By filing deadline Tuesday, five candidates had completed the necessary papers to be included on the ballot for the Ruidoso Village Council election on March 3.

All three incumbents and two other candidates filled for the three four-year terms.

Incumbents Patricia Espinosa, J.D. James and Jess Stinson have elected to run for four more years.

Jerry Shaw, who served on the council from 1984 to 1988, filed a few minutes before the deadline.

Frank Cummins had completed his paperwork earlier in the day. He is the only candidate who has not previously served on the council. The candidates are:

Cummins, 304 Blue Jay Drive, is married to Fran Cummins. He has been a Ruidoso resident for 10 years. He is a retired school administrator from Arizona and is currently working for the Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

The Cummins have two grown children.

"My main purpose is to make a contribution to the village government," he said. "I am concerned about the tax rate and I want things out in the open so that the public is informed."

Espinosa, 102 Valencia, is married to Paul Espinosa and has a five-year-old daughter. She has lived in Ruidoso for nine years and owns a travel agency.

She was appointed to the council by Mayor Victor Alonso in September to fill the unexpired term of Al Junge, who resigned.

"My focus is to work toward economic development and transportation," said Espinosa when asked her view on the upcoming election. "In order to be competitive in pursuing new businesses, we must have air service."

James, 106 Echo Drive, and his wife, Billie, recently celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary. He has served on the council since May 1987.

"My priority is to continue my opposition to the MRS facility from an environmental and economic viewpoint. I also want to continue to support and enlarge the daily meal program for the elderly and shut-ins," said James.

"MainStreet has always been one of my pet projects and I will continue to work for fiscal responsibility in the village budget."

Shaw, 116 Roswell, is married to Dick Shaw. They have two children and three grandchildren.

She has been a resident of Ruidoso for 20 years and was the first woman on the Village Council, serving from 1984 to 1988.

"I was disappointed that the voters did not have more choice in the upcoming election," she said. "So I decided to run. There were not enough new candidates. I will listen to the people and I feel like I can do a good job. I want to get the convention center and the hotel built."

Stinson, 100 Bogey Lane #24, has lived in Ruidoso for nine years and has served on the Ruidoso Village Council for the past four. He is co-owner of the Winner's Circle Lounge.

"I want to see the convention center finished as something that the village can be proud of," he said. "We're looking at re-financing the village debt at the lower interest rates available now and lowering the tax rate by 10 mills; also we want to get MainStreet completed and the highway paved with help from the state."

It is still possible to file as a write-in candidate. The applications must be filed on January 21, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Ruidoso Downs residents will have an even dozen candidates to choose from when they cast their ballots in March to select a mayor, a municipal judge and two board of trustee members.

Village clerk Maurice Gudel said 12 people filed on January 7 to run for the positions. She said all of the candidates were certified as registered voters and residents of Ruidoso Downs. Write-in candidates can file with the clerk on January 21 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Only two seats are open on the board of trustees because Downs residents voted in November 1991 to reduce the number of trustees from seven to four members. The other two positions are filled by Ray Fredrickson and Jacquelyn Brannum, whose terms have not expired.

Branum is one of three candidates running for the four-year term of mayor of Ruidoso Downs, which is open because current Mayor Bonnie Addy's appointed term expires. Branum is currently on the board of trustees as mayor pro tem and has two years left in her term.

She is a teacher at Ruidoso Middle School.

Branum said she decided to run for mayor because of the number of people who called her and asked her to consider it. She said they know that she has the background in a lot of the issues that are going to be important to Ruidoso Downs in the future.

One concern will be the village hall because of the time and money it takes to construct a new building, she said.

She has served on the Ruidoso Downs Planning and Zoning Board and had been on the council before her current term.

"We need someone who will listen to people and all sides of the issue. I hope we can get a city government that will work together," Branum said.

Gudel said Branum does not have to resign from her position on the board to run for mayor. If she does win the race, though, she will appoint someone to fill her place on the board.

Gudel said if Branum doesn't win the election she will still have her seat on the board.

Another candidate running for the position is Joe M. Hayhurst. Hayhurst has owned property in Ruidoso Downs for 16 years and has made his home here for the past 11 years. He has worked at Cortez Gas Company for eight years but will retire in March.

Hayhurst said he believes the growth of the area will be along Highway 70 making Ruidoso Downs grow and prosper with the future looking bright.

He said he sees the need for the people to unite and the need for a permanent home for the village hall, possibly at its original location. He said also sees a need to upgrade the police department, work toward a paid fire department and above all for the governing body to be open and honest to the people it serves.

James Lee (J.L.) Wilson said he has filed to run for mayor because he thinks he can do a good job. Wilson has a private consulting and counseling business and also owns and trains race horses.

He has lived in Ruidoso Downs for 10 years, but was in Grant recently to work as a clinical director of a community mental health clinic. He also taught sociology and psychology at the Grants campus of New Mexico State University.

Wilson said he decided to return to Ruidoso Downs to be with his family.

Wilson said he wants to personally survey the residents of Ruidoso Downs to see what they think is going well with the community and what isn't. He said he has three issues, leadership, management and community develop-

Signing up to study

Dee McIntosh, a 1991 graduate of Ruidoso High School, registers for her second semester at the Ruidoso Instructional Center of Eastern New Mexico University. Registration for the spring term is running 20 percent higher than for the first fall semester and will be in progress through Friday at the main office on Sudderth Drive and at Ruidoso High School on Warrior Drive. Late registration will be accepted through January 21. Students also may sign up for the new weekend college classes.

Angry citizens lash out in fear over N-waste

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

About 50 people crowded into the Sacramento shop in Ruidoso Tuesday evening, ready to do battle over a proposal to store nuclear waste on nearby Mescalero Apache land.

They related stories of business deals gone sour and panic that squelched home sales because of the specter of a nuclear accident.

They demanded accountability and voiced frustration at the inaccessibility of Mescalero Tribal president Wendell Chino and the arrogance of the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE), authors of the storage scenario.

They were angry because they were afraid.

Real estate agent Steve Wright with Century 21 Aspen Realty said there is "an undercurrent of panic" creeping into the community just as it is recovering from the oil price collapse recession.

"People are not wanting to come here, or they are panicking and wanting to get out," he said.

"All I can say is that I'm very angry," said Marian Treat, owner of The Covered Wagon. "I speak for myself and the tourists that come to my door. If that thing goes in, they definitely won't be coming back."

She and her assistant have collected more than 100 signatures of merchants opposed to the possibility of constructing a monitored retrievable storage (MRS) facility on the Mescalero reservation or other Indian-owned land.

Chino and his tribal council received a $100,000 grant from the DOE and quickly determined they wanted to proceed to the next step of potential site selection and further feasibility studies financed by the government. The agency is searching frantically for possible hosts for an MRS and is offering billions of dollars in long-term incentives.

"I've heard from some people that if we make too much noise we could adversely affect the tourist industry here," Treat said.

"If we don't make noise, there won't be a tourist industry," said John Weinberg, a retired aerospace engineer.

"Is this thing going to make a ghost town of our community? In the short term it's hurting us real bad now, but it will just mushroom as long as this situation continues," Wright said.

"I think it has continued because there has been a relative lack of resistance from the community," Weinberg said.

J.L. Wilson of Ruidoso Downs said the community must build momentum and keep it going.

"If we wait until there is a billion dollar facility up there, it will be too late," he said.

Ruidoso High School science teacher Joe Avalos said some people confuse nuclear waste with toxic waste.

"This can't be cleaned up (like toxic waste)," he said. "This kills by proximity. It should not be shipped here or any other place. It should stay at the site where it was produced. Shipping is ridiculous."

His students are banding together to fight the MRS by forming their own organization, Avalos said.

"I'd like to get the kids to talk to Mr. Chino to tell him you won't be there (in 40-50 years), but we will," Avalos said.

Although several of his Native American students confided to him that they do not want the facility on their reservation, they are afraid to become involved with the movement for fear of retribution against

Underwood unimpressed with redistricting plans

State Representative John Underwood, just back from the special legislative session on redistricting, isn't too proud of what this state's leaders did, but doesn't see they had much choice.

"I voted against the new plan," said Underwood. "It took portions of Roswell, Artesia, Carlsbad and Hobbs and carved two minority-majority senatorial districts from them. It was like federally mandated gerrymandering."

When the senate drew up the new minority-majority districts the new plan was voted on by both houses.

As a result of a lawsuit in the '80s by the Southwestern Voters Alliance, the Justice Department must approve any redistricting that the legislature passed after the 1990 census.

The Justice Department approved the plan drawn up for the House of Representatives but said the Senate plan contained potential for two minority-majority districts in the southeastern part of the state. Under a court mandate, the State Legislature went into special session to create those districts. The redistricting creates the new districts, but takes a slice out of each municipality creating confusion as to who represents what area in each of the municipalities.

"I think that there is enough voter confusion already," said Underwood, Ruidoso's freshman Democratic representative. "Part of our job as elected officials is to try and preserve representative government, and I don't think that this helps. But it is a done deal now."

"The good news is that the house plan was accepted and after the November elections, Lincoln County, the Mescalero reservation and a portion of Chaves County will be united under one representative."

"I'm still wet behind the ears and having a good time," said Underwood, commenting on his first term as a representative.

"It is as much fun as I've had in a long time."

"Politicians have been given a negative image these days but I really feel that it is possible for a politician to really represent those who elected him or her."

"I have gone up there (to Santa Fe) perhaps naively and fought the dragons and had a great time and I think because of that I've gained some respect and made some friends. The people that I see in Santa Fe are working their butts off and trying to make a difference."

Planning & Zoning puts lid on shake shingle roof ordinance

by BUDDY BAKER

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso Planning and Zoning commissioners, in a regular meeting Monday, revised a proposed ordinance on wood shake shingles.

The ordinance, on the agenda for a public hearing at the January 14 Village Council meeting, will require that roofs on any new construction or repairs to existing roofs be made using fire rated materials or built-up (tar and gravel) roofing.

The question before the commission on Monday night was what constituted repair. It had been proposed that an entire wood shingle roof be replaced if a building permit is required for that repair.

A building permit is required, by state code, for any repairs over $500.

After discussion, it was decided that the $500 limit would discriminate against anyone repairing a roof on a large house as opposed to a small house, and consequently repairs be defined as when $500 labor and materials is used or 20 percent of the roof is replaced, whichever figure is greater in monetary value.

The motion was approved and the ordinance will be considered at the council meeting.

In other business the commission:

—approved a request by Jimodean Neans to change the zoning of Tract C, Block 9, Golf Course Estates, from R-4 (high density residential) to R-1 (Single Family Residence).

—approved an application by Ryan and Mona Cheng to make an addition to their residence at 207 Chavez. A variance was required since the existing house is 12 feet from the rear of the lot, a setback that was legal at the time of construction. Current zoning requirements are 20 feet from the lot boundary.

—reviewed renovation plans and landscaping plans in preparation for approving amended Commercial Site Development of 413-427 Suderth, the old Safeway building. Gateway Church of Christ is converting the commercial property into a place of worship for the church congregation.

—approved occupancy of a converted storage bay on the lower level of Heidi Hanks, 508 Methem. The area has been converted to a lounge. Final approval of the site development plan will require adequate parking be provided, making up a current deficit of 34 parking places.

ment, that he wants to emphasize if he is elected.

The mayor, the board and community volunteers would be involved in making decisions to improve these areas in Ruidoso Downs, he said.

Five people are running for the two positions open on the board of trustees, including people who are getting into government for the first time and those who have served on the board before.

Tracy L. Brewer who is 21 years old and has lived in Ruidoso Downs all her life. She said it would be good to have someone young on the board to get the youth of the community involved in the village.

If events were provided for the younger people, such as dances or concerts, it would bring the community together and keep the kids from turning to alcohol and drugs.

Brewer said she has gone to board meetings and has done work at the village hall, even though she doesn't have experience in government.

"I am really interested in government and concerned about our citizens. I am looking forward to the elections," Brewer said.

A member of the current board will also run for one of the open seats on the board. Charlotte Craig was appointed to the board in September 1990 to fill a vacancy, but it expires this year.

Craig said there are still some things that she would like to see finished, one being the selection of a permanent city hall. She said she would also like Ruidoso Downs to have its own jail facilities again, instead of sharing facilities with Ruidoso.

"I want to see the people of Ruidoso Downs get a fair shake and being on the board is the only way I know how to do it. I try to know right from wrong and stick with the right side," Craig said.

