On the side

Landfill hours cut during the holidays

The Capitan landfill will be closed from December 24-26 for Christmas and from December 31 to January 2 for the New Year's holiday.

The recycling center and main office will close December 23 through December 26 for Christmas and from December 31 through January 2 for New Year's.

Ruidoso Downs residential garbage collection is scheduled for Thursday, December 23, and Thursday, December 30, because of the holidays.

Lincoln County gets healthier

Nearly 1,000 adults and children in Lincoln County took advantage of free health care offered by public health nurse Theresa Luna and her staff last month.

The flu vaccine was the major drawing card to the health fair as about 900 people received their annual immunization in Capitan, Carrizozo, San Patricio, Lincoln, Ruidoso and Corona. The health department still has some vaccine left. Call a local office to set up an appointment.

About 800 persons paid a small fee to learn their cholesterol levels and 200 HIV surveys were run.

Luna said next year, the team hopes to run the prostate screening at the same time, instead of scheduling it separately.

She said without the cooperate of the communities, the massive effort to reach county residents wouldn't have been successful.

Local athlete makes good on the gridiron

Dusty Beavers, a 1989 graduate of Ruidoso High School, will end his college football career when he plays with the Texas Tech Red Raiders in the John Hancock Bowl this Friday in El Paso, Texas.

Beavers, who lettered in three sports at Ruidoso High School, walked on at Texas Tech University and earned a scholarship as a sophomore.

The Raiders will take on the Oklahoma University Sooners in what used to be the Sun Bowl.

Read all about it on Page 8A in today's edition.

Police write letter to Santa

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The car weaved across the yellow line several times before the police officer pulled it over to the curb to give the driver a sobriety test.

The weaving, the test, the license plates, all were captured on video tape and observed on a video monitor mounted on the patrol car's dash board.

Ruidoso police want this type of capability in all their patrol cars. According to officer Bill Heineken, it is a safety factor that can save tax payers dollars.

Video cameras in police cars can eliminate the need for expensive court trials with taped evidence, especially from drivers operating a vehicle under the influence.

But video cameras are expensive, about $1,000 to $2,000 each.

The Ruidoso Police Department needs six police video cameras to cover three shifts a day for Ruidoso. They have one video camera with a monitor mounted in Officer Ramona Wheeler's patrol car.

Clubs, organizations, corporations or individuals can help the police with any donations earmarked toward fulfilling the need for five more video cameras.

Officer Heineken is setting up an account with a local bank. Checks made out to the Police Video Camera Fund can be sent to Officer Bill Heineken, Ruidoso Police Department.

For more information, call Heineken at 257-7365.

Successful Recycling Center gains $50,000

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A $50,000 grant is being offered to the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority's recycling program for a new collection system.

The money would be the fourth in a series of grants through the New Mexico State Department of Energy, Minerals and Natural resources.

"The (authority's) recycling program is considered to be one of the very best in New Mexico," Joe Lewandowski, general manager of the authority (LCSWA), wrote in an agenda summary for the group's meeting at 10 a.m. today.

The board will meet in the main office at 222 Second Street in Ruidoso Downs.

Lewandowski wrote that the labor costs per ton have been reduced in the recycling program and efficiency in handling and processing materials in the warehouse has greatly increased.

"We now have the capacity to handle a much greater volume of material," he wrote.

This new project is a recycling collection system designed to dramatically increase the volume of recyclable material moving through the LCSWA's existing program. It is a two-part approach.

Part one targets the most densely populated residential areas of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, which would receive curbside blue-bag collection of commingled recyclable on a regular route schedule.

Part two is a neighborhood drop-off system designed to augment our igloo-site program. (It would) place an additional 100 color-coded dumpsters for recycling at various locations throughout the county, such as the entrances to subdivisions.

The authority's contribution to the project would consist of labor and equipment use. The state money would pay for the additional labor needed for the project, new dumpsters, materials, up-grading of existing equipment and fuel, he wrote.

In other agenda information, Richard F. Rowley, representing the Eagle Creek Summer Home Association, is scheduled to ask for a variance in charges for the seasonal group.

In his manager's report, Lewandowski wrote that the authority is carrying about $63,000 in accounts receivable, $41,492 due from county residents. About $26,191 of that money owed by county residents is more than 30 days outstanding.

Lewandowski said 359 certified collection letters were mailed and some people paid. Others were incorrect billings, because there was no home on the property or the property had sold. He said the new owners will be located and identified.

School leaders, parents, students join forces to develop new discipline, behavior & sexual harassment policies

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A draft of a sexual harassment and sexual discrimination policy was submitted to the Ruidoso School Board last week.

But parents at the meeting said sensitivity classes also are needed to ensure students and teachers understand what constitutes sexual harassment.

As submitted, the policy states the district forbids discrimination against any student on the basis of sex and that sexual harassment by adults or students won't be tolerated.

The policy notes that sexual harassment or discrimination is against the law and anyone committing such would be subject to appropriate disciplinary action.

The definition of sexual harassment was given as "an unwelcome sexual advance, request for sexual favor, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when it is made a condition of a person's work/school performance or environment."

Examples listed were unwelcome touching of a sexual nature or verbal comments about parts of a person's body, sexual preference or performance, or the person's clothing and looks.

Name calling that accentuates gender or is of a sexual connotation was included. Other examples were:

—spreading sexual rumors about a person through such devices as graffiti.

—suggestive gestures such as touching oneself sexually in front of others or making suggestive gestures or sounds.

—pressure of sexual activity through physical or verbal actions.

—stunts such as pulling on a person's clothing or underwear in a manner to cause exposure of the body or effect the fit of clothing in a sexual manner.

—sexual assault from groping to rape.

The policy encourages victims to report incidents. Students should report to the appropriate assistant principal, principal or the next higher level of administration.

Confidentiality will be maintained and "no reprisals or retaliation will be tolerated."

A comprehensive review will be conducted and "any adult or student found to have engaged in sexual harassment/discrimination shall be subject to disciplinary action deemed appropriate to the offense and consistent with district and school disciplinary policies.

"Any student engaging in sexually explicit conduct (exhibited or verbal) directed toward other students or staff will be suspended for a length of time to be determined by the building administrators.

"The administrator shall report the findings and resolution of the review to the community in a timely fashion not to exceed 60 school days, unless mutually agreed upon. In the event, the complainant is not satisfied with the school's efforts to correct the situation, a grievance may be filed with the State Human Rights Division of the State Department of Labor.

The sexual harassment policy has been an additional focus of the committees trying to come up with an acceptable secondary discipline policy.

The committees were comprised of secondary teachers, parents and students.

In comparing the lists of concerns expressed by each group, the differences and similarities in viewpoint and roles were illustrated.

The teachers listed as their top concerns inconsistency of enforcement of policies; dealing with the small percentage of disruptive students; how counseling fits in with the discipline process; understanding, communication and responsible alternative to suspension must be available.

The secondary students listed their concerns as that there is so much emphasis on the bad, people forget the good; the hat/cap prohibition policy; that teachers don't know the rules and need to be consistent, because now they ignore situations, because they don't want confrontation or are afraid; kids being sent to a principal for minor offenses; and reconsideration of the T-shirt policy limiting designs and wording.

They also noted that in-school suspension is a waste of time under its present structure.

Parents listed their top five as review of the open campus policy, noting it's a privilege and not a right and presents a traffic hazard and encourages truancy; outsiders coming onto the parking lot; the stress level of teachers, showing a need for parents and administrators to have enough activities; and consistency in rule enforcement.

