On the side

Village hall opens early, closes late

Ruidoso Village Hall has extended opening hours from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

In an effort to accommodate workers and out-of-towners, the council approved the new hours requested by village manager Gary Jackson.

Jackson called the longer hours experimental. He said, if successful, the times would become permanent.

Solid Waste loses Joe Lewandowski

Joe Lewandowski, who took over as manager of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority in June 1993, has notified the authority chairman that he will resign effective July 22.

His decision surprised several board members, who only recently said they leaned toward hiving his salary in recognition of the job he's accomplished taking care of past mistakes and reorganizing the operation.

Lewandowski said he will return to private business in Otero County and act as consultant for other regions trying to organize collection and landfill projects. He offered to assist the Lincoln authority with the hiring of a new manager and to consult on aspects of operation.

Village calls for water conservation

The Village of Ruidoso is asking for the public's help in conserving water due to the high demand which has been put on the system during peak weekends and holidays.

Consumers should limit all outside watering to a bare minimum and avoid water waste on roads and sidewalks, according to a news release.

Cancel any outside watering during the heat of the day or during the peak flows of 6 a.m. through 10 a.m. for this causes low water pressure in parts of Ruidoso, continues the release.

Any water conservation efforts will be greatly appreciated and may keep further water restrictions from being imposed.

CVB ad hoc group schedules meeting

The Convention and Visitors Bureau Ad Hoc Committee has scheduled a special meeting for 1 p.m., Wednesday July 13 at village hall.

Village clerk Tammie Maddox said the committee will meet to possibly organize a Convention and Visitors Bureau and review criteria relating to such a bureau.

Weather

The National Weather Service predicts mostly sunny and tonight mostly fair skies for the mountain areas. High today in the middle 80s and the low tonight in the 40s, with the high tomorrow in the 70s.

P&Z shuts off vendors

Portable vending stands within the village won conditional approval, but a short life span Tuesday at the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission split on whether or not to approve an amendment to a municipal code that would prohibit portable vending of food, beverage or general retail merchandise except for brief periods during community events. Chairman Mike Radziewicz broke the tie by voting for the amendment.

The amendment now moves to the village council agenda on July 12. At that time the council will determine whether or not to hold a public hearing.

Final approval of the amendment rests with the village council after that public hearing.

Kevin O'Neill, owner of Ruidoso Corn Roasters, asked about his vending booth operating under a yearly license. Radziewicz explained that the Corn Roaster operation was grandfathered unless the owners failed to operate the booth for a 90-day consecutive period. In that case, the owners would have to re-apply, therefore losing their grandfather status.

O'Neill and his wife were the only merchants from the floor to inquire about vending, however the commissioners led a spirited debate on the subject.

Commissioner Robert Sterchi, in favor of outdoor vending in the Mid-town area as an entourage for tourists, said he thought exclusivity was put to rest at the last election.

"Now that I'm here, close the gate and don't let anyone else in," he said is an unproductive attitude.

Chairman Radziewicz disagreed with the assessment. In an apparent reference to disproportionate overhead costs, he said downtown merchants should have a "level playing field."

Village planner Cleatus Richards cautioned that the portable vending machines were not directed solely at food, but general retail merchandise.

"We've shut down rugs and jewelry," he said. "As you recall, Civic Center art shows were looked upon as unfair competition. If you want to allow vending stands, you are looking at the full spectrum of merchandise."

Sterchi said he didn't get the impression merchants were against vending stands.

O'Neill had submitted three petitions soliciting customer, Mid-town merchant and area merchant response.

The Midtown merchant petition read, in part:

"As a merchant in the village of Ruidoso, I believe that the vendors in the Midtown area are an asset to businesses in the area .... I support the vendors and believe they should remain part of mid-town's allure."

The petition was signed by about 20 merchants.

Richards said the nature of portable or mobile vending booths made it difficult to track their paying gross receipts (sales) tax. He said gross receipts produces the major economic impact to the village.

Tribe takes back land it gave to church

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A Christian fellowship group has accused the leadership of the Mes-calero Apache Tribe of twice renegeing on a promise of land for a church.

Before they will move ahead on a third tract offered by the Tribe, they want some financial concessions in recognition of the work lost on the other sites, said Pastor Frederick R. Kanesevaw.

They have won support in their fight for land from The Rutherford Institute, a Judeo Christian legal defense organization in Charlottesville, Virginia.

Dean Whitford, an attorney with that non-profit civil liberties protection group, told The Ruidoso News that he will first try to work out an agreement with the tribal council's attorney. Failing that, legal action may be pursued in tribal court and/or federal district court.

In spite of repeated attempts, The News was unable to reach a tribal council spokesman or tribal vice president Frederick Peso for comment.

