Council calls for lodgers fee hike, new state tax

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday moved to increase the existing lodger's tax by one percent and proposed a one percent statewide hospitality tax.

Councilors said the taxes are necessary to defray advertising expenses of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and other village tourism advertising.

Councilor Ron Andrews and village manager Ron Wicker met earlier Tuesday with chamber executive director Jerry Watts and chamber President Tony Wilcoxson to hash out the village's participation in the chamber budget.

The chamber previously also met with the Ruidoso Lodgers Tax Advisory Board (LTAB), but could not reach a financial agreement with that board.

The chamber had requested $67,000 for the operation of its visitors area. That operation was negotiated down to $32,000 by removing some items and combining others, according to Andrews.

Andrews said the village will approach the lodgers tax committees in the county and Ruidoso Downs to help with the regional advertising of Lincoln County. He proposed a regional advertising board made up of the five members of the Ruidoso LTAB, two from the chamber, one member from the county (if the county elects to participate financially), one member from Ruidoso Downs and one ex-officio or board member from the Mescalero Indian Tribe (also depending on financial contribution).

Andrews said much of the advertising of the region overlaps. A regional board could cut out some of the duplication and possibly save money, he said.

The chamber of commerce's primary function is as a visitor's center to assist tourists. That activity is estimated to cost $32,000.

"That leaves the village with a $32,000 problem," Andrews said. He proposed an increase of one percent in the lodgers tax from three to four percent to cover that activity.

Andrews then suggested the different bodies of the county approach the state legislature to propose a one percent statewide hospitality tax. Half of a percent would be retained by the state for advertising funds. The other half, which he said would represent about $300,000, would come to the village.

Andrews said the state has limited funds to advertise for tourism and spends less than the city of San Antonio. Both San Antonio and New Mexico share similar populations.

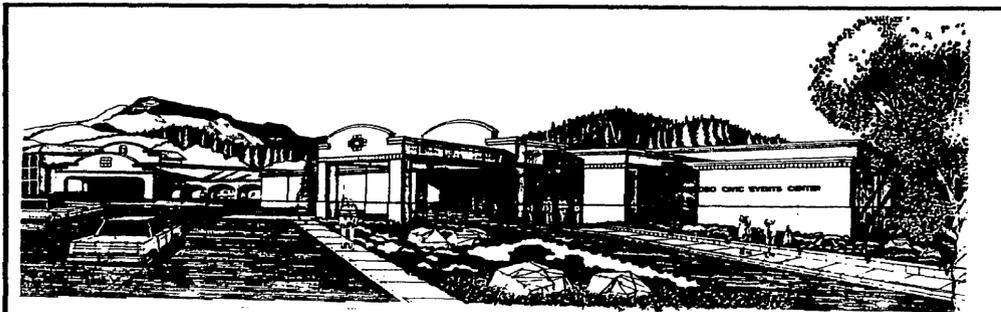

Andrews said if the state implements the hospitality tax, the one percent lodgers tax would be rescinded.

"It would not go to five percent, but stay at four percent," Andrews said.

The council approved a four part motion that included the chamber agreement, a regional recommendation, an ordinance on increasing the lodgers tax and a resolution pushing for a state wide hospitality tax.

Later in the meeting, the council discussed the different options of collecting the new state-imposed five percent governmental gross receipts tax.

The council approved a recommendation from the village attorney to pass that tax on by charging the tax to purchasers of the village services such as utilities, gymnastic lessons and other village programs.

Final rendering

One last glimpse was offered of a different architectural rendering submitted by the Ruidoso Civic-Events Center's architectural firm of Nolan and Associates, Garland and Hiles. Design development is nearly completed.

Downs judge hires his wife

Ruidoso Downs Municipal Judge Harrold Mansell has been watching the controversy in Bernalillo concerning a sheriff wanting to hire his wife as under sheriff.

After getting approval to hire his wife, Camille Mansell, as his court clerk, Mansell said that if "conflict of interest" is ruled in Bernalillo County, his wife will resign.

As it turned out, the sheriff withdrew his wife's name because he said he didn't want her to be embarrassed if the county commission rejected the appointment.

Ruidoso Downs trustees with the exception of trustee Jim Rethmel voted at a regular meeting Monday night to allow Mansell to hire his spouse.

"It's done all the time," Mansell told trustees.

The trustees also approved raising the municipal court clerk's compensation to the minimum wage of $4.25 and will allow the clerk to work 20 hours a week.

Mansell had asked for a salary of $4.50 to $6 an hour to be determined at his discretion.

The trustees agreed that Camille Mansell is eminently qualified to be court clerk.

Mansell's clerk, Linda Butler, has resigned for "personal reasons," according to a letter sent the judge.

"I have a real problem with propriety. It doesn't look right. I don't think you can take a step backward. I think you are setting a dangerous precedent," Rethmel said in voting against the motion made by trustee Ray Fredrickson.

"She is more than qualified," he added.

"It happens all the time, it's not illegal," Gary Mitchell, village attorney, said of nepotism.

"If you pass an ordinance prohibiting it, that's different," Mitchell said. Ruidoso Downs has no such ordinance on its books.

Campus director tapped to head ENMU Ruidoso center

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The former superintendent of Farmington Municipal Schools has been picked to head the new Eastern New Mexico University off-campus instructional center in Ruidoso.

The selection of Dr. James Paul Miller Jr. was announced Tuesday by Dr. Bill Engman, vice president for Academic Affairs at Eastern. Miller was selected from among 57 applicants for the post and will take over by August 1 for an annual salary of $50,000.

Classes are scheduled to start this fall at the center, which will utilize existing Ruidoso school facilities during the evenings.

Miller was in Greeley, Colorado, because of a death in his family and unavailable for comment on his appointment.

Mike Gladden, superintendent of the Ruidoso school system and a member of the selection committee, said Miller has extensive grant writing experience. Securing grants will be a top requirement for the new director and he's confident Miller will do a tremendous job, Gladden said.

Miller's former boss, Joan Watkins, president of the Farmington School Board, seemed to agree with that assessment.

Watkins told The Ruidoso News that Miller should be well-suited for the demands of building a new instructional center.

"I feel this is a position he'll be able to fulfill very well," Watkins said. "His best quality as a superintendent was his political savvy of things. He knew who to talk to and how to interpret things sent down by Santa Fe. He should be very good for your community in helping to build up a new center."

Watkins said her board members knew Miller had applied for the Ruidoso post, but didn't know until they received their meeting packets Monday that he had submitted his resignation. They are scheduled to take action on that resignation during a regular meeting today (Thursday).

"I wish him the best of luck," she said.

According to a story in the Farmington Daily Times, the last year had been rough for the relationship between Watkins and Miller. The two had been on the opposite sides of a school bond issue in the last election. Watkins, who opposed the bond issue, won. The bond issue failed.

Miller, described as in his mid-40s, received a master's degree in public administration at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana. He earned his bachelor's degree in elementary education and a doctorate in school administration from the University of

New Mexico.

In 1988, Miller was named New Mexico Superintendent of the Year.

Prior to becoming superintendent at Farmington in 1985, he served as superintendent of the Carrizozo Municipal Schools for six years.

According to his resume, other elementary level teaching positions held by Miller were in Albuquerque, Farmington and at Spangdahlem Air Force Base in West Germany. He acted as an education and personal affairs counselor in the Bundesrepublik Minimum Security Prison in Wittlich, West Germany, in the spring of 1974. He served from 1971-73 in the U.S. Army as a drug abuse prevention counselor/education adviser at Fort Bliss, Texas, and in West Germany.

Miller and his wife, Lyn, have two daughters, who will be entering the ninth and eleventh grades.

Fire up for the Fourth!

Celebrators can take their pick of Fourth of July activities in the Lincoln County area.

Capitan presents the annual Smokey Bear Stampede with a parade, rodeos, barbecue, run and other events.

Mescalero events include the Coming of Age Ceremonies, rodeo, parade and Indian dances.

Ruidoso Downs Race Track has some special events on track, and Ruidoso businesses will be hosting celebrations and entertainments.

Fireworks are not permitted in Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs or in the Lincoln Forest, but a big, public display is planned in Carrizozo.

Read all about the Fourth of July in a special section in the July 4 edition, which will be distributed a day early, Wednesday, July 3.

Grindstone's future depends on FDIC

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Future negotiations with the Federal Deposit Insurance Company (FDIC) regarding the Grindstone Lake development need clarification according to Councilor Bill Karn.

The council Tuesday approved a motion by Karn that the village manager and a representative of the planning commission meet with the FDIC to help clarify future negotiations regarding the Grindstone Lake development.

Karn also suggested contacting New Mexico's representatives in the U.S. House and Senate for the right contact needed on the FDIC.

The village wants to have the right to approve development plans for land the FDIC may sell from the Grindstone tract and to ensure access to recreational property there.

In other FDIC-related discussions, the councilors agreed to sign a replat for James Townsend and his wife to purchase 28 acres of FDIC land in the Grindstone area, formerly known as the Dorman tract.

That approval allows the Townsends to take possession of the some Grindstone acreage for their riding stables. If the FDIC accepts the conditions of the signing, the Townsends will return to planning and zoning with details.

Attorney Alan Morel of the firm of Parsons and Bryant, representing Townsend, explained the operations of Townsend's riding stable, the conditions needed that may satisfy the FDIC, and how the planned unit development status will protect village rights.

The Townsends have leased the land and operated a riding stable for the past two years, but their business is on hold this season pending purchase of the land from FDIC.

In other regular business Tuesday, the council:

—Heard a report from Karn that he talked with State Representative John Underwood (D-Ruidoso) who promised to ask the governor to schedule discussions of a proposal to overturn the fireworks law on the agenda of the legislature's special session. The law allows the sale of a wide range of displays that could start fires in dry mountain areas. Karn said Underwood also will try to effect changes in the recent gross receipts tax law.

—Noted that a public hearing is scheduled for July 9 on an ordinance allowing insurance coverage through the village for the families of councilors. Karn said the village's insurance premiums had increased in the past because of high medical bills of the families of former elected officials.

—Transferred ownership of a dispensers liquor license and retailers liquor license from Furr's Beverage Company of Texas Inc., to Furr's Supermarket Inc.

—Approved a replat and zoning request of Don Minor to condense a one-acre tract, capable of 20 housing units, to be rezoned to three lots and three single family dwellings.

Subdivision codes of the village restricts variance consideration to the Village Council. Andrews said the basis for providing an exception to the village's subdivision code is driven by the fact that there is a reduction in demand for city services by reducing the zoning from 20 unit plat to a three family unit plat.

"We are not setting precedent that if someone breaks up a single piece of property into smaller pieces of property that this sort of exception will be granted. If we set a precedent, it would be tied to a reduction of services by the village."

All utilities will be underground and water and sewer taps will be provided by Minor. The conditions are to be inscribed on the plat for future owners.

—Adopted the MainStreet Redevelopment Plan portion of the river trail system from Fern Street to Country Club.

MainStreet Director Mary Maul said she will make a presentation July 10 in Santa Fe before the State Parks Commission for a 25 percent state match. The village already has allocated $15,000 from last year's budget as its 25 percent city match and 50 percent would come from federal sources.

Maul also recommended the council start the trail system as a fall project since it was designated as a top priority. Maul suggested the trail start with the village owned property behind the fire department.

Maul said MainStreet Ruidoso, through the village of Ruidoso, will receive $40,644 in state co-op dollars for construction specifications to build sidewalks along State Highway 48 (Sud-dorth Drive).

—Heard a request for street repair in Innsbrook Village from Jeanene Taylor speaking for residents of the development.

