Capitan school board will meet

A special meeting of the Capitan School Board is set for 7:30 a.m. Tuesday to discuss a track repair project and a request for early graduation by a student. Board members will meet in the school library and then join teachers for a snack on their first full day back in their classrooms. Students will arrive Wednesday morning.

Council sets special meeting, workshop

Ruidoso Village Council has scheduled a workshop for 9 a.m. Tuesday, August 17, in council chambers at Ruidoso Municipal Administrative. In addition to the workshop, councilors have called a special meeting for 10 a.m. Tuesday to deal with regular business. The council's regular meeting, which would have been the last Tuesday in the month, has been canceled because five or six council members will be attending a meeting of the New Mexico Municipal League.

Orientation for Nob Hill Thursday

Orientation for Nob Hill Elementary School first graders is this Thursday, August 19, at the school, with classes to begin on Friday, August 20. Parents and students with last names beginning with the letters A through M should attend orientations at 9 a.m. Thursday, and those with last names beginning with N through Z should attend the 1 p.m. session. Information will be provided on procedure, policies, bus routes and other things first graders need to know. For information, call Nob Hill at 257-9041.

RLT still homeless

Ruidoso Little Theatre is still homeless, and has had to cancel its upcoming production of "Return Engagements." RLT is diligently looking for a place to present its community theater productions. Anyone with any ideas or information on a theater location is asked to call Steve Norbury at 258-3417.

School starts!

School will start this week in Ruidoso, but depending on where a child attends, the first day could be Thursday, Friday or next Monday. Nob Hill Elementary, headed by principal Roger Sowder, will welcome Paula Romero as a new bilingual teacher and several new aides will be joining the staff. Orientation for first grade students is set for 9 a.m. or 1 p.m. Thursday, August 19. Children will not be staying at school that day and parents must attend with them.

When school begins for first graders on Friday, August 20. The bell will ring at 8:05 a.m. and classes will be dismissed at 2:20 p.m. The same times apply for all day kindergarten.

Afternoon kindergarten orientation is set for 12:30 p.m. Thursday, August 19. Morning kindergarten orientation is scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday, August 20.

The first day of school for half day and all day kindergarten students will be Monday, August 23.

Kindergarten registration will be open from 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday, August 17. All students must bring birth certificates and shot records or they will not be allowed to enter school.

At White Mountain Elementary, principal Frank Cannella said he expects about 405 students for the first day of school Friday, up from last year's enrollment of 360.

"Part of that is just the larger class size in first grade," Cannella said. "This is just a guess, but boy, we've been getting a lot of kids registering."

New faces at the school will include Chris Farrington, who is moving over from fourth grade at the intermediate school and will teach third grade. Celeste Cox will be the new music teacher. Deanna Wright will handle the new maximum service special education program with the help of instructional

MainStreet bids come in too high

MainStreet Ruidoso and village officials opened two bids Wednesday for the construction of phase one of the streetscape improvement plan, but both were more than 30 percent above engineer estimates.

D and S Contractors of Santa Teresa, who is currently doing the airport construction project, bid $1.35-million. Silverton Construction of El Paso, Texas, bid $1.68 million.

MainStreet project manager Don Miller said both bids are above the present funding available and deputy village manager Alan Briley will be working out how they will proceed. He said they should be able to make adjustments in time for the work to begin in late September or early October.

Briley said the decision on what they will do must come from the state highway department and the federal highway administration.

"We feel there are a couple of options but we can't act until we get approval from the state and federal departments," he said.

Some options could include rejecting the bids and asking for others, or getting more funds from the state and federal departments. Briley said they may need to change the scope of the project a little to reduce the costs, too.

He said the project does need to get on a fast track because of concerns such as the weather and the tourist season, but the state and federal departments work at a different pace and may not realize the problems of a delay.

Briley said one reason the bids were 30 percent above the engineer's estimate is that the Albuquerque engineering firm is used to dealing with a larger number of contractors and lower prices. Ruidoso is isolated, causing more transportation costs and more expense in setting up a site office, he said.

The highway department has also said Briley that about 90 percent of the bids on its projects have been coming in above the estimates, he said. Briley said there are not many contractors available but there is plenty of money for projects so they can go ahead and raise prices a little.

Miller said four contractors attended a pre-bid conference and the other two may not have bid because it is a very technical project.

"It is not your typical paving and sidewalk project. It is rather extensive and requires a tremendous amount of handwork," Miller said.

Phase one of the streetscape project will cover Sudderth Drive from Fern Street to Country Club Road. Improvements will include widened sidewalks, improved handicap access and better marked cross walks.

MainStreet Ruidoso has also received funding from the state legislature to begin designs on phases two and three, Fern Street to Mechem Drive and Country Club to Carter's Lane.

The MainStreet improvement project had been let out to bid this spring so construction could begin in May but the few submitted were too high. Miller said at the time that there were many projects out for bid and not enough contractors were available. He said they still want to do the construction during the off season for the convenience of the businesses.

The group is receiving state and federal funds to do the project.

White Mountain Intermediate principal Helene Kobelnik said her rough estimate for enrollment on the first day of school Thursday is about 380 students, comparable to last year.

"We've enrolled about 20 new students and will be pushing 400 if everyone shows up," Kobelnik said.

On her staff, Becky Lewis will take over the fourth grade class of Farrington. The new special education teacher and assistant will be shared with the elementary school.

School will begin at 8:15 a.m. and dismiss at 2:45 p.m.

The doors at Ruidoso Middle School will open at 8:07 a.m. Thursday and first period will begin at 8:15 a.m. Dismissal is scheduled for 3:05 p.m.

Principal Paula Papponi said enrollment was sitting at 521 students on Monday morning.

New staff members this year include Jack Nelson as counselor, Rebecca Purser handling a sixth grade class, Becky Austin in eighth grade, Richard Berglund for instructional support (special education), Linda Casler as instructional support aide, Don Romero will teach Spanish and seventh grade language arts, John Fritsch will be discipline coordinator and a choral director will be shared with the high school.

citizens or users of federal lands.

