Big circus sets two performances here

The Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the Culppepper & Merriweather Circus at 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. today (Thursday), October 7, under a big tent on the playing field west of White Mountain Elementary School.

The traditional circus will feature aerial artists, clowns, liberty ponies, performing dogs, jugglers and more. The super star of the show is Barbara, a nine-year-old African elephant rescued after poachers killed her mother for tusks.

Ticket prices will be $4 for children and $7 for adults. For more information call the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce at 257-7395.

Flu bug isn't due here until November

Local health department officials say Lincoln County residents shouldn't worry when they hear about flu outbreaks in other parts of the country.

It hasn't reached New Mexico yet and the flu vaccine isn't scheduled to be administered until early November.

Officials say that New Mexico residents are especially nervous this year because symptoms of the Hanta virus, which has killed several people in the northern part of the state, resemble the common flu.

But to ensure coverage for regular flu through the end of the season, it's better to hold off until November to get the shot. If an outbreak of the flu occurs earlier, vaccine will be released, they said.

The tentative dates for the shots are November 9 and 11 at various sites within the county.

Firefighter accused of burglary resigns

Ruidoso fireman Jerry Paiz resigned Tuesday after being arrested with three other men last week on burglary charges after a lengthy investigation by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department.

Paiz was given administrative leave with pay from the village during due process, but Paiz told fire chief Virgil Reynolds that he resigned because he "thought it was for the best."

No deal — county just says no!

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Facing a crowd of about 80 emotional Capitan and Carrizozo residents Tuesday, Lincoln County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley swung his vote from one side of the room to the other.

He voted with commissioners Stirling Spencer and William Schwetzmeyer to kill a proposal for the purchase of the Super Select Sale Barn at Glencoe.

Last month, he voted with Chairman Monroy Montes and Commissioner Wilton Howell to move ahead with the purchase of the 11 acres with the provision that the county could withdraw from the deal at any time within a 60-day period.

period.

Since then, Nunley said he received 140 telephone calls or personal contacts about the issue and only nine of those persons favored the purchase. Many Capitan residents worried that the county fair could be moved to Glencoe, cutting off a major source of revenue for the small village.

In voting to drop the Glencoe idea, Nunley said he was following advice offered to another elected board in a Ruidoso News editorial.

"I read that elected officials should be responsive to the citizens and listen to them," he said.

"When I first heard about the idea, I said let's buy it. But it has been handled in less than a professional manner. We nearly reached into the heart of Capitan and ripped it out. It's up to us to stop the bleeding."

Howell, who has advocated moving ahead with the sale, said he erred by suggesting previously that the county fair be moved to the Glencoe site from Capitan.

"I'm saying today that I am making a commitment that the Glencoe property would not be considered for the fair," he said before the vote.

Montes said the Glencoe proposal was introduced for the betterment of the county, not to hurt Capitan.

He noted that no one in Hondo or Corona had called to complain about their tax dollars, in the form of a $100,000 allocation from the State Legislature and $25,000 from the county, going to improve the fairground for the 1994 July Fourth celebration of Smokey Bear's Fiftieth Anniversary as a symbol of forest fire prevention. He said the issue of the purchase should be separated from the issue of the fair.

"The Siamese twins in New York City were separated with less difficulty than this issue," Montes said.

"That was a bad example," Howell interrupted. "One of them died."

"No one is interested in hurting Capitan," Montes said again. "Any time this commission has expended your money, it's never been one-sided or district oriented."

Although he lives near the Glencoe property, he likes the lifestyle there and doesn't want to see it change. He wouldn't benefit from the Glencoe purchase, Montes said.

"I don't want to see us tax people and then put the money in the bank where it's not doing anyone any good, when we might make some money or do some good," he said.

Spencer said he never seriously considered the Glencoe site for the county fair.

"That would be ridiculous," he said. "We have open space now and

Mescalero pushes to continue with MRS

by FRANKIE JARRELL
The Ruidoso News Editor

Congressional action to cut off funding for developing a Monitored Retrievable Storage (MRS) facility for the temporary disposal of high-level nuclear waste may cut off the very communication envisioned by the measure's author, Senator Jeff Bingaman (D-NM).

The Mescalero Apache Tribal Council is concerned that the language in the amendment would result in denying affected neighboring communities the funds they need to fully participate in benefits negotiations.

According to a news release provided by the tribe, full participation of communities surrounding the Mescalero reservation is directly contingent on the provision of Phase 2B funds to the tribe.

Senator Bingaman offered an amendment to the Senate Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act which he said would "pave the way for greater input by state and local officials in negotiations for a Monitored Retrievable Storage (MRS) facility."

The amendment was co-sponsored by Senator Pete Domenici (R-NM) and was passed by the Senate. It cut off any further funding until an avenue is created to reach a consensus among neighbors of proposed MRS sites.

While the amendment is of national scope, its major impact is on an application by the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe for a Phase 2-B study grant. The tribe already has been granted and has expended two grants totaling $300,000, and this $2.8 million is the next step in a process leading to a voluntary host site for high level nuclear wastes generated by utility companies.

Both Bingaman and Domenici said they were motivated by the continuing opposition by local and state officials and residents to the placement of the nuclear waste on the Mescalero Reservation.

The House passed a similar amendment, which said: "The Committee is concerned about the possible premature release of Part B of Phase II funding before the applicants have made a good faith ef-

Wagons whoa...

The beginning of the trail ride for the Cowboy Symposium got off to a slow start. As the group of riders and wagons climbed the hill from the race track the mule wagons had difficulty in finding a footing on the slippery asphalt surface because of the metal shoes on the animals. The problem was solved when a short cut across an unpaved area gave the team of mules a way to "get a grip" on the situation.

County manager wins contract

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A two-year contract, a raise and four weeks of paid vacation might be responsible for that big smile on Lincoln County manager Andy Wynham's face.

After a closed executive session, one of a series that focused on contract negotiations, commissioners Tuesday voted four to one to approve a contract, which will run until December 31, 1995.

The vote broke new ground for the county. Previously, the county managers have served at the will of the commission and could be dismissed at any time without penalty.

"I'm very pleased the commissioners were willing to show that much confidence in me," Wynham said after the meeting. "I didn't talk to Commissioner (Wilton) Howell after the vote and I wasn't in the session, so I don't know why he voted against it. It seems over the last 10 months that we have formed a positive relationship."

"I didn't get the whole ball of wax, but I got a very good contract that I also think was fair to the commission."

With a contract commitment, it lessens the pressure to look for other opportunities and it removes a great deal of the politics from the job, Wynham said.

Howell told The Ruidoso News that he nixed the contract, because he was uncomfortable with the terms.

"I have no reservations about the job Andy has been doing, but a contract like this kind of takes away the incentive," Howell said.

Specifically, he objects to approving a contract that will extend

ENMU honors Gladden

Mike Gladden, superintendent of Ruidoso Municipal Schools, will receive the Distinguished Service Award from Eastern New Mexico University this Saturday.

Gladden is one of six individuals to receive the 1993 Alumni Awards sponsored by the Alumni Association of ENMU.

The recipients will be honored at the Friends of Eastern breakfast on Saturday, October 9, during the ENMU homecoming in Portales.

Gladden holds a bachelor's degree from ENMU in Portales and a master's degree from the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, California.

He has been superintendent of Ruidoso Schools since 1990, and was associate superintendent from 1983 until 1988.

He has also served as principal of White Mountain Elementary in Ruidoso and principal of Gallina Elementary in Gallina.

Gladden also served for a year as interim principal at Ruidoso Middle School.

He is an active member of the ENMU-Ruidoso Alumni Club and was instrumental in the development of the ENMU-Ruidoso Instructional Center that opened in 1991.

Gladden is married to Sandy Gladden who heads Region IX Educational Cooperative Center. They have a daughter, Kerry Gladden, who graduated from Ruidoso High School and USC. She works for the Easton Corporation in Los Angeles, California.

(if the Glencoe site was purchased) we would be competing with the Ruidoso Civic Events Center.

Mariah Peebles, president of the Captain chapter of Future Farmers of America, urges Lincoln County Commissioners to drop plans to purchase land in Glencoe.

$250,000 purchase, will be needed to repair aging county buildings.

"I have a hard time walking out to spend a quarter of a million dollars when we sit here and debate spending $500 or $5 on the senior citizens program," Spencer said.

