P&Z warns parking tab coming

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A kinder, gentler Ruidoso Planning Commission passed all applications Monday that planning director Cleatus Richard's recommended to deny.

Although the village council gave the planning commission the right to waive downtown parking requirements, parking is still a problem and the basis for Richard's denial of a new downtown business.

However, the commission upheld Edward Curtis Temple's request to subdivide his mid-town property into two lots for the purpose of constructing another building.

Temple is the owner of the Broken Drum, a T-shirt shop in mid-town. He wants to sell his narrow vacant lot next to the Broken Drum to Frank Potter, who intends to build a store.

Richards wanted the board to deny the request, saying it would reduce parking in that area by 50 percent. He said the replat would violate the zoning code by reducing parking below the required level, from six spaces to three spaces. Richards said any new development proposed for the vacant lot could not meet parking requirements.

Commission chairman Robert Donaldson said that a business in County mixes road increase Dispatchers win raise

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Lincoln County Commissioners grasped the county's purse strings tightly and didn't loosen their grip Tuesday during a public hearing on the proposed 1993-94 budget.

In spite of being assaulted verbally by resident David Skeen for abandoning the road department, they didn't budge.

"You're cutting the road department by 30.4 percent at a time when we finally have roads we can drive over," Skeen told commissioners.

He said he was angered when he read remarks by commissioners indicating people will have to adjust to a longer wait for snow clearing and other services. The road department's five year plan, ordered by commissioners, will be hurt, he said.

"I feel the road department manager did a good job and was penalized," Skeen said. Keeping a fat cash balance isn't necessary when the money can be used to benefit county residents, he said.

But Commission Chairman Montroy Montes defended the commission's decision to slice sizable chunks from road manager Bill Cupit's budget request.

"We spent many hours laboring over the road department and others," Montes said. "We didn't just wake up two weeks ago and decide. We knew he has done a good job, but it's a high priced department and we have other responsibilities such as providing ambulances."

Commissioner Wilton Howell said that although he suggested cutting two pieces of equipment from the existing lease purchase arrangements to save in excess of $25,000 a year, the commission did not vote on the proposal.

"If we spend the cash balance, in a few years you'll be reviewing our budget and it won't be favorably," Howell told Skeen, who contended the county was keeping a cash balance in excess of the 5/12th requirement in each fund.

"I feel the commission spent the last two years getting the road department up to par and we're going to try to maintain that," Howell

Something mighty big fell from the night sky

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Holy kryptonite, what's that bright light in the New Mexico sky?

Hundreds of people in Alamogordo and Ruidoso reported seeing a fiery ball in the sky between the two communities about 3 a.m. Wednesday.

Officials with various federal installations in the area deny any involvement. Space debris or a wayward meteor breaking through the earth's atmosphere and crashing to the ground may be the source of the brilliant light and deep rumbling that woke many of the people who called The Ruidoso News.

Vera Wood, a retired business education teacher who lives in White Mountain Estates, was lying in her bed trying to get back to sleep when the sky, reflected in her vanity mirror, suddenly exploded in dazzling light.

"I just happened to be awake," Wood said. "The window is directly across from the mirror on the dresser and it was all lit up. I could see it in the mirror, like a ball of fire."

"The whole room was lit up, then the fire ball kind of spiraled down. About eight to 10 seconds later, the sound started. It was because there was a delay in the sound that I knew it wasn't near. When I first saw the light, I thought it might have landed in the (White Mountain Elementary) school yard."

"At first, I thought it was distant thunder, a rumble. But it lasted about 30 seconds and stayed at the same intensity, didn't die off like thunder. It stopped suddenly."

Wood said the ball didn't appear to have a tail of trailing heat or fire. "It didn't scare me," she said. "All I was interested in was going back to sleep."

But Wood said she was relieved

Wednesday afternoon to hear that the fiery ball was witnessed by others.

"My husband slept right through it and he didn't believe me," she said.

Unfortunately, several area observatories close to Alamogordo did not track the event. The mirrors were being changed at Apache Point observatory at Sunspot. The Albuquerque Astronomical Society's observatory in Socorro was unmanned and no one could be reached for comment at the New Mexico State University's observatory near Las Cruces.

However, both Bruce Levin, secretary of the Albuquerque group, and Dan King, Air Space Manager for Holloman Air Force Base, said the descriptions by witnesses would fit falling space debris.

However, Captain Mark Brown in public affairs with the North American Air Defense (NORAD), said that federal agency at Peterson Air Force Base in Colorado Springs reported no space debris entered the sky over New Mexico Wednesday morning.

"We track over 7,000 objects a day (by radar) and can pretty accurately call any entries," Brown told The News Thursday. Meteors can only be as big as a golf ball, but if it's metallic, it can break the sound barrier. The rumbling could have been the sound delay of that descent, instead of the sound of an impact.

A small meteor wouldn't leave much of an impact crater, he said.

Bob Pepper, public information officer for Holloman, said his office had received several calls from people in the area who thought the light might have been from an air plane crash. But all air craft was accounted for and the Federal Aviation Administration in Albuquerque also gave an all clear.

A spokesman for White Sands Missile Range told The News, "We're still sticking to our story that no testing was going on at that time. The range was all quiet last night."

"One of our own employees had friends that saw a fire flash and experienced about 30 seconds of rumbling. They said it wasn't like an earthquake."

The rumbling sensation was felt over a 30 mile range, but earth tremor sensors indicate the noise was not connected to an earthquake, officials said.

"The description of the object spiraling really seems to fit space debris re-entering the atmosphere and breaking up," King said. "We checked the forest service lookout towers and they didn't spot any fires."

Golfers repeat district title win

The Ruidoso Warrior Golf team took its second straight boys district championship, Wednesday, when they upset favored Socorro and Deming in the District 3-AAA Championship at Rio Mimbres Country Club in Deming.

Powered by strong performances by juniors Matt Cantu and Jeffrey Chapman, the Warriors posted an excellent 325 in windy conditions to beat the home team Wildcats by four strokes and Socorro's Warriors by eleven.

The team scores for the tournament were Ruidoso, 325; Deming, 329; Socorro, 336; Onate, 353; and Silver, 355.

Both Cantu and Chapman were named to the All-District team for their sub-80 rounds, while Ryan Wall and Jimmy Varnadore shot very respectable 85's. Sophomore Eric Stephens rounded out the Warriors scoring with 88.

"Our kids played very well today," said Warrior Coach Ron Wall. "We've won two straight District Championships on the road, on courses that we don't see during the season. As a coach you couldn't ask for better team play," Wall said.

For Cantu, the district tournament was his second consecutive team leading score. Last week in Las Cruces, the junior led the Warriors with a very impressive 81 at New Mexico State and Wednesday's 76 was even more impressive, over the shorter, tighter course in Deming.

Chapman, as always was in the thick of things, for medalist honors, despite having a triple and a double bogie. His power off the tee and amazing putting touch will make him one of the favorites for All-State honors.

The State Championships will be Monday and Tuesday in Farmington. The Warriors, should be one of the favorites, along with Socorro, Albuquerque Academy and NMMA, the District 4-AAA Champions.

Ruidoso has not faced Academy this year, because the Chargers don't venture far from home. The Warrior did, however, beat Socorro and NMMA in the Leroy Gooch Invitational last month.

The boys Junior Varsity team checked in third in the district finale, posting a 366 total. Socorro took first place with 349, followed by Deming's 363. Silver shot 412 and Onate's 420 rounded out the field.

Individually, the Warriors Byron Soules shot 91, Victor Cocchiola had 92, followed by Daniel Espinosa's 95. Sophomore Scott

District court selects Underwood Grand Jury

An order has been sent to Santa Fe for the selection of a grand jury June 1 to review evidence connected to public corruption allegations against State Representative John Underwood.

The Ruidoso Democrat and Ruidoso Downs Police Chief Will Hoggard apparently are being accused of pressuring an officer not to show up at an administrative hearing concerning the driving license of an Underwood client.

A spokesman for Twelfth Judicial District Judge Richard A. Parsons said 250 names have been requested from the state, which draws the potential jurors from driving license registrations.

The grand jury operates in secret without an opportunity for opposing information. Underwood, an attorney, had called for Attorney General Tom Udall to present his evidence during a preliminary hearing in front of a judge.

Although Udall has refused to comment on the specifics of the case, the potential charges appear to turn on whether Underwood improperly used his influence as a legislator to persuade Hoggard to pressure one of his officers not to attend the administrative hearing on the driving license revocation. The man, who had pled guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol, retained his license when the officer didn't appear at the hearing.

Ruidoso celebrates a successful National Tourism Day

by KRISTIE SAATMANN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

With the busy summer season just around the corner, National Tourism Day on Wednesday reminded the community of the impact of the top industry in the state.

Business people, attraction owners, government officials and community organization representatives were informed by state and local speakers there is plenty to celebrate for tourism day.

The tourism day program was a first for Ruidoso, but Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce executive director Joan Bailey said it is the beginning of a tradition to continue next year. In opening the program at the Enchantment Inn, Bailey said they have a lot to celebrate in Lincoln County.

"Things are good and getting better," she said.

In her trips to Santa Fe during the last legislative session, Bailey said she didn't see a lot of respect for tourism on the part of the legislature. It is the cleanest industry the state has, and the money generated from it is turned over and over within the state.

"It really is an industry we should be proud of," she said.

Mike Pitel, New Mexico Department of Tourism, agrees tourism is an industry to celebrate. He has been promoting the state for the past 16 years and assured the audience the future of tourism is bright.

Pitel said New Mexico was one of the first states to develop a tourism department and to offer a 1-800 number for easy access to inquiries. When that number was first started the phone sat on his desk and he said occasionally he would get a call.