Taylor noted that over 300 taxpaying citizens live in Innsbrook and that several potholes were approximately a foot deep.

She said the electric company will be installing lines within the next three months and will pay the city to patch the streets.

Councilor Karn said the current major priority paving projects include the new Radisson hotel, the new civic-events center area and a commitment with state matching money for Paradise Canyon Road.

Councilor Barbara Duff noted the Paradise Canyon residents have been waiting 24 years.

Wicker said after those two projects are completed, Innsbrook could jump to a high priority. He said temperature limits prohibit year long paving and that it would probably be next spring before any repairs could be made to the Innsbrook neighborhood.

—Unanimously approved an Emergency 911 agreement regarding a county wide emergency telephone service.

Ruidoso Police Chief Dick Swenor said it is more important than ever for a resident to have their house properly numbered.

"The software is in place and in September $260,000 worth of radio and computer equipment will be put into use. Through 1999, there will be no charge to any municipality," he said.

Mayor appoints board members, asks for volunteers

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The long awaited, often postponed appointments to the various village boards and committees were presented to the council Tuesday minutes before they were to be approved.

Alonso suggested that councilors place an "X" by a name of anyone they might not approve.

Councilor Barbara Duff also worked on the project for weeks, verifying names and addresses. Named to the new Arts and Film Commission were Jacqueline Kastor, Paul Westbrook, Barbara Diehl-Westbrook, Stan Cape, Bill Riggles, Dan Barrow, Jerry Perry and Dick Valenzuela.

had never appointed anyone to the arts and film commission.

"I thought it was official some time back, with some appointments," Alonso said. "Our attorney indicates that he has a different opinion. But there should be no doubt they are official now, subject to the open meetings law." "Correct," Thomsen said. Included in the agenda packet were minutes of a meeting that board already had where plans were made for a number of events. Alonso named himself to the village's new Transportation Board along with Dick Weber, Roy Crocker, Mark Doth and Roy Parker.

Alonso appointed himself and Ron Wicker to the Ruidoso-Ruidoso Downs Joint Use Board for the regional wastewater plant. Leroy Nowell was appointed to the Planning and Zoning Board, and the Mayor made a plea for volunteers to come forward who are willing to serve on that board.

Parks and Recreation Board.

Bill Long and Corrine Swearingin were named to the Personnel Board. Appointed to a re-established cemetery board were Danny Sisson, Jimmy Sportsman, Richard Catanach, Alan Morel, Gary Thompson and Terri Waterfield. Regarding to cemetery, Councilor Andrews said interest has been expressed in contacting the relatives of the interred to fund a perpetual care program, but Sisson says the state's stringent rules for activating such a program would result in a "can of worms."

Attorney Don Dutton reminded the council that members of most municipal boards and commissions are required to live within the village limits, and indicated some of the new appointees may live elsewhere. Duff said she had been verifying addresses and telephone numbers and believes all the appointees do live in Ruidoso.

Suspect arrested in weekend stabbing

by SHERI CANTWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A Ruidoso resident wanted for questioning in a local stabbing incident was arrested in El Paso, Texas, late Monday morning.

Allen Stefine, 22, was arrested by the El Paso Police just hours after the warrant for his arrest was issued.

Stefine fled to El Paso after being involved in an argument with William Bates III, of Ruidoso.

Bates was admitted to Lincoln County Medical Center with a stab wound in his back that punctured his right lung.

Stefine was transferred to the custody of the Ruidoso Police Department late Wednesday afternoon.

Because of the complexity of the case, politics got involved, complicating the transaction process of Stefine returning to Ruidoso, said Lou Wardwell of the Ruidoso Police.

At press time, police were still investigating, with no new information available.

According to police reports, Bates claimed that the suspect stabbed him from behind after the two allegedly argued over his wife in his front yard.

Bates told police that he and his wife were drinking with friends at the new Cedar Creek Campground. When Bates was ready to leave, his wife, Stephine, wouldn't go with him.

Upon returning home, Bates called the police and asked them to escort his wife home, but they couldn't legally do anything.

Bates reportedly said he would take care of the matter in his own way, and police warned him not to cause any trouble.

Later, police officer Will Hoggard was called to the hospital concerning a stabbing that involved Bates.

Bates then told the officer that Stefine and Bates' wife went to the Bates residence at 216 Spruce Drive.

According to police interviews with the injured man, Bates said he and Stefine began to argue and when Bates turned to talk with his wife, Stefine stabbed him in the back.

Bates said Stefine and the wife then left in an older model Toyota Tercel.

Appreciating police gets complicated

by SHERI CANTWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

What started out as a good deed, deteriorated into mass confusion here this week.

A local businesswoman, new to the area, wants to help the Ruidoso Police Department by selling tickets to a benefit banquet, but her plans seemingly have fallen into a quagmire of red tape.

The mix-up caused some concern for the Ruidoso Police Department.

For a week now a local radio station has been airing an announcement promoting a banquet to benefit the local police.

The public service announcement (PSA) asks listeners to show their support of the Ruidoso Police Department by buying a $10 ticket to a banquet August 18, at The Barn.

That announced banquet was a big surprise to police officials, who hadn't been contacted about any police benefit.

The Police Department had no knowledge of the PSA, said Lanny Maddox, Criminal Investigations Commander for Ruidoso. "Nor do we endorse or sponsor such activity."

According to the organizer, a group of local businesses wanted to put the event on to help fund the purchasing costs involved for Ruidoso police officers. Lewis had in mind expenses borne by individual officers, not paid by the department.

"I didn't think there could be so much red tape involved in a charity event," said Jean Lewis, owner of the Starting Gate Restaurant, who is promoting the benefit.

Lewis said she's part of a group, but she refused to provide names of other businesses working on the benefit.

Lewis said she found out after plans were under way that the businesses sponsoring the banquet need to get permission from the Ruidoso Village Council and the Police Department before putting on such an event.

Lewis said she is getting a run around. She claims she went to the Village Council and was told she didn't have to get their permission, yet. But, when she talked with Detective Maddox, he repeated the earlier advice she received from another source that she had to go through the council.

Mary Maxwell, executive secretary for the Village of Ruidoso, said that Lewis does have to go through village hall, and has been put on the agenda for the next village council meeting.

Lewis said that 4,000 tickets have been ordered for the event from a printing shop — "the one on Sudderth," — however none of the three existing printshops contacted could confirm that such an order has been made.

The tickets were supposed to go on sale July 18, according to a note attached to the PSA.

Lewis also said The Barn was being donated for the banquet by Roy Seay, president of the Sertoma Club. Sertoma is leasing The Barn for charity Bingo.

Seay told The Ruidoso News that about a month ago Lewis had called him about renting The Barn, but he referred her to Craig Rawlings, the owner.

Rawlings stated that there is no reservation on the schedule for such an event. He said he hadn't been contacted.

Rawlings said The Barn will hold about 800 people, however Lewis claims that the building is only needed for the people to get their food and drinks. "The Barn has five acres around it," she said.

Concerning the PSA, Lewis said that, too, was a mix-up. She said the radio station wasn't supposed to run the announcement until she got approval from the necessary people.

Mike Warren, owner and general manager of KRUI, said that the announcement had been running since June 20, but the station stopped it immediately after discovering that the police knew nothing about the event.

A KRUI advertising salesperson apparently received the PSA from Lewis, and thought it was for immediate release because of the note concerning the date of ticket sales.

The salesperson said a police officer was sitting right there when he received the announcement.

"It's not their (KRUI's) fault," said Maddox, stating that it was because of the radio station that the Police Department became aware of the event.

Lewis said each business is donating some food or supplementary materials to make the dinner work and that three bands are donating their time for the dance.

Not only was Lewis unwilling to provide a list of businesses involved, but she also couldn't reveal the names of the bands. Lewis said many bands are willing to donate their time, but she doesn't know yet which three will be selected to play August 18.

"Her heart's in the right place but she has to clear it through the council," said Chief Swenor. "I can't endorse something like that," he added.

Grindstone

Swenor said if there is some dispute about a street name or number, residents should contact Planning Administrator Cleatus Richards at Village Hall.

Denied a request by Craig Rawlings to adjust the size of the street leading into the The Links golf course and Sierra Blanca Resort from Mechem Drive.

Rawlings said the grades of the entrance to the new civic center, hotel and golf course make it impossible to preserve adequate access to his nearby building and property.

Rawlings said there was no reason the highway cannot be cut by about five feet. He said the proposed width of the road entering the golf course was overkill and created problems.

Planner Richards said that he and consulting engineer John Shaw had investigated the options in depth. He said a traffic impact analysis had taken four months for approval by the transportation department. He said any revision would require the village to go through the process again.

Wicker said the road department was ready to start on the project within two weeks.

Rawlings said he may file for an injunction to stop the project.

Village attorney David Thomsen said if an existing road has its grade altered and as a result access is denied to a piece of property, and by doing so devaluates that property, then a public agency could owe the owner compensation.

"We're not cutting the man off from use of his property," Karn said. "Aesthetics and safety factors pointed out. And we only have a couple of months left to pave the project."

Karn then called for a vote on a motion to keep the grade at nine percent and go with the original plan. It passed 5-1, Councilor Andrews casting a nay vote.

Downs dog owner says pet was licensed

James McCasland of Ruidoso Downs says his dog which died as a result of a tranquilizer shot administered by Bill Heineken, animal control officer at the Downs, was tagged.

He had a collar and a tag, McCasland said.

At a village trustee meeting, Mayor Bonnie Addy said the dog was not tagged and was running loose and had been handled by the animal control officer previously.

Also involving canines in Ruidoso Downs, former mayor Jake Harris told The News he wonders if animals put down by the village are disposed of properly.

Harris is a strong critic of the current village administration and has been warned via a letter from the mayor to go through proper channels to inquire about village business.

"Are you going to report that the mayor refused to recognize me," Harris asked during a visit to The News office.

Addy told The News, that, yes, she was tired of being harassed and that she wouldn't recognize Harris.

Heineken explained that no animals are disposed of near a spring or the river as Harris indicated he suspected. Heineken said the procedure is to bag the animals in a plastic bag and send them to the landfill used by the village. He said he hasn't been able to get any guidelines from EID on animal disposal.

Jim Edwards, environmentalist, told The News Heineken is disposing of the animals properly. "They are just considered solid waste like any other," he said.

He said solid waste is covered daily under current landfill regulations.

Ruidoso Downs trustees act on ordinances

Ruidoso Downs trustees in a regular meeting Monday night, June 24, took action on six ordinances and adopted a joint powers agreement between Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs.

The agreement has to do with joint use of Ruidoso's detention facility for Ruidoso Downs prisoners.

Trustees Ray Frederickson and Alice Allison voted against adopting the agreement.

Mayor Bonnie Addy appointed trustee Jackie Branum and village clerk Maurice Gudgel to a Wastewater Plant Board.

Ordinance 91-03 was adopted. It creates a water department and raises rates by $1.25 a month on the average. Allison voted against adoption.

"People can't afford it," she said. Other ordinances adopted or amended were as follows:

91-02, setting rules for zoning and land use.

91-04 and 91-05, having to do with employment policies concerning the police chief and village clerk.

91-06, amending 88-5, Article 2, "recruiting, selection and appointment."

91-07, amending 81-01, "Merit System."

Trustee Jim Rethmel reported on a municipal meeting he and the mayor attended in Albuquerque. He said some Municipal League policies were reviewed.

The village has accepted the $87,200 the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority will pay for sanitation equipment now owned by the village.

However, a special new governmental five percent tax will apply after July and will siphon off several thousands dollars from that income.

Trustee Charlotte Craig, Maurice Gudgel, village clerk, and Leann Weibrecht, deputy clerk, recently attended a taxation and revenue meeting in Roswell.

