Everybody pays garbage fees

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Residents in unincorporated sections of Lincoln County should pay their fair share of garbage collection and disposal costs, representatives of four of the county's five villages said Monday.

They were reacting as members of the County Solid Waste Authority to information included in a budget projection put together by Solid Waste manager Gene Green.

"The county doesn't want to charge individual residents (in unincorporated areas) for collection initially," Green said. "The county would pay out of its budget."

That's the same system in effect now. The County Commission pays for dumpsters stationed throughout unincorporated areas and for a hauler to collect and dispose of the garbage.

Mayor Victor Alonso of Ruidoso and Mayor Frank Warth of Capitan strongly objected to continued subsidy from the county's general revenues.

That approach isn't fair to village residents who pay monthly fees for garbage collection and will continue to pay when the authority takes over the program, they said. Most of those same people also pay county property taxes and would essentially be subsidizing residents in unincorporated areas.

"We agreed at the beginning that everyone would pay their own way and the county was to work on a billing method to increase the number of customers for the authority," Alonso said. "That was one of the premises of the villages and the county coming together as the authority."

"Let the county do the entire thing and then everyone's bills will be taken care of."

County Commission Chairman Stirling Spencer, a member of the authority's executive board, was out of town Monday. But when he was contacted Wednesday by The Ruidoso News, Spencer said he didn't see a problem with the

Ruidoso schools tighten budget belt

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A tight budget spells low raises for Ruidoso's 117 teachers, school superintendent Mike Gladden said Tuesday.

During a review of the 1991-92 proposed $7.9-million school district budget, Gladden told school board members money is scarce and only a few areas of the budget will be increased.

In terms of new dollars funneled into the salary schedule for certified teachers, they will receive a half percent raise. But taking into account additional money gained from advancing on the experience scale, the average paycheck will increase 1.7 percent, according to business manager Karen Snow.

"That's what the board has to look at for a bottom line, what the cost is going to be in total dollars," Snow said. It's also what the state was referring to when it advocated raises of 1.5 percent this year for teachers, she said.

"The reason I decided on a half percent is that 54 teachers in the district are at the bottom of the salary column (have advanced to the maximum amount on the salary schedule) and wouldn't realize any salary increase at all without the half percent," Gladden said. "With the increase in insurance rates, they would have seen a loss in take-home pay."

Under the proposed salary schedule, a teacher with no experience and a bachelor's degree would be paid $18,252. A teacher with more than 15 years of experience, a master's degree and 45 additional hours of education would earn $36,504.

The total dollars for teachers' salaries will increase by about $162,268 to $3,442,366 without con-

Mechem project heads back to the drawing board

by CHUCK STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

News of a three-year delay for State Highway 48 development highlighted a beefed up Tuesday's Ruidoso council agenda.

Mayor Victor Alonso summarized an earlier meeting with Lou Medrano, Secretary of New Mexico Transportation Department and nine area mayors who attended a meeting at Cree Meadows.

On the regular agenda, advertising and promotion of the Village of Ruidoso along with the Humane Society's request dominated discussion of the council.

According to Alonso, Medrano said that although input from the public has not been completed, the secretary's initial impression is that the scope of the project as presented by Boyle Engineering for Highway 48 is too grand for Ruidoso.

Medrano said the engineers will redesign a highway of lesser scope that will take about three years to plan.

Alonso said Merrill Goodwin, aviation head of the Department of Transportation, asked for and received all the mayors' support for the Federal Aviation Authority to conduct a transportation study that would impact Ruidoso. Goodwin spoke of the need for a credible study, without prejudice, for airlines to examine.

Bill Fulginetti, director of the Municipal League, talked to the mayors regarding the legislative action that removed revenues municipalities traditionally received.

Alonso said the legislative action would force municipalities to raise gross receipts taxes and property taxes or to cut services. A third option is to sue the state, Alonso said.

MARKETING THE VILLAGE

Village attorney David Thomsen drafted a request for proposals (RFP) to solicit the advertising and promotion of the village, along with its tourist facilities and tourist attractions.

Councilor Al Junge said he was against the concept of RFPs for the Lodgers Tax Committee (LTC).

Junge said past councils have let the LTC deal verbally with the chamber's advertising proposals.

The councilor said the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce over a period of years has been the focal point of bringing in ideas of how advertising money is to be spent.

"Let's face it, as a group of people, no one in town has the expertise and knowledge to do the job that they are doing," he said.

Junge said the chamber will bring a budget proposal anywhere from $25,000 to $125,000 to the LTC to review. He said many proposals are negotiated up or down.

"If some of those items are going to have to be picked out to see if someone else wants to bid on them, I think we are going to run this in the ground with detail," he said.

Councilor Ron Andrews said the village had a request for proposals in 1987 for advertising that the chamber was awarded. He said that contract had been renewable through this year.

Andrews said the council should let LTC continue to be the reviewing board. He said the council still would be responsible for any final action.

Alonso said the action would allow for a strong board.

"The strength of the Lodgers Tax Committee will determine the effectiveness and the efficiency of the proposed budgets that come back," he said.

"Really, it's our job to give the tax committee the guidelines to make decisions. If they don't want to spend up to 75 percent, they can come back and say the chamber should have five percent. We could administer the other 95 percent or any number in between," he said.

Alonso said the council was not dealing with RFPs as much as attitude and direction it needs to give to the Lodgers Tax Committee.

Andrews said that the only difference between the new RFP and the tax committee's former verbal request to the chamber, is that there was only one respondent, the chamber. Andrews said the state law says others must be asked if they can respond to that need.

"In all likelihood, no one else in Ruidoso is going to open an office, put out an 800 number and start sending brochures out with their private phone number on it in order to provide the service this village asks for," Andrews said. "This is not complicating anything, it is merely meeting state law."

J.D. James made a motion to amend the document to allow for a monthly expense report to the council. That motion passed. Junge voted against the motion.

The motion to pass the RFP passed. Junge again voted against the motion.

HUMANE SOCIETY BUDGET

Humane Society of Lincoln County's proposal requesting $2,500 a month for providing kennel facilities was delayed because of a $500 increase.

Councilor Ron Andrews said he would prefer to wait until he had time to review the various department budgets.

Hazel Haynsworth, president of the Humane Society, said the increase was due, in part, to an insurance increase. The village attorney's RFPs stipulated the humane society insurance liability be raised from $100,000 to $500,000.

Councilor Al Junge said such a demand on the animal shelter was unnecessary and asked for more information.

Before the Humane Society opened in 1986, a private individual provided care and animal control for $52,000 a year. The Humane Society, offering shelter and care, was asking for $30,000. Animal Control is now handled by Mark Hughes of the Ruidoso Police Department.

Andrews' motion was for the administration to negotiate with the Humane Society, to renew the contract for $2,000 per month for the year, pending the review and finding available funds to reach somewhere between $2,000 and $2,500.

Mayor Alonso expressed his appreciation for the Humane Society. He said that with all the criminal activity, the Humane Society and animal control are more active than any other enforcement department.

TENNIS COURT REPAIRS

John Chappell of Ruidoso spoke to the commission about refurbishing the tennis courts at School House Park on Sudderth Drive.

Chappell said he appreciated the village council's action in painting the two east courts, but he said the two remaining courts have been terribly neglected and are giving the community a black eye.

"Although the chamber talks about the recreational facilities, but when you invite someone to play tennis and the two good courts are in use, you have to hang your head in shame when you take them over to those other two courts."

"About a week or two ago, some high schools were invited to play a tournament in Ruidoso. I drove by and was embarrassed for our village on what those kids had to play on."

"Our request is simple, we ask you to fix the tennis courts so it would be a prideful thing for Ruidoso."

Councilor Bill Karn said that he had played on the two bad courts.

"It puts a heck of a spin on the ball," he said. "The only reason the other two courts weren't resurfaced last year was because we were short of money."

Karn said the council recognizes the need for repairing the courts this year and the next budget year.

Councilor J.D. James said there would be money available to repair the two tennis courts.

Village manager Ron Wicker said he is trying to work out a plan with the current funds to rebuild the base of the two tennis courts with an asphalt overlay. He said the proposed budget would be for the acrylic surfacing that would be laid over the asphalt.

OTHER NEWS

The mayor, village manager and village attorney will discuss a joint powers agreement with Ruidoso Downs that would provide adult detention services in the Ruidoso Adult Detention Facility.

Alonso said that since the Downs has no jail, Ruidoso should be a good neighbor and help the Downs with any detainees. He told Police Chief Richard Swenor that a fair rate of $34.60 a day should be charged.

The village also will negotiate to remove a duplication of the 911 dispatcher service.

Andrews said it shouldn't matter which village sends an officer as long as one is sent. He said insurance rates could probably be reduced.

In other regular business, the council: —Approved a request for professional services for construction documents for the MainStreet Ruidoso streetscape project.

Ruidoso purchasing agent Fonda Hazel made the presentation in the absence of MainStreet director Mary Maul.

Schools deal with discipline problems

A troubled 17-year-old Ruidoso High School student was sentenced to an indeterminate term not to exceed two years at Springer Juvenile Detention Center according to Detective Sergeant Lanny Maddox of the Ruidoso Police Department.

The youth, on probation for a variety of crimes including residential burglary, DWI and evading an officer, was taken to juvenile court last Thursday after a week-long binge of threats and intimidation to teachers and students.

Ruidoso High School principal Mike Kakuska, in order to protect the rights of the underaged student, preferred to talk of school policy and handling disciplinary actions in general terms.

He said high school principals represent the community and one of their main duties is to enforce discipline.

Kakuska said school officials cannot allow students to intimidate teachers or allow students to be aggressive toward other students in a bullying or intimidating way that may jeopardize health, safety and welfare.

"Anytime students initiate those types of activities at school, we need to be very clear that it won't be tolerated. And we will not hesitate to remove repeat offenders from the school setting when that type of a thing occurs," Kakuska said.

"When dealing with kids, right or wrong, you have to give them a chance. Kids make mistakes. I'm not suggesting that the minute something goes wrong, a student is kicked out of school."

"There is a lot of counseling done with students. In fact, the first step is counseling. You say, 'Look! You can't do this.' If that doesn't work, and it either gets worse or continues the same, then you have to take strict disciplinary measures," Kakuska said.

The principal said it is necessary to individualize and take a look at the student with whom you're working.

"Generally, we give kids one or two chances and then that's it, if it's the same kind of a thing," he said.

Kakuska said "severity" is also important.

"If a student walks in and says they're going to kick a teacher's butt or threaten to shoot a teacher, something serious of that nature, that's not going to be tolerated another second," he said.

Kakuska said sometimes there has to be immediate action. Other situations might take several counseling sessions. He said it depends on if some progress is made with the student.

"We keep records of students from kindergarten through the 12th grade, and specifically with discipline from 9-12, and that comes into focus very definitely," Kakuska said.

"If you have a student that is showing perpetual or related types of activity throughout the years, that has a major bearing."

