Downs announces new post time of 1 p.m. as of today

Ruidoso Downs will simplify its full-card simulcasting from Hollywood Park by separating the live and simulcast races for wagering purposes.

The change will take effect today (Thursday), June 2, when 10 live races are scheduled to be run at Ruidoso Downs in addition to the nine-race card from Hollywood Park.

Ruidoso Downs also will change post time from 12:45 to 1 p.m. beginning with today's card.

"We will continue to offer both race cards, but we believe the change will allow fans to more easily focus on particular races they wish to wager on," said general manager Max Johnson.

He added that the Hollywood Park races will be shown on selected television monitors throughout the plant while the live races will be shown on nearly all TV monitors.

The official program for each race day will continue to include the races from both Ruidoso Downs and Hollywood Park.

For more information, call 378-4431, extension 217 or 262.

On June 6, Mabel Carney Stover of Ruidoso will be on the "Today Show," "Good Morning America" and "Larry King Live" broadcasting from Caen, Normandy, where she and her husband, Smokey Stover, are part of ceremonies to erect a memorial to all D-Day Veterans.

The "Larry King" show will air at 11 a.m. in Ruidoso on CNN. The show will be re-broadcast at 7 p.m. that night.

King and Chino lash out in letters to the President

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Governor Bruce King Wednesday called for a moratorium on actions relating to the siting of temporary storage for spent nuclear fuel rods.

In a letter to President Bill Clinton, King asked the Administration to work with Congress on a moratorium until they come up with an effective national policy for management of spent fuel generated by power plants.

The letter was barely on its way to Washington D.C. before Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, dispatched his own missive to Clinton.

He accused King of trying to obstruct several potential business enterprises that would contribute to the education and economic self-sufficiency of the Mescalero. He defended the Tribal Council's decision to pursue the possible siting of a monitored retrievable storage facility (MRS) on the reservation as part of a joint venture with 33 private utilities.

The tribe is filling a need that the federal government has failed to meet, Chino said. He rejected the notion that use of the Apache land in Otero County (neighboring Lincoln County and Ruidoso) might constitute "environmental racism."

The Tribal Council has been looking at the possibility of an MRS for about three years. Initially, the council received study money (about $400,000) from the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE). When that source for voluntary siting under the federal nuclear waste negotiator ran dry, the council turned to the private sector. Members were surprised by the strong response, each utility willing to plunk down its $5,000 to become involved in the project.

Council just says no dough (again) to MainStreet

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council shut the door, with sympathy, on a last ditch effort by MainStreet representatives to claim a piece of the upcoming 1994-95 fiscal budget.

Council members expressed support for the MainStreet project and board, but all were in agreement to allow a six months unfunded period to pass to observe and assess the program.

Mayor pro-tem J. D. James conducted the meeting for Mayor Jerry Shaw who was not present due to the death of her husband, Dick Shaw. Councilor Leon Eggleston also was absent.

MainStreet president Don Dutton and state MainStreet representative Julie Johncox wanted the council to pay about $16,000 of their proposed budget.

Both wanted a paid administrator to act with the volunteer board.

Councilor Frank Cummins asked how much of their work plan could be started without council dollars.

MainStreet president Don Dutton said he didn't think that could be answered because of the volunteerism in the plan.

But not forgotten

Veteran Dan Storm bows his head in prayer at the Veteran Memorial Day Services held at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

"The role that we saw for the 1994-95 work plan was an administrative assistant or officer who would act more or less as an ombudsman between the village and the private sector to get some of these things done," Dutton said.

He noted that Alan Briley is spending time coordinating efforts through the phase one project.

He said the role of the administrator would be more like the beginning of MainStreet's effort in getting money for the project.

That administrator was Mary Maul who was in attendance at the meeting at the request of Johncox.

Johncox told the council that Ruidoso is one of 10 other state programs. She began her speech with a brief history of MainStreet and the philosophy of bringing money back into an area through working together for rehabilitation.

Speaking specifically of Ruidoso's efforts, she ran through a number of statistics that she said totaled more than $2 million dollars in matching funds to the community for a 13-to-one ratio to Ruidoso dollars spent.

She also mentioned 64 rehabili-

Five teens injured in one-car crash

Five teenagers were injured Monday night when the car in which they were riding spun out of control and hit two trees. Police said alcohol was not involved.

Brendan Bishop, 18, of Ruidoso, Danielle Dembowsky, 15, of Alto, Amber Lundquist, 16, of Ruidoso Downs, and Laura-Adriana Cuello, 17, an exchange student from Argentina, were passengers in a subcompact driven by Leah R. Brown, 16, of Ruidoso.

Shortly after 10 p.m. Monday, May 30, the five were traveling on Sun Valley Road in Alto.

According to a New Mexico State Police report, the Brown car lost control on a 90-degree turn approximately two-tenths of a mile from the entrance to Sun Valley Subdivision.

The car skidded approximately 170 feet before leaving the gravel road way on the right side and hitting one tree head-on and a second tree on the right side. The car stopped about 10 feet off the road.

Lincoln County Emergency Medical Services (EMS) - Alto and Bonito Fire Department responded to the scene and found all five persons already out of the vehicle.

Brown, the driver, and her front seat passenger Dembowsky refused treatment on scene. Both stated they had been wearing seat belts.

The other three teens said they had been sitting in the back seat without seat belts. They stated they were thrown around inside the vehicle. All three required spinal immobilization and transport to the Lincoln County Medical Center by Lincoln County EMS-Alto and Ruidoso EMS.

All three were treated and released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

The fact that the two persons wearing seatbelts did not require ambulance transport proves the value of that device, said State Police Officer S.L. Beltran.

"Seatbelts do work," he said.

Beltran said in this state, it is mandatory for persons riding in the front seats to be buckled up. Those in the back seat, however, are not required by law to wear seat belts if they are aged 12 and above.

Brown was cited for careless driving and going too fast for road conditions.

In an unusual accident, a 1980 GMC white truck owned by Barney Rue and parked on South Coronado Drive at a construction site, for unknown reasons started to roll south down Coronado Drive. It struck a tree and then sheared off a power pole.

Damage to vehicle was to the front end, the left front quarter panel and possibly a broken front axle. No injuries were reported and none observed.

For the month of April, Police Chief Dick Swenor listed 16 assaults, 17 breaking and entering, 20 larceny cases, eight criminal damages, one criminal trespass, three fraud cases, and 21 other miscellaneous offenses for a total of 86 documented offenses.

Swenor said, including the first three months, 333 documented offenses have been committed since the first of the year. He said that compares to 291 cases for the same time last year.

Of the persons arrested in April, 54 were adults and 17 were juveniles. There were 17 misdemeanor citations, 22 DWI arrests and two arrests for controlled substance.

Adults arrested this year to date number 176, compared to 152 adults arrested last year by this date.

This year to date, 53 juveniles have been arrested, down from the 63 arrested during the same period of time last year.

DWI arrests have shot up dramatically since the beginning of the year.

To date, 48 DWI arrests have been made for the first four months of the year compared to 28 arrests for the same time period last year.

Fiesta adds spice to summer

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Plans are set for Fiesta de Ruidoso, a celebration of this region's three main cultures and of Father's Day. The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the June event as a follow-up to Memorial Day festivities.

Friday night, June 17, kicks things off with a wine tasting from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the Museum of the Horse. Tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce, $15 single, $25 couple. Strolling mariachis will set the festive mood.

On Saturday from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. everyone is invited to the Art-Fest property in Ruidoso Downs for food and fun. Dads get in free when accompanied by their children. Regular ticket prices are $3 for adults, $1 for kids ages six to 12. Youngsters five and under get in free.

The chamber has invited New Mexican food vendors from all over the region to fill Fiesta booths with both authentic regional cuisine and specialties with a twist. Chef Eddie Adams, who owns two restaurants in Albuquerque, is bringing cajun food with a New Mexican flare such as crawfish tamales and chili seafood gumbo. Santa Fe Cookie Company is making green chili, zia-shaped pretzels especially for Fiesta de Ruidoso.

Other vendors include Eagle Ranch Pistachio Farm, a Chihuahuan restaurant, and three southern wineries - Blue Teal, Saint Clair and Chateau Sasenage. Tia Rita's is bringing packaged salsa, guacamole and meat seasonings. Local restaurateurs Che Bella, Si Senor and Texas Fajita have reserved booths, too.

Musicians and other entertainers will keep things lively. The tation projects and a number of other successes.

Mayor James said the number of statistics appeared confusing without confirmation. He asked her if she had material to substantiate her presentation.

She told the council she had nothing prepared, but at the request of James, agreed to send a packet later.

Johncox said before Ruidoso entered into the MainStreet program, business rentals were running about 60 percent in occupancy. She said merchants told her that today, occupancy is at nearly 100 percent.

Mayor James acknowledged his support of the program. He said the council had to scrape to balance the budget and that to take money from any other area, would jeopardize that area.

Potter said MainStreet officials that the council had budgeted $40,000 for downtown restrooms and another $130,000 for street repairs, most of which will be paid through state money.

In examining a revised budget, James asked Dutton if the $1,500 in revenues from a survey is the same survey that was reported to have been completed.

Dutton said it was.

"I asked past director (Don) Miller when we would have these numbers. He told me the market survey would be completed very shortly. The $1,500 is projected receipts from selling survey data," Dutton said. "The $600 expense is the remainder to be paid to the person who is compiling all the data into a format to be distributed and sold."

James reminded Dutton that the survey had been in progress for over a year.

"Absolutely," Dutton said.

"It disturbs me," James said.

"You're not alone," Dutton responded.

James said that the survey was sponsored by one third MainStreet, one third EDCO (Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County) and one third chamber of commerce. He said the chamber director told him she had not seen any results.

Councilor Joe Gomez said the finishing touches on the MainStreet project will have been completed within six months.

"At that time, we also will know how much Mr. (Alan) Briley has had to invest in his time through the village to oversee the project," Gomez said. "If there was enough money to go around for everybody, that would be great. But in support of the village staff, they have showed us where the money is needed and that's the way it is."

Johncox tried one more time for money by telling the council about a MainStreet program that "lagged" in Las Vegas because they didn't rehire a paid director and relied on volunteer help.

She said if the council relied on volunteers for a full time job, there would be things that fall through the cracks.

In public hearings, the council voted to:

—approve a 2010 map amendment that would allow a change in the master plan from high density residential to low density residential in White Mountain Subdivision Unit 1.

—pass Ordinance 94-9 regarding the mandatory fees and municipal judge benefits. Village lawyer John Underwood stressed the point that it was mandatory.

Mandatory Fees. Any person convicted of violating any municipal ordinance shall pay a judicial education fee of one dollar, and all judicial education fees collected shall be remitted monthly to the state treasurer for credit to the judicial education fund and shall be used for the education and training, including production of benchbooks and other written materials, of municipal judges and other municipal court personnel.

Any person convicted of violating any municipal ordinance shall pay a $3 court automation fee to the Municipal Judge.

All court automation fees collected shall be remitted monthly to the state treasurer for credit to the municipal court automation fund and shall be used for the purchase and maintenance of court automation systems in the municipal courts.

The court automation systems shall have the capability of providing, on a timely basis, electronic records in a format specified by the judicial information system council.

Maximum Compensation. No Municipal Judge of the Village of Ruidoso will be entitled to receive compensation in excess of the amount specified by law, except that the judge may receive:

—Village participation in group insurance premiums on the same basis as any other village employee; and —any other compensation or allowances as may be specifically authorized by law.

The temporary Municipal Judge shall not receive any compensation except that which is mentioned by law.

—pass Ordinance 94-10 that Underwood said contained contradictory language previously brought before the council after an Enchantment Inn request. Underwood said the change primarily allows a case by case decision.

—approve an increase in the building and zoning code permit and application fees.

Village manager Gary Jackson said consideration of the increase and revenues produced were incorporated into the preliminary budget adopted. He said if not approved, by ordinance the village would have to go back to the budget and reduce expenditures in some category to accommodate that reduction.

Councilor Robert Donaldson noted that the increase also raises the fee structure to those outside the village limits by more than residents inside the village limits.

Under regular items, a request for "resubdivision" in White Mountain for the village to maintain roads in Unit One was approved.

Village planner Cleatus Richards said he wanted the developer Bill McCarty to be responsible for road maintenance in the subdivision for five more years. He said the roads originally had not been constructed to village code.

Richards said those particular streets had not received much traffic to date and he had no knowledge of how they may react if traffic was heavier.

Mike Radziewicz, chairman of planning and zoning said the developer had a reputation for building good roads.

He said that requiring five years would be unnecessarily punitive to the developer.

Donaldson said the roads have been in existence for 10 years. He asked Richards how much money would be involved in preparing the streets for village takeover.

Richards said $30,000 was adequate and that he would like to have a six-month deadline.

Underwood said that the developer could use a certificate of deposit for his good faith $30,000.

The village attorney was concerned that the development has but one entrance and exit. He said if the developer could work out an arrangement with the fire department and police department to use another entrance on a utility right of way, that would appear to be in the best entrance of community health and safety.

In other business, the council flatly denied release of any money to Bohannon-Huston on their request for MainStreet Design Services. Deputy manager Alan Briley indicated the amount, approximately 10 percent of an invoice, appeared to be an afterthought penciled in at the last moment.

Attorney Underwood said the council may want to review the company's work at a later date to possibly ask for a refund.

A discussion concerning motorized boating (electric) on Grindstone Lake was postponed to a future council meeting.

Ronald W. Schrock of Rainbow City, Alabama, was approved to be the new airport mechanic for the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Schrock currently works at the airport under a contract with Franklin Aviation.

The council approved bid awards on plumbing, a compact utility trailer and electrical maintenance, but held off on aggregate for the street department until test results on the bid can guarantee that the hot mix stripping could meet the requirements of the Green Code Book.

Street Department supervisor Charlie Armstrong told the council that the aggregate used last year did not adhere well with the hot mix and caused many problems with pothole repair and the civic events center parking lot.

Under commission appointments, the council approved Mayor Shaw's board appointments.

The mayor created a Convention and Visitors Bureau ad hoc committee. According to Jackson, this temporary committee is designed to create criteria for a request for proposal that would eventually be the permanent Convention Visitors Bureau (CVB).

To this ad hoc committee, the mayor appointed Bill Chance, member services representative for Otero County Electric Cooperative; Joan Reimann, public relations for McGary Studios; Bill Hirschfeld, real estate and lodging; Giddings Brown, manager of Swiss Chalet; and Frankie Jarrell, general manager of The Ruidoso News.

The eventual CVB will direct a comprehensive marketing and advertising plan for the village.

The mayor also appointed Chance and Hirschfeld to the Lodgers Tax Advisory Board.

Schoolhouse Park improvement was the focus of a grant request presented to the council by village manager Jackson and parks director Debbie Jo Almagar.

The council approved an application for a Land and Water Conservation Grant.

The grant will be used to develop trails near the senior center and to develop a new playground area accessible to the young, both at Schoolhouse Park.

Almagar said a new picnic shelter will be added to the park. She said timbers on the old shelter are deteriorating and will have to come down.

Almagar said an irrigation system is planned for the park.

During the day families can enjoy piñata parties and pony rides. Local photographers from Poses Plus will take pictures of kids (or anyone else) with Smokey Bear. This is a perfect opportunity for father-child portraits.

Face painters will decorate the countenances of Fiesta goers free of charge, and the balloons are also free.

Ruidoso councilor and chamber President-elect Joe Gomez has issued a challenge to fellow officeholders to serve as targets in the sponge-throw booth. If his challenge is accepted, people can take their best shot at Ruidoso village councilors, Ruidoso Downs trustees, and Lincoln County commissioners. Kids also get to take aim at their fathers.

The Fiesta honors this region's heritage as a blend of Mexican, Native American and Cowboy cultures.

The Chamber of Commerce selected Ben Chavez's pioneer family as this year's representative of our cultural roots. Pictures and memorabilia of the Chavez family, who are from Hondo Valley, will be on display at the Fiesta.

Fiesta de Ruidoso will recognize two local businesses, one for the best margarita in town and one for the best Fiesta decorations. Both businesses will have booths at the Fiesta, and the Best Decorated Business wins a one-year Chamber Hondo dancers will perform on Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening before the dance.

From 8 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, a Fiesta dance will feature Siempre, a band from El Paso, Texas. They play rock, country and salsa music. Admission to the dance is $5 for adults. Kids ages 18 and under get in free.

of Commerce membership.

The chamber directors are already planning AspenFest and Oktoberfest. At a board meeting Wednesday, Joan Bailey announced that the Moon Pie Band is getting back together for a special AspenFest performance at the Convention and Civic Events Center.

"Those who have lived here a long time will remember Moon Pie," Bailey said. "They had a huge following and used to play at the Buckaroo."

Bailey said artists are creating a Buckaroo backdrop for the Moon Pie stage. Musician Randy Jones, an original Moon Pie member, still plays in Ruidoso.

Also at the board meeting, directors approved next year's slate of officers. President-elect Joe Gomez chose Danny Sisson as his president-elect, Danny Austin as treasurer, Karen Morris as community development and James Hobbs as head of economic development.

Joan Bailey recently accepted a seat on the board of directors for the Tourism Association of New Mexico (TANM), and she was elected treasurer for the coming year. In three years Bailey will be TANM president.

"The main thing I like about TANM is that they're a lobbying group for the tourism industry," Bailey told the board.

Director Frank Potter pointed out how important it is that someone from this area keep reminding legislators and the Department of Tourism about this region.

"If you think someone up there is promoting this area, you're dead wrong," Potter said.

Groups like the chamber, the Apache Trails Council and the Museum of the Horse work hard to keep Ruidoso and surrounding areas on the itineraries of tour operators.

temporarily (40 years) storing about 7,000 tons of high level radioactive waste until a permanent grave is created by the federal government in Nevada sometime after 2010. The spent fuel rods currently lie in cooling ponds at nuclear reactor sites around the country.

Some of the utilities say they will run out of space by the year 2000. Six utilities already exhausted the space in their pools and are storing the material in metal casks. Industry leaders worry that some utilities could be forced to shut down in the next few years, if no alternative is found.

