Early snow

When a little bit of white shows up on the village side of Sierra Blanca, that means there's lots more on the other side at Ski Apache. The combination of early snow and sophisticated snow making techniques have led Ski Apache officials to plan an early opening date, Friday, Nov. 22.

Downs votes to shrink Board

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

Ruidoso Downs voters went to the polls Tuesday and put their stamp of approval on a proposal to decrease the size of the board of trustees.

Just a few years after increasing the board for the Village of Ruidoso Downs to seven members, 104 voters responded to a petition that prompted Tuesday's election with 70 voting "for" and 34 "against" a four-member board.

That 104 represents close to a fourth of the Downs 453 registered voters — a big turnout for a one-question ballot, according to election officials.

The population in the Village of Ruidoso Downs is 920.

Mayor Bonnie Addy and the present members of the board will all finish out their terms, with five members and the mayor going off the board next March.

Trustees Ray Frederickson and Jackie Branum will remain on the village board when Alice Allison, Margie Morales, Pam Bernard, Charlotte Craig and Karen Stevens go off the board.

Morales, Bernard, Craig and Stevens all were appointed to the board, with Allison finishing a four-year term.

Voters will then elect two trustees and a mayor to the board.

Former mayor Jake Harris, joined by several long-time Ruidoso Downs residents and former elected officials, was pushing for the

NMSU coed is Miss Ruidoso

Charmaine Rue, a brown haired, brown eyed 19-year-old, is Miss Ruidoso.

The New Mexico State University sophomore — born and raised in Ruidoso — will represent her hometown in the Miss New Mexico-USA Pageant Saturday, Nov. 16, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods in Mescalero.

A 1990 Ruidoso High School graduate, Miss Ruidoso is studying elementary education at NMSU.

While in high school, Rue was in the band for a year, ran track for a year and was a cheerleader for two years. As a senior, she received awards for being in the top six All American Cheerleaders and most talented.

"I also danced my way through all my school years," said Rue.

She has participated in pageants throughout high school such as Cinderella, Kids of America, Miss All American and Miss Teen New Mexico USA.

She's won titles, including Miss Talent, Miss Congeniality and Miss Beauty.

In the Miss New Mexico USA pageant, Rue will be competing in personal interview, swimsuit, and evening gown.

All contestants have many activities and rehearsals planned for the five-day pageant week.

"As a dream of all little girls, I've always wanted to wear a crown," said Rue. "Becoming Miss New Mexico would be my dream come true," she added.

"I feel that growing up in New Mexico, I cannot only represent Ruidoso well, but teach other states about our Land of Enchantment."

Rue is the daughter of Andy and Ola Rue of Ruidoso, and the granddaughter of Carlos and Aluesa Sanchez of Ruidoso and Mable Lopez of Roswell. She is the youngest of four sisters and one brother.

The pageant-hopeful is likely to be wearing bright clothes in her favorite colors of turquoise and purple, and in her spare time she likes skiing, swimming, dancing and listening to music.

"I like all music ranging from classical to heavy rock-n-roll, but I prefer country and rock," said Rue.

She also likes meeting new people, and that's one reason she's looking forward to the jam-packed pageant week.

"I am looking forward to this pageant, and becoming the new Miss New Mexico USA 1992," she said.

"I appreciate all the support from Ruidoso, and I invite everyone out to this November 16 event."

Chino wins by landslide

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

President Wendell Chino won re-election at the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation by a landslide Tuesday and will remain in office for his 36th straight year.

That kind of margin of victory has caused some concern among several factions of the Mescalero Indian Tribe. At least one defeated candidate, Harlyn Geronimo, asks, "Is this ballot counting fair?"

Geronimo has serious doubts about the way the Mescalero Apache Tribal Election Board conducted its election.

The election board is appointed by Wendell Chino and the counting is done behind closed doors without an independent observer.

Geronimo said the city of Alamogordo had volunteered the use of their voting machines, but Chino had opted for hand written ballots.

The ballots also have to be written in pencil, not ink.

Chino condemned Geronimo Thursday for not accepting defeat through the ballot box.

He said Geronimo's accusations were nothing new.

"It is regrettable for this broken record syndrome to occur every two years, the same old complaints and allegations," he said.

Chino said the huge majority of tribal members are sick and tired of that syndrome and that the 70 percent majority of victory is proof.

The Mescalero Apache Reservation of over 400,000 acres is relatively small in voter constituency, with about 1,500 eligible voters in a 3,000 population. The total 710 ballots cast in the election was the most votes anyone could remember cast in an election. Three ballots were voided.

Chino beat Geronimo by a 493 to 210 margin.

In the primaries, Chino received 297 votes, Geronimo 123 and Donahn Torres 23. Ten ballots were voided.

Several weeks before the election, Chino expressed concern to the media and in public meetings that a proposal to study the possible installation of a monitored storage retrievable (MSR) facility for nuclear waste would hurt him with tribal voters because it was not explained properly by the media.

On Nov. 10, Chino sent a package to the media that had a fact sheet about the storage facility that left the question of location open to speculation.

On Nov. 11, Chino sent that same package to the tribe with one additional paragraph that read, "No, the Tribal Council will not approve nor does the Tribal Council plan to locate the facility on the Reservation or exchange a piece of tribal land for a site. This we will not do."

This statement may have ended any fear or apprehension by tribe members of a nuclear waste dump on their property.

Last week, a series of small meetings with tribal members was held to explain the dangers of a nuclear storage facility. The meeting was conducted, in part, by builders of the nuclear waste containers. In those meetings, tribal members were promised preferential treatment and jobs paying up to $45,000 a year.

The increase in voter support for Chino following these meetings seems to indicate that his recent actions have gained him votes from tribal members.

Geronimo and Torres said they were frustrated and felt oppressed at what they felt was an undemocratic election, governed by Chino's hand picked election board and the counting of ballots behind closed doors.

Although disappointed, they said the story was familiar. To question Chino was to jeopardize your job and that the tribe was motivated by fear and intimidation, they said.

Indeed, Chino's victory speech had more fire than praise for a worthy opponent.

"The majority of the tribal voters have voted for leadership and not the MRS," Chino said in a news release.

"The tribal voters also voted for tribalism. The majority vote also says, we will do our own thing in the tribe and we will not allow off reservation influences

After the application has been received by the county clerk, the applicant will receive an absentee ballot in the mail. Completed ballots must be received in the County Clerk's office by 7 p.m. Nov. 12.

Ski Apache is opening early!

Early snow, plus cold weather for snow making, are giving skiers an unexpected bonus.

Ski Apache's opening date for the 1991-92 ski season has been updated to Friday, Nov. 22, announced Roy Parker, Ski Apache' general manager.

The official snow report verified 17 inches of new snow falling last week. Ski Apache also makes snow nightly.

Beginning Nov. 22, Ski Apache will remain open seven days a week. For current ski conditions, call Ski Apache's recorded snow report at (505) 257-9001, 24 hours a day.

Betty Award ballots are ready

Ballots are now available at Candle Power for this year's Ruidoso Little Theatre Betty Awards.

Anyone who has seen all four RLT productions this season is eligible to vote. Voters will choose best play, best actress or actor, best supporting actress and actor, best director and a big variety of production and specialty award winners.

The ballots have to be completed and returned by mail by the Nov. 18 deadline.

Grindstone anglers hang up their fishing rods 'til spring

Grindstone Lake will be closed for fishing as of Nov. 1, according to Parks Director Moe Masters.

The Lake will reopen for fishing on March 1, 1992. The lake will stay open for hiking and sight-seeing.

Schools invite you back to class

Registered voters in the Ruidoso Municipal School District will be asked on Nov. 12 to approved a $5.5-million bond issue to construct a new elementary school, add six classrooms to the White Mountain Intermediate-Elementary site, provide equipment and repairs at several schools, to construct a new maintenance yard and to enlarge the administration area.

Balloting will take place from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 12, in the gymnasium foyer at Ruidoso Middle School.

Anyone needing a ride to the election is encouraged to call the Ruidoso Schools Administration office, 257-4051, or Sally Rue at the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center, 257-4565.

Meanwhile, school officials have invited district voters and others to stop by any Ruidoso school anytime this week. Supt. Mike Gladden stressed that members of the public are always welcome in the schools, but some voters may have a particular interest in checking out the facilities set for remodeling or refurbishing in the proposed bond issue.

"The Ruidoso Municipal School District is proud of its schools its staff and, most of all, its students," reads the invitation provided by the Blue Ribbon Committee for Blue Ribbon Kids.

"We would like you to share in our excitement," says the Committee.

"See for yourself" between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. today and tomorrow.

"You'll see firsthand the many valuable and innovative programs that are meeting the needs of today's students who are tomorrow's leaders."

The Blue Ribbon Committee, a volunteer group of Ruidoso Municipal School District voters, has been spreading the word about Ruidoso schools over the last few weeks. The committee made site visits, studied the bond proposal and then made a commitment to work to get the bond issue passed.

The proceeds from the bond issue will be used for a number of projects around the school district to handle the increased student enrollment. District enrollment has increased 11 percent during the last two years, and virtually all of this growth has occurred in grades kindergarten through eight.

Additionally, despite the recently completed expansion at the White Mountain site, this facility remains at capacity-plus.

All other facilities, except the high school, are at capacity.

According to information provided by the Blue Ribbon Committee, the situation at the Ruidoso Middle School and Nob Hill Elementary have become critical with students being housed in portable classrooms.

Compared to your present tax bill, the bonds will increase taxes for the next three years only; then the cost will fall below the current level.

For information on the bond issue, on the impact on taxes or the projects included in the proposal, contact Supt. Mike Gladden at 257-4051, or call any member of the Blue Ribbon Committee for Blue Ribbon Kids.

