Garbage authority to meet on Monday

Routine business is all that's facing the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority when the board meets at 10 a.m. Monday, April 18, at the main office, 222 Second Street in Ruidoso Downs.

On the agenda for this, the first regular meeting since Commissioner Wilton Howell was named chairman, is a word of appreciation for former chairman Frank Warth.

Also included for discussion are recycling, financial statement, special pickup policy and a manager's report on liens.

Meetings of the authority are open to the public.

Girls slo-pitch play is starting this week

Skill clinics for a girls slo-pitch softball league begin at 6 p.m. Wednesday, April 13, at Eagle Creek Sports Complex.

The program is open to girls 18 and younger, and signups are under way now.

Coaches, as well as players, are required to attend the clinics.

Call Debbie Jo Almager at the Parks and Recreation Department, 257-5030, to sign up.

"Girls, don't forget your gloves," reminds Almager.

Senior Olympics to form local board

"You don't stop playing because you grow old; you grow old because you stop playing."

That is the motto of New Mexico Senior Olympics, Inc.

Ruidoso may become a local-games site for the New Mexico Senior Olympics.

Once a community board has been selected and sanctioned, the games can begin.

Anyone interested in the health and fitness of senior adults may attend the organizational meeting at 3 p.m. Monday, April 18, at the Ruidoso Senior Citizens Center, behind the Ruidoso Public Library on Sudderth Drive.

Ranch groups cancel candidates' forum

The three ranching groups that planned a candidates forum for this Sunday in Carrizozo have announced that their event is canceled.

People for the West, the Farm Bureau and the Lincoln County Cowbelles billed their political forum as "American as apple pie," and planned to sell hot dogs and homemade apple pie.

But, according to a message that was FAX'd to The News on Wednesday, the rally is off, apparently because of lack of interest among candidates.

Many area candidates are unopposed in the June primary, and will be gearing up for serious campaigning before the November general election.

Today's tax day!

Attention procrastinators: mail dropped off before midnight today at the Ruidoso post office will be postmarked April 15, 1994.

The Post Office is extending this service to accommodate last-minute income tax filers.

Council zeros in on hotel

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council charged ahead with the request for proposal (RFP) for a hotel lease Tuesday, in a meeting that lasted less than one and a half hours.

Before the vote to advertise for a hotel lease, former councilor Barbara Duff surprised the council by asking them to consider purchasing land off Mechem to give for a new hotel.

Duff said storage was a problem at the 33,000 square-foot convention civic events center and the current hotel site next to the center should be saved for future expansion.

Duff told the council she had inquired of three possible hotel sites on Highway 48.

"Before we go too far, if there would be an opportunity to either the village provide the land or work some kind of arrangement, we could save the land we have between the hotel and the civic center," she said.

Duff, who has been highly critical of the language in the last hotel lease agreement, now appears willing for the village to buy land to "provide" a new hotel owner. Such a transaction may violate the state anti-donation clause.

She told the council she wanted to make sure her comments were on record.

Duff's proposal also appears to favor special events over convention trade, the main stated purpose of the new hotel.

Without banquet facilities or meeting rooms in or adjoining the hotel, it would not be considered a convention hotel.

The council is depending on the marketing potential of a convention hotel to bring in small groups for meeting rooms and banquet facilities to greatly reduce center costs to the local taxpayer.

Mayor Jerry Shaw thanked Duff for her concern.

"I don't think we're going to need to enlarge the center if we don't get a hotel next door," Shaw said.

Shaw agreed with Duff that there is a storage problem at the center.

"I think, until we get a hotel, if you could see what it (the center) is costing us to operate, (about $500,000 last year) it will take that hotel and more to make it (the center) successful," Shaw said.

She told Duff the property she (Duff) spoke of was private property and it was within the owners right to develop another hotel.

"I do think when we build that first hotel adjacent to the convention civic center, there will be other investors that will come forward to build another hotel," Shaw said.

The long awaited showdown over the Short Street Bridge again was postponed for two weeks.

Bridge owner Susan Merrill says if the bridge is torn down, she will be landlocked from her property. Village officials say unless it meets certain standards to take away liability from the village, it has to be torn down.

Merrill's lawyer and village attorney John Underwood were to work out a solution.

Better think twice before dropping off a load of trash in arroyos around Ruidoso.

State, county and village code enforcement officials are cracking down in record numbers against illegal dumpers.

Environmental specialist Fred Bennett with the State Department of Environment said after checking an area near Frank's Fruit Market, he sent a citation to Denny Loverin of Abilene, Texas, who owns the property, according to county tax records.

"It's definitely a violation and I sent a notice by certified mail April 4," Bennett said. He cited the owner under a provision prohibiting the improper disposing of solid waste under the Solid Waste Act.

The property off the highway is stacked with discarded appliances, couches and general debris. Piles of dirt have been deposited in sections.

Bennett said the citation gives the owner 10 days to respond and explain how he will clean up the problem area below U.S. 70 a few hundred yards from the market and within the Ruidoso Downs town limits.

"If his plan is unsatisfactory or if he doesn't respond, we will give him 90 days and tell him how he is going to do it," Bennett said.

If the illegal dumper cannot be located, the job of cleaning up the mess falls to the property owner, Bennett said.

To prevent future dumping, the road to the area could be blocked off, a fence erected and no trespassing signs posted.

That's exactly what Loverin has in mind, he told The Ruidoso News Friday.

"I haven't given anyone permission to dump anything there," he said from his home in Texas. "The last time was 2 1/2 to three years ago when they were building on the White Mountain school and I allowed a contractor to pile some dirt there. But that's when I still was living (in Ruidoso) and was able to check on it."

Once the property is cleaned up, he plans to barricade the entrance, although he said that's no guarantee the illegal dumping will stop.

Tons of old and new construction material grace an arroyo two blocks off Paradise Canyon Road. Arrests were made.

Board OKs new RHS principal

by FRANKIE JARRELL
The Ruidoso News Editor

Ronald R. Hodges, an educator with administrative, teaching and coaching experience that extends from 1965 until today, is the new principal at Ruidoso High School.

Hodges currently is vice president for instruction, admissions director and high school principal at Menaul School, a private school, in Albuquerque.

Superintendent Mike Gladden recommended Hodges for the RHS job and the board approved his choice with all "ayes." Hodges was one of three finalists for the job, and one of just nine applicants.

Current principal, Don Weems, moved up to the high school from White Mountain Intermediate School two years ago; and was recently reassigned from the high school back to the brand new Sierra Vista Primary School.

The board has gone back and forth between moving up people in the system and bringing in newcomers, with the principal before Weems recruited from outside the system.

The other two finalists were assistant principal Danny Flores and former Carrizozo superintendent Danny Burnett.

"It was a difficult choice with the three finalists and Danny Flores being one of those," said Gladden, who doesn't foresee any further changes in his administrative team.

"The reason I went with Ron Hodges is that he has a proven record as a high school principal both at Belen and Menaul," said Gladden.

He went on to say that he was looking for someone who is firm, fair and consistent with students and staff; someone who can enhance the pride in both groups.

Gladden said the new principal will join the staff before May 1, to lead the transition.

"So he'll have a jump on next year," said Gladden.

Hodges, who has been at Menaul since 1991, has a master's degree in secondary education and educational administration from the University of New Mexico and a bachelor's degree in secondary education from UNM. He is certified in secondary education and administration.

Hodges was superintendent of Belen Consolidated School from 1990 to 1991, administrative director of support services from 1989 to 1990, principal of Belen High from 1981 to 1989, assistant principal said he also has been notified that someone is interested in picking up the metal debris.

"I've never had this trouble before," Loverin said. "I'm upset someone has done this. It's not their property."

In the case of an illegal dump off Paradise Canyon Road, Ruidoso village code enforcement officers Thomas Chavez and Bill Jenkins were able to pinpoint at least one person who had disposed of debris in a small canyon.

"It originally started with a complaint about a trashy lot," Jenkins said. "After handling that, we were driving around and spotted this canyon that was totally trashed. I hadn't ever seen anything like it."

Since the canyon was situated in a section along the road outside of the village limits, the code enforcement officers notified county code enforcement coordinator Patsy Sanchez.

"When she came out the next day and saw it, her mouth fell to the ground," Jenkins said. "Commissioner Wilton Howell also got involved. He got a hold of the sheriff's department."

Jenkins, Chavez and sheriff's deputy code enforcement officer Charlie LaBelle waded into the piles of debris and garbage.

"A lot of fresh material was there," Chavez said. "It obviously was an active site."

"We got lucky. We found bills of lading, packing slips, photos and checks with the name of the individual responsible, and we found them throughout various locations in the pile, not just in one group."

The owner of the property, who lives in Texas, was contacted and asked if she had given permission for anyone to dump trash on her land. Jenkins said she assured

School board hears complaints about athletics and staff changes

by FRANKIE JARRELL

The Ruidoso News Editor

A crowd of from 100 to 150 showed up Tuesday to line out the Ruidoso School Board.

