here, and they go (somewhere.) And that leaves a vacant building, and that depresses the economy, depresses our attitude about ourselves.

"Yes, we can try to motivate us and let's go out there and try to clean up the streets, but what are you going to do with all these broken buildings? What are you going to do with all these broken dreams, the depression people have incurred when they come up with their beautiful dream of living in Ruidoso, went broke, so they skipped.

"It's unfortunate, but that's the irony in Ruidoso.

"There's only two ways to make it here, you're part of the tourist money or you're bringing money from somewhere else," Alonso said.

One woman asked if building owners could be held accountable. She asked about anything the Federal Deposit Insurance Company (FDIC) may own. Could that governmental agency clean up its buildings?

"They won't do it," Alonso said. "They won't spend the money. We spent three or four months working with FDIC on the Grindstone Canyon subdivision. The village didn't have a right of way to get to our own dam. The FDIC was uncooperative. They're not interested in investing money in growth. All they're trying to do is get rid of this stuff. Distress sales. Now that's been our experience. You can accept it or not, but that's where we are."

Another member complained that in her neighborhood, they went by the book, sending her letter and complaints to village officials because across the street it looked like a "wrecking yard." She said there were no results.

Alonso said the village had an ordinance dealing with distressed property. He said after a complaint was filed, the complaint would go to planning and zoning, the owner is contacted. If it's a burned out house or with weeds, the owner is contacted and told to clean up. Otherwise the village will do it and put a lien on their property.

"We've done this," Alonso said. "We don't do it very often. We probably do three, four or five a year."

He said the procedure takes time because the owner has to be notified and given a chance to clean the property.

A member said she followed procedure regarding old cars and piles of junk near her house.

"It was like a perpetual garage sale," she said.

She said after her complaint to the village, the owner cleaned up half. But half was still there.

"Keep after it," Alonso suggested. "You need to do it again, because that's the only way it's going to be done."

"If you get no satisfaction filing a complaint through the city manager, planning and zoning, refer to me and I'll see that it gets to the property owner. I'll be happy to help you. But you've got to give me the specifics and we'll go from there," Alonso said.

"I feel partly responsible if I allow this to happen," the woman said.

"Any other hard questions?" the mayor asked, changing directions.

One woman suggested adopting portions of the village to clean, such as the adopt a highway program.

"Can we adopt a building?" she asked.

Another member said it would not take much for owners to pull their weeds.

"What you have here is the balancing of the property owners rights and the public not to have nuisances," Alonso said. "It's a delicate thing. You're pitting one person's interest against another's. That's why it's a long, drawn out procedure. But it does work."

Alonso said just threatening the property owner by the village that a lien will be put on his property often works in helping clean up the problem.

One woman said other towns she has visited presented a clean picture to visitors. She described an area of old cars on Mechem that was an embarrassment to her when friends visited.

The mayor said he was familiar with the property and that every time the man is approached, he cleans the property. The mayor said as time goes by, it goes right back to where it started.

"I'll follow up on this," the mayor said. He then again wanted to change the subject.

"I'm afraid there's so much we ought to be talking about. We're focusing on cleaning. That's important to you, but is there any other subject that you'd like to address before we spend the whole meeting talking about weeds and garbage?" Alonso asked.

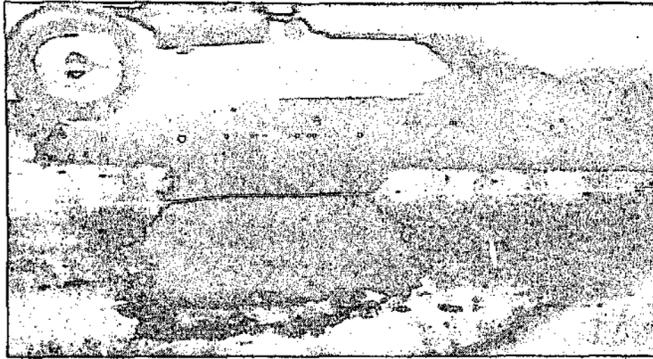

In a separate discussion, Alonso spoke of the coming summer and the activity of the civic events center.

"There will be an arts and craft show every month from Madco Corporation" Alonso said. "A private person that leases the entire civic events center. If you're an artist and you want to exhibit, you have to rent the space from them."

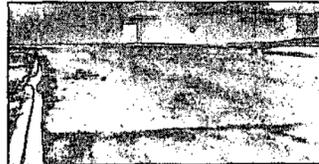

The mayor mentioned other large conventions, including the Jehovah's Witnesses with 850 persons.

A member asked how the civic center is holding up financially and how much money it is earning.

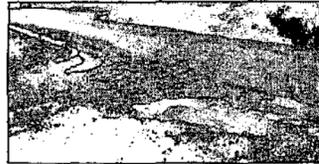

"Not much is coming in," Alonso

A street department patch across from the library looks like a crude map of Florida. Residents fear it is the beginning of another patchwork quilt Sudderth resembled before the state repaved it last year.

After 18 months work by the street department, the civic center parking lot is still not complete and some workers say it was not done to state specs. A typical mangled mess of broken macadam greets motorists on many Ruidoso streets.

said. "A civic events center is not like a motel where you rent a room and get money. A civic events center is kind of like a free hotel where you provide a space for people to come in and do their business, you kind of almost give it away."

"You're subsidizing?" one woman asked. "Absolutely," said the mayor. "That's absolutely what we do. However, the payoff comes in, if we bring in 2,000 people and 2,000 people spend $200 a day, and that $200 a day gets turned over ...six times, it is generating gross receipts tax, OK."

"We rent that civic events center for $500 a day, that's nothing,"

Alonso said. "It's 33,000 square feet. It's an investment that the community has agreed to make to bring people in the town to generate that gross receipts."

Alonso said he was concerned about the final completion of the center. He said wiring is up to code, but not commercial and the architect designed the wiring for 208 and 100 volts instead of 220 and 110 volts.

He said there is still about $30,000 worth of arguments.

One man told of the high taxes retirees were charged when moving from another state.

The News talked to one woman

New post office pothole repair, upper right, is left with rocks in the gutter and a surface barely better than the potholes. Road leftovers, left, on Mustang Drive give a resident a free berm. Weeds and waste clutter a corner at one of the village's main side streets.

Weeds, waste and buildings in need of repair present an eyesore across from the post office. At right, and near the mayor's restaurant, an example of village neglect. Many long-time residents claim village deterioration is at an all-time high and blame it on a lack of leadership.

County will auction land for unpaid taxes

Ninety-eight pieces of property, 23 with houses on them, will hit the auction block in March because of unpaid property taxes.

Lincoln County Treasurer Janice Silva Ware said the sale is set for 10 a.m. Thursday, March 4 in the county commission room in Carizozo.

The total package represents $66,507 in delinquent taxes.

The breakdown as handed out by Ware is:

- 48 parcels in Ruidoso
- 23 in Capitan and Alto
- 14 in Carizozo
- 1 in Corona
- 8 in Ruidoso Downs
- 4 in San Patricio

The auction will be conducted by officials with the State Taxation and Revenue Department, property tax division.

"All persons who intend to bid on property are required to register and obtain a bidder's number from the auctioneer," Ware said. "Sales can only be completed with cash, cashier's check, certified check, money order or personal check accompanied by a bank letter of credit guaranteeing payment of the amount of, or in excess of the amount of the check. The check or money must be presented upon the purchase of the property."

The property tax division representatives will deliver a deed to the purchaser. After two years from the date of the sale, neither the former property owner nor anyone claiming through that person can bring an action to challenge the conveyance.

Routinely, many property owners pay off their delinquent taxes and penalties before the auction. When it comes down to the day of the sale, the list should be significantly smaller, Ware said.

County manager Andy Wynham said the county clerk has revamped the arrangement in her office to better use the space.

"I'm working on plans, alternatives for expansion," he said. "It's a matter of which direction the commission prefers. It's just that between now and the future, there's this time span when space needs must be met."

Spencer said since he was elected two years ago, "someone always is needing more space."

"In 1991, we asked for a study of the needs not just for five years, but a plan for 30-50 years so the money can be spent efficiently."

"I don't favor patching for the moment. I think every department head should come forth with ideas of their own because they know what's best for their offices."

With all of the available technology, department heads should be transferring records onto microfilm, which could dramatically reduce the need for storage space, he said.

"Instead of saying 'I need,' come up with ideas of how you can work with what you have, as well as for the future," Spencer told department heads and other elected officials.

Schwettmann suggested looking at the possibility of hiring a space management consultant.

Noting that he hired an architect six months ago to come up with remodeling plans, Wynham said he also could hire a consultant. "But it would be up to each department to decide whether to rearrange their office," he said.

At that point, Howell brought the board's discussion back to the district attorney's request.

After Howell's motion to grant Rhodes request for more space failed, Nunley pointed out that there are several buildings in Carizozo that could be used by some departments, if the owners would bring them up to code.

"It would improve the city and give the county badly needed office space," he said.

Howell offered a motion directing Wynham to "examine that possibility."

Spencer said he's concerned about splintering county functions and prefers centralization, but would go along if it was just to present an option.

"Am I to review space and come back with an estimate on remodeling?" Wynham asked.

"I didn't hear anything (in the motion) about hiring an architect," Howell said.

Wynham said he already knows there are several buildings available in town, but the question is whether it would be financially practical to make changes to ensure that they comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

"We need space today, Nunley said. "Communication is no problem with today's technology."

"Just let us know what options are available," Montes said. "The buildings run from good to poor and rough estimates should be possible. I think there were prior reports with costs attached."

"We want to hear a more subjective than objective report," Spencer said. "Just what you see as options."

"People are pack rates," said resident David Skeen. "Microfiche has been around for years and then they could put the material in a shoebox. Ninety percent of what they have, they don't need anyway. I don't think hiring an architect or space evaluator is the solution. I'm against spending a lot of money until these things (transferring records to microfilm and throwing out unnecessary items) are done."

In addition to checking buildings in the area, Montes instructed Wynham to examine other space options that might be available in the courthouse complex to ease the situation in the district attorney's office.

Later in the meeting, Twelfth Judicial District Judge Richard A. Parsons told commissioners that, for a change, additional space was not his major need, due in large part to the transfer of records to microfilm.

His listed his top priorities as improvements to the heating system, repair or replacement of the 27-year-old courtroom audio-recording system and the acquisition of an electronic courtroom security system.

The latter would be aimed at protecting attorneys and clients, as well as the judge and jury, he said.

Howell suggested that Wynham meet with Parsons and come back with a cost estimate on the items.