Eight people at Los Lunas correctional facility answered 56,000 inquiries about the state last month, which was more than all inquiries in 1986. Pitel said since the state was checking such good numbers, they checked other areas in the state and found it is happening everywhere.

Pitel said in 1980 the gross receipts for tourism were $1-billion and in 1990 it had doubled. It is likely they will hit $3-billion by the middle of the decade, he said. In 1982 tourism passed agriculture as the number two industry in the state and in 1986 it passed government as the number one employer.

The number of visitors at state and national parks have also been on the increase, even with higher admittance fees. Lincoln State Monument had 13,000 visitors in 1986, but last year it saw more than 42,000 visitors.

Pitel said a lot of those numbers are due to all the supporters of Billy the Kid. The state is also using the Kid as a promotional device and will have advertising out in May, June and July that plays on that theme to get people to call about more information on the state.

It's not just paid advertising, though, that draws people to the state. Pitel said last year 8,700 articles were written about the state, which would have equaled about $15.2-million in advertising.

"There is no red tape between me and writers. You just have to know how to reach them," he said.

A team of National Geographic writers recently traveled the area for a story on the Pecos River Valley which should be out later this year. Pitel put the writers in touch with historians along the river's path in the state.

He said if it is like a past article done on the Santa Fe Trail, this article alone could be worth $4-million in advertising. More than 10 million people receive the magazine, and they like to go to those places and say, "Did you know you are in National Geographic?"

"The (tourism) industry is coming together. More and more barriers are being broken down in the tourism community. There are no city limits anymore," Pitel said.

He said more cities are working together to promote a region and the state is also following that concept. New Mexico is working with Arizona, Mexico, Missouri, Kansas and Colorado on several different projects that link the states.

"It doesn't take a lot to promote the state. People want to vacation here. Most have made up their mind they want to come here. We just have to tell them how to get here and what all there is to do," Pitel said.

"Tourism is the fun part of economic development," he said.

Ruidoso Village Councilor Barbara Duff also made a presentation to the group on the past, present and future of tourism in Ruidoso. She said people still enjoy the same amenities they came here for in the 1920s and 1930s. They like the mountains, the streams and the cool, clean air.

Ruidoso has been referred to as the best kept secret but with the chamber of commerce, the race track, the ski area, subdivision development, the airport, golf courses and now the Museum of the Horse and the Civic Events Center, it won't stay a secret, she said. The future also has plenty to offer with the development of Grindstone Dam, the area parks and the start of construction in midtown by MainStreet, among other projects.

"We are grateful Santa Fe is beginning to realize there is life below Interstate 40," she said.

Another growing project for Ruidoso is the hospitality program at Eastern New Mexico University. Chris LaCounte, who will direct the program, said tourism starts at home. There is more to it than a smile as the hosts need to follow through to see how the visitors are doing and how else they can help, he said.

LaCounte also presented awards to area people who have taken action in categories of tourism promotion, hospitality and tourism services in Ruidoso. Earning the certificates were Bailey, Marianne Schweers, Nancy Radziewicz, Frank Potter, Laura Reynolds, Kathleen Hellman, Bob Hart and Dick Weber.

Pitel also had a present to give to Joe and Marylin Bowlin, who lead the Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang, for their efforts.

Lincoln County stalls on trash

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Cracking down on unsightly accumulation of debris is an admirable goal, Lincoln County Commissioners said Tuesday.

But until the line between debris and temporarily stored necessities is defined, two commissioners who are involved in agriculture are worried their essential clutter may be an enforcement officer's junk.

At the urging of Chairman Montroy Montes, an orchard owner, and Commissioner Stirling Spencer, a rancher, the commission delayed action on an amendment to the county's anti-litter ordinance. The amendment would have allowed the county to cite without restrictions owners who accumulate debris on their property. As the ordinance now reads, the debris must be within 200 feet of an occupied dwelling.

However, Spencer and Montes said they were concerned about a broad-brush application of the ordinance, if it was amended.

"I have empathy with your effort in trying to regulate clean-up situations, but I'm not ready to go with it at this point," Spencer said. "There's too much latitude, although I do see a need."

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said he drove through Hondo valley recently and could see how some people might feel farms along that route are cluttered with junk.

"But that 50 year old tractor must be running," he said. "We still be careful not to step on legitimate toes."

A manhole cover and active sewer line shares the mighty Rio Ruidoso after the river changed its course and wiped out Short Street in 1979. Village officials say infiltration, not leaks could be the only problem.

Christensen led the team with 88 and Freshman Jackie Roe recorded a 106.

The Lady Warriors ended the season at District with a fourth-place finish. Onate won the title with a 356 total, followed by Socorro at 424, Deming with 461 and the Lady Warriors tallied 463.

Freshman Kendra Eggleston led the team with 107, followed by Michelle Morris, 116; Danielle Morris, 118; Robyn Hursh, 122; and Jamie Sanchez, 133.

said. "We will look at it mid-year and not let it suffer."

"I feel we've provided enough to maintain good roads," Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said. "I feel we'll be in good shape."

County manager Andy Wynham helped put the issue in perspective.

"There were no real cuts in the road department budget," Wynham said. In the 1991-92 fiscal year, the department had a budget in excess of $1.2-million, but only $904,000 was spent, he said.

His budget for this year is slightly under $1.2-million and, to date, Cupit has spent $950,426. Projecting to the end of the year, he will have spent $1,036,826, Wynham said.

The $1,067,136 budget approved for the department for 1993-94 compares favorably with that figure, Wynham said.

"This budget doesn't leave us a $200,000 to $300,000 cushion, but provides enough money to continue to operate," he said. One of the two positions cut from Cupit budget had been vacant nearly the entire year, Wynham said.

Even with the reduction and state projects making up some of the difference, the department still must be subsidized by the general fund by $60,000.

"You can only spend $160,000 so many years before you reach the limit and have to raise taxes," Wynham said.

"He would have used the entire budget if he hadn't found 250,000 tons of free gravel," Skeen said of Cupit.

"I told him he will have to be as ingenious this year as prior years to make it work," Wynham responded.

Commissioner Stirling Spencer said he agrees with Skeen that available resources should be aimed at keeping existing gravel and dirt roads in good shape. He pointed out that the budget includes $250,000 of new construction and assured Skeen that he intends to push other state and federal agencies to contribute material and equipment on projects.

"I guess everyone knows where I stand on roads," said Commissioner William Schwettmann. "I guess I stand alone, but I'm still standing."

He advocates the county getting into the chip seal or paving end of the road work. Schwettmann lives in Alto, where roads are paved. He said the county already has 80 miles of paved roads to service. Unless better surfaces and pavement repair are provided on roads, the county will have "more front-end alignments and less tourism," he said.

Cupit assured the commission that he would continue to work "120 percent and do the best job I can. It's just when the ball starts rolling, I hate to stop it."

"We're not going to leave you high and dry. If you have a problem, we'll address it," Howell said.

Meanwhile, Cupit should take another look at his five year plan and make the necessary readjustments, Wynham said.

To raises or not to raise

Nunley attempted to revisit the subject of pay scale levels for employees of the corrections department, now supervised by Wynham.

In a previous budget session, commissioner raised the officers from a grade eight to a grade 12. Nunley suggested going up one or two more steps.

He found support from Spencer. "It's running efficiently," Spencer said. "They have to make astute judgment calls and have decision-making capabilities. I'd like to reopen and look at the level 15 shown in the six-county study."

"Even with the proposed increase, the department's 1993-94 budget would still represent a $20,000 decrease," Wynham said. "The guys worked real hard to show you they are professional and capable of saving the county money."

But Howell noted that with the step jump from 8 to 12 already approved, the employees would receive a $1,600 increase in annual pay. To go to the levels suggested by Nunley and Spencer would give them increases of about $2,700 each.

Sheriff James McSwane contended if corrections received a raise, which he said they deserved, that communication officers also should be increased on the step matrix since they handle life and death calls and are acting in multiple capacities.

Howell offered a motion to leave corrections personnel at previously approved levels, but to increase dispatch employees from grade eight to 12. Schwettmann seconded the motion and it carried with Montes voting with the majority; Nunley and Spencer were on the losing end.

The chief deputies of elected officials weren't as fortunate as dispatch.

The treasurer, clerk and assessor each walked to the podium to urge commissioners to allow chief deputies to be paid up to 85 percent of their elected boss' salary. They contended, the average is 77 percent currently, yet the deputies stand in for the elected official and make decisions. They are political appointees and do not enjoy the security of classified employees.

Wynham pointed out that McSwane's under sheriff is paid at 86 percent of McSwane's salary.

"As elected officials, voters entrusted them to represent the county, seeking the best qualified people to represent them," McSwane said. "If I didn't believe my chief deputy was worth the salary paid, I wouldn't be paying it."

Wynham said raising three chief deputies to 80 percent would cost the county $24,000.

Spencer made a motion that all chief deputies, including McSwane's be put at 80 percent, which would have been a 6 percent reduction for under sheriff Bobby Miller.

Howell asked for a roll call vote. The motion was defeated with Montes and Spencer voting aye.

Nunley took another run at salaries, but this time in the other direction. He made a motion to decrease the entry level for a temporary sheriff's secretary from grade 12 to 10.

The higher number "would be the same as people (working for the department) for years," he said.

Howell pointed out that Wynham previously said it would be a mistake to start the new secretary at a level 11 when the rest doing the same work were classified as level 12.

However, Nunley's motion passed with Schwettmann and Howell voting against it.

Commissioners approved the preliminary $6.7-million budget based on current levels of property values and taxes.

that vacant lot was inevitable and also would enhance the MainStreet project.