Pinky Jones chairs that committee; with Dub Williams, vice chairman; Karen Tillman, secretary; and Mary Noltenmeyer, treasurer. Members of the committee include Dolores Rue, Cal Cowden, Mildred Crocker, Jeff Chapman, Pat Schrader, Tom Rigby, Herb Brunell, Mike Line, Frankie Jarrell, James Stoddard, Frank Sayner, Rod Adamson and Margie Morales.

Ruidoso students spend as much time as possible using computers, but more equipment will be needed as the school population continues to grow.

Miss New Mexico hopefuls arrive next week

Beauties from throughout New Mexico will meet at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Tuesday, November 12, to begin a weeklong schedule of events leading up to the Miss New Mexico USA Pageant.

The 30 contestants, including Miss Ruidoso Charmaine Rue, will check in on Tuesday, and stay busy with rehearsals and special events right up until the curtain goes up on the pageant at 8 p.m. Saturday, November 16, in the Wendell Chino Ballroom at the Inn of the Mountain Gods in Mescalero.

Tuesday night's invitation only opening night ceremonies will include a Salute to the Culture of the Land of Enchantment costume contest with the contestants modeling costumes based on this colorful state's history.

That night the women, joined by volunteers from Holloman Air Force Base, will also take part in a dance contest.

This yearly tradition, where Holloman officers and non-commissioned officers, lend a hand at the Miss New Mexico-USA Pageant has "caused" three marriages, according to pageant organizers, who smile when they talk about the contestants from past years who have met these military men at the Pageant and later married them.

On Wednesday, contestants will visit shops and businesses in the Village of Ruidoso and be treated to a beauty clinic.

From then on the week will include rehearsals, rehearsals, rehearsals, right up to the big show.

The preview show is on Friday evening at the Inn, and admission is $5.

The finals are Saturday, and Miss New Mexico USA will be crowned following the extravaganza and just before the gala ball. Tickets to the Pageant are $15 each.

Jeff Gates of Channel 7 in El Paso, Texas will be master of ceremonies. Entertaining along with the contestants will be singers Rhonda Jones and Tim Whitmer.

The set design will be extravagant this year, created by designers with J.D. Penney's. The set will be changed four times during Saturday's show.

The VIPs from Las Cruces will again be the official hair designers for the state pageant. The entire staff, under the direction of Ramon Madrid, will be at the Inn to present a beauty clinic and to create hair designs for the pageant contestants on Saturday.

Judges this year, who will begin arriving on Thursday, will include Perry Dobradenka, a Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, civic leader, and Don McFadden, a golf professional from San Antonio, Texas.

Judges will include Terry Bullock, president of the Las Cruces Convention and Visitors Bureau; Quentin Cormal, of Golden Corral Restaurants; Peggy Acosta, president of the South Texas Good Neighbors Association of Del Rio, Texas; Curtis Roseman, an official with Wal-Mart in Las Cruces; and Bob Latnick, a businessman from Costa Rica.

Locals included in the panel of judges are Mark Doth, marketing director of Ruidoso Downs Race Track; and Danny Garcia, head of security at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Tabulators will be Jackie Glover and her staff of Pioneer Savings and Loan in Ruidoso.

change. A major point in their campaign was the monthly cost to pay seven trustees.

Mayor Addy, who opposed the change, said it's already hard to get a quorum for some meetings. She also said with just four trustees, the mayor could become very powerful with many chances to break tie votes.

The election, prompted to save money, cost the village about $3,000, but supporters said the savings over the years will be much more than that.

and individuals to decide our affairs for us.

"The Tribal General Election on Tuesday has proven the news media, newspapers, TV and radio all wrong. The majority of the tribal voters rejected the conclusions of the news media. The subtle opposition against the leadership of (Chino) the tribe and the Tribal Council was recognized, rejected and soundly defeated," he said.

Chino avoided specifics in his charges against the media.

"The utilization of the outside news media with deceit and lies involving reporters and an Alamogordo lawyer were defeated by the tribal voters," Chino said. He did not identify the lies or the lawyer's name.

Chino also had some bitter comments to make against his opponents.

"The area and regional papers must realize there is a difference of opinion but no chasm within the tribe. The two candidates for Tribal Council who engaged in deceit, lies and a smear campaign all lost.

"My opponent, Harlyn Geronimo, was the lowest vote getter in the election. He ended up on the bottom of the pile," Chino said. According to the count of the board, Geronimo was last in the balloting with 210 votes.

Keith Miller received 582 votes as vice president. The Tribal Council vote was: Berle Kanseah, 430; Raymond Kirgan, 464; Raphael Mendez, 455; Frederick Peso, 445; Leland Lester Sr., 274; Sam Cooper, 245; and Mike Belin, 239.

"The perception and astuteness of the Mescalero Apache people shines brighter than ever," said Chino.

"Our majority voters refused to be swayed by outside media and maintained their independence. I am grateful of these facts," he said. But Harlyn Geronimo questions that those are the true facts.

On Oct. 30, Geronimo sent a letter to Chino and to the tribal election board requesting an independent observer to witness the count.

In his letter to Chino, Geronimo pleaded with Chino to allow his election board members to appoint an observer.

"Whatever you do or not do, will either re-establish confidence in the democratic process or corrode it even further. Controversy is the heart of democracy, but where the counting of the ballots is suspect, the tribe will suffer irreparable damage and disunity. It is your choice," he wrote.

In Geronimo's letter to the tribal election board he notified them that a member of the clergy would be appointed by himself to observe the counting of the ballots.

"This appointee to observe the counting of the ballots has become necessary to restore confidence in our democratic process. The person so appointed will in no way interfere with the counting of the ballots. He will not come into contact with any ballots nor does he have to see the individual ballots. The entire nation is watching and we must prove that our democratic process works," he wrote.

Chino said Geronimo's desire to have an outside observer was outside his jurisdiction and it would be improper for him to interfere, but the election board had made a ruling.

Chino indicated Geronimo erred when he took it upon himself to appoint the observer without making a request first to the election board.

He said that Geronimo also took his complaint to the three-judge Tribal Court that provided him with a fair and honest hearing.

At 11 a.m. Tuesday, in a small courtroom next to the hospital, Geronimo brought his case before the Tribal Court, three black robed judges, one male and two female.

A small rail separated a gallery of about 15 people from the litigants.

The complaint, in part, noted that the Tribal Election Board had not granted Geronimo's request to witness and observe the ballot tabulation. The allegations concluded refusal to allow such action was a violation of Geronimo's rights under the Indian Civil Rights Act.

After about 45 minutes of testimony, the judges adjourned and 15 minutes later announced their decision to dismiss the complaint.

The Tribal Court said the Election Board was within its rights to appoint or not appoint an observer. Therefore, they concluded the election board acted within its jurisdiction, and the complaint should not have been brought before the court.

Geronimo, however, felt his allegations of violations against him and the Indian Civil Rights Act brought the matter within the Tribal Court's jurisdiction.

Chino said he was convinced of the fairness and that no violation of Geronimo's civil rights had occurred. He said it was his opinion that, if necessary, the matter would stand the scrutiny of the federal courts.

The Indian Civil Rights Act is a guideline for the tribe's constitution. In that constitution, it says the election board has the right to make policy they feel is in concert with the Civil Rights Act.

The constitution also specifically spells out that the president appoints the election board members.

"As it stands now, Chino can be elected for life," Geronimo said. "He's going to die in office because 36 years ago he changed the constitution to favor him. He controls the election board, the judicial system and the tribal council."

Donalin Torres, lay attorney for Geronimo, says an observer would clear any cloud over the election process.

"The question continues, what does go on in there. Is our voting process handled democratically and honestly, those are still questionable because they did not allow an observer in there," She said.

Torres said the only other recourse for Geronimo would be the federal court, or if he wants to appeal his case to the tribal court.

Torres said one of the characteristics of this administration is to be sanctioned if you speak against the status quo.

She said her own political activities, such as running in the primaries for the presidency, has produced a kind of stigma against her, but she was more concerned with the plight of Geronimo.

Musical cornucopia combines health facts & entertainment

by YVONNE LANELLI
Special to The News

Combine a celebration, music, thanks, wellness facts, announcements and refreshments and call it "A Musical Cornucopia, to Your Good Health," a 15th anniversary fete and benefit Sunday for Home Health Services of Lincoln County.

The recorded voice of Florence Nightingale, considered the Mother of American Nursing, began the program with the words, "When I am no longer even as family — just unchained — I hope my voice seems potentially the great one of my life."

It was she whom Thomas Edison chose to be the first person ever recorded in the world," said master of ceremonies Dick Weber. "And he recorded this 10 years before he invented a device to play it back."

Home Health Services of Lincoln County, founded and managed by Verna Adams, is a non-profit healthcare organization that provides home nursing, equipment and other support for those who need it.

The latest offering at Home Health is a reference library available to anyone diagnosed with a disease they may not understand. At Home Health they can read about their illness and talk to health care professionals.

Weber serves on Home Health's board of directors and is Endowment Fund Chairman. Adams suggested ways of donating, including making a memorial donation to mark the loss of a loved one.

Adams reminded the audience of Home Health's philosophy, "to provide skilled care with compassion in the patient's home."

"We care for everyone from new-borns to a 99-year-old, in the richest homes and in those with dirt floors," said Adams. "We deny no one who needs us."

The need always stays ahead of revenues at Home Health, and anyone who wants to make a donation, may contact Adams or a member of her staff at 257-5189.

Throughout Sunday's program, Weber provided bits of medical information as a means to introduce musical guest.

One such "lesson" explained the chemistry of memory and why a person's short-term memory lessens with age while long-term memory remains clear. That was a lead-in to pianist Donna Willard playing "I Remember It Well" from Gigi.

