AG goes after DWIs; seeks help from public

New Mexico is number one, but Attorney General Tom Udall isn't pleased.

The state's highest ranking law enforcement officer is taking aim at the state's dubious distinction of being tops in this nation in DWI statistics.

New Mexico motor vehicle crashes claimed 499 lives in 1990. According to figures from the National Safety Council, New Mexico's rate of 32.3 traffic deaths per 100,000 citizens was the highest in the 50 states for 1990.

In 1990, impaired drivers were involved in 305 of New Mexico's crash deaths, compared to 293 in 1989, which is a four percent increase. Impaired drivers accounted for 63 percent of New Mexico's 1990 traffic fatalities, compared to 59 percent in 1989.

Udall and three members of his staff were in Ruidoso Monday, September 30 and had a meeting with community leaders and concerned citizens to discuss ways to reduce New Mexico's DWI rate, which is the worst in the nation.

"I am interested in learning what the people of Ruidoso think, want to hear their ideas for solving the DWI problem," Udall said.

Udall plans to appoint a statewide DWI Reduction Task Force whose members will assist him in compiling a comprehensive report with proposals for the reduction of New Mexico's DWI rate.

While in Ruidoso, Udall and his staff heard from State Representative H. John Underwood, Magistrate Judge J.R. "Jim" Wheeler, Ruidoso Village Councilor and Mayor Pro-Tem Barbara Duff,

Steve Stroud is Citizen of Year

by AL STUBBS
Ruidoso News Business Editor
Steve Stroud, owner of Stroud Crop, Inc., has been chosen Citizen of the Year by the Ruidoso Board of Realtors.

He was recognized Wednesday night at an installation banquet at the Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club.

Wayland Burk of Century 21 was installed president of the Ruidoso Board of Realtors at the event by Tommy Perceet, of Ruidoso, past president of the Realtors Association of New Mexico.

Cindy Lynch of Gary Lynch Realty was named Realtor of the Year and was installed as vice president of the board of realtors.

Glen Crane of Lela Easter Real Estate served as master of ceremonies at installation banquet which is one of the big events of the board during the year.

Salesperson of the year, lister of the year, etc., are traditionally recognized in December. The Realtor year runs from December 1 to November 30.

Bill Pippin of Bill Pippin Real Estate was installed as a director Wednesday night after being elected to that position. Barbara Willard, immediate past president of Sierra Blanca Realty, goes off the board.

Lynch was recognized, according to Al Lane, of Multiple Listing Bureau, for board activity the past year, state board service and for general character and diligence.

Stroud brought Stroud Crop Inc. to Ruidoso and ensconced offices in the Stroud Building after he purchased the former Financial Center and renamed the three-story structure The Stroud Building.

He was chosen Citizen of the Year for his contribution to the village. He serves on the board of directors of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County along with other civic activities.

Weatherman predicts smooth sailing for Aspenfest '91 parade

Parades depend a lot on the weather, and weather forecaster Howard Morgan is predicting sunny skies and plenty of fun for Aspenfest '91.

Morgan, the popular KOAT-TV weathercaster, will be leading Ruidoso's aspen weekend parade this year as grand marshal.

The weather prognosticator is widely recognized as tops in his field in the Southwest.

His weathercast is profusely illustrated with full color scenes for the daily forecast and the five-day trend.

"It is viewed in more than 60 communities in New Mexico, Southern Colorado, West Texas, Eastern Arizona and Southwestern Utah," according to a news release.

With more than 37 years of TV experience, Howard combines his knowledge of the atmospheric sciences with gardening. He has illustrated and written five editions of a book called "Gardenlore." His writings and illustrations have appeared in many regional publications including Santa Fe East, New Mexico Magazine, Albuquerque Living, the Senior Scene and Santa Fe Lifestyle.

Howard will take the lead when the Aspenfest Parade leaves the intersection of Sudderth and Mechem drives at 10 a.m. Saturday, and continues east on Sudderth to Paradise Canyon Road.

According to a release provided by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, the parade is the premiere event in the weekend that includes the 10th Annual New Mexico State Open Chili Cook-Off (CASI Sanctioned), an Arts and Crafts Fair, and a classic/antique car show.

Read all about Aspenfest '91 in the special section inserted in today's edition.

Also on the schedule this weekend is the County Annual Cowboy Symposium at the Super Select Sale Barn in Glencoe.

Mid School lets out early this Friday

Classes at Ruidoso Middle School will be dismissed at 1 p.m. Friday to accommodate the Warnors Homecoming Parade, which will wind up in the school parking lot.

Students also will get some time off Thursday, October 24, when teachers are busy with in-service training on Thursday, October 24, and with parent conferences and distribution of report cards on Friday, October 25.

County's franchise tax postponed again

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Once again, the Lincoln County Commission has postponed action on a proposed utility franchise agreement that includes a provision for a franchise fee equal to two percent of annual gross revenues.

But commissioners and county manager Nick Pappas warned utility operators that they don't plan to wait much longer.

"We've done our best to accommodate the utility companies to include their input," Pappas said, noting that the agreements are to run for 25 years. That accommodation includes two meetings with the planning and zoning board, two informal meetings (the latest September 10) to hash out language and several appearances in front of the commission.

The first three franchise agreements, with Zia Natural Gas, Capitan-Carrizozo Natural Gas and Lincoln Cablevision, were set for action Tuesday. But another postponement was requested by Texas-New Mexico Power and Zia.

Companies not now facing renewal still are concerned about the agreement since it will be a model for new franchises when current agreements of utilities using county rights-of-way expire.

County attorney J. Robert Beauvais said based on what he believed to be a consensus of opinion from the September meeting, he had prepared the seventh version of the franchise. Copies were sent to about a dozen companies.

"Then today, I was just handed six pages of comments to the last meeting draft," he told the commissioners. "I didn't feel like we were this far apart, but obviously we are."

Commission Chairman Spencer told the utility firm representatives, "I'm coming to a point on my rope where we have to make a decision. I'm all for input, but we can't make everybody happy all the time."

"There are points where we are not going to agree and it will be up to the commission to decide," Beauvais said. He will draft two versions, if the language cannot be resolved in one last meeting. One will reflect the utilities' preferences and one his wording.

"We're about to ride this old horse to death," said Commissioner Bill Elliott. "I'm getting to the point where I'm wondering who's writing this ordinance. If you guys are writing it, it probably won't fly. It probably won't be what we need. The chairman is saying if you guys don't settle this before three weeks (and the next commission meeting), this commission will."

Pappas said the county already has spent thousands of dollars "in the spirit of cooperation and to get the best agreement. But I think we almost have gone too far."

State Representative John Underwood (D-Ruidoso) said he was recently hired by Zia to represent

Proposed ordinance to take bite out of dogs

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Still distressed over the death of a family pet Doberman, Ruidoso gallery owner Barbara Westbrook Tuesday called for a countywide ban on pit bulls.

But by Wednesday, Westbrook had modified her proposal in line with an ordinance enacted about seven years ago in Tularosa village near Albuquerque.

"I didn't have the ordinance in hand (Tuesday when she appeared before the Lincoln County Commission)," Westbrook told The Ruidoso News.

After reading the ordinance, she said the wording was more comprehensive, taking into account all dogs proved vicious by their actions. Copies have been sent to the commission, she said.

On Tuesday, Westbrook told Lincoln County Commissioners her son's Doberman, Shodan, was killed by two pit bulls in Alpine Village on September 24, although her version of the events leading up to the death differs from that offered by a Ruidoso animal control officer.

Mrs. Westbrook said she gave the dog to her son, Jon Raven, on his birthday six years ago.

She said last week, the two pit bulls allegedly broke through their confining ropes, tore through her son's fence and killed the Doberman.

The 80-pound dog bled to death from two major wounds, Westbrook said.

"My son was within his rights to kill the dogs, but he is such a law abiding kid, he called the sheriff's department," she told commissioners.

Westbrook said she wants to see the two dogs owned by Robert Arthur Hamill destroyed and the commissioners to consider an ordinance before more incidents occur.

Sheriff James McSwane said the pit bulls have been quarantined and will stay there until he receives a court order to release or to kill them.

Ruidoso Animal Control Officer Mark Hughes, who investigated the incident along with Sheriff's Deputy Charlie LaBelle, offered a different scenario of the killing, which no one witnessed.

Hughes said it has been documented that the Doberman instigated confrontations twice before with the pit bulls named Buddy and McKinsey.

The owner of the Doberman admitted that two previous attacks occurred when his dog invaded the yard of the pit bulls, Hughes said. The Doberman was injured both times.

According to Hughes and to his report filed in Magistrate Court, that probably was the situation in the attack September 24.

"In my opinion, the Doberman entered the pit bull property," Hughes said. "It looked like the fence was torn from the inside (Raven's side)."

"Everything indicates to me that the Doberman caused the problems."

Hughes said the female pit bull was on a run, but apparently chewed through the leash.

"I think the female is the one that did it," Hughes said. "I found blood spots on the outside of gate (Hamill's side). They got heavier across the (Raven) yard and onto the deck."

Hughes doesn't buy the idea that the female might have attacked the Doberman unprovoked.

"It just never happens," Hughes said. "A female pit bull never attacks a male unless he's invading her territory."

"She obviously was in battle big time and was marked up badly herself."

It's possible, the female was coming into heat when the fight occurred.

Hamill said Hughes' interpretation is in line with how he believes the attack occurred.

While he said he is sad about the death of someone's pet, the Doberman had repeatedly been aggressive toward him and toward his dogs, Hamill said.

"A real estate agent and I were chased by a growling Doberman when we were viewing the house six months ago," he said Wednesday evening. "I met Mr. Raven and said his dog was running loose and he might want to restrain him. My dogs always are on chain and cable."

"According to me, the vicious dog is dead. My dogs have never been aggressive toward people or other dogs in the neighborhood. With my dogs, if I said sic 'em, they'd lick 'em

"If I had known the law (that an aggressive trespassing dog could be shot), I could have shot (Shodan), but I wanted to be a good neighbor."

In response to Westbrook's statement to LaBelle that the pit bulls had "intruded and attacked another neighbor's dogs," Hamill said he has never been informed of any other incident.

"I would think someone would tell me," he said.

"I believe in this case, someone let my dogs loose," Hamill said. "Their collars were open. My dogs have slipped out of their collars before, but they can't open them."

A dog house in his backyard also was stolen, Hamill contended.

Hughes said he believes pit bulls in general have received unfair criticism.

"In four years working in the county, I've had only one case of a pit bull getting on another dog and that was a stray that got on his property," Hughes said. "I've picked up maybe 50 pit bulls (as strays) and not one ever tried to bite me, but I've been bitten a lot by Dobermans. Pit bulls aren't even on the list of the top 10 biting breeds, but chows and poodles are."

"I have never found one yet mean toward humans. It's just once they're in a scrape, they're capable of doing much more damage."

Although Westbrook said the dogs ran loose in the neighborhood all night, Hughes said they were sitting in their yard when he arrived and were very friendly.

Whatever the events leading up to the death of the Doberman, Westbrook said the pit bulls represent an ever-present danger.

Her son's 2 1/2-year-old daughter spent a great deal of her time with the Doberman whenever she was at the house. Westbrook said the child could have been attacked as well.

Westbrook urged the commission to enact an ordinance similar to one passed in Tularosa, where a young girl was severely mauled by pit bulls.

"I'm going to address several communities to ask for consideration of a ban," Westbrook said.

The Tularosa ordinance places liability on an owner if his dog bites a person in a public place or a person lawfully on private property regardless of the animal's former viciousness.

If the dog kills a domestic animal or livestock, the owner also would be liable for damages regardless of the dog's former behavior. The ordinance would make it unlawful to keep such an animal and it would be destroyed.

An animal control officer also could impound any animal suspected of being dangerous, ferocious, or vicious.

Hamill pleaded guilty in front of Magistrate Court Judge Gerald Dean Wednesday to failing to vaccinate his dogs, which are about two years old. He pleaded not guilty to a charge of allowing his dogs to run at large. The trial may be set for the first week in November, according to a court clerk.

Hamill was out of town at the time of the killing, but had a friend caring for the dogs. They appeared to be well-fed and healthy.

Westbrook said she intends to collect data on injuries and attacks on pets locally by pit bulls. She said Doris Cherry, a reporter for the Lincoln County News, has been asked to gather information from citizens on pit bull attacks.

She invited commissioners to join a task force "to solve this killing field we have within our lives in Lincoln County."

She told commissioners that Hazel Haynsworth, president of the county humane society, said that any time a dog has been aggressive three times, there's a big problem. She indicated she planned to meet Haynsworth Wednesday.

Haynsworth told The Ruidoso News Tuesday that she had not yet spoken with Westbrook, but by Wednesday, she had received a copy of the ordinance. She said she was contacted in El Paso by local motel owner Dick Weber.

"He called me in El Paso and asked for the assistance of the humane society," Haynsworth said.

"I told him the society can't get involved, couldn't invade people's privacy by trying to dictate what types of dogs they can own."

Haynsworth said she suggested Weber contact the city police department to determine if other attacks by pit bulls had occurred.

"Personally, I know the history of pit bulls and would go in (to talk to the city council or county), but not as far as the humane society is concerned," Haynsworth said.

During the Tuesday commission meeting, Commissioner Bill Elliott told Westbrook, "You're looking at one who has absolutely no use for pit bulls. I think they are the most vicious breed. But the second dog I'm afraid of, frankly, is a Doberman."

"I've known some pits who for their entire life were perfect dogs, but something in their gene says go get them."

The discussion Tuesday centered on pit bulls because at that time, Westbrook was asking for an ordinance banning that particular breed.

Commissioner Monroy Montes said he would need an assessment from McSwane on the impact of trying to enforce such an ordinance with one animal control officer.

"One part-time animal control officer," McSwane corrected. "If passed, my job is to enforce your ordinances and I will," he said.

But he added that keeping any dog on a chain will make it mean.

"There are people out there against other breeds too," he said. "The issue may be singling out pit bulls."

Randy Basch, manager of the humane society shelter and longtime dog trainer said he disagrees with the idea of punishing a breed because of irresponsible owners.

Too often, shelter workers put down boxers and other breeds just because they also have square-shaped heads, he said.