The new tax was outlined there.

Downs

He said such a practice is "unusual," not "illegal."

But, Mitchell said, "whatever you do, the clerk must be bonded."

On another front regarding Judge Mansell, apparently space formerly allotted the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority will go to the court after July 1. The judge hasn't been happy with the space or location of his office in the new village hall.

Trustees dealt with or heard about a couple of other "heavy items" at their meeting.

Mitchell informed the governing body that a water rate increase will be necessary in December or else "services will have to be reduced."

Mitchell told trustees that there is nothing in the reserve account to take care of emergency repairs if any portion of the Downs water system breaks down.

"You must build a reserve," he said.

Because of some flukes in a law passed several years ago, the village will lose a quarter percent of gross receipts tax come July 1.

Mitchell indicated that in December, the tax will have to be increased by a half a percent "to make up."

Also, July 1 a government gross receipts tax will go into effect. A governmental gross receipts tax of five percent will be imposed on the receipts of state and local government from:

1. The sale of sewer and sanitation services.

2. The admissions to recreational, athletic or entertainment events or services when the facilities are open to the general public.

3. The sale of tangible personal property by governmental units to the public or other governments, for example, the sale of water and any other tangible items sold by a government are subject to the governmental gross receipts tax.

The tax will affect sewer and sanitation rates in Ruidoso Downs.

Smokey joins the American Cowboy to fight fires

A group of federal, state, municipal, and rural fire departments want to spread the word that prevention of fires is their highest priority, and they are using the "Smokey Bear and The American Cowboy" program as the highlight of this effort.

The truck and trailer, which contains an exhibit area, will be at various events and be conducting a traveling caravan in this area. The caravan appearances will begin July 2, at the Roswell Mall from 10 a.m. to noon, and then travel to Ruidoso's Furrs/Walmart on highway 70 from 3 until 5 p.m. July 3 the caravan will be at the Sierra Mall in Ruidoso from 10 to noon, and at White Sands Mall in Alamogordo from 3 until 5 p.m.

Participants in the traveling caravan will be Smokey Bear and the American Cowboy along with Partners in Fire Prevention, Lone Star Express Band, Rodeo Queen contestants and others.

A very full 4th of July will include an appearance at the Smokey Bear State Park beginning at 8; participating in the Smokey Bear Stampede Parade which begins at 10:30; then a fast trip to Mescalero for the grand entry of the Mescalero Rodeo. The grand entry at the Capitan Stampede will be the evening event and begins at 6 p.m. Friday the 5, there will be an appearance at the Mescalero Rodeo at 1 p.m. and then on to Ruidoso Downs Race Track, which is having "Smokey Bear Day." The day will round out with another appearance at the Smokey Bear Stampede in Capitan.

Additional appearances at the rodeo events and helping the runners in the Mescalero 5k/10k run start and finish will keep everyone busy for the 6 and 7.

U.S. Chamber of Commerce honors Rep. Joe Skeen

Representative Joe Skeen, R-NM, was honored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for voting consistently to support American business during 1990.

Representative Skeen, whose district includes Lincoln County, was presented the Spirit of Enterprise Award for compiling a pro-business voting record of 70 percent or higher based upon key votes cast on business issues in the second session of the 101st Congress.

Key business issues addressed last year in Congress included a major overhaul of clean-air laws, increased visas for job-related immigration and a budget measure that imposed higher federal taxes. Congress also debated proposals that would have forced employers to use quotas in hiring and promotion and to provide family and medical leave benefits. Also on the agenda was establishment of a line-item veto, a reduced Social Security payroll tax rate and a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

The Spirit of Enterprise award shows the Chamber's appreciation of those legislators who have worked to support the American economy and identifies them as supporters of free enterprise.

Skeen, a strong advocate for business, is also active in promoting issues that affect ranchers.

This week, Skeen fought hard to defeat a move in Congress to increase grazing fees. Despite his efforts, the amendment passed.

"No business could tolerate such a drastic increase in its operating expenses and still survive," said Skeen.

Senior citizens get together at Ruidoso Senior Center

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you're the right age, there's an air conditioned club in town where you can hang out, watch a little TV, read all the latest magazines and books, play a hand of bridge or shoot a game of pool, all for free.

Want more? How about meals from free to $2.50, depending how flush you are at the moment.

Feeling peaked? Get free blood tests. Caught a cold? They'll arrange for free flu shots. And the services go on and on.

The Senior Citizens Center is a service of the Village of Ruidoso, but much of its good work is through donations, and most seniors agree it is the best deal in town.

Sandee Dutchover is director of the Senior Citizens Center. She has organized so many programs to keep the center active you have to check her bulletin board twice a week, not to miss anything.

"We have health programs, health clinics, information programs, we try to have something new every month," said Sandee.

During the All American Festival in Ruidoso, the seniors hold a bridge tournament. Dutchover said bridge is a popular game with the seniors in this mountain town.

Dutchover said newsletters are sent to 330 families. She said many summer seniors come for the season that aren't on the newsletter.

The three summer barbecues are the biggest events of the year, according to Dutchover. The first barbecue is Friday, June 28, at noon. The other two are in July and August.

This barbecue is an inside-outside affair.

"We always have a band that plays country western music or big band era music," she said. "We had 150 attending our last barbecue. It was our first year and now that the word is out, we expect an even greater participation."

The center gives blood pressure checks Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A shopping, escort and transportation service is available on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

A social security representative visits the center on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

AARP meets at the center on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

In crafts, the center holds classes in crochet and croquet, ceramics, seed art, decoupage on wood and quilting.

Aerobics classes are a regular Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning workout.

Every Monday and Friday, the MealCare program serves from the center from 11:30 a.m., and delivers from the center to homebound meals program participants. On Wednesday, the meals are taken to the homes. Dutchover said she has around 35 "meals on wheels" customers.

Dutchover said she is working to get a four-day meal service for the seniors, but she said there are not enough resources at this time.

The Senior Citizens Center is located in back of the Ruidoso Library and Dutchover is a paid employee of the Village of Ruidoso. The village also pays a part-time employee who provides transportation for seniors.

A Golden Age Club meets the first and the third Wednesdays at lunchtime. It's potluck, and there is a $5 charge per year.

Dutchover said there is a charge for Arts and Crafts projects taken home.

An informative newsletter, the Ruidoso Senior Center News, is available at the center. For information call 257-4565.

Bridge is serious business for a group of card players at the Senior Citizens Center adjoining the Ruidoso Library. The center also offers a pool table, a lounge area with a large screen TV, and a lounge to much a lunch in the comfort of air conditioning.

The center is open Monday through Friday and offers many free health care services as well as a planned schedule of events in exercise programs, crafts and lectures. A series of barbecues during the summer months is scheduled.

Local woman named to state housing board

Governor Bruce King has appointed a local woman to serve on the Housing Authority, Region VI.

Norma Falwell, a 10-year Ruidoso resident, was notified last week of the appointment.

Falwell, who has been active in the Democratic Party in Eddy and Lincoln counties for many years, served as campaign coordinator for State Representative H. John Underwood's successful campaign.

Falwell, who is married to Joe Falwell, works at Ruidoso Jockey Club and the Final Touch Beauty Salon.

She said she is pleased for the opportunity to serve this state, particularly in housing — an area that could benefit those in this state who need help the most.

"I know you will do a good job for us and that we will work well together," said King in his letter to Falwell.

NORMA FALWELL

"There is much to be done and I look forward to working with you on the challenges facing us today."

Artist's work reflects glasnost

The eleven pieces that commemorate artist Jacque Cattaneo's trip to the Soviet Union in June 1990 are her best to date, according to a news release.

"There aren't enough adjectives to describe to collection, continues the release.

The smallest pieces, 16" by 12", are portraits of children in Leningrad; while the largest, 48" by 36", capture the bright, bold colors of Ukrainian dancers.

"The realistic and expressionistic works are alive and happy, not the dull and drab grays that we normally associate with the Soviet people," reads the release.

Cattaneo, an internationally known portrait artist from Gallup, has allowed her love of people and her artful skill with a brush to bridge the cultures.

"The message is loud and clear — these are real people, with real feelings, from contemplative to roguish, from playful to prayerful, people with whom we can and should identify."

The paintings represent many months of labor — work that Cattaneo describes as a labor of love and intense feelings, a communication between the Soviet people and ourselves.

Cattaneo was selected by the American Exchanges, through the Catharine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club in New York, to participate in an educational exchange program, meeting with her counterparts in the Soviet Union.

The collection, along with other selected works, will hang at Dallas & Associates Fine Art in Ruidoso through Labor Day, when it will go on national tour.

Clarification

In last Thursday's edition, it was reported that Angela Simms of Mesalero was one of two female children on both sides of her parent's families.

Instead, she is one of two female children on her father's side of the family. She has a half-sister, who isn't blood related.

Cowboys whoop it up in annual roping

When 88-year-old champion roper Gerald Tully rode into the arena for his annual roping this weekend, it was for the last time.

Tully, who has been heading and heeling with the world's best ropers for years, and he'll be hanging up his rope and retiring.

Tully's doctor said his arm was just worn out from all those years of roping. Since the doctor wouldn't give him a new arm, then Tully said he'll have to give up the sport that has made him famous throughout the roping world.

Retirement was the farthest thing from his mind Saturday and Sunday as Tully and his family presented their the roping at the Tully's Hondo Valley ranch.

High money winner for the two-day event was Kress Jones, with Thomas Montes winning top money on Sunday. Kress Jones was high dollar roper for Saturday.

Century buckles winners were Neal Trammell and Corky Andrus, both veterans of Tully ropings.

In the Century roping events, first go, the team of Gerry Tully and John D. Holleyman took first, with Arlen Youngblood and John Fish winning second and Tuffy Cooper and Dave Leonard, third.

In the second go, Buddy Adair and Joe Adair took first; Levi Garcia and Otho Woodrow took second, and Giles Lee and Dave Leonard, third.

In the third go, Hart Greenwood and Neal Trammell roped first place with Greenwood teaming up with John Fish to follow himself in second place, too, in that go-round. Donnell Echols and Jimmy Cooper placed third in the third go.

In the Average category, Corky Andrus and Neal Trammell took home $780 for placing first, with Levi Garcia and Kress Jones winning $580 for second. Jones roped with Jim Cooper to win third, $390, in the Average category with Levi Garcia and Otho Woodrow taking home $196 for fourth place.

In the 110-year-old roping, first go, Levi Garcia and Otho Woodrow were the top ropers, John D. Holleyman and Kress Jones took second and Brooks Claridge and Jimmy Cooper placed third.

In the Average category, Tuffy Cooper and Kress Jones placed first; Cowboy Jones and Jimmy Cooper, second; Robert Beauvais and Jimmy Cooper, third; Rogene Alford and Bill Trammell, fourth; and Cowboy Jones and Kress Jones, fifth.

In the 120-year-old roping, first go, the team of Hart Greenwood and Jimmy Cooper placed first with the team of John D. Holleyman and Max Maez, second.

John D. Holleyman and Max Maez roped first in the Average category, with Cowboy Jones and Levi Garcia, second; Corky Andrus and Gerry Tully, third; and John Pearson and Max Maez, fourth.