Distressed over the reassignment of a popular girls sports coach and concerned about the board's approach to collective bargaining, a diverse group of parents, teachers, administrators, students and others overflowed the plush new meeting room in the Administration Building.

The board and crowd moved to the bigger Ruidoso Middle School cafeteria for an emotional meeting with fully half the two hours spent in listening to attorney Karen Parsons tell the administration and board in great detail of their error in reassigning girls volleyball coach Jody Blanton from head coach to classroom teacher.

Parsons, holding a thick manila folder that apparently contained Blanton's employment information from her nine years as a Ruidoso coach and teacher, assured the board that she was not representing Blanton as an attorney. Parsons said she was speaking out because she admires the coach for "her love for the children and the game of volleyball."

Parsons, who has a daughter in the RHS volleyball program, indicated that she was speaking for many parents and players, and the applause that peppered her remarks bore that out.

The board was reluctant to abandon its strict policy of not talking about specific personnel in open meeting, but was faced down by the vocal crowd led by a strong personality, who happened to be an attorney.

Parsons assured the board that she had Blanton's permission to make her concerns public, claiming that Blanton's change in job duties was a decision made by superintendent Mike Gladden alone. She admonished the board for not voting on the change and made a public plea for the board to reverse what she described as Gladden's sole decision.

Parsons complained that Gladden didn't seek out her opinion before making the staffing change.

Neither Gladden nor the board commented on the personnel action throughout Parsons' hour-long, often impassioned, speech that had the tone and tenor of a final charge to a jury.

When Board Chairman Ronnie

Hemphill saw the remarks going far beyond the usual general comments from the audience, he made one last-ditch effort to quiet Parsons.

Claiming her right to speak out, Parsons responded to Hemphill's directive to speak in generalities, with "I'll get to generalities."

"I won't participate in the mean, malicious or slanderous remarks that have been made by one board member," she added.

Parsons said RHS principal Donnie Weems and athletic director Juan Baca had indicated to her that they did not participate in the decision. She said her understanding was from reading Blanton's personnel file, not from talking with those two school officials.

Blanton was not present to confirm or deny whether she wanted her job performance and alleged complaints aired before the board; however, Parsons listed some of the complaints that she believes might have led to the change.

She claimed they involved the lack of participation in volleyball by native American students, pressure to participate in off-season volleyball and general coaching complaints from parents.

Parsons dissected those complaints, lambasted the board and administration, and throughout, she praised Blanton. She told the board that the girls in the volleyball program, for the most part, love and respect Coach Blanton.

"The best that this school system has to offer is Jody Blanton," said Parsons in closing her speech.

Another parent, Jody Fromknecht, followed up by calling the turnover in the RHS coaching staff a "joke."

"You're not hiring the best," said Fromknecht in his list of complaints, indicating the problem must be at the top.

"Mr. Superintendent, I ask for your resignation," yelled Fromknecht, standing at the back of the cafeteria.

A tearful Elizabeth Clawson, identifying herself as the wife of RHS teacher and coach Kevin Clawson, stood up front to say that everyone makes mistakes, adding she believes the board has the best interests of the children at heart.

First year head basketball coach Paul Kirkwood chose the board meeting as his forum to question his bosses on several issues, including whether or not there is going to be an athletic hour.

Kirkwood compared athletics to other activities that do have a class period, like band, saying he believes there should be a sports period.

Assistant golf coach Kent Beatty, who ran unsuccessfully for a spot on the school board, added his observations. Beatty said he doesn't see why the school can't find a way to offer an athletic period. He told the board that the crowd was on hand for answers, and he recommended to the crowd that they tell the board so.

"It's not cool to sit up there and say 'thank you very much,'" noted Beatty.

"I'm not very cool," said Chairman Hemphill in thanking the public for speaking out and turning his attention to the business before the board.

In another hot issue, teachers were out in force to hear the board's response to a request from the Ruidoso Education Association (REA), the local arm of the National Education Association (NEA).

They weren't pleased with what they heard.

Asked by teacher representative Dean Hood to voluntarily recognize the REA as the collective bargaining agent between administration and staff, the board voted "no," in a tie vote broken by the chairman's "nay."

Hood told the board that about 65 percent of certified (teaching) staff and close to 60 percent of non-certified staff had returned cards to the REA, indicating, apparently, their endorsement of that group as the bargaining agent.

Board member Morris said he was surprised with that information, and wondered if all of the people who returned cards were, in fact, affirming the REA. Morris and board member Jim Varnadore voted against the voluntary acceptance, and Chairman Hemphill added his "no" to break the tie after James Paxton and Susan Lutermauer voted "yes."

Morris and Varnadore indicated they have no problems with the REA, but want the membership to vote.

A mass exodus followed as school staff, apparently shocked by the board action, left the meeting and conducted a noisy caucus in the hallway as the board went on to other business.

from '79 to 1981, and a teacher and coach in Belen from 1966 until 1978.

Gladden said he was looking for someone who had an understanding of academics and athletics, and with Hodges he believes he's found the right mix.

"He's been a coach and a teacher; I believe he can cross that line," said Gladden, who expects Hodges to be someone who will meet the challenges that exist today at RHS.

Developing next year's schedules will be among the first challenges that will face Hodges when he reports for duty.

In his resume, Hodges relates how, under his leadership, "Belen High School grew from a high school with some of the lowest test scores, worst attendance, highest dropout rate and poorest discipline to one of the state's leading high schools."

Hodges, who is 56, was selected administrator of the year for the state in 1991, and was named Belen's employer of the year in 1988. As Belen's head wrestling coach, Hodges was selected as state coach of the year three times: 1969, 1970 and 1977. Hodges also has served as head track coach and assistant football coach in Belen.

He is a veteran of the U.S. Navy, married and has three children.

In other personnel matters, the school board accepted resignations from head football coach Mike Gaston and from vocational and business teacher Bryan Harvin.

Gladden said he hasn't advertised yet for the open coaching jobs.

"We receive contacts all year long from people interested in moving to the area," said Gladden.

Audience members at Tuesday's meeting were critical about turnover rates in the RHS football staff, with some people blaming the changes on the district's lack of an "athletics period." (See related story.)

Gladden said he doesn't want the school to develop a reputation, and is working on solutions.

He said conditioning is offered fourth period, right before lunch, and is targeted for the athletes. He said coaches believe that, in addition to actual sport practice time, they need another period of time with the athletes.

The problem schedulers encounter when trying to put all athletes into a seventh period athletics period is in staffing. Gladden said the principal would have to pull four, six or eight coaches out of the classrooms where they teach a variety of courses in addition to their coaching assignments.

The board also approved leaves of absence for teachers Lee Ann Carner and Ellen Hightower; and in other personnel business retired into closed session to hear recommendations for certified and non-certified personnel for 1994-95.

Gladden said after that closed door meeting, the board reconvened and approved his recommendation to rehire all certified personnel with the exception of Kim Arnold at RHS. No action was taken on the non-certified personnel.

Gladden also made a statement after the private meeting that he had not changed his decision in regard to former coach Jody Blanton who was reassigned from coaching to classroom teaching. (See related story.)

In other regular business Tuesday, the board:

—heard reports from the superintendent on the budget timelines. The school budget, with an operational total a little over $8 million, is due in Santa Fe on April 27. The board has scheduled a work session on the budget for 5 p.m. Monday, April 25. The final, state-approved budget is scheduled for board review during a regular meeting May 10.

—accepted the ENMU-Ruidoso Instructional Center budget after a report by campus director Dr. Jim Miller. Included in the budget is a six percent pay increase for faculty as was mandated by the Commission on Higher Education.

The Ruidoso School Board is the governing body for this instructional center, but approval of the budget also goes through the main "parent" campus at Portales.

Miller said ENMU-R has set a goal to increase enrollment five percent by developing degree/certificate programs in pharmacy technician, child development and paralegal studies, and also by increasing regional marketing efforts.

He reported that the regents also approved a $1 per credit hour tuition increase.

—approved calling for bids for instructional supplies and maintenance equipment for the district's brand new school, Sierra Vista Primary, which will open next fall.

—referred the one bid, with two options, for seasonal grounds maintenance to Mike Gladden.

Old appliances scattered in an illegal dump site off U.S. 70 (top) account for only a portion of the material dropped by unknown violators. The property owner, who lives in Texas, has been cited and will be responsible for cleaning up the mess. A code enforcement officer (bottom) views the trash dumped in a drainage area along Paradise Canyon Road. Almost hidden from the view, material accumulated includes discarded appliances, construction debris and empty antifreeze drums.

Crackdown

LaBelle said Friday that sheriff's deputy Frank Hooper cited Steve Morgan for a violation of state littering law. He has yet to enter a plea in the court of Magistrate Judge William Butts, according to records. Conviction could carry a $1,000 fine and require that he clean up the property, LaBelle said.

