Locals injured in plane crash

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Two Ruidoso area residents have been hospitalized in serious condition after surviving an airplane crash Wednesday near Hobart, Oklahoma. Ray Eidson, owner of a Ruidoso amusement park called FunTrackers, was listed in serious condition after an airplane he was piloting crashed in the fog Wednesday morning near Hobart. Eidson and passenger, Paul Dunn, who also works at FunTrackers, were taken to the Southwestern Medical Center in Lawton, Oklahoma.

Eidson's wife Karen, who lives in Ruidoso, was notified of the accident about 6:30 a.m. Wednesday morning. She and Dunn's wife, Lisha, left immediately for Lawton. According to reports, Eidson, piloting his small plane on a business trip, was engulfed in bad weather and thick fog when he attempted to make an emergency landing and the plane crashed. Hospital officials said Eidson suffered injuries to his back, legs, hands and face. Dunn suffered severe back and neck injuries, as well as broken ribs.

Controlled fire runs amok

A controlled burn on the Mescalero Apache Reservation that flared and outdistanced its supervisors, scorched 6,000 acres and took two days to douse. Lois Clements, whose husband is chief of the Hondo Volunteer Fire Department, said she received a call at 3 p.m. from a rancher in the Picacho area about the fire. She notified the dispatch center in Carizozo to alert department volunteers.

Two units responded to the fire about 20 miles southeast of Picacho and U.S. 70. Volunteers fought the flames until 10 p.m. By that time, units had arrived from the Bureau of Land Management and the state forestry division of the Department of Agriculture. Clements said some of those state and federal trucks and fire fighters stayed overnight, but everybody had cleared out by 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Biking gets the thumbs up from village council

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Signs prohibiting bicycles that appeared on the Ruidoso jogging path last week, will disappear this week by rule of the village council. The signs caught the mayor and council by surprise last week when they were installed by the Parks and Recreation Department. Councilor J.D. James said he wants the public to know the council had nothing to do with ordering signs prohibiting bicycles. Former village manager Ron Wicker ordered the signs last August without bringing the issue before the board. Village manager Gary Jackson said he consulted with village attorney John Underwood whose concern was village liability with or without the signs. Jackson said he then contacted the village's local self insurance fund representative, Dave Parks of High Country Agency. Parks told him the village does have coverage, that jogging and bike paths are not excluded from village coverage and if for some reason the village was notified to the contrary by the self insurer's fund, a 30-day notice would have to be given to cancel. Jackson said the insurer's fund, as well as the village, relies on a firm called Safety Counseling Inc. to consult on safety issues. According to Jackson, Brock Carter of Safety Counseling Inc. said the village can continue to use the trail in a multi-purpose environment. Although the trail was not specifically designed for the use of bicycles, he said that walkers, joggers and bicycles can peacefully co-exist if appropriate signage and appropriate regulations took place. Jackson showed the council an Albuquerque "Share the Trail" program that outlines safety instructions. Please see Biking, page 2A

Ruidoso Downs Police Chief Will Hoggard hands over the keys to an Iroc-Z Camaro to DARE officer Connie Hopper, a Lincoln County Sheriff's deputy.

Seized car carries DARE's anti-drug message

Monday the Ruidoso Downs Police Department donated a dark blue 1989 Camaro to the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program. The vehicle was seized from a drug dealer, and all rights to the car have been relinquished as the result of several narcotics convictions. The arrest was instigated through a Crime Stoppers tip. Connie Hopper, an officer with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, teaches DARE classes in five school districts — Corona, Carizozo, Capitan, Hondo and Ruidoso. She meets with fifth and sixth graders once a week and makes occasional presentations to students in kindergarten through fourth grade. The Lincoln County Sheriff's Department started DARE in 1992 with a grant for Drug-Free Schools from Region IX. The grant, however, only funds part of the DARE officer's salary. All other items are bought through donations from clubs, businesses and individuals in Lincoln County. Hopper is looking for donations to help customize the donated Camaro, turning it into a DARE patrol car. She said it will be painted and equipped with lights and a siren. It will bear the program slogan "DARE to keep kids off drugs" and a notation that the car was seized from a drug dealer. Hopper said a DARE car does wonders to raise the program's visibility and get kids' attention. "The kids really respond to it," she said. "And when they see that it was seized, they realize that someone lost a really cool car because of drugs." Hopper said the DARE course teaches youngsters to think of the consequences of their choices and to tell the difference between good risk-taking and hazardous risk-

Sewer repairs cost estimated at more than 3/4 of a million

Plans are in the works to modernize and improve the wastewater plant serving Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs. The Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant Joint Use Board has applied for a loan of $795,000 with the New Mexico Environmental Department. Both the Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees and the Ruidoso Village Council will meet February 7 for a public hearing regarding the loan ordinance. The current facility meets or exceeds all the standards of the Environmental Protection Agency. Its lowest score comes in the handling of sludge or solid waste. The construction of four new features will increase the plant's capacity for sludge. The Joint Use Board plans to add an equalization basin to handle increased flow of wastewater during population swells. The control system will be automated to maintain even flow. According to Gary Jackson, Ruidoso village manager, the Ruidoso area has a big problem with grease dumped into the wastewater probably by restaurants, hotels or careless tourists. Renovating the plant's chlorination basin with skimming devices and pumps should help control the grease. The biggest modification to the wastewater facility will be a polymer addition system. This will inject chemicals into the sludge to separate more water from pollutant-holding solids. This way the plant can handle up to 50 percent more sludge. The board has been working on funding the renovation of the treatment plant since 1992. Last year they hired Molzen-Corbin & Associates to conduct an environmental impact study. Their original loan request would have amounted to $3 million, but they have since scaled that down. If the board receives the construction loan, they will pay it back out of the plant's capital repair and replacement fund. This is a monetary surplus maintained by the treatment plant under the recommendations of the EPA. Each village pays 15 percent of its monthly operational costs into this fund, which accumulates approximately $60,000 annually. The estimated annual loan payment is $97,239, of which Ruidoso will pay about 91 percent and Ruidoso Downs will pay the rest. Ruidoso may have to raise the rate by $1.43 over and above regular rate increases to cover the loan payment. Gary Jackson said it is impossible to know at this stage exactly how plant renovations will affect user rates. In any case, he said that regional population growth demanded the modernization and increased capacity of the waste water treatment plant.

34 DECA students qualify 34 for state

Thirty-four members of Ruidoso High School's Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) qualified in the January district competition to attend the state DECA conference.

DECA is a vocational youth group for the high school marketing education program. Students compete at master employee and supervisory levels in categories such as Apparel and Accessories, Advertising and Visual Merchandise, and General Marketing.

These students took a 100-question marketing curriculum test and a 100-question occupational area test. The tests were scored in Roswell January 20. At the state conference March 3-5 in Albuquerque, the Ruidoso DECA chapter will defend its first-place state championship.

Students Mandy Parker, Jenny Ames and John Echols will compete in the chapter "Learn and Earn Projects."

Freda Trujillo, Mandy Sodd and

Michelle Hasenbuhler will enter the chapter "Public Relations Projects."

Ruidoso DECA also will compete in the chapter's "Free Enterprise Competition" — led by Melissa Currin, Kristy Ryan and Shirley Chavez — and in the "Creative Marketing Project" — led by Sarah Dix and Stephanie Haas.

If they qualify at state, Ruidoso DECA members will attend the national DECA conference in Detroit, Michigan, April 22-27.

Downs board votes to double mayor's, judge's, trustees' pay

by PAM CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees voted three to one Monday to double the pay for serving on the village governing body.

The board voted to publish a proposed ordinance calling for a pay raise for the governing body. If approved, the raise would give each trustee $100 a meeting (up from $50), and the mayor and judge would receive an additional $50 a month.

Trustee Judy Miller objected to the proposed raise, saying Carrizo pays their trustees $10 a meeting and Captain pays $25.

According to the 1990 census, the Village of Ruidoso Downs has a population of 920 compared to Carrizo's 1,075 and Captain's 842.

"I just don't know of any village this size that gets $100 a meeting," she said. "We're here sometimes 10 minutes."

She also reminded the board that her requests for basketball hoops and Christmas decorations were denied due to lack of funding.

"Why should we get more money, when we need things for the village and the people?" she asked.

Trustee Charlotte Craig argued that the raise is reasonable since, generally, the board meets only twice a month. Craig believes that $200 (given that no special meetings are called) is not over-compensation for the amount of time trustees give the community.

"You don't just include the meetings we have here, but you include the times you get stopped on the street, the times you get called at your house, the times you get jumped on for things you had nothing to do with."

Trustee Margie Morales pointed out that it has been 12 years since the board received an increase in compensation.

Trustee Miller countered that "lots of our volunteers get nothing."

Mayor Hayhurst said he had plenty of time to serve the people and he didn't particularly want a raise. He said, however, that Judge Mansell told him he felt the village had grown, and while Judge Mansell is happy to spend more time in his work, he wants more money for it.

