Community gathers for worship service

The Annual Community Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Lincoln County Ministerial Alliance, will be at 7 p.m. Sunday, November 21, at Gateway Church of Christ.

The Reverend Dr. James H. Rucker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Ruidoso will speak on "To Say Thank You."

A free will offering will be taken at the service which will be used for the Alliance's ministry to transient people.

Football awards to star in banquet

The football awards banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. today (Thursday), November 18, in the cafeteria at Ruidoso High School.

The banquet will be a potluck dinner. There will be no charge for the meal, but head football coach Mike Gaston has asked parents to bring a vegetable or a dessert.

Workers comp staff visit Ruidoso today

New Mexico Workers' Compensation Administration personnel will be in Ruidoso from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. today (Thursday), November 18, at the Ruidoso Civic Center.

They will be available to answer employee and employer questions on workers' compensation and safety problems.

There is no charge for this service and no appointment is necessary.

College office to close for holiday

Classes and the college office of Eastern New Mexico-Ruidoso will be closed Thursday, November 25, through Sunday, November 28, for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Regular classes and office hours will resume on Monday, November 29. The college library at 1400 Sudderth Drive will reopen for student use from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Sunday, November 28.

ENMU-R offers nursing program

Applications are available for the University of New Mexico and Eastern New Mexico University registered nurse-bachelors of nursing program at the Eastern office in Ruidoso.

The degree completion program includes courses delivered by satellite instructional television. At the campuses in Portales and Roswell, both on-campus instructors and instructional television are used.

For more information or to pick up an application, contact Cheri LaCounte or Jim Miller at the Ruidoso instructional center, 1400 Sudderth Drive, or by calling 257-2120.

Capitan talks taxes

The Capitan School Board is expected to approve the special election resolution during its meeting at 7 p.m. tonight. A work session will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the school library.

The board will be asking voters to approve a three-year special two mill property tax for capital improvements and equipment.

Garbage group is cleaning up bills

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Residents who have ignored their garbage collection bills or continue to illegally drop construction debris and other large items in dumpster will be targeted for legal action this month.

"We'll be sending certified notices to about 60 who have never paid a bill since the authority took over," general manager Joe Lewandowski told members of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority Monday.

Some of those 60 may no longer own the property and Lewandowski said he is trying to bring ownership records up to date. But others have refused to pay.

Another 200 residents are not current on their bills and also will be contacted.

Now that the "quiet" season has started, not as much demand is occurring on the routes and more attention can be focused on maximizing the revenues collected by the coalition of the county and its five municipalities.

The owners of several businesses with accounts overdue at the Capitan debris landfill have made arrangements to pay their bills current and pay back amounts in increments.

Stickers have been placed on dumpsters in key areas warning of a $500 fine for illegal dumping and listing a telephone number to call for information about the nearest legal dump site.

Debris is being accepted at the recycling center on Second Street in Ruidoso Downs. Appliances and other large items will be taken there and at the transfer station on Gavilan Canyon in Ruidoso. On the first Saturday of each month, a flatbed also will be stationed at the U.S. 70 dumpster site in Hondo.

"We'll be watching and have arranged for the cooperation of the sheriff's department and others to help catch some of these people," Lewandowski said.

Concerning the financial picture of the authority, he said a $34,908 shortfall in expected operational revenues were on-paper cash figures and will improve as more attention is focused on collection. Expenditures, which are $41,836 over budget at this time, reflect a $50,000 bill owed from last year due to non-payment by the previous manager of some mandatory items such as worker's compensation and state retirement. One of the items is being repaid in periodic payments, instead of all at one time, he said.

"We also had a lot of big dollar repairs on trucks and the compactor," Lewandowski said. The replacement of a cylinder on the compactor will save $8,000 budgeted for hydraulic oil, which was needed before the replacement because of leakage.

The cost of running the routes also will decrease over the next months, because of fewer special pickups and bear runs. Those special runs have cost $34,760 since he

MainStreet project crosses street

by RENITA FREEMAN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A change of plans is in the works for the different phases of the MainStreet construction, according to Don Miller, MainStreet project manager.

"We are going to adjust the phases for MainStreet. We will be starting in front of Casey's Cabins on the north side of Sudderth," Miller said.

"We will continue on the north side of the street, going east. This originally was phases four, five and six," Miller said.

"Then, we will start on the south side of the street at Country Club. This was originally scheduled as phases three, two and one," Miller said.

Miller said the primary reason for the changes is street lighting. Had the project gone the other way, the village would not have been able to maintain any street lighting because all the power comes from the pole in phase one.

This will also allow the contractors to work on the sunny side of the street. It will be better for the contractors to work with concrete on the warmer side of the street,"

Miller plans to notify all the merchants of the changes.

The contractor should have a phase contract schedule at the weekly construction meeting, he added.

One other benefit of the change in order of the phases is, there are fewer merchants involved in phase four.

Weekly construction update meetings are scheduled for 9 a.m. each Friday at the MainStreet offices located at 2537 Sudderth Drive.

Village starting over on airport RFP's

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

More than 200 invitations to lease the Sierra Blanca Airport hangar were mailed out this week, but the Request for Proposal (RFP) appears to have been flawed and didn't meet the state procurement code.

Although the council recommended flexibility in accepting applicants, the RFP sent by the village reads "applicants must be a licensed aircraft mechanic."

That requirement would appear to exclude current lease holder Jim Franklin, or any corporation president who may have licensed aircraft mechanics on staff.

Village attorney John Underwood said he thought the intent of the council was to consider a corporation with an aircraft mechanic or an individual aircraft mechanic as an applicant.

Underwood said if the RFP is confusing, it needs to be rewritten.

According to the procurement code, the legal notice has to be published in a local paper 10 days prior to bid awards. The Ruidoso News published the legal aid on November 15, the sealed proposal was to be received by purchasing agent Terr Ward no later than 5 p.m. Wednesday, November 24.

Underwood, in reference to reasonable length of time as prescribed by the procurement code, said that a plumbing service might only need 10 days to respond, but 30 days would be a more reasonable time for persons considering an investment like a fixed base operation.

Some Texas pilots on the mailing list were receiving the information for the first time in the mail on Tuesday, November 16. That left them only eight days to inspect the hangar property and draft their proposal.

"I doubt that's a sufficient time,"

Chamber of Commerce picks up 97 new members

by RENITA FREEMAN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The results from the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce membership drive are in and team members couldn't be happier.

97 new chamber members were added to the list of 400 existing Chamber of Commerce members.

The membership drive idea originally came from the Distributive Education Club (DECA) at Ruidoso High School, and chamber director Joan Bailey credited the student participation with the drive's overwhelming success.

The drive was officially kicked off with a 7:30 a.m. breakfast Wednesday at K-Bobs. Around 40 people attended the early morning meeting.

A short videotape, made by the DECA students, was shown during the breakfast. The tape, detailing the membership project, was written, composed and edited by the students.

Two teams were formed in friendly competition to scour the village for new Chamber of Commerce members. Each team consisted of town leaders and the DECA students.

The leader of the "Diggers" was Danny Sisson of LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

James "Pickin' Jimmy" Hobbs of the Flying J Wranglers headed up the "Pickers."

As the day progressed, each of the teams called in to the local radio stations with updates on new members. Each new business was given a short spot on the airwaves.

Residents of the village enjoyed listening to the competition between the two teams.

The membership drive that started out with a fun beginning ended the same way. At 4 p.m. the

Lodgers tax board restructures rules & regs

The Lodgers Tax Advisory Board revamped policy Tuesday for expenditures from the lodgers tax fund for special events.

Village clerk Tammie Maddox said the committee will take it to the council on November 30 for approval.

Changes recommended by the board include:

- increasing the limit awarded from $1,500 to $5,000. The match portion, 20 percent for the first year, and dollar for dollar in subsequent years stayed.

- accepting applications for reoccurring profit and non-profit events like Cowboy Symposium, Golden Rally and Christmas Jubilee.

- applicants must submit their applications by June 1 of each year, and submit their applications for payments (reimbursement) within 60 days after the event. All invoices and billings must be submitted at one time. A profit and loss statement must be submitted at one time. The council will not make payments until after the event.

- allowing money to be spent for the official Ruidoso pins, approved and purchased by the village council. That expenditure is not to exceed $5,000 per year.

Underwood said.

Village purchasing department agents published notices in the Albuquerque paper and The Ruidoso News. They also sent the notice to customers of the airport and 26 fixed base operators.

Airport manager Lloyd Wayne sent letters to the airport's customer list, which includes companies like Furrs, Forklift Enterprises, Zia Gas, Midas Muffler and Kirtland Air Force Base. It also includes one person who has been serving time in prison for the past few years.

Underwood said an attempt should be made to advertise to hit the most likely markets.

Nearby cities of Las Cruces, Alamogordo and El Paso were not sent legal ads for publication, according to the purchasing department.

Underwood said the RFP and mailing list never came back to him for review in his capacity as attorney.

During the last council meeting, Wayne pressed for a mechanic replacement at the airport, because he said Franklin's mechanic was moving to Colorado.

A time constraint arose at the regional airport when Franklin failed to renew the hangar lease within 90 days of the termination date, and Wayne neglected to act on a new RFP at that time.

Wayne said the mechanic's last day will be December 1.

Village manager Alan Briley said he intends to send out an amendment to holders of the RFPs, increasing the submission time to a new date in December and also to explain that firms as well as individual aircraft mechanics can submit RFPs.

Briley said he would extend advertising to regional papers such as Roswell, Alamogordo and Las Cruces.

Downs advertises its treasures in section all about the village

by RENITA FREEMAN

Ruidoso News Staff
The world knows about the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Soon, the world will know about the village at the end of the rainbow. The delightful description of Ruidoso Downs was brought out in Monday night's meeting of the Lodgers Tax Board.

Tami Montes, advertising representative from The Ruidoso News, presented proofs to the board for approval of the visitors guides/circulars.

The photograph for the front cover is a breathtaking rainbow ending in the middle of the racetrack.

The photo, taken by Linda Wallace of The News staff, shows the best the Village of Ruidoso Downs has to offer, according to village clerk Leann Weibrecht.

"The rainbow is looking down on the town. We have the track, that's part of what we are, and the houses in the photograph are pretty, too," Weibrecht said.

The guide/circular was approved by unanimous vote.

Joan Bailey, head of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, came before the board to request an extension of a contract for a part-time worker at the chamber offices. The project was originally for $5,800 to be used to pay the salary for a 20-hours-per-week clerk.

The previous contract expired October 1.

In total agreement, the board discussed the merits of a part-time worker in the chamber offices to represent Ruidoso Downs.

"I'm requesting an extension of the contract that expired October 1 which represents 20 hours for a part-time person in the visitors' center at the Chamber of Commerce," Bailey said.

"We have 40 percent of the businesses in Ruidoso Downs represented. We are having a membership drive on Wednesday. For obvious reasons this is valuable to the Chamber of Commerce," Bailey said.

"We hope you feel like it is some of the best money that you have allocated out of the Lodgers Tax funds," Bailey said.

"Not only do we get visitors down here in the Downs but, we also encourage people to call Ruidoso Downs home," Bailey said.

"We are an area Chamber of Commerce. We aren't just the chamber for Ruidoso. We are committed to the area," Bailey said.

"Out of three area attractions, Ski Apache, the racetrack and the Museum of the Horse, Ruidoso Downs has two. For the most part, what people do and where they go is outside of Ruidoso. So, it is totally appropriate that we support the whole area," Bailey said.

A discussion took place between Bailey and the board, that in the past people had lost sight of the fact the two towns were so intertwined.

"It is more to the point to talk about the Ruidoso Valley," Bailey said. "It is great because we are all working together. The county, the Village of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs," Bailey said.

The board members told Bailey that they felt she had done a good job of representing the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

"I feel like I have the best job in town. I don't take this lightly. My main ability is to attract very talented and very dedicated people. When you do great you never do it alone," Bailey said.