The move also would remove more private property from the tax roll and place it in government hands, he pointed out. That goes against his basic philosophy, he said, then added, "Although I hear the taxes haven't been paid. I also hear it's been for sale since 1989. What's the rush."

"If it smells like a rat, I think it's a rat."

Schwettmann, who serves on the fair board, said his position was well known.

"To separate the fair I don't think would be right," he said. "This emotional thing has almost destroyed some of the things the county had scheduled to do, pushed them out of the way," he said. "As far as the sale barn is concerned, I don't think anyone would buy it for that price."

"Even if they offered it free, I wouldn't want it because of the liability and the cost of keeping it. The civic events center can't keep its own space filled and we'd be competing."

Howell said he didn't think the issue had "hamstrung anyone" and he questioned the accuracy of figures rumored about the cost of maintenance and utilities.

"I heard $27,000 a year, but the utility bill I saw was for $9,000," he said.

"That's what we give the fair board for the entire county fair," Schwettmann retorted.

Commissioners listened to two of the younger residents of Capitan, Mariah Peebles, president of the Captain chapter of Future Farmers of America and Angie Hutchison, president of Capitan 4-H. They urged the commission to reject the Glencoe property and pour whatever money was available into the Capitan fairground.

Peebles pointed out that Capitan is centrally located in the county for participation by all communities. It's more reasonable to use the money to improve existing facilities than to start all over, she said.

Hutchison told commissioners about a riparian (river-related) project put together by students behind the fairground to create an inviting place for visitors.

"We've spent our own money and many hours of hard work on the project," she said.

Moving the county fair would jeopardize the economy of Capitan, which is centered around two major events at the fairground, the county fair and Smokey Bear Stampede, she said.

That would be especially detrimental now with the national anniversary of Smokey's fiftieth anniversary as a symbol of fire prevention, she said.

Howell later contended the commission "folded like a cheap suitcase" on the issue because of the high emotions in the room.

Spencer offered the first motion to use the exit clause. But when Montes asked whether someone who was on the prevailing side of the original motion to purchase the land would have to make the motion, Spencer deferred to Nunley.

Village planners review proposal on town home project

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Plans for the proposed Country Club Village subdivision across from Cree Meadows Golf Course leaped a few more hurdles forward Monday at the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission.

Subdivision developer Glenn Neans and the commission discussed the Planned Unit Development for nearly two hours before approving a preliminary plan with some amendments. The plan will be reviewed again on November 9.

Neans requested that all streets within the development be private streets maintained by a homeowners association.

The village planning staff had some concerns that the village would eventually assume responsibility to any private street and its problems.

However, the commission said all streets, public or private, would have to pass village codes and inspections. They agreed to allow these streets to remain private.

Density, a concern by some nearby neighbors, turned out to be no problem according to village planner Cleatus Richards.

Based on allowed densities, the 79 townhouse units would require 13 acres which is less than the 14 acres to be developed, Richards said.

He said that the development provides for a 3.3-acre common area and 0.3-acre community center lot which exceeds open space requirements.

Neans agreed with the commission's proposal to build a recreation center in the initial phase with the streets.

Some covenants and restrictions were to be revised and submitted to village attorney John Underwood to study.

Roadway construction was changed to avoid inverted crowns, allow three-foot wide sidewalks in some areas on both sides of the street, and to have rollover curbs.

Back lot lines were shortened to protect a forested area with giant pines not yet declared diseased with dwarf mistletoe.

The commission had its ideas of what Neans' subdivision should look like and tried to urge him to have a consistent look to his development by using similar colors and construction materials. Neans had other ideas.

He indicated he wanted to avoid the ghetto look of government housing.

"I'd like to avoid a cookie cutter look," Neans said.

He said he wants individuality to the townhouses that have proposed costs of $125,000 plus.

The commission at first seemed concerned that varying exteriors of wood, brick or stucco wouldn't blend. Some feared it would give an inconsistent look to the subdivision.

But Neans seemed to allay those fears by convincing the commission that he planned to use colors and materials to create different appearances, especially front elevations, and still maintain an overall aesthetically pleasing and consistent look. His main concern was that individuality be maintained.

Some residents in the hall suggested that architectural standards be set for the appearance of the 79 townhouses such as in Coral Gables, Florida, a huge city adjoining Miami, where some areas are now a mix of coquina shells in Haitian pinks and purples. Other similar comparisons were given suggesting areas of the country that also didn't seem to apply to the Neans' small subdivision or Ruidoso.

Susie Bergeron, a representative from the board of directors of Cree Meadows Country Club, told the commission that her board supports Neans' development.

The preliminary plan was approved with amendments and is scheduled to return to the commission table on November 9.

In other business, Ruidoso State Bank represented by Richard Silva, was given approval for a replat for Lots 63, 64, W 1/2 Lot 65 and Lot 66A of Palmer Gateway Subdivision. The Silvas and Ruidoso State Bank have entered into agreements on exchange of properties and mortgages as proposed in the replat. No utilities or Village roads will be affected by the replat.

Also, an amended commercial site development request by Gordon Sylling was approved. Sylling requested the change to establish a restaurant in the 16 x 28 foot portion of his building Sudderth.

into the next administration and requires a full five vote of the commission to terminate.

He also considers the $2,500 raise to $47,500 and the four weeks of vacation generous.

"The way I read it, the contract also would allow him to attend college courses," Howell said. "It just seems like the commission started with certain conditions and the more they negotiated, the more he got."

But Wynham pointed out that many management contracts don't provide for a buy-out of contract or termination. His contract allows the commission to terminate without cause with a unanimous vote, and with cause by a majority of three commissioners. However, the latter action would require the payment of four months severance pay. With cause termination would carry two months pay.

Wynham's raise does not preclude receiving cost of living increases along with other employees.

The contract also provides that Wynham will not take direction or do anything "at the direction of one or more commissioners, if such direction was not acted upon at a properly convened meeting of the board."

fort to reach consensus with state officials. The committee directs that the U.S. Nuclear Waste Negotiator must comply with the provisions of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 and DOE's solicitation for prospective applicants for an MRS regarding the development of a consensus prior to the release of any Part B Phase II funds.

The two versions of the bill will be debated in Conference Committee before the bill is passed and sent to the White House for the President's signature.

Mescalero MRS project manager and Tribal Council Fred Peso is in Washington D.C. this week to lobby against the amendment.

In a news release, the Mescalero Tribal Council said the tribe has aggressively advocated that the Nuclear Waste Negotiator and the Department of Energy should provide MRS study funds to adjoining communities through the feasibility grant process.

"In fact, the Mescalero Phase 2B grant application for just such an initial $350,000 for earmarks assistance to state and local officials," reads the release.

"We warned the Senator in the strongest possible way that his amendment is likely to backfire on the communities he claims he wants to help," said Fred Peso, MRS project manager for the tribe.

"For two years we have done everything in our power to keep the state and our neighbors informed about our MRS studies," said Peso.

But opponents in neighboring areas, as well as a small handful of tribal members, don't agree.

An opposition group in Ruidoso has complained that information on the MRS has been hard to get, and much of the information provided by the government has been misleading.

On the other hand, the tribe points to educational efforts that include a newsletter to tribal members, an MRS Information Center on U.S. Highway 70 that is open to the public, open houses with exhibits at the information center and a tour of nuclear power plant facilities by a group of area business persons and elected officials.

"We've made a good faith effort to meet Congress more than halfway," said Peso.

Members of the New Mexico Legislature's Radioactive and Hazardous Materials Committee conducted an MRS hearing at Mescalero on September 24, and urged DOE to provide study funds to affecting neighboring communities.

"Unfortunately, Senator Bingaman's amendment may deny MRS study grants to local officials."

Prior agreement among all affected parties, as specified in the amendment, was never intended to be a condition for the award of Phase 2B monies, continued the release.

"Rather, agreement was intended to be the result of this joint study process," added Peso.

Contrary to Senator Bingaman's statement to his colleagues on the Senate floor that 'both sides' were satisfied with the language in his amendment, Mescalero Tribal Council member and MRS project manager Fred Peso, as well as his staff, repeatedly expressed concerns and objections to the language in the Bingaman amendment, continued the release.

The impact of the Bingaman amendment on the voluntary MRS siting process should be a major concern to the entire Congress since it jeopardizes DOE's ability to meet the 1998 commitment to accept spent fuel from nuclear utilities, according to the tribe.