"MainStreet is essentially creating a shopping mall for Ruidoso," Donaldson said. "If this space is not developed solely for the purpose of holding up three parking places ... that's all we're talking about."

Richards argued the building would create a deficiency of six parking spaces.

"We've done worse," Donaldson said.

"I don't think that's a justification," Richards said.

Donaldson said there has to be a better understanding.

"If we're going to spend the kind of money as taxpayers that we're going to spend on MainStreet, we can't hold up development for parking," Donaldson said. "If you wait for parking, building will never get done. If you build a building, you'll create a demand and parking will follow. Those people with businesses on MainStreet will eventually shoulder a big bill. I have no doubt."

Richards was not satisfied. "They'll either provide it, or you'll have a shopping center without adequate parking and those generally have a high failure rate," Richards said. He gave no statistics to back up the statement.

Donaldson said at some point, the issue may need to be forced to alleviate the problem.

"But to hold up development for that (parking), I think is detrimental to the whole MainStreet project and counter to what we're spending money for down there right now," he said.

Donaldson and the commission discussed the possibility of an assessment district for downtown parking.

After the meeting, Donaldson was asked about other communities that have directional state highway signs designating the number of blocks to a municipal parking area and arrows directing to that parking. He said it was his impression that would be done with the new MainStreet project.

Richards recommended approval of a replat for the John R. Brown Tract located along Gavilan Canyon Road, subject to utility and installation improvements at a staggering cost of $28,000. That included the cost of five fire hydrants.

Donaldson asked Richardson if all properties along that area have fire protection.

Richards indicated none have fire protection.

"So we're going to put fire protection up for everybody in that area on one person. That appears to be what we're doing. I don't have any problem with spreading the cost, but why should this person bring fire protection to everybody in the area?" Donaldson asked.

Richards said he wasn't against cost sharing, but he thought further development shouldn't be allowed until the utilities in the area were brought up to the required levels of the village.

"Right now you've got one lot. I agree with your assessment, but is the problem the village's or that of one property owner?" Donaldson asked.

"It could be joint, but primarily it's the property owner," Richards said.

The commission voted to approve the plan with cost sharing to be worked out with the village council.

Richards recommended denial for Douglas Brown's request for a side yard variance for Lot 8, Block 1, White Mountain Estates.

Brown requested a variance to allow a 225 feet by 26 feet garage addition on the south side of his house to within 3.5 feet of the side property line.

The commission tabled the item. A front yard variance requested by Stacy Gude of Ponderosa Heights was approved. Richards had recommended denial.

Richards said the property had been improved without permits and the proposed 8 x 18-foot addition would provide a setback of 7.5 feet. The proposed addition is for bathroom expansion and a closet area.

Gude said plumbing was already in place since it was a bathroom expansion.

Richards said the original house location has made expansion difficult and that Gude had not adressed a hardship, since lot size and topography are not a limiting factor, and conditions for granting a variance have not been met.

The commission checked a plot plan to determine the position of the proposed bathroom expansion. The expansion touched 7.5 feet from Wax Pine Road, an undeveloped easement. The corner of the original house was only 6.11 feet from the same easement. The commission approved Gude's request.

The conditional use requested by Alex Adams and granted on December 21, 1992, was rescinded by Adams.

Richards said that Adams had submitted plans for placement of a HUD II mobile home on his property.

In January, Adams gained commission approval for placement of a 12 x 20-foot storage shed.

Richards said Adams cleared trees from the site, graded and placed the storage shed, but not a residence on the property.

On April 28, Richards said

Adams indicated that he did not intend to place the HUD II residence on the property.

Richards recommended the planning commission review previous approvals and rescind those approvals if Adams does not provide a specific schedule for development acceptable to the commission.

"What I'm trying to do now is to build an office building, 40 x 60 feet, hopefully a metal building if I can get it approved," Adams said.

Donaldson told Adams uncovered metal buildings were not permitted unless he could cosmetically alter the outside.

He told Adams that he could rescind the conditional use and then make a new application.

Richards said Adams will have to come back before the planning commission with a site development plan.

Adams thanked the commission. Jack Dunlap's request for a replat of Lots 7 and 8, Block 6, of Glen Grove Subdivision was approved. Richards recommended approval to sure an encroachment.

Ruidoso Care Center will be buzzing with activities for National Nursing Home Week, May 11-14.

Residents and staff members will all celebrate this special week and invite community members to recognize the designation with them.

On Monday residents will be treated to a ride in a horse-drawn carriage by J and B Sleigh Rides. Tuesday residents and staff members will be honored in a variety of categories for the Favorite People contest.

Elegant dining, including candles and piano selections provided by Patti Brimberry, will be the feature for residents on Wednesday. The community is especially invited out to the center at 2 p.m. Thursday for a performance by the Ruidoso High School Indian Club. To cap off the week residents, staff and guests will hear some foot-stomping tunes from the Castle Mountain Music band at 2 p.m. Friday.

Celebrate the week along with the rest of the nation by honoring the residents and staff members at Ruidoso Care Center.

Candyce Garrett marble sculptor

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Already a successful sign carver, known for her precise execution and creative style, Candyce Garrett is experiencing similar success in her new venture.

Her third marble sculpture has been chosen for entry in a juried show at the Loveland Museum in Colorado.

And all three of her marble sculptures, created within the last year, have sold for substantial sums of money and feature Garrett's trademark strong, muscular hands.

But the physician who purchased her latest piece entitled "Birth," agreed to allow the sculpture of mother and child to be displayed at the museum during the black and white marble sculpting exhibit from November 4 through January 4.

"Entries were sent in from around the United States and I feel really great about being accepted," Garrett said. "I sent in slides and they made their choice on that basis."

The 450-pound, full-figured mother and child representation stands about 25-inches tall and was carved from a two foot square cube of Yule marble.

"It's from the same Colorado quarry as the material for the Lincoln Monument," Garrett said. "I hope to have two more pieces finished before the show and will take them up with me."

While many people may consider her sign carving an art form, Garrett has been interested in marble carving for several years. She had tried her hand at carving bas relief and three dimensional full-size figures in wood, but she wanted to work in marble.

Last year, she moved on that desire and attended a workshop in Marble, Colorado. The rest, as they say, is history, albeit a short history. But Garrett is optimistic it's only a hint of what she will accomplish in the future.

Woman's Club delegates elected

During April's monthly meeting, the Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club heard a program on health care by Betty Testerman of the Lincoln County Health Center.

Delegates were elected to attend the state's 81st annual convention. Representing the Ruidoso Club and its past presidents' council were Jacqueline Rawlins, Gladys Dendy, Wilma Davis and Sue Crews.

Other members attending as delegates to the convention at the La Fonda Hotel in Santa Fe were Charlotte C. Jarratt, Mew Mexico Federated Woman's Club (NMFWC) first vice president and dean of departments, divisions and committees; Bobbie McDonald, NMFWC chairman of the Community Improvement Project (CIP); and Genevieve Duncan, president of NMFWC-District IV.

Janice Christopherson, President of the Carrizozo Woman's Club and District IV Art Department Chairman, along with Sue Stearns of Nogal, editor of the NMFWC "Clubwoman," attended the convention as delegates, also.

Merle Glenn, public affairs officer of Lincoln National Forest, was a guest speaker. He presented ideas on how the NMFWC and the Forest Service might cooperate on the state president's special project — Conservation and Education.

This will include the renovation of La Pasada Encatada, the Trail for the Blind, near Cloudercroft which was established by the GFWC-NMFWC in 1968.

Charlotte C. Jarratt, assisted by the three district vice presidents, presented a comprehensive workshop on "The If's, And's and But I don't know how's" of annual reporting.

Warrior tracksters set for districts

Even by picking up several first place finishes, the Lady Warriors track team was out numbered by Lovington and Artesia at the Lovington Ross Black Relays Monday.

The competition had been scheduled for Saturday but high winds and lightning halted the events.

The girls tied for third place with Portales behind these two teams with 62 points. Lovington also swept the boys competition by more than 80 points with Artesia in second place. The Ruidoso boys picked up 53 points for third place.

Stephanie Haas was almost a full minute ahead of her competitors in the 3200-meter run with a time of 13 minutes, 30.88 seconds. She took second place in the 1600-meter run in a time of 6:04.25.

Monica Martinez became a state qualifier in the shot put with a first place throw of 35 feet, two inches. Teammate Monique Ramos picked up fifth with a throw of 29-11. Jody Randle took the top honor in the high jump by clearing 5-2. Sarah Dix also qualified for states in the long jump with a distance of 17-6 1/2. Kristie Ryan took fifth with a leap of 14-9 1/2.

Dix also earned sixth place in the 300-meter hurdles with a time of 55.79, while Ryan was sixth in the 200-meter dash with a time of 28.81. Ryan also hit fourth place in the 100-meter dash in 13.62. Lindsay Willard captured third place in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 17.48.

The relay team of Dix, Ryan, Willard and Randle just missed qualifying for states in the 400-meter relay with a time of 53.53, which earned them second place. They also took second in the 800-meter relay with a time of 1:54.03.

Jackie Lynn was the lone first place winner in the boys division with his effort in the 800-meter run. He finished the race in 2:01.84, while teammate Saul Mendez took sixth in 2:11.91. Jason Dix took second place in the 300-meter hurdles with a time of 42.03. Dix also captured fifth place with a time of 16.84 and David Hufstetler was right behind him at 17.31.

Kyle Humphreys took second place in the long jump with a distance of 19-10 1/4, while Dix was third at 19-9 1/2. Both have already qualified for state in this event.

