Fire guts Clutter Shop

Clutter's Pet Shop, a well-known business establishment in downtown Ruidoso suffered severe fire and smoke damage last Tuesday. Shortly after noon, three fire engines and 18 firefighters were called to the pet shop at 616 Sudderth Drive according to assistant fire chief Barry Cole. Cole said when the units arrived, the building appeared consumed in smoke, but no flames were visible.

When smoke began pouring from the Clutter Shop on Sudderth Drive, passersby stopped to pitch in and try to save the animals that were endangered by the smoke that wafted from the living quarters into the pet shop that the Clutters own and operate.

Neighbors assisted the firefighters in removing dozens of pets, mostly birds from the smoke-filled rooms.

Several animals were rescued by Animal Control Officer Mark Hughs and Police Detective Lou Wardwell.

The majority of large pets were saved. A dog, several lovebirds and hamsters perished.

Persons on the scene said about 75 percent of the mice, feed stock for the snakes, died.

During the rescue, many animals and birds were given oxygen by the emergency services.

One witness said neighbors removing the parrots and macaws were lucky not to have been injured by the birds. The frightened birds were squawking. They said with a 400-pound beak pressure, a scared or angry parrot could have easily snipped off a finger.

According to a report by Fire Chief Virgil Reynolds, the fire started in the kitchen from grease. Clem Clutter, Tina Cooper and two children were inside the building at the time.

He said when the fire crew arrived, they ventilated the roof in two areas.

Several residents were overcome by the heavy smoke. One was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center and later released.

Ruidoso Police, directing traffic, blocked Sudderth for a short period of time and then allowed traffic to slowly move through in one lane.

The fire was contained within the hour. It took three hours for the firemen to clean up the damaged area. One fireman was left at the scene until 6 p.m.

Estimated cost of the damage was between $150,000-200,000 for the living area alone. There were no estimates available for the pet shop which mainly suffered smoke damage.

BODY FOUND

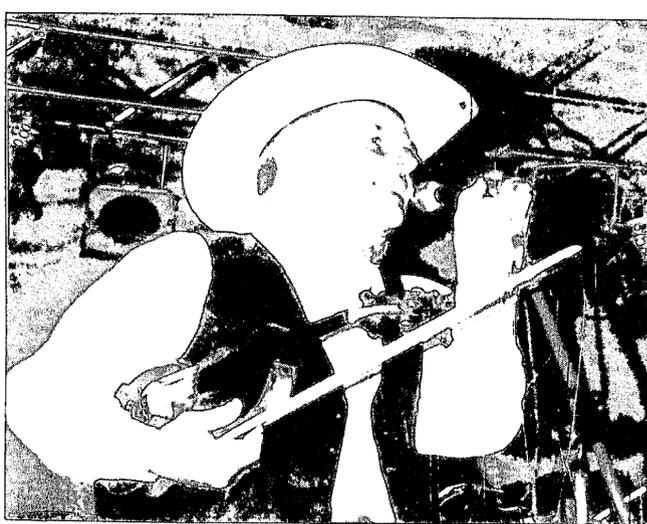

In an earlier unrelated incident, Ruidoso Police were called to a travel trailer parked on Highway 70 across from Furrs.

Upon entering the trailer, the police found the body 63-year-old Cecil Hawkins of Clovis.

Ruidoso detective Lanny Maddox of the Criminal Investigations Committee said that Hawkins had died of Estemic Heart Disease.

Volunteers help carry the frightened animals in cages from the Clutter fire.

The tops

Instrumentalist of the Year Johnny Gimble was right at home on the stage of the Second Annual Old Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium last weekend in Glencoe. The popular performer, joined by the Former Texas Playboys, played for dances on Friday and Saturday nights.

Voters decide on bonds Nov. 12

Voters will be asked by the Ruidoso School Board on November 12 to approve a $5.5-million bond issue to help relieve crowding caused by an 11 percent increase in student enrollment primarily in grades kindergarten through eighth.

About $3-million from the proceeds of two bond sales would be used to build a new school for first and second grades.

Another $1.2-million, six-classroom addition would give breathing space at White Mountain.

A district maintenance yard would be built for $180,000 and $350,000 would be used to improve the central administration complex.

About $500,000 is earmarked for new school computer, science and vocational equipment and $270,000 for remodeling projects.

Councilors clamp down on Humane Society fundraising

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Torn between benevolence and strong arm tactics, Ruidoso Village Councilors discussed methods to force the Humane Society of Lincoln County to open its financial books at the same time they agreed to provide insurance and in-kind services.

The mayor, at Tuesday's workshop meeting, indicated the Humane Society might have to reveal all its financial resources if it wants to get its budget approved next year.

The active workshop discussion opened with village manager Ron Wicker pushing heavily for approval of the revised Humane Society contract that would provide liability insurance coverage under the village.

Earlier in the year, village attorney David Thomsen had attempted to place that burden on the Humane Society. Wicker, however, initiated a re-examination of the village's insurance policy and it was determined that the Village could put the Humane Society under its insurance umbrella at no additional cost.

The Village also insists the Humane Society buy Workman's Compensation insurance, even though the federal law does not require Workman's Comp until a company has five employees.

Wicker agrees that Workman's Comp is necessary for the Humane Society because of the propensity for animal bites and accidents.

In a memo to the mayor and council Wicker wrote, "If council desires to pay workman's compensation coverage, it will be an estimated $2,000 per year and the motion to approve this contract would have to include that revision."

Wicker said he was not sure of the Humane Society's income.

That appeared to cause an old, but still festering, wound to surface.

Councilor Barbara Duff said the society benefits from charity sales and donations.

"That's why they don't want us in their books," village attorney David Thomsen said.

At first the mayor was philosophical about the cost.

"Capitan pays the county $5,000 a year for animal control. And we're five times bigger and on a seasonal basis we're many times bigger."

The mayor said proportionately the village was getting a good deal.

Councilor Ron Andrews, as he has before, reminded the council of the Humane Society's closed door policy to the council.

"The only problem I have, I have repeatedly asked what their total revenue sources are," Andrews said.

Andrews said they blatantly denied giving access to their records.

"I've never seen anything on the revenue generated by the puppet show," Andrews said. Andrews has mentioned the puppet show on several occasions as a point of irritation.

Wicker seemed to defend the position of the Humane Society.

"David (Thomsen) made a comment when this was brought up before that it would be like any other agency we contract with, saying we want to know where all other revenues come from. We may not ask that question of anyone else," Wicker said.

Wicker said the contract for services was based only on what they're doing for the city.

"If people want to ask for additional funds, I think it's a fair question to ask, how much are you taking in," Andrews said. "They continue to show they're losing X-thousand dollars a month, and we know that. They'll put down things like the cost of spaying and I'll get a newsletter from the Humane Society thanking doctor so and so for donating his entire time that month. I'm sorry, I don't like the way that looks."

Contacted at the shelter Wednesday, director Randy Basch said each vet in the village offers to do one free spaying or neutering every month on a space available basis.

Basch said Dr. Lynn Willard, who is on the Humane Society's advisory board, is periodically called for emergencies, and that he has donated his service for that emergency.

According to Ruidoso meteorologist Bill Hostetter, the weather for today will be sunny and mild. Tonight will be clear and cool, Friday is expected to be fair and mild. Precipitation probabilities are 0 percent today, 0 percent tonight and 0 percent Friday. Precipitation totals: year to date, 10.58, minus 0.85 of an inch; month to date: 0.05, minus 0.40 of an inch.

The outlook for Saturday through Monday: fair to partly cloudy Saturday and Sunday. Night chances for showers, Monday. Temperatures will be a little above the average low of 30 degrees and high of 60, partly cloudy and considerably colder Saturday. Warmer Sunday afternoon and Monday. Temperatures are expected to fall below the average minimum of 34 and high of 70.

From The Almanac: Ruidoso's October precipitation has been below normal each year since 1986, averaging only 0.22 of an inch.

Chief reassures council of school/police policies in the wake of murder in Roswell

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The recent Roswell student murder prompted a question and answer session Tuesday by Ruidoso Chief of Police Richard Swenor and the council in the Village chambers.

A perplexing water pollution resolution and an impassioned plea for more stringent animal owner responsibilities also were two of the more serious issues discussed.

Swenor briefed the crowd on the Roswell murder in which a person posing as a police officer flashed an imitation badge. Swenor said the person posing as an officer was neither challenged nor properly identified and was allowed to take a 17-year-old student off the school grounds. That student was then murdered, he said.

"I can assure you, that for years we've had a long standing agreement with the school that I reconfirmed with the superintendent the day Mr. Wicker (Village Manager Ron Wicker) talked to me.

"We have internal procedures with the school and the police department for any contact we have with students. "Anybody else that comes in the school that is not personally known to the principal's office, they contact us."

Mayor Victor Alonso asked under what circumstances would the school allow a child to be pulled out of school by an officer.

Swenor said an identifiable police officer would usually serve a juvenile arrest warrant and the parents would also be notified.

Swenor said specific officers are assigned to the school, they're well known and they always go to the principal's office.

Swenor said even though a parent may have the same surname, they may not always have custody of that child and the school will call the police department in that case.

"I can assure the council and the community from our standpoint and the superintendent and principals of the schools, we have very stringent security requirements and we do maintain them," Swenor said.

ENVIRONMENTAL AUDIT
The village council was asked to review an environmental audit submitted by the Environmental Protection Agency. The highly technical audit was understood by no one in the room except the EPA representative present, Wicker and deputy Manager Gary Jackson.

Mayor Alonso honestly admitted it was beyond his comprehension. He said the village is borrowing $1.2-million and if the audit satisfies village manager Wicker, he was satisfied.

Wicker said the requirement for the council was to read the document, not to understand the document.

All the councilors appeared relieved. Wicker said the information presented required more than a layman's knowledge.

