Chino OKs meeting to discuss N-waste storage

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Mescalero Apache President Wendell Chino, appearing before the Tribal Council Wednesday, said he had no objections to an open meeting that would allow non-tribal members to discuss the tribe's study of a high-level nuclear waste storage center.

Francine Magoosh, a tribal member who helped circulate petitions against the project, said she was extremely happy that the tribe's constitution was allowed to work.

The meeting, open to the public, will feature speakers from other tribes throughout the country, and is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., Wednesday, August 12, at the Mescalero Community Center.

Magoosh and another tribal opponent to the waste storage project, Rufina Laws, appeared before the eight members of the Tribal Council Wednesday, to argue their case for an open meeting with non-tribal members and the public.

Magoosh said she and Laws presented a letter to the Tribal Council expressing their concerns.

"You, the Tribal Council, have presented your side by calling a meeting for your employees. Now it's our turn to present our side. If you, the Tribal Council, had your opportunity to call a meeting, now it's only fair that you allow us to conduct this meeting."

"We only had informational meetings, as I recall, for several days," said Chino. Those informational meetings were open to all tribal members, both employees of the federal government and employees of the tribe."

Chino said there is a greater obligation to all members of the tribe, not just employees of the tribe.

Chino said that Magoosh and Laws came to see him twice.

"The first time, they requested a general tribal meeting on August 12," Chino said. "My information to the two ladies, was that I had to consult with the Tribal Council. If it was to be a tribal meeting, the council would have to have their say about it as well as the date to make certain of 100 percent attendance by the council. I told them I would relay their message to the council."

"The next morning, they came with a written statement requesting that a meeting be held. They mentioned they would have 10 speakers and provide each speaker with 15 minutes for a two and one half hour presentation.

"I told them they could hardly agree that that was a tribal meeting. Our concept over the years of a tribal meeting, is that the meetings are restricted, limited to members of the tribe to have their own exchange. If you're going to bring non-Mescalero people, I don't think the council will be receptive to that. I told them that was just my opinion. I'm just one of the ten."

"Whenever we have meetings of the tribe, we do not allow the press. As far as I'm concerned this is nationwide. Because Indian tribes say what we talk about, what we say on our own land, within our own community, is not the business of the outside press. It is our business. That's the position Indian leaders take.

"Yesterday, the tribal meeting switched to a public meeting. That's fine with me. I'm not going to stand in the way of the tribal constitution guarantees regarding freedom of speech or the right to assembly."

During council proceedings, Magoosh said a long discussion followed.

"We told them we were going by the tribal constitution, Article 5 of the Bill of Rights," Magoosh said. "That we have freedom of speech and freedom of assembly. We should have the right to hold the meeting and to invite people outside the reservation. They have information and our people need to hear that."

Chino said a request was made to feed the people at the public meeting.

"In the course of yesterday's meeting, the two ladies explained they wanted to control the meeting," Chino said. "The Tribal Council's response was if you want to control it, it's your meeting, we do not believe we have any obligation to feed the people."

"When we call the meeting of the Tribal Council, we have that sense of obligation to provide a meal, either a lunch or supper as the case may be.

The council believes the meeting demanded was premature from the standpoint that we are still trying to complete the study. The Tribal Council also said the council has no intention of ignoring the members of the tribe at the proper time. When the study is completed, the Tribal Council will provide a referendum. In the meantime, the Tribal Council is not supporting the project in terms of the storage. The Tribal Council is not for it and the council is not against it. We want to study it. Once we have the study, if we complete it, then we know how to take a position. Until that time, we cannot.

"In the meantime, the council says all due process will be given to the tribe at the proper time."

Chino said, unlike a tribal meeting, if some of the council does not attend the public meeting, it would not be a reflection on those members.

"If the council calls a meeting of tribal members, then they have to be there," Chino said. "Just like your village council. If they call a public meeting, they better be there."

Laws said she believes 90 percent of the tribe opposes the site, but that many don't speak out or sign petitions for fear they or relatives would lose their jobs.

Laws said she was very grateful to the several hundred tribal members who signed the petition.

"Our topic of interest was on the minds of many people," she said. "If they hadn't helped us with their signatures, we wouldn't have reached this far. I also want to thank Mr. Chino for allowing us to have the meeting in a way that will present all sides of this very critical issue."

She also expressed gratitude to the Mescalero Tribal Council.

"We're looking forward to a good meeting and a lot of positive discussion. It does appear like a tug of war between two opposing views within the tribe. This divisiveness is something I never wanted," said Laws.

"This process has now appeared before the Indian tribes across the United States. There's something like 19 different tribes, including our own, that are involved in this whole application process.

"I find it frightening, using reservations as the dumping ground. That's the larger picture that I've been focusing on.

"It's not a battle between our Mescalero tribe, but a concern for the entire Indian nation being a dumping ground for nuclear waste. That is the issue of our focus. All Indians need to be aware of that possibility that could be a reality in the future ... maybe just a few years."

"The press quoted Ms. Magoosh as saying the tribal voting population was a secret," Chino said. "I told them yesterday it was not a secret. All they had to do was make an inquiry at the tribal office and that information can be divulged to them."

"Also, since this is a public meeting, they're going to have to have about 1,600 tribal members to support their claim that 95 percent of the tribe is against it (MRS).

"I told them I would give my employees an opportunity to attend, but they will have to take leave to attend. On the other hand, if the Tribal Council calls an official meeting, yes, we give administrative leave so people can attend. That's the difference."

Streets fall into disrepair, council asks why

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Repair of village streets should be local government's top priority, according to several Ruidoso councilors.

Councilors J.D. James and Jerry Shaw waded through a veil of smoke Tuesday to prevent valuable street department time from being diverted to capital improvements at Sierra Blanca Airport.

"They may or may not have succeeded."

During the Ruidoso village council meeting Tuesday, airport manager Lloyd Wayne was explaining a capital improvement program to be paid for in part by state grant money.

Looking to cut the best financial deal for his airport improvements, Wayne waded through a federal assistance application. When explaining that the village's share in the cost would be $55,000, Wayne said that could be "in kind" services.

Wayne said with the street department doing some of the leveling and excavation, it would take care of the "in kind" portion.

"You said in kind?" James asked.

Wayne said, yes.

Is this similar to our common area out at the civic center?" James asked.

Wayne didn't answer, but nodded affirmatively.

Councilor Shaw said she did not want to do in kind services with the village street department at this time. She said the street department has been tied up for a long period on the common area of the civic center and she preferred Wayne seek an alternate method.

"Our village streets need to be worked on," Shaw said.

Wayne appeared to modify the request, saying only the hot mix plant and one street department person would be used.

For the taxi-lanes and aprons, rather than having a contractor bringing their hot mix plant, we could use the plant we have and it would only take one employee, Wayne said. He said the majority of cost could be covered that way.

James asked about the employees who would haul the material to the site.

Wayne said that would be the responsibility of the contractors.

James said he wanted to make sure the streets in Ruidoso received attention that has been missing lately.

I understand that, J.D., Wayne said. And when I talked to Charlie Armstrong (street department head), we talked about one individual in the hot mix plant. If we talked about doing this excavation and some embankment work, it would be during the winter when they couldn't work downtown with the heavy equipment. This is what we're programming.

That seemed to mean that during good, but cold weather, the street department would be out at the airport.

Village manager Ron Wicker interrupted to say that the asphalt plant only requires one individual.

"I was concerned that we would be using up our people, street department on another project, and not addressing the day to day needs that we have," Wicker said. He Armstrong indicated that the plant operator would be the only one required. Our in kind contribution would be just the processing of the asphalt.

James pasted in a party.

In other words, we're not tying up a department with in kind work, James said.

"I would not recommend that," Wicker said.

Councilor R. Andrews asked what part of the $55,000 will be real dollars.

Wayne said there would be none.

"I got $39,000 in grant money," said Wayne. Wayne said it would be used after "in kind" was determined.

The entire proposed airport project includes: construct a bituminous porous friction course on runway 6-24; construct hangar area taxi-lanes and aprons; installation of taxiway location and directional signs; and procurement of a power sweeper.

The council approved a resolution encouraging participation in the state's airport capital improvement plan funding and a motion to seek a federal grant.

Wicker said the next three projects for the street department would be to level the site for the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association, to finish the popular jogging trail around the public golf course and to do drainage work along White Mountain Drive.

Wicker said the street department currently is patching streets.

"We are not doing the sectioning of patching like is customary when you want a patch to stay a long time," Wicker said. "We just haven't had the time to do that."

Mescaleros ask for additional $300,000

The Mescalero Apache tribe has asked the federal government to change its guidelines and give the tribe an extra $300,000 needed to educate tribal members and the public.

But Sen. Pete Domenici, Ruidoso-NM, said he has told the Department of Energy that no new tax money would be spent because he considers it a "waste of money" because no such storage site will ever be built in New Mexico.

Sen. Jeff Bingaman, D-N.M., announced he and Domenici are sponsoring a bill that would require the government to document that a potential storage site has a chance of being built before money can be spent on it.

Federal officials have said if the tribe wants up to $2.8 million more, it first must indicate a willingness to examine particular sites.

Domenici has said he told the DOE and Mescalero president Wendell Chino that he, along with Governor Bruce King and other lawmakers, remains strongly against a tribal waste-storage site.

"I'm not trying to deny them the opportunity to be informed," Domenici said, "but I consider it a waste of money because this is never going to happen. As soon as I can, I will tell the DOE I am in no way in favor of proceeding any further."

His sentiments were echoed by King spokesman John McKean, who said the governor "does not see any constructive purpose by the further study of this."

Tribal Council secretary Frederick Peco said in two recent letters to U.S. nuclear waste negotiator David Lamy, that the $300,000 was not enough.

"Everyone's initial guesses about timetables and funding levels were off the mark and your own staff has agreed that there is much more involved than first anticipated," Peco said in a July 13 letter to Lamy.

Hungry bear stops in Alto for a snack

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

An evening vandal on the lookout for free food has been prowling the Alto subdivision.

He's broken through a couple of screen doors but all and all turned out to be a very neat guest before running for the woods.

It's that time of the year again and it's normal to receive calls on bear sightings, said Ron Moore, game warden with the New Mexico Game and Fish Department.

Some may be mature adults accustomed to free food, but the majority are young ones just kicked out by their mothers and trying to establish their own territories.

The adult black bear that recently broke into a couple of houses in Alto and sniffed around several others was first spotted weeks ago going through the trash at a softball park nearby, Moore said.

Since hitting four homes in one

"I wouldn't panic or be fearful, but I'd show it respect. Look on a bear as if he was the town bully. If he's on one side of the street, move to the other."

night about a week ago, with Moore hot on his trail, the bear hasn't intruded again.

"There's lots of natural food sources this year and last year," Moore said. "That's helped to reduce the bear calls, but the homeowners actually are helping to attract the bears by putting out food to take photographs, or having bird feeders, loose seeds, snacks for raccoons, or dog and cat food outside."

"It's the free meals that are attracting them in Upper Canyon and Alto."

got inside one. I saw the tracks, but was always just behind him."

Each time an owner has come across the meandering bear inside a home, the animal has turned tail and run leaving no damage behind except the screen, Moore said.

"That's not aggression to me," he said. "I wouldn't panic or be fearful (encountering a bear), but I'd show it respect. Look on a bear as if he was the town bully. If he's on one side of the street, move to the other. Don't ever corner any wildlife. Give them their space."