"It wasn't my idea, but I think the job is worth more money now," said Mansell on Wednesday. "I hear more cases than Ruidoso," he added.

The mayor added, "I wouldn't refuse a $50 a month raise, I guarantee ya."

Trustee Ray Hayhurst said everybody deserves a raise, and it would be justified because all the other village employees received an increase in compensation.

Except for trustees Hayhurst and Morales, no one on the board could actually receive the raise until their presumed re-election in March 1996.

According to Trustee Craig, the board cannot vote on a pay raise for themselves. They are proposing, technically, to give future trustees the raise.

However, since trustees Hayhurst and Morales are running unopposed, they are future trustees and are in effect proposing their own raise in compensation effective March 1994. January 4 was the deadline for additional candidates to run for office.

The vote to publish the proposal for public consideration was carried by Morales, Hayhurst and Craig, with the dissenting vote coming from Miller.

Also on the board's agenda Monday was a proposal to make it illegal to ride in the back of a pickup without a seatbelt.

Board attorney Robert Beauvais said a similar ordinance is up for final consideration in Albuquerque.

"There's been lots of picketing," he told the board. "But it does fall within your police powers to require restraints."

The need for such a law was made evident last April when teenager Brian McIntosh was thrown from the back of a pickup and killed.

Police Chief Will Hoggard commended Trustee Ray Hayhurst for bringing up the proposal. The chief said it makes no sense to him that riding without a seatbelt in the front seat of a truck could cost you a $66 fine, but there is no penalty for riding in the back unrestrained.

"The leading cause of death in traffic accidents is people being thrown from the vehicle," he said.

Chief Hoggard also expressed concern that sometimes high school students pile as many people as possible into a truck bed and sometimes ride standing up.

The board voted unanimously to publish the ordinance for public consideration. Chief Hoggard recommended that anyone seeking exemption from the ordinance, as in the case of parades, could apply for a permit.

taking.

"For example, it's a risk to try out for band, but it's worth it. It's also a risk to stand in a busy road, but there's nothing good to be gained by it," she said.

DARE also teaches young people how to develop a support network that goes beyond family and includes friends, clubs or teams.

Hopper shows kids how to be assertive, and she tells them that feeling good comes from themselves, not from drugs. She encourages them to get involved in healthy activities such as sports, music or reading.

"We target the young kids because they listen more," said Hopper. "Statistics show that kids start experimenting with drugs around the seventh, eighth, tenth grades. By then five out of 10 kids have tried drugs."

Hopper said the most commonly used and abused drug in this area is alcohol.

"Because it's accepted," she said.

"The parents drink and so kids don't really see anything wrong or dangerous about drinking."

Hopper said using alcohol is generally considered a rite of passage for teens, and there is tremendous peer pressure to drink.

DARE concentrates on teaching students the dangers of alcohol, marijuana and tobacco.

"The great thing is that the skills we give them to avoid using drugs are skills they can use in other areas of their lives," said Hopper. "They're skills I use."

tions rather than prohibitions.

Jackson said strong consideration should be given to lowering the speed limit along White Mountain Drive that narrows to the jogging trail and golf course fence.

He said deputy manager Alan Briley has ordered 36-inch delineators with reflectors to mark the trail every 20 feet through that area. He said this would be particularly helpful at night.

Jackson, who joined the village staff in January, said he could not explain the delay between August 26 and January, the time it took for the current signs to arrive. He said it will not take that long for new safety signs and Carter had offered to help the village if necessary.

Mayor Jerry Shaw said she received several calls regarding bicycles and dogs not on leashes, and thought the guidelines offered in the "Share the Trail" program should help remedy those problems.

Jackson said he would work with police chief Dick Swenor and the animal control officer in the area, but he said the 2.8-mile course is large and realistically, would be difficult to cover all the time. He said enforcement of the leash law should help.

Councilor Frank Potter identified himself as a jogger and said many trails in large cities are lucky to be three-feet wide.

Potter said the village should start focusing on lengthening and adding trails. Potter then recommended taking the signs prohibiting bicycles down, and installing safety signs as recommended by Safety Counseling Inc., offering "Share the Trail" guidelines for its multi-uses.

Potter said he listened to all the red tape boaters and fishermen at Grindstone had to go through last year before the council and he thought it to be "ridiculous."

"We're a tourism town," he said. "We were fine and dandy before those signs went up. I would like to see them come down and a safety message put in place."

Mayor Shaw informed the audience that this year was the first time the village would be asking the legislature for parks and recreation money to improve recreation in the community. She said the council is listening to the voices in the community that want more recreation.

She said Jackson and parks director Debbi Jo Almager are working on grants for additional trails in the community.

Resident Charles Rennick, running in the March election for a councilor's post, said he had been contacted by several residents who live in the area and who use the trail for bicycling purposes without difficulty and want the cycling back.

Rennick said as a jogger, he has encountered both dogs and bikers without any difficulties. He noted the dogs have always been on leashes and the bicyclists give plenty of room to the pedestrian.

"To increase recreational opportunities in Ruidoso is an opportunity to accommodate both visitors and locals alike. Share the Trail signs is a great idea. We should try to accommodate all the people that are trail users," he said. Potter's motion passed unanimously.

The council instructed Jackson to clarify the language in the ordinance regarding sewer line stand-by charges and extension fees.

Jackson said it has been the practice of leaving the sewer line connection a responsibility of the homeowner or customer when the line is available.

"If we change that policy, rates would have to be taken into consideration," Jackson said.

Deputy Briley said the resident was using measurements from his house instead of from lot lines.

He said there was some disagreement in the term "availability."

Shaw said further clarification of responsibilities in the language is needed to define all aspects of the ordinance, that she said was "a little vague."

Jackson agreed. He said a clearly defined ordinance would eliminate argument.

Briley said that other considerations should be made with the phrase "availability." He said a line may be only 50 feet away, but straight up the side of a hill.

Jackson said he and Briley would work on clarifying the language of the ordinance and bring it back to the council for consideration.

In discussing the proposed fiscal year 1994-1995, Jackson said the preliminary budget is scheduled for council approval during the regular meeting of May 10.

He said work papers for department heads to fill out will follow the same format used for the past few years.

Jackson saw a need for reform in the Capital Improvement Plan (CIP).

"As you know, you did adopt and revise a Capital Improvement Plan a few months ago. The budget should be done in accordance with the CIP. Right now they are not connected," Jackson said. "What we're trying to do in these work papers is to connect the CIP not only in the upcoming year, and not thinking one year at a time, but to think more in terms of a three year budget with revenue projections and everything that comes along with that."

"You might think that's a lofty goal to accomplish, but I think we've got to approach it (CIP) with long term in mind," he said.

He said April 14 and 15 have been scheduled for governing body workshops and urged the council to start planning now for mutually agreeable group dates on various subjects.

Jackson said with adequate time to prepare, he would like for the council also to approach the budget conceptually, studying how an action would relate to all departments before that action is applied to an individual department.

"We might approach it in a more programmatic type of approach," Jackson said.

"We have certain issues that are distributed throughout the budget and if you only look at it in departmental sequences, you're not really seeing ... maybe like a training issue. Maybe that needs to be looked at as training, generally."

In boards and commission appointments, Mayor Shaw appointed Bill Wooley to parks and recreation.

To the new Mentor board, a big brother, big parent approach to the area youth promoted by Governor Bruce King, Shaw appointed Paul Wirth, YES director for the schools; police chief Dick Swenor a YES director; Jim Stover of Ruidoso EMS; Bill Chance representing the business community; John Duncan representing the churches; Cory Buford and Valerie Maldonado representing Ruidoso High School; Joe Gomez as council representative; the school board to appoint a representative; and to be chaired by the mayor.

The mayor's appointments were approved by the council.

Jackson told the council that at the last MainStreet board meeting, the board requested direction from the council on how to further proceed with the downtown parking problem.

Mayor Shaw said it has been determined by village attorney Underwood that any MainStreet grant money redirected to downtown parking can not be used on public property.

A consultant, hired by the state and federal MainStreet program, had suggested a publicly owned piece of property could be used for a parking lot utilizing grant money.

Jackson said Underwood said that ownership was the problem. The village would have to acquire the property in order to spend severance tax money.

Shaw said the MainStreet Board is a private board and is not under the direct supervision of the council, as there would be for a village appointed board.

"I think that when an issue involves public money, it will have to come before the governing body. When it is private money, MainStreet is free to take their own direction," Shaw said.

MainStreet director Don Miller said the board specifically was concerned about downtown parking.

"What is the next step," Miller asked the board.

Shaw reiterated Underwood's statement that Phase 2 MainStreet money, about $150,000 was public money, limited in scope.

She said private money from downtown assessments would have to be handled through the MainStreet board.

Councilor Potter said the first priority for the MainStreet Board should be to finish the project at hand, sidewalks.