President Clinton's nominee to the post of Nuclear Waste Negotiator, former Idaho Congressman Richard Stallings, would also find his options considerably reduced by the Bingaman test of prior agreement."

Funding for the Office of the Nuclear Waste Negotiator is included in the water and energy bill that was amended by senators Bingaman, Domenici and their colleagues. The office, while without a leader right now, is to be funded with a $1 million appropriation, according to the conference version of the bill under consideration.

"The Committee recommendation provides for the Office of the Nuclear Waste Negotiator," reads the committee report. "The Nuclear Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1987 directed the Nuclear Waste Negotiator to attempt to find a state or Indian tribe willing to host a nuclear waste repository of monitored retrievable storage facility at a technically qualified site on reasonable terms and to negotiate with any state or Indian tribe which expresses an interest in hosting a repository or monitored retrievable storage facility," continues the report.

The Mescalero Tribal Council sees the proposed change as a way to cut them out of the entire process.

The Bingaman amendment could be used by MRS opponents to launch a backdoor assault on the volunteer siting process which would overturn the original intent of Congress that treated Tribes equally with states in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act," reads the release provided by the Mescalero tribe.

"If Congress goes along and withdraws its invitation to Indian tribes to consider hosting an MRS, the Bingaman amendment will be remembered as one more broken promise between Indian tribes and the US Government," Peso said.

"Let's be honest, the truth is that Jeff Bingaman has placed his personal, political self-interest ahead of the national interest and he is evidently willing to disregard tribal sovereignty in the bargain."

"This is particularly puzzling since the senator supported the funding of the Waste Negotiator's Office until the Mescaleros offered to assist the nation in solving its nuclear waste problem."

"Whether by design or ignorance, Jeff Bingaman appears intent on maintaining the current state of gridlock that besets American nuclear waste policy. This is not in the best interest of Americans who pay electric bills each month or the New Mexico communities that stand to benefit from an MRS."

Senator Bingaman said last week that he wants some assurance that the permanent repository for high level nuclear waste is in the works before moving the stored spent fuel rods across country to a temporary site.

"New Mexico cannot afford to summarily reject any project that would bring hundreds of jobs and badly needed economic development to the state," said Peso, who is in Washington this week to ask the Energy and Water Appropriations Conference Committee to modify or delete the Bingaman amendment from its final report.

"This Mescalero Tribal Council is negotiating an agreement with the University of New Mexico to provide public information and assist local communities in navigating the MRS process," Peso pointed out.

"We want our neighbors at the table and on an equal footing. The Bingaman amendment has the potential of penalizing rather than assisting these long-time friends and neighbors."

While the debate over the MRS has been moved to Washington D.C., the issue is still on the front burner in and around Mescalero.

Lincoln County Commission forms a Maternal and Child Health Council

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

New commitments to provide medical care for indigents, pregnant women, new mothers and their babies were approved Tuesday by the Lincoln County Commission.

Commissioners formed a Maternal and Child Health Council.

They voted to set up an indigent hospital claims fund and established administrative procedures to handle claims at the Lincoln County Medical Center.

To satisfy a state mandate for an indigent fund and a contribution from the county, commissioners are borrowing about $80,000 from the hospital this year. That money comes from the hospital's portion of a special tax levy voters approved toward its support, about $750,000 a year.

"Commissioners decided not to impose another tax on property owners (to send to the state)," said county attorney Alan Morel. "They took a unique approach. I think this is the only one in the state."

Senate Bill 594 establishes the county's responsibility to provide indigent medical care, he said. State officials hope that for every dollar collected by the counties, at least three times that amount will come back from the federal government for Medicaid.

"I'm baffled," said Commissioner Wilton Howell. "We send $80,000 and then receive three or four times that back. Aren't those real dollars?"

Valerie Miller, administrator of the Lincoln County Medical Center, took commissioners back to the beginning.

"If you had taken a more traditional approach, you would have imposed a one-sixteenth of a cent tax," she said. As sole provider of medical care in the county, if the hospital receives four times the county's $80,000 back, that's $320,000 of care already written off as not trying to be collect.

"It may be four times as much as the county sent, but it's a dollar for dollar match for the hospital. It's a net zero gain," Miller said. The benefit to the hospital is some return on income previously written off.

"But the county sends $80,000 to Washington D.C., so that's a net minus," county manager Andy Wynham pointed out.

After lengthy discussion, Commissioner Bill Schwetzmeyer said he didn't know why commissioners were going through the motion of discussing since everything was mandated by the state.

The commission will be the indigent claims board and will certify and send to the state those claims submitted by the hospital as eligible.

"I know the county can't just accept what the hospital gives it," Morel said. "The auditors would not allow it. But if we specify that all claims must be check, won't that be a duplication?"

At Wynham's suggestion, commissioners went with wording that allows deeper investigation and indicates that all claims will at least be reviewed.

"The hospital has taken the largest burden by gathering all the information to see if someone is eligible to have their hospital bills paid," Morel said. "We will probably have to hire someone on the county's side to handle it as a full time or half day job."

An administrative allowance of 10 percent is allowed in the legislation, he said.

Single claims under $100 and over $15,000 won't be considered.

At Miller's urging, commissioners changed the wording to state that a person is ineligible if the annual income of the applicant and spouse is 50 percent greater than the median household income for New Mexico.

When Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said the income of children in the home could skew some figures, Commissioner Stirling Spencer noted, "We can't cover anything."

There ain't no free lunch in the world."

"We need to follow Valerie's lead," said Chairman Monroy Montes. "I have nothing but praise for the way she runs the hospital."

In the matter of the Maternal and Child Council, representatives of the State Department of Health pointed out that Governor Bruce King's Education Agenda for 1992 pledged to increase the percentage of pregnant women receiving prenatal care by five to seven percent a year.

Caroline Blankenship and Luz Germain said for every $1 spent on pre-natal care, $3 in later medical care is saved, because the babies are healthier. That would have meant an $11-million potential savings for the state if every woman had received adequate prenatal care last year. Many medical problems occur with low birth weight babies, they said.

When compiling statistics for the state's Prenatal Care Network, the University of New Mexico School of Nursing staff found that a real problem exists in New Mexico.

Other information cited in that staff study includes that:

—only 39 percent of the pregnant women in Lincoln County had access to adequate medical care, 2 percent less than the state level, which is the lowest in the nation. Nationally, 68.9 percent receive recommended levels of care.

—twenty-four percent of the women are uninsured and 25 percent are under insured and cannot access prenatal care.

—sixteen percent of the births in the state involve teen mothers compared to 12.5 percent nationally.

With the passage in 1991 of the Health Birth Plan, the state committed $1.88-million, Blankenship said. Subsequently, the Maternal and Child Health Care Act was passed to help counties improve their level of care. The state pledged another $500,000 last year.

Blankenship assured commissioners the state will not come back to them for money. The legislation is meant to return local control to counties on how they use the money. Twenty-five counties now have councils, but they don't always get funded, because $6.7-million of request came in last year when only $2.28-million was available.

Since April, a core group in Lincoln County, including Dr. Arlene Brown, Dr. Jim Miller of Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso and county health nurse Theresa Luna, have been working to develop a framework for the local council.

Once in place, the county can apply for money to provide a directory of care givers and to assess needs. After that is accomplished, the county can apply for money for actual services. The state looks favorably at a county willing to commit some in-kind services, the representatives said.

"We're already talking about reallocated space at the county sub office for the health department," Montes said.

Montes range from $40,000 to $150,000, Blankenship said.

Miller added, "We believe this program will not only meet a need, but it also will create more jobs in the county."

"If we adopt this, so you feel you will be able to function at an adequate level without money from the county?" Spencer asked.

"Yes," Miller responded. "The council is being formed to access state and federal money" in related programs such as the Fetal-Alcohol Syndrome.

Briefs

Mescalero voters select general election candidates

President Wendell Chino garnered 327 votes in a primary election Tuesday on the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation. In the general election he will face opponent Rufina Laws, who received 98 votes in the primary.

Primary candidate Joseph Geronimo received 94 votes.

The top two will enter into the general elections. For vice president there were only two candidates, Frederick Peso and Donalyn Torres, and they both will be entered into the general election.

For Tribal Council, the top eight will enter into the general elections.

Following are the candidates and the number of votes they received: Miriam Hoahwah, 115; Frederick Chino Sr., 208; Raymond Kirgan, 307; Carleton Chimal, 203; Rita Little Shaffer, 130; Raphael Mendez, 260; George Klinehole Jr., 168; Berle Kanseah, 290; Leland Lester Sr., 159; and Samuel Cooper Sr., 131.