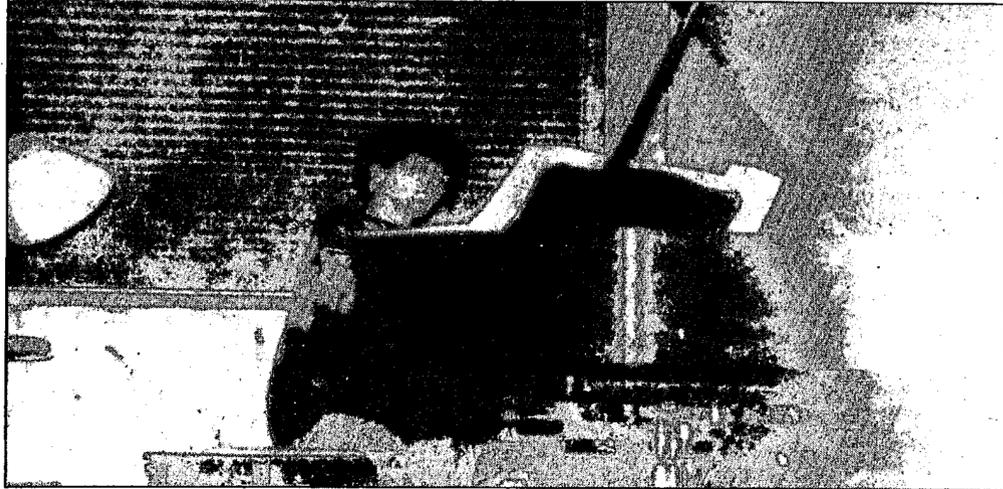

Willard also chairs Home Health's board of directors.

business editor of The Ruidoso News. A member of the New Mexico Press Association Hall of Fame, Stubbs had served for many years as editor of the Roswell Record, and later of the Alamogordo daily before moving to Ruidoso and joining The News staff. He will be missed.

Hondo kids study at Valley of Fires

Observing students gleefully checking out the twists and turns of ancient lava beds or listening to squeals of excitement as they discovered a beautiful rock sample is very rewarding, according to Hondo 8th grade Earth science teacher Cheryl Bowman.

According to a news release, she took her students to Valley of Fires to study igneous rocks and to observe first hand the changes occurring as the lava cooled. Unusual forms such as lava bubbles, swirls and fissures were noted.

They continued on to Bingham Ranch to collect mineral samples where students found galena/bauxite, fluorite, calcite, quartz, azurite and malachite.

The trip was in conjunction with the Unit on Minerals and Rocks.

According to Bowman, her field trip complemented a previous one sponsored last year when the same group went with New Mexico history teacher Lynda Sanchez to learn about the Indian cultures of New Mexico.

"It was a terrific experience and each one now has a much greater appreciation about this fascinating earth upon which we live," continues the news release.

Students who participated were Andrea Lucero, Andrew Sena, Kara Castañon, Elena Cruz, Florencio Salcido, Robert Herrera, Alejandro Lambert, Amber Herrera, Iris Chavez, Carol Sanchez and Lisa Gutierrez.

Fishing fans angle for prizes

The Lincoln County Bassmasters, Ruidoso, has announced that it will sponsor a free local Bassmaster BP CastingKids Competition on Saturday, Nov. 16, at the Old Safeway Building, which is now the future home of the Church of Christ.

Lincoln County Bassmasters is one of 2,500 B.A.S.S. Chapters locally sponsoring this educational, fun and challenging contest developed by the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society and BP, the leading producer of gasoline in the U.S., and major gasoline, oil and convenience store retailer.

Based on the old football "Punt, Pass & Kick" competition, the Bassmaster BP CastingKids contest will test the basic casting, pitching and flipping skills of boys and girls ages 7-10 and 11-14.

Local prizes include medallions and rods and reels. The young anglers who reach the finals will compete against kids in their own age group for $20,000 in scholarships and prizes. Each competitor will receive a free Bassmaster BP CastingKids certificate of Competition and a copy of the program's official publication, Bassmaster BP CastingKids Magazine.

There are no entry fees. The competition begins on the local level where each entrant will be judged on casting, pitching and flipping in official lanes, aiming at the standard Bassmaster BP CastingKids target to ensure competition uniformity.

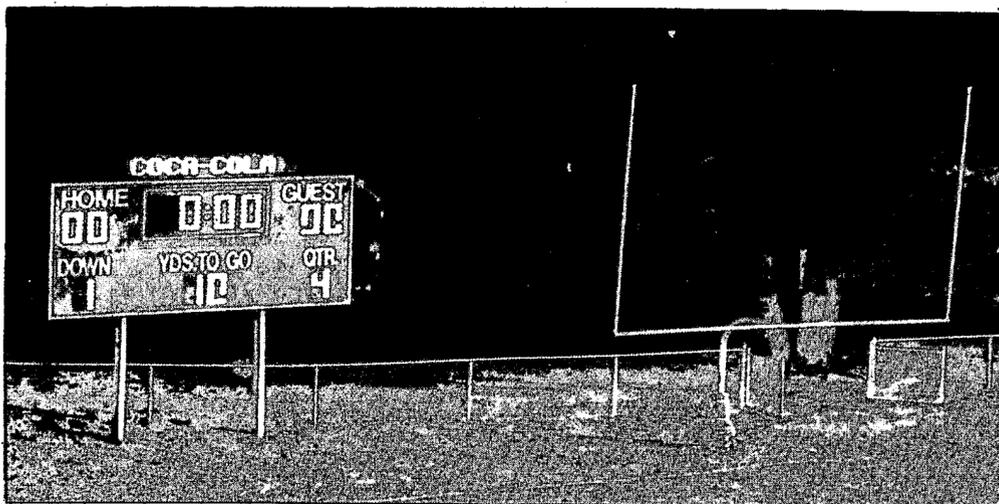

Scoring will be based on a point system with the highest points determining the winner in each of the two age groups. From there, the winners from each local competition will advance to their respective state competitions and then on to a national competition, where only 10 National Semifinalists will earn the right to attend the BASS Master Classic in August 1992 and compete for the two titles of National Bassmaster BP CastingKids Champion.

In addition to the $20,000 in scholarships for the top anglers, $14,000 in prizes will be awarded to sponsoring B.A.S.S. Chapters and State Federations.

"I believe the Bassmaster BP CastingKids program has many wonderful benefits," said local Bassmasters Chapter President B.J. Barnes.

"In addition to learning more about fishing, the contest will also foster in each participant an appreciation and concern for our great outdoors while he or she is having fun."

For more information, call or write Bassmaster BP CastingKids, P.O. Box 17900, Montgomery, AL, 36141, (205) 272-9530, or contact Barnes in Ruidoso.

sating words like "Defense", "Offense," and "Yellow Flag." Athletic director Ronny Maskew said the sign would also have a promotional benefit to help with the athletic program. The sign will be used during Friday's Cobre game.

Sanchez makes it two in a row

Daniel Sanchez, new Ruidoso football swami, became the first guesser to win The Ruidoso News Pigskin Poll two weeks in a row since one of the Turner boys turned the trick a year ago.

This week Sanchez edged Linda Cox, another poll winner two weeks ago, in a tie breaker by picking Socorro over Ruidoso. Cox picked the Warriors. Both players had 17 wins.

A bunch of you guessers out there really got burned on the Roswell-Hobbs game. And there weren't a lot of Atlanta over the Niners either.

No one seemed surprised with Cincy's first win over Cleveland. The nod went to the Browns, but not by much.

Hagerman's victory over Tatum knocked out a bunch of entries.

Incidentally, Cyrus, your dad, Virgil, beat you this week. You tied on handwriting.

was an entry by Arnold Cantu and Sanchez again.

Knocking on the door, but no cigar at 15 wins were Jess Fromknecht, Bob Luera, Larry J. Henderson, Ed Turner, Ron Servies and Jenice Shook. Talk about familiar names at the top.

The low this week was eight wins. High for the season is still 18 by a gang of people. The week's tally has 2 with 17 wins, 1 with 16, 6 with 15, 14-14, 8-13, 8-12, 2-11, 2-10, 1-9 and 1-8.

Runners do well at meet

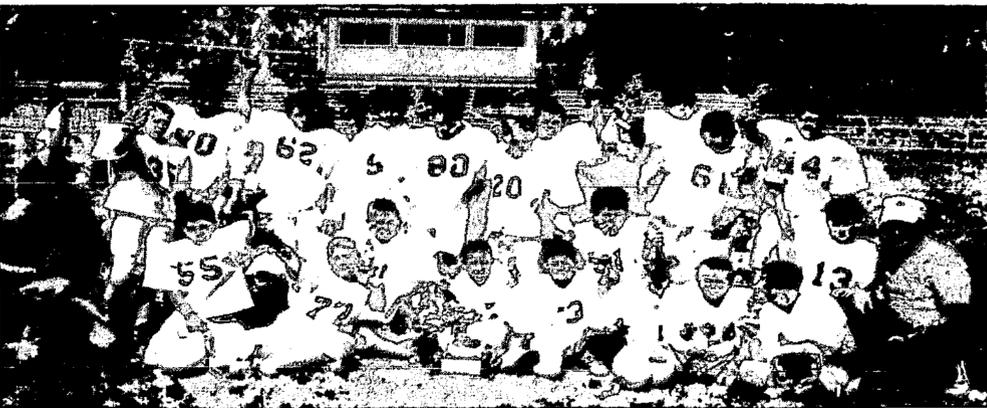

Nick Nanz and Luisa Tam once again led the Warrior pack in the cross country meet Albuquerque Academy last Saturday.

Tam ran up against a three-time state champ and turned in a time of 20:09, not one of her bests. Warrior coach Ronny Maskew said she had been boxed in by several runners and paid the price. He said it wouldn't happen again.

Stephanie Haas finished 36th; Catrina Gabaldon, 58th; Rachelle Holstein, 65th; Amanda Bell, 67th and Kami Bailey, 92nd.

Sarah Echols led the JV Girls with a 31st finish; Trini Langworthy was 33rd and Sarah Dix finished 34th.

Nanz finished 18th in a field of the state's best runners. Eric Evans finished 44th; Jackie Lynn, 56th; Jeremie Livingston, 78th; Faustino Miranda, 80th; and Josh Norbury, 120.