The best way to discourage unexpected visits is to clean up all food sources so the other critters and bears won't hang around, Moore said.

Some people bark at bears to encourage their departure, Moore said. "But that's a bluff. If he wanted you, he could get you."

State offers small towns some help with capital improvements

by KRISTIE SULZBACH
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Small villages like Ruidoso Downs may be able to take advantage of a new program to get funds from the legislature for capital improvements.

Tony Elias of the Southeastern Economic Development District spent Monday afternoon explaining the program to Downs Mayor Joe Hayhurst and village clerk Leann Weibrecht before making a presentation to the full council Monday night.

The capital improvements program (CIP) was mandated by the legislature last session, and it has become the biggest, most monumental project the local government division of the Department of Finance and Administration has taken on, Elias said.

The program has several objectives. Elias said it helps the communities establish capital improvement priorities, depending on what the particular village feels is important. The program also helps identify costs of such projects and sources of revenues, he said.

In the past a lot of the funds for projects were received through the legislative process, Elias said. He said in the past after the state finished building its budget the funds left over went into capital outlay to be distributed to communities who wanted to do projects. Where the money went depended on the legislators and if something might have been a pet project of a legislator, Elias said.

"Sometimes the local communities know about the money and sometimes they don't. The new program gets away from that as much as possible," he said.

To get the funds a village must prepare a priority list and submit it to DFA. Villages larger than 10,000 people must create a five-year plan, while those smaller than 10,000 have to make a three-year plan to be added on to each year. The deadline to have these submitted is October.

"If you have a priority list you can get the legislature on your side. They will go after the projects you need," Elias said.

He and his staff will help each village in the southeastern district, which includes Lincoln, Otero, Chaves, Eddy and Lea Counties, fill out the forms correctly. The area is 20 percent of the state in population and size so it is a big task for them, Elias said.

With the program a Mortgage Finance Authority was also created for the communities, county governments and special districts to borrow money from. These groups could also try to get funds through community development block grant (CDBG), but the demand for these funds have always been more than what is available, he said. Elias said studies have been done on what capital outlay projects would need to be done to improve the state as a whole and the cost to do it in 1985 would have been $4-$5 billion so that cost has probably doubled by now, he said.

"You (the board) understand the need for infrastructure improvement. This is a way to get it done," Elias said.

Preparing the forms properly may also give the communities more credit on other applications for grants, such as the CDBG, he said. How the process exactly works will depend on what the council, mayor and residents decide on as priorities, Elias said. No one knows if this will work, he said, but his staff will be at the beck and call of the village to help in any way possible.

Elias said in the last few weeks of talking to different communities, he has seen more cooperation and less fear from the smaller communities and more fear from the larger ones, such as Carlsbad and Hobbs. He said it is not really resistance, but more dread of the forms that need to be filled out. The Downs mayor and clerk have been working hard on this to help themselves and this community, Elias said.

Trustees had no questions for Elias. Hayhurst said the number one priority for Ruidoso Downs in the first three-year plan will be to get a new village hall built on the same site as the old one on Highway 70. Although it has been the plan to get a new village hall since Hayhurst took his position as mayor in March, the board had not discussed any funding possibilities yet. Weibrecht showed the group a sketch drawn by Teri Sodd of what they would like the new building to look like.

Weibrecht said the leased modular building was suppose to be here Monday but the company has fallen behind in production so they have set a new date of August 5 for when it should be delivered. This temporary building will be installed beside the senior citizen's center. The board had decided to lease a building for now so they could get out from under high utility costs at the current location. Because of recent heavy rains the current building has also been leaking water down on workers and equipment.

In other business, the board approved two requests from the police department. The first request was to purchase a 1992 4X4 Chevy Blazer with state Law Enforcement Funds for this fiscal year. The cost of the vehicle will be $16,500 and they will be getting it from Sierra Blanca Motors. The department wanted to get approval to get the vehicle now because the government contract has been awarded to Ford for the coming year and they would like to keep all of the vehicles Chevrolets. Village attorney Bob Beauvais pointed out that although Ford has the contract, the village would not have had to go with that company to purchase a vehicle.

The new vehicle will replace one that has more than 90,000 miles and is one of the last older vehicles in the department.

The department also received approval to purchase four Kustom Signs Trooper Radar Units to go into each of the police vehicles. The price per unit is $980 for a total of $3,920 which will come from money left over from last year's law enforcement fund. With one radar per car it will reduce the abuse the units now get from being taken from one vehicle to the other.

The state gives the village the law fund based on a flat rate of $17,000 plus $300 per each certified officer which equals $18,800 for this year.

The board also approved the purchase of uniforms for village employees from Roswell Livestock. When the trustees approved this fiscal year's budget they allowed $200 per employee for pants and shirts and as each employee purchases these clothing at the store it will be deducted from that account.

Three businesses submitted prices for the items and Roswell Livestock had the lowest price and also had everything in price. Weibrecht said they would have liked to go locally with Wal-Mart but they didn't have the clothes in stock, and the last time the village ordered items from the store it took a long time for it to come in.

In business not on the agenda, local real estate agent Doug Siddens came before the board representing Windsor Laceywell who owns the building and property next to the old village hall site on Highway 70. The building was condemned by the previous village board in February. Although there have been discussions between Beauvais and Laceywell's attorney nothing has been done because Laceywell had not been able to appear before the board.

Siddens said that Laceywell wanted the board to know that there is a piece of property on the east side going from one inch to 12 inches front to back that someone else owns. The strip was bought in a tax sale by someone who now lives in Texas. He said Laceywell wants to work with the village in whatever way possible in case they would like to use it as a parking lot.

If any part of the building is on the other person's property, that person would need to be contacted before anything is done to have it torn down. Beauvais said he wouldn't be able to tell if it was on the property until he saw a survey of it. After determining this, Laceywell has three options on getting rid of the building. The first option is to tear it down himself, or he can have the village contract it out and then pay for it. The village can also do it with its own workers and then charge him a market price for the work.

Technically the village has given Laceywell the required notice, but Beauvais said the appropriate thing to do is to schedule Laceywell to come before the board. Siddens said Laceywell should be back in town within the next day or two, and it could be arranged at that time. Beauvais will also get the address of the other person involved. The board is planning to ask Laceywell to the August 10 meeting. The property had been inspected by a state Construction Industries Division agent and it did meet the requirements for condemnation.

Also, in other business, Ruidoso Downs resident Johnny Salas said he thinks he is being harassed by the village animal control officer because he is required to move his corral fence back five feet from the property line. Beauvais said in one section of a village ordinance property owners are required to move the fence back if they have a shelter in the fenced area.

Because the officer is a neighbor of Salas' the case has been turned over to a police officer to avoid any potential conflicts, Beauvais said. Salas was also concerned he was singled out by being asked to show receipts for insecticides. Beauvais said a different ordinance requires residents with horses to spray weekly for flies from April to October, and the officer must have reasonable documentation that it has been done. Without checking on every property, every week this is the only way they have of knowing, he said.

Beauvais said everyone in the village must be in compliance with these rules, but those who are breaking them cannot always be caught by the officer. Some are identified by neighbors, while other police officers may see other problems. He said Salas' property was one that was brought up as a problem by a group of concerned citizens that met with him and other village officials.

All trustees agreed it was not the intention of the village to single anyone out. Since Tom Armstrong has taken on the role of code enforcement officer along with animal control the first of July four letters have been sent out to people concerning this issue.

Signs going up in the county

New street signs, some with new names, will be going up around Lincoln County in August.

County manager Andy Wynham said the signs are part of a multi-year effort to establish an E-911 emergency response system in the county.

An important aspect in implementing the E-911 system is to create a rural addressing program where all road names and numbers are identified or assigned. Eventually, a house number will be assigned to every residence or residential driveway.

"To be truly functional, however, road signs must be installed," Wynham said. "This is of primary importance to individuals involved in emergency response and is the number one reason for placement of the signs."

Workers with the county road department are preparing to install the signs on all county-maintained roads.

Citizen input relative to sign placement is encouraged, Wynham said. Questions or comments should be directed to Wynham by calling 648-2385 or stopping at the commission office in Carrizozo.

World Wide Systems hosts Business after Hours today

The monthly Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce business after hours will be at 5:30 p.m. today at World Wide Systems.

World Wide Systems has recently opened, and Mike DiNapoli is the owner. The business is located at the corner of Sudderth and Mechem Drive beside Video U.S.A. The business, World Wide, is a collection agency to help businesses with accounts receivable that are delinquent.

BLM asking for nominations for district advisory council

The state director for the Bureau of Land Management is taking nominations for membership on the Roswell District Advisory Council. State Director Larry Woodard wants public input in filling position in three specific interest categories for approximately one-third of the membership of each council. The categories are recreation, transportation/rights-of way and wildlife.

Nominations should include the name and address, telephone, biographical sketch and category of interest in which the nominee is best qualified to offer advice. Terms are for three years and current members may be nominated for reappointment, but their eligibility may be affected by rules established by the Department of the Interior.

The deadline for nominations is July 31 and should be sent to Roswell District Manager Leslie Cone, P.O. Box 1397, Roswell, NM 88201.

One man injured in rollover

State Police responded Wednesday night to a one-car rollover on Angus Hill. One man, Larry Bailey, was injured in the accident. He was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center where he is in stable condition.

Details of the accident were not available at press time.

Streets

"We are going to try to get caught up (with street repairs). We've had a lot of calls and complaints on conditions of roads throughout the community.

"I apologize, but we can only do so much with the crews that we have available," said Wicker. "But we will make a real effort to catch up as quickly as we can."

Councilor James made a request that the next state cooperative project money for road repair be used to assist residents on Perk Canyon Drive. He said a 6-year-old petition requesting repair has not been fulfilled. James said he wanted to see a more equitable distribution of road repair.

TOWN AND COUNTRY

Last October, the residents of Town and Country North Subdivision requested that the village council determine approximate costs for improving streets and providing sanitary sewers.

The residents expressed concerns over the growing number of failing septic tanks and stated a willingness to be included as part of an assessment district to pay for these improvements.

The engineering firm of Andrews, Asbury and Rober, Inc., of Albuquerque was authorized to research and review existing records, to determine the location of existing facilities and to prepare a conceptual system to improve the sanitary sewers, water lines and street pavement.

Ted Asbury gave a presentation before the council. The total cost of the estimated project was about $2-million.

A sewer system was estimated at $1.2 million. Water system including transfers accounted for about $250,000 and complete road paving added another $500,000.

Administrative costs for the special assessment district included a number of items including attorney fees, design fees, soil testing, gross receipts tax on fees, interest, maps and descriptions.

Those costs were 25 percent of the project construction costs or about $500,000.

During the workshop prior to the regular meeting, Wicker cautioned the councilors about several problems with assessment districts.

Wicker said as an example, if a lot cost $7,000 and has access problems that reduce the value, an independent appraiser may show the lot is worth less than what is proposed.

"If owners prove there is only a $2,000 increase in their property and it cost $13,000 to make the improvements, the village picks up the $11,000 difference," he said.

Councilor Andrews said he was concerned about putting $13,000 improvements on a $7,000 lot from another perspective.

"The tax revenue generated will never pay that $13,000 back to the village," Andrews said. "Even if they build a $70,000 house on it. Tax is suppose to regenerate back the services it provided to the lot."