Dr. Catherine Tonn, in practice at the Ruidoso Animal Clinic with Dr. Lynn Willard said, "Every pit bull seen in practice here is a sweetheart."

"It boils down to the human element. Sweeping bans are not the answer."

One of the saddest factors at work in the Ruidoso area is that people tend to let their animals run loose and do not care about stray animals in general, she said.

"We see a lot of big dogs chewing on little ones, but pit bulls are not over-represented."

Ruidoso Police Chief Richard Swenor, Ruidoso Municipal Court Clerk and Ruidoso Downs Alternate Judge Debbie Sturdivant and village attorney Dave Thomason.

Udall and his assistants Ronnie Crago and Fred Nathan listened, asked questions and took notes on how these area leaders view the DWI problem and how they think it could be solved in New Mexico.

Udall said he'll also take written questions and comments as he forms his special task force and wages battle against this state's DWI tragedy.

Alcohol abuse, enforcement, reporting, record keeping and sentencing came under fire during the meeting in Ruidoso.

In Ruidoso, 114 DWI arrests were recorded from January through September 1990, and 95 from January through September of 1991.

Chief Swenor said 38 percent of the local DWI arrests were for second or subsequent offenses and 80 percent of those arrested were New Mexico licensed drivers.

"Despite significant improvement in public awareness of DWI, the problem continues and is still ignored by a percentage of licensed drivers and definitely ignored by second or subsequent offenders," said Swenor.

"Alcohol is the problem locally, it is socially accepted and alcohol abuse permeates our local public safety concerns," he added.

"Since January 1990, 68 percent of 630 persons arrested by Ruidoso Police for offenses other than DWI were under the influence of alcohol and specifically 70 percent of 292 incidents of domestic violence involved alcohol influenced persons."

Swenor recommended that public education programs be continued and that supervision of licensed alcohol establishments be more stringent.

Swenor also called for a reorganization of DWI administration.

He suggested a new and separate office under the Traffic Safety Bureau should be established within the Highway and Transportation Department with direct coordination through the Motor Vehicle Division.

Currently DWI administration is within the Taxation and Revenue Department.

Swenor also recommended streamlining DWI citation and administration of revocation procedures.

All of the speakers said that recordkeeping on past offenses is a problem, with no national system to check on records.

Swenor also called for stringent measures on second or subsequent offenses, but it was noted during that meeting if someone has a first or subsequent offense in another state, or sometimes even in another county, that information isn't always readily available.

Swenor said his officers are well-trained and can easily detect impaired drivers, but consistent enforcement is restricted by the small size of his department.

Municipal Judge Charles Hawthorne was set for trail in Roswell, and couldn't be on hand for the meeting in Ruidoso, but sent a letter calling on the state to use some mass media technique to inform the public.

"Every person who comes before my court and is found guilty of Driving While Intoxicated (DWI) is unaware of, and flabbergasted at the realization that their driver's license will be automatically suspended for a year," said Hawthorne in his letter.

"While I personally disagree with the state law suspending a person's that the state use some mass media technique to inform the public about the fact that a person's driver's license is automatically suspended for one year on a DWI first.

"What good does such punishment serve if the public is unaware of the penalty?"

Hawthorne, as well as his clerk, Debbie Sturdivant, also suggested that a third and subsequent DWIs be a fourth degree felony, and the public informed if and when that change is implemented.

"I believe that the DWI situation is serious enough that it should be considered a fourth degree felony after a person has three convictions on their record," said Sturdivant.

"By that time they have proven that they don't consider their actions detrimental to the public."

She also called for mandatory sentencing and probation.

Sturdivant proposed a "DWI Jail Facility," such as a farm, where DWI offenders could spend their jail time at work, and also in counseling and treatment.

As far as education, Sturdivant agreed that the public should be better informed, but also calls for more and better training for law enforcement officers and judges.

"Many judges are unclear on the proper way to complete a DWI abstract," said Sturdivant. "They do not realize that a lot depends on the way the abstract is completed."

"I believe that education is one of the most important tools we have to decrease the amount of DWIs on the road," said Sturdivant.

"We need to educate adults, too many are sure the only way to have a good time is to go out and drink. This is the example we are giving our children and in turn they feel that what the adults do must be OK so they do it, too."

"We need to educate the children in the dangers associated with alcohol and the added danger of driving while intoxicated."

"We need to educate our police and courts in the proper way to arrest and prosecute the DWI offender but to also educate in helping the offender to recognize the seriousness of the offense and possibly their dependence on alcohol."

Fred Nathan, special counsel to the Attorney General, asked local leaders how successful sobriety check points have been in this area.

Swenor said he doesn't have the manpower to use for sobriety checks, and except for holiday periods, doesn't believe the benefit would be in proportion to the time and cost.

A Ruidoso Downs Police officer, on hand for the meeting, said such checks are used in Ruidoso Downs, since its main street is U.S. Highway 70. Those checks are set up to check for insurance and driver's license, and so far no DWI arrests have been made during those routine stops.

The last big drop in New Mexico's DWI death rate was in 1984 when the legislature passed a law permitting the administrative revocation of a driver's license. The change reduced the DWI death rate by nine percent. Since that time there has been no further decline.

DWI-related teen deaths soared last year from 34 in 1989 to 60 in 1990 even though teen-agers are not legally entitled to drink alcohol.

"The saddest aspect of these DWI deaths is that they are preventable. I know we can do better and I want to do what I can as Attorney General to improve the situation," Udall said.

County's

the firm. The company will pay for any additional advertising of the ordinance due to the delay, he said.

Underwood (D-Ruidoso) also took a few minutes to explain the tentatively approved Legislative and Congressional redistricting of New Mexico.

"I ran on the platform of getting more contiguous districts for the House seats," Underwood said. "But I found out what a tremendously complicated task that is" with 21,600 people per house district and proportions that must be maintained based on ethnic, age and party lines.

If the U.S. Justice Department approves the proposed House plan, Lincoln County will be included whole within one State House district and one State Senate District. However, Lincoln County will share that senator with DeBaca, Guadalupe and San Miguel counties, he said.

"I felt the House did a real wonderful job of drawing the line," Underwood said. "The last consideration was politics."

He was pleased that the Mescalero Apache Reservation in Otero

County was included in his House District 56.

"I have always felt the Mescalero tribe and the people of Lincoln County's economic futures were intertwined," he said. "I felt it would be beneficial if we all could grow and work for a common good. Now that's the case."

Tularosa, which has a kinship with the agricultural area of Hondo Valley, also will be within his district, as will La Luz.

"I was one of two state representatives who did not represent a county seat and now I do," Underwood said. "I think the ability to work with the county clerk and district judges in Carrizozo helps out a great deal, although we have been doing that informally."

In another matter, the commission appointed five residents to the newly formed County Agricultural and Rural Affairs Advisory Committee.

Commissioner Bill Elliott appointed Jo Linda Perryman, a nurse who he said grew up on a farm;

Commissioner Monroy Montes picked rancher Jack Bonnell and teacher-farmer Thurman Sanchez; and Spencer selected rancher Ron Merritt and Bill Hays.

As one of their first duties, the members are to review and comment on a proposed interim land use ordinance designed to protect the county's right to have input on federal and state land use decisions within its boundaries.

Elliott said, "I saw some things I do not agree with and some things that need to be simplified."

Hays, who has urged the commission to take hold of the county's future by demanding an equal footing in deliberations, acknowledged that the ordinance would impose certain responsibilities on the county.

But financial help is available from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in accomplishing the goals, he said. "You're either going to do it or a federal agency will step in and do it for you," he said. "And you're more qualified to decide for the county."

Montes said the intention of the ordinance is good, "but I still think it needs to be simplified. I think we're over-regulated to begin with."

"We need to verify our liability and whether a local ordinance would supersede some of the federal laws."

Beauvais said an ordinance would not supersede a federal law but could require federal agencies to cooperate with the county in forming plans and to conform with the county's existing laws.

Montes said he would like to see the committee also address future land acquisition by private companies as well as state and federal agencies.

"Yes, if they built a condominium next to a dairy, the county can't bow to pressure later from people who complain of the smell," Hays said.

In other business, the commission:

Councilor's car was lost and is found

An abandoned, wrecked vehicle on Cambridge Road turned out to belong to Ruidoso Village Councilor Jess Stinson.

According to a police report last Saturday, the police were able to locate Stinson by telephone. He advised the police that he didn't know where his vehicle was located.

He told the police he was looking for it.

The police advised Stinson of the car's location and that it was wrecked and not driveable.

At the scene of the wrecked car, Stinson said he loaned the vehicle to a girl and she never returned it.

Dale's wrecking service was called and the car was towed to Sierra Blanca Motors.

Councilor Stinson was called several times at the Winner's Circle Wednesday for comment, but could not be reached, and didn't return calls to The News.

October is special time for pets

Fluffy leads lineup in Adopt-a-Pet Month

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

An adorable ball of white curly hair, Fluffy is a one-year-old West Highland terrier-poodle mix looking for a loving new family.

And she's the first dog to be featured in October as part of Adopt-A-Dog Month sponsored by the Meaty Bone Dog Biscuit and Jerky Treats Dog Snacks of the Heinz Pet Products Co.

For the rest of the month, a dog will be the focus of an article in each edition of the Ruidoso News.

"Every person who adopts a dog this month will receive free samples of their products and a booklet called 'Six Steps to a Well-Trained Dog,'" said Randy Basch, manager of the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter.

"This is their tenth year as sponsors."

As with all dogs adopted from the shelter, they will receive one free grooming from Hondo Valley Kennels and one free physical from any of the local veterinarians, Basch said.

"Fluffy is very good with adults or older children," Basch said. "She's very playful. She's alert and would make an excellent alarm dog."

Basch described Fluffy as a small to average-size miniature.

"She was brought in as a stray and has been here about one month," he said. "She will need some reinforcement on housebreaking, but she is a very neat dog."

Fluffy is sponsored for spaying, the major cost associated with adoption. All dogs adopted from the shelter must be spayed or neutered to prevent the reproduction of more unwanted litters that eventually would be abandoned or killed.

The shelter is crowded with attractive and affectionate cats, several breeds of puppies and many prime hunting dogs as well as shepherd mixes, a terrier and some smaller mix breeds.

For more information about Fluffy or any of the other dogs or cats, call Basch at 257-9841 or stop at the shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

People interested in the welfare of the animals, but who cannot adopt, may help by either donating toward the spaying fund or by setting aside a few hours a week to walk and pet the dogs and cats.

Community Update '91 focuses on Ruidoso area progress

Citizen of the Year Steve Stroud, honored Wednesday by the Ruidoso Board of Realtors, will be among the speakers for this year's Community Update luncheon.

MainStreet Ruidoso and The Ruidoso News have gathered a slate of speakers to update the community during a forum at 11:30 a.m. Friday, November 1, at Cree Meadows Country Club.

Tickets to this year's luncheon, which will feature a fajita buffet, are $10, and are available at the MainStreet office and at The Ruidoso News.

Stroud, owner of Stroud Crop Insurance and a director of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County, will be on the program, along with speakers from the village, the county, state agencies and the State Legislature.

Stroud will speak from the economic development point of view, specifically about his moving a business into Ruidoso that has had a major impact on the economy.

State representatives H. John Underwood and Raymond Sanchez, speaker of the state House of Representatives, and Senator Pete Campos are on the program, along with Lincoln County Commission Chairman Stirling Spencer and Ruidoso Mayor Pro-tem Barbara Duff.

Senator Campos is elected from an area that will be included in Ruidoso's senatorial district under the new districts adopted last month in Santa Fe.

Jim Stoddard, executive director of the Hubbard Museum, will provide an update on Hubbard Museum projects, including the Anne C. Stradling Museum of the Horse.

Among those invited to speak is Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe.

Mary Maul, project director for MainStreet; Bill Hirschfeld, former president of MainStreet; Don Dutton, member of the MainStreet board, and Frankie Jarrell, editor and general manager of The Ruidoso News, are coordinating the annual luncheon that provides area people a chance to hear what's going on from the people who are involved in various projects.

Last year's sell-out luncheon featured, among others, Ruidoso Mayor Victor Alonso, State Representative Ben Hall, Ruidoso Downs Race Track owner R.D. Hubbard and Senator James L. Martin.

For further information on Community Update '91 or any MainStreet projects, contact Maul at 257-6346.

MainStreet Ruidoso, in the midst of a Midtown revitalization project, is also sponsoring the annual Halloween trick or treat day through Midtown on Thursday, October 31.

Spooks and goblins will also be invited to compete for prizes in MainStreet's annual costume contest.

Carnival is scheduled

The Annual Halloween Carnival, sponsored by the Ruidoso Care Center Auxiliary, is scheduled for Thursday, October 24, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the center.

Tim Daddario, activities director, said games such as the popular wheel of fortune, will be played and La Prosperita will have a food booth. The carnival will be held at the center at Fifth and "D" Street.

All proceeds go to purchasing Christmas gifts for the residents of the center.

OCTOBER IS NATIONAL CAR CARE MONTH

NATIONAL CAR CARE MONTH is a time to focus motorists' attention on the importance of practicing maintenance on their automobiles. This public education campaign is supported by the U.S. Department of Energy, Environmental Protection Agency, the American Lung Association, the American Automobile Association, state governors, community groups, the parts and service industry and the media, just to name a few. Their goal is to improve the safety of the highways, the quality of the air and to reduce fuel consumption and vehicle operation costs.

Homecoming matches the Warriors vs Sartans

The last time the Ruidoso Warriors won a homecoming contest was against the Tularosa Wildcats in 1988.

Friday they will take on the 1-3 St. Pius Sartan squad from Albuquerque.

Ruidoso head coach Mike Speck said the Sartans were not as fast as the teams the Warriors have played this year.

"They're not even as fast as Tularosa," said Speck. "But they're a good team, and most of their losses have been to AAAA squads."

Speck said they lost to AAA power Bloomfield 27-21. He feels, however, the Warriors played the best team in the state in Goddard.

Speck said the Warriors had three good practices this week. He said after the loss last Friday, the kids were anxious to get back on the field and practice.

He said there was one short practice on Tuesday because of a teacher's meeting that lasted too long. He said the players stayed out on the field till 7:15 p.m.

Although a running team without quickness, the St. Pius quarterback will occasionally pass, about 30 percent of the time.