Morgan has no telephone listing and could not be reached for comment.

Jenkins said Morgan, who he identified as a local contractor, lives above the dump site.

"It's really a pet peeve of mine, this abuse of the land, especially in drainage areas," Jenkins said.

"There were 55 gallon drums that had contained antifreeze and there were five gallon paint cans."

Chavez and Jenkins leave no doubt that they take their jobs very seriously.

"If you dump, we're watching and we'll find you," Chavez said.

"It's a crime to do that to this beautiful town and there's no excuse," Jenkins said. "The Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority can be contracted to haul anything away or someone can take it to the Capitan landfill."

"If the load consists of residential items, they can go for free on Saturday."

The recycling center in Ruidoso Downs also will accept residential items free or pickup loads of construction debris for a fee. Trailers or dump truck loads must go to the landfill.

The nuisance law also can be extended to cover private lawns, if they have been allowed to become overgrown with vegetation and full of debris.

items from non-commercial sources only, according to general manager Joe Lewandowski.

The two code enforcement officers aren't just looking for illegal dumps, which they can cite under village nuisance laws, they also search for abandoned houses and mobile homes that are open and unsafe.

"Since last September, we had 12 of them demolished and five more are active cases," Chavez said.

"The kids use them to sniff paint," Jenkins said. "They call it 'huffing.' We find their paraphernalia all the time."

Underdome told the council he hadn't done anything on the subject since the board last met, and asked for two more weeks. He told the board if he couldn't work out a solution in the next two weeks, that he would leave it up to the council to do whatever they wanted.

Under a MainStreet redevelopment update, deputy manager Alan Briley told the council he met with the D&S Construction owner who agreed to bring in more equipment to expedite construction.

The council briefly discussed re-striping Sudderth and the impact analysis, requested by the state transportation department last April.

No action was taken other than to send the statement to the highway department. Shaw said the council last year took the position that the striping was not wanted. She said until the council has a chance to review any new statement by the highway department, the council's position would not have changed.

The council elected to place out-of-state travel on the next agenda. Councilor J.D. James said he would like to amend the current approval to include an approximate cost of the trip along with other data.

In other business, the council acted to:

—approve a special dispenser's permit for an "Outdoor Celebration/Event" at the Enchantment Inn surrounding Smokey Bear celebrations. The council amended the permit to read that no outside music be allowed after 10 p.m.

—approve a Water Defense Association request for reimbursement for legal fees amounting to $5,000, the final payment.

—schedule a public hearing for May 10 to repeal the existing collective bargaining ordinance and create a new ordinance capable of tracking bargaining action.

—read a proclamation declaring the Ski Apache Ski Resort season a success.

—present Ruidoso detective Lanny Maddox a special award for completing a course with the FBI.

—approve a bid award for manhole inserts to Rio Grande Pump and Supply from Las Cruces with a total bid price of $4,680.

—approve a summer food program grant for youth.

—approve a budget resolution to add $750 to parks and recreation.

—approve the change of a street name, Runway Road South, of White Mountain Drive to Shaw Lane. The Shaws that own property on the short street are not related to the mayor.

Council fine tunes, refines budget for '94-95 fiscal year

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso village manager Gary Jackson, for eight hours Monday, kept the village council riveted on the upcoming fiscal 1994-95 budget.

Jackson's proposed budget message centered around recurring and non-recurring expenses. The council, who had over a week to study the plan, appeared to agree with what they saw and heard.

Jackson identified a non-recurring expenditure as a one-time cost, such as the purchase of a "gradall." Recurring expenses were identified as a cost that will continue into future budget years, such as new employee's salary and benefits.

"The operating budget should be developed with a sharp focus on long-term solvency," Jackson said.

He said that in this proposed budget, significant efforts have been made to reduce recurring expenditures, while identifying certain critical non-recurring needs for funding.

To that end, Jackson said that certain unverifiable recurring expenditures did not make the line items.

"Long-term financial commitments to continuing outlays should be avoided unless sustained revenue growth is assured," Jackson said.

Neither MainStreet nor the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County, two recurring expenses, made Jackson's proposed budget.

Cognizant of the sins during Ruidoso's boom time era, Jackson also stressed the necessity of being prepared in the event gambling is passed for the community and the sudden growth that the impact of gambling might stimulate. He recommended updating the village's comprehensive plan this year and every five years thereafter.

"Operating fund balances should be maintained at levels sufficient to absorb unpredictable revenue shortfalls and to ensure desired cash flow levels," Jackson said. "If fund balances truly are surplus, they should be committed first to capital needs."

Council comments leaned heavily toward Jackson's thinking.

MainStreet officials attending the workshop lobbied hard for one more year to get their act together, and finish unfinished business, such as the riverwalk.

The mayor and council were highly supportive of MainStreet, first established in 1987 as a three-year public-private partnership.

Since its inception, MainStreet has received $275,000 from the village.

According to MainStreet director Don Miller, only 35 percent of the downtown merchants are members. Before a recent membership drive, that figure was reported to be about 20 percent.

Pat Smith, a new downtown merchant who owns the Habitat, asked for one more year to leave on a "positive note rather than three steps backward."

Mayor Shaw said that "one more year" was a familiar request and one that the village had heard from other organizations year after year.

"It's back to basics for the village this year," Shaw said, referring to infrastructure costs of street, water and sewer improvement.

"Just because we don't fund a project, however, doesn't mean we don't support that project. We support MainStreet," Shaw said.

MainStreet officials submitted a work plan for 1994 to the council. It appeared to offer nothing outside of routine village services.

Jackson said the current MainStreet contract will end on June 30.

Shaw suggested MainStreet move toward a retail merchants committee, similar to one that operated in the past as an arm of the chamber of commerce.

In Jackson's overview to the council, he said the proposed budget offers a balanced general fund, but then outlined how the fund balance can be used to fund certain non-recurring expenses, primarily capital improvements.

His proposed budget priorities include:

—expenditures designed to promote, enhance, or ensure the public health, safety and welfare.

—expenditures necessary to comply with state or federal laws or regulations.

—expenditures, when it is verifiable, that after being made will reduce ongoing maintenance and operating expenditures by either reducing overall costs or avoiding anticipated costs.

—expenditures that will verifiably enhance tourism and economic development.

—expenditures designed to enhance the quality of life for residents and businesses of the village (parks and recreation).

—expenditures designed to provide for greater internal controls and, therefore, enhance financial accountability.

—expenditures for employee training and education aimed at making village personnel more proficient and productive in performing their duties.

—expenditures designed to provide for improved information management in order to provide for enhanced decision making.

—expenditures designed to enhance future planning of community's needs (an updated comprehensive plan).

Jackson schooled the new council on a variety of funds under their responsibility.

He said the trend of increasing transfers from the general fund to funds that rely on general fund subsidies is a major concern.

"The village needs to become immediately concerned with concentrating on long-term financial balance," he said.

Jackson said for the past several years, wastewater revenues have been insufficient to cover wastewater operations. He said water revenues have subsidized wastewater operations.

"The problem now is that the fund balance in the water and sewer fund has been depleted, and both water and sewer operations are facing increasing costs due to the age of the system and regulatory requirements.

"As an enterprise fund, water and sewer is designed to be self-sufficient based upon revenues they produce," he said.

He said without the use of utility fund balance and the unexpended portion of the 1/2 percent gross receipts tax, water and sewer would exceed revenues.

Jackson said a rate study should be conducted prior to the approval of the final budget around July 1.

Capital improvements scheduled for the upcoming budget year include wastewater treatment plant modifications.

"This upgrade and improvement is designed to comply with EPA regulations and to extend the life expectancy of the plant," he said.

Grindstone Water Treatment Plant is this year's biggest ticket item.

"This project will cost approximately $1,320,000," which will be funded by a combination of legislative funds ($570,000) and fund balance of the supplemental gross receipts tax fund ($750,000). This project is anticipated to be completed by the summer of 1995," Jackson said.

The council's next budget meeting was conducted Wednesday at village hall.

Downs board considers drug/alcohol policy

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Village of Ruidoso Downs is publishing a draft of a drug/alcohol policy for village employees.

According to village clerk Leann Weibrecht, the village has never had a drug/alcohol policy. She said the village wants to apply for federal funds, and two years ago the federal government stipulated that it would not award grants to cities without drug/alcohol policies.

She said a federal grant might be obtained to improve to the public park by adding bathrooms and new playground equipment.

At the regular meeting Monday, the board reviewed a policy that prohibits use and abuse of illegal drugs and alcohol. It provides for the use of normal company benefits such as sick leave and medical to aid in rehabilitation.

The policy mandates pre-employment drug screening and random drug testing of all employees. The policy provides for standard procedures in collecting urine samples. Employees will not receive advance notice of when they will be tested.

The Downs is accepting proposals for legal professional services.