Wicker said the EPA wanted to stress the seriousness of the audit and the necessity of compliance.

"They just want the council to officially take a position that you do understand the seriousness of this."

The council unanimously moved to approve the resolution.

Nob Hill building needs a breath of fresh air

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Preliminary tests have revealed levels of radon gas in Nob Hill School higher than recommended by the Environmental Protection Agency.

But School Superintendent Mike Gladden emphasized during the Ruidoso School Board meeting Tuesday there is no cause for alarm. Additional and long-term tests are needed to confirm those readings before any significant remedial action would be required, he said.

Results of a test performed in May and June at Nob Hill resulted in readings as high as 7.70 in one classroom. Out of 26 charcoal canisters placed in various sites at the school, 12 registered concentrations above 4 picocuries per liter (pCi/L) of air. Radon is a radioactive gas that is emitted from the ground during the disintegration of radium.

For readings between 4-20 pCi/L, the EPA recommends nine to 12-month confirmatory measurements if the school is not used year-around. If the levels are confirmed, remedial action should occur within several months.

Ron Mitchell, environmental scientist with the New Mexico Environment Department, said he would like to test every school in the Ruidoso system since significant readings have been registered at Nob Hill. But he added, "Those levels are not cause for immediate concern."

"Most radon is found in mountainous areas, but not exclusively," Mitchell said. "Our expectations of finding higher levels in Santa Fe and Taos areas seem to have proven out, and in the south-central mountains around Ruidoso, but we've also found some high levels on the Eastern plains where we didn't expect it."

Mitchell used an EPA risk chart to characterize the risk to students and teachers at Nob Hill, should the initial readings be verified. The chart compares a reading of 4 pCi/L as being equal to smoking a quarter of a pack of cigarettes a day.

"But that is based on lifetime exposure for up to 16-18 hours a day," Mitchell said. "So obviously, it's not realistic for a school. It's more of a concern in a home for those kinds of levels."

"Those levels are not cause for immediate concern.... They can do something as simple as crack a window."

"On the other hand, we think kids are at higher risk because they are kids. They are developing and breathe deeper because they are more active than adults."

The rooms that tested the highest were occupied last year by teachers Sarah Garrett and Greta Cabot, according to the chart listing results.

Gladden told the board, "Most of the rooms where levels were higher are on the front side of the buildings. The portable registered very low."

He said higher readings also tend to be prevalent in basements and ground level floors where the gas seeps in from cracks and joints. Structures built off the ground tend to have lower readings.

While waiting for the new tests and their results, school officials can take some steps to mitigate any effects from radon, Mitchell said.

"They can do something as simple as crack a window," Mitchell said. "It may lead to higher heating bills, but it could reduce the radon rate in some areas, though not dramatically."

A more effective approach could be to improve the fresh air intake of the school, if it is centrally heated.

"That could be something the maintenance people can tweak," he said. "If they are essentially recirculating inside air, they also would be getting a build up of carbon dioxide and dust particles. If the kids are falling asleep in the afternoon, it might be they just aren't getting enough fresh air through the system."

Since being notified of the test results by the state Monday, Gladden told the school board, "I've done a lot of reading about radon."

One hundred percent of the schools in the nation have some radon reading, he said.

Last spring, the district volunteered to allow the environment department to place canisters in specific areas of the school for two days each. After reviewing those results, the state felt Nob Hill needed further testing and a longer reading was obtained from May 3-June 23.

"On September 1, we received a letter that (Nob Hill Principal Roger Sowder) and I both read and decided to wait for the next move by the state."

"We received a letter Friday telling about some of the things the state is doing to try to create an awareness."

At 5 p.m. Monday, a state environment official called to tell Gladden the media had been given a list of schools with potentially high radon readings.

"My response was that I didn't think it was proper without first telling the districts and without providing the information and training on what to do," Gladden said.

Within hours, he was contacted by two television stations that said they planned to broadcast the information, Gladden said.

He has been meeting with teachers at the school to explain the situation and hopes to "quell alarm," Gladden said. "I went to Nob Hill to talk to the faculty this afternoon and I hope they understood that we're at the lower end of the scale."

Mitchell will be in town October 21 to meet with school principals and the director of maintenance.

Similar tests also were performed in Hondo and Capitan schools. Hondo Superintendent Sergio Castañon said his school received readings all under the cutoff level.

But the readings were mixed at Capitan.

"We had zero readings to seven," said Capitan Superintendent David Lock. "One of our highest was right next to one of the lowest."

"I haven't been able to get in touch with (Mitchell) so I don't know what the next step will be."

PIT BULL TALK MOVED

Before the council postponed until October 29 a discussion of an ordinance that would set penalties for dogs suspected or proven to be vicious, Ruidoso resident Barbara Westbrook outlined measures she wants the council to consider.

Among those considerations were:

—That owners of pit bulls should be required to register those animals with the village and to take extra security measures for containment. If owners refuse to comply, the board should consider a ban on pit bulls.

—That owners of female dogs in heat should be required to confine those animals inside. If they fail to comply, a stiff fine as high as $1,000, should be imposed.

Westbrook spoke before the council because of a pit bull attack that killed her son's Doberman pincher pet.

CHRISTMAS PALETTES

Westbrook, as chairman of the Ruidoso Arts and Film Commission, said the Christmas Palette Program is ready to implement.

Giant artist palettes displaying different artist's impressions of Christmas will be fixed on light poles designated by Texas-New Mexico Power Company.

Westbrook said the artists will paint the decorations without charge. She said the commission will start with 12-13 palettes the first year with the hope the unique paintings will become a Ruidoso Christmas tradition.

Councilor Barbara Duff offered to make a donation. "Mr. Mayor, I would like to make a personal donation of $130 for the palette materials if the city will take care of the brackets," Duff said.

"That's $130 plus tax," Councilor J.D. James told Duff, and the council room roared.

The village will supply the brackets to affix the palettes to the wood light poles.

Westbrook said these decorations would not fray, tear or wear out.

Councilor James said he attended the Main Street meeting in which the Arts Commission submitted their plan and the comments he heard were all of a positive nature.

Area artists that would like to participate in the Ruidoso Palette Program can contact Westbrook at 257-9518.

Westbrook said a first, second and third place cash prize would be offered if funds were available. Otherwise, ribbons would be presented for the first year.

In other action, the council:

—Called for a public hearing on October 29 to approve a Wastewater Improvement Loan Ordinance.

—Approved a revised contract between the Humane Society of Lincoln County and the village to provide liability umbrella coverage for their operation.

Councilor Ron Andrews moved that any in-kind services such as moving buildings or cleaning up the area should have village council approval of the village manager's decision as to what kind of in-kind services should be provided to the Humane Society.

Councilor Barbara Duff seconded the motion. Councilor James thought the council was delving into business that should be left to the village manager.

"It looks to me like items of that type should not come before the council for approval when the village manager can use his own discretion doing in-kind work."

"We hired a man who's a professional. If he feels like he can help a department or the Humane Society by moving a building, why should he come before the council and get approval? I just don't understand it."

—Approved a request for approval of amended budget for the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority Recycling Fund to $92,688.

Kerry Krumsiek, recycling director, noted several equipment changes. He said a used forklift of 4,000-pound capacity serves the plant's needs and allows him to purchase a crusher which has a magnetic sorter built in, with the ability to crush both glass and cans.

He said a bigger baler will process cardboard and newspaper to mill specifications as well as aluminum and plastics.

He said the bander is needed for newspaper, and to reinforce boxes for glass.

Green said the maintenance portion of the budget was over estimated. He asked to add budget items for subscriptions to recycling trade journals, monthly telephone costs and travel to area schools and meetings as well as rent.

—An ordinance relating to group insurance and compensation was tabled because it didn't focus on Councilor Bill Karn's original intent, to keep taxpayers from playing for any family members of the council.

—Approved a zone map amendment for a 9-acre tract known as the KOR Campground. The applicant was the Ruidoso State Bank.

Councilors

Basch said citizens also provide spaying fees and are acknowledged for that donation in the paper.

The director said that when an adoption is made, $47.50 is collected. Of that amount, $35 goes back to the vet for neutering, $7.50 for rabies shots and $5 for a city license. The shelter uses the $5 for operations.

The village attorney agreed with Councilor Andrews.

"I think Ron has a valid point, they are asking for public funds because of their hardship to perform services for us. They say they can't perform the services if we don't compensate them in this dollar amount, we have a right to at least condition the increased amount (no open books, no raise) on the proof of their hardship," Thomsen said.

Andrews continued with his concerns.

"The biggest question I've had is they have borrowed the money to build a building and that note has been paid for. Where's that money going?"

Basch said the Humane Society just built concrete runs to replace the asphalt runs that couldn't be effectively disinfected. He said those runs cost about $8,000.

He said that the council and mayor have not seen the runs. He said to his knowledge the council and mayor have never toured the shelter, although village manager Wicker has toured the facility.

"We are constantly improving conditions for the animals," Basch said. "We just built a cattery. The money that comes in is constantly going back out to benefit the animals."

"We play it close to the line financially. In the four years I've been here, there has never been a complaint about the service we have provided for the village and citizens."

Basch said the shelter warrants a raise.

"Our biggest goal is to expand our educational program. We want to get into schools and influence students before they become pet owners. And we want to teach grade school children methods to avoid injury when dealing with pets."

"We will account for every penny the village gives to us," Basch said.

Andrews inferred the Humane Society had enough money.

"They had the money for the note payment on a timely basis," Andrews said.

"That came from their thrift shop, fundraisers and donations," Duff said. "We have no record of it."

"If they're losing money, then they were really losing money while they were making payments," Andrews said.

Wicker attempted to explain the value of the Humane Society to the board.

"I don't know if their financial position is good, bad or what," said Wicker. "But if they were to suddenly hand it over to us, and that is a possibility, we would have 60 days to go into the business. There's no doubt it would cost us a great deal more than $24,000," Wicker said.

