County concludes BLM lawsuit in 3-2 vote

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A 3-2 split vote Thursday by the Lincoln County Commission signaled the end to a two-year battle with the Bureau of Land Management over the acquisition of land along the Rio Bonito.

The decision broke along the lines of commissioners who sat on the previous board and those who were elected in November.

Commissioners acknowledged that they appeared to be losing ground instead of gaining it with the BLM since the county sued the agency in federal court. They said the loss of a consensus on the board to fight the agency encouraged the BLM to play tough.

Commission Chairman Monroy Montes, who voted with Commissioner Stirling Spencer against accepting the settlement, said the bureau (BLM) had changed its approach.

"In my opinion, the BLM is no longer negotiating to settle for the benefit of the people of Lincoln County," he said. "Now, they are negotiating only for the benefit of the BLM."

"I think if we continue to negotiate, we may end up with a memorandum of understanding so anemic, it is not worth much for Lincoln County."

"I don't believe Lincoln County has been treated fairly in the last 90 days, because we haven't presented a positive and united front and the BLM has seen that and has used the division to water down what we have achieved in the last 1 1/2 years. There's plenty of blame to go around."

"When there's a majority, the decision stands whether or not we agree with the (prevailing) philosophy and we go on down the road. I've been on the losing end of a vote. We're not here to blame people for philosophical differences, no fingerpointing.

"I'd like to ask the BLM to show good faith and not to consider anything we do to be a position of weakness."

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley added that it appeared to him "we're losing ground. I think it is better to stop this in its tracks and then develop a land use plan for the

Prisoner dies in BIA jail

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A young Mescalero woman, the victim of an apparent suicide, was found hanged with her stockings in the Mescalero Detention Center late last Friday.

Sylvia Morgan, 20, was pronounced dead at 1:52 a.m. Saturday morning by Dr. Verlyn Corbett who was on call at the Public Health Service Hospital in Mescalero.

Mescalero dispatch at the jail said that no information could be released regarding the death or why the young woman was incarcerated.

The Ruidoso EMS responded to the call from Mescalero late Friday regarding a "pulseless party," however they did not handle the call at the scene.

Morgan was transported by a private ambulance service out of Artesia to the Office of Medical Investigation at the north campus of the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque where an autopsy will be performed at the direction of medical examiner Ross Zumwalt.

The autopsy is expected to take no more than a day.

Morgan will then be transported back to Ruidoso to LaGrone Funeral Home.

Morgan was a long-time resident of Mescalero and attended schools in Tularosa and in Phoenix, Arizona. Friends say she was unemployed.

She is survived by her mother, whose name was not released by the Mescalero Apache Tribe information bureau.

Hopping down the bunny trail

EDCLC turns over a new leaf

by KRISTIE SAATMANN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

New officers and a new attitude for the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County may put the group on the right track for the upcoming fiscal year.

The group met in a special meeting Thursday to pick the officers and take care of business left unattended since the annual meeting on March 11 because the group could not get a quorum for a regular March meeting.

Directors were out in full force for this meeting and easily had a quorum.

Although executive director Karen Kopp was not able to attend because of a medical emergency, she left them plenty of information to keep the meeting productive.

Scott Shafer of Carrizozo was first elected to fill the president's spot, after serving as vice president this past year under past president Ronnie Paulger, whose term expired in March. Shafer said he is dedicated to the organization and has been since the beginning of it.

Kopp has been working hard to accomplish many things for the entire county, he said. Because he lives and works in Carrizozo, Shafer said there may be times when he can't come to Ruidoso when she needs him to, such as for a meeting with a prospect. He said if those situations do come up he will be asking the Ruidoso directors for help in assisting Kopp.

Shafer said this fact was his big-

Zoning rules and regs baffle area property owners

by CHARLES STALLINGS

The woman was miffed. She asked Ruidoso Planning and Zoning for a replat of her commercial property and a conditional use for a residence on one lot. She left the meeting with neither.

During the meeting, it was revealed she wanted to place a HUD-II manufactured home on the tract. The neighbors objected, not to the residence, but to the fact it was a manufactured home.

Zoning commissioners told the dissenters they could not rule on the type of construction because a state law prohibits discrimination of the HUD-II home. The commission's decision was solely whether the residence would be considered a reasonable use.

The woman left with neither an approval nor a denial, because of a quirk in the zoning code. Both she and her neighbors must go through the process again at the next P&Z

Most residents couldn't differentiate between a HUD-II (Housing and Urban Development) home and a double wide mobile home. In fact, there may be no difference at all.

P&Z often takes into consideration the aesthetics of a property as it relates to a homes position on the property, but not construction. That is the responsibility of the building inspector.

Although her property was initially zoned residential, at some point village planners thought the property would be more valuable if it was zoned commercial.

Now this owner, who has seen her property change from residential to commercial, wants all her property commercial, while getting a conditional use for part of it to allow a residential dwelling. Even without a replat, under the village's toughest commercial zoning, she can apply for a conditional use to allow a residence on her home, regardless of construction.

As a young, low population density state, New Mexico is a novice when it comes to zoning which makes it vulnerable to a buyer's beware market in real estate.

"What's right, what's just and what's legal is not always the same. Unfortunately, it almost never seems to be the same," according to P&Z commission chairman Robert Donaldson.

Situations vary as much as the personalities governing those situations.

In today's market, a buyer can't rely on any one person to explain everything or to represent every point of view.

The Village of Ruidoso has its point of view represented by the planning and zoning department or the building inspector.

County, state and federal laws also have a point of view worth knowing.

Subdivision covenants and municipal codes are designed as guides to protect your property, but serve the majority. The best plans may be superseded by some state or federal law, such as HUD-2 housing or group homes for the disadvantaged.

Obviously, carefully crafted restrictions for a development with people of similar concerns may offer the best protection from state, local and federal governmental dictates that would infringe on a person's chosen lifestyle and alter a purchaser's investment.

Choosing the right area and the correct type of housing demands knowledge by the real estate agent, appraiser, surveyor, as well as local, county and state officials. And it depends a lot on the purchaser.

Don't move into a low cost housing area with expectations that time will turn a neighborhood into a street full of American dreams in a lifetime.

Long time residents of Ruidoso remember when village lots were given away, incentive for a subscription to the El Paso Times.

Those lots are worth more now, but have not kept pace with inflation. Overbuilding in that area may never see a fair return on resale.

It would appear that where zoning is weak from the start, appreciation of a housing investment is doomed to a relatively modest gain, if any. An old housing rule of thumb is a five to six percent gain on an investment per year.