Capitan begins school project

Capitan school district officials and other guests will do a little digging Friday for the middle school ground breaking.

A contract on the $1-million plus project was awarded Monday to T.E. Arronov of Ruidoso.

The shovels will warn up at 3:30 p.m. The public is invited and everyone should meet in the school cafeteria.

Optimists plan Cygnet picnic

Big Jim Wood, membership chairman for the Ruidoso Optimist Club, has called upon a group of first graders from Nob Hill Elementary School to help him organize fun, food and games Saturday at Two Rivers Park.

The picnic, sponsored by the Optimist Club of Ruidoso, is a venture aimed at offering an alternative to Saturday morning cartoons.

Wood says the weather will hold and that, having some days in preparation, "a splendid time is guaranteed for all."

Election deadlines announced

The word strikes horror in the hearts of most citizens, but Lincoln County already is gearing up for 1994 elections.

Candidates may pick up nominating petitions from the County Clerk Martha Proctor's office immediately and start circulating them. By January 31, 1994, candidates must already be registered in their party and district.

The next date to remember is February 8, the filing date for declarations of candidacy by preliminary convention designation for would-be congressmen and for state offices, as well as declarations of retention for Justice of the Supreme Court and Judge of the court of appeals.

Cowboy Symposium features the top western swing musicians

by FRANKIE JARRELL

The Ruidoso News Editor

When Ray Reed starts talking about the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium, you'd better just sit back and listen.

It's his dream, his love and has become his life.

And, since Reed started sharing his story with anyone who will listen, his dream has grown even beyond his expectations.

The Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium — which takes place this Friday, Saturday and Sunday — draws thousands of entertainers, chuckwagon cooks, ropers, riders and spectators to Glencoe each year.

This year, even more visitors are expected, and they may come from some unexpected places. During the last 12 months, Reed has had a chance to tell his favorite stories on network television, at the Smithsonian and at cowboy gatherings all over the United States.

"They did a story on us in New Mexico Magazine," said Reed, pushing back his cowboy hat and settling back in his chair.

RAY REED

He had a big Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium sign painted on his "Winnie-bago," donned his symposium jacket and hit the road to spread the word. Since last year's cowboy symposium, he's logged close to 16,000 miles in that "Winnie-bago."

Folks from all over this nation may have heard about Lincoln County, Ruidoso and the cowboy symposium for the first time this year, and Reed won't be surprised to see them show up here.

"It's going to be bigger than ever," said Reed, with a big grin. Reed can't keep from grinning when he talks about the music — he may not admit it, but that music is his favorite part of the symposium.

Reed said he's noticed that the music — western swing music, in particular — is what sets the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium apart from other such gatherings in the U.S.

"That's what has made this thing so popular," said Reed. "I couldn't have done without the Texas Playboys."

They'll be back this year to play during the entertainment, and with musician of the year Johnny Gimble for dances on Friday and Saturday nights.

Reed said he and Tommy Allsup, a former Texas Playboy who has a recording studio in Nashville, Tennessee, took the Playboys to Elko and introduced their brand of western swing at that big event.

The newest addition to the symposium will be a western swing workshop from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday under the tent.

Reed's eyes twinkle and he all but taps his booted toes when he lines out the plan for that workshop.

It begins with the basic rhythm unit — bass, drums, piano and guitar — with a heavy two-four time.

Reed says he's lined up the greats of western swing to introduce their instruments one at a time before the entire ensemble presents a couple of numbers.

It starts with the drums, with Tommy Frisk; then goes to one of the old pioneers, Lloyd Jordan, on bass; and Peewee Lynn on piano.

"Then we're going to bring up the master of all rhythm guitar, Eldon Shamblin," said Reed, who will emcee the workshop.

"That sets my rhythm section; then comes Tommy Morrell, the hottest steel man in the U.S."

Reed says western swing uses twin guitars, adding on Allsup; and then comes Johnny Gimble to demonstrate improvisation on the fiddle.

"After Gimble, here comes Bobby Bruce, another fiddler; and after this guy comes another one of the greatest — Bobby Boatright."

Frankie MacWhorter is up next. "The crowd loves him," said Reed.

Leon Rausch will join the band then to sing.

Owen Lienhard will join in on trumpet and trombone with Larry McWhorter on saxophone.

Another addition to this year's symposium is the end result of another of Reed's heartfelt dreams — an overnight trail ride through the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation.

The ride, which started Tuesday at the Ruidoso Downs Race Track, will take a break this evening with a big chuckwagon dinner under the stars at Tunstall's monument.

This evening's dinner and entertainment is open to everyone (at just $7.50 a plate); even those who didn't have the time, energy or stamina for the trail ride.

The ride will end about 2 p.m. Friday at the Bonnell Ranch.

But, meanwhile, back at the sale barn, cowboy musicians and poets will be entertaining all day Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Reed knows them all, and a lot of them come to the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium first through their friendship with Reed. They come back because it's becoming one of the biggest and best cowboy gatherings in the U.S.

Don Rollack is a new poet to the entertainment lineup. Reed found him at a gathering in Prescott, Arizona.

"He's been a good cowboy," says

Reed.

As for Hank Real Bird, a returning poet from Butte, Montana, Reed says "he's a hall of a poet."

And so it goes as Reed goes through the entertainment lineup, adding a personal note about every cowboy and cowgirl on the list.

As for Reed, he's a favorite at the gatherings where he sings and speaks, from Portland, Oregon, to Elko, Nevada and, on to Washington D.C. where he got a standing ovation both nights he performed at the Smithsonian.

On the way home, Reed made stops in Amarillo, Canadian and Canyon, Texas; and at Shreveport, Louisiana. He stopped off in Ruidoso long enough to have surgery at Lincoln County Medical Center before hitting the road again.

"I just came from Cimarron, New Mexico," said Reed when he stopped by The News a couple of weeks ago. He had attended a reunion of gold card carrying rodeo cowboys.

He was on his way the next day to Gunnison, Colorado, to perform at a cowboy get-together.

"I'll be adding another 600 miles to my Winnie-bago," said Reed with a deep laugh.

But this week, you'll find Ray Reed in his element, playing host to his friends and neighbors at the Fourth Annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium.

Visitors to the Fourth Annual Lincoln trail rides through Lincoln County and taste County Cowboy Symposium will hear good old fashioned chuckwagon cooking, western swing music performed by some Head on down to Glencoe to the Super of the world's greatest musicians, go on Select Sale Barn this weekend.

The dirt is going to fly...

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new Ruidoso Downs Municipal Building had everyone smiling. The project is one that the board has worked on for more than a year. Employees of the village were on hand to cheer on the first step in the building of the new facility. Dirtwork is scheduled to begin this month. The project is expected to be completed within 120 days once it starts. Helping to get the project off to a start were (from left) Mayor Joe Hayhurst, village clerk Leeann Weihbrecht, trustees Ray Hayhurst and Charlotte Craig, maintenance foreman Dennis Riddle, trustees Judy Miller and Margie Morales and Ruidoso Downs Police Chief Will Hoggard.

Commish calls for cutting taxes

With a cache of surplus money and no public support for spending it, why not cut taxes, Lincoln County Commissioner Wilton Howell is asking.

Howell said Wednesday he will request a discussion about a tax cut be placed on the agenda of the next commission meeting.

He's picking up on a remark by Commissioner Stirling Spencer last Tuesday during a discussion of the proposed $250,000 purchase of property in Glencoe. The proposal was defeated.

Spencer said if the county was accumulating a hefty surplus, maybe it's time to cut taxes.

Howell said he agrees with Spencer's call for a tax cut instead of stockpiling dollars.

"I don't think it's a brag point that our taxpayers are hit with the highest rates in the state and we're sitting here with a big surplus,"

Howell said.

"I think that indicates we're not doing a real good job of governing. We should leave the money at home where people can spend or invest it."

"Obviously there's a part of the county that won't let us use the money productively."

According to a state compiled summary of tax information supplied to The Ruidoso News by County Treasurer Janice Ware, Lincoln County tops the list with the highest tax rate in the state being paid by non-residential property owners in and around Ruidoso at about 44 mills, while residential rates will be about 40 mills. It ranks sixteenth in the state for net taxable value.