Another person who has filed for the trustee positions is Travis B. Hicks who also has been on the board before under previous mayor Jake Harris in the late 1980s.

Hicks said many people asked him to run, and he will have the village at heart. He has lived in Ruidoso Downs since 1982. He said he thinks his experience with politics and his education will be helpful to the village. Hicks spent 20 years as a precinct chairman and several years as an election judge in El Paso.

He has two priorities if he is elected. One is to get a permanent city hall, instead of renting the old Redmens Club to save money that could be used for other projects. The second is to investigate allegations that the village is not receiving as much tax money as it should be, Hicks said.

Another candidate for the Ruidoso Downs trustees position is Judy Miller who is a 20-year resident of Ruidoso Downs. She helps her husband operate Ed and Judy's Concrete Pumping.

Miller said she will focus on the "bread and butter" issues that protect and support the city's future, such as village cleanup, possible recycling and an improved water system.

"We all need to be concerned about our surroundings, as a tourist village and possible a retirement community. We need to impress our visitors, after all they support our business, and our towns," Miller said.

The final candidate for the open positions on the board is Tony S. Parker. Parker said he also has served on the board under the previous administration. He said the main reason he chose to run is because everything has been thrown up in the air during the present administration, but it needs to be put back in its place.

"We need reorganization in the village government from every angle," Parker said.

Four candidates are also running for the four-year term of municipal judge, including the incumbent Municipal Judge Harold R. Mansell.

Fred A. Bernard was the Ruidoso Downs municipal judge from 1981 to 1983 and enjoyed being in the position. He also has been on the city police department and a state patrol man.

"I think I am well qualified for the position. I would like to see continued fair treatment for all taxpayers," Bernard said.

Former mayor Jake Harris is also running for election as municipal judge. Harris has served as mayor and as a member of the board. He said he has also helped write code books for the Downs, and has investigated every problem Ruidoso Downs has had.

Harris is a life-time resident of the area.

"I will do a better job for Ruidoso Downs because I know the needs of the people. I hope to get the village back on legal grounds and enforce the laws as they should be," he said.

A current member of the board of trustees has also filed for the position of judge. Margie Morales has lived in the area all her life and said she knows the community well. She has had five years of experience as a legal secretary as well as being a trustee for the past two years.

"I will be fair, but firm with the cases. I think it is also an advantage that I am bilingual," Morales said.

Current judge Mansell said of the 18 years he has been in Ruidoso Downs about 15 of them have been spent either on the council or as a judge. He said he believes in serving his public, and has enjoyed working with people in the course of his job.

He said he uses community service on the first and second offense and has had only five people who were multiple offenders in the four years he has been the judge.

"I think I have been effective with the number of multiple offenders and would like to continue with that program. I have only had one case appealed, but I'm sure some people have disagreed with me," Mansell said.

The village clerk will post a list of all candidates at the village hall today, and candidates may come to the office to find out if they have been certified as valid. All the candidates will meet at 5 p.m. tonight, January 9, at the Ruidoso Downs village hall to draw lots for placement on the March election ballot.

Candidates to draw for ballot spots

Candidates for municipal offices will gather in each municipal clerk's office at 5 p.m. today (Thursday) to draw for positions on the ballot.

Municipal balloting will take place in each community on March 3, with all voters required to be registered by 28 days before that date to be eligible to vote.

Only those qualified voters who live within a municipality may vote in that village's election.

To register to vote, go to a village hall or to the county clerk's office in Carrizozo.

Write-in candidates must also file by January 21 to be eligible for election March 3.

them and their families, he said.

"The Indian kids say the almighty dollar is not worth contaminating their land for the next millennium."

Mike Randle, a member of the Lincoln County planning and zoning commission, said a recently-formed group called Southwest Nuclear Alert also intends to become active in the opposition movement.

"We want to bring out the technical data and try to inform the people of Ruidoso," he said. "They tell us it's safe, yet you won't see them burying it on the east coast, but we're in the wild west with only cactus and coyotes."

Dave Dale, organizer of the Save the Sacramentos movement and host for the evening, said his concerns are separate from the technical aspects. He hopes to generate an active core group to lobby the state's congressional representatives, especially U.S. Senator Pete Domenici (R-Albuquerque).

"I've been told that he is at the center of the power structure and this man sits in (President George) Bush's lap," Dale said. "He has the power to turn this around overnight legislatively. Whether you're a Republican or Democrat, write him, call him. This thing is political."

Dale said he has tried repeatedly to meet with Chino or Miller Hudson, the consultant with Pacific Nuclear Systems, the company that will stand to benefit financially from the project as builders of the storage and transportation casks.

All he gets is a recorded message, Dale said.

"It seems Chino will not come out anymore."

Hudson would not attend the meeting Tuesday, referring to it as a loaded situation, but he will meet privately, Dale said.

A former resident of Garden Grove, California, told the group that years ago he researched the country for the safest location to retire in case of nuclear attack and pinpointed Ruidoso. When his son offered to buy him a retirement home, he chose Lincoln County.

"Can you imagine how we feel like we're under a sledge hammer?" he asked.

He also noted the existence of faults that could make this area vulnerable to the effects of earthquakes in the future.

"How do we maximize our efforts, by petitions or letters?" asked Bonnie Coe. "I think interest needs to be red hot if we're going to get any action."

"What do we do next?" asked Lenny Allen, who said he moved here two years ago and now fears the collapse of the local economy and school system.

Dale said the response at the meeting showed him that there is enough "critical mass" interest to get the effort moving. He said he will be asking those interested to serve on committees. Wright already heads the local business and economic protection committee.

"I'm dead sure we can stop the MRS," Dale said. "The question is whether it will be now or later and whether we will save money and economic and emotional stress."

Ruidoso deputy village manager Gary Jackson reviewed the chronology of the MRS project. He pointed out that the Mescalero tribe submitted its grant application to the DOE October 8. It was received, reviewed and awarded by October 18, just one day after Chino appeared in front of the Ruidoso Village Council.

Dale credited Ruidoso Village Councilor Bill Karn with sparking action by that board to officially oppose the MRS and to seek state help in monitoring the actions of the Mescalero on the project.

Karn said he was particularly concerned because the DOE "has a long history of not obeying its own laws."

The MRS is called a temporary facility.

"Forty years is not temporary to me. As soon as they draw out one of those tubes and find place to store it, they'll put another one in," said Karn.

He said the carrot of a $10-million a year lease for the site is a great temptation for the Mescaleros.

Questions have been raised about whether the reservation is really a sovereign nation.

"The state engineer said they couldn't impound the water and build a dam, yet there's the dam," Karn said, referring to the reservoir at the Mescalero-owned Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The Federal Nuclear Waste Policy Act set up different rules and procedures for states and for sovereign nations, Jackson said.

"They don't have to have the governor's consent to apply for a grant as other entities in the state would," he said.

Karn said the process could take seven years before an MRS is in place.

"But if there is no resistance it can be a lot faster," he added.

"The insidious part of this thing is that the groups (consultant companies) running it for Chino stand to make millions," Dale said. "That's why they're trying to push this thing through."

Lincoln County Commissioner Bill Elliott said the estimate he has heard is that the companies stand to gain up to $25-billion over a 40-year period.

Dale noted that at the county commission meeting with the consultants they indicated no serious site selection discussions had occurred.

"Two hours later it's on the AP wire from Albuquerque that (Hudson Miller) said they were studying three specific sites," he said.

Donnalynn Torres, a resident of Mescalero, said since she first became vocal in her opposition to some of Chino projects, she has lost her job and suffered other sanctions. She now works as a tribal court lay advocate.

Although other Native Americans on the reservation declare their support for her in private, they, too, fear retribution if they speak out, she said.

She and a few others first bucked a Chino decision to allow mining on Pajarito Mountain.

"People came to us and asked us to advocate on their behalf," she said. "We were considered rookies."

The people took a chance. They gambled and were right.

"The whole mountain was to come down," she said. "There were some very important things to my people there, lots of herbs for traditional cures for certain ailments and spiritual (maladies). Lots of birds are there and that's why it was named Pajarito Mountain."

"It looks down on a multitude of ranges and wildlife below and it all would have been hurt by mining."

The project was halted because the value of the product (yttrium) declined and because of problems within the mining company.

The same group tried, but was unsuccessful recalling Chino.

"Only a few signed the petition because they were afraid of what would happen," Torres said. Losing her own job freed her.

She next opposed Chino in the tribal presidential election earlier this year. She lost in the primaries, but maintains the vote count can never be verified in that primary or the following election pitting Chino against Hatlyn Geronimo, because an independent poll watcher was not allowed.

And now the few outspoken opponents with little more to lose are fighting the MRS, she said.

"I have all this education that let's me know radiation is very dangerous and plutonium the most," Torres said. "One whiff can do away with your life. One accident and the wind could carry particles across the nation, plowing down everything."

"I'm not just thinking about my people, I'm thinking about everyone."

"Because of our opposition, we've been given news coverage. That's all right, but we're not here to seek publicity but to do right by our people. It's high time we break down racial barriers. (A nuclear accident) will not discriminate. It will take all of us. Ninety-five percent of the people on the reservation are against (the MRS)."

She said only those favored with good jobs and other perks by Chino are backing the MRS, "those who are money hungry."

The tribe has its own version of Imelda and Ferdinand Marcos in Chino and his wife, she said. They drive luxury cars and live luxury lives.

Torres said many people off the reservation have been misled that Native Americans receive hefty checks each month from the federal government.

"Someone is making himself look good that millions have been made for the reservation," she said, referring to Chino, who has been featured in several major publications in stories on his tribe's successful business enterprises.

The big checks are a myth, she said.

"We fight poverty constantly. If there are checks, they are from AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children)."

Her group is trying to arrange a reservation referendum on the MRS issue, but have been stonewalled by the lack of availability of key people in tribal government.

"It doesn't take that many steps to adopt an MRS for the tribe," Torres warned. "For the federal government and our tribe, it takes only two things, a contract and a meeting with the tribal council where it will be signed."

"People feel it is too fast. If it went through the state, there would be a long bureaucratic process."

The issue has generated bitterness between the Mescalero and other tribes and cultures, she said.

"It's too bad my tribe has to take responsibility when it is only the leadership that has adopted (this stance)," she said. "It was done quietly and not in a large general meeting, which usually is the setting for any major decisions. Torres said."

Everywhere they have turned for government help, including the Bureau of Indian Affairs, they have met brick walls, she said.

The national news spotlight must be focused on this area to force the DOE to back down, said Gordon Sylling.

Torres said she has received support from people in Oklahoma and Nevada.

Dave Dale presides at meeting

SWNA organizes to fight nuclear waste storage plans

Southwest Nuclear Alert (SWNA) met Saturday in Ruidoso to finalize and activate a local chapter to fight the Mescalero MRS.

According to Bill Petty, a part-time Ruidoso resident who lives in Dallas, Texas, the goals objectives and general strategy were finalized.

"We dedicated our efforts to compatibility with local business and community leaders, work in parallel with any other anti-MRS organization and provide them assistant and cooperation," said Petty.

SWNA was formed in response to plans by the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe to act as a host for a monitored retrievable storage (MRS) for nuclear waste. The Department of Energy already granted the tribe a $100,000 Phase I grant to study the feasibility of hosting a disposal site for spent fuel rods.

Phase II, if approved, will net the tribe much more money to continue the study with the DOE's final goal being a place to dump the nuclear waste being generated by utility companies elsewhere in the United States.

Petty, the owner of an optics company and a former contractor for Los Alamos National Laboratory, said he has worked with radioactive fuel rods, whose radiation can penetrate skin and kill people.

Petty had plans to move to Ruidoso and operate his successful business from this mountain village, but the threat of a nuclear waste disposal site anywhere in the area has put those plans on hold.

"New Mexico is close to being a national nuclear sacrifice zone," said Petty recently. He has taken his fight to the media, writing letters to The Ruidoso News and helping news reporters throughout the United States gather information about the MRS and spent fuel rods.

At Saturday's meeting, Petty indicated his group will continue to use letter writing and petitions as a tool.

"We will persist with total dedication in providing verifiable facts on MRS installations and the involved material," said Petty. "We will actively correct and clarify the massive amounts of disinformation being circulated by the proponents of MRS," he added.

SWNA members who organized Saturday agreed to coordinate with the massive number of national organizations, Native American and American.

Representatives from the Mescalero tribe were present at Saturday's meeting.

"Their presence was particularly encouraging as they risked their personal safety by attending," said Petty. "We are really together on this issue."

