Ruidoso Mayor Pro-tem Barbara Duff is scheduled to speak on the areas of development in the past, present and future with tourism.

The celebration is free, but space is limited, so make registrations by calling the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce at 257-7395.

A scholarship fund for continuing education in hospitality is being established through ENMU-Ruidoso, and donations will be accepted at the door.

Planners pass compromise on request

by CHARLES STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

In a rare moment, two opposing sides walked to the podium at a Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission meeting, and both walked away satisfied.

Commissioner Don Miner said Leah Jones' request to put a residence on her commercial lot was the most difficult case he has heard since joining the planning commission. He said emotionally, he was with Mrs. Jones, but the commission had an obligation to separate commercial and residential land use as much as possible.

According to agent Wyatt Sparks, Mrs. Jones, health failing and elderly, wanted her daughter to move in beside her, placing a HUD-II double wide mobile home on an adjoining lot she owned.

Jones' three lots are zoned commercial with Mechem Drive frontage. The lots also extend to Upper Terrace Drive, which is primarily residential.

As proposed to the commission, the replat would have placed two lots with frontage only on Upper Terrace which is not a collector street, a necessary condition for commercial lots.

Furthermore, the planning department pointed out that the current village Master Plan indicates business use for lots between Mechem Drive and Upper Terrace Drive.

Sparks reasoned that lots touching Upper Terrace Drive were more residential than commercial, and the lots have been on the market for sale for six years without success.

Attorney Mike Line, speaking on behalf of his parents and the First Baptist Church, expressed concern that the proposed changes would reduce the commercial lot size and make it less marketable for its intended use.

Line said he was sympathetic to the health issue, but was concerned that the deviation of the Master Plan would put residential on Mechem, a main artery of town. He said that would not be in the best interest of the village.

Long-time Ruidoso resident Cleston Pritchett spoke on behalf of Mrs. Jones and pleaded with the commission to consider the as-stance the daughter could give her elderly mother.

Finally, the commission proposed splitting the three lots down the middle into two commercial lots running from Mechem to Upper Terrace. That division would allow the lots to remain commercial with frontage on Mechem and the conditional use would allow the daughter to put her HUD-II home near the back of a lot off Upper Terrace.

All parties seemed satisfied with the compromise.

In other business, the commission:

—approved a replat for Lyle and Wanda Hosmer to consolidate two lots to exceed the 10,000 square-foot minimum of R-1 properties.

—allowed Robert Lee Smith to adjust his lotline to add additional area around his home to about seven acres.

—approved a replat for Paul McClendon to establish a 0.75-acre lot for an existing residence.

—heard agent D.T. Collins withdraw a request for replat for Lakeside Estates, Lots 6 and 7, Block 2, of Alto Golf and Country Club.

—approved a request by Jim Clark for an amended commercial site development to enclose the porch area on one of the A-frame units.

—approved a zone map amendment from C-1 to C-2 on Tracts 1 and 2 of John Brown Tracts. The amendment will now go before the village council on April 27. If approved a public hearing will be set for May 25.

—discussed complaints with Dan Smith of All American Automotive on Sudderth Drive.

The commission has received complaints on the condition of the operation and members were concerned about his schedule for site improvements.

Smith expressed extreme displeasure with the commission and complaints of his operation. He told the commission he intended to close his business at that location. The commission approved a motion to improve the site or vacate within 30 days.

—recommended a park dedication of 1.8 acres in the Airport West Subdivision. The recommendation will go before the village council for discussion.

Move over Annie Oakley

by CHARLES STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso is a little safer now that eight gun totin' women have successfully completed their handgun class... maybe.

Lanny Maddox, New Mexico State certified firearms instructor, conducted a five-hour class study on gun control at the Ruidoso magistrate courtroom before the class members loaded their pistols for some hands-on action at the Ruidoso Gun Club Range in Ruidoso Downs.

Participants gain a thorough knowledge of firearm nomenclature, and safe and proper handgun use.

Maddox said the course, designed for beginners, will be presented again soon.

Graduating shooters were Dawna Reyes, Selena Reed, Sharon Darby, Earline Phillips, Linda Butler, Viola Rhodes, Carolyn Meyer and Lea McKenna.

Budget

preliminary approval by the commission Tuesday include:

—$3,000 for the village of Corona, which is $2,000 less than requested to help defray the cost of garbage collection by a private company. The village pays a higher cost because it is remote and has a lower population county. It is not served by the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.

—$5,000 toward improvements and repairs on the Carrizozo public pool.

Town trustee Harold Garcia had requested $10,000 each year for six years, to be matched by the town. Commissioners pointed out that they could not make commitments that would bind future commissions.

Garcia said safety problems will be handled first. Some items that need attention include roof repairs, a pump replacement, a pool cover, new metal doors and tile floor replacement.

Commissioner Stirling Spencer said the commission would like to see a commitment on the part of the town to maintain the facility once corrections are completed.

Garcia said 2,500 people visit the pool during the summer and it is one of the few recreational outlets in the area.

While speaking on the pool, Garcia also asked commissioners to fight against any attempt to reroute U.S. 54 around Carrizozo when it is four-laned.

—$9,000 in operational money and $25,000 toward improvements at the county fairground in Capitan to the County Fair Board, which had asked for $37,500 toward improvements.

Commissioner Bill Schwetznann said he liked the project, "because the money will be going into concrete and steel."

Commissioners approved allowing the board to use the money immediately to buy a canopy for the grandstand. Promoters of the Smokey Bear Fiftieth Birthday celebration in 1994 want to have it in place this summer. That should encourage more people to attend events at the fairgrounds, fair board president Gordon Barham said.

Commissioners pointed out that the $37,500 figure was based on the State Legislature giving the fair board $150,000 toward the overhaul project. Instead, the board received $100,000.

—$450 to cover expenses and clerical supplies for the South Central Recreation and Development Council as requested by Howard Shanks, who said he will work with the fair board to obtain grants for the Smokey project.

—$5,000 toward the legal fund of the Water Defense Association as requested by Hubert Quintana. The group is fighting to preserve the water rights of users along the Rio Bonito, Rio Hondo and Rio Ruidoso against claims by the Mescalero Apache Tribe.

—$42,591 for Barry Herd and the Cooperative Extension Service, without any cuts.

—$2,500 for the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development Council, which has aided the county in its Community Development Block Grant program, the search for landfill sites and recently distributed a preliminary report on the financial benefits of recycling.

—$10,000 to the Counseling Center, rejecting for the third time a request to increase the allocation to $20,000. Center director Jim Kerlin said the money was needed to maintain minimal staffing and offer services needed in the county.

Commissioners seemed to think the bulk of the demand came from residents of the village of Ruidoso and Otero County, and they should contribute the heaviest share.

—$6,514 for White Mountain Search and Rescue, representing no increase. The majority of the commission rejected a suggestion by Spencer to cut the amount to $3,500 by removing radio maintenance, a new litter and a program to teach children how to help aid their rescue if they are lost.

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley insisted the group already ran a "barebones" operation.

—$8,000 for a portable cardiac monitor that can be carried in a car and transferred to a regular ambulance by trained personnel, giving capabilities more in line with advanced life support units based in Ruidoso.

Commissioners indicated they were inclined to pay for something that could be shared between the city and county.

But they rejected a $11,225 request toward a new emergency vehicle. Wynham said the commission needed to retain its money for the underfunded emergency organizations that serve the unincorporated portions of the county.

A credit to his Ruidoso emergency service, director Jim Stover has actively pursued and obtained solid financial support for his organization, commissioners said.

—$2,000 to the Village of Ruidoso Downs toward resurfacing its recreation area. Spencer suggested giving half, but Howell noted it was a one-time request and it was the first time the town's trustees had asked for help.

—$10,000 to the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County. Director Karen Kopp had requested $27,000.

"I have real reservations, but because of the new administration and the involvement of Dr. (Jim) Miller (director of Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso), I could go for $10,000," Nunley said.

"With no strings attached?" asked commission chairman Monroy Montes.

"I'd like to see a quarterly report," said Howell, who serves as commission representative on the council.

"I'll go for $10,000 on the condition that next year we see the money was well used and not blown."

"I want to see a contract saying what we'll see from this money," Montes said. "I want a valid report and accountability."

Kopp said the money would be used to advertise the county in magazines targeting companies that are expanding, looking for sites and relocating. Coupon redemption companies are of special interest to the group, she said.

The corporation is moving to less expensive rental quarters and will be more active in trying to raise $85,000 from private sources, she said.

Looking at the revenue side of the county's budget, Wynham said his estimates were on the conservative side, "especially in the area of taxes."

Last year, the sources were estimated higher than they should have been and the figure was downsize in the mid-year budget adjustments, he said.

This year, he used the 1992 property valuation for the 1993-94 budget.

Residential property values countywide were placed by the assessor's office at $170,164,181, with non-residential at $99,955,308. Those two figures will produce $1,927,473 in property taxes.

Historically, 92 percent of taxes billed are collected within the first fiscal year, which would bring in $1,778,275 to the county.