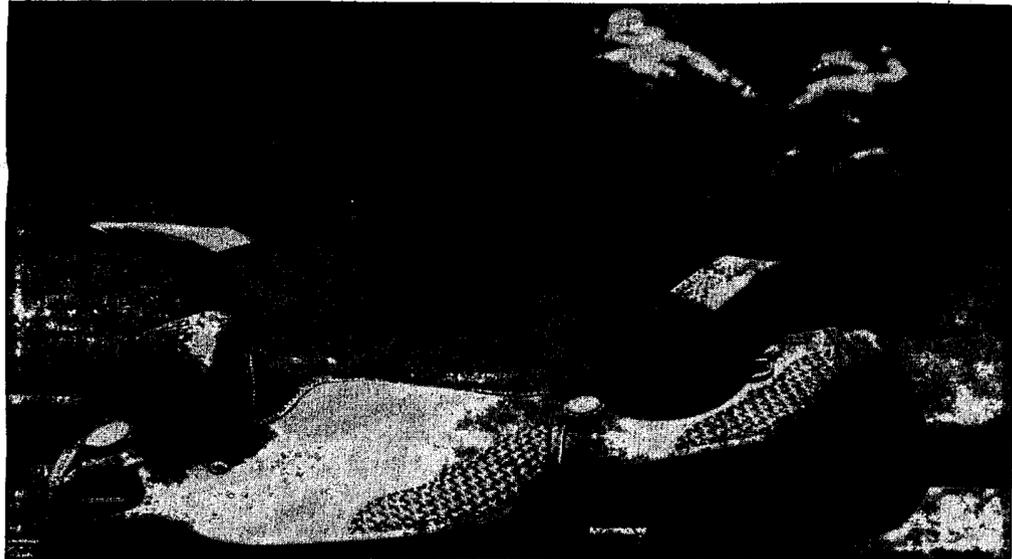

In #5 Roping, Corky Andrus and Thomas Montes won first place in the first go, with Junior Behringer and Chris Gutierrez taking second in the first go and Giles Lee and Brooks Claridge, third.

The Average category win went to the team of Art Franklin and Edna Hinkle, with Eddie David and Leigh Carter in second, Corky Andrus and Thomas Montes, third; Dean Brewer and Fred Apache, fourth; Giles Lee and Brooks Claridge, fifth.

The #3 Roping champs are Robert Gutierrez and Thomas Montes in the first go. Art Franklin and Eddie Davis took second with Steers ramble down the long chute to await their turn for a run in the ring in the 11th Annual Tully Roping Tournament at the Tully ranch in Glencoe.

A couple of ropers are framed by a prized heelin' after a steer for the best time. Tully saddle as they go headin' and Gerald Tully, 88, also roped in the event.

The Champions

First National Bank beat out McDonald's for the Ruidoso Little League minor championship game last Friday, 20-9. The two teams were from Fort Stanton and Capitan, with the winning team coached by Mike Hainer.

Hoops are hot here in Ruidoso this summer

Hoops are hot in Ruidoso this summer.

Team up for the Village of Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department's three-on-three basketball tournament July 19 and 20, sign up for the girls basketball clinic July 19-20, and register for basketball league play, July 22 through August 9.

Ruidoso High School girls basketball Coach Jody Blanton, assisted by RHS cager star DeAnna Swanner, will teach basic skills to girls of all ages during the clinic July 19 and 20.

Blanton said the clinic will prepare players for league play beginning July 22.

Signups for players 14 and younger is from 8:30-9 a.m. July 19, at RHS, with clinic sessions from 9 a.m. to noon both days. Players 15 and older sign up from 5:30-9 p.m. July 19, at RHS, and clinic sessions are scheduled from 6-8 p.m. both days.

Cost of the clinic and league play is $10 each.

Players will be divided into teams and begin league play after the clinic is completed on July 22.

League competition will end with a tournament the week of August 5.

Hoopsters may also enter a three-on-three basketball tournament July 19 and 20, at Ruidoso High School.

The double elimination tournament is open to male and female players in two categories: 14 and under and 15 and older.

Games will be played in the Ruidoso High School gymnasium with the 14 and under games scheduled from 3-6 p.m. and the older category from 6-9 p.m.

Cost to enter the double-elimination tournament is $30 a team, with the application and fee due on July 16.

The tourney will include 10-minute warmups and 30-minute games. First place winners will receive T-shirts.

Mail applications and fees to Coach Jody Blanton at PO Box 4094 HS, Ruidoso NM 88345. For more information or to obtain entry forms, contact Blanton at 258-4910 or 257-7594, or call her assistant, DeAnna Swanner at 378-4231.

Tommy Gilliland and John Fish taking third.

In the Average, Robert Gutierrez and Thomas Montes won first, with the team of Montes and Malcolm McCarty in second; Audrey Davis and Eddie Davis, third; Corky Andrus and Don Stoddard, fourth; and Robert Beavers and Don Hinkle, fifth.

In the #10 roping, Tommy Gilliland and John Fish won the first go, with Thomas Montes and Neal Trammell in second and Marty Latta and Kress Jones, third.

In the Average, John Fish and Milton Purcella were first; Marty Latta and Neal Trammell, second; Corky Andrus and Milton Purcella, third; Marty Latta and Kress Jones, fourth; and Jimmy Cooper and Kress Jones, fifth.

While dust was settling and more steers were entering the chute for a run in the ring, ropers were gulping down burritos and chili dogs from their vantage point next to the arena.

The arena borders the Rio Bonito that twists and turns through the ranch property and feeds the giant cottonwoods.

Theft and Destruction of Street Signs

Over the past several months street signs in the Villages of Capitan and Ruidoso have been damaged or stolen for a loss of more than $6000. The theft and destruction of street signs is not only costly, but also poses a great danger to motorists within our community, as well as pedestrians.

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers in cooperation with the Lincoln County Courts, will offer a forty-five day amnesty period in an effort to recover these missing signs. This gives anyone with a public sign, whether it is stolen or has been found, until July 28th to return the signs and avoid any type of arrest or prosecution. Crime Stoppers urge you to take this opportunity to save our tax dollars and make our streets safer.

Smokey Bear preaches fire prevention

by SHERI CANTWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Smokey Bear and the American Cowboy are roping their way through the states to come to Ruidoso during the July Fourth week.

Partners in Fire Prevention, a group of federal, state, municipal and rural fire departments, is bringing the unique truck and trailer that is based in California to this area as a promotional device.

Smokey Bear's living headquarters and fire prevention display will be featured in Capitan's Smokey Bear Stampede Parade and Rodeo on July 4-5, and the Smokey Bear Day at Ruidoso Downs Race Track Friday, July 5.

Smokey will help out in the Mes-calero 5K/10K Run on Saturday, July 6, and appear in Ruidoso Wednesday, July 3 at the Sierra Mall from 3 to 5 p.m. and at Furr's from 10 a.m. to noon.

Fire prevention materials will be distributed at all the events, said Steve Makowski, a member of Partners in Fire Prevention. This includes bandannas, wallets, coloring books, pins, pencils and stickers.

Partners in Fire Prevention has been supported by local businesses in this project, said Makowski. Sponsors donated more than $2,000 in money and services.

"Their willingness to sponsor indicates a concern for fire prevention," said Makowski. "We're grateful."

The Smokey and American Cowboy truck and trailer travels across the United States going to different rodeos each week.

The partners of Lincoln, Chaves and Otero counties decided to bring the truck and trailer to New Mexico as part of the restoration of the Smokey Bear National Park, which started last year.

This is the first year Ruidoso has had the unit, said Makowski.

Since 1994 is the 50th birthday of Smokey Bear, emphasis within the agency has been on upgrading the National Park. The partners thought the truck and trailer would be a good way to get the fire prevention message out and promote the renovation of Smokey Bear National Park.

Smokey and the American Cowboy program is an excellent win-win partnership for every rodeo Smokey visits, every weekend, said

Jim Yetter, the sponsor of the unique truck and trailer.

With the attention the rodeo gets from its respective public, and the attraction Smokey Bear brings to the younger adults, a more diverse audience hears the fire prevention message.

Rodeo profits go up and Smokey gets his fire prevention message out to more people, said Makowski.

Partners in Fire Prevention was able to sponsor the Smokey and American Cowboy program with help from Sierra Blanca Motors, Bonito Volunteer Fire Department, Jensen Contracting, Ruidoso Downs Racing, Capitan Chamber of Commerce, Friends of Smokey and Ruidoso Printing.

CREOLE DIXIELAND JAZZ BAND

Jazz up your Fourth at Tinnie's

Tinnie Silver Dollar Restaurant invites music lovers to the 3rd concert in this year's season.

The Creole Dixieland Jazz Band will entertain on the veranda July 4, and the manager, Maxine Francis guarantees a very entertaining afternoon.

"Music will start promptly at 2:30 p.m. and end at 6:30 p.m., giving everyone plenty of time to get back home and light their fireworks," says Francis.

"Traditional dixieland jazz is kept alive throughout the United States by scores of small groups of musicians who have fallen under the spell of this most happy form of jazz music," reads a news release provided by Francis.

"These bands may be found in most communities and Las Cruces, New Mexico is no exception.

"The Creole Dixieland Jazz Band has been playing to a growing group of dedicated hot jazz fans Sunday evenings since 1985."

The group, which started out as The Creole Trio at New Mexico State University, has added musicians and is constantly adding to its repertoire of traditional jazz tunes.

The Creole Dixieland Jazz Band follows the format of many of the early jazz groups such as the Original Dixieland Jazz Band and Louis Armstrong's Hot Five in that it is made up of five players. The two "front line" players double on several instruments so that the band often sounds like a larger group.

The players are Eddie Brittle, drums and band manager; Bob Fokett, cornet, trombone, vocals, and bass trumpet; George Goedecke, clarinet, soprano sax, and vocals; Jack Richardson, banjo, and vocals; and John Slaton, plays the tuba.

"Don't worry about rain showers, there's plenty of room under the beautiful veranda," says Francis.

Drinks and appetizers will be served outside with lunch and dinner served inside the restaurant. The new playground is open and has been fun for all the children. Make your reservations to have lunch before the concert, or dinner after the music ends at 653-4425.

Obituaries

Robert F. "Bob" Hill

Rosary for Robert F. "Bob" Hill, 67, of Alto North was recited at 7 p.m. Wednesday with funeral mass scheduled at 10 a.m. today (Thursday), June 27, at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Capitan. Father Ed Griffith will officiate. Burial will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Ruidoso.

Hill died Tuesday at his home. He was in the Coast Guard during World War II. He moved to the Ruidoso area nine years ago from Midland, Texas, where he had lived since 1955.

In Midland he was a member of St. Anne's Catholic Church and the Knights of Columbus. He owned and operated Unimac Data Processing for 22 years.

At the time of his death, Hill was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Capitan.

He was born September 17, 1923 in Tulsa, Oklahoma, to Leonard and Virginia Hill who both preceded him in death.

He married Rosemary Wright December 2, 1944, in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Survivors include his wife, Rosemary, of the family home in Alto North; five sons: Tim, Hill, Larry, Hill, Kevin, Hill and Brian Hill all of Midland, and Mike Hill of Galveston, Texas; and five daughters: Kathleen Camplen of Plano, Texas; Rita Swindle of Dallas, Texas; Theresa Graham of Bedford, Texas; Eileen Johnson of McKinney, Texas, and Loretta Faseler of Pleasanton, Texas.

Survivors include a brother, Jim Hill of Midland, and 29 grandchildren. He was preceded in death by a son, Steve Hill.

The family has requested Memorials be made to the local American Diabetes Association.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

Shirley E. Scott

Shirley E. Scott, Ruidoso resident from 1980 to 1990, died June 10, in a Needles, California, hospital.

She was born in Arizona on November 1, 1926. She and her husband, Richard W. Scott, had been long-time residents of Hobbs, from 1963 to 1985. Her husband of 33 years preceded her in death in April of 1985.

She is survived by one daughter, Deborah Cosby of Redondo Beach, California; a son, Scott Cosby of Farmington and a granddaughter, Tera M. Cosby, also of Farmington.