Mike Randle was named New Mexico director of SWNA on Saturday, with John Weinberg as state technical coordinator, Connie Kummer as field coordinator and Bonnie Coe as public relations coordinator.

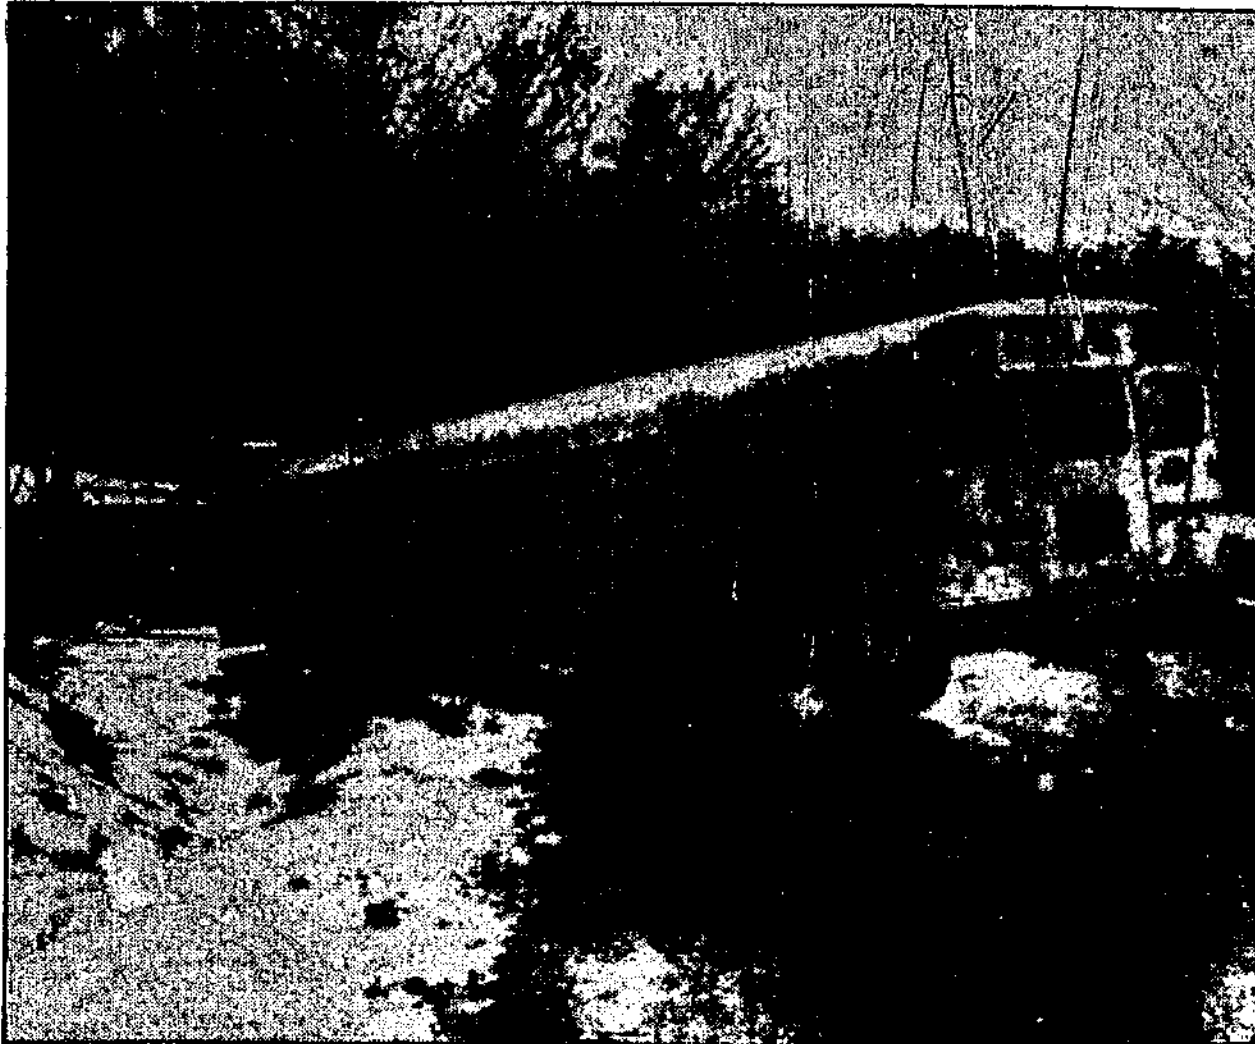

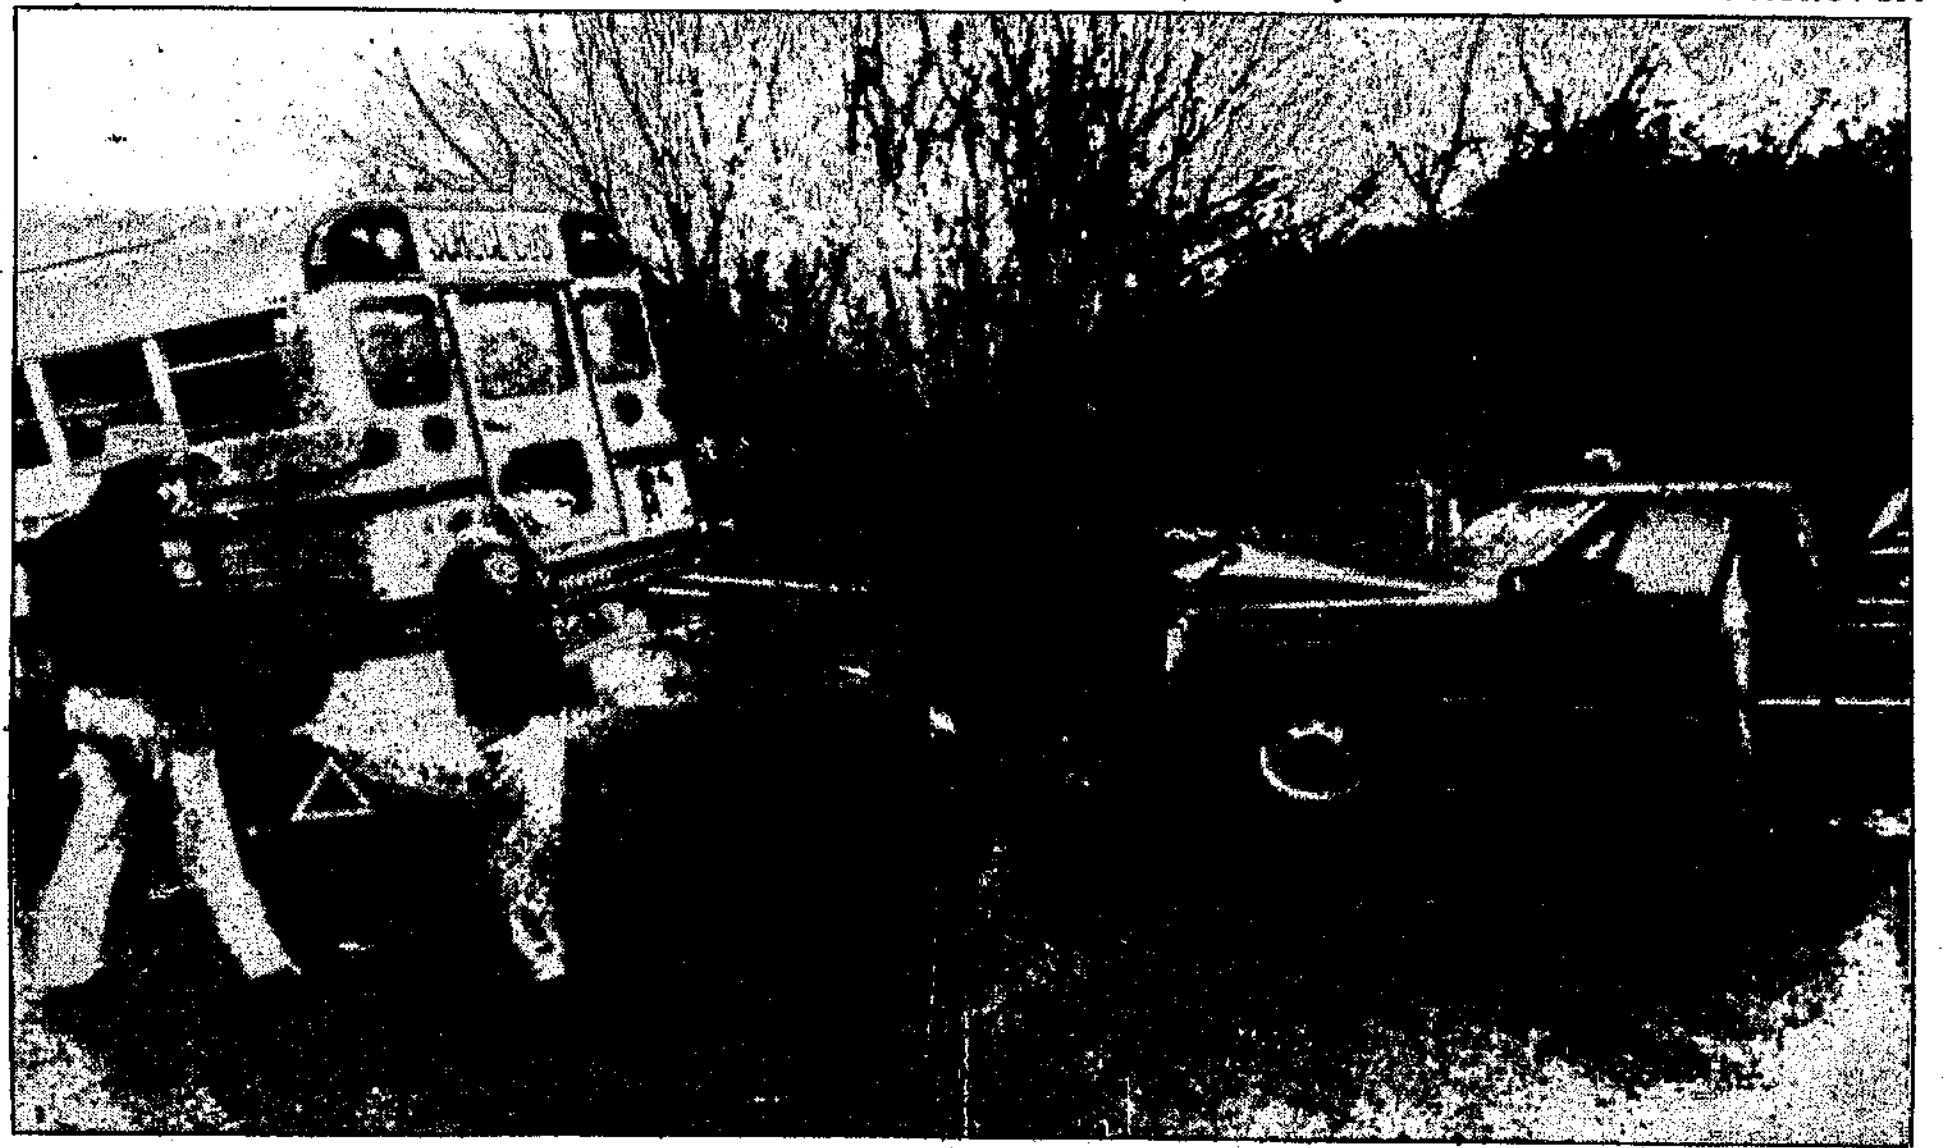

"All present showed a dedicated and strong resolve to defeat the Mescalero MRS," said Petty, admitting that it could be a long and hard battle.

He calls on the people of this area to join in that fight.

SWNA will soon have a Ruidoso address. Meanwhile, anyone interested in joining may contact Randle, Weinberg, Kummer or Coe; or call Frankie Jarrell at 257-4001 for more information on how to reach SWNA officers.

Petty also distributed copies of a tape he has had made to help raise funds for SWNA. Singer, songwriter Larry Fontenette wrote and recorded, "Tomorrow May Be All but Said and Gone," as a tribute to Ruidoso with all proceeds of the tape sales dedicated to SWNA.

"We are dedicated to protect all the people in the Ruidoso area from the devastating dangers of nuclear waste," said Petty.

Slip, sliding

Black ice on the roads Monday morning caused several accidents in Ruidoso including this one that involved a school bus on Reese Drive. Assistant police chief Mike Lovelace said 29 students were on the bus that was travelling to the high school and White Mountain schools, but none were injured. Lovelace said the driver, Jackie Trahan, did a good job of defensive driving. Two pickups had already collided on the slick street.