Ruidoso School Board and staff deal with 6-digit budget shortfall

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The budget squeeze caused by a lower than projected enrollment in the Ruidoso school district loosened a bit over the last month, according to superintendent Mike Gladden.

One of the big boosts came from the December count of special education students, for whom the district is reimbursed at a higher rate than other students.

"Fortunately, 12 or 13 students moved into the district that require (special education designation) and that made up $100,000, so now we are looking at a $195,000 shortfall," Gladden told school board members last week.

"One other important aspect, Albuquerque didn't go over enrollment projections and neither did Gadsden, as they usually do. The state reserves money for that."

The money not needed by those two counties could translate to a higher per full time student equivalent unit reimbursement from the state for all school districts, he said.

"It's possible the $1,927 figure we used to build the budget on will be increased more and that will help further," Gladden said.

He reviewed a list accounting for about $170,000 in savings in addition to the district's $105,242 emergency fund.

He estimated that about $35,000 can be saved from direct instruction, $30,000 from support services, $7,811 from administration, $8,783 from business and support, $47,983 from operation and maintenance of the plant, $20,000 from athletics and $20,000 from non-instructional support.

Gladden pointed out in a memorandum that the operational site-based budgets (for each school) remain frozen; staff travel and training is frozen; a Buick lease car was turned back in mid-November when the lease expired; and ancillary services such as diagnosing, will continue only as needed using existing contracts.

A guideline for expenditure savings circulated to staff summarized how everyone can help.

Operational money will not be used for field trips, but teachers were advised that they could be financed through other sources such as activity accounts, federal projects or parent volunteers.

Out-of-district travel supported through operational money was frozen "except for essential meetings involving the State Department of Education and meetings directly involved in grant activities."

Staff also were requested to limit all local and long distance calls to the extent possible. Calls should focus on program activities and community/parent communications.

Utilities are to be monitored closely.

"That's good news," board President Ron Hemphill said. "Thank you for the effort. Learning up the system is good for us. We don't like it, but it's good for us."

In other business, the school board:

—received a letter from Greater Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce director Joan Bailey about how helpful teacher Eddie Parker and the high school DECA students were during the chamber's most successful membership drive.

—noted that a separate school district has been created for Rio Rancho, bringing the state total to 89 districts.

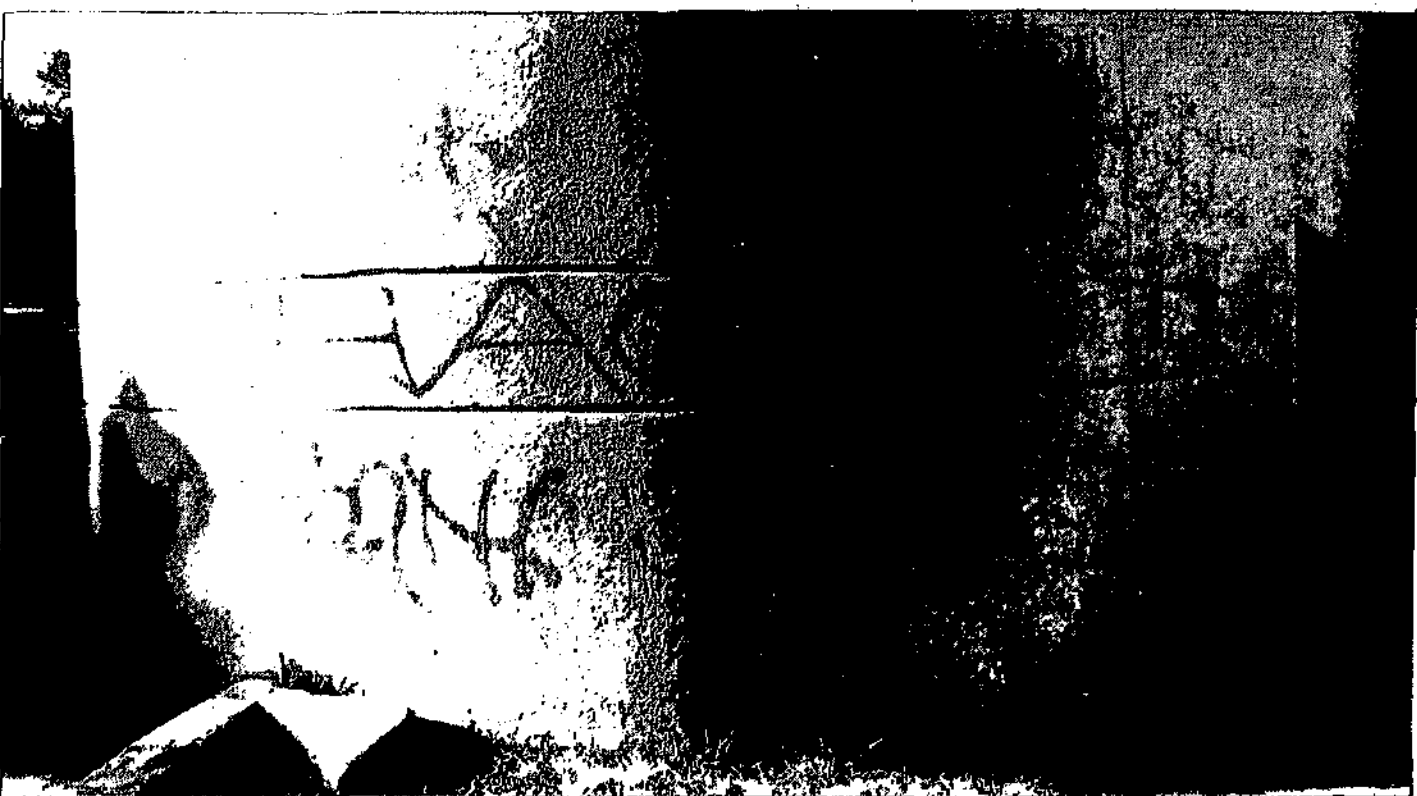

—noted that board member Susan Lutterman and Hemphill received exemplary certificates for their perfect attendance at board meetings.

Regional garbage gurus gear up to dedicate new landfill on January 6

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The new Otero-Lincoln Regional Landfill will require an operating and debt repayment budget of nearly $1-million a year.

Members of the solid waste authorities in those two counties approved the projected budget presented by Alamogordo city manager Bob Stockwell and staff last week.

City officials are charged with the operation of the landfill near Oro Grande, which is to be dedicated January 6. It will open for business later that month, marking the first regional operation in the state.

Stockwell said construction and equipment purchase expenses probably will come in $40,000 under projection.

In a summary presented to the two boards, he and city engineer Joe Moore wrote that officials from White Sands Missile Range and Holloman Air Force Base contacted them recently to confirm their interest in using the landfill.

"The recommendations for the tipping fee estimates that these two agencies will deliver 18,018 tons per year and that the member agencies (the two counties and their municipalities) will deliver 41,830 tons per year," Stockwell and Moore note in their summary.

"We have not attempted to estimate the possible revenue from the asbestos or hydrocarbons disposal sites or other possible customers. After the first six months, we will be in a better position to identify the actual waste stream and adjust the fees accordingly. With this projected waste stream, we will be able to structure the initial tipping (disposal) fee at a relatively low rate while ensuring that we will not have to raise it in July."

Although all expenses were projected on an annualized basis for setting the tipping fee, the first budget will only run from December 15 through June 30.

Stockwell recommended a $22 per ton tipping fee for non-member disposal and $13.90 for the 10 member entities and contractors working on behalf of those entities.

"With the next budget, we can adjust everything to actual and make any changes to be effective July 1, 1994," Stockwell and Moore wrote. "We feel that it would be far better to decrease rates in July if our experience is good."