—disqualifying federal permit applicants from obtaining a grazing permit, because of changes in state land grazing leases, is absurd.

—eliminating the animal unit month (measurement) of grazing under suspended non-use classification removes a large number of animals from federal ranges. The change will destroy a significant portion of a public land rancher's assets.

U.S. Congressman Joe Skeen (R-New Mexico), who is a rancher himself, also has denounced the higher grazing fees.

The fee schedule is flawed, he said, "because they're trying to set a market value for a commodity that has no market value. Until we put public lands on the open market and auction off their associated grazing leases, it's ridiculous to try to set a fee based on the so-called market value."

Private grazing land users pay a higher per month cost, but aren't responsible for fencing, water, maintenance, herding, predator control and supplemental feeding, he said.

"The administration claims this fee increase would raise $80-million in its first year of implementation. But I suggest that number is misleading. By pricing federal land out of use, many ranching operations will go out of business.

"This increase would establish a new fee formula that would effectively end grazing on public rangelands, put twice as many cows on the marketplace and lead to overgrazing of private rangelands," Skeen concluded.

U.S. Senator Pete Domenici, (R-New Mexico) was less condemning, but expressed reservations.

He said he was concerned about the government's plan to assume responsibility for stewardship of the public ranching lands, including repairing fences, roads and assuming ownership of water rights. Domenici contended more regional considerations should be given in the formula for rates.

Armstrong said grazing fees for ranchers on Bureau of Land Management (BLM) or U.S. Forest Service land account for 10 percent or less of the cost of bringing cattle to market.

According to BLM official Lee Kessling, the average annual fee paid by ranchers for use of BLM land is $1,400 in New Mexico.

He said the BLM is paid $3.4-million annually by 2,400 ranchers in the state. About one-fourth as many lease U.S. Forest Service land.

Map lines out area ag tours

by KRISTIE SAATMANN

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Wineries and dairies may not be on many chamber of commerce maps of attractions, but they soon could be along with a variety of other agricultural highlights of southern New Mexico.

Representatives of area counties have joined forces under the Rural Economic Development Through Tourism (REDTT) grant program to map out theme trips that wander through their areas, including Lincoln County.

Other counties involved in the project, which is administered through New Mexico State University and the Cooperative Extension Service, are Chaves, Doña Ana, Eddy, Otero, Sierra, DeBaca and Lea.

A map of an agricultural theme tour along the El Camino Real from north of Las Cruces to El Paso, Texas, has already been created through a grant provided through the state economic development department with the support of State Representative Robert Porter.

The tour, called New Mexico's Harvest Trail, will be circulated as a brochure for chambers, convention centers and visitor centers to inform people about potential sites they may want to see. They will also be used as placemats in restaurants to entice diners to look into the agricultural side of southern New Mexico.

The first printing was fairly small to get started and after making any corrections it will be printed again, according to Deana Calhoun, a research assistant in the college of Agriculture and Home Economics at NMSU. She said not every sight was put on the map but it does highlight the variety in the area.

Calhoun said they would also like to put signs up by some agricultural fields along the trail, stating what it is because many people traveling in the area haven't seen some of the crops, such as the chili peppers.

Lincoln County and the others participating in the REDTT program would like to blaze a few trails of their own to increase tourism.

Kathleen Michelena, director of the Ruidoso Civic Events Center and member of the regional planning board, said agriculture is an entirely different concept of tourism that takes tourists off the beaten path. It also takes cooperative extension agents and county home economists into a new way of thinking about what they do.

The agricultural theme tour could also be used by classes in schools for field trips and by wholesalers looking for products they need that are close by, she said. Restaurant chefs may also want to take advantage of area crops for their dishes.

Janet Green, research specialist at the Center for Hospitality and Tourism Studies at NMSU, said Chaves and Eddy counties have preliminarily established a tour called A Drive in the Country, using the agricultural theme. They put out about 500 flyers, but they have no way to measure how successful it was, she said.

Green said she and others at NMSU just offer the technical assistance for the counties to do their projects because she wants the counties to be able to continue when the grant money ends.

The project did receive its final year of funding, $230,000 from the United States Congress, and Green said it is well worth it.

The regional group is also planning other theme tours including natural attractions, space attractions, the old west, such as Billy the Kid, and a golf tour.

At the county level, a task force representing attractions and the county extension office will be using grant money it received to create a Lincoln County map of attractions.

Michelena said the map will line out tours of a designated time, which should assist the visitors in knowing things such as how much gas it will take to get from point to point. She said it will also have tours to meet the needs of tourists who only want to spend an hour or two or those who want to spend a whole week.

David Vigil, a member of the county committee from Lincoln, is creating the map. The group will be requesting funds to help pay for costs from the Ruidoso Lodgers Tax Advisory Board on Tuesday and later from the county advisory board.

Michelena said many locals often take for granted what they have in their area, so one possibility to increase their awareness would be a familiarization tour.

She said all of the tour projects are very exciting because there are so many good ideas to explore. The main purpose in all of the efforts from county to region is to get tourists to stay in an area or in New Mexico for an extra day or two, which will boost the biggest industry in the state.

Green and Calhoun visited Ruidoso Wednesday to tour the Civic Events Center and make plans for the next regional meeting in October during the Governor's Conference on Tourism.

A new tourist trail is being blazed across the southwest to encourage people to stay in New Mexico longer. This agricultural trail map was prepared by the Center for Hospitality and Tourism Studies at New Mexico State University with funding from the New Mexico Department of Economic Development. A Lincoln County committee is planning to prepare an attractions map for this area too.

County commish Spencer tosses his hat in the ring for state office

The first declared candidate for State Public Lands Commissioner says it's time for the people who live and work on the vast plateaus and verdant valleys of New Mexico to be given more of a voice in their management.

Relevant experience in ranching, engineering, oil and gas production would allow him to manage the state's land for a maximum return, while protecting the basic resource, says Stirling T. Spencer.

His experience and his ability to balance competing interests sets him apart from the incumbent, Spencer said during a recent interview with The Ruidoso News.