Speck said their secondary is a big question mark. He said the films didn't give him much to report.

The Warriors are a little banged up this week.

Earl Beck, defensive tackle, will see no action with an ankle and wrist injury. Chuck Jacobs, a middle linebacker, also will see no action with a severely sprained wrist.

Two players listed as probable, but limited action, are Richard Rippy and Mario Sanchez. Both have deep knee bruises.

Speck was highly pleased with the Warrior progress last year. He noted the lack of flags indicated the maturity of the team. Although, he did say one fourth quarter flag cost the Warriors plenty.

Warrior quarterback Manny Guardiola seemed to be passing much better and strung together a half dozen completions near the beginning of the game against Portales.

Jose Marquez was followed around all night by several Ram head hunters, but Dan Seay helped take the heat off.

Speck said Seay has improved every week and is a very fine surprise for the team.

Ruidoso kicker Sam Gumbert will have some competition this week against a very fine St. Pius kicking squad. Speck said St. Pius traditionally comes up with fine kickers.

The Warrior secondary, which has had to tackle too many times this season, picked up a notch during practices said Speck.

Louis Jiminez, Anthony Torres, Aaron Ford, Jorge Marques and Rickey DeVara had three good practices and all the coaches were pleased with their workouts.

Servies wins, breaks 4-way tie

Boy oh boy oh boy oh boy! A four-way tie with 17 winners each in the toughest football contest yet.

Ron Servies broke the tie with his 20-7 (13 points difference) Portales margin over Ruidoso. Tom Boyd picked Portales to win 28-10, an 18 point difference. The Rams won by six points.

Jeff Chapman and Jenice Shook also had 17 winners, but Chapman had Ruidoso winning by 14-6 and Shook chose the Warriors by a point, 14-13. C'mon Jeff, Ruidoso by eight points. Someone is going to accuse you of being a homer.

Chapman missed on Carri'Zozo-Loving, Frisco-Raiders and Denver Minnesota. Shook missed 'Zozo, Cloudcroft-Fort Sumner and Buffalo-Bears. Boyd missed 'Zozo, Giants and Minnesota. Servies missed 'Zozo, Texico-Jal and Frisco.

Did they all miss the 'Zozo-Loving game? So did nearly all of the record breaking 60 that entered the contest last week.

Incidentally the Penn State-Baylor tilt was not a trick question. We goofed, there was no matchup between the schools. And when we goof we credit everyone with a win.

Outside of the Carri'Zozo upset, there were tons of entries that were looking good right up to the last three games. Then Frisco, Giants and Minnesota fell and so did most of the contestants.

The Turner boys who usually stay near number one, didn't get a smell of the top spot last week. It was that tough a poll. (One Turner did get 15 right, but we won't say who.)

In the close, but oh so close, department with 16 correct guesses were: Alice Payne (always tough), Ronnie Randolph, Cyrus Simmons (a recent winner), Daniel Sanchez (you've seen his name a lot), Lovin Sanchez, Joan Luerras, Ron Buckner, Ron Hardeman, George Chapman, Gienda Sparks (met her at Wal-Mart) and Linda Cox (One of the better guessers).

Christie Shows didn't win anything, but she was the only entry I was able to find that picked all five pro teams.

The final tally had four pickers with 17 wins, 11 with 16, 19 with 15, 14 with 14, five with 13, two with 12, two with 11, two with 10 and one with nine.

The record low for low correct guesses is still seven and no one, ever, has had a perfect slate.

SURROUNDED BY WARRIORS

Team Tam and Nanz leave nothing to chance

Being number one is a thrill too few athletes ever experience and once you reach there it changes your life forever.

If you reach number one once, you know you can reach it again.

Luisa Tam and Nick Nanz both experienced that feeling as the two Warrior runners broke the tape ahead of the pack, five AAAA schools in Clovis last Saturday.

The Warriors girls finished second to Carlsbad. They have finished first many times this season. The Ruidoso boys finished first with Hobbs second.

Cross country coach Ronny Mas-kers to peak at the right time and he was very satisfied with last weeks performance.

It takes more than one person to climb to second place in a cross country meet. Many Warriors finished in the top half of the pack and they gave Ruidoso the second place winner.

Stephanie Haas, a fine runner who has yet to come close to her peak performance finished 6th place with a 20:37 time; Catrina Gabaldon (also a track star) 10th place at 21:17. Rachelle Holstein (a speedster and hurdler in track) 17th place at 22:51; Kami Bailey, 20th at 24:11. Five seconds ahead of Trini Langworthy, 21st at 24:16.

The winning Warrior boys had some gutsy performances from several runners.

After Nanz with his great first at 15:58 came Eric Evans, an up and down runner that can win it all. Evans was 9th at 15:58; Jackie Lynn, 6th, 16:43; Faustino Miranda, 8th, 16:36; Jermie Livingston, 12th, 16:57; Josh Norbury, 22nd, 18:07.

Sarah Echols, a newcomer running her best race, grabbed 16th at 26:46 and athletic Sarah Dix finished 17th place at 27:25.

For the boys, David Biggs finished 27th at 21:58.

MIDFIELD DRUMMER

Head Hunter Davis remembered

This year's 1991 Little League Football Season has been dedicated in memory of Kelvin Ray Davis, a former member of the Redskin team.

Kelvin received a special award for his play and was named "Head Hunter" Davis during the season last year.

Kelvin, 9, has been missed by his football buddies this season and this dedication will help preserve his memory.

The young Davis attended Ruidoso White Mountain Intermediate School and was the son of Zandha Smith and Douglas Davis.

The Little Leaguers squared off against each other in an exhibition game during the halftime of the Ruidoso-Portales match at W.D. Horton Stadium last Friday.

It nearly stole the show from the big boys and featured several long touchdown runs that sent the local crowd cheering.

Little League Football games are held at the Eagle Creek Sports Complex on Wednesdays at 5:30 p.m. and on Saturdays at 9:30 a.m.

Family, friends and Little League fans are welcome to come and observe this village's future ballplayers.

State leaders meet to discuss Indian issues

Video gambling, going strong at Mescalero on Sandia Pueblo, could lead the way to similar operations in areas other than reservations.

Jerry Manzagal, superintendent of the state's Regulation and Licensing Department, spoke early this week to the Legislature's Indian Affairs Committee meeting at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Manzagol said only a couple of issues remain unresolved in separate negotiations between the state and the Sandia Pueblo and the Mescalero Apache tribe.

Governor Bruce King has designated Manzagal to represent him on this issue, and Manzagal said an agreement is within weeks.

According to published reports, Mescalero President Wendell Chino agreed.

"We're pretty close," he was quoted as saying.

Even as negotiations continue, customers are filling the video gaming room at the Inn of the Mountain Gods where they can play video versions of poker, blackjack and slot machines.

"During the summer we had people waiting at the machines three deep," Chino said.

The state officials meeting at the Inn of the Mountain Gods also heard from Attorney General Tom Udall and attended a reception presented by the Hubbard Foundation.

State Representative H. John Underwood (D-Ruidoso) and Representative Thomas Atcity (D-Shiprock) have a friendly discussion during a reception Monday hosted by the Hubbard Museum.

Obituaries

John A. Barreras

John A. Barreras, chief of police in Harlem, Georgia, died Wednesday, September 4, at Dwight David Eisenhower Army Medical Center in Fort Gordon, Georgia, after a brief illness. He was 52.

Services were conducted September 8, in the Harlem Baptist Church.

Barreras, a native of New Mexico, was raised by his maternal grandparents, Domingo and Virginia C. Romero of Ruidoso. He attended the Ruidoso schools and worked at the Pueblo Theatre before entering the U.S. Army.

He had lived in Harlem since 1983. A 1977 graduate of the Georgia Police Academy, he had retired from the Army and was a member of the Georgia Association of Chiefs of Police. He was a member and vice president of the 7th district of the Georgia Crime Prevention Association.

Survivors include his wife, Diana L. Barreras and two daughters, Catherine Alejandra Barreras and Stephanie Susanne Barreras, all of Harlem; and two sons, John Anthony Barreras of New Mexico and Anthony Michael Barreras of Harlem.

He is survived by two sisters, Jessie Barber of Humble, Texas; and Marie Prate of Texas; and two brothers, Raymond Barreras of Las Cruces and Fabian Barreras.

Barreras was preceded in death by a son, Stevie Barreras of Hobbs; a sister, Isabel Barreras Tischler, formerly of Ruidoso; and two brothers.

Honorary pallbearers were Harlem police dispatchers.

Byron Baker

Services for Byron Baker, 59, of Carrizozo were conducted Wednesday, October 2, in the Carrizozo United Methodist Church with the Reverend Tom Broom minister of the church officiating. Burial will be at White Oaks Cemetery in White Oaks.

Baker died Saturday, September 28, in Albuquerque. He was born September 4, 1932, in Illinois.

He was member of the Roswell Police Force from 1958 until 1980, then a deputy for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office from 1981 until 1987.

He moved to Carrizozo in 1981 from Roswell where he had lived since the early 1950s. He was a former member of the Optimist Club in Roswell and the Fraternal Order of the Police.

Baker married Pat Moore on October 18, 1982, in Durango, Colorado.

Survivors include his wife, Pat of Carrizozo; two sons, Richard Baker of Wisconsin and Steve Baker of Phoenix, Arizona; one daughter, Melodie Archibeque of Bloomfield; two stepdaughters, Cindy Mackenzie of Carrizozo and Linda Turner of Holloman A.F.B.

Survivors include his parents, Gene and Bernice Baker of Tularosa; a sister, Carolyn Lemmon of Roswell and a brother, Larry Baker of Las Cruces; seven grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

The family suggests memorials to the Fraternal Order of the Police; in care of Will Hoggard; Ruidoso Police Department; P.O. Drawer 2330; Ruidoso, N.M. 88345.

LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso was in charge of arrangements.

Dr. Elmer John Hawkins

Last rites were conducted at graveside September 27 for Dr. Elmer John Hawkins, a part-time resident of Ruidoso who lived in Hamlin, Texas.

The doctor had practiced medicine in Jones and Fisher Counties for 39 years; he also was involved in ranching in Dickens County.

He was graduated from Sylvester High School in 1939 and from McMurry College in 1942.

Hawkins married Gabie Smallwood in Crosbyton on June 19, 1943. He was graduated from Baylor University College of Medicine in Houston on July 16, 1945.

The doctor was a member of St. John's United Methodist Church in Stamford.

Survivors include his wife, Gabie of Hamlin; two sons, James E. Hawkins, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Jonathan Hawkins of Sweetwater, Texas.

Daughters are Louann Trull of Abilene, Texas, and Sharon Gustafson of Roswell. Six grandchildren, a brother and a sister also survive.

The Silver Lining

Nature's artist paints the mountain world

September's Last Day The Eve of October

This is being sent to you on high noon on the thirtieth of September — one of the greenest and most flowery Septembers in memory.

All the mountain world is ready to welcome October the month of Indian Summer the time of the turning of the leaves, of warm mellow days and crisp cool nights, when all the land is fragrant with the incense of tree leaves, evergreen needles, and all the herbs of hill and dale, baked out by the frost at night and carried to you on a sunny breeze during the day.

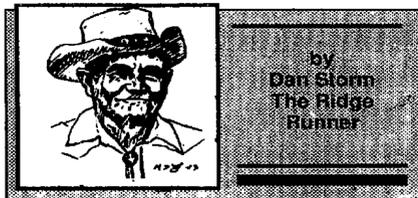

The American flag is floating in a light Northern breeze, and now the wind changes and begins blowing very lightly from the West. Light clouds are floating in a blue sky over Storm Mountain, turning the Vale into a little green world of moving sunshine and shadow.

It is like a summer day with the temperature a mild seventy-eight, and little Oswald the pet lizard is sunning himself on the front steps; and the tame Phoebe who every year builds her nest under the eaves of the house near the sun room is singing her song of summer, seeming in no hurry to move south.

White, gold and brown butterflies are everywhere among the tall white daisies, the Golden Autumn Asters and the purple New England Daisies. The tiny humming of the work song of the bees is plain to hear in this quiet sunny day.

Jack Frost's Birthday

Today is also the eve of the birthday of Jack Frost, the world's favorite painter of every autumn land into a daily changing pageant of leaf color—all across our land and in the countries across the water.

Jack has already paid us a little birthday visit up on the mountain, and usually drops by for a visit here at Storm's Crossing around the twelfth, painting the leaves on his way down, day by day, from the mountain top. Jack dropped by briefly on his way up the valley and told me he is planning a very special Indian Summer painting the oak leaves bronze; the mountain maple on high pure crimson, and aspens pure gold shining and glittering from the leaves pattering together in rejoicing at the arrival of Fall.

The Oak Brush

Here on the slopes of the White Mountain, one of the favorite leaf displays is put on by the Oak Brush, pride and joy of the autumn time, when all along the hillsides you see a tapestry of gold, crimson, purple maroon and lavender all among the pine, piñon and cedars. It is something special for our own mountain land.

October is a time of celebration, and the Aspencade parade, the Cowboy Symposium and the Van Winkle and other family reunions are a tribute to Jack Frost during his birthday month.

Services At Holy Mount

Members of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County joined the Church of the Holy Mount, Ruidoso, last Sunday for a service of Commemoration of Saint Michael and All Angels.

Lay reader Susan Penn read from the book of Genesis, the Revelation of Saint John; and Psalm number 103:

"Bless the Lord, you angels of his, you mighty ones who do his bidding, and hearken to the voice of his word."

The Reverend Jan Davey read from the Gospel according to Saint John. "Hereafter ye shall see Heaven open and the Angels of God descending upon the son of man."

Father John Penn delivered a sermon based on The Revelation of Saint John: "How the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of Christ have come."

The Reverend Anne Gaddy in the prayers of the people gave thanks for the birthdays of Rene Burton, Karen Williams, and Kick Wardlaw. And for the wedding anniversary of Walter and June Rawley.

The Reverend Leon Livingston, and the Reverend Bob Batton served in the Communion service.

Acolytes were Shawna Shrecengost and Christine Shows. Torch Bearers were Pam Shows and Everett Thompson. The children's choir sang "Praise the Lord."

A grand dinner was served following the service. Let us thank the Lord for the beginning of the glorious month of October and all our other many blessings.