Warrior seniors end high school football careers

This is it! The last week of the season for Ruidoso Football and the end of a high school athletic career for 15 seniors.

Senior Football and Cheerleaders Appreciation Night, Tuesday, was a misty-eyed event that honored those students and their accomplishments.

Football parent Carolyn Henson, aided by parent Roy Seay, organized the dinner that honored senior football players, cheerleaders, managers, coaches and sponsors.

Gerry Tully, representing the Fellowship of Christian Athletics, presented a thought provoking speech on how opinions change throughout our lives. Tully's message stressed the importance of "to live, let live and to keep God first in our lives."

Rebecca Durham introduced the cheerleaders and told some humorous stories that occurred with them throughout the season. The seniors are Karen Hopko, Tammy Hicks, Becky Benson and Valerie Rankin.

The cheerleaders were praised for the excitement and new energy they brought to Warrior cheerleading and to football this year.

Warrior head coach Mike Speck gave an emotional and sometimes humorous farewell to his outgoing senior squad. Moments of praise and funny recollections were expressed by all the coaches.

Henson said many parents at the event were moved by the obvious closeness between coaches and players.

"We appreciate their love and deep concern for our children," Henson said. "We know they have poured their hearts into what they believe is right."

Henson mirrored the thoughts of many parents of what has not been an easy season for the Warriors.

"When the score board has not been in our favor, everyone has an opinion as to 'how to do the job,'" she said. "The realization is how hard it really is to do the job. Our children have learned a most valuable lesson about life. They have never given up and each and every game they have been back out there playing and cheering their hearts out. You can bet they will give it all they got this Friday against Cobre."

The departing seniors are Abel Chavez, Dan Seay, Manny Guardiola, Louis Jimenez, Keith Henson, Richard Rippey, Craig Turner, Shane Eidson, Jerry Romero, Jason Hightower and the faithful manager Sean Chatman.

The dinner was prepared by all the senior parents with the help of Pam Melton, manager at the Sports Theater Complex where the dinner was held.

Residents who want to show their support can come to the quarterback club breakfast at 7 a.m. at the Sports Theater Friday.

The Warriors last home game against Silver was, at best, sparse. The best way to say goodbye to these seniors and the effort that they have given their school and community is to come out in numbers for the Cobre game Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Warriors have had a losing season and they feel bad about it. All the more reason for fans attending Friday's game. Everyone loves you when you're up. That's easy. But when you are down and get help, those are your true friends. That's when you need it the most.

W.D. Horton Stadium is going to be full of friends Friday night.

Third time's the charm for Cowboys team

The Cowboys three-peated as Ruidoso Little League's Football Super Bowl Champions in the Major League Division.

The Cowboys recorded a 17-1 record in the last three years. They lost to Ski Apache Jets 7-6 two weeks before the season's final game.

The Cowboys won the "Super Bowl" Game with a stirring 26-6, well played game over the Jets.

The coaches of all the teams said that the season was a success only because of the cooperation of the parents.

The Silver Lining

Cows are early snow messengers

Indian Summer Snow

On the 29 two cows came down from the mountain to bring me some kind of message about the weather, the way they have done all these years. It was a perfect Indian Summer day, with the oak brush all in Halloween colors all along the hillsides — orange, lemon-yellow, light crimson, and true purple, all under a soft hazy veil of lavender, light purple, and lilac. The western breeze was warm and balmy under a bright sun, waving the autumn colored grass of the mountain meadows.

The cows after lying resting in the sun most of the afternoon, all of a sudden about an hour before sundown, you looked for them and they were gone.

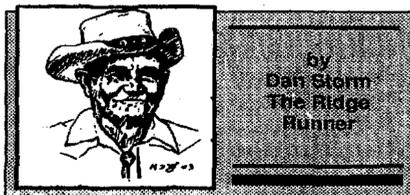

On the 30, their message was plain to see in the form of a great bank of frosty-looking clouds, making a solid front as they advanced from the north just down the vale, all just before sundown. By dusk the temperature dropped from about 70 to 40, and here came the freezing mist and the little white balls of sleet — Jack Frost's legions, the advance guard of an early wintry blast.

Cold Snow

This Halloween trick by Jack Frost and the weather spirits grew colder through the night, with the freezing mist and sleet and frozen rain joined more and more by snow — not floating downy snowflakes of ordinary but hard-frozen large balls of sleet and snow mixed together. This is what you call a cold snow.

Ordinary snow of song, poem, story, Christmas cards, is made of the soft beautifully-designed flakes, floating swirling and dancing through the air on their slow journey from the sky; this kind of beautiful snow does not bring the temperature much below freezing.

This early surprise blizzard right after the balmy days of Indian Summer, brought the temperature down to 14 in the wee small hours of the morning — the coldest day since last January.

Autumn Leaves Amidst the Snow

The next morning on the last day of October, the Indian Summer month, there was a snowy mountain wonderland, with every bush, tree and vine outlined in pure white. The walnut trees, which have already shed their leaves, were trees of snow artistry, with giant arching branches and small twigs clearly outlined in the close-clinging snow.

The branches of the piñon and cedar were turned into countless white hands holding castles, turrets, gateways, castles and fortresses — all soft and sparkling snow sculptures adorning the children of mother earth in early wintry splendor.

This snow, being cold, stayed on the trees, letting the world have a good look at its decorations, the ones which especially caught your eye being the snow on the bronze oak trees and the golden cedar and the crimson woodbine. And the oak brush tapestry all along the mountain sides amongst the evergreens showed just its top branches looking out over the steep fields of snow, a picture of Indian Summer amidst the snow, something long to remember.

A Snow Goose Wanders Through

Sue and John Pittman, who live at the old Willie Place just below Biscuit Hill, are great friends of the wild birds who fly to and fro with the seasons in our mountain land.

On Halloween day Sue called me to say that a lone Snow Goose, one of the most beautiful of the migratory birds had flown in and landed in the river at their place. This is the first of this bird's tribe that Sue has seen there at their home.

He must have wandered away from his band, confused by the surprise blizzard, but he did not stay long, and lost no time heading south. Every year, an Osprey, a bird of the Eagle family stops by their home; and this year he has arrived early and gone on his way. The same for the Blue Heron who arrives every year.

The Pittman home is a favorite stopping place for local favorites and also those who make their annual pilgrimages through the highways of the sky.

Blessing the Home

Of George and Nancy Cronin

Many friends gathered last Sunday at the home of George and Nancy Cronin, for the services of "Blessing of the Home." they went from room to room as the Reverend Jan Davey recited special prayers for each room.

"Visit, O Blessed Lord, this home with the gladness of Your presence. Bless all who live here with the gift of Your love. And grant that they may manifest Your love to one another and to all whose lives they touch. May they grow in grace, and in knowledge and love of You. Guide, comfort and strengthen them, and preserve them in peace, O Jesus Christ, now and forever."

"Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as the soul prospereth."

Then everyone in the house recited together Psalm number one hundred and twelve.

We all are happy over this blessing of the home of George and Nancy and Erin Cronin; and we are grateful for the Lord's many blessings to all of us.

The Gold Rush

Ruidoso High School's 24-Karat-Gold marching band, under the direction of Rob Lovett, has been winning prizes this season. The Warrior band took first place among marching bands in the Aspenfest parade and then traveled to Las Cruces to take second in the New Mexico State University Homecoming parade.

New Ag program creates big interest in the Ruidoso schools

Ruidoso Future Farmers of America (FFA) members recently hosted the 1991-92 Chapter Officer Leadership Training Conference at the Ruidoso High School Cafeteria. A total of 229 members and guests representing 11 different high schools attended.

The purpose of the conference is to give new FFA members and officers an opportunity to better understand their leadership positions. The conference featured the State FFA Officers in action. Each officer conducted mini workshops on responsibilities of each office.

Students were taught how to take minutes, give treasurer's reports, write news articles, conduct public relations programs, and set up chapter activities.

In addition State Officers visited the local Agriculture Education classrooms at the middle and high school to expose members to the FFA Organization.

Local FFA members benefited a great deal from the workshops and are busy implementing their new skills, according to a news release. This event marks the first FFA activity for the local FFA Chapter.

FFA Chapters represented include: Roswell High, Roswell Goddard, Tatum, Carlsbad, Lovington, Carrizozo, Hondo, Capitan, Cloudcroft, Artesia and Ruidoso.

Since August 1 there has been a lot of action in the Ruidoso Middle School and High School in the vocational buildings.

Ruidoso's first Agriculture Education program was started on August 1, when the district was awarded a $55,000 Perkins Grant to start the program.

Agriculture Education Programs have been around for many years in other districts. In fact Vocational Agriculture was established in 1917 under provisions of the Smith Hughes Act.

The Future Farmers of America (FFA) was established in 1928 and is the youth organization for students enrolled in agriculture programs. Nationwide there are more than 7,500 FFA chapters and 380,000 members. In New Mexico more than 3,000 high school agriculture students enjoy the privileges and opportunities of FFA in more than 65 active FFA chapters.

The Ruidoso Agriculture Program was started in response to a need for specialized vocational skills training for students entering the job market. The program has uniquely started in the Middle School where more than 125 students are enrolled in eight classes.

The Agriculture Education class offers exploratory training in the FFA organizations public speaking, parliamentary procedure, livestock industry including breeds, animal parts, record keeping, selection, and basic management practices.

In addition, a unit is taught in basic plant science and a full unit on shop safety, tool identification, arc welding, oxyacetylene torch, and power tool use. Each student participates in the above areas and has opportunities to compete in FFA contests and award programs for each area.

The Agriculture Mechanics class offers a unit in mechanical drafting, shop safety and management, woodworking skills, arc welding, oxyacetylene torch, power and hand tool identification and usage, and small gasoline engines.

This year's AgriScience classes are offered in two hour time blocks and offer the above mentioned class content with an emphasis on science and math competencies. In addition the classes offer first hand instruction on agriculture related science fair projects and research.