The council requested the village staff to further review the proposal for recommendations.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Chamber director Joan Bailey gave an in-depth advertising report which included a request for approval of $76,740 in lodgers tax advertising money.

Bailey outlined a program delivering reach and frequency in New Mexico Magazine and Texas Monthly.

Other major media pieces will include a full page with color in Ski New Mexico, a full page with three private co-op pages in New Mexico Vacation Guide and 1/6 of a page, black and white, co-oped with Lincoln County in Trailer Life Directory.

Bailey said Trailer Life Directory was a new buy and one she was confident would produce good results for the area.

Other areas of advertising include trade shows, media kits, a slide library and a fall advertising schedule.

The council approved the chamber request.

Following Bailey's presentation, lodgers tax chairman Jay Francis reported tax collections were up by $55,000. He asked the council to roll the collection money into the lodgers tax budget.

The council approved the request.

MRS

Dr. Bob Walters who heads the Monitored Retrieval Storage Advisory Committee reported speaking before the rural conservation and development group in Mayhill and the economic development council of Otero county.

Walters reported a petition circulated on the Mescalero reservation to request a general meeting of the tribal membership on August 12 to discuss the MRS for spent nuclear fuel rods and a resolution opposing the MRS.

Walters said it was reported in the Albuquerque Journal, El Paso Times and the Alamogordo Daily News and in the Roswell Daily Record.

Walters said Chino had agreed to have a general meeting.

Walters said officials with the Department of Energy (DOE) said they would not announce when the $2.8-million phase two would be awarded. He said he was told by two members of the DOE that the tribe would have to announce the next phase.

Walters said attorney general Tom Udall and his assistant who is monitoring MRS activity could not make the next two regular council meetings.

The council scheduled a public meeting with the attorney general for 2 p.m., Monday, August 17, at village hall.

REMARKS BY SHAW

Councilor Jerry Shaw reported on a New Mexico Municipal League meeting she attended that centered around a hospitality tax proposal.

She said there was a movement to raise lodgers tax to five percent to provide more advertising money.

She said the number one question to her was when will the convention center be finished.

Shaw said quotes by persons in a Ruidoso News article bothered her.

She said one of the remarks indicated Grindstone was opened in part for recreation several years ago by the village.

"I don't remember any agreement for recreation," Shaw said. "I sat on the council during some very heated public hearings about building Grindstone Lake, but it is number one, a water supply."

"I'm not saying I'm against the movement," she said. Shaw made the motion to pursue recreational possibilities of the lake.

"I just don't want for people to get the impression that we built that $11.5 million dam for a recreational facility, because we didn't."

Shaw said that a board member's comparison of Bonito Lake to Grindstone Lake and the thought that it would be "more important than a water source" also bothered her.

"I have to comment on that, because I think it's very important as a water source," Shaw said.

GARBAGE SERVICE

Councilor Andrews met with the county's solid waste department to discuss current service and ways for improvement.

Andrews requested that any residents having problems with service or a dumpster should identify specifically the location of the problem area. He said a very straight route is being implemented.

Andrews said if the waste department manager can determine the location of the problem dumpster, it would enhance the rapid improvement of that route.

OTHER BUSINESS

In quick fashion, the council discussed:

—The humane society income-expense summary.

—An opinion by the village attorney on a release of annexation to be discussed at the August 11 council meeting.

—A resolution regarding local option on distress sales. The resolution requests the legislature permit municipalities to determine locally whether or not to adopt and enforce the provisions of the Distress Sale Act. The resolution passed unanimously.

—Abandonment of a little used roadway near the old Wingfield area water tank. The council, on advice of the village attorney and manager, voted to abandon the road.

—A request from Jim Stover of the Ruidoso Emergency Medical Services for a new Suburban. Council approved the purchase.

—An award of bid for audiovisual system for the civic events center. The two bidding firms were: On Track, a local firm and Video Presentation Systems of Albuquerque.

Staff advised council that both firms' bids balanced each other; therefore, the local firm should get the contract. Council approved On Track.

—A request by the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association to extend their lease of a village-owned building on Sudderth Drive by four months. Council approved the lease extension until January 1, 1993.

—A car rental concession agreement with Sierra Blanca Automotive Leasing was approved as a consent item. The new lease agreement provides an automatic renewal unless either party gives 60 days notice.

Good Samaritans could doom lost wild animal babies to a sure death

by YVONNE LANELLI
Special to The News

It happens every summer. A well-meaning person carries a baby wild creature to New Mexico Game and Fish. I found it in the woods after its mother abandoned it, the person explains.

"That person doesn't realize it, but he just signed that wild baby's death warrant," Ron Moore, District Wildlife Officer for the New Mexico Game and Fish, says sadly.

With many people hiking, fishing or hunting in the forest this summer, it's important for all of us to know how to react when meeting a wild creature.

Baby, You're Not Alone
When a mother deer goes foraging, she leaves her fawn alone. "This is not abandonment," stresses Moore. "When she finishes feeding, she'll return to her baby and feed it. Meanwhile, the baby will remain motionless in that one spot. Generally people will walk past it and not notice it, which is what Mother Nature intended."

Trouble begins when the human spots the fawn, sees no doe, assumes the worst, picks up the baby and delivers it to Game and Fish.

"People think we can feed the fawn then release it to the wild or give it to a zoo. But they're wrong. We can't substitute for its mother's milk, so the animal doesn't thrive. We can't teach it the ways of the wild so we can't release it." Zoos don't generally take wild animals, either; they prefer breeding programs.

So what becomes of the fawn? "Ninety percent of fawns brought too us die, even under vet care," Moore reports sadly. "The stress level does them in."

What should the well-meaning human do if he finds a fawn, baby raccoon or other wild young one?

"Leave it alone. Don't touch it or scare it. As soon as you leave, Mother will take care of it."

"That person doesn't realize it, but he just signed that wild baby's death warrant."

Reminder: No matter how well-intentioned, picking up a wild animal constitutes illegal possession. That is a crime punishable by a heavy fine.

What a Cute Bear?
A heavy-bodied animal weighing nearly a half a ton and armed with huge teeth and sharp claws should be considered dangerous. But when that creature is a bear rattling garbage cans, many people consider it cute. They encourage it to come close enough to photograph or even to take food from their hands. This is deadly.

"People don't realize that one swipe of a bear's paw can kill a human," points out Moore. Or that a bear can tear through a screen door.

Wild bears are neither cuddly teddy bears nor obedient house pets. They are hungry wild creatures who let nothing stand between them and food.

To minimize close encounters of the wild kind, clean up all trash around your house or cabin. Feed pets inside. Don't leave food scraps where bears, skunks, raccoons or other animals can scatter them.

Moore cautions against bird feeders, also. "Seed feeders attract skunks and raccoons as well as birds. And bears love sugar water as much as hummingbirds do."

Please Don't Feed the Animals

Many warm-hearted people put out food for wild animals, thinking they are supplementing the animals' diet and keeping them from starving.

All this does is upset the natural cycle, confirms Moore. "First, the animals get used to a reliable food source and don't seek out other means. When that human forgets or doesn't come up that summer, the animals suffer."

"Second, the animal loses its protective fear of man and dogs. A deer, for example, used to coming around a certain house for salt or cracked corn, will become an easy target for a hunter later on."

"Third, natural selection allows the right number of animals to live in an area. This is called carrying capacity. When the carrying capacity is exceeded, natural order becomes unbalanced and the entire species, including healthy members, is threatened."

"You don't have to feed wildlife," concludes Moore. "Even if your heart's in the right place, in the long run it's not healthy."

When Can I Help?
Although human intervention with wildlife is not generally encouraged, there is one situation where humans might help.

"Occasionally people find an injured raptor (hawk, falcon, owl or other bird of prey) who has been wounded and cannot fly or hunt on its own. If it is an adult bird, we can treat it in a raptor rehabilitation center and the bird stands a good chance of surviving."

"But," stresses Moore, "Only if it's an adult who's already learned how to survive in the wild. Humans are no substitute teacher for Mother Nature."

Ruidoso dump open to the public

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A space for dumping bulky household discards has been designated at the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority transfer station on Gavilan Canyon.

Although the authority operates a debris landfill at Capitan, members of that coalition are realistic enough to realize most people in the Ruidoso area aren't going to drive that far and then have to pay a fee.

Part of the goal of the group is to encourage legal dumping instead of having residents create potentially destructive impromptu sites along the highways, next to dumpsters and in remote areas.

Authority director Gene Green acknowledged that controlling the dumping of items such as refrigerators and couches at the transfer station "is going to be a tough one."

"We have an area just inside the gates of the station where people have been bringing items since the cleanup campaign two months ago," Green said. "We'll go on using that area for now."

"The idea is for people to bring utility bill to show they are residents, but initially, we don't have anyone who will be on hand to check each driver. As long as it is within a pickup load and an item used domestically, the material will be accepted."

Green said authority workers at the station will not accept materials from contractors, who must continue to use the Capitan landfill or a commercial hauler.

The transfer station is situated next to the County Humane Society animal shelter.

Authority members also recently voted to continue to use J. Robert Beauvais as attorney for the coalition of Lincoln County and its five municipalities.

Proposals for service were received from Beauvais and Don Dutton. Beauvais' offer was the lower of the two at $15,000 for 250 hours.

Economic development group targets California

Karen Kopp, director of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County, reported to the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday on a marketing campaign into southern California.

Kopp said 81 manufacturers expressed an interest in southeastern New Mexico.

She and five other representatives from southeastern New Mexico called on the interested companies, she said.

Kopp and J.J. Johnson of Roswell visited 11 businesses with a presentation. It was her impression that the businesses were urgently wanting to leave southern California because of the sour business climate.

The danger's not in this dog's bite. It's in what bites this dog.

Heartworm-infected mosquitoes in this area can threaten the lives of unprotected dogs. A mosquito that bites your dog could be carrying a disease-carrying parasite. One bite from a disease-carrying mosquito is all it takes for your dog to become infected. Treatment for heartworm disease can be dangerous for your dog and expensive for you. The longer this disease goes without detection, the harder it becomes to treat and the greater the risk of permanent damage to your dog's heart.

The good news is that your dog can be protected from heartworm disease. Just see your veterinarian for a heartworm test and find out how easy and convenient prevention can be. Heartworm disease can be a serious threat to your dog's health—so don't delay. Your best friend's life could depend on it. Call Your Veterinarian For A Heartworm Test Today.

HAMBURGER KING

Dear Ruidoso,

The town is full of vacationing visitors, and I love them. Not only are they good for business, but they are interesting to talk to and fun to be around. They also bring us a glimpse of the world outside of these mountains; for example, the latest fashions.

The one that fascinates me the most this year are those britches that some of the men are wearing that hit them about midway between their knees and ankles. When I was a kid, if your pants didn't come to your shoe tops, they are called "highwaters". I guess you could call these things "floodwaters". Most of them don't come down far enough to reach the top of western boots, but who am I to knock fashion?

A fellow came in the cafe the other day wearing a pair of them that were pink. Yeah, pink... and he didn't look like the kind of guy that normally wears pink britches, but there he was. I guess he noticed me staring, because as he passed the table I was sitting at, he said in a stage whisper, "My wife bought 'em for me!"

I put on my most understanding facial expression and nodded solemnly. ... and then I went and got busy in the back before both of us got in trouble. Like I said, I love our visitors. They are fun to be around.