(Exact figures may be altered slightly, because of an error on the part of the state in assigning taxable value to four school districts.)

That 40 plus mill for residential total includes state debt service (1.59 mills); county operation, debt service and special projects (8.38); municipal operation and debt service (15.6 mills); school district operation, debt service and construction (11.26); and specially designated millage (3.8 mills).

The only other two counties out of 33 in the state with high rates of more than 40 mills are Bernalillo, with a net taxable value of $5.1-billion, and Cibola, with $91.6-million. Lincoln County's net taxable value hit $273.6-million in 1993.

One mill is equal to $1 for every $1,000 of net taxable value, which in New Mexico is figured on one third the assessed tax value of a property minus exemptions.

In Lincoln County, Ruidoso Downs and then Capitan trail Ruidoso, both with more than 35 mills for non-residential.

Warriors open district

by KENT BEATTY

The News Sports Correspondent
The Ruidoso Warriors' 3-3 preseason mark becomes 0-0 Friday night when district 3-AAA play begins.

The Warriors travel to Deming for their first district contest of 1993. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. Ruidoso comes into the game with the Wildcats off an impressive 35-6 win over Fabens, Texas, last Friday night. Two weeks ago, Fabens defeated Deming 14-3.

During that game, Deming crossed Fabens' 20 yardline five times, but came away with only one field goal.

Fumbles and ill-timed miscues have hurt the Wildcats throughout the season.

Deming is 4-2 on the season, owning victories over two AAAAA schools from El Paso (Montwood and Parkland) plus two winless New Mexico schools — Anthony-Gadsden and Santa Teresa. Losses have been to Fabens and Las Cruces Mayfield.

Again, this week, Ruidoso will be lining up against an older, more experienced and bigger football team.

Deming's offensive line averages almost 190 pounds.

While they don't run one particular offense, like Portales' Veer or the Warriors' Wing-T, their size and strength will make them very tough for almost any defense to handle.

On the other hand, some of their inconsistency on offense might be blamed on their inability to stick with one thing and try to do that well.

Warrior head coach Mike Gaston shows considerable respect this week's opponent.

"Deming is a team that's big and got speed, a school with 1500 students ought to be ... they're a team that's been dying on turnovers. If they put the ball on the ground, we've got to pounce on those turnovers," said Gaston.

"They've got a real good quarterback and a good fullback. Defensively, they are big and physical. They're a team that's always been susceptible to the pass and we're going to try to throw the ball against them," said Gaston.

The Wildcats, despite their 4-2 record, probably don't have the team that they've had during the last two years.

They do, however, have the numbers and physical strength to move the football, if they get rolling.

But it's the defense that appears to be their strength.

Deming's lack of patience on offense tends to hurt them.

Any team that can't decide if they want to run the Run-and-Shoot or the Wing-T certainly has some personality problems.

Artesia runs the Run-and-Shoot and throws the football 70 percent of the time. Ruidoso runs the Wing-T and runs the football 70 percent of the time.

Deming will also run the Miami (Hurricane) offense. Again, this is an offense that wants to throw the football.

The Wildcats probably fall somewhere in between, although their quarterback, Wesley Hooper doesn't appear to be an outstanding passer.

Statistically, running the ball seems to be their strong-suit. Fullback Reggie Rios is a good runner and he has been good for a while. But with the departure of coach George Janes, the Wildcats grind-it-out style has gone too.

Offensively the Warriors have proven that they can score on anyone. They moved the football pretty well in all three of their losses (Against Artesia, Lovington and Portales), and the offense is batting a thousand inside the 20 yardline in the last three games.

Quarterback John Echols is on the mark and his line is giving him time to get rid of the ball.

Running backs Raul Davis, Rex Comanche and Ricky Devara are making good choices, hitting the holes and cutting back well.

The questions remain on the defensive side of the ball for the Warriors. That group played very well against Fabens, but they tend to miss too many assignments.

Even against Tularosa, a team that Ruidoso out-manned, the defense didn't stop Tulie until their backs were against the wall.

Of course many of the problems stem from inexperience.

Ruidoso plays a lot of sophomores and sophomores don't start out knowing much. But ... if they can keep their jobs, boy, do they know a lot when they are seniors.

As an observer, it's easy to spot the improvement by these young players on both sides of the ball. That experience, along with seniors like Anthony Torres and Devara serving as player-coaches on the field, the Warriors will keep improving throughout the season.

The Deming game is the most important game in Gaston's year-and-a-half tenure as the Warrior head coach. He knows it, too.

"We know as a coaching staff that our kids are going to have a good chance to go down there and win their first district ball game in two years. And as coaches are excited to go to practice ... we might be more excited than the kids, so we hope that rubs off on them ... that's why you coach, so you can coach in big games," said Gaston.

The enthusiasm in the Warrior camp is evident, and this week's contest will give the first true indicator of where Ruidoso really stands as a football team.

Either team can win — but who wants it the most?

Deming is a little better on paper, but then so was Fabens.

The work isn't over for Ruidoso coaches after game ends, it is just beginning. Game films, a valuable coaching tool, must be evaluated to help the coaches prepare for the next football game. Warrior team members will gather to watch the visual teaching tool once the coaches have evaluated the plays of the game. Team members benefit from the film by being able to see an overall view of the football plays. Coaches concentrate as they jot down thoughts (front, from left) Clifton Neal, Herman Neal and Borde Williams; and (back, from left) Brian Tarvin and Donny Wiley.

Beavers gets his inspiration at home

DUSTY BEAVERS

When Ruidoso High School football star Dusty Beavers was playing for the Warriors, everybody knew that he was just working up to a collegiate career on the gridiron — the only question was where.

It didn't take Beavers long to say "yes" to the chance to play for the Texas Tech University Red Raiders in Lubbock, Texas.

Beavers, the son of Robert and Judy Beavers of Ruidoso Downs, is the 6-1, 253 pound, defensive tackle starter on the Red Raiders this season.

Warrior fans will forever remember his glove tip catch that helped defeat Silver City and an 80-yard sideline ramble through the snow in a blizzard that gutted Goddard in the state semifinals.

Beavers, a senior first stringer, has matured as a Raider, but everything has not been peaches and cream fighting with the big boys.

After one missed tackle, he said his phone rang off the wall.

"He went low, and I was high. He ducked out of the way and stayed on his feet," Beavers said.

wanted to keep it for inspiration and motivation when we played them this year. I think it was just some people who saw the game on TV, and they were frustrated about the game. There's nothing you can do about it."

Beavers said he wasn't surprised by the angry calls, but he intended to remember last year to help him get ready for future contests.

"There's pressure on you to perform, so it didn't surprise me," he said. "It was funny, though, the way it happened. They (callers) didn't talk to me, but they sure did talk to my (answering) machine."

For real motivation, Beavers need only remember what inspired him in his senior year at Ruidoso High. Warrior fans remember his mom, Judy, with a giant picture pin of Dusty on her lapel, marching up and down the sidelines with a camera. He was a hero that year because no one wants to disappoint their mom.

Somewhere in the stands this Saturday, a fan will scream, "Tackle him, son!" That's all the motivation Dusty really needs.

On The Sideline

What's going on with school athletic budget?

If you were a coach at Ruidoso High School and wanted to go to a sports clinic or a science teacher at the middle school and wanted to go on a field trip, you probably couldn't.

Spending of athletic and activity funds has all but stopped until the "40-day count."

For a couple of good reasons, school administrators couldn't predict the number of kids that will be enrolled this year. Since the state pays each school district a certain amount for each student (roughly $2,000), right now we're a little short.

Sometimes this month the district will know how we stand.

Right now, Ruidoso Schools appear to be about 60 students short of projections. This year's projections were submitted about this time last year.

With so many variables and the upturn in the area's economy, plus having to submit these numbers a year in advance, it looks pretty easy to miss by 60 students.

The state's official count is made on the fortieth day of class. That fortieth day is important to athletics in a couple of ways.

First, there is the money. The more kids in school, the more money that goes to athletics.

Second, it's the day when size classification are determined. It's rumored that schools "on the bubble" move kids back and forth to determine whether they will compete in the A, AA, AAA or AAAA divisions.

It always amazed me that Goddard had 1,199 kids every year (you need 1,200 to move to AAAA). Now, this year Deming wants to sue the New Mexico Activities Association (the schools' governing body for sports) because they don't want to move up to AAAA ... they only have about 1,500 students.