Non-member tipping fees for Holloman and White Sands are estimated to generate $396,396 and members should generate $578,090.

Under the annual budget, personnel costs are listed at $205,972 for a landfill superintendent, three heavy equipment operators, one heavy equipment operator/maintenance person, one landfill attendant and two laborers.

Equipment operational cost were estimated at $134,960 and take into consideration a level of maintenance needed to ensure the equipment will be in shape for the buy-back guarantee from Rust Equipment that was part of the purchase agreement.

Miscellaneous landfill costs were listed at $171,492 and included utilities, ground water monitoring, training, equipment depreciation, and $15,000 to cover the three percent administrative charges collected by the city.

The total annual operating expense is estimated at $512,424 and repayment of the construction and equipment purchase debt is estimated at $462,062 annually.

In a notation on the debt service, Stockwell wrote, "The average annual debt service of the bonds will be $248,000 for principal and $107,423 for interest. We are required to collect 130 percent of these amounts and the budget reflects this figure. The additional $106,629 will be held until we have accumulated $500,000, which may be used for the costs of closure. After the $500,000 is accrued, the additional money could be used to retire bonds early or to reduce the tipping fee by applying it to operating expenses after the debt service is paid annually."

MainStreet reviews Midtown parking

The Ruidoso MainStreet board discussed downtown parking before entering a closed session last Thursday.

Downtown parking centered around the temporary orange barrels and how to inform residents that parking within those barrels is allowed.

The board voted on Councilor Frank Potter, also a MainStreet board member, requesting authorization from the highway department to put signs designating and defining parking in that area.

The board also asked village attorney John Underwood about the use of phase two MainStreet money for phase one parking.

Underwood said the $150,000 phase two money is for design plans outside the current construction area. He said it was a simple matter to redirect phase two money to help correct phase one parking problems and that the legislature would be in agreement as long as the money was being used exclusively for the MainStreet project.

Underwood advised village councilors not to attend the closed session of the board that was called to discuss the negotiation and acquisition of property.

Underwood said two councilors sit on the MainStreet board and two other councilors were present at the meeting, which constituted a quorum. Mayor Jerry Shaw, councilors Frank Cummins and Barbara Duff, as well as Underwood then left the meeting.

Underwood said if the MainStreet board wanted to go into executive session with the village council, they would have to first make it a council agenda item.

The board returned to the open meeting later and voted to extend the option on the Wilson property to May.

P&Z will consider variance requests today

Slick Graham, agent for Frank Richardson, will request the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission approve a side yard variance within two feet of Richardson's property line.

Planner Cleatus Richards said a site inspection of the carport area confirms alternate locations are limited, but by shifting the carport, a 5-foot setback is possible.

The commission will discuss the variance starting at 2 p.m. today

(Monday), in the council chambers.

In other business, the commission will act on:

—a replat for John and Sandra Ann Clemmons of Ponderosa Heights. The Clemmons want to consolidate two lots that house their mobile home and cure an existing encroachment.

—a replat of three lots in Ponderosa Heights Subdivision for Ronnie Morgan. The property is zoned M-1 low density mobile home. The replat corrects the lot line and easement that goes through an existing home.

—a replat and vacation of right-of-way for Chuck Boblasky of Lookout Drive. Boblasky is the owner of two lots in Lookout Estates and requests to purchase right-of-way that would increase the size of his lots.

Final approval of any right of way agreement will be subject to the village council's approval.

Fraternal Order of Police names Ruidoso police detective Wolfgang Born '93 officer of the year

Detective Corporal Wolfgang H. Born, of the Ruidoso Police Department has been selected as officer of the year by the Twelfth Judicial Law Enforcement Association of Otero and Lincoln counties.

The announcement was made at the annual Christmas dinner at Holloman Air Force Base.

Guest speaker at the event was presiding District Court Judge for the 12th Judicial District, the Honorable Robert M. Doughty.

The Twelfth Judicial Law Enforcement Association is comprised of law enforcement personnel from all federal, state, and local agencies within Lincoln and Otero counties.

According to a news release, this prestigious award was presented by Lanny G. Maddox, president of the association.

Fraternal Order of Police President Lanny Maddox presents Ruidoso Police detective Wolfgang Born with the group's officer of the year award.

Eye witness

The video camera mounted on the patrol car provides vital evidence for the health and welfare of the community. Considered by many as standard equipment, the Ruidoso Police Department is five short. Officers are asking for community help in buying five cameras for three full shifts. Costs range from $5,000 to $10,000.

Paws & Claws places lucky 13

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The special Santa Claus Paws and Claws promotion broadcast by KBUY radio announcer D. Maury Brown from the Lincoln County Humane Society animal shelter last Saturday resulted in some happy endings for 13 animals.

Three adult dogs, three pups, four cats and three kittens were adopted, including one long time Dugger, a red heeler mix named Dugger.

And then on Sunday, a very special friend named Panda, who had lived at the shelter since she was a pup, found a home.

Brown and shelter workers had hoped to improve their record from last year when 18 pets were adopted, but they're happy with any good adoptions.

It may be the economy, the season or the limited population in the Ruidoso area, but adoptions have slowed during the last few months.

Unfortunately, the flow of new animals into the shelter has remained steady, which cuts down the amount of time that some of the abandoned pets can be retained.

In the puppy room, Kodiak and Koala, two of a litter of four pups brought in by a resident who may have been the owner, are looking for new homes.

The owner apparently didn't care enough to spay his pet and then lacked the sensitivity to protect her offspring.

Kodiak is fluffy with a brown coat. Koala sports a black muzzle and short hair. Their sibling is black and the fourth pup already has been adopted. They are supposed to be Labrador mixes.

At eight to 10 weeks of age, they are typical pups and full of play.

Some familiar pets who weren't picked over the weekend include Moe, a great-looking Australian shepherd with a winning personality and Magnum, an awesome buff and white Samoyed with a gentle soul.

Heber, a sharpei with the usual rolls and wrinkles still is available for adoption, as are Fred, the friendly black Labrador; Lincoln, the sad-eyed retriever mix; Sander, a buff-color terrier with who has lots of love to share; Glider, a sweet bat-eared wonder; Fleetwood with the attractive white coat, brown spots and bobbed tail; Bravo, the terrific cattle dog and Brandy with the bronze eyes and red coat.

If your home has room for one more big heart, come to the shelter before Christmas, save a life and make a new friend.

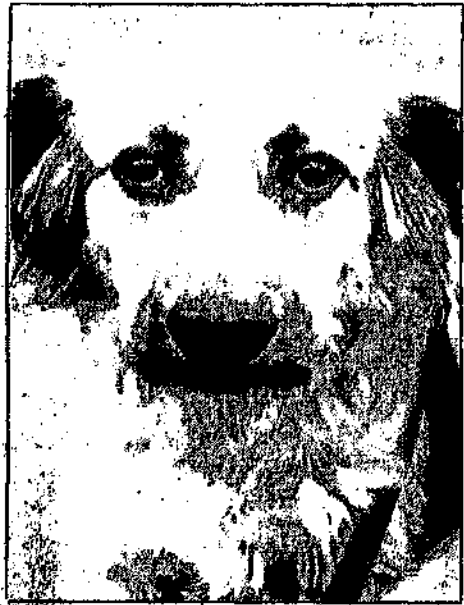

If you can't take one of the dogs or cats home, stop by to give them treats, walk or play with them to brighten their holidays.

The shelter also would welcome donations of dog, puppy, cat or kitten food. The thieves who broke into the shelter two weeks ago put a big dent into the stored supply of food.