The Tribal Council says that possibly before the end of the year, a referendum will be scheduled for tribal members to voice their opinions. Meanwhile, the newly-formed coalition of utilities and the Tribal Council must put together an environmental impact statement and obtain a license from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) to store the material. Those pursuits alone will take years.

The real battleground will be over the claimed sovereignty of the Apaches on their reservation and the state's control over what can be hauled over its highways.

The site most often mentioned for the storage facility is an isolated area populated primarily by rattlesnakes near Three Rivers at the base of Sierra Blanca.

Chino says he sees financial independence for his people, as much as $25 million a year. The tribe already operates Ski Apache on U.S. Forest Service land, the luxury resort called Inn of the Mountain Gods on the Reservation, a forest products company and a container welding business.

King's letter

King asked Clinton for his leadership on the issue.

He said the Mescalero's proposal for an MRS "is the direct result of the lack of an effective national policy for the management of spent nuclear fuel."

"While I have the greatest respect for the sovereignty of the Mescalero Tribe, the siting of such a facility in New Mexico will pose undue risks for the citizens... I strongly oppose the siting of a spent fuel storage facility anywhere in the State of New Mexico."

He urged Clinton to clarify the Administration's policies on three issues:

—the need for a national nuclear waste management policy

—the dangers and extra-precautions needed, if the private sector becomes involved —that if away-from-reactor is the chosen course for an interim storage facility, siting should be based on sound and prudent principles, including geographic equity, minimization of transportation and handling risks and geologic stability.

King pointed out that New Mexico has done its part by agreeing to the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) at Carlsbad for government weapon generated plutonium waste; by having a major role in the research, development and testing of nuclear weapon; and by bearing a significant burden from uranium mining that has fed the nations nuclear activities.

"Significantly, New Mexico does not have any commercial reactors," King wrote. "It is not contributing to the generation of this waste and should not have to bear the burden of waste from other areas of the country that have benefited from nuclear generated electricity."

He also pointed to Clinton's Executive Order on Environmental Justice, noting that New Mexico has a significant minority population.

"As you can see, these are national concerns which cross the jurisdiction of many federal agencies," King wrote Clinton.

"For far too long there has been an absence of coordination at the federal level regarding the management of the nation's nuclear waste."

"The lack of an effective program calls into question the federal government's trust and credibility with respect to achieving progress on a pressing national concern: permanent disposal of nuclear waste."

"I do not believe that an away-from-reactor interim storage facility, especially as proposed by the Mescalero, will have cost and safety advantages over, continued at reactor storage or other options yet to be considered.

"I question whether such a facility will even alleviate short term storage needs. No comprehensive comparative risk (or cost) analyses have been conducted to date on the soundness of such a facility."

King pointed out the DOE's failure to achieve definite programs in response to a Congressional mandate in The Nuclear Policy Act, for developing and implementing safe and effective management and disposal of the Nations spent nuclear fuel.

"There are many reasons why a private facility causes significant concerns," King wrote.

"It avoids the statutory capacity constraints ... to ensure an interim storage facility will not become a de facto repository."

A private facility lacks the precautionary measures, transportation safeguards and public participation that would be required for a federally sponsored facility, he said.

King also questioned the NRC's licensing authority and the adequacy of its existing regulatory process as it may apply to private, away from reactor storage.

He wrote that, "Existing NRC regulations and requirements are inadequate to license the facility proposed by the Mescalero."

Chino's response

"The Governor correctly points out in his letter that our joint effort was made necessary by the (DOE's failure to properly develop and manage an integrated national policy for disposing of nuclear waste," Chino wrote Clinton.

The utility/Tribe coalition is trying to break the government gridlock to meet an urgent national need, he said.

"We are volunteering to help solve a national problem for the nuclear industry, an industry which was nurtured in New Mexico and that remains integral to the state's economic base, an industry which has generated billions of dollars for non-Indian communities in New Mexico," Chino told Clinton.

He noted that King has opposed the possibility of an MRS in the state from the beginning. He disputed that sovereignty or the involvement of private utilities would decrease the amount of scrutiny and supervision of an MRS.

"A private facility must meet every federal standard and safeguard set forth by the (NRC), including the requirement for extensive public participation.... Our studies have taught us that spent fuel storage is a safe activity."

"The costs are competitive with on-site storage."

Chino also disputed King's stated respect for the Tribe's sovereignty.

"Throughout New Mexico, many government leaders have opposed our expression of sovereign rights or settled for lip-service," he wrote. "In fact, Governor King is in clear violation of the federal Indian Gaming Act, stifling the economic aspirations of tribes throughout the state."

In spite of King's record of obstruction, the Mescalero have successfully developed a number of significant businesses, Chino contended.

"Not only does this (paternalistic agendas advanced in the name of environmental justice) deny us our sovereign right to chart our own economic destiny, but it twists your well meaning policy to maintain the status quo," he said.

"Environmental racism was not raised as a concern when we undertook these more mainstream projects, but now the implication is raised that we might not be competent to manage our own affairs."

Chino questioned why the governor could support WIPP and not the MRS.

"Why is our responsibility for weapon's waste greater than our responsibility for civilian nuclear wastes?" he asked. "Where is the Governor's concern about environmental racism when it relates to uranium mining and the environmental degradation of Indian lands by the Los Alamos and Sandia National Laboratories?"

"We ask for economic equity and the just distribution of economic opportunity to New Mexico's Indian tribes and rural areas. We need your support and involvement on our behalf. We only ask for the opportunity to assist this nation in solving a national problem, and in turn, we will prove to be reliable, trustworthy guardians of these materials for all Americans."

Trash trackers take aim at illegal dumpers

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Illegal dumping of the mammoth proportions prompted the formation of a special committee Tuesday to combat the problem.

The solutions could include rewards as high as $100 for turning in violators and, with the cooperation of local judges, the maximum fines allowed by law.

"It's getting way out of hand," said Joe Lewandowski, general manager of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority. The coalition of the county and its five municipalities was formed four years ago to haul garbage and create a regional landfill.

"What's happened is wherever there is a dumpster, it has been turned into an illegal dump site," he told authority members. "I'm not talking pine needles, limbs and the occasional appliance you see in Ruidoso. On the outskirts of communities, in the county and along Gavilan, everyone has gotten the idea they can unload a whole truck full and they don't even wait until dark anymore. They do it in broad daylight."

He pulled seven people off their regular duties last week to help with clean up work, Lewandowski said.

"Money wise to the Authority, it's outrageous," he said, gathering up two fists full of illegal dumping complaint sheets. "When you decide enough is enough, we need to act. How much can we afford to do?"

Pointing to an engine block lying on the meeting table, he told members, "I know you each represent your individual village and the county, but this is an example of what was left at Gavilan Saturday morning after we emptied dumpsters and cleaned Friday evening."

Two employees who have been picking up garbage in Ruidoso for as long as 26 years said they have never seen anything like the current abuse, Lewandowski said.

"We can continue cleaning, hire more crews and go out and pay for it, or we can go after the violators," he said.

Holding up a short list of commercial accounts, he asked, "Where are the rest going with their garbage? A few use (commercial carriers), but we're the only landfill in the area. Where are the contractors, carpet layers, appliance dealers going?"

"The ones on this list, these are the ones doing it right. They're paying a higher landfill rate, because the others aren't paying their share. They're not doing it for free somewhere else."

"What can we do if we catch someone?" asked Dr. Bernhardt Reimann, who represents the village of Capitan.

"As a private citizen, we can file a complaint against them, but I would prefer relying on the villages," Lewandowski said. "All of your ordinances are strong enough if you wanted to do something about it, you could."

"It's going to take someone concentrating on this problem to train people. With the landfill solved (the regional landfill opened last January), I'd like the board to take this on as a project in the coming year."

Gary Jackson, Ruidoso village manager, said his code enforcement officers have brought several cases to court, only to see a small fine imposed.

Lewandowski said he would like to see judges assign violators community service time cleaning up illegal dump sites, especially messes around dumpsters.

"I'm curious why we have dumpsters in unoccupied areas," Jackson said. "It's almost like an invitation for people to come and dump here."

Lewandowski said he had discussed with Chairman Wilton Howell, a county commissioner, about removing dumpsters in more isolated areas.

But Stephanie Chastain, who put together the Respect Ruidoso anti-litter campaign, said that would penalize campers and tourists. A better approach is to make sure people understand what avenues of legal disposal are available and to crack down on violators, she said.

Although sheriff's department code enforcement deputy Charlie LaBelle did cite a violator and made him clean up the area he filled with construction and other debris, the deputy has other duties and the attention is only periodic.

"I don't know how many times we have to ask before we get the sheriff to go out there routinely," Howell said. "We don't have much control over the sheriff except at annual budget review."

"It's costing us $50,000 and higher. This is not small stuff."

Sergeant Lanny Maddox of the Ruidoso Police Department, said it's best to react quickly and tackle a problem when it's small, not wait until it's out of control.

"Word travels faster than anything else," Maddox said, adding that hefty fines are needed to grab the attention of violators.

The Ruidoso/Lincoln County Crimestoppers tips program worked well recently in finding the person who was painting graffiti on buildings in town and doing thousands of dollars in damage. The tipsters received $500, but saved much more money in the larger picture, because the vandal would have continued his destruction, Maddox said.

He proposed taking the same approach with illegal dumping.

"I would like to make a quick $50 reward for information on illegal dumping and make it separate from the felony type tips," he said. "Maybe the tip calls could be answered here. We could ask people to get the license plate, or a description of the vehicle. By virtue of the state statute (that created the program), their credibility already is accepted."

"If someone could videotape or take a picture, they'd certainly get their $50. If they were willing to testify, we could double the reward to $100 and Crimestoppers could be reimbursed out of the fine."

That's where the judges would enter the picture. They would have to levy stiff enough fines to get the attention of violators. In a recent case, the judge required the violator to clean up the debris, but only fined him $15, said Thomas Chavez, one of Ruidoso's code enforcement officers.

County Commissioner Bill Schwattmann, a member of the authority, suggested cooperating with the local newspapers to publish a list of code violators "and embarrass them."

He noted that someone "could stake out some dumpsters and make $1,000 a day" turning in violators.

With the transfer station on Gavilan Canyon Road and the debris landfill in Capitan, no valid excuse exists for not taking large items to the proper disposal site, Lewandowski said.

An education campaign could use the print and radio media, as well as community television, Jackson said.

"Maybe we could even publish some pictures of people violating the ordinances," he said.

Bill Hirschfeld and Glen Crane from the Lincoln County Board of Realtors said their group is ready to become involved.

Howell appointed a committee consisting of Hirschfeld, Crane, Maddox, Chastain, authority member Jerry Wright from KBUY radio, Gary Jackson and Ruidoso Downs code enforcement officer Tom Armstrong.

Meanwhile, he asked each government representative to go back to their boards and ask that Lewandowski be given the power to legally cite violators.

Signs with the Crimestoppers information will be posted on containers. A previously ordered 120 signs already are gone.

"I'm sure at least 50 of them are in some kid's bedroom as collectibles, but I can get more for the dumpsters," Maddox said.

One day after containers were emptied and the site on Grindstone Canyon Drive was cleaned up, illegal dumpers were at it again, dropping off a water heater, toilet, mattress, carpet, a couch, a refrigerator and sacks of yard waste next to the empty containers. Solid Waste Authority officials promise a major crack down and fines.

Land Office reminds garbage authorities of mineral/land swap

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If the solid waste authorities in Lincoln and Otero Counties don't fulfill their commitment to the State Public Land Office, they may see the operation of their new regional landfill shut down.

That state department sold the 622.5 acres for the landfill south of Alamogordo to the Otero and Lincoln authorities for $30,000, but asked them to supply mineral rights from some other land as an exchange. Otherwise, someone might try to claim the right to dig up the minerals underneath the landfill.

Alamogordo city manager Bob Stockwell had been asked by the Lincoln authority before to pursue that exchange, but without results. The latest request was 1 1/2 weeks ago at the urging of Lincoln authority attorney J. Robert Beauvais.

In a letter to Lincoln authority chairman Wilton Howell May 26, Beauvais wrote that he had been contacted by Harry Relkin, general counsel for the State Land Office. The Lincoln and Otero authorities and assistant commissioners for Commercial Lands.

Howell shared that letter with other authority members during a special meeting Tuesday.

"Mr. Relkin asked that I express to the Otero/Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority, in the strongest terms, the State Land Office's displeasure for the seeming inability or unwillingness on the part of the Authority to complete the mineral acquisition for the landfill," Beauvais wrote.

"I got the distinct impression that, should this matter not be resolved in the foreseeable future, the Land Office might take legal action to enforce the further use of the landfill until this matter is resolved."

Authority members authorized Beauvais to send a letter to city of Alamogordo and Stockwell reminding them of the need to fulfill the obligation to the state.

Howell said if the authority doesn't hear something in a week to 10 days after the letter is received, he will call for a joint meeting of the Lincoln and Otero authorities.

Petite body builder focuses on form, not bulk

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

In the sunlit weight rooms of the Ruidoso Athletic Club (RAC) you are likely to find body builder Eva Morgan. She works out at the RAC one to three and a half hours a day except Sunday.

"I try to rest on Sunday, but when I don't work out I get tense," she said.

Morgan is a small woman, five feet tall, 116 pounds, not the stereotypical image of a female body builder.

"I don't want to get massive and freaky looking," said Morgan. "This is a good time for women to enter body building and compete because the smaller contests are getting away from wanting that manly look."

Morgan said the contests she's entered focus on form and good proportion. The idea is to improve the body, add curves, sculpt, not distort.

"Now you can still look like a woman," she said. "They want your body to be a well-oiled machine."

Morgan said she's learned that the big girls don't always win. At her first contest she was slightly intimidated by a 175-pound, muscle bound woman, but the contest trophy went to a 112-pound body builder.

"This little bitty girl won," said Morgan. "They go by symmetry and overall appearance."

Ironically, Morgan began lifting weights in high school because she was scrawny and needed to put on weight. Her work outs slacked off with the birth of her son, but she got back into a routine about three years ago.

"One advantage to being short is that it doesn't take long to build muscles," she said. "A taller woman has longer muscles that take twice as long to build up."

Morgan has competed twice, already proving herself to be contest material. She won first place in her division at the Miss Mid USA Championship Contest in April, and she won second place in open competition at the AAU New Mexico Championship.

To prepare for the contest, Morgan went on a cutting diet, cutting out sodium, fat and carbohydrates.

"I wouldn't recommend a cutting diet for anyone," Morgan said. "I'm not doing it again. For three days you cut carbohydrates, then you load up on them. That's a real shock to your body. It had a bad effect on my motivation."

At the AAU contest, which requires contestants to be drug-free for a year, Morgan had no peers.

"I was so short, there wasn't anyone my size, so I had to compete with the bigger girls," she said.

Fortunately, that contest also emphasized posing, leanness and no bulging. The first place winner at AAU was a former champion, and Morgan said many women had taken posing seminars.

Morgan has been invited to larger contests, but she said she is going to rest awhile, mostly to recover from the cutting diets. Meanwhile, she goes to the RAC frequently with her husband.

"I have some equipment at home, but it's hard to be serious there," she said. "My husband is very supportive. He looks into contests and we work out together."

Morgan's job involves a lot of travel and she said she's seen a lot of gyms. The RAC, she said, is the best of all the facilities she's seen.

"It's not crowded. It's affordable," she said. "Jeannie [Whitman, owner] has made this a really good place to work out. The environment here motivates me, and it's social and real friendly."

The RAC is a large, airy facility with plenty of natural light, locker rooms that afford a little privacy, a hot tub and a sauna. The RAC also has an aerobics floor, a racquetball court and a basketball court. Morgan said the RAC is an excellent place for teens to spend their time.

"Young girls are so obsessed with being thin," she said. "I never tell my stepdaughters to lose weight. I tell them to exercise."

Unlike dieting, which Morgan says is no good for the long run, weight lifting helps the metabolism regulate itself. Exercise also burns stress and keeps kids occupied.

Body builder Eva Morgan works out at the Ruidoso Athletic Club. At five feet, 116 pounds, Morgan won first place in her division at the Miss Mid USA Championship contest and second place in the AAU New Mexico Championship. Morgan said she likes working out at the Ruidoso Athletic Club (RAC) because the atmosphere motivates her, it's not crowded and the cost is reasonable. In addition to weights and other equipment, the RAC offers an aerobics floor, a racquetball court, a basketball court, a hot tub and a sauna. Morgan has been steadily sculpting her body for three years. She recommends any kind of exercise to bored teens.

Inside the Outdoors

Summertime, and the fishing is easy ...

With the temperatures heating up and the signs of spring all around, people are starting to catch a dose of spring fever. For those that catch the fever and get the urge to get out and enjoy the outdoors by fishing, here is a gentle reminder.

For folks living in New Mexico, the cost of a fishing license is the same as last year. An annual fishing license is $8.50 and with a trout stamp or validation $14. Junior anglers (those ages 12, 13 and 14) and seniors (those 65 and older) get a break on the price and can get an annual license for $1.50 or with a trout validation the cost is $4.50. Combination hunting and fishing licenses are also available. If you are going to be fishing in waters on BLM or U.S. Forest Service land, don't forget to get a habitat stamp.

Now that you have a license, probably the most important question is "Where are the fish biting?" Getting the answer to this question is now very simple. The Department of Game and Fish is involved in a new program where you can get the latest fishing information 24 hours a day, seven days a week. All you have to do is call a toll free number that is easy to remember, 1-800-ASK FISH. Callers can get up-to-date fishing reports from almost all waters in the state. The reports are biting and what they're biting on. The reports are compiled by the Department of Game and Fish.

In addition, you can get information on fishing licenses, fishing regulations, boat launch areas, locations of different waters, answers to commonly asked questions and what's new in the realm of sport fishing. If you are traveling to another state and wish to find out about fishing there, information is available from Arkansas, Florida, Kansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Oregon and Utah on the same toll free number.

Other important considerations before going fishing are to check your fishing tackle, inspect your boat including the registration, and be sure to schedule time off from work!

When something has been stored for a while it needs to be checked over before being used, and fishing tackle is no exception. Inspect rods to see if all the eyelets are still secure and intact. Reels need to be lubricated, the drag set and old brittle line should be replaced. Check lures to make sure they are working properly and hooks to make sure they are sharp.