What was the cost five years ago of a home in the area being considered?

Property with intrinsic values not found anywhere else, has a better chance for a large future profit with proper zoning and area growth. When a giant community developer markets his property, he plans for growth and he sets his goals high enough to protect his buyers. He will introduce a master plan with tightly controlled restrictive codes for commercial, church, park and parking space as well as residential lots.

But in time, the best developer's master plan could become outdated. Some governing bodies believe in reviewing master plans every three years.

Uncontrolled growth is an undesirable state for any development or community. Somewhere along the line, valuable property has to be recaptured from weak zoning laws, special interest codes and lack of enforcement in restrictions.

First, someone in authority has to come forth and say a need exists.

If governing bodies fail to respond to the type of zoning and services that promote appreciation of property, then growth will be retarded until an elected body pursues that path.

"It took us 50 years to get to this point. We made some big changes in the past 15 years, but it may take us another 50 years to get more done ... if that is the will of the people," Donaldson said.

Ruidoso also is affected by pockets of county land bordering village limits. The village council is acting to eliminate some of those pockets. The goal of the councilors is to eliminate all pockets.

The Extraterritorial Zoning Board (ETZ) provides some protection in the pocket area.

However, ETZ's membership and that of the Extraterritorial Authority are weighted in the county's favor, and the county has shown no desire to provide zoning protection to its property owners. Therefore, protection may be minimal.

In fact, ETZ meets Monday in Ruidoso to decide whether to change residential zoning in Paradise Canyon to accommodate mobile homes.

The meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. at the Lincoln County sub-office on Kansas Road off Cree Meadows Drive.

Texas driver dies in crash

A 30-year-old man died late Sunday after the pick up truck he was driving left the road and rolled, landing on its roof.

Miguel Valencino from Amarillo, Texas, was headed south on U.S. 54 about 9 p.m. when the accident occurred near mileage marker 156 north of Carrizozo.

According to a report by State Police Officer Chris Rutten, Valencino was driving a 1986 Chevrolet pickup and died at the scene.

Board reviews expulsion rule

Student detention, suspension and expulsion will be discussed by Ruidoso School Board members during their meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Ruidoso High School public meeting room.

Because of construction on the administration complex, the board meeting has been moved to the high school on Warrior Drive.

Other items on the agenda include introduction of ACT scholars Kerrie Cumberly and Hemanth Pai, a report from guidance and counseling officials, a request for a proposal on drivers education, reports on the Los Niños project and on bilingual education by Paul Wirth, a report on budget and procedures and a discussion of the policy on material selection by Ellie Keeton and Judy Radtke.

Bids are scheduled to be awarded for the new elementary school and for ground maintenance.

The board is expected to accept the resignations of Johanna D. Ray, choral director for the high school and middle school; from Melinda Valliant as a teacher at White Mountain Elementary; and from Norman Wright as a teacher and coach at Ruidoso High School.

gest concern when taking office, and if it does not work he will be the first to suggest he step down so someone else can take over.

Former secretary-treasurer Dr. Jim Miller was then accepted as the new vice president, while Margie Morales took his place.

Later in the meeting director Glen Crane summed up what the new approach should be for this board to accomplish its goals, after the past year of struggling to have quorums at meetings.

Each time the EDCLC is mentioned in the local newspaper, The Ruidoso News, it is concerning the negative problem the group has had getting a quorum for meetings, he said.

"We need to get our act together and get organized so we can have a quorum. It doesn't help us when we go to the village and the commission," he said.

Morales pointed out that each time the group does get blasted by the newspaper, the next meeting a roomful of directors show up.

Crane said they need to put some teeth in the by-laws so if a director begins missing too many times, they can get replaced that person with someone who is willing to work on the board. He said he realizes people have to miss sometimes, but the group needs to be able to get business done.

Shafer said the by-law states that if a director has two unexcused absences, he can be removed by the board the third time. Continuing with that policy should allow them future.

"I'm not happy with this, but I feel like I have to support ending this thing and trying a new beginning."

Commissioner Bill Schwettmann noted that back in September, he was severely criticized for abstaining on a vote concerning the Rio Bonito suit.

"I appreciated that two incumbent commissioners had the issue in front of them for two years. My abstention vote (which no longer is permitted under the adopted meeting rules) was a vote for them."

He added that he made his decision to vote against continuing the suit, in part because, "we've had two law firms and both told us we're not going to win."

"By prolonging the issue, we just have a commission in turmoil. We've given all the time we should spend on this. It's not important who called the meeting, I hope we all can see there is no light at the end of the tunnel."

Commissioner Wilton Howell said when he ran for office he took no stand on the Rio Bonito exchange because he didn't have enough information. After listening to several lawyers, he could see that there was no win in the case. The best result would be to kick the case to the Supreme Court, which would drag it out and cost taxpayers more.

"I think the BLM is trying to follow their guidelines. They may have been rough at times, but I'm sure we have to," he said. "As Monroy said, there's enough blame to go around and credit. I think both sides have worked hard toward a solution."

Howell, who has pushed for an end to the suit side he was sworn into office in January, then offered the motion to accept the most recent memorandum of understanding (MOU) and move for a dismissal of the lawsuit once BLM officials sign the MOU. The motion was seconded by Nunley and passed with Schwettmann voting in the affirmative.

He asked Spencer if at any time, a county attorney has told him it "would better our position by continuing this action?"

Spencer said after dealing with attorneys on the Rio Bonito issue, "I don't have a hell of a lot of faith in any counsel."

He went to the podium and said he felt it was important to make a statement because of his strong stance on the issue.

Dressed in his work clothes, Spencer said he sat down while working on a windmill and "scratched out" a statement.

He said he respected the right of any commissioner to vote his conscience, but he was looking at the issue in a long-term perspective.

"I feel it is the responsibility of the commission to protect the present and future residents of the county whatever the cost, he said. He pushed the issue and quit, because the MOU amounts to a promise and is not necessarily legally binding.

Spencer said the BLM ignored the rights of the county until the reference to use of water rights, noxious plant studies and grazing studies had been removed since a MOU in November 1982.

Spencer said the concept of protecting land owners in matters dealing with endangered species seemed weaker. He said, "I asked why they had backed up and they said it's a different arena."

"I never heard a rejection of using her as a consultant, only for her to take over the full case. In fact, I heard Nunley and Schwettmann say to confer with her.