In an unrelated incident, an eighth grade Ruidoso Middle School student was suspended for the rest of the school year for spraying tear gas in a school room between classes last week.

Middle school principal Paula Papponi said the girl did not spray the tear gas directly on any student, but three boys indirectly came in contact with the product.

She said one of the boys, after exposing his hand to the tear gas, put his finger in his mouth and experienced a burning sensation in his throat. The Ruidoso EMT helped the boy flush his throat and then took him to the hospital where he was later released.

All parents concerned were notified.

Wardwell said the girl will be referred to juvenile probation.

Ruidoso Downs trustees deal with village dog problems

Ruidoso Downs trustees, in session in their "new" village hall, the former Redmens Club, dealt with hay, a water bill problem, utility billings, animal control and a host of other issues at a meeting, Monday night.

Trustee Jim Rethmel was particularly adamant that something more be done about dogs running loose in the village.

"I have a question on animal control. I don't think we're making a dent in it," he declared.

Rethmel said he recently moved into the same neighborhood where fellow trustee Alice Allison lives.

"I have never seen so many cotton-picking dogs in my life," he said.

He proposed a change in an ordinance which would require a $50 fine the first time an animal is found running loose, $100 for the second offense and $150 for the third.

"If an owner can't afford a fine ($15 at the present time), he shouldn't have a dog," Rethmel said.

Rethmel indicated that walking in his neighborhood is dangerous.

Village attorney Gary Mitchell will draw up an ordinance or make changes in an ordinance for consideration of the trustees at a future meeting.

During the meeting fire chief Humberto Maldonado presented Justin Weibrecht with an "Honorary Junior Fireman" plaque and T-shirt.

The youth helps the department in many ways, Maldonado said.

Former Mayor Jake Harris appeared to protest a $640.38 water bill against the Log Cabin Trailer park.

Harris declared that he no longer owns the property and that he doesn't know who does own the trailer park. He said the property has been sold again since he sold it.

Village attorney Gary Mitchell said the situation can be resolved by foreclosing on the property.

The county assessor's office in Carrizozo says the trailer park is currently owned by Char-Lin-Jon, a corporation in Albuquerque.

Harris was told by trustees that he had never reported that the property was owned by someone else. The water bill issue dates back to last September.

Harris declared it is not up to him to determine ownership.

"The bill goes with the land," Mitchell said. He is recommending foreclosure unless the bill is paid.

Trustees said that the new computer system will save the village $2,767 per annum.

Old utility billings cost $1,080 per 3,000, while new billings will cost only $176.45. Postage savings will amount to $545, the trustees were told.

Government Youth Day participants were announced by Mayor Bonnie Addy. They were John Estes (Code Enforcement); Rachelle Holstein (Police Chief); Angela Haas (Dispatcher); Kelly Casler (Maintenance Superintendent); Montana Hesel (Mayor) and Jason Macy (Utility Clerk).

In other regular business, the board:

—Agreed to hold the next regular meeting on May 28 instead of May 27 which is a holiday.

—Approved plans for the deputy clerk and village clerk to attend a taxation and revenue workshop in Roswell.

—Agreed to sell an old high-mileage police car for $301 to Shawn Childers.

—Heard bids from auditors to handle the 1990-91 audit.

A bid committee and the village clerk will bring back a recommendation on which firm will best do the job. Bids ranged from $5,300 to $7,900. Four bids were received.

—Heard that the new Senior Citizens Center is 45 percent complete.

—Approved Bennie Sanchez for full time employment in the sanitation department.

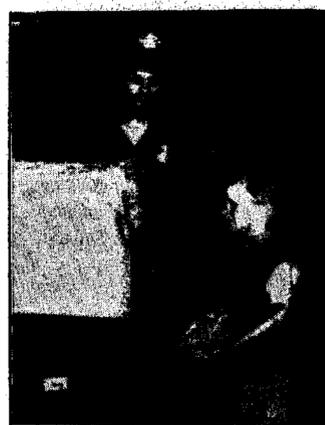

—Heard from Mitchell that the municipal judge is eligible for the village health insurance with the village paying 60 percent of premium. Mitchell said a recent interpretation of law by District Court Judge Richard A. Parsons allows village trustees to be covered under the village policy.

—Heard departmental reports.

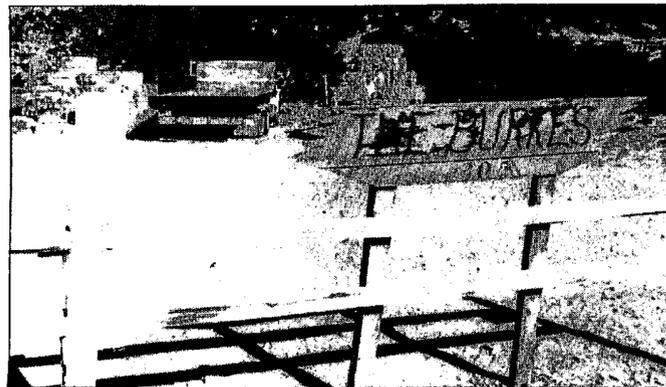

—Heard trustee Allison report on a Municipal League convention in Tularosa.

—Were provided with a copy of quarterly financial report as provided to the New Mexico Department of Finance and Administration.

—Were told a budget workshop is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Thursday, May 16.

Downs fences in itinerant hay sellers

by AL STUBBS
Ruidoso News Business Editor

Ruidoso Downs business people involved one way or another with the feed business — particularly hay — appear satisfied with a proposed set of rules affecting that business.

Village trustees Monday night indicated full approval of a draft ordinance setting forth conditions under which people in the feed business can operate.

Of particular concern were hay haulers who move into the area during racing season to sell hay to trainers and owners at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

The ordinance to the zoning ordinance as tentatively approved by trustees would require the following:

"All sales and storage must be conducted in a completely enclosed building or within an area enclosed on all sides by a permanent wall or fence which shall be maintained in a state of good repair."

Smooth wire and barbed wire fences would not be acceptable. Permanency of the fencing was stressed by trustees studying the proposed amendments.

Amendments would require adequate parking in compliance with the ordinances and rules and regulations of the Village of Ruidoso Downs and the New Mexico State Highway Department.

A key part of the proposed amendments would prohibit sales of feed from a motor vehicle and/or trailers in the village "unless such motor vehicles, travel trailers and/or trailers are either located in the completely enclosed building or within the area enclosed on all sides by the fence set forth above.

"Delivery of the feed by the business is not considered as a sale of feed from a motor vehicle or trailer."

Johnny Burke, who leases parcels of land to hay haulers, at first opposed the amendments until some restrictions were eliminated after discussion during the meeting.

One section would have required fences to be "of sufficient construction so that there are no greater spaces in said fence than six inches by six inches."

Burke has a split rail fence on one side of his property and steel fencing on three sides.

Finally, Burke was told the split rail fencing would be acceptable.

"I am not going to build a fence ... I'll have to tell the renters they'll have to get out," he said before the trustees agreed to loosen fencing restrictions.

The amendment to the zoning ordinance, if finally approved, would apply to anyone thinking about selling merchandise in the side of U.S. 70 or anywhere in an area not enclosed by fencing.

The village attorney will furnish the village with a final draft of the proposed amendments.

After publication of the proposed changes, the village would take final action at a future date.

Everybody

county paying for the service at its present level as long as the money was generated from sources other than municipalities.

"I've made it plain that there will be no double dipping," Spencer said. "We can identify the funds and they will be strictly county funds and those will be the dollars paying for the trash."

"We can make that distinction. There are other sources than property taxes, if that's what we have to do."

But at the Monday meeting, Authority member Ron Andrews, a Ruidoso village councilor, said it doesn't matter whether the money originates from village sources.

"It's still county money and it belongs to all taxpayers," he said.

Authority member Al Junge, a Ruidoso councilor, said the county should be mounting a public education and public relations campaign to sell the concept to residents who will have to pay for service for the first time.

"They should say this is a new plan, it will clean up the county, there will be more dumpsters and county residents must pay their fair share," Junge said. "They're going to have people marching in front of the courthouse saying my grandfather buried his garbage for 40 years. Some people just are not going to do it. They need some way to force them."

Alonso said once county residents start paying for garbage collection, they probably will expect to see more for their money, some increased level of service "so they don't have to drive a mile to a dumpster."

Alonso said he wanted to hear from Spencer that the county still endorses the authority before spending any more time on the budget. He stopped Green's presentation.

"We're not pulling out of the authority," Spencer said Wednesday.

He has been working with Green to come up with rates and services according to the location in the county.

"If the county needs increased service and there's trash, yes I'll increase," Spencer said. "But I don't see putting 100 extra dumpsters out before we see the need."

Areas such as Alto may be given service and rates more in line with Ruidoso while sparsely-settled sections remain the same, he said.

"I told him if it smells like and looks like a municipality, consider monthly billing," Spencer said.

Other alternatives would be to bill on the yearly tax bill or the county could pay, he said.

sidering the accompanying increases in fixed contributions by the board for social security, workmen's compensation (up 43 percent) and unemployment benefits.

"I look forward to the day I can go to a budget workshop in Albuquerque and not hear doom and gloom about what bad shape New Mexico is in," Gladden said.

He said Gladden for coaching and sponsoring extra-curricular groups will not be increased over last year's totals.

Teachers will benefit from the nearly doubling of the instructional travel budget line.

Gladden said he wants to provide improved in-service training opportunities for teachers. "It enhances morale to be able to send teachers to high caliber conferences," he said, but added the item would be one area where the budget could be cut.

Travel money was reduced for principals and other instructional support staff by nearly $3,000 to $4,240 and board travel, included under expenses, was dropped by half to $6,700. But administration travel nearly doubled to $5,500.

Principals will receive salary increases of from half a percent to seven-tenths of a percent, Gladden said. And he recommended an increase of $260 for his own annual salary, which would bring it to $52,260.

Aides and secretaries will receive average wage increases of 3.85 percent; custodial, about 4.4 percent.

The projected cost of electricity ($25,000 higher than last year) and for general supplies and materials (up $50,000 for the possible purchase of equipment or remodeling) could offer extra money through the year if the winter is mild, Gladden said.

A category for non-athletic student expenses was increased to $32,818 from about $20,000.

"There has been some feeling that the board was not supporting activities such as band and DECA as much as they should," Gladden explained.

The recommended budget of $7,899,617 represents an increase of more than $500,000 over the current year.

It reflects an anticipated 2.3 percent increase in student enrollment.

However, board member Ron Hemphill was concerned that Gladden planned on reducing the cash reserve of the district from $389,173 to $103,617 to cover the lack of revenue from other sources in the budget.

"That kind of a reserve on nearly an $8-million budget is very small," he said.

The majority of the budget, nearly 92 percent or $6.8 million, is financed by state with equalization reimbursements based on student enrollment, transportation costs and instructional materials. This year will see a reduction in the amount of money paid by the state for each full time equivalent student from $1,883 to $1,866.

But Gladden pointed out that on the plus side, the state has increased its allocation per student for educational materials from $37 to $55.