Four juveniles arrested, charged with four residential burglaries

Four juveniles are accused of a series of crimes following four residential burglaries on Torreon Loop.

Ruidoso Police received a call shortly after midnight Saturday, November 13, to 102 Torreon Loop where a burglary reportedly was in progress.

According to Ruidoso Police Detective Lanny Maddox, when the officers arrived they found the front door to the residence had been kicked in, but investigators were unable to locate the perpetrators.

Maddox said officers observed a blue and white 1979 Chevrolet C10 pickup truck with New Mexico plates parked in front of the house.

After further investigation, it was found that the suspects had been in the house at the time the officers got the call, but left on foot. Maddox said police canvassed the neighborhood and found that three more homes had been burglarized.

Police ran the plates of the pickup and found the vehicle was registered to Lincoln County Commissioner Minroy Montes, whose son is one of the suspects that was later arrested.

Officers found a television in the back of the pickup, and also observed two wallets on the front seat of the vehicle. Those two contained identification of two of the suspects, Isaac Chavez and Eric Peña.

Subsequently, four arrests were made, but not all four suspects were charged with all burglaries.

Isaac Chavez (DOB 7-10-76) was arrested and charged with one count of breaking and entering, two counts criminal damage to property, one count of residential burglary and one count of larceny over $250.

Vicente Montes (DOB 1-4-77) was arrested and charged with two counts criminal damage to property, one count residential burglary, one count larceny over $250 and one count of breaking and entering.

Robert Gabriel Aguilar (DOB 11-13-76) was arrested and charged with one count residential burglary.

Eric Peña (DOB 10-13-77) was charged with one count breaking and entering, two counts residential burglary, one count criminal damage to property and one count larceny over $250.

All four juveniles suspects were released to their parents.

The next step in cases involving juveniles accused of crimes, is that they go before children's probation officer for a preliminary inquiry.

Then, the officer will make a determination as whether or not the cases will go to court.

Garbage

took over in June.

Authority attorney J. Robert Beauvais also noted that an additional $80,000 in collected environmental gross receipts tax is unexpended and is being set aside for capital improvements. It is not used in the daily operation.

Before that tax becomes obligated next month for repayment of a loan to pay for construction and start-up of a new regional landfill, shared with the Otero authority, outstanding amounts still in the hands of Lincoln membership committees will be collected, Lewandowski said.

Even though through next June the tax money will be paid to Alamogordo to put in a special account until the first principal payment is due on the landfill, it's likely the Lincoln authority will see its money flow back intact, Beauvais said.

Theoretically, we will get enough back from the operation of the landfill that we'll get it back month by month," he said.

Lewandowski recommended the board accept bids from Rust Tractors on heavy equipment for the landfill totalling $893,442. The buy back offers totalling $430,000 are great, he said.

Member Wilton Howell said he found it strange that Rust Tractor, with offices in Albuquerque and El Paso, was the low bidder on all of the five items. He asked whether collecting the buy back was conditional on the two authorities replacing with another piece of equipment from Rust.

Lewandowski said he had verbal assurances from Rust officials that it was not tied to purchasing. Howell said he'd like to see that in writing.

true, he said. "I want it tied down solid and I want it in writing. I don't take anything for granted."

It's written into the bid specifications," Lewandowski said.

I worry about the fine print in the buy back clause," Howell said. "For instance, what's normal wear and tear?"

We can't get that defined," chairman Frank Warth said.

That it could be hard to get (the money), Howell replied.

I don't think Will is asking for anything unreasonable," Beauvais said.

The motion to approve the bids for a track dozer, elevating scraper, articulated compactor, a front end loader and a used water wagon included a directive to the staff to specify in writing the areas the buy back terms and a definition of normal wear and tear.

Beauvais said several bidders didn't meet the specifications and others didn't include a buy back offer. None of the prices were out of line.

Rust was the only company that bid on all the items.

"This is just heavy equipment," Lewandowski said. "The vehicles will be in the next phase."

He noted that as partners with the Otero authority, which includes Alamogordo, Lincoln County officials have the right to inspect the landfill financial books at any time.

Beauvais said he needed to alert the board that because of a lack of diligence by the Sherman and Howard law firm in Denver, which is handling the bond sale, the timing has been moved back from November to December. That may require Alamogordo to use some of its own money to cover interim financing on the landfill construction.

City officials may charge other members interest on the use of its money, Beauvais said. But he recommended requiring the Denver firm to pay the interest since those authorities didn't get clean copies of ordinances and agreements back to the members in time.

The firm is being paid $60,000 for its work on the $3-million plus bond issue.

Yet, we (Beauvais and Alamogordo city attorney Rebecca Ehler) had to write several opinions on which they ended up basing their opinions," Beauvais said. He said Lincoln County officials refused to advertise the ordinance and joint powers agreement until they received clean and final copies "and I don't blame them."

"They (Sherman and Howard) delayed this thing at least a month and I still never received clean copies. Yet they insisted that everything be sent to them to handle."

Lewandowski pointed out that the only reason the two authorities are rushing to complete the landfill by mid-January is because that's the date Alamogordo will lose the use of a Dog Canyon landfill, where it currently dumps garbage.

"They're the ones pushing it so fast," he said. "I don't see us paying interest."

In other business, the board: —heard that a representative of the Eagle Creek Summer Home Association rescheduled his appearance until next month's meeting.

—agreed to a joint meeting with the Otero authority on December 9 to go over the proposed landfill budget and number of employees put together by officials from the city of Alamogordo, which will operate the landfill south of its borders.

—heard that the authority collected $100 from a person who hit a dumpster with his car.

—noted that members Cecilia Kuhnelt from Carrizozo and Ernest Lueras from Corona were absent.

Trio of area promoters attend national tourism convention

Three Ruidoso residents recently returned from the National Tour Association Convention (NTA) in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Frank Potter and Nancy Radziewicz represented "Billy the Kid Country."

Faren Selman represented the Best Western Swiss Chalet at the conference.

The convention is recognized as one of the premier travel events in North America. More than 3,200 delegates attended the annual conference the week of November 7-12.

The convention featured 48 professional development seminars, five sightseeing tours of Atlantic City and the surrounding area and a forum for buying and selling travel services known as a Tour & Travel Exchange.

Buyers and sellers of travel services met to transact business through a computerized system of appointment scheduling. Delegates participated in more than 60,000 business appointments.

Tour companies were offered the opportunity to develop new group tour products and sellers were offered the opportunity to introduce tour companies to their destination and to promote group travel to their area.

According to a news release, NTA is the largest group travel industry association in North America. Membership includes 694 tour companies, tour packages and sell group tour vacations, 2,300 suppliers such as hotels, restaurants, airlines, railroads and sightseeing companies.

NTA also has 800 destination marketing organizations which include state tourism offices, convention and visitors bureau's and chambers of commerce.

teams gathered at the party room at Innsbrook Village. The team, along with family members, that came in last had to cook hot dogs for the winners.

Hobbs' team, "The Pickers," won the bragging rights for the next year.

Everyone came out winners in the friendly contest. Each of the teams had an enjoyable day and loads of fun while working on signing up new members.

The Chamber of Commerce ended the day with close to 500 businesses signed up. The DECA students not only had a great day, two fun-filled meals, but the class received 10 percent of what was collected during the drive to use in future projects.

The membership drive was the first to take place in four or five years, according to Sisson.

Seminar offers help for people who are divorced

Anyone who is divorced or is going through a divorce knows the daily dilemmas that new life includes, and the Gateway Church of Christ recognizes that, too. That's why the church is offering a free divorce adjustment seminar from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, December 4, at the church, 415 Sudderth Drive. Tom Vermillion, minister to singles at Golf Course Road Church of Christ in Midland, Texas, for the past 11 years, will lead the seminar designed to help divorced people understand their feelings and give practical help in coping with issues surrounding divorce.

Vermillion has always had a special concern for singles-again and single parents. According to the news release, he has helped develop an atmosphere of love and acceptance for the divorced at Golf Course Road. "If you are divorced or are going through divorce, we know that you are struggling with pain, self-doubt, confusion, anger and guilt," reads a news release provided by the church. "We know because many of us have been where you are. If you are struggling to adjust to the ending of a marriage and all the losses you have experienced because of that, we would like to help." The Divorce Dilemma will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m., followed by "The Adjustment Journey" from 9 to 10:30 a.m.; and "The Emotions of Divorce" from 10:30 a.m. to noon. After the lunch break, the seminar will continue with "God's Healing for the Divorced" from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and "Children and Divorce" from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. "One of the single most important factors in adjustment is whether or not the individual has a group of caring people in his/her life who accept and support that person during the early days after divorce," said Vermillion, who conducts seminars and workshops throughout the United States on issues relating to singles and singles-again. Traditionally, after Vermillion leads seminars, a support group is formed by those who attend. Such a group is likely to grow out of this seminar. Everyone is welcome to attend this free workshop. Child care will be provided in the building at no charge. To register for the seminar, or to learn more, call the church office at 257-4381 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. each weekday to register.

Instructors go back to school to prepare for '93 ski season

Ski Apache Ski School holds its annual instructor hiring clinic December 4 and 5, at Ski Apache, conditions permitting. Anyone who has not taught previously at Ski Apache must attend this clinic, said Rick Vincent, Ski School Director. Potential instructors must be at least 18 years old, be at least an advanced intermediate skier and possess good "people" skills, said Vincent, who will offer both full- and part-time employment from this clinic. Participants must bring their equipment to the on-slope clinic which will cover the instruction progression as taught by Ski Apache. There is no charge for the two-day clinic but persons interested must make reservations with Vincent by calling 336-4366 Monday through Friday no later than November 29.

Area man's poetry published

Guy Henley of Ruidoso just had an original piece of poetry published in "The Coming of Dawn." According to a news release, this volume is a treasury of today's poetry compiled by the National Library of Poetry. Henley's poem is titled "Night," and the main subject is the unmasking of passion. The National Library of Poetry seeks to discover and encourage poets like Henley by sponsoring contests that are open to the public and by publishing poems in widely distributed hardback volumes. Henley, who says he has been writing for a thousand years, says his favorite subjects are things dealing with beauty, the inspiration of all.

Santa Cops workshop is open

Christmas will be brighter for hundreds of children thanks to Santa Cops. The organization has opened its doors to begin preparation for the Yule season. Santa Cop's workshop is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday to Saturday. Area groups are pitching in to help. Tuesdays the Ruidoso Woman's Club mans the shop. United New Mexico Bank workers help out on Wednesday and The Alrusa Club are helping out on Thursday. Volunteers are needed. Anyone who has a spare hour and would like to put it to good use is welcome to stop by Santa Cops. Help is needed in wrapping according to Freda McSwane Santa Cops coordinator. The workshop is in Pinetree Square beside KBUY radio station at 2818 Sudderth Drive. For more information on Santa cops contact the James McSwane at the Lincoln County Sheriffs office 257-2716.

P&Z OKs dental office in residential

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission approved a request for orthodontist Mike Taylor of Roswell to operate out of a Ruidoso R-1 residence.

During the regular session Monday, village planner Cleatus Richards told the commission that use and frequency of use in the area would be reduced and would be allowed under guidelines of Non-Conforming Uses.

The new dentist office is located on Country Club Drive and was formerly called the Red Door Antiques.

In other business, the board passed:

—a conditional use for Tract Z, Anderson Tracts, requested by Ron Andrews. Andrews will construct a 40- by 56-foot accessory building prior to construction of a principal residential building.

Andrews proposes to use the building for storage, workshop, tackroom and to facilitate home construction by providing storage for building material and tools.

—a variance for the side yard of Dr. and Mrs. T.A. Ritch in the Sleepy Hollow Subdivision.

Village planner Cleatus Richards said an error was discovered in the survey which placed the structure within 8.5 feet of the easterly property line where 10 is required.

—a front yard variance for Sue Taylor of Ruidoso Acres.