Last but not least talk to the boss and get some time off. The worst thing is having great fishing gear and then never getting a chance to use it.

Barbecue welcomes racetrack

Just imagine summer without the Ruidoso Downs Race Track and the hundreds of workers it brings into the area — things would be pretty slim.

That's why the Welcome Back Horsemen committee honors the racetrack workers — especially the ones from the barns and backside — with a big party each summer.

The Seventh Annual Welcome Back Horsemen Dance and Bar-B-

Que will be from 6 to 10 p.m. Tuesday, June 14, at the Sports Theater at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Tickets are just $5 each for the meal, musical entertainment and dancing. For every ticket purchased for that low price of $5, one free ticket will be given to a racetrack worker.

The dinner will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. with live western music continuing until 10 p.m.

Council hires aircraft mechanic for airport

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Aircraft specialist Ron Schrock was approved Tuesday by the Ruidoso Village Council for the Ruidoso Regional Airport mechanic's position.

In a special meeting Monday, board member Ralph Gary said Schrock, from Rainbow City, Alabama, was the only bid responded to the request for proposals (RFP) sent for the position.

Board members present at the special meeting were Gary, Ted Conley, Russell Dorsey and David Noltensmeyer.

Schrock told members he is currently under contract with Franklin Aviation and repairing planes at the airport.

Airport manager Lloyd Wayne presented Schrock's contract to the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday for approval.

According to the contract, Schrock will receive $18,000 per year for the basic 1,200 hours of unscheduled services, payable as follows:

A start up amount of $5,025 plus applicable gross receipts tax on July 5 and the balance to be paid in 11 equal monthly installments beginning on the 20th day of each month beginning in August.

The village shall act as billing manager for Schrock for all unscheduled services provided by Schrock.

He will bill at the rate of $15 per hour for labor and the village shall pass on its costs of the facilities and services at the rate of $30 per hour shop rate to the customer.

Schrock is responsible for billing and collecting all other services provided at the airport.

The board set 7 p.m. the last Thursday of each month at village hall as the regular meeting time, date and place.

The board's next meeting will discuss additional uses of the hangar with guest speaker Karen Kopp, the director for the Lincoln County Economic Development Corporation.

According to Wayne, the management of airport land is being taken out of planning and zoning hands, and will eventually be placed under the airport advisory board.

Wayne said village officials recognize that the Federal Aviation Authority has a number of rules that would place an additional burden on the local P&Z, and that in the best interest of the village, the airport's industrial park should come under the airport board.

Wieghorst exhibit opens

An art exhibit featuring the works of renowned Western artist, Olaf Wieghorst, will open at the Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs this Saturday.

This exceptional exhibit, which opens June 4 and runs through Labor Day, will feature more than 20 paintings, a number of bronzes and a selection of sketches by Wieghorst.

The exhibit was made possible through the generosity of the John Goodman family of Tucson, Arizona, Troy Murray of Scottsdale and Clarence Scharbauer Jr. of Midland, Texas. The Wieghorst exhibit will be the first major art show in the new fine arts wing at the Museum of the Horse.

Utilizing former storage space, the craftsmen at the Museum have converted the area into a fine art gallery. The Wieghorst exhibit is the first of what Museum personnel hope will be many outstanding art shows to hang in the gallery.

Acclaimed by critics as an outstanding contemporary Western artist, Wieghorst earned accolades during a lifetime of observing, handling and painting horses and the West.

Literally every scene that Wieghorst painted was a page from his personal experience as a cowboy, cavalryman, wrangler and equestrian.

Born in Jutland, Denmark, in 1899, Wieghorst was trained by his father to be an acrobat and appeared as a professional on the stage of the Tivoli Theater in Copenhagen at the age of nine. By 1914, he had played every sizable town in Scandinavia and had a contract to appear in Paris.

The outbreak of World War I canceled both contract and career for young Wieghorst. His great love for horses prompted him, at age 16, to take a job working for his board on a stock farm owned by a retired cavalry officer.

As a young man, he pursued his favorite pastimes of drawing, painting and reading about the American cowboy. In the process, Wieghorst formulated one goal in his mind, to find a life in the great American West.

In 1918, Wieghorst took a job as a cabin boy on an American bound ship. After working at various jobs in New York, the young Dane spotted a recruiting station, enlisted and ended up with the Fifth Cavalry station in Texas as part of the hunt for Pancho Villa.

Throughout all of his experiences, he sketched and painted. It was his career as an artist that brought him lasting fame. His realistic renderings of life in the West now hang in great private and public collections throughout the United States.

Wieghorst once said, "A man can't be blamed or take credit for the talent he is born with; but he is to blame if he does not work with talent."

The museum is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. For information, call 505-378-4142.

If it looks dry, it probably is

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Expect the Rio Bonito to look more like a mud flat than a stream this summer. And whenever water flows, count your blessings, says the man who controls the valve.

"I've hardly been pumping any water out since last November," said Keith Kessler, who manages the reservoir for the city of Alamogordo.

"I'm not sending much water down to the Tularosa Basin because we have pipeline problems and they're shut down."

"If it was pumping two million gallons a day, the lake would be 20 feet below the spillway."

Kessler said water that stream side residents have been seeing this spring came from the spillway and opening the waste valve.

Several complained to The Ruidoso News that the stream nearly stopped running over the Memorial Day weekend.

"I dropped the lake 2 1/2 feet so we could build a handicap ramp (supporting) wall," Kessler said. "I turned the valve off six or seven times and the lake has been filling up. There's been no flow to speak of."

"Any water out of the reservoir since last November has been a blessing."

Kessler warned residents that the water will drop again in the next few weeks to accommodate more construction.

"Lots of people have called me personally to ask," he said, "We're not bound by any law to waste (send water) down the Bonito, but when we have some extra flow, I like to open the valve and create a little flow."

The city of Alamogordo owns the reservoir, which was designed to feed a portion of city's water supply needs through a pipeline down U.S. 70.

Colonel Davis assumes 49th Bare Base Systems

Colonel James N. Davis recently assumed command of the 49th Bare Base Systems Group at Holloman Air Force Base.

Davis is the son-in-law of Lola Harris of Ruidoso Downs. He is married to the former Mollie K. Harris who was born and raised in this area and is a Ruidoso High School graduate.

Davis replaced Colonel Robert Bittner, who retired after more than 25 years of service. He comes to Holloman from Nellis Air Force Base, Nevada, where he commanded the 820th Red Horse Civil Engineering Squadron.

Davis was born in Espanola, and graduated from Santa Fe High School in 1964. He received a bachelor of science degree from New Mexico State University at Las Cruces and a second in meteorology from the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, in 1970.

The native New Mexican received his master of science degree in civil engineering from the Air Force Institute of Technology in 1976.

Now that Mom's at work: who's minding the kids?

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

About 1.6 million students, comprising eight percent of grade school children, of employed mothers in the nation, came home to empty houses in 1991.

According to a report released by the U.S. Department of Commerce, nearly one-third of the children were five to 11 year-olds, while the remaining two-thirds were ages 12 to 14.

Lynne M. Casper, one of the authors of "Who's Minding the Kids? Child Care Arrangements Fall 1991" says, "The mother's job characteristics are the most important factors in determining if a child is a latchkey kid."

"Factors such as income take a back seat to whether the child's mother works full or part time, or has an evening or night shift."

The report points out that children five to 11 years old whose mothers were full-time workers were four times more likely to be latchkey kids than children whose mothers were part-time workers.

The issue can be more than just providing supervision, it can be a matter of safety.

Lee Ann Garner, who heads an extended day program at Nob Hill Elementary in Ruidoso, said that an alarming related statistic shows that most fires are started from 3 to 6 p.m. by children under the age of 18.

The need for free or low-cost after school care has been demonstrated in communities across New Mexico, where the competition for grant money is increasingly tough.

The extended day program at Nob Hill currently serves 55 children in kindergarten and first grade. But Garner said the number will be cut next year at the same time the grades will be expanded to kindergarten through fourth.

"I wrote the grant to serve 110 children for $110,000, but they are dropping the number to 30 children and cutting the money in half," she said. "The fee was $2 a day, but it will have to be higher next year because so many schools applied for the money available and more financial support from parents will be needed."

Judy Fifield, planner developer with the Child Care Bureau of the Department of Children, Youth and Families said her division sent out requests for proposals on before- and after-school care programs last December. While dozens of proposals were received, only 13 could be funded throughout the state.

"With approximately $715,000 available, it doesn't nearly meet the need," she said. "The money comes from the federal Child Care and Development Block Grant, which dictates that a percentage be used for school age children."

"A need for school age child care exists in all communities, where they can be exposed to constructive and fun things to do in a more supervised and safe environment."

Fifield said the Nob Hill program already has been recognized nationally as a model. She complimented principal Roger Sowder and the Ruidoso district administration and school board for their support and realization of the need.

Some positive movement occurred during the State Legislative session earlier this year when more money was released by the legislature to subsidize the working poor's access to child care to enable them to continue to work and avoid welfare. More than 4,000 people had been on a waiting list for some help. Fifield said some use private day care centers, in-home providers and others end up participating in after school programs such as Nob Hill.

Another federal block grant for dependent care provided $30,000 to New Mexico to enhance school age child care service. It was used to train care providers and to establish the New Mexico School Age

Child Care Alliance, a chapter of the similar national organization.

At a recent meeting in Roswell, the group cited its major needs as more recognition of the need for school age child care by parents, more money for equipment and supplies and organized professional training for staff.

However, at the same meeting, they reviewed an alert sent to child care advocates from the Children's Defense Fund, noting that a proposal has been introduced to provide $5 billion child care dollars over five years for poor working families. The money is attached to a welfare reform plan but are not for families that are on welfare.

"This is the best chance to get money for child care in the next few years," the alert stated. "There is great danger that we will lose this additional money if we don't act now. The Administration is finalizing its welfare reform plan and these funds could easily get cut."

Supporters were urged to write President Bill Clinton at The White House, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue N.W., Washington D.C. 20500.

"The federal government is trying to drastically cut the money and if it goes through, these programs will be severely affected," Garner said.

Statistics assembled by the Coalition for Children, Youth and Families of Albuquerque show that in Lincoln County during 1990, of the families where both parents or the single parent works, 69.6 percent have children under six years old, 68.9 percent have children 6-17 years old.

From 1989 to 1991, the number of neglect investigations increased from 37 to 62 in the county. The number of children five and under living in poverty hit 20.8 percent, and those 18 and under, 25.7 percent.

Citing her national study, Casper said children living in suburban areas are about twice as likely to be home alone as those in non-metropolitan areas, possibly because of the nearness of neighbors in cities.

Other highlights of the report include that:

—childcare in the child's own home is most prevalent among preschoolers whose mothers work evening or night shifts (47 percent). Two-thirds of this in-home care is provided by the father.

—the proportion of preschoolers cared for by fathers while mothers were at work increased from 15 percent to 20 percent from 1988 to 1991.

—unmarried mothers' children are more likely to be cared for by their grandparents (25 percent) than are married mothers' children (14 percent).

—the number of preschoolers cared for by family day care providers declined from 24 percent in 1988 to 18 percent in 1991.

—the use of organized child care facilities for preschoolers was more likely if the child's mother was working full time (28 percent) than if she was working part time (15 percent).

—an estimated $21.8-billion was spent on child care in 1991. The proportion of families paying for child care fell from 40 percent in 1988 to 35 percent in 1991 as father-provider care became more prevalent. Families paying for child care spent an average of $63.50 per week in 1991.

—among families paying for child care, those in poverty pay a higher proportion of their monthly family income for childcare, nearly 27 percent, compared to families that were not in poverty, about seven percent.

Judy Stubbs of the Roswell Child Care Resource and Referral office said her organization handles an average of 250 children a day.

"People are real funny if they have to pay," she said. "It's bizarre, where our priorities are."

at Spencer Ranch

Members of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County met for church services and picnic at the Spencer BAR-W ranch north of Carizozo on Sunday the twenty-ninth.

The Reverend John W. Penn preached a sermon on the meaning of Trinity Sunday.

Lay reader Gretchen Batton read from the book of Exodus; also from the Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the Romans.

"For I record that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us."

The Reverend Robert Batton read from The Gospel according to Saint John: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life."

The Reverend Leon Livingston read the prayers of the people.

The choir sang favorite hymns to the accompaniment of the keyboard played by church organist Jane Daye.

The historic ranch was all dressed up in new grass after the recent rains.

More than 90 people were on hand for this enjoyable day — a splendid turn-out.

We thank all those who made this gathering something long to be remembered.

Commander Doug Houseton began his welcome by saying: "Today we honor a very special group of Americans: men and women who served our country and who gave their lives in the service."

"In honoring them, today, we recognize their dedication, courage and sacrifice. And we also celebrate the freedom they gave us."

Special prayers

Father John Penn prayed: "Almighty God, we come before you this day to offer our prayers of thanksgiving for those men and women of our armed forces who have given the last full measure of devotion in the service of their country."

"On this day we remember especially those Allied Forces who charged the beaches of Normandy to free Europe from the evil ravages of Nazi aggression."

"Finally, Lord, give your grace to this land we love so well."

Dub Williams strikes a responsive chord

In the spirit of Doug Houseton and Father John Penn, Dub Williams struck a responsive chord in the hearts of his listeners when he said: "Every day should be Veterans Day, and we should thank God every day that thanks to them we live in the greatest country in the world."

Graves decorated with American flags

In the early morning American flags were placed on the graves of veterans. One of those helping with the flags was Jeri Ann Keeton, daughter of Jerry Keeton.

Julius Fitzner, commander of Robert J. Hagee Post 79, of the American Legion, Ruidoso, said that there are more than one hundred and thirty graves of veterans in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

We thank all those who gave their support to this Memorial Day ceremony.

Wetlands project is for the birds

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

To Dr. Bernhard Reimann, the concept is basic and logical.

Creating a wetlands using plants to filter out impurities in sewage effluent simply is using the tools nature created.

But what Reimann has created with those tools is a wonder, only the second such project in the state.

Instead of odoriferous and somewhat unsightly sewage treatment ponds east of Capitan, nesting islands already discovered by waterfowl and swallows peek from a small lake.

Walking among the canals where plants are busy cleansing man's muck, it takes a while to realize that no odor hangs in the air.

Instead of barren processing tanks and stagnant ponds, the water constantly is moving. Since the wetlands first was pronounced operable March 31, 1993, on an acceptable, if not fully planted level, nearly 5.5-million gallons have been processed.

The daily inflow is calculated at 25,550 gallons, but the system could handle a maximum peak flow of 170,000 gallons per day.

Capitan village officials gratefully acknowledge Reimann's role as a community volunteer who has served in many capacities to benefit the village.

A sign off U.S. 390 as it leaves the village and heads toward the settlement of Lincoln declares, "Village of Capitan Wastewater Treatment Facility dedicated to Dr. Bernhard E. F. Reimann, Designer."

Raw sewage is pumped into the system from a main valve off U.S. 390 and is "lifted" to create a gravity flow to two lagoons that are aerated by pumps.

"We run them overnight, so we are operating during the low demand hours for electricity, about six to seven hours," Reimann said.

"We always had many complaints with the old system, but there have been none from the village since we started operation (of the wetlands)," Reimann said.

Tied to automatic gauges, the pumps turn on at night moving the water in the two lagoons.

Heavy liners cover the bottom of the lagoons and treatment cells to prevent leakage into the underground water flow, called an aquifer.

From the lagoons, the effluent is fed into one of three wetlands cells. Flows in the first two parallel channels travel north to south. The last moves south to north, although the movement is nearly imperceptible to the eye.

The vegetation in the three cells was planted at the end of August, survived through winter freezes and emerged this spring.

"They're hardy," Reimann said. "You can see that they handled it well."

Cattails and bulrushes were planted in each of the cells. Eventually, the surface will be covered with plant life, specifically oriented toward removing targeted chemicals such as chloride and phosphorous.

The grass planted between the cells, with the help of the U.S. Soil and Water Conservation District, creates a more pleasing picture. A reseeding project with western wheat grass is planned this month, Reimann said. The district also secured money to buy trees that will border the entire complex, acting as a natural wind and odor barrier.

"The birds love it," Reimann said, as swallows winged through the air at high speeds and low elevations.

By the time a drop of water born at the lift station navigates the lagoons and cells, and is ready to drop from one of two pipes that feed the final stage lake, it is 1 1/2 months old, Reimann said.

As he approached the third cell, Reimann became excited to see a band of algae growing along one end.

The "nice" algae also detoxifies the wastewater, just like the other plants.

"They are cooperating with us," Reimann said.

One organism that is not as attractive for the community is the thriving crop of mosquitoes spawned in the wastewater. However, the swallows don't seem to mind, diving through the small concentrations of the hatch.

Representatives from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are considering introducing a mosquito-eating fish called Gambusia.

More varieties of plants will be added later, Reimann said. One of the factors that separates Capitan's wetlands from one constructed in Tatum is that Reimann doesn't rely on just one type of plant to do the job.

"That way plant disease or a freeze can't wipe out the entire system and put you back to the starting point," Reimann said.

"No water from this site goes into the creeks," Reimann said. "We are not discharging any water into the creeks or any other area, although this water probably is far cleaner than the creek water."

The villages previously used treatment lagoons, just east of the wetlands, were a constant source of complaints about odors.

Reimann said now they can be used to handle overflow from the wetlands. In connection with that design, U.S. Fish and Wildlife officials are interested in creating a playa (series of small lakes) system.

A master control box electronically monitors the water flow in the wetlands, turns on the pumps at night and alerts the village when electricity fails with a flashing red light. In case of such a failure, a hook up to a generator was planned by Drew Engineering, which handled the entire project.

The only ingredient missing from Reimann's original concept is a recreation area around the lake. The concept was killed by liability insurance costs and concerns, but Reimann isn't giving up. He is pursuing alternatives that could protect the public safety, but still allow public use of the area around the lake.

Until then, however, the swallows and other birds are enjoying the water and the solitude of the site, using the small islands in the lake for nesting.

Dr. Bernhard Reimann points out new plant growth to Capitan Mayor Norman Renfro.