For more information about Kodiak or Koala, or any of the other dogs and cats, call 257-9841 or stop at the shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

Lost puppies seek sanctuary at church

Three blue heeler puppies stolen from the Lincoln County Humane Society animal shelter 10 days ago were found wet and whimpering on the steps of a local church last week.

The puppies were taken during a burglary at the shelter December 10. Under the cover of night, the thieves also smashed windows and stole dog food and petty cash.

But perhaps the most destructive action was to open cages and allow the adult dogs and small pups to wander outside. All of the animals, except the three pups, stayed near the building until employees arrived in the morning.

Members of the Church of Christ reported that they were in a meeting at the church when the wind blew open the door and the three soggy pups walked inside. The heeler were returned to the shelter, where they quickly recovered from their ordeal and one was adopted.

Shelter employees would welcome donations of dog or cat food.

IRS sends postcard "greetings"

The Internal Revenue Service announced that it is in the process of mailing a Tax Package Postcard - Form 8126 - to almost 22 million taxpayers who used a professional return preparer last year.

Taxpayers who receive the postcard have two options, according to a news release.

Those who want to prepare their own returns can send the postcard back to the IRS and request that a tax package with forms and instructions be mailed to them.

Or, those who plan to use a professional tax preparer can give the postcard to the tax preparer. The postcard has a pre-printed, computer-scannable payment voucher.

Taxpayers who owe money should use the voucher to send in the payment with their 1993 tax return.

IRS computers will scan the new vouchers which will reduce the number of errors.

Last year 11 million taxpayers received postcards instead of the traditional tax package. The IRS said that, since most return preparers have their own supply of forms, many taxpayers do not need a tax package.

Therefore, in an effort to reduce costs and increase efficiency, the IRS is expanding its postcard program. Last filing season, the IRS saved $1.4 million. With the expanded mailout of the postcards, the service hopes to double the savings.

Local moving company earns award Si, si

All American Moving, Inc., in Ruidoso Downs, an agent for Wheaton World Wide Moving, has been named a 1993 Quality Agent.

According to a news release, All American was one of 116 Wheaton agents honored with a Quality Achievement Award at the 40th Annual Wheaton Agents Conference recently in Indianapolis.

To earn the award, All American Moving had to score at least 800 out of a possible 1,000 points in Wheaton's Quality Improvement Program, which began January 1.

More than 300 Wheaton agents across the U.S. participated in the '93 program.

Area artists open co-op gallery in Adobe Plaza

By DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A direct link between artists and the public, The Gray Mouse Gallery presents a unique opportunity for experimentation and communication.

Recently opened in the Adobe Plaza near The Deck House Restaurant on Mechem Drive, the gallery is a cooperative effort of a core group that's sure to grow.

Initial principals include silver artisan John West, weaver and jewelry creator Janice Gnatkowski, sculptor and life artist Ken Payne and painters Anita West and James Mack.

"This gallery is owned by artists," said John West. "There are four or five of us now, but that will increase as people know we're here and we're able to contact others."

"This kind of a gallery hasn't been seen here before. I'm not saying we'll have any particular kind of art, but we'll showcase whatever the artists are doing."

"I've been fooling with galleries for 30 years and decided that something was needed for a group of people in this county who don't have access to big galleries, as well as provide direct contact for the more established artists."

"The big (galleries) are so slick that most look a great deal alike."

"When I was growing up, people would fill their galleries with unusual items and art they liked. Whether they sold or not didn't matter. But when the rent is so high like it is in Santa Fe, for instance, galleries are forced to follow a formula, to sell."

"So for people around here we've started a gallery primarily as a showcase. If you like a painting, we'll get you to White Oaks to the artist's studio."

Many galleries keep 50 to 60 percent of the selling price of a painting, West said.

"They want to keep the artist and the buyer apart, but that really hurts the artist," because it increases the cost of the art.

Having The Gray Mouse as an outlet also allows the artist to experiment and grow. They don't have to be confined by gallery owner expectations of how their art should look, West said.

In his case, experimentation and variety has never been a problem.

"In 50 years, I've never done a repeat," West said showing a case filled with his silver jewelry, many studded with rough turquoise, not the shiny and slick pieces visitors to the Southwest see in most stores.

Gnatkowski, who grew up on a sheep ranch and continues to actively participate in demanding ranch life, fails to fall easily into any category.

"She's one of the greatest designers I have ever seen," West said. She turns out woven goods from the yarn she has created and hand dyed, does stained glass, pottery and jewelry. She even put together her own display from an old cypress pipeline from Tucumcari to Nogal.

James Mack, who recently moved from Taos to White Oaks, spent most of 1993 traveling and painting in Hawaii and Mexico.

His works are part of corporate collections in Hawaii, California, Texas, Arizona, Nevada, Vermont and New Mexico. Private collectors with his work live in Europe, England, Australia, Canada and Mexico, as well as the United States.

Mack describes himself as a stain and floor painter.

"I see my paintings as emotional explorations into space, color and form, hopefully with provocative results," he said in a 1988 interview.

Payne also presents a challenge to classify.

One intriguing sculpture intertwines wood and metal, another features a blue face mask.

Under a sign admonishing viewers "Never wear a hat with less character than you have," Payne has assembled a collection of character hats, some stained, others trimmed with unusual bands and one with a bullet hole.

"Art is creative and if you don't play with new ideas, you stagnate," West said. "You must reach."

"And there's nothing like being poor to make you reach," Payne added with a grin.

Award winning Anita West also is a charter member of the gallery, showing a style of watercolor that has won her a dedicated following.

After a 15-year public teaching career, Anita decided to focus completely on her art. She works as easily in pastel and collage dealing with florals, portraits and landscapes.

Her recognitions include the Gold Key Award from the Hallmark Scholastic Art Contest, many first place honors and best of show. Her work has been juried into the Southwest Watercolor Society Exhibition, Western Federations Watercolor Show and the National Pen Women's Association Show.

"We're not going to look like anyone else's gallery," John West promised. "We want to be here for the artists who are finding Taos and Santa Fe financially oppressive and discovering places like White Oaks and Carrizozo are affordable and offer the right atmosphere for work."

"High rent kills art."

The Gray Mouse is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. five days a week. It is closed Wednesday and Sunday.

Anita West is surrounded by a few of her paintings and some vests by Janice Gnat-

Feliz Nata!!

I'm Fabio and that's Merry Christmas in Portuguese. I send this wish from my home in Brazil to my future host family in the Lincoln county area.

My dream is to spend next semester as a "son" in your family and a student at your high school. I would like to see snow, play American baseball and go to the prom! In exchange, I'll teach you about the customs, the music and the wonderful food of my country, Brazil.

Fabio is a second semester student in the School Year USA program of World Learning. Local Coordinator Kevin Garrow in Ruidoso invites a family in Lincoln County to host a boy like Fabio from January to June. For information about the program call Kevin at 258-9198.

EDCLC exec Kopp is named to regional advisory committee

Karen Kopp, executive director of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County has been appointed to a regional business advisory group.

Kopp is among a group appointed by the Southeastern New Mexico Small Business Development Center (SBDC) to serve on the Southeastern New Mexico Business Development Center Advisory Board.

The Southeastern New Mexico Business Assistance Center is a cooperative effort between Eastern New Mexico University-Roswell and the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District.

According to a news release, its purpose is to promote economic development through a business incubator program designed to assist firms by providing them with a total package of business services.

Field services are also available for businesses who need assistance but are not incubator participants. The services range from business development, business plan development, financial management, financial packaging to marketing.

The Business Assistance Center is also a designated U.S. Small Business Administration Resource Center which provides numerous resources to the general business community.