Anthony Torres slipped into third place in the 200-meter dash with a time of 23.82. Gilbert Kayitah was second in the 3200-meter run by recording a time of 10:41.91. Jeff Cox hit a mark of 42-8 in the shot put for sixth place.

The 1600-meter medley relay finished fourth in a time of 4:13.28. The 400-meter relay team took third with a time of 45.44 seconds, just missing the state qualifying mark. The 1600-meter relay team took second place with a time of 3:34.94.

Warrior tracksters have just one shot left at qualifying for state, capturing first or second at the district meet on Saturday in Las Cruces. State competition will be May 14-15 in Albuquerque.

Braves relay team finishes season undefeated

Saving the toughest competition for last, the Ruidoso Middle School Braves finished up the track season at the Berrendo Invitational meet April 27 in Roswell.

Even in the running with the top teams from Roswell, the boys 400-meter relay team of Robert Cruz, Arthur Rojas, Billy Rogge and Clint Pierce maintained their undefeated status for the season. They completed the race in a time of 47.99 seconds, but second place Sierra was right on their heels at 48.47.

In individual events Rogge took third place in the 300-meter hurdles in a time of 45.24. Cruz earned fifth in the 100-meter dash in 12.30, while Pierce was fifth in the long jump at 17-8.

The girls team also had a tough time with the competition in Roswell and placed in just one event. The 400-meter relay team of Cindy Scott, Sherry Williams, Amy Coble and Jenny Ritter earned fourth place with a time of 57.44.

The relay teams also collected the first place prize at the Hagerman Invitational earlier in April. The girls 400 meter took the top place with a time of 56.74 and the boys had their best time of the year at 47.63. The girls 800-meter relay team was also first with a time of 2:04.18. The boys took first in a time of 1:41.36.

In the boys shot put Tommie Richardson had a distance of 33-2, while Kenny Ellard was at 30-2. Alex Montes had a throw of 26 feet, one-quarter inch. In the girls Jessica Blaney had a throw of 17 feet, and Dian Drury went two inches farther.

In the girls discus Blaney had a throw of 46-10 1/2 and Drury hit 45-6. In the boys division Craig Baldrige made 94-3, while Ellard threw one 91-6. Phillip Bunch's final mark was 86-7.

In the boys long jump Rojas leaped 17-4 1/2, while Pierce hit 16-11. Rogge was just one foot behind him at 15-11. Kent Sparks and Cruz both made 6-6 in the pole vault.

In the 100-meter hurdles Guadalupe Garcia had a time of 20.07, while Caleb Hull finished in 24 seconds flat. In the girls division Reyes completed the race in 20.09 and Coble was at 20.75. Kelle Luteran finished in 21.60. In the 100-meter dash Reyes kicked it in for a time of 14.22, and Williams was close behind at 14.31. Scott finished in 14.37.

Cruz finished the 100-meter dash in 11.65 seconds with Pierce completing it at 12.54. Bunch ran the race in 13.94. Althea Palmer recorded a time of 3:35.0 in the 800 meter and Shannon Pillar made the race in 4:02.0. For the boys Baldrige completed the 800 meters in 2:36.45 and Williams finished in 2:49.20.

Summer Paxton completed the 400-meter dash in 1:12.26, while Drury's time was 1:29.59. Palmer also did well with a time of 1:27.15. Kent Sparks competed in the boys division with a time of 1:03.72. He was also in the mile run with a time of 5:28.52.

Blaney finished the 300-meter hurdles in 1:10.32 for the girls, while Rogge completed the race in 50.46 for the boys. In the 200-meter dash Ritter hit 29.87 and Reyes recorded a time of 31.72. In the boys division Rojas finished at 25.24, Hull at 31.06 and Bunch at 31.86.

The top performances of the year in each event for the boys are 400 meter relay team of Cruz, Rojas, Rogge and Pierce, 47.63 seconds; 100 meter hurdles, Guadalupe Garcia, 19.19; discus, Craig Baldrige, 101-9; 100-meter dash Cruz 11.65; high jump, Rojas, 4-8; 400 meter dash, Sparks 62.84; 1600-meter run, Sparks, 5:28.52; 800-meter relay of Cruz, Rojas, Rogge, Pierce, 1:40.77; shot put, Richardson, 34-10; 300 meter hurdles, Rogge, 45.24; long jump, Pierce, 17-8; 800-meter run, Baldrige, 2:36.45; 1600-medley relay, 4:51.34; 200-meter dash, Rojas, 25.12; 1600-meter relay, 4:48.9; and pole vault, Cruz, 9 feet.

Top performances for the girls this year include the 400 meter relay team of Scott, Williams, Coble and Ritter, 56.74; 100-meter hurdles, Reyes, 20.09; discus, Blaney, 52-5 1/2; 100-meter dash, Ritter, 14.74; high jump, Luteran, 3-10; 400-meter dash, Paxton, 72.26; 800-meter relay of Scott, Paxton, Coble and Ritter, 2:03.07; shot put, Drury, 18-1; 300-meter hurdles, Blaney, 70.32; long jump, Ritter, 15-2; 800-meter run, Paxton, 3:12.81; and 200-meter dash, Ritter, 29.56.

Soccer players hit State Cup

Two area boys will compete in the the New Mexico State Cup on Saturday and Sunday in Las Cruces with the Roswell Sidekicks, a New Mexico Select State Cup team.

Brent Buchhagen and Jimmy Stover of Ruidoso play in the under 13 division and their team will compete against seven of the top teams in the state this weekend.

The two also helped the Sidekicks to a second place finish in the State Knock-Out rounds on April 24-25.

The Ruidoso travel team of 12 and under players has also made its way into the State Cup competition this weekend in Hobbs.

A's and B's wrap up top spot

The A's and B's squeaked by WhooPS! to pick up the title for the second half of the season for the Tuesday night mixed bowling league.

The team picked up 36 wins and lost 24 but it was enough to pass WhooPS!, which has led the league for the last few weeks. They finished the year at 35.5 wins and 24.5 losses. Home Alone III was also in the race for the top spot but had to settle for third with 34.5 wins and 25.5 losses.

Simpson Bus Lines hit fourth place with 33 wins and 27 losses. Two teams, Hughes' Body Shop and United New Mexico Bank, each had 29 wins and 31 losses. Conklin, though, was right behind them with 28 wins and 32 losses.

No Taps and Vac and Sew both finished the season with 26 wins and 34 losses. Cablevision picked up 22 wins and 38 losses.

Enter sand volleyball match

The hottest, fastest growing game on sand will set beaches ablaze this summer in 17 cities across the country, including Albuquerque, during the ninth annual Jose Cuervo Beach Volleyball Series which begins May 8-9 in Santa Barbara, California.

Competitors will be spiking and digging for fun, as well as for qualifying spots at the $25,000 Cuervo National Championship in September.

The contest in Albuquerque will be May 22-23 at the Albuquerque Sun and Sand.

At each event, teams placing first and second in the men's and women's Open divisions will advance to the Cuervo National Championships at Lauderdale-By-The-Sea, Florida, September 18-19, for the sport's only national amateur championship tournament.

Special awards and merchandise prizes will be presented to the first-through fourth-place finishers in each division. In addition, spectators will be eligible to win special prizes.

All players must be 21-years of age or older. The pre-registration fee is $35 for Open and $30 for A, B and C divisions. Day-of-event registration will be an additional $5 for all divisions and begins at 7:30 a.m. on a first-come, first-served basis.

Museum of the Horse plans first birthday celebration

It's hard to believe, but the Museum of the Horse is fast approaching its first anniversary of being open to the public.

It's been a momentous first year and the Museum has improved with each passing month. New artifacts are being displayed, signs in Spanish is being added for Spanish speaking visitors, educational and entertaining membership programs are planned and have been very well attended, and new exhibits are in the works. If you haven't visited the Museum of the Horse, come and see how they've changed!

In honor of their first birthday, a grand anniversary celebration is planned for Saturday evening, May 29 from 7 p.m. to midnight at the Museum of the Horse. That evening also marks the grand opening of the Museum's newest permanent exhibit "A Whirlwind Of Change - The Horse's Conquest of the American West". This multi-cultural exhibit traces the story of the horse in North America.

Visitors will see the new world through the eyes of explorers and examine a life-size figure of a Conquistador in full armor, mounted on the famous Spanish Barb. Museum goers will explore Native American culture through the display of prehistoric stone artifacts, weapons and pottery produced from 1300 AD to the present. Included are textiles, baskets, jewelry, an ornamental Plains Indian buffalo-hide shield, beaded and quilled mocassins and much more! Rounding out the exhibit is a full array of cowboy riding accouterments, from a circa 1873 Winchester rifle, to chaps, spurs, bridles, lariats and other paraphernalia - including the recently restored Abbott and Downing stagecoach, believed to have been a part of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show.

To celebrate the unveiling of this unique exhibit, Ramon Licon, a Spanish classical guitarist, Sharon Burns, a local cowgirl poet and native American Indian dancers will perform at the anniversary gala. Following the exhibit opening, the Museum will clear the floor and make room for dancing as guests enjoy the music of the popular local band, Ricochet. Ticket prices also include a sumptuous buffet. Tickets for the event are $35 per person for non-members of the Museum and $25 per person for members of the Museum of the Horse. Tickets are now available at the Museum of the Horse. For more information, please call 878-4142.

Also on hand at the anniversary celebration will be Santa Fe artist, Eric Michaels. As a membership bonus, all members of the Museum of the Horse who attend the anniversary gala will receive the second annual Museum of the Horse poster. This year's poster will feature Michael's portrayal of Indian dancers, "Young In The Old Ways".

Eric Michaels will be on hand to sign posters that evening, increasing the value of this beautiful gift. It will be a fun filled evening of dancing, wonderful food and great company. Plan now to help the Museum of the Horse celebrate its first birthday!