The Carrizo Christian Fellowship group of about 30 core members has been meeting for four years, Kanesevaw said. The group was asked by the tribal Housing Authority three years ago to move out of a house they were using for a church.

"We gathered 1,000 signatures in support of granting us some land (on the Reservation in nearby Otero County)," said Kanesevaw, who grew up on the Reservation. "We took the signatures to the Tribal Council and they promised to give us land."

Initially, the group was given property about a half mile from where they had been meeting, he said. But it soon was taken back. No contract had been drafted, Kanesevaw said.

"We waited 2 1/2 years and they gave us this property," he said, flatly taping out a map on a table in front of him.

"They told me it was inside a fenced area assigned to someone, but they gave me a lease signed by Tribe President Wendell Chino."

"They told me that the tribal council would have to vote on it," Kanesevaw said.

"When I went back the next day I was worried about the land being way inside someone else's fence. President Chino called in (vice president) Fred Peso. I told them I don't want to have a ground breaking and then be licked off again."

"They assured me there was no problem. Any disagreement was between the (designated family) and the Tribe, not the church."

"I wanted a legal document saying we can go on the land and they gave me lease papers. We started cutting trees. Everybody was excited. We marked off the church and then the (family) started harassing us."

"Then the tribal council took the land away again," he said. "They told us that our lease and Chino's signature doesn't mean nothing. I'm beginning to believe they are prejudiced against us."

His group practices a different approach to Christianity than the more established churches on Reservation, he said. "It's the first of its kind on the Reservation. It was started by the people on the Reservation and it's not supported by any outside denomination. They seem to think that Native Americans who choose another religion are second class citizens."

A letter purported to be from Tribal President Chino dated in May of 1993 appears critical of the fellowship's approach:

"We have been informed that a non-Indian clergyman with the Carrizo Christian Fellowship has been attacking the traditions, rituals and ceremonies of the Tribe. We request that the Fellowship as a group make an effort to put a stop to the practice and appreciate the church site that the Tribal Council has approved and provided (now rescinded)."

"Any further reports about a clergyman making attacks on the Tribe's heritage and culture could result in an action by the Tribal Council to stop such practices."

Kanesevaw said the attitude expressed in the letter "makes me feel like I am being intimidated by the Tribe as to what we should teach," he said.

The former pastor did criticize

Senator visits

by FRANKIE JARRELL
The Ruidoso News Editor

Senator Jeff Bingaman (D-NM), seeking a third term in the United States Senate, brought his campaign to Lincoln County Wednesday for a fundraiser at the Museum of the Horse.

Bingaman stopped by The News where he restated his opposition to efforts by the Mescalero Apache Indian Tribe to locate a high level nuclear waste disposal site in this area.

Bingaman, whose campaign is based on his past record and his future plans, was met in Lincoln County with questions and concerns over the placement of utility company's highly radioactive waste near this resort. Bingaman said he has always opposed the proposed monitored retrievable storage (MRS) facility.

"We have no business bringing an MRS to New Mexico," said Bingaman. "We just don't need one," he added.

Senator Bingaman said the idea was to place sites near where the waste is produced or is to be finally disposed of, and Lincoln County doesn't qualify.

"You shouldn't have an MRS here," he stressed.

Questioned about the issue of Indian sovereignty and its affect on the MRS plans, as well as on Indian gambling, Bingaman recalled a case he argued before the Supreme Court when he was New Mexico's attorney general.

In that case, Bingaman said he argued that the Supreme court should be able to require state licenses to hang on the reservation.

"The court held against me," said Bingaman, adding that the federal government can restrict or provide limits on Indian lands.

"The question is whether the state can if the federal government does not."

Bingaman predicted a spirited campaign leading up to the November general election.

Please see Senator, page 2A

He estimated the cost of the improvements at about $8,000.

That was more than one month ago and Kanesevaw said just last week he was told by tribal officials the group shouldn't be compensated for the work done on the second piece of land.

"They're doing bad to us," he said frustrated. "This church was started by people on the Reservation. Now they are saying they're not even sure they will give us the land."

"I don't want to make this a political issue. We just want to build a church. If there is another way to do it, let me know. They have treated us bad."

"If the Tribal Council don't know what they are signing with two acres of land, what are they doing thinking about bringing high level nuclear waste onto the Reservation (for temporary storage of spent fuel rods from power plants in the East)?"

Whitford with the Rutherford Institute said his group became interested after looking into the situation as outlined by Kanesevaw.

"We're at the stage that either we are able to negotiate for another site or we will start formal proceeding for an allotment all over again," he said. "This is an indigenous Native American Christian Church with all Native American members and it is not associated with any outside denomination."