"We talk about everything except the project that is going on downtown," Potter said. "Hopefully, when the section that is being completed in the next week or so, the people down town will be able to view it. And what you see is what you get."

Potter said people should take a good look at that time and ask, is this what we really want?

"Our number one focus should be on that downtown project, period!" Potter said.

He said merchants still are not aware of what is going on with the project.

Potter said there are few people that realize that in the first phase, the section of sidewalk is only four feet wide, that the landscape section is wider.

Potter pointed out that planters, park benches and jut outs from stores would all impact the narrow four-foot walk that he said would be difficult maneuvering for a baby stroller.

Miller called the first phase a fiasco, with many mistakes to learn from. He said he and Briley started on the job the same day and when they asked questions of various state and local officials that approved Bohannon-Huston's design plan, they were told not to worry about it, everything is taken care of.

Groundbreaking for the MainStreet project began on November 15. Merchants have been told several times that completion of the first phase was about a week away.

Recycling program passes annual audit with flying colors

DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The recycling program of the Ruidoso County Solid Waste Authority passed its annual audit with only a few minor criticisms. They included an error in addition on one employee's reimbursement, the need to provide better protection for the petty cash and a need for off site backup on records.

The major area of concern by the auditors was that the same person handled money throughout the entire process from receiving cash and checks to depositing and reconciling bank accounts.

"As small as we are, that's difficult to segregate," said authority manager Joe Lewandowski.

He told the authority board last week that he has initiated changes at should eliminate the problems.

At that same meeting, member Milton Howell, a county commissioner, cast the lone vote against approving the minutes from the previous session, because they lacked details of several discussions.

He said if the coalition of the county and its five municipalities was ever challenged on some aspect of its garbage collection operation, members who disagreed with those actions would want to have their comments noted.

More detail would accurately reflect the opinions of all board members, he said.

Member Jerry Shaw, mayor of Ruidoso, agreed.

Lewandowski told members that $13,000 in environmental gross receipts (sales) tax accumulated by the authority from its members was sent to the city of Alamogordo as Lincoln's portion of the bond payment for the new Otero-Lincoln Regional Landfill.

After figuring the exact amount needed, city officials, who are responsible for managing the landfill, sent back $1,900.

"They start accepting garbage Tuesday," Lewandowski said.

"There probably will be one more $13,000 payment and the same amount will come back (as the amount of operating revenue collected grows to the point where it can cover the bond payments)."

"We still have to send it in, but within three months, we'll probably see it all come back and eventually, they'll reimburse what we paid as operating revenues grow," said authority attorney J. Robert Beauvais.

"We think we can repay the bonds in nine years," he added.

The money sent back to the authority must be put aside as collateral to repay the cost of purchasing initial equipment from authority members. But once the full amount is covered, the use of the money for environmental projects is broad, Beauvais said.

Howell also offered a motion, which passed unanimously, to deny a request for reclassification by the Eagle Creek Summer Home Association.

Member Bill Schwettmann, a county commissioner, warned the board that it would receive a multitude of objections from residents of Alto village if a reclassification from individual accounts to a commercial account was approved for Eagle Creek.

The reclassification would have made association officials responsible for collecting $33.06 for each of the 23 customers annually and submitting the total payment. The residents use cabins on national forest land and only are allowed to occupy them for up to six months a year. A representative argued last month that since the land is not owned by the cabin occupants, the authority could not file liens if a family refused to pay. He also pointed out that the area cannot be reached during some times of the year after heavy snow fall.

"This would not be a variance, it would be a reclassification," Lewandowski said.

"I don't recommend it at all," Schwettmann said. "You'd be opening a can of worms. When the people in Alto get a hold of this, you'll have 500 people saying they live there only six months and they want the same treatment. I'm telling you, frankly, you're opening up a problem and I'll champion their cause. There are 750 homes there and less than 50 percent are occupied year-around."

"If this is to be tested, now is the time to do it, not with 500 people from Alto with the money to pool and break us."

Member Bill Allen pointed out that the forest service prohibits occupancy of the Eagle Creek cabins in excess of six months and that it can cancel the agreements for use of the cabins with 90 days notice.

"There's nothing in their agreement that says there's no year-round access," Schwettmann said.

Howell added that he had talked to a man who delivers propane and he had completed a delivery recently to a cabin there. The association representative had said the cabins are not winterized and that to prevent water lines from breaking, water is turned off in the winter.

"Clearly, the situation does not meet the criteria for a variance (which is ownership of 300 contiguous acres and a proper place to dispose of garbage)," Beauvais said.

"Bottom line, it would be a variance," Howell said. "And our rules state that a public hearing is necessary to change any billing under the mandatory fee ordinance passed by the county commission. It says there are no exceptions to the rules for a variance."

Although several members earlier in the meeting indicated they would support the reclassification, Howell received unanimous support on his motion to deny.

Responding to a request from Ruidoso village manager Gary Jackson, Lewandowski said any village logos remaining on trucks purchased from Ruidoso by the authority would be removed. Jackson said he has received complaints from residents about the general appearance of some of the trucks.

Oñate, Socorro too much for Warriors

by KENT BEATTY

The News Sports Correspondent

The Ruidoso Warriors lack of size and depth proved to be critical as District 3-AAA boys basketball play began last weekend. The boys team fell 69-48 to Socorro on Friday and 81-57 to Oñate Saturday.

The Warriors slipped to 4-10 on the season and 0-2 in district.

Saturday's game against the No. 3 ranked Oñate Knights was probably Ruidoso's best overall effort of the season. The problem was that Oñate was very, very good. Ruidoso led after one quarter 17-16 and trailed at the half 35-29.

The third quarter saw the Warriors trail the Knights by six points with 2:35 left in period, but Oñate scored three unanswered baskets to end the quarter and held a 56-44 advantage going into the fourth quarter.

Again, Ruidoso closed the gap and trailed by eight to 10 points before being forced to foul at the end of the game to keep the Knights from burning the clock with their stall game.

The Knights responded by hitting an amazing 27-33 from the free throw line. The Warriors were 7-11 from the charity stripe.

Oñate, 11-2 on the season, has only lost to AAAA's top ranked team Las Cruces Mayfield, and Las Cruces High, another top-10 AAAA school.

While the Knights survived their game with the Warriors with excellent free throw shooting, Ruidoso kept constant pressure on Oñate with the power of the three-point shot.

Raul Davis, the Warriors leading scorer, hit baskets from the three-point arc five times, as did senior Jeff Chapman.

Rex Comanche added two trifectas. In fact, Ruidoso's 12 threes was five better than its two-point field goals (seven).

But the Warriors lack of depth also hurt.

When the season started, Ruidoso played with eight true varsity players — and two players moved up from the junior varsity. Saturday against Oñate, that number was trimmed to five varsity full-timers and five JV'ers.

Senior Casey Kearns was dismissed from the team two weeks ago; J.R. Chino, another senior, is sitting through a three-game suspension; and senior Corvin Lester didn't show up for the game against Oñate.

The lack of senior leadership concerns Warrior head coach Paul Kirkwood.

"We started out the season with four seniors and we had good leadership and won some games ... I don't know that we're playing any worse basketball without them ... we're just not deep and that hurts in the fourth quarter.

"Other than Raul's foul trouble in the first half (Davis had four first half fouls) I don't know how we could have played better. I guess we could have kept them off the (free throw) line and the game would have been a eight- or 10-point loss, but I wanted to win and we had to foul to stop the clock. They just had a great night shooting free throws ... but I was very proud of our kids," said Kirkwood.

Rex Comanche led the team in scoring against Oñate with 18 points followed by Raul Davis with 16. Jeff Chapman scored 15 while Cory Hood added three. Zack Turner and Daniel Espinosa scored one bucket and sophomore Danny Schrader made a free throw.

Friday's game against Socorro was another good effort, especially on the road.

Both teams were tied after the first quarter at 18, with Socorro taking a 30-26 halftime lead to the locker room. The second half proved to be the Warriors nemesis however as Socorro outscored the locals 18-6 in the third quarter and 21-18 in the fourth.

In that dismal third quarter, Ruidoso scored only one field goal as Corvin Lester got a nice lay-up, but poor shooting, (29 percent for the night) and a huge size disadvantage made Socorro almost invincible.

Against Socorro, the Warriors were led in the scoring column by Raul Davis, 12; Daniel Espinosa, 8; Corvin Lester, 8; Jeff Chapman, 7; Cory Hood, 6; Rex Comanche, 5; and Todd Young, 2.

"Again we played pretty well in the first half, but we shot ourselves out of it in the third quarter. They got every rebound on our missed shots and 29 percent shooting with no put-backs isn't going to beat the eight grade team," said Kirkwood.

The junior varsity squad also dropped both weekend games — 80-72 to Socorro and 84-55 to Oñate.

The Warriors played very well in Socorro but were outscored 26-11 in the second quarter. That lack of defense cost them the game.

