Sidewalks! $1 million allocated

MainStreet Ruidoso has earned a total of $1.5 million for the streetscape plan to improve the downtown area of Sudderth Drive, with the latest approval of $425,000 from the state highway department.

In its last session the state legislature gave the project $300,000 for the construction of phase one, from Fern Street to Country Club Road, and the design of phases two and three. The group also received federal funds through the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act, which was signed by President George Bush in December 1991.

This money, $575,000, is administered by the state highway department and was put into the department's five year plan earlier this year. The act required a 20 percent match, and the department's funds will provide that.

At a meeting Thursday in Las Vegas, New Mexico, the state highway department approved its budget for the upcoming year with $425,000 set aside for the MainStreet Ruidoso project.

Bear..Where..There?

Animal Control Officer Johnnie Parker draws a bead on a fairly tamed black bear after it finally surfaced in the tall grass where he was hiding across from Walmart. Parker said he had no intention of shooting the animal. He said he was from the plains and that was the first bear he has ever made contact with. The other officer is still looking.

The first summer session at Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso is in full swing, but all of the lessons haven't been in the classroom.

In drawing up the proposed curriculum, the local staff worked on several assumptions and some of those turned out to be wrong, said education center administrator Jim Miller.

"This was really a learning experience," Miller said. "We thought we would pick up kids who had just graduated from high school or were returning back from college, but neither of those categories did well."

"We advertised in eastern New Mexico and western Texas and received a good response for next year, but not for the summer," he said. "I think we made people aware that there is a college here and to think about us in the future."

Hospital board members praise emergency crews

When the word went out Wednesday night that a vehicle carrying the Ruidoso News was involved in an accident, the emergency service was that they were able to get to the scene and get the 17 victims to the hospital in 38 minutes. Hospital administrator Valerie Miller said the above emergency was extremely well handled. She was not at the hospital when they brought the kids in, but the hospital staff managed well with everyone doing their part. It only took an hour and a half to take care of everyone once they got to the hospital, she said.

Dr. Don Simons, member of the Ruidoso County Medical Center board, said he was with EMT John Stover when Stover got the car and he decided to go in the car was what he saw was something to be proud of he had his fellow board members. Thursday night.

He said there were about 30 people at the accident, administering care and comforting the scared victims, including two police departments and fire departments. Five ambulances and many other technicians. Fortunately no one in the vehicle was seriously injured. The handling of it was nothing to report. You can't be proud of a job so beautifully, he said.

The most impressive aspect of the emergency service was that they were able to get to the scene and get the 17 victims to the hospital in 38 minutes. Hospital administrator Valerie Miller said the above emergency was extremely well handled. She was not at the hospital when they brought the kids in, but the hospital staff managed well with everyone doing their part. It only took an hour and a half to take care of everyone once they got to the hospital, she said.

Board member Sally Avery said after she heard about it she came to the hospital to see if she could help but it was all under control.

The board praised the tremendous effort of the responding EMS technicians and will be writing the units a letter expressing thanks for the work.

Downs shops for fire truck

Ruidoso Downs may get a new fire truck soon if the village board of trustees accept any bids at its meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at village hall.

The board voted at its last meeting to go out for bids on a new truck to possibly replace the 20-year-old truck which was now. An estimated cost wasn't known at that meeting so trustees weren't sure if there was enough money to purchase it until they could see actual bids.

Also on the agenda will be recommendations from Mike Warren of the Lodgers Tax Committee. The committee approved requests for $2,500 to the All-American Festival and $1,000 to the Apache Trails group at a meeting Monday.

Lions cancel Friday Bingo

Ruidoso Valley Noon Lions Club has announced its longstanding Friday Night Bingo at the Elk's Lodge has been canceled.

"Through the years this fully volunteer community oriented event has been enjoyed by many residents," according to a news release provided by the Lions Club.

"It has also proven to be a highly efficient method of generating resources necessary for implementing the clubs several community charitable and health related projects.

"During the preceding year the club was able to provide locally more than $16,000 in community services and altruistic activities. Much of this revenue was derived from bingo."

Competition was listed as the main reason participation in the Bingo game has faltered.

LCMC board gears up to inform voters

by KRISTIE SULZBACH
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Now that the renewal of a county mill levy for Lincoln County Medical Center will be voted on in a special election in September instead of the general election, the hospital board can concentrate on letting people know the facts about the levy.

A special community mill levy committee has met twice to decide how best to do this, according to Valerie Miller, hospital administrator. Miller reported to the hospital board at a meeting Thursday that the board had been successful in getting the special election approval from the county commission on June 5. The community group has been working on a list of all the clubs and organizations in the county and when they meet.

When the committee gets a final schedule, members will go to the meetings and do a presentation on the mill levy renewal. Board president Dub Williams encouraged board members to attend any of these meetings in their area of the county to provide support or information. He also commended county commission representative Bill Elliot for helping to get the special election approved by the commission.

Miller said the committee has planned a media campaign for the next few months before the election. She said they are planning to use the newspaper, radio and television to get the message across. They will hit the public hard with information the first few weeks of July and then let up until late in August, she said.

"People will begin to see and hear more about it in the next few weeks," Miller said.

The Ruidoso mill levy will let them insert a mill levy fact sheet in the locally delivered papers of upcoming editions, and the cable company has offered free time on the cable channels, Miller said. The radio stations have also offered special political rates for advertising, she said.

At the next community meeting they will be discussing such things as how they can provide transportation to the polls and what they can do on election day, Miller said.

The county mill levy for support of the hospital was approved in 1980 and will run out at the end of June 1993. The vote in September will decide whether it will be renewed to begin July 1, 1993. Currently 4.25 mills are being collected with one mill going to support the Carrizozo and Corona clinics and the rest to LCMC.

In other business, Miller gave the financial statements which show a continuing pattern of growth. She said the activity in May has been up compare to previous months with net revenues up $107,567 from last month and up $94,553 from May 1991. Although the year-to-date performance is ahead of this time last year it is about $15,000 under budget.

The Carrizozo Health clinic is at a loss of $5,290 for the month, but has a year-to-date gain of $1,423, despite mill levy funding of $29,498. The Ruidoso Emergency Medical Service shows a loss for the month and for the year-to-date, but it is still close to $50,000 ahead of budget since it was expected to lose that much while being in operation.

Miller also announced that the winner of the LCMC scholarship was John Goodman who graduated from Ruidoso in May. Goodman will be attending the July meeting to tell the board about his plans in the medical field.

Inez Tanner, LCMC auxiliary president, reported that group has had a good and busy month in May with members contributing 1,861 total hours in various services to the hospital. Since beginning the auxiliary in 1965 the group has contributed 75,700 hours of service, which is a great accomplishment, she said. The group is also contributing about $17,000 to help purchase needed equipment for the hospital.

Dr. Arlene Brown said she had read an article in the newspaper about a mobile van stopping in Ruidoso to give mammograms and suggested they let people know that the hospital also offers state of the art mammograms. Although the van has been certified by several medical associations, Brown said she was concerned that there may be no follow-up for patients who have a problem.

Board member Sally Avery pointed out it is also about $20 more for this clinic than the one they provide each year.

Miller said the advertisements the hospital does tells that they offer mammograms, so people should know it is available. She said they could try to find out who is doing the van clinic and see what their plan is for follow-ups.

In the medical staff report Brown also asked for an approval of Dr. Don Wolfel credentials for the associate medical staff, which the board agreed to. Wolfel is a radiologist.

Andrews

you can't get them to quit. Make 'em quit."

"There's a nice big guy standing on the stage yelling obscenities in the microphone. Fortunately Dick knows my personality, I'm not sure the rest of you do.

"I looked at Dick and said, why don't you just shoot him. He said I can't do that. I said give me the gun, I can. He laughed and got a little less tight jawed.

"At that point, I walked up to the individual on stage, which I now find out was a local, wasn't part of the motorcycle rally, didn't own a motorcycle. He was just out there partying and having fun on a 16-ounce beer.

"I walked up to him and suggested he could unplug it the way it was supposed to be unplugged or I'd unplug it so that it could never be plugged back in. They shut the music down and all went home.

"I do not encourage breaking the law, I don't even encourage breaking rules and the rules were it was going to stop at 10 p.m.

"I was informed that the MainStreet people who were in charge had gone home at 10 p.m., because they also couldn't get them to quit.

"I'm not braver than anybody else, but if there is a rule to be enforced, it needs to be enforced. I didn't ask the police to do it. Dick said there wasn't anything they could do, so I did it. It was simple. It was quick. And it stopped," Andrews told the police.

ANDREWS TEACHES POLICE ABOUT BIKERS

"There's a line (in the FOP letter) about large number of outlaw types being attracted by the rally. I disagree with the (FOP) comment based on the numbers and things that I've seen.

"I've been around motorcyclists for 20 years and rallies for 18. I know just about every outlaw group that exists. I know the Banditos, I know the Brotherhood, I have unfortunately met and been involved with the Hell's Angels on three occasions. That's about it.

"There are some less desirable clubs, but they're not outlaws.

"This year we did have some Banditos. Unfortunately, one of them got involved in an incident. But they were not registered at the rally, not part of the rally, they did drink in a bar.