Hone skills at camp

Hitters and spikers should set aside mid-June as the time to hone their volleyball skills.

The Tiger Booster Volleyball Day Camp June 13-17 will offer students in grades 4-12 the chance to learn in a compressed time period some of the special pointers that helped shape winning college teams. June 10 is the deadline to enroll.

Players in grades 9-12 (in the 1994-95 school year) will meet from 1-5 p.m. for instruction. The gymnasium will be open from 6-8 p.m. at the high school.

Players in grades 7-8 will receive instruction from 10 a.m. to noon. Those in grades 4-6 are scheduled from 8-9:30 a.m.

Camp fees are $50 for grades 9-12, $35 for 7-8, and $25 for 4-6.

A $10 deposit or payment in full must accompany the application. Any balance must be paid on the first day of camp. Applications will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis.

Insurance will be the responsibility of the participant. All campers should arrive in good condition. The Tiger Boosters Camp, not the Capitan school system, will be responsible for any injury or accident that may occur as a result of participation in the camp. Campers' parents or guardians must sign a release statement included on the camp application.

Back to teach this year will be Gerald Hekeia, head coach of the women's team at Eastern Arizona University. He was coach of two NJCAA contenders and of the 1992 NJCAA National Championship Team.

Joining Hekeia will be Dalton Overstreet, head coach of Yayapi College in Prescott, Arizona, and coach of the 1986 NJCAA National Runners-Up.

Forms are available from Capitan coach Pam Allen at 354-3121.

New brochure boosts Capitan shops, business

Although the village of Capitan attracts a share of tourists to the Smokey Bear Museum and State Park, merchants of the cozy community would like to keep them around a bit longer.

Catherine Kelley's Bed & Breakfast opened two years ago and Hotel Chango continues to be a favorite dinner spot.

To convince visitors that Capitan has enough interesting places to spend some time, the Capitan Artists and Merchants Association printed a brochure with a street map.

Galleries and artists of note include Lorene and Larry Caywood, realistic oil painting and custom framing; Art and Artifact with the rare and unusual; Angel Tree Exchange with handcrafts by 80 artisans; nationally-known Maggie Doyle, Handwoven Designs; and the Wooden Touch Gallery, a working studio with 30 artisans.

Capitan art teacher Jerry Rice congratulates Heidi Hosmer and Nick Pacheco, winners of the U.S. Small Business Administration's New Mexico Junior High Poster Contest. Hosmer won first place and Pacheco, third place. The two seventh graders attended a reception at Santa Fe Community College to receive their awards for posters showing small businesses encircled by corporations.

A FUN BLEND OF OLD AND NEW

County redrafts bid specs on remodeling the Capitan fairgrounds

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Still fighting to complete some improvements at the county fairground in Capitan before the big July Fourth celebration of Smokey Bear's Fiftieth Birthday, county officials will rebid with different project alternatives.

The only bid received the last time around in May was about double the $150,000 available for the work.

Unfortunately, the bid was submitted in one block for all projects, otherwise, construction already could be underway on a canopy for the bleachers, said Commissioner Bill Schweitmann, who also serves on the Fair Association Board. This time when advertising for bids, commissioners agreed they will ask for separate project prices.

Commissioners had hoped to be able to pay for a canopy to cover the bleachers at the arena, to build a concessions area, a storeroom and a covered connecting link between the stock area and main building.

What happened to the new restrooms? Commissioner Wilton Howell asked.

"That cost would be prohibitive right now," Schweitmann said.

"I thought the canopy and the restrooms (to comply with Americans with Disabilities Act standards) was what primarily was needed, according to what you said last year," Howell said. "I think it's the (fair) board's responsibility to prioritize."

"They did," Schweitmann said. "He just shouldn't have put in a lump sum bid."

Apparently, the way the bid proposal was written wasn't clear. The owner of D & D Construction, the only bidder, offered one block price for four projects.

Tony Elias of the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District, who has been overseeing the spending of the $150,000 allocated by the State Legislature, said if bids still come in too high, the county has other options.

"If there are no bids, the law allows you to go out and purchase services on the open market at the best obtainable price," he told commissioners. "Otherwise, this could go on forever."

Architect Wayne G. Andrews, who drew up the document, wrote a letter to the commission saying he would redraft the bid specifications at no additional charge to the county.

The invitation to bid could be structured for the bleacher canopies and the store room addition (all steel components for the continuity of building). The bleacher canopies could be structured as the base bid and the store room as an additive alternate," he suggested.

This modification of the fairground wish list and structuring of the competitive bidding process would appear to give the Fairground Board a portion of their wish list within the context of available funds.

After authorizing Elias to rebid the projects as quickly as possible, Commissioner Chairman Monroy Montes turned to the subject of a new county manager. Former manager Andy Wynham resigned last month.

"So we don't see a discussion of our hiring procedures for the manager in the newspaper like we did the (rural events center) coordinator, I suggest this board let me know when they want to interview these people, how many you want to interview and when we will hire," Montes said.

"I don't want to get to July 1 and have people feel we did not follow the right process."

He was referring to an article in The Ruidoso News May 26 in which Commissioners Stirling Spencer, L. Ray Nunley and Schweitmann criticized the hiring procedure used for the rural events center.

He noted that the last time a manager was selected, the county advertised for 30 days, a rating session was conducted and then the candidates were narrowed to six, who were called in for interviews.

"One didn't come and we selected from the five left," he said.

Nunley said he didn't think the commission should be held to any particular number of finalists.

"I hope we get 15 good applicants," he said.

"Whatever we do, I hope someone calls Commissioner (Stirling) Spencer and lets him know," Commissioner Wilton Howell said. "I read in the newspaper that he said he hoped he'd be notified to be part of it."

"We should have at least a quorum present at the (county manager) hiring," Nunley said. "I don't want to be in a big rush. If we study the applicants for 10 days or 30 days doesn't matter. I want to do what's best for the county."

Commissioners agreed to discuss the process at their meeting June 10. The deadline for applications is June 3.

In a related matter, Mary Cronin of The Profile Aspect in Alamogordo presented information about a pre-employment assessment test that was used in Otero County to select the county manager.

She proposed commissioners also consider using it to help guide them in picking a person to head the county. The test is administered for a $135 charge per each finalist and then is graded in a computer. County officials can dictate in the computer program what characteristics they are seeking.

"Voters probably should do that for county commissioners before they run for office," Schweitmann quipped.

Cronin said the tests meet Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) requirements and is totally non-discriminatory. While commissioners might not eliminate an applicant based on the information, at the very least, they would know the person's strengths and weaknesses. They can decide then whether the candidate's strengths are where they need them.

"It is not a diagnostic tool," Cronin said. "They only can legally be given by psychologists or psychiatrists. It is not a lie detector test."

Commissioners said they needed time to decide whether to use the test.

Hail wreaks $615,299 worth of havoc

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A 10 mile wide hail storm that ripped through Hondo Valley May 19 left behind an estimated $615,299 in damage to public roads and water supply ditches, to agriculture and to private property.

Lincoln County Commissioners Thursday approved a resolution declaring that portion of the county a disaster area and requested state and federal aid, assistance and relief programs.

Emergency services coordinator Maggi Bohks said the state will assign experts to come down to the valley and assess the damage.

County road manager Bill Cupit has requested the state transportation department to send down officials to inspect bridges that Cupit said were hit hard by flood waters from the Rio Hondo.

"They wouldn't do it until the declaration (of being a disaster area) was sent," Cupit said.

Bohks said generally in past crises, county officials have not over-estimated the damage. The state may come back with a higher figure. Any monetary help probably will come from Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

In his breakdown of $184,299 in losses, Cupit listed $53,113 to replace six inches of caliche (a small gravel surfacing material) on 2.6 miles of County Road BO20, $10,082 to replace caliche on six tenths of a mile on BO28, $21,736 to replace it on 1.3 miles of BO31, all three school bus routes. He listed $7,429 to replace caliche on a half mile of EO48, $30,856 for caliche replacement on one 1.5 mile section of EO44 and $61,313 to replace 12 inches of caliche on another 1.5 mile section of the same road.

Most of the road damage occurred in the Arabela area and north.

In a report prepared on irrigation and diversion areas, Greg Haussler and Bill Van Felt of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Soil and Water Conservation Service came up with an estimated $56,000 in damage. They noted that the J & P Analla diversion dam needs to be stabilized, logs washed out in the center section should be replaced and debris removed for $5,000. They estimated the same cost for work on the Ambrósio Chavez #2 Diversion (plus another $6,000 to correct an area where logs have washed from the top of the diversion), the P. Jones Diversion and the P. Gonzales diversion, which was washed away.

The cost of replacing the Upper South Chosas diversion, which was destroyed, was estimated at $30,000.

Requested from the USDA were Emergency Conservation Program assistance and soil conservation service technical assistance for farmers.

They estimated that 500 acres of farmland was affected, with 30 percent of the yield lost on 380 acres of irrigation pasture and 80 percent of yield lost on 120 acres of orchards.

Bohks said FEMA can reimburse up to 80 percent of the losses.

"I don't want anyone to think that we're going to try to recoup 80 percent of $615,299 in damages," said Commissioner Chairman Monroy Montes. "We will attempt to recoup the losses to public facilities, the roads, acequias (water ditches) and irrigation. Private losses are a whole different consideration. They have to pursue that with their insurance companies."

Commissioner Wilton Howell said under the emergency situation, acceptable parameters exist for government to help its residents.

"I had a couple of calls from people about a ravine filling in with water and some got into some people's houses when it rained yesterday (Thursday, May 26)," he said.

"In our recently approved budget, we gave $25,000 for traps to help out ranchers and kill coyotes. I'd like to see us help these people immediately and save further damage."

"Personally, I have no problem in emergency situations that threaten the health, safety and welfare of citizens, with government responding," Montes said. "We could let Cupit use his discretion to take care of this."

"I've had several calls also praising Cupit's efforts on the roads and keeping them passable," Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said.

"My priority always is the safety and welfare of the public, regardless of budget," Cupit said. "But I have to make an assessment that any of the work won't receive criticism from the district attorney and law enforcement. I've gone through that."

Cupit was referring to a lengthy investigation of his department last year in response to allegations of improper special treatment of some roads and property owners. No charges were ever brought and apparently, no evidence was shown to substantiate the allegations.

"I made judgments (during the storm) that I thought were moral and ethical," Cupit said. "I need commission support. An immediate response, that takes only a short time when you're in the area, could save thousands of dollars in damage."

"Lots of counties get into problems with this. The latitude is up to you."

But commissioners didn't seem to want to have that latitude.

"I take the same approach in every situation, use your resources and common sense to keep us out of trouble, but help our residents," Montes said. "When we're out of this emergency situation, we go right back to the regular rules."

Bohks said Lincoln County is part of a FEMA district based in Denton, Texas.

The funding for the district this year was $750,000, adding, "I have no idea how much of the money still is there and how many disasters have occurred in other parts of the state."

It's up to Governor Bruce King to decide whether the valley qualifies as a disaster area, she said. "Meanwhile, we will make repairs the best we can."

Two lone buglers at opposite ends of the village played "Taps" at several somber Memorial Day services Monday, honoring those who died in the commission of service for their country. Dick Mound plays

Holloman invites its neighbors out this weekend

A B-1B bomber, a C-5 Galaxy and an A-10 Thunderbolt II will be among an estimated 80 military aircraft to be on display during Community Appreciation Day and Airshow '94 at Holloman Air Force Base Saturday, June 4.

Gates at Holloman open at 9 a.m. and close at 5 p.m. with free admission for the show and exhibits.

Airshow '94, the flying side of Community Appreciation Day, will feature almost constant flying activities from noon to 5 p.m.

The Air Force's new T-1 trainer, the replacement for the T-37 primary trainer, also will be displayed. Visitors will be able to see Holloman's aircraft — the F-117 stealth fighter, the F-4E Phantom II, the T-38A and AT-38B Talon, the HH-60 helicopter and the QF-86 and QF-106 drone aircraft.

The base's associate units, such as the 46th Test Group and the 4th Space Warning Squadron, also will have equipment on display.

In addition, the Army's White Sands Missile Range and Fort Bliss, Texas, will display military hardware.

Airshow '94 includes a performance by the USPA and IRS Freedom Jet, a demonstration by a member of the U.S. Aerobatics Team, and a demonstration flight of the F-16 Fighting Falcon. Flybys will be performed by the F-117, F-4E and AT-38B.

The 46th Rescue Squadron, stationed at Holloman, will demonstrate its combat rescue capabilities using the HH-60 helicopter.

The B-1B Lancer is a multi-role, long-range bomber capable of flying intercontinental missions without refueling, then penetrating sophisticated enemy defenses. It can perform a variety of missions, including dropping conventional weapons in theater operations. The B-1 also can fly many of the missions flown by the B-52, such as long-range sea surveillance and mine-laying operations.

County Commission adopts Senior Olympics

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Senior Olympics has found a permanent government sponsor, which will mean smooth sailing for next year's competition.

The Lincoln County Commission Tuesday approved advertising to create a County Senior Olympics Committee.

Acting county manager Martha Guevara was told to start the process and to work out the makeup of the board, such as the number of members and appointment procedures.

The move will bring the Seniors group under the umbrella of county government, including general insurance coverage.

Local Olympics director Barbara Ward explained that previously, the group had been under the sanction of the state. Earlier this year, the rules changed and insurance was required.

The Village of Ruidoso helped temporarily by providing government sponsorship this year, but Ward said she had to scramble to ensure everything was signed and approved in time. Being prepared in advance next year will allow her to concentrate on recruiting more participants, she said.

"I hope you recognize this group so next year we can start earlier and focus on the events," she said.

The idea to create the official committee was proposed by Commissioner L. Ray Nunley, provided no additional cost was involved.

A representative of the county's current insurer said it would be no problem with his company. He suggested that since the county recently sent out requests for proposals on insurance, an addendum should be added to let the bidders know the committee would be part of the coverage.

"I think you're going about it in the proper way," he said. "The Olympics is not a high risk activity. We're talking about pool, bowling and horseshoes. It would be at (no additional) cost."

The insurance does not automatically mean that if someone falls and is injured, they would receive payment. It only protects the county if an injury occurs and payment is made because of some negligence, he said.

Ward said participants always are required to sign liability disclaimers.

"They would receive no per diem or travel reimbursement," Nunley said of the members of the proposed committee. "They will raise their own travel money to participate in the Senior Olympics. We challenged each Senior center last year to raise money for their activities and they all exceeded the mark."

"If there is any funding, it will have to be on a case by case basis," Nunley added that the commission is 100 percent behind the Senior Olympics program.

Letters To The Editor

Hopes Ruidoso will be spared nuclear mistake

TO THE EDITOR:

Some thoughts on the proposed nuclear waste site in Lincoln County.

We have known for many years there have been many nuclear accidents. From Hanford (the nuclear plant in Washington state which has poisoned the rivers and caused several people to sue the Atomic Energy Commission in the hope that they will get some recompense for their suffering) to Bikini Atoll (where men of the armed forces were made to watch the explosion with inadequate protection), the authorities have been cavalier with human life.

Have they learned their lesson? Somehow I doubt it.

Across the Atlantic the picture is much the same. The Irish Sea is used for nuclear waste from Windscale (the plant in the coast of the English Lake district) Chernobyl, the Russian plant which exploded 8 years ago, was the worst nuclear accident ever, still has deleterious effects in the hill farms in Wales and Scotland - over 2,000 miles away - where the lambs have to fatten in the valleys before they are passed for human consumption.

The effects of Chernobyl in the British Isles, serious as they are, pale to nothing compared to the devastation, deaths and radiation burns, in the Ukraine.

In addition, the authorities found it advisable to remove no less than 151,000 people from the 30 kilometer radius surrounding the power station.

I could go on and on. Nuclear submarines sunk and waiting for the salt water to act on their torpedoes. The California nuclear power station built on the San Andreas fault with amazing disregard of the likely consequences. Three Mile Island was an accident which could have been more serious - but we don't know yet whether there are some long term cancers arising from it. There have been radiation leaks from nuclear storage in Estonia and near catastrophe at Atomash where a plant was built on unsuitable subsoil.

Now we find some influential local leaders working to get some nuclear waste in Lincoln County. In the name of conscience, why?

Isn't there enough nuclear waste coming to other parts of the state? We know that nuclear waste is dangerous and can be very, very dangerous.

Maybe nuclear waste doesn't present the same problems or the same risks as Chernobyl or other nuclear plants, but undoubtedly there are many dangers. One of the foremost is the risk while the containers are transported on our roads.

We all know that the finest scientists and computers are subject to human error. There will always be man-made mistakes and accidents. I only hope we will be spared them in Ruidoso.

Community is being manipulated

TO THE EDITOR:

I have known for a very long time of the cookbook approach for nuclear dump sitings. The steps and procedures come from a central think tank dedicated to community manipulation.

Fortunately, I have been able to obtain, for the first time, a confidential copy of these procedures. This document was obtained by court order in the Chatham, North Carolina lawsuit. Chem Nuclear Systems attempted to have the evidence locked from public access, the judge did not allow this request.

Following is the document, verbatim:

Community Assessment:
 Understanding the level of fear and knowing at what point of the strategy to begin implementation, the ability to respond and deal with different situations found within potential site communities is based first on an assessment of the community and county, i.e., level of knowledge, opposition, political power base, media attitudes.
 Criteria for community status judgments should consider the following:
 Results/questions from past public forums held near the community. Letters/phone calls received from the community by the Authority. Media tracking. Number of people on Authority mailing list. Opinion of Authority member (nearest local member). Potential allies, e.g., individual, business and/or groups. Face-to-face discussions with county commissioners/mayors/city council members and other community leaders. Existing or pending regulations/resolutions passed by local government, if any. Organized opposition of environmental groups. History of other industry/waste facility siting efforts. Other "controversial" industries in the area. State legislative member(s) reactions and position on Compact and Authority siting efforts.

Part of the assessment should also be consideration of conducting public opinion surveys. Whether or not to conduct surveys and selecting an appropriate time must be decided on a case-by-case basis.