Sophomore Byron Soules led with way against Socorro with 15 points, followed by Jackie Roe, 14; Danny Schrader, 13; Zack Turner, 12; Todd Young, 8; Randy Randolph, 6; and Matt Norbury, 2.

Junior varsity coach Brian Tarvin was upbeat despite the loss against Socorro.

"We played a great second half and had a chance to win until right up to the end. The second quarter just killed us.

And because the varsity was short-handed, some of our kids couldn't play all four quarters. If we had everyone for the whole game, we could have won," said Tarvin.

Tarvin is probably right. It's been a while since a junior varsity team has scored 72 points around here — and Soules, Roe, Schrader and postman Todd Young had to miss at least one full quarter each. The state's rules allow each player only five quarters per day.

Against Oñate, the Warriors trailed 38-32 at the half but gave up 46 second-half points while scoring just 23.

Scoring looked like this: Todd Young, 14; Randy Randolph, 12; Danny Schrader, 8; Jackie Roe, 7; John Montero, 5; Byron Soules, 4; Zack Turner, 3; Erik Kakuska, 2.

Wrestlers enjoy great week

The Ruidoso Warrior wrestling team put in a busy week last week, hosting their own invitational tournament and competing in two dual meets.

Busy as it was, it was certainly fruitful for the matmen, as they smashed NMMI and Roswell High in the duals and recorded their first-ever second-place in the Ruidoso Invitational.

The Warriors week started out Wednesday with 69-17 thumping of New Mexico Military Institute in the Warrior gym.

Thursday was worse — for the opponents that is. The Warriors devastated the hapless Coyotes 56-9 in Roswell.

The Warriors were so dominating in both dual matches, that the locals only two bouts in both varsity and junior varsity matches.

Saturday's Ruidoso Invitational brought Carlsbad, Goddard, NMMI, Gadsden, Roswell and Santa Teresa to town as well as Ruidoso.

The Warriors second-place finish netted 150 team points, just 11 behind Carlsbad and 22 points better than third-place finisher, Gadsden.

Ruidoso's 103-pound monster, Julian Flores, took first-place in his weight division as did the Warriors' ever-improving 130-pounder, Beau Jarvis.

Both wrestlers went 3-0 to take their trophies with Flores in tight match in the final, winning 2-0 over a Gadsden opponent. Jarvis took the shorter route with three first-round pins.

The Warriors also had four grapplers that finished second in their respective weight divisions. Jose Prieto, Billy Austin, Matt Bates and Scooter Bussell came away with just one loss on their tournament records.

Heading into the championship round, the Warriors were virtually tied with Carlsbad and Gadsden. Carlsbad inched forward but Ruidoso stayed close with third-place finishes by Johnny Flores, Gunner Johnson and Harlyn Geronimo.

In the end, however, the Warriors couldn't catch the talented Cavemen and had to settle for second place.

Shaun Cobb, Bill Cash and Eustace Gallerito finished fourth.

Warrior head coach Gerald Ames was beaming after the event, crediting all 13 wrestlers with the strong finish.

"We just hoping that our success will add to our confidence as we enter the district and state competitions."

Ames said he and his team want the thank the fans and basketball team who came by to watch the tournament.

"They really got to see a great show," said Ames.

The Warriors traveled to Belen Wednesday to face very tough Eagle and Albuquerque Academy teams.

Saturday brings the Ruidoso JV Invitational, while the varsity takes the weekend off to rest for the upcoming district competitions.

Village upgrades softball fields

The Parks and Recreation Department will be upgrading the softball infields at Eagle Creek Sports Complex.

"There is a lot of work to be done and in order to complete them before the season begins in April, we are looking for volunteers to assist us," said Debbie Jo Almager, Parks director.

"We anticipate this season to be one of our greatest, and with the new infields we should have no problem in scheduling more tournaments and increasing our leagues to include girl's slo-pitch and teen's and adult co-ed," she added in a news release.

Almager also asked for anyone who wants other softball leagues or programs to be offered by the department to call the Parks and Recreation office, 257-5030.

This season the department will be offering a girl's slo-pitch softball league in four divisions, and is looking for anyone interested in coaching a girls' team.

Women are strongly encouraged, even with no prior experience, since the department will offer coaches clinics before the season begins.

Anyone interested in learning more about Parks and Rec programs or wanting to offer suggestions or sign up, is asked to call Almager at 257-5030.

Lady Warriors close, but no cigar

The Ruidoso High School Lady Warriors ended the second week of district play with the same result as the first — two losses — but they were close.

The opening week of district saw the Lady Warriors drop 12-point decisions to Silver and Cobre on the road. Last weekend the locals entertained Socorro Friday night and travel to Oñate Saturday.

The Lady Warriors fell 44-39 to Socorro and 35-31 against Oñate.

Socorro, which leads District 3-AAA at 4-0 (13-2 overall) found the locals almost too much to handle. The Lady Warriors led at the half 22-21 and just trailed by one point after the third quarter.

But like many games this season, turnovers and missed opportunities cost the Lady Warriors in the fourth quarter and they could not catch up.

"We played well against (Socorro). Brandy had a real good scoring game, and we had everybody playing well. Team-wise we played as well as we've played and we had a chance to win it, but we just made a few too many mistakes at the end," said Davis.

Scoring for the Lady Warriors-Socorro game looked like this: Brandy Pfeiffer, 21; Kristie Ryan, 6; Sarah Dix, 5; Dawn Moore, 3; Danielle Morris, 2; and LaVerne Platta, 2.

After a couple of winks of sleep, the squad hit the highway and headed to Las Cruces for their first meeting with the Lady Knights of Oñate.

Like the Socorro the Lady Warriors were in the thick of things despite a slow start. Being outscored 11-5 in the first period, the locals pitched a shutout in the second stanza holding Oñate scoreless, while putting 10 points on the board on their own, to lead 15-11 at the half.

Both teams scored 11 points in the third quarter, but Oñate got the upper hand in the fourth quarter by outscoring Ruidoso 13-6.

"We fell apart in the final four minutes ... I don't think we came down and got a score in that period of time. We're trying to reduce our turnovers and to do that, we need to work on our composure ... that's actually killed us in three of our district games.

"We pile mistakes up ... we make four mistakes in a row instead of making a mistake and then a good play. I think we're getting more confident in what we're doing so it will definitely get better ... at least we have the chances to win," said Davis.

Brandy Pfeiffer, 11; Sarah Dix, 9; LaVerne Platta, 4; Ramona Bell, 4; Heribina Muniz, 2; Kristie Ryan, 2.

"We're still improving and I think we'll play very well in the second half of the district," said Davis.

The Lady Warriors will entertain Deming's Lady Wildcats Saturday night. Deming, 14-2 overall, lost to Socorro last Saturday night and stands at 3-1 in District play.

Game time is set for 4 p.m. for the C-team, 5:30 for the junior varsity and the varsity will tip off at 7:30 p.m.

White Mountain Meadows developer asks P&Z to approve changes & take over roads

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Officials of White Mountain Meadows are asking to rezone an area of high density residential property to single family residential in Unit 1.

Tim Collins, agent for White Mountain, fielded questions by the village planning and zoning commission Monday regarding the community's master plan, approved by the village in 1983.

Lots in Unit 1 for the subdivision were designated for multi-family/townhouse development with common areas and combination of public streets and private areas to access units.

A total of 271 units were approved with 137 being in sites 1-29. White Mountain Development Co will be submitting a request for rezoning and filing plans for 42 single family lots.

Richards expressed his concern to the commission that 24 of the lots have frontage on a roadway previously constructed as private streets, which do not meet village standards. He said width and construction do not meet minimum specifications, but the 50-foot right of way does meet village standard.

Richards said White Mountain requests the village to accept those private roads as public streets. Sub-standard construction and future maintenance obligations were his major concerns.

Richards offered three options, which were: leave private streets as private and require the homeowners association to maintain them; require that streets be upgraded to village standards; or accept them as public streets with developer to be responsible for immediate repairs and an extended period of maintenance with a five-year minimum.

White Mountain officials noted in their request to the village that the paved roads with concrete curbing and utilities that now exist within the entire area are being replatted. They said the utilities were installed for townhome lots and the replat would require moving some utilities.

The company noted single family homes would require less use of streets than multifamily lots.

Richards asked several village departments to comment on the possible replating.

He said the water department doesn't have a problem with the placement of the utilities, but officials are concerned that the water and sewer service lines laid for condos not conflict with replats to single families.

"The water department would like to re-evaluate the lots to determine if stubouts (service lines) can be used without having to be substantially altered," Richards told the commission.

"(Road superintendent) Charlie Armstrong did some testing on the private streets. The base course in depth was adequate. His report doesn't mention the narrowness of the pavement, which is 20 feet wide. The village codes required 22 feet at that time.

"There are some alligator spots in the pavement. If the recommendation is to accept the streets, those should be repaired and the street be seal coated," Richards said.