Overall, the state contribution to the Ruidoso school district will increase by slightly under $360,000.

Local sources such as property taxes only generate $57,250, earnings from investments another $77,740 and miscellaneous, $2,800.

The federal government will kick in $480,160.

Another $3.5 million of separately handled funds (such as capital improvements, the cafeteria fund and athletic fund) that cannot be commingled with the operational budget, bring the total district budget to $11.5-million.

A hearing on the budget with state officials is scheduled for 7 p.m. May 20, at the district central office next to Ruidoso Middle School.

In other business, the board:

—Selected Terry L. Jones, CPA, as financial auditor for the 1990-91 fiscal on a contract for 185 hours at $72,000.

—Authorized Gladden to call for bids on an activities bus. He also is to continue to explore the possibility of continuing on a contract basis for one activity bus that would include the cost of fuel, driver and insurance.

—Hired former Ruidoso and Portales band director Danny Flores as assistant principal at Ruidoso High School, Rhonda Snowden as seventh grade language arts teacher and coach at Ruidoso Middle School, Steve Havill as sixth grade language arts teacher and high school tennis coach, and Rob Lovett as middle and high school band director.

Cyclists, others visit Ruidoso

Motorcyclists - 600 of them - who will move into Ruidoso the week of June 10 will all be "good guys."

In fact, they are highway patrolmen from California and Texas who belong to the Cal-Tex Riders. They'll be here for fun and riding contests, according to Kathleen Michelena, Convention and Visitors Bureau director of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Michelena is helping handle arrangements for the June 11-13 gathering of the riders. The Swiss Chalet and West Winds Lodge and Condos will be hosting the group.

Michelena also said Good Sam clubs will be in Ruidoso for outings. One will feature about 100 travel trailers and motor homes, May 22-27. This group, she says, will headquarter somewhere near Capitán. Another group out of Roswell is on the calendar for later.

And June 29-July 1, FTD of New Mexico will have a convention in Ruidoso. About 100 people are expected.

And in August, Energas Corporation of Texas, a group of homebuilders, will convene here. An evening at the Flying J. Ranch is being arranged for them, too, Michelena says.

Art Awards is a sell-out; tickets on sale for exhibit

The Second Annual Hubbard Art Award for Excellence will bring together this nation's finest realistic artists May 31 through June 1, in Ruidoso Downs.

And, to make sure Ruidoso residents have a chance to see the impressive collection of those artists' works, R.D. and Joan Dale Hubbard have issued an open invitation to a "Town Party" from 6:30-8 p.m. Thursday, June 6, in the Hubbard Events Center in Ruidoso Downs where the art will be on exhibit. The party is free, and will be the last chance to see the collection before it is dispersed to owners.

Hubbard Art director John V. Hall said the award dinner is sold out, but a package ticket is still available at $145 each for the rest of the weekend's events: the show and sale on Friday, May 31, at the Anne Stradling Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs and the Artists' Signing Party and Luncheon on Saturday, June 1, at the Ruidoso Downs Turf Club.

Tickets may be purchased by contacting the Hubbard Museum. For additional information or to purchase tickets, call 378-4142.

New hours announced for Horse Museum preview show

The Hubbard Museum presents a preview exhibit of the Anne C. Stradling Museum of the Horse at the Turf Club Gallery at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

New hours for the exhibition are from 8:30-10 a.m. on race days and also by special arrangement by calling 378-4431. The exhibition is open on race days to Turf Club members and Turf Club ticket holders.

The exhibit, a preview of the more than 10,000 items to be on display when the Anne Stradling Museum of the Horse opens in its new home in Ruidoso Downs in 1992, is free and open to the public.

Cowbelles plan Ranch Tour

Capitan's Corriente Cowbelles met recently to make plans for the Lincoln County ranch tour. The tour is a non-profit tour on June 8. Registration for the tour is at 8 a.m. at the Lincoln County Fair Grounds.

The scholarship committee has selected a recipient who will be presented at graduation.

—Learned from the village attorney that under a new state law, municipalities can no longer ban certain types of fireworks.

Councilor J.D. James was outraged at the new edict because of the high fire hazard potential in this area. On Wednesday he approached State Representative John Underwood who voted against the bill. James said Underwood told him the bill was pushed by the fireworks industries and the New Mexico fire chiefs.

The council decided to set a public hearing for June 11 regarding the fireworks ordinance. The village attorney will meet with Underwood to seek alternatives.

Andrews suggested making Ruidoso a wilderness area. He said fireworks in a wilderness area is against federal law.

"Should we make Ruidoso a wilderness area now, or do we wait until it burns down," the mayor said.

—Granted a transfer of ownership and location of a liquor license to Joetyne and C.L. "Bones" Wright in a public hearing.

The license is to be transferred from the Redmens Club to the Ruidoso Bowling Center on Mechem Drive.

Racing Commission staff conducts lonely meeting

When the State Racing Commission staff met Monday at Ruidoso Downs Race Track to gather public input, its three members faced a crowd of one racetrack employee and one newspaper representative.

Such public meetings are required as part of legislation allowing racetracks to use a specified portion of pari-mutuel tax monies for capital improvements instead of remitting them to the state.

The lack of interest at Ruidoso Downs could be because this track has invested the pari-mutuels allowance to the tune of $10 million since the program began in 1981 — with credit from the state through 2005.

The pari-mutuels offset is charged against the two percent state tax and can amount to as much as $5,000 a day on a handle of $250,000.

The State Racing Commission will meet at 1 p.m. Monday, May 20, at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Grand jury indicts 2

One local man and a Carlsbad woman were indicted by a Lincoln County Grand Jury Monday.

Greg Baca, 52, of Ruidoso Downs, was indicted on charges of receiving or transferring a stolen vehicle, improper use of a registration, no insurance, receiving stolen property worth more than $20,000 and receiving stolen property worth more than $2,500.

The charges stemmed from Baca allegedly receiving a stolen dump trailer and a Kenworth tractor. The second indictment was handed down on Barbara Tate, 54, of Carlsbad for larceny over $2,500 and embezzlement over $2,500, both third degree felonies.

The charges were connected to a 1990 incident in which Tate allegedly embezzled goods from a county-based retail business.

Assistant District Attorney Viola Rhodes conducted the inquiries in front of the grand jury. The group is scheduled to convene again on May 20-21.

Good sams rescue injured pup

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The puppy was lying on the side of the road, obviously injured.

A passer-by scooped her up and drove her to Mountain View Animal Clinic, where veterinarian Earl R. Leslie determined that her femur, the large bone extending from the hip to the knee, was broken.

Her prospects looked dim. Without any tags or other way to trace an owner, an operation seemed out of the question. Leslie was faced with the probability of having to destroy the 10-week-old pup.

But Leslie's assistant, Rosemarie DuCep, was impressed with the dog's sweet disposition and attractive markings as a cross between a Doberman pinscher and a rottweiler.

"She called us and I got to work on the telephone trying to line up some financial support," said Randy Basch, manager of the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

Dr. Leslie said he would cut the cost of the operation in half to $150, Basch said. "I called three sponsors and asked if they would be interested in using their donations toward saving this puppy and they agreed. Between the three, we had $137.50 and Mrs. DuCep in Dr. Leslie's office paid the remaining amount."

The shelter sponsors who came to the rescue of the little dog were Mary Thompson, James and Irene Tucker and Video U.S.A. owners Jeff and Debbie Bolton.

"The puppy is only one of hundreds that are found injured along the roadway," Basch said. "But she was lucky, someone took a special interest in her and followed through."

The puppy was operated on last week and was released to the shelter this week.

The society welcomes donations toward the medical care of animals at the shelter and Basch always is grateful for sponsors willing to pay for neutering and spaying of animals eligible for adoption. Having a sponsor substantially increases an animal's chance for a new home, because it reduces the cost of adoption.

For more information about adopting the puppy or about the various needs of the shelter from financial support to foster homes for litters, call Basch at 257-9841 or stop at the shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

Assistant Kimberly Eisey and Dr. Earl R. Leslie say goodbye to a homeless puppy who was rescued from a roadside after apparently being hit by a car. Leslie operated on a broken femur and the dog soon will be up for adoption.

UTEP coach brings his volleyball clinic to Ruidoso

An instructional volleyball clinic featuring Norm Brandle from the University of Texas El Paso is being conducted by Ruidoso High School volleyball coach Jody Blanton.

The individual clinic, sponsored by Coca Cola, is scheduled for Ruidoso High School beginning June 7.

The camp will feature contests and awards, individual instructions from staff, instruction book, and camp T-shirts.

Brandle is the head coach of the Lady Miner volleyball team. In 14 years at UTEP, Brandle has achieved a winning percentage of better than 55 percent.

Accompanying Brandle will be several UTEP players. The cost of the two-day clinic will be $35. Family rates are available. Make checks payable to Ruidoso High School.

For further information and an application form, call Blanton at 258-4910.

T-Ball signups set for today

Sign ups for Ruidoso's T-ball league for kids ages 6-7 and Senior League for ages 13, 14 and 15 are scheduled for 6-7 p.m. Thursday, May 16, at the Nob Hill School lobby.

The fees are $15 for T-ball and $20 for seniors. A birth certificate is required. For more information call 257-9818.

RHS golfers take eighth, 10th at state

Freshman Jeffrey Chapman and junior Shannon Hathcock turned in excellent performances in this week's state high school golf tournament in Farmington.

Hathcock finished eighth overall in the girls division with scores of 96 and 92, while Chapman recorded a 76 and a 92 to finish tenth.

"Both kids played very well at the tournament," said Warrior coach Ron Wall. "Jeffrey's 76 was just a remarkable round for a freshman on that golf course (Pinon Hills). He slipped a little bit the second day, but the wind came up and all the scores were much higher," said Wall.

"Shannon didn't putt very well the first day, but she adjusted very well on Tuesday, and had a good tournament — we just couldn't be happier for both kids," Wall said.

"We are already looking forward to our fall golf program. That's really when the kids improve, because we have time to work on their individual weaknesses. Beginning next year, I really think we be a factor in AAA golf for many years to come," Wall said.

Next year's boys team will have five returning senior lettermen, two juniors, four sophomores, four freshmen and several eighth-graders.

The girls squad should also improve as Hathcock will return as well as returning lettermen from both the '91 and '90 golf season as well as a crop of promising eighth-graders.

"The summer junior program that we started two years ago is really beginning to show results. This year's freshmen class (Chapman, Ryan Wall, Matt Cantu and Jimmy Varnadore) is far better than the strong group we had graduated in 1989 (Chris Long, Eric Eggleston, Toby O'Neil and Ron Sanders). At this stage in their careers, there is no comparison. That 1989 group loved to play and practiced hard, but when they were freshman they shot scores in the 105-115 range because they were beginners. This year's freshmen have all recorded scores in the '80s in tournament play. They should be a very good golf team next year and excellent team in two years," said Warrior assistant coach Kent Beatty.

The golf team will be honored at the spring sports banquet, Tuesday night, in the High School cafeteria.