According to clerk Weibrecht, village attorney Robert Beauvais has passed the $20,000 procurement mark due to the resolution of two lawsuits. The position is normally contracted for three years.

It's also time to accept proposals for financial auditor. This three-year contract was previously held by Ronnie Hemphill. Anyone interested in applying for the positions must turn in a proposal by April 29. Proposals will be evaluated using a point system, and awards will be announced at the May 9 meeting of the board of trustees.

In other business, the board of trustees approved a proclamation making May 1-7 "Small Business Week." The proclamation calls upon the people of New Mexico to recognize the outstanding achievements of small businesses.

The Ruidoso Downs police department hired a new Communications/Detention Officer, and the board approved the selection Monday. Denise Dieringer is originally from Pittsburg, Texas, and served in the Ruidoso Downs police reserve for a year and a half. She was the first female member of the reserve, and she was a lieutenant.

Dieringer is filling the vacancy left by Lance Zink's resignation in March. She is responsible for dispatching calls and jailing prisoners.

Vandals are up early today; hit nine Sudderth locations

Graffiti vandals struck nine Ruidoso businesses between the 200 and 300 blocks on Sudderth Drive sometime late Wednesday night.

Detective Lanny Maddox said dispatchers began receiving telephone calls at 6 a.m. from La Grone Funeral Chapel, Allsup's, Varnadore Cleaners, Dwight Andrews Real Estate, Don's Pharmacy, Don Johnson's Chiropractic, Gateway Shell and Dale's Conoco Station.

Maddox said the vandals or vandal used blue spray paint to print letters about 12 inches tall that appear to say: CJ N.A.P.

Maddox said CrimeStoppers, in cooperation with the area business owners, will offer a $500 cash reward for information leading to the conviction and arrest of the culprits.

CrimeStoppers number is 287-4545.

Mid-school Braves place second

The Ruidoso Invitational track meet pitted the Ruidoso Braves against some tough competitors. Out of seven teams, the girls placed second with a total of 77 points and the boys placed fourth with a total of 44 points.

Also in the running were Tularosa, Alamogordo, Dexter, Hatch and Cloudcroft. Alamogordo took top honors in boys and girls divisions.

"We had good individual efforts," said Coach Herman Fox. "But it's hard to beat a 4A school. We just don't have the horsepower. They have more people on one team than we have combined."

In girls' field events, Mandy Lewallen leaped into second place in the long jump, covering a distance of 12-11 3/4. She won the 100-meter hurdles in 19.1 seconds.

The girls' small relay team and the 1600-meter medley team both placed second. Raquel Reimann took second in the discus throw, and Priscilla Rojas won the 200-meter dash.

Bridget Tam broke two school records, running the 800-meter race in 2 minutes, 43.13 seconds and the 1600-meter in 6 minutes, 15.32 seconds. Tam is undefeated so far this year, and Coach Fox said she breaks a record every time she runs.

The boys placed second in the 400-meter relay and the 1600-meter medley. Michael Hufstetler won the 300-meter hurdles and the 100-meter hurdles. In the long jump, Jason Lopez sprang 15 feet, 10 1/2 inches to land in second place.

Golf teams finish fourth at the Inn

The Ruidoso Warriors boys golf team is one step closer to this year's state tournament as it got its second of three qualifying leg's Wednesday at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The Warriors' total of 837 beat half field, but was bested by El Paso Cathedral, Artesia and Lovington.

The Lady Warriors also finished fourth, beaten by defending New Mexico's defending State Champions, Goddard and Oñate. Goddard took last year's AAAA title and Oñate was the AAA champs.

Portales finished third and the Lady Warriors fourth.

Individually, the Warrior boys scores looked like this: Jeff Chapman, 81; Eric Stephens, 85; Jimmy Varnadore, 86; Matt Cantu, 86 and Ryan Wall, 86.

The girls were led by Devon Lowe's 107. Heather Stephens was next at 116, followed by Danielle Morris, 117; Katie Lukens, 119; and Cecilia Fuentes, 132.

Goddard's JoJo Robertson led the girls individual scores with a tournament-low 74, with teammates Diana Brown and Crystal Woods checking in with 85 and 89. Oñate's Jennifer Gomez and Anna Lisa Garcia came in with 81 and 85 respectively.

The boys medalist was Artesia's Mark Byers with 77, followed by Lovington's Mark Terry and Cathedral's Alex Gonzales with 80. Jeff Chapman and NMMP's Guilbert Johnson's 81 was next followed by 82s posted by Oñate's Caleb Province and Cathedral's Omar Rios.

The Warriors also entered a JV team in the tournament.

Scoring for the Warrior second team was led by Scott Christensen, 92; Rhett Hightower, 98; Byron Soules, 102; Stephen Houghton, 103 and Jackie Roe, 106.

Team scores in the boys division looked like this: Cathedral, 328; Artesia, 331; Lovington, 332; Ruidoso, 337; NMMP, 372; St. Pius, 374; Oñate, 381; Ruidoso JV, 395; and Portales, 399.

Goddard's 338 led the girls' division followed by Oñate, Oñate, 390; Portales, 410; and Ruidoso 457.

Boys head coach Ron Wall believes that the tournament was good for his team.

"Sure, we wanted to win the tournament but we didn't. We came away with another leg to state and we should get the last (leg) on Monday or Tuesday... getting into the tournament is first step to defending the title... so we're all right."

"We finished last in this tournament last year, so just getting beat by nine shots is a real improvement. We'll play our best golf at Alto and the Links next week," said Wall.

The tournament was another good experience for the young Lady Warriors, as assistant girls coach Pixie Arthur explains.

"The girls got to see some good golf today and they should have learned a lot... like girls can play just as well as boys if they work at it. Look at JoJo (Robertson's) score (74)... she beat all the boys today."

"Our girls are young and they will be a very, very good golf team in a year or two... we're really proud of the way they've worked on their games and the improvement they've made," said Arthur.

The Warriors host the Leroy Gooch Invitational beginning Monday. The boys teams will play Alto on Monday and the Links on Tuesday. The girls will play Cree Meadows both days.

The RHS junior varsity teams played a tournament in Artesia on Monday. Ruidoso took a boys JV team, a C-team, and boys and girls 8th grade team.

The girls team got revenge for Saturday's loss to Lovington and came back to beat the Lady 'Cats by five shots, while the boys teams found the going a little tougher at Artesia than over their home course, at Cree Meadows.

The boys JV team was beaten by Lovington, Carlsbad and Eunice (varsity), but beat several other schools including Artesia.

The sub-varsity squads swing back into action Friday as the C-team and eighth graders, as well as the girls JV will play in Roswell.

All the teams will also play in Monday and Tuesday's Leroy Gooch Invitational.

Netters win some, lose some

Warrior tennis players Noelle Beechle (left) and Heidi Johnson (right) practice for district play. The RHS team made a good showing in its first district match in Artesia last week. Erica Malls, Audra Allison and Heidi Lopez won their singles matches; and Heidi Johnson and Cory Garcia took their doubles match to a tie-breaking victory.

Warrior golfers invite community to scramble on the Inn course

The RHS Gold Team will host its third scramble of the year, April 17, at 12:30 p.m. The site will be the Inn of the Mountain Gods Golf Course.

The cost is $25 per person plus cart fees.

Seventy golfers braved Sunday's brisk winds in the team's scramble at the Links at Sierra Blanca.

Two teams came in tied at 60, with a scorecard playoff separating the winners. Inn of the Mountain Gods Assistant Professional Phil Smith's team eagled #16 to break the tie and took the first-place prize of $180. Smith played with Harold Collins, Max Johnson, Russell Henry and Lady Warrior Leigh Ann Christensen.

The Inn's Head Professional, Daniel Nunez's team lost the playoff as they couldn't get their eagle on #16 to fall. Nunez had Phillip Clark, Frank Abel, Richard Adams and Warriors Brian Phillips and Katie Adams as teammates.

Three teams tied for third place with 61. Warrior Jeff Chapman found his game and led his teammates Sal Beltran, Rich Hawthorne, Mark Simpson, Phil DiPaolo and Warrior Erik Kakuska to the third-place prize in another scorecard playoff.

The team of Dwight Andrews,

Glen Crane, James and Cindy Hobbs, and Warrior Eric Russell also finished 61 and beat the team of Warrior Coach Ron Wall, Randy Summers, Michael Morris, Pat Stanley and Lady Warrior Devad Lowe in a scorecard playoff for fourth place.

The scrambles are open to the public, and interested parties should call the Inn of the Mountain Gods Pro Shop at 257-5141 to sign up for Sunday's tournament.

Republican candidate for governor says that state government is out of control

Businessman Dick Cheney wants to put his experience to work for New Mexico as the state's governor.

Cheney, a Republican, is running for his party's nomination, and if his preprimary convention showing of 49 percent is any indication, he's got that in the bag.