Homecoming '91!

Go Warriors is the message that Ruidoso High School art students are painting on windows all over town to get the town in the spirit for homecoming and to raise cash for high school art projects. Students decorate the front door at The Ruidoso News, using blue and gold as a reminder for fans to wear blue and gold Friday and fly your Warrior spirit flag. The homecoming parade will roll from Western Auto down Sudderth to the Middle School beginning at 1 p.m. Friday.

Students and teachers get into the swing of things at Ruidoso High School this week in preparation for the big homecoming parade and game on Friday. Coach Clifton Neal (above) isn't just kidding around as he prepares for a tricycle race at the school, and these seniors (left) say the celebration is definitely not Mickey Mouse, even though they're decorating the hallway with some Mickey Mouse cutouts. When in Rome, you might want to wear a toga, like the ones these well-dressed Warriors (far left) wore Wednesday.

Cimarron Companion Care Retirement Center

Cimarron Companion Care Retirement Center is functioning and has welcomed its first client, Evelyn Miller, 84, formerly of Mayhill and now of Ruidoso Downs. Jan Stelzer, registered nurse, owns the former 16-unit condominium complex located three miles east of Ruidoso Downs on U.S. 70. Miller needs nursing service. Nurse Stelzer checks on her three times during each night, and a Home Health person spends days with her. A Licensed Practical Nurse is on duty weekends, also. Cimarron units, single or double occupancy, are also available to individuals or couples who don't especially need nursing care or just minimal care who would like a transportation service, 24-hour security and maintenance, weekly housekeeping, grounds maintenance, personal laundry service, special diets when prescribed and injections when prescribed. Units, each with kitchenette, are completely furnished. Quality fixtures with handrails in bathrooms are extra. Pet care when clients are away from home, plus many other benefits are available. As local residents know, Cimarron sits in the foothills of the beautiful mountains of Lincoln County. Cimarron is a "special Place for Special People." It's for individuals or couples who want security, some who need extra care, and for people who want or need some of their mundane affairs of life taken care of by professionals. It's almost carefree living at Cimarron Companion Care Retirement Center. Drive by and look it over, visit the facility and see if it would meet your special needs. For information, call (505) 378-4888. Or write Cimarron, P.O. Box 1109, Ruidoso Downs, N.M., 88346.

Capitan kids have their heads in the clouds

Head Coach Pat Ventura runs the Capitan Tigers through their paces at practice, getting ready to tangle with Jal in a homegame Friday.

Red Devils tame Tigers

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan Tigers defensive line flexed its muscle last Friday and beat back a Springer Red Devil attack.

After an early touchdown in the first quarter, Springer was unable to score for the next two quarters. But before the final gun, they managed to squeeze in one last touchdown in the fourth quarter for an ending score of 14-0.

Had football coach Pat Ventura congratulated Jason Trujillo, who caught an interception on the Tiger 45 at the end of the third quarter and ran it to the Red Devil six-yard line.

"But we just couldn't put it in," Ventura said.

"Overall, we just didn't play well the first half. We did all right in the second half, but you can't win a game when you only play half the time."

Fumbles against plagued the team.

"We lost one touchdown from an interception," Ventura said. "It happened on our own third yard line and they walked in for a touch-

Capitan Tigers tromp old foes in tournament

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan Warriors finished a strong second in their home tournament last weekend, tromping their old Elida foe.

"Of course, we'd always prefer to be first," volleyball coach Pam Allen said Thursday.

"But we played extremely well against Elida in the semi-finals. It's the first time we've beaten them since I've been here."

Players Jennifer Eldridge and Tammy Payne were selected to the All-Tournament Team as a result of their top-notch execution.

The team's serving game improved dramatically, Allen said. "But we didn't play as well against Fort Sumner as the girls and I would have liked. I think it was a bad case of nerves that experience will take care of."

Thespians rehearse "Hillbilly Weddin"

Capitan thespians will don overalls and straw hats for their portrayals of lovable hillbillies in a new drama class production October 26.

Drama teacher Molly Weber said she has an enthusiastic cast of 20 handling the play "Hillbilly Weddin."

"And we have a band of musicians who play washstands and jugs," she said. "They're real good at being perfectly awful."

The dessert theater (brownies, punch and coffee) will begin at 8 down. "We fumbled inside the 15 yard line twice, yet we were at the second yard line and didn't score. We dropped two passes in the end zone, two touchdowns we should have scored."

The stats tell the story. The Red Devils gained 234 yards rushing, all but 90 yards in the first half.

The Tigers ran up 110 yards. They lost 35 yards in four penalties, two for offsides and one for delay of game.

Next on the Tiger football menu are the Jal Panthers, a 2A school, in a home game Friday.

Before the game, Tiger parents will join the players on the field where sons will present their mothers with roses.

Ventura said he expects a tough game.

"They run, throw and run trick plays," he said of the Jal team. "It's going to be chaos. They shotgun and do a lot of stuff. Their players are pretty good size with 12 seniors and six juniors."

He plans to pull out all the plugs and let his team try it all.

The varsity team will face Cloudcroft tonight and Loving at Cloudcroft Saturday in the first district game.

"I feel pretty confident," Allen said. "The Loving girls are generally pretty big and strong and serve tough. But I feel our passing and blocking game will negate that."

Victories were celebrated all around by the junior varsity and junior high players in games this week and last weekend.

The eighth graders beat Hondo Wednesday in two games and the seventh graders followed suit.

On Saturday in a round robin in Cloudcroft, the junior varsity stomped three opponents, Hagerman, Cloudcroft and Mesilla Valley Christian.

The junior high will face Ruidoso in an away game Monday.

p.m. in the multipurpose room of the Capitan school. Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $2 for students in advance (at the school office) or at the door.

The cast also will perform a dress rehearsal for clients at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School.

The play centers around a young girl who cannot marry until her older sister, who has never taken a bath, catches a mate.

"It's very well written and hilarious to watch," Weber said.

Clouds passing overhead may look like livestock or the profiles of presidents to some people, but to students in the fifth grade science class of Mary McIlwain, they tell a story.

They are cumulus or cirrus. They warn of bad weather to come or reassure that a calm, sunny weekend lies ahead.

But these Capitan students don't spend all their time watching the sky. They also take readings twice a day at a weather station put together by McIlwain with the help of a $600 donation from the Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District.

"The weather station (a white wooden box on legs about four-five feet high) was an old one discarded by the Smokey Bear Ranger Station," McIlwain said. "My husband refurbished it for the class. I showed it to them for the first time (a few days ago)."

During the summer, McIlwain, one of those teachers people always hope their children are lucky enough to have for a class, attended a session on agriculture in the classroom.

"I got interested in the course because (teacher) Mary Shanks, who serves on the board of directors for the soil conservation district, had gone the summer before," McIlwain said. "She was telling us how informational and fun it was. She got a couple of us to go. (Sixth grade teacher) Ruby Johnson, Mary and I went attended the three-day class at New Mexico State University."

To offset the cost involved, the Upper Hondo conservation district gave the women a grant to go to Las Cruces.

Part of the course required the teachers to develop a unit plan for their classrooms to promote agriculture.

"Since weather is an element in my fifth grade science book, I decided to have it as my agriculture in the classroom project. I worked up quite an extensive unit on the subject," she said.

She then packed up her presentation and took it to the board of the soil conservation district.

Book buyers shop at school

Big books, little books, wide books, slim books, funny books and kind of sad books will be on sale during the week of October 7-11 at the Capitan school library.

From Monday, October 7 through Thursday, October 10, Capitan Elementary's 285 elementary students will sift through hundreds of titles offered by Rainbow Book Fairs.

"I've worked with this company four years and they provide a quality product," said principal Jerry Newsom.

By Thursday, the children will have selected their favorite books and will take home a list to their parents to review, Newsom said.

"On Friday, October 11, they will come back and pick up the books that their parents have approved for purchase," he said.

The proceeds from the sale are funneled into the school's general fund and used for student activities, Newsom said.

Capitan fifth grade teacher Mary McIlwain explains to her students some of the measuring instruments in a weather station she put together as part of a class science unit. She plans to tie together the effects of weather on local agriculture.

They liked the idea and sent her home with a check for $600 to purchase weather equipment.

"The station still is not complete," McIlwain said. "We need more equipment. It will be a year-around project."

The students will track the weather and learn what the instruments can do and how they register and react.

In place now is a wind speed indicator that will be hooked up to a measurement device mounted on the roof of one school building.

Another instrument measures relative humidity.

"The barometer I'm going to have to send back for another model because when it arrived, I noticed it's only good up to 5,000 feet (above sea level) in elevation," McIlwain said.

One of the most intriguing devices for the students is a digital thermometer that registers the high and low of each day and night. Tuesday's low in Capitan hit 36 degrees.

McIlwain intends to keep the charts from each year to develop a tracking history for Capitan year-to-year. Readings will be taken twice a day at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Both of her science classes will participate in the project, she said.

A chart worked up by a gifted class caught her eye in a catalog for weathermen. When the information is filled in, the charts create a weekly graph.

"I hope in an actual hands on situation, the children will learn more about what causes the weather, how to record it and the effects of the weather on ranching in this area," McIlwain said.

"I expect in the course of this unit to invite guest speakers from the soil conservation district, the U.S. Forestry Service, the state forestry and the Farm Bureau — people from land-related backgrounds to come in and work with us and relate the information to our area."

One field trip she hopes to schedule is with Greg Haussler of the conservation district to show the students examples of erosion and its negative effects on ranching and farming.

McIlwain intends to incorporate language arts, math and art into the course work.

"I'm going to have them write a story about a disaster caused by the weather and integrate language arts that way," she said. "They will tell how it came to be, whether a tornado, flood or drought, and how it affected their family."

"Then they will look at how to get a family back on its feet, such as investigating the cost of seed. I'll get the seed man to come over and that segment will involve mathematics."

The art will be worked in with posters on how to prepare for and protect a family during a disaster.

So if you miss the morning weather forecast on television or radio, try the Capitan Elementary fifth grade science class. They'll have the latest information.

County subdivision road assessments generate $113,000 annually

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Lincoln County has been assessing lot owners in some partially developed subdivisions 10 cents per road front foot since the early 1980s, but in many cases, roads were never built, let alone maintained.

County manager Nick Pappas told county commissioners Tuesday that some of those property owners now are ready to retire and to move to the county. But when they got here, they want to know where their money has been spent.

"I believe the money was meant to go into the county road fund to do roads where maintenance is needed, not that the road department was just to do that footage," Pappas said.

"But I'm getting calls from some getting ready to retire and have been paying $18 a year and demand the county build them a $10,000 road for access," he said.

Referring to a report by Patsy Sanchez detailing the number of subdivisions assessed, not assessed, developed and incomplete, Pappas said the commission should consider vacating roads in subdivisions that were never developed.

"When there is no development, it's possible to come back and vacate the roads or the entire subdivision" to relieve the county of future responsibility, he said.

According to Sanchez' report, the assessment has been generating about $113,000 a year.

"That's pretty good bucks," Commission Chairman Stirling Spencer said, obviously surprised.

In her report, Sanchez stated that 151 subdivisions are inhabited and lot owners are paying assessments for 305 miles of county subdivision roads.

Ten subdivisions described by metes and bounds have never been charged; 14 are incomplete and currently under sales and road restrictions; Bonito Lakes subdivision roads are maintained but owners are not assessed; eight are too new to begin an assessment; 18 are on the list as condominium or RV developments, but are not charged; and out of eight listed that have county accepted roads, the county maintains the roads in two and assesses property owners in five.

In another matter, the commission reviewed a letter to the Bureau of Land Management summarizing points commissioners still want to see cleared up before they take a position on a proposed acquisition of about 1,500 acres along the Rio Bonito near the settlement of Lincoln.

Commissioners also approved placing a referendum question on the November 1992 ballot asking voters whether to continue a 4.25 mill levy for eight more years toward the support of the Lincoln County Medical Center.

The majority of the money is used in the operating budget to offset charity care at the hospital, but some this year purchased capital equipment such as a CAT scan.

The levy originally was passed with the intention of building a new hospital, but changing health care costs and needs derailed that plan.

Administrator Valerie Miller said she hopes to have the hospital on solid enough financial footing within a few years to be able to use the money strictly for equipment or physical improvements to the hospital.

The county has avoided starting a regular fund for the medically indigent, but county attorney J. Robert Beauvais said commissioners may soon have to set up such a fund at a level dictated by the state.

In other business, the commission:

—Sent a request by Steve Morgan to close a road between lots on Marjio Lane and Delana Drive in the Paradise Canyon Subdivision to the Road Review Committee.

Beauvais questioned whether the commission has the right to close off any thoroughfare even if no road is there.

—Denied a request to open a quarter of a mile of Forest Service Road 9012A near the Nogal Lake turnoff requested by Richard Thorpe, who operates a business out of his home.

The commission has no right to perform construction or maintenance on a forestry-owned road, commissioners said. They will try to work out a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Forest Service to give the county an easement when they discuss other projects.

—Was told by road manager William Cupit that he is designing a new type of cattle guard to answer problems being experienced by some ranchers with bulls and horses leaping or walking over existing guards.

"Basically, the problem is, do we custom make these to their requests," Cupit said. Extensions to widen existing guards could cost several hundred dollars each, he said.

Until the problem is solved, the commission granted a request by the Bard Cattle Company in Ancho to erect an unlocked fence across a seldom-traveled, remote county road to keep livestock confined.

"We're in the process of building our own guards," Cupit said. "If people will be patient, maybe we can improve the guard design instead of patching. We need to put them in right. The cattle trucks are just eating up the guards there now."

—Rejected a previously approved cooperative project with the State Highway and Transportation Department because the county lacks the necessary right-of-way.

Under the program, the state would pay 60 percent of the project. But Cupit said with all of the new requirements, the county first must obtain all of the necessary right-of-way and must hire professionals to perform an archaeological survey and environmental impact.

The project the commission had selected runs through the Lincoln National Forest and the county doesn't have right of way, he said.

"Other counties are dropping out of the program, because out of the money they're getting, 25 percent is being spent in paperwork," Cupit said.

"For next year's project, we need to work where we already have right of way," he said.