Seven communities seek grants

"Lured by lucrative grants, seven communities around the country have notified the government that they are interested in becoming the site of a multibillion dollar warehouse to store thousands of tons of high-level nuclear wastes," according to a report today in The New York Times.

The Department of Energy was quoted as saying that five Indian tribes and two other communities have indicated an interest in hosting nuclear waste storage.

The seven, according to The New York Times, are the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe in New Mexico; the Sac and Fox Nation and the Chickasaw Nation, both in Oklahoma; the Prairie Island Indian community in Minnesota; the Yakima Indian Nation in Washington; Fremont County, Wyoming; and Grant County, North Dakota.

The Mescalero's application has drawn opposition from Governor Bruce King, Attorney General Tom Udall, the Lincoln County Commission and the Ruidoso Village Council.

Jaime Ordorica shows the technique and poise needed to make three-point shots against rivals Tularosa. Ordorica made five out of seven from the outside, one of which came with just one second left in the third quarter. The Warriors won 64-52.

Hot shots help in Warrior win

Led by the hot-shot hands of several players, the Ruidoso Warriors boys basketball team skinned the Tularosa Wildcats in a home game Tuesday night to bring their season record up to three wins and five losses.

The Warriors started out slow with the Wildcats taking a quick lead, but Wally Murillo was able to make two free throws to tie the game at 19. The score was also tied at 26 at half time, but the Warriors roared into the third quarter and scored 21 points to Tularosa's 19.

It was with one second left of the third quarter that Murillo made a long pass down the court to Jaime Ordorica who made an exceptional three-point shot for the Warriors to take the lead 47 to 45. Ordorica not only had to contend with the distance, but also had several Tularosa defenders in his way.

In the fourth quarter the Warriors took a strong defensive stand and only let the Wildcats score seven points. The team pulled into the lead and stayed there to win the game 64 to 52.

The three-point shot by Ordorica was what really turned the game around because it could have gone either way in the fourth quarter with the score so close. It really got the players and the fans fired up," Coach Norm Wright said.

"It was a really big win for us because of the rivalry with Tularosa. We had also lost four in a row and were losing our confidence. This will help us get some of it back," Wright said.

The Warriors were hot in free throws and three-point shots, but were off on two-pointers. Wright said they made 22 of 30 free throws for 73 percent, and were six for eight on three-point shots. Shooting from the inside was only 29 percent accurate.

The high scorer of the game was Ordorica who had 19 points total. He made five out of seven of his three point attempts, while Eric Evans made one from the outside. Evans had 10 points for the night as well as 12 rebounds. Darin Davis, who is 6'4", also had 10 points and 10 rebounds during the game. Davis was making his first start in a varsity game Tuesday night because he was not eligible to play as a transfer student until the second semester.

Robert Sayner had eight assists on the night to help the team to its victory. Ordorica had five assists.

The junior varsity team was victorious as well against Tularosa, beating them by a final score of 67-53. High scorers for the game were Jimmy Varnadore with 16 points and Jeff Chapman with 14 points. Both are just sophomores.

Kim Nelson made his high school coaching debut at the game as an assistant to Wright. Nelson is a substitute at the high school and replaced Coach Tom Twedalle who resigned last semester.

The Warriors have several tough games coming up that they will need their confidence for, starting with a game Friday at Truth or Consequences. Wright said the team will be playing Hot Springs High School, the state AA champions. Hot Springs came to Ruidoso last year to win a close won in their quest for number one.

"This game will be a big challenge for us," he said.

The Warriors will also be headed back to Lovington on January 14 where they were humiliated during the Wildcat Classic on January 2. The next home game for the Warriors will be January 18 when they play Carlsbad.

Darin Davis struggles against Wildcat defenders to make a shot for the Warriors Tuesday night. Davis started in his first game of the season and was able to score 10 points and get 10 rebounds.

Turner also named to All-State team

Craig Turner, a senior Ruidoso Warrior football player, was mistakenly left out of a list of Warriors who had made the Associated Press All-State team this season.

Turner was named to the second team as a defensive end, but when A.P. officials contacted football coach Mike Speck they left Turner off the list. In later printed releases of the complete team, Turner was included.

The All-State team was announced December 24. The team members were selected by AAA coaches and A.P. sports writers and sports casters.

Turner had previously been named to the All-District team as second team down lineman in November.

Wrestlers dominated by Knights

The Ruidoso Warriors wrestling team has made two trips to Las Cruces already in the first few weeks of 1992 for an invitational and a dual at Oñate High School.

Coach Gerald Ames said the team placed 10th out of 14 teams in the invitational on January 4, but two of the more experienced Warriors were not at the meet.

Gunner Johnson won two and lost two at 103 pounds, but Ames said he is getting better all the time. At 112 pounds, Jose Pierto, an eighth grader, won one match but was defeated in two at the tournament.

Ames said at 125 pounds Sam Gumbert had a bad day and lost two matches. Louis Jimenez, 130 pounds, did a pretty good job wrestling, but only won one and lost two. Scott Stricklin, 135 pounds, didn't do as well as he had expected to either and lost his second match in overtime for two losses on the day.

Chris Carusona, 140 pounds, had one of his best days of the season and ended the day 3-2. He was pinned by an Oñate wrestler who he wrestled again in the dual on Tuesday. Joe Zinn wrestled at 145 but got beat in his only match of the day.

At 152 pounds Matt Bates, a freshman, got his first victory on the varsity team but then lost two other matches. Mario Sanchez wrestled at 171 pounds for the first time and had one victory, and one loss on the day.

On Tuesday night the Warriors went to dual the Oñate Knights, but the Knights dominated on the mat. Ames said they are a tough team with a good coach, but the final score of 20-53 doesn't reflect how well the Warriors wrestled.

The Warriors scored points by forfeit with Gunner Johnson at 103 pounds, Jerry Romero at 119 pounds and by a pin from Shane Eidson at heavyweight. At 160 pounds Poncho Portillo had a tie match.

For the first home wrestling action of the year the junior high wrestlers will meet Gadsden at the middle school gym at 4 p.m. tonight, January 9. The varsity and junior varsity will have a dual at home at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, January 14, against Goddard.

Weatherman reports that Ruidoso is all wet in 1991

by BILL HOSTETTER
Special to The News

1991 brought above normal precipitation to Ruidoso for the seventh time in the eight years since 1983.

The annual total of 24.29 inches was 1.03 inches above or 104 percent of the 1961-1990 average. Precipitation fell on 90 days of the year with the wettest seven days occurring from July 20 through July 26 when 2.38 inches was measured. The wettest single day was Sunday, May 19, with .95 inches.

Thunderstorms occurred on 70 days of the year, 24 of them in August and 20 in July. Hail accompanied the thunder on May 19, June 9, and July 21. Three inches of heavy rainfall on the mountains to the west of the Village resulted in minor flooding along the Rio Ruidoso on August 14.

Yearly snowfall totaled 59.1 inches or 10.1 inches above normal. The greatest amounts of 12 inches fell on October 31 and December 20-21-22.

December was the snowiest month with an even 20 inches recorded.

The Halloween snow made October of 1991 the second snowiest on record.

257 days of 1991 failed to see any precipitation with the driest period being April 6 through May 18 when no precipitation was observed for 43 consecutive days.

Temperatures for the year averaged below normal for eight of the 12 months, December being the coldest with an average daily maximum temperature of 80 degrees but that was a degree below the 30-year normal for the month. The average daily maximum temperature of only 75 degrees in July was five degrees cooler than normal.

March, April and early May produced our spring winds with gusts to over 50 miles per hour on March 1, 12, 19, 26, and on April 11 and 12.

With the unusually warm ocean waters of the Central Pacific bringing a return of the El Nino and the warm moist storms from Baha, California, 1992 is off to a wet beginning in Ruidoso which is expected to continue through April.

This Pacific Weather Anomaly which occurs on the average about every 47 months, usually results in one winter month of heavy snowfall in the village. Whether the 20 inches of December 1991 made it our only big snow month of this winter remains to be seen, but the 16 inches of December snow in 1982 was followed by 24.3 inches in April of 1983 and the 19 inches of December 1974 preceded 19.7 inches in January 1975, and the record March of 1976 snowfall total of 37.2 inches.

So keep the firewood ready and the snow shovel handy — just in case!

Recreation leader likes linking learning and fun

by KRISTIE SULZBACH
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Learning discipline and being self-motivated are important for young students, but these principles come a little easier if the children have fun at the same time.

Carrie Morris said students will develop these characteristics while learning the basic skills of gymnastics through the Village of Ruidoso Parks and Recreation program she is directing.

Morris has replaced Moe Masters as the village recreation coordinator and gymnastics coach. Morris has been working at the recreation office since the end of September to learn the duties.

Masters, who served as director of the Parks and Recreation Department as well as recreation coordinator, had resigned and left on December 11.

After attending high school in Alaska, Morris went to college in Arizona where she earned a degree in liberal arts. Morris said while she was in school she was also interested in physical education and dance.

She performed in a student dance group for six years in Flagstaff which she said will help her in teaching gymnastics.

"Dance and gymnastics go together well. Gymnastics is so self-motivated. You learn the discipline. You learn to do things for yourself," she said.

Morris said at some time she would also like to offer dance classes, but currently none are scheduled.

Gymnastics classes will begin Monday, January 13, for girls and boys 15 months to 14 years of age.

The students can come that day to sign up. For more information they can call the parks office, 257-5030.

Children who are five or six years old have class from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday. For the next hour, seven- and eight-year-olds have class. From 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Level I, II and III girls will have class.

On Tuesday and Thursday, five-, six- and seven-year olds have class from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. The competitive team has class from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Gym Jelly Beans, children who are 15 months old up to school age, will have class from 10:15 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. on Thursday.

Another class for girls eight years old and older will be from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

"I am going to try to incorporate more motor skills games. I am also going to try to get them more motivated by having them set personal goals and maybe by starting a student of the week program," she said.

"I want to take some new approaches to get the kids more motivated and get their skills up, but I want them to have fun, too," Morris said.

Students can be dropped off by the school bus at the gym next door to Y-Knot Park even though their classes don't begin until later in the afternoon. Plenty of fun and educational games are available for the students while they wait for their classes to begin, she said.

Morris said she provides popcorn for the kids and would like to get the Disney channel connected because it has some good programs for children.

Morris said she is happy to have the support of the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association, a non-profit organization that promotes the sport of gymnastics in the area. The group was started in 1979 and has been raising funds to build a new gymnasium. Currently they have about 75 percent of the amount needed to do the project.

The gymnastics team, the Mountaintops, will begin practicing Tuesday night, January 14. Morris said she has met the girls on the team and has gone to several of their meets during this past season. She said the girls will be in a training period now to prepare for competition which begins in August.

"It is really important to have this training period because it develops the skills they need for upper level competition," Morris said. When girls develop enough skills in the classes, they may become a part of the team.

Another part of Morris' job will be the summer recreation program. This program is for children ages four to 11 and will include day camps, field trips to area attractions and hiking trips.

Morris said she had visited the Ruidoso area last winter and then moved back in August. She said she moved here to be closer to relatives who live in the area.

She said she enjoys horseback riding and other sports, but for now they are on hold as she prepares for the start of a busy year in gymnastics.

JERRY SHAW

Local woman named to state advisory board

Former Ruidoso village councilor Jerry Shaw has been appointed by Governor Bruce King to the State Hearing Aid Advisory Board.

The regulatory board is responsible for licensing hearing aid companies and for dealing with consumer complaints.

Shaw was advised of the appointment last month by Jerry R. Manzagol, superintendent of the State Regulation and Licensing Department. Her term will run through May 31, 1994.

"I had indicated that I was interested in senior issues," Shaw said. "And I love learning about new things."

The board meets in Albuquerque. Shaw is one of two consumer members. The others represent different health and technology aspects of the industry.

PERIODIC INSPECTION OF BRAKING SYSTEM CAN SAVE LIVES AND MONEY Part I.

When is the last time you drove your vehicle into a repair facility for a preventive brake check? Probably never, since most of us don't think about our brakes until they need attention: corrective vs. preventive maintenance. The "FREE BRAKE INSPECTION" frequently advertised by the auto repair trade is an offer usually passed up by the public, even though brake failure tops the list of mechanical failures feared by drivers. It also is the leading cause of traffic accidents attributable to mechanical defect.