Special mill levies, based on the total $270,119,489 preliminary county valuation include a quarter of one mill for county facilities, which produces $67,530; a half mill for capital outlay, producing $135,060 and one mill for the road department, generating $270,119.

(One mill is equal to $1 for every $1,000 of taxable property value, which is about one-third market value, after exemptions).

Wynham said the revenue category of late fee on taxes was down because of changes in law that now allows the state to collect the penalty and interest, grabbing it away from the counties.

"It takes three years to be delinquent and they take all of the late fees, even on the portion that's not delinquent," Wynham explained.

"So the treasurer is trying to keep property from going three years so the state doesn't take our revenue. It's another way the state erodes our taxes, leaving it up to the counties to raise taxes elsewhere to compensate."

Other sources of revenue include charges for housing prisoners from other counties and municipalities and the gas tax (although the county has seen a $12,000 decline this year due to the closing of at least one vendor).

Total estimated general fund revenue is $3,403,515, about half a million more than the current year.

Before next Tuesday, they will have to decide whether to branch out into the more costly chip-seal method of road surfacing or to continue to limit the county's capability to work on dirt and gravel roads. Other projects would have to be given to contractors.

'93 racing season is in the gates

Throughout the off-season Ruidoso Downs underwent an extensive capital improvement plan to make a visit to the mountaintop oval even more enjoyable this summer, according to a news release provided by the track.

Many new promotions and events are also planned throughout the 70-day season which opens Friday, May 14.

One of the first changes fans will notice is the new stonework main entrance and sign along U.S. Highway 70.

Once inside the facility, numerous other improvements will be visible throughout the Turf Club and grandstand.

Improvements to the Turf Club include new wall-to-wall carpeting as well as freshly painted walls throughout the entire third floor area. The rest of the grandstand was also completely repainted.

Looking upon the infield from the Turf Club, fans should see greener grass and more lush vegetation which is the result of a newly installed irrigation system.

Downstairs in the grandstand, the Ruidoso Downs' gift shop was enlarged and moved to a more central location. The recently completed walk-in gift shop is noticeably larger than in the past and will offer a greater variety of Ruidoso Downs' merchandise to fans.

Outside in front of the lower grandstand, more comfortable theater-style seats were installed to replace bench and bucket seating.

Club gives fans the opportunity to receive prizes and merchandise for every dollar they push through the betting windows throughout the season.

According to a news release provided by the track, the program is designed to reward fans for coming to the track and betting.

The Players Club is free to join and relatively simple to maintain.

All fans have to do is register at the Players Club Booth near the main entrance to receive a membership card. Each time a bet is made, the mutual clerk will run the card through a computerized reader to record the amount of money wagered.

The membership card must be presented each trip to the betting window to assure all money bet is recorded. Each dollar bet equals one point and points may be redeemed for prizes.

The Players Club keeps track of the points, all fans need to do is bet and build up points to earn prizes.

Once enough points are earned they may be redeemed for any of the prizes available according to the point total.

For example, the minimum point total is 50 which could be worth a free racing program or refreshment stand item. At the 5,000 point level, prizes could range from $50 gift certificates to free accommodations at a local hotel.

The more points earned, the more lucrative the rewards. Point totals may be checked anytime throughout the race day at the Players Club Booth.

Points may also be redeemed on any race day, but after closing day September 6 all points are voided.

Hollywood Nights

Another new feature for the 1993 season will be full-card simulcasts of Hollywood Park's Friday night races which will be shown in the Turf Club for eleven consecutive weeks from May 14 through July 23.

"Hollywood Nights" were first begun in 1991 and proved popular with fans as an alternative form of entertainment after the Ruidoso Downs races.

Admission will be free to the nine-race cards which will be shown on television monitors throughout the Turf Club.

First post time will be 8 p.m. Special dinner buffets will be offered as well as regular menu service.

Handicappers at Ruidoso Downs will have the luxury of betting directly into Hollywood's mutual pools on Friday nights. Common pooling allows for large bets to be made without affecting the odds as they did in the past when Ruidoso had a separate simulcast mutual pool.

Common pooling also gives Ruidoso patrons access to large Pick Six carryovers and the many different exotic wagers offered at the Los Angeles-area track. The most unique wager is the $1 minimum Place Pick Nine which requires a handicapper to choose one or more horses in each of the nine races. If the horse or horses chosen finish first or second for all nine races it is a winning ticket.

Mescalero students get ready to run at Gathering of Nations in the Duke City

After a month of preparation students from Mescalero Elementary School are ready to compete in a two-mile race in the Gathering of the Nations Saturday at Albuquerque.

Physical education instructor Tracy Nelson and his assistant Ardena Comanche will take 21 students, ranging from the second to the sixth grade, to run in the race. The race for kids 13 years old and under will begin at 8:45 a.m. at the University of New Mexico arena.

Anyone at the gathering is invited to attend the race and cheer the young runners on.

Nelson and Comanche started with tryouts in a one-mile run. With each try out they narrowed it down until they had the 21 best runners. The kids really got motivated and gave their best to make the top spots, Nelson said.

The kids got even more excited Friday when shoes that the school bought them arrived. They will also be getting shorts and shirts before the race.

This is the first time they have taken a group to the event, which is in its tenth year. Both are confident the kids will do well and it will be a good experience for them. Comanche, who is an outstanding runner, will run with the students.

Tennis team tears up the courts

Top seeded Ruidoso tennis players experienced what could be a taste of district play Saturday and "we liked what we saw," said coach Steve Havill.

Warrior tennis fans can catch the teams in action today, Thursday, at 3 p.m. at the public courts as they battle Artesia.

The aggressive doubles team, Aaron Stallings and Diego Garcia, left the NMMI mini-tournament in first place, defeating Lovington's Tipton and Cleere in three sets 5-7, 6-3, 6-4 and NMMI's Betts and Artigas in a 6-4, 6-1 blitz.

Senior Cicelae Makowski swept the girls' side, beating Kelly Kennedy of Lovington 6-1, 6-4 and Amber Haney of Artesia 6-2, 6-4. She then teamed with second-seeded Nancy Kunkel to beat Lovington's Kennedy and Maxell 6-3, 7-5.

Kunkel won her first match of the day against Brandy McRae of Artesia, 6-2, 6-2. Also joining the winner's circle was Heidi Johnson, defeating Artesia's Dawn Foley in a three-set marathon, 3-6, 6-5, 6-4.

Posting his first win in tournament singles play, Richard Enriquez beat Artesia's Cory Fredrick 6-3, 6-2, then teamed with Aaron Ramos to beat Artesia's Aguilar and Esquibel 6-1, 6-3.

After losing to top-seeded Enriquez Nadal of NMMI 1-6, 1-6 in the opening round, Stallings won the consolation singles, beating Jason Ellis of Artesia easily, 6-1, 6-0.

In other boys' matches, Garcia lost to NMMI's Velingabondi 3-6, 1-6 and to Artesia's Todd McFaddin 2-6, 4-6.

Ramos was defeated by NMMI's Nathan Betts 1-6, 3-6 and by Artesia's Steve Esquibel 6-1, 4-6, 6-6 (tie breaker).

Enriquez was defeated by NMMI's Faben Orno 4-6, 4-6.

Sixth seeded freshman Billy Garcia lost to NMMI's Jim Butler 1-6, 1-6 and Mike Haynes of Artesia 0-6, 3-6.

Also in first round action, Enriquez and Ramos dropped their match against Lovington's Boyd and Tipton 1-6, 3-6.

The duo of Beechie and Allison dropped 0-8, 1-6 to Munoz and Munecas of Artesia and 1-6, 0-6 to Lovington's Fort and Raquel Chavez.

"The entire team did a fine job. They're beginning to get a grip on their mental game. The duo of Stallings and Garcia are particularly awesome together," said Havill.

"Cicelae Makowski demonstrates a pace and self-control that really reflects her senior captaincy on the girls' team. Several of the younger players are improving rapidly, showing that their hard work is paying off," he said.

On Tuesday the Warrior teams hosted Lovington in an exciting afternoon of tennis. The top five seeds on the boys swept the singles competition and earned a 7-2 win against the Wildcats.

Stallings defeated Tipton 7-6 in the tie breaker and 8-1, while Gar-ma defeated Boyd 6-2, 6-3. Hannah Pai, who is just back from a school trip to Mexico, beat Brian Clear 6-0, 6-3. Ramos won his match 6-4, 6-4 and Enriquez was victorious 6-4, 2-6, 6-3. Billy Garcia fell 1-8, 0-6 to Jose Palomo.

In doubles Stallings and Garcialobbered Tipton and Boyd 6-2, 6-3. Pai and Ramos finished their match under failing court lights in a real endurance match, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5. Enriquez and Garcia were defeated 2-6, 1-6.

In the girls competition Havill said the match was close and could have gone either way with several marathon three set games. Makowski continued her sweep that she started Saturday in tournament play by winning 6-4, 6-4.