Here are the results of the 1991 State High School golf tournament:

Dinner honors Doyle Howell on retirement

Former high school coach and assistant principal Doyle Howell is hanging up his cleats at the end of the school year.

His retirement party is scheduled for 5:30 Friday, May 24, at the Elk's Lodge.

Dinner will be served from 6:30-8:30 p.m. and will cost $5.50 per person.

For those wanting dinner reservations, please call Peggy Lawing at 258-4910. Entertainment will be furnished by the Lone Star Express Band.

Howell has lived in Ruidoso for 21 years and he has worked all 21 years at Ruidoso High.

A football enthusiast, Howell coached the South All Star Football Team in 1970. He was head football coach for 21 years with seven years at Ruidoso, four years in Jal and 10 years in Fabens.

Out of 21 coaching years, he managed 12 district championships, seven regional championships, two state runners-up and three state championships.

Howell was a president of the New Mexico High School Coaches Association and president of the New Mexico Athletic Director's Association.

He was Athletic Director and part-time assistant principal at RHS from 1978-84.

In 1985, he became full-time assistant principal and has held that position ever since.

Doyle is married to Rachel Howell for 39 years and they have one son, Gordon, who lives in Anchorage, Alaska.

Inside The Outdoors

Fishing is fancy (expensive) sport

I just received a catalogue offering this year's new line of fishing equipment. I picked it up and thumbed through it and was absolutely amazed at the new developments in the fishing industry over the past 20 years. The sport of fishing has turned into a multi-billion dollar, high-tech industry.

I remember back in the old days when the sport of fishing was fairly simple. You went to the tackle store picked up a cane pole, some line, a bobber and a few hooks. Of course, if you had the money, you could get one of those fancy fiberglass rods and a casting or spinning reel. A little time spent digging in the woods for worms or netting minnows and you were ready to go. Cast off the 14 foot aluminum boat, crank up the horse power outboard and you're in business. But today fishing is a little different.

Start with your basic rod and reel. Basic, did I say? Just figuring out which rod to buy can give you a headache. Should it be fiberglass, graphite, boron or a combination of these materials? Should it be a casting rod, spinning rod, flippin' stick, downrigger rod, or a straight-handled casting rod and should it have a rod blank extending through the handle? Should the action be ultralight, light medium-light, medium, medium-heavy or heavy? Should it be 5'3", 6' or 7' and should it have aluminum oxide, ceramic or superloy diamond polished guides? What ever happened to the old cane pole?

The new reels are no different. A casting reel can be made of steel, aluminum, or graphite with a straight spool or special "V" spool to prevent backlash. They have magnets in the side that can be adjusted for casting control and some even have digital readouts to show how much line is in the water. But the ultimate is the new electric reel that automatically retrieves the lure at varying speeds for one hand operation. Spinning reels are not quite as advanced, but still range from ultralight to heavy duty saltwater reels with a wide range of gear ratios.

Once you have decided on a rod and reel, then you have to decide what kind of line you want. There are monofilament, cofilament and triopolymer lines available. They also come in different colors; fluorescent clear blue, clear, fluorescent golden and green. The strength of the line can vary anywhere from one pound test all the way up to 40 pound test.

For the end of the line the choices are truly staggering. Lures come in every shape and size. Of course, lures were around in the old days, but nothing like today. There are even fish attractants to spray onto the lures to entice the lunkers to bite and lures that make sounds.

Once you have decided on this equipment it's time to head for the water right? Not yet, you better check out the high-tech devices that help you find the fish once you are on the water. These range from a simple flasher that gives a depth reading to a seyer color, six inch television screen that shows everything that's under your boat up to a depth of 960 feet. Some have alarms that tell you there is a fish on the screen and zoom in for a closer look.

Capitan Schools expect less money, higher expenses

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan School Board is looking at a slightly higher level of expenses for the 1991-92 school year, but a slightly lower student reimbursement from the state.

The $2.9-million budget is "pretty tight this year," District Finance Officer L.C. Cozzens told the board Thursday. "But when you have less money this year than last, some adjustments must be made."

The amount of anticipated expenditures is $64,000 higher than the current year.

But the amount of money to be received from the state for each student unit is expected to drop from $1,883.74 to $1,866.

The district anticipates an overall enrollment next year of 497 students, Supt. Scott Childress said. But a student unit is more than just the student. Other factors weight the final number such as enrollment in special programs.

"If we had retained every child that came through our doors, the enrollment would have been 628," Childress said. "That shows we still have a lot of turnover."

The budget contains the state-requested minimum 1.5 percent raises for teachers, he said.

Under the salary schedule, a teacher with no experience and only a bachelor's degree would earn $19,182. A teacher with 20 years of experience and a master's degree plus 30 additional hours would earn $32,855.

A schedule of supplements for coaches and sponsors is included as part of the budget packet.

Head coaches would be paid $1,750, assistant coaches, $1,050 and junior high coaches, $600.

The weight room supervisor during the summer weight program would receive $750. High school cheerleader sponsors would be paid $1,000 each. The junior high sponsor would receive half that amount.

The annual staff and mock trial sponsors would be paid $600 each, the student senate sponsor, $600.

A public hearing to consider the 1991-92 budget is scheduled for 1 p.m. May 21 in the board room. Representatives from the State Department of Education will be on hand to review the budget. The next regular meeting of the board will be at 7:30 p.m. June 13.

In another matter, High School Principal Bill Stowe reported that tenth graders in Capitan scored well on state competency examinations this year.

The examination covers subjects that students must pass to receive a diploma at the end of twelfth grade. The subjects are reading, English, mathematics, science, social studies and writing and composition.

In 1987-88, more than 85.5 percent of the tenth graders that year passed. Scores in subsequent years dropped with 82.8 passing in 1988-89 and only 77.1 percent in 1989-90.

But this year, the percentage of students jumped back up to 82 percent.

Reading and English were the most difficult subjects for the 33 students who took the tests, Stowe said.

In other business, the board: —Accepted the resignation of Neil W. McFarland as educational assistant in special education. He plans to enter the U.S. Air Force before the beginning of the next school year.

—Accepted a letter from Coach Norman Cline on behalf of the student athletes at Capitan High School acknowledging the hard work and generosity of Jody Roberts, Dean Brewer, Karen Peyton, Linda and Terry Cox, Von Weddige, Fletcher and Emma Gene Hall, Frank Silva, Guy Henley, Frank Warth, Butch and Netta Nolan, Bill Winkler, Bob Sims, Ed Overton, as well as Francis Traylor and Stephanie Aldaz of the Capitan Booster Club.

The Silver Lining

Fragrant spring arrives in the Vale

Honey Fragrance in the Spring Air

This is being sent to you just a little after high noon on May 13, and the light cloud cover which appeared in the sky just after sunrise, is still making a cool gray ceiling for the mountain world here in the vale.

The American flag is rippling gently in a very light western breeze. Br'er Rabbit, the little pet cottontail bunny, is eating the new alfalfa stems in the west yard; and the chipmunks, Chipper and Gipper, are running races up and down the large cedar tree. Little Oswald, the pet lizard is looking out at the world from the front door step, the roof of his home, with the sun lighting up his green and gray colors.

The young robins with their shining red-orange breast are chirping from the cedars on the hillside to the river trees. The orange and black grosbeak, a favorite troubadour of spring, is sending his song all through the day, in celebration of the happiness of the day.

You stand looking up the valley at the winding green row of river trees and the bright green oak brush on the hill sides. And what is that fragrance like pure honey in the air that is carried to you on a gentle western breeze?

Your heart gives a little jump of joy within you, for this is one of Mother Earth's favorite children sending you its annual springtime

by Dan Storn
The Ridge Runner

message. The fragrance of the golden algerita bloom, pride and joy of the desert, foothills, mesas and hills, has reached you, filling your lungs along with the warm moist air like a healing benediction.

You walk toward the river, and the fragrance becomes stronger, and there it is, the tall bush with leaves like the Christmas holly, covered with clusters of blooms and buds of the small golden flowers shining among the soft green of the bush—little spirit brothers of the sun itself. The honey fragrance blends with the incense of the piñon and the cedar to make your heart rejoice.

The algerita has a double charm beside cheering the world with the fragrance of its blooms, and providing honey for the wild bees, the bush bears bright scarlet berries in the fall, good for jelly and for the birds and other creatures of the hills and vales.

Cows and Calves
Visit the Hilltop

In the early morning of last Sunday, the cows and calves, who have been close around the river for many days, were nowhere to be found. Usually there is one reason for the cows to leave suddenly, like rain on the way, or a blizzard advancing over the hill. I could think of no reason for them to leave, yet they were gone all day.

Then a little before sundown, here they came down the trail onto the knoll, a regular parade, with younger cows in the lead and cows with calves following.

Last came the youngest, Blue Bird John, with his guardian brother, Easter Boy, next to the youngest close behind.

Evidently their mothers had taken the calves for a little trip to the hilltop to see the new grass and the brand new oak brush.

When the two youngest calves reached the foot of the hill, they looked out at the level meadow, and then went racing with all their might, delighted with some level ground after all day on the steep hillside.

After the cows and older calves had visited the river, they all returned and lay resting together under the shade of the double tree — the very picture and spirit of the sacredness of motherhood.

Just after sundown a great long cloud extended unbroken all through the evening sky from the eastern horizon to the western hills.

PEOPLE CAN'T STOP TALKING ABOUT THE LOW WEEKEND RATES.

When you can save anywhere from a third to almost 50% on long distance, world gets out.

And if you can't wait until the weekend, just wait till you take off for the day. Call after 5:00 pm and take off 33%. Or save almost half by calling after 11:00 pm. And you can talk longer because each additional minute costs less than the first.

So if you need another reason to stay close to family and friends, we're spreading the news about some pretty healthy savings.

We go out of our way to help make talk cheap, even when you go out of your area.

Racing season begins with a bang

Jack Brooks is already on fire. Clarence Scharbauer is dreaming of an All American Futurity winner again. The temperature is mild. The wind is blowing.

Racing must've started at Ruidoso Downs. There weren't any huge surprises in the first week of racing here. Unless, of course, saddling seven consecutive winners is a surprise. Actually, the feat would be a shocker if it were accomplished by anybody but Jack Brooks.

Around these parts, however, Jack Brooks has a habit of making out-of-the-ordinary events look perfectly commonplace.

Brooks has already captured the $2 million All American Futurity five times, a record that may never be equaled. Last year, Brooks ran 1-2-3-4 in the Kansas Derby.

So when he started opening day by saddling winner after winner, nobody was really all that surprised. Actually, it was a bigger surprise when his horse in the eighth race ran second.

Maybe the biggest surprise is that Brooks has captured the Kansas Futurity only once in its 40-year history, back in 1987 with Shoot Yea.

Brooks, however, appears to have a big shot of walking away with his second Kansas Futurity triumph this year. After all, he qualified four for the finals, including fastestqualifier, Pullasix.