"I think it was last Tuesday there were three of them in one of the local bars in Ruidoso Downs. We didn't have a rally last Tuesday.

"Those people can come and go as they please," he told the police.

Andrews assured the police that their written concern that Ruidoso residents and visitors were in any kind of risk was unjustified.

"As far as, 'small wonder we haven't had someone killed' and so forth and so forth. There were two people involved in that shooting last year.

"Again, knowing a little bit about motorcycles and outlaw bikers, nobody tried to kill anybody.

"I assure you the two individuals who fired those weapons were perfectly capable of putting one in the back of somebody's head, just as easy as putting one in their leg.

"They weren't trying to kill anybody, they were trying to hurt each other.

THEY AREN'T HEAVY, THEY AREN'T BROTHERS

"The other thing that was interesting is that there was some talk about the potential for a riot.

"If I could have been there I could have assured you that that was not the case. Dick, himself, told me the first thing that happened when these guys got into a fight, the two outlaw clubs started shedding their colors."

"The minute you see an outlaw biker taking his color off, it means he don't want to play anymore. If he wants to play, he'll leave it on not to get shot by one of his fellow people, or stabbed, or kicked, or beat, or hit, or whatever.

"If there was going to be gang retaliation, the colors would have stayed on, but they didn't. And that's directly from your chief."

"Yeah, if you were down there it would have looked a little intimidating. Nobody likes to be around when guns are fired," Andrews told the police.

MY WAY

According to Andrews, it pays to listen to the voice of experience.

"Jess Stinson (of the Winner's Circle bar) came forward and said he would like to take it (battle of the bands) on and sponsor it. I can't stop him. He has a local business.

"I did recommend to him, Jess please move it to Thursday and Friday. Don't do it on Saturday and Sunday. He did. He moved it to Thursday and Friday. That year, to my knowledge, there was no problem.

"In fact, I've asked Dick Swenor. There were no arrests. There weren't any particular complaints.

It was just loud.

"The year before, Mary Maul came up and said we're going to pick a rock and roll band. I said I think that's a bad idea. She said why? That's where most of the people are out there dancing and carrying on and jumping up and down. She said these other bands, mostly country-western, we don't get that many people out there dancing and carrying on.

"I said yes, that's my point. Do the country-western band, less potential problems. Do this hard rock band that yelling and screaming and playing some of these wonderful songs on MTV that various stations won't let you listen to. They rejected the rock 'n' roll band.

"This (motorcycle) organization, myself specifically, has always tried to reduce the possibility of problems at the motorcycle rally. Sometimes I'm listened to, sometimes I'm not. With all due respect, I am the person with the most experience.

"I suggested, what you need to do MainStreet, is to charge to get into the battle of the bands and the street dance. You need to charge $3 to $5. If you want to let our motorcyclists and people that have registered (at his rally) in free, that'd be OK.

"They said it was too much trouble. They didn't want to charge. They just wanted to open it up. I said OK.

"Then what you want to do is sell the liquor in the parking lot for the same price you sell for inside the bar. That way you cut down on quantity that someone can drink.

"They sold 16-ounce beers for a dollar. That may be the stupidest thing I've ever heard of in my life. Not only at a motorcycle rally, but a Shriners convention that's not right. Sixteen ounces, give me five dollars worth and you'll have me in one of your jail cells downtown.

"Sure enough we had some trouble that first year because it was on a Saturday. I suggested Thursday-Saturday. It wound up Friday-Saturday.

"RON" PEROT

RUIDOSO BUILDS THE RALLY A NEW HOME!!!
THE NEW RUIDOSO CIVIC EVENTS CENTER IS RALLY HEADQUARTERS.
PAVED PARKING!

Councilor Ron Andrews' Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally literature promotes that Ruidoso is building the rally a new home, which also happens to be the new Civic Events Center. The literature also claims that the rally is an official Aspenfest event of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. Chamber officials disagree.

Andrews became almost presidential as he told the officers how their local government should be run.

He said he was tired of hearing that you can't run a village or a government like a business, using Ross Perot as an example.

And then he launched into some remarkably familiar dialogue.

"I'm not a politician," Andrews said. "Didn't want to be one when I got elected. Didn't want to run when I got asked to run. But one thing I am, is a businessman."

Andrews explained how police overtime pay was not cut.

"I don't know what you were told by your higher ups, but there was no intent to force comp time instead of overtime pay on the part of this council," Andrews said.

But a shift activity summary report from the Ruidoso Police Department indicates comp time is the rule rather than overtime pay with alarming results that may mean minimum standards for community protection have not been met.

Chief Swenor has said there should always be at least two officers on a shift, for backup in case of an emergency. The system is set up for four patrolman per shift.

For the first five months of 1992, the Village of Ruidoso averaged 1.5 officers for the graveyard shift, 1.7 officers during the day and 1.3 officers on the swing shift.

According to several officers, the only way that overtime was paid since January was through mandatory court appearances when there was no way to take comp time within a 28-day pay period.

"There was an intent that if we hired new police officers that they would operate under rules from that day forward. And yes we did say comp time instead of overtime, except for very stressful, emergency situations," Andrews said.

During the first five month period, the number of reports where officers were required, crime reports, incidents and accidents totaled 2,951.

"The fiscal 90-91 budget, the first budget of this council had any rest over," Andrews said. "And $28,000 was approved for overtime pay for that year. Only $20,000 was spent. That means somebody left $8,000 on the table at the end of the fiscal year."

"There was $8,000 available for the police department that wasn't spent. It was just left there. This council didn't cut that request for overtime pay," Andrews said.

Andrews failed to point out that during that '90-91 fiscal year the council experimented in using comp time instead of paid overtime and it became a horrendous problem. Village employees built hundreds of hours in time off.

In fact, it was around $33,000 worth of time the village couldn't afford to give and still run its services efficiently. Village records reflect a small amount still outstanding.

The situation was particularly stressful in the thinly manned police department that couldn't afford to let people off.

Comp time, council driven, rose so dramatically that year it offset any overtime pay.

"The '91-92 budget, which is the one we're in right now, your administration asked for $19,700 in overtime pay," said Andrews. To date, this council has approved $34,330 in overtime pay. Somebody asked for half of what they actually got.

"I was a pretty good mathematician and I don't see that as a cut. In fact, I see that as a $15,000 increase over what was requested," Andrews said.

In budget sessions last year, the police department did ask for $19,700, the council cut over $2,000 from that request to an unrealistic $17,385.

The rest of the $34,330 to which Andrews referred was approved after the fact, and only because the initial budget, $17,385, was unreasonable.

According to Swenor, routine procedures such as normal court appearances on days off often drive up large overtime costs.

The '89-90 budget was over $43,000. This year the police department asked for and received $39,000 from the council.

"For the budget that is coming up July 1, your administration, the chief, the village manager, asked for $39,000. We approved $39,000. There's been no cut in overtime pay, period, end of sentence," Andrews said.

Considering inflation, $39,000 in '92-93 doesn't seem as high as $43,000 in 89-90. And it probably doesn't buy as much.

THE CAINE MUTINY

Andrews told the police how he portioned out logic to hold a past employer to his contractual obligations.

"But as a person with a beard that took a job with a state agency in Texas that did not have a dress code, subsequently passed a dress code, and me and my attorney informed them we would see them in hell before they would enforce it against me.

"If they had a dress code that said no facial hair when I applied for the job, I'd have said thank you very much, I got a beard and I don't plan to shave it.

"But they didn't do it. They hired me with one, and two years later told me I had to shave it.

"It's not going to happen. It's not going to happen to village employees in this town as long as I'm in office. You just don't change the contractual obligation.

"And everybody except possibly the Village manager, assistant village manager and the police chief has a contract with the village as far as employment is concerned."

"The part about overtime. The inference is that overtime has been reduced.

"This council said nothing will be done to a village employee that is currently on the payroll that wasn't part of the original contract. We do not change the rules that our employees operate under while they're still here.

"We can do anything we want to, to new hires. We can tell the new officer that comes in you don't get overtime, you get comp time. He or she then has the choice of taking the job or leaving it."

NOW WHAT'S THIS OVERTIME NONSENSE?

Andrews, it appears, intends to play hard ball when it comes to village police protection for his upcoming motorcycle rally.

"There was a comment in the FOP letter about the local officers being paid overtime and other officers per diem (for special events)," he said.

"I went right to Village Hall and looked through the records. There's no evidence that any agency outside the Village of Ruidoso (police department) has ever been paid to participate. We can't find any bills for any event, not just the motorcycle rally.

"I can't argue with you. If they were paid, we don't know how they were paid. And we can't find any invoices or bills saying they requested pay.

"I will say, as a councilor, this letter was my first information that anybody expected to be paid."

Since the FOP letter, Councilor Jerry Shaw has asked Andrews what he intends to contribute to the extra police protection needed during his rally.

Andrews did not say he would help pay for the extra police assistance, but he did say he would consider it if two other sponsors of major events would pay for their extra police protection.

Yet, the Ruidoso Lodgers Tax Committee voted last week to give Andrews $1,500 to help advertise his for-profit rally.

"If the chief wants to bring people in for the motorcycle rally, Aspenfest, whatever, there has never been a line item in the budget for it," Andrews told the police.