Taylor was denied approval for a second open carport for two vehicles which would extend into the Hill Road right of way.

Richards said Taylor's plan for two carports appears to be excessive for development as a matter of convenience.

—an amended commercial site development for B&P Enterprises.

Owner Bill Tiller intends to use a portion of the lower level of the Four Seasons Mall from retail use to restaurant use.

—an amended commercial site development for Paul and Pat Martin in the Navajo Subdivision.

Martin will cover and enclose the deck area to provide year around seating at his restaurant off Eagle Drive.

Richards said seating capacity will not be increased and development is within the required setbacks.

Village returns to traditions for holiday lighting & celebrations

Back to tradition, is the Christmas theme village councilors want to instill in local merchants during the upcoming holidays.

The council met in workshop Tuesday to talk future road construction plans and the need for the village's main thoroughfares to represent the Christmas spirit to visitors during the season.

Mayor Jerry Shaw and the council talked of reinstating the large Christmas tree that welcomed people at the "Y" entrance in the past.

The mayor and council talked of the Parks and Recreation Department's program that will include a tree lighting and Santa Claus in the flesh near the library, and the main business area having more lighting and ornament glitz, representative of a traditional Christmas main street.

Shaw said, with the approaching Thanksgiving holidays, it was imperative that the street and parks department pull out some of the old Christmas decorations, and start hanging them.

Shaw met with chamber of commerce director Joan Bailey Tuesday.

Bailey said the chamber will coordinate the ceremonial Christmas tree lighting at the "Y."

Shaw said parks director Debbie Jo Almaguer already has started making arrangements for a community program in School House Park.

That program will start the Saturday following Thanksgiving, she said.

Shaw said she will talk with MainStreet director Don Miller to spread the word to the local merchants, encouraging them to participate and light up for the holiday season.

The mayor said that the merchants could be helped by the increased decorations, especially during the MainStreet project construction, a main concern for merchants and the mayor and council.

Safety Around Downed Power Lines Is No Mystery.

The key to keeping safe around a downed power line is simple common sense: keep your distance. Downed lines are not necessarily dead lines and can be extremely dangerous. If you see a line that has been downed by an accident or storm, please stay away from it and report it to your local utility or law enforcement office. For more information about power line safety, call or visit your local TNP office.

Lincoln County Democrats meet, hear from candidates

Members of the Lincoln County Democratic Party met last Thursday to attend to party business and to hear from candidates who have announced for the upcoming Democratic primaries which will be conducted in the first part of next year.

As the meeting was being held on Veteran's Day, the veterans in attendance were recognized and a silent prayer was offered.

Fred Hansen, co-chairman of the Lincoln County Democrats, gave a brief synopsis on the new Campaign Reporting Act, which was sponsored by Lincoln County's own State Representative John Underwood.

Hansen highlighted the specific reports necessary for compliance with the new act, which also pertains to county level and higher political contributing.

Local races, as well as school board elections, are not covered.

On hand to deliver stump speeches were Patsy Reinhard of Sogorro and Sam Bregman of Albuquerque.

Reinhard is running again for the 2nd Congressional District seat presently held by Joe Skeen. She is concerned about healthcare reform, but she does not believe that managed care is the solution.

According to a news release, Reinhard expresses a balanced approach to environmental issues.

"1994 is the 'Year of the Woman'," she said.

Bregman, an Albuquerque attorney, is hoping for the opportunity to run as the Democratic Party's candidate for State Land Commissioner.

The land office manages the state trust land, which includes mineral and grazing leases. Eighty-five percent of the fees collected by the land office go toward the funding of public schools.

Bregman says that he is running for the land commissioner's job because he wants to make a difference with an eye toward the future.

According to a news release, he believes that the office presently does not promote New Mexico natural gas enough. He hopes to remedy this while providing more dollars for New Mexico's children.

State Representative Underwood delivered an inspiring speech during which he announced that he is seeking re-election as representative of the 56th district, continued the release.

Underwood is hoping to see highways 70 and 54 improved and made four lanes in areas to promote more tourism to the 56th District. Also he will ask for more emphasis and publicity concerning the cowboy culture that exists in New Mexico, especially in Lincoln County.

Underwood will be going to Santa Fe with these things in mind, always with the idea of helping his own district as well as staying abreast of important state issues, reads the release.

In regular business, it was announced, that Betty McCabe has been appointed to fill the secretary vacancy. The members approved a monetary contribution to Santa Cops and all agreed to volunteer time to that worthy cause.

Cece Griffin, county chairperson, thanked all who attended the meeting. She reported that Lincoln County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley, who was scheduled to speak, was unable to attend the meeting because he was in Corona that night addressing the concerns of that area's residents regarding the proposed Corona Senior Citizens Center.

$90,000 in funds for this purpose were obtained through the efforts of John Underwood during the last legislative session, according to the release.

Griffin reminded everyone that the next meeting of the Lincoln County Democratic Party will be after the holidays, probably in mid-January, in order to attend to business and politics in connection with the preprimaries, which will be held slightly differently next year because of a new state law.

Thumpety-thump-thump, look at Frostie go

The snowfall Monday didn't dampen spirits of many in Ruidoso. Instead of sitting around a cozy fire, a few hardy souls were busy building snowmen. Robyn Lounsbury (far right) started the project. Soon Jay Emberton, three, began helping out. Before long, Judy and Bill Emberton's help was solicited. Frostie the Snowman stands guard in the Upper Canyon. Photo by Renita Freeman.

Cece Griffin, chairperson for the Lincoln County Democrats, is just back from a trip where she visited the Smithsonian. Griffin, pictured here at the New Mexico exhibit at the Smithsonian, said it was a real thrill to walk into that national museum and see a picture taken in Ruidoso (at top) on display there.

Search and Rescue elects new officers

White Mountain Search and Rescue (WMSAR) elected new officers at the direction of training officer David Trevis.

Headley has been a member of WMSAR for three years and is a WMSAR Search and Rescue Field Coordinator, having been trained by the state in managing the search function and as an ICS manager.

She is on the board of directors of the New Mexico Emergency Services Council and chairs the committee on training for that organization. She works for Ruidoso Properties as a real estate agent.

White Mountain Search and Rescue is recognized by the State of New Mexico as having met the requirements under the NM SAR Act.

Other business conducted at the recent meeting included assigning duties to help with the Santa Cops program, critiquing the past three SAR missions and discussing the annual WMSAR musical.

New training classes will start in January 1994.

According to a news release, Weber has instituted an intensive training program which is under the direction of training officer David Trevis.

New officers are Melinda Headley, president; John Liefnick, vice president; Marion Fleck, secretary; and Ed Fleck, treasurer.

New board members elected were Cleston Pritchett, Jim Edwards, Lee Van Pelt and Jack Weber.

Headley replaces Jack Weber who has served two years as president of the organization.

Under Weber's leadership the organization has acquired tax free status from the IRS, received its own emergency radio frequency, acquired two GPS units, increased its membership and published an updated club manual.

The organization has increased its radio and communications network and has a field cellular phone.

According to a news release, Weber has instituted an intensive

Meetings scheduled

Today is meeting day in the Village of Ruidoso.

The Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County's board of director's meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Stroud Building at 1096 Mechem.

EDCLC has had problems making a quorum, and director Karen Kopp has canceled one meeting to accommodate board members.

A series of reports are included on the agenda for today's meeting.

A board of directors meeting for MainStreet Ruidoso is scheduled for 4 p.m. today (Thursday), November 18, in the board room at Ruidoso State Bank at 1710 Sudderth Drive.

A board of trustees meeting for the Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) is scheduled for 6 p.m. today (Thursday), November 18, in the hospital conference room.

Warrior wrestlers begin workouts

by RENITA FREEMAN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Coach Gerald Ames is starting fast and hard. His class members pay attention or they end up flat on their backs in the middle of the floor.

Sometimes they end up sprawled out in the center of the mat even when they are paying attention.

Ames is the wrestling coach for the Ruidoso Warriors.

Wrestling is man's oldest and most challenging sport. The history of wrestling can be traced back 5,000 years. Inscriptions in tombs found in Egypt show many of the maneuvers and moves that are still used in wrestling today.

Ames talked of the rules and regulations in the sport of wrestling.

The season is under way and training is going strong.

"Wrestling is the most difficult of all sports. It takes more discipline, more work. It is just, I feel the hardest sport there is," Ames said.

"We had a 'nine pound workout yesterday.' That is one where a kid comes in weighing 170 pounds and walks out weighing 161 pounds," Ames said.

The coach explained that the weight loss was water and would be regained once the athlete finished practice and had an intake of fluids.

"We have been successful in getting more eighth graders out this year. We have somewhere between nine and 15 kids. It's hard to be exact because they get tired after one day of practice and they don't show up," Ames said.

"Boxing is the only sport that comes close to the intensity you have to have in wrestling," Ames said.

"Cross country may come close, too, with having to run in three and a half miles. But, wrestling has everything you need. It is timed and you fight against an opponent. Like in boxing, you can't lift your arms after the second round because you are so tired," Ames said.

"In wrestling you don't have to take the physical blows. I consider wrestling the greatest sport there is. It is one of the oldest sports, too," Ames said.

"You might remember that in the Bible Jacob did not play one-on-one against the angels, he wrestled them," Ames said.

Abe Lincoln, George Washington and Benjamin Franklin all enjoyed the sport of wrestling, according to the coach.

"I like it because in high school it allows all kids to participate equally. It is done by weight classes," Ames said.

"Wrestling attracts all different kinds of kids. It attracts very bright kids, who like all the moves and the strategies. It attracts straight A students, it also attracts kids who are fighters. So, we really have a funny mix," Ames said.

Weight classes are structured by weight. This class breakdown allows fighters to match skills against an opponent of equal size.

The weight classes are 120 pounds and under, 119 pounds and under, 125 pounds and under, 130 pounds and under, 135 pounds and under, 140 pounds and under, 145 pounds and under, 145 pounds and under, 160 pounds and under, 171 pounds and under, 189 pounds and under and heavy weight over 189 pounds and under 276 pounds.

"We have several different kids in various weight classes that I think are going to do well," Ames said.

"Beau Jarvis is a sophomore. He is going to boom or fail. In the 130-class there is Gunter Johnson. He is tough," Ames said.

"In the 140-class there is David Montero, he's a senior. He is extremely strong. Jason Wilson and Jerry Ramirez are two who will fight it out for the 145-class," Ames said.

The coach talked about some of his team that were in different weight classes. He made a point to say that there were lots of wrestlers in each of the categories and just because he didn't mention some by name that didn't mean they were not good at the sport.

"We have Julian Flores, who wrestled last year and Jose Prieto who is one of the leading qualifiers for state last year. Then, there is Johnny Flores. He is another one of our tough guys, he is a leader," Ames said.

"Victor Cocchiola has shown toughness and that he has what it takes to stick to it. Victor has some experience too," Ames said.

"In the 152-class there is Billy Austin. At the 160-class we have Dylan Carusona. At the 171 weight class we have Matt Bates. He is an interesting character in that he seems to win no matter what," Ames said.

"Sergio Guerrero only weighs 175, and he has to give up 13 to 15 pounds. But, he's good. Then in the heavyweight class we have Eustice Gallarito he hits around 222 to 225 pounds," Ames said.

"We have lots of kids other than the few I mentioned. They are sprinkled all through the weight classes," Ames said.