A past service cost the village nearly $50,000.

"On the comp, if we buy it directly it would cost less than if we had them buy it," Thomsen said.

"Isn't that co-mingling funds?" Alonso said.

Thomsen explained that it was part of the agreement.

"It's compensation to them," he said. "And the proposed agreement just says as additional compensation we'll do this. If you take that out..."

Andrews questioned Wicker about his memo.

"With your recommendation, it seems like you were thinking in terms of adjusting next year's contract," Andrews said. "Not this year's."

Wicker said it was his understanding that the $2,000 per month had already been approved.

"The fact that we could provide liability insurance at no additional cost to us, but would save them $500-600 dollars a year, should be brought into the contract," Wicker said. Anything else would be strictly up to council."

Alonso agreed to providing the liability insurance benefit.

"If it's going to provide something that's going to save them money and not cost us any, I don't see a problem," Alonso said.

Wicker said he told the Humane Society that he would provide them with in-kind services when the village could to help save them money without costing the village any additional funds.

"We're going through budget adjustments periodically," Wicker said. "Pretty soon we're going to have to stop that, if we're going to stay on course."

Andrews expressed his chief concern was any increase in the budget, such as the $2,000 for workman's comp.

"I don't have a problem with liability insurance or in-kind service," said Andrews. He was concerned about the dollar adjustment.

"We can talk about the dollar adjustment figures next budget year," Alonso said. "To give them a chance to think, at least, about whether or not they want to provide us with all their sources of income a second time."

"If they want more money, maybe it's time they reconsidered their stand and open their books," Alonso said.

Delay in bonding may save Solid Waste Authority money

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A lawsuit in Valencia County that brought a proposed $1.4-million bond sale to a screeching halt last August may be the best thing to ever happen to the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, member Al Junge said Wednesday.

The authority could end up instead receiving a loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) at a far lower rate of interest for repayment.

Available grants could further reduce the amount of the debt, Authority Director Gene Green told the authority board.

The proceeds from the bonds were to be used to purchase garbage collection equipment now owned by each of the members of the coalition of municipalities and the county.

With plans to take over the collection of garbage countywide now on hold, the only programs operated by the authority now are a compost project and a recycling center.

Green said he has sent a preapplication to the FmHA with copies to the State Department of Finance and Administration and to the Southeast Economic Development District. Those last two agencies must review the preapplication and send their remarks to the FmHA.

"When they do, the FmHA has 45 days to respond to the preapplication," Green said. "If it's favorable, the next step is a regular application."

Authority attorney J. Robert Beauvais said a loan from the FmHA would amount to a bond repayment guarantee. The County Commission would have to pass an ordinance to participate in the project and after 30 days, if there were no objections, the authority could move forward. The alternatives would be to wait for the outcome of the lawsuit, which challenges the legal right of counties to issue revenue bonds, or to push the State Legislature to create the authority for counties to issue the bonds.

"A FmHA loan would put the authority in a lot better condition for operation, a better cash position," said Authority Vice Chairman Frank Warth, mayor of Capitan.

The court action "made us go out and look (for other avenues of financing), but it's still the same program," Beauvais said. "It's just underwritten by the federal government so it's not a problem of the county's ability to participate."

Within 90 days, authority members should know where the organization stands with the FmHA, Green said.

"You're looking at 150 days with the legislature," said Chairman Victor Alonso, mayor of Ruidoso.

GRANT APPLICATION

In another matter, the authority approved a resolution declaring its intention to participate with the city of Roswell in a request for $300,000 to study specific potential landfill sites in southeast New Mexico.

But the authority's participation is on the condition that information from a landfill site study already completed for the authority be incorporated and not duplicated.

The authority also wants part of the focus to be sites on the Ruidoso side of the mountain range that separates Lincoln County from Roswell.

The Environment Department has $750,000 available under the Solid Waste Facility Grant Fund, Green said. The deadline for applications is November 20.

Green said other possible grant projects for the authority could include the purchase of the property where the authority is headquartered in Ruidoso Downs.

Projects with a regional basis are ranked higher by the department, Green said. And the state considers the authority a regional agency even though it only covers one county, he said.

ALONSO CRITICIZES

At the end of the meeting, Junge began to review how he discovered that the dumpster repair program of Ruidoso failed to cover even a third of the units needing repair.

Alonso chided him for talking about the problem to the newspaper before discussing it with the authority board. An article about Junge's study appeared in the September 23 edition of The Ruidoso News.

Dumpsters, owned by Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, are to be purchased by the authority once it secures the $1.4-million.

Junge had expressed concern that the authority would be inheriting too many units in poor repair. In a letter September 6 to Ruidoso village manager Ron Wicker, he outlined what he found and urged Ruidoso, which owns most of the units, to make a better effort at repair.

When he failed to receive an official response from the village, Junge detailed his concerns after being contacted by The Ruidoso News.

The authority was not scheduled to meet during the month of September.

"Since I compiled my report, no dumpsters have been delivered (to the company that had been repairing them)," Junge said. And repairs onsite have been woefully inadequate, he contended.

"My personal opinion is that you did this in reverse order," Alonso said, by talking to the newspaper.

No one in the government was showing any interest, Junge responded. "I don't like delays," he said. He addressed Ruidoso dumpsters because he initially was looking at the repair contract there.

Alonso asked Ruidoso Downs Mayor Bonnie Addy if she would be willing to have the condition of her village's dumpsters scrutinized.

"We have no repair agreement," Addy said. "We have continued to repair our equipment (to be purchased by the authority) to keep it in working condition. We just spent $3,500 on our truck because when the authority purchases it, it was to be a workable piece of equipment."

Alonso said he is satisfied with Wicker's reply that units will continue to be repaired, but the work will be done onsite.

Sports

RHS Warriors kick off district play in Deming

The Ruidoso Warriors will be on the road Friday to face their worst enemy, the Deming Wildcats.

Deming, the favorite team to hate in the district, is ranked the second best team in strength for the district. Onate is a solid number one.

Warrior head coach Mike Speck has his toughest district play up front. For the next three weeks the Warriors face their toughest opponents, Deming, Onate and Silver. Speck said Deming has returning starters from a very strong team last year.

"Right now they are five wins and one loss," said Speck.

Deming's loss came to AAAA Los Lunas in a close tilt 19-13.

Their victories have been against Belen, El Paso Cathedral, Fabens, Texas, and Clint, Texas.

Speck said Deming is a senior oriented team. They don't have any sophomores on the varsity.

Deming runs three different types of offenses. The Wing T like Ruidoso, the option out of the 'I' formation, and they also run the run and shoot.

Defensively, Speck said they run a 50 defense, similar to the Goddard Rockets. In fact, Deming's noseguard weighs 290 pounds, the largest noseguard the Warriors have faced to date.

Speck said it will be a very pivotal game for the Warriors, not just because of the district race, but it also will tell the tale of how well that tough predistrict schedule prepared the Warriors for district play.

"I think it's going to be one of those tough games that will be determined by breaks and turnovers," Speck said.

"Last year two big plays won the Deming game for the Warriors. I don't see that's it's going to be much different this year."

On paper, Speck admits Deming looks better.

"When you measure the size of the kid's heart, that's really the equalizer," he said.

Speck said although some students have been sick this week, the Warriors have had a particularly good practice, with great anticipation in looking forward to Friday's game.

Shane Eidson, Richard Kuppy, Craig Turner and coach Lynn Weiland have all been ill. The students have the flu; Weiland has pneumonia.

Speck said there would be no changes in the offense or defense as far as personnel for the game.

"We are going into the game with a very balanced plan to keep the Wildcats off guard," he said.

"Defensively, we will keep the same strategy and hope that we will be able to shut down some of those large plays that hurt us in past games," Speck said.

Speck seemed happy, but not totally satisfied about the decrease in errors lately.

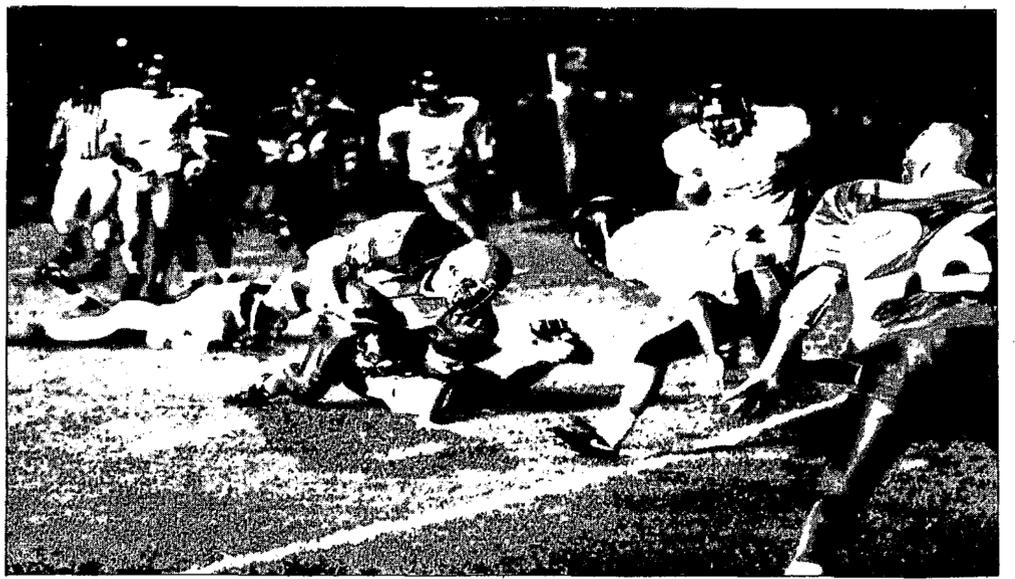

"That's what part of pre-district play is all about, getting back in the groove of good disciplined football and that means improving our skills which will cut down on penalties," he said.