Guv appoints business advisers

A long list of Lincoln County residents have been appointed the Governor's Business Advisory Council.

Governor Bruce King announced seven new appointments to the group which makes recommendations to him regarding economic development and tourism issues.

The large group consists of many citizens from throughout New Mexico.

Appointed recently were R.L. Van Norman of Capitan, Harold Mansell of Ruidoso Downs, Harold Garcia of Carrizozo and Robert Goddard, Flo Maul, Connie Kumler, Robert Walters and Brenda Walters, all of Ruidoso.

Robert Armstrong of Roswell serves as chairman of the council.

Van Norman is a long-time Capitan resident and the former owner of the Rusty Anchor.

"Your input with regard to business issues will be invaluable, not only to me, but to my Secretary of Economic Development, Bill Garcia, and my Secretary of Tourism, Mike Cerletti," said Governor Bruce King in his letter to the appointees.

Garcia owns the Outpost bar in Carrizozo and is on the village council there.

Mansell, an accountant, serves as municipal judge for the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

Goddard is a CPA, and is active in the Optimist Club.

Maul manages Fairway Meadows, and was President Bill Clinton's Lincoln County campaign manager.

Kumler and the Walters are activists committed to stopping the government from placing nuclear waste in or around this area.

"With your help I believe we can not only attract new jobs to New Mexico, but make sure that existing businesses are given the opportunity to compete," he continued.

RHS grad ends college career with bowl game

Warrior fans will have one more chance to watch Ruidoso High School football great Dusty Beavers on the gridiron when he plays in the John Hancock Bowl in El Paso, Texas Christmas Eve.

Beavers, a 1989 graduate of Ruidoso High School, played on the Warriors state championship football team of 1985 when he was a freshman. He helped lead his team to state final play as a sophomore and a senior, when the Warriors were runners-up for state.

At RHS, Beavers was on the 3-AAA all-state team on defense, and was named Warrior of the Year in 1989.

Beavers lettered three years in football, and also was a standout on the wrestling and track teams. He represented Ruidoso in the state track meet in 1988 and 1989, and won third in district in 1989.

Beavers was district champion in wrestling in 1988, and went to the state wrestling meet three years.

Besides achieving success in the athletic arena, Beavers excelled academically, and was an honor graduate at RHS.

He walked on at Texas Tech University, where he earned a scholarship as a sophomore and made a name for himself playing for the Red Raiders.

Beavers, a nose tackle, was elected captain for the Houston and the Georgia games this season, and was named defensive player of the week after the Texas Tech/University of Houston game.

At 6-1, 256 pounds, Beavers is a journeyman defensive lineman who worked his way into a starting role during Tech's two-a-days. He started all 11 games this season, and made ESPN's "All-Name" Team last year.

This bowl game will be Beavers' last college game after his successful career at Texas Tech.

The Red Raiders will meet the University of Oklahoma Sooners at 1:30 p.m. (CST) Friday, December 24, in the 1993 John Hancock Bowl in the Sun Bowl on the UTEP campus in El Paso, Texas.

"We are very happy to accept an invitation to play in a bowl with a proud history and tradition such as the John Hancock Bowl," said Texas Tech University President Robert W. Lawless.

"Because Texas Tech has been a part of El Paso for 20 years with our Regional Academic Health Center located there, we feel this will be like a home game for us," Lawless said.

While this will be Beavers' last college game and first bowl game it will be Texas Tech's ninth appearance in the El Paso classic.

The Red Raiders last appeared in the John Hancock Bowl, then known as the Sun Bowl, in 1972, when they met the University of North Carolina. Texas Tech last appeared in a post-season classic in 1989, when the Raiders met Duke in the All-American Bowl in Birmingham, Alabama.

Tickets for the Christmas Eve game are available through the Texas Tech Athletic Ticket Office.

The Texas Tech Ex-Students Association and the Red Raiders Club are sponsoring several pre-game events on the evening of December 23, and before the game on December 24.

For information on tickets, charters and pre-game activities, call the Red Raider Club Office at (806) 762-2000.

On The Sideline

Kirkwood looks to improve basketball program

Paul Kirkwood, Ruidoso High School's new boys basketball coach, knew he had his hands full when he was selected last June to succeed a beleaguered Norm Wright.

Ruidoso's basketball program has been the cellar-dwellers in district 3-AAA for the past 11 years. Oh, they didn't finish last every year, but they sure didn't scare anybody either. They were ... a team that every AAA team should beat.

Ruidoso basketball also had the reputation as a coaching graveyard, sending off five head basketball coaches in 10 years, including Ron Geyer, who after a couple of years as Alamogordo's sophomore coach was hired as a head coach at Deming — finished third in State in 1988. He then won two straight AAAA State Championships in Alamogordo in 1991 and 1992 as the Tigers head coach.

Other coaching casualties include Barry Nelson, who accounted for Ruidoso's lone district championship in 1981; Gene Segura, who came with Cooper Henderson from Amarillo High; current Ruidoso head soccer coach Dean Hood, who has built a high-caliber soccer team in just two years; and Wright.

Wright came to Ruidoso after just one season in Deming, long a basketball powerhouse. Wright's 1989 Wildcats went 10-2 in District 3-AAA, losing once to Oñate and once to Silver.

One season in Deming was all he could take. That's not unusual though ... Geyer checked it in at Deming after just two years as the Wildcats head-man and went to Alamogordo as an assistant ... it's just a tough place to coach.

Upon receiving the news that then-Warrior head coach Dean Hood had resigned, Wright sent in his application to Ruidoso and was quickly hired.

Coming off a successful season at Deming, a State Championship and five trips to the State Tournament at AA-power Clayton, it looked like the Warriors had found the Medicine Man that could drive the losing spirits off the mountain.

An eternal optimist, Wright believed that

by Kent Beatty
The Ruidoso News
Sports
Columnist

he could turn the Ruidoso basketball program around. After all, both of his games with Coach Hood's Warrior teams were barn-burners.

Plus, Ruidoso boasted the best player in the district, Cody Willard.

In this case, (W)right was wrong. Coach Wright was a guy who, aside from his family and his faith, lived and breathed basketball.

The problem was that he couldn't communicate his love of the sport to the kids. They didn't love it, so they didn't work at it, so they weren't good at it, so they lost games, so Coach Wright worked them harder, so they hated it, so they got worse, so Coach Wright — well, you get the picture.

It was three years of hell for both Wright and the basketball players, with neither party able to understand how the other one thought.

Which brings us to today. Why would anyone in their right mind take a job with the past problems that Ruidoso has shown over the years?

I asked Coach Kirkwood that same question. Here's how the conversation went:

PK: I came here because it's home. I graduated here and it was a great place to grow up ... I want my kids to grow up here.

KB: But what about the basketball program?

PK: Basketball is important to me, but my family, my faith and my job as a teacher are more important. I will have been a success as a coach if I can convince the kids of the importance of those things. If they learn that, they'll learn basketball. I know what you're saying ... that Ruidoso has been awful in basketball for a long time and what am I going to do about it, right?

Well, it took a long time to get the program in the shape it's in and it will take a while to get it where we want it."

KB: Where have you been since you graduated from RHS in 1980?

PK: I went to school at Eastern and got a job at Roswell High after I graduated in 1985.

KB: Did you always know that you wanted to be a coach?

PK: I always thought that I would like it, but I wasn't sure that I would be any good at it. I helped with the sophomores for one year and I coached them outright for six or seven years ... and we won a lot of games.

KB: Why didn't you move up the ladder to Roswell?

PK: I had the chance ... I just didn't feel good about it. Really, Roswell was at that time a lot like Ruidoso ... a football school that didn't put much emphasis on basketball.