One Agriculture Education instructors are employed by the Ruidoso Municipal School District. Mike Gaines has eleven years of experience and Shawn Dennis is in his second year of teaching.

The program is off to an excellent start.

The curriculum for next year is being developed and tools, textbooks, equipment, and supplies are being purchased and utilized as well as the continuing development of classroom and shop facilities.

Kevin Pellam won first place and best of show; Tony Trujillo, first place; Summer Lopez, first place; Nancy Nevarez, second place; Timothy A. Rinner, second place; and Joseph Moreno, second place. Each year eighth grade art students at the Mid School are invited to take part in the Woman's Club contests. They were competing against 17 other club entries. First, second and third place art winners are eligible to re-enter their art work in the state convention.

DERMATOLOGY NOTES

MALIGNANT MELANOMA is by far the most dangerous cancer of the skin. It accounts for over 95% of deaths from skin cancer. Fortunately less than 5% of skin cancers are malignant melanomas. It is commonly called a cancerous mole but actually over 95% of malignant melanomas arise from normal appearing skin. They are usually, but not always, larger than benign moles and usually, but not always, begin as flat growths. If and when, the cancer begins to grow vertically it becomes progressively more dangerous since it is also growing inward. Moles that begin after age 45 are unusual and any mole that bleeds easily is suspect. If you have a question about a mole take that "questionable mole" to your doctor and if he has a question about it he will remove it to be analyzed.

Tigers tear into tourney foes

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The phrase may be borrowed from Avis, but as number two, the Capitan Tigers plan to try harder.

The Tigers enter the regional tournament at Fort Sumner this weekend ranked second in the district, right on the heels of Cloudcroft.

The team from snowy mountain to the west has proven to be the Tigers' nemesis this year, defeating them in the last game of regular play and in the district finals.

But the Tigers may get another shot at Cloudcroft at the regional match this weekend, if both teams get past their initial bouts. The Tigers will face Fort Sumner at 11 a.m. The team that emerges on top in that tournament will head to state competition.

Last weekend during the district tournament, the Tigers won their first match against Loving on Friday in three games.

"They played quite well, a great overall team performance," Coach Pam Allen said. "It was Tycie Traylor's best match of the year."

But in the district finals Saturday, although the Tigers fought to the last minute, they lost to Cloudcroft.

"We did well, winning the first two games," Allen said. "But we lost our concentration in the third game. It looked like we had it won in the fourth game, but we lost it and then we spotted them 12 points in the fifth game before we got on the scoreboard.

"We fought back to a 12-12 tie and had the opportunity to win, but didn't pull it off."

"I'm very proud of the girls," Allen said. "They never did quit playing. They kept fighting and fighting."

And for their outstanding effort, four of the players on the Tigers team were named all district players. They are Jennifer Eldridge, Tammy Payne, Kelly Cox and Tycie Traylor.

And as an added bonus and recognition, Coach Pam Allen was named 1991 Coach of the Year.

Social studies students create flags

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

It's difficult to motivate students in social studies class, but Capitan fifth grade teachers think they've found a way.

They have assigned projects to their classes that go beyond regurgitating what the children read.

Each child picked a state as their project. One of the first endeavors was to create a paper quilt from the state flags made by each student.

"They're also preparing a bulletin board display and will write and give an oral presentation on their states," said teacher Idy Schweitzer. "This is an activity to help students learn. Part of the lesson requirement is that they know all of the states and their capitols and this is a fun way of doing it."

The children also are creating scrapbooks of their chosen states.

"The oral presentation will center on what they have learned about their state, but I'm leaving it up to the students to decide what's important," Schweitzer said. "I've found the things that are interesting to me are not always interesting to them."

FFA going to Kansas City

Four members of the Capitan chapter of Future Farmers of America (FFA) will match their knowledge of meats with other chapters in the Sixty-fourth National FFA Convention Nov. 14, in Kansas City.

Local members already have won honors in the state meats contest. The team captured first place and individual members also brought home honors. Those heading to the national convention will be Mariah Peebles, who win first in individual competition at state; Jolene Edwards, who won second;

Kyle Traylor, who won sixth and Kamie Jolly. The team is coached by Joel Edwards.

"Participation in the meats contest not only teaches FFA members to identify different varieties and cuts of meat, but it also teaches them how to be good consumers," said Carol L. Duval, program manager of contests for the national FFA.

As part of the competition, participants will take a written examination to test their knowledge of meat selection, storage, cooking, nutrition and safety. A situational problem also will be presented in which FFA members must formulate the least cost combination of making either hamburger, wiener or bologna.

The National FFA Meats Contest is sponsored by Oscar Mayer Foods Corporation and George A. Hormel & Co. as a special project of the National FFA Foundation Inc.

The FFA is a national organization of 382,000 members in 7,776 local chapters preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture.

They're real gems

Winners of the second grade turquoise competition in Mary Shanks and Laura Jones' classes at Capitan Elementary got all decked out in honor of New Mexico's state gem. Standing from left are Douglas Smith, Jennifer Buff, Jessica Neal and Amber Goodloe. Kneeling and seated from left are Bob York,

Jena Clayton, Melanie Hail, Aubry Volguardsen and Brandi Dickerson. "We're studying history and it's hard for the children to remember the state gem," Shanks said. "We thought this would help. They're eating turquoise treats today and drinking turquoise punch too."

Trustees take Monday off

Capitan's Board of Trustees will be taking Monday off in recognition of Veteran's Day.

Their meeting has been rescheduled to 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 18 in village hall.

The Capitan School Board is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14 in the board room. The district's auditor will be there to discuss the annual audit.

Program is for gifted students

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

It's official this year. A program for gifted students has become part of Capitan Elementary's curriculum.

The students haven't been ignored in the past.

Teachers Mary McIlwain and Shelly Tate for the past few years devoted off-duty time to offer extra challenges to bright students.

But this year, McIlwain has been given a half-hour each day to work with students whose intelligence quota tests out at 130 points or higher and who show excellence in other parts of the school performance such as grades and creativity.

"There has been a real need for this class," McIlwain said. "We're just getting organized."

Her first three students are sixth grader Ryan Calkins, fifth grader Andrew Longbotham and fourth grader Chris Hail. She expects another one to two students to join the class soon.

One of the first class projects was for students to design a different kind of zoo for wildlife. The boys had to address the zoo's size, the classification of animals and their habitats.

"Ryan's father helped make the sculptures of the different animals," McIlwain said, explaining that the older Calkins works in the art therapy department of Fort Stanton Hospital and Training Center.

The cross classifications included birds that don't fly, birds based on size from the smallest to the tallest. And there were descriptions to match: the jogger is the roadrunner, the tuxedo king is the penguin and the wise one is the owl.

The boys are taking their displays around to other classes and are describing their work.

"I really enjoy working with the class and Mary Lee Daniel sits in for me (in her regular fifth grade class) when I'm with the boys," McIlwain said.

Before the class started, she spent some time with Sue Dolgener, the gifted teacher from the Ruidoso school district. She introduced McIlwain to a system by which students are involved in a series of activities to ensure they use all levels of their mental skills.

McIlwain said, "This is going to be a great year and a great beginning to the gifted program."

Grizzlies defeat Tigers 41-6 in county shootout

The Carrizozo Grizzlies hosted the Capitan Tigers on a bitterly cold Friday night.

It was the Lincoln County class A shoot-out.

The playoff bound Grizzlies scored freely in the first quarter but the scrappy Capitan team stayed in the game and played hard throughout the final three periods.

The Tigers have a much smaller and less experienced team.

The Tigers received the kickoff. On the first play from scrimmage, on their own 30, they fumbled and the Grizzlies Lee Najjar picked the ball out of the air and ran for a touchdown. That was to set the tempo for the rest of the quarter. James Silva kicked the extra point.

On their next possession, after Capitan failed to make a first down, the Grizzlies Najjar scored again from the 13 in a drive of seven plays that began on their own 18. The extra point failed.

Later Silva scored on an 80 yard run from scrimmage.

Quarterback Leeroy Zamora kept the ball and ran it in for the 2 point conversion.

The first quarter ended with the score 21-0 in favor of Carrizozo.

In the second quarter Lee Najjar scored from the Capitan 15. James Silva kicked the field goal.

Capitan showed some spunk by driving against the Grizzlies to the 12 yard line where their field goal failed.

Instrumental in that drive were runs by Damian Roybal and pass receptions by Weldon Smith. Stormy Trost also ran well.

The halftime score was 28-0.

In the third period the grizzlies scored again on a turnover caused by a low snap on a Capitan punt attempt.

Chris Barela scored from the Capitan's 10 yard line. Again the kick by James Silva was good.

In the final period Coach Michael Booty was able to give all members of the Grizzly squad some varsity experience, including 8th graders Wayne Labell, Raphael Chavez and Jacob Caldwell.

In the fourth period Grizzlies Anthony Archelet scored on an 80 yard run, the 2 point conversion attempt failed.

Capitan scored on a long drive that covered 85 yards.

It was capped by a quarterback keeper as Charlie Tracey made the tiger's only score. The conversion failed and the final score was 41-6.

Capitan was outweighed in every position but continued to scrap to the end.

Coach Pat Ventura expressed pride in his young team, singling out running back Damian Roybal for his play.

"Ernie Gallegos played great in the interior line both offensively and defensively," he said. "Josh Peralta, an 8th grade quarterback, played at the end of the game. He will be good."

Weldon Smith was lauded for his pass receptions and defensive play. "Except for the disastrous first quarter we played well. There were several times we stopped them and made them punt."

Coach Ventura was able to get his entire squad some varsity experience. "We'll be back next year and win some games with the program we started this year," he said.

"Capitan is a young team," said Coach Booty. "They will be strong next year."

Carrizozo finished the regular season with a record of 8-1 while Capitan's record is 0-10.

Representing the district as runner-up behind Loving, Carrizozo will travel to Hagerman for a 6:30 PM game on Friday. If they are successful they will meet the winner of the Tatum-Loving game being played this weekend.