Sugar and Spice are waiting

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Their owner doesn't want them. She knows the two dogs were brought into the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter about three weeks ago.

But she hasn't come by to see them or attempt to reclaim them, according to shelter manager Randy Basch. It's not the first time they've been brought in as strays.

So Sugar and Spice sit in one of the crowded shelter's kennels waiting, like the other 70 abandoned dogs, for someone who cares, someone who will take them home and give them attention and love.

Sugar is a two-year-old female wire-hair terrier/Australian shepherd whose coat is decorated with a wild mixture of colors, punctuated with sprays of gray. She's playful and friendly and soaks in every kind word or gentle stroke.

As an added bonus, Sugar appears to be housebroken, Basch said. She will have to be spayed.

Sugar's larger friend and protector is Spice, a 1 1/2-year-old Airedale cross. He weighs about 40 pounds and is mottled red in color. He responds well to visitors and is ready to leave with new owners who will enjoy a companion for long walks and evenings by the fireplace.

Spice also seems to be housebroken, but will require neutering.

The shelter desperately needs sponsors for spaying and neutering dogs and cats eligible for adoption.

The cost of the altering procedure is the major expense connected to adoption.

"So many people come into the shelter to adopt and end up leaving because they can't pay for spaying or neutering," Basch said.

For more information about Sugar or Spice or any of the other dogs or cats, call Basch at 257-9841 or stop at the shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

UNM Bank names new vice president

Brenda Buckner of Ruidoso has recently been named assistant vice-president of United New Mexico Bank.

Larry Willard, Chief Executive Officer of United New Mexico Financial Corporation and R.B. Holmes, President and Chief Executive Officer of United New Mexico Bank in Alamogordo, made the announcement.

Buckner joined United New Mexico Bank in February 1990, and was elected personal banking officer shortly thereafter. Prior to joining United New Mexico Bank she served as vice president of The Bank of Ruidoso.

She has 13 years of banking experience and has been a lending officer for the past 10 years.

Buckner will continue her lending and operational duties at the Ruidoso office of United New Mexico Bank.

Environmentalists provide free well water testing in Carrizozo

The New Mexico Environment Department will offer free private well water testing for residents of the Carrizozo area from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. Monday, June 29.

This public education event will include testing for nitrates and organic vapor. No bacteriological tests nor samples from public water supplies will be done at this event. Educational information will be available as well as an opportunity to discuss water quality concerns and contamination prevention.

Private water well users are asked to bring at least one quart of water from their well in a clean, covered container. Containers or lids should not have been used for pickles, cider or anything with a strong odor.

The sample should be collected from a cold water faucet that has been allowed to run at least five minutes before the container is filled. Collect the sample as close as possible to the time it is brought for testing. Please record the date and time the sample is taken.

A questionnaire will be filled out for each well, giving location of the well, how many persons use it, age, construction and depth of well. If the well has been tested before, bring the results of that test for comparison and to help the water resource specialists interpret the results of this test.

Private water well users can bring samples to the Carrizozo Recreational Center at 101 6th Avenue between 1 and 4 p.m. for testing.

For more information, contact Jim Edwards, NMED, in Ruidoso at 258-3272 or Barbara Giesler, NMED, Drinking Water Section, in Santa Fe at 827-2732.

Realty Service helps buyers

A new trend in the real estate industry, realty service, is well-suited for the Ruidoso area, and Bill Hirschfeld of Realty and Insurance Services is offering it.

Although realty service is not a new concept, Hirschfeld said it does seem to be catching on. Under realty service, Hirschfeld represents the buyer's interest in a real estate transaction, instead of the seller's interest. These people are the ones that need the help since they are usually not familiar with the area, he said. Seventy percent of his transactions are with people from out of town.

"It's a natural for here. Ruidoso is a unique market," Hirschfeld said.

Realty service doesn't hurt the seller because that person is aware of the market, while for the buyer this is a whole new game, he said. Hirschfeld said he decided to do the service after seeing it in the news a lot and seeing things about it in the real estate industry. He began offering the service June 1 at his office at 1092 Mechem Drive in addition to the insurance service he provides.

Hirschfeld recently passed his broker's test, and serves as the broker for this one-man firm. He has been in the real estate business for 15 years and was named top producer and sales person of the year in 1989.

He was also appointed to the Governor's Business Advisory Council for Tourism in September of 1991, which meets throughout the year to discuss issues pertaining to tourism.

He has also served as president of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and MainStreet Ruidoso. It is important to be involved and successful in the community as well as the business, Hirschfeld said.

Hirschfeld is also continuing his insurance services for commercial businesses, homes and automobiles. He also has a small rental business, Ruidoso Exclusive Rentals, to provide visitors with quality accommodations at competitive prices.

Realty and Insurance Services can be reached at 1-800-825-2666 for people out of town or locally at 258-4574.

MainStreet board goes shopping for new members

by KRISTIE SULZBACH
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

MainStreet Ruidoso will be hunting up some new members next week as directors begin the annual membership drive.

The group met Thursday morning for the monthly meeting and to discuss plans for the drive, which will begin this Thursday. MainStreet president Alden Deyo said those volunteering to do the drive will meet at the office at 8:30 a.m. to get some information packets, and they should be ready to hit the streets after an hour. MainStreet project director, Mary Maul, has made a list of all the businesses in the downtown area, and these will be divided up among the volunteers.

Although they will concentrate on these downtown businesses, Deyo encouraged directors to also meet with other businesses and individuals who would benefit from being a member of MainStreet. The volunteers will give out the packets to the potential new members and answer any questions they may have. Maul has also made up an information sheet for the new member to fill out to have on hand at the office.

Deyo said last year it took a major portion of the day for the membership drive, but the more people who volunteer the less time it will take to meet with all the businesses. The dues are $1,000 for a financial institution, $200 for a business or professional firm, $200 for property owners of less than half an acre, $300 for owners of more than half an acre, $50 for non-profit service clubs, and $50 for private individuals. They may be paid in full or in quarterly payments.

One project that has been developed by MainStreet, the streetscape improvements in the downtown area of Sudderth Drive, may be a good calling card during the membership drive, since it will benefit the entire community.

Deyo said the final architectural plans by Bohannon-Huston Incorporated of Albuquerque are supposed to be ready by the end of the month. The plans will then be submitted to the state highway department for approval.

The group has been working closely with the state on this so there shouldn't be any major problems with approval. Maul was not at the meeting because she was attending a highway commission meeting in Las Vegas because they planned to discuss funding for projects in the 1992-1993 fiscal year.

Deyo said they received a letter about a year ago from the highway department that may require some action as the construction work begins. The exact property line in the downtown area is not known, and surveys would be too costly to find out. The state probably owns up to five feet behind the curb, but if sidewalks are paved past that distance signed statements will be needed from that property owner.

Several board directors asked what the construction schedule will be for phase one of the improvements, from Fern Street to Country Club Road. Deyo said the estimate is that it will take about six months, but it probably won't be all at one time. He said they will definitely try to do the work during the times that are best for the downtown merchants.

Director Walter Merchant said he had understood that the construction company would do a half of a block at a time on alternate sides of the street. The start date will depend on when the money becomes available from the state, Deyo said. As usual with workings with the government they have had some red tape so it is hard to tell how it will all fit together, he said.

The group has found out they won't have to be in as big a rush as expected to keep the services of Bohannon-Huston after it completes the construction plans. They original thought they would need to have the village council approve keeping the companies services for the next step of getting bids for the project, but the original contract allows them a little more time.

In other business the executive committee has been working on job descriptions for Maul, as project director when she moves to Santa Fe, a project manager and an assistant manager. The assistant manager will work into the position of project manager, so having a description will help that person understand what will be expected.

Deyo said as they get the duties pinned down the executive board will meet with Maul to discuss how much it will cost to retain her services. They can then determine what they can spend for the assistant manager position. He said they have already gotten several applications for the position but probably won't be ready to select someone until later in July.

Directors Madeline Shackelford and Jacqueline Bentley were concerned that an advertisement for the position hasn't been placed.

Shackelford said since the group does get taxpayers money, they should at least run an ad for a week in The Ruidoso News. The ad would give them a little protection if people felt MainStreet had been unfair in hiring someone, she said.

The ad may also help bring in more applicants with good qualifications, Bentley said. A motion to place the ad was then approved. The plan is to have Maul do initial interviews and narrow down the field for the executive committee to choose from.

Deyo announced that MainStreet Ruidoso had applied for state cooperative advertising funds and had received $500. This money will go for the publication of new business directories. Herb Brunell and Bentley will be redesigning the directory, and it should be ready for distribution by the end of July.

MainStreet block captains form communications link among Midtown businesses and shop owners

How do businesses find out what activities are coming up for the downtown area? How do they find out if there are shoplifters in the area?

The MainStreet Ruidoso board of directors voted Thursday to reinstate the program of block captains to help get this and other information out to businesses in the downtown area. The group had the program working well for about three months a few years ago, but it died out because they didn't have enough for the captains to do.

They decided to try the program on a temporary basis to see how it will work this time. They will divide up the downtown into blocks and ask for a person to serve as captain. The captain could then be contacted by the MainStreet director to help get information out, hand out calendars of events, or to let other businesses know about counterfeit money or shoplifters in the area.