Strategy will be developed across the spectrum, from communities which may be "strongly opposed" through "favorable" communities. This will require flexibility on the part of Chem-Nuclear, the authority and other participating agencies and groups in the siting process. While elements of this strategic communications/participation plan will be the same across the line, initial efforts will differ for each community depending on its attitude. With this method, CNSI can use the same basic techniques throughout the siting effort, with only the starting points differing.

Each community will be placed on a scale of 0 to 10, where 0 is strongly opposed and 10 is strongly favorable. While it is obvious that not every member of a community will be in total agreement, the same scale of 0 to 10 will be used to assess the attitudes of each significant subgroup within the community. These subgroups will be "weighted" according to community influence and position. All significant subgroups, once assigned a weighted value, will be combined to calculate an overall value assessment for the community as a whole.

END OF DOCUMENT
 Though Chem-Nuclear is not involved in the Nuclear Dump in the Ruidoso area, this plan of action is universal for siting efforts.
 Your community is currently having this manipulation activity applied to it. Since you are now informed on the procedure, you can accurately chart the progress and identify those supporting the nuclear site.
 Good luck.

Many thanks to White Mountain Search & Rescue volunteers

TO THE EDITOR:

Hats off to the White Mountain Search and Rescue squad.

This efficient organization came to our aid last Sunday when an optimistic friend of mine found himself at the bottom of a 350-foot mine shaft unable to return to the surface. The rescue group operated like a well oiled machine and safely extricated a relieved spelunker from the depths.

We are all extremely grateful for their help and hope their drive for new members is successful.

Thanks again. White Mountain Search and Rescue.

Area lawmakers, candidates line up for various offices

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Two Lincoln County commissioners and County Clerk Martha Proctor are breathing easier knowing they won't face any opposition in the elections this fall.

But State Representative H. John Underwood, a Ruidoso Democrat, has two Republicans after his job in District 50, which covers all of Lincoln County and Mescalero.

Underwood, Ruidoso village attorney who also has a private practice, first was elected in 1990 and faced no opposition two years ago.

His opponents this time around are well-known former teacher and coach Dub Williams, who has been active in the Water Defense Association, and Caren Cowan Bremer, executive director of the New Mexico Wool Growers.

Lincoln County Commission Chairman Monroy Montes from district 5, is unopposed as is Commissioner L. Ray Nunley in district 2.

"I'm kind of surprised," Montes said Wednesday. "I think everybody needs to be challenged. I don't know why I wasn't."

"I don't know if it's good or bad, because with campaigning it kind of gets you out talking to the people, but I still plan to do that."

Nunley obviously was happy with his free ride.

"I'm pleased that no one filed against me and I hope it's because I've done good job," he said. "I'll continue to try to do just that."

Commissioner Bill Schwettmann from Alto, a Republican elected two years ago when the commission was expanded from three to five members, will face Democrat Preston Lee Stone in November.

Stone operates a ranch and sits on Otero Electric Cooperative's governing board. First elected in February 1983, he spent 10 years on the Capitan School Board, serving many years as chairman. He decided not to run for re-election when his term expired in February 1993.

Stone previously has volunteered as an emergency medical technician and with his wife Willa, has been involved with the with rodeo club and 4-H.

Schwettmann, an engineer, announced his candidacy for re-election to a four-year term earlier this month.

Commissioners are paid $10,500 a year.

Republican Jean Park, who currently works in the treasurer's office and previously announced her candidacy, will be pitted against Democrat Steven Eugene Brewer.

A 20-year resident of the county, Brewer said he is the descendant of local pioneer families.

"With a high school education, I feel as qualified to run as any other candidate," he said. He promised to hire local residents, if elected.

Brewer previously worked at Fort Stanton, with the county road department and with two large food chains. He's married to Juanita Brewer, who works in the county assessor's office.

The county treasurer is paid an annual salary of $30,130.

County Clerk Martha Proctor, who has won two previous two-year terms as clerk, was pleased that she won't have to campaign this year for a four-year term.

"I'm thrilled to death," she said. "I'm actually honored that voters have enough confidence in my ability to serve for another four years, but I'm also humbled, because I realize there's always more room for improvement. I'll continue to run a progressive, yet conservative office."

"With no opponent this year, I can spend more time working on my job than campaigning."

The county clerk earns $30,130 a year.

A new law this year doesn't allow write-in candidates for county offices.

Four candidates are vying for the new position of Division IV Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

On the Democratic side are James Wayland Counts and District Attorney Bert Atkins; as Republicans, Frank K. Wilson and Wayne Jordon.

District judges are paid $69,719 a year and the term runs for four years.

In other judicial offices, Gerald Dean is unopposed as Division I Magistrate Judge.

The most hotly contested race in town is for Division II Magistrate Judge. Incumbent William R. Butts, a Democrat, will face Danny B. Garcia in the June primary. Garcia recently ran unsuccessfully for Ruidoso municipal judge.

Three Republicans will compete for that Party's nomination: Trinidad Zepeda of Ruidoso Downs, Paul Wersich of Ruidoso and Ken Nosker of San Patricio.

Magistrate judges are paid $47,060 a year.

Zepeda moved to Lincoln County in 1992 from Kansas, where he worked as a Finney County sheriff's deputy for five and a half years.

The 41-year old Lincoln County sheriff's deputy and his wife, Eva, have two children of their own and have raised nine other children.

Paul Wersich also works for the county sheriff's department, as a narcotics agent. He's has more than 30 years in law enforcement.

He was with the El Paso Police Department for 23 years and was captain of detectives when he retired and moved to Ruidoso 11 years ago.

"I feel I can bring a new concept to magistrate court," he said. "This is the people's court and should be run at the convenience of the people."

He would conduct at least one night court a month to accommodate those who work during the day.

"I feel the rights of the criminals have been considered more than the rights of the victims," he said.

Nosker a former county commissioner, previously announced his candidacy.

ELECTION '94

Top of the ballot: two federal offices

Federal offices will be at the top of the ballot in both the Democrat and Republican primaries on Tuesday.

First is the race for a six-year term in the United States Senate, with Democrat Jeff Bingaman unopposed.

Three Republican challengers are vying for their party's nomination. They are Colin R. McMillan, Bill Turner and Robin Dorier Otten.

Next on the ballot is United States Representative, District 2, a two-year term. Incumbent Republican Joe Skeen is unopposed on the GOP ticket, with Benhamin Anthony Chavez and Patsy D. Renard in a race for the Democratic nomination.

State lobbying groups announce endorsements for primaries

Several state organizations have announced their choices in Tuesday's elections.

National Education Association of New Mexico (NEA-NM), New Mexico Conservation Voters Alliance and an Albuquerque-based organization that calls itself Drive the Rascals Out provided their endorsements for Tuesday's primary.

Elected members of the National Education Association-New Mexico's Education Political Action Committee and the NEA-NM board of directors based its endorsements on recommendations from the local affiliates, as well as other criteria.

The criteria is as follows: the candidate's voting record on, and support of, issues important to public education and the interests of the members of the association; the candidate's public stand (if not an incumbent) on public education and issues that best match the goals of the organization.

In statewide races, the NEA-NM endorsements are all Democrats:

- U.S. Senator Jeff Bingaman (D)
- Governor Bruce King (D)
- Lt. Governor Ben Altamirano (D)
- Secretary of State Stephanie Gonzales (D)
- Attorney General Tom Udall (D)

- State Land Commissioner Ray Powell Jr. (D)
- State Auditor Robert Vigil (D)
- State Treasurer David King (D)

- State Board of Education Catherine Smith and Emma Lou Rodriguez
- State Representative, District 56 (Lincoln County) H. John Underwood (D)

NEA-NM leaned heavily toward the Democratic primary in all of its endorsements, with Republican Murray Ryan, running for state representative in District 39, being the only Republican the group endorsed.

In contrast, Drive the Rascals Out recommended mostly Republican candidates.

Drive the Rascals Out "enthusiastically endorsed the following state-wide candidate for their party's nomination in the June 7 primary."

The group, founded by Marty Watkins of Albuquerque, also included reasons for its choices.

—U.S. Senator, Bill Turner (R): "Turner has offered a plan of (49) positive suggestions to solve the problems facing New Mexico and our nation," reads information provided by Drive the Rascal Out. "He supports the line-item veto; a balanced budget amendment, campaign reform and term limits."

—Governor Dave Cargo (R): "Former governor Dave Cargo has established a reputation for honesty, concern for others, responsibility, accountability and open government."

—State Auditor H.R. Fine (R): "Current Bernalillo county treasurer, H.R. Fine has an MA degree in accounting and is a CPA."

—Land Commissioner Ron Miles (D) (Miles) owns Graham Abstract

Co. of Portales and has had 15 years of experience in land ownership, leasing and protection of New Mexico lands."

—Corporation Commissioner Peggy Helgeson (R) (Helgeson's goal as a corporation commissioner is to eliminate favoritism in the corporation commission, ensure fair and equitable treatment for every one, including the small independent business person and to make the commission accountable to the citizens of New Mexico."

According to a news release, Drive the Rascals Out endorsed five winning candidates in 1992, and participated in winning the referendum for term limits for Albuquerque city councilors.

New Mexico Conservation Voters Alliance (CVA), a non-partisan political action committee working through a statewide network of more than 200 environmental leaders and 4,000 members and supporters, has targeted the race for governor as its top election priority.

CVA's choice for governor is Jim Baca, who has been endorsed twice before by the group when he successfully ran for New Mexico Land Commissioner in 1982, and again in 1990.

"As commissioner, his greatest accomplishment was to bring conservation reform to state land office practices, including a land stewardship program for ranches, an increase in royalty fees on oil and gas operations that brought in more revenues for education, and a moratorium on mining until a state reclamation statute was in place (which he helped to write, and lobby)," reads a news release provided by CVA.

CVA says, if elected governor, Baca will establish a state planning office that will help mitigate the kind of environmental problems that are looming on the border, and will fight the maintain water quality and quantity through residential and commercial conservation programs.

For lieutenant governor, CVA endorses Democrat Patricia

Madrid, saying: "She is committed to environmental justice and the protection of our environment through policies that address the need to sustain our water supply and its quality, our forests and our natural resources for future generations."

Ray Powell (D) is CVA's candidate for state land commissioner. "Since his recent appointment, he has continued the policies initiated by Jim Baca for the responsible management of state lands," says CVA in a news release.

"He believes that the primary asset of those lands is their ecological health, and he advocates as a statewide goal the natural distribution of all species of native wildlife, including the reintroduction of the Mexican Wolf."

For state legislative offices, CVA didn't list District 56 (Lincoln County) among its endorsements, but endorsed Democrats in eight of the nine districts where its choices were listed. The one Republican choice was Timothy Walsh of Bernalillo (District 23).

District II

for
MAGISTRATE JUDGE

Fluent in English and Spanish Lifetime Resident of Lincoln County

Equal Justice for All

—LA LEY—

Igual y Imparcial para Todos

Citizens of Lincoln County,

The Magistrate Court has many purposes other than determining the guilt or innocence of someone accused of breaking some law. Almost anyone can read and apply the correct statute to a given situation, but not everyone has the experience and knowledge of the lives of our local population to apply the law in a way that will correct the problem rather than simply punish the offender. And that is what the court should do - correct the problem. Therefore, it is extremely important that the candidate you vote for is one who has more interest in helping people than compiling large numbers of cases handled. A large case load for a court, like a large patient load for a doctor, is indicative of less time being spent on each case than might be necessary or desirable.

One would naturally assume that a lawyer or one trained in law enforcement would be more knowledgeable of the law and therefore, be a better choice to be a judge. Actually, quite the reverse is true, as one unfained in law matters has few preconceived ideas about the law and how court should be conducted. All magistrates, both newly elected and many times reelected, are required to periodically attend schools conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts, to insure that the court is conducted in accordance with the law. Further, our state lawmakers have continued to realize the importance of keeping laymen as magistrates by resisting efforts to restrict the position to attorneys only.

My wife and I were both born and raised in Lincoln County and have an intimate and personal knowledge of most of the long term citizens in the county. I am bilingual and can communicate effectively with all the county's citizens without an interpreter. It should be known that I cannot tolerate two things: I detest the intemperate use of alcohol, especially when mixed with vehicles or firearms, and the neglect or abuse of children. I would be firm and unyielding in dealing with either.

I have always worked with the youth of this county, and intend to continue doing so. It is my belief that the time to exert a positive influence on our youngsters is before they get into trouble, rather than after. The personal involvement of our parents and elected officials is crucial in keeping kids headed in the right direction. Regardless of schedule or docket, my time will never be too valuable to keep me from that involvement.

Thank for your vote for magistrate judge, and your support if you elect me. Let's work together to keep problems from becoming lawsuits or criminal cases.

Thank you,

Danny B. Garcia

U.S. Senate Jeff Bingaman

Senator Jeff Bingaman, a Democrat, is seeking another term as United States Senator from New Mexico.

"I am proud of what we have been able to accomplish for New Mexico. But we have more to do. The 1990s can be years of extraordinary opportunity for the people of New Mexico," said Senator Bingaman in his announcement.

"I have three goals for a new term: to continue diversifying our technology and defense resources to create high-wage job opportunities in New Mexico; to give our students and workers the skills they need to earn those high-wage jobs; and to restore a sense of security and confidence to our neighbors with fresh, courageous approaches to fighting crime. In short, higher-paying jobs, better schools and safer streets. I want a New Mexico and an America that's high-wage, high-skill and low-fear."

Senator Bingaman also discussed important legislation and issues that he has championed to create jobs in New Mexico, to improve educational opportunities, to make New Mexico's communities safer places to live and to protect the environment.

In the area of jobs and technology, Bingaman noted that the National Competitiveness Technology Transfer Act changed the missions of Los Alamos and Sandia national laboratories to include technology transfer.

Bingaman said he was the first member of Congress to introduce legislation to establish national Education Goals, which would provide a common measure to determine which states, schools, teachers and students are doing a good job and which ones need more help.

Bingaman was the only member of the New Mexico Congressional delegation to vote for the Brady Bill which will establish a five-day waiting period prior to purchasing a handgun, and also offered amendments to the Crime Control Bill addressing handgun possession, in schools, juvenile gang prevention and drug abuse and crime along the U.S.-Mexico border.

Bingaman has supported legislation protecting the environment and public lands, including the Jemez National Recreation Act and Lechugilla Cave Protection.

Bingaman's amendment to the 1993 energy appropriations removed funding of MRS sites (high level nuclear waste storage), including a proposed site on the Mesquero Apache Indian Reservation.

Bingaman was the first senator to offer legislation protecting western ranchers and miners, and has met with the President to express concerns about the Administration's economic plan's impact on the West.

Senator Bingaman, who grew up in Silver City, is an attorney. He said he has a broad base of support from throughout New Mexico, with 82 percent of his campaign contributions coming from individuals, rather than from organizations and committees.

Bingaman is a member of the Senate's education subcommittee and has been endorsed by the National Education Association of New Mexico.

Colin McMillan

Colin McMillan, chairman of the board and CEO of Permian Exploration Corporation in Roswell, is running for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate.

McMillan is the founder of Permian Exploration, with offices in Midland and Houston, Texas, and he is founder and co-owner of Three Rivers Cattle Company near Tularosa, one of New Mexico's leading cattle ranches. He owns and operates Roswell Vegetable Farms Inc.

While McMillan faces two Republicans in the primary before going head-to-head against the Democratic incumbent.

McMillan says that Senator Jeff Bingaman's 11-year record in the U.S. Senate is the issue of this campaign, and is critical of Bingaman's voting record on taxes.

McMillan was appointed by President George Bush as assistant secretary of defense in 1990, and served in that capacity until December 11, 1992. He was awarded the U.S. Department of Defense highest civilian award, "Medal for Distinguished Service" by then Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney.

McMillan graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1956 with a bachelor's degree in geology. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, NROTC and Order of the Wall, an honorary society. Following his graduation from UNC, McMillan served on active duty in the U.S. Marine Corps until June 1960, when he joined Texaco as a junior geophysicist.

McMillan served as a member of the New Mexico Legislature from 1971 until 1982, holding the position of minority whip for four years. He chaired the Taxation and Revenue Committee for four years, served as a member of the New Mexico Board of Finance and chaired the Governor's Task Force on Oil and Gas Economic Development from 1987 to 1990.

McMillan was a co-founder and chairman of the board of Valley Bank of Commerce. He serves as chairman of the board of First Federal Savings Bank of New Mexico. He also serves on the executive board of the Edwin L. Cox School of Business at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, and on the board of directors of the University of New Mexico Foundation in Albuquerque.

Bill Turner

Albuquerque Republican Bill Turner is campaigning hard for his party's nomination for the United States Senate.

Turner and his wife, Regina, and their three sons live in Albuquerque, where he received his Ph.D. in geology from the University of New Mexico in 1971. Turner is an internationally recognized water resources consultant, and is in the oil and gas and land development business and has been involved in international trade for 25 years.

A lifelong Republican, Turner is making his first run for public office, prompted by his outrage at the way the government is spending tax dollars and "borrowing from our children's future."

Turner says he can facilitate change with positive proposals, promising that he will make a difference.

He supports term limits at all levels of government, the line item veto and a "real" balanced budget amendment. He wants to reduce the federal bureaucracy, restructure entitlements and eliminate political action committee donations from federal campaigns.

"Three strikes and you're out means little to the second or third victim," says Turner. "We must remove the handcuffs from our judges and aggressively enforce laws which will permanently keep violent criminals behind bars."

Turner says gun control measures will not solve gun problems.

"Swift and sure punishment when jails are no longer country clubs will change the culture of crime in America," says Turner.

He also says he'll stand up for New Mexicans in Washington on economic issues impacting the state.

Robin Dozier Otten

Robin Dozier Otten, U.S. Senate candidate in the Republican primary, was born in Phoenix, Arizona, in 1944.

She has lived in New Mexico for more than 30 years, residing in both San Juan and Bernalillo counties.

Otten is the mother of two college students — Elizabeth, 22, and Amy, 20. After her children started school, Otten pursued her goal of becoming a lawyer. A University of New Mexico graduate, with a bachelor's degree in government (1966) and a J.D. from the School of Law (1981), Otten is currently a partner in the Albuquerque law firm of Otten, Vogel and Campbell, P.C., where she practices real estate and business law.