Clarence Scharbauer, the Midland millionaire who has accomplished just about everything in his life except winning the All American Futurity, owns Pullasix. The son of Streakin Six powering away from his trial field last Thursday no doubt has Scharbauer dreaming of Labor Day already.

The Scharbauer-Brooks combination qualified two for the finals. They also qualified Vital Class, an impressive son of Easily Smashed.

Stepping For The Moon, an agile son of Moonlark who already won the Grade I Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park, also landed in the finals for Brooks.

Steppin For The Moon figures quite formidable in the finals.

The horse they all might have to outrun, however, is Magic Dozen. The speedy son of Easy Dozen is unbeaten in four starts, including a handy victory in the recent Graham Farms Futurity at Manor Downs.

One would've thought owner Jerry Windham and jockey Nicky Wilson finished last in Friday's trials with Magic Dozen, however, judging by their hangdog faces immediately after the race.

Wilson explained, "He's better than that. He was very flat today. Usually I hit him once, and he's gone. But today, he just didn't respond."

DOWN THE STRETCH: Jockey Glen Murphy picked up where he left off at Sunland Park after garnering leading rider honors there. Murphy won three races Saturday and four on Sunday to vault to a commanding early lead in the jockey standings ... Trainer Brent Davidson, who was on fire at Sunland, is at least still smoldering. He won three races on Sunday's card ... A rarity: Not a single horse sired by Dash For Cash or Special Effort, two of the biggest names in the quarter horse breeding business, made the finals for the May 26 Kansas Futurity. A son of Dash For Cash, however — First Down Dash, the 1987 World Champion — sired two of the finalists, Royal Quick Dash and Leaving Memories.

King's Creator debuts Friday

King's Creator, third in the May 4 Riley Allison Futurity, makes his Ruidoso Downs debut Friday in the third of three trial heats for the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity.

A total of 27 New Mexico-bred 2-year-olds compete in three divisions of trials — the second, seventh and 10th races. The Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity will have its seventh renewal on May 27. The 5-furlong dash carries an estimated purse of $50,000.

King's Creator, who is owned by Brad Green and is trained by Cliff Lambert, has captured two of four starts. His most impressive race so far, however, was his third-place finish in the Riley Allison Futurity at Sunland Park behind Ego-centric and Mels Deal.

King's Creator figures to be an overwhelming favorite in Friday's 10th race. Regular rider Eugene O'Neill gets the call.

V.J. Callaway's Chokette also surfaces in the 10th race. The daughter of Full Choke debuted April 21 at Sunland Park and ran a huge second place effort behind the promising Kirby Lonsdale. She is trained by Paula Herber and will be ridden by Kenny Roller.

Rita J. Danley's A Toast To Lal also draws into the 10th race. The chestnut daughter of Present A Toast was a handy winner in her only start, a maiden race at Sunland Park. A Toast To Lal is trained by Fred Danley.

Shirley Anderson's Shirley's Touch, who was quite impressive in her only trip to post, heads the field for Friday's seventh race. The bay daughter of Poly's Blade was a wire-to-wire winner in her debut at Sunland Park on March 29. She is trained by Larae Lovell and will be ridden by Lewis Germany.

The second race, and first trial heat, is topped by Fletcher Hall's Power Stretch. The gelded son of Full Choke captured the Riley Allison Futurity Consolation in his last start on May 3 at Sunland Park. Power Stretch, who has never finished worse than second in three career outings, is trained by Doyal Roberts.

Friday's 12th, 13th and 14th races are simulcasts from Hollywood Park.

Welcome, Guv!

Ruidoso Downs Race Track welcomed Texas Governor Ann Richards with a race in her honor Saturday. Three-year-old Way Cool was the winner of the Ninth Race. Her jockey, Casey Lambert, and trainer Clifford C. Lambert are joined by Governor Richards in the winners circle after the race.

Refrigerator leads lineup

Refrigerator, last year's 2-Year-Old Champion and hero of the $2 million All American Futurity, makes his much anticipated 1991 debut in Thursday's Kansas Derby time trials.

The 10 fastest qualifiers from 10 divisions of trials advance to the June 2 Kansas Derby, a Grade I 400-yard test which carries an estimated purse of $250,000.

Although Refrigerator dominated the cream of the 2-year-old crop last season in the world's richest quarter horse race, the James Helzer-owned gelding is by no means the only sophomore superstar on the grounds.

The 3-year-old quarter horse division here this summer is probably the most contentious of all, and Refrigerator certainly figures to have his work cut out for him if he is to rise to the top again.

Refrigerator, who surfaces in the third race, capped a storybook season last Labor Day by powering away to a 1 3/4-length victory in the stakes record time of :19.39 for 400 yards.

Trainer Dwayne "Sleepy" Gilbreath reports that Refrigerator is fit and ready for his 1991 debut.

"He's really gotten stout over the winter," said Gilbreath. "He really looks good."

Refrigerator has appeared fit here in the mornings, logging several brisk workouts. The Oklahoma-bred son of Rare Jet was purchased by Helzer last summer for $150,000 and was supplemented to the All American Futurity for an additional $50,000. He will be handled by regular rider Kip Didericksen, last year's leading quarter horse jockey in the nation.

Thursday's third race is especially tough. Challenging Refrigerator will be last year's runnerup 2-Year-Old Gelding, Jacks Dash, who is trained by Rodney Hart. Jacks Dash has already captured a stakes race at Los Alamitos this year. Also drawing into the third race, is W.R. Talley's By A Deck, a finalist in both the All American and Rainbow futurities last year. The son of By Yawl is trained by Glen Atkison.

Thursday's fifth race also came up extremely tough. Heading the heat is R.D. Hubbard and Ed Allred's Quick Fun, last year's Champion 2-Year-old, filly, Quick Fun, who has been idle since a runnerup effort to Refrigerator in the

All American, has won five of six lifetime starts, including the Rainbow Futurity Consolation.

Carlos Consoni's Signed To Fly, hero of last year's Kansas Futurity, also runs in the fifth race. The son of The Signature, from the stable of Arnold Simmons, finished fourth in the Rainbow Futurity.

Pat Appling's Alifax, fourth in the All American Futurity and most recently winner of the Southwest Derby at Albuquerque, also drew into the fifth race. Alifax is trained by Lonnie Barber.

Jesse Garza's Strait To The Bank, powerful winner of last year's Rainbow Futurity, heads the seventh race. Strait To The Bank, from the stable of Jack Brooks, was the post time favorite in last year's All American Futurity before unseating his rider shortly after the start of the race.

Clarence Scharbauer's Vital Streak tops the field in Thursday's first race. The son of Streakin Six won his first three starts last summer before being sidelined by a minor injury.

Thursday's card also includes a simulcast from Hollywood Park.

Highway 101 rolls in for May concert

Highly acclaimed country music recording artists Highway 101 will highlight a big Memorial Day weekend of racing by performing a charity benefit concert here Saturday, May 25.

The group which formed in 1986, recently added singer/guitarist Nikki Nelson. They embarked on an extensive tour of the U.S. and Canada which began January 16 in Denver.

The other members of Highway 101 include Jack Daniels, Cactus Moser and Curtis Stone.

Highway 101 recently released their fifth album, which includes the hit single "Bing, Bang, Boom."

Highway 101 follows on the heels of other top performers to visit Ruidoso Downs, including The Charlie Daniels Band last year, and Waylon Jennings and Michael Martin Murphey in 1989.

Advance tickets for the concert are now on sale at the Ruidoso Downs ticket office and cost $5. If the concert is not sold out, tickets will be available at the door at a cost of $8. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

Students publish creative writing

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

For the past few months, Capitan students have been caught up in a publishing furor as part of a year-long program stressing writing skills.

Terms like writer's block were being tossed around by six-year-olds, and crumpled pieces of half-finished pages filled the waste baskets.

Last week, each student was putting the finishing touches on his or her manuscript as part of a program emphasizing creating writing.

The final products range from wish lists by kindergarten students to sixth graders writing and illustrating short stories, then binding them in homemade hardback covers.

The finished products are on display in the school hallways and parents are welcomed to come and browse.

In Joanne Washburn's third grade class, Taylor Smith wrote and illustrated a story about "The Devil in My Basement," dedicated to his brother, Christopher.

After trying to blast the Devil with a shotgun and explosives, Taylor finally turned to a more peaceful solution:

"There was only one thing to do, so I did it. I read the Bible. He started dying. I finally killed the devil."

A hungry Klay Jones in Kit Hall's fourth grade class wrote about waiting up for Santa on Christmas Eve:

"I rushed to the window, but when I got there, to my amazement, I saw a sleigh made out of pizza. Then I looked in front and saw pepperoni reindeer."

And Erin Autry in Amy Riddle's fourth grade class tried to cope with a mouse that took up residence in her jeans.

"There once was a mouse
Who lived at my house
And at night he would dance in my jeans.

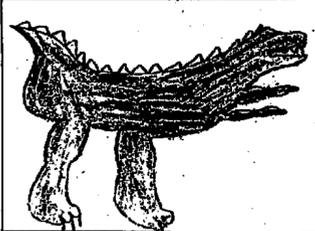

I sure didn't know
To school he would go
With me and my jeans.

But we had a rat race
And he took second place
That fast little mouse in my jeans."

Students in Mary McIlwain's fifth grade class wrote about being stranded alone on an island.

They included drawings of their islands and detailed how they were marooned, survived and were rescued.

Mary Johnson incorporated a bit of legend, choosing Blackbeard's Island in 1896 and using a flashback technique to tell her story.

In Bobbe Fowler's third grade class, Catherine Imhoff wrote about "The Boy Who Rode a King."

Her class also was required to include a synopsis to be printed on the inside flap of the cover.

In her offering, Imhoff explained: "It is a book that teaches a lesson that if you have always wanted to do something and you have a chance to do it, you can."

Students in Rebecca Ferguson's first grade class wrote books about themselves. Erica Trost told about her ambition to become a teacher and how she looked forward to teaching the calendar almost as much as spending recess in the teacher's lounge.

TAYLOR SMITH

Darrell Brooks in Mary Shanks' second grade class, put together an illustrated book of facts on dinosaurs.

Sixth grader Randy Hutchinson allowed his imagination to run wild and detailed the adventures of Zat from planet Calango, "199,678 miles from Pluto."

Horses dominated many of the stories. Doug Smith in Linda Turnbow's first grade class told about Smokey the Horse and third grader Michelle Magnone wrote about Black Beauty.

But Drew Dacey in Mrs. Fowler's class may have come up with the most unusual twist for a western tale.

He wrote about "The Headless Cowboy," otherwise called Roy Rogers. However, this time Rogers was a bad guy.

A cannonball hit his head and after two years of killing people, Rogers ended his career by shooting everyone who tried to cross the New Mexico bridge. The first one to fall was Adolf Hitler.

On perhaps a more artistic plane, Ruby Johnson's sixth grade class assembled a book of Haiku with attractive illustrations and creative lines such as Dustin Stidham's "Sometimes birds whistle, Shadows of trees on the ground, Dampness in the caves."