In other business, commissioners:

-adopted a resolution for the disposal of obsolete equipment, which requires a 30-day advance notification to the state auditor. The equipment consists of roller shelves and filing cabinets.

"This is the proper procedure for disposal of county property," Wynham said. "Either we will take sealed bids or I'll conduct a mini-auction."

"Since we are disposing of public property, we must be sure we comply with the state statutes," Montes said.

"That's why we're doing this and notifying the state auditor," Wynham said. "The resale value must be less than $5,000 and the equipment must be worn or obsolete."

-approved a consent agenda procedure for routine items such as bills, payroll and treasurer's report.

Wynham said commissioners should contact him before the meeting if they have questions. He noted that any single commissioner during the meeting can request that an item be removed from the consent agenda and be scheduled for discussion. Items on the consent agenda are not discussed and are approved in a group, all at one time.

-on a motion by Howell, approved $10,000 to move the Corona Senior Citizens Center from its site outside the town to a more convenient location within the corporate boundaries. The building was donated to the community by El Paso Natural Gas, although the program is run by the county.

"I'd like to see an agreement that it would be a joint use building, maybe leasing it for $1 a year," Montes said. "It has to be multi-purpose for dance and bingo."

Commissioner Schwettmann walks out, avoids casting vote

By DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

For the second time in a little more than one month since he took office, Lincoln County Commissioner William Schwettmann has walked away from a vote on a key issue.

BILL SCHWETTMANN

Commission Chairman Monroy Montes Wednesday called Schwettmann's behavior "irresponsible." He said the new commissioner is not carrying his portion of the commission's governing load.

During Schwettmann's first meeting in January, he abstained from voting on the controversial issue of whether to continue lawsuits connected to the acquisition of land along the Rio Bonito by the Bureau of Land Management.

At that meeting, he said the information presented was confusing and he needed more time and more facts.

Then Tuesday, during a closed-to-the-public session scheduled to rank preferences for a county attorney out of six candidates, Schwettmann walked out of the meeting. He left the other commissioners behind to decide the issue. They came out of the closed session and voted 4-0 to negotiate a fee with the current county attorney, J. Robert Beauvais.

Montes told The Ruidoso News Wednesday that he was very bothered by Schwettmann's actions.

"It was bothersome to me the first time he refused to take a stand on an issue," Montes said. "I just have to believe that you have a contract with the people that you represent, and that's all the people of Lincoln County, that when you are elected to public office you will make a vote. You will take a stand, no matter whether it's right or wrong. And I don't believe this person has done that at least twice now."

Schwettmann disagreed with Montes' assessment. From his viewpoint, it is the other commissioners who may be rushing to judgment on the Rio Bonito and attorney selection issues without proper consideration and information.

"There was no way to make a stand on that legal issue," Schwettmann said. "We got six proposals. We got them at 8:30 yesterday (Tuesday) morning. There's over 75 pages to digest and we started reading that stuff a little after 5 p.m."

"Now they're either smarter than I am or they're really good speed readers, but how are you going to digest six proposals and 75 pages?"

"I figure it would take me a day or two to do a good job and that's what you're supposed to do. I had another commitment and there just was no way to do justice to the people who spent the time to give you the proposals. You just can't do that after being there nine hours. Those things (proposals) are a little complicated."

Schwettmann disagreed that his constituents might be left without representation if he does not vote on a key issue.

"I think I'm doing just the opposite by evaluating everything instead of just having it railroaded," he said. "There's no way they could have evaluated those proposals and graded them and put a weight on each item."

"My vote wouldn't have counted anyway. That's what I don't like, if they make snap decisions, they can make wrong decisions. I think you would be a very bad representative by jumping to a conclusion. If it was a done deal, then it didn't make much difference anyway. If they already had their minds made up, why did they take the proposals, if they want to start playing some hardball."

"In my judgment, the decision could not have been made at that meeting. Maybe that's because it was a done deal. I think he's doing a fine job, Bob Beauvais, but when you have six people who took the time to prepare these things, about 10-12 pages each and in detail. You need to sleep over them, if nothing else."

Schwettmann said he was under the impression that a special meeting would be called to act on the proposals.

not stop the meeting or the flow of business, because we only meet once a month and then to sit there and fumble all day. I felt badly, I really did."

Schwettmann denied he was having difficulty during the open part of the commission meeting.

"I was more prepared than anyone there," he said. "I had lists and everything else."

"It was one of those boards that I didn't know they would go down the line by district to begin with. They were asking to put people on that maybe would not be as interested from my district to serve as maybe two from a district that is more influenced by what that particular board does."

"They come up with things and they want a snap judgment on that. Maybe I read too much and look at things too much. Maybe it's just the opposite of what people think. Is it better to just take a negative stand when you're not sure of what you are doing. Should you just say 'no' when they push a vote through?"

"I think these things need to be thought out. That's not what's supposed to happen. Maybe I'm learning that you don't think (through) anything. I think you can get into an awful lot of trouble (that way)."

His constituents in his district seem supportive of his reluctance to be hurried, Schwettmann contended.

"The first issue (Rio Bonito) I've gotten more compliments on by not making a snap judgment," he said. "Not just jump in with both feet. When you've only been to two meetings, you're not really that swift and if these other people think they are, maybe they look at things in a different light."

He pointed out that by not casting a vote on Rio Bonito, the lawsuits proceeded and the attorney still was selected for negotiation.

"My vote (on the attorney) wouldn't have made a one iota of difference and you have to be able to analyze that too," Schwettmann said.

"By not taking a stand, maybe I took my stand. I thought they were acting too quick and that was my stand."

"I don't want everybody to make quick, snap judgments based on two incidents. Probably this will be the last time (he doesn't vote). I'll stay there until midnight, if people are concerned with it."

Commissioner Wilton Howell said he felt deserted by Schwettmann when the commissioner left suddenly.

"I agreed with Bill that we needed time to go over the stuff again. There were 78-80 pages of information," Howell said. "I was sitting there arguing that case and I turned around to find I was a lone ranger. He had walked out."

"And although I agreed with him originally, I stayed long enough to satisfy my concerns."

Howell said he also took time during the regular meeting to go over the proposals.

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said he felt comfortable ranking the proposals. The names of the attorneys were known long enough in advance to become familiar with the firms, he said.

Commissioner Stirling Spencer said he personally was familiar with the attorneys who submitted proposals and was prepared either at the Tuesday meeting or at another time to do the evaluation, at the direction of the majority of the commission or the chairman.

"As it turned out, I felt comfortable in my assessment and the length of time that it took," Spencer said. "I can see that possibly other commissioners without a similar background might have felt uncomfortable."

"I feel each commissioner has to answer to his own conscience and constituents (countywide). Personally, I don't condemn any commissioner for their actions. I'm there to do my job."

County manager Andy Wynham said that knowing the proposal review would take several hours, he originally scheduled it early in the meeting while the commissioners would be fresh. However, the board rescheduled the executive session to be one of the last pieces of business on the agenda.

Young Warriors defeat Deming, Oñate in close contests

A nine-point advantage at halftime dwindled to a tie in the third quarter and a loss by the buzzer for the Warrior freshmen team Tuesday against Tularosa.

The young team started out strong in the first quarter and had a 16-11 lead over the Wildcats. They put in another 16 points in the second quarter, while Tulie turned in 12 for a halftime score of 32-23.

Tularosa turned the table in the second half as they pumped in 21 points to Ruidoso's 12 for a 44-44 tie. The young Warriors seemed to collapse under the pressure put on by the Wildcats and turned the ball over several times in the fourth quarter. The Warriors also made just one of 12 free throw attempts in the quarter.

The team made just seven points in the last quarter while Tulie scored 20 points, including two three-point shots.

The leading scorer for the Warrior team was Eric Peña with 14 points. Danny Schrader pumped in eight and Matt Norbury picked up seven.

The young team had been on a two game winning streak against district opponents. The Warriors pulled out a close one against the Deming Wildcats on Saturday night, 38-36.

The teams were tied at eight in the first quarter, but the Warriors gained a little ground by halftime to take a 17-15 lead over the Wildcats. The Warriors added another 10 in the third quarter, while Deming scored just seven. The Wildcats made a run for the win in the final quarter, scoring 14 points, to the Warriors 11.

Randy Randolph tossed in 15 points as the leading scorer for the team, but Norbury was right behind him with 14 points. Robert Guardiola picked up four points.

The Warriors also gained a big win against the Oñate Knights on January 23 in Las Cruces. The final score was 50-47 in overtime.

The young squad was blown away in the first quarter 9-20 and the second quarter was just as painful. The Warriors picked up just five points, while the Knights scored 12 points.

The second half was a different story for the Warriors as they pumped in 15 points to the Knights' two. In the final quarter the Warriors continued to play well and scored 14 points, while the Knights' had nine for a 43-43 tie.

In overtime the Warriors hit five free throws and a basket for seven points, while the Knights missed two free throw shots, and made just two baskets for four points.

Randolph topped the scoring again with 18 points as he hit eight out of nine free throws for the team. Norbury chipped in eight and Schrader scored six. Guardiola, Peña, Chris Loretto and John Montero each added four points.

The junior varsity Warriors haven't been as successful on the court during the last two outings. The Warriors lost to Oñate 15-89, and to Deming 42-89.

In the Oñate game Zack Turner scored seven points and LeMuel Rocha picked up six. Daniel Espinosa scored two points.

The team put in an improved offensive game against the Deming Wildcats on Saturday, but couldn't stop them from scoring.

Gabe Aguilar was the high scorer for the team with 17 points, while Rocha added nine. Turner scored seven and Byron Soules chipped in six.

The two teams will travel with the varsity on Friday to play at Silver City, followed by a game Saturday against Cobre.

Gabe Aguilar (24) puts up a shot from the top of the key as his junior varsity teammates block out the Deming defenders during a game Saturday night. The Warriors lost 42-89 with Aguilar leading the team with 17 points.

Lady Warriors travel west for Cobre, Silver

The Lady Warriors basketball team took three on the chin in Deming Saturday night in district action.

The varsity team started strong but had to swallow a 42-67 loss to the Lady Wildcats who are ranked fourth in state class AAA, right behind district opponent Socorro.

The loss took the girls to a 6-12 record overall and a 2-3 record in district competition as they start the five-team rotation over with a game Friday at Bayard Cobre.

The squad started a little nervously, but got rolling by the end of the first quarter to take an 18-15 lead into the second. The Lady Warriors were then outscored 4-16 for a deficit of nine points at halftime.

Deming also earned the third quarter with 17 points to Ruidoso's seven. At that point it was too late for the Lady Warriors to stage a comeback rally.