Private services for family only were conducted after cremation and burial at sea.

The family has suggested contributions to the American Cancer Society.

The Silver Lining

Octogenarian roper Tully hangs it up

Gerald Tully

"Hangs Up His Rope"

After the 11th annual Gerald Tully roping at the Tully Corral, Gerald Tully brought to a close a career in contest roping that began in early youth and continued into his 88th year.

This year's event was one of the most colorful and enjoyable of all, with contestants and their families arriving from all over Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

Then this morning, June 24, his wife, Wynema told me over the phone that Gerald had sold his roping horse, Rocky and "hung up his rope."

Wynema said that the Gerald Tully Roping would keep on and "Gerald will be over there helping."

Also Gerry, Gerald's son, and companion in many roping contests, is a chip off the old block, and surely will carry on the roping tradition.

With his 88th birthday coming up on July 12, Gerald roped with contestants young enough to be his grandchildren.

The spirit of goodwill and friendly competition, is always a part of the appreciation of Gerald Tully himself and the place he has held in the roping world.

The many younger ropers and the lady ropers were a special feature of a two-day event. Among the young ropers it was good to see Elmo Sanchez, the son of my long-time friend Sofio Sanchez; and also Joe Gutierrez, a friend of many years.

Many Honors

Gerald has risen to the top of the roping field. One of his saddles is on display at the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Colorado Springs, and he has a room full of trophies. He has been a great helper of young ropers coming along the way. The annual event at his home has been a landmark each year in roping circles.

The large shade trees at the arena bring back memories of when we first came here in 1925. We helped Gerald's father, James V. Tully Sr., brand some calves nearby. And near the river is an apple tree of the snow white variety growing tall.

Gerald has always had a deep appreciation for horses, and much of his success has been due to his patience and consideration for his horses, who respond as his partners in the roping events.

And so we congratulate Gerald Tully after a long and illustrious career, and we all appreciate him for being a great friend and neighbor.

"The Patience of Job"

At the services last Sunday at Saint Anne's Chapel, Glencoe, the Reverend Mr. Leon Livingston began by saying we are familiar with the saying, "The patience of Job," and taking his sermon from the Book of Job, he said the story of Job is about the meaning of human suffering — that Job in all his trials and suffering remained faithful throughout to God, and was at last restored to prosperity and happiness.

The lesson for us is to be patient and trust in the wisdom of God, and His love for us.

Nellie Ruth Jones in prayers of the people, gave blessings for the birthdays of Kristie Barnes, Patricia Mulholland, Danny Stokes, Bill Baucum, Nancy Wright, Phillip Wright, June Straley and Liz Munro.

"The Good Old Summer Time"

This title to the old favorite song comes to mind here during the last few days. Summer did not waste any time arriving in the Vale, bringing in its warm weather right on the dot on the 21st, the first day of summer.

Today is the warmest day of the year with the temperature up near one hundred. It is a good day for iced lemonade, swimming and resting in the shade.

June is the warmest and driest month of all, and yet the children of Mother Earth are gaining strength for rapid growth. The yucca is in full bloom, accompanied by many of the mid summer flowers: Indian paint brush, blackeyed susan, cone flower, wild hollyhock, and wild snapdragon. The salt cedar by the wayside is a picture of pink branches waving in the breeze.

The heat brings rain, and now a few clouds are appearing over the hillsides to the south-east.

We need the warm weather and the sunshine to make the world green; and the rain is on the way.

Let us rejoice with Mother Earth and say a prayer of thanks to God.

ABOUT YOUR CAR'S COOLING SYSTEM

A familiar sight this time of year is the stalled car alongside the road, hood raised and steam coming from its radiator. Your dirty cooling system made it through another winter but now the warm weather has taken its toll. Prepare for the summer ahead, suggests the Ruidoso Ford, Lincoln, Mercury. Get the cooling system flushed, check hoses and connections and install fresh anti-freeze.

Racing

Magic Dozen risks a six-pack winning streak

Jerry Windham's Magic Dozen risks a six-race unbeaten streak Thursday as he and most of the nation's top 2-year-old quarter horses square off in the Rainbow Futurity time trials.

The time trials are the final step on the grueling journey to the finals of the Rainbow Futurity, a Grade I race which will have its 28th renewal on July 14. The 350-yard dash carries an estimated purse of $500,000.

Thursday's first eight races are trial heats. The 10 fastest qualifiers advance to the Rainbow Futurity.

Magic Dozen drew into Thursday's second race. The handsome son of Easy Dozen has been flawless in five lifetime outings. On his resume already are victories in the Graham Farms Futurity and the Kansas Futurity, both Grade I races.

In the Rainbow elimination trials, Magic Dozen posted a handy 1 3/4-length victory under a hand ride by regular jockey Nicky Wilson. Magic Dozen is trained by James McArthur.

Magic Dozen figures to face one of the toughest challenges of his brief career in his time trial heat in the form of Driftin Tell Sackett, who also drew into the second race.

Driftin Tell Sackett, who is owned by C.M. Mills, ran one of the biggest races of the entire two-day elimination trials. In his heat, the son of thoroughbred sire No Drift steadied sharply leaving the gate, yet still posted a 1/2-length victory.

Driftin Tell Sackett, who is trained by Brent Davidson, ran fifth in the Grade I West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park on March 17. The sorrel gelding has captured three of five career outings.

Thursday's first race is headed by Cersovsky and Shalz's Special Task, the winner of the West Texas Futurity. Special Task was quite impressive in the elimination trials, capturing his heat by nearly a length in the quick final time of :17.93. The brown son of Special Effort is trained by Jack Brooks.

Special Task is just one of Brooks' big horses in the trials, however.

Clarence Scharbauer's Vital Class, who finished just a nose behind Magic Dozen in the Kansas Futurity, is also trained by Brooks. Vital Class, a winner in two of three career starts, was a sharp winner of his elimination heat.

Scharbauer also owns Pullsix, who drew into Thursday's sixth race.

Pullsix, a stout son of Streakin Six, was the easiest kind of winner in the eliminations. Pullsix, who finished fourth as the 4-to-5 favorite in the Kansas, captured his career debut by 3 1/2-lengths. The bay colt is also trained by Brooks.

The sixth race comes up especially tough. Also in the heat are Jacqueline Spencer's Challenger Six, who captured the Kansas Futurity Consolation, and Hubbard and Allred's Cowboys Rodeo, who has shown considerable potential in his brief career.

Another Brooks' Grade I winner, Steppin For The Moon, who captured the first four races of his career including the Sun Country Futurity, surfaces in the seventh race. Steppin For The Moon, a son of Moon Lark, is owned by Hoyt and Wells.

Sunland Park enriches 1992 Riley Allison Futurity purse

The added purse of the 1992 Riley Allison Futurity will be increased from $20,000 to $25,000. The five furlong feature for two-year-old thoroughbreds will be run on Sunday, May 3, 1992 at Sunland Park Race Track.

The announcement was made today by General Manager Harold Payne.

"The increase in added money will make the Riley Allison Futurity a black type race. The $25,000-added purse should help to strengthen the prestige of the Riley Allison Futurity and improve our spring two-year-old program."

The total purse for the 1992 Riley Allison Futurity is estimated to reach $175,000.

The Riley Allison Futurity has traditionally produced top quality stakes runners. Notable Allison Futurity winners include Bold Ego (1980), Triple Sec (1983), Take My Picture (1984), Silent Reflex (1988) and this year's unbeaten winner, Egocentric.

A $250 sustaining payment for the 1992 Riley Allison closes on November 1, 1991.

Sunland Park is scheduled to resume the live race meeting on Saturday, October 12 through Sunday, May 3. 111 race days will be held on Wednesdays, Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Horseshoe toss is worth $100,000 Saturday

Some of the top older fillies and mares on the grounds — including First Lady Handicap winner, Piel Canela — assemble for Saturday's feature race at 7 1/2 furlongs.

Saturday's card also features the simulcast of the $1 million Hollywood Gold Cup from Hollywood Park. The Gold Cup will be carded as the seventh race.

Also on tap Saturday at Ruidoso Downs is the $100,000 Horseshoe Toss. Five fans' names will be drawn for a chance at the big money. Prizes worth $500 and $1,000 could also be awarded.

Saturday's live feature, which offers a purse of $6,600, is headed by D.H. Dalton, Jr.'s Piel Canela. The Texas-bred daughter of Gifted Dancer posted a nose victory in the $18,800 First Lady Handicap here June 1.

Last year here, as a 3-year-old, Piel Canela accounted for the Ruidoso Oaks Handicap. On that occasion, Piel Canela hung a nose decision on Twinkle City in one of the most exciting stakes races of the season.

Minda Brachman's Twinkle City returns to renew her rivalry with Piel Canela. Twinkle City, who is trained by Fred Danley, was second in her seasonal debut here June 15 against allowance foes.

Saturday's feature also lured the hard-knocking older mares, Ruffetta and Hatchetta, both of which are stabled in the barn of leading thoroughbred trainer Doyal Roberts, and Gina's Jewel, winner of last year's Sweetheart Handicap.

The simulcast of the Hollywood Gold Cup is expected to lure the DWayne Lukas-trained Farma Way, the 1990 Freakness Stakes winner Summer Squall, and multiple stakes winner Prized.

Friday track weather looks good for Rain Pirate

Laura Thompson's Rain Pirate, a rapidly-closing second in an invitational handicap here recently, heads a full field of sophomores in Friday's feature race.

The 7 1/2-furlong test, which is reserved for non-winners of two races other than maiden or claiming, offers a purse of $6,000.

Rain Pirate, based on his last effort, could be a slight favorite in the race.

The Kentucky-bred son of Hail the Pirates rallied late against Gee Ryder here June 16. Rain Pirate's bid came up three-quarters of a length short, and the bay colt was forced to settle for second money.

Rain Pirate, however, defeated an eight-horse field March 16 in the Coca Cola Handicap at Sunland Park. Trained by Edward Thompson, Rain Pirate is a career earner of $7,140.

Track Talk

Handicapper takes a busman's holiday

I'm a firm believer that a man (or a woman for that matter) should never take work home. Work is for the office. Home is for rest, relaxation and enjoyment.

Almost on a whim, however, this week I took some work home. It was innocent enough. I tucked a VCR cassette tape of the Rainbow Futurity elimination trials into my brief case. No harm in that.

Once I plugged the tape into my VCR at home the next day, however, I was hooked. I spent the majority of my day off watching the replays of those 350-yard elimination heats over and over again.

As if I don't watch enough races during working hours, I once estimated that with instant replays and all, I watch about 3,000 races each summer.

It's amazing how much transpires in a little 18 second race. Horses are bumped, blocked, impeded. They lug out, lug in, break slowly. Horses rear at the start, stumble out of the gate, break sideways. They buck, jump shadows, run greenly.

By Tim Menicucci
Publicity
Director
Ruidoso Downs
Racing, Inc.

There's enough action in each elimination heat for at least four instant replays. My daughter likes watching the horses run backward when I reverse the tape. My wife made me turn down the volume. She said she was getting a headache from hearing Kent Beatty call "A driving finish!"

All in all, however, the experience was quite educational. From those two days of elimination trials, I jotted down enough trip notes to fill an entire journal. My program pages from those two days — where I inscribe my trip notes — look like Dr. Beechie's prescription forms. Scribbles and scratches everywhere.

The homework, I believe, was well worth the energy expended. I figure to make it all payoff in Friday's first race when a horse called Miss Koda Feature runs. My eyes say she had a horrible trip in the trials. She was bumped and broke slowly, yet still ran a nice race to be fourth.