In Ruidoso's case, it's the money that makes the difference.

Athletics and activities monies make up about one-and-one-half percent of the total budget for the district. That number is higher in some districts and lower in others. I would

By Kent Beatty
The Ruidoso News
Sports Correspondent

rate Ruidoso's pretty fair.

There aren't many sports that go without much.

For the last couple of years, each sport was given a budget to spend from the school athletic fund or "7.9 money."

For instance, last year (these are rough estimates) football got $24,000; volleyball, $10,000; cross country, $6,000; boys and girls Basketball, $10,000 each; wrestling, $6,500; boys and girls track, $15,000; golf and tennis $3,500 each; and cheerleading, $3,000.

All travel, equipment, food and lodging come from these monies (7.9). "Luxury items" such as second meals, some equipment, camps, etc. came from "activity money", which the kids raise themselves.

Beginning this year, there are no individual budgets for sports (at least that coaches submit), it's more of a controlled first-come-first-serve. Since I haven't been through that as a coach, I don't know if it will work or not.

I do know that the other way, at least you knew how you stood throughout the year. It does seem feasible that if for some unknown, unforeseeable reason the money gets a little short, that the early sports like football, volleyball and basketball would get what they need and the poor spring sports like, uh, golf, tennis and track would be left out in the cold.

Of course that's not very likely, but it is a concern of at least one spring coach(es). On the other hand, there must have been some problems with the individual sports budgets, or it wouldn't have been changed.

It seems a more equitable approach would be to give each sport a dollar budget based on participation (just like the state gives the school district). If Coach Gaston expects 50 kids in football, then athletics will give him enough money to send 50 kids to football games.

That way no sport is more important than another. Nor would it make any difference what time of year that sport is played.

Cross country gets this amount of dollars based on 15 kids and basketball gets this amount based on 45 kids.

Even with the change, it's hard to complain though. Golf's $3,500 last year plus their activity money was plenty. The kids travelled well, had nice equipment and needed nothing.

And the other sports had the same opportunities.

Nowadays, coaches are fund-raisers as much as sports teachers. If the kids need something they can fund-raise to get it. In many cases they appreciate it more because they worked for it, instead of having it handed to them on a platter.

I'm sure that there are many teachers that will say that athletics gets too much and there are many coaches who say that it doesn't get enough.

I guess that feud will go on forever.

But as a coach of a sport that is on the bottom of the scale (golf), we've got a pretty good deal.

Approximately 85 percent of the schools budget goes to payroll. With athletics and activities, that leaves a little over 13 percent to pay the light bill. With a projected shortage of a quarter of a million dollars from its income, the school district will probably be saying "no" a lot more than usual this year.

Some luxury items will have to be cut out of the budget, but who's to say that they didn't need to be anyway.

Freshman football squad is undefeated

The Warrior freshman football team continued in the fight for a perfect season with a 24-0 win over Fabens, Texas, September 30, in Las Cruces. The team is currently 4-0 in play.

The tone was set early on with an interception by cornerback Jackson Russell on the first play of the game.

Offense for the Warriors kicked in gear scoring on a 39 yard sweep by tailback Arthur Rojas.

Fullback Brian Moore kept the offense rolling with consistent play. Wingback Travis Armstrong ran for 76 yards to help put the Warriors on top.

Quarterback Billy Rogge continued to pile up the points with his touchdown, scored from 13 yards out. Rogge ran across the line for another touchdown later in the game which was set up on a two play quarterback sneak.

Warrior free safety Dion Gonzales continued to apply pressure to the Fabens team with a fourth quarter interception.

Defensive standouts, giving up bits of yardage stubbornly, were Armstrong at noseguard, Chris Jones at cornerback and Gonzales.

Offense for the Warriors averaged over 10 yards per rush in the game and was 3 out of 6 for 65 yards passing.

"The special teams continued to play exceptionally, tallying a touchdown for the third consecutive game," said freshman football coach Kevin Clawson said.

"Against Socorro and Portales, the freshmen scored on kickoff returns. This time around, it was a matter of stripping the ball from a Wildcat punt returner and taking it to the end zone."

Clawson said that, along with fellow coach Brian Tarvin, he is proud of the group and all are looking forward to the remainder of the schedule.

The next "B" game scheduled is Thursday, October 7, when the Warriors tackle Alamogordo.

Inexperience at key positions, a few turnovers and bad field position all contributed to the 16-16 Warrior tie against Socorro, Thursday, September 25.

Coaches Eddie Hedin and Dan McNulty felt positive about the game's outcome despite the difficulties their team faced.

Wingback Jackie Roe scored a 45 yard TD. Kyle Humphries' pass to Brandon Eamello resulted in another score for the Warriors. Both plays resulted in point after conversions.

Pascal Enjady's pass reception and a sweep play by Arthur Rojas assured the tying score.

Defensively the team effectively slowed the running attack by Socorro according to the coaches.

Saturday, October 2, the JV Warriors suffered their second loss of the season against the Artesia Bulldogs with a final score of 34-0.

"The team suffered the same problems that have affected the Ruidoso groups for the past few years," Coach Kevin Clawson said.

"It is the problem of not having enough true junior varsity players to be competitive week in and week out."

Capitan

Tigers claim one more football win

The Anthony Wildcats should have checked their anatomy books before signing up Capitan as their homecoming opponents.

Tigers outclass wildcats any day and last Friday, the Tigers whupped the Wildcats 47-21 to stay on top as number one.

Justin Weber set the tone of the Tigers' attack on the first play of the game when he broke through the line and barreled down the field for a 69 yard touchdown.

Quarterback Michael Fish darted pass blockers to score the extra two points, putting the Tigers on the board with eight before coaches had time to catch their breath.

Not to be outdone, Anthony retaliated, running the ball in for an 80 yard touchdown and a good kick with 5:38 still left in the first quarter.

Weber dazzled fans with another 60 yard run up the middle to score number two, but the extra point failed. Ernie Trujillo recovered a fumbled punt return on Anthony's second yard line with 1:10 left on the first quarter clock. Fish tried to pass, but the Wildcats intercepted.

The Wildcats fumbled again and Capitan recovered the ball on the one yard line.

Orlando Baca ran the ball into the end zone, posting a 20-7 score. Fish was blocked on his run-in attempt.

But he got another chance in the second quarter with a quarterback keeper, leaving Wildcats in his dust while he charged 48 yards down field for the fourth Tiger TD.

Halftime refreshed, Fish threw a 50 yard spiral to the waiting hands of Trevor Cox for the fifth Wildcat heartbreaker, followed by a straight as an arrow kick, score 33-7.

Ernie Trujillo caught a air mail missile from Fish as the board blinked 39-7. Fish missed on a kick, recouped and passed back to Trujillo, who ran it in for 41-7.

Faster than the speed of light, Cox caught a 64 yard pass, driving it into the end zone, 47-7; followed by a good kick for the extra point.

A 25 yard pass to Jay Roberts was called back and a second attempt failed. Fish was sacked at the eight yard line on fourth and goal. The Wildcat defense, determined to stop an embarrassing beating, held tight, and another Fish pass fell incomplete.

Fish tried to pass again, ran back and was sacked for a 10 yard loss.

The Wildcats vented their fury on the field and scored their second touchdown. With 31 seconds left on the clock, they weren't finished. The plucky players from Texas scored again, then split the uprights for the extra point, ending the game with a redeeming 47-21 score.

Emotions ran high as the teams exited the field and Anthony police escorted the Tiger bus out of town to guard against gang retaliation.

Capitan lets bid on school

A Ruidoso firm was awarded the contract Monday to construct the new middle school at Capitan.

The school board met at 7:30 a.m. to review the five bids received on time by 2 p.m. Friday. Another from Rainbow Construction Co. in Alamogordo, arrived seven minutes too late and was not opened.

The low bidder, T.E. Arrington, was chosen at $1,022,000, which includes the options of paving work around the middle school and a new football practice field, said Capitan district superintendent Diana Sonnamaker.

"The bid came in under the projections," she said. "We anticipate starting the project immediately to meet a deadline of May 31, 1994."

The project consists of seven classrooms, a science laboratory, a computer lab, a science lecture room and central administration offices.

Other bids received were: $1,050,153 from White Sands Construction Inc. of Alamogordo; $1,119,400 from D & S Contracting in Santa Teresa; $1,159,450 from Chaparral Builders Inc. of Hobbs; and $1,246,900 from ESA Construction Inc. of El Paso.

