RUIDOSO, NM 88345

NO. 13 IN OUR 46TH YEAR 50 CENTS

Welcome back!

The folks who come back to Ruidoso Downs Race Track each year for the racing season will be welcomed Tuesday with a dance and barbecue at the Sports Theater.

Barbecue and all the trimmings will be served from 6-8 p.m. with music continuing until 10 p.m.

Horsewomen United, Inc. is joining the Welcome Back Horsemen Committee this year, and will present a silent auction and bake sale to raise funds to help horsemen and horsewomen in times of hardship.

Tickets to the Welcome Back Barbecue and Dance are $5, and with the purchase of a ticket, one complimentary ticket will admit a horseman or horsewoman.

Cheyenne Building Contractors work on the administrative offices of White Mountain Elementary. Workers are hoping to be weathered in by the first of July.

Miller released

Merle Miller, arrested over a week ago on drug charges, was released June 6 to the custody of his brother, Blane Miller.

Magistrate Jim Wheeler reduced Miller's bond from $100,000 to an appearance after an agreement was made between ADA Scott Key and Miller's attorneys Gary Hill and Richard Dukes of El Paso.

Miller was ordered to go directly into a 28-day drug treatment program.

EDCLC votes to keep doors open

Despite financial problems, directors of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County (EDCLC) agreed Thursday to continue.

During a regular meeting, the executive committee was charged by the president, Ronnie Paulger, with "crunching out operations" and with bringing recommendations back to the board.

The continuance of EDCLC in the county was threatened when the Lincoln County Commission agreed to drop a quarter-mill levy which has been a main source of revenue to keep EDCLC in business.

The county's total contribution to EDCLC this fiscal year amounted to $86,973. One leg of a two-tiered mill levy amounted to nearly $60,000 of that figure.

Thursday night, Paulger told board members that for next fiscal year some $47,975 is in sight for EDCLC operations. Some $37,500 of that amount is anticipated from the Ruidoso Village Council.

The $47,975 would include $5,000 anticipated from the "private sector," Paulger said.

Construction project is right on target

The students have gone and the classrooms are bare, but the hallways at White Mountain Elementary are filled with noise ... the noise of a $1.3-million renovation and addition project.

The completion deadline of the construction, which started in early March, is August 23. Cheyenne Building Contractors is working to meet that deadline, said principal Frank Cannella.

The contractors have split their shifts and are working during the weekends to finish the new school in time.

It doesn't seem like they've done a tremendous amount, Cannella said during a tour of the empty shell that replaced the 26-year-old school full of classrooms, books and furniture.

He justified, however, that the contractors have done more than what meets the eye.

The groundwork was the most time-consuming part, he said. The contractors mixed the soft soil, which the school sits on, with a rock-field dirt that stabilizes the foundation of the new sections and installed 35-foot support poles to the existing buildings.

The workers also reconstructed the electrical wiring and plumbing so the new additions could be tied into the school.

Now that the footing is down, the walls and ceilings should be up within weeks, said Cannella.

Cheyenne Building Contractors has already started on the skeletal structure of the administrative offices in front of the school, and hopes to have the whole school weathered in by July 1. This includes the much needed roof the school is getting.

Presently, the contractors are expanding two classrooms that were centered in the middle of each building.

The wall that was built between the two rooms and the hallway in between have been torn down for the expansion, Cannella said. After the construction is done, the rooms will be of good use and up to health standards and fire codes, he said.

In the new administrative building the two rooms will serve as a

It is teamwork like these two crew workers shoveling dirt and mixing cement that keeps the construction of White Mountain Elementary on schedule. Workers of Cheyenne Building Contractors are already working weekends to complete the project on time.

No new taxes!

In spite of several high cost ticket items, the Ruidoso Village Council projects $370,000 in operational costs and approved this year's budget without raising new taxes.

Councilor Ron Andrews presented an updated synopsis of the overall proposed budget compared to the current budget.

He said the administration is projecting $6.5 million to be the cash balance in the bank as of the end of June.

Of that amount, $1.7 million is restricted reserves, money like bonds, that the state says can't be tapped and the council has no control over.

Andrews said unrestricted reserves, money the council can use, comes to $4.9 million.

"We projected during budget last year that we would end with unrestricted reserves of $3.5 million," said Andrews. "That's what we promised the public after our budget cuts."

He said efficient operations and increased revenue bond sales added $1.4 million more than anticipated.

"Admittedly, $800,000 was bonded proceeds," Andrews said. "But that means we actually were able to generate more revenue or decrease expenses by $600,000."

Andrews said the village also received a grant for Sierra Blanca Airport, sold a D-8 Caterpillar Tractor, and other items.

The Council projects this budget at the end of June 1992, will have unrestricted reserves of $3.2 million.

"This means we are going to be spending $370,000 of the $460,000 that we were able to make," Andrews said.

Andrews said that in a two-year operation, the council is still very close to where they had promised.

"We're absorbing repairing the sewer line system, repairing the water treatment plant and adding

Rancher is fed up, offers big reward

A small nursing calf lies on the warm summer ground, blood leaks from her motherly body surrounding her young calf as she is pierced with a wound from a crossbow.

"The death is almost intentional," said Rankin Wolf, the manager of Loma Grande Ranch.

To hit an animal with a bow and arrow a person has to be pretty close, and want to do damage, he said.

Detective Lanny Maddox of the Ruidoso Police Department feels the same anger as they do.

Why anyone would want to hurt an animal for no reason at all is beyond the capability of understanding, the detective said.