MainStreet president Alden Deyo said the block captain could be especially helpful when they begin training someone to take the position of project manager after Mary Maul, current manager, moves to Santa Fe to work in a different MainStreet capacity. A side benefit from it may also be that they get more people interested in working with MainStreet, he said.

Director Jacqueline Bentley said they need to be sure they use the captains but not so much that it becomes a burden for the person. Keeping the businesses informed could also make them feel more a part of the community, director Auden Franklin said.

Although the main purpose will be to get MainStreet information out, the communication system would also help pass the word if businesses suspect people of shoplifting. Franklin said it would be a good idea if the block captain called to let businesses know what the people look like or what direction they may be going.

Shoplifters seem to be getting worse in downtown shops. Director Madeline Shackelford said shoplifters mostly work in groups so one person can distract the clerk, while another one steals the item. Her business, Mitchell's Silver Turquoise and Gifts, is in a plaza so the businesses try to help each other keep an eye out for potential shoplifters, but it is hard to do when they get busy.

She said it would help if the police could walk the sidewalks, including into the plaza areas. She hadn't seen any out on walking patrol, but several other directors said they had seen officers walking in the Midtown area in the last week. The police did provide this service last summer, beginning just before the Fourth of July.

In other business the group also discussed real estate "for sale" signs.

Shackelford said several people have come into her store recently and commented on the high number of "for sale" signs on buildings in the downtown area. Although the signs are for the property it makes visitors think it is the business itself that is for sale. She asked if there was any way they could get the signs smaller and less noticeable.

Several of the directors said they have noticed that real estate agencies are going to smaller sized signs in such areas as Alto to be more visually pleasing. Another possibility for the downtown area would be to state that it is the building for sale not the business.

J.D. James, village liaison for MainStreet, said the regulations on signs are in the planning and zoning codes and would require an ordinance and a public hearing to change. The directors took no action on this issue.

Birds suffer pitfalls in Playa Lakes

The 15 million birds migrating or wintering in the Playa Lakes Region of New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma have benefited greatly from enforcement of requirements to cover or fill oilfield waste pits and tanks, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Compliance with the regulations has been impressive due to the cooperative effort of oil production companies. The service and state agencies, said the service's Southwest Regional Director Michael J. Spear.

"Compliance in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma today ranges from 90 to 95 percent," Spear said. "Law enforcement agents continue to monitor the area, home to more than 10,000 pits and tanks, but we don't have any major killing sites."

The service estimates the effort is responsible for saving more than 100,000 waterfowl and 400,000 other migratory birds annually.

"It's extremely gratifying to curb this needless waste of migratory birds," Spear said. "Considering recent population declines of waterfowl populations due to habitat loss and other causes, this action is even more critical."

In 1988, the service became alarmed over the severity of bird losses to oil and chemical pits in the Playa Lakes Region of eastern New Mexico, northwest Texas and western Oklahoma.

The service's law enforcement agents and biologists were instructed by Spear to investigate and research the scope of the problem and possible solutions. The investigation revealed some startling data.

For example, 61 pits in west Texas contained 476 trapped birds. Four hundred thirteen birds were found in a single day around one oiled playa lake in New Mexico. An oil-covered bald eagle carcass, an endangered species and the nation's symbol, was recovered from a waste pit in Oklahoma.

Researchers estimated an annual loss of 225,000 birds in 5,600 pits in eastern New Mexico. In the Playa Lakes area, at least 100,000 waterfowl were killed due to polluted open pits and tanks. This exceeded the 92,000 waterfowl legally taken by hunters in the same area.

Birds, particularly waterfowl and shorebirds, are lured into the pits thinking it's a place to feed, drink or rest. The result is the loss of hundreds of thousands of birds to a slow, struggling death from drowning, exposure, starvation or poisoning in chemicals or oil.

Service agents have documented hawks, owls, waterfowl, shorebirds, herons, roadrunners, kingfishers, sparrows, meadowlarks, songbirds, deer, opossum, porcupine and rabbits killed.

The service approached state and industry leaders in the fall of 1988 with an offer to allow voluntary compliance instead of prosecution. The services promised to suspend enforcement until October 1, 1989 if the industry would use the year to clean up the problems.

The response was satisfying, particularly in New Mexico. The New Mexico Oil Conservation Division developed new regulations in 1989 that required the screening of all open pits to prevent birds from reaching the oily surface.

Pits and open-topped tanks were made safe for wildlife in an economic manner by being covered with a one-inch mesh plastic netting or chicken wire that prevented the birds from landing on the oil or chemicals. Many of the pits no longer needed were eliminated.

Little league baseball teams begin battle for championship

The little league baseball program is on the home stretch and the competition keeps getting better and better.

The teams play each week day at the field on Gavilan Canyon Road, while several games are scheduled for the Fort Stanton field. The championship tournament will begin June 29.

In baseball action on June 8, United New Mexico Bank defeated Ruidoso State Bank by a score of 26 to 23. On June 11 the Fort Stanton team scored 31 runs to beat the Eagle Creek Construction team who had two runs. First National Bank captured a win from the Bankers by a score of 22-16.

On June 15, Western Auto won against Casa Blanca, eight to four. Casa Blanca was also only able to score four runs earlier this month against the Rotary team, who had nine runs. Eagle Creek Construction pulled out a close one against GTE, nine to six, on June 16.

The T-ball program ended its season on Saturday after four weeks of games. Each member of the four teams received trophies for participating in the program.

Village plans tennis tourney

Forget that tennis elbow and warm up your back hand for the Ruidoso Tall Pines Tennis Tournament on July 30, 31 and August 1.

The tournament will be played on the Ruidoso Public Courts and is open to players age 10 years and up, including a 55-year-old and older category. To enter the tournament players may contact Carrie Morris or Dave Anderson at the Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department at 257-5030.

The United States Tennis Association National Junior Tennis League (USTANJTL), which is sponsoring the event, is an entry level, public recreational team tennis program for boys and girls.

Inside The Outdoors.

Don't mess with Mother Nature

Well it's that time of year again — spring. The hummingbirds just showed up within the last couple of days, the doves are nesting and will be bringing off hatchlings any day now and all kinds of young wildlife will begin appearing soon.

From now through the summer, some of these young will start showing up at the game department doorstep. Windstorms will knock birds out of nests, cats and kids will gather up every assortment of young wildlife and many folks will play good Samaritan picking up supposedly abandoned or orphaned wild young critters.

Even young from the previous year, just weaned and kicked out of mom's territory, will be showing up. This is especially true of slow maturing species like bears and mountain lions.

The appearance of adolescent lions is becoming very common all across the West. In an age of low harvest rates surrounding urban and suburban areas Ma Nature's surplus is naturally dumped in the laps of people. Filled up natural territories coupled with decreasing available habitat combined with changing attitudes that say "let everything live," will lead to even more confrontation between people and certain wildlife.

In the cases where mountain lions or bears suddenly show up and don't seem willing to leave or don't seem scared of people the risks to both people and the animal are very real. If this happens call the local police, sheriff or game department immediately. Even young lions or bears, while appearing small or frail, can be extremely dangerous so please call an don't play rescuing cowboy.

For baby deer, elk, antelope and the like that are found out in the wild the idea is DON'T TOUCH! Picking them up to save them just about ensures they won't survive. Just leave them and stay out of the area where you find them.

For injured wildlife like hawks, eagles, owls, herons, cranes and the like, call the game department as soon as possible. Again, please don't mess with these animals. The sharp bills of cranes and herons can blind or cause serious injury to people or pets and eagles, hawks and other raptors can cause real problems with their razor sharp talons and meat tearing bills. Let our officers or trained wildlife rehabilitators handle these animals.

Mother Nature knows best, so most of the time baby wildlife is better left alone. In certain instances like with lions or bears a quick phone call to authorities is an absolute. The key is to use common sense with injured wildlife. Let our officers and trained wildlife rehab people handle them.

Old Ma Nature does supply a surplus of young and if none died the planet would be literally blanketed with animals. People seem to have lost that concept.

Bowlers begin summer season with strikes

Summer is the time to sizzle for bowlers in the Wednesday night mixed bowling league at Ruidoso Bowling Center.

The teams just completed their third week of bowling and have played 12 games. In the latest round on Wednesday Harold Shelby earned the high men's scratch series with a 557, while Harvey Brock had the high handicap series with a 642. Shelby also took the honors of high scratch game with a 201. Steve Sulak bowled a 242 for the high handicap game.

Irene Sambrano bowled a 555 for the women's high scratch series, and Flo Maul had the high handicap series with a 665. Kathy Hanson earned the high scratch and handicap game with a 218 and a 280.

In team standings Steve's Harem is at 11-1, and O.S.I.M.A. is at 7-5. Floyd's Filles, Four Ss and B&H Express are at 6-6. Over the Hill Gang and Roswell Auto Salvage are at 5-7. Four Ws is at 2-10.

Racing

Sixarun posts top trial time

Sixarun Secret posted the fastest qualifying time in Thursday's Rainbow Derby trials at Ruidoso Downs proving once again that a good thing is worth waiting on.