A ground breaking is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Friday. The public is invited. Meet in the school cafeteria.

by RENITA FREEMAN
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Ruidoso Future Farmers (FFA) high school members placed in the State Fair.

Projects, using a variety of skills learned in welding and shop, proved to be good enough to "take home the gold" for the young men.

Individual projects were designed and constructed by the class members for competition against other high schools in the state.

Mike Gallerito won second place for his pickup headache rack.

Jeremy Turner won second place for his cutting table.

John Crawford won first place and reserve champion for his picnic table.

Lance Roe won first place and reserve champion for his welding table.

Joe Brooks won third with his saddle rack. Dominique Rue won first place for a steer feeder he built. Steve Minner won first place and reserve champion for a liquid feeder.

Shane Melton won second place for his lamb grooming table, and Jeremy Heavington won second place for his lamb grooming table.

Agriculture Mechanics Welding Sweepstakes was also awarded to the Ruidoso FFA chapter.

The sweepstakes was based upon an accumulation of points earned from each project entered.

All projects were on display at the State Fair Grounds in Albuquerque this past week.

Federal government pays millions to states in lieu of taxes for public lands

New Mexico received $10.6-million last month from the Department of Interior as compensation for the loss of revenue on tax-exempt federal land within its boundaries.

The payment was part of a total $103,205,555 sent to 1,934 local government units across the country as required by the Payments in Lieu of Taxes Act (PILT) of 1976.

New Mexico's check for $10,596,126 topped the list of those reimbursed. California came in second with $10,459,027. Utah received the third highest amount at $8,885,822, followed by Arizona, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming.

The annual payments are distributed to units of general local governments by the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management (BLM).

"These payments are beneficial to local governments, especially for sparsely populated counties that contain large acreages of tax-exempt federal lands," BLM director Jim Baca said in a news release from the bureau.

"These payments help local governmental units provide such vital services as fire and police protection, search and rescue operations and road construction."

As a result of decreases in prior year federal land payments, which act as a deduction in the PILT computational formula, the total amount paid to local units this year under the PILT program was about $3.8-million more than that paid last year.

The BLM administers the PILT program, because it is the largest single federal land-management agency, with responsibility for more than 270 million acre of the public lands.

Payments are for tax-exempt federal lands administered by the BLM, Forest Service, National Park Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and for federal water projects and some military installations.

The payments are in addition to revenue from oil and gas leases and sales of minerals, timber and other materials and products derived from public lands, which the federal government also shares with state and local governments.

With the exception of Rhode Island, all states, plus Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands received PILT money this year.

School cancels JV football program for this year

by RENITA FREEMAN

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The decision to cancel the remainder of the Warriors JV football season was made Monday by the Ruidoso High School coaching staff.

Three games remaining on the schedule are, Canutillo, Texas; Oñate and Deming.

According to head football coach Mike Gaston the reason behind the decision was three-fold.

Problems with numbers, potential injuries and doing something right were the major concerns of the coaching staff.

"We have a problem with numbers. When we go play on Friday, we have 12-15 kids that start and play full varsity and are involved in the kicking game," Gaston said.

"Then, we have five other kids that are strictly JV that don't suit up with varsity. So, in effect, we really don't have a JV team," Gaston said.

Gaston talked about difficulties players faced with the JV program intact.

"I see kids like Sergio Guerrero, for instance. He went out on Friday night, played a full varsity game on offense and half of the kicking game. Then we make him turn around, because of lack of numbers to fill a team, and make him play in JV the next afternoon against a team of kids that are fresh, that are strictly a JV team.

"Then he has to come back out on Monday and have to get ready to win a varsity football game again on Friday night," Gaston said.

"I think that's asking too much of a kid. I'm not going to do that anymore," Gaston said.

Gaston said he could go on and on with more examples of the effect on the players by playing in the JV program.

Providing games for the larger schools is not a good option for the Warrior JV according to Gaston.

"It comes close to child abuse to force a kid to do this. All just because places like Deming; Canutillo, Texas; Artesia or Lovington do have enough numbers to play a straight varsity, a straight JV and a straight freshman team," Gaston said.

An example given by Gaston was the team driving 90 miles to Deming Friday night for a varsity football contest, playing a hard game and driving home, arriving around 3 a.m.; then the next day boarding a bus for a 100-mile drive to Oñate to play a JV game against a school with more than 1,000 students; only to turn around to drive 100 miles home so the process can begin again.

Potential injuries to players was another reason for the decision according to Gaston.

"Our kids have a definite shot at a play off spot this year, if they don't get hurt," Gaston said.

"I think when you have varsity kids go out on Saturday for the JV games and they are tired or are already hurt then you are subjecting them to possible injury. We have been real lucky that a serious injury hasn't happened yet. It is that time of the year," Gaston said.

"The JV games are detrimental both physically and mentally. Anyone who has ever played football knows what it feels like after a game. Its like being in a car wreck. It takes a couple of days to recover," Gaston said.

"Our kids are worn out. I could see it in their eyes. Some of the kids would fall asleep on the locker room benches on Mondays after these games," Gaston said.

When questioned about players that need the experience on the field Gaston explained the coaching staff had been putting those players with the freshmen team to help them gain the field time they needed.

"Those kids won't be left out in the cold. Our freshmen team is considered a JVB team, the kids get to play and they are getting to play at the correct level. Believe me they are getting all the play they need," Gaston said.

Doing something the correct way was another reason Gaston explained for the decision.

"We just don't have enough kids to do JV right. I think if you are going to do something you need to do it right all the way, don't do it half way," Gaston said.

The purpose of a JV team is to prepare players for the varsity squad, Gaston said.

"Half of the kids playing on JV on Saturday are already on varsity. That defeats the whole purpose of JV games," Gaston said.

Gaston emphasized he doesn't want anyone to think the decision is giving up on the players.

"I don't want anyone to feel like we are throwing up our hands in the air. But, I am paid to make these decisions and it comes down to one thing. Any decision I make will be in the best interest of the kids," Gaston said.

A coaching staff goal, according to Gaston, is to make sure the sophomores playing now are still involved with football when they are seniors.

"If they are still playing, then we are going to win the State Championship," Gaston said.

When questioned about how the schools reacted to canceling the schedule Gaston replied the schools were understanding.

"We're not the first team in the world to do this. All the teams understand the numbers situation," Gaston said.

The decision will have many positive aspects according to Gaston.

"It will benefit us not playing the last three JV games. The idea behind athletics is to teach the kids about life and to have fun," Gaston said.

"The end of the nine weeks is next week and that is a stressful time. It is a total pile up on the kids," Gaston said.

Another added benefit according to Gaston will be more time on Saturday to train.

"After games we run, stretch and work out on light weights, then we review game films. It is the time we evaluate our playing and it is one of our most important teaching tools.

"When we have to leave for JV games this means putting off the films until Monday. It takes away time from practice. It takes away from preparation. Films are some of our best teaching tools," Gaston said.

When asked about players' reaction, Gaston said the decision was accepted well.

"There was a big weight lifted off their backs today. I had three or four of them say, 'I'm glad you did this.' The kids told me they didn't even want to suit up on Saturday," Gaston said.

Six weeks into the football schedule the Warrior football team has played one scrimmage, five JV games and six varsity football games.

Coach Kevin Clawson agreed with the decision.

"The coaching staff determined the decision to cancel the remaining three games is in the best interest of the athletes, and the football program in general," said Clawson.

"It is meant to be a positive move," said RHS principal Don Weems.

"Hopefully, it's best for the kids. The coach sees the necessity of what he is doing," Weems said.

Pigskin picker wins by a nose

by RENITA FREEMAN

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The race was close. Two of the three coming down the stretch were in a photo finish. The third was behind by a nose.

Three contestants correctly picked 17 out of 20 games in this week's football poll. Two of the three contestants chose Ruidoso over Fabens, Texas, for the tie breaker.

Norman Cline of Capitan won the race by taking it down to the wire. Cline's tie breaking pick had a 14 point spread, the closest to the 29 point margin on the Warriors game.

Manny S. Rivas of Alto came in second with a point spread of nine points on the tie breaker.

Ronnie Montes of Capitan, came in third after the tie breaker.

Out of 36 entries, one missed four, five missed five, six missed six and six missed seven. The field dropped back to nine who missed eight, two who missed nine, one who missed 10, two who missed 11 and one who missed 12.