Maddox said that the cruelty to the animal, and the stealing of a 5 HP Honda generator, a 110 volt water pump, and various other ranch items that were taken in the past several months became the crime of the irritation it brought to so many people.

The owner of the Loma Grande Ranch, John H. Johns, picked this incident out of the many other crimes that have occurred on his land because he feels it is abuse against nature.

"There is no economical benefit for the perpetrator," he said.

Johns, a rancher who has been investing a large amount of money into Ruidoso since last fall, is tired of the vandalism to his wells, the cut down fences and especially the killings of his animals.

Some animals have been chased by a motorcyclist until they die, he said. "It's no longer just a crime, but a personal issue."

Since this and the unlawful taking of items has been going on for so long, the ranch owner decided he wouldn't sit back and tolerate it any longer.

Johns decided it was in his best of interest to go to Crimestoppers. They are good at getting the public concerned about crime, he said.

In collaboration with Johns, Crimestoppers is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and magistrate bindover or grand jury indictment of the person or persons involved.

Crimestoppers put up $200 dollars of the reward. Johns decided to put up the rest himself.

"I'll do anything I have to, to get the message out," Johns said.

Crimestoppers told the ranch personnel that a bigger reward would have more of a chance for conviction, said Wolf. "For a thousand dollars someone would turn in his mom."

Downs deals with old, new village halls

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor

Citing the probable cost of repairing all of the defects in the old municipal building, Ruidoso Downs Mayor Bonnie Addy says she doesn't foresee a future for the old structure.

Village employees moved out of the ailing structure some weeks ago because of sewer leaks under the concrete floor which they maintained created a health hazard.

Addy and Carl Stubbs, of the state environmental office in Lincoln County, conferred, Friday on possible future of the structure and what might be done to take care of the sewage problem.

Stubbs told The News that "there is no movement of sewage" under the building currently because it is not being used, that there is no need to do anything at the moment.

"It's an old building, and it needs to be torn down," Stubbs said.

Addy said one wall has dropped and has separated from the roof.

Regarding demolition of the building, Addy said, "That would be up to the council."

She cited an engineer's report which estimated that $35,000 would be required to bring the structure up to code.

John Shaw, consulting engineer, said in a March 4 letter to Bill Heineken, code enforcement officer at Ruidoso is:

"... this is an old building. At one time, I am told, the building was used as a bar and restaurant. This indicates that there are sewer lines of unknown location and condition under the building other than the ones which are visible, i.e., in the restrooms and jail cells ...

"I have also attempted to estimate the costs which would be incurred in order to provide the remodel of bathrooms, the replacement and repair of plumbing, the correction of drainage at the rear of the building, the installation of gutter at the rear of the building, the repair of the block wall on the east side of building, and the repair of the foundation.

"These costs, including design, are estimated to be between $25,000 and $35,000. I am unable to provide a more adequate estimate without destructive and disruptive investigations beneath and floor, which in itself would also be expensive."

Carl Parsons of Parsons Mechanical Plumbing Company told Mayor Addy in March the under floor area of the building was standing in raw sewage.

Addy says that if the new location of village hall, the old Redmen's Club, proves to be too expensive, the village may have to look at a metal building to house offices.

Addy says she believes it would be foolish to spend $35,000 to bring the old structure up to minimum code when the building is so old to start with.

She said a $75,000 metal building might be acceptable if that had to be an alternative.

Village employees seem to be happy with the Redmen's Club which is being leased for two years utilizing an emergency grant from the New Mexico Board of Finance after the plumbing problems became evident.

Municipal Judge Harrold Mansell isn't pleased with the space he's been allocated, and said he'll ask the trustees for some help at tonight's regular meeting.

Meanwhile, some doors and paneling have been removed from the old village hall to the new one "to save money," Addy said. Much of the work at the new village hall to renovate space to accommodate village offices has been done by village employees.

One question is how much utilities will run in the wintertime since the space being utilized is so much larger than the cramped quarters at the old village hall.

Gary Mitchell, village attorney, has told trustees the village doesn't have the bonding capacity currently to build a new village hall.

The village has two years to determine a specific course of action.

It'll probably include the demise of the old village hall.

Trouble is, even demolition of a structure is expensive in today's society.

Fireworks are on council agenda for Tuesday

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A Grindstone property replat and an ordinance relating to a controversial fireworks ruling are two of many subjects to be discussed at Tuesday's Village Council meeting.

The council's weighty schedule contains one public hearing and 12 agenda items to be considered in Village Hall beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Grindstone replat poses an interesting dilemma for the council. As proposed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), it does not meet village subdivision regulations. Council approval is required to grant a variance and establish conditions.

The Council has to allow the FDIC to liquidate property while complying with village regulations and protecting village interests.

A fireworks ordinance became necessary because the New Mexico State Legislature has forbidden municipalities to regulate "permissible fireworks" other than "aerial devices" and "ground audible devices."

Council J.D. James, at the last fireworks legislation, was angered by the legislature's decision, declaring the legislation was not in the best interest of a mountain community like Ruidoso.

An alternative to the ordinance would be to continue with the existing ban, taking a chance under state law. The village staff said this could expose the village to liability and enforcement.

The staff said another alternative would be to capitulate to the wishes of the fireworks industry.

The agenda will also hear the bid award for proposal for village advertising and promotion. The bid will come from the Lodger's Tax Committee's early Tuesday meeting, and it is expected that the Chamber of Commerce will be the only bidder.