The two-term Republican Lincoln County commissioner and former chairman announced his candidacy last week. He will spend the next 15 months trying to get his message across to voters. He acknowledged that it's going to be a tough road.

Incumbent Ray Powell Jr. is well connected politically in the New Mexico Democratic Party. Powell was appointed several months ago to fill the vacancy left by Jim Baca, who resigned to head the Bureau of Land Management in Washington D.C. under the Department of the Interior.

STIRLING SPENCER

"I had great problems with the office during the Baca regime and now with the appointment of a pseudo lobbyist with minimal background," Spencer said. "We've had an imbalance due to partisan politics and minority special interest groups."

The actions of the office during the Baca period "were not in the best interests of the citizens of New Mexico in achieving the mandate placed on the commissioner by law," he said.

Taking an extra job at Baca, Spencer said, if elected, he will "stay 100 percent involved with the office in New Mexico and not spend time lobbying for a federal post."

Spencer bristles at the mention of federal regulations and regulating agencies. He already has established a reputation on the county commissioners as a fighter for a local voice in federal decisions affecting local land.

"I feel one thing that has to be done is that I need to maintain the assets of the trust by scrutinizing all federal regulations imposed on all adjacent land or state trust lands," he said.

If the value of the asset is not maintained, the revenue flow will suffer and that will impact the beneficiaries of the state permanent fund, which contributes significantly to the operation of school systems. If the revenue flow is cut, the taxpayers would have to make up the difference, he said.

To prevent a reduction in revenue flow, Spencer said he would look for mechanisms to produce more revenue from land not currently leased.

"I'm not here to provide special treatment to oil and gas, grazing interests or the game department, or anyone else with an option to lease or purchase the land," he said.

"But I'm also not here to prohibit leasing based on unscientific or perceived needs or requirements by special interest groups, usually thought of as environmentalists."

Born in Roswell, the 45-year-old rancher and businessman was raised on a family ranch in Carrizozo.

He attended Santa Rita Parochial School and then public schools in Carrizozo until tenth grade, when he was enrolled at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

He earned a bachelor of science degree in engineering from New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, then worked on projects in El Paso, San Antonio and Houston, Texas. He served as director of research, engineering and manufacturing for Continental Water Systems Inc., developing and marketing water purification systems for industry and research, until he returned to Carrizozo to operate the family ranch.

Since returning to the Bar W, he has served as president of the Carrizozo School Board, as chairman of the Lincoln Historic Board, director of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, director of the National Association of Counties Western Interstates Region and as a county commissioner. Spencer also has been involved in private business ventures including oil and gas production, and is vice chairman of the board of directors of Production Credit Association in Albuquerque.

By creating a stable environment for ranchers and others who lease state land, he will encourage their willingness to invest in the future, Spencer said.

As public land commissioner, he also would sit on other boards that wield power in the state, Spencer said. Most important is the seat on the Permanent Fund Investment Board, which is responsible for ensuring the best return on the earned dollar.

Spencer is divorced and has two children, Stirling Jr., 17, and Christopher, 16. In a press release concerning his announcement, Spencer listed his personal hobbies as flying, fishing and travel.

"I'm my own man and I stand by my own operations and past work," he told The News. "I feel voters deserve a person of my character, who will be responsible for the trust. You can't legislate ethics into a position no matter how many laws are passed. I challenge the voters to scrutinize my ethics and character of all elected officials and candidates."

As part of his prepared statement, Spencer said, "It is the job of the Land Commissioner to provide for a long term stable revenue stream from the state's land resources... and the only way to achieve this is by having a knowledgeable commissioner in office who has a background in the state's resource trust and who will not be misdirected or overly influenced by the federal government or other regulatory agencies or special interest groups in achieving this goal."

"Our schools will suffer and the New Mexico taxpayer will be overburdened if this office is not headed by a knowledgeable, independent man of high character and reason."

He pledged to bring the office of land commissioner to "new heights of efficiency and to steer it away from the political influences of the past."

Abandoned mama dog deserves some TLC

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

She was abandoned with her pups, tied in a yard with no one to feed her. Her "family" moved away and left their friend and her babies behind.

But a concerned neighbor called the Ruidoso impounding officer, who brought the little troupe of brave canines to the Lincoln County Humane Society animal shelter.

Since then Madre has gone well beyond the call of her motherly duty by finishing with her own pups and then accepting three new unweaned puppies brought to the shelter without a mother.

"We all feel that she has earned the right to a good life in the future and want to see her rewarded with a home full of love and appreciation," shelter manager Esther Harper said.

Madre and her pups were brought to the shelter at the beginning of August.

"The neighbor was so concerned that she is sponsoring Madre and her two pups for the cost of their spaying or neutering, which is part of the adoption fee," Harper said.

"The puppies have St. Bernard markings, but Madre is too small to have mated with a large dog. Just looking at photographs, she resembles an Australian Short-Haired Pinscher, but most likely, she's a liberal mix of many breeds, probably including Labrador and beeler somewhere along the line."

Madre is about three years old. She would need to stay with the "adopted" puppies for another two weeks. The ideal situation would be to find an adopter for Madre, who also would foster the pups until they are weaned and they have been given their first round of immunizations.

Madre, the good mother, is about mid-leg in height, warm tan in color and has short hair.

In another part of the shelter are housed two adorable characters found darting back and forth in front of traffic on Mechem near the Pizza Hut restaurant August 5.

Dubbed Bramble and Briar, they apparently are a brother and sister from the same litter. They both have big ears that jut straight out to the side and their tails have been cropped.

About three months old, Bramble has Australian shepherd markings and looks like she may have medium length hair when older. Briar has short hair and is white with multi-color patches.

"They both have sweet puppy dispositions and are hilarious to watch play with those great ears," Harper said.

Still waiting for a home after being featured last week is Chance, the possible border collie pup who nearly drowned and was covered with ticks before being rescued, dipped and bathed.