Tennis tourney begins today

With more than 30 players lined up to compete, the first Ruidoso Tall Pines Tennis Tournament should be an exciting one to watch. Play will begin at 9 a.m. Friday at the village tennis courts and will continue through Saturday afternoon. The age of the competitors ranges from 10 to 70 years old so it will be a good display of talent. About 50 percent of the players are from the areas, while the rest are coming from Lubbock, El Paso, Alamogordo, Las Cruces, Roswell and Juarez, Mexico.

"This is going to be a great tournament. We had an excellent turn-out of players," said Dave Anderson, one of the directors of the tournament.

The courts will be reserved on Friday and Saturday because they plan to play some of the matches Friday evening. Make-up or weather-postponed games will be played in the evening.

Most of the championship games will be on Saturday with an awards ceremony at about 3 p.m. that day. Winners will receive ribbons and all participants will earn a T-shirt.

Eidson plays in all-star game

After a week of practice with new teammates and coaches, Ruidoso graduate Shane Eidson is ready to play in the 49th Annual North-South All-Star football game on Friday.

The game will start at 7:30 p.m. at the University of New Mexico Stadium. Advance tickets may be purchased for $5 at the UNM athletic ticket office or at the gate tickets will be $6. Eidson was selected to play tight end for the south all-star team.

Coaching the south team will be Tom Gruber and his staff from Carlsbad High School. The team consists of outstanding players from AAA and AAAA schools. The south leads the way in the series with 30 wins to 15 wins for the north and three ties. The south won last year 37-6.

The net proceeds for the game go to the New Mexico High School Coaches Association's Ledbetter-Stratton Memorial Scholarship Fund. The recipients of the scholarship must have a physical handicap, graduate from an accredited New Mexico high school and attend a college or university in the state of New Mexico. Currently four students are attending college on this program. Thirteen have earned their college degrees, to date, through this scholarship.

Get free physicals Thursday

The fall sports season is right around the corner and students need to plan to get their physical examinations soon.

Free physicals will be given at 7 p.m. August 6 at the Ruidoso High School Gym for both middle school and high school athletes. Students must have a physical to play in any sports.

Olympic gymnasts

Inside The Outdoors

Turtles claim the desert as home

Driving the roads of New Mexico after a summer rain shower, you are likely to see one of our slower critters. Often, rain showers stimulate activity in the ornate box turtle. These desert dwellers are found everywhere but the northwestern part of the state and are probably the turtle most often encountered by New Mexicans. They are however, only one of ten different turtle species found in the state.

The ornate box turtle is the only terrestrial or land turtle in the state, all others are associated with water. The box turtle is also unique in that it has a double hinge on the lower half that allows it to completely close its shell. This is probably a great defense against predators like coyotes, badgers and dogs. Box turtles burrow into the ground at night and are most active catching insects in the mornings and evenings.

Another very common turtle in New Mexico is the yellow mud turtle. These turtles prefer, as their name implies, stock tanks and small, muddy ponds that have abundant aquatic vegetation. They are found in the eastern part of the state at elevations of less than 5000 feet. Yellow mud turtles are small with adults reaching 5 to 6 feet. Its cousin, the Sonoran mud turtle is much the same size, but is found only in the southwestern part of the state.

By Ben Hanson
New Mexico
Game and Fish

Probably the most beautiful turtle in the state is the river cooter. It is also the rarest turtle and is listed as an endangered species in New Mexico. River cooters are found along the lower Pecos River drainage, including the Black and Delaware rivers. There are also historic records of river cooters at Bitter Lakes National Wildlife Refuge, but biologists have been unable to find any. These turtles are very shy, but are confirmed baskers and may be seen congregated on mud banks or overhanging vegetation.

Other turtles found in the state are the common snapping turtle, western painted turtle, red-eared slider, Big Bend slider and the spiny and smooth softshell turtles. Care should be taken around the snapping turtle and softshell. Snapping turtles have a vicious temper when caught on land and should be considered dangerous, especially since the can weigh as much as 50 pounds. Softshells are very carnivorous and sometimes are even caught by anglers. They should also be handled with care, they can deliver a nasty bite. The spiny softshell is common along most drainages in the southern part of the state, but the smooth softshell is rare and confined to Conchas Reservoir on the Canadian River.

Also confined to only one area of the state is the Big Bend slider. They have been found at Elephant Butte Lake and possibly are at Caballo Lake. The red-eared slider is found in the Pecos and Rio Grande drainages. Both these turtles can be identified by patches on the side of their head. The patch is red or scarlet (of course) on the red-eared slider and orange on the Big Bend slider.

The western painted turtle is found in the San Juan, Rio Grande and Pecos river drainages and prefer lakes and large rivers with muddy bottoms and slow moving water.

Biologists studying turtles have found something very disturbing. Lots of turtles are being shot along waterways in New Mexico. To some folks they seem to make interesting targets, but wouldn't it be more sensible to shoot cans or paper targets?

Maps help hikers select a route

by YVONNE LANELLI
Special to The News
Second in a Series

Where to hike?
Ask another hiker, say the experts.

So I asked Bob Palko, a 12-year Lincoln County hiking veteran, to help select the right path. As Trail Foreman for the US Forest Service (USFS), Palko has hiked nearly every one of the Lincoln National Forest's 225.6 miles of trails.

Between trail projects, Palko paused in his map-lined office and cheerfully suggested trails as well as maps and references guides for hikers of all abilities.

"Most people choose a trail in one of the two USFS Wilderness Areas, either the White Mountain or the Capitan."

White Mountain Wilderness is the larger of the two, at 48,143 acres. Its 37 inter-connected trails range in length from .6 miles to over 21 miles. Some trails lie near Ruidoso's altitude; others crest mountain ridges over 10,000 feet high.

Because White Mountain Wilderness is so close to Ruidoso, it is well utilized. Some of its more popular trails include Crest, the longest trail in the Area which goes from near Monjeau Peak to near Nogal Peak; Lookout, which commands an impressive 360 degree view from one of the Area's highest peaks; the many trails radiating from Bonito Lake; and the Three Rivers area west of Sierra Blanca Peak.

The Capitan Wilderness is more rugged. Located northwest of the Town of Capitan, its access roads prove more difficult to get in and out. Perhaps because of its relative remoteness, the Capitan Wilderness is less used yet is no less scenic, says Palko.

"Here's a sample of one of its unusual rock formation," he says, showing a photo of Chimney Rock. This unusual monolith dominates one of the Area's 11 trails. Several more scenery-filled snapshots prove Palko's point.

"Not all trails lie in Wilderness Areas," he continues. "You can hike the Patos, Carrizo, Vera Cruz and Jicarilla mountains also." These mountain ranges lie generally in the White Oaks area, or between Lincoln, Capitan and Ancho. Because these are not Wilderness Areas, some trails permit motorized travel.

Read a Rog

Still haven't decided? "Come into the Smokey Bear Ranger Station on Mechem and read a ROG." Prepared by Diana Person, these Recreational Opportunity Trail (ROGs), nicknamed "ROGs," tell everything about every trail. This includes maps, pictures of the trail itself, statistics such as length and rise in elevation, flora and fauna, as well as items of scenic or historical interest.

Both beginning experienced hikers appreciate the depth of information. Diana personally trekked each trail to accurately research her project.

Mind a Map

ROGs are for reference at the Ranger Station only; however the USFS stocks maps you can take home. One such is a small, free black and white map with general information. For actual hiking, however, purchase a Wilderness Map, a much larger color map showing all trails in detail, as well as all-important contours, vegetation and many other vital details. This map is plasticized and relatively water-resistant, folds easily into a pocket and costs only $4. "It's a good investment."

For contour maps of areas outside the Wilderness, consult a US Geological Survey topographical map. "Topos" can be found at local land surveying offices.

(We'll cover map reading and orientation in a future article.)

Know Before You Go

"Learn as much about the trail as possible before you go," advises Palko, "particularly the trail's length, where you end up and its elevation."

He stresses the last item. "Beginning hikers or someone who lives at low altitude shouldn't attempt 11,000 feet the first time. So read the ROGs and maps and select something within your range."

Suggested short trips with no dramatic altitude changes include #13 Cedar Creek, or #90 Fitness Trail. "These are close to town, too."

For longer hikes, try combining trails into a loop. "It's more interesting than back-tracking." Suggested loops: #36 Big Bonito to #37 Little Bonito to #38 Cut Across to #39 Argentina Canyon. Or #15 Scenic to #24 Crest to Ski Apache Resort, then down its Moonshine Gulch.

"If you have two cars or have someone to pick you up, try sections of a trail, such as 5 miles of Crest between the ski area and Monjeau. Or from Monjeau down Crest to #12 Telephone Canyon which ends at Eagle Creek. Or from Monjeau down Crest to #20 Rodamaker which ends near Bonito Lake."

With the right information, selecting your Happy Trail is easy; the possibilities, endless. So get a map and plan your hike!

Next Week: Put your best foot forward: the hiking boot.

Shoot!

While some players learn the fundamentals of basketball such as passing, another drives down the court to shoot a basket during a game day earlier this summer. The village parks and recreation department provides outdoor games and activities throughout the summer, including a bike inspection day, an environmental day and a crafts and swimming day.

Take to the trails: #66

Roads offer different perspective

Sometimes a road tour can offer some of the same spectacular viewing as trekking on foot.

Seven Cabins Road #256 and Seven Cabins Trail #66 offer both approaches.

One of the entrances to the Capitan wilderness, the road can be slick when wet. Let it dry out for a couple of days before traveling and be sure to take a high clearance, four-wheel drive vehicle, because it can be rough in places.

The road crosses many water drainages and they are all subject to flash flooding. Exercise caution during the rainy season, which usually runs from about July 4 to September 3. Travel on the road is not recommended in the winter.

Wild flowers cover the side the road in blankets of changing colors most of the spring and summer. The distant view of the Capitan Mountains and the panorama of rangelands are always a knockout.

The 5.78 mile long road is very easily accessed from State Road 246 north out of Capitan until it comes to its junction with Forest Road #256. Turn south and proceed to follow the road to its end at the Seven Cabins Canyon Trail Head.

The road can also be accessed from Forest Road #616. Take state highway #380 east out of Capitan to Forest Road #566. Turn north and proceed to FR #5643. Continue to its junction with FR #616 and this will end at Seven Cabins Road.

The canyon was given its name in the 1850s by early pioneering settlers. When they moved into the area, they found the foundation of seven cabins that were burned to the ground. Indians were blamed for the burning, and no one knows when they were first built.

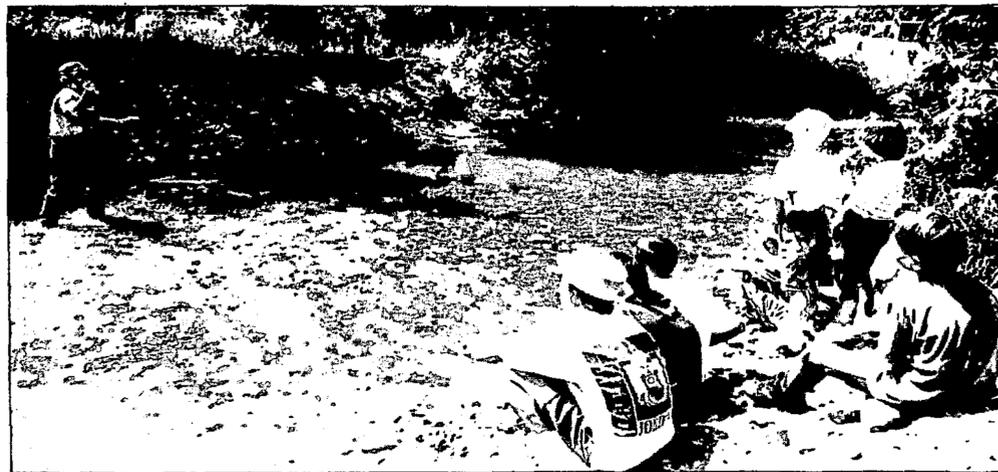

While the first part of the trail is fairly easy, the switch back sections are more difficult. Parts of the trail have been laid through moss shell rock slides. Aspen trees start poking up their heads at the elevation of about 8,500 feet above sea level.