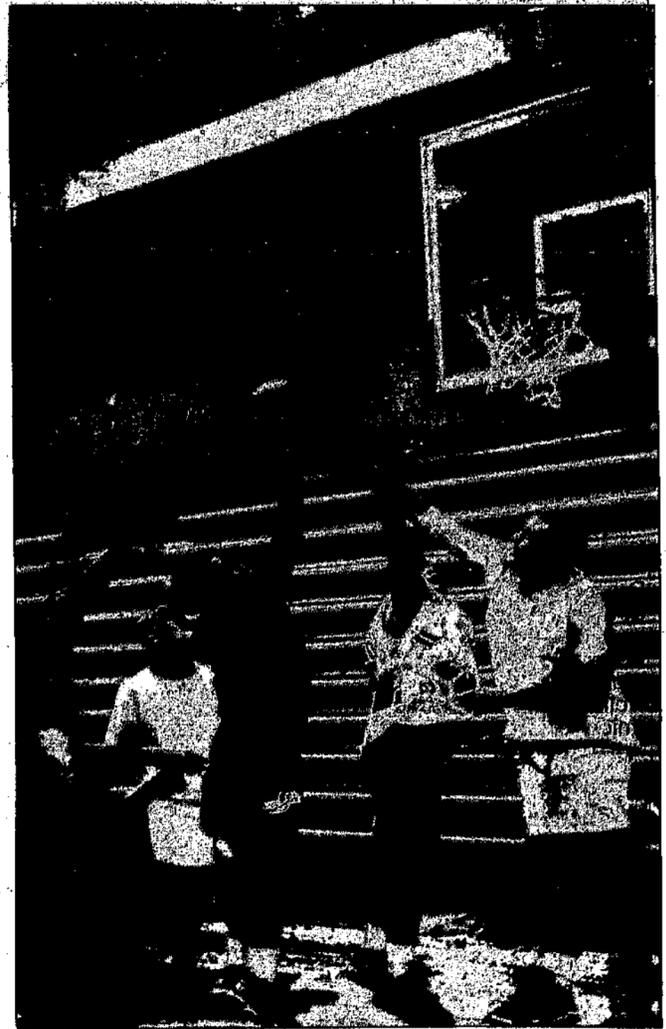

Each week the different weight classes challenge each other for the top positions, according to the coach.

"We have a weekly challenge. If you beat the guy you're up against, then you're the top dude," Ames said.

"We're looking forward to our first match. The other teams are going to have to work hard to beat us," Ames said.

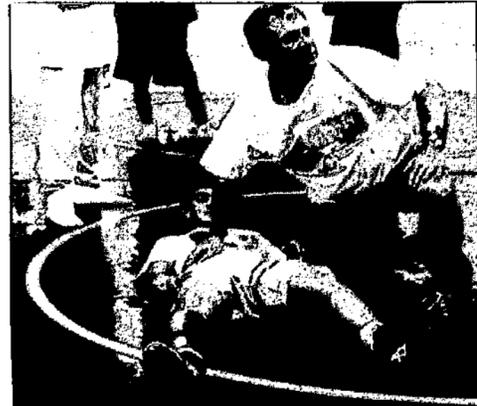

"Our intensity is good and we have good morale. But, our skills aren't to where they need to be for competition," Ames said.

The first match of the season, The Doña Anna Shoot Out, is scheduled for Saturday, November 27, at Mayfield. The team will be competing against Mayfield, Las Cruces and Oñate.

Ready to play

Ruidoso Warrior basketball practice is under way. Each afternoon the team drills on the fundamental skills required for the game. Practice is used to work on sinking shots from around the court and on overall conditioning of the basketball team. The demanding sport requires an athlete to be in top physical shape. Quality Care Preventive Maintenance.

Your car can't take care of itself. There are things you should do to help ensure it runs properly. Here are a few of them:

1. Inspect the brakes every 30,000 miles to help ensure safe stopping ability.
2. Change your oil and oil filter every 3,000 to 7,500 miles (depending on your driving habits) to maintain engine performance.
3. Check coolant, clamps and hoses annually to help prevent overheating.
4. Change spark plugs and tune-up engine every 30,000 miles to help your engine burn fuel efficiently.
5. Check air conditioning system annually for cooling efficiency and to help keep the environment clean.
6. Change air filter every 30,000 miles to help prevent a loss of power.

Of course, the first step is to stop by our dealership for Quality Care Preventive Maintenance. It includes the items listed here and it's expert service performed by Ford-trained Quality Care technicians. We use only genuine Ford or Motorcraft parts. And we do it all at a competitive price.

And the winner is ...

by RENITA FREEMAN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

OK sports fans, the ending to The Ruidoso News football picks turned out to be in keeping with the comedy of errors that has plagued this year's picks.

The winner this week just missed four.

But, the winner must have been in a hurry because he (or she) forgot to put a name and address on the entry form.

For the last football pick there were 28 entries. Three forgot to put their John Henrys down and one poor old lost soul still was running a week behind.

That's all right because the same entry has been behind all year. At least he is consistent.

Out of the 28 entries, "no name" missed four, another one five (one of these was a fourth miss who forgot to sign his name), four missed five, two missed six, 10 missed seven (one here forgot the name also), five missed eight, three missed nine, one missed 12 and one missed 13.

The games that seemed to throw most off were the Goddard versus Roswell for high school and the college game between UCLA and Washington.

In the pro games the misses were scattered. But, the only one that everyone seemed to nail was Miami and the Philly Eagles.

After much deliberation, lots of worry, many mass media mega meetings, excruciating executive sessions and high level think tanks on how to judge the fluky football picks a decision was finally made.

Of course, it all boiled down to the toss of a coin. The winner of the last football contest is....

RHS Warrior cross country runners look good at state

by RENITA FREEMAN
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Three Ruidoso Warrior runners were standouts Saturday November 13, at the state cross country meet in Grants.

The girls three-mile cross country had 107 entries.

Ruidoso's Stephanie Haas placed 15 with a time of 21:14; Bridget Tam placed 30 with a time of 21:53.

In the boys cross country, there were 127 entries.

Warrior Jeff Daniels placed 64 with a time of 19:20.

"I felt like they all did a great job. It was an outstanding performance against very tough competition," cross country coach Ronny Maskew said.

"Stephanie Haas ran the best she has in three years. I was proud of all the team," Maskew said.

Roundballers scrimmage NMMI

by KENT BEATTY
The News Sports Correspondent

With the football season over for the Warriors, all eyes turned to the recently refurbished basketball program Wednesday night as Ruidoso entertained NMMI in a preseason scrimmage at the Warrior gym.

It was the fans first look at first-year head coach Paul Kirkwood's new pressing, fast-breaking style of basketball and the Warriors looked all the better for it. NMMI boasts one of two of the state's best big men and he was certainly on his game on Wednesday.

The two varsity teams scrimmaged four 10-minute quarters with a running clock, with the Colts easily controlling the first quarter. Kirkwood's much shorter Warrior teams were no match for the Institute's size and hot-shooting.

But the second quarter brought out the second teams and the Warriors second five was the better team of the two squads.

In fact, when the starters returned for the third quarter, Ruidoso again out-scored NMMI as the Warrior press started to take its toll on the Colts.

The fourth quarter was similar with Ruidoso out-scoring NMMI via improved shooting and an aggressive defense.

Kirkwood was positive about the team's performance.

"I thought we did OK. We've had so much to learn in just two weeks of practice, we really haven't had time to play any basketball. It's just been drills, and learning the press and the offenses. Once we got a feel for the game we did pretty well," said Kirkwood.

The official varsity season opens with Tularosa on December 3 on the road. The Wildcats bested the Warriors twice last year but fans should expect a far different outcome this time around.

The Warriors will face NMMI again in the first round of the Bruce King Classic in Moriarty on December 9 and again here on January 15 in a regular season game.

Boys JV opens in Hondo Friday

The boys Junior Varsity basketball team opens its season in Hondo Friday in the first round of the Hondo Valley Basketball Tournament against Vaughn's varsity squad.

The JV is mostly sophomores with the exception of junior Zack Turner. Other players expected to see considerable action are Randy Randolph, Byron Soules, John Montero, Matt Norbury and Eric Pena.

Bowlers hot in leagues

Both the Monday night ladies league and the Friday night mixed league were hot this week.

Bowlers were hitting in the pocket and were stringing marks throughout the games.

In Friday night's mixed league bowling team #10, Dan Fender Tire, swept the lanes with high game scratch, high game handicap, high scratch series and high series handicap.

High game scratch was 705 and high team handicap was 865.

High team series scratch was 1906 and high team series was 2386.

Pins were flying in the ladies league with Cindy Sanchez hitting a 219 scratch game. As if to prove the 200 game was not a fluke, Sanchez also had high series scratch of 608.

Men's high game scratch went to Dean Shelby with a 200. Shelby also carried high game series scratch with a 534.

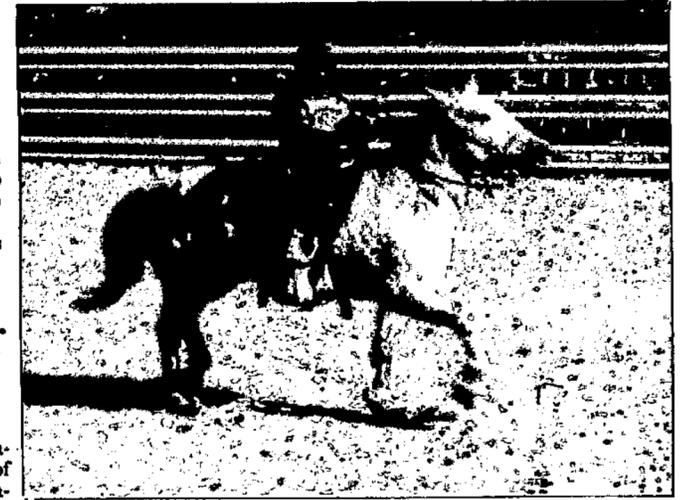

In Monday night's league, team #4, Mitchell's Irish Emeralds, rolled an 814 for high game scratch and a 2336 high team series scratch.

Team #3, B&L Pizza, rolled high game handicap with a 1,038 and had a 2,987 high team series handicap.

Individual high game and high game series went to Wanda Shaw and Trisha Tully.

Shaw rolled high game scratch with 222 and high game handicap with 266. High series handicap also went to Shaw with a 671.

Tully captured high series scratch with a 545.

Mescalero cowboys cheer at '93 Indian rodeo finals

Two Mescalero rodeo performers will be in the audience at the Indian National Finals Rodeo this weekend in Albuquerque.

Percy Platta, who performed as a baraback rider while in high school; and his cousin, Irving Monte, a junior bull rider, will be cheering for the 60 Indian cowboys in the nation.

Platta, a member of the All Indian Rodeo Association of Oklahoma, is the son of Albert Platta of Mescalero. Percy Platta is a member of the Mescalero Hot Shot crew.

Monte attends junior high in Tularosa.

Both Platta and Monte still ride in junior Indian rodeos.

Besides the rodeo events in Albuquerque, this weekend events include a powwow and trade fair.

Play day

Horses and riders had fun at the recent Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse playday at the Beavers arena in Ruidoso Downs. Riders competed in various events during the afternoon event.

CRIMESTOPPERS
"CRIME OF THE WEEK"
Graffiti

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers will pay a $500 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and Magistrate Court Blindover of the person or persons responsible for the graffiti in Ruidoso this past week. Crimestoppers will also pay cash rewards for the recovery of stolen property or the solving of other felony crimes.

Phone 257-4545

A cooperative effort between the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce and the Ruidoso Lincoln County Crimestoppers to deter graffiti from being a part of our mountain scenery is currently underway. This intentional damage to property is not only considered visually unacceptable, but is also costly to the citizens of our community. It has a bearing on our insurance rates, our real estate values, and our village in general. As citizens of Lincoln County, we can deter the impact of this type criminal activity in our community by getting involved, and reporting any suspicious activity to the local law enforcement agency in your area, or by calling Crimestoppers.

The Crimestoppers phone line is manned twenty-four a day, seven days a week, and you do not have to give your name to be eligible for a cash reward. The Crimestoppers phone number is 257-4545. Anyone wishing to call collect, may do so within Lincoln County.

Murder in Lincoln County

McKnight slayings remain a mystery after nine years

by FRANKIE JARRELL
The Ruidoso News Editor

Mystery, intrigue and an unsolved double murder — it's the stuff that adds up to a TV mini-series.