Sixarun Secret and jockey Steve Fuller posted a time of 21.65 seconds for the 440 yards while winning the seventh and final trial by half a length. Four other horses from the seventh race also qualified for the $351,000 Rainbow Derby July 11.

The Grade I Rainbow Derby is the second leg of the prestigious triple crown for 3-year-old quarter horses.

The Rainbow trial was Sixarun Secret's first race since the colt finished third in last year's $2 million All American Futurity.

"We really wanted to get a race in him before today, but things just prevented it," said Larry Keiter who trains Sixarun Secret for owner/breeder Robert Roark of Andrews, Texas. "We probably could have gone with him in the Kansas Derby, but decided he needed more time to get fit."

Baby Lets Dance is no wallflower as the fast horse waltzes over the June 21 Norgor Futurity at Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Jockey Duane Sterling was aboard for the $78,000 win Sunday on a muddy track.

Baby Lets Dance waltzes over the line in the Norgor

Once she overcame her outside post position, Baby Let's Dance unleashed her trademark stretch kick to win Sunday's $78,000 Norgor Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

Baby Let's Dance and jockey Duane Sterling won the 5 1/5-furlong race by running off the pace, traveling wide around the turn, and bogged down the stretch to win by an authoritative two lengths. The pair traveled the distance in 1:06.0 while holding off a challenge from longshot Two Storm and Mike Lidberg. Post-time favorite Joe Bobs Blowout was eased in the turn for home and didn't finish the race.

Baby Let's Dance was one of three horses saddled in the Norgor by trainer Don Farris. The 2-year-old New Mexico-bred filly is owned by R.D. Hubbard of Ft. Worth, Texas, Ed Allred of Long Beach, California, and Joan and Steve Stroud of Ruidoso.

"I thought Baby Let's Dance would be the winner," Farris said following the race. "Tellur said ran about where I expected, but Western Stage disappointed me. He went out early, but then he just quit."

Baby Let's Dance was sent off as the second favorite and paid $4.80 to win, $4 to place and $4 place. Two Storm paid $9.40 and $5.20, and La Terres Tab finished third and paid $6.40.

Ruidoso Downs' Fathers' Day Giveaway netted Jerry Turner of Ruidoso a one-year golf membership at the Links at Sierra Blanca and Dorothy Kelly of Odessa, Texas, $500.

Patrons winning $100 in cash were Gene Fuller, Ruidoso, Texas; Max Petersen, Ruidoso; Bob Frazier, Midland, Texas; Lawrence Floyd, El Paso, Texas; Jerry Pike, Big Springs, Texas; J.M. Townley, Ruidoso; Robert Maders, Jal; Kenneth Neese, Lubbock, Texas; Amy Fuqua, Dallas, Texas; and C.F. Parnell, Paducah, Texas.

Total attendance was 4,574, with total handle, $433,196.

Deceptively eyes Triple Crown

There had been speculation that Kansas Futurity winner Deceptively would not participate in Thursday's trials for the $271,380 Rainbow Futurity.

However, trainer Bruce Bell did enter the filly, confirming her bid for the Quarter Horse Triple Crown.

The Grade I Rainbow Futurity is the second-leg of the Triple Crown for 2-year-old quarter horses. The first leg was last month's Kansas Futurity and the final leg is the $2 million All American Futurity Sept. 7.

Deceptively is one of 151 horses entered in the Rainbow time trials. The 10-fastest horses in the trials earn a berth for the Grade I finals July 11. All trials will be contested Thursday and first post for the special 16-race card will be 1 p.m.

Bell said earlier that he didn't know if he would enter his filly in the Rainbow, saying he wanted to save her for the rich $2 million All American Futurity. Deceptively's victories in her Kansas Futurity trial and finals have looked easy, but Bell said the races took their toll.

"Deceptively tries so hard that every time she runs she leaves part of herself on the track," said Bell who trains the undefeated Deceptively for Roger Knight Jr., of Madisonville, Texas.

"She makes it look easy, but after a race she's stressed out for several days."

Deceptively astounded fans when she won the $214,000 Kansas Futurity by more than a length while under a strangle hold from jockey Jerry Yoakum. More importantly the pair broke a 19-year-old track record for 350 yards despite a sloppy sloppy track. Her time of 17.22 seconds also equalled the 2-year-old world record for 350 yards set by World Champion 2-Year-Old Filly Corona Chick last year.

Bell's number one goal personally, as well as for the filly, is to win the All American Futurity.

"I have an understanding with her owner that if she qualifies for the finals, but doesn't come back from the trials 100 percent, we'll pass the Rainbow finals," said Bell. "We'll settle for 10th-place purse and go for the big money in the All American."

The winner's share in the Rainbow Futurity is $94,983 while the All American Futurity offers a $1 million purse.

Deceptively will compete in the 14th trial and race from the one post position. She will face Mr Webster, which won the Kansas Futurity First Consolation.

Trainer Jack Brooks will saddle 18 youngsters for the trials including Mr Eye Opener which was favored to win the Kansas Futurity, but ran third. Other Kansas finalists which Brooks will saddle are Dash Through Traffic, fourth in the Kansas; Runaway Cash, fifth; Choculo, sixth; First Down In Ten, ninth; and It Aint No Bull, last.

Trainer Jerry Lazenby will also send Time Bender back in the Kansas following his seventh-place finish in the Kansas Futurity. Kansas Futurity runner-up Loose Lips, however, bypassed the Rainbow in favor of the Heritage Place Futurity at Remington Park this weekend.

Dwayne "Sleepy" Gilbreath entered 20 horses for the trials and trainer Nene Simmons entered 15.

DECEPTIVELY AND TRAINER BRUCE BELL

Murphy is back on winning track

Glen Murphy may have been a bit leg weary following his first day back in the saddle in three months, but mentally he felt great. Murphy won Friday's first race aboard Resistable Impulse and the featured 10th race aboard Dart.

"It felt almost like I felt when I won my first race ever," Murphy said following the first race. "I got a little tired, but then I expected to."

Murphy had been nursing the last three months while nursing a broken back sustained last March at Trinity Meadows racetrack in Ft. Worth, Texas. Murphy broke his back between his sixth and seventh vertebrae and suffered a collapsed lung when his horse tripped and fell in a race.

Murphy said winning his first race "sort of broke the ice" in helping regain his confidence. "You never know for sure what to expect because you really have to race ride to get race fit," said Murphy who was New Mexico's leading jockey last year.

Dart's trainer, Don Farris, said although the 24-year-old El Paso Native had been off a long time, he had no reservations about riding Murphy his first day back.

"It doesn't matter how long he's been off," said Farris who trains Dart for partners R.D. Hubbard, Ed

Lieutenant was second a length back and paid $4.20 and $3. Third was Prince Ego which paid $3.20 to place. Time for the 5 1/2 furlongs was 1:04.3.

Murphy rode a total of four races Friday, but his other mounts were all longshots and ran like it.

Jazzy Momma splashes to victory

While the trainers cringed when a mid-afternoon thunder shower engulfed Ruidoso Downs Saturday, Simon Buechler was chuckling at his good fortune.

Buechler's Jazzy Momma loves to run in the rain and she proved it by winning Saturday's $12,850 Aspen Cup Handicap by the slimmest of margins. Jazzy Momma and jockey Nancy Summers covered the six furlongs in 1:12.2 while fending off a strong challenge by Hail To Verdict and jockey Danny Summerow. Jazzy Momma prevailed moved from just off the pace to prevail by a nose.

"I told Nancy that she (Jazzy Momma) wouldn't mind running over the mud," said Buechler. "But she doesn't like it in her face so I told her to keep her on the outside and she did."

Unlike Jazzy Momma, second-favorite Catch His Eye did not relish the sloppy footing and finished third.

"The mud was definitely a factor," said Eugene O'Neill who rode Catch His Eye for trainer Bob Arnett. "Had it been this same field over a fast track she would have won." Owned by Mike Weatherly of Las Cruces, Jazzy Momma paid $24.40 to win, $14 to place and $7 to show. Hail To Verdict paid $11 and $6.40 and $4.60.

The Aspen Cup Handicap was Summers' third victory on the afternoon card and her first stakes victory at Ruidoso Downs. It was also Jazzy Momma's first lifetime stakes victory.

Total attendance Saturday was 4,393, with total handle at $477,578.

Illustrator plans a tea party here

Jena Rawley-Whitaker, illustrator of the new children's book "Fairy Tea" will be on hand to sign her book from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, June 27, at the Aspen Tree on Sudderth Drive.

Whitaker, the daughter of Ruidoso residents June and Walter Rawley, is a native Texan. She graduated Magna Cum Laude from Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Texas, with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

She began her art career as a children's portrait artist with the medium of watercolor. She has painted portraits of Jenna and Barbara Bush, granddaughters of President and Mrs. George Bush.

Congressman Kiki de la Garza also commissioned Whitaker to paint his official portrait, which hangs in Washington D.C.

"Fairy Tea" is Whitaker's first venture into illustration of children's books.

The author, Annie Ullrich, was born in England and now lives in California. Serving fairy tea has been a tradition in her English family for four generations.

"Fairy Tea" is an unusual book in that the illustrations of the characters in the book were models known to Jena, and the many flower illustrations are of native wildflowers.

