27 hopefuls line up for county offices

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Only one Lincoln County official up for election will be able to relax over the next few months.

County Clerk Martha Proctor escaped without a challenge Tuesday as candidates filed into the courthouse to run for county offices.

Fifteen people qualified to vie for seats on the county commission under the expanded new five-member board format.

The incumbent sheriff, tax assessor and treasurer all have competition. And four men are running for probate judge.

Republican Wilton Howell and Democrat L.R. Nunley showed up with attorney Michael Line. They signed up as commission candidates and paid their $50 filing fees despite notification that by changing their addresses after the January deadline, they are ineligible to run.

According to state election law, correct addresses, names and party affiliation must be in place on voter registration information by the last Monday in January.

Some confusion has occurred this year because precinct and district lines were redrawn to reflect population changes and the expansion from three to five commission districts.

It will be the first time commissioners will be elected only by voters within their districts.

"We're here in a fact gathering process to determine if everything has been properly done," Line said Tuesday. "And we want to determine if adequate notice concerning the filing of candidacy was given to Mr. Howell and Mr. Nunley."

"Upon review of the facts and rights of my clients, we will decide the next step."

Howell said the purpose of the rule requiring a candidate to be a registered voter in the district from which he is running is to ensure a person doesn't move into a district simply to run for office.

"However, in my situation, I have lived at my current residence since August 1990 and certainly am no 'Johnny Come Lately' or carpetbagger," Howell said.

"There would be no way for me to know whether my address as registered or my actual address were in the same or different districts until such time as the districts were made public."

"To the best of my knowledge, this did not occur until after the governor's (election) proclamation (in January). If this is the case, it seems I would have been given a 'grace period' in which to come into compliance with the law."

Opal Hill does the paperwork for Wilton Howell who is filing for the Republican primary as a candidate for Lincoln County Commissioner. 15 candidates are vying for five commission positions.

"I intend to run for county commissioner and my hope is to be elected and serve Lincoln County with dedication and distinction. If my right to run for office must be determined by a court of law, then so be it."

Howell, 42, owner of One Stop Auto, will face incumbent Bill Elliott, 63, and former county road manager Tommie Hall, 58, in the Republican primary for District 3.

Elliott previously has served as county sheriff and commissioner, but ran as a Democrat. After a short time out of politics, he was elected to a two-year term in 1990. This will be his first candidacy as a Republican.

The winner of the Republican primary will run in the general election for a four-year term against Democrat Charles Griffin, 73, who is retired and is chairman of the State Parks and Recreation Board.

No means yes in P&Z action

Approval of Camelot Crown Estate's sketch plan would breathe new life in a dormant development that went bellyup insisted Realtor Joel Rutten at Tuesday's Planning and Zoning Commission meeting.

Major alterations of Camelot's past, now unworkable, master plan would allow a reduction in density: make big lots out of small lots, big homes instead of small homes.

Two major concerns regarding the proposed Camelot changes surfaced. Primary concern was the need for costly, but proper, access to ensure adequate fire protection.

Also, the commission wants insurance that a newly approved big lot won't be subdivided in the future to a bunch of little lots.

That proposed tampering with past zoning prompted two familiar stories from planning and zoning authorities at the meeting.

"Where we failed as a government sometime in the past, we're forcing that (action) on the private citizen down the road," according to Robert Donaldson, P&Z chairman.

"I don't want to justify bad planning at this point, based on bad planning of the past," countered Cleatus Richards, planning director.

Donaldson acknowledged that the director's job is to protect and follow the law and that Richards was just doing his job.

However, Donaldson was seeking a gray area where the commission could remain within the spirit of the law and yet allow commerce to progress.

That constant juggling act of planning and zoning is necessary, but not always appreciated by an applicant. Rutten was certain of the positive impact on the community.

Donaldson said that the commission was not in the position at this point to make an exception to Camelot's master plan.

He said a procedure had to be followed that included village council approval.

Rutten noted that mountain construction is now entering that preferred weather period. He needed a decision as soon as possible.

Donaldson said the quickest route to approval or denial of the plan would be to: (1) Recommend denial of the plan by the commission; (2) Property owner could then appeal to the village council next Tuesday; (3) Council will then refer any appeal back to the commission for a report and recommendation the following Tuesday; (4) On the receipt of that report by the commission, the village council at their

MainStreet maps out Midtown

by KRISTIE SULZBACH

Engineers were in Ruidoso Tuesday to discuss the final touches for the MainStreet plans to improve Sudderth Drive before completing construction documents.

George Radnovich, John White and Brian Burnett of Bohannon-Huston Incorporated presented a map of the area between Fern Street and Country Club Road at a public hearing Tuesday morning at village hall. The group has been working with MainStreet and the village hall for about the past six months on the plans which they hope to complete by May.

Radnovich told the audience of about 20 people one reason for doing the project was because the area doesn't meet the requirements of the federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) to allow access for handicapped people to all service buildings and areas. The area, which is just phase I of the project, does not allow adequate pedestrian circulation and is unsafe for walkers and drivers.

The improvements are in two categories, the structural changes in the street and sidewalk and the additions in landscaping, Radnovich said. The map plans covered the work on streets and sidewalks, with the specifics of the landscaping to come later. Radnovich said he came down to Ruidoso three weeks ago to talk to some of the business owners about areas that may have presented problems. These areas were marked on the plans, but he said they would wait until after the meeting to finalize the changes.

The sidewalks will be at minimum three feet wide to a maximum of six feet, which meets the requirements of the ADA. Radnovich said they will be pigmented in an earth tone, like beige, tan or gold. He said they would also like to put in more expansion joints in the concrete so if work needs to be done it will be easier to take a segment of the sidewalk out.

Another important part of this phase of the project will be the crosswalks, which would be handicap accessible. The walks will be made of concrete pavers, or blocks, with a different color and texture than the sidewalks. Radnovich said they are designed to meet the state highway department's standards for pressure. The blocks will be held in place by concrete strips that will seal out water so potholes don't develop.

He said the paver blocks are better suited for the elevation and weather conditions. This type of construction is used in Aspen and several other tourist communities, Radnovich said. The blocks are also easy to remove if the city needs to do underground work in that area.

The center line of the street will not necessarily be where it is located now but will move as needed to adjust for the width of the sidewalks. The inside traffic lanes will be 11 feet wide and the outside lanes will be 12 feet wide. The parking spaces will be eight feet by 22 feet. Loading zones have also been planned at various spots in the area, and they can be used for regular parking after day-time business hours, Radnovich said.

The parking spaces will be decreased by a percentage, but people are parking in areas, on sidewalks and in drivepads where they shouldn't, he said. Mary Maul, MainStreet project director, said instead of the yellow lines and the no parking signs people will see signs that say free parking or park here.

The light standards, or poles, will be 27 feet high to accommodate both vehicle traffic and pedestrians. Radnovich said typically pedestrian lighting is about 12 to 16 feet high, while vehicle lighting is about 40 feet high, so getting one that is 27 feet high combines the two purposes. At the crosswalks they plan to have lighted bollards, which directs light onto the ground, he said.

Radnovich said most of the drive pads have been kept, except when it no longer leads to a driveway or parking area. Eliminating the unneeded curb cuts also makes it easier for pedestrians to walk. When an area had two entrances they tried to combine it into one so it would be safer for pedestrians. One case of this will be at the Village Plaza, where people used the two drive-ways as a turning around place. The one opening will now be 30 feet wide and allow for traffic to enter and exit.

Underwood unopposed

State Rep. John Underwood (D-Ruidoso) will breeze back into his office in the State House with no opposition in the upcoming elections.

