Saturday.

Rob Aptaker from Boston will address a school assembly at 2 p.m. Friday and will speak to conference members at 7:30 p.m., preceding a dance at the high school.

Late registration for the conference will be accepted at 8:30 a.m. Saturday for a $5 fee. The conference will begin at 8:45 a.m. with speakers representing Mothers Against Driving Drunk (MADD), the police, the judicial system, emergency medical technicians and doctors.

Orientation, registration set for RHS entering freshmen

Ruidoso High School Principal Mike Krakuska will host a parent-student meeting for incoming ninth graders from Ruidoso Middle School at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 16, in the high school gymnasium.

School officials will pre-register the entering freshmen for the 1991-92 school year. In addition to pre-registration, RHS personnel will give a brief orientation to all present about services, facilities and policies that are important to the new students.

Kakuska urges all parents and incoming students to attend this very important meeting. He said this will be the only opportunity for the students to receive a registration packet.

Parents and students who are unable to attend should contact Jean Forister or Peggy Lawing at 258-4910 to make other arrangements.

New Horizons Development Center offers scholarship

New Horizons Development Center, Inc. of Carrizozo is offering a $250 scholarship to a Lincoln County college student who meets the necessary qualifications.

An applicant must be enrolled in a college or university, in good standing, at a sophomore level or above and have an identified major in a field related to working with the mentally retarded upon graduation. A 2.5 grade point average is required. New Horizons reserves the right not to award the scholarship should a suitable applicant not apply.

Requests for applications by mail can be addressed to: NHDC, Inc., Box 187, Carrizozo, NM 88301. Application deadline is May 31. Call 648-2379 or 648-2983 for further information.

Space Center will celebrate Cosmonaut's Day this Friday

The International Space Hall of Fame in Alamogordo will highlight two historic flights on Friday, April 12.

That day, Cosmonaut's Day in the USSR, honors the first manned space flight and Yuri Gagarin's. The very first U.S. Space Shuttle launch also was April 12, exactly 10 years ago, in 1981.

Exhibits detailing the first man in space and the Space Shuttle will be featured April 12. A free rocket launch will be in the upper parking lot of the International Space Hall of Fame, with a special launch of a Space Shuttle model around 10 a.m., barring bad weather or heavy winds.

Saturday, April 13, the Spaceport Model Rocket Association, sponsored by the Space Center, will host a public rocket launch, with projected large model rocket launchings as well as another model Space Shuttle launch at Alamogordo's Model Hobby Park, on North Florida Avenue, adjacent to La Placita, beginning at 9 a.m. "Come enjoy the flight, or bring your own model rocket and test your aerodynamics," invites the announcement.

For more information concerning Gagarin's flight or the STS-1 Space Shuttle flight, contact the Space Center at (505) 437-2840; (in-state) 800-634-6438; (out-of-state) 800-545-4021.

The Plant Corner

How about a rerun on the hibiscus?

DEAR SALLY:

I know you did a column on the hibiscus a year or so ago. I failed to save that particular column and now I really need to know how to grow this plant both inside and outdoors. Who better to turn to than my mother. Please help me, and I promise to save all your columns hereafter.

Betsy Black Johnson

DEAR BETSY:

There are at least 30 varieties of the hibiscus. The most popular and easiest to grow is the Rosasinensis (rose of China or Chinese hibiscus). The majority have large single flowers, though there are doubles which come in many colors. Shop carefully for the type plants which suit your needs.

Proper light, position and regular feedings are essential needs. A constant temperature will prevent this deciduous plant from losing its leaves and be a year-round bloomer.

For your newly purchased plants, I recommend repotting when you bring it home. It will need a large pot about the size and shape of an ordinary five-gallon can, with an extra large tray, not one of those that are fitted to the pot as this type won't allow proper air circulation at the roots. Best to use a plastic pot that may be moved outdoors where the temperatures stay above 65 degrees. In winter, its dormant period, the temperature should be between 50 and 60 degrees.

Fill the pot with about six inches of plastic chunks and use a very porous potting soil for the fast drainage, and remember to place two plants side-by-side, for some reason they like a partner and do best near each other.

This plant can grow from six inches to five-feet if not cut back. They grow quickly with good care and will need a yearly pruning to keep them in bounds and a pretty shape. It is best to cut back in spring and remove leggy growth.

Light—arrange your grow bulbs coming from all sides and there must be good overhead light to make blooms. Try not to rotate the plant. This can cause newly formed buds to drop. You can use a sunny window for one side of the light source. Just make sure the plant does not get too cold or hot from the window exposure.

Temperature—Try to maintain a temperature of about 65 degrees for plants to remain fully evergreen with attractive blooms throughout the winter. Temperatures can go up to 90 degrees in summer. The hibiscus cannot tolerate extreme fluctuations in temperatures and humidity.

Water—Try to maintain a moist condition by small, frequent waterings. Good, fast drainage is essential, if allowed to become soggy or too dry the buds will drop.

Fertilizer—the hibiscus responds to BR-61 which is high in phosphoric acid, use a liquid form of the fertilizer at half strength during active growing time. Cut back on water and feeding during winter, the dormant period.

With property environment the hibiscus will grow for years and can be trained to a decorative tree shape, but wait to do this until the "trunk" has reached the desired height.

Pests—Aphids and spider mites are to be a constant watch. Best to spray weekly with a weakened insecticide. Yellowish leaves are caused by lack of water, overfeeding or root damage.

The hibiscus loves a warm climate, plenty of sunlight, filtered if too hot, like Houston has to offer. If you treat this plant right it will give you pleasure for many years.

NOTICE OF SALE
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on April 25, 1991, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., the undersigned Special Master will, at the east door of the Lincoln County Courthouse, Carrizozo, New Mexico, sell all the right, title and interest of the above-named Defendant(s) in and to the hereinafter described real estate to the highest bidder for cash. The property to be sold is located at 307 Pearl Avenue, Ruidoso, New Mexico and is situated in Lincoln County, New Mexico, and is particularly described as follows:

Lots 22 and 24, Block 5 of SECOND SUPPLEMENT to PARADISE CANYON SUBDIVISION, Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, as shown by the plat thereof filed in the office of the County Clerk and Ex-Officio Recorder of Lincoln County, New Mexico, on April 26, 1956.
THE FOREGOING SALE will be made to satisfy a judgment rendered by the above Court in the above-entitled and numbered action on March 8, 1991, being an action to foreclose a mortgage on the above-described property. The Plaintiff's judgment, which includes interest and costs, is $60,148.60 and the same bears interest at 10.625 percent per annum from February 1, 1991. The amount of such interest to the date of sale will be $1,470.84. The Defendant Sonja K. Crown, aka Sonja Crown, has a judgment in the amount of $8,494.44, which includes interest and costs to January 14, 1991. Interest continues to accrue on said Defendant's judgment at the rate of $1.99 per day from January 15, 1991. The Plaintiff and the Defendant Sonja K. Crown, aka Sonja Crown, have the right to bid at such sale and submit their bids verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff and Defendant Sonja K. Crown, aka Sonja Crown, may apply all or any part of their judgments to the purchase price in lieu of cash. The sale may be postponed and rescheduled at the discretion of the Special Master.

The location site will be flagged for easy access. There will be some restrictions: Only normal type of trash or yard clean up material can be picked up. Heavy items, like old refrigerators, washers, stoves, and old furniture should be taken to the major collection site. Pine needles and grass clippings need to be bagged. Residents who want special trash pick up during the two week clean up need to call Village Hall, 378-4422 to make arrangements for such pick ups.