Call it "Murder in Lincoln County."

Nine years ago last Monday, November 15, the bodies of Cotton and Judy McKnight were found in the kitchen floor of their isolated ranch home in Lincoln County.

Before the long, drawn-out investigation was filed away in the "unsolved" category, charges flew back and forth among various law enforcement agencies and assorted family members. Two grand juries were convened, names of suspects were bandied about, the sheriff and DA exchanged accusations and an attempt to take the case out of district court ended in the State Supreme Court.

No arrests were ever made; no charges were ever filed.

The Murders

Only the murderer (or murderers) knows what happened on that evening in November 1984. The only witnesses didn't live to tell any tales.

The bodies of the couple were discovered around 9 a.m. Thursday, November 15, in the kitchen floor of the ranch home. They were found by concerned friends, one of whom had tried unsuccessfully at least twice Wednesday to reach the McKnights.

Lincoln County Undersheriff Charlie Cox told reporters that the front door to the house was locked, but not completely closed, allowing entry to the McKnights' friends.

McKnight had been shot in the chest, and his wife was shot in the back. Cox said both victims were then shot once in the head as they lay on the floor.

The bullets found at the scene appeared to be from a .38-caliber gun.

"It just a cold-blooded thing," said Cox, characterizing the method of killing as execution-style.

Cox described the murder scene as casual in appearance with a bottle of liquor, some glasses and beer cans on the kitchen table. Since there were no signs of forcible entry, and nothing appeared to be disturbed in the remote ranch house, Cox speculated that the killer was a friend or acquaintance of the McKnights.

Mrs. McKnight died with a cigarette in her hand.

McKnight was last seen by neighbors at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 13, and Cox estimated the time of death as late Tuesday afternoon or early Tuesday evening.

The Victims

Thomas "Cotton" McKnight and his wife, Judy, ranched a cattle and sheep operation in the Hondo Valley about 20 miles south of Picacho.

By all accounts, McKnight, who had served two terms as chairman of the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners, was a nice guy, well-liked by many.

Both McKnight and his wife, Judy, had been married before; and both were outgoing and fun-loving, known for their parties on the ranch.

"He liked to have fun, but when there was work to be done, he got right down to it," said John Hightower, another county rancher who served on the commission with McKnight. "You could depend on him," said Hightower in an interview just a day or two after the murder.

McKnight, who had a son who lived in Roswell with the boy's mother and her second husband, had been an unsuccessful candidate in the 1982 Republican primary for District 56 state representative.

McKnight's father, Joe McKnight, who has since died, lived in Roswell; and his brother, Pancho McKnight, lived in the Hondo Valley.

Judy McKnight, born February 17, 1947, in Colorado, was the fifth of 12 children. The family moved several times, and she graduated from Tamales High School in California.

She started, but didn't finish beauty school, attended a California junior college and worked for a time in a convalescent home.

She decided to move, with her eight-year-old son, Randy, to New Mexico to be near her sister Terri Bussey, who lived in Capitan.

Judy and her son lived in Roswell where she worked before marrying McKnight.

Wedding pictures show a happy family gathering, and the family album grew with pictures showing how the family made their ranch home a gathering place for family and friends.

Besides all the people who came and went, the McKnight house became a haven for all kinds of animals. Judy McKnight's mother recalls that love of animals was always one of her daughter's characteristics.

The McKnights and Busseys spent birthdays and holidays together, with the cousins in those families as close as brothers and sisters.

At the time of the murder, Judy McKnight's son (who was 18) shared an apartment with his cousin in Roswell.

Thomas "Cotton" McKnight had a storybook childhood, according to his brother, Pancho.

Cotton was born in Roswell and grew up on the family's "lower" Hondo Valley ranch. He attended Hondo schools and the New Mexico Military Institute.

Along the way, the McKnight boys had an elephant for a pet — just one of many animals they raised on the ranch.

Cotton married his first wife, Vikki, and the couple had a son. Although they made several attempts to make their marriage work, they finally divorced.

After marrying Judy, Cotton McKnight settled into ranch life, but McKnight had a strong interest in politics. His last conversation with his brother, Pancho, was about politics.

"He called and asked me to vote for Tom Sullivan," said Pancho McKnight.

McKnight's own choice

Cotton McKnight might have found it interesting that his choice for re-election as sheriff, Tom Sullivan was drawn into a legal morass over investigating McKnight's murder.

That case is blamed for Sullivan's loss at the polls in his bid for re-election.

The unsolved double murder has damaged countless lives.

Before the investigation faded into the past, many of the members of the two victims' families were torn apart by suspicion and accusations.

In 1987, long after law enforcement officers had given up on solving this case, Joe McKnight made one last-ditch effort to find out who killed his son when he advertised a $5,000 reward for any information on the killings.

The elder McKnight died without having the mystery of his son's death solved.

The Investigation

Family members came under close scrutiny during the murder investigation.

Fingerprints revealed through the use of a laser process were delivered in person to the FBI in Washington D.C. to be analyzed. But six weeks later, the results still weren't available and the case was stalled.

Handguns recovered from friends of the murdered couple were sent to the Texas Department of Public Safety ballistics laboratory. Results took months, and then they were inconclusive.

Rumors led to published reports in the El Paso Times in April 1985, saying the sheriff had nailed down a motive and had new leads in the case, but Sheriff Tom Sullivan denied any such happenings.

By that time Sullivan, deputy Cox, the New Mexico State Police investigators and new District Attorney James Weldon (he was sworn into office on January 1, 1985) were in a disagreement over the direction of the investigation and the case in general.

The DA appointed himself spokesman for the case, and Sullivan referred questions to Weldon.

"Because of ... erroneous information, I felt we had to have one source of information, and since I am the chief law enforcement officer for the district, I made myself responsible for ensuring that the information given to the press, if any, is correct," Weldon was quoted as saying.

In July, eight months after the couple was found dead, Sheriff Tom Sullivan said his office was pretty sure who killed them.

"There's just not enough physical evidence," he said.

And what evidence there was, the DA found suspect, calling it "well-tainted."

The Family

Judy McKnight's sister, Terri Bussey, and Cotton McKnight's brother, Donald Frank "Pancho" McKnight, finally tired of waiting, and in August 1985, filed a petition calling for a grand jury to review the evidence in the case.

Sheriff Sullivan, in August, presented evidence to the DA and asked for an arrest warrant, but Weldon refused.

Weldon called a news conference in Lincoln County to announce that nobody could force him to act, and he wasn't taking this case to a grand jury, nor would he issue an arrest warrant.

Weldon was critical of the Sheriff's Department, saying at least 20 people, including two suspects had access to the murder scene in the early hours of the investigation.

DA Weldon said he had pursued an independent investigation that led him in a different direction than the one taken by the sheriff.

Joe McKnight was at Weldon's news conference to compliment him on his investigation and to wonder why the New Mexico State Police were called off the case.

The elder McKnight was very critical of the sheriff and his staff.

On the other hand, Pancho McKnight and Terri Bussey indicated they were satisfied with the sheriff, but angered by the DA's reluctance to move forward on the case.

The elder McKnight named names during the news conference, stating the identity of the two he believed to be the sheriff's suspects and the name of one person he himself suspected.

Sullivan had his own press conference on Monday, and he suggested the DA should bow out of the case and call for a special prosecutor.

Weldon refused, saying he would not abdicate his responsibility.

Sullivan, during his press conference, confirmed that he had concluded that two people killed the McKnights.

Sullivan said the New Mexico State Police had been involved in the investigation for two months, and then "pulled off by themselves."

Sullivan added, however, that a state police officer was married to the ex-wife of one of the victims. He said the head of the state police agreed that the officer was "very close to the investigation."

As the charges and counter-charges flew back and forth between the sheriff and the DA, the level of the debate fell so far that the DA was quoted in one publication calling Sullivan an "idiot."

Enough is Enough

District Judge Richard A. Parsons, after the dueling press conferences and battle of words, called a halt to the public exchange with a gag order.

Judge Parson issued a judicial order restraining the sheriff and his staff, the DA and other attorneys involved in the case from talking about the McKnight murder case.

In September, both the DA and the sheriff asked the state Attorney General to enter into the 10-month-old investigation.

While waiting for the AG to send a staff member to meet with Sullivan and Weldon, some of the female victim's family members issued a written statement.

Judy McKnight's mother and three sisters stressed that they were ready to see and end to the case so they could put the tragedy behind them.

Bussey, the only sister who lived in Lincoln County, said her family had been receiving threatening calls.

Here's how their statement read: "Ten long, agonizing, heart-breaking months the cruel, ruthless, callous, useless death of my daughter, our sister, Judy, and brother 'Cotton' McKnight has been an ongoing nightmare.

"Murder is absolutely an unacceptable act toward humanity and God's law.

"At this time, we, the Rickley and Bussey family, very much feel the need to extend our utmost gratitude for the support and ray of hope that the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department has extended us. Expressly, we wish to thank Sheriff Tom Sullivan, undersheriff Charlie Cox, Detective Mike Lee and their staff.

"We are amazed by their concern and admire the unending, untiring perseverance of their pursuit to see justice done. The Lincoln County Sheriff's Department has our total support.

"Our family would also like to ask the public and those close to Cotton and Judy to pray for the positive outcome of justice. We truly believe that the truth shall and will prevail.

"Thank you for your support."

Help Arrives

Relatives who had disagreed about the investigation of the murder found a point of agreement when they welcomed the AG into the case in September 1985.

Judy McKnight's sister and Cotton McKnight's dad both were pleased with assistant AG Steve Westheimer and the New Mexico State Police entered the case.

An unusual element of early investigations was the use of members of the New Mexico State Recovery Team to scuba dive into a pond in search of evidence.

Sheriff Sullivan revealed in an August news conference that a psychic told investigators that something might be in the pond located near the road to the ranch.

Two divers were called in and said the stock and irrigation pond's water was so cold that they couldn't stay down very long.

They found nothing, and said they were sure if the items they were looking for had been in the pond they would have found them

Case drags on

The AG and his staff couldn't pull this case out of the stalemate in which they found it, and the investigation continued with no new information shared over the next few months.

By June 1986, Bussey and Pancho McKnight were at the end of their patience and failed a petition in Judge Parsons' court asking for a grand jury.

Pancho McKnight said he believed he was a suspect, and he wanted his name cleared.

Bussey believed one of Judy McKnight's family members was suspected, and she wanted that person's name cleared, too.

Parsons voiced several concerns, including his belief that appointing a special prosecutor would be overstepping his authority. He asked AG Paul Bardacke if his office would be presenting the case.

The AG, through deputy Westheimer said his joint investigation with the New Mexico State Police had not uncovered sufficient evidence for a grand jury to indict anyone for the murders.

"We do not believe the murder investigation would be helped by a grand jury inquiry at this time," said Westheimer.

Judge Parsons agreed, and didn't empanel a grand jury.

Re-enter the Sheriff

With just six months left in his term as sheriff, Tom Sullivan in June renewed his investigation into the unsolved double murder.

Sullivan said he left the investigation to the DA, AG and State Police, but since they had not arrested or charged anyone, he was assigning two investigators to the case.

"We feel obligated to continue on with the case in case we can turn up some additional information that will prompt someone to take the case and prosecute," said undersheriff Cox.

"We never did give up the case," said Cox. "We'll do everything we can between now and the end of the year," he added.

Hints and statements

While the AG and the DA stuck with their claims that not enough evidence existed to take the case forward, rumors flew as to who the suspects were.

Attorney Gary Mitchell, who represented Bussey and Pancho McKnight in their petition efforts, said the sheriff's office had evidence pointing to at least two prime suspects.

"I think that once the public finds out who the suspects in the case actually are, they will understand why members of law enforcement agencies outside this county and outside the State of New Mexico were brought into this case," said Mitchell.

"There are members of certain state agencies who may be suspected in this particular case," he added.