Of those offices that require candidates to register with the state, Underwood was the only person representing Lincoln County without an opponent.

"It's gratifying that no one qualified to oppose me," Underwood said. "I hope the message is that I am representing my constituents in the manner they expect and deserve."

"This will allow me to concentrate on the job of representing the people of my district."

He noted that as many as 21 Democrats and 10 Republicans are unopposed in the House.

"Part of that may be that they're doing a good job, but another aspect could be that some potential candidates have concluded they can't afford to serve and that it's not the ego trip that it used to be. In the race for State Senate District 8, which covers the counties of DeBaca, Guadalupe, Lincoln and San Miguel, incumbent State Sen. Pete Campos will face Margarito Valdez in the Democratic primary.

Campos is a high school counselor from Santa Rosa and Valdez a retired educator from Las Vegas.

Campos became Lincoln County's senator in the recent redistricting. The area's former senator, James Martin of Socorro, is not seeking re-election.

Incumbent District Attorney Bert Atkins, from the Twelfth Judicial District, will face attorney Gail Brownfield in the Democratic primary, winner take all.

Two Democrats also are vying for the District 8 seat on the State Board of Education. Van Witt, Lincoln County's current representative, will be pitted against Jennie Ortiz.

Commission confident voters will continue LCMC levy

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Even with a crowded November general election ballot, Lincoln County Commissioners said Tuesday they believe voters will decide to renew a special property tax levy for support of the county hospital.

They denied a request by Valerie Miller, administrator of the Lincoln County Medical Center, on behalf of her board, to schedule a special election in September.

"It's an extremely crowded election ballot with numerous offices, several constitutional issues and money issues," Miller said. "Our concern is that the hospital levy could be lost."

County questions and special issues will appear at the bottom of the ballot after elective offices and constitutional questions, county attorney J. Robert Beauvais said.

"The levy passed by a two-to-one margin in the general election in 1984," Commissioner Monroy Montes said. "I have a lot of confidence in the pink ladies (hospital auxiliary), the staff and the public's satisfaction with the operation. I'm sure they will carry the day and you'll save the money."

A special election would cost $7,000, and would have to be paid by the hospital and Carrizozo Health Clinic. The clinic benefits from about one mill of the maximum 4.25 mill tax levy. (One mill is equal to $1 for each $1,000 of taxable value.)

Last year, the tax levy generated about $528,500 for hospital capital expenditures and $390,000 for operation. The hospital's total budget is about $8.5-million.

Administrative assistant Martha Guevara and financial officer Leon Eggleston confer with county manager Andy Wynham during his first official commission meeting.

The ability of the hospital to use that money to buy equipment outright and to cover indigent and bad debts has kept it free of debt, an anomaly in current day hospital operation, Miller said.

Without the tax, services would be significantly reduced, she said.

The hospital board fears that promises by congressional candidates to take care of health care may deter some people from voting to renew the eight-year levy.

"Like all people, they may not want to vote for a tax when something else may take care of it," she said. "We're deeply in a recession. In many cases, households are scrambling to make ends meet. Not to have a tax is an attractive option for some."

Spencer said he is convinced that without the tax, the hospital could not operate for long.

But he also is convinced that the hospital is very important to most people in the county and they are willing to support it.

Commissioner Bill Elliott said he favored a special election to give the tax levy a favorable edge.

But Montes joined Spencer. "If we have a special election, it would lower the voter turnout and disenfranchise those who don't participate in special elections," he said. "I think it will succeed. Get out there and work."

The commission approved wording for the ballot that specifies the money generated can be used for operation and capital expenditure. The ballot for the first eight years of the tax listed capital expenditures as the only legitimate use of the money, even though state statutes allow both.

But at that time of the original passage, the emphasis was on building a new hospital with the money. When boom turned to bust in the county, those plans were scrapped and a less ambitious program of renovation and equipment acquisition was undertaken.

Beauvais said it wasn't necessary to state on the ballot that the commission has the authority to reduce the levy.

"That power is guaranteed to you in the statutes and can't be taken away whether or not it's on the ballot," he said.

"We prefer to keep the question simple so people will really know what they're voting for," Miller said.

In another matter, Walter Henn, chairman of the Lincoln County Lodgers Tax Committee, turned over a list of possible violators of the county lodgers tax ordinance.

He requested that the county contact the business owners and advise them of their legal obligation to pay the tax.

"It's unfair to those who pay," he said. "Maybe they do not understand the ordinance and a visit could solve the problem."

Beauvais said the commission has an easy way of enforcing the ordinance because lodging establishments, including recreational vehicle parks, are required to be licensed.

"We've been in dereliction of that," Beauvais said. "If a license is not displayed, they can't do business."

Referring to the list, Beauvais said, "They know they are in violation, because they give their rates with the tax in place when they are contacted, but they are not giving the tax back to the county."

In other action, the commission: —Heard a report from county manager Andy Wynham that the governor is not going to form a special committee to monitor studies of high level nuclear waste storage facilities being undertaken by the Mescalero Apache.

"He feels there are numerous committees already," Wynham said. "He's waiting for the federal report first. I think he has confidence that the outcome will be positive."

The commission was asked to form a monitoring committee by the Southwest Nuclear Alert group.

—Postponed action on three ordinances that would bring federal law down to the county level to allow land owners and grazing permittees to address grievances with federal agencies in local court instead of federal court.

Beauvais said his main concern is that bringing the Civil Rights Act into a county ordinance could put the commission in the position of having to enforce the act if someone thinks they have been discriminated against, he said. It would be taking on additional enforcement responsibilities.

"I don't think that's the role of a county ordinance," he said. "The rights are part of the U.S. Constitution and should be addressed in federal court."

—Authorized United New Mexico Bank to proceed with paving and repaving of roads in Deer Park Meadows. Through a bankruptcy action, the bank owns about 60 lots and would like to market them. The county had stopped sales until the roads are finished in line with the developer's disclosure statement.

The roads will be completed to standards already approved in that statement.

Road manager William Cupit told commissioners, "We will be inspecting construction thoroughly, because we are not getting burned anymore."

"(The bank) knows we're going to be tougher and if they are not built right, I won't accept the roads."

"I appreciate that," Montes said. "I think the county has accepted improperly built roads in the past and we're eating it now."

If the bank wants the county to release the property held as security for the road work, it will have to submit a letter of credit in its place, Beauvais said.

Meanwhile representatives from the Alto Homeowners Association told commissioners they are trying to determine who is responsible for roads apparently improperly built in the subdivision. The work was financed with a special assessment against lot owners.

With so many absentee home owners in the subdivision when the roads were surfaced four years ago, it was difficult to monitor the work, they said.

Wynham said approving a design without road shoulders may have been a less expensive option, but it contributed to an early breakdown of the roadbeds.

County puts the brakes on two requests for transportation funds

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Two requests for $5,000 economic development allocations received a lukewarm reception Tuesday from the Lincoln County Commission.

Commission Chairman Stirling Spencer said he was opposed to giving money to either the Iron Horse Railroad Foundation Inc. or Resort Air Lines Ltd.

"People have been studying this airlines stuff for several years and the railroad for one or two years," Spencer said. "My thought is that Mesa Airlines (last year) had a chance to study the situation and was one of the most highly subsidized operations I have ever seen. (It closed the local route after a few months). It seems to me that some places are better for cars and buses than airlines."

The Iron Horse concept is more appropriate for development in the private sector, he said.

Commissioner Monroy Montes and Bill Elliott went along with Spencer on the railroad, calling it "highly speculative," but said they wanted more time to decide whether to go with the airlines' request.

"I don't think we have enough information to hand out money right now," Elliott said.