Coach Dennis Davis said the girls shot just 31 percent from the field, and the free throw shooting wasn't on either. The Lady Warriors also had a number of turnovers that lead to easy lay-ups for the Lady Wildcats. One Deming player, Teresa Gutierrez, picked up 21 points.

"They also got some extra chances at rebounds that we should have had," Davis said.

Cicelee Makowski was the top shooter for the Lady Warriors with 16 points. Sarah Dix scored 14, while Michelle Morris made four. Kristie Ryan, Robyn Hursch, Mandy Parker and Kim Floyd each scored two points.

Dix grabbed 11 rebounds, while Makowski and Morris pulled in four.

The junior varsity team started slowly but could never get close to the Lady Wildcat team which picked up the win, 21-46. Davis said at times the girls played better than they had in the last few weeks, but it is still a matter of inexperience and pressure. The team is young and still making mistakes, but players are improving, he said.

Crystal Taylor and Meghann Valliant each earned five points, while Danielle Morris scored four. Lindsay Willard hit three, while Tina Barnes added two. Monique Ramos and Summer Escalanti each chipped in one.

The C-team played pretty well

Monique Ramos (in light jersey) grabs at a loose ball before an Oñate defender can steal it during a junior varsity contest against the Knights on January 23. The JV team lost 14-41, but the varsity defeated the Knights for the first time in competition between the two teams.

but lost 29-45. The team would get a good run going but couldn't stop Deming from scoring at the same time.

In the game Escalanti pumped in six, while Valliant hit four. Cecilia Fuentes also scored four. Jessica Dixon, Angela Simms, Maya Mascarenaz, Vada Stillwell, Heather DeBusk, Cindy Richardson and Monique Ramos each added two points. Amber Livingston had one point in the game.

Both of the younger teams had had trouble with shooting technique, but improved a little in this game. Davis said it isn't going to be an overnight turn-around for the young girls.

With Cobre and Silver up in a double header this weekend, Davis said the Lady Warriors are still looking at a good chance of beating both teams. The team will also be staying there overnight to avoid to long drives in two days.

"The Lady Warriors should be able to do it if they cut down on the turnovers and shoot well."

"If the girls come out and have the right motivation we have a chance of beating them both," he said.

Wrestlers set for districts

More than 120 wrestlers hit the mats Saturday during the annual Ruidoso Junior Varsity Wrestling Tournament.

Wrestlers traveled from Los Lunas, Belen, Carlsbad, Roswell, Goddard, Gadsden, Santa Teresa and Moriarty to compete in 230 matches to name the champions of each weight class. The young Warriors did well against the tough competition.

At 95 pounds, Mike Smart earned second place. Julian Flores took first place at 103 pounds with a win over teammate James Flores. Jose Prieto also took first place at 112 pounds, while Jason Cody picked up one win and two losses at that weight class.

Johnny Flores placed second at 119 pounds and at 130 pounds Sean Gleason had two wins and two losses. Billy Austin also earned second place at 140 pounds, as did Dylan Carusona at 145 pounds.

J.R. Chino took third place at 171 pounds. Sergio Guerrero captured second place at 189 pounds, while Freddy Sanchez finished third at that weight class.

The JV and varsity dualed Mayfield Wednesday night there and the varsity will have one final meet before the district meet. The team will wrestle in the district quadrangular in Alamogordo on Saturday.

Ruidoso will host the district tournament on February 18 with wrestlers from Cobre, Deming, Oñate, Silver City, Socorro and the New Mexico Military Institute fighting for a chance to continue the season at the state tournament in Albuquerque February 18-20.

Red Hots learn fun and safe ski skills

by YVONNE LANELLI
Special to The News

Tuesday's bright sunshine proved perfect for an afternoon with the Red Hots of Ski Apache.

These five- to nine-year-olds represent the intermediate skills group of the Hot Tot, Red Hot, Hot Shot children's program of Ski Apache's Ski School.

Every Tuesday afternoon for nine weeks, Red Hots meet with the same instructors for a skill-directed learning experience that's both fun and safety-aware.

"Ski skills with fun and safety, that's what the program's all about," says Carla Grover, supervisor of the children's ski school and its "hot" originator.

The four Red Hots were ready for all three. Cheers greeted instructor Dave Anderson's announcement "Bumps today!"

He began with a skull session on the gondola ride up. In a notebook he sketched a mogul field on which each child drew a path down the bumps. Then he explained what that meant on snow.

"This long line means you'll go fast," he said to one.

"Coming over the top of the bump here you'll pick up speed," he said to another.

"You have a good line through the valleys," to another.

At the top the eager skiers transferred their paper moves to real ones on some gentle, widely spaced bumps at the top of meadows. They carefully negotiated their way through these "mini-moguls."

"More bumps," they begged, following Dave to the Chute. Along the way, Dave led them through long, medium and short radius turns.

All afternoon the Red Hots reinforced a variety of skiing skills including gates practice using each other as slalom poles. At the end of their lesson, Dave suggested moves they could practice when skiing with their family and friends.

Later, Dave explained the progress card given to each Red Hot.

"It shows four skills: long, medium and short radius turns, gates, powder and bumps. Each is followed by the numbers one through five. One means the skier is aware of that skill and understands the concept. Numbers 2-4 represent increasing skill levels up to five which is skiing that skill with confidence."

After a session with the Red Hots, this reporter mentally reviewed her skiing. Compared to these kids, I might be a two or three.

Hmmm, which way to adult ski school...

Little skiers have big fun

by YVONNE LANELLI
Special to The News

Some of them are so short they need to be boosted onto the chairlift. Some are so small they're swallowed up by ski clothes meant for a bigger person. None of them, even on tiptoes, stretch as tall as their instructor's ski poles.

But can those little tykes ski? These tots are hot.

I caught up with the Hot Tots the third week of their nine-week program. Hot Tots represent the beginning skills group of the Hot Tot, Red Hot, Hot Shot children's ski program, exclusive to Ski Apache.

Five-year-olds Peter James Zagone and Tucker Davis with four-year-old Stephan Seigmann followed instructor Mark "Smiley" Lively all over the lower mountain. They may be termed "beginners," but they don't ski like it.

They stopped and started on command, skied trees, practiced turn shape, even worked in a slalom course.

Of course, if a grownup asked them what they did that afternoon, the Hot Tots' version of the lesson might sound like this: "We play red light-green light, follow-the-leader and fun stuff."

For the "Hot" program bases its lessons on games.

"After all, skiing's fun, right," says genial Smiley.

Sure enough, when given a choice of a hot chocolate break or another run, the Hot Tots gleefully opted for the chairlift.

Much of the Hot Tots' enjoyment derives from Smiley, whose gentleness and patience fit well on his over-six-foot frame. Followed by his tiny trio, Smiley and the Hot Tots remind one of a blue-clad Big Bird and three little chirpers.

But the Hot Tots don't always follow Smiley.

"Who wants to lead?" he asks. And one by one each little boy takes over.

"We're practicing for the Hot Chocolate Cup," confides Smiley with a wink as the Hot Tots swing around bright traffic cones set up as a mini-race course.

The Hot Chocolate Cup is the final event of the kids' program. More of a fun day than a race, the Cup lets the kids show off to Mom and Dad their newly-acquired ski skills.

From the looks of these Hot Tots, the Red Hots and Hot Shots better look out!

Stephan Seigmann heads up the slopes on Chair lift number three at Ski Apache.

Get set for Cross Your Heart

Fun, prizes, costumes, medals — it must be Cross Your Heart Cup time!

The Southwest's only women's race takes off Thursday, February 11, ushering in Valentine's weekend.

Costumes spoofing romance and celebrating female pulchritude are de rigueur. Flirty lingerie, bulging bustiers and heaps of foam rubber enhance Mother Nature — and Father Nature, too, when the guys go in drag to compete in their very own Tootsie Division.

Medals and trophies reward both fast and talented women in speed as well as costume categories.

An $8 entry fee is your ticket to two runs, a souvenir headband, and a chance at a prize drawing during the awards party and video show that evening at 5:30 p.m. at Casa Blanca Restaurant on Mechem Drive.

For more information, call 336-4357 and ask for the fun-loving Ski School desk.

What's happening at Ski Apache?

Thursday, February 11: Cross Your Heart Cup costume ski race from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Smokey Bear NASTAR. Post race awards party at 5:30 p.m. at Casa Blanca Restaurant on Mechem Drive. For information, call 336-4357; ask for Ski School desk.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, February 12, 13 and 14: Texas Cup on Capitan. Race clinic on Friday, qualifying round on Saturday, finals and award presentation on Sunday. All events begin at 10 a.m. For information, call 336-8215; ask for Patricia Morrison.

Tuesday, February 23: Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association's benefit silent auction. Time and place to be announced. For information, call Diana Person at 336-4416.

Wednesday, February 24: Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association's Businessperson's Handicapped Ski Championship ski race on East Easy Street. For information, call 336-4416.

Mid-school scientists test their theories

Ruidoso Middle School students put their brains and imaginations to work in projects they created for the school's annual science fair.

Ricky Overdorf put together a linear accelerator project that won him the grand award, and Jimmy Stover did a solar energy project to win the principal's trophy.

Top science fair winners whose projects won them a chance to compete at the regional science fair include Overdorf and Stover, along with Amy Andrews and Sneha Sharma. Alternates to the regional fair are Dusty Silva and Erica Malis.

Following are the winners in this year's fair, by category with the name of their project listed, followed by their ranking in that category:

Behavioral and Social

Erica Malis, "Does music affect your hear rate?" first; Amy Coble, "Probability of facial genetics," second; Raymone Allen, "Taste buds," third; Dawn Hightower, "What color do people best remember?" fourth; Lindie Reynolds, "How much sence do you get?" fifth.

Botany

Dusty Silva, "Does fertilizer affect plant growth?" first; Clariassa Campbell, "Does music affect plants?" second; Dan Roller, "The affect of tobacco juice on grass," third; Jessie Blaney, "Growth and taste of plants," fourth; Denise Blaylock, "Comparing trees," Denise Blaylock.

Chemistry

Sneha Sharma, "Can salts be neutralizers?" first; Kristy Donaldson, "The separation of colors," second; Dinah Almeida, "Dye it yourself, naturally," third; Matt Brady, "Making rust into magnetic iron,"

Engineering

Jimmy Stover, "Solar energy," first; Alex Eckert, "Dams: On the things they do," second; Kent Sparks, "Safer fuel storage," third; Kevin Hoyt, "Modulated laser," fourth; Guadalupe Garcia, "Ranch cooking," fifth.