The award proposal will enter into an agreement to promote Ruidoso as a community. It does not include the advertising and promotion of the new Civic-Events Center.

An agreement with Ruidoso Downs for short-term adult detention will be considered for approval.

Ruidoso Downs no longer has an adult detention facility available. Ruidoso has space available and the costs mentioned in the Joint Powers Agreement have been determined to be reasonable, approved by the Ruidoso Village Police Department and their Village Attorney.

The council will be asked to approve several resolutions directing the removal of dangerous buildings, ruins, rubbish and debris from property deemed by the village to constitute a menace to the public comfort, health, peace and safety.

The property involved in Resolution 91-15 allegedly is the responsibility of R.A. Knapp and is located at 204 Forest Lane.

The property involved in Resolution 91-16 allegedly is the responsibility of Gary Mitchell, and is located at 209 Ridge.

The property involved in Resolution 91-17 allegedly is the responsibility of Sam Best, and is located at 201 Ridge.

The Village Council will also be asked to adopt a resolution that will approve an agreement with Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SNMEDD).

SNMEDD provides technical assistance in apply for grants and other services at a cost to the Village of $955 per year.

The Council will hear an ordinance increasing the Village Council and Mayor compensation from $250 per month to $500 per month effect with the terms of office beginning in March of 1992 and March of 1994.

The Council will be asked to extend an agreement with All American Plumbing and Heating for an additional year.

A zone map amendment that would change zoning from C-2 Community Business to M-1 Low Density Mobile Home is being asked by Randall Mullican.

According to D.T. Collins, surveyor, the topography of the property, located across the highway from Swiss Chalet Motel, does not allow access from State Highway 48.

Mullican has approached the Environmental Department (ED) to replat the three lots into four. The ED indicated they would oppose such a replat.

Another zone map amendment request will be made by Donald Miner.

Miner wants to change his R-4 high density residential to R-1 residential.

Miner is requesting preliminary and final plat approval to subdivide the one acre tract at White Mountain Drive and Don Snyder Drive into three single family lots. The property originally was part of the Sierra Racquet and Swim Club.

The Village staff recommended approval on a number of conditions and a public hearing for June 25.

The Council will hear a request to annex and provide R-1 zoning to M.L. Santocoy whose property is outside the corporate limit.

The annexation would obligate the Village to extend, utilities and provide service to a tract in an unregulated development area.

Although the Planning Commission acted to deny annexation, the council will be asked to sell water at two times the normal rate to properties outside the Village limits, but where utilities are available.

The last item on the agenda will be for the Council to consider a request for payment for architectural services from Nolan Associate, Garland and Hilles AIA Architects.

staff lounge and workroom. Previously, the school had three little workrooms and, to get something done, teachers had to walk all over the place, said Cannella.

In addition, the contractors are working on the extension of the cafeteria and new wiring in the kitchen.

They have ripped out the walls of what used to be the administrative offices and an old classroom, said Cannella.

The classroom was used last year because the school had run out of room. But with the completion of four new classrooms, the school won't need the room anymore. Now the cafeteria, which was overcrowded for the 800 students, can hold 10 more eating tables, Cannella said.

Also, the cafeteria's expensive all electric kitchen is being rewired for the use of gas, and the contractors are relocating the freezers to outside of the old kitchen space.

This will give the cafeteria workers more room for food preparation, said Cannella of the new freezer room.

The most apparent addition to the three-sectioned school is the construction of passageways converging the separate buildings.

At the end, it will finally look like one big school, said Cannella. The passageways is the next of the additions on the constructors schedule.

This type of structure is great for California, Cannella explained, pointing at the three pods which stand about 20-feet apart, "but in New Mexico the winters get cold."

The inside facelift of the old school should begin anytime, said Cannella of the replacement of carpeting and painting of all the rooms. Right now the electrical and heating people are coming into each classroom to renovate the heating system controls, he said.

The addition of the three classrooms at White Mountain Intermediate school is progressing right along with the rest of the construction.

The contractors are using a new water lining for the rooms, said principal Don Weems. "I wondered where my water was," he said of there being no water pipes sticking out of the cement slabs.

With the new construction, the pipes will run through the walls instead of going through the ground. This way they won't have to go through the floor to fix any breakages in the future, Weems said.

The new rooms will hold about 27 students each. "We are growing and are continuing to look into future needs of more classroom space," he said.

Although the principals are enjoying getting to see their school's progress, Cannella said an early finish would be a godsend for their moving in process. All of the school's furniture and office supplies are locked up in the gymnasium, he said.

Of course with two months to go, it's to early to tell how well the construction is coming along, Cannella said.

Taxpayers' dollars are going to good use as the renovation and remodeling of White Mountain Elementary races against time and weather. Principal Frank Cannella invites interested persons to come look at the progress made.

$500,000 to the cost of building a Civic-Events Center. These are big ticket items, and all we are doing is lowering this year's revenues unrestricted balance by $370,000, without raising taxes," Andrews said.

He said the village is selling its solid waste assets to Lincoln County Solid Waste for about $800,000. He said another $80,000 recycling grant was reimbursable from LCSW and around $36,000 in capital outlay was left in the solid waste budget because the council was not sure when the LCSW transaction will take place.

Andrews said when the LCSW takes over the solid waste, the $800,000, $80,000 and $36,000 will come back to the village revenues. He said village manager Ron Wicker is working on gathering information of the village's real estate assets. The Hall property and Eagle Creek Property were discussed as possible real estate sale items at an estimated value of $250,000.