The last quarter mile of the trail is the entrance into high Alpine grass and many different kinds of wild flowers. Topping out on the summit, the junction of trails 58 and 61 can be seen.

A small concrete square visible was the foundation for a shed used to house a fire tool cache. The area is a restful place to stop for a break before coming back down, or continuing on one of the other trails.

The trail is rated as very hard climbing and includes 14 percent grades. It should not be attempted in the winter. The usage is low and hiking would be best done in pairs or groups for safety.

The attractions besides the scenic panoramic views include interesting rock formations, deer, bears, eagles, hawks, mountain lions and rattlesnakes.

Almost caught it!

Local fishing expert Dick Ramsey tries his luck in the Ruidoso River off Gavilan Canyon Road, while spectators watch his technique. The kids were participating in a parks and recreation fishing day, during which Ramsey showed them how to cast and tie hooks and lures on and then took them out to Grindstone Dam to let them practice their new skills.

BE AWARE OF SIGNS
YOUR CAR NEEDS A TUNE-UP PART II

Technology has not eliminated the need for preventive maintenance; diagnostic and tune-up services should be a normal part of auto ownership. Car dealers now provide their customers with diagnostic analysis forms with which vehicle owner can more accurately report performance discrepancies to their service departments.

Car Care Council lists several other indicators that an engine may need tune-up service:

Excessive fuel consumption. (The council recommends keeping records of gas purchase and mileage in order to calculate gas mileage. A consistent drop in miles per gallon over several fill-ups, when driving conditions remain fairly constant, indicates the need for service.)

Knocking or pinging on acceleration. (This sometimes can be traced to an inferior grade of fuel or an overheated engine.) Often, however, this condition is a sign the engine needs a diagnostic check-up and/or certain tune-up services.

Rough running or stalling. A variety of discrepancies within the engine can cause these most common symptoms.

Hard starting. American Automobile Association says most of their emergency road service calls are from motorists whose vehicles won't start. And neglected maintenance usually is at the root of the problem. Careful attention to tune-up service, beginning with an engine analysis once a year, helps prevent car trouble.

Six To Five is in the gate for third stakes win in a row

Appropriately named, Six To Five is looking for his third consecutive stakes tally when he starts in Saturday's $12,700 Big Profit Allowance Stake at Ruidoso Downs.

Six To Five is the richest of the 10 Quarter Horses going postward in the 550-yard race for 3-year-old and older horses.

Six To Five is undefeated at Ruidoso Downs this summer having won two consecutive stakes; the June 28 Jet Deck Handicap (G1) at 440 yards and the June 14 Zia Handicap at 400 yards. The huge grey colt has a phenomenal win record of 50 percent, or 11 wins from 22 starts, for lifetime earnings of $172,500.

Although Six To Five has never raced 550 yards, his connections are confident he can stretch out beyond 440 yards.

"The further he goes the better he likes it," said Tim Cross who supervises Six To Five's training while the horse is at Ruidoso Downs. "At 400 and 440 yards he is running over his competition and that proves to me he can go farther."

Cross said Six To Five is competitive at shorter distances, but the horse's massive build is better suited for longer races.

"He's so big that he's a little slow and clumsy getting started," Cross said. "He doesn't get rolling away from the gate as quick as most horses, but he makes up for it on the end."

Last year as a 3 year old, Six To Five won four of five races including the New Mexico-Bred Derby at the Downs At Albuquerque.

He is owned by Steve Duran of Santa Fe and trained by Jimmy Jones. Six To Five will be ridden by regular rider Larry Chavez and the team will race from the one post.

Challenging Six To Five will be Trainer Jack Brooks' team of Hot Signature and Oh Bid Oh.

Oh Bid Oh has been very successful competing in 550 and 870-yard races this year. Owned by Scott Roberts, Oh Bid Oh won a 550-yard allowance race at Remington Park in June and came back to win the 870-yard Remington Park Distance Handicap later in the month. However, in his last race, the July 12 Pauls Valley Handicap, Oh Bid Oh finished last.

"You have to disregard that race," Brooks said. "He raced from the outside post and at Remington Park your dead that far out because the turn comes up pretty quick. I'm not saying he could of beat Tee Roy Reh, he makes a lot of horses look bad, but he could have been closer."

Oh Bid Oh is the second-richest horse in the field although he has made only about half as much money as Six To Five. The grandpa of the race at 7 years old, Oh Bid Oh has won 13 wins from 52 starts. Hot Signature showed his preference for racing long when he won a 550-yard allowance race at Ruidoso Downs in June by four lengths. In July, he won the 870-yard Master Salls Handicap.

"Hot Signature could be a Derby horse if he wasn't so bad in the gate," Brooks said. "But because he is so bad, the longer distances give him a chance to make up for his slow starts."

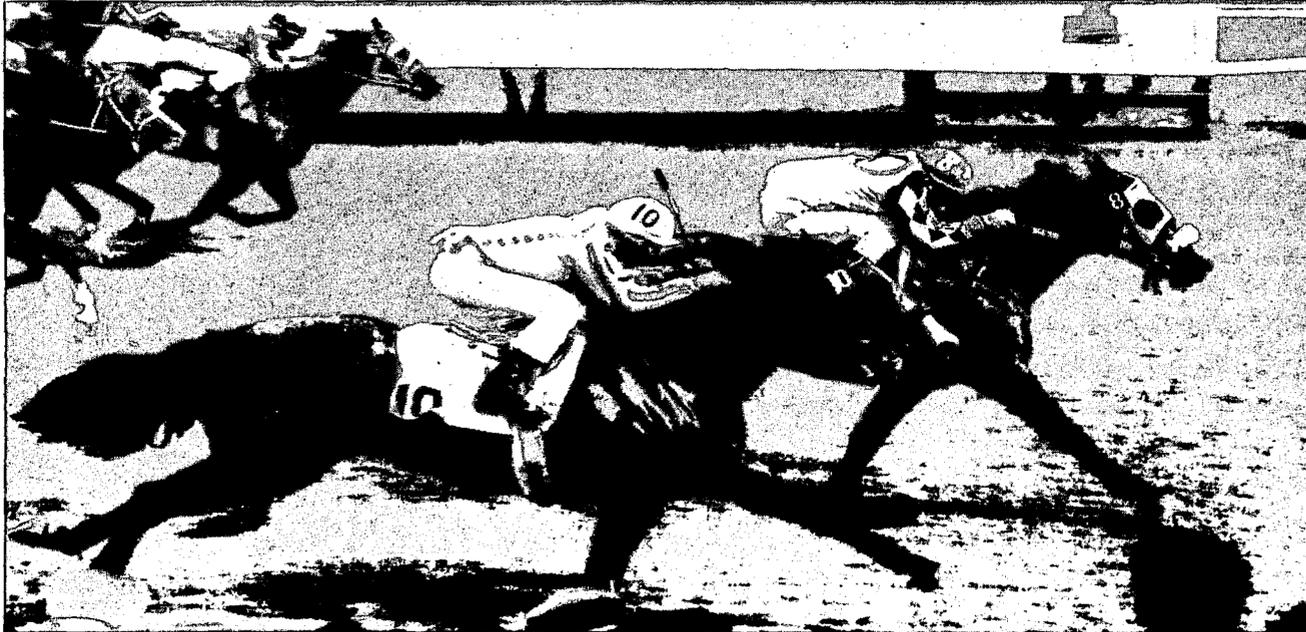

At 3 years old, Hot Signature is the youngest starter in the field. Owned by Bud Hill of Demmit, Texas, Hot Signature has won four races from 11 starts for earnings of $12,000.

Tenth-race starters in order of post position are: Six To Five, Larry Chavez; Racy Ryon, no rider named at time of entry; Let The Big Dog Eat, Jeff Williams; Special Depth, no rider named; Hot Signature, no rider named; Foat Wuth Flash, Vickie Smallwood; Easy Sabra, Jerry Rodriguez; Oh Bid Go, no rider named; Dooley Authorized, no rider named; Very Special Tip, no rider named. Also Eligible: Six Shooter Tex.

Also highlighting Saturday's program will be the simulcast of the $75,000 Junior Miss Stakes from Del Mar Thoroughbred Club in Southern California. The Grade III race will be Ruidoso Downs' 14th race.

First post Saturday is 1 p.m.

Selve Verde looks for shorter trip Friday

When Trainer Beno Black saddles Selve Verde postward for Friday's feature race, he's hopeful the filly won't have to run much further than the designated 7-1/2 furlongs.

Selve Verde is one of six fillies which will go postward in the featured ninth race, a $20,000 claiming race for 3-year-old and older thoroughbred fillies racing 7-1/2 furlongs.

Selve Verde enters Friday's race off a second-place finish in the July 12 Sweetheart Handicap behind Hatchetta.

Selve Verde should have won the Sweetheart," said Black who claimed the filly last year for $6,500. "A horse blew the turn and took her 10 wide around the turn while letting the winner slip through on the rail. Going that wide cost her five to six lengths and the race."

Selve Verde, which means "Green Jungle" in Spanish, appears to be on target for the race.

"I worked her three furlongs Monday in 36.5 seconds under wraps and she came bouncing off the track," said the 37-year-old trainer."

The 5-year-old mare for owned John Grey of Artesia, "She was a good investment," Black said. "About 30 days after we claimed her she placed second in the Fair Queen Handicap at Albuquerque and since then has made more than twice what we paid for her."

Selve Verde has won five of her 34 life-time starts for earnings of about $38,000.

Also going postward in the feature will be Water Day, which finished third in the Sweetheart Handicap and Pro Destiny, which placed sixth in the Sweetheart."

Prior to the Sweetheart, Pro Destiny won two allowance races, one in which she beat both Hatchetta and Selve Verde."

Feature race entrants in order of post position area: Selve Verde, Carlos Rivas; Pro Destiny, Todd Fincher; Senorita Sweetie, no rider named at time of entry; True Brilliance, Teresa Briggs; Water Day, Von Cunningham; Wild S, no rider named.

Inside Track

Deceptively's injury opens All American field

Deceptively's right cannon bone fracture and her withdrawal from the All American Futurity, was a great disappointment for the Quarter Horse racing industry.

Prior to her injury, the undefeated super filly appeared unbeatable and attracted lots of fan and media attention.

But let's be realistic! She may have been tagged the "darling of the Quarter Horse industry," but there are more than a few horsemen who are glad she's out. Her absences leaves no clear front runner to win the $2 million race. Thus, several owners and trainers are considering furling up the $50,000 late fee to supplement their horses to the 440-yard All American Futurity elimination trials.

The All American Futurity actually consists of a series of three races; the elimination trials August 13 and 14, the time trials August 27 and the finals September 7.