Environmental

Shirryn Williams, "Algae levels in the Ruidoso River," first; Somer Faxton, "Does Ruidoso have acid rain?" second; Jazmin Fleharty, "Recycling paper," third; Chase Hampton, "Effect of pollution on Ruidoso and surround communities," fourth. Leigh Christensen, Steven Currin and Amber Ryan were in a three-way tie for fifth place.

Medicine and Health

Amy Andrews, "Vitamin C in fruit juices," first; Brooke Trueblood, "Does food change your body," second; Stephen Houghton, "Cigarette smoke," third; and Tryce Ortiz, "The sense of hearing," honorable mention.

Microbiology

Vanessa Rodriguez, "Mold and moisture," and Carrie McLeod, "Bacteria are out to get us all" in a two-way tie for first; Alex Riedel, "Bread mold and fluid =" and Janny Ritter, "Mold," in a two-way tie for second; Shari French, "Bacteria colonies," honorable mention.

Physics

Ricky Overdorf, "Linear accelerator" first; Heidi Strack, "Water, water, go away," second; Kenny Osborn, "Can we predict the bounce of a football?" third; Bryne Moore, "Conductors," fourth.

Zoology

Patricia Higginbotham, "How the pulse of the horse changes in different horses," first; Sarah Slaten, "An earthworm's reactions," second; and Justin Remington, "Worm farm," fifth. (No third or fourth in that category.)

fourth; Marissa Martinez, "Get it clean," fifth.

Earth and Space

Caleb Hull, "Weather clouds," second; Becenti Platero, "Measuring earthquakes," third; Matthew Deneen, "Seale model of our solar system," fourth; and Ricky Pacini, "The mysterious beings," fifth.

Erica Malis, first place winner in the behavioral and social sciences category, is pictured with eighth grade science teacher, Carla Burns.

Paula Papponi, Ruidoso Middle School principal, presents the science fair principal's award to Jimmy Stover for his project, "Solar Energy."

Shirryn Williams and Jimmy Stover are pictured with the trophies they won during the 1993 science fair at RMS. Williams won first in the environmental category for her project on algae levels in the Ruidoso River and Stover won the principal's award and first place in the engineering category.

ryn Williams, Amy Andrews, Sneha Sharma, Vanessa Rodriguez and Jimmy Stover.

Tackle energy waste with home insulation

Score a touchdown on your energy budget by making sure that your home has the right level of insulation throughout. Insulation can significantly reduce your fuel bills because it reduces the amount of energy needed to heat and cool your home. In fact, it can be one of the best investments you make in your home because of the comfort and energy savings it provides.

For more information about installing insulation in your home, call or visit your local Texas-New Mexico Power Company office and ask for the free fact sheet, "Straight Talk about Insulation."

CRIMESTOPPERS "CRIME OF THE WEEK"

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information that leads to the arrest and Grand Jury indictment or Magistrate Court Bindover of the person or persons who committed this crime or any other unsolved felony crime in Lincoln County. Let's work together to call a stop to crime.

Phone 257-4545

CRIME OF THE WEEK: BREAKING & ENTERING
On the 12th day of January, 1993, three subjects were observed running from the Village Auto Office, at approximately 8:16 p.m. Two employees gave chase, and lost the subjects somewhere in the vicinity of the Links Golf Course. Upon further examination, it was found that the business had been broken into, and damage was done to the premises. Observed at the crime scene was what is described as a white Chevy Chevette or similar model vehicle.

Crimestoppers will pay a two hundred dollar cash reward for information leading to the arrest and Magistrate Court Bindover of the person or persons who committed this crime. Crimestoppers will also pay cash rewards for the recovery of stolen property or the solving of other felony crimes.

The Crimestoppers phone line is manned twenty-four a day, seven days a week, and you do not have to give your name to be eligible for a cash reward. The Crimestoppers phone number is 257-4545. Anyone wishing to call collect, may do so within Lincoln County.

This is Detective Sergeant Lanny Maddox, for the Ruidoso Police Department, urging you to be a crimestopper!

Capitan

Smokey's friends heat up the Fourth

The first annual Friends of Smokey Wildfire Chili Cookoff is set to sizzle some tongues this Fourth of July in Capitan.

Sanctioned by the International Chili Society (ICS), trophies and cash prizes of $300 for first place, $200 for second and $100 for third, will be awarded. Recognition also will go to the People's Choice.

The cooks will begin to arrive and assemble their pots at 8 a.m., a general meeting will be conducted at 9 a.m. and the fires will be lit for cooking at 10 a.m.

The entry fee for ICS members is $25, and $50 for non-members.

A rodeo will follow the competition and plenty of other activities are planned, according to chairman Kathleen Hellman.

For more information and an entry form, send a self-addressed and stamped envelope to Friends of Smokey Wildfire Chili Cookoff, P.O. Box 809, Capitan, New Mexico, 88316. Hellman also can be reached at 505-354-3332.

Friends of Smokey is a non-profit, volunteer group. Established in 1990, the organization is coordinating Smokey's Golden Anniversary Celebration in 1994.

Members also have been involved in helping with improvements at Smokey Bear Historical State Park in Capitan and are active in promoting programs for conservation education, fire ecology and wildfire prevention.

The Friends welcome memberships by private citizens, schools, corporations and civic groups.

Former Capitan grad Kim Eckland, now at Eastern Kentucky University, blocks a spike attempt at Austin Peay University.

Eckland honored for top grades

Eastern Kentucky University student Kim Eckland, a 1990 graduate of Capitan High School, has been named to the Ohio Valley Conference third team GTE Academic All-American team.

Eckland is a pre-med, pre-optometry major with a 3.49 GPA. She is a recipient of the Lincoln County Medical Association Scholarship.

Eckland is the daughter of Don and Roma Eckland of Berea, Kentucky.

What's happening?

Some creative new approaches to making wreaths and yogurt will be part of a program scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, February 10, at the Capitan Senior Citizens Center.

Judy Bailey will demonstrate how to make yogurt. Edith Dobins will put together a dried-apple, heart-shaped wreath. Angie Provine has a list of necessary materials.

Juanelle Wright from Lincoln County Headstart will explain the new program started in Capitan and Ruidoso for four-year-old children.

The Village of Capitan will conduct a public hearing at 6:30 p.m. Monday, February 8, at village hall to discuss the 1993 Small Cities Community Development Block Grant program.

Officials will review the program's objectives, range of activities, types of grants and will provide other pertinent information to obtain the views of citizens on community development and on the housing needs of low and moderate income people.

After receiving input, the village board of trustees at its official meeting at 7 p.m., will select a project for an application this year.

Capitan High School officials are planning a financial aid workshop at 6 p.m. Wednesday, February 10, in the school library.

The session aims at helping parents and students find answers to questions considering grants, workstudy, loans, deadlines, applications, scholarships and changes in the new free-Need Analysis Form. Dorothea Stone from New Mexico Military Institute, Jetta Miles and Danny Herrera from Eastern New Mexico University in Roswell will be there for the workshop. Herrera, who is with student outreach services at the university, also will be in the counselor's office at the high school on Wednesdays to assist students and parents in the financial aid application process and with scholarships.

The financial aid hotline, 1-800-294-3871, may be called from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and is part of financial aid awareness week February 8-12.

County asks state to redo Lincoln sidewalks

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Old Lincoln may get new concrete if the State Legislature looks favorably on a proposal being hand-carried to its chambers by Lincoln County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley.

Dubbed "The Old Lincoln Town Sidewalk Project," the proposal calls for new asphalt sidewalks five feet wide to accommodate the visitors who crowd the historic settlement's streets during the year, catching a glimpse of the Old West of Billy the Kid to stir their imaginations.

"I'm going to Santa Fe Tuesday and Wednesday to observe the process," Nunley said. "The people in Lincoln drafted this statement regarding building the sidewalks to standards for the Americans With Disabilities Act."

"They came in with a figure of $82,596 and I will present it to the legislative delegation for possible funding."

PROJECT PROPOSED

The statement notes that the New Mexico State Monuments Division owns and operates about 10 historical properties in addition to the Lincoln County Heritage Trust, a private non-profit corporation, owning and operating about 10.

All of the properties in Old Lincoln front onto U.S. 380, according to the statement.

It goes on to state: "The majority of tourists visiting Lincoln park their vehicles and walk through the town to access the historical properties and museums."

"Asphalt sidewalks, approximately three feet in width, were installed on the north and south sides of U.S. 380 some 25 years ago. The existing sidewalks are in extremely poor condition (nonexistent in some areas) and do not meet many of the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) access requirements."

"This situation creates a very hazardous situation for the Senior Citizen bus tours, which visit Old Lincoln Town on an average of four tours per week from May through September."

"Each tour generally consists of at least 40 individuals, many of whom are required to walk on the highway shoulder because of the condition of the sidewalks."

"Additionally, disabled individuals requiring wheelchairs have an extremely difficult time using the sidewalks and, in most areas of town, must use the highway shoulder to view and visit the historical properties in Lincoln."

The proposed project would remove the old sidewalks on both sides of the road between the old county courthouse and the Montano Store, a distance of about one-half mile, according to the project statement.

They would be replaced with new five-foot wide asphalt sidewalks consisting of 1.5-inch thick asphalt on top of four inches of processed base course gravel.

All slopes and access points would be designed to meet all ADA requirements.

COST BREAKDOWN

A breakdown showed the projected costs of the project as:

- removing the sidewalk, $6,195
- excavation, $1,815
- subgrade preparation, $8,850
- four-inch base course, $19,175
- one and a half inch base course, $13,275
- traffic control, $5,000
- mobilization, $5,000

-engineering and inspection fees, $11,862

-gross receipts tax, $3,915

-contingency, $7,509

The grand total came in at $82,596 for 5,300 linear feet of sidewalks.

Jean E. Parker, owner of Western Traders and a former tour guide for the Heritage Trust, said she saw the need for improved sidewalks first-hand two years ago.

"On the tours, I had a couple of ladies fall," she said. "One skinned her knees and everything. It scared me to death."

"They're looking around and don't realize that you can have a smooth patch of sidewalk and then suddenly, it might drop off three to five inches."

The lack of safe sidewalks could endanger the Trust's program for handicapped youths, she said.

"They do a lot with the disabled from Roswell and many times, the wheelchairs have to stay in the road," Parker said. "With the trucks going through, that's very dangerous."

"I don't see how their insurance will continue to cover the tours if they have to keep them in the street."

Tigers tame the Grizzlies

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The fighting female Tigers pounded the Carrizozo Grizzlies last Thursday to win a 66-49 victory and arrive home a winning team.