According to her announcement, Otten has an outstanding record of service to the Republican party and her community. She has served the Republican parties of San Juan and Bernalillo counties, and is currently a member of the Republican party of New Mexico State Central Committee.

Otten is actively involved in the Greater Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce and serves on the board of directors. She is a recent winner of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce's chairman's award for excellence. Her public service record includes membership on the New Mexico Legislature's Governmental Ethics Committee; she is vice chairman of the United Way of Central New Mexico's campaign and has been a member of various other community boards and committees, including the Albuquerque Community Foundation, her church, the Friends of Albuquerque Little Theater and the Albuquerque Bar Association where she served as chairman of the Judicial Selection Committee.

Otten has an outstanding record on family issues, continues the release. She has served on the boards of the New Mexico Department of Corrections-Girls Reintegration Center, the Shelter for Victims of Domestic Violence, the Samaritan Center and Sandia Preparatory School.

Otten is a graduate of Leadership Albuquerque (1990), and she gives of her time to organizations such as Women's Economic Self Sufficiency Team and the Equal Access to Justice Fund Campaign.

"The overriding principle which will guide me as I seek to serve as a United States Senator is individualism: individual opportunity, individual initiative and individual responsibility for one's actions," says Otten in an overview statement.

Noting that we live in uncertain times where a frustrated electorate is looking for answers, Otten says Americans want change, but they don't want bigger and more government.

"I am disturbed that we have become a society where people choose to engage in self-destructive behavior such as drug and alcohol abuse, knowing the dangers involved, and then expect government, and ultimately the taxpayer, to provide for them," continued Otten.

"I plan to bring change to Washington, but change which is rooted in our traditional New Mexican values of individual opportunity and community responsibility."

"We need a different perspective in Washington," says Otten. "My life experiences reflect the lives of most New Mexicans as we work for a living, raise and educate our children, meet tight household budgets and pay as we work for a living, raise and educate our children, meet tight household budgets and pay our taxes," she adds.

Otten is the first Republican woman in New Mexico to run for the United States Senate.

ELECTION '94

Lieutenant Governor

U.S. House of Representatives

Joe Skeen

Congressman Joe Skeen, a lifelong New Mexican and veteran of a 30-year public service career, has announced his intention to seek an eighth term in the U.S. House of Representatives.

"I'm proud of my record serving New Mexicans, both in Congress and in the New Mexico State Senate," Skeen said.

"I'll stand on that record of accomplishment," said Skeen, who was first elected to Congress in 1980 as a write-in candidate and has served for 14 years since.

Patsy Reinard

Patsy Reinard is a Socorro businesswoman, horsebreeder and attorney — she wants to be this district's member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Reinard is the first woman to maintain a legal practice in Socorro, and over the last 16 years, has built a respected legal practice in southern New Mexico. She was born and raised on a dairy farm and actually attended a one-room school house as a child.

She is a life-long Democrat and has worked on numerous campaigns.

Reinard, who is married to geologist Donald Wolberg, and the mother of eight children, has been a VISTA volunteer, vice president of the 7th Judicial District Bar Association, a member of the New Mexico Women's Bar Association, Lawyers Referral Service for the Elderly, the Socorro County Horse Association, the Sierra County Historical Society and was a co-founder of Job Development for Women in Socorro.

Reinard, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress, also ran for that job in 1992.

Ben Chavez

Ben Chavez was born June 13, 1944, into a New Mexico family with its roots and traditions dating back to the Tome land grant.

Chavez graduated from UNM in 1967 with a degree in history and English, and taught junior high and served as a probation/parole officer before returning to UNM and earning his JD from the School of Law.

Chavez was in private law practice for seven years before serving as a Metropolitan Court Judge in Albuquerque. He was elected to the State Court of Appeals in 1988, defeating an incumbent.

Chavez, who lives in Belen, resigned as Court of Appeals Judge to run as the Democratic candidate for New Mexico's second congressional seat.

He served as a consultant to the All Indian Pueblo Council Pre-Trial Diversion Program and the Offender Program, worked for the Alternative to Street Crime program, was a consultant to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and was a member of the Board of Directors of Southern New Mexico Legal Services.

Chavez has four children, Benjamin Jr., David, Vidalia and Matt.

Diane D. Denish

Democratic lieutenant governor candidate Diane Denish is so serious about her plans for that state office that she has outlined her views on crime, education and other issues in a 32-page booklet, "Meeting the Challenge of Change."

Denish, a native of Hobbs, is an Albuquerque business woman who currently serves as president of the Board of Regents of NM Tech.

Denish supports three strikes, you're out, and she has an extensive economic strategy outlined in her book.

She supports more local control over schools and wants to convene a lieutenant governor's conference on recycling.

Denish sees the role of lieutenant governor as that of a problem solver, team builder and facilitator.

Patricia A. Madrid

Native New Mexican Patricia Madrid is making a bid for lieutenant governor on the Democratic primary ballot.

As the mother of a young son, Madrid is concerned about the environment he will find as an adult.

Madrid is a graduate of the University of New Mexico School of Law and a partner in the law firm of Messina, Madrid & Maynez in Albuquerque. She is married to L. Michael Messina.

If elected, Madrid promises to make the lieutenant governor the people's resource, to serve as the open door through which the people of New Mexico can gain access to their state government.

Gregory J. Zanetti

Republican gubernatorial candidate Greg Zanetti unveiled a plan to inform citizens of the legislature's activities.

Zanetti's aim in creating the Citizen Information Campaign is increasing participation in the political process by making information concerning pending legislation and internal workings of the legislature readily available to all citizens.

Zanetti's plan includes the opening of a toll-free phone bank where citizens can learn each day's scheduled legislation action. The phone bank will serve also as a relay center for voicing opinions about state issues.

Zanetti, a graduate of West Point with a master's degree from Boston University, is a financial consultant, and independent businessman and a major in the New Mexico Army National Guard.

Governor

Bruce King

Governor Bruce King is running on his record.

A New Mexico rancher, who has served his state as governor more than once, King (a Democrat) is just completing two years at the helm.

Governor King, in Ruidoso recently, listed jobs for New Mexicans among his accomplishments during the past three years, with more than 60,000 new jobs created. He said new businesses are moving to New Mexico, too.

During the past three years, education funding has increased by nine percent and teachers have been helped by a six percent pay increase.

King has worked with police and sheriffs to enact the new state crime bill, the juvenile handgun law and new DWI legislation.

He established a new state department, Children, Youth and Families.

First lady Alice King spoke on behalf of her husband recently, saying his top attributed as his honesty and dedication.

While stressing his record as governor, King has been battling an active campaign waged by his lieutenant governor, Casey Luna.

In a news release, Governor King offered his version of a land exchange that Luna has criticized in the media.

In a news release, King said the King Brothers in 1970 purchased a ranch in Cibola County that included more than 22,000 acres in the El Malpais region. They used the land for grazing.

In 1987, Congress created the El Malpais National Monument and instructed the Department of Interior to acquire surrounding land. BLM asked the Kings to trade the ranch for land in Santa Fe County.

In the exchange, the King Brothers traded their 22,000-acre ranch in Cibola County to the federal government. In return, the federal government deeded 800 acres of land in northern Santa Fe County and 700 acres in the Stanley area to the Kings.

A certified appraiser reviewed all properties, saying the Santa Fe County land was much more valuable and that's why the Kings gave up more land than they received.

"In a lawsuit, the (neighboring) rancher claimed that the Kings, all of them lifelong Democrats, somehow had used political influence with Manuel Lujan, a Republican who was then Interior Secretary, to make the land exchange."

In a release, King said there was absolutely no evidence of any such influence, and in fact the rancher's suit was dismissed.

The Kings also offered instances of similar transactions, and have asked Luna to discontinue running the ads.

In another issue, Governor King (along with the entire New Mexico congressional delegation) has spoken out vehemently against the siting of high-level nuclear waste in New Mexico.

In a letter to President Bill Clinton dated June 1, King asked Clinton to clarify his administration's policies regarding the management of spent nuclear fuel generated by commercial reactors.

The Mescalero tribe has entered into an agreement with more than 30 utility companies to develop a private storage facility (MRS), and King has voiced grave concerns.

"You are aware a private spent nuclear fuel storage facility is being proposed by the nuclear utility industry and the Mescalero Apache Tribe for construction and operation on the reservation lands in south-central New Mexico," wrote King.

"While I have the greatest respect for the sovereignty of the Mescalero Tribe, the siting of such a facility in New Mexico will pose undue risks for the citizens of New Mexico."

"I strongly oppose the siting of a spent fuel storage facility anywhere in the State of New Mexico."

King also has continued to oppose the expansion of gambling in this state.

John Dendahl

John Dendahl, a candidate for governor in the Republican primary, wants to work to improve New Mexico's economy, rebuild schools and fight crime.

Dendahl offers his plan to build a new New Mexico through economic prosperity, education and the fight against crime.

Dave Cargo

Dave Cargo, former governor of New Mexico, is ready to take on that job again, and he's asking Republicans to nominate him for that office.

Cargo says New Mexico needs a proven fighter who understands fiscal responsibility, and says he fills that bill. Cargo says when he left office he left a surplus of tens of millions of dollars, without raising Dendahl, a fourth generation New Mexican and the father of five daughters, is a successful small businessman. He is former president of the First National Bank of Santa Fe and has served on the board of directors of Santa Fe Economic Development, Inc.

He served as secretary of Economic Development and Tourism under former governor Garrey Carruthers.

Dendahl is past chairman of St. John's college, the executive committee of the state Republican Party and was a member of the 1960 U.S. Olympic Ski Team.

Dendahl's campaign slogan is: "A new Governor for a new New Mexico."

taxes, and he blames the Democratic governor for spending that surplus and raising taxes.

Cargo says New Mexico ranks third in total taxes per $1,000 of personal income (this before the six-cent gas tax increase), and 48th in per capita income.

"Crime runs rampant across the state in violent crime, murder, rape, assault and property crime.

In teenaged violent deaths, New Mexico ranks 2nd."

Cargo says for those, and other reasons, New Mexico needs him as its governor.

"More and more government has caused more and more problems," says Cargo. He points to the state's Democratic leaders as causing most of these problems, and promises he can offer solutions.

Gary Johnson

Gary Johnson wants to put his extensive business experience to work for the State of New Mexico.

Johnson, a candidate for the Republican nomination for New Mexico's governor, was born in North Dakota but moved to Albuquerque as a small child, started his business career while still at the University of New Mexico.

That start — handing out leaflets door-to-door — is just one sign of his energy, drive and determination. As a college student, Johnson was willing to do any jobs necessary to earn the money to complete his education, and that early marketing project was a forerunner of his successful Big J Enterprises which now employs 500 people.

Johnson graduated from UNM in 1975 with a B.S. degree in political sciences.

"It is my conviction that the needs of most New Mexicans are being ignored by a state government that is unresponsive, over-staffed and inefficient," said Johnson in announcing his candidacy. "Worse, while the quality of government is going down, taxes continue to go up."

"I believe this will continue to be the case until we develop an effective government. I'm running for governor because I honestly believe I know how to make that happen," said Johnson.

Johnson graduated from UNM

He is a member of the board of directors to the South Region Alternative High School Parent, Teacher and Student Association Group and was named to the Advisory Board for the Anderson School of Management's Center for Entrepreneurship and Economic Development of the University of New Mexico.

He is active in the Albuquerque athletic community, having competed in hundreds of athletic events from 1980 to the present, and is nationally ranked as an age group triathlete. In June 1993, Johnson successfully climbed Mt. McKinley.

Casey Luna

"I don't need a job in politics," said Casey Luna in a news release. "I don't consider myself a politician but a public servant who wants to bring leadership to the governor's office."

Luna is a native New Mexican and a successful businessman. He is completing a term as lieutenant governor and now he's ready to serve in the state's top spot.

"The governor is accountable to the people of New Mexico. Leadership means you stand behind what you say and take the appropriate action."

Luna said Bruce King put off introducing needed legislation (for full-day kindergarten) until the last day possible and then blamed the legislature for not passing it.

"Bruce King knows the legislative process," continued Luna. "To blame the legislature instead of admitting that the Governor himself didn't feel strong enough about full-time kindergarten to be prepared when the session opened, showed serious lack of leadership."

Luna says the governor must take personal responsibility.

"If I am elected governor, this legislation will be introduced on day one of the '95 legislature."

Luna also disagrees with King's handling of the six cent gasoline tax, and promises as governor he will repeal the gas tax.

Luna said the lieutenant governor is supposed to be the governor's right hand man, but he found himself "shouting down empty hallways trying to get state government to listen."

He believes he can coordinate all branches of government to better serve all New Mexicans.

Dick Cheney

Dick Cheney, successful businessman and former Republican Floor Leader in the New Mexico House of Representatives, is running for governor.

In announcing his candidacy, Cheney said, "State government is out of control. It spends too much, it taxes too much, it wastes too much and it isn't fighting crime. That's why I'm running for governor."

Cheney said he will make sure that New Mexicans get their money's worth out of state government.

"State government does not need more tax dollars. It needs to better manage what it already has. I'll fight to end taxes on basic necessities like medical care, medicines and food. I'll also fight for the repeal of the six cents a gallon gasoline tax," Cheney said.

As a businessman with more than 30 years of experience, the 56-year-old Cheney said he will create effective solutions to New Mexico's tough problems, including permanent solutions to crime.

"Violent criminals need to stay in jail — period," Cheney said. "I will send a message to criminals and gang members alike that New Mexicans will no longer tolerate their actions."

Cheney pointed out the New Mexico Republicans passed a bill creating boot camps for first-time, non-violent youthful offenders, but the present administration did not fund the plan.

Cheney promises that he will make sure taxpayers get their money's worth in the educational system.

Jim Baca

Democrat Jim Baca says that education will be one of his top priorities as governor. He's asking for his party's nomination in the June primary.

"New Mexico is a state rich in cultural and human resources," says Baca. "Yet all too often those resources have been ignored, even wasted. As we move into the 21st century we can no longer afford to stand idly by and watch others set the agenda. We must fully utilize all our resources to sharpen and maintain our competitive edge in this changing global economy."

Baca goes on to say that education is the place to begin, since students make up more than 21 percent of this state's diverse population.

"Students and teachers need and deserve the necessary resources to create the best possible learning environment, an environment that promotes excellence and promises hope for the future," says Baca.

He says his approach to education is simple and straightforward:

to create the conditions that allow teachers to teach and students to learn.

Baca, whose family has been in New Mexico for more than 100 years, doesn't limit his goals to education, though.

Baca's agenda for New Mexico's future includes cracking down on crime and illegal drugs, creating jobs that pay a decent wage, protecting natural resources and creating a system that works for the people, not just the special interests and political insiders.

Magistrate Judge, Division II

Danny B. Garcia

Danny B. Garcia, a life-long Lincoln County resident, has declared his candidacy for Magistrate Judge District II, in the June 7 Democratic primary election.

Garcia enters the race with more than a thousand hours of combined training in law enforcement, emergency medical training, fire service training and U.S. Department of the Interior along with Department of the Army explosive training.

According to his announcement, Garcia has also been a firefighter for the Village of Ruidoso since 1968, a member of the State Forestry fire crew and a member of the FOP. He is currently enrolled in his second semester at ENMU-R working toward a degree in criminal justice.

Garcia says, he wants to do more than spend the required 40 hours a week in the court room and believes he can be instrumental in setting up programs with schools around Lincoln County.

"If we can inspire or influence just one kid from each school, it will be rewarding," says Garcia.

Another area of concern for Garcia is DWI. On numerous occasions as a firefighter, he had the unpleasant task of extricating the lifeless bodies of men, women and children from vehicles involved in accidents where alcohol was a factor and attributed to the collision. Garcia intends to be firm and unyielding with these cases.

Garcia was also the originator of the "Happy Holidays Fund Drive" in 1977 which helped those families in need around Lincoln County for the Christmas holidays. The first year Happy Holidays helped 20 families, and that number climbed to more than 300 after the ninth season. The program is still in operation today and is referred to as the annual highly successful Santa Cops, says Garcia.

Garcia is the youngest of five children born to the late Cesar M. and Hortencia G. Garcia. Two older brothers and one sister live in Lincoln County while the youngest sister lives in Silver City. Garcia married the daughter of Ermanda and Aneda Chavez who presently reside in the Hondo valley.

Garcia credits his long list of accomplishments to his father who introduced him to hard work at the early age of 11. Garcia remembers working 12 hours a day at $10 a week.

Garcia says he kept busy during adolescence learning trade secrets from his dad while the late R.A. Bennett made it possible for him to learn the art of meat cutting.

After high school graduation, Garcia joined the U.S. Navy where he spent two years, six months and twenty days from a four-year enlistment overseas.

According to his announcement, he served aboard two aircraft carriers, the Midway and Enterprise working with military explosives in places from the Tonkin Gulf off Vietnam to homeport of Yokosuka, Japan.

Garcia and his wife, Lillian, have two children, a daughter who graduated from Ruidoso High in 1992, and son, Billy, who is currently a sophomore at RHS.

Garcia is quick to point out the problems in raising young children these days and feels that not enough emphasis is being placed on issues enveloping today's youth.

Garcia said he pledges all within his authority to reverse that attitude if elected.

Paul Wersich

Paul Wersich announced that he is the Republican candidate for Magistrate, Division II, in the upcoming June 7 primary election.

If Wersich wins, he will face Democrat incumbent William Butts in the November elections.

Wersich said that if elected Magistrate he will bring new concepts into the judgeship, one being evening court to accommodate people who work during the day. He also said that court will be conducted on Saturdays if necessary.

Wersich was raised in El Paso, Texas, where he attended high school and college at the University of Texas at El Paso.

After high school, Wersich enlisted into the U.S. Navy and received an honorable discharge after four years of service.

Upon discharge, he joined the El Paso Police Department where after 23 years with the department, he attained the rank of Captain of Detectives. Wersich then retired and moved to Ruidoso in 1983.

Wersich joined the Lincoln County Sheriff Department in 1987, and is presently an agent with the narcotics division.

Wersich states that he has more than 1,800 hours certified training in the field of criminal justice and is a graduate of the FBI National Academy.