Second grader Tracy Armenta dealt with the basics in her book entitled "The 100 Pound Candy Bar."

She wrote about sharing the candy bar with her friend and her mother, getting so fat they didn't eat again for 20 months.

Some students had more serious considerations in mind because they plan to enter their books in the 1991 "National Written & Illustrated By ... Award Contest for Students." The contest was sponsored this year and for the past four years by Landmark Editions.

Landmark will publish the three winning students' books, one from each of three age categories.

Besides becoming a published author, the winners also will be offered publishing contracts and enjoy all-expense-paid trips to the company's offices in Kansas City, Missouri.

Capitan seniors to graduate Saturday

Two Capitan girls will share top honors Saturday as co-valedictorians at high school graduation ceremonies.

Principal Bill Stowe said the valedictorian is selected solely on the four-year grade point average (GPA). Victoria Sedillo and Cindy Castillo tied with a 3.89 GPA.

Angie Schryer was close behind with a 3.86 GPA and has been named salutatorian.

Graduation for 27 seniors will begin at 5 p.m. in the new gymnasium. Dr. Carlton Britton, a professor at Texas Tech and a former Capitan graduate, will be the keynote speaker. Local scholarships also will be presented.

Top scholars honored

The Capitan School Board has chosen senior Robert Griego Jr. to receive the Jessie E. Fay Memorial Scholarship.

The board voted last Thursday to award the $775 scholarship to Griego, who has a grade point average of 3.02 and an A.C.T. (college entrance) score of 20.

"I wish to go to college so I can obtain all the goals that I have set for myself," Griego wrote the board. "I know that without an advanced education, such as college, I cannot achieve these goals. I will be the first in my family ever to attend college and that alone gives me the determination to succeed at what I try."

"Although I have the determination and the smarts to accomplish my goals, I need all the assistance that I can get financially to help me succeed."

Griego said he plans to attend the University of New Mexico in the fall, majoring in pharmacy.

A football player for the past three years, he also played basketball and participated in track for four years. He has been a member of Future Farmers of America for three years, the National Honor Society for two years, the Academic "C" Club one year and on the staff of the school yearbook for one year.

In his application packet, Griego included letters of recommendation from board Vice President Thomas Trost and business teacher Diane Riska.

Book illustrator will visit Capitan Schools

Area artist Scott R. Blazek, who illustrated four of the "Clovis Crawfish" children's books, will visit Capitan Elementary Friday with stories of adventure and lessons on nature and relationships.

The series of stories about Clovis were written by Mary Alice Fontenot, a journalist from southwest Louisiana, and was published by Pelican Publishing Company. The series has been entertaining children throughout the South for more than 30 years. Blazek illustrated the latest four titles. Blazek will tell stories, draw characters from the books such as the armadillo, a hummingbird and a praying mantis. He will answer questions about the stories and about how books are written, illustrated and published.

Personalized autographed copies of the books will be available for $11.95 a copy. Blazek, who originally lived in Louisiana, recently moved to Clovis.

Capitan trustees hold line on property taxes

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

He didn't ask anyone to read his lips, but Capitan trustee David Rouleau left no doubt Monday that he didn't intend to vote for any new property taxes.

Even under the threat of state cuts in the village's share of the gross receipts (sales) tax, Rouleau was adamant.

"No way am I going to vote for more property taxes," he said during a regular meeting of the trustees.

"Leave it up to the voters. At some point in the future if we need more money, let them decide whether to relinquish some services or vote to institute a higher property tax. As a council, we should just do the best we can with the money we've got."

The village will have less money this year because the State Legislature took back what it previously had given villages.

"They reclaimed one-eighth of one percent of the state gross receipts tax, which means we will lose $5,620 out of the general fund," said Mayor Frank Warth. "And we'll lose another $11,243 out of the infrastructure fund when another one-fourth of one percent (of state sales tax) is cut off this July."

The village could recoup some of that lost money by enacting a one-sixteenth of one percent sales tax locally, a procedure suggested by the state.

The trustees directed village attorney Bob Beauvais to draw up the necessary ordinance for imposition of that tax, which does not require a referendum.

But to impose a second one-sixteenth of one percent tax and reclaim the full one-eighth of one percent lost, the trustees would have to increase the village's property tax by more than two mills. (A mill is equal to $1 for each $1,000 of taxable property value.)

"They want us to tax ourselves more instead of coming to the state for tax money," Warth said.

The additional tax revenue raised would amount to $13,637, he said. The general fund and the infrastructure fund would each receive $5,621.50. The net increase to the village would be $2,394, Warth said. He is concerned that village road work will suffer significantly if revenue dries up.

But Trustee Norm Renfro pointed out that Capitan already has one of the highest millage rates in the area, higher than Ruidoso or Carrizozo. Of the $39.36 paid on every $1,000 of property value, $18 goes paying off a bond issue used to purchase a well and will expire in 1998. The village only levies 1.842 mills. The rest is levied by the state, the county and the school district.

A special meeting to approve the resolution authorizing the one-sixteenth tax was set for 6 p.m.

May 30.

In other business, the trustees:

—Declared property on Capitan Drive near the home of Chuck Mespelt a health and safety nuisance and directed that a letter demanding the property be cleaned be sent to the owner. Mespelt complained to the trustees that the property has been neglected for three years and is a fire hazard.

—Appointed Jimmy Luna, a Lincoln County deputy and Capitan resident, to the village planning and zoning board to replace Dick Beck.

—Selected from among five bidders, the firm of Woodard, Wingfield, Cowen and Co. of Clovis to be the village auditor for 1990-91 fiscal year even though the company's bid was $500 higher at $5,000 than the low bid. Renfro said the village should stay with an auditor that is familiar with its records.

Trustees hire officer

It wasn't a good night for Capitan Mayor Frank Warth Monday. The Board of Trustees on several issues ignored his recommendations and preferences.

But that meant good news for Rudy Saiz of Fort Stanton. Saiz was one of two applicants being considered for the job of village police officer during a closed session on personnel.

When the trustees emerged from the private meeting, Warth proposed that Charlie White, a certified officer from Roswell, be hired as backup officer to Tom Hammontr.

"He would be able to go to work immediately and would be the most cost-effective solution for the village," Warth said.

The motion failed by a 3-2 vote. Dr. David Rouleau sided with Warth. Trustees Norman Renfro, Leroy Montes and Gilbert Montoya voted against the motion.

Montes proposed hiring Saiz instead. Renfro seconded the motion, noting that even though Saiz is not certified and will have to attend the Police Academy for 13-14 weeks, he is a local resident and wants a career in law enforcement.

The motion passed with the same split. Rouleau pointed out that Saiz will have to be trained since he is unfamiliar with police work.

Resident Maxine Wright questioned how long it will be before Saiz will be on the job. Warth and Rouleau said he will first have to pass a psychological test and at some point, will have to take off to attend the academy in Albuquerque.

Renfro said he felt Saiz would make a good village officer. Saiz now works with the Smokey Bear Hotshots.

Many vapor-locking problems can be eliminated by insulating the fuel lines and fuel pump on vehicles where the fuel pump is mounted on the engine. If the fuel is vaporizing in the carburetor, causing flooding, installing a heat shield under the carburetor will help. If your vehicle is equipped with an electric fan to cool the engine, an after-run fan kit will correct most problems. Vapor locking can be caused by a weak fuel pump, defective fuel line, or the fuel line routed too close to hot areas of the engine, or to excessive engine temperature.

NOTE: Pouring water over the fuel pump and fuel lines will usually eliminate vapor lock, temporarily, if you are stranded.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A "SEVERE SERVICE" DRIVER (TRAILER TOWING OR OTHER ABNORMAL LOADS) CHECK YOUR OWNERS MANUAL FOR SPECIAL SERVICE REQUIREMENTS. CONSIDER INSTALLING AN AUXILIARY TRANSMISSION COOLER.

Friends look for volunteers

The steering committee of Friends of Smokey is asking individuals who submitted written comments or agreed to volunteer to work on the 50th Anniversary of Smokey Bear to contact committee members.

The list of names was lost during the cleanup after the recent Smokey Bear dinner.

Friends spokesman Howard Shanks also wanted to recognize volunteers who already have donated many hours of work on the project, including Dorothy Smith, Gordon Ross and Capitan Mayor Frank Warth.

The Friends organization is heading local efforts to mount a gigantic 50-year celebration of Smokey Bear culminating in 1994, but with plenty of other activities along the way.

An old sailor reflects on Maritime Day, May 22

by "CAPTAIN VIC"
Skipper U.S. Merchant Marine
Special to The News

While sitting here thinking about May 22, which is National Maritime Day, and about Memorial Day, I decided to put some of my thoughts down on paper in the hope they would be of interest to others.

These are two important dates, that commemorate important events in the history of our nation, or when we honor very special persons, who have played a most valuable role in the service of our country.

Christopher Columbus returns

May 22, 1492, was the date Christopher Columbus returned to Palos de la Frontera a small seaport on the Southwest coast of Spain to start fitting out his fleet of three ships having just received his Royal Charter from Queen Isabela and King Ferdinand, who were staying at their little villa in Santa Fe not far from the coast. I should imagine their small villa was actually one of the "Castles in Spain!"

Next year will be the Quincentennial Anniversary of Columbus's arrival in the West Indies on his first voyage. There will be celebrations of this occasion around the country. We shall be providing more details of this great adventure next year in connection with our next Memorial Service.

Most honorable mention will also be given to those valiant Spaniards, who followed Columbus and actually discovered the North American Continent and to those early Americans, all of whom contributed so much to the development, culture and history of New Mexico in its early days.

National Maritime Day

May 22, 1819, was the date the first steamship, the S.S. Savannah, sailed from Savannah, Georgia, for Liverpool, England. This date has been set aside as National Maritime Day, which is observed at all major seaports around the USA, also at our little cemetery.

During the spring of 1940 I had just received my Third Mate's License and applied for adjustment in rank as a commissioned officer in the US Naval Reserve, which was approved.

My application was processed by the famous World War II Admiral Chester W. Nimitz. I have always thought it a very great tribute that this man, who spent his entire career in the military service of his country, was known as a "Man of Peace."

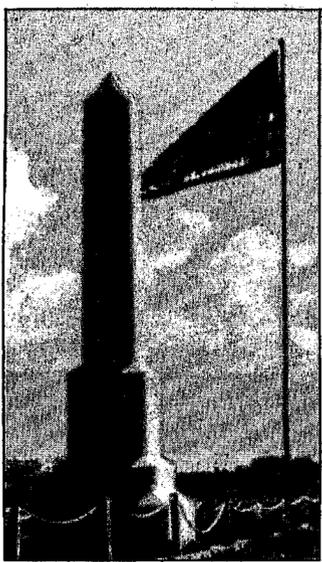

My wife, Jean, and I lived for about 10 years near his ancestral home in Fredericksburg, Texas, on the same road and only a few miles from the LBJ Ranch. Both these places are open to the public and are most interesting to visit for anyone who gets down that way. This was probably my closest association with fame!