"I guarantee if I do anything on my own as a commissioner, I will belly up to the bar and pay. The county probably owes me travel and telephone expenses of $4,000 or more and hasn't been charged for it yet. I don't take use of the taxpayers' money lightly."

to have directors who will work. As far as the coverage in the press on the lack of a quorum, Shafer said the group is only supplying the press with ammunition.

"If we have a quorum and conduct our business as we should, they (the press) will have no ammunition to shoot us with," he said.

"We are going to be going out to every business in the community to ask them for support and we want them to know we are serious."

If the group does positive things, the press can report on that, Shafer said.

Director Dick Mound agreed that when the organization does good things the media should also report it, but Wilton Howell, county commissioner who sits on the board, said Kopp needs to let the press know the information.

Shafer said he would also like to move the monthly meetings around to different locations in the county so the people from those areas can see who the directors are. It should improve enthusiasm for the group and possibly show some of the benefits of the organization.

Many people in the county are a little upset that Ruidoso seems to get the most gains from the organization, and he would like to change that and make the whole county feel a part of the group.

Lincoln County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley, who was a guest at the meeting, suggested the group try to go to Corona when it opens its new senior citizens center because they feel left out, being at the edge of the county. Shafer agreed and said they are going to try to correct that.

Commissioners Nunley and Monroy Montes were visitors at the meeting.

Also on April 20, Kopp is meeting with Chris Kilcullen, of Hospitality Franchise Systems Inc. of Dallas, Texas, to see if any of the corporations he represents would be interested in building a hotel beside the Civic Events Center. Shafer said Kopp is really excited about the possibilities from this meeting.

One clause of the contract with the village for the $34,000 was that the EDCLC would assist in finding a hotel for the complex. Kopp has been sending out letters and packets to hotel corporations to find out if any would be able to build one, but those that had responded could not build at this time.

The EDCLC office may be making a short move at the end of the month, after directors decided to move to a less expensive office in the Stroud Building. Shafer said the office the group is currently renting is $700 per month, but the owner Steve Stroud had made a monthly donation of $350 back to the group, a procedure started by the prior building owner.

The group has been told not to expect that donation to continue but there is a smaller vacant office next door to the current office that is $350 per month. Shafer said the current office is more than they need, and Kopp said the smaller office would be a good alternative.

The law firm of Underline, which has an office in the building, has also agreed to allow the group to use its conference room free of charge for the monthly meetings. They may need to store some of the items, such as tables and chairs that they have in the current office, but Crane said he has a storage area they could use.

Although the group has paid the rent through the end of the month, Crane said they should make a decision on it that night because the office could be rented at any time. The group also needs to be as efficient as possible since they are going to be requesting funds from the village and the county.

The rent is also probably less than comparable quarters in the business community. Shafer said it will essentially put them back where they started from.

Who said what, when & why are we here?

Questions about proper procedures emerged Thursday as Lincoln County Commissioners moved toward the resolution of a two-year dispute with the Bureau of Land Management.

Before the discussion on the approved settlement began, Commissioner Stirling Spencer questioned whether the meeting had been properly called as an emergency session.

Commissioner Wilton Howell explained that under a court granted extension on the county's federal suit against the bureau (BLM), the commission had until April 12 to react to a proposal from the agency.

"I visited with commissioners (Bill) Schwettmann and (L. Ray) Nunley and felt I had their agreement to call a meeting," Howell said. "I didn't want to miss the deadline and to ask for another stay."

"Didn't we already give the attorney the latitude to go for another 60-90 day stay?" Spencer asked.

"If necessary," Howell replied.

County manager Andy Wynham said the attorney had not yet applied for the additional stay, but would if the commission failed to act on the proposed memorandum of understanding (MOU).

"I heard about this meeting about 3 p.m. yesterday and was told that three commissioners called it," Spencer said. He said he doesn't view the situation as an emergency.

"I was not aware of the meeting until 8:30 this morning," Nunley said.

"I heard about it when Dianne Stallings from The Ruidoso News called me," Schwettmann said.

Spencer said the meeting would be legal if called by three commissioners or the chairman, but he didn't want to be called away from work on his ranch for non-official reasons.

"I may have dropped the ball getting back to them (Nunley and Schwettmann), but I had talked to them and they said they were ready to go," Howell said. "I could only see a time extension costing the county more money and that a stay would allow the attorneys to put it on a back burner."

Commission Chairman Monroy Montes then interjected that he was ready to call the meeting when he found out Howell already had put the mechanism in motion.

"I think we all know the emergency is there," Montes said. "So the timing was within hours (of what it would have been had he called the session)."

"We're here, so let's do something," Nunley said. Schwettmann later asked for an accounting of all legal fees. Included in that breakdown was $13,952 billed by former county attorney J. Robert Beauvais, who filed both of the original suits in district and federal court; $958.26 billed through March by the current county attorneys, Dan Bryant and Alan Morel, who took over in late February; and $1,107.93 by Karen Budd, a legal consultant associated with the Coalition of Western States.

Budd works out of Cheyenne and apparently was contacted by Spencer and Beauvais, although the commission had rejected Beauvais' proposal that she be hired as co-counsel.

"Beauvais talked to her on a couple of occasions and Stirling talked to her several times," Nunley said. "I don't think they realized what she was charging every time they spoke."

"The commission didn't specifically approve using her, but I'd say we didn't specifically object to them calling her, except a word of caution. We didn't know she charges an enormous per hour rate."

Howell had a different perspective: "I was approached at one point and asked if I would go along with hiring (Budd) and I said definitely not. If a commissioner takes it on himself to place calls to an attorney, I think he ought to be responsible for the charge, not the commission."

"I fought this issue hard with no outside help to stop it. If I'd asked an attorney for advice and that attorney had sent a bill, Stirling Spencer would have barbecued me."

Spencer told The News Sunday that said the specific authorization to use Budd occurred several months before the three new commissioners took office.

"At the direction of the commission, Beauvais was told to use her when and where needed, if he had problems, basically, as a service trying to support his efforts," Spencer said.

"During that period, we met several times. I called her a couple of times. I'm sure, other commissioners did and the attorney did. When he didn't feel comfortable, I told him to consult with her."

After the new commissioners took their seats and during an open session, Beauvais proposed to get a bid from her to take over the case, Spencer said.

"One came forward for $20,000 to take over the case and Howell said no," Spencer said.

"I believe my contact was before that point. But even if it was after, the issue already was settled that we could use her for questions. I think $1,000 is pretty minimal, although I didn't think it would be that much, to see that our attorney was doing it right."