—Rejected a request for $5,000 in economic development money from George "Smoky" Stover until the county can verify his non-profit status and receives more detailed information. Beauvais pointed out that Stover is proposing improvements on public parks and lands.

—Heard County Treasurer Janice Ware report that 16 of 45 mobile home owners with delinquent taxes that were notified by her office are now making payments toward or have paid those taxes.

(Golden Age Club Liaison - Village of Ruidoso re Daily Meals Program)

Survey identifies Senior Citizens Center needs

The monthly calendar for the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center is busy each month with activities and special events.

Some of those events include area senior citizens to visit the comfortable facility located behind the Ruidoso Public Library just off Sudderth Drive near the tennis courts, and some don't.

The assessment survey published in large type as a service to readers, especially those senior citizens who the Senior Citizens Center endeavors to serve.

Charlotte C. Jarratt, who was involved in the development of the senior center and was its director when the current building was built, provided the survey and the information included in this story.

Jarratt is the liaison between the Golden Age Club and the Village of Ruidoso on a plan to serve daily noon meals at the center.

Meals are currently delivered three times each week to 30 different people. The monthly average of those meals served is 360, for a quarterly total of 1,080 meals.

Jarratt reported that 833 different people visited the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center during June, July and August this year. Of that number, 120 attended club meetings only, and did not use the center otherwise, or receive a newsletter.

Of that number 644, or 90 percent, were not members of minority races, while 69, or 10 percent, were minorities.

Arts and crafts workshops and events drew 16 people a month this summer, while 225 people went to the center to play games each month.

The average number who attended the Wednesday lunches on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month was 11.

Special events this summer included a barbecue, attended by 61 people; a picnic, attended by 30; and a dance, attended by 32.

American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) meets the fourth Wednesday of the month at the Senior Citizens Center, with an average attendance of 35.

Afternoon bridge games, each Tuesday, are attended by about 90 people a month, with 128 a month taking part in the evening duplicate bridge games.

The Golden Age Club meets the first and third Wednesdays at the center, and the average attendance was 48 this summer.

Monthly services offered at the Senior Citizens Center include blood pressure checks. 200 people took advantage of that service this summer, for a monthly average of 140 and a quarterly total of 419.

Nine people exercised in that group that meets at the center, with a monthly average of six and a quarterly total of 19.

The newsletter was mailed to 324 addresses, contacting 439 different people, counting households with more than one senior citizen. For the quarter, 1,284 people were contacted through the newsletter.

Social Security counseling is provided at the center the fourth Tuesday of each month, with 66 different people being helped during June, July and August, for an average of 22 people a month.

Transportation is provided three times a week, with senior citizens driven to the doctor, dentist, banks, grocery store, post office, library, beauty salon, laundry, restaurant and to the center.

Emergency transportation service is also provided on a per call basis.

Services amounted to an average of 3,243 for the quarter, 1,081 a month and 270 per week during June, July and August.

Jarratt said information/referral and telephone reassurance and outreach is performed daily, with center staff calling to check on some senior citizens. Documentation is not available on those many calls.

Bronze pouring turns intense process into a party

"It's kind of like baking biscuits"

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Like molten lava bubbling in a mountain caldera, liquified bronze sizzled and glowed Saturday at the Crucis Art Bronze Foundry & Gallery.

At just the right moment when its temperature reached 2,300 degrees, the bronze was poured from a crucible into waiting molds secured by buckets of sand. The molds already were smoldering from heat so intense it ignited the gloves of workers transferring the receptacles from a furnace to the buckets.

The afternoon pouring was part of the Sudderth Drive foundry's open house and a familiar performance by owner Walter Rawley and his wife, June.

"We run the smallest commercial foundry in the world, strictly a one man foundry," Rawley said, although he enlisted the help of artist Robert Harrison and Mescalero teacher George Cronin for the heavy load planned that day.

"It's kind of like baking biscuits," Rawley said. "The exciting part is the pouring and everything else leads up to it."

That everything else starts with the artist who creates the sculpture to be reproduced in bronze.

The sculptures are formed out of oil base clay or wax. From that beginning, a synthetic rubber mold is made to produce multiple copies in wax.

Most of the artists complete their own hand work on those wax pieces.

The wax figures with braces and a pouring cup attached then are covered with about 10 applications of a viscous silica slurry, about two coats a day.

When the slurry hardens, the wax then is melted out of the mold and the bronze is poured inside.

"One wax figure is consumed in making one bronze sculpture," Rawley said. "The whole wax assembly is an investment. It takes over one week to apply 10 different coats. When finished, it is heat and shock resistant."

About 24 hours after finishing the mold, it is placed in a burnout furnace at 1,600 to 1,800 degrees to flash melt and evacuate the wax.

While the mold is being readied, Rawley also is heating 100 pounds of bronze at 2,300 degrees. At the right temperature, a bell is rung.

Rawley and his friends, protected by heavy gloves and vests, remove the molds from the furnace and set them in the sand to immobilize and position them upright without pressure.

They then carry a crucible full of bronze to the buckets and pour the molten liquid into the molds through the cups.

As the sky darkens, each mold gives off an eerie glow.

"Essentially we replace the wax with molten bronze, which should take the form the wax has left vacant," Rawley said.

After two hours or more, the mold may still be hot to handle, but it can be chipped and broken away from the figure now solid inside.

Artists and friends watch flames shoot from the pot of molten bronze as they wait for the first pouring of the afternoon. The pouring is a special celebration for the Crucis Art Foundry when the public is invited to see the process.

Sand blasting removes the last clinging pieces.

"I've been doing this since 1973 when I worked down in the (Hondo) valley and helped (bronze artist) Tom Knapp for three years. He helped me break off on my own," Rawley said. Knapp's sculptures are shown in the foundry's gallery along with pieces by Clay Schlothauer.

Rawley said he was a wood carver by avocation in Dallas while working in the commercial heavy construction industry.

But since moving to Ruidoso, he also casts his own bronze pieces. "They're just as handmade as wood carving," he said. "And I can make a living at this and can plan my time."

Many of his pieces are commissioned by churches, he said.

He enjoys operating a small foundry, Rawley said. "Being a one-man operation let's me deal on a one to one basis personally with artists, something a large foundry can't do."

The Rawleys opened the foundry in 1977, first concentrating on Knapp's work and then branching out.

Last Saturday, a small crowd gathered for each pouring. Between events, the spectators wandered inside where Mrs. Rawley and her partner D.J. Scraggs run the gallery and gift shop.

On display were magnificent turquoise estate jewelry, several original "one-of-a-kind" designs by Monroe Jackson of Houston and replicas of ancient native designs researched and created by Kurt Kunkel of Ruidoso.

Rawley had contracted to pour 60 pieces that weekend, some by artists Harlan Geronimo, Robert Harrison and Sharon Fullingim of Socorro.

"We'll probably get two-thirds poured today," Rawley said.

Fullingim's figures were antelopes, part of a series on wildlife in bronze and watercolor. Watching them emerge from the molds is like seeing them created all over again, she said.

Many buyers don't understand the significant expense connected to pouring a bronze, even a small one, Fullingim said.

"It can run from few hundred to few thousand dollars depending on size and complexity," Rawley said.

He finds the pouring process just as exciting today as he did starting out years ago. The personal dynamics at the pouring also are exciting, he said. "The real important thing that I think happens on these pour parties is the relationships that develop around the fringes between the-artists and the spectators."

Foundry owner Walter Rawley (at top) and friends prepare to pour the molten bronze into molds wedged in sand-filled buckets, as artists watch the process. Rawley tests the temperature of the bronze, far left, that will be poured into molds. The last pieces of mold are chipped away from a figure (clockwise, starting top left), glowing hot molds are next in line for pouring, figures are sand-blasted to remove any clinging material, and a solid bronze figure resists the clean up chipping of artist Robert Harrison.

Come on up and celebrate Aspenfest

What a weekend is in store for the Ruidoso area for Aspenfest '91, with two parades, the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium, the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association's Sixth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair, the New Mexico State Chili Cookoff, the White Mountain Challenge Cup, the Marching Band Contest and lots more.

Good luck and best wishes to the Ruidoso High School Warriors as the school celebrates homecoming with a parade, coronation and football game. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m. at W.D. Horton Stadium, but show up early because the Homecoming royalty will be crowned before the game. The homecoming parade will be at 1 p.m. Friday starting at Western Auto and heading down Sudderth Drive.

The Aspenfest Parade — Circus on Parade — will roll at 10 a.m., starting at the corner of Sudderth and Mechem and continuing down Sudderth Drive to Paradise Canyon Road.

Sudderth will be the place to be with festival events, the Arts and Crafts Fair and the Chili Cookoff.

Drive on out U.S. Highway 70 to Glencoe where the Second Annual Old Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium will be staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday with music, poetry, a chuckwagon cookoff, trade show and dances with Johnny Gimble and the Former Texas Playboys. Trail rides and ropings will add to the excitement of the state's biggest event honoring the cowboy.

What a great time to celebrate, as the aspens turn this mountain gold.

All this talk about terrorism is getting out of hand

TO THE EDITOR:

To all terrorized residents: This so called "terrorizing of village residents" is getting out of hand. Do people remember the stabbing by two lovers on the sidewalk on Sudderth? anyone passing "could have been" stabbed by scissors flying through the air. Does anyone complain about all the summer track people bringing drugs to town and selling to children?

There will always be "trash" with any event. There will be drunks all over the highway the weekend of the Chili Cookoff; plenty of drugs in town, no parking, etc., about which everyone who stayed home bored will complain. People complain about how bad the economy is. This so called "trash" is bringing the money in. Do you all close your businesses because you are afraid they will stab, rob, rape and/or shoot you in your places of business? I don't think so. A few people get gung ho on stirring things up. I cannot believe Thursday's edition devoted so much attention to the shooting, stating "watch for more in Monday's edition." Isn't there anything good to say about last weekend? The police did a fine job at Winner's Circle, for the most part. I was there.

There were also police screaming, running with their shotguns proud, demanding law and order.

Those policemen did not belong there. They appeared to be quite ready to fire upon the crowd without warning.

Why not give some credit to the bikers who contribute to our Village income and refrain from disturbing the peace? They far outnumber the few who bring about violence during the Golden Aspen Rally.

Let's not turn area into a national gang retreat center

TO THE EDITOR:

Anarchy is a good way to put it. The situation in Midtown has been a disaster just waiting to happen for years. And this year was even bigger and better. With picnic licenses, they could handle even more. Anyone that hasn't been able to see what could happen from years past must have just hit town on a tricycle!

Personally, I don't think any community has the right to subject their police and the help they can muster, let alone its citizens, to a situation like this, year after year, and it's getting worse. Enough is enough!

While other areas are trying to cope with gangs and related problems, we in this beautiful resort area seem to simply invite it.

We have what it takes to make this beautiful area a paradise for its residents and visitors alike. And to encourage newcomers to join us. We have a good police force, both County and State, a good hospital and doctors, good schools and recreation of different kinds year around including skiing.

Are we at the point where we are willing to toss this for a weekend fling and a fast buck?

If, indeed, we are willing to turn the resort area into a gang retreat, the potential is endless. Los Angeles, the nation's capital or if mileage is the problem, we could try Albuquerque there to just name a very few.

We have what it takes. Let's not keep on until we have to say we had what it took!

Tales that The Kid was Brushy Bill are bull-hockey

TO THE EDITOR:

I read with great amusement Dianne Stallings' story on the front page of the September 19 edition regarding the wailings of William Tunstall, who was miffed about not being invited to the symposium on Billy the Kid.

For nearly two years, I edited the Stephenville (Texas) Empire-Tribune, a 6,000-circulation mid-

Texas daily, along with its two weekly satellites, The Hico News-Review and the Dublin Progress. In that time, I was regularly cursed by folks from Hico who claimed (with straight faces) that Brushy Bill Roberts was Billy the Kid.

As a native Las Cruces familiar with the history of the Kid, I tried to tell them the truth, but they were not willing to listen. Eventually, I gave up and merely snickered at them when they brought up the Brushy Bill bull-hockey.

Tunstall and his friends in Hico (among whom is the vastly entertaining, witty and friendly — but, alas, misguided on this issue — Bob Hefner) probably will always cling to their story; it brings a few gullible tourists to their town.

Hico's a nice place. But you know and I know Billy the Kid never made it there. If he had, he'd have probably ended up shooting some early settler who'd tried to steal a New Mexico legend.

Billy the Kid can be blamed for a lot of things, Mr. Tunstall; being a resident of Hico isn't one of them.

Lorrie Mahaffey Dablo, a new member of the Ruidoso Little Theatre troupe, is pictured in her role as Nancy Lee Faulkner in RLT's production of "Night of January 16th."

Actress turns from TV to RLT

Lorrie Mahaffey Dablo has joined the ranks of Ruidoso Little Theatre with her portrayal of Nancy Lee Faulkner in Ayn Rand's "Night of January 16th."

The play, directed by RLT veteran Carl Mori, opened last Thursday and continues at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, October 3-5, and October 10-12, with a matinee at 2 p.m., Saturday, October 5.

For dinner reservations and or/tickets, call 257-9186.

Dablo, no stranger to the entertainment business, made many appearances on "Happy Days" and spinoffs from that popular series, "Legs" and "Who's Watching the Kids."

The actress' first love is music, and she has performed at the Palomino Club, Opryland USA, a White House Christmas concert and USO overseas tours.

She studied acting with the Charles Conrad Studio in Los Angeles and has a bachelor of arts degree in motion picture and television production from Antioch University in Los Angeles, and is a member of SAG/AFTRA.

Lorrie Dablo and her husband, Patrick, have been part-time residents of Ruidoso for three years and now make their home here.

Altrusa joins with LCMC to provide low-cost screenings

October is breast cancer awareness month, and Altrusa Club of Ruidoso has joined the Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC), to present its annual mammogram screening from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, October 7-November 1.

"The screening will be at the Hospital and does not have to be your first," said project organizer Sally Avery.

The cost is $50 to be paid at time of appointment.

Five years ago, a woman's chances of developing breast cancer were one in 11. Today they are one in nine.

This year, 175,000 American women will develop cancer of the breast. The good news is that, despite increasing incident rates, the death rate from breast cancer has been fairly stable for the past 50 years. A major reason for this unchanging death rate is increased emphasis on early detection, along with improved treatment.