There was always a lot of internal turmoil within the basketball program and I didn't want to be too close to the top, because I didn't agree with much that Coach Lyons did.

KB: He's not there anymore, right?

PK: That's right. Coach Cantu came in from Taos last year and is really going to turn them around. He's an outstanding coach. Randy (Lyons) was good to me, and he had some good teams, but it just didn't feel right to move up under him. I'm glad I stayed where I was.

KB: Who's had an influence on your philosophy in regard to basketball?

PK: There have been a lot of people, but I'd had to pick two or three names, I'd go with Porter Cutrell (an assistant coach for the junior college team at NMJI), Coach Cantu, and Ron Geyer, at Alamo. Those guys really know a lot of basketball and their players respect them.

KB: Has it been what you've expected here so far?

PK: In some ways. Basketball-wise,

Sideline

wise, I knew that the kids lacked a lot of fundamentals because I watched them play a few times the last couple of years. Otherwise, it's hard because of the budget crunch. We need some things to improve our program and they are just not available because of the money thing. The administration made a commitment to me when they hired me to get me what I needed — and they will — it just may be next year. But we have enough work to do fundamentally to last to next year, so we'll be okay for a while.

KB: Are you pleased with the kids so far?

PK: I think the kids have worked their tails off and I'm pleased with that, but we still have a long way to go. Our press is not really effective and that's just because of reps. The more you do something, the better you get. I get upset at practice and during the games because of mental mistakes we make ... but that's just going to happen. It's my system, and we're not going to give up on it. Coach Williams is pressing at the Middle School, Coach Webb is pressing with the freshmen, Coach Tarvin is pressing with the JV, and when those kids get up here, they are going to know to press, inside and out. Look at Hobbs, Alamogordo and even Artesia.

Those guys press and look at the success they've had ... it's just going to take a while ... I just have to learn to be patient and take it one step at a time.

KB: What else are you learning?
PK: A zillion things everyday. I've learned that there is not enough time in the day for a head coach. It's amazing what you have to do. But everyone at school has been pretty forgiving of my rookie mistakes. I know what I want the finished product to look like, I just have to pick my way along to try to get there, because I haven't done it before.

I'll make a lot of mistakes, I just hope a few things get done right along the way.

KB: You've played four games, how have we done so far?

PK: Like I said before, the kids have worked hard, but the bottom line is — we're one and three. I'm not happy with that. I think that we have had a chance to win every game. We have had the lead in all the games at some point in the third quarter. We just haven't overcome the little set-backs as well as we will later.

These kids won one game last year and lost 22 times. That's a lot more negative reinforcement than positive. If we just learn to do the little things right, then we will be in more games at the end, and we will have a chance to win. I was proud of the kids at Tularosa. This is a team that beat them twice last year and we played as hard as any team that I've ever coached.

We had the game won and then four of our five starters fouled out and Tullie came back and beat us ... but the kids never quit. Those are tough games, but the kids always believed that they could win ... they didn't ... but we'll next time.

KB: If you change anything at the school, what would it be?

PK: Three things ... first, there would be seventh-period athletics with all the basketball players and all the coaches in it. Second, the freshmen would have a separate athletic period, like first period, so all of the coaches can be with them, and third, we definitely need an auxiliary gym at the school. We've got six teams working out during the season, plus three teams during volleyball.

Kids need to be at home at night, not at basketball practice. Plus, the locker room situation is not good either. A new, small gym would solve a lot of problems.

KB: Where do you see yourself in five years?

PK: (Laughing) I hope I'll be the coach of one of the best basketball programs in the state. I know that the kids that we've got in the program are athletes. I know that we're teaching sound fundamentals. I know that the community wants the kids to be successful. It's just a matter of how hard the kids want to work and what the school will do to let us improve the program. I see a lot of good things.

Skiers get their wishes at Ski Apache

by YVONNE LANELLI

Special to The News

Skiers, what three things would you like for Christmas?

How about warm sunshine, fresh snow and no lift lines?

Surprise — Santa gave Ski Apache skiers all three, and it isn't even Christmas.

Sunshine? Clear skies have brightened many skier days since the area opened Thanksgiving Day.

Fresh snow? Clear skies lack snow-bearing clouds so human ingenuity stepped in.

Nightly snow making augments Mother Nature on many lower mountain trails including Capitan, Snow Deep Freeze, Smokey Bear, Snow Park, the novice areas as well as two trails in the Chair 8 area, Elk Ridge and Bull Run.

No lift lines? With most people caught up in Christmas preparations and college students taking this time of year. This reflects an industry-wide trend, says Roy Parker, Ski Apache's general manager.

Further sweetening your ski experience, Ski Apache lift tickets cost only $29 until more lifts and trails open.

Thanks, Santa and Ski Apache!

December stays busy

December proved a busy month of firsts at Ski Apache.

Chair #8, the Elk Quad, opened last weekend (December 9), accessing Bull Run and Elk Ridge, two more difficult slopes serviced by snow making.

At the same time, the new Elk Day Lodge opened, providing a full-service cafeteria, restrooms, lockers, accessory sales and other skier amenities.

This week, the popular children's programs — Hot Shots, Red Hots, and Hot Tots — began Tuesday and Wednesday.

This program will continue for eight more weeks following a Christmas holiday break.

Frequent snow making as well as grooming enable skiers and snowboarders to enjoy their sports at Ski Apache seven days a week including Christmas Day.

For current conditions and other information, call Ski Apache's 24-hour recorded report which is updated daily at 505-257-9001.

inside The Outdoors

Birds are particular about where they dine

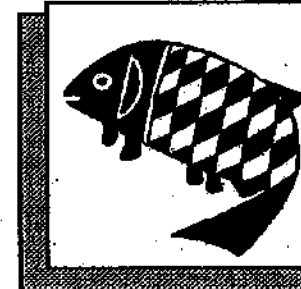

Most people know that many birds migrate during the winter time. For some birds, this journey is rather long and tiring. The long distances are compounded by harsh weather and a lack of available food. True, there is nothing we can do about the weather, but we can help out by making food sources available to the birds.

If you want to help migrating birds and are intent on having them in your backyard this winter, you need to learn two things early on: provide the birds with what they want and put it where they want it.

Some birds are particular about where they dine, preferring a perch rather than pecking the seeds from the ground. Definitely, all birds are particular about what they eat, so it is important to know what they want.

Of the many foods preferred by birds in the winter, seeds are among their favorites. Various kinds of sunflower seeds are standouts with many birds, with white proso millet and peanut hearts being readily eaten. Ingredients like flax, canary seeds and grape seeds are rarely enjoyed, but might make up more than 50 percent of most commercial wild bird seed mixes.

Cracked corn is another favorite that is high in carbohydrates and provides an excellent source of energy when insects and other natural foods are either scarce or lacking

by Ben Hanson

Additionally, raw beef fat (suet) provides concentrated energy for small birds.

Finally, not to be forgotten in the diet of winter birds is fruit. Grapefruits, oranges, and apples are among their favorites.

Now that you have some idea of the foods preferred by birds, the next question is what kind of feeder to use and where to put it.

There are a variety of feeders on the market today. Some of them are well designed and built, while others are not up to par. Platform feeders are the most popular in backyard bird programs. Basically, they have a large open area where plenty of seed is easily accessible to birds. However, they offer little protection from the elements and no selectivity as to what kinds of birds can use them.

An alternative would be tube feeders. They are basically a tube, covered by a lid or dome roof and filled with seed where the birds feed on perches at different levels. They can be customized by cutting the length of the perch to only fit certain types of birds.