Kunkel lost to Crutchfield 6-2, 1-6, 3-6, while Ferrari defeated Maxell 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. Johnson was also beaten by her Lovington opponent 3-6, 5-7. Beechie fell 3-6, 3-6 and Corrie Garcia lost 2-6, 1-6.

Makowski and Kunkel teamed up to get the only doubles win, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2. Ferrari and Johnson lost 0-6, 7-5, 0-6, and the Garcia-Beechie team was defeated 6-2, 6-2.

Warriors to qualify at Artesia

Warrior track teams are heading into the home stretch this week as they attempt to qualify for state competition.

The teams will compete in Artesia Friday in their first state qualifying invitational. Athletes with a set time, distance or height at these meets are automatically entered into the state meet. Otherwise athletes must place at the district meet.

If the team members don't qualify on Friday, they have one more meet, the Lovington Invitational on May 1, to hit that magic number that will send them to Albuquerque on May 14 and 15.

Evans shines for West Mesa

Former Ruidoso student athlete Eric Evans has settled into life at West Mesa High School as one of the top hurdlers in the state.

Evans and his teammates were highlighted in an article in Friday's Albuquerque Journal and his coach and teammates have nothing but praise for him. Coach John Herrera said he counts his blessings for Evans who transferred to West Mesa from Ruidoso this fall.

Evans was the state runner-up last spring in the 110-meter high hurdles in class AAA. Now that Evans is a senior he seems to be better than ever with a state and personal best time of 14.49 seconds in the 110, and has his sights set on breaking the state record of 14 flat.

Coach Herrera said in the article he is optimistic that Evans could also win the state 300 intermediate hurdles if he continues to work on his technique. He is convinced Evans is one of the top 10 hurdlers in the nation.

The effect Evans has had on the other West Mesa hurdlers and the team in general has also been a plus, according to Herrera.

"Eric has been the spark that has made all the other runners at West Mesa better," Herrera said in the article. "He's been a blessing."

Evans, with long legs on a 6-foot-1, 160-pound frame, seems to be more naturally talented of the West Mesa hurdlers.

"My body build has a lot to do with my success," Evans said. "And speed has a lot to do with it, too. I think I win a lot of races because of my speed between the hurdles."

Evans said he is already being recruited for track by Colorado and Arizona, and coach Herrera said he could also be a great decathlete because he throws the discus and javelin and also runs cross country.

Braves compete in Hagerman

The Ruidoso Middle School Braves hit the road today to compete in the Hagerman track meet this afternoon.

The group is looking forward to a good performance but will be competing against some very tough schools and athletes. The boys team has been placing in the top three at most of its meets, and the girls have also brought home a few ribbons and medals.

In more results from the Capitan meet on April 3, Althea Palmer took sixth place in the 800-meter run with a time of 3:28.76. Shannon Pillar completed the race in a time of 3:52.7.

Jenny Ritter received third place in the 200-meter dash in a time of 30.06, just two seconds off the winning time. Lisa Reyes crossed the finish line in 31.78.

Dian Drury competed in the discus and had a throw of 46-2. She also had a time of 1:29.26 in the 400-meter dash. Jessica Blaney had a distance of 47-11 in the discus.

Successful recycling program gets mixed reviews from garbage board

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

One minute recycling received a rousing endorsement from members of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority.

The next minute, some members were talking about cutting back on recycling personnel and expenses.

In a summary presented to the board Monday, recycling coordinator Kerry Krumsiek said that after all grant money and earned revenues are subtracted, the program's annual subsidy by the authority will be $40,149.

By running a recycling program, 268 tons of material have been kept out of the landfill the authority uses in Roswell. To dispose of the material at the landfill would have cost about $5,360, he said.

"It doesn't make sense to me to spend $40,000 to save $5,000 since we're in the landfill business," said authority chairman Frank Warth, who cast the lone vote against continuing recycling.

"You have to figure the avoided expense to figure the net cost to the public," said board treasurer Ron Andrews, a Ruidoso village councilor.

"Two hundred and sixty-eight tons equals about three percent of our waste stream and probably would not increase collection costs. It only starts affecting with 10 percent, several cities are seeing that."

Andrews said the estimated $36,000 a year supplement to run the recycling program comes to about $3 a year for each resident.

"In my opinion that's fairly low," he said. Many cities charge $1 per month per customer to cover recycling.

"With the direction society as a whole is going, there's no choice but to recycle if you can keep the cost down to $1-$5 a year," Andrews said. He added that he hasn't seen anything in writing to assure the board that state recycling goals aren't mandatory, something Warth has insisted is the case.

Warth pulled out a book referring to the figure of 25 percent waste stream reduction through recycling as a goal.

"My only point is we can't afford it when we have so many things to do," he said. "Every city in this county is low income except Ruidoso and can't afford $3 a month (to support recycling)."

"That's $3 a year," Andrews corrected him.

"Goals become edicts," said authority vice chairman Ron Wicker, who also is Ruidoso village manager.

"We ought to leave it up to each community to vote whether they want to pay or not. Let the communities tailor the system to their desires. I've been in this type of program before where the state starts you with a 100 percent grant and then starts reducing you down until you're paying for all of it."

Even if some communities voted against recycling, Andrews said, "If 25 percent is the goal, I don't think the state will settle for zero."

"If the state mandates it, they'll have to supply the money. That's why they haven't mandated it," Warth contended.

"They mandate (improvements at a regional sewage treatment plant) and don't supply money on that," Wicker countered.

Andrews also reminded board members that grants have brought $85,000 in recycling equipment to the authority's program.

"I think it's absolutely essential we get a statement from the board whether to continue (recycling) or not," said member Dave Dale. "The returns are not just in dollars and cents. Recycling is our only jewel for public relations."

Noting that the recycling program accounted for about four percent of the authority's total budget, Dale said the good public relations is worth more than that.

He offered a motion to continue recycling and to look for more grants. The motion passed, with all members but Warth voting in the affirmative.

But when member Bill Schwetzmann, a Lincoln County commissioner, noted Krumsiek was proposing to apply for a $32,000 grant for a new baling machine, board members appeared to temper their enthusiasm.

"We're putting in $13,000 toward that grant," Warth said.

Andrews and Krumsiek pointed out the $13,000 wasn't additional money. The first $13,000 spent toward the program in the 1993-94 fiscal year would be considered by the state to be the authority's matching effort, they said. The new baler would double the center's capacity, allowing employees to process goods faster and move more in the market.

"We're already one of the best programs in the state," Krumsiek said. "We're better equipped than most private recyclers. This piece of equipment will keep the manpower down."

"Are we behind in the baling?" Wicker asked.

"By about 60 tons," Krumsiek responded. The horizontal type baler that would be paid for through the grant could complete three bales an hour and keep labor to a minimum, he said.

Wicker asked whether Krumsiek would be willing to cut one employee to get the baler and if enough material is being generated to warrant that type of production capability.

"We need a program where we can do the most with the least," Wicker said.

Member Bill Allen proposed contacting companies to donate bags that would then be handed out to residents to use for recycling.

"I think if we encouraged others to adopt this method, we'd reach 10 percent (of the waste flow)," he said.

"We're in the landfill business," Warth reiterated. "The money we're spending on recycling we need for the landfill business."

Allen replied, "Recycling is part of the landfill business."

"It's not a legal question, it's a moral question," Dale said.

"It will be a moral question if we can't pay for a landfill," Warth retorted.

Carrizozo Mayor Cecilia Kuhnel, an authority member, said diverting recyclable material away from the landfill will prolong its life.

"I agree with Frank about the money, but I also agree that it is a moral issue and that a mandate is just around the corner," she said.

If the members vote and constituents aren't happy, "we'll hear about it," Andrew said.

"We're elected to lead," Schwetzmann said. "If we put (continuing the program) to a vote, why have (an authority)."

Most of the authority members are elected officials from governing board of the cities and Lincoln County, which comprise the coalition.

Authority director Gene Green said the issue is not whether to have a program, but at what level it should operate.

Krumsiek said the Ruidoso-Ruidoso Downs area is the most active, but Carrizozo has been increasing and is ahead of Capitan, where Warth is mayor.

Kuhnel said sometimes residents of Carrizozo are slow to accept change and "I'm astounded they have gotten with this program as fast."

Besides those who drop material in the recycling igloos, 6,000 cars brought items to the recycling center in Ruidoso Downs this year, Krumsiek said.

Roswell city officials consider their program the leader in the state, "but Lincoln County is recycling about three times their per capita amount," Krumsiek said. "They (with a population of 44,000) do 60 tons a month and we (with 12,500) do 25-30 tons a month."

"We've got the enthusiasm and the people are doing it. The material is out there if we want to fund the operation."

The baler would be used to compact aluminum cans, plastic, cardboard and paper.

Authority members asked Krumsiek to come back with information about any restriction on use of the grant money and to find out whether the baler he is using now could be sold if the new one was purchased with the grant.

Andrews told him to examine the possibility of recycling employees taking care of dumpster maintenance at the center on Second Street in Ruidoso Downs during slack time from other duties.