High school ball games that were missed most often were El Paso Parkland vs. Deming and Tularosa vs. Hot Springs.

College ball picks for the most part were on the mark. Very few games were missed on this level.

Arizona vs. the University of Southern California was the game most often missed in the picks.

Pro ball games that caught the majority of contestants by surprise were San Diego vs. Seattle and Philadelphia vs. the New York Jets.

Next week the race begins again. The field is open to anyone can correctly pick the majority of winners in the football poll. So, take it down to the stretch and get those picks in.

You could find yourself in the winner's circle accepting a check for 25 big ones.

The sky is not falling!

If the Lincoln County Fair is the only thing keeping the little Village of Capitan rocking along, then it's about time we moved the fair and put the village out of its misery. We disagree vehemently with anyone's claims that the thriving little Village of Capitan is a one-horse town dependent wholly on one annual event! Capitan is a well-rounded community with a solid core of hard-working people, good schools and some very successful businesses.

If you've ever been to the Lincoln County Fair, then you know that it is a terrific agricultural, arts and home economics exhibition that draws participation mainly from the people in Capitan and out in the county. Whether the county does or doesn't purchase the sale barn in Glencoe, there's no reason why the fair shouldn't continue with the same volunteers and the same participation as in the past. It doesn't appear that those folks have any interest in expanding that fair and inviting participation from more people in the county. The fair suits its organizers just fine, and we say, it should continue.

Smokey Bear Stampede, community dances and other activities at the Capitan facility surely wouldn't be impacted by the addition of a county facility over in Glencoe. Smokey Bear Stampede and the Fourth of July rodeos belong to (and in) Capitan, and nobody has suggested otherwise. Members of Friends of Smokey even wondered how this purchase would affect their plans — it shouldn't make any difference at all. Capitan is Smokey's home, and that's where he should celebrate his birthday. On the other hand, it is kind of interesting to note that while some members of Friends of Smokey are trying to make an issue of the importance of keeping the county fairground in Capitan and carrying on about that village's ownership of the Smokey legend, bear and birthday, they're asking other towns for money.

Seems like there has been some serious over-reaction at the very idea that the Lincoln County Commission (a group which represents the ENTIRE county, even Ruidoso which happens to pay the most taxes into the county coffers) might look into the future and expand this county's horizons.

The Super Select Sale Barn may need some improvements, but it's doubtful they are as extensive as some people have suggested since it's in that barn that some successful horse sales and the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium are conducted each year. Other events — like farmers markets, farm implement shows, carnivals, powwows — could make terrific use of the sale barn if it were a public facility with reasonable rent. Students in ag and vocation programs in Ruidoso schools and in the valley might have a chance to keep their animals and complete projects on that land in an agreement between the county and schools.

Lincoln County is collecting a lot of taxes and commissioners seem to be patting themselves on the back for bankrolling those taxes. That's not what taxes are all about. If the county has no use for our money other than saving it in the bank, then commissioners should cut taxes. But, using tax money for an economic development project, like purchasing the Super Select Sale Barn, is a legitimate and worthwhile use of tax dollars. If and when commissioners make a deal on the barn, the deal should include a guarantee that the horse sales and Cowboy Symposium will be annual renters, but the sky's the limit as far as other uses. What about an annual balloon festival out there?

The possibilities are endless, but they'll never happen if we're afraid of change.

Parent complains that kids "deserve" more press

TO THE EDITOR:

For those of you that didn't make the Lady Warriors game Saturday in Onate, you missed a good one, good playing, good coaching, and outstanding team work gave the varsity Warriors their second district game win, and boy did they look good doing it.

It's too bad that our volleyball team doesn't have the support they deserve, these kids play heart and soul with pride and honor for Ruidoso High.

More coverage in our local newspaper would be nice, this team has won two district games and very little if anything was written in the paper. It's something to read a page or how some of our other teams lost and you read on looking for something about our volleyball team and there isn't anything.

These girls deserve the same respect and coverage as any other team, whether we win or lose, coverage of the game would be nice. These girls and coaches put in a lot of time trying to be a winning team, we, too, lose but still something should be written, just as the football team lost to Portales we, too, it really does make a difference. lost, but were successful on Saturday and, hopefully, will be in the games to come.

From one parent that tries to make all the games, in town or out, with other parents that do the same, these girls are a great group of ladies, from our freshman team to our varsity team, these ladies do a great job representing our school.

And for all of you recliner chair we, too, lose but still something should be written, just as the football team lost to Portales we, too, it really does make a difference. Good job Lady Warriors, we are proud of you, and to our coaching staff "Good Job, we do appreciate all that you do".

Congratulations mid-school Braves for your winning record. "Good job future Warriors".

Note to our AG: actions speak louder than words

TO THE EDITOR:

It is gratifying to note that our attorney general is aware that New Mexico gasoline prices are grossly out of line.

My skepticism tells me that a back page followup with zero action will be all that happens.

We just returned from a vacation travelling 12 states, and our "fill ups" were as follows:

Monticello, Utah.....$1.309
Green River, Wyoming.....1.089
North Platte, Nebraska.....1.199
Sioux Falls, South Dakota.....1.119
Sioux Falls, South Dakota.....1.129

Belton, Missouri......879
Waukomis, Oklahoma......919
Amarillo, Texas......959

Welcome back to Ruidoso at $1.299 (all prices prior to national 4.3 cent effect).

Even after subtracting our Legislature's controversial $.06 per gallon tax hike, we are out of step with most of the rest of the nation.

It would be nice to think that our lawmakers would attack this problem with the zeal they displayed in tacking on the $.06.

Video shown to commemorate Mental Illness Awareness Week

In recognition of Mental Illness Awareness Week, October 3-9, the Alliance for the Mentally Ill, Otero County (AMIOC) will show the videotape, "Understanding and Communicating With A Person Who is Experiencing Mania," at 5:30 p.m. today (Thursday), October 7, at the Ruidoso Counseling Center, 1707 Sudderth.

The one-hour video is narrated by Mary Moller, certified clinical specialist in adult-psychiatric mental health nursing.

Moller has presented workshops for professional and family groups across the United States. According to a news release, her family education classes have been applauded by consumers, family members and service providers.

The public is invited to view this sensitive, caring presentation on bipolar illness (manic-depression), which demonstrates how to help a loved one or client when he or she is experiencing one of the many forms of mania.

Mental Illness Awareness Week is established annually through a joint resolution passed by both houses of Congress and signed into law by the President.

"We want to draw the attention of people in Otero and Lincoln counties to the needless suffering of millions of Americans — many of them friends and neighbors — who have treatable mental illnesses," AMIOC president Judy Hyman said.

"Many people don't realize that treatment for mental illness can be just as effective as treatments for other illnesses. There is no shame in seeking help," she said.

In the last 10 years, scientists have made great advances in understanding the nature of mental illness, the release said. The development of sophisticated scanning devices to take detailed "pictures" of the brain, genetic mapping to determine the causes of mental illness, and research on new medications have led to numerous breakthroughs in the field.

According to the American Psychiatric Association, during any six-month period, 27 million American adults over age 18 and 12 million children suffer from diagnosable mental illnesses.

One in three Americans will experience some type of mental illness at some point in their lifetime.

It is estimated that only one in five persons with mental illness currently seek appropriate treatment. This is often the result of self-imposed silence about their problems.

During this significant week, psychiatrists and other mental health specialists across the country will talk about mental illnesses and their treatments at health fairs, school lectures, awareness rallies and other special events.

In Alamogordo, the week's activities will include a donation of books on mental illness to the Alamogordo Public Library and an "Open House" at the Vocational Rehabilitation Center.

Videotapes on schizophrenia and bi-polar illness will also be shown in Alamogordo at various times and locations during the week.

For more information on activities during Mental Illness Awareness Week, please call the Counseling Center at 257-5038 in Ruidoso, or Judy Hyman at 434-4781 in Alamogordo.

Aspenfest's talent fest

DOES do it

DOES President Ann Goodwin (left) presents a $500 check to Barbara Dickinson for Ruidoso Meals, Inc., a non-profit organization. The money will help provide gift baskets for Thanksgiving and Christmas to people in need. The DOES sold food at the Aspenfest street dance and the Rod Rally to help raise funds for their charities. The DOES organization is part of the Elk's Lodge, who help the club by providing a building for meetings and a kitchen for cooking for fundraising functions.