Wersich said that the citizens of Lincoln County deserve the right to feel safe on highways and in their homes from criminal elements. He states that the rights of the victims are so often overlooked by the courts and this will be another priority in his court.

Wersich said "fair and impartial" is his motto.

Ken Nosker

Ken Nosker is running for the Republican nomination for Magistrate Judge, Division II.

"You probably know me because of my lifelong residency in Lincoln County," says Nosker in a letter to voters.

"I have been in the business of selling beef, pork, lamb and sausage since 1956," he adds.

Nosker has served six terms as county commissioner and four terms as probate judge. He was a member of the New Mexico Mounted Patrol for 26 years and a member of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau for 17 years.

Nosker stressed to voters that even though the division is in Ruidoso, this office calls for a county-wide vote.

"I promise to faithfully judge each case that comes before me in a fair and honest manner," says Nosker.

"Women and men alike will be treated equally and with God's help, may I always be able to judge each person fairly and equitably."

Nosker invites voters to call him at 1-853-4557 if they have any questions.

William Butts

Incumbent Magistrate Judge William Butts, appointed to the Division II position by Governor Bruce King on July 1, 1993, is running for the Democratic party's nomination.

Butts submitted his resume to King when former Judge J.R. "Jim" Wheeler retired. Butts was selected from five other applicants.

"Magistrate court is a people's court," Butts said. "I am a very lucky person to be in a position that may make a small difference. I want people to feel they can turn to me at any time for assistance."

Butts is a native New Mexican and is a graduate of Portales High School. He received an Associate of Arts Degree from South Plains Junior College and attended Eastern New Mexico University.

He entered the New Mexico State Police in 1964, and retired as captain 24 years later.

During his career he completed the criminal justice program at New Mexico Military Institute.

"My very first priority is to uphold the constitution. If a person is found guilty, I will attempt to provide those individuals with treatment. If left untreated, we are looking a multiple offender. If treatment fails, the only recourse is incarceration for the protection of the community."

Butts said since his appointment he has served with heart and mind.

"I have learned so many things and have applied myself to study the law and do what it instructs a magistrate judge to do. Please elect a person who has dedicated his life as a public servant. I have done so with complete honesty, integrity and commitment."

Butts experience in law includes: a certified scuba diver and a member of the state police search and recovery team; member of the tactical unit and anti-sniper unit; and a member of the state police pistol team.

He served with Lincoln County Sheriff's office chief deputy, Bob Miller. They were weapons instructors for many years at the State Police Academy in Santa Fe.

As a magistrate judge, Butts and his co-worker, Lorena Lamay, have handled 152 felonies, 1,156 traffic tickets, 326 misdemeanors, 224 civil cases and 124 DWIs.

Through Judge Butts' efforts with State Representative H. John Underwood (D-Lincoln County), due to the dramatic increase in cases, the legislature approved an additional full time magistrate court clerk for the Ruidoso court.

Butts released a comparison analysis of the nine months into the fiscal year, July 1, 1993, to March 24, 1994, to the previous year.

The following compares to the cases heard in Magistrate Court Division II at this same time last year:

Misdemeanors - this year, 326, last year, 62.

DWI - this year, 127, last year, 40.

Butts said he solicits the support of the citizens of Lincoln County and pledges to continue his dedication to administer justice fairly and impartially.

Magistrate Judge, Division I

Gerald Dean Jr.

Gerald Dean Jr. is a candidate for re-election to the office of magistrate judge, division I, Carrizozo.

"It is a great compliment and honor to be permitted to run for re-election unopposed," said Judge Dean in his announcement. "I will continue to run this position in all fairness and honesty using the best integrity and common sense that I

"I will uphold our federal and state constitution and Bill of Rights to the best of my ability and continue to attain the education to base a fair and unbiased judgment after considering all the facts and evidence of each case."

"I will also continue to use the best discretion of the law to better serve society and try to keep our country a safe place to live and raise our families, keeping in mind that victims have rights also."

Dean said that even though he has no opposition this election, he and his family are working hard to solicit each person's vote and support.

"On June 7th, please vote and remember Gerald Dean, Jr., magistrate judge, division I, Carrizozo," concluded Dean.

State Treasurer

David W. King

State Treasurer David W. King, who has held that post since 1990, is running for re-election.

King, 47, is a lifelong resident of New Mexico where he has held a number of executive positions in state and federal government, including from 1986 to 1990, that of deputy state treasurer.

The state treasurer is the state's chief elected finance officer and the only elected official to serve on all the financial and investment boards of the state. As the state's banker, the treasurer has custody of some $16 billion in state funds.

King, as the first state treasurer to serve as chairman of the New Mexico Educational Assistance Foundation and the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority, has led the effort to sell a record number of bonds at a historically low rate, saving more than $30 million during the last three years.

Due to a constitutional amendment allowing state officials to run for two consecutive terms, King is eligible to succeed himself, and that's what he hopes to do.

King is married to Marty Lynn King and has three children, Shannon, David and Kevin.

District Judge

James Waylon Counts

District Judge James Waylon Counts announced his candidacy to retain the Division IV district judgeship he currently holds.

Counts has held the judgeship since April 8, 1994, when he was sworn in after appointment to the new district bench by Governor Bruce King.

In addition to more than 12 years' experience as an attorney, Counts served as substitute municipal judge in the Alamogordo Municipal Court in 1989.

"The overwhelming criminal case load in this district has impacted the courts' ability to quickly and efficiently administer the civil case load. My appointment as the fourth judge in the 12th Judicial District will allow me to bear my share of the burden in both areas," Counts said.

"I have and have taken cases from other judges in the district in order to get cases before a judge quickly. I will continue to increase my work load, both through regular case assignments and through case transfers from other judges, until this district is the most efficient district in the state," Counts said.

A New Mexico born, raised and educated native, Counts gave up a successful private practice to accept the call to public service.

"It has been difficult and expensive to dismantle a practice I worked hard to establish, but I have done so to better serve the people of Lincoln and Otero counties.

"I wouldn't have accepted this job and decided to run to keep it unless I was sure that I was the best person for the job and that I would do a good job."

Counts said that as a solo practitioner, he had no one but himself to rely on to get jobs done in his private office.

"A judge is the same way, because that responsibility lies on that one person's shoulders. I am already here at work for the people of Otero and Lincoln counties. I have proven that I can succeed as a business person, an employer and as a lawyer. I bring the same work ethic and knowledge to the court," he said.

A major concern of the citizens in the 12th Judicial District is juvenile crime, according to Counts.

"Crimes committed by juveniles are on the rise and say frightening things about our society. We need to remember, however, that there are many good kids who you never hear about. I have tutored kids who were willing to put in the extra effort necessary to succeed in school."

Counts, 39, is an attorney and has worked as a contract prosecutor in Alamogordo Municipal Court in 1992 and 1993, and as a substitute judge in 1989.

Born in Roswell, Counts attended high school in Albuquerque and graduated from the University of New Mexico with a bachelor's degree in 1977, and a law degree in 1981.

He served on the Governor's Task Force on Crime, the Governor's Task Force on Controlled Substances, and the Governor's Judicial Information Records Task Force.

Atkins also is a member of the New Mexico Street Gang Task Force. According to a news release, he is credited with having worked on such projects as the Otero County Domestic Violence Task Force, the Otero County Street Gang Task Force and the Otero County Teen Court.

As district attorney he has provided for crime victims recognition through a victim's advocate program. He has created a narcotics prosecution unit with federal grant monies. This program has been viewed as successful for four years.

Atkins is a lifelong resident of Alamogordo. He and his wife, Eve, have been married 23 years. They have three daughters, Michelle, Erin and Alessandra.

Bert Atkins

Bert Atkins, district attorney for the Twelfth Judicial District, is a candidate for the office of district judge, Division IV, in the June 7 primary election.

The 43-year-old Atkins, a Democrat, has been district attorney for Lincoln and Otero counties since 1988. Prior to being elected to that office, he served for five years as district public defender of the Twelfth Judicial District.

He also has been an assistant district attorney in this district.

"In almost 14 years, my legal career has been virtually devoted to public service," Atkins said.

"I see the addition of a new judgeship in our judicial district as an opportunity to grow professionally and at the same time continue to serve the people of our judicial district," he added.

"As an attorney with a criminal law background, I have logged many hours in the courtroom. I have defended and prosecuted cases ranging from minor traffic offenses to capital murder.

"As this district's chief prosecutor, I have represented the people of the State of New Mexico and my decisions to prosecute or not to prosecute have always been based upon the law," said Atkins.

He said he has no obligations or ties to other attorneys or members of the law.

"I believe this background provides me a strong foundation in the law and the insight and wisdom to be a district judge that will fairly and impartially administer justice."

Atkins is a past president of the New Mexico District Attorneys Association and a past president of the Otero County Bar Association was recognized as an outstanding bar of the state.

He has served as a board member of the prosecutors section of the New Mexico State Bar and as an advisory member to the New Mexico Supreme Court's Judicial Information Systems Council.

Wayne A. Jordon

Wayne A. Jordon, an Alamogordo attorney, has announced his candidacy for the position of District Judge, Division IV.

Jordon grew up in Alamogordo, attending elementary and middle school there before attending New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI). He graduated from the University of New Mexico Law School in 1972, and was admitted to the New Mexico Bar that same year.

Jordon also is admitted to practice before the United States District Court for New Mexico, the United States Tax Court, the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and the United States Supreme Court.

After discharge from the United States Air Force, Jordon joined the Alamogordo firm of Shipley, Darrett, Conway & Sandenaw and has been in private practice of law since that time.

Jordon, a part-time United States Magistrate Judge from 1977 to 1994, cites his 17 years of federal judicial experience as a prime qualification for the position of district judge. Jordon resigned his position as U.S. Magistrate Judge in order to become a member of this state judiciary. He has attended the National Judicial College in Reno, Nevada, as well as numerous judicial conferences and conclaves.

Jordon has handled a wide variety of legal problems, and is qualified to be listed in the Martindale-Hubbell Bar Register of Preeminent Lawyers in the areas of Civil Trial Practice, Real Estate Law and Banking Law. He is a member of both the New Mexico and American Bar associations and served as state chairman of the New Mexico State Bar Section on real estate, probate and trusts.

Jordon is a senior active member of the Alamogordo Rotary club and has been associated with many children's organizations of the years. A concern for children's issues is one he shares with his wife, District Judge Sandra Grisham.

They have two children, Addie, age 8, and Max, age 7.

Jordon said there is absolutely no ethical or legal problem in having two judges in the same family.

"Judges are independent, sitting by themselves on each case," said Jordon. "There is no team approach on the bench, but it can be very valuable to the litigants when judges consult with each other."

"My expertise is civil law and I have been given the highest possible rating (an AV) by my peers. This complements Judge Dougherty's expertise in criminal matters and Judge Grisham's expertise in family and children's court cases.

"I anticipate an excellent working relationship with both judges and would not hesitate to consult with them, just as doctors consult with each other on difficult or unusual cases, much to their patients' benefits.

"But ultimately, each judge at the district court level decides his or her own cases independently."

Jordon also is known in the legal community as an expert in the application of computers in the practice of law. He believes this knowledge will greatly assist the district court in fully utilizing the new computer network that we are obtaining. He has attended the National Conference on Court Technology.

"There is so much the court can do in streamlining its case management and providing better service to litigants. Time is perhaps the most precious resource of the courts and technology can be of a great assistance in managing that time better."

Jordon believes his recognized expertise in the judicial, legal and computer fields will best serve the Twelfth Judicial District as its new judge.

Frank K. Wilson

Alamogordo lawyer Frank K. Wilson is running for the Republican party nomination in the June 7 primary election for the position of Division IV District Judge in the counties of Otero and Lincoln.

The new position was created by the 1993 State Legislature to be effective January 1, 1994.

Wilson was one of the nominees recommended by the Judicial Selection Commission, a panel of 19 judges, lawyers and lay persons assembled to review qualifications and recommend to the governor for appointment.

The gubernatorial appointment is an interim measure because the election will be held in November. Wilson is currently practicing law in Alamogordo.

seek the position in the 1994 election.

In announcing his candidacy, Wilson said, "I came to New Mexico nearly 25 years ago with the United States Air Force. It didn't take me long to fall in love with the Tularosa Basin and decide that I wanted to settle here."

He received his law degrees from the University of New Mexico School of Law in 1976. His first position was as assistant district attorney for new Judge Robert M. Dougherty II in Alamogordo. After two years, he tried private practice, but was appointed district attorney in 1979. He served the state and local governments as city attorney for the City of Alamogordo.

Wilson said, "I have a broad range of experience. I believe that I have a reputation for honesty and integrity, and feel that I have the gifts, talents, experience, and abilities to serve the people of the Twelfth Judicial District as District Judge."

Wilson served as president of the Rotary Club of Alamogordo-White Sands in 1985-86, president of the Board of Directors of the Otero County Association of Retarded Citizens, the Otero County Council on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism and the White Sands Scenic Association. He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Alamogordo State Theater and the Alamogordo Civic Association.

State Land Commissioner

Stirling Spencer

Lincoln County Commissioner Stirling Spencer was the first declared candidate for state lands commissioner, and he's spent the past 10 months campaigning for the Republican nomination.

He's unopposed in his party bid, but Spencer is getting a head start on the November general election.

Spencer says it's time for the people who live and work on the vast plateaus and verdant valleys of New Mexico to be given more of a voice in their management.

Relevant experience in ranching, engineering, oil and gas production would allow him to manage the state's land for a maximum return, while protecting the basic resource, says Spencer.

Born in Roswell, the 45-year-old rancher and businessman was raised on a family ranch in Carrizozo. He earned a bachelor of science in engineering from NMSU, then worked as that field for a number of years before returning to the Bar W.

Spencer is divorced and has two children, Stirling Jr., 17, and Christopher, 16. His hobbies include flying, fishing and travel.

"I'm my own man and I stand by my own operations and past work."

He pledged to bring the office of land commissioner to "new heights of efficiency and to steer it away from the political influences of the past."

Ray Powell

Land Commissioner Ray Powell is a candidate to retain his post in the June primary.

Powell stressed the need to continue land management policies to protect the 13 million acres of public trust land for centuries to come.

"There will be no future Superfund sites on public lands while Ray Powell is in the Land office," said Powell. "My position is clear. We need the best environment possible for our people. When we need to gain revenue from economic projects on state lands, it will be for the purpose of education our children."

As land commissioner, Powell is the trustee for public lands, and constitutionally oversees projects which create revenues for New Mexico's schools and universities. In the 1992-93 fiscal year, the trust generated more than $142 million, and much of that went to education.

Powell, 43, was sworn in as land commissioner on May 20, 1993, replacing Jim Baca who was named director of the BLM.

Powell is a practicing veterinarian, with a practice in Albuquerque. He is married to Dr. Jean Civikly-Powell, a professor in the Department of Communication and Journalism at UNM.

Sam Bregman

Sam Bregman, Democratic candidate for state land commissioner, says the land is our future, and he wants to concentrate on the land instead of overseeing an out-of-control bureaucracy.

"A large portion of the revenue that is derived from state trust lands goes directly to the public schools of New Mexico," says Bregman. "With that in mind and my sincere belief that there is too much fat at the top in the land office, ... my number one administrative priority will be trimming the number of high paying exempt positions in the land office."

Bregman says all New Mexicans are being asked to do more with less resources, and the land office should be held to the same standard.

ELECTION '94

State Representative, District 56

H. John Underwood

Representative H. John Underwood, D-Ruidoso, has been appointed to four legislative interim committees, including the Governmental Ethics Oversight Committee, which he will co-chair, and the newly-created Capital Outlay Committee.

Underwood, who is unopposed in his bid for the Democratic nomination for another term in the State Legislature, will be facing a Republican opponent in the general election next November.

His service on these and other legislative committees are among accomplishments that Underwood has racked up while serving in the legislature.

The folks at home may be even more impressed with Representative Underwood's ability to bring home money for badly needed projects in the home district.

Every community in the district benefited from Underwood-sponsored legislation this year, and he's been able to increase that amount each session since he was elected.

The Village of Ruidoso gained $570,000 to develop the water plant at Grindstone, Ruidoso Downs was approved for $200,000 to finish its new village hall and the county was allocated $290,000 for purchase and one year's operation of the old Super Select Sale Barn.

The Legislature approved money for sidewalks in Lincoln and to remodel the Montano Store in that historic village.

Underwood, a Ruidoso attorney, recently was appointed as a member of the Courts, Corrections and Criminal Justice Committee and as an advisory member of the Radioactive and Hazardous Materials Committee.

Interim committees meet between regular sessions of the legislature to study the state's pressing problems and consider proposing solutions to the full legislature.

As co-chair of an ethics committee in 1992, Underwood was instrumental in the passage in 1993 of landmark governmental ethics legislation. The Governmental Ethics Oversight Committee, created as part of the 1993 reforms, is monitoring the implementation of the reforms.

"We made tremendous progress when we required stricter campaign and personal financial disclosure by elected officials and political action committees. Those 1993 reforms also tightened campaign contribution solicitation restrictions. We're already seeing some tangible, beneficial results from this law," said Underwood in a news release.

The Capital Outlay Committee was created by legislation passed earlier this year. The committee is designed to evaluate the state's needs for public works projects, such as roads, bridges, senior citizen centers and public parks, and make recommendations to the 1995 legislature.

"Things like good roads and highways, safe school buildings and recreational opportunities are just as important to New Mexico's economic development as other projects. One of the things that makes New Mexico unique is its quality of life and a big part of that is the wise investment in public works projects," Underwood said.

The Courts, Corrections and Criminal Justice Committee typically studies public safety issues — such as crime — and the Radioactive and Hazardous Materials Committee focuses on several issues, including the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant.

Secretary of State

Stephanie Gonzales

Natalie Buck, Ernestine Evans, Betty Florina of Santa Fe, Beatrice Roach Gattlieb of Carlsbad and Clara Jones Andrews of Oregon all support Stephanie Gonzales for secretary of state.

As former secretaries of state, these women know firsthand the duties and responsibilities of the office and feel she has proven to be a competent and capable director of the multi-facet agency.

Since these women were in office, the legislature has changed the agency with carrying out the activities required in the recently passed ethics bill.