But Cheney, who served in the State Legislature for eight years, isn't taking any chances. He's hot on the campaign trail in pursuit of that nomination.

A Farmington resident, Cheney didn't run for re-election after serving as floor leader in the legislature. Cheney is frustrated with the state of government, but thinks he can do more to get it back under control from the governor's office than from the floor.

"State government is out of control," said Cheney in his announcement. "It spends too much, it taxes too much, it wastes too much and it isn't fighting crime."

That's why he's running for governor. His opponents in the Republican primary include David Cargo, a seasoned political figure, and Gary Johnson, a businessman who is a newcomer to politics.

Cheney, an engineer by profession, thinks he can do it better, and he was in Ruidoso last week to explain his platform and meet voters. He says he'll make sure that New Mexicans get their money's worth out of state government.

Cheney said he'll start at the cabinet level to cut government and reduce the number of cabinet-level appointments and administrators.

"I'm seeing a lot of frustration as I travel the state," said Cheney, whose platform calls for ending taxes on basic necessities like medical care, medicines and food.

"I'll also fight for the repeal of the six cents a gallon gasoline tax," he added.

Cheney added his voice to the clamoring political chorus of being tough on criminals.

"Violent criminals need to stay in jail — period," said Cheney. "I will send a message to criminals and gang members alike that New Mexicans will no longer tolerate their actions."

Cheney said he plans to get criminals off the street and give the people back their community.

How? Cheney said the state has the money to build enough jails. He also will work to implement the boot camp program established by former Republican Governor Gary Caruthers, but never funded. Cheney said the program would be limited to non-violent, first-time offenders between the ages of 13 and 18.

Cheney's platform, in a nutshell, calls for reducing spending, cutting taxes and fighting crime. He believes the governor has the tools at his disposal to take exact his program — but, there's the key.

Cheney said to be successful, a governor has to go in with a definite program, and that's what he intends to do. He said the governor also maintains control through signing and/or vetoing bills.

"If people put me in office on that platform, the legislature has an obligation to take a look at it."

Cheney said he also will ensure that taxpayers get their money's worth out of the education system.

"We have New Mexico legislators trying to micromanage education from Santa Fe," said Cheney. "Control has to be with the classroom teacher, not the legislature," he added, listing as an example the six percent pay raise OK'd by the state, but stalled at the local level because of other mandated demands on school budgets.

Cheney, a graduate of Clovis High School and New Mexico State University with a degree in Engineering, is president of Engineering Design at Tierra Environmental Co. Inc. in Farmington and of Cheney-Walters-Schols, Inc., a Farmington engineering firm.

Under "experience that counts," the 56-year-old Cheney lists his marriage to his high school sweetheart, Jamie. The couple married in 1966, and have three sons and five grandchildren.

Capitan board promotes village cleanup campaign

Mayor Norm Renfro signed two proclamations at Monday's regular meeting of the Capitan Board of Trustees, one designating April as Keep New Mexico Beautiful Month and one designating May 1-7 as Small Business Week.

The week of April 18-22, the village is promoting a town clean-up, and Saturday, April 23, is the Chamber of Commerce clean-up day.

Among other appointment decisions, the board renewed the contract of financial auditor De'Aun Willoghby. She has served as financial auditor for two years.

The board also appointed Trustee Gordon Ross to the South Central Resource Conservation and Development board and to the MRS information task force. Village clerk Deborah Cummins was named as the alternate to the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development Board.

In an update on the Eagle Creek Intercommunity Water Association, of which Capitan is a member, it was announced that they are closing a loan agreement with Farmers Home Administration. The loan will be used to replace leaky pipe lines.

The board also passed a budget increase amendment in the amount of $75,020.

Bernhard Reimann reported on new solid waste management regulations. He said he testified at the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Board, requesting that they not add on requirements for remediation costs. Reimann said no one can adequately explain what qualifies as a remediation cost and how much the costs might be.

Clerk Cummins said the Community Development Block Grant proposal for the street project has been sent to the Department of Financial Administration.

In personnel matters, the cemetery is requesting that the board solicit proposals for a full time maintenance provider. The board will draw up the specifics of the job description and contract.

The board went into closed session to discuss personnel matters, and they are considering creating a full time position to be shared by the street and water departments.

Senator Pete Campos was invited to speak, and was expected, at the meeting, but he did not show up and no one from his office has contacted the village.

Students in Betsy Eldridge's third grade class prop up a few of their giant postcards that are part of the project designed to teach about stamp collecting as well as each of the subjects displayed on the commemorative stamps.

Head Start, kindergarten and baseball signups set

Friday is a lot more than tax day in the Village of Capitan.

Kindergarten and Head Start registration, as well as health and developmental screenings will be offered at Capitan School from 9 a.m. to noon Friday, April 15.

Youngster who will be entering Head Start or kindergarten next year, must be registered and their parent or guardian must provide a birth certificate and vaccination card.

The free health and developmental screenings are available for infants and children. Immunizations should already be up to date, but a nurse will be on hand for those few who need to bring their children's shots up to date.

Region IX Cooperative is offering the registration and screenings throughout the county, with one planned in Ruidoso for April 29. For additional information, call 257-5025 or 257-2368.

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Her class stamp collecting project has grown, literally, since Betsy Eldridge first came up with the idea.

Post cards about 20 times larger than life, designed by third grade students around space travel, and bearing their messages, are displayed around her classroom at Capitan Elementary.

They're based on actual commemorative stamps brought to the class by Betty Joiner, postmaster of the Fort Stanton Post Office.

"The kids are excited and it's developing into an every week thing," Eldridge said. "Some of the stamps they've bought for 29 cents already are valued at 50-cents and the Smokey Bear stamp is $20."

"They've learned how to address cards and about the cost of mailing them. They've learned so much about the postal system, such as colored envelopes get kicked out (by the machine that "reads" addresses) and have to be processed by hand; that hand written addresses are kicked out (the machine reads type), and that there should be no comma between the names of the town and state.

"We've been teaching it the wrong way for the new technology. We've also learned that the longer, nine-digit zip code goes through faster."

As each new commemorative series is introduced, Eldridge comes up with a lesson to go with it.

"I develop a lesson plan on every new collection. We take in the whole curriculum. We incorporate spelling, writing and reading," Eldridge said.

"The students had to research and look up facts, then weave those into a letter and design the front of the post cards.

"They're developing a lifelong hobby. They've started digging into their parents' old boxes and drawers looking for stamps.

"It's turned into bigger thing than I ever thought."

Subjects have included the Olympics, silent movies, legends of the West and jazz musicians. A series on Norman Rockwell is planned for the fall.

"When would some of these children here ever be exposed to jazz, otherwise," Eldridge said.

"When we did a series on the oceans, I brought a book on that. When the stamps dealt with sign language, we read a story on the deaf."

"They bring their 29 cents each week (to buy a stamp). The project has allowed me to expose them to areas of art and music and other subjects that they otherwise might never encounter."

New avenues opening up because of the series include a quilt being put together by Joiner bearing letter size boxes designed by the children and incorporating their addresses.

"It will be displayed at the annual county fair and at the state fair," Eldridge said.

She's discussing the possibility with school administration that next year her class could become the postmasters for the school, delivering the mail. Each hallway would be named and the rooms numbered.

Meanwhile, Eldridge's class is getting ready to write students in another town and different state. The grand finale to the year will be in May when students will participate in the canceling of stamps in their classroom.

A FUN BLEND OF OLD AND NEW

Silver Lining

Looking back on times with brother, John

Birthday of our brother, John

This is being sent to you in mid-morning of April 10, and will reach you on April 14, the day of the birthday of our brother, John, eldest of the Storm brothers.

John Whipple Storm was born April 15, 1907, in Denver, Colorado, to Lynn Whipple Storm and the former Bertha Catherine Kennedy.

In January 1909 at the age of a little over two and a half years he set out from Seattle by boat with our mother bound for Valdez, Alaska. Our father had gone on ahead a few months before.

There is a small Episcopal prayer book here in the house with some childhood attempts at writing with the words nearby written by our mother, written by John W. Storm in mid-career on the steamship Yucatan, January 12, 1909.

John and mother arrived in Valdez during the heaviest snow storm on record up to that time. We have a photo of our little house that year with the snow up to the windows.

The following October 27, I was born and soon John became my guardian brother. One time when I was about a little over a year old I heard John say to mother, "I am going to the store to get some taffy for dad."

Storm

A little later I heard father say, "I had better go and look for Johnny." About that time the door opened and snow flew into the room and John came in covered with snow, smiling with delight and handed me a bag of candy.

When I was about two and a half years old, John and I used to walk down to the combination drug and candy store to buy taffy in chocolate, strawberry and vanilla flavors.

On the way down, John would walk ahead driving the malamute sled dogs out of the middle of the street shouting, "mush," and the dogs would watch the little people passing by from their snow banks on the street. At the candy store Mr. Hunt would chop the taffy into small pieces with a special little silver plated hatchet.