He then appeared to hit on a subject that agent Collins objected to bringing before the commission.

"And the final comment from Charlie, and it's part of my staff review also, that White Mountain Meadows Drive between several units is closed off with a locked gate," Richards said. "The fire department and police department have commented that the gate should be removed to open access for emergency service in the area."

"I don't know what to say or where to begin," Collins said. "I don't think the locked gate should be made something of this or should even have been brought up. In 1982 and 1983, the village council and everybody approved the plans for this project. And the piece of road behind that locked gate is not a public road for you to drive on anyway if the gate was open, because it was specifically planned as not a road behind that gate for that reason."

"The notes that I have indicate that (it) is a dedicated public street," Richards said.

"It is a dedicated utility easement, but it is not a dedicated utility street behind that gate. It was part of the man's (Bill McCarty) development. I'll talk to him, but I don't think he's going to go back and change that, because it has been through all the approving bodies and it was approved at the time," Collins said.

The padlocked gate in question dead ends off of Canyon Road less than a half mile from a fire department substation on White Mountain Drive. The gate is not designed for use by homeowners.

The road-utility easement starts at the gate and is paved for about 150 feet where it joins one of the regular streets in the subdivision.

The easement does not appear to be built to the same standards as the streets of the rest of the subdivision. McCarty owns a road paving business.

The big entrance to the subdivision is off Gavilan Canyon, a little over two miles from the same substation. At one time it was manned with a guard station, but is now open to the public.

The commission talked of a key or some system to unlock the gate for emergency service, but Richards maintained that shouldn't be a responsibility of the fire department in case of an emergency.

Collins said he was sure McCarty would be willing to be responsible for repairs on the subdivision's streets.

"This thing about five year maintenance," Collins said. "They (streets) already have existed for 10 years."

They existed as private streets, not as public streets," Richards said.

Collins said he didn't know if McCarty would be willing to maintain them for five more years, but would ask him.

Richards was sympathetic. "I think this brings to bear again the issue of what standards we build private streets within a development," Richards said. "We need to make sure when we accept a private street in a development that it fully meets village standards so we don't have this type of issue."

Commission chairman Robert

Donaldson said he didn't have any problem with the street being one foot narrower on either side.

"I just want to make sure the repairs are adequate enough that, if they are in fact accepted into the city, there is no additional expenses to be borne by the village," he said.

Collins argued that regular maintenance of other subdivisions after acceptance is one or two years.

"That's on streets that are built to village standards. That's the difference here, Tim," Richards said.

Donaldson said the roads have been in use 10 years and that they were not going to fall apart in the next five years, but was concerned about road repair.

Richards told the commission that Collins, with commission direction, now needs to proceed with preliminary and final plat on the project.

"They (White Mountain) need to know whether or not they can accommodate the village to accept the streets in this instance. I think he (McCarty) realizes they will have to do some re-working the utilities," Richards said. "We're not approving anything at this time, we're just giving directions that are possible."

Donaldson told his commission that he didn't see any reason not to accept the streets.

"Two years or five years, that can be negotiated I guess," he said. "Just to make sure the repairs are not going to fall apart. What exists is not going to fall apart."

In other business, the commission approved:

—a final plat for the Country Club Tract being developed by Glenn Neans of Austin, Texas. Richards told the commission a few details, one being a bond, had to be presented for village approval and protection. Construction on the project is set for early February.

—a replat for Steven Roman of Lots 28 and 29, Block 3, of Mountain View Estates.

—a front and side yard variance for Lot 10, Block B, Ruidoso Springs for William Karn.

—a side yard variance for Maria Elsa Piago for Lot 14 of Block 5 in Paradise Canyon.

Good grades pay off

United New Mexico Bank presented bicycles and savings accounts to some good students whose names were entered in a drawing open only to honor students. Bicycle winners were second grader Sterling Rel, age 8 (back); and fifth grader Kristen McAllister, age 11. Savings account winners were kindergarten student Kasey Thompson, age 5, and third grader Jerrod Garrett, age 8.

USFS pays the county $52,465

Lincoln County collected $52,465 as its portion of national forest receipts generated in fiscal year 1993.

Jack Ward Thomas, chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service, said 41 states and Puerto Rico have received nearly $306-million. New Mexico's share totaled $1,642,149 and its neighbor Arizona collected $5,658,379.

Last September, the Department of Agriculture made interim payments of $215-million to states based on estimated national forest revenues for the year. A final payment of $91-million has been paid based on actual receipts collected during the year, Thomas said.

The sale and use of national forest resources generated $1.01-billion during that same period. By law, 25 percent of the revenues collected by the Forest Service from use of national forest system lands and resources are returned to states where the lands are located. The states are required to use the money for schools and roads. Thomas said the money is collected primarily from timber sales, grazing, recreation and mineral extraction on 191 million acres of national forest land.

Federal agencies do not pay property taxes for land they manage in counties located in those states.

The money paid back to states by the forest service does not include 25 percent of the 1992 national grassland revenues. Those payments are based on calendar year 1993 receipts and will be distributed in March 1994.

The three states receiving the largest payments are Oregon at $129-million, California at $47-million and Washington at $31-million. Arizona ranked seventh and New Mexico nineteenth in the amount of payment received.

State Engineer prepares to file new water rights proceedings

The New Mexico State Engineer's Office is beginning new court proceedings in the Hondo Basin adjudication of water rights in the Rio Ruidoso, Rio Hondo and Rio Bonito areas.

In 1975, the State Engineer Office filed an adjudication naming the owners of all the known water rights as defendants, except for persons using the underground water exclusively for non-commercial domestic or stock purposes.

Then in 1981 and 1983, Special Master Kastler held hearings.

Questions should be directed to either Rebecca Dempsey or Pat Simpson in the State Engineer Office Legal Division at (505) 827-6150.

High Efficiency Lighting Is A Bright Way To Save Energy.

Compact fluorescent bulbs can brighten your home while using only one fourth of the electricity that incandescent bulbs use. Other energy-efficient lights are also available for places where compact fluorescents won't fit. Although lighting isn't typically a home's biggest energy user, making the switch to high efficiency lights can reduce your total energy needs. For more information about saving energy, call your local TNP office and ask for a free copy of the "Energy Management Guide."

Capitan

Tigers tame two, lose to one

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

In a spectacular week of court dancing, the Capitan Tigers posted two wins to one loss and the Lady Tigers claimed two victories.

Great defense marked the game January 18 between Capitan and Hondo.

The Tigers held Hondo to 10 points in the first quarter and single digit gains in the next two. By the time Hondo started scoring in the fourth, it was too late. Capitan put away 66 points to Hondo's 38, notching by quarter 12, a scorching 23, 13 and 19 points.

Reliable Trevor Cox was lead scorer for Capitan with 19 points, followed by Jamil Mahboub at 14 and J.P. Whipple with 12 points.

Hondo's two heavy hitters, Fermin Herrera and Thomas Richardson, posted 14 and 12 points, respectively.

Capitan coach Ron Becker said the tough Tiger defense delivered the victory in the first district game for Capitan.

Capitan continued to score well in its next game against Loving, putting 16 points on the scoreboard in the first quarter, 12 in the second, 15 in the third and 13 in the fourth.

Loving's scoring was more uneven, starting with 8 points, then 22, down to 14 and back up to 20, but those peaks killed the Tigers. When the final buzzer sounded, Loving was ahead 65 to Capitan's 56.

Fortunately, the competition wasn't a district game.

Scoring followed the same pattern with Cox in the lead at 15 points, Mahboub with 14 and J.P.

Whipple at 13.

On Loving's side, it was no contest with Jerome Longchase scoring a whopping 32 points and Mike Moes, 18.

Becker said Capitan played hard, but had too many turnovers and missed too many lay-ups.

Back on home court Saturday, the Tigers pounded Lake Arthur 69-51.

Capitan stayed consistently ahead through the entire game, outdistancing Lake Arthur in the first quarter 18-14, in the second 16-12, in the third by 11-6 and in the fourth by 24-19.

Becker said both teams played excellent defense. Lake Arthur was assessed a technical foul for hanging onto a rim during the warm up. Capitan took advantage of the opportunity and Mahboub drilled both shots. Lake Arthur's coach was slapped with two technical fouls.

Becker said the Tigers played an awesome game after just coming off the road with a loss.

The next district game is set in Carrizozo tonight. Capitan's season cord is 11-5.

After a hard fought, hold-your-breath battle Friday, the Capitan Lady Tigers came out on top 56-50 against the Loving Eagles.

At half time, Capitan had taken the lead 28-15, but Loving coaches must have delivered a rousing pep talk back in the locker room, because the girls charged out onto the court and turned in their best performance of the game.

Veronica Calderon, Loving's lead scorer, came alive in the fourth quarter, scoring eight points, but not enough to deliver the team from the punishing Tigers.