"Overseeing the reporting of all donations to legislators by lobbying entities and how those monies are spent is the essence of that bill," said Gonzales. Our office has developed a computerized system to capture and report out this information, but we hope to refine this system in the coming year to ensure that all facets of the law are implemented properly."

Since 1922, all New Mexico secretaries of state have been women and a constitutional change in 1986 allows the incumbent secretary of state to succeed herself for one additional four-year term.

Gonzales, the current secretary, noted that in addition to overseeing election, being second in succession to the governor makes this position one of the three highest ranking elected offices in the state.

"I take that responsibility seriously," she said.

Rebecca Vigil-Giron

Rebecca Vigil-Giron, executive director of the New Mexico Commission on the Status of Women, is a past secretary of state who is asking for another term. She's a candidate for the Democratic nomination.

Vigil-Giron was one of six persons chosen to represent the United States as a United Nations Electoral Observer to Angola, Africa, when the first presidential elections were conducted there in 1992.

As secretary of state, Vigil-Giron initiated and lobbied for 13 pieces of legislation regarding New Mexico's election process and operation of her office.

Vigil-Giron is a graduate of New Mexico Highlands University, and has addressed New Mexico and national groups regarding participation in elections, women in politics and education.

Dub Williams

Republican W.C. "Dub" Williams standing on a platform with broad benches, announced his bid to become the next State Representative out of Lincoln County and Mescalero.

If Williams wins in the June Republican Primary, he will face incumbent H. John Underwood (D) in the general elections in November.

For issues, Williams said he was concerned about aging Americans, crime, discipline in society, education, family values, healthcare, lack of authority, lack of respect for life; private property rights; rights without responsibilities; social welfare programs; and, tax burdens.

Williams is a member of and has served as chairman of the Lincoln County Medical Center and a board member of Presbyterian Healthcare Services.

He also has served as chairman and member of the Water Defense Association.

Williams is currently a member of the Lincoln County Protest Board; American Land Rights Association; New Mexico Cattlemen's Association; National Cattlemen's Association; Farm Bureau Board of Directors; New Mexico Association of Retired Persons; and American Association of Retired Persons.

He has served as past president of Ruidoso Evening Lions Club, Ruidoso Little League; Ruidoso PTA and Ruidoso Education Association.

Williams also was a founder of the Ruidoso High School Scholastic Banquet.

A resident of Ruidoso for more than 40 years, Williams was a teacher in the Ruidoso school system for 29 years. His wife, Kathryn Hale, Williams, is a native of Lincoln County, and also was a teacher in the Ruidoso schools for 32 years.

Williams' family includes son Neale Williams and his wife, Karen Parsons-Williams, and their two daughters, Rachael and Sherry; and his son, Borde Williams, and his wife, Lisa Coffey Williams, and their daughter, Haley, and new son, Ryan Harrison. They all reside in Lincoln County, as well.

Caren Cowan Bremer

Lincoln County resident Caren Cowan Bremer has announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for state representative for District 56, which includes all of Lincoln County and Mescalero.

Bremer, executive director of the New Mexico Wool Growers, Inc., hopes to be her party's choice to run for the seat currently held by State Representative H. John Underwood, a Ruidoso attorney.

According to a news release, Bremer has been heavily involved in state and national legislative issues for the past several years.

"It's time for grass roots to take back our government," said Bremer in her written release.

"We are sending lawyers to Santa Fe and Washington who are making laws that require us to hire lawyers to run our everyday lives."

A native of an Arizona ranching family, Bremer has operated a livestock advertising and public relations firm for the past 12 years in Texas and New Mexico.

According to her release, through those endeavors, she has gained deep insight into the issues that are driving government and society today.

"These insights are not limited to the agricultural field, but extend to the business sector as well," continues the release.

It is this insight that has spurred her to seek this office.

"Our government, at every level, is infringing on citizens rights," Bremer pointed out. "Individuals can and do make a difference in protecting these rights, but we have to stand up and speak out."

Bremer said she has devoted a great deal of time and energy to work on grazing reform, private property rights, and endangered species. This past fall, she added two successful drives in Congress to assist livestock producers in maintaining viability for the short term, to her list of credits.

In addition to her work for sheepmen, Bremer has assisted the Dairy Producers of New Mexico this past year, and has published the American Red Brangus Journal of the past nine years.

On a volunteer level, she has supervised more than 25 youngsters on the Mescalero Apache Reservation as 4-H livestock leader. In 1993 the group boasted the New Mexico State Fair Champion and Reserve Shorthorns and the Arizona National Livestock Show Brahman/Brahman Cross Champion and Reserve.

At the Otero Fair she supervised some 26 youngsters and their livestock projects in three species. Bremer serves as the American Sheep Industry Association's Public Lands Committee and has made two trips to Washington, D.C. on behalf of the national organization.

Bremer will face off in the June Republican primary with Ruidoso resident Dub Williams.

Several Lincoln County candidates unopposed

In Lincoln County, several races offer free rides during the primary, with the real race ahead in the general election.

Two candidates are unopposed for county treasurer — neither of them incumbents.

Eugene Brewer for the Democrats.

Incumbent County Clerk Martha McKnight Proctor is unopposed in her bid for the Republican nomination, with no candidate for the Democratic primary — thus she is assured of re-election.

County commission slots are open for districts 2, 4 and 5; with Commissioner L. Ray Nunley (Democrat-District 2) running solo in his primary and in the general, and Commission Chairman Monroy Montes (Republican-District 5) assured of re-election.

In County Commission District 4, Republican incumbent William Schwettmann is unopposed in the primary as is Democratic candidate Preston Lee Stone. They'll go head-to-head in the general.

Voters, who will cast ballots by party affiliation, will have the same ballots down to the commission race, where there are five different ballots — one for each district.

ENTERTAINING WITH EASE

A successful party need not be a big ordeal. Following some simple guidelines will help to make your parties easy and fabulous.

Careful planning and detailed checklists are essential to your success. Be creative, but simple, in your menu planning. Start with one or two interesting main dishes, then build your party menu around these. It's best not to try complicated, unfamiliar dishes for a party, unless you can be very sure of the results.

Shopping for a party requires a well thought out checklist. Keep in mind that outdoor dining increases everyone's appetite. This should be taken into consideration when planning your portion sizes.

Another thing to consider, when shopping for supplies, is selection of the proper dinnerware items. While lighter fare can be served with paper plates and napkins, heavier foods, that are to be served hot, require much sturdier dinnerware and stronger flatware, instead of plastic utensils.

Your complete checklist is the beginning of success for your gathering. It should be strictly followed and carefully checked off as you progress.

Dinner is Served

Serving food at the proper time and not running out of things to eat requires forethought. It is easy to keep under control when you follow some simple steps:

Most party foods should be served in three distinct courses: a beginning, a middle and an end. Appetizers are usually served or set out as the first guests arrive. Then comes the main course. The final course, or dessert, should be served after a bit of "relaxing time."

The most important things to keep in mind are to keep the serving dishes replenished and to keep the temperature of foods consistent. Don't put out more food than you think the guests will eat immediately. This is not only to protect the flavor of the food, but helps to avoid contamination as well.

Father's Day Brunch

This can be a very festive social occasion, or an intimate family gathering, in honor of someone special.

Brunch is a combination of both breakfast and luncheon foods. Usually served buffet-style, it is important to keep the temperature of the food served consistent (keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold).

This type of party can be a great opportunity to use your finer dinnerware and flatware.

Graduation Party

A graduation party is usually a very casual affair. Guests are more likely to be conversing and wandering around with their plates of food. The foods served should reflect this atmosphere.

For large gatherings, it may be easiest to serve classic summer salads, such as macaroni or potato salad, chili, burritos, or any other food that can be made well in advance and in large quantities.

The key to success is variety of foods, simple enough to eat while moving around.

Don't serve all the food at once and keep new items coming gradually, remembering to replenish the serving dishes often.

- 1 (12 oz.) can frozen cranberry juice cocktail concentrate, thawed and undiluted
- 1 (12 oz.) can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed and undiluted
- 2 litre bottle club soda or seltzer, chilled
- 2 litre bottle ginger ale, chilled

Place strawberries and syrup into electric blender; process until smooth. Pour mixture into punch bowl; add remaining ingredients. Makes about 5 quarts.

Fruit Juice Cooler

- 1 (12 oz.) can peach nectar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup grapefruit juice
- 1 (12 oz.) can ginger ale, chilled

Combine first four ingredients; refrigerate. Just before serving, add ginger ale. Serve over ice. Makes 4-1/2 cups.

Ham & Mushroom Spread

- 1 tbsp. margarine
- 1 cup coarsely chopped, fresh mushrooms
- 1 cup diced, cooked ham
- 1 pkg. cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 tsp. thyme

Sauté mushrooms in margarine until tender. Set aside to cool. Combine ham, cream cheese and thyme in a food processor fitted with a steel blade. Process until smooth. Fold in mushrooms. Cover and chill overnight. Makes 1-3/4 cups.

Artichoke Dip

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup plain yogurt
- 1 (14 oz.) can artichoke hearts, drained and chopped
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped red pepper
- Hot pepper sauce, to taste

Combine all ingredients. Spoon into a 1-quart casserole. Bake, uncovered, at 350° for 30 minutes, or until hot and bubbly. Serve warm. Makes about 2 cups.

Shrimp Balls

- 2 (4-1/2 oz. each) cans shrimp, drained and finely chopped
- 4 water chestnuts, finely chopped
- 1 green onion, finely chopped
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. sesame seed oil
- 1/4 tsp ground ginger
- Dash white pepper
- 1 egg white
- Vegetable oil

Mix together first seven ingredients. Beat egg white until foamy; stir into mixture. Shape into 1-inch balls. Heat vegetable oil to 360°. Fry 6 to 8 shrimp balls at a time until golden, about 2 minutes; drain. Makes 24 shrimp balls.

Spinach Balls

- 2 cups cooked spinach, chopped
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 lb. ricotta
- 1 egg
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- 2 cups plain tomato sauce
- 3 tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese

Combine all ingredients, except tomato sauce and the 3 tablespoons of Parmesan cheese. Shape mixture into balls using 1 tablespoon measure. Roll each ball into flour. Drop into boiling salted water, 5 at a time. Simmer slowly, for about 5 minutes after they rise to the top. Place into serving dish and top with tomato sauce and Parmesan cheese. Makes about 2 dozen.

Spinach Dip

- 1 lb. fresh spinach
- 1 small onion, quartered
- 2 oz. Blue cheese
- 2 tsp. fresh lemon juice
- Freshly ground black pepper

Wash spinach and remove tough stems. Shake lightly and place into a heavy pan, with water still clinging to leaves. Cover and cook until wilted, about 2 to 3 minutes; drain well. 4th of July Barbeque

As Summer begins, the grills come out. It's a perfect time to have a party. When planning for a party, keep in mind that barbeques have a tendency to increase everyone's appetite. Adjust for this when shopping.

Patience is the way to begin a Barbeque Party. A common mistake is to put food on the grill too early. The result is burnt food that is barely warm on the inside. Wait until the charcoal has stopped flaming, and is reduced to an ashy glow. Plan for the coals to be ready about half an hour before you want to start cooking.

Serve the first course when you are ready to light the grill. This food should be light, in order to save the appetite. Also, remember when shopping for supplies, that barbequed food tends to be hot and dense. Dinnerware should be very sturdy and silverware should be used, instead of plastic.

Tortellini with Basil Cream

2 packed cups fresh basil, stems removed
3 cups heavy cream
1/4 tsp. fresh ground black pepper
1 tbsp. salt
5 tbsp. chopped chives
3 tomatoes, peeled and diced
3 lbs. fresh or frozen tortellini

Finely chop basil leaves in a food processor. Place in a saucepan with cream. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer. Add pepper, salt and 4 tablespoons of chives. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes. Cook tortellini, according to package directions. Just before done, add tomatoes to cream sauce, to heat through. Drain tortellini and toss with cream sauce. Garnish with remaining chives. Serves 8

Garlic Cucumber Salad

2 garlic cloves, mashed to a paste with 1/2 tsp. salt
1/3 cup olive oil
2 heads romaine lettuce, torn into bite sized pieces, rinsed and dried
2 cucumbers, peeled, seeded and sliced

In a large bowl, whisk together the vinegar and garlic. Add oil in a stream; whisk until emulsified. Add lettuce and cucumbers, and toss. Serves 8.

Garden Pilaf

1/2 cup bulgur wheat
2 cups boiling water
3/4 cup chopped tomato
1 small cucumber, finely chopped
1/4 cup chopped green onion
1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
1/2 cup finely chopped cilantro
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. vinegar
1-1/2 tsp. vegetable oil
Pepper, to taste

Soak bulgur in hot water, 1 hour; drain. Add tomato, cucumber, green onion, parsley and cilantro; toss and chill.

Combine lemon juice, vinegar, oil and pepper; mix well. One hour before serving, add to salad and toss. Serves 8.

Red, White & Blue Cheesecake

For Crust:

28 chocolate wafers, ground fine
(about 1-1/2 cups crumbs)
1 stick unsalted butter, melted

For the Filling:

4 (8 oz.) pkgs. cream cheese, softened
1-1/2 cups sugar
2 tbsp. all-purpose flour
5 large eggs
1/2 cup sour cream
1 tsp. freshly grated orange zest
1 tsp. freshly grated lemon zest
1/2 tsp. salt
1-1/2 tsp. vanilla
1-1/2 cups raspberries
1-1/2 cups blueberries

For Crust: In a medium bowl, stir together cookie crumbs and butter until combined. Pat mixture into bottom and 1/2-inch up the side of a 9-1/2-inch springform pan. Chill about 30 minutes.

For Filling: Preheat oven to 325°. Beat cream cheese until light and fluffy. Add sugar gradually; beat until combined. Beat in flour and eggs, one at a time; beat after each addition. Beat in sour cream, zest, salt and vanilla.

Pour filling into crust. Bake 1 hour and 10 minutes. (The cheesecake will set as it cools.) Let cheesecake stand until completely cooled. Chill, covered, overnight and remove side of pan.

Arrange raspberries on top, in a star-pattern, and arrange blueberries around the star to cover the top of cheesecake.

Honey-Glazed Chicken

3 lbs. chicken pieces
3 tbsp. melted butter
1/3 cup honey
1/3 cup barbeque sauce

Combine sauce and honey. Brush chicken with butter and sauce. Cover and grill chicken, bone-side down, 5 to 6-inches from medium coals, 15 to 20 minutes. Turn chicken. Cover and grill, turn and brush 3 times with sauce, 20 to 30 minutes, or until done. Serves 6.

Gourmet Grilled Chops

4 pork chops, each 1-inch thick
3 tbsp. soy sauce
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/3 cup barbeque sauce

Mix all ingredients, pour over pork chops in marinating dish and refrigerate 2 hours. Cover and grill pork chops 5 to 6-inches from medium coals, turn and brush with marinade 3 times. Grill 20 to 25 minutes. Serves 4.

Marinating Secrets

Marinades give a special flavor to meats, fish and poultry. Here are some hints for spectacular results:

Marinate in a covered, nonmetal dish or sealed plastic bag.

Turn meat (or turn the bag) occasionally, so all sides are covered.

Marinate in refrigerator. Marinating at room temperature can allow bacteria to grow.

Marinate for time specified, not more than 24 hours.

In a small saucepan, melt the butter with the pepper and salt to taste. Brush onto rough sides of pitas. Bake in batches for 8 to 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 64 triangles.

Summer Picnic Party

Keep the menu simple for this kind of party. One or two main courses, with one or two salads, should be sufficient.

Food should be fairly easy to eat. It should not need cutting with a knife. Forks and fingers work best.

If serving salads, call salad ingredients work best, like carrots, zucchini or small baby vegetables. Leafy vegetables tend to go limp in the sun. Add dressing to the salads just before serving.

Fresh fruit can help to cool a picnic. They are light and very refreshing.

Italian Muffaletta

- 2 tbsp. olive oil
- 1 eggplant, cut across into 1/2-inch slices
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- 14 oz. loaf round Italian bread
- 4-1/2 tbsp. Italian dressing
- 4 tomatoes, sliced
- 1 tbsp. fresh basil leaves
- 8 olives, pitted and coarsely chopped
- 2 oz. thinly sliced smoked ham
- 5 oz. Mozzarella cheese, sliced
- 1 cup shredded, cooked chicken
- 2-inch piece cucumber, thinly sliced

Preheat oven to 425° and grease a baking sheet with oil.

Sprinkle eggplant with salt; drain 30 minutes in a colander, to remove bitter juices. Rinse thoroughly and pat dry.

Brush eggplant with olive oil on both sides. Season with salt and pepper. Arrange on prepared baking sheet. Bake until completely soft and golden brown, about 10-15 minutes; set aside to cool.

Slice top quarter off the bread. Remove bread from inside loaf and the "lid," leaving walls of crust, with about 1/2-inch of bread attached. Brush inside of loaf and "lid" with Italian dressing. Fill loaf with eggplant and remaining ingredients in layers. Place lid on top and press down. Cover with plastic wrap, and then wrap in foil. Refrigerate at least 12 hours. To serve, slice into wedges. Serves 8 to 10.

Trifle L'Orange

- 8 (1 oz. each) sponge cake dessert cups
- 1 (4.5 oz.) pkg. golden egg custard mix
- 3 cups skim milk
- 1/2 tsp. orange extract
- 1/4 tsp. grated orange peel
- 1/4 cup orange-flavored liqueur
- 1/4 cup orange marmalade
- 4 cups fresh strawberries, sliced
- 2 cups whipped topping
- 4 whole strawberries

Combine custard and milk in saucepan. Bring to a boil. Add extract and orange peel. Chill at least 20 minutes. Place 4 sponge cakes onto bottom of trifle dish or 2-1/2-quart bowl. Prick cakes, so sauce can penetrate. Pour 1/2 liqueur over top. Layer with 1/2 of marmalade, strawberries and custard. Repeat process. Top with whipped cream and whole strawberries. Serves 10 to 12.

Have plenty of cold beverages to serve, since sitting in the sun increases everyone's thirst. A well sealed thermos should keep liquids cold throughout your picnic party.