RHS students attend leadership events

CRYSTAL BARNETT

Ruidoso high school junior Crystal Barnett has been invited to represent New Mexico at the National Youth Leadership Forum on Law Enforcement scheduled for late July in Washington, D.C.

According to Shari Maloney of law enforcement youth leadership, the forum is for America's most promising high school students who have a demonstrated interest in law enforcement.

Barnett's tuition for the forum was assisted by Ruidoso schools, the 12th Judicial Law Enforcement Association and the Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse.

The forum is designed to go behind the scenes to examine critical areas of law enforcement.

Workshop sessions are designed for the students to meet and work with high-ranking officials of the Federal Bureau of Investigation as well as other federal law enforcement agencies.

Crystal is the daughter of Gail Barnett of Ruidoso.

JAMI MULHOLLAND

Jami Mulholland, junior at Ruidoso High School, is one of the 1,800 Student Council leaders and faculty advisers attending the 56th National Association of Student Councils Conference (NASC), June 27-July 1, at Smoky Hill High School, Cherry Creek Schools, Aurora, Colorado.

With a theme "Discover Your Peak," the conference program will present workshop sessions on leadership skills, effective student government projects, and student activity program development while promoting the culture and heritage of the west. Delegates representing 50 states, the District of Columbia, Bermuda, Canada, and Puerto Rico will discuss social, educational, and political issues and will take part in an exchange of ideas.

Jami Mulholland is the daughter of Mark and Pat Mulholland.

While at Ruidoso High School she has been in student council for four years, will be Historian for Student Council for 1992-93, and is involved in many school activities.

NASC is sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), a 43,000-member professional educational association based in Reston, Virginia, just outside the nation's capital.

On Campus

JONES, a senior history major from Ruidoso, and DEANNA GAIL THOMPSON, a sophomore wildlife management major from Ruidoso are both on the Dean's List.

LASHAUNA RENE TILLOTSON, a sophomore accounting

major from Alto is on the President's List.

Students on the President's List earned a perfect 4.0 (A) grade point average (GPA) while enrolled in 12 or more semester hours of classwork.

Insects lead a rousing forest chorus

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Thousands of miniature castanets have been clicking furiously in the forest around Ruidoso.

The chorus of tapping is being performed by one of the 60 or 70 species of cicadas that flourishes in the Western United States, possibly a juniper cicada, according to Bob Cain with the New Mexico Forestry and Resource Conservation Division.

Closer inspection of tree and bush branches will reveal the flying insect with its chunky body, broad head, bulging compound eyes and transparent, veined wings.

Information supplied by Bill Duemling of the state forestry and Barry Herd, Lincoln County extension agent, outlines the cicada lifecycle.

The adults lay eggs in slits of twigs of trees and shrubs. When the young hatch, they drop to the ground, burrow in and feed on the roots of the plant.

When mature, they crawl to the surface and transform into adults.

The life cycle of the western species ranges from two to five years. The juniper cicada is at the lower end of that range.

Although cicadas generally are not significant forest pests, there is a report of extensive damage to Nevada pinyon trees in 1962.

No practical control measures are known.

Other forest pests, far more damaging and that also emit a clicking sound, are the wood borers.

"They're real easy to hear in trees killed by wildfires," Duemling said.

But they are confined to dead trees or recently cut timber and slash, he said. The current infestation of cicada is widely spread throughout all types of trees and bushes. Sam Tobias with the U.S. Forest Service, Smokey Bear District, said the last infestation of cicada locally occurred about four years ago.

Even when forests are healthy, plenty of pests and diseases are just waiting for an invitation to invade and destroy.

"The most obvious problems, especially with the ponderosa pines, are dwarf mistletoe and bark beetles," Duemling said. "Dwarf mistletoe is a perennial problem and is generally more widespread than the bark beetle infestations. However, the cyclic population level of bark beetles currently appears to be at a peak, and is definitely high enough to successfully kill substantial numbers of ponderosa pine trees in the Ruidoso area, and especially around Cloudcroft."

"Often the dwarf mistletoe and bark beetle work as a tag team, with the dwarf mistletoe weakening the tree, setting it up for the kill by bark beetles."

The green to yellow-brown mistletoe grows in clusters along branches and trunks of ponderosa pines. The green sprouts of new growth can be seen poking out from the swollen tree bark.

Duemling explained that dwarf mistletoe is a parasitic species that slowly robs nutrients and water from ponderosa pine, southwestern white pine, Englemann spruce, blue spruce, Douglas-fir and pinyon tree species, as well as true firs. Each tree species plays host to its own species of dwarf mistletoe.

Other environmental stresses also may weaken trees, making them more susceptible to bark beetles, Duemling said. Those stresses include drought, which slows the flow of the resin system, the mechanism used by trees to flush out the insects as they invade through the bark.

"During droughts, the pitch (resin) flow in trees is low and even small populations of beetles may be able to successfully colonize and kill a tree," Duemling said. "Bark beetles in large populations can even overwhelm healthy trees with active resin systems. Once the beetles successfully invade a tree, they communicate with other bark beetles through the release of a pheromone."

"Large populations can build up around logging slash and firewood storage areas. Anyone storing fresh firewood around a wooded lot should take the precautions outlined in the State Forestry booklet."

Bark beetles emerging from infested green firewood account for many tree losses near homes, the booklet states.

"If firewood has been stored for at least one season, the beetles won't be present," the booklet says.

Green firewood collected or purchased in summer when temperatures are high should be stacked in direct sunlight and covered with clear plastic. Piles should be no larger than 4x4-foot or a half cord. The edge of the plastic should be buried in the ground, creating a greenhouse effect that raises temperatures up to 160 degrees under the plastic.

After two to three weeks of sunny weather, the beetles should all be dead.

Duemling said white pine blister rust, which afflicts Southwestern white pine, a five-needled pine with big cones seen along Ski Run Road, is another serious disease threatening local forests.

"The local forest outlook for this species in the area is not good, mainly because the disease has no cure and it kills the younger seedlings and saplings," Duemling said. "Older, larger trees will be around for quite some time, but may not be replaceable."

The division recommends that Southwestern white pine not be used as nursery stock in other areas of the state because other pine species, including bristlecone pine and limber pine, also are susceptible to the disease.

Special diseases and pests also attack lower elevation pinyon trees in areas such as Capitan.

Pinyon needle scale and pinyon needle miners are common insect pests. Duemling said proper timing and use of insecticides such as Orthene can provide relief.

Many trees in around Capitan are falling from a fungal disease tentatively identified as a fungal needle cast by specialist Bob Cain.

PLATYPEDIA AREOLATA AKA CICADA

"We don't know much about it," Duemling said. "The fungus mainly attacks the older needles on lower parts of the trees. Generally, there should still be new (green) growth on the trees, with damage similar in appearance to that caused by the needle scale."

At this point, no fungicides are recommended to battle this disease. To protect ornamental pinyon trees and reduce the damage, owners can rake up and dispose of the needed that accumulate under their pinyons since the fungus can perpetuate itself in this material, he said.

"To tell the difference between this fungal disease and this fungal disease, lot owners should look for evidence of eggs, nymphs or insects in sheltered nooks and crannies such as where branches meet the main stem, in deep cracks and on the underside of large branches."

Other threats to Lincoln County's forests include fir broom rust, root rot, stem decay, elyotodermis needle cast, spruce budworms, Douglas-fir tussock moth, ponderosa pine needle miners, pine needle scale, sawflies and aphids.

Man and his activities also can deliver a death blow to healthy trees without cutting them down.

"I have noticed several large dead and dying trees along Sudderth that don't have evidence of bark beetle attack," Duemling said. "The cause for these trees' woes may be old age and/or urban development."

"A lot of the areas around these trees is paved, or the soil is compacted due to traffic, so the roots may not be getting enough moisture. Salt damage (applied to roads in the winter after snow) also may have contributed to their demise."

Damage from road deicing compounds like salt also is evident along Angus Hill, he said. "Basically, the salt inhibits water from getting to the tree roots. The affected trees are real susceptible to other diseases and insects, if the salt damage doesn't kill them directly."

For more information on diseases, pests and treatment, contact the state forestry office in Capitan at 354-2231 or the county extension office in Carrizozo at 648-2941.

The Dreamer

Summer gets a warm welcome to Valley

The Mountain Prepares To Welcome Summer

This is being sent to you just before high noon on June 17, a perfect June day with the purest blue sky over a mountain world of sparkling green. The American flag with its sacred colors shining in a bright sun is floating in a light breeze, singing a song of the golden year, out of the East. This breeze is truly the breath of summer carrying fragrances of clover, alfalfa, blooms, wild flowers and ripening fruit.

By the wayside the summer flowers — blooming early this year are smiling from the blossoming black-eyed susan, morning and evening primrose, Indian paintbrush, cone flower (also called Mexican Hat) wild verbena, wild snapdragon, Indian blanket and wild morning glory.

Our state flower, the yucca, has just begun to bloom here in the vale, and now all up the valley on either side you may see the large clumps of pearl white blooms on their stalks six and eight feet tall, shining in the bright sun.

The temperature is 80 and yet with the breeze, the weather is just right to make you feel at your best. Up from the singing river on the mild air floats the fragrance of the wild grape, the very breath of June.