Senior parents plan safe graduation party

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Keeping the night of graduation on May 27, a safe, but enjoyable experience for Ruidoso High School seniors is the goal of a group of dedicated parents, who have been combining the village for support.

"The Ruidoso Bowling Center on Mechem will close at midnight to the general public and let seniors and one guest each in free until 12:30 a.m. (Friday, May 28)," said Judy Shaw, one of the organizers of Project Graduation.

"They will lock the doors at 12:30 a.m. and if the kids leave, they can't come back. The party will wind down at 5 a.m.

"About every 15 minutes, a prize will be given away to seniors only for lots of different reasons, the color of eyeshadow, the size of somebody's shoes. Who knows."

During the last hour, the big bucks will be claimed. Five hundred dollars is in the pot.

Those participating in Project Graduation will be admitted free.

Once inside, they can bowl for free and some video games may be played without charge. Soft drinks also will be free.

For those with the munchies, Pizza Hut and Pizza Rio will provide free pizza slices. Other donated goodies will include cookies, brownies and sandwiches.

The InnCredible staff is bringing vegetables and dip.

"So the kids will be set for the entire evening," Shaw said. "Music available for playing will include hard rock, rap and even some easy listening. There's room to dance."

"Kids can bring pillows. They don't have to be awake to win the prizes."

Tables are set up for groups of friends to spend the evening together.

"We're also trying to get a video of the prom and of graduation so they can watch them, too," Shaw said. "This is the fourth year for the activity. A similar get-together was staged on prom night and 75 kids attended after the dance."

She said parents still are in the process of soliciting support and prizes for the event.

"We would welcome donations of money or articles that teenagers would enjoy," Shaw said. "If you haven't been contacted, feel free to call us. We've had great cooperation from the community. Janis and Richard Loverin have been working hard on it."

For more information or to offer donations, call the Loverins at 257-6111 or Shaw at 258-4545.

The next meeting of the parents of seniors is set for 7 p.m. May 11 at the high school either in the library or public meeting room.

"Please come," Shaw said. "We need help from everyone."

Odyssey kids take first place

Mind-boggling minions minced no words and walked off with a first place for Capitan in the state high school Odyssey of the Mind competition last month.

Coached by Nell Davis and Gloria Witham, the Capitan high school six-member team competed in Albuquerque at a Division three level against six other teams from around the state.

They placed first in their division for their solution to the problem "Old Man and the Sea Analogy," in which they had to design and present a skit that illustrated the team's interpretation of the original story by Ernest Hemingway.

In the next section of the competition, students showed their spontaneous creative-thinking skills and won second place.

The third part of the competition consisted of "style" in performance and the team placed third.

Overall, the team took second place in their division.

Team members worked more than 150 hours designing, building, rebuilding and practicing their performances.

Team members are Keith Witham, Joyce Robbins, Stacy Sidwell, Meghan McGrath, Heather Woodell and Travis Jacquess.

New Capitan school head hired

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

For the first time as far as school board members can recall, a woman will be at the head of the Capitan school district.

During a special board meeting Tuesday, the three members who attended voted unanimously to hire Diane Sonnamaker, currently assistant superintendent for personnel in the Hobbs school district.

"I think her personality and her people skills are what won my vote," said Board president Tom Trost. "She's very personable and competent in all areas we were looking at. She's been personnel director and we know she's dealt with people. I was just very impressed with her and had a good feeling about her."

Sonnamaker has two daughters and currently is single. She has worked for the Hobbs district for more than 10 years.

Trost said she will be paid an annual salary of $53,000, which is more than out-going superintendent David Lock was earning, but will match her salary in Hobbs.

Sonnamaker won't be the only woman in the top ranks. Beverly Payne was elected earlier this year to the school board, only the second woman to serve in that capacity.

After the vote by Trost, Payne and Tom Worrell, the board president called Sonnamaker to make sure she would accept the job and to agree upon a salary.

At the next regular board meeting May 13, the other two member, Jack King and Russell Shearer, will be asked for their consensus, even though the vote already is official.

Trost said a thorough background check was performed on Sonnamaker by contacting everyone from the Hobbs superintendent to secretaries, custodians and teachers. They all talked highly of her, he said. Three Capitan teachers at the meeting said they also had talked to teachers in the Hobbs area and received favorable reports.

Trost said the board would like Sonnamaker to be on board by June 15, but that depends on whether money is available in the budget and other factors.

About 25 educators applied for the position and four, including Sonnamaker, were interviewed two weeks ago. Sonnamaker was the only woman among the four chosen for personal interviews.

Tigers sweep district meet

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

They came home champs. Both the Tigers girls and boys track teams won their district meets Saturday, bringing trophies back to Capitan high school.

The girls won first place with Cloudercroft a close second. The boys piled up 138 points against Loving, their closest competitor at 122 points.

When everything had been tallied, 14 boys qualified to compete in state in 16 different events.

"We won three out of four relays," said coach Ed Davis.

Chris Smith won the 100 meter run with 11.2. Rodney Sedillo took first in the mile with 4:59 and Neil Montes took second in the two mile run with 11:00.

Michael Fish and Trevor Cox placed second and third in the hurdles. Chris Smith was pushed out of first place to take second in a photo finish on the 200 meter dash.

Justin Weber and Orlando Baca placed second and third in the 400 meter dash.

"We finished second in discus and Kyle Traylor scored a new school record in high jump with 6-feet, 3-inches," Davis said. "We placed second and third in javelin and Mike Fish took second in the long jump. Josh Peralta came in fifth in pole vault."

"I want to emphasize that while the first and second places get a lot of the attention, we had numerous boys who placed third through fifth and gave us the points we needed to win. It was a super combined effort of the whole team."

"Four people placed in the two miles run and four in the 200 meter dash that kicked us over the top."

On the girls side, the team won all four of its relays and Joni Autrey, an eighth grader, ran the 800 meter in 2:31, winning first place, Davis said.

In shot put, the girls won 20 out of 21 points.

"Just like the boys, all the girls did a super job," Davis said. "Those second and third places are what really add up."

State competition is set for May 7-8 in Albuquerque. Capitan will be sending up a big bus stuffed with their top notch competitors. Since the contest falls on the weekend, plenty of parents and siblings should also be headed to the north to cheer team members to victory.

Davis said he's happy and proud with the district win, no matter what the outcome at state.

Extension group meets

The Capitan Extension Club will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 12, at the Zia Senior Citizen's Center.

Hostesses will be Frances Shaw and May Dean. Nina Ross will present a program on "Sew Smart." Anita Peters will teach how to make jewelry from paper.

Bring money for lunch, three sheets of wrapping paper four inches square, paper scissors and a glue gun.

Dinner benefits Smokey

Frontier formal attire Capitan-style is required Saturday, May 8, at the Friends of Smokey annual dinner. That means boots and jeans, according to coordinator Kathleen Hellman.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Capitan high school all purpose room. Admission is $5 before May and $8 at the door. Enjoy the good food and good friends while helping the community prepare for the big Fiftieth Birthday celebration for Smokey next year.

Bruin quilt benefits needy

Members of the Capitan Handmaidens show off a red bear quilt that will be awarded at a drawing July 3. Tickets sell for $1 each or six for $5. The handmaidens will operate a bazaar during the July Fourth summer celebration and invite other crafters to participate. Seated is vice president Mae Crouse. At right is secretary-treasurer Doris Pounds next to president Nina Ross.

Peg

the heart of Fenton's Gallery

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A brilliant core of energy sizzles on the main street of Ruidoso, but don't worry, the source is not nuclear.

The bright shine comes from Fenton's Art Gallery and its manager/co-owner, Peggy Fenton.

Dressed in color-coordinated stylish Western outfits that run from arresting to outrageous, Peg Fenton has created a special mood of friendliness that draws new customers to her door and has built a reputation for reliable service that brings former customers back.

The gallery is poised on a major 2,100-square-foot expansion to meet that demand.

Although the business partnership between Peg and her husband, Dan Fenton, founder of the gallery, began years earlier, marriage became part of the union just two years ago.

In the beginning

Fenton started the Ruidoso gallery in 1979, first in Pine Tree Square. Two years later, he moved the business to its current location, where a friend, who originally urged Fenton to consider a gallery in the area, ran the operation for several years.

But the couple eventually took over the reins. They have lightened the building trim and Fenton brought in an architect to achieve the look he wanted. Best of all, they have increased the inventory, stretching out to include more artists and more choices from each.

Although Peg, with her gleaming smile, is the up-front person who most customers will see in the gallery, the couple's relationship is a true partnership.

"Prints are the new thing on the market, which has changed a lot in the last few years. The right print might have cost $65 when issued and be worth $10,000 now."

Gallery Owner Dan Fenton

Fenton, who took art lessons as a boy and attended a special school to learn about framing, previously was in the feed lot business, an unlikely stepping stone to an art gallery. When that business was shut down, Fenton took over management of four dry goods stores his father had opened decades earlier. Fenton stuck with the stores for 10 years, but more and more he became interested in art, starting with a section in one of the stores in Snyder, Texas.

"There used to be a lot of art there," Fenton said. "It was a major oil town with lots of money."

Although Peg and Dan Fenton grew up in the same county, she was ahead of him a few years in school and never really knew him.

"My father and he were good friends in the cattle business from the time he was 16, but I never really knew him because when I graduated from high school, I was out of there," she said.

In college, fun turned out to be her major, although her courses were in business. She married, moved to a ranch in Del Rio, Texas, on the border with Mexico, ran a large antique shop with her first husband and raised two children.

But her daughter suffered from asthma and after nine years, the family moved to Fort Davis, Texas, for a drier climate.