The girls are riding high on a wave of victories including their first district game at Hondo, January 19, and two successive games with Loving on the following Friday and Lake Arthur on Saturday.

In Hondo, the Tigers vanquished the Eagles 98-17. Tytis Traylor led the scoring with 23 points, followed by Tammy Payne with 18, Amy Cline with 14, eight each by Catherine Sidwell and Sunshyne Trost and seven each by Jessica Cline and Christine Gonzales. Kelly Cox scored six points, Stacy Gowen dunked five and Anita Aldaz, two.

The Loving Falcons were clipped by the Tigers 62-33 in a home game January 22. Lead scorers were Payne with 22 points and Traylor with 12.

Next in line was an away game at Lake Arthur, where the Tigers ripped the Panthers 54-35. Traylor, Gowen and Cox each scored 11 points. Aldaz was close behind with nine and Payne with six.

The boys didn't fare quite as well in Carrizozo, sinking shots for 57 points to the Grizzlies 69.

The play was tight in the first quarter, ending with the teams separated by only three points. In each successful quarter, the play stayed as close, but the accumulative effect distanced the Grizzlies where it counted at the end of the game.

The loss left the Tigers with a 6-9 record year to date after a killer 40-39 defeat at Hondo in their first district game and a 47-67 loss to the Falcons. They revived their spirits at Lake Arthur with a 52-34 win.

Meeting called to organize area museums

An organizational meeting for persons interested in forming a museum in Ruidoso is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, February 8, at K-Bob's. Although the meeting has been called by John West of the Lincoln County Historical Society, the goal is to establish museums in each area of the county focusing on the individual elements that contributed to their history.

Silver Lining

Snow birds gather for a joyful winter feast

January's Last Day

After a warm day on the 28th, a great wall of freezing mist and fog came driving out of the north into the Vale on the morning of the 29th.

The wind picked up its pace in mid-morning driving the mist and fog against the cedars and pines turning them suddenly frosty white.

The snow birds were in their glory, feeding at the feeding table and singing their little songs barely heard above the loud call of the mist-blizzard, sounding down through the branches of the river trees and up to the tops of the hills.

The cows and calves lay down on the south side of their old and faithful friends the cedar bushes, huddled close together, listening to the loud singing of the driving gale and freezing blast in the branches overhead.

All day on the 29th, the temperature stayed just the same, 32.

On the 30th, the morning temperature was 20, and the mist was still all through the Vale, but the wind had quieted down. Toward evening the mist and fog began to drift away.

On the 31st, the day dawned bright and clear with the sun rising over Sunrise Mountain into a bright blue sky. The bluecoated jays joined the snow birds at the feeding stations, and the cows grazed peacefully in the meadows.

The temperature rose up to 60, and there was just enough trace of mist left in the warm air to turn the hills purple and lavender, clearly outlined against the clear blue sky.

At sunset the western sky was all light gold with the purple hills clearly outlined all across the horizon.

Then high in the western sky the evening star shone like a diamond, while the straight overhead the golden half moon smiled down upon the hills and vales.

And so January bid the mountain land a fond farewell, ready to welcome in February, the birthday month.

February First

And now here we are just one hour after high noon on February the first, and we are in a new world, right on the first day.

Valentine's Day

It is a while yet until Valentine's Day, and yet we need to remind ourselves ahead of time of the importance of this time of remembering to express fond affection for dear ones. This day is in harmony with the spirit of February, the time of remembering and looking forward to the magic of spring.

Let us thank God for the blessing of January past, and the beginning of February and all our blessings.

The north wind has gone back up to its home at the North Pole and, a light breeze has moved in from the low country away to the west, singing through the land warming up world, melting some of the snow on the mountain so that the river is humming along, colored dark gold, and high for this time of year.

The temperature is a balmy 64 under a sky of February's special blue.

A few moments ago a band of crows flew overhead singing a special February song, on their way north, sending down their message from the sky that all is well with happy days ahead.

This is of course the eve of Ground Hog's Day. And from the looks of things we are in for six more weeks of winter-like weather. Surely the sun will shine on the second of February and TJ Little Ground Hog will see his shadow and make a dive back into his underground home, certain that the winter is not over, for a while yet.

This is all to the good, because we need the snow and the fruit trees of the orchard and the wild need the rest.

Anyhow we are making a very good beginning to the birthday month.

Let us go over the special days again, lest we forget:

Ground Hog's Day, ex-president Ronald Reagan's birthday on the sixth; Lincoln's birthday on the twelfth; Valentine's Day on the fourteenth; and Washington's birthday on the twenty-second.

Happy Birthday to the Gipper

Ronald Wilson Reagan was born February 11, 1911, in Tampico, Illinois. He is the oldest president ever to hold office. He was also the only actor ever to be elected president.

With Pat O'Brien playing Knute Rockne, the immortal football coach of Notre Dame, Reagan played the legendary George Gipp, the star running back for the school, in one of the most popular moving picture stars of all time, "Knute Rockne, American."

The show revolves around the words of George Gipp, on his hospital bed saying, "Win one for the Gipper."

Reagan was a friend of our uncle, Jerome Vincent Storm, a pioneer moving picture director who directed 60 successful motion pictures in the silent picture days which featured among other, such early day stars as William S. Hart and Hoot Gibson.

Let us wish the Gipper many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

MainStreet makes joining easier than ever

Local businesses may have received a letter this week reminding them that benefits from MainStreet Ruidoso are beyond Midtown.

The group sent out the first round of information on becoming a member in MainStreet and will be sending it out to even more as the month progresses. The MainStreet board has restructured the dues and rearranged classifications to make it affordable for all businesses and individuals to be a part of MainStreet.

MainStreet executive director

Don Miller said the group presently gets most of its funding from the village, but it would like to see more support from the private sector and less from the public sector.

"The village has been extremely helpful with the streetscape and other programs. We want the private sector to jump in and get behind MainStreet because it is the first impression for visitors. We are the curb appeal.

"A membership supports an organization that is a major player in the future of this community," he said.

Obituaries

Manuel L. Escobar

Services for Dorothy R. Jones, of Sierra Blanca, Texas, and formerly of Ruidoso, are at 10 a.m. Friday at the First United Methodist Church in Sierra Blanca. Burial will follow in Sierra Blanca Cemetery under the direction of the Van Horn funeral home. Jones died Tuesday in an El Paso, Texas, hospital at the age of 67. She was born April 25, 1925, in Moon Run, Pennsylvania, and was a long-time resident of Sierra Blanca. She was the former county treasurer and auditor for Hudspeth County. She was also a homemaker.

Jones was also a long-time member of the Methodist Church. She is survived by her husband, Jack Jones of Sierra Blanca; two sons, Monte Sparkman and Kevin Jones both of Midland, Texas; two sisters, Rose Marie McGovern of Sierra Blanca and Mary Jenkins of Pennsylvania; and four grandchildren.

He is survived by his wife, Christine; two sisters, Genevieve "Gen" Wallace of Ruidoso and Ollie May Moore of San Jon; five nephews and six nieces.

Pallbearers were Carl Pulliam, Dewayne Wallace, Lee Reid, Justin Damron, Michael Damron and Donald Weaver.

Granville R. "Jack" Damron

Services for Granville R. "Jack" Damron, 65, of Lubbock, Texas, were planned for 10 a.m. today, Thursday, in Edwards Chapel of Southeast Baptist Church with the Reverend Wilburn P. Coffman, associate pastor, officiating.

Interment was to follow in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Franklin Bartley Funeral Home.

He died at 2:28 p.m. Tuesday in St. Mary's Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Damron was born in Cado, Oklahoma, and had been a Lubbock resident since 1940 moving there from Durant, Oklahoma. He was co-owner of Granville R. Damron Trucking, Sand and Gravel and Green Valley Ranch. He was a Baptist and a U.S. Army veteran of World War II.

He married the former Christine Newhouse on September 5, 1952, in Lubbock.

HAMBURGER KING

Dear Ruidoso,

Life has happiness to sell. The Cowboys are the world's champs, and I unloaded all of my Cowboy cups.

I still have one last hurrah before I write fints to this year's season. I have an employee named Albert Beckwith, who is an excellent employee and a heck of a nice guy, but he persists in being a Buffalo Bill's fan. Probably because he was born in New York. In the heat of last week's enthusiasm, Albert made a little bet with me, and now he has to pay off. If you Cowboy fans will come around tomorrow (Friday), you can watch Albert lit around here wearing a Dallas Cowboys' shirt. I won't go into what I would have had to do, had Dallas lost.

And, I will sweeten the deal. If all of you folks who bought Cowboy cups from us last week will bring your cup in tomorrow, we will fill it up with the cold drink of your choice for fifty cents (50¢), ... all 32 oz. of it. Now that deal is hard to beat and will let us all have a last "Cowboy smile" for the season. We will all be happy except Albert, who at least will look nice in his new shirt. Just don't be fooled. He is not a Cowboy fan. ... just a bad gambler.

Sincerely,
Cliff Macoss

Local group to visit eastern nuclear energy facilities

With the future of the Nuclear Negotiator's office unclear within President Bill Clinton's administration, the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe is still finishing the second phase of its federal grant to study a nuclear waste disposal site.

Some reports have indicated the nuclear waste siting process, under Clinton's administration, is dead.

Meanwhile, the Mescalero tribal leadership is continuing to work on the educational phase toward placing a Monitored Retrievable Storage facility on or near the reservation.

Next week, Tribal Secretary Fred Pesco, who is also MRS project manager, and MRS coordinator Miller Hudson are leading a group of area people on a tour of two eastern nuclear energy plants.

The tour, paid for by the nuclear industry, not tax money, will include visits to the Oconee plant near Clemson, South Carolina, and the Surrey plant near Williamsburg, Virginia. The two sites are currently storing spent fuel.

The entourage will include Ruidoso Village Councilor Bill Karn, local Realtors Bill Hirschfeld and Barbara Willard, Lincoln County Commissioner Monroy Montes and The Ruidoso News editor Frankie Jarrell.

The group, which also includes Carrizozo Mayor Cecelia Kuhn and elected officials from Tularosa and Alamogordo, will leave Saturday, February 6. Media representatives include Beverly McCutcheon of the Alamogordo Daily News and Ward Matthews of KBIM-TV, Channel 10, in Roswell.

The U.S. Council for Energy Awareness and the Edison Electric Institute are sponsoring the informational trip, which will include discussions with local elected officials and business owners near the east coast reactor facilities.

Also this week, Congressman Joe Skeen (R-NM) called on his New Mexico colleague Bill Richardson (D-NM) to conduct a field hearing in Ruidoso to discuss the Department of Energy's MRS program and its implications in New Mexico.