"We consider it ironic that they are having such difficulty getting the land. We want to make sure they are treated fairly."

Whitford said the institute never sends a bill for its services and is supported entirely by donations. They screen requests for assistance "and take it as far as we can."

If an issue moves into a courtroom, a local attorney is contacted to handle the case without charge for his services.

In spite of the problems, the fellowship groups plans to celebrate its fourth anniversary this weekend with a performance by recording artist Johnny Curtis at 7 p.m. Saturday, a service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday and a dinner after the service at the house/church on Penn-Scott Drive.

LINCOLN COUNTY RURAL EVENTS CENTER

Linda Wallace/Special to The Ruidoso News

Rural center opens

Lincoln County's newest facility, the Glencoe Rural Events Center, is now open to the public.

Located in Glencoe, just 12 miles east of Ruidoso on Highway 70, the center lies in the beautiful and historical Hondo Valley.

The center boasts of a spacious exhibit area with 16,800 square feet and 10,800 square feet of canopied area.

Located on 12 acres with exterior lighting and parking, it is within a short drive of a variety of restaurants, lodging and entertainment.

This multi-functional facility is an excellent choice for trade shows, dances, wedding receptions, auctions, rallies and uses for a variety of needs.

For further information, contact manager Linda Wallace at PO Box 10, Glencoe NM 88324 or call 1-800-827-8972.

derwood said temporary merchants would be harder to trace than permanent merchants.

Commissioner Arden Eckersley indicated the direction of Midtown was not exclusively a merchant concern.

"It's (direction) not just for the downtown merchants, it's everyone who lives in Ruidoso," he said.

Sherrie McNeill of Corn Roasters asked the council to survey merchants themselves.

Former planning and zoning chairman Robert Donaldson briefed the council on the history of the problem, stating 60 to 70 vendors invaded the last Chili Cookoff.

Donaldson said the commission decided at that time something would have to be done to avoid a further proliferation of outdoor vendors.

He called the business "parasitic" in nature, benefiting off of full-time merchants.

Sterchi indicated to Donaldson that a vendor could operate over the weekend in Ruidoso undetected.

Donaldson disagreed. He said prior to Jerry Shaw becoming mayor, planning and zoning didn't have enough code enforcement for weekend responsibilities. He credited Shaw for improving code enforcement to seven days a week and a cleaner Ruidoso.

Several commissioners appeared confused by the wording of the petition that the merchants signed and seemed to struggle over what direction the public wanted.

Radziewicz said essentially all merchants in the downtown area were vendors and the petition didn't differentiate between a merchant with a portable vending stand.

Commissioner Jeff Chapman offered an opposite view to Sterchi. He discounted the petition and said he didn't see anything wrong with the way the amendment read.

Chapman said most of the businesses didn't sell food, so they probably didn't care if a food vendor operated. He said merchants would complain more if the competition was more direct.

Chapman said if someone sold pants from a cart across from Brunell's, he thought Herb Brunell would care.

Brunell was one of the signers of the petition that would allow vendors.

Chapman then made the motion to approve the amendment that prohibits the use of portable or mobile vending stands except where use is temporary and operated in connection with special community or civic events which have been licensed and approved. Operation is to be limited to an approved location for the duration of the event.

Voting for the amendment were Chapman, Eckersley, Chay Rennick and Radziewicz. Voting against were Sterchi, Leroy Nowell and Van Patton.

Area law officers meet for lunch in Ruidoso

The July luncheon meeting for the 12th Judicial District Law Enforcement Agencies of Lincoln and Otero counties will be at noon Friday, July 8, at the Enchantment Inn in Ruidoso. A Mexican style buffet will be served. Cost of the meal is $7, which includes tax and gratuity.

Guest speaker will be Assistant District Attorney Jack D. Masten-brook, who will discuss Teen Court of Otero County.

The Teen Court program was organized by volunteers for first time youthful offenders who are sentenced community service hours and jury duty days by their peers. Their records are kept clean and they are more likely to stay out of trouble. A grant has been requested to expand and include Lincoln County.

"The most significant thing we've done is last year's budget," said Bingaman, saying that the budget passed cut the projected deficit by 40 percent.

While he isn't optimistic about passing healthcare reform this session, Bingaman said it's clear that some reform must be enacted soon.

Bingaman said the federal government can, and must, provide support and incentives for states and local governments to enhance educational opportunities at all levels.

"I clearly hope we can do some significant things nationally to help education," said Senator Bingaman.

"I don't favor federal mandates," added Bingaman, who sees the federal government setting standards to be used as benchmarks.

Another issue of importance to New Mexico is its continuing reliance on federal defense funds. He said he'll continue to support efforts within New Mexico to diversify the economy.