"We would try to absorb with the current staff as much of the dumpster maintenance as possible," he said. "We have $19,000 budgeted for that and we could see what we could save."

Dale said it's possible more grant money will materialize as the Clinton administration settles into place. The board agreed to wait to decide about the new baler until their 1993-94 budget has been figured.

I think that I shall never see...

We at The Ruidoso News love trees. That's why we print our news on 70 percent recycled newsprint. We also recycle the returned newspapers that are picked up on the stands each week. Through an arrangement with the Recycling Center and our newsprint supplier, we deliver "returns" to the center and our supplier purchases that newsprint from the center. And, since we love trees, we invited United New Mexico Bank to join with us to "Paint the town gold" with aspen trees. Our project, where we sold aspen trees at less than we paid for them, resulted in orders for 4,700 trees to be planted in the Ruidoso area this May and June. That many trees will go a long way to keep the air clean and also turn the entire area a brilliant gold during the Aspenfest season each fall. We're doing our part, and on this Earth Day, we at The Ruidoso News want to salute other businesses and organizations that are working to protect the Earth.

"Hands of Healing" is theme for week

Emphasizing that the greatest influence on the environment comes from individuals doing ordinary, thoughtful tasks in their own neighborhoods, the Carrizozo Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation districts are encouraging individuals and groups to join in the nationwide observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week, April 25 through May 2.

These conservation districts, which work throughout the year on soil and water conservation measures, are providing literature, educational material and speakers encouraging individual responsibility and care for natural resources. They're asking schools, camps churches and area leaders to join with them.

The districts are among nearly 6,000 conservation districts nationwide that work with the National Association of Conservation Districts to encourage the wise use of natural resources through the weeklong observance.

The Carrizozo Upper Hondo districts hope Stewardship Week will challenge individuals to being, or to continue, individual conservation actions that heal the area in which they live.

"The fact that you may now run less water to brush your teeth is just as important to our environment as a builder installing sediment control basins in a major development," reads a news release provided by the district.

"Both require individual action — both make a difference."

Materials designed with the 1993 theme, "Hands of Healing," are being distributed.

All schools in Lincoln County have been given "Show Your Care" activity books and posters to give students a better understanding of soil and water conservation.

Churches are encouraged to observe the week by using the youth and adult discussion guide which the districts provide; and some restaurants have requested placemats.

If you would like to know more about Soil and Water Stewardship Week and how you may participate, call the local district offices at 648-2941 or 354-2220.

"And remember, you can make a difference: plant a tree; recycle; conserve water; save soil; compost; use less energy; apply pesticides carefully; reduce consumption; reuse and repair; get involved!"

Join in Earth Day 1993 celebration

by KATHLEEN COTTON
Special to The News

Since the first Earth Day in 1970, April 22, has been a time for people to work together in local communities and around the world on behalf of the environment.

Earth Day was founded by Senator Gaylord Nelson when he saw the need to help people become aware of the importance of the environment.

This year Earth Day will have the participation of 141 different countries, thereby making it the largest observed single event in the world.

The focus for this year's Earth Day is "Working with the earth — honoring indigenous peoples."

Around the globe Earth Day is being observed in a variety of ways.

In war-torn Croatia there will be a 24-hour radio broadcast highlighting the war's effect on the environment.

In Boston, Massachusetts, the Cree and Inuit people will lead 1,000 canoes down the Charles River to a huge Pow Wow being held on Esplanade Park.

Pow Wow planners hope to draw attention to relevant issues and also to develop a mobilization plan.

In Los Angeles, California, Paul McCartney will be introducing Audrey Shenandoah, Clan Grandmother to the Ononandaga Nation, to a sold-out crowd at the Hollywood Bowl, providing a unique opportunity for a Native American perspective on environmental issues.

In Arizona horse riders will ride from Navajo Community College to Black Mesa to call attention to the local effects of uranium mining.

Local awareness is also running high.

The Mescalero Community Health Program will be sponsoring the its annual "Clean-up Week" from April 26 until May 7.

At Ruidoso High School the Biology Department has been reforesting parts of what used to be a dump behind the school.

Through the efforts of a group called "Save the Earth" as well as motivated faculty and students, the school manages a high degree of recycling.

White Mountain Elementary School considers its ongoing "Ecology" programs an important part of its curriculum.

A number of ecology-oriented business people will be convening from 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. at "Desert Sky Health Food Store" to disseminate information about earth issues. Among them will be organic farmer, J. R. Atherton of "Hawkberry Farms" of San Patricio, Barbara Mader of "High Mesa Resource Center," David Duke of "Magic Touch Massage," Rose Abercrombie, an ecology-oriented resident with tips on water conservation and Donna Bassett of "Sky's the Limit," purveyor of natural fabric clothing.

There are a great many small things we can do in our lives that will eventually have a long-term positive impact on the important issues facing us this day.

For instance, when you change from incandescent light bulbs to standard-fixture halogen bulbs, you immediately gain 10 percent more efficiency with a rated life of 3,500 hours.

Recycled paper saves 17 trees and 38 cubic feet of landfill per ton. Choose laundry detergent free of phosphates and chemical additives that eventually find their way into the water table.

For a detailed information kit on what you can do to help, call toll free, (1-800) 934-NATURE.

It's for our children's children's children.

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO GO THROUGH YOUR GARBAGE.

Every week, more than 500,000 trees are used to produce the two-thirds of newspapers that are never recycled.

American consumers and industry throw away enough aluminum to rebuild our entire commercial aircraft every three months.

We throw away enough glass bottles and jars to fill the 1,350-foot twin towers of New York's World Trade Center every two weeks.

We throw away enough iron and steel to continuously supply all the nation's automakers.

The ordinary bag of trash you throw away is slowly becoming a serious problem for everybody. Not only are we running out of resources to make the products we need, but we're running out of places to put what's left over.

Write the Environmental Defense Fund at: 257 Park Avenue South, New York, NY 10010, for a free brochure that will tell you virtually everything you need to know about recycling.

The few minutes you take to learn how to recycle will spare us all a lot of garbage later.

New Mexico Women's clubs dedicate tree

On Earth Day, April 22, at the National Arboretum in Washington D.C. the General Federation of Women's Club and New Mexico Federation of Women's Club will dedicate the Living Christmas Tree, which the State of New Mexico donated to the nation's capitol for Christmas 1991.

A commemorative plaque donated by GFWC/NMFWC will be dedicated at that time, according to Sharlene Glock, NMFWC president.

The plaque will read: "Proudly New Mexicans present to the United States capitol a piece of hope and of love, this blue spruce from Carson National Forest near Taos, New Mexico, it will help light up our state and our nation for a very special Christmas 1991.

"We hope that planting this tree inspires Americans to plant many more trees on this, the centennial of our national forests.

"Plaque donated by General Federation of Women's Clubs New Mexico."

Gary Schiff of Carson National Forest, the original home of the tree, will tell legislators, GFWC members and others attending the ceremony, the fascinating story of the tree's pilgrimage from Taos to the National Arboretum where it now lives.

MESCALERO Apache TRIBE

Dear Reader:

We are pleased to co-sponsor this Earth Day supplement to the Ruidoso News. It was our reverence for that special part of the Earth here in the Sacramento mountains that motivated the Mescalero Apaches to remain on their Homelands. Today, we take our responsibility as guardians of those lands seriously since our 460,000 remaining acres must support future generations of our people — forever. Therefore, we treat our lands with great care and thought for their future.

Headwaters arising on the Mescalero Reservation serve most of Southeastern New Mexico and are highly prized for their purity. Tribal enterprises like Ski Apache and the Inn of the Mountain Gods were designed to preserve the beauty of their natural settings, while minimizing environmental impacts. We manage our cattle herds and forestry operations with the same concern. When you drive across or visit the Mescalero Reservation you can see how we have treated our lands.

They have not been harmed, nor have the lands of our neighbors. To the contrary, the gradual expansion of Ski Apache over the past thirty years and the construction of the Inn of the Mountain Gods have provided economic development opportunities for every community in the region. Eighteen months ago the Mescalero Tribal Council responded to an invitation from the Congress of the United States — an invitation approved by every member of New Mexico's Congressional delegation — to consider the feasibility of hosting a Monitored Retrievable Storage (MRS) facility for the temporary warehousing of spent nuclear fuel from the nation's electric power reactors.

The construction of an MRS will be a mammoth project that could pump billions of dollars into our regional economy. But jobs and money alone will not tempt the Tribal Council into accepting an MRS unless we can satisfy ourselves about safety, health and environmental concerns. Answering these questions is the purpose of the feasibility study process in which we are now engaged. Our trips to nuclear facilities and months of study have led us to the preliminary conclusion that an MRS can be operated safely, that the project may be feasible.

The U. S. Nuclear Waste Negotiator has been authorized by Congress to develop an economic benefits agreement on behalf of all communities which would be impacted by the presence of an MRS. The Mescalero Tribal Council stated very clearly in October of 1991, when it announced it was applying for an MRS feasibility study grant, that it recognized the need to consult with our neighbors and to share any benefits which might eventually be negotiated with the U. S. government. That commitment stands.