With the bright blue sky above and the shining green world below, this heavenly day fills you, with prayers of gratefulness to our Lord for the arrival of summer, and all our other many blessings.

Dub Williams Attends Family Reunion

Dub Williams and his wife, Kathryn, returned on the sixteenth from a three-week vacation and Williams family reunion at his native home in Bogalusa, Louisiana.

Also making the trip were their son Borde and his wife, Lisa, and their one-year-old daughter Haley; Son Neal and his wife, Karen, and their two daughters Rachael age ten, and Sherry age 12.

Dub says his father, age 86, and his mother, 81, are in excellent health and spirits. He said they all enjoyed many kinds of seafood, and that his daughters caught a catfish, bass and other fish.

Saying that the Louisiana countryside is especially beautiful this year, Dub told of the fragrance of the gardenia tree in the front yard of his parents' home. The tree, kin to the Magnolia, in full bloom filled the whole neighborhood with its fragrance.

Dub said he was happy to arrive home, that the country between here and Roswell is the greenest he can remember. We are all happy that the family reunion for Dub and Kathryn and their children and grandchildren was such a happy occasion, and we welcome them back home.

Cherries Begin The Fruit Season

Down in the San Patricio area of the Ruidoso Valley the cherries are ripe, beginning the annual fruit parade to be followed by apricots, plums, peaches, pears and apples.

Ernest McDaniel says his red Bing sweet cherries are ripe along with the yellow sweet cherries with red cheeks and the pie cherries.

The cherries over at High Rolls will very soon be in their prime. All varieties of fruit should be better than ever in this golden year. So plan to make some visits to your fruit growing neighbors.

The Fruit Picture

Day by day the cheeks on the young apples are turning red and gold. And the Robins are beginning to sing their songs: "Cherry ripe. Cherry ripe."

Ernest McDaniel says the sweet cherries on his and Robert's ranch, and the apricots also are getting ripe. He says a silver fox was under one large cherry tree eating the windfalls.

Ernest says a very tame and friendly bird, a Wren 'Tit, is making its nest under the eaves of the house. He recalls that one time a fledgling of this bird family came down from the nest and lit on his shoulder.

The Piñon Tree

The Piñon tree, New Mexico's state tree, and beloved favorite of the southwest is a great survivor. It has been here a long time, and likely to be here from now on. As the old Mexican saying goes when someone is saying he is no stranger: "Yo no me caei con la lluvia de ayer." (I did not fall down here with yesterday's rain.)

However, with "Yesterday's rain," meaning the heavy rains of this year, some of the Piñon trees on the hillside southeast of the house are turning brown. I have seen this happen before but not to so many.

The Cows Enjoy This Green Year

This is one of the finest years for creatures of pasture, range and wilderness in memory. The grass is growing taller by the day and the brush and herbs on high are in wonderful condition.

Little Hill Top Darling, the new calf, is eating the new grass along with the grown cows, although she is only a week or so old. When her mother crosses the stream she goes running and jumping, splashing across, like all children, delighted with a running stream. The mothers know that the stream is safe for the calves to cross.

Cows are good mothers, protective, watchful and devoted; and the calves are good children, fondly obedient, immediately responsive to the mother's call.

The little calves are the very spirit of new life, running and playing, their bright eyes shining with the joy of being alive.

The season of young calves is one of the happiest times of the year; in these little cow children we behold the wondrous works of our Lord.

By the time this reaches you we will be in Summer in the Mountain Land. let us "rejoice and be exceedingly glad" and thank God for all our blessings.

Local gallery owner chosen to judge National Miniature Show

Bill Rakocy, who has opened a museum and art gallery in Ruidoso, has been selected to judge the 18th Annual National Miniature Show which opens June 28 at Gallery La Luz on North Florida Avenue in La Luz.

Rakocy is an El Paso, Texas, artist whose local gallery features his own work and the works of other artists, as well as museum articles relating to this area and to Billy the Kid.

The Miniature show is open to all artists and includes seven categories: oil, acrylic, watercolor, drawing (graphics), pastel, mixed media and sculpture.

All entries must be for sale and can be no larger than 20 square inches, excluding mats and frames. Ribbons and cash prizes are awarded in each category, with a minimum of 20 Collectors' Choice ribbons with guaranteed purchases.

The show, which opens on Sunday, June 28, will remain on display through August 16.

Rakocy served as curator of education at the El Paso Museum of Art for 16 years. He is listed in Who's Who of American Art.

Local teen puts his art to work in mural

When the 14-year-old boy came to their new business looking for any type of work, Don and June Miner had no idea how much of an impact he was to have on the business and their lives.

Joseph Jaymes Moreno, who will be a freshman at Ruidoso this fall, started doing odd jobs for them in April when the Miner's began working on the Castle off Highway 70, then Don saw some of Moreno's art work in the form of comic books. He asked Moreno if he could draw a mountain music man and he did.

The Miners bought that logo from him and have put it on everything from T-shirts, caps and other promotional items to signs. The logo was only the beginning, though, as they asked Moreno to do murals for the entrance and exit of the musical entertainment theatre which opens this week. So far Moreno has painted four, using a variation of the music man and his friends in each. Don said they are still trying to decide what they want to put on another entrance wall.

Moreno said he has enjoyed doing the artwork and hopes to continue working for the Miners for awhile longer. Don said they have a few other projects in mind to keep Moreno busy, including a coloring book and caricatures of the band members.

Moreno's main interest is in "animatronics," or robot puppets. He made his own puppets and did a show at the library this year and has done some creations for school classes. He also follows this theme in his home-made comic books.

His mother, Lobbasy, who has taught art in El Paso and New York and is an artist here, said he has been doing art work all his life and is a natural at what he does. She said Moreno attended several gifted schools in El Paso and East Manhattan on partial scholarships and has had to adjust to just one class available here in Ruidoso.

She said Moreno hopes to continue to carry through with his artistic talent, rather than just do it as a hobby. Having his artwork and name on display at the Miner's Castle could be just the beginning of Moreno's artistic career.

Underwood, Campos sponsor golf scramble

Democrats will get together in Lincoln County this Saturday, June 27, for a fundraiser golf tournament and dinner.

The scramble will begin at 8 a.m. at The Links at Sierra Blanca, with the dinner at 6 p.m. at Tinnie Silver Dollar.

Keynote speaker for the dinner will be Senator Jeff Bingaman (D-NM).

Honored guests at the dinner will be long-time Lincoln County Democrats Bill Hart of Ruidoso Downs and Ramon Nunez of the Hondo Valley.

Between them, Hart and Nunez have dedicated right at 100 years of time, energy and effort to the Democratic party.

State Representative H. John Underwood (D-Dist. 56) and Senator Pete Campos (D-Dist. 8) present their first golf scramble on Saturday at the Links at Sierra Blanca. Underwood and Campos plan to have this scramble, which is open to men and women, become an annual event.

Tee times for the scramble, which begins at 8 a.m. Saturday, are limited, so players should call Karen Morris today to reserve a spot in the tourney.

Morris can be reached at 257-4043 during the day, and at 258-5290 in the evening.

Cost of the scramble is $75, and cost to enter the scramble and attend the dinner is $110. Tickets for the dinner are $40 each, and reservations may be made by calling Morris.

Cece Griffin, chairperson for the Lincoln County Democrats, said she is pleased to be hosting New Mexico's Senator Bingaman for this big event. She said the dinner is a good chance to honor the commitment of loyal Democrats, like Hart and Nunez.

The highway department money will help pay for whatever the federal funds don't cover, according to Mary Maul, MainStreet project director. Maul has kept the department educated on this project as they worked on it the last two years and has worked hard to get it into the state's program of work.

"The department knows Ruidoso needs the sidewalk improvements and the handicap accessibility. They think it is a good project and that's why they are participating 100 percent. They have been extremely supportive of us," Maul said.

Whether the total $1.3 million will be enough to do the construction and the designs for phases two and three is not known yet. Maul said Bohannon-Huston Incorporated of Albuquerque will have the complete construction plans ready by the end of June and then they have to be submitted for approval by the state highway department. The approval could take from six to eight weeks.

When the plans were 60 percent complete the estimated cost was between $1.1 and $1.2 million for construction, but the state will be reviewing these costs when the plans are submitted. After the department's approval, the plans will also have to be approved by the state department of finance and administration.

The state and federal funds will become available October 1 and the project will probably be put out to bid in November with construction beginning in the spring. Maul and MainStreet directors have stated they do not want to do construction during busy times for the downtown businesses and will try to get the work done in the off-season.

ENMU

Miller said another area where they miscalculated was in thinking that the university could capitalize on the recreational advantages of the area.

"This is a recreation area and we thought we could piggyback on that and that people would enjoy taking an outdoor-oriented course while earning college credit," he said. "But the trail riding and backpacking didn't work out. We learned that they want their recreation to be just that, recreation."

"Now we have to sit down, look at the results and rethink for next summer."

Even one of the university's computer classes was canceled. Computer classes have been one of the most popular courses in the previous two terms. Humanities and history also received light interest.

"It looks like the working adults who make up the largest portion of the student body want to take the summer off."

When all the numbers were totaled, the center ended up with 165 students taking classes for credit, 15 more than anticipated.

Non-credit courses were taken by 186 students.