Stacey Gowen put the leather through the hoop for a total of 19 points. Tycie Traylor trailed Gowen with an eye popping eight field goals. Jessica Cline dropped a three in the second quarter, along with three field goals.

Christina Gonzales also burned up the air with a three in the third quarter for four more points. Aldaz sunk one of two foul shots, along with two more points. Catherine Sidwell pitched in for two more points in the fourth quarter.

The Lake Arthur Panthers came out growling after their previous painful loss to Capitan 62-15.

But the Lady Tigers weren't intimidated and showed a few fangs of their own. They charged out of the locker room pumped up and ready to score, and that's exactly what they did, racking up 17 points in the first quarter to Lake Arthur's taunting zero.

The ballgame was over in the first half with a killer score at the breather of 31-1 with Capitan in the lead.

The Panthers finally started to prowl in the third quarter, but the Tigers didn't let up and maintained a mile wide distance by scoring 10 more points to Lake Arthur's 7.

The broad lead offered a chance for everyone on the Tiger team to taste the court.

Jessica Cline and Traylor scored in the double digits with Traylor at 14 and Cline close behind with 12 points.

Capitan sports reporters Andrew Longbotham, Klay Jones and Amanda Bird contributed to this report.

RONNIE MONTES

Montes certified to operate landfill

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Anyone who thinks operating a landfill is just a matter of digging a big hole and burying debris, better think again.

Ronnie Montes can tell them first hand that the course required to become a certified landfill operator covers unending pages of technical data, involves on-site inspections of poorly to well-run landfills and concludes with an examination that sometimes knocks out nearly 50 percent of the participants.

Montes, who supervises the debris landfill in Capitan for the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, recently successfully completed the course to become the county's first certified landfill operator.

The 31-year-old Capitan resident has worked at the landfill for about 3 1/2 years. With state and federal environmental regulations becoming tougher and more complicated each year, authority manager Joe Lewandowski and Montes thought it was time for him to advance his education and training.

He headed to Albuquerque where he attended a 40-hour landfill operation manager course offered by the continuing education division of the University of New Mexico at its Environmental Training Center.

"They started from the beginning, the gas and other leachate produced by trash," Montes said. "They reviewed different types of hazardous waste and how to screen the trash, and what to do if you find hazardous waste."

"A lot of the information dealt with compliance. The business is really changing. They're getting tough on those things. They gave an overview of all state and federal regulations. They took us from step one to the final stage of how to plan and build a landfill. They covered going to town meetings and handling public relations and working with communities to getting the landfill certified."

"We visited and rated landfills from some totally in compliance like Rio Rancho to some pretty bad ones. And we learned a little about shooting grades."

"It was a tough course." At the end of the five days, the students faced a 200 question examination.

"On one of the previous courses, of the 23 who took it, only 14 passed," Montes said. "They tell you that right off. Every night, we'd go back to our rooms and study. There was a lot of material to cover."

Now back at his job in Capitan, Montes is waiting for his certificate to arrive and replaying in his mind parts of what he learned in Albuquerque.

Montes said he enjoys his work, his surroundings and most of the people he meets.

"This is a pretty place," he said. "And it's a lot busier in the summer. A lot more people are coming through, so you don't feel isolated at all."

Hired last November, Brito with his wife, Grace, and their three year old daughter, Brittany, have moved from Alamogordo and now live in Capitan.

Historical Society sets priorities for future

Publications will be the new priority of the Lincoln County Historical Society for 1994, members decided at their meeting earlier this month.

President Bob Boebinger said a new booklet is being put together and before the end of the year, he hopes that one more will be released.

Alice Blakestad, director for publications, and historian Nora Henn handle the job of steering the publication projects.

The board approved issuing five newsletters during the year, the first to be released in late February, followed by others in April, June, August and October. They will coincide with the general meetings scheduled during those months.

Terry Koanig is editing director, assisted by Lynn Korpig and Walter Henn, director for arts.

The general meetings were set for April 23, June 25, August 27 and October 22. Vice president Bill

Allen and Verna Allen are responsible for the programs and will be assisted by Bob Rowe, who was appointed to the board during the meeting. He also will help with the society's membership efforts.

The board also appointed director Jade Boebinger to take charge of publicity for the society in an effort to achieve a higher profile on activities to attract greater participation by members.

The society operates the Dr. Woods House in Lincoln under the directorship of Ralph and Rosalie Dunlap. About 25,000 persons toured the house in 1993, which at times put a great deal of pressure on the interpreters.

The board agreed that in 1994, a part-time interpreter will be added to the staff of two full-time people on the busier days.

Dr. Woods House will be open on the first of May and close September 30. House cleaning for opening day is scheduled for April 30. Volunteers are welcome to help.

Ruth Elizabeth Reynolds

Services for Ruth Elizabeth Reynolds, 74, of Ruidoso Downs, will be at 3 p.m. Friday, January 28, at LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

The Reverend Bill Kennedy of the First Christian Church will officiate. Burial will follow at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Reynolds died Monday, January 24, at Lincoln County Medical Center. She was born September 29, 1919, in Roswell.

During the early years of her life and marriage she was a ranchwife and more recently had been involved in the Lincoln County Humane Society and owned and operated the Tack Shop at Ruidoso Downs Race Track with her husband. She had lived in Lincoln County for 25 years after moving here from El Paso, Texas.

She married William Allen Reynolds on May 17, 1940, in Carizozo.

Survivors include her husband, William, of Ruidoso Downs; a daughter, Anita Ruth Mallory and her husband, Bob, of Farmington; sons Dean Reynolds and his wife, Deloris of Carlsbad, and Jimmie Reynolds and his wife, Winnie Reynolds of Lovington.

Survivors include 10 grandchildren: Doopp Posey, Donna Posey, Mike Greenleaf, Bonnie Greenleaf, Jay Reynolds, Paula Reynolds, Rocky Reynolds, Debbie Reynolds, Shawn Dee Reynolds and Tammy Mallory and 12 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Ruth Reynolds Memorial Fund at Ruidoso State Bank.

Jerry Stokes

Services for Jerry Stokes, 71, of Roswell, were at 10 a.m. Wednesday, January 26, at Bethel Baptist Church.

The Reverend Bob White of Bethel Baptist Church officiated. Special music was provided by Lynn and Lamar Morin of the Church. Interment followed at South Park Cemetery.

Stokes died Monday, January 24, in a Roswell hospital. He was born November 8, 1922, in Iredell, Bosque County, Texas, to Frank and Pearl Smith Stokes.

He married Lula Inell Reagon on January 15, 1971, in Albuquerque. Stokes had been a Roswell resident for 10 years and had been a Ruidoso resident for 16 years.

Prior to moving to Roswell, he was a bookkeeper for Cameron Lumber Yard in Sundown, Texas. He had been employed for five years as a bookkeeper for the State of New Mexico.

When in Ruidoso, he had owned the Ruidoso Cleaners and Montgomery Wards. He had been a contractor and also a police officer at one time.

Stokes had served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

His parents, one brother and a sister, preceded him in death.

Survivors include his wife, Lula of Roswell; two sons: John Earl Stokes of Portales, and James Mark Stokes of Clovis; a stepson: Royce Williams of Lubbock, Texas; three daughters: Marilyn Bourne of Clovis, Sharon Holland of Denton, Texas, Cindy Carter of Las Vegas, Nevada and a stepdaughter: Rose Lee Bush of Danville, New York.

Episcopal community gathers to dedicate bells

The bells of St. Anne's

The bell tower and bell at St. Anne's Chapel, Glencoe, were blessed and dedicated at morning outdoor services January 23. And the bells were named Hugo and Hilda in honor of the parents of Robert O. Anderson, Hugo August Anderson and Hilda Nelson Anderson.

After opening prayers the Right Reverend Dr. Terrence Kelshaw, bishop of the Episcopal dioceses of the Rio Grande, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Anderson, addressed the bishop as follows: "We present to you the bell tower and bells contained therein to be sent apart for the service of Christ's Holy Church."

Then special prayers were given by Bishop Kelshaw, Father John Penn, the Reverend Ann Gaddy, Father Robert Batton and layreader Frank Crawley. After conclusion of the outdoor service the bells were rung; first by Bishop Kelshaw, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Anderson, and members of the congregation beginning with the youngest.

Following the ringing of the bells, services were held inside the church.

Bishop Kelshaw said that naming of the bells was a tradition going back to the earliest days of the church, and that bells tell us of God's grace and love for us and that they have a message that unites us to the communion of saints, "those of us that have gone on before us acolyte.

Speaking of the services, Robert O. Anderson said, "This is a happy day for my father and mother in heaven for they always dearly loved St. Anne's Chapel."

Bishop Kelshaw, who has a special spot in his heart for St. Anne's said, "This is a milestone in the ongoing history of St. Anne's. A history of traditional, devout worship, a history that we pray will continue for the glory of our Lord and the blessing of his people."