Early diagnosis is the key to treating breast cancer before it has spread. With prompt treatment, the chances for complete recovery are good.

Mammogram, a low-dose X-ray that identifies suspicious lumps in the earliest stages, is the best weapon in the fight against breast Cancer.

According to information provided by the American Cancer Society, mammography plays a significant role in the diagnosis of early breast cancer.

Scientists estimate that deaths from breast cancer would decrease by at least 30 percent if all women got mammograms as recommended.

Every woman should take an active role in the early detection of breast cancer by practicing monthly breast self-examination, having a yearly breast exam by a physician and getting routine mammograms after age 40.

Women between the age of 30 and 39, who are not pregnant should have a baseline, initial mammogram. ACS also recommends a mammogram every year or two for women 40-49 years, and yearly for women over 50.

Doctors don't know why some women develop breast cancer and others do not.

"We do know, though, that some factors can increase your risk, including age over 50, having a personal or family history of breast cancer and having your first child after age 30," reads a column provided by the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Don't assume, though, that just because you don't fall into any of these groups that you do not need to worry about breast cancer. Many women who develop the disease have no known risk factors. The wisest strategy is to become familiar with your own breasts, examining them regularly for changes or lumps and see your doctor each year for an examination.

"Even if you or your doctor finds a lump, the chances of it being cancer are small — one in five. Most lumps are fluid filled cysts or benign (non-cancerous) tumors that do not pose any serious health threats.

"Don't let your fear or ignorance about cancer interfere with proper health maintenance," continues the column.

The mammogram procedure itself is quick and harmless.

Some women are concerned about the risk of radiation from mammograms. The equipment and techniques used today, however, are quite safe, exposing you to a very low dose of X-ray.

"Taking care of your breasts is a life-long project that it is hoped will be rewarded with healthy breasts and a healthy body throughout your life."

Appointments for a low-cost mammogram may be made by calling Sally Avery at 257-2094 or by calling LCMC, 257-7381, and leave a message for Avery.

 DERMATOLOGY NOTES
DRY SKIN is a particular problem in our desert southwest. Your pharmacist can recommend a good inexpensive skin moisturizer. The best time to apply a moisturizer is right after a bath or after washing or soaking the hands. A moisturizer applied right after hydrating the skin traps moisture in the skin and works better to soften the skin. If the hands are particularly dry and chapped, apply the moisturizer at bedtime and wear a pair of light rubber or latex gloves. Occluding the skin like this will enhance the penetration of moisture into the cells of the skin.

Dear Ruidoso,

You may have noticed, Hamburger King was closed for a week's vacation. We went back east (Oklahoma). Now, that may not seem very far east to you, but to me, it is a long way. I try to stay in New Mexico.

Oklahoma is nice, but it has a real shortage of mountains and green chilis. I was raised there and still have a lot of family there. I enjoyed the visit, however, the only time I felt as if I were coming home was when we dropped down into the Hondo Valley and could see Sierra Blanca hanging against the western sky. I guess I have become a New Mexican.

Anyway, we are back and open. Anybody want to buy a hamburger?

Sincerely,
 Cliff Massas

Cancel that funeral for your Ficus

DEAR SALLY:

Please come to the funeral for my Ficus tree. I almost killed it from watering abuse. Once-in-awhile I would approach the plant with a large container of water in hand, I would lean over and softly whisper to my poor, defenseless tree, "here comes the monsoon season." I allowed the plant to stand in the water in the drip pan for days and waited a very long time before watering again and never in any kind of a schedule. So, I gave the tree to my mother to care for. Soon the tree committed suicide, I mean we are talking "Final Exit" for sure. Can you help?

Believe it or not, I do read your plant Column and I like it.

Bud Vuicich

DEAR BUD:

Well, dead is dead, however, there is a slim possibility your tree is in comatose state. If so, we may be able to save your Ficus tree.

Start by creating a proper environment for the Ficus. This tree must have a minimum of four hours filtered sunlight daily. Plus, I have never seen a tall, full tree growing inside without an over head sky-light or a gro-bulb mounted directly above the plant. The over head light draws the tree up straight and tall.

Ficus trees grow outside in La Jolla, California. They line most of the downtown streets

by Sally Black
 Ruidoso News
 Plant Specialist

and most malls have planted these trees for their grace and beauty. Remember, they grow in the open with full sun. They are a deciduous tree, however, inside they seldom drop all their leaves without provocation such as moving the plant and watering abuse. Once this plant is acclimatized to proper growing conditions in a particular location, keep it there and it will keep its leaves.

Now that the over light is mounted on the ceiling by a nice sunny glass door or window with a south or west exposure, it's time for repotting. Good drainage is essential, prepare your potting soil by using lots of sharp river sand, about 50 percent sand and 50 percent regular potting soil. Put about 6" of plastic packing do-dads in the bottom of a tall 5-gallon size or larger, never smaller, pot.

As long as the root system has an even moisture, they don't mind being slightly rootbound. Let the surface dry to touch, then water thoroughly, but never let this plant stand in a tray of water or become soggy wet.

Do not allow this plant to become top cold, nor too hot, keep out of the way of hot blowing air vents. Try to keep the temperature between 55 and 90 degrees. It also like the air to circulate. You can put an electric fan by the tree and rotate the fan on all sides of the tree. I even give mine a good shaking once a week. The shaking sort of rids the plant of dead, dry leaves and dust.

The Ficus Tree will not tolerate tobacco smoke. If there is a smoker in the same room with the tree, use the electric fan to blow the smoke away from the tree. Oddly enough, as the tree matures and attains reasonable height, it seems much easier to care for and will tolerate pruning for a pretty shape with no apparent ill effects.

Peters Special is a good fertilizer for the Ficus. A root treatment with Isotox mixture is a good pest preventive. Wash the leaves with warm water to keep them shining and to prevent red spiders.

Good luck, follow these instructions and you can grow a beautiful Ficus tree.

Send questions to Sally Black, c/o The Ruidoso News, P.O. Box 128, Ruidoso, N.M. 88345.

Past Tense

Joke backfires on "helpful" hunters

For some time prior to the early 1930s, the lower Eagle and Little Creek areas west and east of Devil's Canyon were part of a game preserve.

By the thirties, deer had turned into a nuisance to the farmers along the Ruidoso Valley, especially to the owners of apple orchards. The farmers prevailed on the State Game Department to allow an open deer hunt for either sex.

The state set up a checking station where Devil's Canyon Road intersects Eagle Creek.

Three high school boys had ridden up to the station after combing the country for bucks on horseback since early morning. They were sitting on their horses talking to the wardens when a fellow with a Texas license plate drove up and asked one of the boys where he could find the best hunting for bucks.

The boys, thinking the man to be a green-

by Herbert Traylor
 Historian

horn from Texas and ignorant about hunting, replied, "See that lone tree across the creek east of here?"

The fellow looked and asked, "That one about two or three hundred yards up on the mountain?"

"No, no," the boy replied. "The one nearly on top of the mountain. Bucks rest in the shade of trees and that's a likely place for one to be."

The man took his gun and hunting equipment, crossed the creek and started climbing toward the top of the mountain.

The boys enjoyed a good laugh as they watched him struggling toward the top.

The next day, the same boys stopped to chat with the wardens. They were told the man they had directed to the tree on the mountain the day before, had come back about three or four hours later looking for the boy who gave him the tip on the buck.

This time chuckling at the expense of the boys, one of the wardens said the Texan wanted to hire the boy to carry the deer down the mountain on his horse.

He was afraid of breaking some of the eight points off the rack in dragging it to the road. That would ruin his trophy.

Golden aspens light up the forests

Welcome to Aspenfest '91.

There's so much to do in and around the Ruidoso area during the Aspenfest season, it's easy to forget that it all starts with the brilliant golden aspens.

Sure, you're going to want to see the Golden Aspen Rally parade on Saturday, September 21, and the Aspenfest Parade on Saturday, October 5, but sometime this year, take a leisurely drive up the mountain and watch the aspens light up the forest.

For, the beautiful golden Aspens are the real stars of the show each year during Aspenfest.

From late September through early October the leaves of these tall trees turn a bright gold and as they fall they litter the ground with brightness, like a floor made of gold doubloons.

Aspens stand regally throughout the Lincoln National Forest — many within a few minutes drive of Ruidoso.

Depending on your sense of adventure, these viewing areas can be reached via paved routes or by taking some of the Forest Roads in the vicinity.

All along Ski Run Road, also known as State Road 532, are many spectacular vistas of Aspen trees, as well as smaller pockets of the tree right along the road at the edge of Eagle Creek.

This paved road leads up to Ski Apache Resort and has several turnouts along the way, providing panoramic views of the White Mountain Wilderness and the Ruidoso and Bonito valleys.

About halfway up is Oak Grove Campground, a forest service campground with picnic tables, cooking grills and toilets, but no running water. The use of the facility is free.

If you're willing to take a gravel forest road that is at times quite steep and rock-strewn, Forest Road 117 to Monjeau Lookout is worth the trip. A broad view of the northern slope of the White Mountains, with a view of the Capitans and Jicarillas, is available at the lookout.

Also, access to the Crest Trail is possible just below the lookout. By taking a short hike to the west, you will pass through large meadows, and by heading uphill off the trail you can reach the top of the ridge for a full view of the Eagle Creek basin.

Further up the trail the way becomes a little steeper, but another large meadow can be reached providing you with a view westward toward the Tularosa Basin and eastward back into the Eagle Creek basin.

The trail is at between 9,000 and 10,000 feet in elevation, so be sure to take your time and bring plenty of water.

Below the Crest Trail access is a small picnic/campground that also is a good spot for Aspen viewing and beautiful views. Trails also lead from this spot, but should be reserved for more experienced hikers.

As the Aspens change, so do the scrub and oak throughout the area. These hardwoods turn a bright red during their autumn change.

A drive through Nogal Canyon or from Bonito Lake can bring you to the Crest Trail access where you can hike to the top of Nogal Peak.