"We probably should have hired a specialist from the beginning. I feel remiss that we didn't do that, but we were worried about spending money. But what we spent was peanuts compared to the long term impact."

"I never heard a rejection of using her as a consultant, only for her to take over the full case. In fact, I heard Nunley and Schwettmann say to confer with her.

"I guarantee if I do anything on my own as a commissioner, I will belly up to the bar and pay. The county probably owes me travel and telephone expenses of $4,000 or more and hasn't been charged for it yet. I don't take use of the taxpayers' money lightly."

Animal Shelter celebrates successes

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Many times, the stories behind the animals who enter the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter are sad. But occasionally, they have a happy ending.

Last week, one of the featured pets was Ginger, a scarred and mistreated Labrador mix, who has been shot and abused. She won a special place in the heart of shelter manager Randy Basch.

Ginger found a great home with a family that had taken in an abused dog before and kept the animal for 18 years. They said their home was perfect for Ginger and since she was already spayed, they became sponsors, donating the money they would have spent on the procedure to help another animal be adopted.

But Rusty, Ginger's kennel mate, still is up for adoption and also needs a special home that can help him overcome past abuse.

With the change-over in management of the shelter eminent, the fate of some of the past pets still looking for new owners is uncertain and placement is urgent.

They all have passed the shelter worker's endorsement test and include Pinto, a well-proportioned, short-haired terrier hound with a sweet disposition, one blue eye and one light brown eye. A handsome dog, she has been spayed and shows brown spots on a white coat.

Tucson, a small Welsh corgi mix who craves attention, doesn't mess in his cage, although he will annoy everything he can find once out on a leash. He is loving, but could be aggressive with another male dog.

Ballyhoo, a classically marked Walker Hound with bundles of personality and the instincts of his breed.

Adobe, another of Basch's favorite. The buff colored shepherd with retriever or labrador blood is sponsored for her spaying. Brought in hungry and afraid of humans, she has responded to affection and is playful and ready for a home with practically any mixture of age groups.

Tracker, the male part of the brother-sister duo Bernese Mountain dog mix, Tracker is about nine months old and has a sweet disposition. He is neutered, which is one of the major costs usually associated with adoption.

No longer is mandatory sterilization just a village ordinance. In recognition of the enormity of the pet over-population problem, it now has become state law that shelters must ensure all animals adopted or reclaimed are spayed or neutered.

Owners who fail to follow through after paying the fee could be fined heavily.

Since Basch sent in his letter of resignation after five years of spectacular service with the shelter, 64 applications have been received for the position.

The society recently conducted interviews with four of the most promising applicants. But no matter who is hired, Basch will not be forgotten. He has become well-known for his community involvement, his knowledge of animals and his ability to bring sensitivity and compassion to a job that requires the destruction of unplaced or unhealthy animals.

Under his direction and with his public relations talents, the shelter has gained a positive, progressive reputation in the community and in the state.

Randy Basch makes friends with Tramp, who was adopted last week from the shelter. After five years, Basch will be leaving as manager. Besides establishing the shelter's humane reputation, he pushed successfully for adoption of a mandatory spay and neuter law, improved community awareness and fostered youth involvement.

Ruidoso Realtors have got your number, and they want you to have it back! Cindy Lynch, president of the Board of Realtors and Linda Long (right) hold some of the numbers they're distributing to homeowners during American Home Week. Backing up Lynch and Long are a few members of the Board of Realtors (back, from left) Bill Pippin, Doug Siddens, Wayland Burk and Glen Crane.

Ruidoso Realtors have your number!

Ruidoso real estate agents say they've got your number, and they want to give it back!

In observance of American Home Week, April 18-24, the Ruidoso Board of Realtors is kicking off "Ruidoso, we've got your number," a program designed to encourage everyone in the village to affix street address numbers on their homes.

Several years back, GTE (then Contel of the Southwest) purchased a lot of house numbers in hopes of getting all the residential and commercial properties numbered.

John VanTussenbroek, with the help of the Village of Ruidoso through the Planning and Zoning Commission, tried to use up all the numbers, but there are many still left — and there are also many properties still unnumbered.

The Board of Realtors, through its Public Relations Committee chaired by Mary Austin, has been accumulating those numbers from Village Hall the GTE office and warehouse and anywhere else.

Austin, with committee members Susan Miller, Peggy Jordan, Betty McCabe, Beverly Stephenson, Ann Jones and Flora Mae Fisher, have gathered all the numbers together, and they're now in one place — at the Ruidoso Board of Realtors office, 629 Sudderth Drive.

"We have lots and lots of numbers," said Austin.

During American Home week, any person needing house numbers can call any real estate office and get assistance.

According to a news release provided by the board, the street number will be verified against village plats for accuracy so a legal description will be needed (lot and block numbers and subdivision name).

There are many existing numbers which do not match up with the official village plat, said Ruidoso Board of Realtors President Cindy Lynch. To verify your house number, you may call Ruidoso Village Hall at 258-4014, said Lynch.

"Realtors and other volunteers will see that the numbers are either delivered or will even carry it out further and tack the numbers in the most visible location from the road," said Lynch.

If a homeowner wishes, they can stop by the board office and pick up numbers, but the emphasis is being put on getting them on the house.

This will continue as an ongoing project for the Realtors until the supply of numbers is gone.

As new listings are taken, the agents will ensure house numbers are in place; on existing listings, they will be looking for houses needing numbers.

"We are strongly urging everyone's assistance," said Lynch. Having homes visibly numbered will be a big help to the Police Department, Fire Department and Emergency Medical Services — not to mention the pizza delivery personnel. "Let's get this town numbered," says Lynch, who recalls that Village Council Barbara Duff has had the numbering project as a long-time goal.

"Again, hats off to John VanTussenbroek and Barbara Duff," adds Lynch. "It's always been a very worthwhile project — let's all pull together and get it accomplished."

Celebrate American Home Week

American Home Week, an affirmation of private property rights and the privilege of home ownership, will be celebrated in communities across the nation starting next Sunday, April 18, through Saturday, April 24.

The week-long observance, sponsored each year by the National Association of Realtors,

According to a news release, the observance is aimed at reminding individuals, businesses and industries of their rights and responsibilities as citizens and property owners in an effort to bring people together for the betterment of the community.

Festivities planned by the Ruidoso Board of Realtors, include a Spring Fling Tour of Homes and Ruidoso, We've Got your Number. (See separate stories on this page.)