"If you've noticed, the past few games we've played we had fewer penalties. We still had major penalties that hurt us in crises times, but the number of penalties have substantially decreased and this can only mean that the team is gaining in maturity."

Speck said the change in altitude coming off the mountain doesn't bother the team as much as the long drive to Deming.

He said the team will leave about 1:30 p.m., eat a pre-game late afternoon lunch in Las Cruces and then head for Deming about 5 p.m.

A bus load of 41 students will load up for the trip. A happy return ride is expected.

Warrior runners ran roughshod over the left, fans Janis Loverin (left) and Susan St. Pius Sartans last Friday, but will have Scribner, sneak a peak at the action along more of a mountain to climb over the the fence at W. Warrior runners Luisa Tam and Nick Nanz take to fast track in Texas cross country meet Ruidoso cross country runners Luisa Tam and Nick Nanz finished near the top of 45 teams participating in the Floydada (Texas) High School Cross Country Meet last Saturday.

Ruidoso finished fifth. Luisa Tam placed third out of 237 runners with a very good time of 12:16.

Stephanie Haas finished 28th, beating out 209 runners, with a time of 13:37. Amanda Bell crossed the line in 82nd place at 15:05 and Trini Langworthy, 155th at 18:16.

Nick Nanz ran an admirable 6th place with a time of 16:56.

Warriors Jackie Lynn and Faustino Miranda had their own personal duel. Lynn took 19th at 17:39 and Miranda 21st, at 17:41.

Other Warrior finishers were Jermie Livingston, 27th at 18:06;

Josh Norbury, 48th at 19:11; Jason Dix, 71st at 20:11; and Aaron Driskill, 77th at 20:22.

David Biggs had a fine 17th place finish in the boys junior varsity run. Biggs time was 20:17.

PAUL A. GERMANY

Ruidoso Colt?

Ruidoso Colt? Paul A. Germany, son of Mimi M. Hill of Ruidoso, has earned a starting role on the New Mexico Military Institute's varsity football squad.

The Colts are 2-1 this year, losing their opener to Clint, Texas, but they did have a 17-0 win over highly touted Animas High.

Last week the respected Colts, under head coach Dwight Burns, posted a 6-0 win over Dexter.

New Mexico's spotlighting hunters lose vehicles

Conservation officer Ron Moore said that New Mexicans are fed up with spotlighting for animals and tough new legislation orders the Department of Game and Fish to seize and sell at auction vehicles used in the crime of spotlighting.

Moore said all conservation officers will be patrolling on the ground with "decoy" deer, elk and antelope. He said marked and unmarked units will be used.

Moore said airplanes have long been used to spot headlights and spotlighters and the officers will be looking in known trouble areas.

In addition to losing a vehicle, Moore said spotlighters face additional penalties that include a fine of up to $300, a jail sentence of up to six months, possible forfeiture of firearms, and possible loss of hunting and fishing privileges.

Officers wrote more than 130 citations to would-be poachers who shot at decoys between April 1, 1990, and April 1, 1991. Over 70 citations were issued last fall, the first time fake deer were used in New Mexico, Moore said.

A toll-free hotline is available within the state to report wildlife law violations. The number is printed on all licenses and in game and fish proclamations. That number is 1-800-432-GAME.

Assessment finds Ruidoso schools need more space, equal funding for sports and fine arts

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

More space for kindergarten through eighth grade classes and equalizing funding of athletic and fine arts programs ranked at the top of a Ruidoso school system needs assessment report based on input from education and community representatives.

The report was compiled by Max Luft of Cooperative Educational Services.

The rankings were the result of an evening brain-storming session of about 100 parents, students, teachers, elected officials, business people and support persons. More than 175 residents had been invited to participate.

Luft explained to the Ruidoso School Board Tuesday that determining the needs of a school district is vital in helping a district provide educational programs that satisfy constituents.

Various methods are used to gather the information, including mailed surveys.

Ruidoso this year chose to form a blue ribbon committee to prioritize identified need areas.

Using people interested in and knowledgeable about the schools, the district asked participants in a late September session to identify what they perceived as the needs of the school district.

The people attending were divided into groups of about eight with similar interests or background to rank the suggested needs. Then they were rearranged in non-similar groups to rank again.

"During the first setting of priorities, no need received the highest possible rating of 16 points," Lutz wrote in his report. The highest ranked was the need to equalize the funding between athletics and fine arts offering, which received 15 points.

Next in line with 14 points was to upgrade science equipment. That was followed by providing more teaching equipment and supplies, and increasing responsible parental involvement. Lowering the pupil-teacher ratio was way down at twenty-first place after items such as offering vocational training for non-college bound students, reducing the drop out rate and providing more field trips for hands-on experience. Offering more college preparatory classes ranked eleventh.

When the needs were ranked with non-similar participants in groups, the top rating changed to the need to increase the space for kindergarten through eighth grade. That was followed by equalizing athletic and fine arts funding.

Third and fourth ratings went to the need to integrate computers and technology into the curriculum and to add more music and art at the elementary level.

Building a new maintenance yard, providing more teaching equipment and supplies, providing more computers and software at mid-school, providing more staff in-service to promote self-esteem and offering more college preparatory classes all received a ranking of 12.

School Board member Rod Adamson questioned whether it would have been better to give the participants more time to think about the needs before ranking.

But Lutz responded, "Most know their top two or three priorities," he said. "It might be a struggled listing 10," but that's the value of the brain-storming sessions.

The board Tuesday also reviewed the results of a quality of education survey circulated to parents of students in the system.

The results had to be submitted to the State Department of Education by September 27. Ten questions were developed by the state, five came from different school sites and two dealing with adequate psychological counseling and nutrition were suggested by the board.

Out of 2,035 surveys sent out, 679 were returned, School Superintendent Mike Gladden said.

Generally, parents seemed to agree that their children were doing well in most subjects and did not need extra help, nor did they appear to think their children needed psychological counseling regularly to deal with concerns such as self-esteem, peer pressure, divorce or abuse.

A heavy majority agreed that their children received an appropriate amount of homework. Parents also acknowledged the importance of actively participating in their children's education.

They gave high scores to the school staff for being responsive to concerns about their children's education and for their training as teachers.

Turning their attention to the physical needs of the district, school board members approved a breakdown of how a proposed $5.5-million bond issue would be used if voters approve the sale in the November 12 election.

The bonds would be sold in two sections: $2.5-million in January 1992 and $3-million in January 1993.

"We're trying to get the word out to all the voters, the importance of this election," Gladden said.

District enrollment has increased by 11 percent during the last two years and virtually all of this growth has occurred in grades kindergarten through eight," Gladden stated in the summary.

Despite recent expansion at the White Mountain elementary and intermediate site, that school is at capacity, as are all other schools except the high school, he said. Students are housed in portables at Ruidoso Middle School and Nob Hill Elementary.

The board proposes to spend $1.2-million for six new classrooms, restrooms and support facilities at White Mountain from proceeds of the first bond sale.

Another $3-million would build a new school to house first and second grades.

The coordinating council recommended that the new school be part of the second bond sale. It would be ready for occupancy in the fall or by December of 1993," Gladden said.

Nob Hill then would serve pre-kindergarten and kindergarten. An addition to Ruidoso Middle School could be put off by moving the sixth grade (to White Mountain, which also would have third, fourth and fifth grades), Gladden said.

Half a million dollars would purchase computer, science and vocational equipment for all schools and $270,000 would be used for remodeling at several schools, including the science labs and bleachers at the middle school.

A district maintenance yard would be constructed for $180,000 and $350,000 would be funneled into improvements at the central office.

In other business, the board:

—Heard a report from Athletic Director Ronnie Maskew that $20 season sports ticket sales have been slow. But board members encouraged him to continue to promote the tickets, which would save patrons as much as $50 over the football-volleyball, basketball-wrestling seasons. People need time to get used to the idea, they said.

—Approved a deferred compensation plan for employees. The plan is not subject to a 10 percent penalty for early withdrawal from the program.

—Added to its policies that the superintendent would be evaluated by the school board and by staff members at each school before December 15 of every year. Principals also will be evaluated by their staff. Gladden said staff members brought to his attention the provision had been left out of a previous draft.

—Appointed Joan Howland to the position of half time kindergarten teacher at Nob Hill and Violet Rodela as kindergarten aide.

Redistricting unifies Lincoln County

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor

State Representative John Underwood told Kiwanians he ran on a platform last year for "common sense redistricting" for House seats.

The freshman representative, speaking to Ruidoso Kiwanis Club members, Tuesday noon, said he is happy that Lincoln County, under the new redistricting plan, is all in one district.

All that remains for the redistricting to become official is approval by the Justice Department. Action by the Justice Department is expected within 60 days.

Underwood said that each House district must have approximately 21,600 citizens. One problem, he said, that so many more of New Mexico's citizens are moving into the "Rio Grande Corridor."

To round out acceptable numbers for Underwood's House district, the district had to reach over into a leg of Chaves County to encompass 200 residents in the Duncan area. It is House District 56.

Tularosa, in District 56, relates more to the people of the Rio Grande Valley than they do Alamogordo, he said. Alto and Capitan are all represented by one representative, he said. This is not true under the present districting setup.

Underwood said he has met with the elders of the Mescalero Apache tribe, that "I think I can join with Chino" to work for the tribe.

Under the New Mexico Senate redistricting plan, Lincoln County would be represented by Pete Campos of Santa Rosa. Senator Jim Martin, now representing part of Lincoln County, would no longer represent this area. His new district would extend to Grants.

"I'm not sure the Senate plan will pass Justice Department muster," he said.

He said Otero County is "pretty upset" because their senator would be from Las Cruces under the plan.

"Cracking the Spanish vote is illegal," Underwood told Kiwanians and guests. This means splitting an area that is primarily Hispanic to diffuse voting power.