You now have the feeder and the seed, the next step is just as important in establishing a backyard feeding program — where to put it.

You may have already put a feeder, but the birds aren't using it. Does this mean that the neighborhood birds are not interested in your offerings? No, but you might have to try moving it to a more suitable location.

Often feeders are more effective when placed in locations that help shield feeding birds from cold winds. Suspending a feeder from a limb that rocks violently in the wind discourages hungry birds and can waste feed on the ground.

Don't forget about the neighborhood cats either. If there is a convenient hiding spot where they can grab the feeding birds all your effort may be wasted.

Finally, as you round out your feeding program, don't forget to provide birds with a fresh supply of clean water. A garbage can lid or an old dog dish will do the trick. Remember to keep an eye on the weather also and if the water freezes, refill the container.

If this is your first try at feeding wintering birds, don't get discouraged if they don't readily come to your food offerings. It takes time for neighborhood birds to find feeders.

Once they do, however, you can enjoy the sight and also know that you have helped them out during a difficult time of year.

Future farmers report on their convention, trip to Kansas City

Members of the Ruidoso High School Future Farmers of America attended the 66th Annual National FFA convention. 18 members, with three on the Agrimarketing Team and two sponsors, made the trip.

The group left Monday, November 8, for the long journey. They stopped at Texas Tech University, Oklahoma State University, The National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Iowa Beef Processing Plant.

When the group arrived in Kansas City, they attended the first session of the convention. They also went to the career show where they got information about colleges and businesses.

On Thursday, the Agrimarketing team, consisting of Teri Hall, John Crawford and Heath Battles competed. They were split up into groups and the Ruidoso team got third in their group. They also received a silver medal.

The group then attended the American Royal Livestock Show and Rodeo.

The group left for home on Saturday.

Obituaries

Carl L. Peterson

Funeral services for Carl L. Peterson, 44, of Houston, Texas, will be at 2 p.m. today (Monday) at Gunstream Chapel in Angus.

Officiating will be the Reverend Charlie Hail. Burial will follow at Angus Cemetery.

Peterson was born December 23, 1948, in El Paso, Texas. He was an attorney in Houston.

Survivors include his parents, Danny and Virginia Peterson of Angus; two brothers, Danny Dean Peterson, Jr. of Richfield, Washington, and James Randall Peterson of Kailua Kona, Hawaii; two sisters, Jennie Ella Peterson of Honolulu, Hawaii, and Shirley Jean Jackson of Nashville, Tennessee.

Visitation will be from 8 a.m. until noon today at LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Bill "Pappy" Budens

Funeral services for Bill "Pappy" Budens, 76, of Denver, Colorado, and formerly of Ruidoso will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday, December 22, at the Community United Church in Ruidoso.

The Reverend Craig Cockrell, minister of the church, will officiate. Burial will follow at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Budens died Sunday in Denver. He was born March 8, 1917, in Chicago, Illinois. He moved to Ruidoso over 20 years ago from El Paso, Texas, and had lived there until a couple of years ago when he moved to Denver.

He was a member of the Community Methodist Church, Elk's Lodge, Lions Club, Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite and was also a Shriner. He had been a salesman.

Survivors include his son,

Robert D. Budens of Alexandria, Virginia; three daughters, Marlene Snyder of Miami, Florida, Barbara Guthrie of Denver, and Beverly Longfellow of Austin, Texas; a stepson, Philip Creevy of Chaparral and a stepdaughter, Barbara Ann Fuselier of El Paso.

He is survived by four grandchildren and four step-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Leona Budens on May 18, 1990.

The family suggests memorials to the New Mexico Elks Charitable and Benevolent Trust, 213 Canyon De Cheilly, Gallup, New Mexico, 87301. Attention: Stuart Rucker.

Arrangements are under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

The Dreamer

43-year tradition of "Nacimiento" continues

A memorial nativity scene

Forty-three years ago our mother was preparing the church of St. Anne in Glencoe for Christmas. Our friend Elfego Polaco was helping us. Mother had some small figures of Joseph, Mary and the Christ child that had been a feature of our Christmas celebration for many years.

Elfego said "I'm going to bring you a home for these sacred little ones — nacimiento."

Nacimiento is the Spanish word for manger scene or nativity scene. A few days later Elfego brought a little shelter fashioned with cedar boughs about a foot and a half high with an arched roof. We placed a small electric bulb inside for a star shining down upon the sacred little figures. Then we placed this inside the church.

The next year Elfego showed me how to make this little shelter and for every year since at Christmas the little cedar nativity home has been placed in the church. On the fourteenth I gathered cedar branches and built the little shelter and placed it in the church and so for the 43rd time the little sacred figures are inside their cedar shelter.

And I sent up a prayer of thanks to Elfego and our mother and all our loved ones in heaven.

by
Dan Storm
The Ridge
Runner

Then while there in the church I remembered Elfego's words about farm animals in Nativity scenes.

Animals in nativity scenes

"The animals are friends of our Lord because on that night when Mary and Joseph went from house to house looking for a place to spend the night, all the people turned them away. So they went to the stable and here the Christ child was born. And the animals welcomed him, warming him with their breath. And at midnight the rooster sang the words 'Cristo Nacio' (Christ is born). That is why animals are sacred in the eyes of God."

Corina the cat likes the Christmas tree

When I brought in the Christmas tree and set it up in the house a few days ago, here came Corina, the black Storm ranch cat, and jumped up on the table and began looking all around under the tree. She knows that this is a special season and takes note of the packages under the tree, smelling them to find out if some of the presents are for her.

My dogs, Sadie Logan and Solo Vito also know when Christmas was approaching.

On Christmas Eve several years ago the temperature got down to four below zero and Corina had gone to sleep in front of the fireplace.

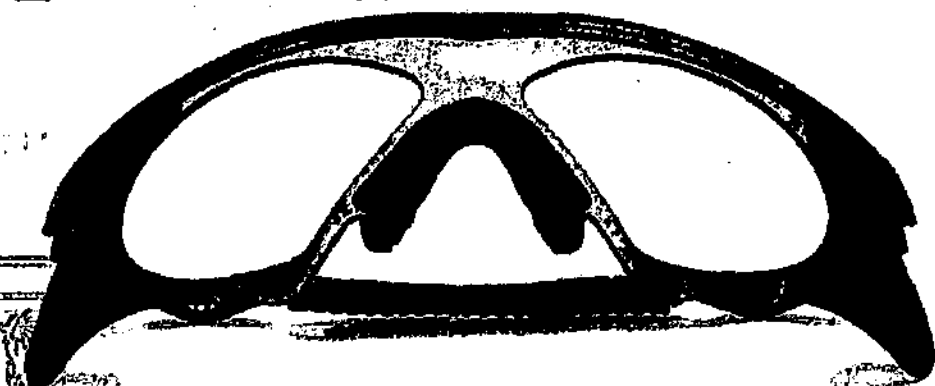

Early on Christmas morning the fire had gone out and where was Corina? I looked everywhere and finally saw her up in the Christmas tree. I guess she wanted to be a Christmas present. No doubt she was warned by the electric Christmas lights.

After the fire was built she came down and we opened the presents before the fire.

Corina loves the fireplace. At night when it begins to get cold, she will begin scratching on the firewood, getting ready to take her place on the carpet in front of the fire.

Let us rejoice and be glad at the approach of the birthday of our infant Lord and Savior.

On the lookout for the holiday blues

The Christmas tree's up. The lights are twinkling. "Jingle Bells" is playing on the radio, and you're unhappy. If you suffer from the holiday blues, you're not alone, said a family scientist at New Mexico State University.