Andrews said added revenues, not in the budget could generate another $1.1 million dollars.

"That more than offsets the $370,000 needed to meet projections.

"If you can operate this village and come within $370,000 of what you promised to net after two years of operations, and at the same time build a convention center that has gone up in cost by $500,000, do a million dollars worth of repairs to the infiltration system that will reduce next year's cost in operating the sewage plant, and stop the loss of water. I quite frankly think we did a hell of a job."

$3,075 would come from reserves and $2,400 from memberships.

Paulger polled each director present Thursday night on feelings about continuing EDCLC on a reduced budget.

Consensus was that the economic development effort should be continued.

The director of EDCLC, George Puckett, resigned a couple of months ago. Anita Sanders has been serving as acting executive director.

EDCLC has offices in the Stroud Building. Possible other locations to save money were discussed by directors at the Thursday meeting.

One suggestion from Puckett was that an office at the Chamber of Commerce might be utilized with the EDCLC director helping with answering telephone and otherwise assisting in the Chamber operation.

Former director Puckett told directors he would trade "consulting services" with the EDCLC for free office space.

He said that if that happens "Anita would be the boss" instead of him. Puckett has gone independent in seeking new business and industry for Lincoln County on a fee basis from companies moving to the county.

No action was taken on Puckett's offer, pending recommendations from the executive committee. Paulger said the EDCLC offices could be anywhere, including Carrizozo or Capitan.

Scott Shafer of Carrizozo, noting that non-Ruidoso board members, outnumber Ruidoso board members present, said, "That tells me something."

Shafer said he fears that "we will have no economic development effort with the EDCLC."

"It's boiling down to where Ruidoso will have to handle it," Pat Huey of Capitan, said.

"I definitely believe economic development should be continued," board member Steve Stroud said. That was reiterated by Dorothy Smith of Capitan and by Paulger.

"If we cease to exist, it will take years to rebuild," Frank Sawyer declared.

Smith said it is good to see the whole county pulling together. "for the first time since I've lived here."

Nick Pappas, county manager, said, "we wish you well."

He said the county just has other priorities rather than EDCLC.

EDC provides $8,000 for railroad study

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Editor
In the midst of struggling over money to continue its operations, the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County (EDCLC) came up with $8,000 for a railroad study Thursday.

Matching money was produced by the deadline June 6 for a feasibility study of a railroad project for Lincoln County.

One of the major proponents of an "iron horse railroad," Dick Weber, said he wrote a personal check for $8,000 Thursday morning, deadline day, so that the Lincoln County Transportation Authority would qualify for a $40,000 grant from the New Mexico Transportation Authority for the study. The deadline was Thursday.

Thursday night, at a regular meeting of the EDCLC, directors approved expenditure of $8,000 which in effect reimburses Weber.

Weber told The News that he has enough faith in the project to have risked the $8,000 "which is about all I have."

Ronnie Paulger, president of EDCLC, assured directors that the $8,000 would be returned by the railroad promoters. "I feel we will get 100 percent of the $8,000 back ... we will be reimbursed," Paulger said.

Weber, asked how his group would repay the $8,000, said, when asked Saturday, "We hope to do it by some fundraising activity ... we will, in fact, return the money ... we believe in the project."

Weber said New Mexico State University Extension Service will conduct the feasibility study.

"I think the potential is there," Weber said.

He said that if NMSU says it is not feasible, "we will let it go." The iron horse railroad project would in whole or in part result in a narrow-gauge railroad from the airport, to the race, track, to Ruidoso, to the ski area and back to the airport.

Proponents have cited the Chamizo-Durango narrow gauge railroad scenic trips as examples of what can be done.

If NMSU says "go," Weber said, the next step would be an environmental impact study.

Phase 3 would be the seeking of a developer. EDCLC directors Thursday night voted to continue the organization in the face of losing county funding.

The executive committee will make recommendations at the July meeting to what extent the organization can function.

Its income in essence has been cut by two-thirds.

Horsewomen United joins in annual Welcome Back party

Horsewomen United, Inc., organized in 1979 to assist all licensed New Mexico horsemen and horsewomen in times of extreme hardship, will take part in the Welcome Back Horsemen barbecue and dance on Tuesday. Welcome Back is planned from 6-10 p.m. Tuesday, at the Sports Theater in Ruidoso Downs.

Horsewomen United will sell home-baked desserts for 50 cents each and will also benefit from a silent auction during the annual celebration in honor of racetrack industry workers who spend their summer seasons here.

Horsewomen United, founded over coffee by women prompted to fill the gap for people on the backside of the track who have very limited options as to where to turn in times of disaster, has distributed tens of thousands of dollars to people who have been seriously injured, had surgery, lost their homes to fire, or had a death or other mishap in the family.

Membership in Horsewomen United is at 200, and many are honorary members whose $25 annual tax-deductible donation enhances the fund used by active members who devote thousands of hours and hundreds of their own dollars every year.

Board of Education to meet

The Ruidoso Board of Education will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 11, at the administration office.

Items to be voted on during the meeting include budget and cash transfers, and bids on janitorial supplies and an activity bus.

The members will also call for bids on the hardware maintenance on computers and office machines.

A review of board policies and a report on a legal seminar by some of the members is scheduled for discussion.

During the meeting, six teachers who resigned this past year will be recognized.

Meeting will detail driver's license point system process

A public meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 13, at the Roswell Inn in Roswell, to specifically address the point system utilized for drivers' licenses in New Mexico.