In a letter to Richardson, who chairs the Natural Resources Subcommittee on Native American Affairs, Skeen noted that the MRS program has attracted a number of Indian tribes from around the country wanting to study the possibility of siting high-level nuclear waste on reservation land for a fee.

"The potential impact on those Native Americans who have applied for federal funds for considering an MRS on their reservations deserves further congressional action," wrote Skeen in his letter to Richardson.

"I believe your newly-created Native American Affairs Subcommittee should be given joint responsibility in this matter," he continued.

"New Mexicans deserve to know more about any further siting process for high-level nuclear waste," said Skeen.

"In addition, any affected communities within the state must have a primary role in any negotiations, and, as it stands now, the citizens of New Mexico are not active participants."

Skeen asked Richardson to consider holding a field hearing in Ruidoso at the subcommittee's earliest convenience.

Congressman Skeen has been a vocal opponent of the MRS program and of efforts by New Mexico's Mescalero Apache Tribe to locate an MRS facility on reservation lands in Otero County.

Such a facility would temporarily store high level nuclear wastes in above-ground containers until those wastes can be transferred to a permanent repository.

During the 102nd Congress, Skeen attempted to block any additional study funds going to the Mescaleros for the purpose of studying the MRS, according to his release.

"The almost unanimous opposition to this project within the state makes it unlikely that an MRS would ever be located on Mescalero land," said Skeen.

"However, the siting process is ongoing and I believe all New Mexicans should be able to express their views on the topic at a field hearing in Ruidoso."

The entire New Mexico delegation, as well as Governor Bruce King, have opposed the siting of high level nuclear waste on the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation.

It's been unclear whether public input from neighbors will carry much weight when a volunteer is identified.

Although seven different groups originally made overtures to study hosting an MRS, the Mescalero tribe is the only group that has gone beyond preliminary negotiations into the second phase grant in the MRS siting process.

Keith Miller, vice president of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, wrote a letter of invitation addressed to friends and neighbors.

"As you may realize, the MRS process has been caught up in the transition between Presidential administrations," said Miller in his letter.

"However, Hazel O'Leary, nominee for Secretary of Energy, expressed her support of the Nuclear Waste Negotiator's Office and the voluntary MRS siting process during her confirmation hearing.... The replacement of the Negotiator and the appointment of sub-cabinet officers at the Department of Energy is likely to take several more months which will continue to delay the MRS process," he wrote.

Former DOE secretary, Admiral James Watkins, as one of his final acts, recommended the voluntary siting process be scrapped in favor of a non-voluntary placement on federal lands.

But, until Secretary O'Leary changes the current policy, the Nuclear Negotiator's Office continues to seek a voluntary site to place the high-level nuclear waste that is currently on the sites where it was generated — mainly at east coast nuclear energy plants.

Utility companies have been paying into a fund that is to be used for this entire process.

The area group will begin their trip with a visit on Sunday to the Oconee Nuclear Station, World of Spent Fuel Storage Facility. They'll have dinner with local officials at the Keowee Key Conference Center.

On Monday, they'll tour the Oconee Nuclear Station and have the afternoon free to gather information from people in the community.

Tuesday will be spent on the road, with a tour of the Surrey Nuclear Station on Wednesday morning and visits with community leaders on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Pesco recently reviewed activities completed during phase 1 that included education for the tribal council and tribal members.

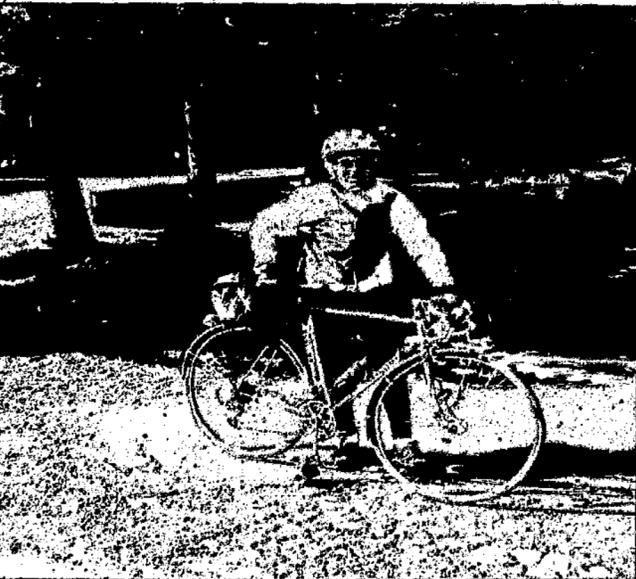

"This was our first priority. The tribal council needed to understand the rough parameters of the safety, environmental, technical, political and economic issues involved in hosting an MRS," he said.

Winners get a boost

The Academic Booster Club took all these Ruidoso Middle School students to the various awards parties for the second nine weeks. Those on the principal's list had a pizza party at Pizza Hut, those on the honor roll had a banana split party, merit list students had a Coke and candy bar party and the signature list group went to Daylight Donuts for a treat.

Cycling man

John Hathaway, a 68-year-old from Vancouver, British Columbia, cycles through Ruidoso on a Trans 48 State Cycling and Camping Tour he hopes to complete by August. While here he stayed with Gaylon Farrington and Dagmar Ames. Hathaway was on his way to Santa Fe, Gallup, Tucson, Arizona, and then up to Utah and Wyoming, with about 20 states left to see. Besides the state tour, he has also completed a 52-country world tour.

MainStreet board charts a bright future for Midtown Ruidoso

by KRISTIE SAATMANN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The future of Midtown Ruidoso has not been well charted in the past, but MainStreet Ruidoso plans to change that.

Executive director Don Miller has developed marketing surveys that will go out to local residents, visitors and business owners to get information on what needs to be done to keep Midtown Ruidoso on the right track for the coming years.

The surveys will be sent out in the by mid-February and will need to be returned by March 1.

The survey will include a stamped, self-addressed return envelope for the convenience of the responding person. Individuals will also receive a stamped postcard to return to register for prize drawings.

Miller worked with the directors of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County to develop the lists of those to be surveyed, and the results will benefit all three groups.

The local residents list was developed from public information such as water meter hook-ups and voter registration.

The chamber of commerce compiled the visitors list from its guest book and from lodgers' information. The business owners list will be from business permit registration.

Miller said MainStreet's emphasis since its formation has been the streetscape improvement project for the Midtown area. That has been a good project for the group but if there aren't people to walk on them, the new sidewalks will have no value.

A new generation is looking for a new quality of life and, because of that, rural America is coming into its own, Miller said. People want to get out of the big cities because of the crime, poor schools and the environment, he said. With advances in technology, people no longer have to live in the cities to do business, he said.

"Ruidoso is prime for growth but there is a lot of competition. There are a lot of communities out there just as desirable as Ruidoso.

"If we are going to compete we have to be better, look better, feel better and have a better attitude than all the others," he said.

The attitude of the town and its people affects impulse buying. People are in a better frame of mind to buy and return here if the people in the shops are pleasant and nice, he said.

The "curb appeal," or the first impression people get when they drive into Ruidoso will determine whether they come back or not. Miller said the streetscape will make a major improvement on the first impression. Making the people come back will then depend on if what they came for is available, whether it is goods and services or recreational activities.

Although a lot of people now come for skiing and horse racing, Miller said they can't always guarantee snow and it is hard to say how long the racing industry will last so Ruidoso needs to expand its tourism base.

"What we want to do in Midtown is give people a real environment to shop, to browse," he said.

"Our survey will tell us a lot about ourselves and the changes we are going to have to make to keep the community competitive."

Many of the questions on the three surveys will be similar to get each perspective on an issue or concept. One of the most important issues for residents, visitors and businesses is parking spaces.

Visitors and locals are asked how far they are willing to walk to shops from parking spaces as well as how they perceive "no parking" or "customer only parking." Business respondents will be asked how many off-street parking spaces they have around their business and how they would feel about a shared or cooperative off-street parking lot.

Miller said he believes sidewalks are of far greater importance than parking spaces because visitors will walk to stores. He said it has been his experience that 90 percent of those who park by a store will stop in that business on the way in or out of the area.

"People will not drive from store to store," he said.

Another issue that impacts all three groups is common business hours. If a business is not open when a customer comes to shop, that customer will be lost to a competitor from then on, Miller said.

Ruidoso area stores do have a tendency to be closed when the customer wants to shop, especially during the ski season, Miller said. Many of the stores are closed by the time people can get down from the mountain after a day of skiing, he said.

Right now Midtown does not have the sidewalks and lighting that would allow them to be open during some hours, but after the streetscape project they should be able to, Miller said.

"The consumer surveys will tell us what hours and days we need to be open. In the retail business we have to be available to our customer," he said.

MainStreet Ruidoso has made some attempts to have common hours with the latest being the Candlelight Hours during Christmas. Miller said the streetscape improvements will also make it possible for the group to do a major festival promotion downtown for the Christmas season.

"We want to get people from out of town to spend Christmas in Ruidoso and do their shopping here, not come up after Christmas," he said.

The survey will also be asking about what other promotional events people would like to see in the community. One possibility is to do a merchant event along with Aspenfest to take advantage of the people drawn here for other reasons during the fall, he said.

Miller said a service center is a big part of the Midtown program to answer the needs of a customer, and visitors will be asked what they would like to see in such a center. It would provide public restrooms, area information, bank ATM and a lounge area.

From his own experiences Miller said a husband hates to shop. A service center could provide a place for the husband to wait while the wife is shopping, he said. A person could also do business with his company at an executive service area in the center.

Other information to be obtained from the visitors will include how often they come to the area, what mode of transportation they use to get here and use while they are here, and how they heard about the area.

Local residents will be asked where they purchase items and reasons for purchasing out of town. They are also asked what advertising influences them to shop downtown and if they would use public transportation.

Businesses will give basic information on location, clientele and hours. They will also be asked if they would be interested in a Common Area Maintenance (CAM) program, in which for a fee MainStreet would clear off snow and debris from sidewalks and possibly common parking areas.

Miller said a CAM will help keep the curb appeal sharp after the streetscape improvements have been made. Keeping sidewalks and parking lots clean may not be a top priority for merchants, so MainStreet could contract for that service, he said.

"It will make the area look sharp, show community pride and will give better maintenance of the physical environment," he said.

All of the groups will be asked to rate the characteristics for Midtown, what entertainment and cultural events they would like to see and any other comments they have.

Miller said MainStreet's new slogan is a sense of community and a place of public celebration. The National MainStreet's goal is to revitalize the core area of a community, and what is done in that downtown core benefits the whole community.