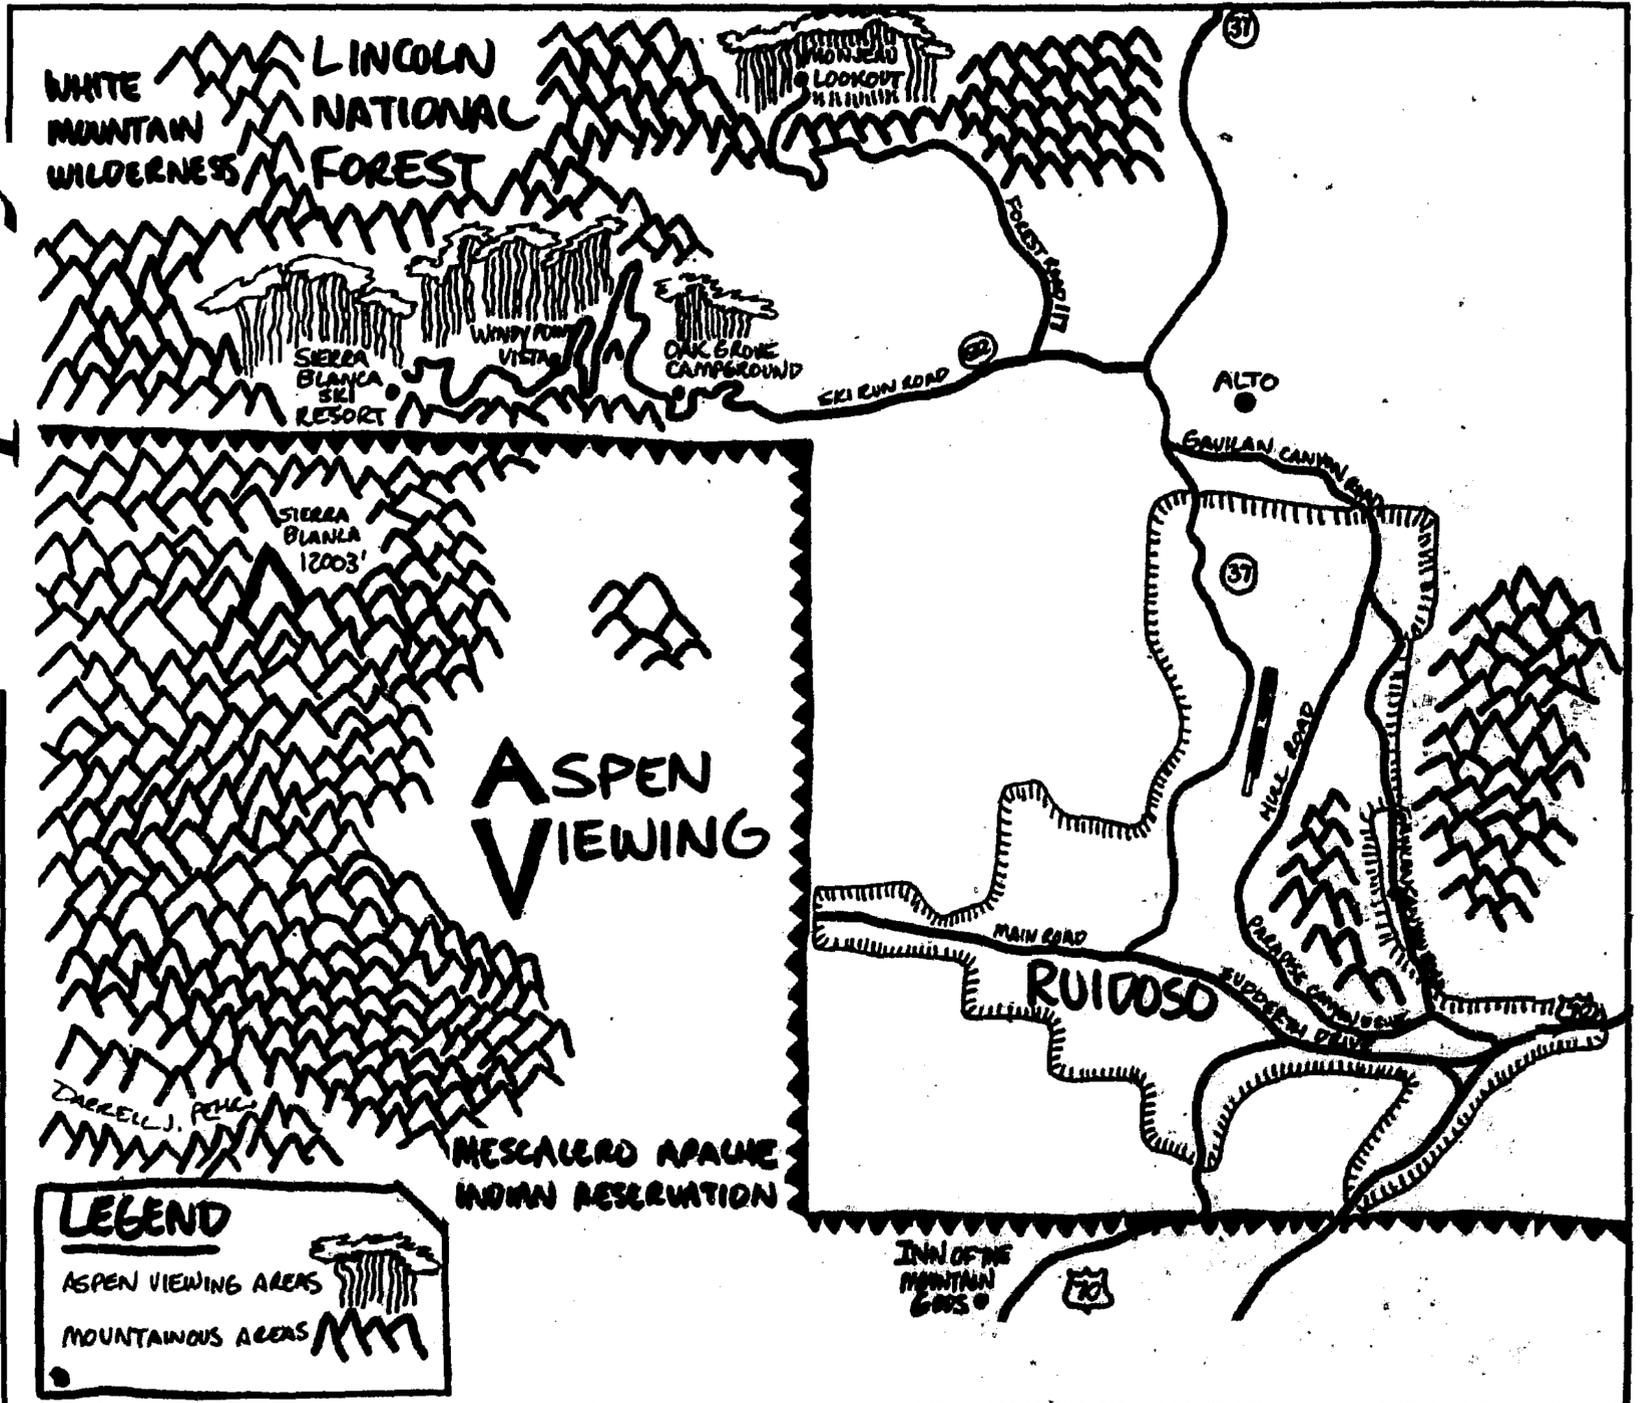

After a brief hike on the Crest Trail, a barbed wire fence with an "Oklahoma" gate will be off to your left. On the other side of the fence is the route leading to the summit of Nogal Peak.

This trail is often very steep and rocky so allow yourself plenty of time. The view from the top is spectacular.

The autumn change in leaves happens suddenly and lasts for just a brief time. Contrary to popular belief, the color change is not brought on by temperature changes or freezes, but by the lessening of the amount of sunlight during the autumn days.

If you need more information on trails or where to go in the forest lands, drop by the Smokey Bear Ranger District office on Mechem Drive in Ruidoso. They are happy to help you.

Golden Aspen Rally: Sept. 18-22

Two-wheelers take over the streets and highways for the Golden Aspen Rally, an annual tradition, set this year for September 18-22.

It's the week when "the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker," along with doctors, lawyers, engineers, insurance sellers and people who practice in every profession imaginable, don their leathers and hop on their 'cycles for a mountain adventure.

More than 2,000 bikers were expected to register for this year's rally with headquarters at the Anne C. Stradling Museum of the Horse on U.S. Highway 70 in Ruidoso Downs.

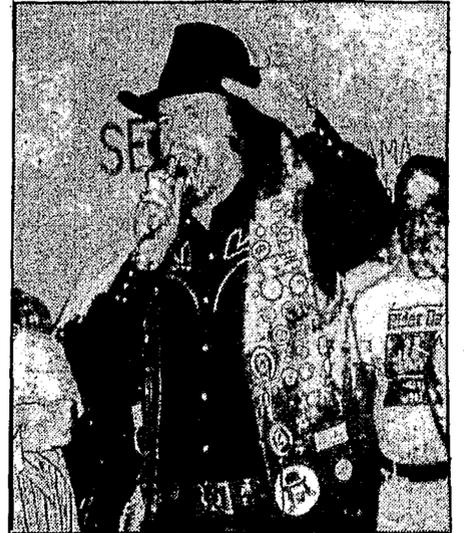

The rally is organized by Ron and Jill Andrews of Ruidoso and Dan Watkins.

It's fun for the 'cyclists and "biker wannabees" alike. If you're not riding a Harley or Honda, you'll have fun watching them zoom up and down the streets.

The big trade show is set up in the Museum of the Horse Convention Center in Ruidoso Downs, and is open to locals at no charge on Thursday night, September 19, beginning at 6 p.m.

A special addition this year is the Harley-Davidson booth with demo rides available.

Special events include an Early Bird Breakfast Club, an "Iron Butt" run, Merchants Mystery Run and Poker

Run.

Field events and games are scheduled periodically in the five-day event, with the queen and king crowned at 3 p.m. Thursday. The Golden Aspen royalty will lead the parade that begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

All motorcyclists are invited to line up along Mechem, and the parade will begin at the intersection of Mechem and Sudderth drives.

The Nite Lite Parade, a popular special event, will start at 9 p.m. Thursday. Lighted vehicles will parade from parade from Rally Headquarters down

Non-denominational church services are to be conducted at 8 a.m. each day at headquarters.

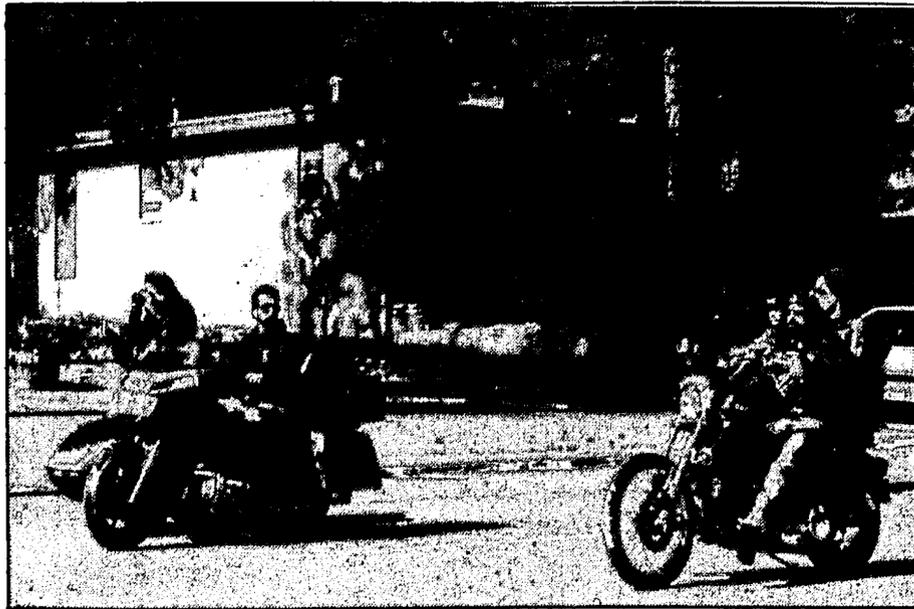

A Battle of the Bands, another popular public event, is set for 5:30 p.m. Thursday, September 19, in the Winner's Circle parking lot. Voting will be conducted to determine the most popular band.

The Winner's Circle will also be the center of activity on Friday evening, with a street dance in the parking lot beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Once a year the folks at Ski Apache open the gondola for scenic rides, and it's for the bikers!" reads the program. For just $7, ride the gondola from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursday and see sights that usually are seen only by skiers.

Presentation of awards in many categories will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at headquarters. Awards will be for oldest riders, best dressed, longest distance traveled, for instance, plus a number of other categories.

Special awards will be at 5 p.m. Saturday and the grand prize drawing — for a 1991 Honda GL-15001M Interstate and for a Neosho Starlight Trailer will be at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Marching Band Contest
1 p.m. Saturday, October 5
W.D. Horton Stadium

Parade

"Circus on Parade" will take to the streets of Ruidoso as Aspenfest's center ring event at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 5. Aspenfest parade will roll from the corner of Sudderth and Mechem drives to Paradise Canyon.

Bands, clowns, animals, cars, Shriners, kids and just about anything else may show up for the big parade.

"A lot of fun, that's the main thing," said Aspenfest chairperson Judy Wicker.

This year's grand marshal, Howard Morgan, the popular weather man from KOAT-TV, will lead the parade riding in a 1944 convertible.

Miniature horses, llamas and some cars from the Tri-City Rod Run will add to the excitement of this year's parade. The mini horses are provided by Dr. and Mrs. Ron Freake of Tularosa and the llamas belong to Cheryl McCutcheon.

Holloman's color guard and the New Mexico Military Institute rifle drill team will add to the color of the day, as will McDonald's "Grimace."

As always, the marching bands in town for the annual Marching Band Contest, will take part in the parade before competing at W.D. Horton Stadium.

Kids on decorated bikes and "cute critters" will gather between 9 and 10 a.m. in the Pinetree Square parking lot. Judges will view that category and present ribbons and savings bond prizes before the parade takes off at 10 a.m. Floats and other entries will line up along Mechem Drive beginning at 9 a.m. and the judges will view the entries between 9 and 10 a.m.

Deadline to enter the parade is September 30, and the cost is $50 for political entries and $35 for all others. It's free for kids on bikes and their "cute critters."

Float entries will be competing for a top prize of $250, second place of $200 and a third place $100, with a special large ribbon (no cash) for the most original.

Line up along Sudderth before 10 a.m. to watch Ruidoso's own "Circus on Parade."

Marching Band Contest

Seventy-six trombones, or thereabouts, will go marching straight from the Aspenfest parade to the Marching Band Contest at W.D. Horton Stadium.

Dick Valenzuela, band director at Capitan High School, has again pulled together a group of energetic high school bands to liven up the parade and then strut their stuff at the annual marching contest.

After the parade, the bands will be served lunch at the football stadium, take a quick break and then take to the field for some high-stepping.

Judges for the marching contest are Phillip Presslar from Lordsburg, Win Christian from Albuquerque and Ken Jordan from Roswell. They bring many years of combined knowledge to their job of rating these high school musical groups.

The competition should begin right around 1 p.m. at Horton Stadium. Stop by and see some good marching to some rousing tunes.

Street Festival

Aspenfest's street festival is fun for the whole family.

"Kids are so important that day — everybody makes it a family day," said Aspenfest chairperson Judy Wicker.

After the parade at 10 a.m. Saturday, the whole family can enjoy music, stomping, clogging, dancing, games, arts and crafts and chili from one end of Midtown to the other.

The plan is to have exciting things from one end of town to the other, and that plan is working. The response is great from groups and entertainers, including Nancy Shaver and her dancers.

Wicker said a lot of entertainment will be in The Gazebo shopping center parking lot right across the street from the Arts and Crafts Fair on Sudderth.

Stroll down Sudderth during Aspenfest — there's just no telling what you may find.

Chili Cookoff

"We're cooking up gallons of chili to be sure everybody gets a taste," says Ruidoso's own chili expert, Paul Crown.

The Tenth Annual New Mexico State Open Chili Cookoff will be for two days this year, Saturday, October 5, and Sunday, October 6, at Tall Pines RV Park on Sudderth Drive in Ruidoso.

Budweiser and Ruidoso State Bank join the Ruidoso Chili Society in sponsoring the annual cookoff that draws cooks from Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.

Gates open at 10 a.m. Saturday, with the show teams to perform at 1:30 p.m. and the fun continuing until 6 p.m. On Sunday the chili cookoff will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Admission is $2 on Saturday and free on Sunday.

Tex Scofield, the "mouth of the chili world" will be master of ceremonies as chili cooks and chili eaters get into the act and ham it up during the showmanship competition.

"You'll see everything from dancing bottlecaps to transmission chili," said Crown.

Lone Star Express will provide musical entertainment throughout the day.

Visitors to the chili cookoff will get a chance to sample the chili and can expect plenty of fun and excitement in the games and events scheduled throughout the day. Try your hand at the tortilla toss or the egg toss.

Plenty of cooks always show up for the New Mexico Championship, partly because the top three cooks are automatically accepted in the world championship cookoff in Terlingua, Texas.

"Actually, we have more here," said Crown.

Judges include a sportswriter from the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and a chili expert from Andrews, Texas.

Cooks can camp free Friday night at Tall Pines, and can set up camp from 6-10 p.m. Friday and from 6:30-10 a.m. Saturday.

The Cookoff officially begins at 9 a.m. Saturday when beer sales begin and cooks get together for a meeting. Cooking begins at 9:30 a.m.

Games and contests are scheduled from 1:30-3 p.m. and the chili is to be turned in for judging between 2 and 2:15 p.m.

The peoples choice chili give-away is from 2:15-3:30 p.m. and the awards are set for 4 p.m.

Cost to enter the cookoff is $20, and Crown said entries will be accepted right up until the time for the cooks' meeting on Saturday, October 6.

Trophies will be presented to the top 10 chilis, the first through third place state chili, the first through third place showmanship and the top chili in the people's choice category.

To enter, write to Ruidoso Chili Society; PO Box 280; Ruidoso 88345; or call 257-5123.

And, if you're strolling through Midtown during Aspenfest, stop by the Ninth Annual New Mexico State Open Chili Cookoff.

Arts and Crafts Fair

Artists and crafters from throughout the area will gather in Ruidoso for the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association's Sixth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 9:30 a.m. until about 5 p.m. Sunday, October 5 and 6.