"That number will continue to grow because some of the courses won't start until later in the summer. Enrollment still is open for community education courses," Miller said. "We're real pleased with that kind of a turnout."

The center would like to connect with owners of small houses or apartments who are interested in renting to students next fall.

The center's local number is 257-2368. The new toll free number is 1-800-934-ENMU. The main office is at 1400 Sudderth Drive.

Crash causes chain reaction

Melanie Boswell, 15, of White Mountain Cabin #5 of Ruidoso, was cited for causing a five-car collision around 10:30 p.m., last Thursday near 107 Main Road in the Upper Canyon.

When police arrived at the the accident, they found a 1978 grey Datsun with Texas license plates hung up on a railroad tie, unable to move.

According to a police report, Boswell told officers she was going about 15 mph when she dropped some change and leaned over to pick it up when she hit the vehicles. The report listed the Datsun was owned by Carlos Armendariz, also of White Mountain Cabin #5.

The report said Boswell was heading east on Main Road when it struck the unoccupied vehicles.

The first vehicle struck sustained light damage to a front license plate holder. The second vehicle was rammed in the left front bumper, carrying it into the third vehicle which then hit the fourth vehicle. All vehicles carried out of state plates.

Boswell was cited for careless driving. She also was cited for driving with a permit, unauthorized person to drive.

Councilor misuses his office

Councilor Ron Andrews stepped all over the First Amendment rights of the Fraternal Order of Police when he called down law officers for writing a letter to the editor regarding his for-profit motorcycle rally.

Andrews, an elected official who, with the mayor and council, controls the Police Department budget, admitted he was wearing two hats when he asked to talk to the police organization. He said he would be switching between his two roles in his talk — apparently, between being their boss and the promoter of one of their biggest problems.

Elected officials are not appreciated, said Andrews, comparing himself to the police department.

We disagree. We have the utmost respect for law officers in this county, and we commend them for their hard work and commitment. They did a brave thing in speaking out.

Councilor Andrews should be ashamed.

LETTERS

Tough times can make buying auto insurance out of the question

TO THE EDITOR:

I know you are already aware that our wonderful insensitive boneheaded representatives in Santa Fe have succeeded in making criminals of the poor honest citizens in our Land of Enchantment. (Of course I am not blaming all the politicians, just most of them.)

If you are one of the many financially deprived citizens in this state you have a choice of either paying the high rates of mandatory insurance for your car, or getting medical treatment, car repairs, medicine etc. etc. etc.

Hold on, I am not saying mandatory auto insurance is a bad idea. In fact in my opinion, it is a necessary evil, but the numbskulls that work out the details do not have the slightest conception of the real world.

For example: If the state sees fit to force its residents to pay for something — why the hell don't the "geniuses" work out the details, have a little consideration and foresight for the large amount of people that are not "Trustfund Babies." Even as dumb I am, I can suggest a state operated non-profit insurance system, whereby, below poverty level individuals supplying proof of poverty could acquire insurance at reasonable rates.

This could eliminate the many thousands of lawbreakers that are using their cars to get to work to feed their families. It's an old story a good idea screwed up by a bunch of noncaring fat cat politicians. I am not accusing the small insurance agents, it's the big insurance companies that have the bucks to lobby and bribe their way, to shaft the public. Ask them, why the hell they refuse to insure the driver and instead insure the vehicle? I'll answer that one for you, it's very simple — more money coming in when the vehicle is broken down being repaired. They are making money every day the car is not driven without any risk. There is no provision for credit concerning the time the car completely immobilized. Sounds almost like the big shots have a license to steal, doesn't it? During this depression, oops sorry, I know we are supposed to call it a recession, but let's call a spade a spade, it's a depression. Well, during these bad economic times, many low income families have two old clunkers, so one car can be driven while the other is being repaired. These working stiffs cannot afford to pay the high insurance rates for two cars. So as you can see the big shot insurance companies can make twice as much money by insuring the vehicle instead of the driver. But forgive them because without gouging the public how can these companies pay hundreds and thousands of dollars to some president, vice president for sitting on their fat butts or playing golf with politicians.

I expect a rebuttal to this letter by company stooges trying to justify and rationalize the policies laid down by the big shot parent insurance companies. I am not worried, baloney and double speak is rapidly losing its credibility to the enlightened American public.

Speaking of shafting the public and the poor. How's this for our great state of New Mexico, The Land of Enchantment is one of the few heartless states that tax doctor visits, medicine and food.

Who are the inconsiderate legislators that voted those terrible taxes in? Many other states in our glorious country do not find it necessary to penalize their sick and the hungry. Are the powers in Santa Fe too damn stupid to figure out a better source of revenue. How about a state lottery — hell no, let's tax people that are sick.

Santa Fe doesn't have a monopoly on ignorant, unqualified people in power. We have their counterpart right here in Ruidoso. Who is the genius that came up with the brilliant idea for a crosswalk at our post office eliminating parking spaces to accommodate the occasional pedestrian crossing Sud-derth? Wouldn't a couple handicapped spaces be a lot more efficient?

Last, but not least, why are Ruidoso residents still being ripped off by the gasoline distributors? Why are our gas prices higher than communities further away from the refineries? Hey folks, when are we finally going to stop rolling over?

Boot nuclear consultants out of this state

TO THE EDITOR:

There comes a time when communities must evaluate situations and act. This time has come for Ruidoso, in fact, for the entire state of New Mexico.

It is time to remove the welcome mat for all the consultants hired by the Mescalero Council to site their MRS. These consultants can continue their activities on the reservation, however, we must enforce our sovereign rights as United States citizens. We have been courteous and patient long enough. We should not tolerate a foreign government, the Mescalero Tribal Council, attempting to influence and intimidate American citizens. Those who are acting as agents must cease all off reservation activities. They can live on the reservation and in fact use the Tribal Councils rather elaborate air transportation facilities to travel into and out of the reservation.

Trinidad, Colorado, withdrew their welcome mat in a forceful manner. The individual who was the target of this action was none other than the man we all consider the leading person on the Pacific Nuclear propaganda team, I need not state his name.

Everyone should write Governor King, the Village Council, and request all off reservation activities by the Mescalero Tribal Council hired consultants and propagandist cease immediately.

We have all had our lesson in fiction and really don't want to hear anymore, give us a break, get out. Life in Ruidoso and the entire state will be much more pleasant. The opposition to your efforts will never die. You are wasting all our time.

Bill Petty
Dallas, Texas

Thanks for giving visitors hospitality and good care

TO THE EDITOR:

This is a letter of gratitude and appreciation to the people of Lincoln County that we encountered on our recent visit to your area.

We were a group of 27 traveling under the auspices of Arapahoe Community College of Littleton, Colorado, studying history in New Mexico. We spent a fascinating day touring Lincoln guided by "Ranger Jack" and camped at the Baca campground.

The next morning one of our group awakened with severe chest pains. As we were rushing him into town we passed a local couple who led us into the doctor's office in Capitan and waited until they were sure all was well. I would personally thank them but in the confusion I no longer have their names. Dr. Rouleau was kind enough to see our patient, arrange for him to go to the hospital and declined payment.

At the hospital in Ruidoso we were given coffee, directions and support. The three ladies at the reception desk relayed messages from the remainder of our group and were altogether supportive.

I must not forget to thank the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department for graciously taking messages of our whereabouts to the others at the campsite.

This experience reaffirms my observation that the people of New Mexico are some of the kindest and friendliest I have encountered. Thank you all so much.

Is Mescalero sovereign nation?

TO THE EDITOR:

On the one hand the Department of Energy continues its negotiation with the Mescalero Apache to locate a nuclear waste dump on tribal land. We are told by the feds that our state's rights are secondary to the Mescalero status of sovereign nation.

On the other hand, Bruce King and federal marshals are chomping at the bit to invade this same sovereign nation in order to confiscate a room full of video poker machines.

Either I'm missing something here or these inconsistencies underscore some dangerously skewed priorities.

Slap on the hand to everyone

TO THE EDITOR:

Once again it seems that factions around town are in disagreement about how to handle one aspect of the tourist business, the motorcycle rally in the fall.

It's the cycle people vs. the no-cycle people vs. the police department vs. The Ruidoso News in a round robin match at least as interesting as studio wrestling on a Saturday night, and I'm not quite sure who to root for yet.

If you children can't play nice with each other, then take your marbles and go home. And kindly quit bothering the rest of us with your ridiculous temper tantrums.

*Prompt decisions on credit extension based on ready availability of information on your occupation, credit record and history of paying habits. Terms offered are subject to credit approval of applicant by McMahan's.

PRICE COMPARISONS: The advertised prices in this advertisement are only for a limited time. The other retail price shown under the X, example $179.50, would have been the price if McMahan's paid a supplier the same cost charged another retailer and we marked up the retail price using McMahan's usual and customary mark up for product in that category. Some price comparisons are made to prices other retailers refer to in advertising as their regular price or the manufacturer list price. McMahan's advertised prices are not meant to infer that McMahan's ever previously sold the product at a higher price. Only when McMahan's quote Sale Savings do we mean that the product has been previously sold by McMahan's or another retailer at the higher price. Some advertised prices are compared to prices in effect after the promotion period.