"What we do or don't do will affect everyone else in the community. There is a rippling effect from what happens in the core," Miller said.

MainStreet is working with the EDCLC and chamber of commerce because they are all in the same business, economic development. Ruidoso is a tourism based industry town so it is important they all have the same agenda, and they can get that by gathering joint information, Miller said.

By using the survey information, the groups are trying to first create a destination shopping community in downtown and provide every resource possible to keep current merchants happy and successful, he said. They will also be able to expand goods and services that are offered from what consumers say they want, he said.

When they receive the surveys back, Miller will enter the information on a National MainStreet software program which will also analyze the data. He said he would like to present the information from the survey at a public meeting, and he will also have hard copies made to give to those interested in it.

The public meeting would also be a good time to do the drawing for the prizes, he said. The visitors responding have a chance to win one of five $100 shopping spree on MainStreet. Five local residents can earn $100 worth of groceries each from Bennett's Shur-Sav Super Market.

"We can't develop a plan for the community if we don't have the facts that effect that plan," Miller said.

Commissioners are elected to vote

Representative government falls when elected officials refuse to vote.

Lincoln County Commissioner Bill Schwettmann asked the voters for their confidence and trust when he ran for election, and he is letting them down now.

Schwettmann refused to vote on the Rio Bonito land exchange that has been discussed, studied, researched and reviewed in this county for more than a year. He had no conflict, and had plenty of time to do his homework during the election, but in his first meeting he flatly refused to vote on that issue.

Caught off guard by Schwettmann's abstention, the commissioners called a special meeting to consider rules of order, and the new commissioner made it clear that he would avoid voting on the land exchange issue even if it meant he had to leave the meeting.

And then, during the new commission's second regular meeting Tuesday, Commissioner Schwettmann again shirked his responsibility by avoiding a vote on proposals for legal services. Without declaring a conflict, Schwettmann again refused to vote.

Commissioners should attend meetings ready to act on agenda items. If it takes some extra sessions with the county manager or burning the midnight oil to read up on proposals and issues, so be it. That's what these guys were elected, and are paid $10,500 a year, to do.

Voters have a right to expect the people they place in office to make decisions over public policy issues. And so, if Mr. Schwettmann can't stand the heat, he should get out of the kitchen.

Thought for the day:

"One of the greatest misconceptions about the First Amendment is that it was designed primarily to protect the press. It wasn't. It was designed basically to protect the public by making possible the widest possible flow of information a cornerstone of democracy."

Americans are ready to revolt against DWI

TO THE EDITOR:

I believe that the year 1993 is the year for revolution in America. It's time for Americans to speak out against injustices that for too long have gone unchecked. Apathy and lethargy have reigned for too many years.

How many deaths due to repeat D.W.I. offenders does it take before we scream, "We're not going to take it anymore"? Those repeat offenders are not stopped from driving by simply suspending their licenses. A large number of repeat offenders are driving on suspended or revoked drivers licenses.

We must let our legislators know that we won't be quieted until the laws are changed. One suggestion, used in several states already, is to take the vehicle away from the D.W.I., suspended and/or uninsured driver, and if that driver is using someone else's vehicle, that they should be held accountable as well.

This is just one idea. I'm sure there are many people in our beautiful state with others. They need to speak their minds, send their ideas to our lawmakers — now!

In the '60s and '70s some of us marched in protest of a war we were against that was being fought in a foreign land. Have we become so lethargic we can't march against a different, but just as tragic a war taking place on our own soil?

We are "The People" and we can make things happen. (If enough letters and protests can put some silly T.V. show back on the air, don't we believe our voices have the power to take the drunk drivers off the roads???)

It's the liquor lobbyists who are the foes, but they can be made to hear the demands if we speak loud enough.

The recent deaths here in New Mexico, of a mother and her children have hopefully pushed the problem to the very limits. The offender in that case may not have been a previous D.W.I. offender, but does that really make it any less tragic?

We can only hope that something positive will come from their deaths and that those people aren't just listed as "four more" on some D.W.I. statistical sheet for the state of New Mexico!

Our state, unfortunately, ranks as one of the highest in the country for D.W.I. fatalities.

I don't think we have any more time — or lives to waste!

Golfer salutes Our Lady of the Mountain

TO THE EDITOR:

As a frequent visitor and part-time resident of Ruidoso, I am always enchanted by our dominant mountain, which I shall call Our Lady of the Mountain, Senora Sierra Blanca.

It seems especially intriguing to me when she wears a gleaming snow white dress. As I watch her closely, I can see that she wears her cloud wardrobe in many different ways.

Early one morning, as I watched, there were only a few clouds, and just a single wisp clinging to the very tip top of the mountain. It gave a resemblance to a smoking volcano as the wind blew the smoke aside. Do you suppose it was ever a volcano?

A slight shift of the small cloud makes it look like a veil she is wearing — how appropriate with her gleaming dress of white. As the veil slips and slides down around her neck, suddenly she is wearing a smoke ring scarf. Remember those? A puff of wind blows it away, but it clings closely and now looks like a pill box hat. Such style.

The clouds increase and turn darker. Where is the sun? Senora Sierra has a puff of cloud on either side of her head that looks like ear muffs. She must be cold!

Darker clouds appear, and begin to roll upward on each side with a mound in the center. Oh, yes, it's a sombrero look she has! Ole!

The darker clouds descend along her snowy front side, covering it like a dark mantle. With none of the mountain now visible, Our Lady is walking in a dream!

Suddenly, I see her head come out the top — but now it is a huge cloud of a steam bath and luxurious comfort for Our Lady. A bright ray of sunshine brightens the clouds for a moment, and she steps from her steam bath into a full robe of white ermine, and gleams brightly in her white satin dress.

This is too much, and I look away a few minutes, but soon I am gazing at that mountain again seeing more changes. The clouds have thinned to only a small circle around the top and it looks like a halo.

Nothing is stable with clouds, though. I watch the sides move away and the top rise up to look like an exclamation mark! Another simple shift in position seems to form quotation marks. Is the mountain talking to me?

A slight change of the clouds leaves Our Lady Sierra peeking over a fan of white lacy cloud like a teenage flirt from years gone by. Now the fan is gone, and I see her wearing a dignified fur collar around her neck.

Our Lady of the mountain is so fascinating that you know she will change constantly and from now on. Now can you imagine why I lost that golf game today?

Reader thanks unknown "Good Samaritan"

TO THE EDITOR:

I, a senior citizen, want to praise a young man who stopped to help me out of an awful predicament just recently about 4 p.m. and I appreciated it so much! He told me his name but I only remember it started with a "C."

My nephew's 15-year-old daughter was with me, Chelsea Coe. We had gone from Bonito to Furrys to shop — having finished and started home, I noticed as we were near Allsup's down the hill from Furrys that I had not fastened my seat belt. I stopped near the curb just east of Allsup's gas pumps on the curb next to the highway to fasten it. Chelsea had fastened hers, and of course was sorry she had not reminded me.

I showed bad judgment as I started to pull out on the highway and before I knew it I ran my front right wheel over the curb! When I got out I saw right away I was in trouble — my first thoughts were, a wrecker and then, too, the late time of evening with oncoming cars by the dozens from Ski Apache and facing lights going to Bonito.

About this time, a young man drove up and stopped to help. He tried to push me back with his front bumper to my front bumper — my tire that was over the curb only "spun." The young man said, "I'm on my way to make a delivery near Western Auto Store. I'll get a tow rope and think I can pull you out. You need a tow rope anyhow."

I told him I'd be glad for his help and asked how much money he needed and he told me the figure — about $20. I wrote him a check. In a short time he was back with a tow rope, the receipt and a $5 bill. He started taking the package apart, took the top rope and began to hook the rear of his car to the rear of mine and told me to get my car in reverse and we'd soon have my car out. I had put the $5 in my purse, still pretty frustrated, and in a wink of an eye I was over the curb.

I went quickly to hug the man and thank him with tears in my eyes. Would you believe, I didn't once think to ask him how much I owed him. Needless to say, I would gladly have paid him!

Chelsea and I just started for our car hurriedly. Mr. C just gave us a big smile and said "Fasten your seat belts!"

Altrusa Club members join the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce in making plans for Connoisseur Classic events. Jeaneane Taylor (left) is chairing a committee to gather door prizes for Altrusa's Wines in the Pines Saturday night dance. Ginger Tracy (center) is organizing that gala party, which will feature the artwork of Paula White-Hosmer (right) as table favors. Hosmer's entry won the poster contest for the Connoisseur Classic. Taylor, Tracy and Hosmer are looking over an art book that has been donated as a door-prize.

Wines, food and fun team up for 1993 Connoisseur Classic

Fine wines, great food and a fun day on the slopes are all on the schedule for participants in the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce Connoisseur Classic IV on February 19-21.

Chamber board of directors browsed the menus of eight area restaurants participating in the gourmet luncheons on Saturday, February 20, during a board meeting Wednesday.

Chamber executive director Joan Bailey said the plans for the event are going well and she encouraged the board members to select a restaurant to go to for the luncheon.

The cost of the luncheon will be $22.50 per person, and people may stop by the chamber office to choose their favorite food and restaurant. The restaurants are The Incredible, Hotel Change in Capitán, Ahna-Michelle's, Texas Club, Tinnie's Silver Dollar, La Lorraine, Terraza Companario and Ma Maison.

The luncheon, though, is just the tip of the activities planned for the annual connoisseur classic. On Friday, February 19, the Grand Tasting will be from 6:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. at the Civic Events Center. The cost will be $15 per person.

A new event this year is the ski race at Ski Apache at 10 a.m. Saturday, February 20, with teams competing for a $960 prize package. People must enter today at the chamber to take a shot at the prizes. The entry fee is $30 per team or $10 per person.

People may form a team before the event or will be teamed up on the mountain. The race is open to skiers of all ages.

Cap that Saturday night off with the "Wines in the Pines" dance from 8 p.m. to midnight at the civic center sponsored by Altrusa. The cost is $20 per person and Swingshift, a band from Albuquerque, will be performing.

The finale for the classic will be a family-oriented Poor Man's Wine Tasting from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, February 21, at the civic center. The cost is $7.50 for adults and $2 for children.

Bailey said board member Bob Dolgener has volunteered to make the sets for the event, and the committee will then decorate them. The sets will then be available for future classics and other special events.

She said committee chairperson, Karen Kopp, and her committee members are doing a remarkable job on this project.

The winner of the poster contest for Connoisseur Classic IV is Paula White-Hosmer. Hosmer was selected by a jury of area artists from six entries. The poster will be for sale at the classic events as a souvenir.