About 90 artists will display and sell their wares in the 75 outdoor booths across the street from The Gazebo shopping center on Sudderth Drive. Cost to enter the Arts and Crafts Fair is still just $1, and children are admitted free with an adult.

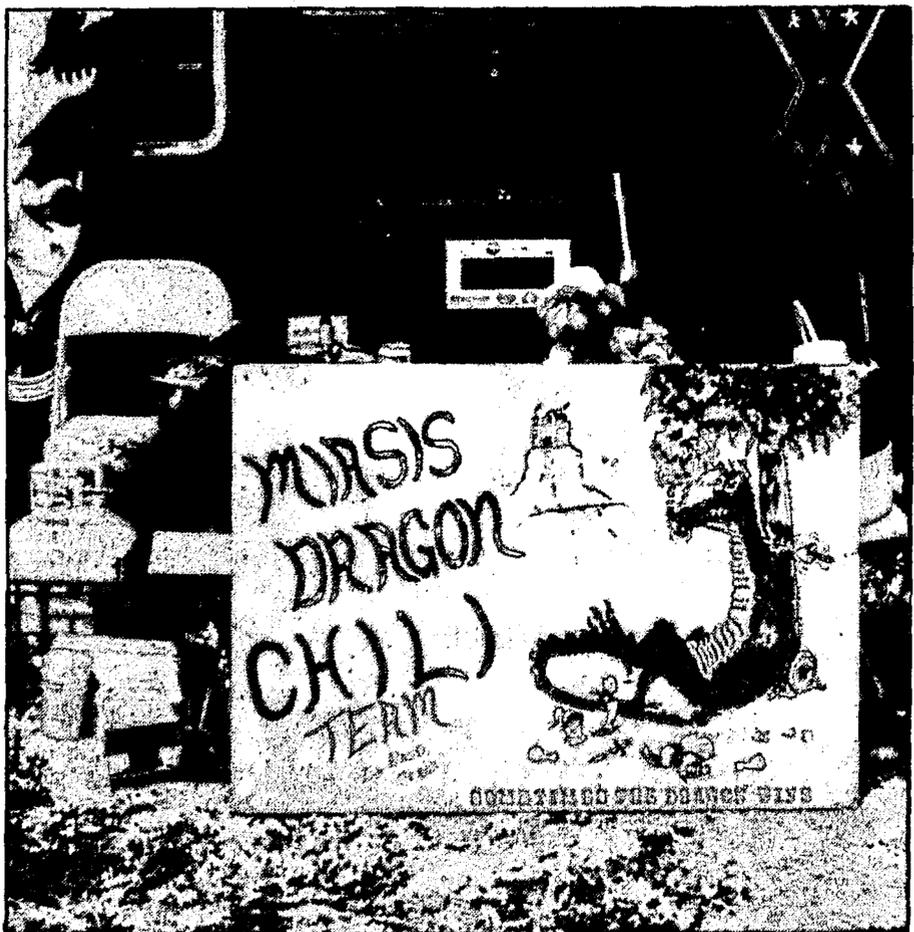

"We've never been rained out," says organizer Vicki Conley, who promises the sun will again shine on the successful and fun family fair.

And to add to the fun, Mike Gieb will be presenting his puppet shows free during the Arts and Crafts Fair.

Food booths will also be located in the fair area, with burritos by the Knights of Columbus; fajitas by the Ruidoso ski team; and hamburgers and soft drinks by the gymnastics booster club.

Money raised during the Arts and Crafts Fair goes into the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association building fund. The group is raising money to build a gym.

Street Dance

Cochera is joining in the Aspenfest fun this year by sponsoring the '91 Street Dance on Friday, October 4, in the restaurant parking lot.

Just head out Mechem Drive after dark until you hear the music provided by Power Glide, a group that plays everything from soft rock to country pop.

Entertainment will also be provided by cowboy entertainers dropping by from the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium.

Sample the "Cochera Team's" Chili Cookoff recipe or eat your fill of burritos, tacos and chili relleños outside under the stars. Popcorn and candy will also be available for sale, or take a break from the dancing and dine inside Cochera's dining room.

Join in the fun — the dance is free.

Flying J Wranglers Concert

The Flying J Wranglers, with special guests Don Edwards and cowboy poet Waddie Mitchell, will present a special western show at the Flying J Ranch during Aspenfest weekend, which just happens to be right in the middle of the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium.

James Hobbs of the Wranglers said this will be a brand new, special show, one that even the most dedicated Flying J fan hasn't seen before.

But, tickets are going fast (already half gone at press time), so go ahead and call 336-4330 to reserve your tickets right now. Tickets are $16 for adults and $10 for children 11 and under.

You can expect the usual fare — that's the best barbecue this side of Heaven served up the cowboy way on a tin plate with beans, potatoes, apple sauce, spice cake and, of course, plenty of homemade biscuits.

The Flying J Wranglers will be appearing during Cowboy Symposium activities at the Super Select Sale Barn in Glencoe, but they'll find time to cook up their usual great tasting chuckwagon grub with the dinner bell scheduled to ring promptly at 6 p.m.

James and Cindy Hobbs, owners of the Flying J Ranch, and the Wranglers appear six nights a week through the summer season. Other members of the Wranglers are C.H. "Red" Gilliam, a former Light Crust Dough Boy and Jimmy Wakely Trio member; Greg Carey of Ruidoso and Bart Trotter, a champion fiddler.

This Aspenfest/Cowboy Symposium appearance is a bonus, giving the Wranglers' many fans one more chance to hear the talented group perform this year. The Flying J Wranglers made national news when they were invited to take part in the Bloomingdale's New Mexico promotion in New York City.

Cindy Hobbs won the 1990 Grand National Western Yodeling Championship at the Western Music Festival in Tucson.

Don Edwards, America's Cowboy Troubadour, will join the Wranglers on stage for the show. He's a songster, guitarist, composer and one of the most respected and influential performers and musicologists in the genres of western and traditional cowboy music.

Waddie Mitchell looks so much like a cowboy poet that he must have just decided to be one — he is, and he's one of the best.

He'll have a few words to say during the Flying J Wranglers program on October 5.

Also appearing that evening are local poets John Underwood and Judy Coombs. It's going to be a night to remember.

Tickets (if any are left) will be available at the Cowboy Symposium, and for this show, they must be prepaid with reservations. For information, call 336-4330.

White Mountain Challenge Cup

Even the hardest of bicycle enthusiasts will be challenged by the White Mountain Challenge Cup course.

The Seventh Annual Challenge Cup, on Saturday, October 5, during Aspenfest, begins at the Eagle Creek Sports Complex and climbs up the winding Ski Run Road to Ski Apache at an altitude of more than 12,000 feet.

"Some people just enter to take the challenge; that's what I want to encourage," says race organizer Galen Farrington, coach of the Ruidoso High School racing team — the Alpine Shifters.

The race, open to citizen racers as well as members of the United States Cycling Federation (USCF), begins at 8 a.m. Saturday. Farrington says some racers make it to Ski Apache and are back in time to see the Aspenfest parade before it breaks up at Paradise Canyon Drive.

USCF racers have been notified of the race, which benefits the Alpine Shifters, and their entry forms are coming in now. But registration will continue from 5-7 p.m. Friday, October 4, at Century 21 Aspen Real Estate on Mechem Drive.

Racers will compete by classification and age, with citizen and USCF licensed cyclists winning medals for first, second and third in each class. Farrington says the race is usually comprised of about half USCF and half citizen racers.

Cost to enter is $10 for citizen racers, and the first 100 entrants will receive commemorative water bottles.

Entry forms are available at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. For more information, contact Farrington at 258-5355; or just show up at Century 21 on Friday, October 4, to register.

Take the challenge — the White Mountain Challenge.

Run to Ruidoso: October 5

Customized classic automobiles, hot rods and other examples of the era when the car was king will be rolling into Ruidoso for Aspenfest.

Street rodders from at least half a dozen states will join in the Run to Ruidoso Saturday, October 5, in School House Park.

The snazzy, pampered cars will be on display all day Saturday at School House Park near the Public Library.

Judges, street rodders themselves, will scrutinize these meticulously assembled cars and present awards for the cleanest undercarriage, the best mild paint or the best wild paint, the best flames, the chromiest motor, the best interior and even a hard luck award. Winners will be presented with handmade trophies designed and crafted by fellow rodders.

"It's not really a car show," explained organizer Robert Acosta. The categories are picked by fellow rodders and presented individually.

Mainly the family oriented event, is a chance for car buffs to show off their handiwork and visit with fellow rodders and their families.

Run to Ruidoso is supported in part by the Early Times Street Rod Association of El Paso, Texas, and the Southern New Mexico Street Rod Association of Las Cruces, is an annual event, and this year will draw more than 250 cars.

Both regional rod clubs are a part of the parent organization, National Street Rod Association.

Some of these "expensive toys" will take part in the Aspenfest parade, but don't miss a chance to visit the display that will take over School House Park from one end to the other.

Besides plenty of great looking cars, there will be T-shirts for sale and refreshment stands in the park.

Most of the rodders will roll in on Friday, in plenty of time for their '50s and '60s dance at Prime Time.

The contact for more information on the Run to Ruidoso or if you are interested in participating is Robert Acosta. He can be reached at 382-1526.

Oktoberfest

Willkommen (welcome) to the sixth annual Oktoberfest in Ruidoso on Friday, October 18 and Saturday, October 19.

Bring the whole family and join in the festivities of two days of authentic German dancing, food, beer, crafts and music. In addition, there will be an Oktoberfest Carnival featuring rides for the entire family.

The location for this year's event will be at The Barn on Highway 70 one mile west of the Y intersection in Ruidoso.

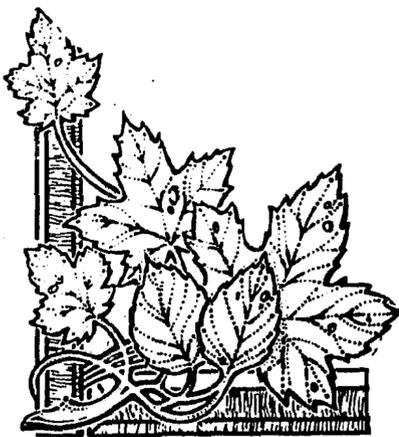

The hours will be from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Friday and from noon to 1 a.m. on Saturday. Admission prices are $3 per day or $5 for both days. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

New this year will be the First Annual Oktoberfest Golf Classic at the Links At Sierra Blanca on Saturday, October 19.

Pack your clubs for an engaging golf competition as the Links will present a four-man scramble. Tee time will be at 7:30 a.m.

An entry fee of $50 will include greens fee, cart for two people, gift certificates, prize money and admission to the Oktoberfest for both days.

For more information on the Ruidoso Oktoberfest call (505) 257-7395 or (800) 253-2255.

Sports Theater

The Ruidoso Downs Sports Theater, which features simulcasts of horse racing from across the nation, begins coverage of Sunland Park's 111-day meeting starting Oct. 12.

Of course, the Sports Theater is open every racing day through the end of the State Fair meeting from Albuquerque, which runs through October 6.

Sunland Park will operate this season on a four-day per week basis with simulcast wagering available at the Sports Theater on Wednesdays, and Fridays through Sundays.

Featured on the Sports Theater's fall simulcast schedule is the Nov. 2 Breeders' Cup races from Churchill Downs, which this year will include a nationwide Pick 7 wagering pool.

The Breeders' Cup races include the Juvenile, the Juvenile Fillies, the Mile, the Sprint, and the Distaff — all $1 million races — the $2 million Turf, and the $3 million Classic.

The nationwide Pick 7 pool — the first of its kind — offers racing fans a shot at possibly the biggest payoff in the history of the sport.

In the event that several longshots light the toteboard on Breeders' Cup day, the payoff could approach — or even surpass — seven figures.

The Pick 7 payoff is arrived at with 75 percent of the money paid to holders of tickets with all seven winners, and 25 percent of the total pool paid as a consolation to tickets holders with the most winners, but less than seven.

In the event that no ticket correctly selects all seven winners, the entire pool will be distributed to ticket holders correctly selecting the most winners.

The Sports Theater will also simulcast the 1992 Kentucky Derby on May 2 and a wide variety of races from the Southern California circuit, as well as most of the major stepping stone races on the road to the Kentucky Derby.

Ruidoso Little Theatre production

Ruidoso Little Theatre is getting into the act for Aspenfest, presenting a murder mystery that will keep you on the edge of your seat — and that seat just might be in the jury box.

When "Night of January 16" takes to the stage at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, September 26-28, October 3-5, and October 10-12, and at 2 p.m. Saturday, October 5, a jury of 12 will be selected from the audience to sit in the case of the State vs. Karen Andre, played by Tracey Moran.

Karen Andre has been arrested for murder — that's according to a news release provided by Ruidoso Little Theatre.

Carl Mori, director of RLT's upcoming production of Ayn Rand's "Night of January 16," is looking for 12 good folks to decide the fate of the accused.

Members of the audience will have a chance to sit on a jury and hear evidence in the murder trial with Andre accused of killing Bjorn Faulkner.

"Night of January 16" will be presented at Cree Meadows Country Club, where guests may come early and have dinner before the production.

For dinner and theater reservations, call 257-9186.

Third Annual Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War

When a bunch of barbecue buffs declare war, it's not a pretty sight — but it can be a lot of fun!

The third annual Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War, the last Saturday in October, tops off a month of Aspenfest activities this year.

Barbecuers will again vie for the title of the Best Bar-B-Q Cook West of the Pecos on Saturday, October 26. This year's cookoff will be almost in the heart of Ruidoso — at Tall Pines RV Park on Sudderth Drive.

Cooks will be checking in on Friday, but the fun really begins on Saturday when cooking teams start their fires and start preparing barbecued briskets and beans. Trophies will be given for brisket, beans, show, pit and the best of show.

Besides barbecue cooking, the Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War will include live western music, the 3rd annual K-BUY horseshoe pitching tournament, games, food and dancing all day Saturday.

Texas Cafe sponsors the war, and organizer Chuck Reynolds promises that this year's big competition will be just as much fun as the last two years.

To enter, or for more information on the Lincoln County Bar-B-Q War, call Reynolds at 257-9630.