Under the U.S. House of Representatives redistricting plan as proposed re-election of Joe Skeen and Bill Richardson "would not be automatic," he said. He said three Democrats have indicated they might run against Skeen; Bill Richardson might have primary opponents, he said. Underwood is a Democrat.

Underwood said people are more issue oriented than previously rather than "Republican and Democrat."

"I can't learn unless I hear from you," he said.

"I want to be the areas's representative."

Kiwanis will stage their installation banquet, Saturday night at the Ruidoso Inn.

State Representative John Underwood (right) is welcomed to the Ruidoso Kiwanis Club meeting where he spoke on redistricting, using maps to illustrate. Wayland Burk, club president, welcomes the legislator.

Is Your Car In Need Of A Check Up?

Cars are a lot like people. When they're healthy, they feel like taking on the world. When they're not, they can put a damper on an otherwise wonderful time. Symptoms of automotive ailments, such as a thumping tire or noisy brakes often are omens of trouble you want to avoid.

Sometimes your only warning will come as a result of a preventive maintenance checkup. Ruidoso Ford suggests you use this 10-point checklist, and with their help, you can prevent annoying expensive trouble on the road:

1. Engine
2. Transmission & Drive Train
3. Lubrication
4. Battery/Elec. System
5. Brakes
6. Vision
7. Air Conditioner
8. Tires & Suspension
9. Exhaust System

Good neighbors with good advice for saving energy

You can reduce energy waste by taking a few simple steps to lower the amount of energy needed to heat water in your home. For many water heaters, an insulation blanket is an easy way to save energy. A leaking hot water faucet wastes energy, so check regularly for leaks.

For more ways to save energy, call or visit your local TNP office today and ask for a copy of the "Energy Management Guide."

To shrink or not to shrink? Downs divided over smaller board

by AL STUBBS

Ruidoso News Business Editor
Opinion seems to be divided almost down the middle on the propriety of reducing the size of the Ruidoso Downs village trustees from seven members to four.

Downs qualified voters on November 5 will trek to the Older American Center to ballot on that issue. Hours will be 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Village trustees were petitioned some time ago to stage the election. More than five percent of the registered voters who balloted in the last general election signed the petition.

The trustees had no choice in light of that except to call an election which the village clerk says will cost $3,000 to conduct.

"The $3,000 was not allocated in the budget," Maurice Cudgel, village clerk says.

Tony Parker, a former member of the village board, was the main sponsor of the petition.

"I think it's going over," Parker told The News when queried.

"Ruidoso Downs is too little for that (seven members)," Parker said.

Mayor Bonnie Addy at a recent meeting of the trustees advised that she sees two major objections to having just four members.

One, she said, is that with an even number of trustees, the mayor might find herself or himself breaking too many tie votes.

Another, she said, is that if two members are absent from any meeting, a quorum would be impossible.

Parker says he doesn't think the mayor, with four trustees on the board, would have to break too many tie votes.

He said "Bonnie hasn't, Jake didn't."

He referred to the current mayor, Addy, and Jake Harris, a past mayor.

Parker said that when the trustees had only four members a few years ago, there weren't many tie votes.

Ben Jeffers, a long-time resident of the Downs who was elected to the board and then resigned, told the News: "I think it's a bunch of bull. I don't think four can agree. We need more opinions."

Jeffers raises pure-bred Arabian horses in the area.

"I think it should be done. We don't need that many to run this little berg," Dean Brewer, another long-time resident, said.

Bob Richardson, owner of Ruidoso Wholesale Foods Co., agrees.

I think there would be less bickering," he said.

But, he said, he believes five members would be better to provide an uneven number when votes are counted.

Maida Garcia, a three-year resident, says, "I don't think four members are enough."

"I don't see any reason for seven," C.F. "Pappy" Bell, restaurateur, said.

Harris, former mayor, said, "We're too little for seven. We don't have the population or the finances."

Two members of the present board of trustees are holdovers and need not run for re-election next March. They are Jackie Branum and Ray Frederickson. Other members must run. If the vote favors a four-member board, only two seats will be open in March.

This repeat of the August show, with some additions, will begin with dinner at 6:30 p.m. and the show at 8 p.m. in the studio/concert hall in Carrizo Lodge's historic building on Carrizo Creek Road.

Joining the performers featured in the August show at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, will be classical guitarist Leon Butts and the Dick Valenzuela Quintet.

The cost for dinner and the concert is $15.95, with a cash bar. Reservations are required, and be made by calling 257-9131 or 1-800-227-1224.

Returning artists include Teddi Sullivan and Friends; Don Lindley, drums; George Aiuvallasi, jazz harp; Patti Brimberry, pianist; Paul and Barbara Westbrook, singers; and Donna Willard, pianist.

The music performed will include works by jazz greats Ellington and Gershwin; classics of Chopin, Debussy and Puccini; and musicals such as "Fiddler on the Roof," "Cats," and "Phantom of the Opera."

Briefs

AARP has new state director

Wilson J. Bryant Jr., of Albuquerque, has been appointed as District Coordinator for the AARP Tax-Aide Program in New Mexico. He replaces Jerry Sensabaugh, who has moved to Washington, D.C.

Bryant was a former math and computer science teacher in AFS, and was Chairman of the Math Department at Highland High School for 15 years.

Retirees group offers tax help

The AARP Tax-Aide program provided free tax assistance to a record-number 143,029 low-income elderly taxpayers in the State of New Mexico. They hope to increase this number next tax season by extending coverage to every community in the state. If you are not currently being served by Tax-Aide volunteers, and would like to be a Local Coordinator in your area, please contact Wilson Bryant Jr., District Coordinator, at 323 Quincy NE, Albuquerque, NM 87108 or call 268-5876, for additional information.

All local coordinators will be provided training, supplies and support. Volunteers are also being sought to serve as tax counselors.

Two Ruidoso men named to Business Advisory Council

Governor Bruce King has appointed four additional people to the Governor's Business Advisory Council, including two Ruidoso residents.

Bill Hirschfeld and L. Ray Nunley are two of the four new members named to the council that makes recommendations to the governor regarding economic development and tourism issues. Each has been appointed to a four-year term.

Appointed to the council are Vi Gautsch and Norm Bergsma, both of Albuquerque, Hirschfeld and Nunley, both of Ruidoso.

The Business Advisory Council consists of 214 members, including Fred Hansen of Alto and Cece Griffin of Ruidoso who were appointed early in the King Administration.

NMSU-A course offers hands on computer literacy training

New Mexico State University at Alamogordo will be offering a special 8-week class in Computer Literacy (CS 110) starting October 17.

It will be an eight-week, hands-on course introducing computers and emphasizing the application software package "Enable." The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 5:30 to 8:15 p.m. Registration will take place October 1 through October 15.

Land use rules proposed

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Forest Service and the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management are asking for public comment regarding proposed rules designed to streamline and expedite exchanges involving federal and non-federal lands and to implement the Federal Land Exchange Facilitation Act of 1988.

Comments are due by December 2 and should be sent to: Chief, USDA Forest Service, 14th & Independence Avenue NW, Washington D.C. 20090-6090 or to: Director, USDA Bureau of Land Management, Room 5555, Main Interior Building, 1849 C Street NW, Washington D.C. 20240.

The Silver Lining

Weather spirits bless busy weekend

Happy Birthday To George Weise

This will reach you on the birthday of George Weise of Ruidoso Downs, who was born on October 10, 1914, in Vernon, Texas, to Frederick and Emily Weise.

In 1928, they came to Roswell and then to Ruidoso where they lived until 1931. On February 18, he was married to the former Nada May Barckay. They have one son, Edwin, who lives in San Jose, California.

In 1936, George and Veda May moved to Carlsbad, where in 1945 George began work in the Potash mines, where he worked for 22 years.

In 1974, they moved to Ruidoso and now make their home in Ruidoso Downs. We wish George many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

Many Celebrations In Glorious October

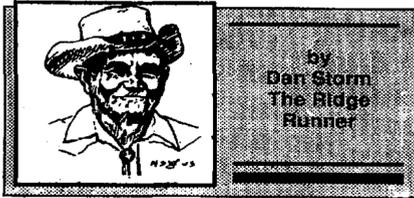

The weather spirits were kind to us over the weekend in bringing to the mountain world perfect blue sky weather for the parade, the Van Winkle Reunion, the Cowboy Symposium and the Tully Roping. All these celebrations were filled with countless memorable events. Let us go over just a few highlights of each one.

The Parade

With the fall colors shining on the mountainside, the parade was one of the best in a long time. The circus theme was carried out throughout, with clowns of every age and hosts of balloons. Children, as always, were popular features of the parade, especially the Girl Scouts float with the little girls singing as they passed by. Also the Parks and Recreation department with the children following doing cartwheels and other acrobatics. The Mescalero Head Start was represented by a young lady walking with a bear on one side and a lion on the other, in true circus style.

Little League football teams were there including the Mescalero Redskins.

The Jerome Don Klein Post #7072 presented a float representing all three veterans organizations: on the front of the float was a photo of Donny Kline. Those on the float were Harry Griffin, Commander of the V.F.W., Dorothy Griffin, Sandy Raper, Barbara Dean, Katy Armstrong, John Ordorica, Romeo Kline, Julius Fitzner, Tom Armstrong and Pat Huffsmith; also toy elephants, bears and lions. John Ordorica called to the crowd asking

by Dan Storm
The Ridge Runner

veterans to join the veterans organizations. His dog, Shotsie, was dressed like a clown.

Horseback groups, and children on bicycles and leading their dogs on foot, and the Shriners, and many attractive floats made up a very fine parade. We thank all those who helped to make this a parade long to be remembered.

Van Winkle Family Reunion

About 275 members of the great American family of Van Winkle gathered at the Circle B Campground, just below Ruidoso Downs, on last Saturday and Sunday for their second annual family reunion.