"Somewhere down the line the (railroad) could be good, but we have an airport in place and have a need. I would like to look at the Resort Air request more favorably," said Montes.

County attorney J. Robert Beauvais cautioned that before any money could be handed out, the commission would have to draft an agreement clearly outlining the economic benefit to be received by the county from the venture. Otherwise, the allocation could be interpreted as a donation and would be in violation of the state constitution, he said.

Victor Alonso, mayor of Ruidoso and vice president of Resort Air, told commissioners he will meet with Beauvais and new county manager Andy Wynham to come up with an agreement and to detail benefits.

"I could not come up with any appropriate language broad enough to cover it, but perhaps the Resort Air group can suggest something," Wynham said.

"If you can't get beyond the counsel's office, we won't proceed," Montes said.

Despite his opposition to government participation in the ventures, Spencer said he applauded the commitment of the people involved.

Alonso said the $5,000 request by his organization would be used to secure a license to fly international, intrastate and interstate routes. Even if the airlines never materializes, the license could be sold to recoup the money since a limited number are issued by the Federal Aviation Authority.

Larry Goodman, spokesman for Iron Horse, said the $5,000 he requested would become a match for money from the New Mexico Transportation Authority for an environmental impact study of four proposed railroad routes.

In another matter, the commission said they would consider an ordinance to govern the installation of alarm systems.

"Several out-of-county alarm systems recently have stepped up their advertising," said Sheriff James McSwane.

That presents a problem for his department, because the system monitoring occurs elsewhere and it often falls to his department to respond to repeated false alarms.

Without an ordinance, the county is wide open for any type of system to be installed, no matter unnecessary and impractical. No provisions are in place for false alarms due to mal-functions or poor maintenance.

"There's nothing to encourage an out-of-county company or owner to maintain the system and it takes deputy time to respond to false alarms," McSwane said.

If there is no sign of entry at a home, the deputies will not force entry and must try to locate the owner, he said. If they don't attempt to find the owner or secure a home before leaving, they could be held liable, McSwane said.

Beauvais said the problem is probably even greater in a rural county with many absentee home owners.

"False alarms cost the county a lot of money," Spencer said. Several hundreds of dollars are expended by the third or fourth time a false alarm is responded to, Beauvais agreed.

McSwane estimated that out of every 60 alarms to which his department responds, two may be valid. When deputies feel they are just babysitting property, it tends to make them more lax, he said.

His department has a good relationship with the two local installers, he said. "They usually check the alarms first and call us if it is warranted."

McSwane also received permission to draw against a $7,000 U.S. Forest Service grant his department received for eradication of marijuana plants and for drug investigations through the White Mountain task Force. That's nearly $3,000 more than last year's grant.

Road repair leads to rumors of favoritism

Rumors that a road to a ranch owned by Lincoln County Commission Chairman Stirling Spencer was rebuilt by the road department prompted a public explanation Tuesday.

"There's a rumor going around that this commissioner got special treatment," Spencer said during the commission meeting. "I want to address it right here."

"I can get shot at, I don't mind. People can vote for me or not, but I don't think (criticism should fall) on the road department, which is trying to do a good job around here."

Spencer said the road has existed for about 20 years and shows up in records as a county road and school bus route.

The county has not maintained it for more than a decade, he said.

"(Road manager William) Cupit got to the point where he said it was in such a disarray, he wanted to do some work on it," Spencer said. "I offered him a whole pile of material to use on it or any other roads in the county."

Cupit said the request for maintenance on the road came from the Carrizozo school bus drivers and that the road had been on a list for a few years.

"The bus was having a problem because the rocks were sticking out of the ground," Cupit said.

"I had repaired all of the others on the list to my satisfaction except for Stirling's road," he said. "I went to him about it. I knew it might not be a good time."

"He donated materials for the job."

The one mile road was reshaped and proper drainage was installed. It was resurfaced with a crusher fine material provided by Spencer, Cupit said.

The job cost about $6,000, half of what repair jobs on other school routes have cost because Spencer provided the material, he said.

"I think this criticism is kind of unfair," Cupit said. "We were able to take the excess material donated by Stirling up to White Oaks to patch a bunch of roads up there. If we had to purchase it, the expense would have offset the costs on his road."

The road also serves Spencer's cattle pens.

Another change will be at the Win, Place and Show, which currently has a two-way drive-up window. next meeting will make a determination of the variance request.

Richards said there are specific criteria set forth in the subdivision code regarding variance considerations.

Donaldson said that would take a minimum of 22 days.

Rutten agreed and the commission set the wheels in motion by denying the plan.

In other action, the commission also tabled a request for a variance by Alex Adams, owner of a commercial site in Holiday Acres. Adams wanted a variance of the corner side yard of his property to allow development of an office building and sales lot for manufactured homes. Richards said the proposed use of the lot can be accommodated without variance. He said that alternate areas were available within the required setbacks.

The commission tabled any action to allow Adams sufficient time to supply more information and develop plans within required setbacks. The commission approved: —The conditional use and commercial site development of a microwave tower by Contel in the Camelot Subdivision area. —Commercial site development of an 18-hole miniature golf course and restaurant addition near the corner of Carrizozo Road and Sudderth by Ray Eisdson. —A replat of two lots in Woodland Hills Subdivision owned by George Gates to correct an encroachment problem.

In District 1, incumbent Republican Stirling Spencer, 44, a rancher, will be pitted for a four-year term against Democrat Harold G. Garcia of Carrizozo. Garcia, 45, is a town trustee and bar and grill owner.

In newly-formed District 2, Democrat Alvin S. Harcrow, 67, formerly with the state highway department, will face off in the primary against Nunley, 54, a pharmacist at Wal-Mart.

It's Harcrow's second bid for a county commission seat. He ran unsuccessfully two years ago.

In the general election, the victor will face Republican Karon Petty, 43, a real estate agent who previously served one two-year term on the commission.

The term in District 2 also will be for two years as part of the system to stagger the election dates in the future.

Three Republicans are running in District 4, the other newly-formed district. They are attorney Don Dutton, 47; contractor and Capitan school board member Jack King, 36, and William H. Schwetmann, 67, a consulting engineer.

The lone Democrat is Fred G. Hansen, 56, former county chair for the campaigns of Governor Bruce King and Congressman Jeff Bingaman.

The term will be for two years, the same length as District 5, where incumbent Republican commissioner Monroy Montes, 40, an apple grower in Hondo valley, will meet Democratic challenger J. James Sanchez, 51, an educator, in the general election for a two-year term. Sanchez serves on the State Board of Education.

Commissioners receive an annual salary of $10,005. All elected officials' salaries are determined by a formula based on county population and tax base.

In the race for sheriff, incumbent James C. McSwane, 39, will face two of his deputies: Gilbert Sambrano, 36, and Jimmie Luna, 42, for an expanded term of four years.

The contest will be decided in the Republican primary. The sheriff is paid $31,510 annually.

McSwane previously has been elected to two, two-year terms and has been in law enforcement in the county since 1976.

When the commission was expanded to five members, the terms of elected county officials also grew from two to four years. Under the old system, McSwane would not have been able to run again, but with the new terms, he is allowed to seek election for two four-year terms.

Incumbent Republican Assessor Patricia A. Serna, 42, is seeking re-election to a four-year term. In the primary, she will face Albert N. Baca, 35, who has worked in the assessor's office for seven years, was elected a Carrizozo town trustee for a four-year term and served two years as mayor pro-tem.

The assessor is paid $30,130 a year, as is the county treasurer.

Incumbent Treasurer Janice S. Ware, 35, also will face Republican primary competition from Leon Eggleston, 49, county finance officer. Two Republicans and two Democrats are vying for the position of probate judge, which pays $7,015 a year.