"Short-term depression is predictable this time of year because many of us have elevated or even impossible expectations as to what the holiday should be," said Robert DelCampo of NMSU's College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Many people have visions of the entire family sitting around a table, having pleasant conversation as they watch someone carve a large, roasted turkey.

"What happens in our mind is that we go into what's known as cognitive dissonance," DelCampo said. "What we'd like the holidays to be versus what they really are often are two, very different things. That causes some people to become somber and sometimes depressed."

Long-term depression, when abnormal behavior persists more than one day, can cause a combination of symptoms of the job and at home. A co-worker may seem more irritable than normal. At the other end of the spectrum, a normally cantankerous person may seem more quiet and withdrawn.

"Some people change their eating habits when depressed," DelCampo said. "They may eat less food or they may nurture themselves by eating much more food."

Others may slip out of their normal sleeping patterns, adding to their problems at work. People may become much more restless and lose sleep, or they may call in sick from work to stay in bed the entire day.

"If you're feeling depressed and you go to work, it might take you twice as long to complete work that normally takes only an hour or two," he said.

Holiday party schedules often open the door to depression for normally well-adjusted, happy people. Late-night parties rob people of their normal sleep, not to mention damage done by the overconsumption of foods and beverages.

"And the chemical imbalances caused by excessive alcohol consumption can only compound depression's troubles," DelCampo said.

He suggest some age-old remedies to beat depression.

"All our lives, we've heard the old wives' tale about a sound mind and sound body," he said. "Some of the best preventers of depression are proper rest, proper diet and good exercise."

Limiting your stay at a holiday party can keep you on track with a normal sleeping pattern. Lowering fat intake, eating more complex carbohydrates, fruits, vegetables and whole grain breads can be a great start, he said.

"And even if you've never exercised on a regular basis, get a checkup with a physician and make a commitment to walk for 10 to 15 minutes each night," DelCampo recommended.

But not everybody can climb out of a rut on their own, DelCampo said. Discussing one's feelings with friends and relatives can be very therapeutic toward during the holiday blues.

"It's so easy for depressed people to reject offers to attend holiday plays or concerts," DelCampo said. "It's up to you, a caring person, to encourage them to get up and have some fun. You've got to help them understand that the reality out there is quite different than what they may be thinking."

When symptoms persist and all else fails, friends or relatives should help depressed people seek professional help.

"You can be instrumental by making the phone call — even going with them to a well-qualified therapist," he said. "Many are very well trained in dealing with depression and in dealing with family systems."

For more information about professional help for depression, contact the Counseling Center in Ruidoso at 257-5038, or call the center's 24-hour help line, 437-8680; or look up counseling services in the yellow pages for a list of therapists and psychologists.

Upon Reflection

Father still knows best, no matter how old you are

When a person suddenly get plopped down into the middle of middle age, they're apt to ignore if not forget the admonitions their father so wisely propounded too many years ago.

My father, for example, always thought New Year's Resolutions were a bad idea.

"If there is something you want to change about your life, do it slowly, thoughtfully and persistently," he would counsel.

"But never go about it abruptly by laying down some absolute taboo effective January 1."

It's all too artificial, he maintained, and only sets you up for failure.

Well, Dad, if you're listening in from up there, I get your point.

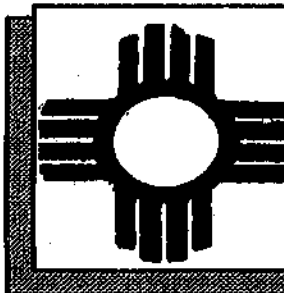

Last year, just about this time, I promised myself to stop doing something common to the practice of political journalism. Namely, I resolved to stop borrowing the language and idioms of sports and warfare and using them metaphorically in my writings on politics.

As you may have noticed, political journalism is overrun with this sort of thing. So much so that we have come not only to expect it, but to accept it as the authorized vernacular of contemporary political discourse.

You know what I mean, news stories and headlines which read something like, "Senator X hits it out of the ballpark with keynote address."

Or, "Governor Y declares war on (fill in the blank ... poverty, drugs, crime, welfare fraud, etc. etc.)."

Reporters tend to write this way because they think it adds color to their work. What's more, the vocabularies of sports and warfare are rich with tempting imagery, like "The House Speaker was dodging critics' bullets over his inclination to push for a watered down version of legislative ethics reform rather than risk defeat at the hands of an army of lobbyists who oppose reform..."

The problem with this kind of political journalism is that it can confuse, which is not the purpose of this profession at all. Sports are sports. War is war. Politics is politics.

Thus, my decision a year ago to forswear, no matter how tempting, this handy-dandy treasure trove of expressive but potentially misleading terminology.

Fat chance!

Within the span of three weeks, I had KO'd my 1993 resolution and vanquished it from the battlefield like a poorly-armed soldier pitted against (and, now, to mix it up a bit) the hard-charging Dallas Cowboys.

In a matter of speaking.

Not only did I declare in one article that "media-bashing by politicians and the public alike has become Americans' favorite national sport" (because "there are no rules governing the way the game is played."). I had former New Mexico Governor David Cargo attempting a long-sought comeback by playing "a tough, slam-dunk game of electoral politics."

Governor Bruce King, I found myself predicting, would have "to go to the mat" with opponents of youth gun control at the next Legislature.

Former state Representative Colin McMillan was believed to have the advantage "in the horse race" for New Mexico Republicans' 1994 U.S. Senate nomination.

Senator Pete Domenici, I averred, "may be scoring points" with the GOP faithful due to one of his frequent 1993 Senate filibusters; but less partisan constituents, I continued, aren't sure they approve of the game he is playing.

Former Governor Toney Anaya, who acknowledged he'd like to be governor again, struck me as a "political animal, sidelined, but itching to get back onto the playing field."

Enough, already! It causes me too much distress to admit how quickly and frequently I failed to live up to my solemn resolution of but a year ago.

Nor this January 1st, am I approaching the New Year with anything like a resolution borne of a taboo. In fact, I'm taking a more positive attitude about things altogether by adding to the language of sports and warfare in my reportorial repertoire that of Las Vegas (Nevada, that is).

And I'm gambling that I'll be able to stick to this one.

If not, all bets are off.

Letters To The Editor

Appalled by advice from local police on handguns

TO THE EDITOR:

Of all the towns in the United States I could have picked to retire in, I had to choose Ruidoso — where the assistant chief of police advises me to be sure and buy a gun now; so I can kill anyone who threatens me.

Certainly would infringe on my rights if I had to wait an entire five days to decide whether I wanted to kill another human being or not! And may God have mercy on our souls.

American Team could practice in front of Macy's. Although the trip was the most exciting thing I have ever participated in as an individual, I realize that it was my sponsor Mrs. Durham that really put me there. From the very beginning I didn't believe that I could really make the All-American Team. She "forced" me into trying out but she entered my name and then telling me there was just no way she could take my name off the list at camp. I remember being so angry with her for doing that - but when they read my name of the list as an All American I think I instantly forgave her! It was her leadership and guidance over the last three years that has provided me with the determination and ability to make this team. I would like to take this opportunity to thank her for everything she has done for me and continues to do for our high school squad. I wrote this letter to the editor to share with my local community the events of my trip and to take an opportunity to thank the Ruidoso Municipal School Board members and Mr. Gladden for their support and allowing me to go as a participant. There are so many people in Ruidoso that I owe thanks to for their financial support. I hope this letter to the editor extends a thank you to each of you and to the community. It was really great to be part of the ALL-AMERICAN TEAM!

THIS IS AN OPEN — letter of gratitude for the vision, commitment and work graciously given to this community by Janet and Jimmy Goodwin.