Bailey said the Connoisseur Classic is geared for fun and will be at an excellent time of the year, when people are getting tired of winter.

The chamber did not have the event last year but wanted to continue it as a special event again this year and in the future. Although it will not always fall on the same weekend it will be during the same time as Mardi Gras in New Orleans, Bailey said.

For more information on the activities contact the chamber at 257-7395.

San Patricio man collects history of his community

By sharing a little information on the history of an old church in San Patricio, a descendant of one of the original settlers of the Ruidoso, Hondo Valley may have helped clear up a few unanswered questions about it.

Ernest Sanchez said he has been gathering information from descendants of the early settlers and other sources since 1962, and is in the process of writing a story about the valley.

He also submitted this information to The Ruidoso News after an article on the old San Patricio Church was published December 28, 1992.

The settlement of San Patricio was not known by its original Spanish settlers as it is named today. When they first came to the valley from Mansano, Corrales, Tome and other places from the Rio Grande area, the settlers named it Libertad (Liberty). It was settled about the same time that La Plaza Bonita (Lincoln) was settled.

Sanchez said it, too, had a torreon (fort) like the one in Lincoln. The torreon was situated somewhere in the Hurd's polo field near where the La Rinconada Art Gallery is at.

The look-out was at a mountain peak south of the river which is called, La Sentinel. From there a sentinel stood guard and warned the people below of any danger, he said.

They also had a church, but no one remembers what name it had, maybe because they did not have a priest, Sanchez said. They used it for a place of worship and meetings. Later Lucas Gallegos, grandfather of the late Lucas Gallegos and Severo Gallegos, was given a patent for some land and the church happened to be inside his property. The church was abandoned and the people would meet at their homes for prayer meetings.

The abandoned church was later used by Gallegos as a feed barn. Later the house where Avroza Gonzalez lived, which now belongs to Orlando and Erlinda Lucero (Erlinda was Avroza's daughter) was used as a school house and prayer meetings were conducted there.

Maria Gomez remembered that she first went to school there and her first teacher was Juanita Gallegos and then Jose Maria Aguillo, father of Aristotel Aguillo, Sanchez said.

Libertad had grown, the name had been changed to San Patricio and now it had a grocery store, a pool hall, a dance hall, a bar, a judge and a priest. With the arrival of Father Sambrano from Mansano in the early 1880s, and with his spiritual guidance, the community was inspired to build a church.

Francisco (Pancho) Sanchez, Ernest's great-grandfather, donated some land for the new church. Ysidro Sisneros donated the material; Tranquelin Montoya was the contractor and the people of the community donated their labor. Work was begun on the new church in 1884 and the building was finished in 1885, except for the floor because at first it had a dirt floor.

It also had no bell tower and no bell. Later, Roman Barragan (Ernest's father's godfather) donated the bell which was baptized La Barragana. A platform was made with props to hang the bell and two men would get on top of the platform to ring the bell. One of the men was Lorenzo Mendosa.

Shortly after, Bernabe Lara and Eusevio Torrez constructed the steeple for the bell. One of them built the tower first and it fell, then the other rebuilt it.

Ysidro Sisneros died and was buried inside the church. Later a wooden floor was installed and the single windows that it had were enlarged to double windows by a man by the last name of Sapaieda.

Services were held at the San Patricio Church until the new St. Jude Church was built and mass held there for the first time on August 19, 1967.

The San Patricio Church bell was taken to St. Jude's Church where it is still greeting the descendants of the first settlers who have fought for their religion the same as they have fought for their water rights since the beginning, Sanchez said.

Crews film in Lincoln County

The Arts and Entertainment TV crew spent last week in Lincoln. The Arts and Entertainment has its headquarters in Los Angeles, California.

The crew was filming a segment for the Real West series, hosted by Kenny Rogers. This particular segment is on the Lincoln County War.

Among those interviewed were Wally Ferguson and Stirling Spencer of Carrizozo, Bob Hart of the Lincoln County Heritage Trust, Nora Henn, historian, Joe Salazaar, grandson of Vignio Salazaar, and Diane Schreengost, director of the Billy the Kid Pageant.

They also filmed the countryside, courthouse, both the interior and exterior, Fort Stanton, Dr. Woods house, the Trust and others.

On Friday afternoon they filmed a re-enactment of the killing of John Tunstall at Salazaar Canyon. It was the windiest and coldest day of the week.

Those participating were Thomas Schreengost as John Tunstall, John Schreengost as Billy the Kid, and the following as outlaws, etc., Ron Parker, Lee Crandall, Kent McInnis, Joe Torrez and Travis Crandall.

The crew spent some time going through archives, photos, and oral history before they started filming.

Scott Paddor, Los Angeles, was the director and a five year veteran of the Arts and Entertainment network, Bill Rosser, Westport, Conn., the photographer and Carol Ross-Grady, also of Los Angeles, general organizer.

The show will be seen on the Arts and Entertainment channel March 11, with a repeat March 13.

Even John Tunstall, in the person of Thomas Schreengost of Lincoln (above) was on hand for filming in this area last week. Ron Parker (below) leads a horse to work as an actor in the film.

Sertoma honors Schraders for their "Service to Mankind"

The Ruidoso Sertoma Club has selected Scot and Pat Schrader as recipients of the Service to Mankind Award.

"The Schraders own the Ruidoso Western Auto Store which is also known as the parks and recreation center because of their heavy contribution to the community," said Sertoma President Roy Seay.

The couple has three sons, Danny, 15; Andy, 13; and Todd, 10 years old. Seay said the entire family participates in most school functions as well as organized youth activities.

Scott Schrader is a NMAA certified basketball and football referee. He also is president of the Ruidoso Little League Baseball, chairman of field and equipment for the Lincoln County Youth Soccer League, president of the Ruidoso Little League Basketball, volunteer referee for the Little League Football program and sponsor of many school activities such as dances.

Pat Schrader is registrar for all the above activities; Lincoln County Youth Soccer League, Little League Baseball, Little League Basketball, all of which have boys and girls leagues.

She has served on the parents advisory board for the local schools and has sponsored school activities such as dances and annual academic/activity awards assemblies.

She also coaches a soccer team and is the manager of Ruidoso's four traveling soccer club teams, as well as the local high school team.

"The Schraders have maintained these activities at the sacrifice of their business and personal time," continued Seay. "They have acted as the local youth center, parks and recreation department and counselors for many years. They have believed that recognition and encouragement were best methods to keep children active."

The Ruidoso Sertoma Club founded the Little League Basketball and the Lincoln County Youth Soccer programs.

"We are happy that the Schraders have kept our programs alive," said Seay.

"The Ruidoso Sertoma Club has chosen to recognize Scott and Pat Schrader for their incredible drive and energy in supporting the youth of our community," said Seay.

Area extension homemaker clubs join

On November 18, 1992 the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Extension Homemakers Club merged with the La Junta Homemakers Club.

According to a news release, this club was organized April 4, 1942, by Carl P. Radcliff, County Extension Agent, assisted by Veda A. Strong, State Extension Home Management Specialist, Las Cruces, and Lorana Radcliff, County Extension Secretary.

Extension Clubs are educational clubs dedicated to teaching information on subjects relating to the family, home and community. Over a span of 51 years, there were 22 presidents, many of whom served for several years.

Nina Nelson was the first president and Opal Armstrong was the last. It is estimated there have been more than 2,000 club members, with 1,000 meetings sponsored by the club.

In 1972 the La Junta Homemakers Club was organized in the Hondo Valley. Most of the members at that time in the Ruidoso-Hondo Club were from Ruidoso; however, a number of women in the valley were members of both clubs.

After this membership declined in the Ruidoso-Hondo Club, it was merged with the La Junta Club. "La Junta" means "the merging or coming together" and is an appropriate name for the merged clubs.

Geraldine Tully of San Patricio is the new president of the La Junta Club, and she extends a welcome to anyone interested in becoming a member.

The club meets on the third Wednesday of each month. For more information, contact Betty McCreight, Extension Home Economist, Carrizozo, or Lorana Radcliff, Hondo, 658-4912 or Opal Armstrong, Ruidoso, 258-5663.

TO: JOHN FOLMER a/k/a JOHN H. FOLMER, as Trustee and individually, CHRIS FOLMER a/k/a CHRISTINE FOLMER

GREETINGS:

You and each of you are hereby notified that there has been filed in the District Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, a certain cause of action wherein Pioneer Savings & Trust, F.A., is the Plaintiff, and you and each of you are Defendants, the same being Cause No. CV-92-200 on the Civil Docket.

The general object of said action is to foreclose Plaintiff's mortgage in and to the following described property:

Lot 1 of TIMBERS SUBDIVISION, Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, as show by that certain plat filed in the office of the County Clerk and Ex-officio Recorder of Lincoln County, November 3, 1977, in Tracts No. 600.

Commonly known as 100 Hill Road, said lands being more fully described in the complaint for Foreclosure on file herein.

You and each of you are further notified that unless you enter your appearance or plead herein on or before February 25, 1993, Plaintiff will make application to the Court for judgment by default, and judgment by default will be rendered against you, and each of you, as prayed for in said Complaint. The name of the attorneys for Plaintiff is Sanders, Bruin, Coll & Worley, P.A., R.O. Box 550, Roswell, New Mexico 88201.

WITNESS my hand and seal of the District Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico.

MARGO E. LINDSAY
DISTRICT COURT CLERK

I Am A COUNTY NEWSPAPER

I am a county newspaper. I am the friend of the family, the bringer of tidings from other friends; I speak to the home in the evening of summer's vine-clad porch or the glow of the winter's lamp.

I help make this evening hour; I record the great and the small, the varied acts of the days and weeks that go to make up life.

I am for and of the home; I follow those who leave humble beginnings; whether they go to greatness or to the gutter, I take to them the thrill of old days, with wholesome messages.

I speak the language of the common man; my words are fitted to his understanding. My congregation is larger than that of any church in my town; my readers are more than those in the school. Young and old alike find in me stimulation, solace, comfort. I am the chronicler of man's existence.

I am the word of the week, the history of the year, the record of my community in the archives of state and nation.

I am the lives of my readers.

I am the county newspaper.

83% of Lincoln County Residents read me to keep up with their neighbors.

Just Imagine the past 200 years WITHOUT FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

The words in the First Amendment read. "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of . . . the press."

The principle was clear 200 years ago when the words were first written, along with other freedoms that make up the Bill of Rights.

Since then, very few documents have been more analyzed, scrutinized, challenged and second-guessed.

But the words still carry their own weight, and the principles behind them still make this country great.