The only qualification is that the candidate must be at least 18 years old. The position was created to help low income families handle wills and small estates. Proctor explained. It costs $12.50 to file a will for processing in probate court and $60 in district court.

Running in the Democratic primary are Jerry Wright, 54, of Ruidoso, general manager of KBUY radio, and Larry Ted Turnbow, 48, of Nogal. The Republican candidates are Doyle Howell, 62, of Agua Fria subdivision, formerly with the Ruidoso school system, and incumbent probate judge J.O. "Bun" Payne, 72, of Carrizozo.

MainStreet elects new officers

MainStreet Ruidoso has an old face in a new place, as former treasurer, Alden Deyo, takes over as president for the year. Deyo and three other officers were installed at a special meeting on Wednesday. Bill Carrigan will serve as vice president, Tom Rigsby as treasurer and Bonnie Mattox will remain on as secretary of the group.

Project director Mary Maul informed the group April will be a busy month for them because the Village of Ruidoso is beginning its budget process earlier than usual. In the past the village had asked for a proposed budget in May, but this year MainStreet will have to have a proposal within the next few weeks. She said the village is planning to start reviewing the budget requests on April 20.

A committee of Maul, Deyo, Rigsby and past president Mike Line was appointed to begin working on a proposed budget immediately.

In other director's business Maul said the last public hearing for the MainStreet construction plans for Sudderth Drive from Fern Street to Country Club Road was Tuesday morning at the village hall. Representatives of Bohannon-Huston were at the meeting to explain the plans to people. Maul said it went well and many people attended it.

Maul said she has talked to the state highway department about the municipal arterial project (MAP) funds that MainStreet has applied for to help fund the improvement project. She said the department was pleased with the information but needed a few more things. Maul will meet with them later this month to discuss other items about this project.

The department will make a decision on the approval of the funds in June.

The board members voted to have their regular April meeting at 4 p.m. April 23 and to have meetings May through August at 8:30 a.m. so business people can attend the meetings.

Maul also reported that she has also been working on applying for two grants. One is for cooperative advertising money, while the second is through soil conservation to help fund the proposed River Walk along the Rio Ruidoso. She said the city is trying to get easements for the next step of the River Walk project.

MainStreet Ruidoso elected new officer for the year at its meeting Wednesday. Past president Mike Line and village liaison J.D. James welcome in the new officers, secretary Bonnie Mattox, president Alden Deyo and treasurer Tom Rigsby. Vice president Bill Carrigan was not present at the induction.

CRIME STOPPERS
"CRIME OF THE WEEK"

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information that leads to the arrest and Grand Jury indictment or Magistrate Court Bindover of the person or persons who committed this crime or any other unsolved felony crime in Lincoln County.

Let's work together to call a stop to crime.

Phone 257-4545

On February 16, 1990, a fire was deliberately started in the Mesquero Elementary School, resulting in the loss of $1.8 million dollars. Since the fire, more than thirty persons have been identified as possible suspects. Investigators have identified the persons who are responsible for the fire. The persons who are responsible for the fire are being sought. If you have any information that will aid in identifying those responsible for starting this costly fire, please contact the Crime Stoppers. In cooperation with the Mesquero Apache Tribe, we will pay a $1,000 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and magistrates court bindover or grand jury indictment of the person or persons who committed this crime. Crime Stoppers will also pay cash rewards for information that leads to the arrest or bindover of those responsible for starting this costly fire.

Anyone having information relating to this crime or any criminal activity is urged to call Crime Stoppers. The Crime Stoppers phone line is manned twenty-four hours a day, and your information will be kept confidential. If you wish to give the reward to become eligible for a cash reward, The Crime Stoppers phone number is 257-4545. Approved outside Crime Stoppers outside the local exchange, may call collect within Lincoln County.

Monday bowlers turn up the heat

Mary Blackman and Gloria Wheeler led the pack in the Monday night ladies bowling league at the Ruidoso Bowling Center on March 30.

Blackman had the high game scratch with a score of 221, while Wheeler had the high series with a 516. Lincoln County Medical Center captured the team honors with a high scratch game of 793 and a high series of 2,343 after defeating Eddie's Noisy Ladies four games to zero.

Mitchell's Irish Emeralds blanked Smokey Bear Restaurant four to zero as well. The Late Comers had a tougher contest but pulled out the win against Canyon Cabins in three games to one. It was a three to one win for the Super 8 Motel too over the Ruidoso Care Center.

In the Friday night mixed league for the week of April 3, Dee Von-Rosenberg and Bill Britton stole the show. VonRosenberg had the high women's game scratch with a 194 and the high series scratch with a 536. Britton bowled the men's high game scratch with a 211 and the high series with a 536.

The Safe Deposits beat out their opponents with a high game scratch of 699 and high series scratch with a 1966. In team competition they beat the No Names four to zero. A-1 Resort Reservations knocked off three to C and L Lumber's one in their meet, while Dial Electric won three to one over the Misfits.

Eagle Creek Construction and Allison's Plumbing split two on the night. Texas-New Mexico Power tied it up with Zia Gas as well in their match-up.

Tennis team set for long meet

The Ruidoso Warrior tennis team has already hit the road for its 1992 season with many players just learning the ropes.

Coach Steve Havill said there are 22 boys and girls out this year with many of those being eighth graders. He said it is good to have the young players because they come back for several years, but he is happy to have several returning players including Cicelee Makowski, Hemanth Pai and Aaron Stallings.

He said what pleases him the most is the relationship between the older and younger players. The older players don't mind working with the younger ones and teaching them the game, Havill said.

The boys team played in Deming last week but was shut out 0-9. Havill said it was a good competition and learning experience for the players. Both the boys and girls teams will compete in Artesia today, Thursday, at 3 p.m. The teams will play at an all-day tournament on Saturday in Clovis, before having a home meet against Lovington on Tuesday. The match is set for 3 p.m.

Sign up for baseball league

Sign-up for Little League Baseball for children ages eight to 12 as of July 31 will be from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday at the White Mountain Cafeteria.

The fee will be $20 per child and proof of age will be required. To be assured of being on a team this summer children must sign up at this time because the team size will be restricted.

If parents have any questions call Scott at 257-9818.

Golfers get into spring swing

With weather warming things up, the golfers are getting on to the greens to get in a few practice swings before a summer full of tournaments starts.

One way to practice is to enter the high school golf team benefit scramble scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Sunday at Alto Lakes Country Club. To enter the scramble, people may call or sign up at the pro shop at Alto.

At last week's scramble at The Links at Sierra Blanca, the winning team of Rocky Trapp, Tommy Barnes, Frank DeCampli, Greg Gordon and Mark Russell, shot a 53, 14 under par. The second place team shot the same but lost the playoff to the champions. The team consists of Ron Wall, Pat Thompson, Kiki Germany, Frank Sawyer and Robert Sawyer.

The team of Jeff Chapman, Rick Silva, Frankie Hooper, Ken Grizaffi and Dave Parks came in 13 under par for third place. Nathan Bardo, John West, Billy Mitchell, Carole Wall and Norm Wright were also at 13 under for fourth place.

These four teams have qualified for the champion of champions tournament on April 26 at the Links.

Michael Hicks is the new professional at the pro shop at the Links to replace Dede Forrester who moved to Portland. Hicks moved to the area from Midland and began officially on April 5.