Coach Booty expressed a desire to meet Loving for the State Championship. He says the team is anxious to redeem their only loss this season. That loss was to Loving.

Lady Grizzlies advance into regional playoffs

The Carrizozo Lady Grizzlies Varsity Volleyball Team advanced into the regional playoffs on Thursday evening last week by defeating the Vaughn Las Aguilas in a best 3 out of 5 match.

Coach Kay Patterson's charges won the first two games 15-3 and 15-11, lost the third game 11-15 and then took the fourth game 15-6.

Yvonne Estrella had 12 service points and 25 hits, Micha Schlarb had 12 service points and 18 hits.

Amy Funk had 13 service points and 15 hits and Cheryl Hightower had 9 service points and 15 hits.

Renee Roper also had a notable 5 service points and 20 hits.

The win insured Carrizozo the runnerup position in District 3A.

After the Vaughn victory on Thursday evening the team journeyed to Fort Sumner to meet the Fort Sumner Vixens for the district championship on Saturday.

In Fort Sumner they met a more experienced team which has 4 seniors. Carrizozo has one senior.

The Lady Grizzlies failed in their quest for the district title. According to Coach Patterson, it was a combination of meeting a quality Fort Sumner team and the young Lady Grizzlies having an off day on a difficult road trip.

Carrizozo lost the match in three games. The scores were 4-15, 0-15 and 3-15.

In spite of the disappointment shared by the team, Coach Patterson and Assistant Coach Christetta Butts, the evening had its rewards. Three members of the squad made All-District.

Cheryl Hightower, Micha Schlarb and Yvonne Estrella took the honors.

The team also won the district sportmanship trophy.

By winning the district title Fort Sumner also won the right to host the Regional playoffs. Carrizozo will play Cloudcroft in that series at 1 p.m. Saturday and if they win, they will advance to the state playoffs.

"The girls have had a successful season," Coach Patterson said. "They've earned their way, all the way."

WINTER TIPS

Fluid levels on older batteries should be checked, as well as the indicator light on newer maintenance free batteries. Tire inflation should also be checked before and throughout the winter because tire pressure drops one pound for every 10 degree drop in temperatures. If you haven't checked your tires, including the spare, since summer, it's likely they're several pounds under the recommended inflation level. Fluid levels should be checked on your brakes, power steering and automatic transmissions. Door and trunk locks should also be lubricated with graphite compounds to keep them from freezing. "Winter driving conditions bring out the worst in a car because they're the worst we face all year," says Ruidoso Ford. "The better the care you give your car, the better performance and protection it will give you."

County clamps down on illegal garbage dumping

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Some local contractors have been boosting their profit margin by dumping building trash on the shoulders of Lincoln County taxpayers.

County manager Nick Pappas said Wednesday the county's garbage collector has reported dumpster sites overflowing with discarded building materials in Alto, Palo Verde, Cedar Creek and San Patricio.

"We have a landfill at Capitan to handle construction materials, but they're just trying to avoid paying the fee (for dumping)," Pappas said.

The county isn't going to sit by and let offenders get away with it, he said.

"We intend to get serious about tracking down these people and fining them the maximum for each incident," Pappas said.

That's $100 each time construction material is found in a dumpster or at a dumpster site, no matter how neatly it is stacked or contained.

Pappas also encourages residents of unincorporated areas of the county who witness dumping to come forward. Ultimately, it's their government money that's paying the bill for the contractors, he pointed out.

"Everybody has been pretty honorable in the past, confining the dumping to household garbage," Pappas said. "But in the last six weeks, the situation has gotten out of hand."

County garbage is collected by Southwest Disposal. Its trucks can't compact lumber like regular garbage and that impacts the number of trips to serve each site, manager Joe Lawandowski explained.

"The county is really serious about cracking down and we intend to do some surveillance," Pappas said.

Old roofing material and shingles were dumped at Palo Verde. Dead animals, sections of telephone poles and construction debris were found at Alto and other sites, he said.

"If anybody has seen anything, please contact the county manager's office at 648-2385 or the sheriff at 648-2341," Pappas said.

"They're hurting you directly by abusing this service and avoiding their fair share of the disposal expense."

Carrizozo High School science students went to Socorro recently to practice for this year's regional and state science fairs.

Jehovah's Witnesses gather for meeting

This past weekend Alamogordo was once again the scene of a two-day Circuit Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The 873 in attendance at the high school gymnasium included 90 from the English congregation in Ruidoso.

According to Don Russell, a spokesperson for the local group, those attending were from the English congregation in South Central New Mexico.

In addition to the local group, there were Witnesses from Socorro, T or C, Tularosa, the two English congregations in Alamogordo, and one of the four English congregations from Las Cruces. This same program will be held in Spanish December 28 and 29 in Carlsbad.

Russell provided a few highlights of the event.

"The theme for the program was 'Carrying Our Own Load of Responsibility.' This was most timely in view of the attitude of many today to avoid responsibility," said Russell.

"As a result, husbands abandon wives, mothers forsake children, youths drop out of school, and citizens evade taxes," he continued.

"This program, being given worldwide during late 1991 and 1992, stressed that a responsible person is willing and able to answer for his or her own conduct."

Russell continued, "Various responsibilities all Christians have were dealt with in length. Our obligations to preach, to maintain proper conduct, to be joyful and even for young ones to bear their responsibilities were all reviewed. We all enjoyed the fine reminders."

"The main address was entitled 'God's New World—Who Will Qualify to Enter?'" added Russell. "It was delivered by Paul Moske, a traveling representative of Jehovah's Witnesses."

Another feature of the program also mentioned by Russell was the water baptism of newly qualified Witnesses.

"We feel that baptism too is a responsibility to accept as a dedicated servant of the Almighty God. A total of 10 were baptized by complete immersion. These now take up the public house-to-house ministry in real earnest with the others of their home congregations."

Russell concluded by mentioning that the next area English assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses will be a one-day event Sunday, April 26, 1992, in Alamogordo.

Feds support state program

A New Mexico environmental joint venture project has been recognized by President George Bush in the first annual President's Environment and Conservation Challenge Awards.

The Playa Lakes Joint Venture was formed in 1990 to work with land owners in the region to protect and enhance wetland values on the shallow lakes, or playas, that occur on the Southern Great Plains.

The project is a partnership of state wildlife agencies in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado; the Phillips Petroleum Company; the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; Ducks Unlimited Inc.; the National Wildlife Federation; The Nature Conservancy and the Texas Waterfowl Association.

Ruidoso Middle School is a beehive of activity

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If pets take on the personalities of their owners, it might be that schools take on the characteristics of their principals.

And that could account for the high energy and creative optimism that emanates from Ruidoso Middle School.

The focal point of all that activity is the office of principal Paula Papponi, who has headed the school for the past 1 1/2 years.

The artist/director/principal was attracted to the Ruidoso area while employed as assistant principal at a middle school in Grants.

"My experience is on the secondary level in English, speech, drama and world literature" before entering administration, Papponi said. "I like administration because you can do more things on a greater scale for students."

She picked a good time to come on board at the middle school.

The school last year benefited from a $3-million, 1989 bond issue.

According to school Supt. Mike Gladden, about $425,000 of the proceeds from the bonds renovated the sixth grade building from a drafty, rundown and antiquated facility into an attractive collection of school rooms and lockers housed in a well-insulated and heated building.

"It was the original high school for the whole district," said Linda Hawthorne, middle school counselor. "And since it was built in 1947, the building practically had no renovation except paint."

The bond issue paid for new restrooms, new lighting and carpet for bare floors. The old boiler was replaced with a central heating system, the walls were sealed and insulated, the ceiling was lowered and double-pane windows were installed.

Teachers Joette Maskew and Bob Palko also taught the sixth grade before the improvements.

"The lockers were broken and there were no double doors at the entrances so the wind drove straight through," Palko said.

Maskew said in her room at one end of the school, snowflakes used to blow into the room and it couldn't be heated above 54 degrees.

"The kids sat in here with gloves and coats," Maskew said.

New chalkboards, specially designed computer tables and cabinets were added. Rotting door frames were replaced and cracks filled in the walls.

The remodeled building has improved the teaching atmosphere because students no longer are preoccupied with staying warm, the teachers said.

NEEDS

About 500 students now attend the middle school.

And if Ruidoso school district voters pass a proposed $5.5-million bond issue Nov. 12, those students will benefit directly from a portion of the half-million set aside for equipment and $270,000 for smaller remodeling projects.

But probably the biggest impact would come from the proposed shifting of the sixth grade class to White Mountain Intermediate school. That would open up about 165 sixth graders and ease overcrowding of seventh and eighth graders in other sections of the middle school.

"I have mixed emotions about the sixth graders being moved," Papponi said. "They're such a delightful presence in the school. I'll be sorry to see them go, but we need the space."

"They bring you roses and hug you in the hall."

The remodeling projects proposed under the bond issue include renovation of the science labs and replacing the gymnasium bleachers.

"We desperately need to expand, update and remodel the seventh grade science laboratory," Papponi said, leading a reporter to a room where every square inch was occupied with specimens, displays or equipment.

Now that the sixth grade building finally has a new boiler, it's time to replace the vintage, 1940's boiler in the main seventh and eighth grade section, she said.

"Our agricultural program is doing marvelous things for the students," Papponi said. "I think we have the two best teachers in the state. They need supplies and equipment. They have wonderful ideas and the students are eager, but it's a brand new program and that takes lots of money."

Four teachers are sharing one double portable, she said. They handle the choir, gifted and agricultural education programs.

"The computer lab is housed next to the shop area and I don't think that's the best place for it to be," Papponi said.

She would like to see the old high school art building remodeled with new windows and heating system to be used for agricultural education, she said.

"In the home economic area, we need microwaves, new stoves, ovens and new cupboards," she said.

"And we need more computers."