Years later, when her son was a junior year in high school, she decided he needed a better school and enrolled him at the New Mexico Military Institute. When Thanksgiving rolled around, she drove to Roswell to meet him and the family came to Ruidoso for the holiday.

Peg ran into a friend who advised her to stop at the Fenton gallery. She bought a picture for her father, was impressed with the framing work and noticed on the back it said "Fenton's, Snyder, Texas."

A few months later, she was visiting her father and he took her downtown to the Fenton store in Snyder.

"I was so enthused, because (Fenton) was pushing hard an artist friend of mine," Peg said. "I had noticed that in the Ruidoso gallery, too. He came walking up and I told him he should open a gallery in Fort Davis."

Peg turned into a walking, talking endorsement for Fenton whenever the subject of art came up. They met often on Fenton's frequent trips to deliver framed items to one of her artist friends in Fort Davis.

A gold find

"One night, he knocked on my door and told me to find a place for a gallery the next day," Peg said. That was 1980. Galleries in San Angelo, Texas, and Santa Fe followed. More time opened up for her as her children attended college and then took off on their own.

Fenton decided to shift his best asset to Ruidoso and Peg moved into a small apartment on the second floor of the building on Sudderth Drive.

"Everything was in dark colors and there was only a tiny window. I'd wake up at night and say what am I doing here?" Peg said. The building now is painted in light colors and has been opened up, creating an entirely different look.

Although Ruidoso traditionally has experienced a heavy emphasis on art, many galleries just haven't been able to survive.

"The village had 30 galleries when he (Fenton) first came here and he's seen all of them go," she said.

To avoid the vagaries of the economy, Fenton said a large part of his business is conducted on the road.

Fast-paced schedule

"We participate in shows and have a large business by mail," he said. "From October until May 1, I'm not even here. That generates business all year long. Otherwise, all of the business would be concentrated from Memorial Day to Labor Day."

The couple estimates that only about 30-35 percent of their business originates in Ruidoso. Besides the shows, they have substantial orders by mail and they have other stores.

The gallery is open seven days a week, "a necessity if you're located in a resort area," Peg said.

Fenton handles a huge show each year in the Western Emporium in Las Vegas, Nevada.

"They gave us a tiny space the first year in the big tent show in Las Vegas, but were so happy with the business we did, they said they would give us as much as we wanted for the second show," he said.

GALLERY OWNER

The gallery was asked to set up at the Western Emporium, famous across the nation for moving gigantic volumes of merchandise.

Fenton, whose easy-going demeanor is guaranteed to relax customers, attends 14 shows from October to April, plus shows in Las Vegas at Thanksgiving and Christmas. The stops include the World Championship Quarterhorse show in Oklahoma, and other shows in Houston, Texas; Denver, Colorado; and Sacramento, San Mateo, Palm Springs and San Diego, California.

Buying art

"Some of the customers we've picked up have never been interested in art before," Peg said. They have gone out of their way to encourage that new interest and their effort has paid off for the gallery and for the customers. They've created new collectors, even one woman who started at about 80 years of age.

Much of the gallery's business revolves around previously satisfied customers who come from as far away as metropolitan centers in Texas, California and Oklahoma just to have Fenton's frame their prized paintings.

"Prints are the new thing on the market, which has changed a lot in the last few years," Fenton said. "The right print might have cost $65 when issued and be worth $10,000 now."

Southwestern art still draws mostly on a regional level, he said. Wildlife subjects always are popular and Western has a strong following. Fenton said he stays with artists whose work he knows and doesn't experiment much with unproven names. He's also streamlined his operation.

"I've tried it with more and it doesn't work," Fenton said. "You have to stay with what you can do yourself. I had five galleries at one time."

Some of his favorite artists are

Beverly Doolittle, a Connecticut painter whose camouflage paintings have captured the buying public's imagination; Howard Terpin, winner of the first annual Hubbard Art Award and painter of scenes depicting Native Americans; and G. Harvey, whose themes range from the big city to the Western frontier.

Realistically, the average buyer spends in the $350 range, Fenton said. To help them acquire art, but not be hit all at one time, Fenton will work out payment plans.

Currently being remodeled, the gallery will feature a new 2,100-square-foot, two-story frame shop in back of the existing building and expanded parking space. The move will open up more display area in the main gallery, Fenton said. Completion is anticipated by May 15.

"We've been making do and now we are going to build it right," Fenton said.

One thing is certain, with the combination of Fenton's laid back style and Peg's enthusiasm, they've hit on a winning combination even if legalized gambling never comes to Ruidoso.

Seated next to one of her favorite paintings, Fenton takes a few minutes to relax, but it won't last long. She's known for her inexhaustible drive and exuberance. The gallery on Sudderth Drive is undergoing renovation and a new multi-story framing shop is being added in back of the main building. Peg and her husband, Dan Fenton, operate one of the village's most successful galleries.

Peg Fenton sorts through a dozen framed paintings in her gallery on Sudderth Drive. Her sunny disposition and queen-size smile capture the attention of new customers, but it's the service and framing talent of the Fentons that holds them. The gallery receives orders for framing from loyal customers in California and Texas on a regular basis. About one-third of the Fenton's business originates in Ruidoso. That business is supplemented by shows on the road and mail orders.

Obituary

Betty Gwinn Delaney

Graveside services for Betty Gwinn Delaney, 84, of Ruidoso will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in Forest Lawn Cemetery. Officiating will be the Dr. William E. Scholes, interim pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Ruidoso.

Delaney died Tuesday at the Ruidoso Care Center. She was born February 12, 1909, in Port Angeles, Washington, to Georgia Coalter and James William Gwinn.

She had been a bookkeeper for several lumber companies. She was the organist at First Presbyterian Church during the 1960s. She was an early member of the Ruidoso Woman's Club when it organized at the Navajo Lodge.

She married Tom Colby Delaney on June 13, 1937, in Roswell. They moved to Ruidoso in 1948 from Carlsbad. She was preceded in death by her husband on August 21, 1989.

Survivors include her brother, James W. Gwinn of Wilmington, North Carolina; three nieces, Gwynne Clements of Houston, Texas, Betty Manolakes of Littleton, Colorado and Susan Goetz of Baltimore, Maryland; three nephews, Jay Gwinn of Durham, New Hampshire, Meade Gwinn of Manassas, Virginia and Brad Gwinn of Waterbury Vermont; 13 great-nieces and nephews and one great-great-nephew.

The family has requested memorials to the First Presbyterian Church, P.O. Box 310, Ruidoso 88345.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel of Ruidoso.

Douglas Wayne Stephenson

A memorial service for Douglas Wayne Stephenson, 58, will be at 10:30 a.m. Monday at Holy Mount Episcopal Church in Ruidoso.

A graveside service was held Wednesday at Rest Haven Cemetery in Midland, Texas. Father Jon Staasney of St. Nicholas Episcopal Church officiated.

He died at his Ruidoso residence on May 1.

Stephenson was born in Hawley, Texas, on March 3, 1935, and moved to Witharal, Texas. He graduated from Witharal High School in 1953. He was a 30-year resident of Midland, where he was a sales representative for Mid-Tex of Midland, owner and operator of Carrousel Floors and business manager of the Frame Korner.

He was a Boy Scout Leader for Troop 233 and was a member of First Christian Church. In Ruidoso, he was employed by Innsbrook Country Club and Betty Beachum Realtors. Most recently he received his real estate license and was associated with Top Brass Realtors of Ruidoso.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Coda and Effie Collins Stephenson; one brother, C.E. and one son, Bryan.

Survivors include his wife, Shirley; three sons, David and Coda of Arlington, Texas and James of Dallas, Texas; three daughters, Gina Piner and Joliana Stephenson of Arlington and Melissa Stephenson of Lubbock, Texas; three step-sons, Randall and Sheldon Skinner of Midland and Kendall Skinner of Chaska, Minnesota; one brother, Coda of Lubbock and 13 grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Lincoln County Medical Center Hospital Auxiliary, Box 392, Ruidoso 88345 or Holy Mount Episcopal Church, Box 3367, Ruidoso 88345.

Ruidoso arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Silver Lining

Dan says goodbye to a friend named Bill

Memorial Services were held May 3 at Church of the Holy Mount in Ruidoso for Carl William Hostetter Jr., affectionately known as "Bill," who was called home by Our Lord on April 29.

Father John Penn welcomed the congregation to the celebration of the life of our beloved friend, Carl William Hostetter Jr.

Lay Reader, Pat Delhotal, read from the Book of Isaiah:

"The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because He hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek, he hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives."

Also in leading the recitation of the Twenty-third Psalm:

"The Lord is my shepherd
I shall not want

He maketh me lie down in green pastures

He leadeth me beside the still waters."

Lay reader, Dan Storm, read from the letter of the Apostle Paul to the Romans:

"For all who are led by the spirit of God are Children of God. For you did not receive the spirit of slavery to fall back into fear, but you have received a Spirit of adoption."

The Reverend Robert Batton read from the Gospel according to Saint John:

"Jesus sayeth unto her, I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

Special Prayers

Father John Penn read a special prayer for Bill from the Book of Common Prayer:

"O God of grace and glory, we remember be-

by Daniel Agnew
Storm

fore You today our brother William. We thank You for giving him to us, his family and friends, to know and to love as a companion on our earthly pilgrimage. In Your boundless compassion, console us who mourn. Give us faith to see in death the gate to eternal life, so that in quiet confidence we may continue our course on earth, until, by Your call, we are reunited with those who have gone on before; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Lay Reader, Susan Penn, led in prayers of the people:

"For our Brother Bill let us pray to Our Lord Jesus Christ who said, 'I am the resurrection and the life.'"