With some good weather months left this summer and fall, the dogs would welcome visits from volunteers who would take them for walks. It's great exercise for the dogs, but also good for the volunteers. An afternoon walk on weekends or after 1 p.m. weekdays is a good way to keep in shape for both human and canine. It also helps the dogs stay in touch with human attention.

If felines appeal, stop at the cattery and play with the cats or kittens.

Many ways are open to help the abandoned animals, including sponsorships, fostering, donating food or equipment (the staff still would welcome a good book on dogs breeds or an office table), walking, playing or volunteering for the Saturday education outings and puppy patrol at Wal-Mart.

For more information about Madre, Bramble and Briar, call 257-9841 or stop at the shelter.

J Bar J Western Store moves family tradition to Ruidoso

by GARY CAMPBELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer
Ruidoso's newest western store may also be one of Ruidoso's oldest western stores.
How is that possible?

Well, it comes in the form of El Paso transplant J Bar J Western Store.
J Bar J Western Store had been a part of El Paso in some form since 1933 when Lon V. Jones quit his job as a hat cleaner to open Jones Hat Shop.

The elder Jones would make and crease the hats that he sold and clean hats for others.
"He could make anything for anyone," said Jones' son, Jim.

Jones passed the talent on to younger Jones, Jim, and raised him to take over the business.
"I really didn't want to get into the business," said Jones.
But he did.

In 1949, the elder Jones had a stroke and needed some help in the store, so of course Jim Jones helped out.
His father died in 1950, and Jones went together with his mother and opened Jones Western Store, using hats as the focus of the business.
"We put in a western store and from there we just grew," said Jones.

Jones changed several locations over the years until he found his most recent store on Montana Avenue in El Paso.
At the store Jones gained national prominence for his hat creasing skills.

In 1981, Jones was named the National Stetson Retailer of the year. At one point, Jones was asked by Stetson to go to their factory and teach them how to crease the hats.
Jones went to the factory and showed them how to crease about 14 styles. But in the name of mass production, the company had to make molds of the Jones hats. Some of those molds are still in use.

Jones ran the store until about four years ago after he had two open heart surgeries. After the operations, he had decided to retire and head for Ruidoso.

"I wanted to retire but I got tired of just sitting around," said Jim Jones.

Since Jones and his wife had grown accustomed to Ruidoso, they decided it was best to bring the store here instead of moving back to El Paso to run it.

"I bought this land about 10 years ago," said Jones. "I've wanted to move the store for a while, but we just never got around to it."

Now that Jones is here, he wants to make his business a friendly place for people to come to.

"To own a store any more, you have to give personal service," said Jones. "Being in business is much tougher than it used to be."

But, Jones has no plans to give in just because it gets a little tough. J Bar J Western Store is located on Highway 70 West and is open 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Jim Jones is shown in his new shop, J Bar J Western Store, now open on U.S. Highway 70 West. The store is open from 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Santa is on duty at Caldarella's

Santa Claus may not be on his way just yet, but Christmas can still be found year round in Ruidoso.

At Caldarella's Christmas, visitors will find a vast selection of Christmas merchandise to choose from year round.

"I've seen stores like this before, and I liked them," said Peggy Caldarella. "It's not your everyday thing."

Caldarella, who owns similar stores in Las Cruces and El Paso, opened her store in the Four Seasons Mall in May.

Since that time, Caldarella has supplied people with a collection of ornaments taken directly off of one of the many trees in the store.

The ornaments range from hand-made glass creations; Santa ornaments, Angels, Southwest and even Disney designs.

Caldarella says that her clientele come from many different walks of life, including collectors and people wanting to beat the Christmas rush.

"I think a lot of people start early," said Caldarella. "People will come in and find that perfect thing for someone they know."

An up and coming trend that Caldarella sees in her El Paso store is Christmas ornament bridal showers. "It is so the bride and groom will already have ornaments and Christmas stuff for their first Christmas together," said Caldarella.

But whether or not that trend starts in Ruidoso, Caldarella's Christmas store will still be providing a little taste of Christmas to everyone, regardless of the reason.

"I just love Christmas," said Caldarella.

Caldarella's Christmas is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. all week long and is located in the upper level of the Four Seasons Mall.

Join in the big 1993 Jubilee

The annual Christmas Jubilee, a gift and shopping extravaganza featuring only Ruidoso area merchants, will be November 13 and 14, at the Ruidoso Civic Events Center.

This event is sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Greeters to showcase area businesses.

Applications for booth space are available at the Chamber of Commerce or by calling Sally Burkstaller at 258-9220.

Any business licensed in Ruidoso or Ruidoso Downs, including restaurants and snack shops, may participate.

New surgical technique in use at LCMC

The first-ever laparoscopic cholecystectomy in Lincoln County has been performed at Lincoln County Medical Center by Jurgen Rebstock, M.D., the hospital's newest general surgeon.

Laparoscopic cholecystectomy is an advanced surgical technique which allows a surgeon to remove the gallbladder through a tiny incision in the abdomen, according to a press release from LCMC.

"Until recently, gallbladder surgery meant a three- to six-inch incision in the abdomen, several days in the hospital and a recovery period of four to six weeks," said Dr. Rebstock.

"But today, a 'lap choly' patient will generally be out of the hospital within 36 hours and back to work within two weeks," Rebstock said. "And, there is less post-operative pain and minimal scarring," he added.

The release states the reason for the quick recovery is the difference in the incisions. In a traditional gallbladder removal, a large incision is made for the surgeon to reach the organ and to remove it. But in a laparoscopic cholecystectomy procedure, a few keyhole-size punctures are made in the abdomen.

The surgeon passes instruments through other tiny incisions and completes the procedure by watching what the scope displays on a nearby video monitor. The gallbladder is actually removed through an incision made in the belly button.

Much of the equipment used by Dr. Rebstock is also used by other surgeons at LCMC, according to the release.

"We did need to purchase some of the instrumentation for the lap choly and were able to borrow some equipment from Presbyterian Hospital in Albuquerque in order to get Dr. Rebstock started right away," said Valerie Miller, hospital administrator.