I hollered at my wife, who was busy with a chore in the other room, "Hey, come and look at this horse. It had a horrible trip. It should win for fun next time out."

My wife, the essence of patience, humored me.

"No," she said. "It broke a little slowly, but it recovered quickly enough to run better than it did. Fourth-place was not that big of a race."

She walked off, completely confident in her assessment of the race.

I sat stunned on the couch for a moment. I hit the POWER OFF button on the VCR, picked up my golf clubs, and wasted the rest of the day doing something constructive.

Horses To Watch

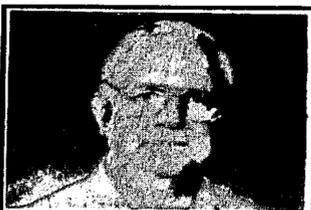

PERFECTLY DASHING -- This royally-bred 2-year-old filly is one of the best kept secrets on the grounds. In her debut, she was pinched badly at the start and still turned in a big performance. If she surfaces in a maiden heat here soon, be on board for a nice score.

DANG IT WIND -- Was checked briefly at the 1/8th pole, yet came roaring like a freight train through the stretch of an 870-yard race here last week. With just a little luck, this New Mexico-bred sophomore will land in the winner's circle next trip to post.

JAZZY MOMMA -- Turned in a big effort, coming off the pace against the boys in her last start. This California-bred filly was coming on strong in the last 1/16th of a mile. If the connections drop her back in against her own sex next start, she figures double-tough.

TALKABOUT A RAMBLER -- Hooked a tough bunch in his seasonal debut last week, and still ran a very game third-place finish. This 6-year-old 870 yard specialist has plenty of wins left in him. A little softer field makes him nearly unbeatable in his next start.

KIRBY LONSDALE -- Was an also-ran in last Sunday's Norgor Futurity, but don't let that race fool you. This nicely-bred son of Strike Gold is a born runner. He will prove that fact before this meet's conclusion.

DERMATOLOGY NOTES

DRY SKIN is a particular problem in our desert southwest. Your pharmacist can recommend a good inexpensive skin moisturizer. The best time to apply a moisturizer is right after a bath or after washing or soaking the hands. A moisturizer applied right after hydrating the skin traps moisture in the skin and works better to soften the skin. If the hands are particularly dry and chapped apply the moisturizer at bedtime and wear a pair of light rubber or latex gloves. Occluding the skin like this will enhance the penetration of moisture into the cells of the skin.

Ranchers saddle up for rodeo

by SHERI CANTWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Fresh stock, wild cows and local ranchers crashing into one another proves for a rip-roaring time during Capitan's first Fourth of July Ranch Rodeo.

The Zane Leslie Memorial Ranch Rodeo will begin at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, July 5, at the Lincoln County Fairground arena in Capitan. The tickets cost $5, which includes a barbecue starting at 11:30 a.m.

In addition to the rodeo, tickets will be sold on a drawing for a Wes Smith limited edition bronze sculpture of a bronc rider, titled "The Best of Both."

Tickets for the sculpture, valued at $2,800, can be purchased at the rodeo for $5.

The rodeo is divided up into five action-packed, timed events. It allows teams of four to six ranch-help members to prove their regular ranch work abilities as well as letting them show off their special skills.

The association is sponsoring the event as a charity benefit. All the proceeds go to the Zane Leslie family, said Mary Dell Jones, a member of the organization.

The ranch rodeo consists of a Wild Cow Milking Contest, a Wild Horse Race, Team Penning, Team Branding, and Team Roping and Doctoring.

The two usual crowd favorites are the Wild Cow Milking Contest and the Wild Horse Race because of the possible wrecks that are liable to happen.

During the Wild Cow Milking Contest there will be eight cows and ropers in the arena at once testing their roping, mugging and milking skills.

Three members on each team participate in the event. After one ropes the cow, another teammate, called the mugger, holds the cow down while another tries to milk the cow, which incidentally has never been milked before.

In the Wild Horse Race a courageous bronc rider tries to guide a bucking horse from one end of the arena to the other. The catch is that the bronc is not used to being saddled and ridden.

"The Best of Both"

Several broncs are being ridden at once so this again has the possibility of many wrecks.

The other three events include more roping, branding and penning cattle up.

The Team Penning is a test for cowboys and cow horseman alike. It may sound easy, penning three cattle from a herd, but it requires finesse and skill, said the news release.

The excitement continues with the Team Branding event. This fast paced event, in which two teams send their best ropers into a herd of cows and calves at the same time, involves roping their team's cattle, (which is mixed with the other team's cattle) flanking (flipping the calf over), holding him down and branding him with white paint.

Through the whole event, the teams are timed, and the fastest one wins.

The last event is the Team Roping and Doctoring event. This requires two good ropers who can head and heel a yearling which has been cut out of a herd of cattle held at one end of the arena.

The event is very much like the branding in that once the cattle is caught and thrown down, another cowboy "doctors" him by making a mark on his head with chalk.

Active Fourth of July planned

by SHERI CANTWELL

Ruidoso News Staff Writer
The Annual Smokey Bear Stampede will fill the streets of Capitan on the Fourth of July to the sixth.

For the younger crowd, or just the young at heart, Smokey Bear will start off the action-packed day with an appearance at the Smokey Bear National Park for lots of fire prevention give-a-ways.

If you miss Smokey there, you can find him and the American Cowboy truck and trailer at the many scheduled events of the Annual Smokey Bear Stampede Rodeo, giving out the message to all cowboys, not to get thrown by wild fires.

The events of the rodeo include cowboy poets, just before the two-hour rodeo performances each night starting at 7 p.m., and nightly dances by The Lonestar Express from 9 p.m. until one o'clock in the morning.

Other activities conducted as part of the rodeo include a barbecue on the Fourth of July beginning at 11:30 a.m. and an original Ranch Rodeo done by local ranchers starting at 1 p.m.

The barbecue is free with a $5 ticket to the Ranch Rodeo.

A horseshoes pitching contest will be at 8 a.m. the next day, and there will be several cooking and baking contests on Saturday, July 6.

The five-hour Chili Cook Off will start at 11 a.m., while the pie baking contest is from noon to 3 p.m.

Saturday's music entertainment will be provided by a three-hour fiddling contest starting at 2 p.m.

Also with the Smokey Bear Stampede, the Capitan Chamber of Commerce invites the public to join in the 36th Annual Fourth of July Parade beginning at 10:30 a.m.

A traveling dunking booth sponsored by the Smokey Bear Ranger Station, the Smokey Bear and American Cowboy truck and trailer, and the Fairground Queen will be participating in the event.

Anyone can join the fun by filling out an application by Friday, July 28, at the Village Hall. Participants are asked to arrive by 9:30 a.m. at the staging area on Forest Street, which is on the east side of the school buildings.

For those not participating, the parade can be watched through the main streets of the village. Then, on Saturday, July 6, approximately 150 to 175 runners will be participating in the 11th annual Smokey Bear Run beginning at 7:30 a.m. at the Ruidoso State Bank parking lot in Capitan.

The race, now sponsored by Friends of Smokey instead of the Ruidoso Athletic Club, features two events, the annual 10k run and a 2-mile fun run/walk.

Smokey Bear will be there handing out fire prevention sweatbands. Also, T-shirts will be given away to all participants and prizes given away to the top three finishers in each category.

Race registration forms can be picked up at the Winner's Circle in Alamogordo, Ruidoso State Bank in Capitan and the Ruidoso Athletic Club. Registration fee is $10.

The blue door's open

by SHERI CANTWELL

Ruidoso News Staff Writer
What looks like an old general's building, has a blue door, a growling dog, and lots of good priced artwork?

It's The Blue Door Gallery located in the former Boarding House Gallery on Lincoln Street.

The newly renovated building is owned by the village's most recent residents, David and Elizabeth Posley of California.

With the feel of true cabin atmosphere, the gallery proves to be inviting to anyone willing to face off the friendly barking dog.

The gallery contains more traditional, rather than modern, artwork, with economical prices of $200 to $700 for moderate artwork and $1,200 to $5,000 for more prestigious and bigger art pieces.

We don't want any of the modern art with three matte boards that have designs cut in them, David Posley said.

The collection has several well-known artists — many from the Alamogordo-Cloudcroft area, along with the Posley's longtime clients from California.

We have paintings from the famous Lenore Beran whose works are collected by Carol Burnett and Glen Campbell among others, and primitive-artist Ann Hardy, he said.

There are about 15 artists featuring 75 to 80 paintings and sculptures in the antique, decorated gallery, however the Posley's hope to have 22 for their grand opening in late July.

Artwork includes papier mache, sculptures, jewelry and exceptionally detailed Hungarian eggs.

The paintings themselves vary from primitive style, scenic views and Victorian flowers to the distinct Indian-southwest art done in pen and ink, oil, watercolor or copper and enamel.

The couple, who moved here six months ago, named their gallery The Blue Door because of a picture that a friend of theirs did.

It was of a blue door that was in the background of the painter's garden, said David.

The painting of the blue door was so intense that he decided his next gallery would have that name. Then, after the couple moved to Capitan it seemed inevitable.

"Blue is a very important color around here," he said of the Southwest.

The admirer hopes to someday have the painting of the blue door to put in the gallery for an added touch.

David and Elizabeth Posley recently opened Posley's Blue Door Gallery, featuring work by several well-known artists.

However, for now the gallery is well on its way to filling unique niche in the area's art community. It is equipped with a special lighting system that Posley perfected himself at his California gallery, The Glory Hole.

After the lighting system's discovery, sales increased tremendously, he said.

A customer can sit, drink tea and eat homemade scones (an Australian biscuit) while watching what their painting looks like during the different sunlight settings of the day, said David.

The Blue Door Gallery owners said they are more interested in encouraging their buyers to relax and enjoy themselves than running a browse-and-go gallery.

As the lighting portrays morning, dusk to sunset, the painting sells itself. There's no need to do a sales pitch, just talk and let them learn about the paintings, he said.

Scholarship clarification

The Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District, announced in a letter that it was that organization, not the Soil Conservation Service, which awarded scholarships to Nathan Fuchs and Rodney Griego.

Greg Haussler, who works for the Soil Conservation Service, presented the awards to the two Capitan High School graduates on behalf of the Conservation District.

John A. Cooper, chairman of the Conservation District, explained in a letter that the Soil Conservation Service is a federal agency and cannot give scholarships.

"We realize this is confusing and should have been corrected before graduation, but we were unaware of the mix-up until we saw the graduation program and read it in the local newspaper," said Cooper in his letter.

"One of the district's priorities is education," he continued. "We strive to help young people by awarding scholarships and through other means."

Capitan teacher Mary Shanks is a supervisor on the Conservation District board, and has created the teaching tool called Project Soil. The Upper Hondo district has also provided monetary assistance for an outdoor classroom project, as well as helping the local 4-H group with a project behind the fair grounds.

The District also provided the seedlings for the students on Arbor Day and sponsored teachers to Ag in the Classroom.

"We plan to continue helping young people learn about conservation," said Cooper.

Future mixed

Last Monday's paper unintentionally reversed the names of the Capitan Boy's State participants. Wayne Flanagan (left) ran for the House of Representatives and James Smith applied to be a state policeman.

DOROTHY BELL KNAPP'S STUDIO OFFERS DRAMATIC EMPHASIS FROM SKYLIGHTS

Artist's work evolves through changing career

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

For years while raising her two sons, Dorothy Bell Knapp tried to satisfy her creative drive by remodeling homes and marketing the products of other artists.

Although she had drawn and painted since her childhood in Arkansas, she doubted the life of an artist could provide a stable income.