Brake failure nearly always is preventable, cautions Ruidoso Ford. They list the elements of a thorough braking system checkup, to include inspection of:

- pads and shoes for lining wear;
- drums and rotors for wear;
- wheel cylinders and calipers for leakage;
- hydraulic lines and hoses for leaks, kinks or blockage;
- fluid in the master cylinder for level and condition.

An ideal time to have this inspection done is when the vehicle is on the lift for tire rotation or other service.

Capitan

Candidates line up for 3 Capitan board vacancies

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

It must be a tough job. Only one incumbent Capitan village trustee signed up Tuesday to run for reelection March 3.

Dr. David Rouleau and Norm Renfro decided not to try to retain their positions.

All three seats open for election are contested with four persons qualifying for the two, four-year terms and three for the one, two-year term.

Municipal clerk Jan Starnes will certify whether all the qualifiers are eligible to run for office at 5 p.m. today.

Incumbent Alfred Leroy Montes decided not to try for a four-year term tied to the seat he now occupies. Instead, Montes is one of the candidates for the two-year term now held by Rouleau.

He will face Carol Martinez, a homemaker and mother of three children, and David Posley, owner of Posley's Blue Door Art Gallery and a member of the village planning and zoning board.

The contenders for the seats now occupied by Montes and Renfro are Gordon Ross, a computer consultant and member of the village planning and zoning board; Robert Sims Jr., who ran unsuccessfully last year for the Capitan school board; Bennie Peterson, owner of the local hardware store; and L.C. Cozzens, a retired school superintendent.

Martinez, 30, said she wants to become more involved in village government.

"Police protection would be one of my major areas of interest," she said. "I'm concerned about several related incidents that have occurred in the past few years."

She moved to Capitan from Texas after her divorce three years ago to be near her parents, who live here. She now works in Peterson's hardware store and hopes to continue her business education.

This will be her first run for a public office.

It didn't take Posley, 73, long to get involved in village government after moving from Sonora, California where he operated a gallery for 12 1/2 years.

"I'm on the planning and zoning board and in the short time I've served, it seems to me that a lot of people are not getting a fair shake," he said. "But I have no ax to grind or nobody's mind to change. I just want to help the trustees in their continuing efforts to revitalize the town."

He previously served on the Sonora MainStreet Committee.

Montes, 56, was born in Hondo and moved to Capitan 33 years ago when he married. He works for the Alto Village Water Department.

But he is no newcomer to public office. Before winning a two-year term as trustee, he served for four years as Capitan chief of police, four years as municipal judge and eight years as magistrate judge.

He decided to run again "because I really have enjoyed serving for two years during which I helped to keep water rates and taxes down."

"I think the village needs a trustee who takes into consideration that it is a village of average working people."

Montes has an associates degree in business administration.

Ross' name has become familiar in the area in a short time. He has owned property in Capitan since 1981, but didn't move here until eight years later. He is a member of the village planning and zoning board and the Friends of Smokey and the Bear Roots tree committees.

"I'd like to give something back to the community," said Ross, a 68-year-old computer consultant who formerly was associated with Sandia Laboratories.

"I'd like to encourage controlled growth that we can afford to support with water, sewer and garbage service," Ross said. "Ruidoso has some chip makers and Capitan would support something similar in computer manufacture."

Ross was born in Michigan and earned a BA degree in economics from New Mexico State University.

L.C. Cozzens, 70, spent 35 years in the field of education, 17 as superintendent of the Portales school system. He earned a bachelor's degree and master's of arts degree from the University of New Mexico.

"I retired from Portales to move here," he said, adding that he graduated from Capitan High School.

He hasn't been idle since returning. Cozzens last year served as financial adviser to the local school system.

"I have no particular issues," Cozzens said. "I just want to help with anything that would improve the city."

Peterson, 44, also is making his first run for public office.

He moved to Capitan from Portales two-and-a-half years ago to own and operate the hardware store at the corner of Lincoln and U.S. 380.

His mother and sister live in Capitan.

"I just think the board needs some younger people on there, people with more progressive type of thinking and with more of a concern for business," Peterson said.

A Vietnam veteran, Peterson graduated from high school in Portales, owned a tool and equipment rental business in Carlsbad and worked in construction in Austin, Texas, before moving to Capitan.

Sims made his first run for elective office last year when he tried unsuccessfully for a school board post.

Retired from the Air Force, Sims, 73, moved to Capitan six years ago, but has lived in New Mexico 44 years.

He considers an elective post a new challenge.

Smokey Bear roars in for cager Classic

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Eight teams will clash today in the Smokey Bear Classic basketball tournament in Capitan.

The winners will move on to competition Friday, culminating in the championship match Saturday at 8 p.m.

Pat Ventura, head boys basketball coach, said he expects Carrizozo and Estancia to be the teams to beat.

"Estancia won last year, but I don't know how many of their top players they may have lost (through graduation)," he said.

Capitan will be pitted against Vaughn in the first round of the tournament at 8 p.m. Thursday in the old gymnasium.

"Vaughn's got a lot of good outside shooters," Ventura said. "They're a scrappy team. We'll have to get out right away and build a lead or it will be rough."

Matches between Lake Arthur and Eunice in the new gym and Alamogordo sophomores and Estancia in the old gym will lead off the competition at 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Evening games at 8 p.m. are scheduled between Carrizozo and Mesilla Valley Christian in the new gym and Capitan and Vaughn in the old gym.

Friday's games also will be at 4:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday's consolation match is set for noon and the championship game at 8 p.m., both in the old gym.

The Tigers fell to Hagerman last Friday and Truth of Consequences Saturday in away games.

"We made too many mistakes in the first half and fell behind Hagerman 23-15. We were lucky we weren't down by 20 points the way we were playing the ball," Ventura said.

The team came back strong in the second half, caught up with Hagerman and passed them by four points.

"But we fouled and they tied us, then went two ahead,"

TYICIE TRAYLOR

Ventura said. Another foul gave them a four-point lead.

"With 25 seconds left, we got the ball, but forced the shot and missed," Ventura said. "They recovered and scored again and won 54-48."

The Tigers were crushed by Truth of Consequences, which piled up a 40 point victory the next day, he said.

"They were state champs and have players as tall as six-foot, three-inches. They're smallest is five-foot, ten inches," Ventura said. "They were ahead 20-2 at the end of the first quarter."

GIRLS BASKETBALL

The Tigers girls' basketball team will enter the Smokey Bear tournament coming off a 54-26 win against Hagerman last Friday.

"We've had a checkered win-loss record," said coach Norman Cline. "We won the first two games, lost the next three (two during the Floyd tournament) and won the next two."

Three Tigers racked up double digit scoring during the Hagerman game; Tammy Payne with 10 points, Kelly Cox with 11 and Tyicie Traylor with 12. Pam Pacheco scored nine points and Jennifer Eldridge, 8.

KELLY COX

"We shot 50 percent from the field and that was good for us," Cline said. "We played good defense and hustled well."

Cline said Animas probably is the team favored to win the championship.

"They won last year and they graduated only one senior, so they have almost everyone back this year," he said.

"We have a pretty young team, but they're quick learners."

The Tigers' starting team consists of one senior, two juniors and two sophomores.

To prepare for the tournament, Cline said, "We'll be working on shooting and offensive skills and breaking the press."

The Smokey Bear tournament lineup will pit Eunice against Lake Arthur at 3 p.m. Thursday in the new gym and Estancia against Mesilla Valley Christian in the old gym.

At 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Capitan will face Vaughn in the old gym and Animas will meet Carrizozo in the new gym.

Second round games are scheduled for 3 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Friday. Saturday games will be at 10:15 a.m. and 2:45 p.m., with the championship match at 6:15 p.m.

The Silver Lining

This land of enchantment turns 80

Happy Birthday Dear New Mexico

This is being sent to you in mid morning on January 6, the eightieth birthday of New Mexico, and also Epiphany, the Day the Three Wise men arrived in their countries and brought news of the birth of the Christ Child.

This morning the sun came up over Sunrise Mountain through a sky of light cloud and mist, turning the pifion trees into trees of silver; then all around the mountain top the clouds turned to light lavender and pink as the sun shone through its pearly and silvery light. Then veils of mist drifted along the mountain top in front of the sun which turned them into moving cloudy curtains of gold and purple. The American Flag is floating in a light eastern breeze, pushing the mist and fog up the valley, and the sun breaks through flooding the mountain land in a mellow golden light in celebration of New Mexico's eightieth birthday, and the day of Epiphany.

The Great Charm Of Young and Old

New Mexico entered the union January 6, 1912, the third to the youngest state. The first governor was William McDonald, pioneer rancher of Carrizozo, and great-grandfather of Stirling Spencer, Lincoln County Commissioner. The ranch is still in the family. McDonald was a very distinguished governor, who steered our state on a course of bright future.

New Mexico, "The Land of Enchantment" has much of the charm of ancient culture, pioneer traditions, and early American history—and part takes of the most modern aspects of American life.

We are the home of many Indian tribes which observe celebrations and customs notably the annual Mescalero Apache celebration around the Fourth of July. Pioneer Christmas celebrations dating back to Spanish times are much alive every year, and the Santa Fe Fiesta is world famous. On the other hand we have the Los Alamos and White Sands installations—both in the fan guard of modern science. New Mexico was the home of the testing of the first Atomic Bomb.

Mountain, prairie, foothills, mesas, and desert make up the land of New Mexico. Our state bird is the Road Runner, our flower, the

by Dan Storm

Yucca; and our state tree the Piñon—all true traditional creatures of the southwest.

The climate of New Mexico is one of the healthiest in the world—with pure air and sunshine. Thousands of people came to our state extremely ill, and gained robust health, in particular, Lake J. Frazier, four times mayor of Roswell.

In her great book "Death Comes For the Archbishop" by New Mexico writer Willa Cather she says that some regions have a colorful historic past; others look to the future; but New Mexico says to us: "Today! Today!"

Many happy returns of the day to our beloved New Mexico, and all God's blessings.

Happy Birthday To Betty Shreengost

In territorial days, Lincoln was the county seat of the largest county in the nation, one fourth of the state, the size of the state of Indiana. Then for many years after statehood, it was still the center of county government.

I was talking over the phone to Betty Shreengost about the Christmas celebration in Lincoln, and it turned out that her birthday is January 8. Betty was born in Lincoln on this date in 1926 to Bert Pfingsten and the former Ora Manning. She has been a faithful daughter of her native village, always in the forefront of activities such as the Lincoln Pageant and the Lincoln County Historical Society. For years services for the Episcopal Church were held in her home.

Betty said that on Christmas Eve at the services at the historic church of San Juan Bautista "Saint John the Baptist" there were 102 worshippers.

Before that, the townspeople had placed luminarios from one end of the town to the other on both sides of the street.

"It was beautiful," said Betty. "The light of the luminarios shined golden on the heavy snow—a real New Mexico Christmas scene."

After the services, a Christmas gathering was held at the home of Ralph and Rosalie Dunlap. Surely this was a landmark Christmas for our historic little village of Lincoln. We congratulate the folks for this splendid celebration, and we wish Betty Shreengost many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

A Great Nephew Visits Ruidoso

A few days after Christmas there came a package to the Glencoe Post Office; it turned out to be a Smith Corona electric typewriter, a gift from brother Mark, his daughter Tommy Lou Mulsby, his daughter Carrol Jane Elliot and her husband Bill. Then my great-nephew Mark Elliot came to Ruidoso on a ski trip with three fellow students at Baylor University and one student from the University of Houston.

Besides Mark, the Baylor students are Wade Whitney, Marco Campos and Rob Clore. The Houston University student is Marcus Yi.

"Listen to the Angels"

Last Sunday at Saint Anne's Chapel, the Reverend Jan Davy gave a sermon in which she asked us to remember the role of the Angels in the Christmas story. An angel appeared to Mary telling her she would give birth to the Christ Child; the Angels appeared to the shepherd telling of the birth of Jesus.

"The Angels are messengers" said the Reverend Jan. "We would listen to them as they tell us of 'Glad Tidings of Great Joy' at the birth of our infant Saviour."

Kind Words

Saturday the phone rang and a voice said "I am Norma Pierce of Hale Center, Texas, and have been reading your columns for years, and just wanted to tell you how much I appreciate them. I can close my eyes and see what the country looks like, up there, from your writing."

She said that she and her husband have been coming to Ruidoso, and have been trying to find a way to move up here.

We thank Mrs. Pierce for her kind words and home that she and her husband will move up among us some day.

Let us thank God for all our blessings.

Construction plummets in December

by BUDDY BAKER

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Heavy snowfalls and cold temperatures put a freeze on new construction during December in Ruidoso.