Only if we safely and responsibly manage the nation's nuclear wastes, just like all our wastes, even household trash, can we demonstrate genuine respect for the Earth. If you would like more information about the Tribe's feasibility study, please call our MRS information center at 505-871-4837.

Sincerely,

Frederick Paso, Mescalero Apache Tribal Council and MRS Project Manager

How can you help? find out Saturday in Socorro

What do you do with old tires? Make a new house. How do you recycle all those old plastic grocery bags? Make a jump rope.

Those are just two of dozens of demonstrations slated at the Socorro Earth Day celebration on Saturday, April 24. It's the largest recycling celebration in central New Mexico.

The day will begin with a March for Parks to raise money to plant trees around a popular walking spot in Socorro and a non-motorized parade down California Street to Sedillo Park, the site of the day's activities.

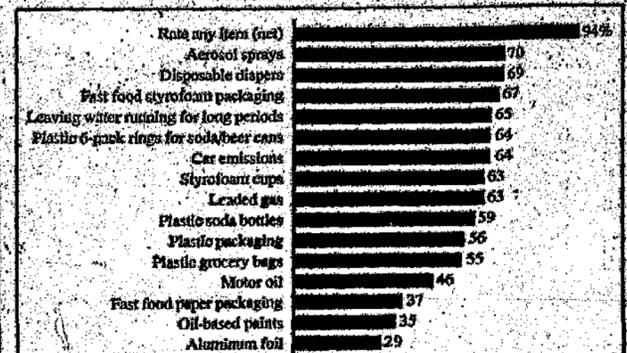

Ronald McDonald will be in the parade and will give his recycling show at 10:30 a.m. The State Museum of Natural History will have other children's activities; and Dusty Roadrunner, the mascot for Keep New Mexico Beautiful, will be in attendance.

The New Mexico Tech solar car, the Zia Roadrunner, will be on display, back from regional trials in Arizona, while dozens of other information booths and food booths will be set up at the park.

The fun starts Saturday, April 24, with the parade and continues all day.

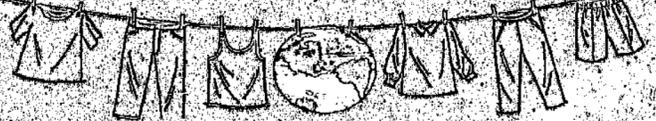

The Earth Day celebration is sponsored by the City of Socorro and the City's Recycling department. For more information, call city hall at 835-0240.

Environmental sixth graders form the Planet Earth Club

by EMILY RUCH

Special to The News
The newest addition to the Ruidoso Middle School is their very own Planet Earth Club (PEC). The PEC was formed in December by Meredith Keston, Sheryl Erhard, Brandy Hill, Chloe Wierwille and Emily Ruch.

Kim Graham, their sponsor, helps in many ways. She keeps things in order and helps them get their projects started. When asked what she thought when she was asked to be the one and only sponsor of the club, she replied, "I didn't think it would be as difficult or as time consuming as it has been. I didn't think it would succeed. It's been a surprise."

The PEC Advisory Council plays an important part in the club. They make almost all of the decisions in the club at their weekly meetings on Wednesday. There they decide what will be discussed at the club meeting the next day.

The PEC has been a club only for a few months but has proved to be very successful. They already have about $800 saved. With this money, they plan to make donations to larger organizations such as the World Wildlife Fund and Greenpeace.

To all the members of the PEC, good luck!

Every day is Earth Day with nuclear energy.

Nuclear energy is America's second-leading source of electricity. Every day, nuclear energy generates one-fifth of America's electricity—enough to light over half the homes in the U.S.

Nuclear energy doesn't emit greenhouse gases. Because nuclear plants generate electricity cleanly, every day nuclear energy helps reduce greenhouse gas emissions from utilities by 20%.

Nuclear energy helps reduce air pollution. Every day, by using nuclear-generated electricity Americans help reduce airborne pollutants by over 19,000 tons.

Nuclear energy helps reduce our dependence on foreign oil. Every day, nuclear energy helps cut our foreign oil use by over 850,000 barrels and reduce our foreign oil payments by $16 million.

If you would like more information about nuclear energy or Monitored Retrievable Storage of used fuel from nuclear power plants, please contact the U.S. Council for Energy Awareness. As the private, non-profit communications association for the commercial nuclear industry, we want to answer any questions you have.

RUIDOSO HIGH SCHOOL 24 CARAT GOLD BAND

Ruidoso High School band brings home a sweepstakes trophy

Ruidoso High School musicians added an award of note to their collections of honors this year at the district band festival Friday at New Mexico State University.

The group of 57 band members earned the New Mexico Music Educators Sweepstakes Award, the highest honor a band can win in the state.

Band instructor Rob Lovett said the group made a division one rating for concert performance and a division one plus rating in the sight reading performance, which is very tough to get.

Ruidoso's band competed against all the schools in the southwestern part of the state including Alamogordo, Mayfield, Las Cruces High, Oñate, Deming, Silver and Gadsden.

Lovett said the Ruidoso band hadn't received the award for five or six years but it seems they are back on track now. The judges gave them wonderful comments on the talented exhibit, he said.

He said Dr. William Clark, chairperson of the music department at NMSU, heard the group and said they are the most improved band in the state.

"We continue to grow and get better each year," Lovett said.

Seniors in the band are James Atchley, Rosa Linda Baeza, Cameron Brown, Jodie Garcia, Sharica Hall, Paula Hightower, Shannon Miller, Josh Norbury, Jarek Ostapowicz, Allison Rhodes, Vanessa Rue, Casey Ward and Stacy Wozny.

Juniors are Jill Bailey, Brandon Bishop, Jeanell Cox, John Estes, Chance Factor, Montana Hisel, Nikki Hoffer Cisco Knox and Jami Mulholland.

Freshmen for the band are Audra Allison, Nancy Corona, Michelle Dominguez, Jennifer Estrada, Cecilia Fuentes, Juan Hernandez, Heidi Johnson, Shawn Knight, Heidi Lopez, Stephani Navon, Julie Phillips, Raechel Rice, Angela Simms, Vada Stillwell, Jason Wilson and Becca Wozny.

Area residents can see the group in action later this spring when it performs in the Fine Art Festival on May 6 and the spring concert on May 13.

New Mexico Indian Gaming Association forms to advocate for member tribes

The Pueblos of Acoma, Isleta, Pojoaque, Sandia, Santa Ana, Tesuque and Taos, and the Jicarilla Apache Tribe have announced the formation of the New Mexico Indian Gaming Association.

After a series of meetings, the tribes have decided that a formal organization could serve the common interests of the tribes that have undertaken gaming as an economic tool to provide funds to replace diminishing federal dollars and to provide employment opportunities.

"There are far too many misconceptions about Indian gaming, many of them negative, which must be put to rest," said Frank Chavez of Sandia Pueblo and spokesman for the association.

The New Mexico Indian Gaming Association was formed as a means to educate the public about the factual basis for Indian gaming and the economic benefits of Indian gaming to the tribes and the state.

The New Mexico Indian Gaming Association will also serve as a forum where regulations and legal issues can be discussed and information exchanged to help each tribe protect the jobs and revenues derived from Indian gaming.

For more information contact Chavez at Sandia Pueblo, 887-5317.

Worshippers gather at St. Anne's Chapel

The Reverend Bob Batton Holds Services at Saint Anne's Chapel

At the services on April 18 at Saint Anne's Chapel, Clencie, the Reverend Robert Batton read from the Gospel according to Saint John, "Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe."

And the Reverend Robert preached an inspiring sermon taken from our Lord's prayer to God in the Garden of Gethsemane.

"Father, not my will but thine be done." Nellie Ruth Jones, in The Prayers of the People, gave thanks for the birthdays of Alden Deyo, Rebecca Echols, Billie Mitchell, M. Jones, Sam MacArthur, Anna Gaddy, Jo Marie Sanchez, Bart Bowen, Jackie Gorbin, Shawna Schreengost, Shirley Stephenson, Sarah Hubbard, Nadine Courson and Lindsey Noltensmeyer.

Also, for the wedding anniversary of Jack and M. Jones.

Happy Birthday to Jo Marie Sanchez

This is being sent to you on April 18 and will reach you on April 22, the birthday of Jo Marie Sanchez. She was born on this date in Ruidoso in 1988 to Sonny and Debbie Sanchez. For a year or two Jo Marie has put out the candles with the help of her mother at the end of the church services. She has been able to recite the Lord's prayer now for more than a year. She attends classes at Shala Cull's preschool at Starlite Cabins.

We wish our good little friend, Jo Marie, many happy return of the day and all God's blessings.

Fourth Calf

On the evening of the seventeenth the three young calves — Princess, April and Friday — were all lying down together by the barn, resting before following their mothers up the hill to the bed ground.