In order to compete in the All American Futurity, an owner must nominate a foal to the race in January following its birth. The owner then must make periodic payments to remain eligible to compete in the elimination trials. If a horse was not originally nominated, it can still start in the futurity by paying the late fee, or supplement, of $50,000.

At this time, two camps are seriously considering supplementing their horses into the futurity. The horses are Imafastermaster, winner of the Grade I $464,000 Heritage Place Futurity, and Flashing Streak, winner of the Grade I $300,000 Remington Park Futurity.

FLASHING STREAK

"Flashing Streak has earned the right to start in the All American, is jockey Jeff Williams who trains the colt and, said Tim Williams brother. "He's won four out of five races, qualified for two Grade I futurities and has more than earned the $50,000 supplemental fee."

Flashing Streak is currently ranked fourth in dollars earned by a 2-year-old Quarter Horse for this year, 115,000, and fifth overall.

Flashing Streak has been on the grounds about three weeks, but Imafastermaster arrived just this past weekend and is stabled in Arnold and Nene Simmons barn.

IMAFASTERMASTER

By Alita Walther
Publicity Director
Ruidoso Downs
Racing, Inc.

Imafastermaster, who earned $202,300 for winning the Heritage Futurity, is the richest earning Quarter Horse so far this year. Imafastermaster has won four of six races and earned about $216,000. In winning the Heritage, Imafastermaster defeated Loose Lips which finished third. Loose Lips ran second behind Deceptively in the Kansas Futurity.

Arnold Simmons, who shares training responsibilities with his wife Nene, said although its not set in stone, Imafastermaster's connections are considering supplementing the colt to the All American Futurity.

"We feel that if a horse earns enough money to pay the supplement, then he deserves a chance at the All American," Arnold Simmons said. "His past performance also merits the opportunity."

Imafastermaster has not been to the track since arriving at Ruidoso, but Simmons said the horse is doing well.

"I like to give a horse a certain amount of time to get acclimated to the altitude before I start drilling on 'em," Simmons added. "If I can get their energy up as the altitude doesn't seem to knock 'em out as much."

GO EAST YOUNG MAN

Manny Ortiz may be Ruidoso Downs' leading Thoroughbred stakes winning jockey, but the lure of bigger and better things has prompted Ortiz to leave Ruidoso Downs.

Ortiz has been offered an opportunity to ride for a large eastern stable and Thursday will be his last day.

Ortiz's agent, "Shorty" Madrid, said Ortiz wanted to wait until the end of this meet before packing his tack for New Jersey, but his Eastern connections are anxious for his arrival.

Ortiz is the regular rider for stakes winners Last Don B. and Pullastreak. Last Don B. won this year's Governor's Handicap, Mesclero Breeder's Cup, Pullastreak and Ortiz won the Fine Loom Handicap last May. Last year, the pair won four consecutive races at Ruidoso Downs, three of which were stakes.

"Manny will be back to ride those two horses," Madrid said.

Ortiz is currently ranked 11th in the Thoroughbred standings with 13 wins from 134 rides.

PULLASTREAK PULLS THROUGH

Speaking of Pullastreak, the gelding was supposed to start in Saturday's Big Profit Allowance Stake, but trainer Arnold Simmons said the horse really wasn't up to the race considering he almost died recently.

Pullastreak contracted Colitis X, a digestive tract dysfunction. Symptoms include severe diarrhea, dehydration, fever, accelerated heart rate and depression.

Simmons said he's looking to start Pullastreak in the 870-yard Gene Hensley Handicap Aug. 22. The gelding won the race last year by more than seven lengths.

JOCKEY SHORTS

Not much change in the jockey standings over the last few weeks. Flavio Martinez leads the Thoroughbred standings with 51 wins from 290 races. Todd Fincher is second with 35 wins from 184 races.

Jacky Martin has dominated the Quarter Horse jockey standings all meet and currently has 26 wins from 84 starts for an unusually high win percentage of 31.

One reason Martin is number one is that his partner and friend Jack Brooks dominates the Quarter Horse trainers' standings. Martin rarely rides for anyone but Brooks, whose trainees have won 32 races from 151 starts for a win percentage of 21.2 percent. Second, more than half back, is Sleepy Gilbreath with 15 wins from 105 starts for a win percentage of 14.3.

Doyal Roberts Sr. is the leading Thoroughbred trainer with 20 wins from 149 starts and a win percentage of 13.4.

Fred Danley is second with 17 wins from 111 starts and a win percentage of 15.3. Danley is also fairing well with his Quarter Horses and has won another 13 races.

Perfect Liaison preps for Thursday feature

Around the barn, Perfect Liaison is so slow and gentle that trainer Blain Wood's 11-year-old daughter cares for the 3-year-old filly. On the racetrack, however, Perfect Liaison is one of the faster, leaner, meaner 3-year-old fillies at Ruidoso Downs this season.

Perfect Liaison will be among the 10 quarter horses going postward in Thursday's featured allowance race at Ruidoso Downs. The featured ninth race is for 3-year-old and older horses racing 350 yards.

"We're using the race as a prep for the All American Derby trials (Aug. 21)," said Woods. "It was either work her (in the morning) or race her. We decided to run her because that's what we're here for."

Perfect Liaison enters Thursday's race off a fifth-place finish in the Grade I Heritage Place Derby at Remington Park in Oklahoma City earlier this month.

Prior to shipping to Oklahoma, Perfect Liaison showed Ruidoso Downs' fans just how fast and tough she can be. The brown filly went nose to nose against millionaire and All American Futurity winner Royal Quick Dash in an allowance race June 4. Perfect Liaison refused to be intimidated by the larger colt and the 400-yard race ended in a deadheat for the win between Royal Quick Dash and Perfect Liaison.

Perfect Liaison posted the 11th-fastest time in the All American Futurity time trials last year, but was scratched from the first consolation when it was discovered she had bone chips in her knees. The chips were removed this past winter and Wood said the filly has made a 100 percent recovery.

Kansas Derby finalist Kelleys Special Girl will also go postward in the feature race. Trained by Nene Simmons, Kelleys Special Girl has had a sporadic five-race career, but she did win her last test, an allowance race on July 10.

Kelley's Special Girl debuted with a strong win in her trial for the Grade I Kansas Derby last May. She did not return as strong in the finals, however, and finished last.

Ninth-race entrants in order of post position are: The Magic Of Cash, Darrell Blevins; Kelleys Special Girl, Jeff Williams; Lori Darlin, no rider named; Dash Dashin Flo, no rider named; Dash For Karon, Eric Perner; Ms Authenticity, no rider named; Southern Knockout, James Lackey; Careless Maiden, no rider named; Bug Force Dream, no rider named; and Perfect Liaison, Mike Short.

First post Thursday is 1 p.m.

Favorites fare well in the Rio Grande Futurity trials

The trials for the upcoming Rio Grande Futurity offered no surprises Thursday with betting favorites fairing well in both races.

The 4-5 favorite in the first trial and eighth race, Whister Queen, made a sweeping run in the turn for home to pull away in the stretch and win by 2-1/2 lengths. Trained by Jon Arnett, Whister Queen and jockey Enrique Arreola covered the six furlongs in 1:12.2.

Owned by partners John

Whisenant and Calvin Brewster of Albuquerque, N.M., Whister Queen victory raised her tally to four wins from six starts.

Whister Queen paid $3.60 to win, $2.40 to place and $2.20 to show. Apalachee, second favorite at 3-1, paid $2.80 and $2.60. Endless Ego was third and paid $3.20.

Bold Arrival and jockey Kenneth Hart went wire to wire to win the second trial and 10th race by a handy three lengths.

Capitan Future Homemakers strike pure gold

Members of the Capitan Future Homemakers of America (FHA) hauled home a fistful of gold medals from the National FHA/HERO Leadership Meeting in Chicago earlier this month.

Competing against about 1,350 students in 11 major categories, Capitan representatives racked up big points in the competition that stresses success and development of life skills.

The junior parliamentary teams, coached by Debbie King, won three star gold medals.

"The meeting was a shot in the arm for FHA enthusiasm in Capitan," adviser Jan LaRue said. "Several members are now planning to run for local, district and/or state offices. State officers representing our district are being invited for a weekend training and planning session during August to map out a 1992-93 membership campaign, programs and individual help to those planning to run for state office."

FHA/HERO is a national vocational students organization that has welcomed more than 8-million members since its founding in 1945. It is the only in-school students organization with the family as its central focus and is unique among youth organizations because its programs are planned and run by members, according to a news release provided by the organization.

Participation in national projects and chapter activities is aimed at helping members develop skills for life such as planning, goal setting, problem solving, decision making and interpersonal communication.

Members of the parliamentary teams are Nolan LaRue, Devon Darby, Randy Hutchison, Sherry Dockery, Renee Smith, Michelle McGarvey, Angie Hutchison and Meaghan Vinson in the Job Interview Division.

The team's task was to show a working knowledge of parliamentary law by organizing and running a business meeting.

The event was evaluated on such criteria as knowledge of parliamentary procedure, demonstration of given abilities, personal manner of all team members, participation of team members, the secretary's minutes of the demonstrated meeting and the response to the questions of evaluators.

The national meeting competition kicked into gear July 5 with Star Events orientation. Competitions were conducted over the next two days and workshops were offered for members between competitions.

The workshops focused on saving the environment, teen sex, pregnancy prevention, building self esteem, career decisions, building an FHA chapter, entrepreneurship and several other topics.

A production called "Puttin' on the Ritz," which included a buffet and performances by the comedic group Second City and a rock and roll band, rounded out the five days of activities.

Chapter members and their adviser Jan LaRue decided to drive to Chicago instead of fly because of the many students who qualified to attend the national meeting by winning at state level.

The school district offered a van for the trip, according to LaRue. Parent Sharron Darby also drove her van and attended the national meeting at her own expense.

"The trip was made possible because of the strong support received from parents and from the community," LaRue said.

While in Chicago, the group used its free time before the contest to tour the Shedd Aquarium's newly completely oceanarium, which overlooks Lake Michigan, and to view Gothic architecture at the University of Chicago.

They lunched in Cafe Chicago before boarding the world's fastest elevator, which zoomed them to the 126th floor of the Sears Tower.

After the tour, the group returned to nearby Joliet, Illinois, to enjoy a LaRue family barbecue and a July Fourth full of fireworks before starting the competition.

Cheerleaders raise funds

To boost their reserves, the Capitan cheerleaders will be running a garage sale Saturday, August 1, at 105 Larch Drive in Ruidoso.

The money will be used to offset expenses connected with an upcoming welcome back luncheon for district teachers, cheerleading uniforms and various activities throughout the year.

The sale will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Besides scrumptious baked goods, items such as an exercise, a television, furniture, clothing and dishes will be on sale.

Cheer U.S.A. presents clinic

Stretching backs, limbering up limbs and learning how to put the cheer in cheerleading dominated the activities at a recent two-day clinic in Capitan.

Tim Reed from Cheer U.S.A. directed the clinic. Based in Albuquerque, Cheer U.S.A. is the first and only cheerleading school in New Mexico.

During the clinic, safety and fitness were drilled in an effort to ensure they become second nature and of first importance to the girls, according to sponsor Jan LaRue.

Stretching and strength building exercises were taught to aid in stunts and routines.

Basic tumbling and dance techniques also were incorporated into the daily regimen.

In addition to learning to work together as a team, the girls went home with a new confidence in their abilities and goals for the coming season, LaRue said.