Building permits issued for the month of December in the Village of Ruidoso were well below those issued in November, in all categories.

Traditionally construction falls off as the winter progresses, and December is usually slower than November because of the winter and the holidays.

The village issued 32 permits totaling $990,480 in November and 14 totaling $242,310 in December. A year ago, November permits totaled $874,378 and December was $277,100.

Totaling the two-month period in 1990 and 1991 shows a net gain in 1991 of $81,232, perhaps a ray of sunshine for the area in a gloomy national economic environment.

Single family dwelling permits issued in November totaled $508,000 and that category was at just $182,300 in December.

Residential additions and alterations decreased 58 percent from $163,480 in November to $60,010 in December.

No permits were issued on new commercial construction, additions or alterations in December. That category totaled $224,000 in November.

One permit for $95,000 was issued for condominiums in November, and none were recorded in December.

Following are the permits issued in December with the owner, contractor, address, type of construction and estimated costs listed:

—Bill Medlin, J. Fromknecht, 200 Hemlock, remodel $10,000.

—Mario G DeAlba, Noel Bowley, 113 Ebarb, remodel, $9,500.

—Frank Yates, Gene Wilson, Sierra Blanca #1, lot 23, Blk 1, steps and retaining wall, $1,200.

—Burgess Notley, McClendon Construction, address unknown, close in under structure, $1,000.

—Cecil Davis, Goodman Building, 306 Spring Road, room addition, $14,560.

—Jim Peebles, self contracted, 318 Buena vista Drive, single family dwelling, $120,000.

—Sharon Mills, A.D. Powers, address unknown, enclose carport, $4,000.

—Ernest Roche, Ramey Construction, 100 Clover, carport addition, $1,350.

—Terry Whitaker, self contracted, 205 Keys, single family dwelling, $62,300.

—Charleston Wilson, Behringer Construction, 343 Country Club Drive, room addition, $2,500.

—Hugh Daniel, Eagle Creek, 130 Carrizo Creek Road, reshingle, $6,200.

—Pritchett Construction, 403 A Midiron, reshingle, $1,500.

—Thomas McElligott, McGee Construction, 100 Morningside, reshingle, $2,700.

—Tim Morris, Bunyan construction, 117 Hilltop, reshingle, $5,500.

National committeewoman calls on women to get involved in politics

Democratic Women of Lincoln County got their marching orders Tuesday from National Committeewoman Mary Gayle Gwaltney of Las Cruces.

It's time for women to get involved in decisionmaking at all levels and turn this country around, said Gwaltney, speaking at the newly-organized group's luncheon meeting.

"You need to step up, you need to be accounted for," said Gwaltney.

Since women know how to watch their pennies, they could make a big difference in a country that is plagued by budget woes and mounting debts from the national government on down.

"Women are not in the forefront of decisionmaking," said Gwaltney, recalling how some strong women, like first ladies Eleanor Roosevelt and Bess Truman, have had influence on presidents. But when it comes to a major national voice, women don't have one.

"Would any woman have submitted eight budgets which have increased out nation's deficit by $2 1/2 trillion, like Ronald Reagan did?" asked Gwaltney.

"In 1980 we were the strongest nation in the world financially," said Gwaltney. "Would any woman have borrowed $2 1/2 trillion to become the world's largest debtor nation?"

Ronald Reagan did, she said. "A woman wants a good dollars work for a dollars pay."

"Would you, as a woman, be handing out a billion dollars here and a billion there when you have to borrow to pay your own bills?"

"Women would negotiate more, demand more and give away less," said Gwaltney.

Speaking to a group of about 30 women and one man, special guest District Attorney Bert Atkins of Alamogordo, Gwaltney suggested that everyone think of three jobs a woman couldn't do better than some man holding that job.

She listed problems in the environment, healthcare, education and other national issues.

"Would we have allowed that if we had half the votes? Women do make up half the population."

Gwaltney cautioned against setting higher standards for women and Democrats than those required of men and Republicans.

"Why do we have to have a perfect woman to run for public office? We've had hundreds of years of imperfect men," said Gwaltney.

She also said Republicans raise funds through $10,000 a plate dinner and get their political training at the government's expense — flying around in Air Force One and working in various jobs for the President. On the other hand, Democrats are quick to jump on the bandwagon to berate their own party members who accept a steak dinner, she said.

Also during Tuesday's meeting, Twelfth Judicial District Attorney Bert Atkins announced that he will be seeking another term.

"I'm very proud of the track record we've had," said Atkins, noting that voters will have a chance to re-elect a DA and offer some stability in that office.

Teresa Curry, president of the reorganized women's group, introduced Lincoln County Democratic Chairperson Cece Griffin. The two stressed how the county party and the women's organization will be working together.

Curry announced that a group of Democrats will attend the opening of the State Legislature January 21, in Santa Fe. She said anyone interested could learn more by calling Griffin.

Curry also encouraged members of the Democratic Women to attend a clinic presented by County Clerk Martha Proctor for deputy voter registrars.

She introduced officers for the Democratic Women and passed around a sign-up sheet for various committees.

The group made about $500 on its first fundraiser, selling pottery cups at a state meeting at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

San Antonio youth is arrested and charged with vandalism

Ruidoso Police Officer Wolfgang Born thought he was through when he went off duty at midnight Saturday.

But, just as Corporal Born was preparing for a workout at the high school gym he observed what he believes was a crime in progress at the building on Warrior Drive.

As he drove up to the school he observed a youth, without a shirt, shouting and throwing a garbage lid toward the building. After questioning him, Born determined that he had been drinking and a further investigation disclosed extensive damage to windows in the school.

Born called for assistance and arrested Stephen Jay Jimenez of San Antonio. Police charged Jimenez, a minor, with allowing himself to be served alcoholic beverages and for damage of property in excess of $1,000.

Damage to the school was $1,800. Jimenez was apparently mad at his girlfriend and took it out on the high school building, according to police reports.

Water Defense Association to hear update on water suit

Members of the Water Defense Association will hear an update January 15 on the appeal filed by the Mescalero Apache tribe to a federal court decision limiting its claims to the public waters of the Pecos River stream system including the Rio Hondo, Rio Ruidoso and Rio Bonito.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the Hondo School. Agenda items also include a discussion on the proposed high level nuclear waste storage site on the Mescalero Reservation, a complete financial report and an election of officers for 1992.

Crop disaster funds offered

The Lincoln County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will administer a crop disaster assistance program to compensate eligible producers for crop losses caused by drought, flood, hail, freeze and other natural disasters in either 1990 or 1991.

Program applications may be filed from February 3, through May 13, 1992.

Producers with crop insurance must have suffered a loss greater than 35 percent and producers without crop insurance must have suffered a loss greater than 40 percent.

A special mailing will be made as soon as it is received and will be mailed this month. Producers who do not receive this program information should contact the ASCS office at 1909 Cuba Ave. or call 437-3100. More information will be given the producers as it is received.

Redistricting is a tempting morsel to some lawmakers

Asking state legislators to draft new lines that make or break their own hopes and political ambitions is like letting the fox guard the chicken house.

It's an expensive practice, and one that leads straight from the Roundhouse to the courthouse.

We read that lawmakers were disgruntled to be called back into session to redo what they'd already done in setting State Senate district lines. We were upset, too; knowing that the cost (something over $150,000 for this special session) would be just one more expense for taxpayers.