Exactly what equipment the school would receive depends on district-wide requests and the priorities put forth by the middle school's building committee.

"Each teacher did a needs assessment and I hope the board will tell me I have so much to spend and then the staff will help put priorities next to it," Papponi said.

HISTORY

The facility — what is now the sixth grade building — started out as a high school in 1947.

"But the building wasn't finished until October or November and classes met at Carrizo Lodge the first two months of school," Hawthorne said.

"In 1940-41, the students were bused to Hondo and from 1941 until the high school was built, they went to Capitan, which had a high school and junior high.

Principal Paula Papponi, an artist herself, watches a lesson about the color spectrum by art teacher Karolyn Chubb, left. Papponi said an top-notch staff helps to overcome problems created by overcrowding at Ruidoso Middle School.

"The east wing originally was an elementary school and then became part of the high school as it grew."

At that time, the library was squeezed into a tiny room smaller than an office, she said.

Everything was detached until 1983 when the new high school was built on Warrior Drive and the former high school complex was converted into the middle school.

She said at one point the old band room hallway was a makeshift cafeteria.

It was great when a new cafeteria was expanded, Hawthorne said.

"At this age, they are volatile and they need space," she said. "We don't want seventh and eighth eating together. Going to three different lunches periods helped. When they all eat together, there's all that energy."

Gladden said from 1981-86, about $269,611 in bond proceeds was spent on the middle school.

But even converting it into a middle school in 1983 didn't keep the growing numbers at bay.

"By the next year, we outgrew the space," Hawthorne said.

In 1984-85, classrooms were added and "joined it all together," she said.

GOOD TIME

Whatever the improvements or lack thereof, Papponi said she's delighted with her staff and her students.

"This is perhaps the most difficult time in a young person's life, but it's also the most exciting age to be around," she said.

"It's extremely challenging. You can't give up hope. At this age, there always is a sense of hope. They have tremendous obstacles to overcome, but they have wonderful attitudes."

"It's harder to turn them around at an older age."

And when she's dealing with those students who are not at risk, "it's exciting to watch them achieve their goals," Papponi said.

"We have an excellent staff and I'm very proud of the remarkable things they are doing despite the overcrowding."

Will there be room for me?

Good schools don't come without a price, but you can't really put a number to the cost of a good education. Ruidoso schools are serving up a good education, and it's up to the voters to be sure that facilities and equipment are adequate and up to date.

We're in favor of the $5.5 million school bond issue that will relieve the overcrowding and make some badly needed repairs.

Ruidoso schools have a lot to be proud about, from the beautiful high school where teens study in a roomy, uncrowded and comfortable environment on down to Nob Hill Elementary School, where growing numbers have little children spilling out the doors in spite of a fairly recently construction project.

That pride is a major selling point when families contemplate a move to the mountains. But, that pride stops short at the door to a portable building without restroom facilities where first graders have to leave the room and walk to the main building to go to the bathroom. It wears thin at the White Mountain site where 150 girls share one restroom, and a portable building still is in use in spite of last summer's construction project. At Ruidoso Middle School, that pride doesn't always make up for the rickety bleachers in the gym that are on a list of much-needed repair and replacement projects.

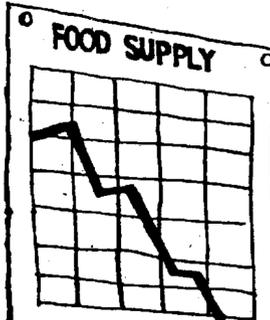

"Where are all these kids coming from?" someone asked the other day. Nobody seems to know, but they just keep coming and Ruidoso schools enrollment has gone from just at 1,700 in 1983 to 2,040 this year. The growth pattern is continuing, and rooms and equipment will be needed to make sure there's room for all those students.

We especially favor the plan to move the sixth grade back to White Mountain, leaving seventh and eighth graders at the Middle School. Adding a central receiving area the Central Office and making sure the public meeting room is adequate to serve a growing school system are also important to ensure accountability to taxpayers. Bringing the maintenance yard up to date will save money in the long run.

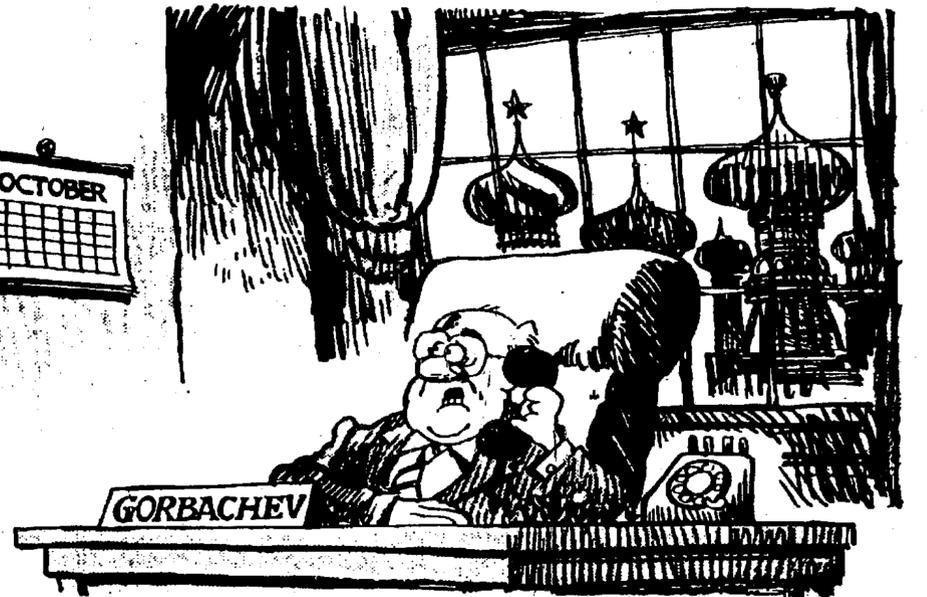

Ruidoso's Board of Education has acted prudently in keeping property taxes fairly stable over the years by doing remodeling, upkeep and add-ons a little at a time. That just keeps pace with this growing school system, and it shows good stewardship on the part of the elected officials who watch over the schools' finances.

The mill levy we'll be passing on Tuesday will cause minimal effect on property taxes over the life of this bond issue. The cost is low to ensure that Ruidoso schools will continue to be a point of pride for the entire community.

Vote Tuesday, and vote "yes" in favor of good schools with plenty of room and modern equipment.

Mescalero's nuclear waste storage study prompts one reader to investigate, analyze

TO THE EDITOR:

A lot more than just a foot of snow and zero temperatures blew into the Sacramento Mountains over the last three weeks to chill our lovely October Indian summer.

Mr. Wendell Chino and his $100,000 pre-election study grant from the federal government to the Mescalero Apache Tribe have a lot of us scurrying for answers and actions. The purpose of the grant, according to a letter dated Oct. 11 from Chino to Victor Alonso, Mayor of Ruidoso, is "to explore becoming a host for an above-ground temporary storage facility for spent nuclear fuel from commercial power stations."

Chino further states "we do not know where it would be located, other than it will be on tribal land." And later he states "We recognize that anything nuclear in New Mexico is bound to be controversial."

Let's at least give him credit for that last insight. On Tuesday, Oct. 29, all six members of the Ruidoso Village Council voted to apply for a similar grant from the Department of Energy to monitor the Mescalero grant! From Ruidoso to Roswell, Santa Fe, Boise, Idaho, and Washington, D.C., phones and planes are abuzz with talk and travel.

Officials from local and state government, senators and congressmen, hungry nuclear contractors and tribal executives, environmental groups and vitally concerned local inhabitants like me, are sifting through the data.

Can Mr. Chino legally do this? Why would he do this? Do the state or the Environmental Protection Agency or local communities have any say in this matter? What can or should individual persons do to express or protect their interests?

When I saw the quick action taken by the Village Council Tuesday, I got involved. Since then I've made dozens of phone calls all over the country, studied documents got position statements from senators, our governor, local mayors, media writers and editors, and many private citizens.

Three solid days of work on this matter is not nearly enough to make a comprehensive judgment, but since the Department of Energy approved this grant in a matter of a few days, perhaps my presumption to come out with such early opinions has a powerful precedent in the DOE.

Let's address the above questions and others. Can Mr. Chino legally apply for and receive this grant without prior local, state or federal consultation and approval? Yes, he can and did. Any sovereign entity, such as a state or Indian tribe, may apply directly to the DOE for a study grant for hosting a MRS — a Monitored Retrievable Storage facility for nuclear waste. The key word here is STUDY.

Why would Mr. Chino do this? In his letter of Oct. 11 to Mr. David Leroy, US Nuclear Waste Negotiator, Boise, Idaho, he states: "...There are three basic reasons we are taking this first step to learn more about the MRS: first, because we were asked to consider by the United States Government; second, because there appears to be an opportunity operate a MRS facility on a sound commercial basis; and third, because we can bring to such a program our strong traditional values that favor protecting the earth."

I have found he is right about the first two reasons. Our government did solicit responses from governors of all states and Indian tribes for study grants for MRS facilities. And there are staggering financial rewards for any approved MRS host, in the hundreds of millions of dollars. And all this without one dime of host money invested!

As to the third reason, I find it an insult to my and the average American Indian's conscience and intelligence to expect me to reconcile putting a high level nuclear waste storage facility on or near an Indian reservation and in the same breath touting "strong traditional values that favor protecting the earth."

Come on, my Mescalero neighbors, don't let the hired publicity guys fool you. If it looks like a dump, and the U.S. will pay millions of dollars to protect you and us from it as a dangerous dump, it's a DUMP!

And if the DOE and the Tribal Council tell you it's just temporary, go look at the billions we're being taxed for right not to clean up the nuclear sites that were supposed to be temporary. As Councilor Bill Karn said at the Tuesday meeting, "The DOE does not have a good history of monitoring their own nuclear facilities, much less their weapons plant in Colorado that is currently contaminated." (And shut down by the FBI, incidentally.)