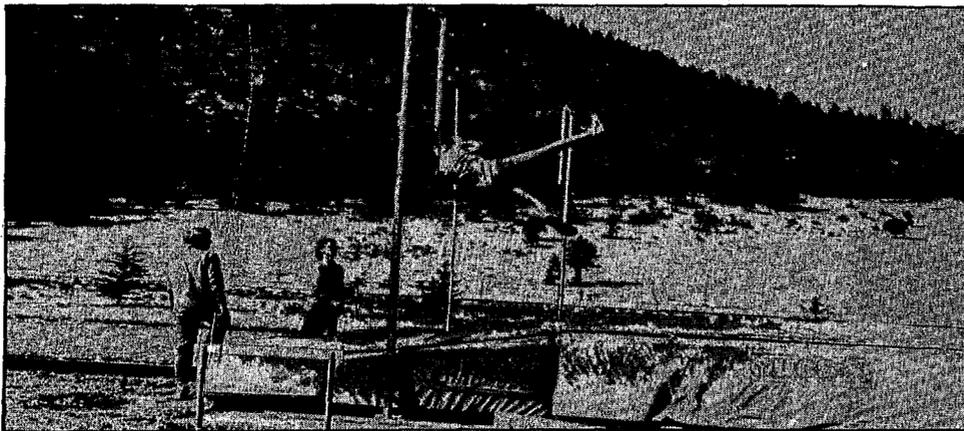

"This is heaven. The people are nice, and they come here from all over. We have a lot of things planned for people this summer too," he said.

One event planned to warm-up this spring is a ladies clinic planned on four consecutive Saturdays, beginning this Saturday. The cost for the four lessons is $50 and interested people need call the shop to register. The clinic will begin at 2 p.m. each Saturday.

Hicks and Al Forrester will be teaching everything including the basics, such as the grip and the swing. Hicks said they may be able to video tape a few minutes of each golfer so they can review it and have a little fun too. They will be helping everyone from the beginners on up, he said.

Track is back!

The spring air is cool, but the competition is heating up as the Ruidoso Warrior track team prepares for its fifth meet of the season in Roswell this weekend. A pole vaulter makes a trial run and clears the bar in practice earlier this week.

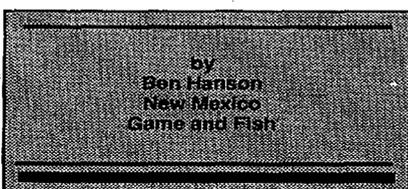

Inside The Outdoors

Education is key to be a game warden

Part of my job, as a public information officer, is to present educational programs to a wide variety of groups. These groups range from Mrs. Nealon's first grade class, to the New Mexico Chapter of the Wild Turkey Federation. Despite the obvious differences between the groups, I often get asked the same question, "What did you have to do to become a game warden?" or "What does it take to get a job with the Department of Game and Fish?"

These are excellent questions and when answering them I try my best to be positive about job prospects with the Game and Fish, yet realistic. Many people have no idea of the requirements needed to become a "Game Warden." Fewer still realize that the Department of Game and Fish is a very small outfit compared to other state agencies. This means that the rate of turn over is slow, creating few openings for new hires each year.

Well, let's say that you are still interested, now what? First you need to attend a university and obtain at least a bachelor's degree in wildlife science or a related field. If you have aspirations of attaining higher goals, within the department, you should seriously consider working on a master's in wildlife.

After explaining this to most people they usually respond with a disappointed thanks.

Many prospective employees have an honest interest in the outdoors and even wildlife, however, the requirements are more than most expect. Understandable, four years of education is a great commitment for someone who might already have a family or other inhibiting circumstances.

Those who choose to get a degree in wildlife or some other related field have cleared one obstacle, however, they are not assured of employment. As stated earlier, our department is small and there is very little turn over. In fact, the department only has about 220 full-time employees. While many of the 220 employees are certified law enforcement officers only about 50 are actually classified as field game wardens. That leaves a majority of the department doing jobs that range from administration to hunter-education. What all of this amounts to, is that on the average there are about three new game wardens hired each year to fill vacancies in the 50 field position. That's not a whole lot!

Hopefully this news doesn't create a big panic at our local universities, where students are enrolled in wildlife biology programs.

There are other agencies who hire wildlife biologists such as the Forest Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife and the Bureau of Land Management.

If this is bad news to those of you who thought you would look for employment with the Department of Game and Fish, I'm sorry, but I do want to be realistic. The days are gone where the only requirement needed was to enjoy the outdoors. However, if you are serious about wanting a job with the Game and Fish stick with it, and stay in school!

Top students honored at banquet

by KRISTIE SULZBACH
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Hitting the books isn't all it takes to be successful in high school academics but hard work and ambition can't hurt in achieving an outstanding grade point average.

Ruidoso High School students were honored Tuesday night at the 10th annual academic awards banquet for their hard work in the classroom. Dub Williams, one of the founders of the event with Sandy Gladden and James Sanchez, welcomed the audience to set the tone for the evening. He said one key to these young people's success is the parents, who got them this far.

The Distinguished Warrior award, the highest honor that can be given to a senior at Ruidoso, was a tough competition, so tough they had to give it to two people. Seniors Jennifer Stevens and Luisa Tam both received the award for their superior academic achievement and outstanding performance in extra-curricular activities. Stevens is the president of the student council, a member of Students Against Drunk Driving and 1991 homecoming queen.

Tam is an outstanding four-year track and cross country runner and has received a scholarship to attend Texas Tech. She is a member of the National Honor Society.

The award was voted on by teachers, but since the vote was so close they felt it could only be given to both students.

Stevens was also the recipient of the Sertoma Club Scholarship for $2,000. Roy Seay, representative of the club, said the group is proud to sponsor a scholarship for both academics and activities and is pledging $10,000 for next year.

"In this room beats the heart of champions," Seay said. The top academic student in each of the four grades gave a presentation before assisting in handing out certificates to students with a grade point average between 3.5 and 3.8. The top student in the freshman class is Michelle Hasenbuhler.

Hasenbuhler said it was a very special night for her, and she thanked her parents and special teachers who have helped her along the way. Her friends were a marvelous support system, too, she said.

Other freshmen honored were Leah Brown, John Echols, Leslie Morris, Jessica Arreola, Cliff Wood, Forrest Green and Jenny Ames.

The top sophomore student is Melissa Currin. Currin said with all the negative things in the world it is hard to keep positive. Most teenagers today are healthy, happy and successful because they have the ability to reason and think for themselves, she said.

Celeste Wilson, Mandy Parker, Nikki Hoffer, Jimmy Varnadore, Kristie Ryan, Gunner Johnson, Brandy Pfeiffer and Jill Bailey were honored sophomores.

Hemanth Pai, who is the top junior, said it is true that the only thing constant is change. He said space is being explored and communism is ending, but people don't realize who the individuals are who are responsible for it. Anyone can be smart, but ambition sets people apart, he said. Those who chose to be the best and use that will be the scientists and diplomats of the future, Pai said.

Juniors honored were Sam Gumbert, Jeri Ann Keeton, Gail Floyd and Jolene McGee.

The top senior student is John Salcido. Salcido said he is planning to attend Stanford to make a name for himself in the film industry, but he was considering New York University. He wasn't so sure about it, though, when he found out that weapons are considered school supplies and gang shootings are sanctioned activities.

Seniors who were honored were foreign exchange students Jorge Victoria and Frederique Barnich and Sara Echols, Luisa Tam, Yvette Maldonado, Jennifer Stevens, Betsy Cull, Linda Hankins and Joe Moore.

Principal Mike Kakuska and counselor Jean Forister announced the students on the principal's list, which requires a 3.8 or higher grade point average. Seniors, beside Salcido, on the list are Angie Gann, Erin Russell and Jason Weill.