Taxation and Revenue Deputy Secretary Gail D. Reese said the free session will last about two hours.

The point system is the method used by the state of New Mexico to weigh traffic violations to determine when a driver's license should be suspended or revoked. All interested parties are encouraged to attend and provide feedback to the department.

Roll up your sleeves for the Ranchmen's Camp Meeting

The first work day for the 1991 Nogal Mesa Ranchmen's Camp Meeting will be on the grounds Saturday, June 15.

"You don't have to be a rancher to be welcome to spend the day," reads the invitation. Bring a basket lunch, the family, brooms or rakes, or just a willingness to help.

Suggestions are also needed for the preparation of a float to enter in the Smokey Bear parade in Capitan July 4.

The final work day will be Saturday July 13, just before the opening of the 52nd annual Camp Meeting July 17-21.

Steve Cody from Oklahoma, and Dudley Anderson from California will be the preachers.

Public invited to meet two finalists for campus director

The public will have an opportunity Tuesday and next Monday to meet candidates for the directorship of Ruidoso's off-campus instruction center under the sponsorship of Eastern New Mexico University.

A tea to meet Dr. Jim Miller is scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Ruidoso School District's central office on Service Road next to Ruidoso Middle School. Miller.

Elder will be introduced to the community at a tea at 1 p.m. Monday, June 17.

Local business competes for and wins national contract

by CHARLES STALLINGS

In a "how to" rags to riches story, the Riddles of Ruidoso tell how they expanded their marketing reach to capture enviable sales for their mom and pop company.

Last October, Rick Riddle of Noisy Water Artwear attended a Small Business Administration (SBA) seminar at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

The meeting was conducted by Karen Kopp, SBA director for Lincoln County. Kopp also is associated with Ruidoso Printing.

The class was to obtain certification to bid on government contracts. Riddle and his wife filled out all the government forms and were given a government "cage" number and put on a computer list.

Three weeks after the class ended, the Riddles started getting five to six items weekly to bid.

Because of the different code numbers on computer systems, some of the bids the Riddles received were on the manufacturing of clothing out of their scope.

"We couldn't bid on many items because we didn't have the capabilities of producing a million pair of boots or 500,000 pair of slacks," Riddle said.

In January, the Riddles received notification on bidding for shirts for the West Point Cadets.

"Once you receive notification," said Riddle, "you have to call for a bid package, which shows the specifications, shipping dates, quantities, and a space to put your bid on."

A sample shirt, meeting the government specs, had to be sent to West Point. The West Point design had to be on that shirt.

All samples were to be commercially laundered 30 times. At the end of the laundering the shirts still had to meet the minimum shrinkage specs. The printing also had to stay on the shirt without fading, Riddle said.

In early April, the Riddles became concerned and called West Point. The administration said the five lowest bidders were public knowledge and the Riddles were number six on the list.

Although the Riddles felt they were out of the running, West Point officials said not necessarily. The Cadets had not finished commercially laundering the 30 shirts of the five finalists.

The next day, West Point called the Riddles with good news. Even though Noisy Water Artwear wasn't the lowest bidder, they were the lowest bidder with the quality still meeting specifications.

The Riddles originally bid on 31,000 shirts. The academy asked for an additional 2,000 shirts, more good news.

"The bid was a little under $150,000, and at that time they started sending us the lists on how they wanted the project accomplished," Riddle said. "Five thousand of the 33,000 shirts do not have names on them, West Point Crest only, the other 28,000 shirts have the Cadets names on them, eleven shirts per name."

The Riddles contracted with their mill for the shirts.

The shirts will be shipped to the Academy over a four month period. The first 15,200 shirts are to be at West Point no later than June 21; 1,200 shirts are slated for August 1; another 14,000 are due on August 30, and the remainder by the middle of October.

Riddle said they were producing about 1,200 shirts per day.

Noisy Water Artwear, 51 percent owned by Mrs. Riddle, has four full-time employees and five full-time sales people; one in-state, two out-of-state and one local salesperson. Recently, the Riddles have bid on 24,000 bandanas for the forest service, a joint venture with Smokey Bear and the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Another bid was sent off for 17,000 shirts for the Air Force.

The Riddles said that although outside business is great, they are still a Ruidoso business that values their local business associations.

Rick Riddle and the crew of Noisy Water of boxes of shirts they're imprinting for Artwear take a break among the hundreds West Point.

It was barely first light when Randy Basch's dogs started barking and running to the window.

Manager of the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter, Basch peered outside to see what was causing all of the excitement.

What he saw was a hairy mammoth of a dog tied to the tongue of his trailer.

"He's an Old English sheep dog," Basch said. "He came in badly knotted and was groomed compliments of Larriann Rose of The Clutter Shop on Sudderth Drive."

Most of the dog's body hair had to be shaved off but it already is starting to show some growth.

"I received an anonymous call from a woman on the morning he arrived," Basch said. "She said his name was Max and he's about one year old and had belonged to an El Paso couple."

Local veterinarian, Dr. Warren Franklin, will sponsor Max for neutering, which will reduce the cost of adoption to the price of the dog's rabies shot and city license.

The society requires that all animals adopted from its shelter be neutered or spayed to slow the population growth of strays and the production of unwanted litters that are abandoned by pet owners.

"He's very affectionate," Basch said of Max. "But typical of the breed, he's a little hard-headed and will need a good secure fence. He doesn't jump, but he will need room and is well-suited for life outdoors."