These and other activities reflect the board's efforts to make the residents of Ruidoso and Lincoln County aware that home ownership is the cornerstone of a thriving community," says Cindy Lynch, president of the Ruidoso Board of Realtors.

For additional information on the week's events, contact Al Lane, board executive officer, at 257-4750, or stop in any real estate office.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association and "The Voice For Real Estate," represents nearly 750,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Join a Spring Fling Tour of Homes

The Ruidoso Board of Realtors invites the public to come buddy up with a Realtor and join in the Spring Fling Tour of Homes beginning at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday, April 21, at the Bull Fling on Mechem and White Mountain Drive.

Buying a home is easier than you think, and area Realtors want to show you how while celebrating American Home Week, April 18-24.

Transportation will be provided and refreshments will be served. To make it even easier and more festive, the tour homes will be marked with brightly colored balloons.

Neighbors object to zoning change

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Since a notice was mailed that mobile homes might be allowed in their neighborhood, about 20 residents of Paradise Canyon subdivision have written or phoned in their objections.

Another seven from nearby areas have added their negative comments.

Even three offering a neutral or favorable vote expressed concerns. One man wrote "Good, then sell them for me. I can't give them away." Another asked if the minimum lot size would be changed.

The Extraterritorial Zoning Commission and then the ETZ Authority starting at 1 p.m. Monday will deal with a proposal to change the zoning designation for all lots along six blocks. The boards meet in the Lincoln County sub-offices on Kansas Road.

The lots are not inside the village of Ruidoso, but fall within a one-mile zone just outside of the village. The affected blocks are 4 and 14-18.

The area currently is zoned R-1 residential and is proposed to be rezoned R-MS residential mobile home.

The proposal apparently was sparked by a request from Henry Scott, who is listed as living on DeBord Drive in the subdivision. Scott asked to place a mobile home on lots 30-31 of Block 14 on Carleen Place.

To rezone one lot would be spot zoning and illegal. The only other option is to rezone the entire section of lots.

Philip Walker, who lives on Scenic Drive in the subdivision, thinks both are lousy options.

The action would decrease surrounding property values and be a disservice to those who already have built permanent homes there, he told The Ruidoso News Sunday.

"Some people can take care of trailers, but most decrease property value," Walker said. "I'm not saying that these houses up here are astronomically high, but it has the possibility of being a nice area. In my opinion, the depreciation of a mobile home is greater. There are areas set up for mobile homes. In a lot of cases, they become eyesores, although I've seen some nice ones."

"I chose to put out more money and build something I thought was better, even though it took longer."

Walker said he has owned his four lots for 16 years and has been building for the past 6 1/2 years.

"I know some trailers already are here, but they were grandfathered in and we can't do anything," he said. "As they leave, they cannot be replaced with new trailers, so eventually they will be gone."

"Some people may be looking at the short term, but I am more interested in the long term, and my long term financial investment could be damaged by trailers."

Scott could not be reached for comment Sunday.

Some of the other opposing comments included that mobile homes would increase the traffic and the roads already are too narrow; that several lot owners bought in that subdivision because mobiles were not allowed and if allowed, would drive the values back down that have just started to move up; that more septic tanks could present a problem; that two lots owners recently built a new home and remodeled an existing home and strongly protest any plan to allow mobile homes; that one writer had not been allowed a mobile and felt it would be unfair to change now.

"The city is just starting to clean up the area, and this will deface it again," wrote one critic. Another noted that "more mobiles are not what a beautiful resort area needs. The area needs less density, not more."

The map shows the affected area, Paradise Canyon Subdivision, inside the dotted lines. Lot owners in the area from the dotted lines to the solid line also were notified of the pending action. The black oval indicates the lots originally requested for a mobile home by Henry Scott. To the left, Paradise Canyon Road is intersected by Hull Road and to the right, runs down to Sudderth Drive and past Meander Drive.

Warriors prepare for home meet Saturday

Good Friday didn't turn out to be such a good day for the Warrior track teams to compete in the Roswell Invitational track meet.

The team traveled to Roswell for the second time in two weeks, but didn't fare as well against a bigger field of competitors on Friday. The girls competed against about 20 other teams and the boys went up against about 15 teams, in a major meet for the southeast schools.

Although the teams totaled up few points, several individuals did well in the meet.

In the boys division, Jackie Lynn captured one more first place medal in the 800-meter dash at the Wool Bowl. Lynn finished the distance in 2:01.97, an improvement on the 2:08.62 he pulled out at the Goddard Invitational a week earlier. Lynn seems to be recovering well from a twisted ankle that kept him out of a meet earlier this season.

Gilbert Kayitah took fourth place in the 3200-meter run with a time of 10:50.08, but it was barely enough to beat teammate Faustino Miranda who earned fifth place with a time of 10:51.82. Jason Dix received third place in the 300-meter hurdles with a time of 40.48 seconds after a preliminary run of 40.73 seconds. He also qualified for the finals in the 110-meter hurdles but did not place.

In field events, Dix also captured third place in the long jump with a leap of 20-5 3/4 inches, an average that has allowed him to place consistently this year. Jeff Cox took fifth place in the shot put with a throw of 43-4 1/2.

The top performances from the girls came in the field events with Sarah Dix leading the way. Dix earned fourth place in the long jump with a distance of 16-4, quite a bit short of her 17-2 1/2 which won her first place last week.

Monica Martinez earned a fourth place finish in the shot put with a throw of 33-7 1/2. Jody Randle took fifth place in the high jump by clearing 4-10.

Warrior fans will get to see the teams compete at home on Saturday as the school hosts its tournament. The meet will be going on all day at the Ruidoso High School practice field.

After this competition, the teams have just two meets left, both of which will allow participants to qualify for the state meet, before the district contest on May 8 in Las Cruces.

Speed demons!

Ruidoso Middle School Brave Billy Rogge blasts down the lane as teammate Arthur Rojas hands him the baton in the 400-meter relay during the Braves track meet on Thursday. The relay team earned first place easily and helped the team finish second in the meet.

Lady Brave Althea Palmer sets her pace in the 800-meter dash ahead of a pack of competitors at the Braves meet. A Hatch runner took the first place at the finish line. The Braves will be headed to a meet in Tularosa this week and will have just two meets left in the season. Coaches Herman Fox and Clifton Neal said the participants have done a tremendous job and always give a great effort.

New season means new hunting and fishing regs

The Department of Game and Fish distributed 1993-94 hunting and fishing proclamations and special hunt application forms to license vendors.