Joe McKnight, father of the slain man, told The News that he was one of the suspects in the case. He named another person he believed the sheriff suspected, too; but the sheriff never named names.

In June, the Supreme Court ruled that Judge Parsons must convene a grand jury, and in August, jurors were selected. The judge also sealed all files and information on the murder case.

Enter Politics

The case remained unsolved the political season opened, and soon the sheriff was the Democratic Party's nominee for re-election, as well as the acting sheriff.

Joe McKnight was openly critical of the sheriff.

"Joe (McKnight) and Don Samuels (Republican candidate for sheriff) have done everything they can to discredit this office," said Sullivan.

In November Samuels won the sheriff's race, and in January, Sullivan and Cox had to leave the troublesome case behind when they moved out of the Sheriff's Office.

Samuels' tenure in the Sheriff's Department was tarnished by an unsolved murder, too.

He and his investigators were plagued by the murder of a Valley teen, Katina Chavez. Although the Samuels office did make an arrest in that case, it was thrown out when it got to court.

And, that was a reminder to law officers and everyone of former DA Weldon's refusal to take the McKnight case to court.

Weldon's contention was that the evidence was so flimsy that the McKnight case would be thrown out and lost forever.

Weldon, who was ill during his last years in the DA's office, retired in 1988 and died in 1992.

Former sheriff Sullivan has left politics for civil service. He's deputy warden at Camp Sierra Blanca.

Sullivan's undersheriff, Charlie Cox, has moved to Sierra County.

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane, a Republican, inherited both unsolved murder cases — the McKnight case and the Chavez case.

While talks and rumors surface now and then, still no concrete evidence has been presented to a jury, and at least two murderers remain at large.

Nine years later

An old cliché among law officers is that if you don't solve a murder within the first 48 hours, it may never be solved.

And, in Lincoln County, it's said that a murderer hasn't been arrested and convicted since the days of Billy the Kid.

In this case, the whole world has changed since Cotton and Judy McKnight opened the door of their ranch house to a "friend" or "friends" who returned their hospitality by killing them.

The McKnight ranch, deserted for a number of years, has new owners, and the rock ranchhouse is home to another family these days.

Some family members have died, and many have moved away and started new lives.

But, for all the people whose lives were touched by Cotton and Judy McKnight, the mystery of their grisly murders is a haunting memory.

Tiger netters claim second in state

In front of an assembly of students at Capitan high school Tuesday, Coach Pam Allen and her outstanding girls volleyball team proudly displayed their trophy for second place in the state tournament.

In a roller coaster confrontation with the defending state champions from Roy last weekend, the Tigers fought valiantly, but lost in the last moments of the match in Roswell.

"Last year, we were destroyed by our loss in the semi-finals," Allen said. "They were determined to not allow that to happen again and they didn't. All and all, we took a step forward. This is not a huge let-down. We came away with a sense of pride."

"I told the girls in the locker room after the match that in my 24 years of coaching, they played with more heart than any other team I have coached."

Capitan clearly dominated in its first match, polishing off Magdalena at Goddard with scores of 15-9, 15-4 and 15-7. The Tigers then moved on to take Dora in the semi-finals, losing the first game 5-15 and then charging back to crush their opponents 15-9, 15-7, 15-11.

"We played superbly against Dora in the semi-finals," Allen said. "I felt Dora was an extremely talented team and our players rose to that occasion."

In the final game Saturday, Roy charged out to take the first two hard-fought games, 16-14 and 15-13. But Capitan came back strong, pounding Roy 15-8 and then closing them out 15-0.

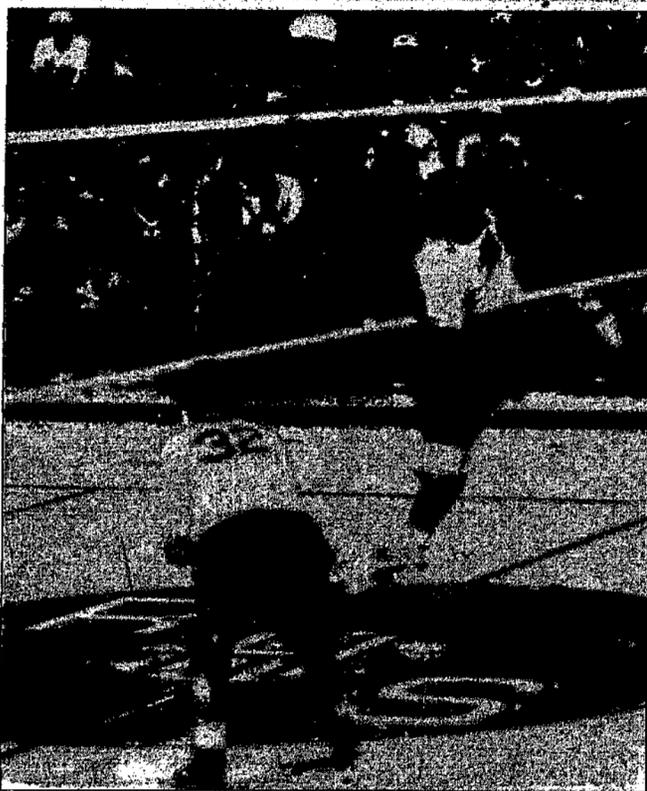

"It looked at that time like we had our foot on their neck," Allen said. "But they have an extremely talented team. They're big and quick. We put our biggest kids out and they jumped over the top of us and hit the ball. I felt we played well."

In a tear jerker finish, Roy turned the tables in the last game with a 15-8 state tournament win.

"Obviously we had a great season," Allen said of her team's 20-2 record. "I felt what separates the Capitan Tigers from many other teams is that the girls are goal-oriented and mature enough to put aside self-serving interests to make individual sacrifices for the group."

"I will desperately miss our four seniors (Tycie Traylor, Anita Aldaz, Alma Lively and Stacy Gowen), their pride, loyalty, work ethic and treatment of others."

Allen said coaches Ron Becker and Donnel Merchant were invaluable during the season, especially Becker's scouting of Dora.

All-district football nominees announced

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The football season may be over, but Capitan coaches say the boys who turned in such a spectacular performance this year deserve statewide recognition.

Nominated for the all district single A first team on offense were:

- Michael Fish for quarterback
- Justin Weber for full back
- Trevor Cox for tight end
- Ernie Trujillo for split end
- Troy Stone for guard

Nominated for second offensive team were:

- Damian Roybal for running back

Nominated for honorable mention on offensive team were:

- Orlando Baca for running back

Nominated for honorable mention for offensive linemen

Michael Fish also was nominated for first team kicker/punter.

On defense, nominations for first defensive team were:

- Ernie Trujillo for defensive end

-Orlando Baca for secondary
-Michael Fish for linebacker
Nominated for second defensive team were:

-Damian Roybal and J.P. Whipple as defensive ends

-Justin Weber for defensive lineman

Under honorable mention for second team were listed:

-Eric Dutchover and Robert McCarty for defensive linemen

-Troy Stone for linebacker

-Wes Mitchell for secondary

Coach Ed Davis said three seniors, Stone, Mitchell and Fish also were nominated to the All South Team selection.

The Capitan Tigers ended their season with just two losses, reinstating football as a winning tradition in the district.

They entered district play unbeaten and trampled Reserve in their first district game 57-12.

Cloudcroft delivered the first blow in a 23-22 squeaker that broke the hearts of fans, coaches and players.

Then the Loving Falcons dashed Capitan's hope for the district playoff, beating the Tiger 47-12.

Turkey treasures

Sixth grade students in Mecca Aldridge's class at Capitan are busy creating turkey pine cone favors to be delivered to the Ruidoso Care Center as one of the projects of the Alpha Delta Kappa educational sorority. Each month, different decorations and favors are provided by the sorority. In December, members of the teacher's group will help collect canned food items to be donated to Santa Cops and the Lincoln County Food Bank. From left are Maria Pacheco, Haylee Murry, Anthony Garcia, Justin Jones, Joe Summers and Vanissa Cox.

4-H Club elects 1993-94 officers

Justin King was elected president of the Capitan 4-H at the group's last meeting.

The other officers who will help him this year are vice president Angie Hutchison, secretary Casey Cunningham, treasurer Joe Burchett, reporter Jady King, parliamentarian Cody Erwin, photographer Randy Hutchison, song leader Stacey Erwin and recreation leader Justin Armenta.

Club members decided to sell fruit again this year, using the money earned to purchase pins and record book covers, and to pay for the annual swimming party and Christmas party.

The boxes will include different mixes of grapefruit, pears, apples, oranges and tangerines. The largest size costs $18.50, but several less expensive selections are available.

To order fruit, contact a 4-H member or call Lynn Hutchison at 354-2900 or Wynn King at 336-8034 (home) or 257-2998 at work.

The deadline to order is November 22.

Top Capitan students listed

The names of Capitan's elite, those who earned the right to be included on the school district's "A" honor roll for the first nine weeks of the 1993-94 school year, were released this week:

Seniors Alma Lively, Elissa Reamy and Tycie Traylor; sophomores Sherry Palko, Kaylee Tejada, Jaylen Ware, Jill Lunsford and Meaghan Vinson; freshmen Joyce Robbins and Keith Witham; eighth grader Ann Holt; and seventh graders Erin Autrey, Krin Autrey, Amanda Bird and Klayton Jones.

Students who maintained high enough grades for the "B" honor roll were seventh graders Suzanne Bailey, Ameer Hazel, Andrenna Flores, Andrew Longbotham and Colleen McGrath; eighth graders Joe Burchett, Jason Gipson, Travis Jacquess, Monica Johnson, Krystal Kern, Phillip Korany, Jason Montes, Amber Rini, Coye Robbins, Veronica Roybal, Jody Sidwell, Solana Taylor, Tommi Tejada, Josh Turnage and Heidi Hosmer; freshmen Mandi Aldaz, Joni Autrey, Cody Erwin, Duke Gibbs, Garrett Goodloe, B.J. Montoya and Diamond Ward; sophomores Neil Montes, Christina Worrell, Justin King, Nathan Longbotham and Sarah Taylor; juniors Jill Stephens and Meghan McGrath; and seniors included Damian Roybal, Anita Aldaz, Mariah Peebles, Andrea Bailey, Janelle Ware and Dustie Johnson.

Celebrating illuminating

Lincoln County kindergarten through second graders will design 50 luminarias as part of a winter celebration of Smokey Bear's Fiftieth Anniversary as a symbol of fire prevention, sponsored by Friends of Smokey. An old-fashioned county get-together with hot chocolate and hot apple cider, caroling and hayrides is set for 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday, December 10, at Smokey Bear State Park.

Deadlines are listed to apply for scholarships

Time is running out to apply for scholarships that could help pay for some of the expenses associated with college.

A recruiter from New Mexico State University in Las Cruces visited Capitan High School Monday. Louie Vega from Western New Mexico University in Silver City will be on campus Friday to counsel prospective students.

Danny Herrera from Eastern New Mexico University Talent Search will be on hand every Wednesday morning.

Members of the Trio Program will be on campus to help students with the college selection procedures, financial aid and scholarships to any New Mexico college or university.

All students planning to enter college need to schedule an ACT examination. The next testing dates are December 9 at the Hondo schools and December 11 at Ruidoso High School. The deadline to register without penalty has passed, but participation still may be arranged. Contact counselor Annie Hoyle.

The Financial Aid Information Guide for 1994-95 provided by Sun West Bank in Albuquerque is available in the Capitan High School counselor's office. It describes various college costs, the most common federal aid programs and the usual steps necessary to receive financial aid.

Capitan school superintendent Diana Sonnamaker, with the help of her staff, has put together a list of some scholarships for students and their parents to review. The scholarships available are:
-the Discover Card Tribute Award program, which recognizes the outstanding accomplishments of high school juniors in public and private schools.

The cumulative value of the scholarships are more than $750,000, the largest of any scholarship award programs in the United States.