One time after I got home, I noticed that one of the pieces of the taffy was a little larger than the rest. So I asked our father, "Dada, could I have a little ax?" I meant one like the little ax back at the candy store. The next day father brought me a little camp ax and said, "now you will have to chop kindling wood for mama for the stove." I then began chopping up boxes for kindling wood and I have been chopping wood ever since.

Life as an engineer

At the University of Texas, John studied English, Spanish, architecture and engineering, and spent much of his life as a civil engineer. In World War II he served his country as a lieutenant in the Army Engineers.

Devout nature

As a boy John was an acolyte and lay reader. He studied for the Episcopal priesthood in Canyon College Gambier, Ohio.

He spent many happy days here in Lincoln County, and on this beautiful April day on the approach of his birthday the spirit of John, our guardian brother, is visiting me from heaven along with all our other loved ones.

Jack Frost makes one more chilly visit here

pays a late visit

Here we are two weeks into the season of spring and on April 6, early in the morning, the temperature went down to 14.

Today on the fifth it was a day of light clouds and there was little warning of such a deep drop in the temperature. However, about noon on the fifth, the rock squirrel who lives in the woodpile came right up to the kitchen door collecting bird feed. It is the first time in a long while that I have had such a close look at this little citizen of the piñon and the pine. He would nibble a while and then stand up straight with his front paws like tiny hands held in front of his chest, looking out to the east, his bright eyes calmly surveying the lay of the land, testing the east wind for a message of the weather.

Senior parents organize project graduation 1994

Parents of Ruidoso High School seniors are asking the community to help them be sure their children have a safe and happy graduation night.

On Saturday, April 23, parents will be calling on local businesses for donations to help with Project Graduation.

This is the fourth year of Project Graduation which will be at the Ruidoso Bowling Center.

Parents of seniors at RHS hope that the prospect of cash prizes and gifts handed out will lure the graduating seniors to an after-graduation party, keep them off the roads and away from alcohol.

This year's group has met three times to discuss senior year-end activities, and more parents are urged to get involved in the projects.

Participants say volunteers are needed to do everything from soliciting donations for the party, to helping decorate for Project Graduation as well as the Senior Banquet, provide food, clean up, act as chaperones, etc.

Parents interested in helping with any year-end projects should contact Karen Line at 258-4317 to volunteer.

Merchants, individuals and civic groups that would also like to donate are invited to call.

Silver tongued student orators impress Ruidoso School Board

Top orators from the Optimist Club Oratorical Contest shared their views on optimism with the school board, and three top RHS seniors gave that group good reason to feel optimistic Tuesday.

The Ruidoso School Board learned during the regular meeting that RHS seniors Melissa Currin, Crystal Taylor and Jeanell Cox are among an elite group in the nation to be named ACT scholars.

Ruidoso High School principal Dannie Weems introduced Currin and Taylor, but Cox was at a cheerleaders awards dinner and unable to attend the board meeting.

ACT scholar designation is reserved for only the brightest and the best who combine high test scores (a composite of 27 or higher on the ACT) with the consistent academic performance that leads to an overall GPA of 3.5 on a 4. scale.

Weems, the board and the crowd on hand for the meeting applauded the three students for their hard work in achieving this high honor.

Also Tuesday, winners of the Optimist Club's oratorical contest, Ryan Humphreys and Brooke Fryer, gave their winning speeches on "Optimism: the Right Stuff," the theme for the annual contest.

Judges had picked Ruidoso Middle School students Humphreys and Fryer from among the 14 orator finalists who spoke during the formal competition at Cree Meadows.

The two will represent Ruidoso in the regional contest in El Paso, Texas, where competition is by gender. The local contest drew 85 participants in the first round.

Humphreys gave his realistic and personal view on optimism, ending his speech with "Give 100 percent and expect the best."

Fryer, who has set her sights on law school and the White House, suggested that optimism is the answer to combat societal problems, including drugs, alcohol and violence.

Also Tuesday, a team of mid-school teachers described a new alternative education program that will take students out of the classroom and all the way to the mountain top to teach them life skills that range from cooperation to leadership.

"Parental support and involvement is essential," said Ruidoso Middle School principal Paula Papponi in describing how 40 students will be selected for the elective class which will be offered in two class periods.

The leadership team includes student assistance coordinator Rick Bergland, counselor Jack Nelson and classroom teachers John Fritsch and Carolyn Stover.

The team presented an involved general mission statement followed by an equally general, vague "vision statement" for the brand new class purported to be all things to all students.

Bergland and Nelson provided written materials for the board (but not for The News) for a 26-part program that begins with desert survival, and goes on through a series of sessions that include: rock climbing and rappelling, wilderness survival, first aid, citizenship, celestial navigation, river crossing techniques, "mission control," skin diving, career planning, basic scuba diving, advanced first aid, assisting with the handicapped skiers program, second annual balloon festival, computer technology in the year 2000, pack animal techniques, land navigation, snares and trapping animals and exploring caves.

The class will meet once a day during the regular school day, and students will have to miss eight days of school and spend eight Saturdays on class outings.

The two went into great detail on their grand plans for outdoor adventures that include two overnight survival events; however, details were scarce on how many and which students will be served and the cost to the district for this class.

"Some of the equipment is very expensive," said Nelson, adding that the instructors will share their own equipment to save money.

Papponi said Wednesday the school will budget for some of that equipment, adding to the inventory each year.

She stressed that this class, designed to enhance students' self-esteem at a time in their lives when it often is at its lowest, will not detract from the core academic curriculum. As an elective, it will be offered as a choice, like art, band and Spanish.

"We're trying to get a complete spectrum of students involved," said Nelson.

This program, not to be confused with an alternative education program to be added next year for students who are having various problems, will draw a third of its membership from the gifted students.

The T-shirt designed by White Mountain third grader Timea Eckerdt won the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce's contest for the official Fiesta de Ruidoso commemorative shirt. Over 195 kids from all over the county entered the contest.

Young artist captures the spirit of Ruidoso in winning T-shirt design

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce has chosen the T-shirt design that will officially commemorate the first Fiesta de Ruidoso in June. The shirt was designed by Timea Eckerdt, a third grade student at White Mountain Elementary.

Timea won a $100 savings bond for first place in the Fiesta de Ruidoso T-shirt contest. Her family will receive free T-shirts and free tickets to the Fiesta.

The chamber received 196 entries from students all over the county and Mesquero, ranging in age from pre-school to high school. Chamber director Joan Bailey said the T-shirt contest was one of the most successful promotions the chamber has ever done.

First runner up Rachel Beddoe won tickets and T-shirts for her family, and her design will decorate the shirts of Fiesta staff members.

Second runner up was James Sainz, and third runner up was Travis Webb.

Rick Riddle of Noisy Water T-shirt shop will do the silk screening, and he has been instructed to change the original design as little as possible. Timea's design is a sombrero with a mountain peak as the point and with kids, a race horse and golf clubs on the brim.

"This should be a great kick-off for a wonderful family event," said Cheryl Wozny, publicity coordinator for Fiesta de Ruidoso. "I look forward to the Fiesta being a community event."

The Fiesta, slated for Father's Day weekend, will combine the wine-tasting and food-sampling of the Connoisseur Classic with a celebration of New Mexico's tri-cultural history.

Booths set up at Art Fest USA in Ruidoso Downs will showcase New Mexican cuisine from places like Santa Fe Cookie Company, Haney Orchards and Eagle Ranch. Chefs like Eddie Adams, who specializes in southwest cajun dishes, will serve up their specialties.

The Fiesta also will honor a selected pioneer family.

"There are lots of families that settled here 150 years ago," said Wozny. Dan Storm is researching area family histories and will submit a list of names to the Fiesta coordinating committee.

One of the booths at Fiesta de Ruidoso will display all 196 T-shirt contest entries.

"We had great participation from the area schools, and we want everyone to be recognized," said Wozny. "We especially appreciate the support of the teachers."

Lisa Storey, the chamber's visitor coordinator, congratulates Timea Eckerdt for her first-place entry in the T-shirt contest. Timea won a $100 savings bond plus free T-shirts and Fiesta de Ruidoso tickets for her family.

Check things out at your library for fun, food & free fines all next week Investigate the Ruidoso Public Library during National Library Week, April 17 through 23, invites librarian Nancy Eckert.

Events scheduled for the week include an essay and poster contest, moratorium on fines, moratorium on fines for past due books, free refreshments all week in the lobby and a storybook character party on Friday.

Anybody who has been keeping any library books, by mistake or by design, will have a chance to return those books — no fines and no questions asked — throughout National Library Week, next Sunday, April 17, through Saturday, April 23.

Eckert said your fines are forgiven.

But, you don't have to drop those books in the handy bookdrop in the dead of night.