The 1993-94 license year began April 1. New fishing and hunting regulations go into effect that day, and new licenses are required, said Bill Montoya, department director.

Proclamations and forms are also available at the Game and Fish Department's main office in Santa Fe and at area offices in Albuquerque, Raton, Roswell and Las Cruces.

Deadline is May 1 to apply for 1993-94 special public-land hunts for elk, antelope, oryx, javelina, bighorn sheep and ibex and for limited-entry deer hunting areas.

Persons 12 and older are required to have a fishing license.

Changes in fishing regulations for 1993-94 include new trout bag limits established to better equalize the catch among all anglers. Bag limits for warm-water species were also reduced for similar reasons, Montoya said.

Changes include anglers may use only one pole as of April 1, rather than two in non-trout waters; children under 12, who do not need fishing licenses, may now keep a full limit of fish each day, trout limits are six per day and in possession in most waters; lake trout limits are two per day and in possession; limits on trout from Bluewater, Heron, Navajo, Eagle Nest, Abiquiu, Charette, McAlister, Quemado, Bonito and Costilla lakes are 10 per day and in possession; kokanee salmon limits during the special season are 12 per day, 24 in possession, in addition to regular trout limits, at several northern trout waters.

Bag limits for other species were also changed to black bass, five per day; striped bass, two per day; walleye and northern pike, 10 per day; crappie, 20 per day; and white bass, 25 per day. Possession limits are twice the daily bag limit on warm-water species.

Black bass taken at Elephant Butte Lake must be at least 14 inches; size limit is 12 inches at 10 other lakes. A "slot size" means anglers must return bass of 12 to 16 inches to the water at Bill Evans Lake. Trout taken at Bluewater Lake must be 10 inches long to be kept.

Gilita Creek in the southwestern part of the state is now a special trout water, with bag and possession limits of two per day, taken only on artificial flies and lures.

Three trout waters reopened April 1. The seasonal waters are Bonito Lake near Ruidoso, Burns Canyon Lake at Parkview Hatchery near Chama and Clayton Lake. Hours to fish at Bonito are 5 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Also to be noted in the 1993-96 fishing proclamations is that a duplicate license is now $6.50, not $3.25.

Of note in the 1993-94 big game proclamation are changes in fur-bearing regulations that require a 24-hour visual check of traps by a trapper or his representative, followed by a 48-hour check by the trapper.

The fee to apply for special hunt species is now $6.

Region B, which includes hunt areas extending from Cochiti to Chama, is closed to regular-season deer ("D") hunts and open for two deer entry permit hunts, with up to 2,330 permits each. The exception is the Freeman Les Davis unit (Sub-Unit 5A), which will be open only for one hunt, October 18-22.

The bag limit for fall turkey is any one turkey (not any turkey with a visible beard as listed in the proclamation).

Briefs

Sign up Tuesday for baseball

Sign-ups for Little League baseball will be from 6-8 p.m. on Tuesday.

Boys and girls who will be eight to 12 years old on July 31 of this year are eligible to play and must bring a birth certificate to register. Kids must sign up at this time to be assured of getting to play because team sizes will be limited.

For additional information call 257-9818.

The adult softball leagues are also getting in gear for the summer. Anyone interested in playing or being an umpire should attend a meeting at 6 p.m. Thursday at the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center.

Ruidoso dominates on courts

The Final Four were quickly weeded down to the winning one in the Lincoln County Little League Final Four competition in Hondo on Friday and Saturday.

Ruidoso teams fared well against the county competition and took the title in three of the four divisions. Teams competing were Cloudcroft, Capitan and Hondo. Team members of the first place teams each received a trophy for their hard work.

The winner of the major league girls division was the McGee Construction team of Ruidoso. Team members are Raquel Reiman, Mandi Lowallen, Amy Hemphill, Bailey Bishop, Kara Lutterman, Denise Rodella and Ashley Scott.

J.F. Construction from Ruidoso also won the minor league girls division. Members of that team are Chelsea Whittaker, Mindi Brunell, Wendy Duffy, Sarah Fromknecht, Shannon Salazar, Crystal McNutt, Elena Aguilar and Paulina Saenz.

Ruidoso's Ed Turner Agency team also won the major league boys competition. Members of the team are Brant Buchhagen, Scott Sebastian, Cory Saenz, Levy Price, Arthur Miller, Jason Candelaria, Zack Pafford and Malcolm Sharbutt.

Host Hondo did earn the title for the minor league boys competition. The All-Stars are Jason Copeland, Ismael Miranda, Angel Valenzuela, Martin Richardson, Armando Ontiveros, Aaron Gomez, Adam Gomez and Tyler Cisneros.

Game commish spots errors

Hunters and fishermen may have a few questions about the 1993 hunting and fishing Proclamation they've picked up and the game commission hopes to answer them.

On page eight under habitat stamps in the first paragraph the last sentence should read "a stamp is NOT required." On page 15 the deadline for validation changes should be bow, August 31, and muzzleloader, September 9.

A mistake on page 19 states region 17, when it should be unit 17. Also on that page, on the map, the boundary between 21B and 20 is 1-25.

On page 23 the fall turkey bag is any one turkey, and the work bearded should be deleted. Under "Use Care in Completing Application" on page 27, the last sentence should have the words, hunt and application, reversed.

The map on page 31 suggests that Valle Vidal/Barker/Greenwood areas are all open during the deer entry hunts, but only E.S. Barker area is open. On page 43, Barbary Sheep resident license costs $41, not $38, and a year-long ibex license is $31, not $28.

On pages 14, 21, 22, 23, 29, 31, 35, and 39-41 Game Management Unit Maps, all incorrectly show the boundary between Units 15A and 16A as the highway, it should be the San Francisco River.

Dear Friends and Customers:

1214 MECHEM DR.
RUIDOSO, NM 88345
(505) 258-8008

In July we will celebrate our third anniversary since reopening in 1990. We want to thank all of our loyal supporters for helping us through those tough first years.

The four of us have decided to take a two-week break for some R & R to prepare for another wonderful, busy summer. We will be closing our dining room from April 13th to April 29th. We sincerely hope that this is not a terrible inconvenience to our regular customers.

Our newly remodeled and expanded lounge will remain open for normal business and if you haven't been by to see it yet, now is an excellent time to come and enjoy yourselves before your busy summer season starts. Since April is typically quiet, you won't have to fight the crowds of the coming months! The guys from our house band, Ricochet, will make your feel right at home.