Nine awards are given in each state based on academic and activity involvement. Financial need is not considered. A 2.75 cumulative grade point average is required and the nomination form, which have been distributed to juniors at Capitan High School who qualify. Additional forms are available.

The deadline is January 14.
-the 1994 Phi Delta Kappa Scholarship Grant for Prospective Educators, which awards 43 international scholarship grants in March to seniors who are prospective educators.

Forty-two $1,000 grants and one $2,000 grant will be awarded.

Criteria used to select the 43 recipients will include scholarship, recommendations, written expression, interest in teaching and involvement in school and community activities.

Applicants should rank in the upper one-third of their classes. The deadline for application is January 31.

-the Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation, which will award at least 125 scholarships of $1,000. They are open to all high school students, who are U.S. citizens and who have taken one of the college entrance examinations.

Deadline for applications must be returned by March 14.

-engineering scholarships for the 1994-95 academic year. The National Society of Professional Engineers is offering many scholarships for students entering their first year of college in the fall of 1994.

The deadline is December 3.
-the Horace Mann Companies, which are offering $32,000 in college scholarships to high school seniors, who are children of public school employees.

Contact RuDell Letcher at 1-800-658-9997 for eligibility requirements and an application.

The deadline is February 28.
-$175,000 in scholarship funds, employment and clothing to 21 of the most deserving from Brooks Brothers. No deadline was listed.

-the Elks National Foundation, which offers "The Most Valuable Student Scholarship."

The deadline is January 5.
-the "Principals Leadership Award" of Herff Jones.

The deadline is December 17.
-the All American Scholars program.

Students must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.3, be nominated by a counselor or teacher, and be in the top 45 students in the student body.

The students nominated are seniors Anita Aldaz, Andrea Bailey, Alma Lively, Mariah Peables, Elissa Reamy, Damian Roybal, Tycie Traylor and Janelle Ware.

Juniors nominated are Amy Cline, Michael Fish, Meghan McGrath, Michelle Payton, Rodney Sadiño, Tracey Stone and Troy Stone.

Sophomores are Nathan Longbotham, Jill Lunsford, Shannon McGrath, Neil Montes, Sherry Palko, Kaylee Tejada, Sarah Taylor, Meaghan Vinson, Jaylen Ware and Christina Worrell.

Selected from the freshman class were Mandi Aldaz, Joni Autrey, Joe Burchett, Joyce Robbins, Diamond Ward and Keith Witham.

Let's talk

Judy Schweitzer and the student mediators she trains at Capitan Elementary school spend their recess time trying to help students of all ages resolve conflicts and learn how to talk, not argue, with one another. When on duty, they carry clipboards and wear bright orange vests, but they will stop and listen anytime. The students are selected from grades fourth through sixth. Photo by Dianne Stallings.

Shopping around

Visitors to the Ruidoso Valley Greeters Christmas Jubilee this weekend declared it to be a great place to start the holiday season.

Light up the state on December 11

When someone says it's time to light up December 11, they won't be referring to cigarettes.

People will be plugging in their living Christmas trees all over the state in line with "Light Up New Mexico Day" proclaimed by Governor Bruce King.

Capitan officials joined the celebration two years ago and will light their tree again this year at dusk on the lawn of village hall.

The special day began with the lighting of the first living national Christmas tree sent to Washington D.C. from the Carson National Forest in 1991.

More than 70 municipalities in New Mexico lit their living Christmas trees in unison that year.

Last year, more communities joined the show of unity and pride. Individuals, organizations, groups, schools and families are taking part this year by lighting their own living trees December 11.

Not only does the symbolic lighting send a message of holiday greeting, but it contributes to the health and beauty of New Mexico.

Sweet reward

Chastity Blanton created a Smokey Bear design at 4-H camp last summer that was selected to be one of the decorations on the cake for the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration of Smokey as the nation's symbol for fire prevention. The seventh grader at Capitan High School also was picked to help serve the cake during the celebration kick-off at the balloon festival in Albuquerque last month.

County planners take another look at untested subdivision rules and regs

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

When Lincoln County officials labored over subdivision regulations in 1984, the intent was to protect the county from the rush of developers who were staking out lots around Ruidoso.

But by the time the regulations were finished, so was the rush.

"It's been so long since anyone has done a significant development in the county that none have been done under the regulations," said county manager Andy Wynham.

"The rules are virtually untested."

Wynham and members of the county planning and zoning board have been working on proposed changes to the ordinance aimed at clarifying items, modifying some restrictions to reflect a more realistic approach and defining road construction and maintenance responsibilities.

Zoning board members and advisor Patsy Sanchez started revising the ordinance two years ago when county officials discovered they had been charging a per front foot assessment on roads that had never been built or maintained.

After an extensive search of subdivision records, the county ended up paying back about $100,000 to property owners.

"We wanted to eliminate any confusion by spelling out the procedure in our ordinance," Sanchez said. "We wanted to make sure we didn't obtain any roads that weren't up to snuff.

"We went page by page and if we saw anything that needed to be changed, we discussed it. But the road issue was the main thing."

Then earlier this year, officials with Properties of the Southwest, the developer of land on the road to Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, approached the county with a request to change the requirement for central water and sewage systems in subdivisions.

They pointed out county rules required any development with lots of less than 10 acres to install central systems, a very expensive proposition. Most counties allow septic tanks and wells for developments with much smaller lots.

After reviewing the request, the county commission approved a change in the ordinance to allow the development to go forward without the central systems.

"They pointed out just one highly restrictive covenant," Wynham said. "I believe there will be many more cases as we go through the process. I believe we are going to see a multitude of problems. I've already seen some redundancies and ambiguities. It's just not clear who's responsible for what.

"I want to solidify the provisions for bonding for developers. In the past, commissions took land (as collateral for improvements) and that's why Lincoln County now owns land worth very little, certainly, not enough to provide the infrastructure promised by the developers.

"The issue in the forefront is when does the county allow the building of roads and when does it accept the responsibility," he said.

"State law says we should not allow construction of roads until there is a reasonable expectation that the subdivision will be inhabited or they are necessary for showing and sales. But any developer will say he'll be selling right away. What if the lots sell, but no one builds for 10 years? Should we maintain the roads and at what level?"

"We want to be sure those who buy know exactly what they're getting."

As part of the disclosure statement, buyers will be warned that construction of all capital improvements are the responsibility of the developer. If they are not completed, the county can't be held responsible and won't assume maintenance on any road until it has been built to county standards, occupancy on the road is at least 25 percent and the developer has maintained it in good condition for at least two years.

Buyers also must be aware that once the road is accepted, a front footage assessment will be imposed by the county and that future repaving expenses may be borne by the property owners through assessments.

The fee structure for subdivisions also has been changed from a flat $1,000 to a formula based on the number of lots.

"It's actually a more fair fee for smaller developments and may be more expensive for the larger ones," Wynham said.

Developers who want to go back into a project and resubdivide portions will have to go through the whole review process, including paying a fee.

"Currently, if they subdivide 10 to 20 lots, we don't charge anything," he said. "The proposed changes will be better than it was, but perhaps not as good as we think it should be.

"If someone is just redefining lines, is that the same? We generally suffer from a lack of experience."

Museum presents program Saturday

The Buffalo Soldiers: America's Forgotten Heroes, will be the subject of a talk by Patricia Erickson, provided as a public service on Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Museum of the Horse.

In recognition of the vital role played by African Americans in the Union's Civil War victory, in July of 1866 Congress created new regiments of cavalry and infantry to be manned by black soldiers and led by white officers.

The men of the 9th and 10th Cavalry and 38th through 41st Infantry, later reorganized into the 24th and 25th Infantry, are known today as Buffalo Soldiers.

They served under difficult conditions at the most remote Western outposts.

Their primary duty was to protect the interests of white settlers who were forcing Native Americans from their ancestral homelands.

They earned the respect of whites and Native Americans alike. More than a dozen Medals of Honor were earned by Buffalo Soldiers in the Indian campaigns, a fact made more remarkable by consideration of the social and cultural obstacles these men had to overcome not only during the years of their Cobre, a highly mineralized site which had been a turquoise gathering area for various Apache bands since prehistoric times.

A nearby rock formation, The Kneeling Nun, was a landmark throughout Spanish colonial times and is still a cultural focal point.

Erickson was raised only a few miles from Fort Bayard, one of the army posts at which Buffalo Soldiers served during the frontier era.

In 1992, Erickson was project director for a Western history symposium on the social history of frontier New Mexico focusing on the unique history of the Buffalo Soldiers. Since then she has been involved in researching the biographies of individual Buffalo Soldiers.

Erickson is a graduate of New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology and is working with the Grant County Coalition for Youth, serving as the director of a Healthier Communities pilot project.

She is a director of the Southwest Regional Arts Resource Committee and a member of the New Mexico Women's Foundation, New Mexico Alternative Dispute Resolution Consortium.

10 reasons not to join chamber of commerce

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce kicked off its membership drive yesterday with a breakfast and pep rally. The two teams — the Diggers headed by Danny Sisson of LaGrone Funeral Chapel and the Pickers headed by James Hobbs of the Flying J Wranglers — then headed out to call on business owners and invite them to join the chamber.

They were armed with a lot of good reasons to join the community's chamber of commerce, but in the interests of fairness and equal opportunity, here are 10 REASONS NOT TO JOIN THE RUIDOSO VALLEY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE:

10. IRS: If the chamber keeps promoting the village and bringing visitors to town, then everybody is going to make too much money and owe more taxes.

9. No time for fishing: If the chamber keeps up the good work, this village will be so successful business owners won't be able to close up shop on sunny summer days.

8. Too helpful: the chamber staff bends over backwards to help callers and visitors; do we really want to be a part of a group that is that friendly and helpful to strangers?

7. Nothing to complain about: chamber members have a chance to get involved in planning and decision making. That means if you don't like something you can make changes instead of complaining.

6. Too many things to do: the more members the chamber gets, the more activities and special events it can promote, extending this resort's two main seasons to year-round.

5. Too much fun: chamber members get together once a month for Business After Hours and several times year for parties and special events. People who don't like to have fun, shouldn't join the chamber.

4. Too much traffic: chamber advertising is working, and that means more people, and most of them bring their cars crowding the streets as visitors look over the town, eat out and visit tourist attractions.

3. Too much lodgers tax revenue: If the chamber keeps promoting the village, hotels will by collecting so much occupancy tax that the lodgers tax board will have a hard time spending that money.

2. Too much company: People will keep coming to Ruidoso and filling up the hotels and restaurants, making it harder to find a place to put your mother-in-law and the gang when they visit.