Then about noon on the eighteenth they were all back down grazing alongside their mothers on the field below the barn. After watching them a while, I walked back up to the house; and waiting at the gate was a favorite young cow called Mule Junior, right beside her looking with wide open bright light-brown eyes stood a tiny bright red and white heifer calf.

There is a look of pride in the mother's eyes as she nods toward her new child and also an unmistakable request for a little extra feed. So I pitched her a little hay, and right away the tiny calf began drinking her milk.

A pickup approached from the old road; and the little newcomer, just for the first time out of the safe shelter of the cedars, became startled and went running toward the barn.

It is always amazing to see the great speed of calves only two or three days old, and this year they seem somehow faster on foot than ever. Her mother followed close behind as they raced toward the field below the barn.

Then all the other calves came running toward the little new one who immediately stopped running and began getting acquainted with her little brother and two sisters.

You wonder at the way the new-born calves look after one another. And the answer comes to you.

"The Lord works in mysterious ways his wonders to perform." This calf was born April 16, the birthday of Brother John, so we should name her "Jane."

"Who Has Seen the Wind?"

The last two days would remind you of the childhood rhyme,

Who has seen the wind?
Neither you nor I
But when the trees
Bow down their heads
The wind is passing by."

This is being sent to you in mid-morning of April 19 with the wind straight out of the west, swaying the cedars, playing the wind chord harmonies throughout the branches of the river trees which are answering the call of the wind to bring out their leaves.

This is the second day in a row of high west winds, and the trees show the results. Just in two days the box elders have brought out their first green and amber leaves; the giant willow, cottonwood and Chinese elm are out in bright new green with leaves unusually thick upon the branches this year.

Outside the sun room the sun shines through the leaves on the small apricot tree — not already half size — giving you a rare picture of a tree of green and golden leaves waving in the breeze.

White Sand in the Air

Yesterday on the eighteenth when you looked up the valley to the west, you had the feeling that you could "see the wind." Because all across the valley from hill to hill and up into the sky, the air was filled with what looked like white smoke or mist. This was because of the small particles of and riding on the wind, paying us a visit from White Sands.

Yesterday was the windiest day of the year and the hottest at 90 degrees. Today the wind has calmed down to about half speed, and the sky is clear blue from horizon to horizon.

There is a cool breath today in the wind, which makes the weather perfect for a spring day. The first small flowers have bloomed forth on the lilac clusters, and their fragrance is a fine and welcome message of the joy of spring.

The lilac is a favorite world wide in song and story; the valleys and Ruidoso are fortunate to have many of these spring-time favorites, along with many others.

Let us thank God for the leaves, the blooms and the flowers of spring and all our other many blessings.

Board interviews top 4 candidates

Interviews with four prime candidates to fill the post of Capitan school district superintendent are scheduled today and Friday.

Capitan School Board President Tom Trost said Wednesday that two superintendents and two other administrators will be interviewed at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Thursday and at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Friday.

"All four are really well qualified," he said. "We'll see how the personal interviews go. We are not locked into choosing from these four. We may decide to go back and interview some others."

The applicants selected are:
—Diane Sonnensaker, assistant superintendent for personnel in the Hobbs school district.

—Tim McCoy, superintendent of the Maxwell school district.

—Bruce Hegwer, superintendent of the Melrose school district.

—Daniel Patterson, director of personnel from the Farmington school district.

The Capitan board voted earlier this year not to renew the contract of current superintendent David Lock, who is finishing his second year in the position.

Capitan students take field trip back in time

Capitan fourth graders joined Roswell fourth graders in their annual spring fourth grade Partners in Education (PIE) field trip to historic Lincoln.

Due to a scheduling conflict, the Capitan fourth grades were not able to join other Lincoln County fourth graders in their heritage education field trip March 29 and 30 to Circle Bar Ranch, and they were rescheduled with the Roswell students.

These heritage education field trips are styled Partners in Education endeavors because they involve businesses in support of school activities.

Local Capitan residents and businesses, as well as the Diamond A Cattle Company and Lincoln Heritage Trust, make possible the Capitan field trip.

For the Roswell program, the sponsors are joined by Hondo Oil and Gas Co.

This year the Roswell program sponsors were named the winners of the Historical Society of New Mexico's Ralph Emerson Twitchell Award for a significant contribution to New Mexico history. The recently announced award will be presented April 24 at the Historical Society's Award Banquet in Albuquerque.

Also, new this year to the sponsor group is the Museum of New Mexico Foundation, which awarded a grant to Lincoln State Monument, from which the bus transportation costs to and from Lincoln will be paid. Capitan businesses and contributors will pay the Capitan bus bill.

The spring program in Lincoln complements the South Springs Ranch program presented at the beginning of the school year in September.

The day in the old-time county seat began with a Boyd Barrett one-man presentation, this one a collection of multicultural vignettes, as well as a retelling of the mysterious disappearance of Albert Jennings Fountain.

The classes already had viewed a videotaped performance of Mr. Barrett's "Trouble in Lincoln County" before leaving on the trip.

Group activities followed, including a black powder demonstration, a Billy the Kid escape exercise and a Hispanic Heritage presentation. The finale of the day was dancing by the Nathaniel Chee Sr. Mesalero Apache Dancers.

According to a news release, none of the heritage education programs would be possible without help from numerous organizations and volunteers. Las Espuelas de Plata (Dexter) is the local charro organization. The Lincoln State Monument of the Museum of New Mexico graciously contributes staff and space. Lincoln Pageants and Festivals allows the use of their amphitheater.

Larry Brandy, Capitan, and John Penn, Ruidoso, both black powder demonstrators, are pure volunteers.

The real gainers in this program are the fourth graders.

The purpose of the program is to relate local and regional history in such a manner as to supplement classroom instruction.

Field trips are almost always fun. In an era of tight budgets, they are less frequent than might be desired. These gratis field trips combine learning and fun, surely the best of both worlds.

Capitan students competed against 600 entrants in Star Events from 56 districts across New Mexico.

Bringing home the honors were: —Colinda Whipple with a gold star in the senior division of baked goods.

—Nolan LaRue with a silver in the junior baked goods division.

—Letty LaRue with a silver in artistic decorations.

—the junior parliamentary procedure team, which brought back a silver. Members are Jody Sidwell, Kelli Hester, Amalia Sanchez, Joyce Robbins, Marge Nevarez, Stephanie Hester and B.J. Montoya.

—the senior parliamentary procedure team, which won the gold. Members are Sheryl Dockery, Renee Smith, Michelle McGarvey, Colinda Whipple, Tay LaRue, Wilson LaRue and Rodney Sedillo.

"We want to add a special thanks to the New Mexico Cowbells for the $800 check given to the state FHA to help pay entry fees for students at the national competition in July," LaRue said.

Adult chaperones who also helped with Star Events judging, are JoBeth Vinson, Connie Whipple, Inez Marrs and King, she said.

"With the continued support of the parents, school and community, our FHA will get better and better," LaRue said.

"FHA promotes family, life and student leadership, helping our students grow as they learn to cooperate with each other and take responsibility for their own lives."

Middle school plans mesh

An architectural rendering (in the picture, bottom at left) by Architect +Plus Ltd. shows the student's view of the proposed Capitan middle school. A floor plan (in the picture above) illustrates the 15,500-square-foot school's layout containing seven classrooms, a science laboratory and study room and a computer lab. The third sketch (pictured, top left) depicts the relationship of the new school site to the rest of the existing campus. Voters earlier this year approved $1.3-million for the project. Construction could begin by September and may take nine months to complete the school. The projected finish date is June 1, 1994. Construction costs were estimated at $1,072,950, about $69 a square foot.

Apache Trails is breaking down regional barriers

by KRISTIE SAATMANN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Breaking the barriers between counties to promote a whole region is a concept several groups in the area are working on.

At an Apache Trails meeting Wednesday in Ruidoso, members discussed a new program Otero County is involved with New Mexico State University to do just that.

Kathy Swops, Cloudercroft chamber director, and Ed Way, Alamogordo Space Center director, told the group about a hospitality training they were involved in to learn how to communicate between counties.

The training program is made available through the Rural Economic Development through a tourism grant which is being administered by NMSU and the cooperative extension department. Way said only a few people are involved in the training but they will go back to their communities and train others.

It focused on three areas including visitor contact, which is extremely important. Way said it is the clerks, waiters and stock people who are the most likely to talk to the visitors. They need to know what to say and what there is to do, he said.

"They need to sell the local area and the whole state," he said.

Those who are in contact with visitors need to be prepared to go the extra mile, especially for any problem visitors.

It is also important for people to realize what tourism does for the area and the state. Way said in Alamogordo alone the city earns $12 million in gross receipts from tourism. In the state 48,000 people are employed by tourism.

Way said some people may think Apache Trails, the hospitality trainers and Sun Country are duplicating efforts, but what they do should be a reinforcement of what the others are doing.

"We need to figure ways we can coordinate our efforts," he said.

Joan Bailey of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce said that is why they do a regional calendar of events. It makes more sense to make people aware of what is going on in a whole area, she said.