Although laparoscopic cholecystectomy is generally an elective procedure, Rebstock's first case at LCMC was an emergency procedure performed on Dr. Rebstock's first day on staff.

"We are fortunate to have brought a very skilled physician with this experience to Lincoln County," Miller said in the release. "This is the future of surgery, as these procedures speed patient recovery and shorten their hospital stay," Miller said.

A shorter hospital stay translates to lower healthcare costs.

Dr. Rebstock points out that although lap choly are more advantageous for the majority of patients, the procedure may not be appropriate for everyone, particularly patients who have a history of extensive abdominal surgery, or those who are extremely obese, the release said.

Sertoma donates to the Red Cross for flood victims

Ruidoso Sertoma Club announced that it has donated $250 to the Lincoln County Chapter of The American Red Cross, with the contribution earmarked to help flood victims in Missouri.

Sertoma's president, Roy Area, is challenging all local and area service clubs to meet or beat that donation.

Full summer warms the mountain lands

Summer is in full tide in the mountain land

This is being sent to you in mid morning of August 12, a day of golden sun, blue sky all around the horizon, and a mountain world turning greener before your very eyes.

You can almost see the grass and mountain herbs grow, responding to the wonderful rains of the past two weeks.

The viney Mesquite grass is already putting on its heads of grain which resemble miniature wild barley. This type of grass is so named because it waits for good rains and then puts outrunners, covering the bare with fast-growing new grass — a great favorite with grazing creatures of the ranches and the wild.

The black gramma, pride and joy of the mountain meadows, mesas, glens and hillsides of New Mexico and all the ranges of the Southwest, is already showing its little purple banners, which a little later will show us purple fields of waving grass tops — the very picture of Nature at its best — a living symbol of prosperity throughout the land, and a source of deep contentment for Mother Earth, and all her creatures.

There is a great surge of extra vitality all through the world of growing things, after an earlier delay during the dry times of late Winter and Spring.

This shows up in the deeper colors of the wild flowers and the favorite flowers of the yard. The Four O'Clocks, beloved world wide, near the front gate have a new brilliance to their crimson blooms which welcome you in early morning and in evening.

The morning and evening primrose shine forth along the wayside in brighter hues of rose pink and sunlight yellow. And the Rocky

by Dan Storm
The Ridge Runner

messengers of early fall, which respond to the abundant rains.

Over near the bridge you may see acorns under the oak tree, along with some leaves and bits of leaf and twig. Some fall by themselves perhaps listening to some message of early fall, and others brought down by squirrels and jays. The acorns on the ground are soon gone carried away by chipmunks, rock squirrels and crows.

Under the giant walnut trees, here are the walnuts in their green covers. Nearby there is a small entrance to an underground squirrel den. His head appears above ground, and out he comes, picks up a walnut in his small hands, runs and dives back into his home.

Along the wayside the first bloom of the Fall Daisies and the golden sun flowers cheer you as you pass by. The sunflowers are the traditional emblems of late summer and early fall; and this year there should be a grand display, because the stalks are growing into giant height. The sunflower seeds are food for many a bird and small animal, and here we see the signs of a banner year for all God's creatures.

Mountain Gilia has come out with its first Scarlet trumpets, while across the fields lavender flowers have turned a rich purple. The air is fragrant with the perfume of many different wild flowers and herbs.

Birds of summer

Out at the front gate from the large cedar tree comes the song the little Nut Hatch — sounding like a cheery tiny human voice. Overhead the crow floats in the blue sky sending down his song of peaceful calm telling us that all is well with the world.

The dove sends down its song of peace and good will; while from over by the small apple trees comes the song of the call of the orange and black Grosbeak, cousin to the Oriole, sounding like the chords strummed on a miniature harp mingled with the notes of a flute.

The Pinon Jays, flying in formation send their bugle notes echoing over the tops of the Pinon and cedar trees, beloved bird voices of our own mountain land.

Hints of fall

Sometimes when summer pick up the pace after lagging behind schedule, it brings on

Great days for all grazing creatures

It is a little before noon now, and cows and calves are under two giant cedar trees, after a morning of feasting, "Lying down in green pastures," the very picture of sweet "Sweet content."

Now the purple clouds are gathering all in the west up toward the mountain, and the thunder speaks in soft and mellow voices, the cows begin grazing on the emerald fields, and all the mountain world rejoices; and we all send up a prayer of thanks to God for glorious mid summer and all our other many blessings.

Intermediate school orients new students with Tuesday meeting

Orientation for fourth grade and new students attending White Mountain Intermediate is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday (August 17) in the school cafeteria.

Parents and students are encouraged to attend.

If students attended Ruidoso schools during the 1992-93 year, they do not need to register. New students who have not already registered, must complete that chore today or Tuesday from 8 a.m. to noon or from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the school.

An immunization record and birth certificate are required for registration. Any information from the prior school would be helpful.

The school is headed by principal Helene Kobelnyk. Linda Autrey is school secretary. The school hours are from 8:15 a.m. to 2:45 p.m.

The supply list for the resource room teachers Daanna Wright and Denise Hawthorne includes 12 #2 pencils, one pair of scissors, two large bottle of Elmer's brand glue, one tote tray or plastic dishpan, two large boxes facial tissues, one 48-count box of crayons, two spiral notebooks, wide ruled and one package of loose leaf paper, wide ruled.

Information on the Intermediate School was left out of The News "Back to School" section inserted in last Thursday's edition, but information and school supply lists for other Ruidoso schools is in that edition.

Ruidoso's complete bus schedule also is published in that special section. Additional copies of that newspaper are still available and may be purchased at The Ruidoso News, 104 Park Avenue.

Special waters means bigger challenge

Although it may take awhile before it rivals horse racing or skiing as the number one activity in the area, fishing is making its way to the top of the list to do for visitors and locals alike.

August has been a good month with the help of the New Mexico Game and Fish officials who recently stocked area fishing sites. Dick Ramsey of Carol's Flies and Jim McGarvey of Western Auto both agree the game and fish department does an excellent job of keeping the area stocked.