The last 20 years have wiped out that doubt. In addition to operating The Buckhorn Gallery with sculptor husband Tom Knapp, Dorothy Bell Knapp has attained status as a respected artist, creating pastel portraits and landscapes with the texture and intense lighting more associated with oils.

She moved to Ruidoso when her sons were nine and four because her former husband was surveying for the town's original sewer line. She was pleased to expose them to a more rural atmosphere than Hobbs, where her then-spouse had worked in an oilfield.

"I worked for the school system as a secretary and did some gratis art instruction at the elementary level," Knapp said.

Not one to favor coloring within the lines, Knapp said the first thing she told her fourth to sixth grade students "was to peel the covers off their crayons and break them up into small pieces."

After her divorce, Knapp took a plunge into business, joining Gallery Three with Barbara Campbell. They spent four years together running the gallery.

But still she put her own art on hold. And when she did dabble, her chosen medium was watercolor, something she still uses today to relax.

"Watercolor is very loose and free," she explained. "I never work in oils. It doesn't suit my personality at all. I'm impulsive. I want to get in, do it and move on."

While she was operating the gallery, Tom Knapp walked into her life as a client. It didn't take him long to decide he wanted to stay - both in Ruidoso and with Dorothy Bell Knapp. They soon were married. That was about 20 years ago.

"After I met Tom, I became more interested in promoting my own art," she said. "And I just couldn't live in a better place to paint. Every season is different, every hour of the day."

About 15 years ago, two artist friends introduced her to pastels.

"It was like drawing in color," she said. "I painted with both and then learned from everybody else I came in contact with whether I realized it or not. All artists are students. It's to their detriment if they think they know it all."

By the time she left Gallery Three, the Knapps were busy remodeling an old tavern and dance hall east of Ruidoso Downs into a place to live and work under the name of The Buckhorn Gallery.

"I started selling a little along the way and did lots and lots of shows," Knapp said. "It's a good way for a beginning artist to become known."

"But after a certain number of years, you establish your client base and galleries" and attending shows no longer is necessary or productive.

"I have collectors with lots of my work in their homes," Knapp said.

"Several like to have both Tom's and my work represented."

For example, one collector specifically designed a living room to show 10 of Tom Knapp's bronze sculptures of Indian dancers and Dorothy Bell Knapp's pastels of the same dancers.

When she starts a new piece, Knapp said she can tell within a few minutes if everything is coming together.

"None come any easier than others, but the more you work, the easier they all come. You get so comfortable," she said. "For years, it was a struggle. Not that I'm happier with everything I do, but the results are much more satisfying."

She moves quickly into a new pastel.

"Watercolors are different," she said. "You have to plan ahead and that's just as much fun as the execution, even though there is a certain amount of accidental results and things don't always turn out as planned."

Her subjects vary; men, women, children, figures, faces and landscapes.

"People say I don't stick to any one thing, but I'm interested in a lot of things and I do what interests me," Knapp said. "I can't begin to paint all the things I see. I will die with 10,000 ideas in me."

Coming home one day a few months ago, she photographed a scene with light breaking through an overcast sky onto the Hondo Valley hills.

"The photograph gives reference points, but when I get back into the studio, I add the feeling and drama," Knapp said.

"I never copy a photograph," she said, indicating a painting of a scene she captured on a recent trip to Meridan in the Yucatan of Mexico.

"The photo is a point of reference to give the flavor of the locale, but the colors in pastel are much more vibrant. When I think of Mexico, I think color and bright."

"I don't see any point in trying to duplicate a photograph. I strive for a different interpretation."

During a workshop in Arkansas, she found an old cabin in the woods, a light visible in its window. Translated to pastels, the light gives off a haunting glow in contrast to the dark woods around it.

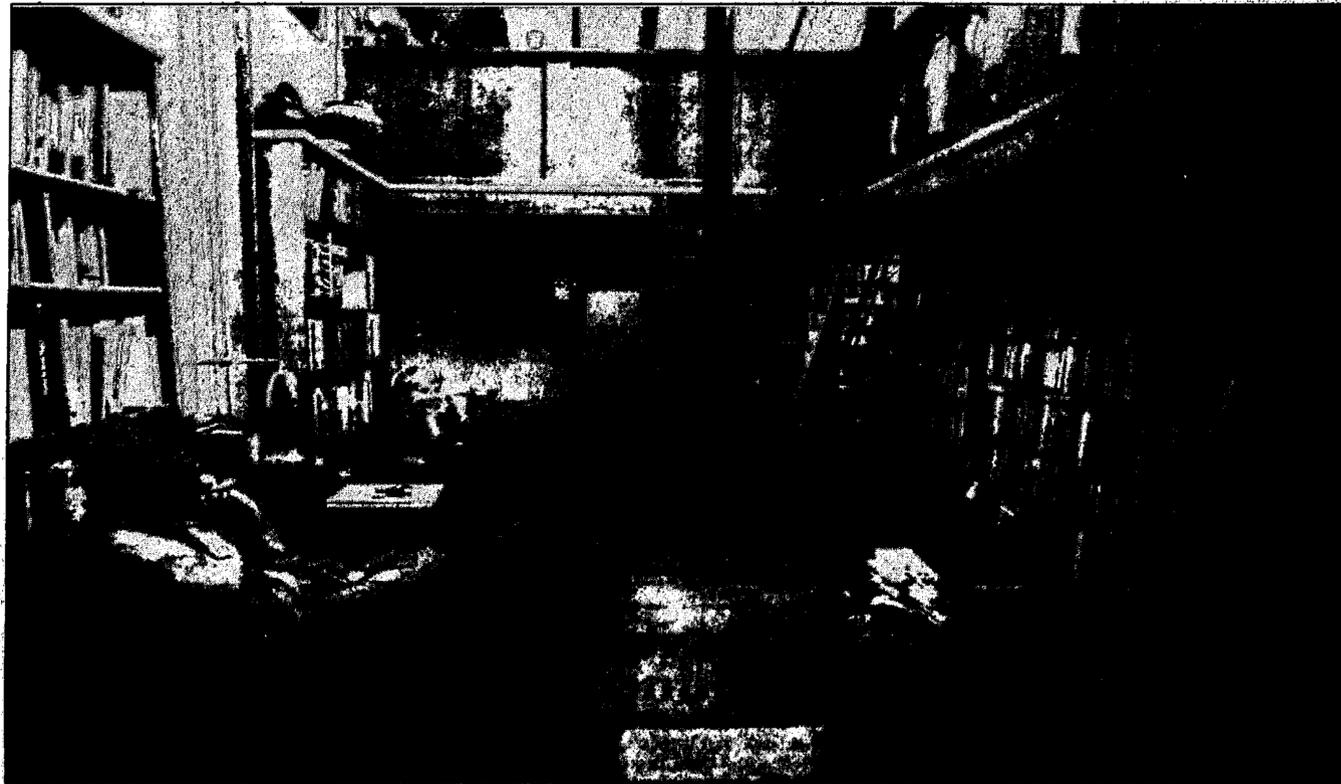

"I'm very prolific," Knapp said. "I use models when I can, but I have a world of photographic references and use them all the time."

One of Knapp's favorite subjects is her granddaughter.

"Pastels are wonderful for portraits of children and animals," she said.

SKI APACHE LANDSCAPE

Dorothy Bell Knapp and her husband, bronze sculptor and studios, The Buckhorn Gallery in the Hondo Valley east of Ruidoso Downs.

Her boys are grown and on their own now. One is a physician in Albuquerque. The other designs and builds oilfield equipment.

Besides the straight creative side of an artist's life, there is a practical side, Knapp said.

"There's a certain amount of book-keeping, housekeeping, traveling together and working in the studio during most of the daylight hours," Knapp said. "I save the evening hours for other things."

"Pastels don't work well in artificial light. It doesn't seem to bother watercolors and drawing, but I notice if I do a pastel portrait at night, it turns out too red in the morning."

Having a comfortable, well-lighted place to work is very important, Knapp said.

"I tell all new artists to get a place to work, somewhere their tools and product will not be disturbed."

"If I can't leave it out, I won't ever do it," she said.

Her surroundings could not be more conducive.

The Knapps have created an ideal backdrop for their work at the Buckhorn with a stained glass panel by Tom Knapp dominating a cozy, book-lined livingroom. The front rooms, decidedly southwestern, double as the gallery.

Tom Knapp's studio occupies the back portion of the lower floor. Dorothy Bell Knapp's space is upstairs in a spacious loft with skylights throughout.

Self-described as "very private people," the Knapps maintain a home in El Paso, Texas, and divide their time at their Hondo Valley studio near Glendale between working on their projects and welcoming prospective buyers.

Judge should reconsider

Elected officials have no business hiring their own family members for government jobs. The Bernalillo County sheriff was wrong to try to appoint his wife as under sheriff and Ruidoso Downs Municipal Judge Harold Mansell was wrong to appoint his wife as his court clerk.

It shouldn't take a law for those elected officials to know better. Common sense should tell them that nepotism, with or without the force of law, is as out of date as leisure suits.

In Ruidoso Downs, as in Bernalillo, qualifications are not the point. Camille Mansell is a fine woman, and we're sure she would make a competent court clerk for some judge. Nevertheless, her husband, an elected official, should not have embarrassed the Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees or his wife by presenting her name for consideration as clerk.

The Bernalillo County Sheriff backed down on his misbegotten appointment to save his wife embarrassment. Judge Mansell should do the same thing.

Upon Reflection

Duran decree settlement finally in sight

Thanks in part to the good sense of State Attorney General Tom Udall, New Mexico is within striking distance of settling the Duran consent decree.

The Duran decree is the federal court order which has governed operations at the state prison system — often in minute detail — since the bloody riot at the maximum security facility near Santa Fe more than a decade ago.

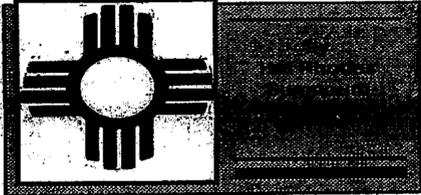

It has been a source of frustration for successive governors, state attorneys general and legislatures who have sometimes complained bitterly about the constraints it has imposed in running the state's correctional facilities, and who have occasionally seemed more interested in political grandstanding calculated to impress upon us their hard-nosed attitudes toward crime and criminals than in making the improvements necessary to bring the state into compliance with the court's requirements.

It has also cost New Mexico tax payers millions upon millions of dollars in unnecessary and ultimately ill-spent court and lawyers' fees, monies which might more wisely have been used to defray the very improvements mandated by the court.

Udall entered office last January convinced that the state could no longer afford the senseless legal maneuvering which has long characterized its official response to Duran.

His immediate predecessor, former AG Hal Stratton, fought compliance tooth and nail by taking the issue all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, where the state lost everything," in Udall's words.

Lamentably, the time lost and huge sums of money spent on that ill-conceived strategy may not have been necessary. According to Mark Donatelli, one of the lawyers for prison inmates in their legal battle with the state, "absolutely nothing has happened (in reaching the recent agreement) which could not have happened four years ago... "We went to Stratton and (former Gov. Garrey) Carruthers right after they took office with the very same deal; but Stratton seemed more interested in making headlines than in getting this thing resolved."

Fortunately Udall and Bruce King saw things differently when they took office.

According to Udall, "when the (King) administration began to look last January at the millions of dollars the state has been spending each year on private attorneys, it just made sense to reach an agreement."

What makes these developments all the more gratifying is that virtually all of the principals — state officials and those representing inmates, alike — echo Udall's sentiments when he says "this is a pretty good agreement for all of the parties; everybody had to give something but everybody got something in return."