When the training is complete the Otero County cooperative extension office will be able to set up free workshops for businesses or tourism groups in the county.

"This really looks positive. We are all pulling together in a hands-on way to impact visitors," Way said.

In the reports from individual communities Swops reminded the people about Cloudercroft's Railroad and Logging Day on May 8. Activities will begin at 10 a.m. and will include a barbecue, a miniature train display and a casino night, besides the log splitting contests. Lincoln County Mining Company of Ruidoso will also be there giving demonstrations.

Capitan is still working on plans for the 50th anniversary celebration of Smokey Bear. Kathleen Hellman, coordinator of the event, said they are working on getting events that will survive past 1994 and get the whole county involved.

New events she is working on are a trail ride and a chili cook-off.

In Alamogordo the Sunbird Treasure Fest, in its first year last summer, has been expanded to a year-long promotion, instead of just six weeks. The promotion to get RVer's to come to the area will also get a boost when a map of Lincoln and Otero County and its activities is completed. They hope to accomplish that by the end of the week and get it to local chambers by Saturday.

Participants in the program pick up a passport at locations such as chambers of commerce and they get them stamped at particular events. Although they may not go to all of the events, Way said people need to be made aware that any promotion brings people into the area.

Let's clean up our town

Earth Day and American Home Week both coincide this year with an area-wide cleanup campaign sponsored by the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority and the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The three have a lot in common because cleaning up our homes and towns fits right in with honoring the Earth by caring for its scarce natural resources.

Ruidoso real estate agents take the lead in community projects, and they're doing their part this year during American Home Week to be sure that all Ruidoso area homes are numbered.

"We've got your number," is the name of the Board of Realtors project that will help make houses easier to find, not only for Realtors, but also for emergency response vehicles like ambulances and firetrucks. Stop by the Board of Realtors office at 629 Sudderth Drive to get your free house numbers.

Earth Day, too, begins at home where we can take small steps like conserving water and energy and recycling plastics, glass and aluminum. This old Earth needs to last a long time, and it's up to us to protect it for future generations.

And, of course, the cleanup campaign begins at home; and this weekend is a good time for area residents to clean up their yards and around the dumpsters in their neighborhoods. Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority will have trucks at Free Parking on Sudderth Drive this Saturday and Sunday, and also next weekend, so people can deliver their truckloads of trash to be hauled free to the landfill.

Join in these down home celebrations this week by cleaning up the yard, recycling something and numbering your house.

Reader tries to put nuclear picture in focus

TO THE EDITOR:

It is with sadness that I have been reading of the great fears of members of our American public regarding the "potential" for death and disaster associated with the operation of nuclear power plants and the handling of commercial nuclear waste.

I have not made my feelings in this matter public before, but perhaps the time is appropriate. I know those expressions of fear are most sincere and with good reason.

Over the past 40 years or so, mankind has arranged for the early dispatch from this earth of his fellow man to the tune of about 60 million. The majority of these non-accidents were the result of several wars.

In addition, we have experienced coal mine disasters, which have claimed many lives, also oil and gas fires and explosions, which likewise have resulted in heavy loss of life. There are about 24,000 lives lost every year in this country by violent crimes including many drive-by shootings. I don't have the statistics, but there are also many thousands of lives lost in auto accidents due to the nefarious actions of careless, inattentive or DWI drivers. Each year there are about 60,000 of our children killed or maimed for life just crossing streets trying to get on or off school buses.

It was a sad coincidence of history, that nuclear power was developed during World War II in strictest secrecy along with the nuclear bomb and other nuclear weapons.

In addition, the horrendous forces for death and destruction of the atomic bomb became known to the American Public with the dropping of a couple of such bombs on Japan the same day with the loss of 100,000 or so lives.

There were lives lost in a nuclear power plant in Russia a few years back due to a design fault, which was the only such accident in history. I understand the fault was found during the accident investigation, and the person responsible committed suicide. Under such circumstances, it is no wonder the Public viewed this new type of power with suspicion and fear.

Over the course of history of my quite unsheltered life, I don't recall a single person losing his life in this country in an accident associated with the operation of a nuclear power plant or in the handling of commercial waste! In view of this experience one can understand why I feel able to take in stride the oft mentioned "potential" for death, etc., due to nuclear power accidents!

Actually, according to the record, nuclear power has by far the safest record of any of our electric energy industries, that is compared with our main sources such as coal, oil or gas.

In view of the foregoing, I believe there should be a full-scale Congressional Hearing as to how and why there have been so many delays in the building of nuclear power plants in this country, that has resulted in the waste of billions upon billions of dollars of ratepayer and taxpayer dollars to the extent that nuclear power plants are now just too expensive to build.

The MRS situation should likewise be the subject of a Congressional investigation. I certainly have no qualms about a group of citizens making an honest dollar. However, it does seem mighty strange when our senior United States senator announces a project is dead because no more funds are going to be provided for a study, the procedure seems to enjoy a special mortality of its own and keeps on going. Also, I don't know where "government by the people" comes into play when all of national, state, county and local officials are against a particular proposal along with a great majority of the citizens, but again the activity just keeps sailing on and on!

I have read estimates that it is going to cost $750 billion over the next 10 years just to clean up the nuclear waste dumps around this country. Actually, these estimates ranged from $500 billion to $1.7 trillion! It never ceases to amaze me as to how close some of these experts can come with their estimates, say within a trillion or so! It does not really matter as it is mainly someone else's pocket they are calculating on finding the cash in! Part of the reason for the large spread between estimates is there exists some lack of clarity with regard to policy and strategy and lack of data on the Department of Energy sites! Does this all sound familiar? I wouldn't be at all surprised to learn that after 10 years, the waste is still in place where it was; and the only thing that moved was a huge pile of cash out of our pockets!

Take the WIPP site as an example. This facility has been planning and building for 15 years and should have long since been in operation. However, it now appears discussions are presently going on as to how much waste to use in tests that are to go for the next five years! This is all costing somebody about $14 million per month.

Other nations have been enjoying clean, safe comparatively cheap nuclear energy for up to about 65 percent of their electric energy needs, but we are at the bottom of the list at about 21 percent! At this rate, our country is not going to be able to compete.

Another thing I have been hearing over the years is that "we have no energy policy!" Perhaps having just elected a new administration in Washington for change it might be an appropriate time to establish an energy program!

Meanwhile, in view of the above experiences, I plan to keep any concerns over the "potential" dangers of nuclear power on a back burner and try to enjoy my retirement as best I can amid all the other concerns at large in the world these days.

Don't take chances with fire, cautions writer

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter is to commend the swiftness of response of the Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department, White Mountain Branch.

On Wednesday, April 7, I took a very foolish chance, one more time and disposed of the ashes from my fireplace in a spot outside my rental home. It took four hours for the few hot ashes to ignite and set the entire field next to the cabin on fire.

I had just come into the house about 20 minutes before the outbreak of the fire, and there wasn't even smoke visible. Thank God for some Christian people, as they identified themselves, who were driving by as they immediately told of the fire.

In less than five minutes at least 15 volunteers were here and actively containing the blaze. Fortunately no serious damage was done.

This Volunteer Fire Department was not only very efficient but also very considerate of myself and a friend who was very upset.

I would like to make the local hardware store merchants aware of the desperation I felt when I saw the fire devouring the small pine trees in the field. I had made many trips to purchase a metal garbage can and only been able to find plastic ones.

Needless to say, I spent several hours that same day looking for a metal can and purchasing it.

The point is, I knew better; but I took one more chance, and it nearly cost me my cabin. The fire came within inches of the propane tank and three adjoining cabins and God knows what else.

Beta Sigma Phi chapters celebrate Founder's Day

On Monday, April 26, the four area chapters of Beta Sigma Phi will join with 12,500 chapters of 250,000 members throughout the world, to celebrate Founders' Day.

The annual Founder's Day celebration honors Walter W. Ross, a man who during the Depression, saw a need among the young women he met in his work as a traveling salesman distributing encyclopedias.

Ross believed they needed more in their lives than work, responsibility and hardship, and decided to devote his life to providing them with a social and cultural outlet.

His efforts brought seven young women in Abilene, Kansas, together in 1931, to form that sort of organization.

Beta Sigma Phi met their needs and continues to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of women today. This April 26, Walter Ross will be remembered by this, the largest Greek letter sorority in the world.

Throughout the 62 years of history, the members of Beta Sigma Phi have enjoyed programs for cultural studies and numerous social events. They devote much of their time and effort in service, and this past year raised more than $150,000 in just two months for sorority sisters who suffered losses due to Hurricane Andrew and Iniki. A typical year finds the chapters donating over $3 million directly to local charities, reflecting more than 2,000,000 work hours.

The chapters have created their own international funds, which donate millions to health research groups, hunger projects and other worthwhile causes.

Through Beta Sigma Phi's international loan and scholarship funds, members and their families receive assistance.

Basic to Beta Sigma Phi, however, are the socials for its members.