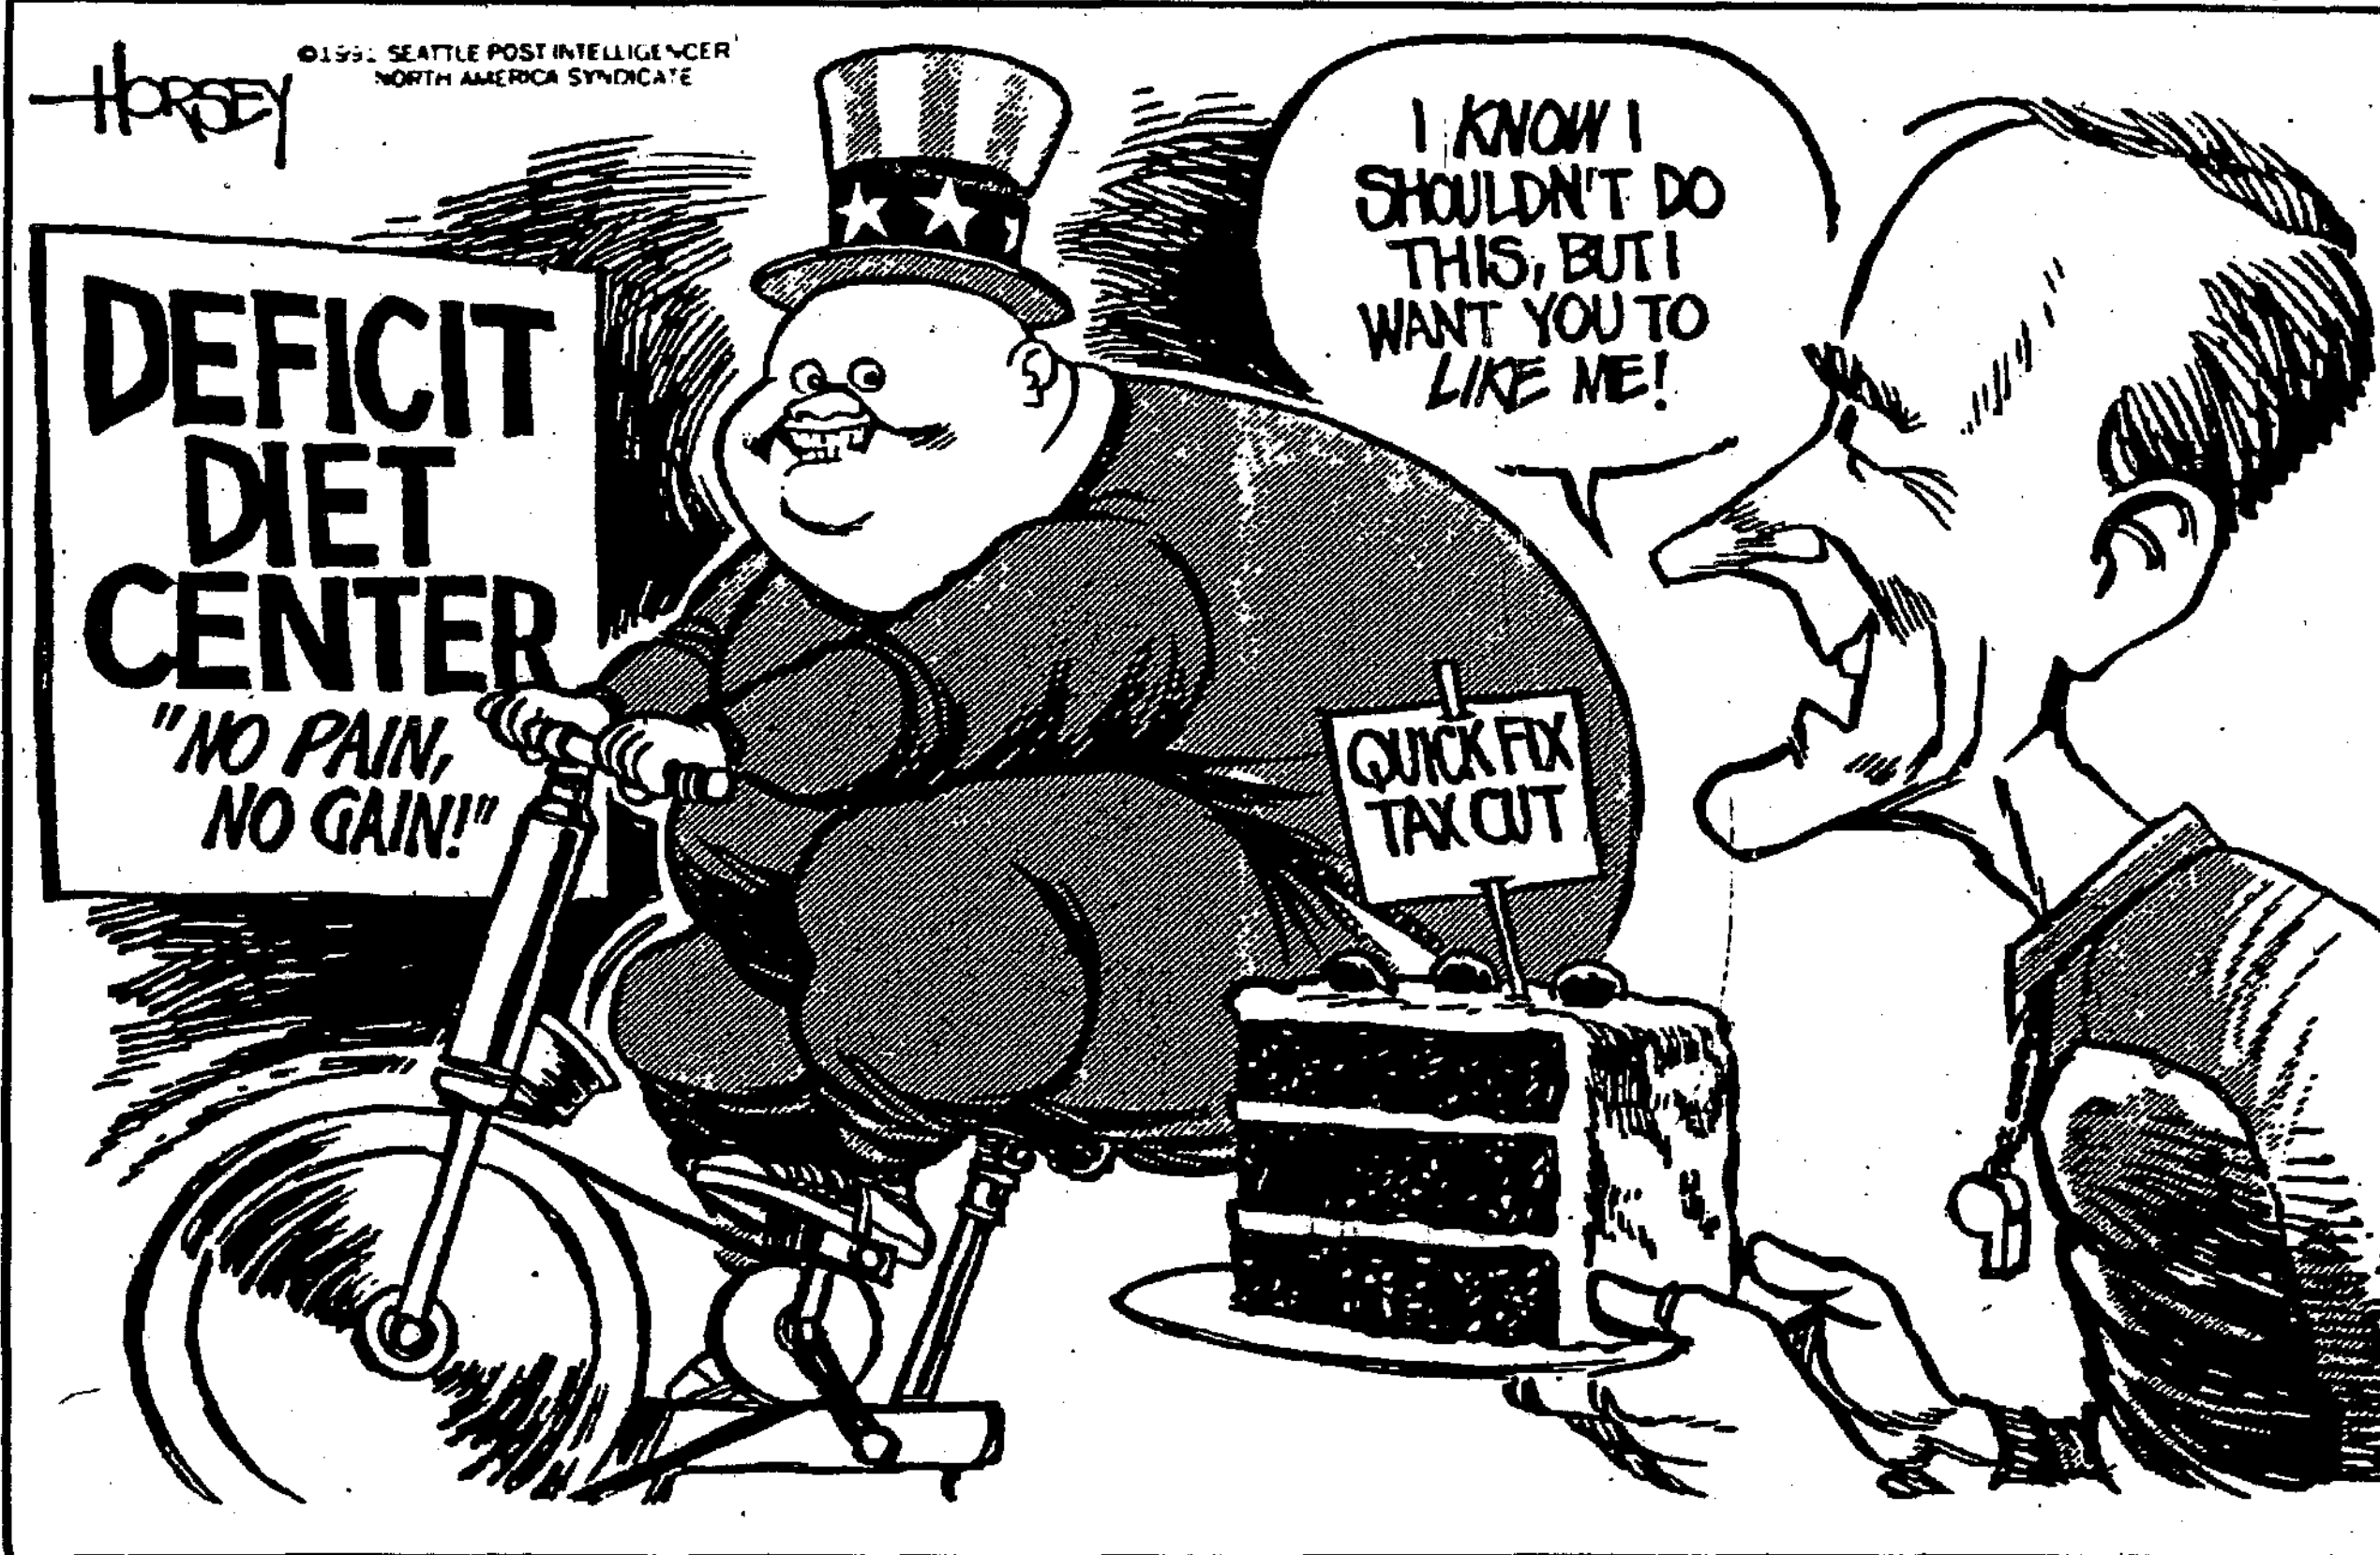

It's too bad that the courts have to tell lawmakers how to draw boundaries in a state of united cultures that already has the "perfect" socio-economic-racial balance. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, New Mexico's population is made up of 50 percent whites, 38.2 percent Hispanics, 2 percent blacks, 8.9 percent American Indians and 0.9 percent Asians. The State Legislature is 36 percent Hispanic, and that's right in line with the state population. Maybe we should have left well enough alone.

But, we didn't because the courts said we couldn't by handing the State Legislature a firm rap on the knuckles, and sending lawmakers back to the drawing board.

This redistricting hoop la that goes round and round in the state Capitol is a self-perpetuating problem, and one that can't be resolved with elected officials redrawing their own boundaries. Redistricting talks inevitably lean toward partisan politics and protecting a Republican or a Democrat district. And that's when lawmakers cut deals to help each other.

It's about time the feds came up with a federal redistricting policy that includes an objective board to draw up and submit redistricting plans. That board, appointed at the federal level, would look at the geographic, economic and racial mix without regard to which "good old boy" of which major party had a stake in which district. Some of the incumbents would win and some would lose, but the overriding emphasis would be on fair and balanced representation of all the people. It wouldn't be easy because this is not a simple process, and we don't live in a perfect world; but it would be a start.

Let's remove temptation by locking up the chicken coop and taking redistricting out of the hands of elected officials.

Thanks, County Commission, for saying 'no' to nuclear waste

TO THE EDITOR:

Thanks, County Commission, for rejecting the self-serving pleas of Wendell Chino and his nuclear industry associates to delay action on your resolution. Chino evidently has no compunction about selling out his people, their lands and their traditions.

While he may have that power, as the Apache's duly elected leader, he cannot be permitted to sell out everyone who has chosen to live nearby, by claiming national sovereignty and private property rights.

Mr. Ollison said objections to the MRS are "based on fear." There are some things in the world realistically to be feared, and high-level nuclear waste is one of them. Based on known scientific data to date, that fear is fully justified.

"Nuclear safety" is an oxymoron. One need only look at the emerging data about Three Mile Island, Los Alamos, Rocky Flats, Savannah River Project, Hanford, etc., to realize the Department of Energy either doesn't know the meaning of the word "truth," or is incapable of telling it, lest they be tarred, feathered and exiled to Bikini Atoll.

No amount of money spent on an "educational" (propaganda) campaign will diminish the inherent dangers; it merely will diminish the inherent dangers; it merely will pacify the naive.

Given DOE's record of disinformation, duplicity and deliberate lies, no one should be willing to defer to their determination of what is an "acceptable risk," nor to allow Chino to decide, on the basis of guaranteed payments of our tax money, what is in our best interests. The profiteering agenda of Messrs. Chino, Hudson and Tolison disqualifies them from making any objective — or believable — statements about the safety or desirability of the MRS project.

If, as they claim, Tolison and Hudson have been "working with Tribal leaders for the past two years," then Chino and the Tribal Council have successfully kept the project under wraps, until now. That probably means the Washington information is correct, that an MRS site at Mescalero is a "done deal." WIPP is the camel's nose under the tent; now New Mexico can expect wave after wave of an ocean-flood of radioactive waste dumping — ending forever the Land of Enchantment quality of our State.

Radical steps need to be taken immediately to stop this insane project, and to throw WIPP out of New Mexico as well. If our elected officials won't take an aggressive lead to protect the State, they should be replaced by some who will. New Mexico has been balkanized by the Feds for too long.

Lincoln resident stands by Miller's contributions to her town

TO THE EDITOR:

I know Dianne Stallings to be a very thorough reporter. She does a complete background check on her local stories the same as she does on the articles she has printed regularly in the "New Mexico Magazine."

I am aware of my many shortcomings; however, I do know I have always taken great pride in at least one good point and that is being fair. I speak of the controversial letters to the editor about the article The News printed 1-6-92 about Gary Miller.

Why not take a pen and paper and list all the improvements made in Lincoln since Gary Miller came to work for the good of Lincoln in 1978?

I have only been in Lincoln eight years and just in the time I've been here, incredible improvements have been made, such as restoration of the old courthouse, hundreds of thousands of dollars making many other improvements to the historic buildings, getting trash cleaned up and beautifying the grounds, and the list could go on and on.

Under the management of Glen and Kay Dennis, the Wortley Hotel became an important and very dependable place to "meet and eat" and the rooms professionally operated.

In fact, the Wortley operated in the black only during the years Glen and Kay Dennis worked so hard to see to that the Wortley was a place all the people in Lincoln could gather.

The troublemakers, and there are two or three maybe four, here who have repeatedly caused controversy; as we all know it only takes a few bad apples to spoil the entire barrel.

I believe we should be fair to Gary Miller and give him credit for all he has done for Lincoln. I have great respect for Gary Miller and all the hard work he has invested to make Lincoln a better place to live. Also, for his talent as an artist.

Gary Miller is a very knowledgeable, hardworking young man and I know him as a friend.

TO THE EDITOR:

I join many others here in our state to protest Wendell Chino's plan to pursue a high level nuclear dump here in New Mexico.

No amount of money will ever bring back the beauty and appeal of this country should some sort of accident occur in such a facility.

I know my late husband, Peter, would have been amazed, not only at this threat, but at the water demands we face at the hands of the Mescaleros.

Please help by taking a strong stand with us on this crucial issue.

Check out these step-by-step instructions on how to live out your life at taxpayer's expense

TO THE EDITOR:

This is how you can live the rest of your life at the taxpayers' expense.

First, you must shoot and kill seven people. They can be relatives or friends, but be sure to include two peace officers and one defenseless baby.

Some people will come and take you away, and tell you that you should have not done this. Even though you will be held responsible for what you did, you still have your rights to explain your actions. You will be given a place to stay, a place to sleep, a place to shower and, of course, your meals will be furnished free. In this respect, you will be much better off than the homeless street people you read about in the newspaper.