"Sheep dogs do suffer in heat. His new owners should build a good large, comfortable dog house for him. He is not housebroken."

Max is good with children and, being a pup himself, needs to be active and likes lots of attention, Basch said.

"He would be well-suited to a farm or ranch as long as he is confined and not allowed to run loose," Basch said.

Although Basch was optimistic that Max will find a good home, he said he still is concerned about the continued dropping of litters at the shelter entrance after hours.

"The day the article appeared in the newspaper asking people not to leave the litters unattended when the shelter is closed, someone left a box of kittens," Basch said. "By the time I got here, the box was empty. I found one kitten, but another one was lying out in the road with its head smashed flat by a car. It's sickening."

"How do we reach these people to make them realize what they're doing?"

Basch again emphasized that, although the shelter welcomes donations, it does not charge anything to take litters. Right now, he also has foster homes available to care for the young kittens and puppies until their immunizations take effect and they are ready to be put in the shelter and up for adoption.

For more information about Max or any of the other dogs and cats, call Basch at 257-9841 or stop at the shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

The Ruidoso News is sponsoring a community garage sale to benefit the Humane Society on Saturday, June 22. All funds will go to the Society's spaying and neutering fund.

Everyone is invited to drop off donations for the garage sale to The News, 128 Park Avenue.

Max, a friendly and affectionate sheepdog mix, is waiting at the animal shelter for a family with plenty of love and a big area for the frisky dog to roam.

Council considers doubling pay

The Ruidoso Village Council will vote Tuesday on an ordinance to double mayor and council pay from $250 a month to $500 a month.

Since councilors can't give themselves a raise, the increase, if approved, will take effect after the municipal elections in 1992.

The ordinance being considered also clarifies the elected officials' eligibility for group health benefits and calls for them to pay 100 percent of the premiums.

The proposal would increase cost to the village for elected official pay by $9,000 annually in 1992, and by another $9,000 annually when the rest of the council is up for election in 1994.

According to information provided by New Mexico Municipal League (gathered in 1990), some elected officials in New Mexico serve as volunteers and the pay goes up to as much as $4,950 per month for the mayor of Albuquerque and just over $1,000 a month for mayors and councilors in Santa Fe and Las Cruces. The Roswell mayor is paid $1,017 per month with councilors paid $254 a month.

Albuquerque councilors are paid $497 a month, $9 less than the proposed pay for Ruidoso council members.

Municipal League lists Ruidoso's population as 5,260, closest in size to Sunland Park and Los Lunas. Sunland Park pays its mayor $125 a month and its council members $50, while Los Lunas pays its mayor exactly what Ruidoso's council is proposing — $500 — and its council members $450.

Taos, a resort town with a population of 3,670 often compared to Ruidoso, pays its mayor $425 a month and is in the middle of enacting pay increases already passed for council members. Two are still paid at the old rate of $325 a month and two are at the new rate, just over Ruidoso's proposed new rate, of $525 a month.

Other towns close to Ruidoso's population are listed with name, population, mayor pay and council member pay: Bloomfield, 6,960, $250, $100; Belen, 6,530, $725, $725; T or C, 5,380, $200, $150; Aztec, 7,360, $250, $125; Socorro, 8,120, $50, $40; Raton, 8,460, $300, $300; Grants, 8,520, $535, $482.

Elected officials in Silver City, with a population of 11,190, serve without pay. Lovington, with a population of 11,800, pays its mayor and councilors $10 a meeting. Alamogordo, population 27,930, pays its mayor and councilors $50 per meeting.

Elected officials are unpaid in Magdalena, Dexter, Hagerman, Cimarron, Vaughn, Clodcroft, Logan, Roy, San Jon and Virden.

Clovis, population 35,760, pays its mayor $500 a month and councilor $416 a month; Rio Rancho, population 26,520, pays its mayor $600 a month and councilors $300 a month. Gallup, with a population of 22,470, pays its mayor $1,000 and its councilors $800.

Bluegrass blows into Lincoln County

Musicians are tuning up for the Springtime in the Rockies Bluegrass Festival, set for June 15 and 16, in Lincoln County. Top entertainers in the field will be performing at the rural location for the event, a mile off the Bonito Lake road about two and a half miles before the Bonito Dam. The location will be well marked. Performers will include the Osborne Brothers (of the Grand Old Opry), Alan Munde and Country Gazette, Reno Sparks plus special guests. The special guests will include a soloist who will bring his banjo and guitar from New Orleans. He is Patrick Flory, The Capitan Gap, whose members belong to the Southeast New Mexico Bluegrass Association, will be on stage also. Hours will be 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday, June 15. Sunday's hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Showtime will be 1 to 8 p.m., Saturday and 1 to 6 p.m., Sunday. Sunday from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., a camp meeting featuring gospel music will be featured.

The Bluegrass Festival is sponsored by the non-profit Rocky Mountain Music Enterprises, Jerry Perry of Ruidoso is publicity person. To meet expenses, a two-day fee of $20 is charged. Saturday only will be $13, Sunday, $10. Primitive camping will be allowed on site, but RV parks are nearby, Perry says. Bluegrass music enthusiasts are invited to bring lawn chairs or blankets. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Top musicians tune up to play in Festival

Stars who perform at the Springtime in the Rockies Bluegrass Festival are well known on the Bluegrass circuit.

The Osborne Brothers will be headliners along with Alan Munde and Country Gazette of Levelland, Texas, and Reno Sparks.