One of the most important is Founder's Day when the four chapters will meet at Cree Meadows Country Club to celebrate together.

Helen Woodfin is chairperson for the Founder's Day event, and the mistress of ceremonies will be Bonnie Brotherton.

Gay Chrisman has been selected for the honor of presenting the special message from the International Executive Council of Beta Sigma Phi.

Awards will be presented during the evening to outstanding chapter members, recognizing them for their sorority and community work. Some local Beta Sigma Phi projects include meals on wheels, girls state, spelling bees and many benevolent works, such as the food bank.

For further information, contact Bonnie Brotherton at 257-2005, or call Beta Sigma Phi International at (816) 444-6800 in Kansas, Missouri.

Dear Friends and Customers:

In July we will celebrate our third anniversary since reopening in 1990. We want to thank all of our loyal supporters for helping us through those tough first years.

The four of us have decided to take a two-week break for some R & R to prepare for another wonderful, busy summer. We will be closing our dining room from April 13th to April 29th. We sincerely hope that this is not a terrible inconvenience to our regular customers.

Our newly remodeled and expanded lounge will remain open for normal business and if you haven't been by to see it yet, now is an excellent time to come and enjoy yourselves before your busy summer season starts. Since April is typically quiet, you won't have to fight the crowds of the coming months! The guys from our house band, Ricochet, will make your feel right at home.

Once again, thank you all so much for your patronage and we look forward to seeing you on April 30th!

Sincerely,
The Molls
& The Bridges
P.S. Get ready for our "Cinco de Mayo" Party!

Prime time story tellers who competed in the Ruidoso Reading Council's Young Story Teller's contest are (in back from left): Rhannon Alirez from Corona; Tristan Bates, first grade winner from Nob Hill; Shaline Lopez, second grade runner up from Corona; Alison Hendrix from Capitan; Leslie Lock, second grade winner from Capitan; and Randi Gomez from Hondo. In front with ribbons and certificates are: Scott Gossett, third grade champion from White Mountain Elementary; Casey Sisk, first grade runner up from Corona; John Michael Ordorica from Ruidoso; David Miranda from Hondo; and Kalyn Gomez, third grade runner from Hondo.

Telling tales pays off for youngsters

Children from Corona, Capitan, Hondo and Ruidoso took home awards Friday for their talents as story-tellers.

They were part of the Ruidoso Reading Council-sponsored invitational story telling contest for first, second and third graders from Mesalero, Ruidoso, Capitan, Hondo, Carrizozo and Corona.

Contestants selected a favorite story and told it to judges within a three-minute time frame. They were scored on organization, enthusiasm and volume, said event coordinator Betty Ann Bell from Corona.

"Story telling improves listening skills and helps develop communication skills," Bell said. "Storytellers learn to organize their ideas and motivate the listeners to create their own images of the story. This activity stimulates both sides of the brain, because there are no picture cues to help tell the story. It also helps develop sequential memory skills.

"This is the first contest of its kind in our area, and it took the cooperation of many persons to make it a reality."

Winners were Tristan Bates from Nob Hill, first grade champion, and Casey Sisk from Corona as runner up.

Leslie Lock from Capitan won the second grade championship with Shaline Lopez from Corona as runner up.

The third grade champion was Scott Gossett from White Mountain Elementary in Ruidoso and Kalyn Gomez from Hondo was runner up.

The judges for the story telling contest were Paula Davis of El Paso and Ruidoso, Sus Cook and Charlie Cooper of Cloudercroft, Lynn McKenzie of Mesalero and Dixie McGintie and Joan Spencer of Ruidoso.

Contestants from each school were David Miranda, Randi Gomez and Kalyn Gomez of Hondo; Leslie Lock and Alison Hendrix of Capitan; Tristan Bates, Scott Gossett and John Michael Ordorica of Ruidoso; Casey Sisk, Shaline Lopez and Rhannon Alirez of Corona.

Mescalero students could not compete due to a conflict in school activities. Carrizozo also dropped out of the competition.

Each grade level champion received a ribbon and a gift certificate from the Aspen Tree Book Store.

Drama students present play

Don't miss the final play of the season, "Dirty Dealings in Dixie," to be presented by the drama department of Ruidoso High School.

This melodrama will be performed by the Advanced Drama Class and is a spoof of "Gone with the Wind." The two-act play will be presented at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, April 26, and Tuesday, April 27, at the RHS Drama room.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $2 for students. Tickets may be purchased from any advanced drama students and a limited number will be sold at the door.

The drama department has completed this year playing to sell-out crowds for every performance and earned a superior rating at the Drama Festival in Portales in February.

Don't miss this, their final production, and get swept away with "Dirty Dealings in Dixie."

Traveling on four wheels doesn't slow down Lorenzo

by MOLLY WEBER
Special to The News

"Everyone is richer for knowing him," says Paula Papponi, principal of Ruidoso Middle School, about Lorenzo Ontiveras, a sixth-grade student and victim of spina-bifida, a birth defect affecting the lower half of his body.

Ontiveras, however, does not see himself as a victim. He says it is no big deal.

As the 12-year-old sat surrounded by some of his caring and supportive family, the once shy, brown-eyed student who was born in Ruidoso flashed a contagious smile and welcomed this reporter into his circle of love.

Little sister Cristina, a third-grader and brother, Richie, an eighth-grader, along with his mom, Beatriz, happily answered questions about the fun they have together as a family.

Beatriz for the most part has been a full-time mom while dad is employed by Hamburger King.

Their extended family includes her sister and all of her husband's family. She originates from Durango, Mexico; he is from the states.

Richie is Lorenzo's legs, helping him do almost all of the normal things a 12-year-old does. Lorenzo loves the mountains and its wild-life.

"I especially like to see the deer on top of the mountain," says Lorenzo.

"He really likes the animals," his mom agrees. "And they see a lot on their hikes."

Within minutes this reporter found herself smiling, too, which prompted why Lorenzo smiles so much. The wheelchair-bound youth says that his good moods make him smile; and when he smiles, others smile back.

Papponi's statement that this is a brave, delightful child that anyone would want to meet was proving to be very true.

Lorenzo likes the work best about school.

"I like everything about learning, and the teachers make it fun," he states with enthusiasm. He adds that learning will help you have a better future because you will have a better job; and as a result of this, you will have a better life.

At the moment, working on the computer is his favorite subject if he had to pick just one that he likes the best.

"He can do anything he wants to do and be anything he wants to be," emphasizes brother Richie. Both boys state that they want to be boxers when they grow up; but if that does not work out, Richie would like to be a policeman.

Lorenzo sees his future as a businessman — maybe working with computers.

There are no preconceived limitations as to what can or cannot be accomplished, and this principle was formulated early on.

"When he was learning to walk...or trying to, I put some grapes in my hand, just keeping them a bit out of reach," says Beatriz. "I wanted to encourage him to walk."

As she held the grapes across the coffee table, all the while coaxing him to walk toward them, she discovered that the motivation to succeed at getting the grapes was so great that he did walk.

Unfortunately his legs did deteriorate, and now he can stand for only short periods of time on braces because they create bruises. Frequent adjustments do not seem to help and Beatriz believes that the material they are made from is the problem.

LORENZO ONTIVERAS

Lorenzo declares that standing up does give him a good feeling. Since his legs will not work for him, he cites arm-wrestling and upper body strength as his main physical attributes. He even admits to being a bit of a show-off with this talent.

All of this said, of course, while he was smiling.

One wonders how someone who has had eight major surgeries since birth and another one planned for this May at Carrie Tingley Hospital in Albuquerque can stay so upbeat. Many of the surgeries have been extremely painful. The first one was to close the spine where a sack type bulge was protruding.

This involved inserting a metal plate. Then there was a shunt, a channel made surgically to remove fluid from the brain and divert it to Watch this, says Lorenzo Ontiveras as he does a wheely for the photographer. The cheerful young man makes the most of his much needed transportation that gets him around Ruidoso Middle School.

A smiling Lorenzo Ontiveras likes to share his joy in life with everyone he meets. The 12-year-old is a student at Ruidoso Middle School.

his stomach. Numerous surgeries since then focus on realigning his legs and hips. This will be the type of surgery coming up in May which will also include straightening his feet.

"Don't forget that we had to go to St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell to replace my shunt once," Lorenzo volunteers. More surgeries will be in the future, too.

"He just knows that this has to be, and he accepts it. He just goes right on," Beatriz remarks.

This lad does not allow what some would call a handicap to get him down. This is life, so why not deal with it?

He is on the A/B honor roll, received an award for being a champion speller in the fourth grade and last year earned the title of Student of the Year at White Mountain Intermediate School.

He does miss playing basketball and realizes that he will have to wait until he is older to be on a wheelchair basketball team.

In the meantime he babysits younger cousins, works hard at learning and believes the philosophy that he has been taught: "You can do it; you're strong."

This young man, who believes that everyone loves him, may have just learned at an early age what many adults have failed to accept. There are no limitations, just challenges that need to be overcome.