Lord, You consoled Martha and Mary in their distress; draw near to us who mourn for Bill and dry the tears of those who weep."

In the homily, Father Penn described Bill as a man of uplifting and cheerful personality who often joked about his weather forecasting and the weather in general.

During a heavy downpour, a portion of the Penn property was flooded. Bill, coming by, said, "What you need is an alligator for this lake." Susan Penn recited humorous sidelights on this same joke.

Bob Batton had many kind words for his friend, Bill. At the invitation of Father Penn, several members of the congregation spoke highly of Bill.

Bill Hostetter was a Christian gentleman, and the blessing he has brought into our lives will remain with us always. And we rejoice that he is safe and happy with Our Lord in Heaven.

Happy Birthday to George Westall

The Perry Ranch at Glencoe was host for a gathering in celebration of the eightieth birthday of George Westall.

George was born May 2, 1913, in Lawrenceville, Illinois, to Glen and Gladys Westall. He remembers that his father followed all the oil booms, and the family arrived in New Mexico in 1924.

George went to school in Artesia and graduated from high school in Lovington.

On July 10, 1936, he was married to the former Willah Mae Joy. This July 10 they will celebrate their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary.

They have two children, Glen Richard Westall and Georgianna Westall Perry. They also have five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Willah Mae is a native of New Mexico raised near the pioneer settlement of Weed.

She remembers her father, W. R. Joy, as a great cowboy who could make up songs as he sang while riding horseback.

George and Willah Mae have lived in Ruidoso since 1947. We congratulate them on their approaching anniversary, and we wish George many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

Century 2000 STE child car safety seat recalled

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) has announced a safety recall of certain Century Model 2000 STE Child Car Seats because the latch mechanism can open in a crash. Consumers are urged to contact the manufacturer for a free repair kit. The recall involves Century

Model 2000 STE Child Car Seats manufactured from December 1991 through April 1992, model numbers 4253, 4261, 4263, 4265 and 4266. A number giving the year and month of manufacture is stamped on a label on the side of each seat. Consumers should look at the last four digits for code numbers 9112 through 9204.

Century Products is developing a repair kit to fix the buckle mechanism. Owners can obtain the kit by calling Century at (1-800) 255-2220 or by writing to Century Products Company at 9600 Valley View Road, Macedonia, OH 44056. Parents who may be concerned about other past recalls may contact Connie Monahan at Safer New Mexico Now. The toll-free number is (1-800) 231-6145. Have the following information on hand: name of manufacture, model of car seat and date of manufacture. This information can be found on the label affixed to the car seat.

Fifth graders in tune with nature

Two days of getting to know the earth and some of the functions of the plants and animals that inhabit it was the focus of Conservation Days.

Staged at Cedar Creek Group Campground, members of several state and federal agencies created learning centers through which groups of students from around the county passed.

Sponsored by the New Mexico State Forestry and the U.S. Forest Service last week, the two-day event was geared to fifth graders. Traveling from schools in Ruidoso, Capitan, Hondo and Carrizozo, the students stopped for 20 minutes at each center to hear about conservation of resources. Topics included archaeology, wildlife conservation, soil conservation, watershed management, fire equipment and fire management.

Agencies represented in the presentations were the U.S. Forest Service (USFS), the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), Holloman Air Force Base (HAFB), Soil Conservation Service (SCS), New Mexico Game and Fish (NMGF), Ruidoso Fire Department and New Mexico State Forestry (NMSF).

Participants included Bob Cooper, BIA, tree measurement; Guy Miller and Warren Bain, USFS, tree identification; Marty Tagg and J.R. Gomolak, HAFB, archaeology; Clarence Chavez, Hollis Fuchs and Greg Haussler, SCS, soil conservation; Ben Hanson and Ron Moore, NMGF, wildlife conservation; Bill Tucker, David Cummings, Diana Person, USFS and Dusty Voss, BLM, fire management; Roby Hall, Bill Jenkins, Chet Southard, Ruidoso FD, Gerald Simmons and Tony Cowen, USFS, on fire equipment; and Steve Daly, BLM, on watershed management.

Also assisting coordinator Lynn Hutchison of the state forest service were Mickey Mauter, USFS, and Marcy Ugstad, BLM.

Warren Bain of the U.S. Forest Service passes out swatches of Ponderosa pine branches to students.

Staff members from a long list of state and federal agencies connected to wildlife, conservation and ecology turned out for the annual Conservation Day at Cedar Creek group campground. Clockwise from left, Steve Daly from the BLM illustrates watershed protection, Marty Tagg from Holloman talks about prehistoric tools, Warren Bain with the USFS passes out Ponderosa pine limbs, Tagg talks some more and Ben Hanson with State Game and Fish describes a bear den.

Mother of the year...

I thank my mother
because she is very nice,
and always cooks for us.
she keeps us clean and healthy.
I am glad I have a mother.
And she washes my clothes.
And she is a hard worker around the house. She helps me if I have a problem, or helps me on my homework.
She is always there for me even when I am sick. She is very special to us. She gives us good advice, And she irons our clothes. And hangs our clothes. She is a pretty nice mom. I love mom. She is the best.
She is my mother of the year.

Trash collection is a year around job

What was billed as the annual area wide cleanup campaign is over, but the task of keeping our hometowns clean is ongoing. Area villages and the county have the responsibility of keeping public areas clean all year long.

And there's the rub. It's easy to put cleanliness at the low end of priorities for elected officials and their agents who are dealing regularly with public safety, road maintenance and repairs, a healthy water supply, sewers and holding the line on taxes.

Now, with the formation of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, it's tempting for local leaders to wash their hands of the obligation to keep the town clean. They might want to leave the whole job of cleanup to the Authority. But that wouldn't be right — it takes everybody.

Of course Authority employees should be the county's first line of defense in the war on trash. They should pick up garbage often enough, be sure it ends up in the truck and keep the area around dumpsters picked up. Those same employees should take note of littered public areas and turn those notes in to the Authority foreman. And it shouldn't end there.

The county and villages should find the funds to pay for regular cleanup crews. It wouldn't be that expensive — far less than a feasibility study. How simple — hand some minimum wage works a supply of garbage bags and protective gloves and put them on a regular schedule with the towns and county divided into cleaning zones.

Sad but true, by the time crews have worked their way through all zones, it will be time to start over.

The days of expecting Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts to carry the burden of our annual cleanup are gone. The job is too big and the health risks are too great to leave this job to young people. Sure, adopt-a-highway programs are great and a terrific public service, but the real responsibility is with the boards, councils and commissions.

We need an action plan backed up with commitment and funding.

Off Beat

Bright yellow stripes make me feel safer

Cheap yellow paint works better than money when it comes to public safety. Ask the State Highway Department. I did.

If you live in Ruidoso, you know a winter's drive down icy slick Sudderth Drive hill is an adventure. Once you've started the slide, you move from lane to lane, mostly sideways.

It's only a guess in which of the four lanes you'll end up, providing the cars forced to dodge you coming up the hill miss.

Some people view the uncontrolled down hill slide into the face of panic stricken motorists as dangerous. Apparently, not officials with the State Highway Department. They told me there are no engineering plans to correct the hill. After all, it has been that way for years.

At the bottom of the hill is Carrizo Creek Road, where some signs indicate no right turn while other signs lead you to believe right turns are OK. It could be confusing, but the highway officials just yawned when I told them. It's been that way for years.

Another sign sits on state land near that area. The state highway department says I can't put a sign there, but this sign belongs to an important person from another nation and officials don't want to upset him. Besides, he told them, "No!"

They didn't say the sign had been there for years, although it has. They first said, "Sign? Sign? What sign?"

Who are "they?" I wouldn't want to embarrass anyone by divulging the names of highway department officials I talked to (Tom Dick and Tim Basler), but cost was a factor in my discussion in all three cases.

U.S. 70 down the hill toward Roswell was a death trap last year. No fender benders, just deadly head-on collisions. It's been that way for years. Very costly to correct that situation. Better study it some more.

But wait! Suddenly, there appears to be a hazard that surpasses slippery hills, conflicting informational signs and head on curves. A need so desperate, that grown highway department engineers are screaming, "Stop the carnage, now!"

Sudderth Drive needs to be striped to offset a flood of rear end collisions, they cry. No, they didn't have any accident reports for proof, but their statistics show rear end collisions will drop by 25 to 40 percent with left turn lanes only.

Left turn lanes are sometimes called "suicide" lanes because the propensity toward higher speeds in other open lanes results in accidents that are ... well, let's just say it ain't pretty.

A left turn lane only down the center of Sudderth also would eliminate parking on either side of the street.

Traffic, normally 10 feet from the curb, would be forced next to the curb. Any increase in hitting pedestrians, say by 25 to 40 percent, might have the highway engineers striping the grass.

Sure, no parking will disrupt some businesses, maybe put a few out of business. But heck sake, guys, who cares about gross receipts anyway? We aren't looking at a lot of money, only a lot of paint. That's the beauty of it.

Perhaps this mandate for safety was upgraded after highway department chief Lou Medrano got rear ended near the Cattle Baron a few months ago. People named Lou usually break legs to get even, but this Lou wants his crew to break open a bucket of Sherwin-Williams.

It's all so simple. Protecting life and limb down Sudderth hill or on U.S. 70 would be a piece of cake if highway engineers could figure out just where to spray a little lamen yellow.

It isn't the money, you know. The highway department cares about your safety. They told me so, and they wouldn't lie, would they? It's just that they prefer to protect you through yellow paint. Preferably, cheap yellow paint.

About six or seven years ago when residents worked for the Village of Ruidoso, they must have been making a fairly decent wage.