They came from Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, and many other places. The one traveling the longest distance was Jim Van Winkle from Tybee Island, Georgia. Jim is making extensive research into his family, and will write a book.

Sharing of family records, and stories and history and grand meals, and homemade crafts and gifts were some of the highlights of the two days.

The reunion was sponsored by Marion and Pete Van Winkle and Johnnie and Judy Van Winkle.

The Van Winkles came to America in the early sixteen hundreds, and are represented all over our country.

We are happy that the proud clan of Van Winkle were happy with their second annual reunion, and we look for them back next year.

The Cowboy Symposium

It is a treat to hear just one good singer or one band; just think of the rare privilege and inspiration of hearing dozens of musicians, cowboy poets and singers representing the best in their fields.

All in all it was a bit of America at its best, True Western pioneer in spirit. The boundless good will and holiday atmosphere was shaded by more than four thousand people from practically everywhere.

The tone of the celebration, which struck a responsive chord in his hearers was spoken by famous fiddler, Cliff Brunner.

He paid tribute to Ray Reed and to all the people of New Mexico, saying that here we have the finest people in the world, that we do not realize how fortunate we are with our wonderful climate and good will among our people — that we are free from the troubles of all too many other places, that we should count our blessings.

Roy Thackerson won the hearts of all of us with his remarkable playing of the fiddle and guitar, despite having lost most of his left hand fingers in a dynamite accident as a boy. It was a true inspiration to see and hear this accomplished musician.

The youngest one at the gathering Sunday was two-month-old Callie Underwood, daughter of John and Sherry Underwood. John, with Callie cradled in his arms, said he had named the child after a great aunt who was an inspiration to him, a Christian Lady who knew the Lord.

John recited two of his poems: "Cowboy's Eulogy" and "Daddy's Spurs."

Present at Sunday's celebration was Jerry Lamy, great-great-grandson of the brother of Archbishop Lamy who built the Santa Fe Cathedral. Jerry was in his motorized wheel chair along with his tiny chihuahua dog, Cheyenne, dressed western with a red bandanna. Jerry is disabled from service in the Marine Corp, during World War II.

Tribute to Ray Reed

A cowboy poet, I forgot his name, read a poem in tribute to Ray Reed; and to close the celebration, Ray sang to the accompaniment of Pee Wee Lynn, Cliff Brunner and Gene Gimble.

The Symposium brought great happiness to many people, and we send out a vote of thanks to Ray Reed, R.D. Hubbard and R.O. Anderson, and all who helped to make these four days something to remember fondly.

Gerald Tully Roping

More than 200 people attended the Gerald Tully Roping at the Tully Arena over three days. In all 700 teams were made up out of the contestants, including Gerald himself on Friday. The event managed by Gerry Tully was a tribute to his famous and much admired father.

Let us thank God for our many blessings.

Survivors include a brother, Raymond Enjady Jr., and sisters, Ethel Mancito, RoseAnn Enjady, Helen Kaulay and Lilly Hunter. He is survived by numerous nieces and nephews. All survivors live in Mescalero.

LCMC takes patients for a swim at Cree

A special physical therapy aquatics program has begun as a project of Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) in cooperation with Cree Meadows Country Club

"Water therapy is superior for treatment of many conditions," according to a news release provided by the hospital.

LCMC and Cree Meadows have agreed that as many as a dozen patients may use the pool three days a week for water exercises.

Patients who are recovering from total hip or knee replacements, head and spinal injuries or fractures, as well as those suffering from chronic lower back pain, multiple sclerosis or arthritis may benefit from the water treatment, continues the release.

The warm temperature of the water helps relax muscles and decreases pain during exercise. The buoyancy of the water reduces the effects of gravity, partially supporting the body, thus making movements easier and less painful.

Water can also provide resistance for muscles to work against, which will increase strength.

The aquatics program in Ruidoso is one of several offered throughout the state.

The agreement with Cree Meadows for patient pool time has allowed the hospital's physical therapist to offer this unique and effective treatment.

LCMC recently completed an agreement with Ruidoso Athletic Club to offer the next stage of progression for those patients completing aquatics therapy.

They will move on to resistance exercises on special equipment located at the club, under the direction of their physicians and the LCMC physical therapists.

Capitan

Meet the winners

Marisa Valenzuela of Capitan, left, Tony Lee Clark of Hatch and a representative from Zia Junior High in Las Cruces celebrate during Ruidoso's Aspenfest weekend with the trophies their bands won in parade and field marching competition. Capitan took top honors in both marching and overall field performance in 1A competition. Capitan hosted the field contest.

Tigers hang tough against Panthers

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Capitan's defensive line emerged battered, but proud last Friday after a bruising bout with the Jal Panthers.

"It was rough," said head football coach Pat Ventura. "Their players were really big and they intimidated us. They're the biggest we've played yet."

The 40-0 score doesn't fairly reflect the great defensive playing of the Tigers, Ventura said.

"We were playing the defensive line all night," Ventura said. "Our offense didn't work. They kept blitzing us. Charlie Tracy (at quarterback) couldn't do anything. He took some good hits and I was proud of him."

Ventura also singled out the performance of Damian Roybal. "He played outstanding offense and also defense," the coach said.

But the Tigers just couldn't put it all together.

"The Panthers got their first touchdown in the first quarter and kept going from there," he said. The Jal team blocked a Tiger punt and three plays later scored a touchdown, ending the quarter 6-0.

The Tigers, still plagued by fumbles, interceptions and penalties, gave away some of the points, Ventura said.

"We lost more than 100 yards in penalties, a lot of personal fouls worth 15 yards each," he said. One interception was run in for a touchdown.

"Their offense killed us," he said. Jason Trujillo injured his knee and may not be able to play in the Tigers' first district game Friday, a home game against the Reserve Mountaineers.

"They won their first district game last week against Cloudcroft and they're 3-2 so far this season," Ventura said. "They're a pretty solid team. They run a wishbone offense and blitz like Jal."

Ventura said he'll be drilling the Tigers on running and throwing in preparation for the upcoming game.

"Hillbilly Weddin" scheduled

A new dessert theater production of the Capitan High School drama class is set for October 26.

Tickets for "Hillbilly Weddin" are on sale in the school office or from any drama student. Adult tickets cost $3 and children's are $1.50. Brownies, punch and coffee will be served in the multipurpose room of the school. The play will begin at 8 p.m. The play will be staged by a cast of 20 students, one of the largest school productions to date.

Bear Roots gets set to beautify Capitan

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

By the spring of 1992, a group of Capitan-area residents hope to see the beginning of a tree-planting beautification project for their village.

The effort is a spin-off of the year-long celebration of the Anniversary of Smokey Bear and his national forest fire prevention program in 1993-94.

"Our group, which calls itself the Bear Roots Committee, developed out of the Friends of Smokey organization (which is directing the local celebration in Smokey's birthplace)," Luna said. "We were set up to provide technical assistance and to formalize an urban beautification project in Capitan."

The group plans to be on the next agenda of the Capitan Board of Trustees to be formally recognized to proceed with its part in the overall program.

One of the major goals of the group is to secure up to $50,000 in grant money available from state through the sale of bonds secured by mining severance fees, Luna said.

The beautification money is being administered by the State

Forestry Division and is to be used on village or state-owned property.

The committee would like to see all of the corridors leading into the village lined with attractive trees, both evergreen and deciduous, Luna said. They also plan plantings at the Lincoln County fairground, at the Capitan school, down the U.S. 380 main street through town, at the Senior Citizens Center and at the County Road Department headquarters.

The deadline for submitting the grant is Nov. 15. The group should be notified by the first of the year whether it's application was successful, Luna said.

"Then we could implement the project in the spring and fall of 1992," she said. "The grant would include the cost of drip irrigation systems. The local involvement of county and village government would consist of responsibility for the continued maintenance and survival of the trees."

"We want to get a variety of ornamental evergreen and deciduous trees suitable for the area. It will be a project that could enhance the village for decades to come."

Members of the Capitan Tree Committee, known as the Bear Roots group, pose with their new caps under a regal white fir. The committee aims to beautify the community as part of the preparation for the 1993-94 Smokey Bear Anniversary celebration. In front, from left are: Carlos Morales, Jim Freeman, Martha Proctor, Barbara Luna and Frank Warth. In back, from left are Rick Riddle, Gordon Ross, Howard Shanks and Tom Guck.

Jennifer Eldridge, left, and Tammy Payne were named to the Capitan Classic All-Tournament Volleyball Team in late September. Eldridge also was selected for the

All Tournament Team at the Cloudcroft Tournament earlier in the month. Coach Pam Allen said Eldridge is making her senior year really count on the court.

Capitan Tigers tame 'Zozo Grizzlies

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Capitan Tigers quietly crept into town last week, then bared their teeth and chewed up the Carrizozo Grizzlies with straight wins from junior high through varsity.

The girls served their way to wins with scores of 15-12, 15-8, 15-12.

Head Volleyball Coach Pam Allen said despite the sweep, the Carrizozo volleyball program has improved dramatically this year.

The Tigers traveled to Loving last Saturday and brought back a win in five games for their first district competition.

"I was extremely pleased with the girls," Allen said. "They won a tough match on the road. That's a three hour trip one way and then they jumped off the bus and played."

"I think Loving is the other tough team in the district."

The varsity girls clipped the Falcons' wings with scores of 6-15, 15-9, 15-11, 7-15 and 15-5.

A slow start was overcome in the second game when Jennifer Eldridge's swift and sure arm pounded in five straight points. The momentum continued when Tycie Traylor zinged in five.

"She played a good game at the net and hit the ball real well for us," Allen said. The junior varsity team lost their match, but the eighth graders took their contest.

Allen said seventh and eighth graders and the junior varsity won all three matches at Ruidoso Monday.