An attorney representing the taxpayers will try to change your lifestyle and make plans for your future. The cost of the attorney and court costs will be at the taxpayers' expense. You can plead your own case. You will have no fear of the dead, they can't testify against you. Neither will you feel the agony of the families of the people you killed. The families have to pay the expenses of the deceased, as there is no provision for the taxpayers to pay this.

You have said you are not financially able to pay for an attorney. The taxpayers know you must have an attorney to represent you. They must pay this expense also. If you have a choice, you should ask for the one that says he likes to represent people like you. At the taxpayers' expense you will be able to explain your actions to 12 people who will decide on your future. You hope they will allow you to live at the taxpayers' expense. If this is their decision, your contact with relatives and friends will be restricted to a minimum.

Don't worry, you will make new acquaintances. By chance you may meet my granddaughter's husband, who killed her with a baseball bat.

Here is something for you to contemplate. The taxpayers may rebel at these expenses or enough of them may choose to join you, then there will be no one left to pay for your livelihood.

Friends pay tribute to educator

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Friends and students of the late Lee Ann Norton will gather at 3 p.m. Sunday, January 12, to pay tribute to the educator.

"We want to recognize the contributions she made to the school children of Ruidoso and the great impact she had on the local education picture," said Frank Cannella, principal of White Mountain Elementary.

The school cafeteria will be the site of the tribute.

Norton was 52 when she died December 29 after a two-year battle with cancer. She taught her regular third grade class until December 9 when the disease made it impossible for her to continue, Can-nella said.

She was a teacher 12 years in Farmington before moving to Ruidoso and joining the White Mountain staff, he said.

"We're starting a scholarship fund in her name to benefit a student majoring in education," he said. Contributions can be left at the school's front office.

Teacher Pat Mulholland was hired the same year as Norton.

"She became a very dear friend," Mulholland said. "I had two years of experience and considered myself to be a rookie. She took me under her wing, helped and encouraged me. No matter what the situation, she would turn it into a positive learning experience. She never let herself get down."

"Even while she was at the cancer center this summer, she wrote and gave me pointers on things I could do in school."

"She was very innovative, although she had taught many years, and she was helpful in passing new ideas from workshops on to others. It will be hard without her. She helped me so much."

Cathy Weems also taught along side Norton at the elementary school.

"She was the ultimate professional," Weems said. "She always was on the cutting edge of anything new even though she was what you would call a veteran teacher."

"She had an incredible amount of energy and provided so much leadership for all of us. When she could no longer participate in the professional committees and other activities, there was a big gap."

But Norton's special gift was her sensitivity to children.

"She was always the kind that if there was a child with problems, whether academic or emotional, you could put that child in her room and they'd have a great year. She was just one of those great teachers," Weems said.

"You don't like to ask why, but she had so much more to offer children. They said a teacher can influence eternity by touching children. She certainly did."

Points of Light shine down through former Ruidoso residents

One of President George Bush's points of light has strong ties to Ruidoso.

Craig Bogard, Lynn Ann DiNello Bogard, Dusty Bogard Neergaard, and A.W. (Bill) Neergaard founded Aslan Youth Ministries 17 years ago. The organization's volunteers were named as the 566th Point of Light in September when Aslan Youth Ministries was honored along with other Point of Light groups and individuals during a televised celebration presided over by the President and Mrs. Bush at Walt Disney World.

Parents of Craig Bogard and Dusty Neergaard are Arlene and Ira Bogard. Arlene Bogard taught 4th grade in Ruidoso for 10 years — 1975-1985. Ira Bogard was the broker for "Sunshine Realty Ruidoso" during that period. They now live in Las Cruces.

Bob and Agatha Neergaard, parents of Bill Neergaard, still maintain their home in Ruidoso where they have lived for the past 10 years.

The two younger couples formed The Christian Folk and moved to El Paso, Texas, in 1972, where they toured and sang and worked in the ministry for two and a half years.

In 1975, they changed the name of their singing group to "ASLAN," moved to Red Bank, New Jersey, and co-founded Aslan Youth Ministries, a Christian social service organization that aids disadvantaged minority youth and families.

Dusty and Bill Neergaard helped operate the ministry for 12 and half years. They moved back to the Southwest where Bill now works for The Phoenix in Las Cruces where he is involved in insurance and financial planning.

Craig and Lynn Ann Bogard continue to head Aslan Youth Ministries, which the two couples founded almost 17 years ago.

Aslan Youth Ministries has grown until it has around 150 volunteers.

Anyone wishing to know more about this ministry can contact Aslan Youth Ministries, co. Ira Bogard, 2716 Johnson, Las Cruces, N.M. 88005, or write Aslan Youth Ministries, P.O. Box 270, Red Bank, N.J. 07701.

SHAULA AND DICK CULL

Shaula & Dick Cull celebrate 25th anniversary with a party

Shaula and Dick Cull were honored with a reception on their 25th wedding anniversary December 27, at Cree Meadows Country Club. They were married December 27, 1966, in Morgantown, West Virginia.

The Culls own Starlite Cabins and Starlite Montessori in Ruidoso. The family has lived in Ruidoso since 1974.

Their four daughters, Ginny Cull, Anne Cull, Betsy Cull and Cathy Cull, worked together to surprise the Culls on their Silver Anniversary.

Their oldest daughter, Ginny, is 22, and a senior at New Mexico State University with a major in hospitality and tourism. She will graduate this May.

Anne Cull, 20, attends California State at Long Beach. She is interested in acting.

Betsy, 18, and Cathy, 15, are students at Ruidoso High School. Betsy will graduate with honors in June; and Cathy is a sophomore and a varsity cheerleader.

The Plant Corner

Your plants need air and water, too

DEAR READERS:

Now that we have talked about how to care for our Holiday gift plants and the pests that can destroy them, please note that, not unlike us, the plants can, and most do, have physiological problems.

Although you might imagine that pests and diseases are the cause of so many plant problems, it is, in fact, the physiological disorders or cultural faults which claim the largest toll of indoor plant failures.

Physiological disorders or cultural faults are by definition problems that affect the plant due to where it is grown, how it is grown, and what we may do to the plant.

This includes over-watering, under-watering, sun scald, cold water scald, physical damage, drafts, temperature fluctuation, low humidity, and misuse of aerosols and tobacco smoke. Certain aerosols can damage plants, producing spots on the leaf. Avoid spraying aerosols such as hair lacquer, polish, etc., near plants. Tobacco smoke has the same effect on plants as on human lungs: when the smoke settles on the plant leaf it cannot breathe.

Probably more plants die, or at least suffer, from over-watering than from any other problem. And, indeed, it can be a little difficult to identify immediately whether the plant has been over- or under-watered.

The obvious symptoms of both are the plant wilts, followed by leaf drop. In both cases, this is due to the plant not absorbing water. In the dry, or under-watered plant there is obviously

By Sally Black
Ruidoso News
Plant Specialist

little or no water left in the soil. But with the over-watered plant, there are usually no active roots. The roots plain and simply drown.

Most people think to keep a plant healthy, just add more water with the occasional drop of liquid fertilizer, but the truth is that air is a must requirement for the roots. The soggy roots suffocate, die and break down and the above soil part of the plant, ironically, dies from dehydration.

If the plant is showing signs of over-watering, it can often be saved by removing it from the pot and letting it dry out in a warm dark place for about 24 hours, after which it can be replaced in the pot and treated with a "Benomyl" solution as this fungicide kills parasitic fungi which may attack growth of new roots, follow the directions on the package.

Sun scald is caused when certain plants are exposed to high, direct sun exposure.

Cold water scald is usually caused when a plant is watered with cold instead of tepid water.

It is truly surprising how much damage can be caused to a plant by physical damage. Rough handling causes tares and splits in the leaf and probably, the worst damage occurs when the "growing-point" is damaged.

Keep plants out of drafty, hot and cold places. This is not to say "mild air movement." The more delicate the plant the more susceptible they are to drafts. I have often told you to keep plants away from heat vents.

Temperature fluctuation is more of a problem in winter. Plants allowed to stand on window sills are more susceptible to temperature differences in a short time. It is important to aim for a stable temperature of about 60 degrees.

Humidity is a big problem for most indoor plants. Humidity may be added by placing plants on top of pebble in a tray of water, or by placing moist peat or sphagnum moss in an outer pot for the plant pot to snuggle in. Mist and spray plants often in really dry conditions.

Remember, good house keeping is important, keep all plants dust free and fresh, clean air circulating at a constant temperature.

Thank you R.M. Steffek, plant consultant, for all the help and information you have given me.

Lincoln County beef producers are helping pay for medical education program with checkoffs

A new continuing education program, funded in part by Lincoln County beef producers through the beef checkoff, is helping provide physicians with information to help their patients.

As a major source of nutrition information among consumers, physicians play an important role in explaining the importance of a good diet to their patients.

However, physicians sometimes need additional nutritional information to allow them to recommend the best food choices, according to a news release.

"Practical Strategies for the Dietary Management of Hypercholesterolemia," a program of continuing education seminars, provides doctors with research-based information on high blood cholesterol, as well as techniques to use in counseling patients with this condition about diet.

The seminars were conducted from August to December in a dozen cities across the country, including Chicago, New York, Los Angeles, Atlanta, Denver, Philadelphia, Seattle, Miami, Kansas City, Missouri, Columbia, South Carolina, Detroit and Houston.

The dietary role of meat, one of the American consumer's most popular foods, is discussed in the evening program, which consists of a slide presentation and printed handouts, followed by a nutritious beef dinner.

The program, sponsored by the National Livestock and Meat Board, is approved for continuing medical education credit by the American Medical Association through the George Washington University School of Medicine. It has also been favorably reviewed by the American Academy of Family Physicians, and is approved for continuing medical education credit through that organization.

The seminars are based on a roundtable discussion of experts conducted last March in Chicago. Those physicians attending the continuing education program receive a complete summary of those discussions.

Additionally, physicians may also order additional printed Meat Board informational materials for their patients, or receive a set of slides used in the program for presentations they give to colleagues or others in the health care community.

The program provide an opportunity to contribute substantially to the nutrition knowledge of family practitioners and other physicians, according to the New Mexico Beef Council. They not only present a balanced view of nutrition to the participating physicians, but give them some solid, research-based information on diet and heart health.

Check out winter hours in Billy the Kid country

Lincoln is the heart of Billy the Kid Country and has much to offer the tourist or a native of the area who enjoys the history of the old west.

Because of winter, though, the old courthouse will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily with a $2 admission charge. It is free to children 15 years of age and younger.

The courthouse presents historic slide shows and contains artifacts and displays from the days of the old wild west.

The historical center was open this weekend but is now closed until February 18, according to Donna Crandall, business manager of Lincoln County Heritage Trust. She said guided tours will not be available until later in the season too.

There are several historical plaques around the town, and many of the houses in the town are over one hundred years old, so they are really interesting to look at, Crandall said.

Lincoln is the site of the historic Lincoln County War, Billy the Kid exploits, former Lincoln County seat and distinctive territorial architecture. The town is only 36 miles from Ruidoso.

Knights of Columbus helped sponsor this billboard on U.S. Highway 70.

"Keep Christ in Christmas"

Knights of Columbus, the Father Eugene Dolan Council, No. 6597, in Ruidoso, wants to "keep Christ in Christmas."

"If you enjoyed the beautiful message of these billboards this holiday season, you might like to know who provided them," said a news release provided by the Knights of Columbus.

The billboard on U.S. Highway 70 just west of the Ruidoso Downs race track was sponsored by the New Mexico Ford Dealers and Newman Outdoor Advertising in conjunction with the local council of the Knights of Columbus, an organization made up of men who are members of the Catholic church.

A similar billboard on U.S. Highway 70 just northeast of Tularosa was sponsored by Chris Carusona of Ruidoso Ford, also in conjunction with the Ruidoso council of the Knights of Columbus.

IF YOU'RE FEELING DEPRESSED, HELP OTHERS WHO NEED YOU

At some time in all of our lives, things will go wrong, and we feel very depressed as a result. We may lose a job or get bypassed for an expected promotion, or an engagement may be called off. We can incur any number of financial or emotional catastrophes. However, no matter how bleak the future looks, tomorrow is another day. A new and probably better job or romance can be right around the next corner. Meanwhile, get out of yourself and help someone else. Go to the nearest hospital and do some volunteer work. Read aloud to a patient, or just say hello and chat for a few minutes. In addition to cheering these people up, this will help you realize how fortunate you are. Above all, turn to faith at your House of Worship. This can give you a real head start on a new life, in which you will be helping others as well as yourself.