Once again, thank you all so much for your patronage and we look forward to seeing you on April 30th!

Sincerely,

The Mills

Council reconsiders Carrizo annexation; reviews Upper Canyon signs

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Annexation, Upper Canyon signage, downtown restrooms and vandalism are all topics scheduled Tuesday for the regular Ruidoso Village Council meeting.

The agenda will begin with two public hearings.

David and Graciela Jimenez of the Terraza Campanario restaurant on Sudderth Drive are seeking approval for a beer and wine only license.

The second public hearing concerns the operational policy of the Civic Events Center, a lengthy document covering 38 sections of information dealing with rental agreements, concessions, insurance, special events, security, subletting and many more items.

Regular items on the agenda include:

- a request to vacate a right of way. John Schuller's garage encroaches on the right of way by about seven feet. If approved, the right of way would be reduced from 40 feet to about 32 feet, with Schuller paying 50 cents per square foot ($463.40) for the land. Planning commission recommends to vacate, saying conditions of the property would remain the same.
- Hazel Haynesworth, who will discuss Upper Canyon signage discussed and tabled last November 10. The signs indicated the opening and closing of the gate on the In-Indian reservation.

Haynesworth said she is greatly concerned with the traffic, illegal camping and other problems caused by lack the lack of signage at the present time.

—a request for authorization to sell an ambulance. Lincoln County Medical Center's Jim Stover negotiated with Sandoval County officials who offered $4,995 for the 1982 van ambulance. Stover said the money would go toward the purchase of an Advanced Life Support unit due in May.

—a request by Tom Battin, president of MainStreet Ruidoso to adopt an amendment to the Lodgers Tax Ordinance to include as beneficiaries "welcome centers, tourist information centers and museums" as provided in the New Mexico State Statute 3-38-21.

MainStreet currently is doing a feasibility study for developing a MainStreet Service Center, to be located within the Midtown area.

MainStreet officials project needs for a public restrooms, bank ATM services, child care facilities, and visitor information services such as Board of Realtor information and chamber of commerce publications.

—a request by chamber president Paul Crown to purchase a transformer to produce 120v-240v for the exterior of the Civic Events Center.

Crown said there was a special events used for the transformer and would be placed in an area where an existing transformer is located.

Crown said the cost of the transformer as quoted by Texas New Mexico Power Company is $2,342.

—a request by Bohannon-Huston for an increase in MainStreet design fees, a cost that already has more than doubled from the company's original bid and the meter runs daily.

In their letter, Bohannon-Huston officials do not confirm with whom they had verbal agreements or at what official meetings authorization occurred.

The village packet did not include any copies of requests for change orders. Apparently, the company proceeded without those orders being in place.

Bohannon-Huston may produce letters and memos in which they asked for those change orders or other assurances that it was all right to proceed.

Some professional planners say anyone in business should know better than to expand a job without written authorization from someone in authority or through a change order. They say a company, without written confirmation, should be held to their bid price, which was in competition with other companies.

—a contract agreement with C-Net, Inc. and Carrizo Homeowners

Association for a water line to be installed to Carrizo Lodge.

With water line installation, the village also is considering annexation which would increase lodgers tax and gross receipts tax to the village.

C-Net president James Porter was reluctant to give any figures on his operation at Carrizo Lodge that includes a restaurant and an art school in addition to lodging. Mayor Victor Alonso has estimated C-Net was grossing between $1-million to $1.5 million per year.

County records reflect from July to date, the county has collected $6,780.75 in lodgers tax, representing two percent of the gross receipts from all lodging enterprises controlled by C-Net. That would roughly put their total gross receipts for lodging from July to date, around eight months, in the neighborhood of $339,000.

The village collects four percent lodgers tax.

—annual board and commission appointments by the mayor and council. A collective bargaining-labor relations board will be discussed.

The consent agenda, items usually voted collectively with no discussion include:

- authorization to advertise bids for various materials to be used by the water department for replacement and repair, mainly in the Sandia Road area.

—approval for easements for access and disposal of sludge from the Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant.

In a prior council meeting on April 30, 1991, Councilor J.D. James said Dub Williams expressed an interest in purchasing dried sludge from the village. Wicker stated the sludge could not be sold at the time due to the lack of proper equipment to process the sludge according to state regulations. Williams' land adjoins the plant site.

Deputy village manager Alan Briley said the village now has received a discharge permit from the state environment department to dispose of the sludge and requests approval to enter into an easement agreement with the Williams.

Under the proposed agreement, the village would, at its own expense, deposit sludge on the property, or apply sludge to the property in an amount not to exceed 90 cubic yards of sludge per acre. After one application of sludge, the village shall, at its own expense, disk the property and reseed the native plants.

The village shall monitor the application with a bi-annual sampling, testing of nitrogen on various sections; a bi-annual water sampling for nitrogen and supply land application data sheets including volume and location of application.

If at any site where contamination of the ground water is found and confirmed, the village, at its own expense, will install four ground water wells at locations which surround the contamination area. Ground water then will be pumped daily and distributed over the natural ground in the area to dissipate the nitrogen levels through natural process of evaporation and soil diffusion.

On closure, the village will reseed areas not previously reseeded areas with native grass seed.

Williams will allow the village access to enter the property for the work and agrees not to allow animals on the property for at least 30 days after the application of the sludge.

After the property has reached the proper allowable nitrogen level, easement rights would be terminated.

—a bid award on the EMS ambulance. This consent item is regarding a modular conversion for the Advanced Life Support ambulance. Three bids were received with the low bid of $66,720.70, by Horton Emergency Vehicles, the only bidder that met all specifications.

At the end of the regular session, the council will move into closed session to discuss a subject pertaining to threatened or pending litigation.

Birds, trees and lilacs foretell Easter joys

Messengers of Easter

On the seventh of April there was a spirit all through the Vale of preparing for the blessed day of Easter Sunday.

The Chinese elm tree out in front of the house was out in bright new leaves, the early pear tree was out in fragrant white fruit blossoms and the large apricot tree had a green cast from the new leaves; and the young apricots are growing rapidly in the warm sunny air.

All around the yard the lilac bushes were showing a touch of purple and lavender among the new leaves where the new bloom clusters were showing their Easter colors.

Just outside the sun room you heard the gentle, cheery notes of a welcome bird voice. And there, just outside the window on the telephone wire just under the eaves of the house, was the yellow-breasted phoebe in the spot where she makes her summer home every year, letting me know she has arrived. The phoebe is one of the most gentle and trusting of all our bird friends; and every year this one arrives just a few days before Easter.