McGarvey, who reports to the El Paso Times on the fishing here, said they will likely stock several times before Labor Day so it should be good fishing for the last weekend of summer.

"A lot of people come up here just for the fishing and that is kind of unrecognized right now," he said.

The Mescalero Indian Reservation waters, Mescalero Lake, Eagle Lakes and the Ruidoso river in Upper Canyon, are always good fishing spots, McGarvey said. The Ruidoso river in other areas has also been good.

The best time to go to the lakes and streams in the area is in the early morning and late evenings when the water cools down. Ramsey said trout like water to be 55-60 degrees, but in a recent test he did the water was 72 degrees at Grindstone Reservoir.

"They'll go down low in the water where it is more comfortable," he said.

The Ruidoso River is the hot spot now for fly fishermen, especially after the recent rains.

Fly fishing has become a popular sport since the release of the movie "A River Runs Through It," and the Ruidoso area is second to only the great rivers of Colorado, Idaho and Montana for the activity, according to Ramsey.

"It's a great sport. You don't keep score with fly fishing. Ruidoso is just on the tip of the iceberg as far as fly fishing goes," he said.

Ramsey said one advantage this area has is that people can fish 365 days a year since it is so far south. It is all a matter of "matching the hatch," fishing with a fly that matches those that are hatching naturally in the water.

People also need to remember to fish upstream instead of downstream because the trout are looking for food to come down to them. They can see people trying to fish down stream and will hide or not bite, Ramsey said.

Fly fishing on the Ruidoso River is becoming more fun and challenging because of a project Ramsey and the Sacramento Anglers Club have helped start. A special trout water area has been established through the game and fish department on seven-tenths of a mile of the river, from just above the Ruidoso Downs race track to the village limits of Ruidoso Downs.

The area is posted with signs.

The special requirements for the area are that fishermen only use a single barbless hook with no bait. The limit is two fish per day, and people must stop fishing after they keep two.

"I think 'Fish for Fun' is a better name for it. It is going to give fish a chance to become larger. We want to see more catch and release fishermen," Ramsey said.

"It doesn't deny anyone the right to fish; we just ask that people adhere to the limits," he said.

Ramsey said the game department plans to give it a one-year trial and he hopes after that it will increase the area covered.

The club also plans to put special structures into the waters, with the Army Corps of Engineers' approval, to create holes where the fish can live. Ramsey said in a few years they should see larger two to three pound fish being pulled out of the waters.

Ramsey said he or any of the other members of the angling club would be willing to teach people how to fish in the special water.

David Sanchez of Alamogordo waits for a nibble as he fishes with his grandfather at Grindstone Lake on Friday. Sanchez and other avid fishermen have enjoyed the lakes and streams around Ruidoso all summer.

All American Derby, Ruidoso Thoroughbred trials take off

Multiple stakes winners Deceptively, First Down And Ten and King Khalid head a group of 76 of the nation's top 3-year-old quarter horses entered in trials for the Grade I All American Derby, Thursday.

The ten fastest qualifiers from the eight trial divisions will advance to the $600,000-estimated final which is scheduled for September 6. Each race will be contested at the classic quarter horse distance of 440 yards.

Two trials for the $100,000 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity also highlight Thursday's card. The classy 2-year-olds Set Records and J.D. Slew should be the ones to beat in their respective trials. The first six finishers in each trial advance to the six furlong final which will be run August 28.

Rainbow Derby winner Deceptively kicks off the trial excitement in the first race. The Runaway Winner filly scored an impressive one-length victory in the Grade I $233,000 Rainbow Derby for her third career Grade I triumph. As a 2-year-old, Deceptively captured the Kansas and Rainbow Futurities and is virtually unbeatable over the local racing strip.

The speedy filly is trained by Bruce Bell and has earned nearly $300,000 for owner Roger Knight Jr.

First Down And Ten, winner of the Grade I Kansas Derby and runner-up to Refrigerator in the Grade I World's Championship Classic, is the standout in the fifth division. The son of First Down Dash beat a quality field, which included Deceptively, in the May 31 Kansas for his first career Grade I victory.

First Down And Ten had trouble and finished ninth in the Rainbow Derby, but came back strongly with a win in the World's Championship Classic Trials. In the Aug. 1 final, the Jack Brooks-charge ran a game second behind the tough older gelding Refrigerator. The consistent colt has finished in the money in 16 of 19 starts and earned over $310,000 for owner Homer Garza.

King Khalid won stakes at Bandera Downs and Remington

Park earlier this year and must be respected in the sixth trial. The Jerry Dobbs-trained gelding dominated his foes in the Grade I Heritage Place Derby and the Grade 2 Graham Farms Derby and will make his Ruidoso debut Thursday.

Other familiar names in the trials include Grade I winner Mr Eye Opener along with Royal Down Dash and Super Duper Couper.

Norgor Futurity winner Set Records is the classiest of the 17 horses entered in the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity trials. The Kentucky-bred colt by Sauce Boat who has won his three starts here by a total of 17 lengths, most recently faced the nation's top 2-year-olds in the Grade I Hollywood Juvenile Championship at Hollywood Park.

J.D. Slew is another tough competitor who ran third in The Santa Fe Futurity and also started in the Norgor. Dramatic Blur, winner of the Santa Fe Futurity goes up against Set Records in the first trial.

Racin Vike cruises in $12,400 Higheasterjet 'cap Saturday

The 7-year-old gelding Racin Vike won the Grade III $12,400 Higheasterjet Handicap for the second time in three years with a neck-length triumph over a classy group of older quarter horses, Saturday at Ruidoso Downs.

The Blane Schvaneveldt-charge had a half-length lead at the break, then maintained that margin midway through the 350-yard dash to win under firm hold by jockey Steve Fuller. The time was :17.56, the second fastest clocking for the distance this summer.

"When they kicked it (the gate) I knew it was all over but the picture taking because when he breaks like that he'll run hard for you," said jockey Steve Fuller. "He got away from the gate a half side in front and I never turned my stick over on him."