Stop by anytime the library is open next week and enjoy refreshments in the lobby. It's a good chance to check out all the library services, too.

"Wild about my library" is the theme for a poster and essay contest which will commemorate the week.

Contestants should turn in their poster or essay entries by Thursday, April 21, and receive an invitation to an awards party from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday, April 22, at the library.

Posters can be any size, of any materials; and essays should be one page or less and neatly presented. Don't forget to identify entries with your name, age, telephone number and/or address on the reverse side.

You'll be joined by your favorite storybook characters at a costume party from 4 to 5 p.m. Friday, April 22, at the library. Guests are encouraged to dress as their favorite characters, too.

"Come check us out," invites Eckert.

Let's get back to the basics

It's too bad that reading, writing and arithmetic don't excite people the way football, volleyball and athletics seem to.

Tuesday's school board meeting drew a huge crowd — about five or 10 times the usual number. Anyone seeing the crowd of from 100 to 150 people moving from a small room to a larger room to accommodate the big group would have been impressed with the civic minded people in the Ruidoso School District. Such a crowd must indicate the board was to vote on very important issues — things like safety in the schools, graduation rates, student preparation for and performance on college boards and/or standardized tests, language skills and other basic education issues. Not so.

Most of the people at Tuesday's meeting were there to talk about athletics, to complain of turnover among coaching staff and demand the board set aside an athletics period during the school day. If memory serves, the last time a crowd showed up at a school board meeting, the big issue was discipline among school athletes; and before that a big crowd attended a board meeting to demand that soccer be added as a school sport.

The big news, and the really good news, at Tuesday's meeting was the announcement that three members of the Ruidoso High School senior class have been named ACT scholars. That high achievement — top grades and top college entrance test scores — is worthy of much more than a brief mention. Jeanell Cox, Melissa Currin and Crystal Taylor are to be congratulated and praised for their years of hard work, diligence, commitment and energy that led to this success.

But this high achievement for these three students and for the Ruidoso school system was overshadowed by long, drawn-out discussions about school sports.

There's certainly nothing wrong with sports and athletics, and certainly there's nothing wrong with the public speaking out at public meetings. That's what this country is all about — freedom of speech and, of course, baseball (and football, volleyball, basketball and any other competitive sport).

But, wouldn't it be nice if we could get as excited about the business of educating students in the basics as we do about teaching them how to throw, hit and dribble?

Letters To The Editor

It's back to politics as usual on MainStreet

TO THE EDITOR:

Once again it is "politics as usual" rather than just good common sense. Is this to be expected from a council composed of non-business people and non-Midtown merchants whose judgments and decision making control Midtown merchants?

The butt of the joke, however, will be on the Midtown store owners who will be left without customer parking and whose businesses will suffer.

The amount of off-street parking as proposed by MainStreet and the council will not equate to that parking lost to planter boxes, trees, benches and "jut-outs" into Sudderth Drive. It is also very likely that the accident rate will increase with the influx of summer visitors who will not understand the rat maze left by the "mischief" makers of MainStreet.

The mayor attended a March meeting of irate Midtown merchants at Eddie Fowler's business location, at which time she instructed Alan Briley to "work with these people to save as much parking as possible." Additionally, on the evening of March 22 she held a "workshop" for Midtown merchants at village hall to assure us that Alan Briley would work with us. Briley stated he would save seven more parking spaces, in spite of one council member who monopolized the meeting with unfounded objections and dogmatic statements.

When Alan Briley and Bob Taggart eventually visited my store at 2545 Sudderth, measured the "walk and agreed that it was, in fact, wide enough — four feet — that no "jut-out" was needed, it was assumed that was sufficient closure.

They added that a mistake had been made through aerial photography survey and that the aerial view, caused by the overhang of the roof line, indicated a narrower sidewalk that would require the "jut" into the street. As that is not case, why is it now being required? Blame council!

The council meeting of March 29, with an agenda of 14 items, had as the final item parking. (10 p.m.) Without the knowledge of a hoax being perpetrated, Midtown merchants did not attend as they had, in force, at the previous week's meeting. This gave one self-serving councilman the opportunity to lead the mayor and a fractious council into reversing the previous promise to work with Midtown merchants on parking and planting.

Even without obtaining a second to a motion, the councilman illegally discussed his proposal with the other members. Coercion overcame reason.

Granted that we had a poor winter season with little snow and that ski business was bad. Granted that to penalize the Midtown area, deny tourist parking and force visitors to park outside the "walking area" below Midtown may be a balm to the burr under his saddle, but an elected council member should be a community leader.

A community leader is supposed to consider the needs of all of the community. He has a responsibility to look at the long-term effect of his actions.

Many merchants have already been able to secure and retain the parking on the side of the street under construction. Should the merchants on the other side be denied and penalized on the basis of whim? This is neither fair nor equitable. It is not even good judgment.

The issue is not merely, "did MainStreet screw up?" The issue is, "did the council fail to protect Midtown Ruidoso for years to come?"

Can we forget "politics as usual" and use just good common sense?

Ruidoso

Positive attitudes breed success for village

TO THE EDITOR:

My wife and I are fairly new to the Ruidoso community, only moving here last November, but we feel we are old timers because we have been coming to the motorcycle rally for the past 14 years.

We have enjoyed and getting to know this community as visitors for a long time. Last fall we finally made the "big commitment" to purchase a business, the Sitzmark Chalet Motel, and move here permanently.

This is a wonderful village with so much to offer, both to visitors and residents alike, that it is difficult to express how pleased we are to now be living here. With the exception of a rather lean winter season this year, we are looking forward to a great future in this area.

For the last two months Joan Bailey, Executive Director of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce, has been attempting to make a point in the "Chamber Matters" newsletter, with the business people in this community concerning teamwork, working "with" each other and providing quality service, not only to visitors but also to fellow residents and business people.

These ideas are not new and revolutionary, they are the basis on which this and many communities are built.

In the spirit of this "working together" approach to success I wanted to give an example of a business that all of us could use as an example and learn from. The Village Hardware combines the best customer service I've seen in a long time with competitively priced merchandise. Larry Langford and his employees care about the satisfaction and success of their customers and go out of their way to ensure that they do everything they can to make success the outcome.

Since moving to Ruidoso and buying a business we had some disappointing experiences, but thanks to Larry, his folks and the Chamber of Commerce ladies we know there is hope of a positive and successful future in this wonderful community...

Reader says cleanliness is next to godliness

TO THE EDITOR:

As a new resident of the area and a land lover, I thought it would only be right to bring up a matter of utmost concern which affects our entire community.

My concern is all the trash that is disposed of deliberately in a wrongful manner. This garbage lies in places where it is absolutely shameful for it to be seen.

The cruelty and disrespect shown to our environment and to the one who created all this beauty for us inhuman.

Within the last couple of weeks since moving here with my wife and son, I've watched with anger and distress as the waste continues to grow.

Bonito Lake area, the sides of roadways, even throughout our mountain ranges where one needs to walk miles to reach ranges where one needs to walk miles to reach are all turning into trashcans for the uncaring.

Could this be the insane behavior of our own community? Or is it simply the many tourists who frequent our area? This must stop!

Maybe it's time we all take notice of the heinous crime. Polluting our forest lands with beer cans, broken glass, picnic supplies, etc. is truly an embarrassment to our species.

We need to protect our lands and waters; it is our source of survival and is home to the many people and animals that live here.

Remember, it takes as much effort to litter as it does to dispose of your trash properly.

In the end, it does matter! When we look around at all that surrounds us and appreciate its beauty, perhaps we'll remember that we want our children and our children's children to have the opportunity to enjoy that same beauty.

Let's stop this wanton destruction of one of the few remaining areas of natural beauty left in this country.

Couple is married in Capitan

Tammy Ann Longbotham and Randall Allan Barone were married at 4 p.m. December 22 at the Capitan Church of Christ.

The Reverend Leslie Barwood officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Jerry and Lee Ann Longbotham of Capitan.

Given in marriage by her father, she wore a white satin gown with a Sabrina neckline, lace, pearls and a cathedral train. She also wore pearl earrings and carried her grandmother's hankie. She carried a cascade of red roses, white tulips, lilies and greens.

Her sister, Lori Longbotham, dressed in a green satin gown, was maid of honor.

The groom is the son of Ronald and Nancy Barone of Lincoln.

Ronnie Barone, brother of the groom, was best man while Nathan and Andrew Longbotham, brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

Kellie Kite, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and Luke Juarez, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Longbotham, mother of the bride, wore a burgundy print dress with a white collar and lace and carried red roses and greens.

Mrs. Barone, the groom's mother, wore a black and white flowered print with white roses and greens.

The bride's grandmother, Gladys Juarez of Albuquerque, sang

TAMMY LONGBOTHAM & RANDALL ALLAN BARONE

"Tammy" and "Walk Hand in Hand." "More" was sung by the bride's aunt, Karen Juarez of Albuquerque, and "Longer," "Sunrise, Sunset" and "The Wedding Song" were sung by a choir of friends of both the bride and groom.