Allen said Michelle Payton turned in an outstanding performance in the junior high match.

"She's a freshman setter and earned 18 straight points, 15 in the first game and the next three in the second game," Allen said.

The varsity Tigers will meet the Lake Arthur Panthers in a district match today.

Boards to meet

The Capitan School Board will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Thursday), October 10, in the administration building of the school complex. Personnel issues will be discussed in closed executive session.

The Capitan Board of Trustees will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday instead of the usual Monday date.

City Hall will be closed on Monday, October 14, for the Columbus Day holiday.

Band raises money for California trip

An enchilada and burrito dinner to benefit the Capitan school band is set for 4:30-8 p.m. Oct. 18, the night of the homecoming game of the Tigers against Cloudcroft.

The dinner will be served in the school cafeteria. Tickets will be $4 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

Band members also will be washing cars Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Oct. 19 at the Ruidoso State Bank branch in Capitan.

The band hopes to raise enough money for a trip to California and an appearance at Disneyland.

Financial aid adviser joins the ENMU-Ruidoso staff

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The newest addition to education in Ruidoso is Cheryl LaCounte, students services director, financial aid adviser and student advocate for the off-campus instructional center of Eastern New Mexico University.

If that sounds like a lot of hats to be wearing, LaCounte has the experience to support them.

She most recently was the director of the Framingham campus of Newbury College in Brookline, Massachusetts.

After graduating from Eastern New Mexico University in 1983, she became a human resources director with a large hotel firm and then a business instructor at the college level. But she quickly moved into administration. She worked in financial aid and student services with some marketing and recruiting duties.

But at 30, she was anxious to get home to New Mexico with her five-year-old son, Brendan, and her husband, Christopher.

She tried out her desk at the Ruidoso center for the first time Monday.

"Currently, I'm working on creating degree plans for students so they can work toward completion of a degree" such as a two-year associate's degree locally or a four-year degree, finishing the last two years elsewhere, she said.

"Financial aid always is something we encourage students to consider and there are several sources," LaCounte said. "The federal sources haven't been tapped. I suspect we still have students who will be applying even after the start of school."

She considers the most important part of her job being student advocate.

"Students should have as many difficulties they're having academically or in any other part of their lives that might influence their education," LaCounte said. She'll help with tutoring assistance, textbooks, resolving campus issues and will plan student activities.

"They need to get more out of college than strictly a classroom experience," she said of students. "We want to enrich their entire experience."

And, if by chance, there is a question she can't answer or help is not available locally, "I want them to be aware that we have a support staff from a four-year campus as close as the phone."

Recycling

Scout Shawn Carrier and Scout den leader Michael Lowe are having fun with the group's recycling project they're doing to benefit the Lincoln National Forest. An active recycling program is also under way under the sponsorship of Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority. That program is supported by a state grant. The Recycling Center is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays at Second and Harris in Ruidoso Downs. The telephone number is 378-4697.

Council OKs lodgers tax funds requests

The Ruidoso Village Council, during a regular meeting Tuesday, approved promotional funds for two upcoming Aspenfest events.

Councilors approved the Lodgers Tax Committee's advertising expenditure of $3,000 for the Oktoberfest weekend and $700 for the Lincoln County Barbecue Wars, submitted by Jay Francis.

Councilor Bill Karn asked for a media breakdown.

Francis, a member of both the Lodgers Tax Committee and the Oktoberfest committee, explained how his committee asked his other committee for and received money.

"They (we) supplied us with a breakdown as far as their (our) markets," said

"Let me explain the process on how we approve these things," Francis said. "First they (we) come to us and ask for the funds. We inquire to them (us) where they (we) are spending the money. We have a new application that asks them (us) to specify exactly where they're (we're) going to put the money.

"Things change and a lot of times they (we) do and don't do what they (we) say."

Oktoberfest, a Chamber of Commerce event in years past, has been adopted this year by a private committee, with Francis and Lodgers Tax Committee Chairman Mark Toth among its membership.

Mike Radziewicz, another member of the private Oktoberfest group, approached LTC during a regular meeting to ask for the funds. Neither Toth nor Francis declared that they were a part of that Oktoberfest committee when they voted to approve the request.

Also during Tuesday's council meeting, Mayor Victor Alonso appointed Betty Beachum to the Lodgers Tax Committee to replace Rex Beatty, and reappointed Richard Sanchez to the Eagle Creek Board.

The council also proclaimed October 13-19, Oktoberfest Week.

Oktoberfest will be Friday and Saturday, October 18 and 19, in The Barn on U.S. Highway, and will include music German foods and drink and plenty of fun and games.

Promotion committee turns eyes to winter advertising

The Visitors Promotion and Service Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce will seek input from various segments of the Lincoln County population in planning winter promotions.

Joan Bailey and members, during a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Chamber, called for another meeting at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, October 17, with ski shop operators and others invited to provide input. Probable location will be Cree Meadows Country Club.

Letters will go out to Chamber members who would be interested in winter promotions, including skiing.

Since Aspen Weekend is history, members talked about revising advertising copy to promote the balance of the Aspenfest time period which runs through Thanksgiving.

Bailey suggested that advertising include urging area residents to do their Christmas shopping in Mexican market.

Ruidoso. Bailey told members that Mexico shouldn't be forgotten in winter promotions.

Jacquelyn Bentley, of Bentley Advertising Agency, said 40 percent of winter business comes from the Bailey said. Mike Warren has resigned from the committee because of business pressures.

She received approval from the committee to seek a replacement from the Sy Leland organization, On Track Inc.

In October, honor man's best friend

October is Adopt-a-Dog month, a good time to talk about responsible pet ownership.

The Humane Society Shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road always has plenty of healthy animals waiting for a family. But, if you adopt a pet, you're taking on a long-term responsibility, at least for the life of your new family member.

Before you adopt a dog, consider if you're in a situation to take on that responsibility — food bills, exercise, time, medical care and a secure fence or outdoor enclosure.

"Our dogs are adopted strictly as companion animals," said Randy Basch, stressing that as pack animals, these dogs rely on their owners for friendship. Make sure you have time to spend with your animal. Dogs depend a lot on companionship.

The Humane Society contract calls for not keeping your new pet on a chain, providing a secure doghouse protected on three sides top and bottom, providing proper health care, nutrition and water. Basically, that contract calls for responsible pet ownership.

Pet owners are required to spay or neuter pets adopted from the Humane Society — that's especially important when you consider how many unwanted pets are destroyed each year because they can't find homes.

Stop by the Humane Society on Gavilan Canyon Road. If the time isn't right to adopt a dog or cat, then volunteer some time to walk the dogs or make a donation of money or pet food.

Motorcycle rally is great; problems can be avoided

TO THE EDITOR:

As one of the many business people of this community, a registered voter, who owns and rides her own Harley, and also has a sister on the Ruidoso Police Department, I have a few comments, along with comments from the rest of the bikers of Ruidoso, concerning The Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally.

This is one event my husband and I, and our friends look forward to every year.

There are a lot of things that can be avoided if a little more thought were put to the causes.

We were at the Winner's Circle Saturday, 9-21-91. The trash cans were running over, with bottles and trash stacked around the trash can, not just thrown but stacked! The effort of most of the bikers was attempted to try and put the trash in its proper place. The management's interest in emptying the trash was totally neglected.

The bars also have the power to not serve those already intoxicated, thus causing less trouble.

Most of us who ride bikes, are concerned, we take care of each other, when we see that one of us has had too much to drink, we will intervene and back the bartenders interest in our safety.

As for the public urinating, Porta-potties work wonders for this problem. There are not many places in town that have public restrooms. With 4,000 to 5,000 extra people in town, this inconvenience should have been considered.

If the rules of the Rally and Bars were to read "No Club Colors," and all those violating this rule be asked to leave, or pay a fine on the spot if they won't take them off. You would be surprised how many would comply or leave.

We also think that a lot of people are being unfair to Jess Stinson, Victor Alonso and Ron Andrews. They were not the only people to profit from this event. (At least they admit that they did profit!) Everyone with a business that retails food, gas, beer, lodging, auto supplies, car washes etc. made some sort of profit.

The fact that the bikers drive away the normal would-be tourists, is not a fact. We have a business, directed to tourists as well as the locals. We didn't have any tourist related business the week before or the week after the bikers were here.

What about the fights they have at the bars during track season and every other week or so with the cowboys and Indians? My sister walks that beat each and every weekend, making arrests and protecting us, the locals, from ourselves, the locals. And that scares me!

Also these incidents go unnoticed and unreported by the newspaper.

We agree that the guns, knives, indecent exposure and other goings on were way out of line. We are very angry and sorry that these things happened. The ones who did these things were only one percent of the biker population.

We who are off the other 99 percent do not want to see this as the last Rally. And we are willing to help in any way to keep the one week of the year set aside for us safe and fun.

We went to the Red River Memorial Day Motorcycle Rally. There were thousands of people there, clubs included, open containers anywhere you looked, and lots of Port-a-potties. The parking was for motorcycles only. There was no trouble at all and the townspeople welcomed us. This isn't even a scheduled event it just happens every year. The townspeople let us know that they appreciated us coming.

They made a lot of money that weekend from us and said so. If they had an attitude problem they didn't show it before, during or after it was over.

We would also like to say that as one of those characters who crawl out of the woodwork and tie rags around our heads, we also get up every morning, (Sometimes seven days a week) pull on our work clothes and boots, to go out and make a living, pay our taxes, donate to charities and pay our traffic violations if and when received.

Several times in the past, the bikers of Ruidoso, who are city employees, U.S. government employees, business people and concerned residents of this community have tried to give their comments to Ron Andrews on things that needed to be changed or added to make this event better for everyone involved or concerned. They went unneeded and unheard.

Maybe it's time someone listened and took our ideas and suggestions seriously. We can help, if you'd just let us.