Juniors on the principal's list are Pai, Rosalinda Baeza, Kerrie Cubberly, Kim Floyd, Sharice Hall, Robyn Hursh, J.P. LeFlohic, Joshua Norbury, Allison Rhodes and Ray Rodriguez.

Currin, Jeanelle Cox, Andrea Crane, Montana Hise, Melissa Jones, Jeremy Pinto, Colelinda Stokes and Crystal Taylor were named the list for the sophomore class.

Freshmen who earned a spot on the list are Hasenbuhler, Brad Fox, Valerie Maldonado and Mandy Sodd.

The National Honor Society also inducted new members into the organization at the ceremony. Sponsor Ida Maldonado and president Linda Hankins said the society is not just for students with a high grade point average. In selecting new members a committee looks at the person's character and leadership ability as well as other traits. The group has done several things this year including visiting the Ruidoso Care Center and having a fundraiser, Hankins said.

Students selected to be in the society were Frederique Barnich, Kerrie Cubberly, Sam Gumbert, Jill Bailey, Jeanelle Cox, Andrea Crane, Melissa Currin, Montana Hise, Nikki Hoffer, Melissa Jones, Jeremy Pinto, Colelinda Stokes, Crystal Taylor, Jimmy Varnadore and Celeste Wilson.

Hankins also thanked teacher Carol Hubbard as an honorary member of the society and for helping to organize the banquet. Ronny Maskew and Jim Dickinson also thanked Hubbard for her work in helping them make the arrangements for the event.

The meal for the students and their parents was prepared by the Ruidoso High School Tepee Lounge, which is sponsored by Rebecca Durham. The costs of the banquet were defrayed by First Federal Savings Bank, Pioneer Savings and Trust, First National Bank, Sun World Savings Bank, Ruidoso State Bank, United New Mexico Bank and Ruidoso Municipal Schools.

Capitan

The old Coalora depot was moved to reminder of the days when the railroad Capitan in 1904. It now stands vacant, a brought passengers and goods.

New life in store for depot

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Much of the history of Capitan still stands today in old adobe and wooden buildings.

One of the most intriguing structures, the aging El Paso and Southwestern Railroad depot at the intersection of State Road 48 and U.S. 380, may be the beneficiary of renewed interest in its preservation and restoration.

Barbara Luna, manager of the Capitan district of the State Forestry Division, said within the next few months, the building will receive a new coat of paint.

"We hope to be able to do some minor refurbishing and to repaint it with the original yellow and brown colors," she said. "We want to accomplish what is needed to preserve it so that in the future it can be used for something major, such as a larger firefighting museum."

If the effort of a Ruidoso group to start an iron horse railroad in the county is realized, the depot could be reactivated for that use, she said.

"We're real excited about it," Luna said. "We do want to use it for something major."

Local historian Herbert Traylor explained that the depot originally was stationed in Coalora, a community formed to serve the Salado coalfields.

"It was moved from Coalora down to Capitan in 1904 because the railroad had extended a branch down in 1901," Traylor said. "When Coalora was closed down, the building was brought down in sections and set up. "It operated until the railroad was terminated in the 1950s."

Guy Hoover was the depot agent for many years until World War II, Traylor said.

A railroad section crew was kept at a section house where Gerald Dean Jr. now lives, Traylor said. "The trains had to back in from a switch west of Capitan," he said. "It carried passengers on a regular schedule."

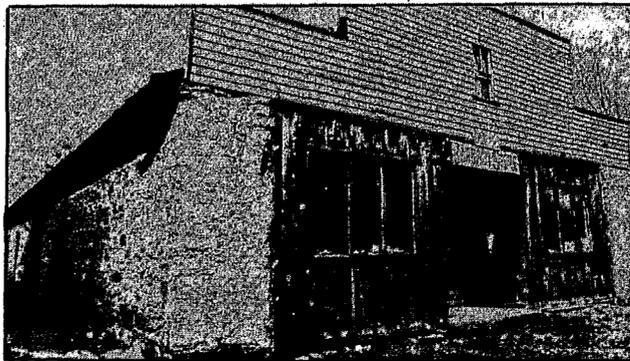

The building was donated by the Gerald Dean Sr. family to the State Department of Natural Resources in the 1980s.

Mary Ann Anders of the State Historic Preservation Division said depot was listed on the state register of cultural properties in October 1978.

Historic Hotel

Part of Capitan's old Buena Vista Hotel, built with adobes blocks in 1922 by Paul Anaya, now is the Bargain Store on Lincoln Street. School commencement exercises used to be conducted in the hotel. It was the only place in town large enough to accommodate friends and family.

Around Town

Capitan School Board members will honor Ken Cox at their meeting today for his years of service on the board.

Cox will be resigning effective at the May meeting because he is moving from the area.

He was re-elected to a four-year term last year. The board has 45 days to select a replacement to serve until the next regular or special school district election.

The board will meet in a closed executive session on personnel from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. in the school district's administration complex and then begin the regular agenda.

Scheduled for consideration are recommendations from Supt. David Locke to initiate a breakfast program in the 1992-93 school year and to select an architectural firm to handle remodeling and future expansion plans. The Jesse E. Fay scholarship will be awarded at the meeting.

The board also will take action on personnel recommendations for next school year.

 The Capitan Board of Trustees will meet at 6 p.m. Monday at village hall for a public hearing on a proposed planning and zoning ordinance.

The ordinance has been assembled by the village planning board and is available at village hall for review. To be effective, maps showing zoning districts also must be adopted.

On the regular agenda following the hearing, the trustees will discuss cracking down on violators of the village's health and safety nuisance ordinance.

Letters are to be sent to people who have allowed trash and other debris to accumulate on their lots, warning them that they are violating the ordinance.

Convicted violators may be fined up to $500 and receive a jail sentence of 60 days.

 Capitan residents will no longer be able to dump their construction debris and related items at the village landfill for free on Saturdays.

The operation of the landfill has been taken over by the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority and is not under the village's jurisdiction, Mayor Frank Warth pointed out.

Previously, residents presented their water bills as verification of residence and were allowed to drop off their debris.

Smith wins award

Weldon Smith, a student at Capitan High School, has been named a United States National Award winner in football.

The United States Achievement Academy announced the prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. According to a news release, the academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Smith was nominated by Capitan High School football coach Pat Ventura.

Smith will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history.

Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

USAA winners are selected upon the recommendation of school sponsors using standards that include academic performance, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit.

Smith is the son of Bruce and Cheryl Mark. His grandparents are Mildred Muse of Capitan and Lill Smith of Pipe Creek, Texas.

Students recycle

Students at Capitan Elementary will be collecting aluminum at the school every Thursday for one month starting April 16.

The effort is being coordinated with the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, said principal Jerry Newsom.

"Last year, we collected more than 4,000 pounds of aluminum and earned more than $950 that was funneled back into the classroom accounts," Newsom said. "But we also want to emphasize that even without the financial benefit, the effort to recycle is rewarding and helpful in itself."

The aluminum will be picked up at 1:30 p.m. every Thursday.

Jimmie Luna announces in sheriff's race

Lincoln County deputy sheriff Jimmie Luna announced he will seek the Republican nomination for sheriff in the June primary.

Luna, a deputy for more than seven years, said in his announcement that he believes he can provide the leadership and direction needed to take the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department into the mid-1990s and beyond.

"Many of the civil lawsuits filed against the department over the past years could have been avoided," said Luna.

"There is no mid-level supervision within the department," said Luna. "Employees do pretty much what they want to and when they want to, and this results in unnecessary and expensive lawsuits. Like it or not, lawsuits are here to stay, and we must learn to cope with them," he added.

"Since 1988, nearly all of the lawsuits against the department resulted from failure to give due process to someone.