Services at Holy Mount

After the services at St. Anne's, Bishop Kelshaw conducted services at the Church of the Holy Mount. Christie Brown and Joan Stroud were baptized. Steve and Joan Stroud, Stan Thomas and Wayne and Chris Shepard were confirmed.

At the annual meeting of the Episcopal Church of Lincoln County, Sandra Webber, Gray Peeples and Jim Cooper were elected to three-year terms on the vestry. Dr. James Fenimore was appointed to a two-year term. Frank Crawley was elected as a delegate to the Diocesan Convention with Robert Whitely as alternate.

Lincoln County is a favorite spot for Bishop Kelshaw and his wife, Hazel; and they bring a blessing to us whenever they come to visit. We hope that they will return soon.

to be with the Lord."

Bishop Kelshaw based his sermon on Psalm 31 which tells us of God's forgiveness, mercy and redemption. Father John Penn expressed deep appreciation for the joys and blessings of this day, and paid tribute to the builders of the tower by introducing contractor Frank Crawley, foreman the Reverend Robert Batton and the two helpers, Paul Butler and Carl Bowden.

Frank Crawley said "we enjoyed this work more than any project that we have ever undertaken. It was an honor."

Briggs Anderson, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Anderson, was appointed by Bishop Kelshaw as chaplain for the day.

The Reverend Ann Gaddy read the Gospel for the day. Prayers of the people were read by Nellie Ruth Jones. Hymns were played by organist Debbie Sanchez. Cathy Jones was Sunday School teacher. Rice Perry was

Mescalero tribal leaders give up on the feds

Members of the Mescalero Apache Tribe are tired of waiting for the U.S. government to get its act together on how to dispose of high level nuclear waste.

Fred Peso, vice president of the tribe and MRS project manager, went on the attack when he spoke Wednesday to the Institute of Nuclear Materials Management in Washington D.C.

Peso attacked what he called "let's pretend" politics which has dominated nuclear waste policy in Congress and at DOE. Peso characterized Washington's record as one of, "Let's pretend we care about nuclear waste. Let's appoint a Nuclear Waste Negotiator. Then we can pretend we think a solution is important. We can pretend we're trying to solve the problem without risking any actual decisions."

Peso said the new negotiator, Richard Stallings, may be a man without a mission.

Peso's remarks reviewed the tribe's experience in the voluntary MRS siting process administered by the U.S. Nuclear Waste Negotiator's Office.

While the tribe remains an active participant in the negotiator's process, with a pending request to enter formal negotiations, Peso made it clear he wasn't hopeful that the federal siting effort would produce results.

"The handwriting is on the wall," said Peso. "A federal MRS by 1998 is out of the question."

Peso went on to say that the tribe had commenced exploratory discussions with several utilities regarding the possibility of forming a joint venture to develop a private, commercial MRS. These discussions are only preliminary now.

"I can tell you that I am fairly certain the utilities we are talking with will make better business partners than the U.S. government," said Peso. "They are forthright, honorable and prompt."

Peso indicated that the tribal council was considering the nuclear waste disposal project because of its promise of longterm economic security for future generations.

He urged utilities to join the Mescaleros in developing a private MRS facility.

Garbage authority chief responds to board questions

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

In a January 20 memorandum to his governing board, Joe Lewandowski, general manager of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, offered some detailed answers to questions posed at a recent meeting of the coalition.

Lewandowski told The Ruidoso News Tuesday that he waited until he had a chance to research each question and come up with specifics, instead of trying to respond spontaneously during the meeting.

The most pressing question brought up during the budget review last week concerned what member Wilton Howell, a county commissioner, contended was a previously unbudgeted increase in salaries.

"Why is there an increase in salaries for the transfer station of $44,936," Howell queried.

"The former budget allowed for $207,714 for salaries at the transfer station," Lewandowski said in his memo. "This number was figured from last year's payroll. The problem with this is that services and areas have changed since then:

—a transport driver and county route driver were not employed last fiscal year for the full year.

—no consideration was given for $3,209 in salaries from the prior year.

—instead of using two workers from Camp Sierra Blanca minimum security prison, who were listed under contract labor in the budget revisions presented in December, the authority is using only one in recycling. While contract labor was reduced by $3,000, a full-time employee was hired.

"These three and some other minor items caused the change you saw in the December meeting from $207,715 to $240,650," Lewandowski said. "The change for December's $240,630 to January's $252,650 was caused, because of the decision received on a workman's compensation claim. We did not have that decision at the time of the December meeting."

"This revised budget was put together by using actual numbers for the last six-month period. I will be meeting with (Ruidoso village manager) Gary Jackson to look at the format of the budget and actual reporting numbers. There was no reporting system at all when I started. I implemented a system that works in the private sector, but does not provide all the information requested by the State Department of Finance and Administration."

He noted that all of the budget and operational information is available at the authority office and is open for public or board inspection. He previously pointed out that he listed his home telephone number on the revised budget should board members have questions between meetings about changes.

He reiterated that offer in the memo, inviting them to contact him.

"This could eliminate some confusion in our board meetings," he said.

Responding to a question from member Bill Schwettmann, a county commissioner, about the budget for container (dumpster) maintenance, Lewandowski said he is not over budget.

"The former budget (put together under a previous manager) and the revised budget both allowed for $20,000. As of December 31, we have spent $14,633.58. We also have enough inventory of container parts in our shop to most likely get us to the end of the (fiscal) year. Since we are doing the containers ourselves, we do not have the cost of paying for an outside contractor's

Howell noted that contract hauling under the landfill portion of the budget was not an item approved by the board.

"This dollar amount is to pay for the roll-off at the transfer station for disposal of large items, limbs and pine needles brought in by residents," Howell said. "It is cheaper for us to have the resident bring the items to us than have them on the street."

Lewandowski answered that contract hauling was approved by the board on the former budget. Noting the pages, he pointed out that the board approved $1,500 for contract hauling for the transfer station and $500 for the recycling center. In the revised budget, he zeroed those accounts and moved the total $2,000 to contract hauling for the landfill.

"So this item was not a new expense, it was just re-allocated and increased by $1,200," he said. "So far, we have spent $2,600 this year."

In three pages of the budget attached to the memo, Lewandowski noted more than $26,000 in items not paid in last fiscal year's budget that will have to be covered in the current budget.

Hepatitis exposure contained after mid-schooler diagnosed

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Possible exposure to hepatitis led to precautionary inoculations being given to several special education students last week at Ruidoso Middle School.

Ruidoso district superintendent Mike Gladden told The Ruidoso News Wednesday school officials notified early last week that driver and aides as to what precaution one of the children in the special education unit was suffering from hepatitis A, which is spread by fecal-oral transmission.

"We have addressed the situation and pursued precautions, so late and we didn't know until Tuesday there shouldn't be a problem," day night, the tail end of the 14- to 15-day incubation period," Gladden said.

"We notified the local health department and it notified Santa Fe as they were notified."

(state epidemiology) for guidance," Terry Gillespie. "We were told real-ly late in the stage (of the infection) If gamma globulin is administered within 14 days, it's effective-ness is 85 percent. We weren't even said."

aware of the situation until the state said to go ahead with the shots and if any other cases develop, they would be milder."

While Gladden was out of town, Gillespie worked with Lincoln County public health officer, Dr. said.

Arlene Brown and Paul Wirth, director of school district support services.

Acting on instructions from the state, all but two students in the hepatitis special education unit received inoculations of gamma globulin, used they should see their doctor."

The future looks pretty good!

Congratulations to the hundreds of honor students listed in today's edition. The Ruidoso News and our advertisers want these good students to know that they are the pride of this community.

We hear often of the students who don't attend school, who misbehave when they get there and just generally scoff at authority and society's expectations of them. But, we hear much more often about the good things being accomplished by young people. Making good grades is high on our list of important, character building achievements, and these kids deserve our respect.

We at The News have a special reason to be proud of this semester honor roll, because all of the high school students who work here are on the list. These hard-working young people work at The News after school and on weekends, but they have a clear view that getting a good education is the top priority at this time in their lives. Congratulations to The News kids: Nikki Hoffer, Heather Blosser, Shari French, Vada Stillwell and Audra Allison.

Take time to read the entire list so you can add your congratulations to our when you see these good students at school, at church or on the job. And, to these youngsters we say, keep up the good work!

How will New Mexico get out of the cellar?

One of the mysteries of the Land of Enchantment is how the statistics keep showing us becoming bigger and better in every way, yet the dismal reality remains as impoverished as ever.

We outgrow the nation in jobs, income, housing, tourism, industry, population, land values, tax revenue, business services and foreign trade. Yet we remain among the two or three poorest, most unequal, worst educated, most violent states in the union.

What in the world happened to all the progress the statistics seem to show?

Part of the answer lies in Santa Fe, where the annual legislative loveboat is ready to sail the political seas.

Last year, the question was how to cope with projected tax shortfalls, and the answer was to eviscerate the poor and working class. Food and medical tax rebates for the poor were eliminated, and gasoline taxes rose six cents a gallon.