Viewed from the perspective of the state, it means New Mexico will regain control of its penal institutions come 1994, assuming the agreement is approved by federal Judge Juan Burciaga in whose court this case has long festered.

Four years ago, in the course of producing a majority documentary on "America's Prison Crisis" for public television, I had the opportunity to visit some of the nation's most notorious state prison systems.

What one learns from such an experience can be reduced to a few simple observations.

—America's state prisons — two-thirds of which are under one or more federal court orders to make improvements — are not nice places, over crowded, frequently on the verge of explosion.

—The people they incarcerate — at least the vast majority of them — clearly belong behind bars.

—Those who manage these institutions — state executives, corrections officials, jurists — are tough-minded men and women who routinely point to New Mexico as an historic example of how not to run a prison system.

Sifting through my notes recently, I came across these comments of Orville Pung, chief of Minnesota's corrections system.

"Your (Duran) consent decree," he told me, "like your prison riot are reflections not the cause of your problem. The cause of your problem is longstanding neglect made possible by public indifference which has allowed our prisons to become warehouses of humanities, out-of-sight and out-of-mind."

That is why, Pung concluded, "the courts have had to intervene, simply to assure that basic constitutional guarantees for humane treatment are met."

If the recently negotiated Duran consent decree agreement sticks, if Judge Burciaga signs off on it, and if the state regains control of its prisons come 1994 as envisioned, the question for all New Mexicans will be whether we can muster the resolve to supplant that historic indifference with a determination to see to it that the past mistakes are not repeated.

It could be one of our biggest challenges in the decade ahead.

Cal-Tex cyclists had fun here

TO THE EDITOR:
We visited your village last week to attend the Cal-Tex Convention for Police Officers.

I am writing regarding two subjects you may be able to help me with.

First, we would like to express our appreciation to your residents. Never before have we been treated so kindly or come across friendlier people. You all made us feel so welcome with your waves, smiles and hand shakes. We left your community with warm feelings, wonderful memories, intend to visit again, and intend to recommend your village as a vacation site to our friends.

We sincerely enjoyed our Ruidoso experience.

Second, as you probably already know, Thursday evening we did a motorcycle parade through your village from The Best Western to The Inn of the Mountain Gods. As we went down Sudderth, we noticed several townspeople with video cameras filming the parade. One of the police officers with us is dying from cancer, and this parade will be the last even he will ever be able to participate in.

LeRoy lived to ride his motorcycle and attend Cal-Tex conventions. We are wondering if you could get us in touch with someone who filmed this parade as we would like to purchase a copy for LeRoy. This would make a very good man who asks so little, very, very happy. Anyone with information, please call (303) 932-0937 or write: 5996 S. Pierson St., Littleton, Colorado 80127.

Jefferson County Sheriff's Department, Colorado

Way to go!

TO THE EDITOR:
As a Ruidoso resident and subscriber to The News, I want to thank you, the paper, and Dianne Stallings for your wonderful coverage of our local Humane Society.

Being an avid animal lover I can't wait each Monday to read Dianne's sometimes humorous sometimes poignant stories pertaining to these adorably pictured adoptable creatures of love.

Your generous coverage has been most informative as to the abandoned and neglected animal problem Ruidoso faces. It has also made us aware as to how fortunate we are to have such a compassionate and capable manager at our facility as Randy Basch.

Frankie, thank you again for allowing this media to do such a wonderful community service. I applaud you!

Area rider takes AQHA training class

David Hester of Ruidoso Downs recently enrolled in the American Quarter Horse Association Horseback Riding Program, sponsored by Drysdale's Western Store of Tulsa, Oklahoma. The program was created to give every AQHA member a chance to be recognized for time spent riding American Quarter Horses.

A unique aspect of the program is its simplicity.

Current AQHA members must complete an official application and pay a one-time $25 enrollment fee. After approval, each participant receives an official AQHA log sheet to keep track of their hours in the saddle. Members need not own their own horse, but all official hours must be accrued either riding or driving a registered American Quarter Horse.

The first award, a program recognition patch, is presented after only 50 hours have been logged and verified. Subsequent awards are presented at 100 to 2,000 hour intervals and range from belt buckles to gift certificates, good toward the purchase of Drysdale's merchandise such as Justin boots.

According to Gary Reynolds, director of the Horseback Riding Program, "The program is different because it is not a competitive activity and it combines the social and recreational aspects of riding horses, which is great exercise and can be enjoyed by people of all ages."

This is supported by the fact that the U.S. Department of Interior reports more than 27 million people participate in horseback riding nationally.

Humanities head to visit area

John Lucas, executive director for the New Mexico Endowment for the Humanities, will meet with the public at 3 p.m. Thursday, July 11, in the Fountain Room of the Holiday Inn in Alamogordo.

The purpose of the meeting is to explain our programs and to stimulate greater participation in Alamogordo," said Lucas. "Many people know us for our Chautauqua Program and Speakers Bureau, Lucas continued, "but we are also interested in working with communities on local projects."

Members of the public are encouraged to come to share their views of NMEH's role in humanities programming in New Mexico. Individuals with an interest in the humanities are invited to attend also to obtain information about NMEH's programs, guidelines, and policies, and to obtain assistance with proposals to NMEH.

Lucas will also be available to meet individually to discuss HNEH's programs. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call the NMEH office in Albuquerque at (505) 277-3705.

The New Mexico Endowment for the Humanities is a private, non-profit organization which supports public humanities programs for the citizens of New Mexico. Programs are conducted through NMEH's Resource Center and through NMEH's grants program.

The programs of the New Mexico Endowment for the Humanities are made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. The current grant of $445,500 in federal funds meets about 40 percent of the costs of NMEH's programs.

NMEH's Humanities Resource Center is also supported by a grant from the Historic Preservation Division of the Office of Cultural Affairs of the State of New Mexico. The remaining program costs are met by donations of goods and services, and cash gifts to NMEH and its grantees.

Solar eclipse July 11 is last one visible in US this century

A partial solar eclipse will be visible through the southwestern United States on Thursday, July 11. The eclipse will last about two and a half hours.

At maximum eclipse, the sun will appear as a crescent, with its "horns" pointing south. The time of maximum eclipse varies and in Albuquerque maximum eclipse will be at 12:51 p.m. In the southwestern United States the moon will cover about 60 percent of the sun and this will be the last solar eclipse visible from the United States in the 20th century.

"Never look directly at the sun, not even for a second," warns Wayne E. Fung, MD, an ophthalmologist and spokesperson for the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

"Staring at the eclipse can burn the retina, the membrane at the back of the eye that senses light," Dr. Fung said. "Though you won't feel any pain, you may be permanently damaging your sight."

He stressed that sunglasses (with or without ultraviolet-blocking coating), welding goggles or smoked glass will not protect the retina. "Viewing the eclipse directly through a telescope or binoculars is even more hazardous, since these devices increase the intensity of the light."

Watching the eclipse on television may be the safest way to enjoy this natural phenomenon, Dr. Fung said.

UNM offers courses here

The University of New Mexico will offer three one-hour credit courses pertaining to substance abuse the week of July 15 through July 20 in the library at Ruidoso High School.

The cost of the UNM classes is $30 per credit hour. For more information, contact Kathy Echols at 257-2368 or 257-5005.

"Bear Song" author signs books here July 4

Sally Seed, author of "Bear Song," will have a book signing from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on July 4, at the Grey Mouse Medicine Bag.

Seed is a native New Mexican and a life-long resident of Hobbs. She is a graduate of Kemper Hall, Kenosha, Wisconsin, UNM (BA English), and the New York School of Interior Design.

"Bear Song, A Woman's Journey to Person Power," is Seed's first published work.

According to a news release, the book is made up of narrative poetry which explores the inner world of a woman who feels, who suffers, who loves, and who goes through darkness and pain to a place of self-esteem. The book deals with healing and empowerment.

Seed says it is a generic love story put together from the experiences of many women.

"I wrote most of the poems driving down the highway thinking about a couple of friends who had painful relationships. I had no intention of publishing them at first, but friends who would read them kept encouraging me to do so," says Seed.

"A counselor-friend who left a couple of copies in her office called later to say that my poems had 'opened up hearts to start dealing with feelings'. That was very nice and lofty to know that my work was healing. So, I polished and honed for a couple of years, and here's the result."

"One of my friends warned me that submitting my book to critical review would be a little like 'seeing my ox turned into bouillion,' but so far I have had incredibly positive responses to it. I am prepared for adverse reactions, because Bear Song doesn't follow the rules. I didn't want it to be so academic that the man on the street couldn't understand it.

"Poetry in its broadest sense is language used in a special or beautiful way to evoke feeling or imagination. Perhaps I accomplished that."

"Bear Song" was printed on recycled paper by Northland Printing of Flagstaff, Arizona. The four color original art cover was done by Phoenix artist, Gayle Dae. Rini Price of Albuquerque was editor.

"Knights of the Sixgun" is a diary of gunfighters

Old West gunfighters from both sides of the law and justice—both legal and vigilante style—live again in Bob L'Alorge's latest book, "Knights of the Sixgun: A Diary of Gunfighters, Outlaws and Villains of New Mexico."

New Mexico artist, Marquita Peterson's ink illustrations were created from authentic photographs of outlaws, lawmen and gun-fighters.

According to a news release, the 19 portraits personalize the written accounts and contribute an additional dimension of these characterizations. The exploits and activities of Billy the Kid, Pat Garrett, A.J. Fountain, John Kinney, Jesse Evans, Black Jack Ketchum, among others, and late 19th century life and politics in Territorial New Mexico are vividly portrayed by Bob L'Alorge.

Life was rugged. Law and order were often distant and uncertain. Those who settled and tamed this frontier often preferred their own swift and effective brand of justice. The strong survived and the strongest became today's legends. They lived by their own rules and rode roughshod over their opposition, but stoically accepted their own fate when it came.

Leon Metz, historian and biographer of "John Selmen, Gunfighter," calls L'Alorge "A top gun in research and writing."

A native of Missouri, L'Alorge is author of two other books on New Mexico Territory history, plus several books of poetry and two books about Missouri history.

LEGAL NOTICE TWELFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT COUNTY OF LINCOLN STATE OF NEW MEXICO FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION Plaintiff, vs. DAVID L. INGALLS and FAY LUAN INGALLS, his wife, Defendants. No. CV-90-265 Div. III

NOTICE OF SALE NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on July 17, 1991, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., the undersigned Special Master will, at the northeast entrance of the Lincoln County Courthouse, Carrizozo, New Mexico, sell all the right, title and interest of the above named Defendant(s) in and to the hereinafter described real estate to the highest bidder for cash. The property to be sold is located at 85 Geneva Drive, Ruidoso, New Mexico and is situate in Lincoln County, New Mexico, and is particularly described as follows: Lot 85A of the replat of Innbrook Village, Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, as shown by the replat thereof filed in the office of the County Clerk and Ex-Officio Recorder of Lincoln County, New Mexico, on May 16, 1983 in Cabinet D. Slide No. 127.

THE FOREGOING SALE will be made to satisfy a judgment rendered by the above Court in the above-entitled and numbered cause on June 3, 1991, being an action to foreclose a mortgage on the above-described property. The Plaintiff's judgment, which includes interest and costs, is $116,373.56 and the same bears interest at 11.625 percent per annum from June 1, 1991. The amount of such interest to the date of sale will be $1,741.82. The Plaintiff has the right to bid at such sale and submit its bid verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff may apply all or any part of its judgment to the purchase price in lieu of cash. The sale may be postponed and rescheduled at the discretion of the Special Master. /s/ Nick Vega, Special Master Post Office Box 383 Carrizozo, New Mexico 88301 Legal #7450 4t(6)20,27(7)3,11