The reception was immediately following the ceremony at the church building.

The couple took a trip to Lyons, Colorado, following the ceremony, and will make their home in Denver, Colorado.

The bride and groom both graduated in 1993 from Abilene Christian University. The groom is a dental student at the University of Colorado Dental School in Denver.

DOES walk to raise funds for MS

Head on out to the walking trail next to The Links Golf Course on Saturday, April 30, and raise funds for some people who can't take that refreshing walk.

The Super Cities Walk for multiple sclerosis (MS) is sponsored by the BPO-Does in Ruidoso, with the money raised to go to the Rio Grande Chapter.

"The money stays right in this region," stressed project chairperson Patty Frazier of the Ruidoso Drive #152.

Registration is at 8 a.m. Saturday, April 30, at the Ruidoso Convention and Civic Events Center, with the 10K walk to begin at 9 a.m. Everyone walks at their own pace, stressed Frazier, explaining that the emphasis is on good health rather than competition.

Refreshment stops will be set up along the way.

Sponsors can help by making pledges to support walkers, by walking or by making a donation through the Does to the Rio Grande Chapter with headquarters in Albuquerque.

Frazier and the Does encourage locals to form a walk for MS team among your corporate family, friends or your own family. Ask your friends to make pledges, and challenge friends and family to raise money to fight MS.

The Super Cities Walk for MS is the national MS society's fourth annual one-day walking event, which was scheduled to take place (almost) consecutively in 300 locations. Some cities conducted their walks in March.

Monies raised will be used to fund vital bio-medical research aimed at finding the cause and cure for multiple sclerosis, a major disability of young people in this country.

This year's event is dedicated to Annette Funicello and the third of a million American's fighting MS.

According to a news release provided by the MS Society, 200 new cases of the disease are diagnosed every week.

Multiple sclerosis (MS) is the most common neurological disease among young and middle aged persons. MS strikes active, healthy adults between the ages of 15 and 15, and attacks the central nervous system, affecting the brain and spinal cord.

MS occurs when myelin, which insulates nerve fibers, deteriorates and forms scar tissue called sclera. This scarring can distort messages to or from the brain, causing basic bodily functions such as movement, speech and sight to be impaired.

MS is unpredictable, affecting people differently. While some experience a progressive form of the disease, some may not become as severely disabled, and are able to lead relatively normal lives.

MS is not contagious, hereditary or fatal, with the precise cause still unknown.

The Rio Grande Chapter offers help through equipment loans, peer counseling, referral service and public education.

To learn more, contact the Rio Grande Council of the MS Society by calling 1-800-224-8883.

To walk, show up at 8 a.m. Saturday, April 30.

Local vets gather support for war memorial

In the 1940s, when loose lips were sinking ships and Rosie the Riveter was rallying the domestic troops, a young woman from New Jersey was making military history.

When Mabel Carney Stover joined the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps in December, 1942, she was launched into an adventure that eventually led to Normandy, France shortly after the D-Day invasion, June 6, 1944.

She was the first WAC to land on the Omaha beachhead, having volunteered to assist in the interrogation of a captured German officer. "I remember the beaches were like Times Square on New Year's Eve — debris and boats everywhere," she told the San Antonio Express.

She had just completed a Pentagon assignment under WAC commander Col. Oveta Culp Hobby and was serving as a member of Col. Ralph Bagley's staff, part of Gen. Eisenhower's Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force in England (SHAEP). Stover was responsible for assisting in the planning of all airborne operations, air supply and evacuation.

It was there that she met her husband, retired Col. George E. "Smokey" Stover. As an Air Force pilot, he served in the Southwest Pacific from 1941-1943. From 1944-1945, he served in SHAEP as a planner and operations officer.

Now the Stovers, who live in Ruidoso, are organizing a grass roots campaign to immortalize the veterans of World War II.

"Our job here is to recruit the veterans for the Wall of Liberty," said Stover.

The Wall of Liberty, to be erected in Caen, Normandy, is a memorial for all American service people who served in WWII in North Africa, the Mediterranean and Northwest Europe. It will include names of all ranks from all branches of the armed services and Red Cross.

These veterans, living and deceased, number at about five million. Veterans or their friends and families may have their names and home towns placed on The Wall of Liberty by calling 1-800-WW2-VETS. They will receive a registration request form along with a photo of the limestone wall and other materials.

The memorial will be located in the Caen World War II Complex, a 20-acre site financed by the French government and The Battle of Normandy Foundation, a non-profit American organization.

Since the United States government does not pay for the construction of war memorials, the organizers are requesting $40 donations for the construction and perpetual maintenance of the wall. The Battle of Normandy Foundation is soliciting private and corporate donations to offset the cost for people unable to make a donation.

The Stovers have traveled across the United States publicizing The Wall of Liberty. Last week they showed a video tape of the Caen Memorial Complex and spoke to the Lincoln County Service Club Council and an ENMU American history class.

History instructor Lynda Sanchez said, "It was an incredible experience for the class." Sanchez assigned her students to interview war veterans, and student Melissa Richardson elected to interview Stover in front of the class.

The Stovers have many more interviews ahead of them, including one with Willard Scott on the Today show, May 2. They are also part of an ABC documentary on World War II which will air June 1. On June 5 and 6, they will appear on Today, Good Morning America and Larry King Live broadcasts of the commemoration of the wall direct from Normandy.

In June, the Stovers will spend two weeks in Caen as part of the official delegation to open and dedicate several new memorials. They also will assist in the groundbreaking for the actual construction of the wall.

On the 50th Anniversary of the D-Day landings in Normandy, the Stovers will participate in a ceremony to be attended by President Clinton, Queen Elizabeth and all the other heads of state of the allied nations who liberated Europe May 8, 1945.

Mabel and Smokey Stover have lived in Ruidoso since 1982, when their son Jim became director of Emergency Medical Services at Lincoln County Medical Center. When they are not traveling, they live with Jim and his wife Carolyn and their two children Heather and Jimmy.

Mabel and Smokey Stover, who make their home in Ruidoso these days, visit the "Little Red Schoolhouse" in Rhierns, France, where the surrender papers were signed ending World War II in Europe on VE Day, May 1945. The Stovers were both serving in the military and were assigned to that command when the historic signing took place.

Both of the Stovers have been decorated for their war service. Mrs. Stover is shown (at right) in 1943 with Oveta Culp Hobby, the first woman named to direct the women's service. Mabel Stover was assigned to the Pentagon to work for Mrs. Hobby, who was named a full colonel. The Stovers both were decorated by the British government (at left). Colonel Stover was presented the Order of the British Empire, reserved for military officers, and Mrs. Stover is shown receiving the British Empire Medal. She also was presented the French Corps de Guerre.

Crisis Center sponsors series

Family Crisis Center invites the community to learn more about domestic violence and how to deal with the serious problem during a series of programs designed to train volunteers.

The first of six sessions will be presented from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, April 28, in the lobby at Family Practice Associates on Sudderth Drive. Subsequent sessions in the six-part series will be on the following Thursdays.

Information and discussions, led by Dr. Birgit LaMothe, will deal with causes of domestic violence and its relationship to the family, law enforcement, judicial system and healthcare network. By the end of the six-week course, participants will be prepared to act as advocates and volunteers to provide emergency aid to victims and their families.

Some participants may choose to serve in other capacities by joining the board, helping with fundraisers, making financial contributions or providing transportation. All participants will have the information to help educate their friends and neighbors.

The class is free, open to the public and no registration is required. For more information, call Dr. Arlene Brown at 257-7712 or Frankie Jarrell at 257-4001.

Food, fun & plenty of music

Tickets are going fast for the eighth annual White Mountain Search and Rescue Musical planned for Saturday, April 23, at the Flying J Ranch.

The fun begins at 5 p.m. when the gates open, but the real action takes off with a rootin' tootin' gunfight at 6:20 p.m. The dinner bell will ring at 8:30 p.m. for a chuckwagon meal with all the fixin's.

After dinner, sit back and be amazed by your talented friends and neighbors who will be on stage to provide an evening of family fun and entertainment.

Roger Coble is back as master of ceremonies, and on the program, so far, are Jana Houghton, Patric Carlisle, Steve Hightower, Wesley Hall, Danielle Hall, Janice Whitaker, John and Cindy Foglesong.

Also set to perform are Eddie Hedin, Lou Ann Ellison, Lynn Martin, Marilyn Trotter, Renee Parsons and The Gateway Singers. Rumor has it that the Flying J Wranglers will perform, too; and the program just keeps growing.

Ticket, $12.50 for adults and $6.50 for children; are available at Dan Fender Tire Co., Ruidoso Office Supply and Ruidoso Paint Center. Proceeds benefit White Mountain Search and Rescue.