Ever since they joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1964, the Osborne Brothers have reigned as one of America's most popular bluegrass bands. Their best known song is "Rocky Top."

It is singing which has been the key to their popularity.

Reversing the usual format in country and bluegrass music, in which the lead person is usually a guitar playing singer, the Osbornes are a rare group in being headed by players of instruments whose more usual role is accompaniment.

Even so, while both brothers happen to be brilliant and recognized instrumentalists, it is singing they do with flair.

The Osborne Band consists of Bobby Osborne, on mandolin and singing the high lead; Sonny Osborne on banjo and singing baritone; Jimmy Brock on bass and Paul Brewster on guitar and singing the lower tenor part, and Elaine Spouse, a young fiddler already of star stature.

The Osborne Brothers have many honors. For instance the Osbornes were named No. 1 Bluegrass group in the nation for nine consecutive years in national polls conducted by "Music City News."

Among the many highlights of their career was a command performance at the White House.

COUNTRY GAZETTE
Alan Munde and the Country Gazette is one of the true "blue-bloods" of bluegrass performing on the current scene.

The group has made annual trips to Europe from 1972 until 1976 plus a tour in 1988.

Japan has also hosted two sold-out concert tours by the group.

Munde is a banjoist and native Oklahoman. He made his first mark in music with the release in 1969 of the album "Poor Richard's Almanac."

Munde spent two years working in the band of Jimmy Martin in Nashville, Tennessee. Leaving Martin and Nashville, Munde moved to southern California and joined the then forming Country Gazette. He has remained the mainstay of the group.

He is an instructor in Bluegrass at the Country Bluegrass programs of South Plains College in Levelland, Texas.

THE OSBORNE BROTHERS

A family of artists

Artist Henriette Wyeth, a member of the world-famous Wyeth family, who was married to artist Peter Hurd, is pictured at the Hurd-La Rinconada Gallery in San Patricio with an up and coming artist, also a member of her artistic family, J.W. McCoy, the son of Denny and Helene McCoy of Ruidoso. Hen-riette Wyeth Hurd and her son, artist Michael Hurd, hosted a reception at their gallery Sunday. Young McCoy's mother said J.W., whose father is a Wyeth nephew, is already showing an amazing talent for illustrating. She said he'll study with some of the famous artists in his family.

Finalists picked for director

Education officials from Eastern New Mexico University and the Ruidoso School system are ready to pick a leader for the community's new off-campus instructional center.

They have narrowed a field of about 40 applicants for the post of executive director to two, Dr. Peggy Elder and Dr. Jim Miller.

"Our goal was to hire an executive director by the first of July so he or she could get in there and get things moving toward the start of classes by late August or early September," said Ruidoso School Board member Rod Adamson.

Voters earlier this year approved a one mill property tax levy to help support the operation of a center.

Miller currently is superintendent of schools in Farmington and has worked closely with San Juan College in scheduling non-traditional classes.

Elder previously served as vice president of academic affairs with New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. She now lives in Seattle, Washington and is associated with Griffin College.

The Dreamer

Rain beats sweet rhythm in the Valley

Welcome Rains
In Dry June

This is being sent to you about a half hour before high noon on June 6, and I am listening to two of the most beautiful sounds in the world — especially in the month of June here in our mountain land — the drumming tattoo of raindrops on the roof, and this giant bass voice of the thunder echoing from hill top to hill top up the Valley, over the hills to the east and west — and now directly overhead.

This is sweet music here in the beginning of what is year in and year out, our driest month. Early this morning the wind had changed from the west yesterday, to the northeast, and there was a cool mist all in the air with a cloud or two overhead.

About ten o'clock clouds began sailing in through the blue sky over Storm Mountain to the southwest, meeting another band of cloud from the northeast.

And now the rain comes pattering down, bright drops of clear sky water through which you can see your small descending pictures of the brilliant green hillsides and mountain meadow, beyond. The thunder voices answer one another from mountain to mountain, and all the Vale is fragrant with the incense of rain on the dry grass and the new shoots on the pinon branches.

Second Rain

Yesterday, the fifth, the day began bright and sunny, then around noon the thunder rumbled away to the west, and sure enough, you looked up the valley and here was a cloud high in the sky with a streamer of rain draped underneath like a silvery curtain, moving along the hillside. Lightning flashed, all silver and gold touched with faint purple and crimson, with the mumble of the thunder following right afterward. The cool wind flavored with the rain reached you, and soon here were the drops raising small clouds of dust on the road and pattering on the apricot leaves and capping on the roof.

Now today, on the sixth, the rain has paused, getting its breath, and an opening appeared in the clouds showing the blue. You looked for a rainbow, Mother Nature's masterpiece, and a rare sight in June: However, the clouds again covered the sky and a dark gray-purple cloud is moving in from the southeast where the continual thunder tells of a good rain over there.

Surely these rains so early in the month of June are the foreshadowing of a special year, and wonderful summer. Mother Earth is rejoicing and saying a prayer today, and we too are joining in this prayer of thanks of God for all his blessings.

Visitors From Seymour, Texas

I was up at The Ruidoso News office around noon on the 31st, and they told me that some folks from Seymour, Texas, were on the way down to the house to visit me, that Rod Flanagan had drawn them a map.

When I got home, here was a note on the door, written on the back of Rod's map:

"Mr. Storm, my husband and I enjoy your articles in the newspaper. We had wanted to meet you personally and are sorry we did not see you. Keep up the good work.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Meaders.
P.O. Box 290
Seymour, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Meaders, I appreciate your kind words, and hope to meet you later on. Thanks for making the journey to the house, and God Bless you.