Fuller previously teamed with Racin Vike to win three derbies on the gelding at Goliad and Lubbock Downs in 1989.

John Stinebaugh, Schvaneveldt's assistant at Ruidoso said Racin Vike was dehydrated when he brought the gelding here from Oklahoma earlier in the summer.

"He came up short in his first out, (a close third place finish in the June 27 Jet Deck Handicap) but he got climatized and came into the race perfect."

Racin Vike also captured the 1991 edition of the Higheasterjet which is named in honor of the 1980 All American Futurity winner and the sixth richest quarter horse in history.

The win was worth $7,440 to owner Charles

Forbes Jr. of Freer, Texas and raised Racin Vike's career bankroll to $178,761. The Texas-bred son of Racin Free has now won 21 of 64 starts.

Rancho Jamul Inc.'s Celadon finished second, a neck in front of the consistent mare Willies Lily. Celadon, from the Fred Danley shedrow, earned $2,728 for his efforts.

Jeff Williams rode the 5-year-old son of Dash For Cash.

The Jann Jones-trainee Willies Lily finished in the money for the 22nd time in 27 career outings and earned $1,240 for owner Betty Spradlin. Willies Lily, a 5-year-old mare by Kipty's Charger, was ridden by Jerry Nicodemus.

The well-bred gelding Oyster Bay layed just off the early pace, then closed late in the final sixteenth to get up for a 1 1/4-length win in the $3,950 allowance co-feature Friday at Ruidoso Downs.

The 3-year-old Florida-bred son of World Appeal broke well from the gate under jockey Glen Murphy, but settled into fifth position along the backstretch in the six furlong sprint.

At the top of the lane, Oyster Bay looked for racing room behind the tiring pacesetters, then swung to the outside under strong urging by Murphy to win driving.

The time was 1:11.4 over a fast track. The Don Farris-trained gelding was sent off the 6-5 favorite in the six-horse field and earned $2,370 for owner R.D. Hubbard.

Practice safety first

"Be careful out there," is the back-to-school advice offered to drivers by Ruidoso Police Chief Richard Swenor.

Children will be waiting for and boarding buses, parents will be dropping their kids off at school and the buses will be rolling from one end of town to the other starting next week. Chief Swenor asks drivers to slow down and watch out for pedestrians, bicyclers, and of course, the buses.

Practice safety first and obey all the rules of the road advises Swenor.

Thought for the day:

"The preservation of a forum in which even insulting, hurtful and outrageous ideas can be expressed is an essential price of our system; without it free speech would be fatally undermined."

—The Washington Post editorial 1992

Policy

The Ruidoso News encourages letters to the editor, especially about local topics and issues.

Each letter must be signed and must include the writer's telephone number and address. The phone number and street or mailing address will not be printed, however the author's hometown will be included.

The telephone number will be used to verify authorship. No letter will be printed without the writer's name.

Libelous letters are not protected by the rules of privilege or fair comment and will not be printed.

Letters of thanks are usually printed in the Classified section under "Card of Thanks." Letters will be edited for spelling and grammar to the extent possible without impairing their flavor or changing their meaning.

Letters may be shortened to fit the space available.

We try, whenever possible, to allow people and/or businesses mentioned in a letter the opportunity to respond, usually in the same or the next edition.

Letters must be original and exclusive to The News. No open letters to public figures, copies of letter or poetry will be printed as a letter to the editor.

Letters dealing with any election or issues involved in an election, are printed in papers published up to the next to the last paper before the election. Letters on elections are not published in the last issue before the election.

If you have questions over the "Letter to the Editor" policy, call Frankie Jarrell at 257-4001.

The News has the right to reject any letter.

Americans losing faith in elected officials

Compare two polls taken this year:
77 percent of New Mexicans say some state legislators are unethical.

78 percent of American say Congress is not doing its job and it's time for a change.

The similarity of the two figures is no coincidence. Most people continue to feel that government, at both the state and the national level, is failing them.

In fact, the percentage of the disenchanting, far from shrinking, is continuing to increase. Look at the figures from two years ago at a comparable stage of the electoral cycle:

63 percent of New Mexicans thought some legislators unethical, 14 percent less than this year.

70 percent of Americans thought Congress needed to be changed, 8 percent less than this year.

Even the relatively modest discontent of 1992 helped to create the biggest changes in Congress and the New Mexico Legislature in modern times, with about one-fifth of Congress and one-fourth of the Legislature turning over.

Granted the changes of 1992 were enlarged by redistricting based on the 1990 Census. But all political signs, from polls to the rise of Ross Perot to the immolation of George Bush, suggest massive, continuing, in fact growing discontent with the governmental status quo.

Perhaps the single most dramatic poll statistic is not any of the above, but rather the degree of confidence voters have in their own elected representatives. In the past, even those voters who condemned Congress and the Legislature still expressed confidence in their own elected representatives.

No more. Now approximately as many people answer yes as no when asked, "Are you own legislators unethical?" The precise figures were 37 percent yes and 40 percent no, a difference made statistically meaningless by the poll's five percent margin of error.

Two years ago only half as many people, 19 percent, said their own state legislators were unethical.

These figures bode ill for incumbents seeking re-election in 1994. Our three congressmen, Senator Jeff Bingaman and all 70 members of the State House of Representatives, as well as the governor and other state officials, are up for elections. So are most county office holders.

Historically, public approval or disapproval of congressmen and legislators has varied widely with the effectiveness of government. With the likes of Bruce King and Bill Clinton stumbling badly in the executive branch in Santa Fe and Washington, it is almost impossible for the legislative branch to look good.

Republicans, in New Mexico and in Washington, are hoping to capitalize on voter discontent, but in both arenas they have failed to put forward the kind of specific and energetic program that could capture the voters' minds, let alone their hearts.

Curiously, only Ross Perot has done so. The more he diminishes himself personally as an intelligent and forthright leader, the more his program of governmental reform seems to catch on with the public.