"Due process basically means following the law, rules, regulations, and policies currently in place to insure that each person the department comes in contact with is treated with fundamental fairness and courtesy," he explained.

"Good leadership and supervision coupled with training will reduce the causes and frequency of these lawsuits."

Luna has more than 23 years of public service including 19 years in law enforcement, according to his announcement. He served as chief of police in Estancia, and as a deputy and the undersheriff in Torrance County.

Luna is a certified New Mexico police officer with more than 400 additional hours of specialized training from various federal, state, and local training agencies.

"I have the background and training to manage the department," said Luna. "I will set realistic goals for the department and its employees and see that the goals are met. At present, there are sufficient personnel to provide Lincoln County with a reasonable level of police services. The problem is that there is little or no direction or management supervision."

"The Sheriff's Department is not a one person operation," continued Luna. "It operates 24 hours every day of the year. Nearly all of the employees are under the county personnel/merit ordinance. Yet without mid-level supervisors, employees can never aspire to be promoted. Any organization needs good supervision, and supervisors should be there to lead and direct their subordinates. The days of the 'laid back, good ole boy' in law enforcement are gone."

"My election platform is really quite simple — to provide the citizens of Lincoln County with competent, responsive and courteous police services," said Luna.

His specific goals include studying the feasibility of consolidating various police, fire and ambulance dispatching services in Lincoln County.

Luna said if elected he'll reorganize the department to include an investigative unit and will continue the excellent work of the White Mountain Task Force in its drug suppression activities.

Capitan pops concert planned

The Capitan High School band and chorus will join with area professional and amateur musicians and singers in a desert Pops Concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 16, at Ruidoso High School.

The proceeds will be donated to help offset expenses connected to a planned band trip to California in May.

Entertainment will include selections from Cats, Robin Hood and The Music Man; a performance by a jazz ensemble and a potpourri of piano pieces.

Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Aggies to muster in Ruidoso

Former Students of Texas A&M University will assemble in Ruidoso on April 21 for the annual Texas Aggie Muster, announced chairman Wayne Dacy.

Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Cree Meadows Country Club in Ruidoso.

Muster is open to all former students and their families, parents of students, and friends of Texas A&M. For more information contact Dacy in Roswell at 623-8828.

According to a news release, Texas A&M is in its "Second Century of Greatness."

During the last 100 years, Texas A&M has grown from a small Land Grant College to one of the leading research and educational institutions in the nation, Dacy reports.

Aggie Muster dates back to 1883, and has been held annually since. More than 400 Musters will take place around the world this year, Dacy said.

"Wherever Texas A&M former students live or work," he added,

During wars, Aggies mustered in foxholes, on the battlefield, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was held on Corregidor Island shortly before the Japanese captured it in 1942.

Every Muster ceremony is the same, Dacy reported. Texas Aggies pay their respects to all those who are absent because of death since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers, "Here."

Fourteen logos submitted

Fourteen entries were submitted in the competition to select a logo for the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.

"The competition was closed April 2 and I hope to be able to announce the winners around April 20, the date of the next authority meeting," said authority director Gene Green. The logo will be applied to trucks, recycling bins and other equipment used by the authority as it assumes responsibility in the county for garbage collection and disposal.

"I'd like to devise a scoring system and let the authority directors select on that basis," he said. "But however it is done, the final decision will be up to the directors."

General equivalency (GED) tests will be administered in Ruidoso

High school hopefuls no longer will have to drive to Alamogordo to take a test for a general equivalency diploma (GED).

Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso, in cooperation with New Mexico State University-

Alamogordo, will offer a chance to take the test locally.

The official pre-test, required prior to the actual testing, is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at Ruidoso High School.

The official GED test will be conducted in two parts. The first part will be administered from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, April 24, at the high school. The second through fourth parts are set for 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 25 at the same location.

Low cost child care will be available. Interested individuals should contact Cheri La Counte at 257-2120 or leave a message for Gloria Pafford at 258-4220.

The Silver Lining

April showers paint colorful skies

April Showers Arrive On Time

This is being sent to you in late afternoon of April 5. This morning the sun began appearing over Sunrise Hill turning the cedars and pines on the hilltop into trees of silver as they were outlined in the round golden sun.

Then when the sun cleared the mountain top it began to shine rainbow colored shafts of light down into the Vale along with its golden beams, casting a veil of pink and lavender over the green mountain meadows. All around the horizon to the southwest the west, the blue of the sky was tinted with light purple. And across the valley to the northwest the hillsides were lighted with light crimson and orange.

These morning color pageants are something that make you remember the verses of the Psalm: "The Heavens declare the Glory of God and the firmament showeth His handiwork."

These sunrise displays appear only once in a while, and when they do they are something to hold you in their spell.

You cannot help but wonder what the conditions of air, light, moisture, and temperature—or the time of year—that brings us this morning celebration. It is one of the many charms of our mountain world.

Thunder All Around

After the sunshiny morning, along about noon suddenly you hear a great loud boom over Sunrise Mountain, and here is a gray cloud moving in over the horizon. Then in a few minutes there is a rumble of thunder over to the south, and the gray clouds appear. The next thing you know you are surrounded by thunder in every direction.

And the old spiritual song comes to mind: "My Lord calls me; He calls me by the Thunder. The trumpet sounds within-a my soul."

Then all afternoon, from one direction and another, the April showers moved in. They are right on time this year, coming right after a winter of heavy snow, to give the grass, the leaves, and blooms and flowers a running start for a glorious spring.

Dave and Della Bonnell Visit Their Grandchild

Dave and Della Bonnell returned Sunday from Albuquerque where they visited their granddaughter April Janine Bonnell, daughter of David Bonnell and his wife, Maria. Dave was born on the Fourth of July and his granddaughter on Christmas Day 1990. Little April Janine is the pride and joy of the household, running and laughing, a true little Christmas angel, a blessed Christmas present for Dave and Della. Della sings April a little song, "Here comes our all American girl." April will be down to visit Glencoe around Memorial Day.

Remembered In Prayers

The eighth of April was the 50th anniversary of the fall of Bataan in World War II. The Reverend Ted Howden, son of Bishop Frederick Bingham Howden Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of New Mexico and West Texas, was our first priest at Saint Anne's Chapel in Glencoe.

He was the chaplain of the 200th Coast Artillery a New Mexico regiment. He fell from giving his rations to his fellow prisoners. During the Easter season we will have a prayer in our hearts for Father Ted Howden.

Sam Walton

Today at noon, April 6, Paul Harvey on his radio broadcast paid tribute to Sam Walton, founder of Wal-Mart the largest general store chain in the world.

Paul said that Sam lived by Christian principles which he carried out in his daily life. When Mr. Walton was upon the occasion of his founding of the local store, he expressed appreciation for the people of Ruidoso and Lincoln County. We send up a prayer of thanks to God for this great American.

The Blossom Parade Picks Up the Pace

The fruit blossom parade marching up the valleys to the music of bird songs, and soft wind harp chords through the new leaves of the trees, and the lulling melody of the singing river—is now in full swing.

Down in the vale of San Patricio the apple blossoms have joined the apricot, peach, plum, cherry and pear.

Farther down in the Hondo Valley the young apricots and peaches, and cherries are growing rapidly.

Here outside the sunroom window, the tiny apricots are swinging on their branches in the light breeze. The first bloom has appeared on the early pear tree, and the fruit buds on the apple trees are ready to open.

All the fruit has survived, all down the way, and the apple blossoms are very heavy this year. Everything is in place for a wonderful fruit crop this year, after a near failure last year, all through the mountain land.

Down by the riverside a seedling peach tree has burst into full pink bloom among the walnut and oak trees.