This year the questions are exactly the opposite: What to do about a $300 million project surplus? What the 112 legislators choose to do about it could shape the politics and economics of New Mexico for years.

The debate will be fought on many turfs, but the starkest and probably the most momentous battleground will be the state income tax.

Three types of proposals will be on the table.

One calls for nullifying last year's misguided tax increases by eliminating most of the gas tax hike and restoring the income tax rebates for the poor.

A second plan concentrates relief on a one-shot income tax rebate in 1994 that will give back a few dollars to most people.

And the third provides for a massive, permanent reduction in income taxes.

The key question underlying all three plans is who gets helped and who gets gored.

Just as income tax increases tend to hit the rich hardest (because they are the ones who pay, and who can afford to pay, most income taxes), so income tax cuts largely benefit the upper brackets. After all, it is difficult to cut the income taxes of those who don't pay income taxes.

Thus the more tax relief focuses on income taxes, and the most the relief is permanent rather than temporary, the more the upper brackets will benefit and the less help the poor and lower-middle class will get.

Simply remedying last year's injustices would concentrate relief at the bottom. Alternatively, a one-shot tax refund would be nice for everybody, but only a little nice. Because spreading relief across the whole spectrum would reduce each individual's rebate to a pittance.

Finally, permanent tax reductions are likely to be of most help to those who need it least, the upper income group.

Various stripes of Democrats have lined up behind the first two proposals, while Republicans are in the process of working up the third alternative. Although the GOP plan has not yet surfaced publicly, Senator Duncan Scott, a freshman Republican from Bernalillo County, is drafting a bill that is expected to be the main GOP proposal.

It would put about $250 million of the $300 million surplus into permanent income tax reductions. The major feature of the bill is expected to be a sharp reduction in the maximum tax rates paid by the well-to-do.

Because Republicans are an ineffectual minority in both houses, this plan has little chance of enactment in its entirety, but bits and pieces of it might find their way into the Democratic bill. More important, Republicans see it as a campaign theme in this year's elections.

The governorship, all other statewide offices, 70 House seats, three congressional seats and one U.S. Senate seat are all at stake. Although national Republicans are concentrating their resources on trying to unseat U.S. Senator Jeff Bingaman, local Republicans see greater chances of making gains in Santa Fe, and they may be right.

Whatever happens, it is clear that the strategies and politics of the next month's tax cutting will play a key role in the outcome.

They also will play a key role in whether this state continues to languish in the national cellar. If this state is ever to prosper, the Legislature is going to have to find ways to spread the fruits of growth more equitably among our people. This is not an easy thing for legislators to do, for they are dependent — and they are all too aware of it — on the upper half for votes and contributions.

The lower half is the silent half. It seldom speaks at the polls, and thus its weight is seldom felt in Santa Fe. Until the former changes, the latter is not likely to either.

"The Storytellers of Lincoln County" released

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A film titled "The Storytellers of Lincoln County" recently was screened at the Fifth Annual Palm Springs International Film Festival. Directed by Delana Michaels, daughter of Carmichael Phillips, who operates the Old Mill Gifts and Books in Ruidoso, the 65-minute film was well received at the festival. Michaels said she's now looking forward to a local premiere in New Mexico.

Many local residents of Lincoln County appear in the film to recount stories told by their grandparents and great-grandparents.

In a statement accompanying information on the film, Michaels explained that she grew up in the historic old grist mill with a big over-shot water wheel, built in 1868.

"As I began to learn the history of the Old Mill and the early stories of my hometown, I realized that it would soon be lost to time," she wrote. "I felt a sense of urgency to record the stories of the descendants of the Mescalero Apache Indians and the Spanish, Mexican and pioneer settlers. I was fortunate to talk with people whose families actually knew Billy the Kid, Pat Garrett, Geronimo and other cowboy, outlaw and Indian legends of the Old West."

The result of more than 80 hours of oral history, the film chronicles the bloody Lincoln County War, the Indian War with the Apache, and the rough and tough honky-tonk days of the Twentieth Century as told by descendants who heard descriptions by their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents.

"Humor and drama fill the tales of violence, survival, small pleasures and big tragedies of life in the early American frontier," according to the synopsis of the film.

This is Michaels' first time on the other side of the camera as director, although she has been in the entertainment business since 1972.

"I have appeared in several films ('The Man Who Fell to Earth,' 'Bite The Bullet,' 'Book of Love'), on television shows ('Picket Fences,' 'The Secrets of Lake Success,' 'Roseanne,' 'Murder She Wrote,' 'The Burning Bed' and 'Highway to Heaven'), and many television commercials and voice-overs," Michaels said. "Since 1989, I have traveled throughout the Southwest to film locations, to interview characters and to research material for the film. It is a documentary Valentine to my hometown."

The producer and editor on the film, Rod McCall, was the writer/director of "Paper Hearts," which was presented at the 1993 Sundance Film Festival. He has written and directed television shows such as "Saturday Night Live," "Sesame Street" and the "Electric Company," has directed award winning documentaries and won several Cleo Awards for commercials.

The film, presented by Old Mill Productions, features longtime Lincoln County residents Clayton Bennett, Frank Potter, Marie Rooney, Florence Anglin Wheeler, Barney Rue, Bill McCarty, Dave Parks, Barbara Duff, Wayne Joyce and Beth Brown.

Professionals assembled for the film include Joe Bowlin, a historian and founder of The Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang; Bob Hart, former historian for the Lincoln County Heritage Trust Museum; John Meigs, an artist, gallery owner and longtime resident of Hondo Valley; Dan Storm, longtime resident and columnist for The Ruidoso News; Frederick Pesco, historian for the Mescalero Apache Tribe; Jack Rigney, chief ranger at The Old Lincoln County Courthouse Museum; and Bill Thorp, professor of history and biology at Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso.

Those with family connections to the violence that surrounded the Kid or the early pioneer days are: Joe Coe, the great nephew of George and Frank Coe, who were friends of the Kid; Helen Garrett Garner, granddaughter of sheriff Pat Garrett, who killed the Kid; Jimmy Gonzales, whose grandparents were friends of the Kid; Nellie Ruth Jones, granddaughter of Frank Coe, who rode and fought with the Kid in the Lincoln County War; Paul Jones, grandson of Robert Casey, whose killer was the recipient of the first legal hanging in Lincoln; the late Hazel Kennedy, who was an early resident and came from Texas in a covered wagon; George Coe-Perry family members, who are the grandchildren of George Coe, who rode and fought with the Kid; Joe Reinhardt, who introduced slot machines to the county; Arvel Runnels, who outfits hunters in the same locations where his parents were early settlers; Chino Silva, grandson of Jesus Silva, who was a pall bearer for the Kid; and Dan Swearingin, whose father treated Elizabeth Garrett, daughter of Pat Garrett.

Others interviewed who were involved with the Old Dowlan Mill. They are Ed Dowlin, great nephew of Paul Dowlin and the great grandson of Will Dowlin, who built The Old Mill in 1868; Evelyn Estes, great-granddaughter of Charlie Wingfield, who worked at The Old Mill and homesteaded; Ailene Lindamood, granddaughter of Frank Lesnett, second owner of The Old Mill and the first postmaster of Ruidoso; Carmon Phillips, who restored the Old Mill; and the late Leona Mae Phillips, who helped with the restoration.

"This film is dedicated to her memory," Michaels said.

Michaels handled the cinematography herself. Neil Argo provided the music.

Photographs were supplied by individuals, museums and research centers.

Photographs brought to life through "The Storytellers of Lincoln County," a film by Delana Michaels, include (at top) two Mescalero Apache dancers in their roles as mountain gods; (middle left) a group of Mescalero Apaches caught in time by the camera; a typical scene from a cowboy camp in Lincoln County before the turn of the century; and the Old Dowlan Mill in Ruidoso, built in 1868 before Sudderth Drive existed.

NEW MEXICO CHILD NEEDS A HOME
Jerry, 10, was born on November 12, 1982. She is part Navajo and Shoshone, although not registered with either tribe. She and her brother and sister have been in one foster home since December 1990. Her social worker feels she'd do better if placed by herself, but she'll need to stay in touch with her siblings.
Jerry is a bright, "perky" girl who enjoys being outdoors, riding her bike, and arts and crafts. She sings in the church choir and dreams of becoming a movie star. Jerry is an excellent 4th grade student who makes friends easily and is popular at school. She also gets along well with adults. However, she can be stubborn and refuse to do what is asked of her at home.
Therapy is helping Jerry deal with extensive abuse. She has been known to steal and do some shoplifting. She wants a financially secure family since having nice things seems to provide a measure of safety for her. Jerry also prefers an Anglo family. She doesn't identify with any Native American culture but her social worker would like her adoptive family to provide positive and enriching cultural experiences. A two parent family with a strong Christian faith is preferred, though single moms will be considered. Some financial assistance is available.