The Silver Lining

County Episcopalians worship outdoors

Annual Outdoor Church Service

Members of the Episcopal Church gathered from all over Lincoln County last Sunday for outdoor services and lunch at the Jones picnic grounds under the giant oak and walnut trees by the riverside.

Father John W. Penn preached an inspiring sermon on the Lord's Prayer, in which he reminded us that we have a kind and loving Heavenly Father who knows all our needs.

The Reverend Anna Gaddy read from the Gospel according to Saint Luke: "Ask and it shall be given you; seek and you shall find; knock and it shall be opened."

Lay Reader Nellie Ruth Jones in the Prayers of the People gave thanks for the birthdays of Heather Jackson, Annelie Reynolds, Charles Jennings, Beth Hart, John Echols and Jim Paul Whipple.

Dan Storm read from the Book of Genesis, and the Letter of the Apostle, Paul to the Colossians.

Also for the wedding anniversaries of J.R. and Jane Terrell, and Tommy and Jan Misner.

The voices of members of the choir of the Church of the Holy Mount harmonized with the singing of the river flowing near by.

Jane Deyo, playing on Cathy Annala's key board, was joined by Stan Thomas on the bass fiddle and his wife, Sandy, on the guitar.

Those in the choir were: Ingrid Schmitz, Patricia Huckins, Pat Delhotal, Alexis Huckins, Terri Flores, Sandra Weber, Cathy Annala, Marge Garner and Paula Arriaga.

The singing and music was directed by Danny Flores. Shannon Conley served as acolyte.

"Singing in the Rain"

Midway through the service a very light rain moved in bringing to mind the song popular about 60 years ago, "Singing in the Rain."

Among the songs sung were: "Seek Ye First," "Christ is Made the Sure Foundation" and "Shall we Gather at the River."

"Shall we gather at the river

by Dan Storm
The Ridge Runner

Where bright Angel feet have trod,
With its crystal tide forever
Flowing from the throne of God."

Clouds from all directions, and yet the weather spirits held back the rain until most everyone had made it through the chow line. And then here came a fine shower, bringing to a close a day long to be remembered at the Paul Jones outdoor service and picnic grounds.

Pageant Practices Going Well

The folks of all ages, who take part in the historical pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid," are showing the fine spirit that has always made the show a high point of the summer. The practices are going very well.

The show traces the main turning points in the Lincoln County War.

The first script was written by two veteran western script writers, Blanding Sloan and his young assistant, Mark Hamilton, from the book written in 1925 entitled "The Saga of Billy the Kid" by Walter Noble Burns.

Burns received most of his material from Frank Coe, who figured prominently in the early history, and was a friend of Billy the Kid.

Through the 43 years of the pageant, it has been enlarged with new scenes and improvement of the earlier ones, until it is an accurate presentation of the early days of Lincoln County.

The Young Calves Resting in the Rain
On the 25th at noon, the weather turned quite hot, and all the young calves were gathered together in the shade of the cedars on the edge of the bluebird field.

Then light clouds began moving in from the east, and soon a light rains began falling in the Vale.

Out came the young calves from their shade, running and jumping over the green field. Then, gathering in a group they all lay down in the light rain, dozing contentedly, while the rain drops glistened on their red and white colors.

Let us thank God for the blessing of the little calves each year, and all our other many blessings.

Lincoln Gets Ready For Lincoln Days

Practices have begun for the Last Escape of Billy the Kid, and the countryside around the famous front village is emerald green from the good rains of the year.

The pageant is held every year right in the middle of the rainy season; and yet in its 43 years it has never been completely rained out.

In 1940, the celebration was one day, "A Day in Old Lincoln," celebrating New Mexico's 400th birthday, and as a tribute to the pioneers of Lincoln and the southwest. In those days there were many of the original people of the early day dramas who came to the celebration.

As a part of the day a pageant was presented, with the streets of Lincoln as the stage, and Peter Hurd as Billy the Kid.

The day was discontinued during World War II, and revived in 1949. The pageant became so popular that it was put on two days and then three.

The Day in Old Lincoln was begun under the direction of Wilbur F. Coe and his wife, Louise. Wilbur is the son of Frank Coe, friend of Billy the Kid.

The pageant is held every year on the first weekend in August. Friday and Saturday are night performances; and Sunday in mid afternoon. The show has become world famous.

State issues warning that illegal dumping is a crime

The New Mexico Environment Department issued a warning about illegal dumping. More than 210 complaints resulted in enforcement action by the state during the last year.

The Solid Waste Act sets out penalties for illegal dumping. Violators can face misdemeanor or felony charges, and can be subject to a civil penalty of up to $5,000 per day. In addition, dumping in a watercourse, such as an arroyo, is a violation of the Water Quality Control Commission regulations, and can carry an additional penalty of up to $1,000 dollars a day.

"In addition to showing a lack of respect for the land, illegal dumping can pose threats to ground and surface water, as well as attracting rodents," said Environment Department Deputy Secretary Ron Curry.

Complaints about illegal dumping can be reported to the Solid Waste Bureau in Santa Fe at 827-0197 or to your nearest Environment Department field office.

Obituaries

Dorris Marie Grice

Services for Dorris Marie Grice, 70, of Odessa, Texas, were at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Rosehill Cemetery in Fort Worth, Texas. She died Saturday at her home.

Grice was born March 20, 1922, in Fort Worth and married Dr. Marvin E. Grice on July 15, 1945. He preceded her in death on August 21, 1991. She was a homemaker.

She is survived by three sons, Marvin Edward Grice II of Metairie, Louisiana, Sterling Thomas Grice of Midland, Texas, and Terrance W. Grice of Ruidoso; one daughter, Cynthia Marie Grice of Odessa, Texas; three brothers, Jack Dozier, Mack Dozier and Billy Ed Dozier all of Fort Worth; sisters-in-law, Betty Dozier of Fort Worth and Marcetus Youler of Ruidoso; two grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

She is also preceded in death by one brother, Joe Dozier, in June 1991.

The family suggests memorials to the American Parkinson's Disease Association.

Frank W. Wilson Funeral Directors of Odessa is in charge of arrangements.

Alice R. Allen

Alice R. Allen, 63, died on July 21, at Sierra Vista Hospital in Truth or Consequences. Memorial services were at 11 a.m. Saturday at the First United Methodist Church in Truth or Consequences with Reverend Guy Pearce officiating.

Her remains will be interred in the Santa Fe National Cemetery.

Allen was a resident of T or C for seven years after retiring in 1970 as a secretary with the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Mescalero Apache Reservation. She was a member of the American Lung Association and the Lou Gehrig's Disease Association. Allen died after a long illness from emphysema and the family suggest memorial donations be sent to the American Lung Association, 216 Truman N.E., Albuquerque, 87108.

Allen of Taos; 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Arrangements are by French Mortuary of T or C.

Grant will help meals program

The Ruidoso Village Council, during Tuesday's regular meeting, enthusiastically endorsed a capital outlay grant request for the Senior Citizens Center.

The grant request is for money to convert the kitchen into a commercial type to serve congregate and home-delivered meals. Also, a renovation of restrooms is ordered to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Deputy manager Gary Jackson said the grant would take care of one half of the operation.

"Congregate and home delivered meals five days a week is one half," said Jackson. "The other half is the provision of food. Sandee Dutchover, our senior coordinator, is in Albuquerque on a legislative request for the food side of the program."

Mayor pro-tem Barbara Duff said many people are not familiar with this fine program.

Duff also put in a plug for the work of the library and the programs offered monthly for every age of reader.

Duff said the Ruidoso library has a high standing in the state and the staff, board and Friends of the Library should be recognized for their contribution to the community.

What do all these scenic pictures have in common?

For businesses along Sudderth Drive, these signs would love an opportunity to look even better for that all important first impression of Ruidoso. MainStreet is spending a million dollars on sidewalks. The village planners are keeping a mindful eye on banners to insure aesthetic beauty. Now all that remains is to remove the garbage cans from the front of the house.

Editorial

Welcome to Ruidoso...

Would you put your family's garbage can on the front deck as a greeting to friends and neighbors? That's just what we do in this beautiful village by placing unsightly dumpsters up and down the main street.

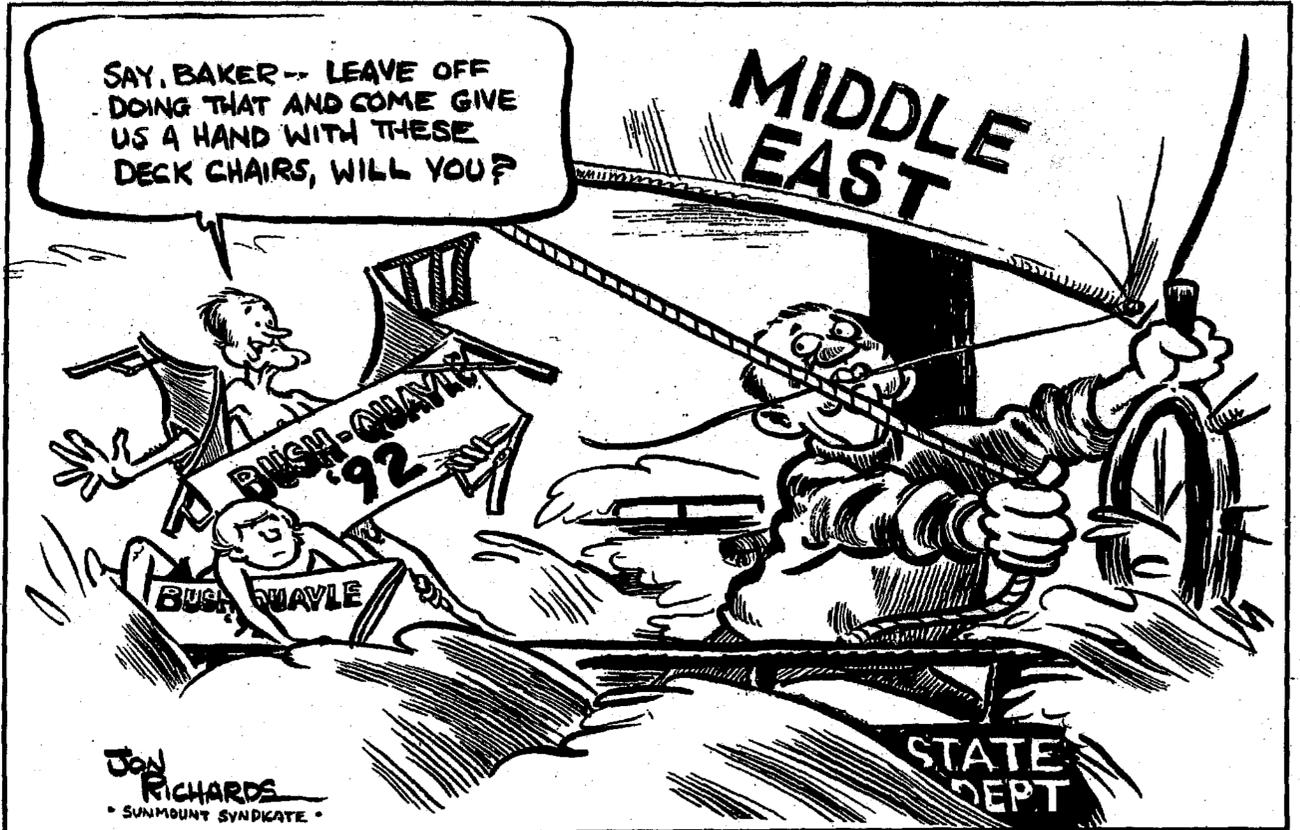

We live on one of this nation's most beautiful mountain villages. That's a brag point when we invite friends to visit and when we advertise our resort village for tourists and retirees. And yet, we place big old metal dumpsters, overflowing with garbage and debris, in front of shops and businesses as a not-so-fragrant welcome mat. Besides the trash that goes into the dumpsters, most are surrounded by the nasty stuff that misses the container.