World War II

During the closing stages of the conflict in Europe of World War II, probably about March 1945, and having just returned from England, I got orders to proceed under cover of darkness to Hampton Roads, Virginia, for further orders.

At the time I was just completing routine voyage repairs in a small shipyard in New York. That evening while heading out to sea, the Sandy Hook pilot remarked that, "it looked like it was going to be a dirty night outside."

At that I said "great!" We then both laughed at the contrast in our thinking. He obviously was saying the weather would not be very good for offshore cruising. I was hoping the foul weather might reduce the possibility of an enemy attack should a stray submarine be lurking out there!

However, by that stage of the war such activity along the US Coast had been greatly reduced.

On our safe arrival at anchor via the Delaware River, Chesapeake and Delaware Canal and Chesapeake Bay I was instructed to load a full cargo of Navy Special Fuel Oil and also advised my ship had been selected to serve as Convoy Escort Fueller for the trip to Gibraltar.

This was good news as it would break up the usual dull routine of convoy duty. On completion of the trans-Atlantic crossing, Gibraltar was found to be a beehive of activity with many ships being readied for transfer to the War in the Pacific.

From Gibraltar I was to proceed alone to Taranto, Italy, an Italian Naval Base under control of the British, where I was to discharge the balance of my cargo. I was to retain sufficient fuel, stores and water for a return trans-Atlantic voyage.

"Most Secret—To Be Opened By The Master At Sea"

Upon completion of cargo discharge I was instructed to go to anchor and await orders. While lying at anchor I received an envelope from the British Port Director marked, "Most Secret—To Be Opened By The Master At Sea After Departure," and at the same time I was instructed to proceed to sea.

When I had left the port and was arranging to leave Mt. Etna, Sicily, at a safe distance on my starboard (right) side, I opened the "Most Secret" envelope, which as I suspected contained my voyage orders, which read along the following lines, "Proceed alone to CARIPITO for further orders."

After spending most of the war crossing the North Atlantic or Mediterranean, including a couple of invasions, in convoy, I was delighted to learn I would be steaming alone. However, there was one very serious problem. I had never heard of CARIPITO!

A complete search of all nautical publications on board revealed no clue. I then canvassed the entire crew with the same result—no one had heard of CARIPITO!

What to do? I had to maintain strict radio silence and was fast approaching a point where I had to turn East, West or turn back!

Heading for Gibraltar

As I had been instructed on leaving Gibraltar to have on board on departure from Taranto sufficient fuel, stores and water for a trans-Atlantic voyage, I decided to head for Gibraltar for more information.

It turned out this was a good decision. On arrival at Gibraltar a British Naval launch came out and inquired as to the reason for my unexpected visit. When I explained, I was asked to standby.

Shortly the launch returned with a chart with Caripito clearly marked on it, also some additional information about this port and where I was to pick up a pilot.

With this information we were off on what was probably one of the most enjoyable voyages of my whole career with clear sunny days, starlet nights and relatively calm following seas and winds.

Indeed, I was following the same route Christopher Columbus took on his first voyage except I was not stopping at the Canary Islands for stores and water.

I had a few other slight advantages going for me. I had a very dependable engine in my ship. I knew there was a Western World out there and I had made the same crossing to the West Indies before World War II!

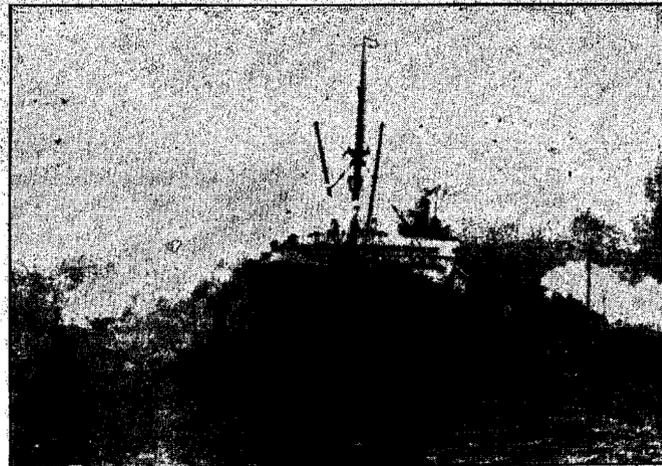

Caripito turned out to be a new oil terminal about 60 miles up a jungle river in Venezuela, South America. In order to reach this terminal it was necessary to pass through the Bocas del Dragons between Trinidad and Venezuela and into the Gulf of Paria and pick up a pilot at Guira a small village on the coast of Venezuela.

An Error Changes the World

Christopher Columbus landed at Guira on August 6, 1498, and became probably the first white man to set foot on the main continent of South America.

The sad part is that he apparently did not know he had discovered a new continent, but rather assumed he had just found another island!

Had it not been for this error, strange as it may sound, the whole of the Americas might well have Crew members of the Luxury Liner S.S. Columbus, a ship that was scuttled during World War II, were interned at Fort Stanton during the war. Some of those victims died at Fort Stanton and are buried in the little cemetery.

Columbus and pictures of this ship.

The German merchant fleet was devastated following World War I with all its grand passenger ships lost or given to the United States or her Allies as reparations.

The new Liner Columbus made her first trans-Atlantic crossing in April 1924. She was one of the finest ships afloat at the time, both from a technical and artistic viewpoint. She eventually formed a trio with the Bremen and Europa on the express trans-Atlantic passenger run between Bremerhaven, Southampton, Cherbourg and New York.

In September 1939, at the outbreak of war in Europe the Liner Columbus was cruising with 745 passengers on board en route to New York and was instructed to off load her passengers at Cuba and proceed to a neutral port. After putting her passengers off at Havana she went on to Mexico where she remained for a couple of months.

However, in December 1939 this ship made headlines in the newspapers across the United States when she was engaged by a British Man of War about 400 miles off the East Coast of America while trying to reach a European port.

Columbus Scuttled; Crew Interned at Fort Stanton

Rather than be captured by the enemy she was scuttled by her own crew and sunk. This was a very sad ending for such a lovely ship. Her crew was rescued by Americans and eventually arrived at Fort Stanton where the first internment camp of the war was established.

After the war most of her crew returned to Germany, but four did not survive the war and are also buried in our little Cemetery. Over the years their headstones deteriorated badly and are now being replaced.

New Headstone

Last year arrangements were made by Mr. and Mrs. Clappitt of Mesa, Arizona, for a new headstone to be made and placed on Mrs. Clappitt's father's grave.

Her father, Oliver T. Beall, was serving with the U.S. Coast Guard in Alaskan Waters when he was taken ill and transferred to the Fort Stanton Hospital. He died there in 1933 and was laid to rest in this Cemetery.

A special dedication service was conducted for him on the occasion of our first Memorial Service last year.

Cemetery Restoration

Over the past two years or so the Cemetery has been undergoing a restoration with about 500 new white crosses being put in place, many graves that had settled over the years have been leveled, much brush and weeds have been removed and a garden has been established around the Memorial Monument and flagpole.

A regular program for upkeep of the property has also been adopted. During this period Bob Marrs, head of Camp Sierra Blanca and Phil Keller, head of the General Services Department of Fort Stanton Hospital, along with their respective staffs have been most helpful. Without their assistance the work of restoration would have taken many years longer.

Silent Service

Down through history, our Merchant Marine could well have been known as the "silent service" as during peace and war the goods have kept moving although one does not hear much about this group's activities.

Throughout the recent Middle East hostilities during the period when Iraq was on our side, so to speak, and later, about 90 percent of the materials required for this war effort went by ship.

Many will recall the reflagging of those Kuwait Tankers and key US Merchant Marine personnel placed aboard, so this fleet could come under the protective umbrella of the US Navy.

This Memorial and Cemetery is the property of the State of New Mexico with representatives of all our national services laid to rest here, including one Air Force Officer, who served in three wars. In addition, there are many Merchant Mariners, also nationals of other countries.

Aside from its lovely location, the Cemetery has a most unique and interesting history. Now that the restoration is complete we can all be proud of it.

Memorial Service

Come out May 22 at 10 in the morning and join in honoring all those women and men of our various national services, who have served our country so valiantly in the various wars and military actions our nation has been involved in. Please feel free to bring chairs.

The service should not last longer than one hour. On this occasion the Reverend James O. Carroll will deliver a message and prayer, Cleston Pritchett, US Air Force veteran will say a few words about our military forces and Dick Mound, a US Army veteran will sound Taps as the Colors are slowly raised to the masthead.

The Road Runner Chapter of American Merchant Marine Veterans has presented the Cemetery with a New Mexico State Flag, which will be flown with the US Flag on all Memorial Days.

There are about 400 such veterans or their widows living in New Mexico. I should imagine they must have been seeking our lovely climate or just putting distance between themselves and the sea!

Fort Stanton's History

Following is a brief history of Fort Stanton and the Cemetery. In May 1859, Fort Stanton was established by Act of Congress to protect the early settlers of Lincoln County, New Mexico. There are headstones of US military personnel going back to the Spanish/American War.

General John J. Pershing began his career at Fort Stanton after his graduation from West Point.

Colonel Christopher "Kit" Carson became famous for his exploits while in command at Fort Stanton.

In August 1896 the garrison at the Fort was withdrawn with only a few soldiers left to guard the property.

After a survey of the Southwestern United States in 1899, the Fort was set aside by Presidential Executive Order for the first United States Public Health Service of its kind for the treatment of tuberculosis patients.

"League of Nations"

The choice of location was due to the year-round dry, healthful and mild climate of the area. Since that time, particularly during World War II, members of our military forces, Merchant Mariners along with those of other countries have been laid to rest here, consequently it is now a veritable League of Nations Memorial Cemetery.

Memorial Service—May 22

A memorial service is planned at 10 a.m. Wednesday, May 22, at the Merchant Marine and Military Cemetery near Fort Stanton. Everyone is invited.

When you arrive at the Fort Stanton Post Office, turn left and proceed out of the Fort Stanton area for about a half mile on a dirt road and you will see a 25-foot tall white monument, which is at the center of the Memorial Cemetery.

Come join in honoring all those women and men of our various national services, who have served our country so valiantly in the various wars and military actions our nation has been involved in.

Please feel free to bring chairs. The service should not last more than an hour.

On this occasion, the Reverend James O. Carroll will deliver a message and lead us in a prayer, Cleston Pritchett, a US Air Force veteran will speak about our military forces and Dick Mound, a U.S. Army veteran, will sound Taps as the colors are slowly raised to the masthead.

The Fort Stanton Cemetery is a virtual "League of Nations," serving as the final resting place for fallen veterans from all over the world. The headstone pictured is over the grave of a soldier who was born in Dalmatia, a country that no longer exists.

been named North, Central and South Columbus.

About 35 years after my first visit to Guira I called there again. I won't go into details, but I did notice some changes had taken place in the intervening years.

"Out to Pasture..."

In 1982, I completed my seagoing with an assignment in the Java Sea operating along the North Coast of Java. As the saying goes, "I swallowed the anchor, came ashore, retired and went out to pasture."