With that wage, they established a style of living. You're born, so you have to live — it's just the way things go.

These village employees purchased cars, bought clothes and groceries and made investments based on that wage at that time.

Unfortunately, as the years passed, prices have climbed at least six percent a year. They always do. It's called inflation.

You see, other people who make decent wages (management) are still buying. It drives all costs up.

Six or seven years without a raise can be devastating to the lower level employee. A cost of living raise could hardly bring them to anywhere near what they should expect in style of living, because he or she is so many years behind.

These workers haven't done anything wrong. The system says if they work hard, the money will come. They've been told that as incentive to work hard. It's a fable management likes to tell.

The village council has spent thousands and thousands of dollars on projects that have raised hundreds and hundreds of eyebrows. They've been elected, it's their choice. Remember that.

And we've heard them tout that the dollar we so desperately seek gets turned over six times by special events, celebrations or conventions we bring to town for a weekend. If that's true, then why wouldn't that same dollar turn over in town many more times if we gave a decent raise to full time village employees who haven't had one in years?

I've heard councilors say they remember a cost of living raise. I say if it can't bring home an extra quart of milk a week, it's not a raise.

Upper management gets enough. Let them cry all they want. (Did you know our village manager just got a raise?) But in the name of decency, couldn't the council strike a few feasibility studies from the budget and give people who actually work for the village a decent raise? Budget talks begin May 10.

Chee personifies principles

by MOLLIE WEBER
Special to The News

Freedom to celebrate our heritage and worship as we please are rights that most take for granted and seldom give a second thought.

Jennevilyn Chee, 12, of Mescalero has given those freedoms much thought and then put them into action.

Applying Christian principles coupled with Apache beliefs found Jennevilyn putting into practice what she believes.

Several weeks ago she found a wallet in the Wal-Mart parking lot. It had a name and money inside it. She took it into Wal-Mart to see if the owner was around. When she discovered that they were not, she decided to take it home and write the owners.

Melendrez says that Jennevilyn made up a package filled with the wallet, a Christian tract and a picture and letter about herself.

To the letter she added the phrase, "God loves you."

Jane Yowell said the wallet belonged to her daughter, Julie, and they thought that they would never see it again.

Yowell notified The Ruidoso News of Jennevilyn's honesty and integrity.

The young Mescalero Apache woman's paternal grandparents, Agatha and Nathaniel Chee Sr., also of Mescalero, have provided Jennevilyn with information about her Apache culture, in part, by the oral tradition of story telling.

Her grandmother's brother and her uncle, Joseph Geronimo, who is a descendent of the famed Apache chief, teaches a class in Apache that she takes.

"I really like it, and it's a lot easier to learn now that there is an Apache dictionary," Jennevilyn says enthusiastically.

Jennevilyn Chee

Her mom, Florence Melendrez, speaks fluent Apache and is very pleased that her daughter is learning the language.

Recently they were asked to sing a duet in Apache at the Mescalero Reformed Church, an opportunity they both say they enjoyed immeasurably.

The grandparents, her father, Nathaniel Chee Jr., and her oldest brother, Nathaniel, 14, dance in a group celebrating various traditions.

Melendrez, whose maiden name is Big Rope, is remarried to David Melendrez and says she did not learn much about the Apache culture since her parents were Christians.

"I never had a feast, the traditional celebration of womanhood," she says.

A portion of this feast is open to the public during the large July 4 Ceremonial Feast that takes place each year at Mescalero.

"There are feasts before and after this big one," Melendrez adds.

Preparation begins for these feasts with the young honoree expected to dance many hours during the day and one full night. The girls are prepared for this by spending many hours running to build up tolerance and endurance.

Some are apprenticed under other family members who have been through the ceremony.

Through her father and paternal grandparents she celebrates her heritage.

Through her mother and her maternal grandparents she has learned about Christianity. She is currently a member of the Cornerstone Church in Ruidoso.

Her brother, Lawrence, who is called Sam, is also a Christian, as is her stepfather, David Melendrez. She has two half-sisters, Crystal, six, and Sharlayne, one.

All of her family members share in the Apache tradition of showing extreme respect for nature and the land.

Hightower, Pillar exchange vows

Lisa Diane Hightower and David William Pillar were married January 2 at the Trinity United Methodist Church in Carrizozo with the Reverend William Scholes officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Gary and Beth Hightower of Ancho; and the groom is the son of Russell and Carolyn Pillar of Waunakee, Wisconsin.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length ivory satin gown with a Castilian train. An open scalloped sweetheart neckline was outlined with sequins and pearls as were the skirt and lace Gigot sleeves. The skirt had a basque waistline and was accented with pearls, lace and soft bows.

For her hair, the bride chose a layered veil of sparkle illusion attached to a headdress featuring teardrop pearls on an ivory tiara.

Cheryl Hightower, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor.

Michelle Klevin of Madison, Wisconsin, sister of the groom, and Alison Hobson of Las Cruces were bridesmaids. Junior bridesmaids were Katherine and Mollie Hightower, sisters of the bride.

The flower girl was Erin Hightower, cousin of the bride; and the ring bearer was Tyler Klevin, nephew of the groom. Acolytes were Bryan and Patrick Hightower, cousins of the bride.

The bride's colors were emerald green with red and gold accents.

Daniel Pillar of Madison, twin brother of the groom, was best man. Another brother, Bruce Pillar from Pontiac, Michigan, was a groomsman as was Brian Groshek from Madison.

Brett Barham, from Lubbock, Texas, served as usher.

"The Wedding Song" and "To Me" were sung by Eva Zumwalt who was accompanied on the piano by Phyllis Schlegel. Jane Shafer was the organist.

The bride's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Hightower of Ancho and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Flynt of Alamogordo.

After a brief honeymoon in Ruidoso, the couple has made their home in Madison.

Waldrop, Barks to marry

Mark and Mary Waldrop of Roswell have announced the engagement of their daughter, Missy Waldrop, to Kurt Barks also of Roswell.

The groom's parents are Allen and Doris Barks of Roswell.

The couple will be married in a double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday, May 22, at First Baptist Church in Ruidoso. Rick Hale, pastor of Christ's Church of Roswell will be officiating.

The bride-to-be is currently attending ENMU-Roswell and she is employed by Roswell Child Development Center as an after school supervisor.

Barks is a graduate of New Mexico Military Institute college and is employed as manager of "U-SAVE" Furniture Warehouse in Roswell.

The bride-to-be is the granddaughter of Barney and Catherine Waldrop and Bill and Irene Shaffer, all of Ruidoso.

Friends and family are invited to the wedding.

Women delegates elected

During April's monthly meeting, the Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club heard a program on health care by Betty Testerman of the Lincoln County Health Center.

Delegates were elected to attend the state's 81st annual convention. Representing the Ruidoso Club and its past presidents' council were Jacqueline Rawlins, Gladys Dendy, Wilma Davis and Sue Crews.

Other members attending as delegates to the convention at the La Ponda Hotel in Santa Fe were Charlotte C. Jarratt, Mew Mexico Federated Woman's Club (NMFWC) first vice president and dean of departments, divisions and committees; Bobbie McDonald, NMFWC chairman of the Community Improvement Project (CIP); and Genevieve Duncan, president of NMFWC-District IV.

Janice Christopherson, President of the Carrizozo Woman's Club and District IV Art Department Chairman, along with Sue Stearns of Nogal, editor of the NMFWC-"Clubwoman," attended the convention as delegates, also.

Merle Glenn, public affairs officer of Lincoln National Forest, was a guest speaker. He presented ideas on how the NMFWC and the Forest Service might cooperate on the state president's special project - Conservation and Education.

This will include the renovation of La Pasada Encatada, the Trail for the Blind, near Cloudercroft which was established by the GFWC-NMFWC in 1968.

Charlotte C. Jarratt, assisted by the three district vice presidents, presented a comprehensive workshop on "The Ifs, And's and But I don't know how's" of annual reporting.

TWELFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT COUNTY OF LINCOLN STATE OF NEW MEXICO

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION, Plaintiff, vs.

DANCIL G. COOPER, a single man, Defendant(s).

No. CV-92-235

LEGAL NOTICE NOTICE OF SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on May 25, 1993, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., the undersigned Special Master will, at the east steps of the Lincoln County Courthouse, Carrizozo, New Mexico, sell all the right, title and interest of the above-named Defendant(s) in and to the hereinafter described real estate to the highest bidder for cash. The property to be sold is located at 103 Santa Rosa, Ruidoso, New Mexico and is situate in Lincoln County, New Mexico, and is particularly described as follows:

Lot 2, Block 9, of SECOND ADDITION TO WINGFIELD HOMESTEAD SUBDIVISION, Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, as shown by the plat thereof filed in the office of the County Clerk and Ex-officio Recorder of Lincoln County, New Mexico, June 12, 1962.

THE FOREGOING SALE will be made to satisfy a judgment rendered by the above Court in the above-entitled and numbered cause on April 13, 1993, being an action to foreclose a mortgage on the above-described property. The Plaintiff's judgment, which includes interest and costs, is $31,712.71 and the same bears interest at 10.375% per annum from April 16, 1993. The amount of such interest to the date of sale will be $369.41. The Plaintiff has the right to bid at such sale and submit its bid verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff may apply all or any part of its judgment to the purchase price in lieu of cash. The sale may be postponed and rescheduled at the discretion of the Special Master.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the real property and improvement concerned with herein will be sold subject to any and all patent reservations, easements, all recorded and unrecorded liens not foreclosed herein, and all recorded and unrecorded special assessments and taxes that may be due.

Tim Vega, Special Master #8583 4T (4) 22, 29 (5) 6, 13