Try taking a few scenic shots to illustrate the charm of this village. If you're not careful, each photographic endeavor will include a dumpster. They're everywhere. It's no wonder Ruidoso has been nicknamed the dumpster capital of the nation.

But, since a picture is worth 1,000 words, just turn to page 11A in this edition. Is this really the image we want for the Village of Ruidoso?

The time is right to clean up Sudderth Drive, our main street. Now, as Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority takes on garbage pickup duties and Main Street Ruidoso begins its refurbishing and repaving through Midtown, we have a perfect opportunity.

Let's take the dumpsters off Sudderth Drive. With a little imagination, the Solid Waste Authority could come up with a plan for garbage pickup. How about using poly-carts with businesses in Midtown keeping them on their back street instead of Sudderth? That might be more labor intensive, but it would be well worth it in keeping the village clean and attractive.

ARC director offended by word "retarded"

TO THE EDITOR:

I had the opportunity to read a clip from The Ruidoso News of June 11. I was amazed that the writer of the letter, a Mr. Raymond Lopez from Fort Sumner, used the word "retarded" to describe a writer for The Ruidoso News. I am personally angered by the man's apparent lack of basic human sensitivities on behalf of persons with developmental disabilities including mental retardation. I wish to indicate an outrage for the use of demeaning language and obvious disregard for basic human qualities.

My only recourse is to indicate my feelings to the editor of The Ruidoso News. The letter should not have been printed regardless who the writer was or the "cutie" (sic) intention. The ARC of New Mexico is disappointed.

Medical crews came through in emergency

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of the Board of Trustees of Lincoln County Medical Center I would like to commend all who assisted at the time of the bus accident involving 16 children and 1 adult.

The Fire, Police, County and Village Emergency Services all worked in an exemplary manner. They were efficient and yet extremely compassionate in the midst of what seemed, at the time, a major disaster. Because of their collective effectiveness all victims were cleared from the scene within 38 minutes—a remarkable feat.

The Board would also like to recognize the team work and efficiency of Lincoln County Medical Center whose employees and medical staff demonstrated the same compassion and efficiency. They evaluated and treated all victims within an hour and a half, which is again a remarkable feat, but due to the tremendous display of teamwork by all involved.

The Board would like the residents of Lincoln County to understand how fortunate we all are to have such excellent emergency services and medical care available to us and to know how well they all work as a team.

Driving Ruidoso streets can be hazardous

TO THE EDITOR:

Driving to the grocery store, downtown, or just around the corner to visit relatives, it has come to my attention that something needs to be done about the underbrush and trees left growing out of control around intersections. In some cases, we have to get well into the roadway before we can check for cross traffic.

This is not an isolated problem. We've seen it all over town but in our subdivision these specific intersections need clearing — Porr at Mechem, Oak at Ponderosa and Ponderosa and Brady Canyon.

The severe growth has made visibility almost impossible and something needs to be done before a serious accident occurs.

The city mowers used to come around and clear along the sides of the roads. What has happened to them?

If others feel as I do, please speak up before it is too late for someone.

U.S. needs a realistic leader — like Perot

TO THE EDITOR:

Most politicians fail because they evolve from a purely political base. They are non-productive and are spenders rather than earners. In effect they merely scribed the cream (taxes) from society and hope to re-distribute the wealth. Sadly, great fortunes are lost in this translation.

Ross Perot recently said, "We are in deep trouble because our basic goals are wrong — we have no tax base left because we are killing the very aspects of a productive society — jobs, and production." Ross cited Japan and Germany as two countries that combined industry and government to work in harmony.

Here we spin our wheels fighting Republican against Democrat and back and forth, spinning wheels and losing time, energy and resources. Realistic leadership is the only way out — I see little of that.

Add "realistic leadership" to a new set of ethics and values and we might do better than the Romans did in the year 475 A.D.

Bill Rakocy
El Paso, Texas

P.S. Yet it appears that Ross let us down.

The Ruidoso News encourages letters to the editor, especially about local topics and issues.

Each letter must be signed and must include the writer's telephone number and address. The phone number and street or mailing address will not be printed, however the author's hometown will be included.

The telephone number will be used to verify authorship. No letter will be printed without the writer's name.

Labelous letters are not protected by the rules of privilege or fair comment and will not be printed.

Letters will be edited for spelling and grammar to the extent possible without impairing their flavor or changing their meaning. Letters may be shortened to fit the space available.

We try, whenever possible, to allow people and/or businesses mentioned in a letter the opportunity to respond, usually in the same or the next edition.

Letters must be original and exclusive to The News. No open letters to public figures, copies of letter or poetry will be printed as a letter to the editor. In most cases, thank you messages are printed in the Classifieds under "Card of Thanks."

The News has the right to reject any letter.

Noon—RUIDOSO CARE CENTER AUXILIARY at the center.

Couple is married here June 20

Rhonda White and Harlan Vincent were married at 2 p.m. June 20, at the home of her parents at 410 Gavilan in Ruidoso with Jimmy Sportsman officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Tom and Judy White of Ruidoso, and the groom is the son of Donny and Betty Vincent of Ruidoso.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length satin gown with a cathedral length train. Large lace appliques and cascades of puff bows decorated the center back. The bodice was closely fitted with a V-neckline front and back, heavily laced and beaded with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Clustered puff bows accented the short sleeve line, each bow with a center accent of pearl fringe. The dress has a basque waistline front and back. She wore a two layer veil of sparkle illusion with five-inch ruffled puff attached to a headdress featuring teardrop pearls on a crown head band covered with white silk flowers with large pearl sprays.

For something old she wore a pearl necklace belonging to her grandmother; something new, pearl earrings; something borrowed, her dress and veil; and for something blue she wore a garter.

The groom wore a black Wrangler tuxedo jacket with tails, Wrangler jeans and black hat.

The bride's attendants were Debra Morrison and Glenda Shaw, both sisters of the bride, Terrie Kenneday, a cousin from Roswell, Norma Murillo of Ruidoso, and Jerrie Lynn Boone of Rotan, Texas.

The flower girls were Tonya Morrison, niece of the bride and Betsy Hobbs, daughter of James and Cindy Hobbs of Ruidoso, and the ring bearer were Justin Morrison, nephew of the bride and Cam Theford, nephew of the groom. Misty Theford, niece of the groom, carried the cathedral length train.

Bride's colors were burgundy and mauve. Robbie Edwards of Clovis was best man and the groomsmen were Craig Van Winkle and W.G. Barber brother of the groom both of Ruidoso, and Mark Edwards and Steve Kerby of Clovis.

James and Cindy Hobbs, Carl and Rene Parsons, Roland and Julie Tuttle of Ruidoso sang, "Today," "Let it be Me," "Devoted," "Surround me with Love," "Faithful and True," and "Watching the River Run."

The reception followed on the back patio. The couple is at home in Ruidoso following their wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada.

New minister arrives in Mescalero

Tim Gilliland, new pastor at Mescalero Baptist Mission, "hit the ground running" when he and his family arrived on the field June 21.

Gilliland, 30, along with his wife, Julie, and two sons, Jacob, 4, and Andrew, 18 months, came to Mescalero from Fort Worth, Texas, where he was personnel director with the Chapman Companies.

Many activities were set up before the Gillilands arrived, which meant the Gillilands had to get to work immediately.

Their first day on the job, June 22, the mission hosted a concert by "Trilogy," a girls' trio from University Baptist Church in Portales. That Wednesday, a youth group from the same church conducted a day camp.

The next week, the Gillilands accompanied several members of the mission to Indian Camp at Inlow Youth Camp, near Tajique. They had not been there for a full day before Gilliland got word of the death of his grandfather in Andrews, Texas. The family left camp to go to the funeral.

The Gillilands had a breather the next week, but the week after that, July 13-17, they were involved in Vacation Bible School. The school was conducted by single adults from First Baptist Church, Pampa, Texas.

In between all this, Tim has been looking for secular employment to supplement the part-time support he receives. The Gillilands also are also looking for a house in the Ruidoso area. Currently, they are commuting to Mescalero from Cloudfcroft, where they are staying in a cabin owned by Tim's parents.

Both Tim and Julie Gilliland are natives of Andrews, where her father, H.A. Hanks Jr., is a pastor.

Tim has a bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University and a master of divinity from Southwestern seminary. He served as minister of youth at Sunrise Baptist Church, Amarillo, Texas, and Second Baptist Church, Odessa, Texas, and as associate pastor and minister to youth at Trinity Baptist Church, Fort Worth.

Julie has a bachelor of science in English and elementary education from Texas Wesleyan College.

From February through August of 1989, the Gillilands served in Costa Rica with the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Bingo to benefit RHS soccer program

Help earn money for the White Mountain Sports Complex while having a lot of fun at a benefit Bingo August 1 at the Sertoma Building.

Doors open at 6 p.m. with an early bird blackout starting at 7 p.m. More than $2,000 in cash and prizes will be given away during the night of exciting games.

The money will help purchase poles, lights, fence, irrigation pipe and grass for the complex among other items needed to complete the project.

The fields will be used for all ages of soccer players, including a varsity high school team, and for varsity baseball in the future. The complex covers about an acre behind the White Mountain Schools.

CRIME STOPPERS "CRIME OF THE WEEK"

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information that leads to the arrest and Grand Jury indictment or Magistrate Court Bindover of the person or persons who committed this crime or any other unsolved felony crime in Lincoln County. Let's work together to call a stop to crime.

Phone 257-4545

ARMED ROBBERY
On the 4th day of December, 1991, the Furr's grocery located on Mechem Drive in Ruidoso was robbed. The perpetrator left the store with an undisclosed amount of cash, and may have been seen by someone outside the premises.

Crimestoppers will pay a $1000 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and magistrate court bindover or grand jury indictment of the person or persons who committed this crime. Crimestoppers will also pay cash rewards for information that solves other felony crimes or leads to the recovery of stolen property.

Anyone having information relating to this crime or any criminal activity is urged to call Crimestoppers. The Crimestoppers phone line is manned twenty-four hours a day, and persons calling Crimestoppers do not have to give their name to become eligible for a cash reward. The Crimestoppers phone number is 257-4545. Anyone calling Crimestoppers outside the local exchange, may call collect within Lincoln County.

WHETHER YOU TRAVEL OR STAY HOME, GOD IS THERE

Like Many of us, you may have a vacation looming on the horizon, and of course your budget will dictate where you will spend it. You may visit another part of the world, or just lounge around the house. In any case your vacation can be a very enjoyable and rewarding escape from the realities of everyday living. Moreover, wherever you are the Lord will be there to watch over you. Thank Him for his protection at any House of Worship, and even if your travels take you beyond the orbit of civilization, there is always the Bible. Put it on your list of things to pack in your suitcase. In fact, that's a good idea no matter where you're going. To borrow the advice of a well-known TV commercial, "Don't leave home without it."