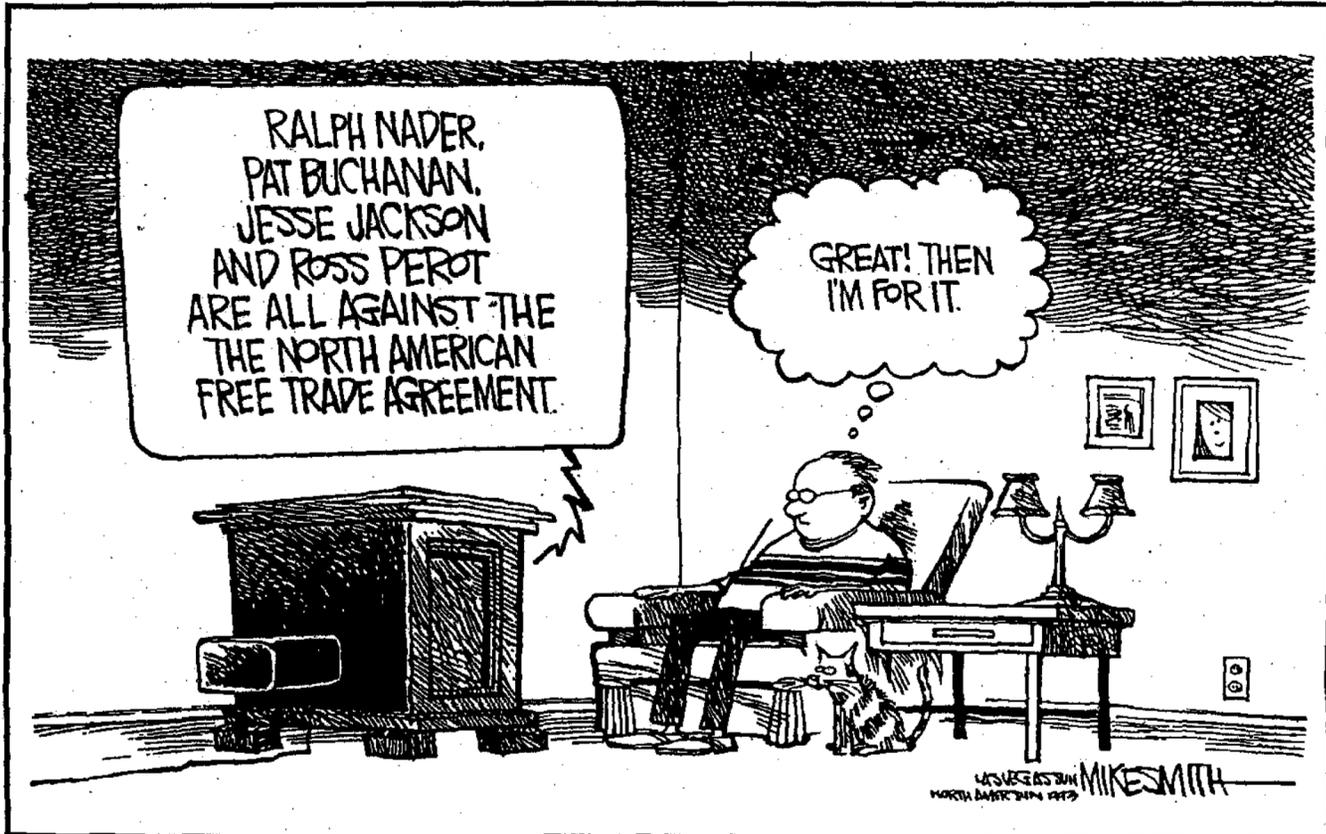

1. Too much money: The more members the chamber has, the more it can do to promote this area, and if that promotion continues to pay off, village business owners and their employees will share in unlimited success.

And so, if you don't want this area to be successful, be sure and say "no" when you're asked to join the chamber. But, if you love this enchanted Ruidoso Valley, and you want to be a part of its success, then how could you possibly say no?

Thought for the day:

"I could never divide myself from any man upon the difference of an opinion, or be angry with his judgment for not agreeing with me in that from which perhaps within a few days I should dissent myself."

—Sir Thomas Browne English author 1642

Politicians make strange bedfellows

Watching Pat Buchanan and Jessie Jackson, from the same podium, flailing away at the pending trade treaty NAFTA, brings one to realize just how thinly veiled is the concept of honor, loyalty and friendship among politicians.

In the past, neither of these two individuals have agreed on any subject simply because one is a liberal, the other a staunch conservative.

But these two guys are just small fries in a sea of several hundred politicians who comprise the U.S. Congress — and herein lies the big question.

To those who watched C-SPAN on television during the recent debates on the President's economic package it was soon apparent that the lines of debate would be divided between the Democrats and the Republicans.

The Republicans held firm in opposing the economic plan and there was barely a sufficient number of Democrats to pass the package in both Houses.

The Republicans held firm in rejecting the plan to the extent of their minority status. But now we have a new ballgame.

The trade agreement, known as NAFTA, is being backed by the President, past presidents, business executives and by most Republicans, while the Democrats, including the leadership in Congress, lead the opposition charge.

Here we have the Republicans, adamantly opposed to Clinton's economic plan, crossing party lines to assist him to outnumber his own Democrats who strongly oppose the NAFTA trade agreement. These cooperating Republicans took a lot of personal heat during the economic debates and could be understandably upset with the pressure and criticism even to the point of being labeled as "unpatriotic."

Fortunately, politicians can be pragmatic and practical as well as being just political.

So — the political sides have switched loyalties — at least for the time being.

The Democrats — why can't they be loyal and stand tall behind their President in his fight on the behalf of NAFTA?

NAFTA represents a complex and complicated trade plan which begins to clear somewhat and to make sense when we are exposed to the conclusions of some bright minds who take the time to study and make conclusions based on facts and not on fiction.

In the final analysis the adoption of NAFTA will probably result in a small but short-term job loss, most agree, will be overcome with large job gains in the long run. Defeating NAFTA will isolate this country tradewise with its trading partners.

The Mexican economy, under NAFTA, will improve to the point of increased purchases of American goods and will help to relieve our trade deficit.

The disturbing thought in these trade talks is the fact that many Democrats are listening to the outcry of the labor unions who, in spite of a consensus of those in a position to study the plan and report it favorably; nevertheless, take the short view and oppose the NAFTA plan.

So, in spite of past criticisms by the President, he will now call on and rely on the same Republicans to support his effort if he is to obtain passage of the NAFTA trade agreement.

Strange bedfellows indeed!

Letters To The Editor

Midtown trick-or-treating is good investment

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing in response to Ms. Patricia Adkins letter to the editor in November 11, 1993, (The Ruidoso News).

I am not sure if you have children or have ever tried to take children trick-or-treating in a small town where there are no neighborhoods. It is very difficult, yet we parents of Ruidoso try our best to make it as fun as possible for our little ones.

What MainStreet has done, is make it safe for our children to trick-or-treat without the worries of poison or razor blades in the candy or having to have our children out after dark in the cold.

Another thing that you are obviously not aware of is the fact that the people who live in Ruidoso very seldom get to go walking through town, (YES! We are all trying to make a living) and this one time a year, we actually get to see what each of these little shops have to offer.

fer.

I found several little trinkets and outfits that I will be going back for because I honestly did not realize how much our little main street had to offer.

But, Ms. Adkins, you can guarantee that I will not be setting foot in your store because you obviously are not like the other merchants who are so kind to think of others instead of themselves.

I am sorry if you feel that people were turned off by what they saw on Saturday, October 30, but what I saw was a small town pulling together for the sake of a "fun time for everyone."

Maybe you need to quit thinking about how much this may cost you and start thinking about the happy little faces of the children when they enter your store, and in turn, the happy faces of the parents when they return to do business with you.

"YES" needs everyone's input & involvement

TO THE EDITOR:

Yesterday evening I attended a YES meeting (Youth Empowered for Success). In looking around at the faces, one of the group made the comment that everyone present was directly related to the school system, either as an employee, a volunteer or a parent highly involved in everyday school activities.

Surely, there must be merchants, service providers, agency personnel (besides retirees) out there who spend around 10 hours of their day at non-school-related work and hobbies who could enrich their lives and the lives of our youth by joining us.

We don't want to take over; we need your input. Research has it that the community must be involved for programs to succeed.

You are the community. So, rally to the fore!

Our next meeting is on January 13, 1994. Put it on your calendar.

Why not join a sub-committee right now so you can be truly involved from the start. Call Paul Wirth at 257-4051 for more information.

Angels prepare for Season Spectacular

The angels are back! Preparations are under way for this year's spectacular Christmas musical event at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, December 4 and 5, at the Ruidoso Convention and Civic Events Center.

Songs of jingle bells and dreams of being home for Christmas will be performed to give a special meaning to "The Season" this year.

The message of the holiday season will be expressed through music by "The Spectacular Choir," a group joined together to bring music and dance to the hearts of everyone.

The show will include a family sharing their experiences and visions of Christmas; past, present and future.

The Spectacular youth choir has come together again to present their special rendition of where the center of Christmas came from and why.

So far, 60 choral members have come from a variety of churches and from the community. They will share with the audience a new slant on the story of the birth of Christ, of course with the help of those angels.

Junior Girl Scout Troop #2 has been helping with the refurbishing of the large angels. They earned part of their community service and art badges by volunteering their time and talents.

"And that's what it takes, a lot of help from a lot of people, said program coordinator Janet Goodwin.

Both Goodwin and production assistant Hunter Nolen are excited about this year's unique program.

"We have several things this year that have been written by our own Ruidoso residents," said Goodwin.

"That's what makes this even more special, to have the community share their talents not only on stage but in script and song writing," she added.

Nolen said there will be some things different this year, yet keeping the things that could become a tradition: snuggle in a sleigh ride to the door and get in the spirit with the joyful finale when everyone joins in the singing of Messiah's Hallelujah Chorus.

Tickets are now available at Schlotszky's Deli and the Ruidoso

Valley Chamber of Commerce at $7 for adults and $5 for children 16 and under. The ticket sales, along with advertisement sales in the written program, sponsorships for the Christmas tree and angels, will help pay for the production.

"This year we are having to make up a deficit from last year, plus this year's expenses," said Goodwin.

"This project has a special meaning to me," she added. "I have learned over the past year about balancing self-sacrifice, selfish, and self-nurturing. There is good in sacrificing yourself for a cause or a belief, yet not at the expense of losing one's self. And we have been taught about how wrong it is to be selfish, which hasn't stopped some of us. But we forget to allow ourselves the time to self-nurture.

"We must be given permission to nurture ourselves or we end up with a society so stressed out at a time of year that should be the most wondrous.

"The Season' Spectacular is about giving ourselves permission to self-nurture and feel good about ourselves going into The Season."

Goodwin invites everyone in the community to spend an evening of music, dance and drama at the holiday celebration.

Celebrate the Christmas holidays at the library

Youngsters are invited to have fun at the library this holiday season.

Christmas customs and crafts from around the world, a free program for school children in kindergarten and older, will be presented from 3:30 to 5 p.m. for four consecutive Mondays. The free program begins on Monday, November 22, and will continue November 29, December 6, and December 13, at the library on Sudderth Drive.

Children can also have fun at the "Treat for the Birds" workshop from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Friday, December 3, at the library.

Besides making tasty holiday goodies for feathered friends, children will take part in the Christmas tree lighting and caroling session.

"Come one and all," invites the announcement.

Most Retailers Think Newspaper Isn't As Glamorous As TV. Until All Those Buyers Show Up In Their Store.

Nothing moves people to buy like newspaper. And nowhere is that more evident than in the retail world. Studies bear it out. Newspaper readers are three times more likely to buy. And four out of five actually do. Best of all, for every dollar they spend on an advertised item, they spend another dollar on something else.

Now that's what you call a retailer's dream come true. (Especially when you consider the price.) Fact is, if you want to move a product, newspaper's the way to go.

I WON'T ATTEMPT TO — name all of the people in Lincoln County that I would like to thank for helping with the Cowboy Symposium. The cooperation and hard work exhibited by everyone involved is a rare commodity and we are all very grateful. There is one person, however, that I deserves special recognition. Ted Bennett offered to furnish one half of the food for the chuckwagon cookoff six of eight months ago. As you know, Ted had some tough times following that commitment, and I would have understood if he had failed to honor it. However, he not only honored it, he made sure we had everything we needed and did it all with a smile. That took some real fortitude, and I would like for him to know that we appreciate it. Hope to see you at our next Symposium, October 14, 15, and 16, 1994.

Sincerely yours,
Sid Goodloe

Jubilee!

Everybody had fun at the Ruidoso Valley Greeters Jubilee. Gerri Oswald and Dawn Matthews, who ran the successful Humane Society booth are pleased with the more than $1,000 they made to provide food, shelter and medical attention for abandoned animals. One shopper even took his dog to the shopping extravaganza, with booths like the ones pictured far left. Santa made a big hit with most of the kids at his breakfast, but some of the younger children weren't so sure.

We do more than report the news!

We've been your community involved "home-town newspaper" for 48 years.

Congratulations to Preston Monongye of Mescalero. Preston was the winner of a free bicycle in our Halloween Coloring Contest drawing.