Three big cheers for the Sun Queens and Sun Prince

TO THE EDITOR:

Just below the junction of U.S. 70 Highway and US 380 lies the Hondo High School. As you approach the turnoff to this school going east one notes a business on the right hand side of the highway, called Sun Country.

It is worthy of note to know that Lincoln County has the richest history of any county in the entire United States.

This is Billy the Kid country. As one sits in this place of business munching some of their goodies, it is an education to glance about, and wonder where all the people come from who pass in and out those doors.

Many, many Hispanics pass through their doors. The chances are most of them had grandparents who not only associated with Billy the Kid but helped him tame the west.

Where are you going to find more attractive clientele to run a business than those Hispanic girls who run Sun Country? There is Lydia, Sally, Belinda and Lucy. Rosie recently left to work in Colorado. I tab them the Sun Country Queens, and Gabriel the Sun Country Prince who helps them.

I've eaten in restaurants in 37 different states in the United States, as well as Hawaii, and you may take it from me, never, and I repeat, never have I seen a more pleasant, friendlier place to spend a dime than Sun Country in Hondo, New Mexico.

Dancers gather in Mescalero for Southern Eagles Powwow

The Southern Eagles Benefit Powwow will draw dancers, drummers and artists from throughout the state to Mescalero this weekend.

The public is invited to the two full days of events with proceeds to be used for a large contest powwow over Easter weekend.

According to a news release provided by powwow organizers, Mescalero will be the site of a powwow once a month through April.

The Southern Eagles Benefit Powwow will include arts and crafts fair, with booths available for rent at $25 a month.

Gourd dancing begins at 6 p.m. Friday, with the grand entry, one of the most colorful events of the powwow, is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday.

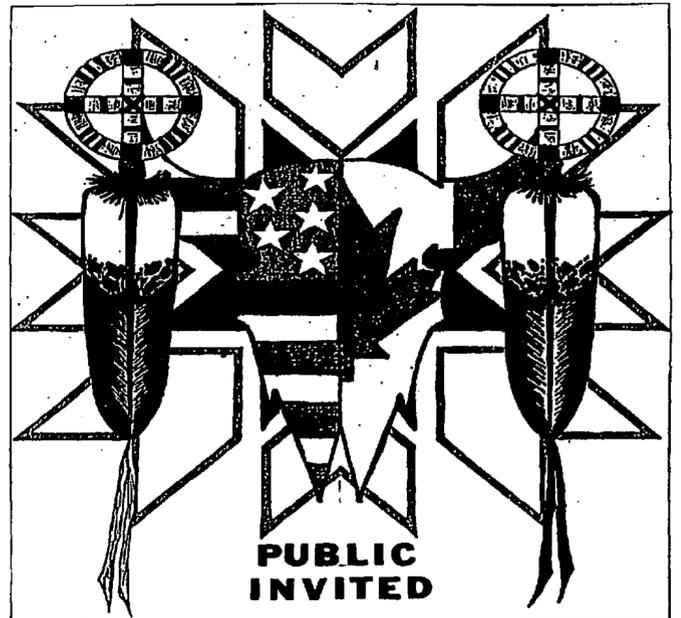

On Saturday, the gourd dance will begin at 3 p.m. and the second grand entry will begin at 7 p.m.

Master of ceremonies for the Southern Eagles Benefit Powwow will be Vernon Doyeto, with Jess Shendo, head man dancer, and Phyllis Platta, head lady dancer, all of Mescalero.

Visiting head lady dancer will be Joleen Redman of Canada.

Other powwow dignitaries will be Jaybird Ahidley, Betty H. Shanta and Bruce Klinekole II, all of Mescalero.

Southern drum will be Vince Toya of Jemez and northern drums will be Swift Eagle and Red Dawn, both of Santo Domingo.

The Powwow will be in a drug and alcohol free environment in the Mescalero gym.

For information, or to rent a booth, contact Freddie Kaydah-zinne at 671-4494.

Contributions are also welcomed and may be mailed to Southern Eagles Benefit Powwow Organization; PO Box 748; Mescalero NM 88340.

Pictures are allowed and encouraged during the colorful event that is open to everyone.

DERMATOLOGY NOTES

ACNE is the scourge of teenagers and sometimes of women in their 40's. The most important thing to do is find a program that controls the problem and stick to it. Fundamentally important to the treatment is washing the skin morning and night with a good antibacterial soap and then not picking at it. If this by itself is not enough there are some over the counter preparations of benzoyl peroxide that should be applied at night after washing. Cystic acne can result in permanent scarring of the skin. So-if simple measures do not control this infectious disease go to your doctor who may put you on an antibiotic and or Retin A. If that is not enough he may elect to put you on the drug Accutane which is the only thing available that really cures the problem. This drug has to be used with extreme caution in females since it causes birth defects in 100% of babies born to women who take the drug in early pregnancy.

Musical happening

the Ruidoso Community Concerts season during the Asperfest weekend. Among the music lovers on hand for the opening concert at First Christian Church were (at right, from left) Herb Brunell, Carole Hubbard and Ruidoso Community Concerts board president Robert Rowe.

Interlibrary loans extend borrowing power

by RUIDOSO LIBRARY STAFF
Special to The News
Do you know that libraries can borrow books from other libraries? This is what interlibrary loan is all about. Participating libraries have access to more than 20 million items with more than 300 million locations listings.

Ruidoso Public Library can borrow books for you from other libraries in the country if they are not available here. In the same way, other libraries may borrow books from Ruidoso Public Library for their readers. Interlibrary loan provides our patrons with books or photocopies of materials from as far away as Hawaii and Canada. Requested materials can take anywhere from one to six weeks to arrive, depending on the distance they have to travel. Quite a few research papers have been written, classes taught, and family histories traced with the use of interlibrary loan. There are interlibrary loan request forms at the circulation desk at the Ruidoso Public Library. Fill out a request, turn it in and we will try to get the book you want to read. If you have any questions about interlibrary loans or any services of the Ruidoso Public Library, call 257-4335.

Texas Explorer Post adopts Fort Stanton Cave and trails

The Bureau of Land Management, Explorer adviser Val Hildreth, and some Explorer Post 806 members from Lubbock, Texas, will meet at Fort Stanton Cave at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 28. Explorer Post 806 is a cave oriented group that will adopt Fort Stanton Cave, trail and cave campground, said Mike Bilbo, recreation specialist for the Bureau of Land Management Roswell Resource Area.

The purpose of the meeting is for the group to sign a Cooperative Management Agreement and a Group Volunteer Service Agreement. For further information, contact Mike Bilbo, Recreation Specialist, BLM, Roswell Resource Area: 624-1790.

Students visit nation's capitol

The Close Up Foundation has again invited Ruidoso High School, along with schools from across New Mexico, to participate in its government studies program during the 1991/92 school year.

The New Mexico students will travel to Washington to develop an understanding of the federal government and current events. An estimated 285 participants from New Mexico are expected this year.

During the week the students will participate in numerous seminars and workshops with Washington officials where they will question the experts and then share their views with students from other areas of the country.

The Plant Corner

Time to recycle last year's poinsettias.

DEAR SALLY:

I have kept two of last year's poinsettias. I cut them back in February, per your instructions, and they have turned now to beautiful bushy plants. How do I get the blooms to come?

Tina J.

DEAR TINA:

You must start now, in fact, you may be a couple of weeks late already.

I usually recommend moving the poinsettias by the last week of September or first week in October at the latest to a room to ensure uninterrupted, repeat, uninterrupted 14-hour long nights. Be certain not to admit any light, even briefly, as this will disrupt the flowering process. These plants need, no, must have 14 hours of darkness to trigger the onset of blooms. If you must turn the light on in the room with the plant, first cover the plant with a box or a heavy sack, or move the plant every night to a dark closet for a month or 6-weeks.

Just be sure not to forget to remove the cover in the morning or to take from the closet so the plant gets 10 hours of good, not sun, light each day.

After about five weeks, flower buds will already have begun to initiate within the "terminal" growing point; and now you can forget all the light exposure hassle.

Maintain a good, bright light and avoid rotating the plant. Place an overhead gro-bulb

by Sally Black
Ruidoso News
Plant Specialist

directly above the plant to keep the light even and the plant growing upright. Rotation can cause the buds to drop.

Given this light treatment, your poinsettias should be in bloom for Christmas. However, if you do not have plenty of time and patience, toss those spent plants in January and come next December, go out and buy all new plants to enjoy.

Soil—Must be absorbent, fast drainage and "never" allowed to become completely dry or soggy wet. Should the soil become hard packed and water runs to the drip tray quickly, let the plant stand in the water only about 30 minutes to absorb enough water to soften the soil ball. You can prevent this problem by small, frequent waterings to maintain a constant moist condition. So often I find this frequent watering schedule is not convenient to my habit.

Light—After the 4 to 6 weeks 14-hour dark night schedule the plant needs 4 to 6 hours daily of bright sunlight, of course, they can be in full sun before the long-dark-night period starts.

Temperature—Should never fall below 35 degrees and will tolerate up to 90 degrees. Does not tolerate wind—keep away from heat vents. These plants, as do most others, thrive on constancy. Keep just moist, even temperatures and light.

Fertilizer—Use a high phosphorous fertilizer cut to 1/4 package recommended use once a week until the blooms appear, not the red leaves but the tiny yellow flowers in the center of the colored bracts. The middle number in the formula is the phosphorous count. Both BR-61 and Peters Special have a high phosphorous count.

Pests—Mealybugs, mites, and aphids are some to watch for, however, with good plant care, and air circulation the poinsettias are very hardy plants and pest resistant.

The poinsettia remains on the dangerous plant list, not lethal—fatal. If ingested by small children or pets it could produce nausea and diarrhea. Sensitive individuals could experience skin dermatitis due to contact with the milky sap. So exercise caution and keep the plant out of reach of children.