With the two major parties in seemingly irreparable disarray, the future of his or some other third force cannot be lightly dismissed. Japan, Britain and Italy are seeing the rise of such third forces for similar reasons. Why not the United States?

Upon Reflection

Partisanship stalls the process of governing

Pete Domenici, Joe Skeen and Steve Schiff would do themselves and their constituents a favor by reexamining their lockstep adherence to what seems to be an across-the-board congressional Republican strategy of obstructionism.

New Mexicans have always cut their members of congress a good deal of slack in exercising independent judgment on Capitol Hill.

But in making themselves parties to each and all GOP delaying tactics designed to prevent so much as a House or Senate vote on President Clinton's programs, New Mexico's congressional Republicans give every impression of having sacrificed their independent judgment on the altar of blind partisanship.

For those New Mexicans who take their party politics with a grain of salt — and, given Democrats' statewide registration advantage, Domenici, Skeen and Schiff wouldn't be in congress if a lot didn't — it is not a pretty sign. Indeed it is downright scary.

It is a truism in politics that what goes around, comes around.

And that's why recent GOP House tactics delaying a vote on the president's emergency relief measure for residents of the flooded Midwest ought to make all New Mexicans hope disaster never befalls our state.

The president's relief proposals are hardly unprecedented. They were, with minor exceptions, modeled after emergency formula used throughout the Reagan-Bus years.

But let's not fool ourselves. When, God forbid, a future disaster strikes New Mexico and relief is needed, congressional Democrats from the nations' rain-soaked heartland, will doubtless remember their grief in the summer of '93. Then, sadly, New Mexicans could be made to pay the price for their Republican congressman's past partisan constancy.

By Hal Rhodes Sunmount Syndicate

It is no less probable that Senate Republicans' extravagant use of the filibuster will come back to haunt.

In a democracy where the majority is supposed to rule on matters involving all but our fundamental rights, the filibuster is the most difficult of Senate rules to defend. Stripped of the rhetoric used to justify it, the filibuster is nothing more than a legislative tactic by which a senate minority prevents the majority from voting on a measure which has come to the floor.

Beyond undemocratic, it is the essence of gridlock.

Yet Senate Republicans have made the filibuster, and therefore gridlock, the cornerstone of their legislative strategy at the current session of Congress.

The most recent involves a GOP filibuster precluding a vote on the president's national service program which would allow college students to repay educational grants through various forms of public service.

It was a popular idea when Mr. Clinton advanced it in last fall's campaign. Polls indicate it remains popular. And, by all accounts, a majority of senators are prepared to approve it if given a chance simply to vote.

Nevertheless, Senate Republican leader Bob Dole, backed by a minority of 41 of his GOP colleagues, including Pete Domenici, says he can keep such a vote from every taking place. (Never mind that even his own wife, Elizabeth Dole, strongly supports the national service bill.)

What we are dealing with here is the triumph of unrestrained partisanship at the expense of the public's interest in getting on with the business at hand. Win or lose, get on with it by letting the legislative process proceed!

In a recent conversation, Democratic Senator Jeff Bingaman summarized the frustration of many who have wearied of the obstructionism which has become the Republican trademark in congress.

"We now have filibusters or threats of filibusters on a great deal of legislation which comes to the floor," Bingaman noted. "That not only contributes to the inability of congress to move ahead, it represents a good share of what people are upset about when they express their disgust with gridlock."

Quite conceivably, that too will come back to haunt those who have made themselves instruments of obstructionism.

2. Thank You

I WOULD LIKE TO THANK — the individuals for working so hard on the organizing and coordinating the Ruidoso High School reunion for the years of 1943 to 1963.

These class members did an outstanding job for the rest of the class members, and parents it was a wonderful turn out, and such a joy to attend, it took a lot of hard work to do the job so successful, and it truly was a success, it brought back "kids" from many different states, they all shared memories with each other, and I have never seen so much love showed through the whole time they were together. Thanks again from all of us, class members and parents.

Billie Westall

The Judds — Their Final Concert

Mother-daughter country sensations, The Judds, ended an eight-year chart-topping collaboration with a tearful farewell tour. The Judds — Their Final Concert, the four-hanky final concert of the tour, will be broadcast for the first time this summer as part of public television's August pledge drive.

Proceeds from the final concert went to benefit the American Liver Foundation. Naomi agreed to act as the charity's first celebrity spokesperson after she was diagnosed with chronic active hepatitis, a life-threatening infection that precipitated her retirement from music.

Naomi and Wynonna Judd put out their first record when Wynonna was just 19 years old. Four months later, they had their first number one country single, "Mama He's Crazy." For the next eight years, the pair raked in 14 number one country singles, four Grammys, and a boatload of awards from the music industry. Characterized by the Chicago Tribune as "a mother and daughter team who looked like sisters and sang harmony as only kin can," the two described their relationship as sharing a "psychological umbilical cord." The memories return in this emotional show that serves as a retrospective of their music and career.

The Judds — Their Final Concert will be broadcast Saturday, August 21st at 8:00 p.m. on KENW-TV.

"Chet Atkins" on Austin City Limits

Guitarist extraordinaire and Country Music Hall of Famer Chet Atkins brings his trademark sound to Austin City Limits once again, sharing an hour with special friends and fellow pickers.

Chet Atkins is renowned among musicians and fans alike as a first-class guitarist, ground-breaking performer, and musical pioneer. During a 40-year career, his music progressed from the cutting edge of top-notch country guitar to an eclectic modern style. He blends jazz, pop, country, and new age for a sophisticated sound that transcends labels.

Chet Atkins performs "Folsom Prison," "Sunrise," "Yakety Axe," "Mr. Bojangles," "Blue Angel," "Tahitian Skies," "Cascade," "I Still Can't Say Good-Bye," and "Steel Guitar Rag."

Appearing with Chet are The Cluster Pluckers. This spirited ensemble lives up to its name as its members cluster together, sing beautiful harmony, and pluck the fire out of their instruments.

Austin City Limits "Chet Atkins" will be broadcast Saturday, August 21st at 10:00 p.m. on KENW-TV.