The new calves were grazing beside their mothers out on the Blue Bird Meadow already green with new grass.

A large band of turtle doves flew in from the north and perched in the cedar and piñon trees and on the REA power wires and began singing their Easter melodies.

A robin red breast — traditional messenger of spring and the Easter season — flew up from the river trees and sang a few notes of an Easter bird song while perched in the cedar tree.

About noon, cool winds began blowing in from the north, yet the flower and bird messenger of Easter kept smiling and singing throughout the day.

April Full Moon

On the night of the seventh, the round full moon rose over Sunrise Mountain — pure new gold like a bright medallion in a purple sky. Above shone the evening star, twinkling in green and blue.

While you watched these two cheery sentinels of the night, light clouds drifted in from the north, and the moon shone through in silvery half light, with a fringe of rainbow shafts radiating out and pearl and opal colors blending through the clouds near by. This full moon was giving us a message about the weather.

About midmorning on April 8, today, clouds began gathering from all directions, and then you looked down the way and here came a silvery curtain that looked like an approaching flurry of snow.

Sure enough, here came the little pellets of sleet, and the small flakes of snow and the drops of half rain and half snow. The white flakes came driving into the early pear tree full of white blossoms; and for a little while we had a scene of late winter and early spring in the vale.

Let us rejoice and thank God for Eastertide and all our many blessings.

Taxes due April 15

Just because the Ruidoso Post Office closes at 5 p.m. doesn't mean you have to get your IRS form in early.

According to a postal service spokesman, you can still mail up until midnight Thursday and it will get postmarked by the April 15 deadline.

"Normally, everybody can mail up to midnight because that's the deadline," said Ron Glover of the Ruidoso Post Office.

Asked if lots of taxpayers have mailed early increasing the volume of mail through this post office, Glover said business is good.

"We've got a lot of mail; we've been busy," said Glover.

Hot dogs!

Jeanine Taylor, Sandee Dutchover and Ellen Bizzell — all Village of Ruidoso employees — take a break in their daily routing to run the hot dog stand at the Parks and Recreation Easter egg hunt Saturday. Bizzell, who was in charge of the annual free party for children, said she and her crew his 6,000+ eggs.

Chamber director will report to Downs village board today

An update from the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce on its use of funds from the Village of Ruidoso Downs will be the top item in general business for the Downs trustees when they meet at 7 p.m. today at the fire station.

Joan Bailey, executive director for the chamber, will make a presentation to the board on visitor activity for Ruidoso Downs and the area since the village voted to help fund a part-time person to respond to visitor inquiries. She first made the request to the lodgers tax advisory board, which then recommended it to the trustees.

The trustees were reluctant at first to fund the person, but said the chamber has done a better job of representing the whole area and has several members in the community. The group decided to help fund the staff member as long as Bailey reported back to the group on how the chamber's work has impacted the village.

Trustees will also review and approve monthly departmental reports and a resolution on the Open Meetings Act.

The group is also expected to approve the hiring of Marilyn Kite as deputy clerk-finance officer, the purchase of radios for the police department and for the clerks to attend a municipal clerks and finance officers association spring meeting in Las Cruces on April 28-30.

The group will also set a spring clean up date.

MEDICINE AT THE CROSSROADS

Explores Dilemmas Posed by Modern Medicine

Medicine at the Crossroads — television's most comprehensive examination of modern medicine — lends a penetrating and unique perspective on four critical crossroads of modern medical science: doctor training and patient care; medicine at the beginning and end of life; new technology assessment and "miracle" drugs; and prevention and new kinds of care for the individual's total health. The penetrating eight-hour documentary series is narrated by George Page.

"Temple of Science," the first hour of Medicine at the Crossroads, examines teaching hospitals as the evolutionary focal point of modern medicine. The program was filmed at John Hopkins University, one of the world's leading teaching hospitals. Many agree that the teaching hospital has become the symbol of hope for rich and poor. But critics claim it limits doctor training only to a narrow spectrum of serious illness providing a distorted picture of medical needs.

"Code of Silence," the second hour, looks at the barrier separating patients from their doctors who often cloak themselves in a code of silence. Dramatic comparisons are made between Japan, where silence is the rule, and the United States, where openness and informed consent are the standard practice.

"Life Support" examines the dilemma of modern medicine as it relates to aging and death. It takes a close look at how widely the treatments vary in the United States, Ireland, and India. The program reports on a wide range of critical issues related to the explosive growth in the number of dependent elderly, whose demand for desperately needed services will mushroom. In the year 2050, an estimated one million Americans will have logged a century of life — and nearly half of them with Alzheimer's disease.

"Conceiving the Future," the fourth program, reports on the medical establishment's growing ability to orchestrate conception, treat the fetus in the mother's womb, and sustain even the weakest of infants with elaborate life-support equipment. The documentary reports on new ethical and moral issues associated with such practices.

"Random Cuts" reports on the interplay of scientific, cultural, and economic factors in the use of surgical procedures. It compares different approaches to the treatment of heart disease in Germany, the U.S., and England.

"The Magic Bullet," program six, projects the "quick fix" dream on the reality that most disease is chronic and can't be cured. Yet there remains a widespread expectation that quick fixes for all diseases, including cancer and AIDS, are just around the corner.

"Pandemic," the seventh program, reports that science and hospitals alone can no longer solve our health problems — evidenced by the AIDS pandemic — and that medicine must respond to the social conditions that cause disease in the first place.

"Disordered States," the final program, explores care of the mentally ill. While an explosion of new knowledge in the neurosciences has led to improvements in drug therapy, the long-term care of people with mental illness remains perplexing.

Medicine at the Crossroads airs Mondays at 9:00 p.m. beginning April 12th. The series repeats Sundays at 3:00 p.m. beginning April 18th.

Integrity is critical to our publication

Integrity begins with ethical information gathering and reporting and extends to our advertising sales department as well. Advertisers can believe in the integrity of our circulation information — the basis for their advertising buying decisions.

That's why we subject our circulation records to independent verification by the largest and oldest circulation auditing organization in the world — the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Integrity is ABC's business. In fact, thousands of newspapers, magazines, business publications and farm journals in North America have selected ABC to audit their circulation records. And hundreds of advertisers and advertising agencies rely on ABC-audited data for print media planning. Together, they make ABC the standard for circulation integrity.

With verified reports from ABC, advertisers can choose us with absolute confidence.