Let us thank God for one of the best Spring seasons in many a year—and all our other many blessings.

Obituary

Dovie E. Murry

Memorial services for Dovie E. Murry, 81, of Ruidoso will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Ruidoso Baptist Church, 126 Church Drive in Ruidoso. The Reverend Wayne Joyce will officiate.

Murry died Sunday at Lincoln County Medical Center. She was born on December 8, 1910, in Cisco, Texas, to Robert B. and Mary E. Pounds, who have preceded her in death. She was also preceded by her husband Floyd P. Murry on February 25, 1978, in Ruidoso.

She moved to Ruidoso in 1956 from Denver City, Texas, and had worked as an LVN and was co-owner with her husband of the Hollywood Cleaners in 1965 and 1966. Her family will always remember her as a mother, housewife and, most of all, for her sense of humor.

She is survived by a son, Wayne Murry of Ruidoso Downs; a daughter, Jo Murry of Ruidoso; one sister, Erma Burton of Big Lake, Texas; two grandsons; two granddaughters and one great-grandson.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Children, 2222 Welborn, Dallas, Texas 75219.

Arrangements are with LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

SMART CARS CUT AIR POLLUTION IF SMART OWNERS MAINTAIN THEM

Part I

The environment soon may surpass our economic worries as an issue of concern to Americans. Increased fears about the quality of our air and water are heightened by recent reports of "holes" in the ozone layer.

Nearly two-thirds of the total carbon monoxide, more than a quarter of the hydrocarbons and a third of the nitrogen oxides which pollute our atmosphere come from motor vehicles. These percentages decrease dramatically as the vehicle pollution, with enhanced emission control systems, gets younger (a 1972-1976 model car produces as much pollution as four new cars). Another factor: as we improve the overall maintenance of existing vehicles we significantly reduce harmful exhaust.

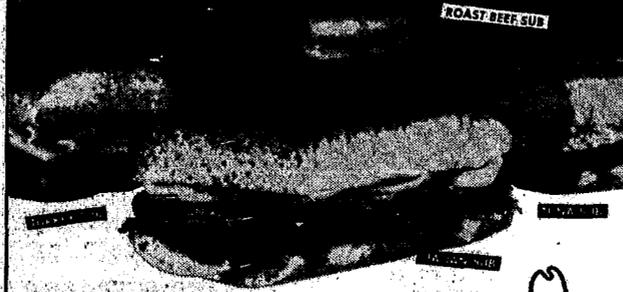

Preliminary results from last October's vehicle check program, during National Car Care Month, disclosed a higher percentage of vehicles failing the exhaust emissions test (20.3%) than the previous year (17%).

Periodic engine checkups, along with necessary maintenance, can make a big difference in exhaust emissions. Even the simple replacement of a dirty air filter, one of the most offending components, can reduce emissions and save gas.

Police alarmed over some private security systems

by BUDDY BAKER

Special to The Ruidoso News
Faced with a proliferation of security alarm system companies coming into Ruidoso, Ruidoso Police Chief Richard Swenor is proposing that the existing village ordinance on burglar and emergency alarms be revised.

Swenor says his small police force already is spending a lot of wasted time answering false alarms. He predicts the problem will get worse.

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane agrees. He asked the Lincoln County Commission on Tuesday to adopt an ordinance governing alarm systems.

At issue is alarm companies that install systems in a residence or business, monitor those alarms from an out-of-town location and then call the police when that alarm is triggered.

What might sound great in theory, leading responding officers quickly to the scene of a burglary, a fire or household disaster, such as broken pipes or flooding.

The more common scenario is that officers find a property that appears secure. Without legal access, the officer is unable to make sure that the incident is a true false alarm or whether a problem really exists.

Security systems installed by homeowners also cause concern among the law enforcement community. In some towns, licensing is required for these private systems.

In Ruidoso, when officers respond to an alarm, there is only a 25 percent chance that the property is occupied and even then the occupant is very likely to be away from home.

That's why some law enforcement officers want the monitoring alarm company to maintain their own armed security patrol officers who have a key to the property. These officers make an inspection of the property before asking for police intervention.

According to Chief Swenor, the police department simply does not have the personnel to respond adequately to all of the alarms, false and otherwise. When they do respond they are often unable to ensure the security of the property without a responsible party available.

Sheriff McSwane said much to same thing when he spoke Tuesday before the County Commission.

In many cases the false alarms are a result of authorized persons on the property operating the system improperly or weather changes causing the alarm.

Swenor says the independently installed, non-locally monitored systems, and non-accountable type alarm systems have to be controlled to avoid response burdens and liability for the police.

The police chief says he has no problem with the companies that are currently operating in Ruidoso.

Two of these firms, Mountain Alarm Systems and Skyland Security Systems and Service, operate a 24-hour monitoring system and a patrol.

These companies respond with licensed armed personnel who have keys and are familiar with the property and the alarm system, having installed the system themselves.

Another local company, A.R.M., responds by calling the police and a responsible party to meet the officer at the scene.

Chief Swenor, in a memo to village attorney Dave Thomssen, states that all of the local alarm companies are providing adequate services to their customers and are not burdening the police department with unnecessary false alarm calls.

He is concerned about irresponsible companies coming into the area and "making a fast buck off of the public's crime paranoia and using the public's police resources unnecessarily."

He also voices concern with the police department being asked to infringe on a sector of private business.

Another concern is the liability of the police department. If officers fail to respond to the call and property is lost or damaged the department may be held liable.

On the other hand, if they respond and are unable to legally gain entry into the property, and damage results, they still may be held liable.

While the village currently has an alarm ordinance, changes are being sought that will require registration of the alarm system, require listing of local people who are familiar with and have access to the property, and set penalties for an inordinate number of false alarms.

The proposed change will also make it illegal to install a device that dials the police department directly, to cause or relay a false alarm, or permit installation of an alarm that sounds for more than 15 minutes duration.

By state law the police department must monitor alarm systems set up in financial institutions of the village. This is currently being done and will continue, according to Swenor.

Spring bulbs for sale

Inez Tanner, (left) president of Lincoln County Medical Center Auxiliary, and member Freida Brown show off spring planting bulbs being sold in the hospital pink shop. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the center. Bags of bulbs containing from five to 25 bulbs sell for $5.80 to $10, depending on the type. Varieties offered include dahlias, gladiolus, delphinium and clematis.

Howell running for probate judge

A long-time Ruidoso educator has announced that he's a candidate in the Republican primary for the office of probate judge.

Doyle Howell, retired after serving in the Ruidoso schools as a teacher, head football coach, athletic director and assistant principal, is making his first run for elected office.

"While I was in the schools, I didn't have time to serve," said Howell, who now has the time and wants to serve the people of this county.

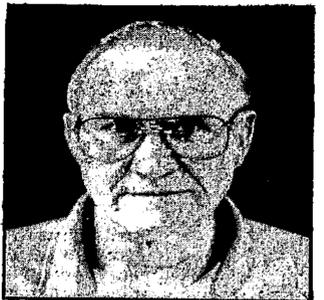

"I was asked by friends; I talked to the county clerk; and I read a book on the subject," said Howell.

"I know I can do it," he added. "I'm qualified and I think I can handle the job. If I can be helpful, that's what I want to do."

Howell is married to Rachel Howell and the couple has a son who is a graduate of Ruidoso High School.

Howell, who lives in the Agua Fria area near Ruidoso Downs, is active in the Ruidoso Evening Lions Club and in the Masonic Lodge.

Howell was among four people who filed Tuesday for the probate judge's job, which entails meeting with the executor of wills and making sure all bills are paid.