So, I'm left with Mr. Chino's honest second answer. It's age-old and perhaps excusable, given our country's history of shabby treatment of our original American brothers. It's money, money, money. And our federal government has messed up so badly in licensing over a hundred nuclear power plants without any competent plan to safely handle the spent fuel, that now it's shamelessly bribing our states and our Indian nations with billion-dollar, no-investment-needed grants. It's hoping to take the heat off itself and put it on the states and/or the Indians with so-called "temporary" solutions. Listen. With nuclear waste there are no temporary solutions, unless you think ten thousand years is temporary.

Can we, and our local, state and federal institutions do something about the prospect of another nuclear waste facility besides WIPP here in our area? You betcha!

The study grant has been made. No contest there. I talked by phone No. 1 with Miller Hudson, public relations man for Pacific Nuclear Systems, Inc., whom the tribe hired to work on grant proposals. He said he and Mr. Frederick Pesco, Mescalero Tribal Secretary, were en route to Washington D.C. to meet with agencies and conservation groups there.

With the $100,000 received, the big boys can get around pretty fast. of the $100,000 received. That should get the big boys around pretty fast working for the Phase II grant, which they estimate at four to five million.

All government entities, from the Village Council to Governor King's staff, our two senators, and various environmental groups and agencies, say that if the tribe targets any area other than their own reservation land to be the host site of the proposed MRS the project would at once be subject to intensive input over a prolonged period by any or all of these entities. And final approval would have to come from the U.S. Congress.

In his letter to Mayor Alonso cited above, Mr. Chino said "it will be on tribal land." But Mr. Hudson emphatically denied that Mr. Chino had any intention even from the beginning to locate the facility on the reservation. This question is unclear. But if reservation land is not used, we all have much to question and many avenues to pursue to find answers.

Bill Sandefur, public relations staffer for Sen. Jeff Bingaman, told me Nov. 1, that the senator agreed with the study, but that he had concern with the haste with which the grant was approved, and would want to see the state government and other agencies seriously involved in this matter should it go beyond the Phase I study. Ari Fleischer, PR staffer for Sen. Pete Domenici, expressed the senator's similar concern if the matter gets past the study phase. Governor King is very concerned about this development, and according to Kathleen Sineros in the NM Environment Dept., he has asked Dr. Ray Powell Jr. to look into the MRS study and inform the public of the state's interest in it when and where it should arise.

In an Oct. 30 letter to Chuck Stallings of The Ruidoso News, Mr. John McKean, press secretary for Gov. King, says he received information from the Nuclear Regulator's Office in Washington DC that the feasibility study was intended to apply to a facility "within the jurisdiction" of a state or Indian tribe ... but that part of the negotiation for such a facility might involve the placement of federally-owned land under the jurisdiction of the tribe." So the study can apply to federal land not currently inside the Mescalero reservation, such as the White Sands Missile Range, BLM or forest lands.

Mr. McKean also states that if an agreement is reached between a tribe and the negotiator, the agreement must be submitted to Congress. Also that a referendum or an act of the legislature of a state may disapprove a proposed agreement.

My judgment on all this is that we have a fairly long leash on the new and unknown MRS animal, but we can and ought to get busy. It's easy to call or write your senators and representatives, your governor, talk with your mayors and county commissioners. Express your opinions. Make democracy work.

The problems with the country today are there because we the people are afraid or too busy or too lazy to use the democratic mechanisms we have in place to change things we do not want or need.

I hope this hasty analysis will help some of you to take your own action on this new proposal in your own backyard.

Drive on over to Lincoln for art, shopping and history

by SALLY BLACK
Special to The News

The Lincoln Hospitality Group, as well as all of Lincoln, present artist Ted Robertson from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 9 and 10, at Dr. Wood's Annex in Lincoln.

Robertson, who has lived all over the United States, has settled in Lincoln, where he and his family have moved into the home of Richard and Elissa Phillips. He said it feels like "coming home."

The works of Phillips and Robertson will be on display all weekend in Lincoln, as the museums and shops stay open for visitors to enjoy art, shopping and history all in one little town.

"Bring the children and friends for a day of good memories," invite the folks of Lincoln.

Food may be purchased at the Eatery, or bring a sack lunch and enjoy the park next to the annex.

Christmas shopping is fun in Lincoln where you can find everything from soap to nuts in the quaint, friendly shops.

Robertson, who will be present to meet visitors to his exhibition, is a member of the Pastel Society of America and his name appears in Who's Who in the World and Who's Who in the West. He'll be included in the upcoming edition of Who's Who in American Art.

Robertson's work is currently being shown at the Meyer Gallery in Santa Fe and Park City, Utah; the Artistic Gallery in Scottsdale, Arizona, and at Canyon Gallery at the historic Carrizo Lodge in Ruidoso.

The artist said he spends about six hours a day contemplating his painting and maybe three hours actually painting. He said being in the spotlight seemed to blur his vision, so his wife and business partner, Carol, takes over.

He often uses his children, Jessica, age 11, and Jason, 9, as models.

Robertson works in pastel, oil and watercolor in the impressionist style.

"It means being able to say four or five things in one brush stroke," he said. Example, instead of painting leaves on a plant in detail, one stroke can become the entire plant and part of the land, he explained.

Robertson will decide if a snow scene's climate will be warm, windy or below zero before his brush touches the canvas.

He strives to give atmosphere to the people who appear in his paintings. A general must have an air of confidence before the uniform gives him away, or is he a kindergarten teacher? Robertson has to consider.

Robertson said he's one of the very fortunate souls whose dream and reality are one and the same.

Know Your Library

The Ruidoso Library is served by a Library Board, one of a number of Village of Ruidoso Boards and Commissions.

The Library Board is a standing advisory board consisting of seven members, and a representative from the Village Council. The board members serve staggered two-year terms.

The Library Board is established to make recommendations through the librarian to the Mayor and Village Council regarding the rules and regulations of the library, maintenance, care, improvements and operations, and all related problems, with the advice and the consent of the librarian.

Members of the Library Board need not be residents of the Village of Ruidoso.

This group of citizens, who make up the Library Board, serves without recompense, and it plays a large role in making our library a source of information and pleasure.

Get better acquainted with Lincoln County

Lincoln County residents will soon have a valuable resource available at their fingertips.

The League of Women Voters of Lincoln County has gathered information and is publishing a booklet all about Lincoln County.

Target date for publication is June 1992, according to co-chairpersons Katherine Finley and Pat Williams.

"Know Your County" will contain some history, but mostly, it will tell about Lincoln County as it is now. It will include details about schools, hospitals, clinics and how Lincoln County is governed.

The League believes that all citizens should be informed about their government so that they can participate in shaping the future of Lincoln County.

According to a news release, the booklet will have all the information needed to be a registered voter and will even tell how to run for a political office.

Although Lincoln county has contained inhabitants for a long, long time, the present forms of municipal government are relatively new. The villages and towns have been incorporated only in the past several decades. This means that Lincoln County residents have an opportunity to be part of the early history of this county's government.

Every resident will want to have this booklet as a reference, continues the release.

The League plans to update the booklet from time to time as changes occur in the county.

DEAR SALLY:

You wrote once that you talked to your plants. You said you told all the new plants that came into your home that you would do your best for them but if they died, too bad, they would not be replaced.

Please give us a list of the more hardy plants, requiring the least attention. I love plants and their effects in my home, however, I'm what you would call a "lazy gardener."

Thank you for your many helpful hints to better plant pleasure.

Molly B. Lubbock

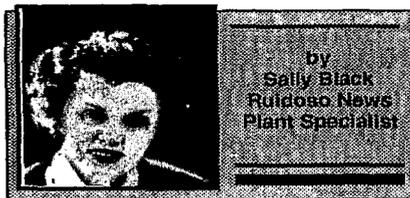

DEAR MOLLY:

Yes, I do talk to my plants, sure beats talking to myself. People don't seem to find it so strange as they do when caught talking aloud and no one else is around. When that happens to me I simply explain I'm talking to my plants or my dog. Works most every time.

I tell all new plants that come into my home that I will care for them the best I can. I am a good plant parent but just don't have the time for delicate, uncooperative, puny plants. They must love me, in return and thrive or else they're off to the big garden in the sky.

I figure if they succumbed, to whatever, they just don't need to be in my home, thus, no plant replacements.

Don't buy plants because they are pretty.

Give careful consideration to the environment into which you move the plant. Think of the light temperature and time you can provide for the plant. If you cannot give the plant growing conditions to meet its requirements, best to leave the plant at the shop and bring home a plant with few requirements such as the good old Philodendrons, iron plants, Cacti, Chinese evergreen and the famous Ficus benjamina tree.

All these plants will eventually adapt and accept human abuse. They rarely commit suicide early on and can "hang-on" for a long, long time.

The plant I love but just can't seem to grow. I never am going to buy another one, they hate me, I do try, really I do, but for years everyone I bring into my home soon goes on to wherever. —Impatiens is the plant I have so much trouble with growing. The Latin word "Impatiens" means "unable to endure," we call it finicky. Al-be-it, with special care you can have a lovely, healthy plant for years. They are more than half-hardy if cared for properly. They will bloom almost year-round if you follow a few basic rules. That is for others, not me.

For night, warmth, always water the Impatiens early morning with warm water and allowed to drain all day before an early night. In other words, it needs a short day of low filtered light and a long warm night's rest in a room with no artificial light.

If leaves drop it is often because of too low temperature. Too little light will cause flowers to drop. Too much light can kill the plant. Poor drainage causes stem rot. Red spiders and or aphids may appear if the plant gets too much light. Soil should be just moist, never soggy, or dry. Feed weekly with a mild fertilizer cut to 1/4 the recommended use and be very careful if using an insecticide spray not to get too much on the flowers, they will drop off—Pinched tips on young plants to encourage a branching, full plant. Plants that are slightly root-bound will produce more blossoms. So don't be over anxious to re-pot.