Fort Stanton & Columbus

Our little 10-acre Cemetery near Fort Stanton has another association with Columbus. It is 50 years since the Captain and crew of the Luxury Liner Columbus arrived at Fort Stanton to be the guests of the Uncle Sam for the duration of World War II.

I am indeed most grateful to my friend Frank O. Braynard, Curator of the American Merchant Marine Museum at Kingspoint, New York for details about the Liner

Couple is engaged

Tom and Judy White of Ruidoso announce the engagement and upcoming marriage of their daughter, Glenda D. White of Ruidoso, to Jeff N. Shaw.

Shaw, who lives in Ruidoso, is the son of Mrs. Wanda Shaw of Ruidoso.

The couples plans to wed at 3 p.m. Saturday, June 22, at 410 Gavilan Canyon Road. A reception is planned immediately following the wedding ceremony.

The bride-to-be is a 1988 graduate of Ruidoso High School, and her intended is also a Ruidoso High graduate.

JEFF SHAW AND GLENDA WHITE

Put some spice in your spring!

Spice up your life at the second annual Springfest beginning at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, May 19, at Tinnie Silver Dollar.

Maxine Francis, general manager of Tinnie's invites the community to the free dance and concert on the veranda of the historic Tinnie Restaurant, located about 20 minutes east of Ruidoso and 40 minutes west of Roswell on U.S. Highway 70 at Tinnie.

The Tinnie Springfest will mark the beginning of a four-part dance/concert series which is free to the public.

Spice of Life, an El Paso-based

Latin jazz dance band will appear in the May 19 Springfest, and again for the Sunday, June 16, Father's Day concert.

Spice of Life is working on its first album. The band has performed at the Tropicana in Las Vegas, Nevada, and also opened for Latin jazz star Poncho Sanchez.

The leader of the band, Michael Francis, is also the musical director and house pianist at the Lodge in Cloudcroft. He is set to release a new solo piano album in June.

"Don't worry about the parking shortage of last years Springfest," said Maxine Francis. She said Tinnie's has added a large off-highway parking lot.

The owners of the Silver Dollar, Lester and Cynthia Price, invite everyone to the Springfest to help celebrate the opening of the summer concert series.

"If the success of last years Springfest is any indication, this year's event should be an exciting afternoon for both young and old," said Francis.

Refreshments will be served out on the veranda. Lunch and dinner will be served inside the restaurant.

On Campus

ROBERT BURFORD, son of Don and Susan Burford of Ruidoso, has been nominated and elected into the New Mexico Chapter of the National Residence Hall Honorary at the University of New Mexico UNM.

Burford, age 25, is a geography major with minor in business. He is a senior at UNM.

The National Residence Hall Honorary was founded in 1966 as a means of recognizing student leaders who have made positive contributions to the Residence Hall system on campus.

NRHH has about 70 chapters located at major university campuses nationwide. Membership in the New Mexico Chapter of NRHH is limited to only one percent of the total residence hall population.

TRINA COX of Ruidoso has been inducted into the Gamma Zeta chapter of Alpha Mu Gamma at Hardin-Simmons University in recognition of her achievements in French.

Cox, the daughter of Randall and Celeste Cox, is a freshman education major.

She is a 1990 graduate of Ruidoso High School.

RHS drama students honored during awards

by SHERRY SHADE

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

There were comedians, dramatics, poets, newscasters, costume designers, makeup artists and technicians all lined up in a row for Ruidoso High's second annual Academy Awards.

The Tom Hansen Achievement Award, voted on by a special committee, was awarded to Amber Perry, a Ruidoso High School senior.

Best All-Round Drama awards went to Chad Hairston and Nikki Knox.

P.J. McCallum swept the beginning drama class awards, winning Best Actor, Best Supporting Actor and Best Newcast.

Students in each class voted on the winners with the exception of the two special awards categories — the Tom Hansen Achievement Award and Best All-Round Drama Student.

The drama students were nominated and categories were chosen from things that the classes had done throughout the year.

And the winners are for beginning drama:

Best Actor-P.J. McCallum, Best Actress-Melissa Currin, Best Supporting Actor-P.J. McCallum, Best Overall Performance-Melissa Currin, Best Commercial-Aaron Ford and Marc Beatty, Best Newcast-P.J. McCallum and Brandon Bishop, Best Improvisation-Linda Hankins, Best Attitude-Marc Randall, Most Improved-Jenny Ice, Costuming Award-Erin Russell, Outstanding Crew Person-Abeslin

Chavez, Technical Award-Marci Rue and Minuteman Award-Rebecka Sneed.

Winners in the advanced drama class are:

Best Actor-Thomas Raglin, Best Actress-Amber Perry, Best Supporting Actor-Scott Madden, Best Supporting Actress-Stacy Wall, Best Monologue-John Salcido, Best Duo Scene-Thomas Raglin and John Salcido, Technical Award-Tadd Gilmore, Makeup Award-Shannon Simonaro, and Publicity Award-Sherry Shade.

About 125 people attended the 2nd Annual Academy Awards of the Ruidoso High School drama classes on May 7 at the Alto Country Club. Emcees for the evening were Chad Hairston and John Salcido.

Entertainment was provided by The Supremes' who went by the names of Linda Currin, Linda Hankins and Sage Anderson. Also RHS senior Amber Perry sang "From a Distance," and senior Nikki Knox danced for the audience.

Crown of Life hosts special guests for Sunday's service

The Crown of Life Community Church will host special guests the Reverend and Mrs. Dale Howard on Sunday, May 19. Reverend Howard is rector of St. David's Episcopal Church of Jacksonville and his wife Jenny is director of music.

According to a news release, the Howards have seen their church grow in 10 years from a tiny mission to a congregation with plans to build a new sanctuary which will seat 1,000 people. "Through the dynamic preaching of Dale and Jenny's anointed worship ministry, their church is alive in the Spirit all are invited to come and share," continues the release.

Sunday services will be at 9:30 a.m. on May 19 in the La Paz Room at the Ruidoso Inn.

Conservation group will talk of its role in communities

The South Central Mountain Resource Conservation & Development Council will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday, May 21, at the Chamber of Commerce Building in Alamogordo, 1301 North White Sands Boulevard.

Guest speaker Steve Yaddof will discuss the role of the council and how it can help Lincoln County and other communities. The meeting is open to the public. For more information, contact Howart Shanks, council coordinator in Carrizozo at 648-2941.

Downs Baptist church invites community to a free movie

Cry from the Mountain, an adventure film from the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday, May 19, at the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs on U.S. Highway 70.

The film, set in the Alaska wilderness, centers around a camping trip. Larry Sanders has taken his 10-year-old son Cal on the trip to break the news that he and his wife Carolyn are getting a divorce.

Meanwhile Carolyn, filled with bitterness and unable to forgive her husband for an affair he has had with a woman in his office, considers having an abortion.

Through a life-threatening accident and an old hermit living in a deserted mining camp, the course of events is changed forever for the Sanders.

According to a news release, the film also includes a message of hope from Billy Graham.

There will be no charge for attending the film, but an offering will be taken up before the showing, with all proceeds going to the Billy Graham Association. World Wide Pictures, an agency of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, has made the film available to the Church without charge except for proceeds from the offering.

NMSU carpoolers will meet

The New Mexico State University at Alamogordo carpool meeting will be at 1 p.m. Sunday, May 19, in room CB 703.

This meeting is for coordinating carpools for those students who are commuting to the Main Campus for Summer I and Summer II sessions.

Students who are unable to attend the meeting and who need either a ride or rider should call Karen Blazosky at 434-3744.

Mini show opens June 24

The Seventeenth Annual National Miniature show will be open to the public for exhibition at 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on June 24 through July 31. The judge of the miniature show will be Dorothy Bell Knapp, artist, painter, and teacher who resides in Ruidoso. There will be cash awards and ribbons awarded in Oils, Acrylics, Sculpture, Mixed Media, Pastels, Watercolor, Graphics, Drawing and Best of Show.

Calling all slogan-writers for state drug awareness campaign

The community is invited to take part in a contest to design New Mexico's drug free slogan.

The slogan must be five words or less and must incorporate one or more of the following:

1. Warns of the dangers of substance abuse.
2. Speaks of the goal of a drug free society.
3. Talks about our statewide unity in fighting substance abuse.

The prize for the contest, sponsored by the Governor's task force on substance abuse prevention, is a $500 savings bond. The deadline for entries is June 1 and artwork may be in "rough form."

Mail the artwork and slogan to: Drug Free Slogan, P.O. Box 4277, Santa Fe, NM 87502-4277.

For more information call contact Kathy Echols at 257-2368.

The Plant Corner

Hedges combine green with colors

'Tis the season for all to enjoy the beautiful colors of the lilac and the vivid yellow of the forsythia here in the land of the cool pines.

Bob Hart, chairman of the Lincoln Historic Preservation Board, asked me last week to help with planting a hedge at the museum. Well, all I could see was a combination hedge of lilacs and forsythias. However, since both are deciduous shrubs, I suggested planting in a zigzag row and using a fast-growing evergreen, such as the Arizona blue spruce.

Prepare a zigzag ditch with a drip-system to ensure proper watering and fertilizing plus an electric fence wire running the length of the ditch, since these plants are a favorite of the local deer. Once the plants are established, say up to six- or eight-foot tall, the deer don't seem to bother them and they grow up to 20-foot tall. Both these plants grow best where there are pronounced seasons. They need the chill of winters to bloom well, but will bloom in warmer climates if planted in shaded areas.

There is a "weeping forsythia" that is truly a spectacular plant. This weeping variety can also be trained as a vine. They grow to about 8' tall with an 8' spread. Drooping, vinelike branches root where they touch damp soil, thus making a supper plant for banks and ditches.

Soil—Tolerates most soils but likes alkaline soil. In areas where soils are strongly acid, add lime and cultivate into soil beneath drip line of plants.

Water—Keep moist for young plants with weekly waterings during the first year or so. These plants can take some drought when well established. They must have good drainage and should not be allowed to stand in water.

Light—Likes full sun in climates under 90 degrees. When warmer, provide light shade for protection.

Temperature—Best when winter temperatures go down to 15 degrees and in summer up to 90 degrees.

Fertilizer—Do not over feed. Moderate feeding is sufficient. Add organic fertilizer in the ditch and use a mulch to cover the organic matter to also hold in the moisture.

Pest—Scale and leaf miner are the only important pests, leaf spot and mildew are occasional problems.

Heavy pruning results in less of much of next year's bloom. Thin out dead and weak wood stems to ground level every year.

All varieties take two to three years to settle down, become acclimated and produce flowers of full size and true color. They make excellent cut flowers of full size and true color. They make excellent cut flowers and the older they get the more fragrant they become. Let the cut bouquets overlap so there will be cut flowers in the room at all times.

Growing instructions will come with the fast growing evergreen trees you buy. Read instructions carefully and if you feel you need additional instructions don't be shy about asking.