Red, that was certainly a good map, I am going to recommend you to the National Geographic Society.

The Apple Picture

The orchard folks just down the way tell me that the apples are fine in some spots and a little thin in others. It is a little early to tell about the picture area-wide. There will be a good crop in some places. The rains should help in the wild cherries and raspberries.

Experience the Lincoln County War through the women's eyes

"Billy the Kid" has been appearing frequently in books and on the silver screen this past couple of years turning our attention once again to the violent turmoil that erupted in New Mexico Territory over one hundred years ago.

There seems to be something about Billy and the whole story of the "Lincoln County War" that won't die completely in the minds of historians, poets, songwriters, and actors around the world.

Albuquerque actress Deborah Blanche is no exception, and her latest one-woman show "Lincoln County Women" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 14, in the Ruidoso Public Library courtesy of the New Mexico Endowment for the Humanities Chautauqua Program and The Ruidoso Friends of the Library.

Blanche is quick to point out that her historical dramatization has a unique slant because she tells the story through the eyes of four women whose lives became embroiled in the events of the war whether they were actively involved in the conflict or not.

In "Lincoln County Women" Deborah portrays Barbara "Mam" Jones, the first Anglo woman to settle permanently in the Pecos River Valley; Juana Maria Chavez de Baca, a prominent resident of Lincoln town. Susan Homer McSween (Barber), in whose home the climactic "five day battle" was fought; and Deluvina Maxwell, a young Navajo woman who had been purchased by the Maxwell family to be a servant in the ranch house near Fort Sumner where "the Kid" was killed.

Although this bloody dispute was about what was then very male concerns; such as cattle, politics, banks, and guns, everyone who lived in the area felt its ricochet affect.

Like the War Between the States, that prompted the Jones family to leave Virginia and head West, the Lincoln County War was not just a war between economic and political factions. It was a war between neighbors and friends.

Deborah Blanche is well-known throughout the West for her one woman shows, storytelling concerts and historical characterizations. In celebration of Women's History Month, she will be touring to sites in New Mexico, Colorado, and Wyoming with "Jeannette Rankin: the Disarming Dissenter" and Emma Tenayuca: La pasionara de San Antonio" as well as "Lincoln County Women." In July another of her new Chautauqua programs entitled "Mrs. Custer's Last Stand" will premiere at Angel Fire New Mexico. Blanche appeared in the 1990 season opener of "Unsolved Mysteries" on NBC-TV and in 1988 received the YWCA's "Woman on the Move Award" for her overall contributions to the arts.

For more information about "Lincoln County Women" on June 14 contact The Ruidoso Public Library.

Girl Scouts from 2 states meet here

Girl Scouts from two states got together for an "exchange" last week in Ruidoso.

Local Girl Scout Troop #4 spent a year planning for the "troop exchange" visit by a troop from Payson, Arizona.

The Payson girls arrived on a Saturday and stayed in the homes of the Ruidoso girl's families and got together each day for special activities.

The event started with a family picnic at Conleys Trout Lakes. On Sunday the girls attended church, each with her sponsoring family, and then in the afternoon packed up to go camping over in Lincoln.

Monday morning the troops toured the Lincoln museums, and in the afternoon returned to Ruidoso and went to the Rainbow Lake Fun Park. The day was not over yet as the troops met again in the evening at the Flying J Ranch. Tuesday was spent in the Alamogordo area beginning at White Sands then on the Space Hall and Planetarium. They then drove up to Sun Spot for a tour of the Solar Observatory. The day ended with a cook out in Cloudfcroft.

The girls gathered Wednesday morning for a special ceremony called a "Scouts Own" and then the Payson girls departed.

Next year the Ruidoso troop will be going to Payson.

A Ruidoso Girl Scout troop, led by Vicky Conley, hosted a troop from Payson, Arizona, last week. The girls are pictured at the Flying J Ranch in Alto.

On Campus

CHATTANYA PAI, valedictorian of the Class of 1991 at Ruidoso High School, was selected to receive the $1,000 Wal-Mart Foundation community scholarship.

James Barnes, manager of the Ruidoso Wal-Mart, made the announcement. The scholarship is awarded each spring by Wal-Mart to an area college or university bound high school senior and is payable over a one-year period.

Pai plans to attend Stanford University in Palo Alto, California, this fall.

Adding to that filing cabinet full of dreams

There's no such thing as a free lunch.

We keep hearing "we can get matching funds if ..." and the rest of that story is always some scenario where somebody has to come up with some money to get that matching money. The end result is that one taxing group takes OUR money and puts it toward somebody's great idea and another taxing group (usually the state) puts some more of OUR money to pay the rest.

More than once we've heard one group or another approach a village, county or state with — if you don't give us this money we'll lose the matching funds.

Well, sometimes it's better to lose that matching money than to throw good money after bad.

But, asking for "matching funds" has been a successful play more than once, for instead of justifying the use of the tax dollars, the asker goes on and on about how much further that money will go — thanks to good old matching funds. And, since nobody wants those federal or state funds to be lost, funds are often allocated to match.

And what do we get? Usually, we get another expensive study to be filed away with all those other studies in somebody's filing cabinet of dreams.

Just remember that there's no free lunch. Those matching funds have to come out of somebody's pocket and it's usually the same old deep pockets of the taxpayers.