Bingaman, questioned about his "war chest", said he had $1 million going into this general election. He said most of his donations is from New Mexicans who gave $200 or less, with about 25 percent from political action groups, like the NEA, which endorsed him for reelection.

In his campaign materials, Bingaman related how he has worked for Lincoln County by making the creation of new opportunities and good jobs a top priority.

Bingaman said he also won passage of an amendment last year that sent a clear message to the White House that its proposed grazing fee increase, pushed without sufficient public input, wouldn't pass muster with western leaders. He also supported Senator Pete Domenici's (R-NM) filibuster of the increase.

Senator Bingaman cosponsored a bill, recently passed by the Senate, to increase Payment in Lieu of Taxes (PILT), which are payments the federal government makes to counties with federal lands that otherwise would generate taxes for local coffers.

Bingaman said this would bring millions more dollars every year to New Mexico's rural counties, including Lincoln County, which would see its PILT increase from $320,000 annually to nearly $800,000.

Bingaman opposed the Secretary of Agriculture's 1993 draft plan to restructure county-based field offices like those that serve Lincoln because of potentially negative consequences. He supports streamlining, but also supports the preservation of needed services for farmers.

Don't write off the fight against the Mescalero Apache proposal to store radioactive waste on the tribe's reservation in neighboring Otero County.

State Representative H. John Underwood said Wednesday that Lincoln County residents reading and hearing about the tribe's business deal with more than 30 private power companies tend to think it's "a done deal."

"I truly believe there's lots of smoke, but little fire," the Ruidoso Democrat told members of the newly-formed Regional MRS Committee comprised of elected officials from Otero and Lincoln counties. The group also may add representatives from Chaves County.

"The prospects are good for us not to have this waste dump, although you don't read as much about that," Underwood said. "They still have to be licensed and we all can become interveners in hearings and will be entitled to be heard."

"Each of those 30-some power companies only have about $15,000 invested into it (the arrangement with the Mescalero). It's a lot of noise for little substance. I don't think the utilities are set on Mescalero. They're just set on doing something."

"I think there will be another alternative."

Underwood said State Senator Thomas Rutherford (D-Bernalillo) is trying to ensure this dog won't hunt.

Rutherford is introducing legislation to prohibit high level nuclear waste, in the form of spent fuel rods from power companies, from being transported over any of New Mexico's highways or rails.

"There'll probably be a war in court if we stop the interstate management of materials," Underwood said.

Some of the alternatives mentioned by Underwood included requiring storage within the states that generate the radioactive material, possibly at abandoned military installations.

"A lot of people don't realize that the legislature in Minnesota already passed legislation allowing 18 dry cask storage (areas)," Underwood said, adding that death threats had resulted from the action.

That was a compromise, but if no other site has been found by the year 2002 for the spent fuel rods generated by Northern States Power, that company is to be shut down, "because Minnesota says either they have to be willing to take care of their own rods or stop making them."

"I'm going to Minnesota in August and will meet with officials of Northern States Power and the U.S. Department of Energy, and federal nuclear negotiator Richard Stallings (whose office expires in January 1995)."

Underwood was critical of the federal government for applying $8-billion (collected from nuclear generating utilities) toward the country's budget deficit instead of using it to find a solution. He accused the federal government of "playing games with us" and said it is responsible for creating the crisis.

"I think it's important for this group to exist," the legislator told the MRS committee. Being directly linked to all of the elected governing boards in the affected communities and counties will keep communication open and will allow a faster response to changes, if necessary.

"I don't know how to fight something effectively until you find out what really is going on," he said. He urged the committee to send representatives to all of the major national meetings on the issue.

Most of the communities represented on the committee already have voted resolutions opposing the proposed temporary (40 year) storage called a monitored retrievable storage facility or MRS.

Ruidoso Mayor Jerry Shaw, who brought together the elected officials and is acting as temporary chairman, said no matter what their personal feelings, the officials should represent the opinions of their constituents.

"I can't be anything but against it," she said.

Mayor Mary Herrera Standfill said her community also has passed a resolution opposing the facility, although the village's representative on the board, Trustee Fred Uter, initially said he was neutral on the issue. He later stated that he was against anywhere in the state being used as a radioactive dumping ground.

"The federal government created a monster and how can we stop them from making White Sands a nuclear waste dump?" he asked. "The people in my village say we need the jobs, but we don't want a waste dump. Some of those places still are leaking radioactivity into the air."

"The almighty dollar means a lot. If we can't stop them, I'd like to have a few dollars for the roads and whatever."

Mitzi Brownfield, representing Cloudcroft, said she personally is leaning against the MRS, but that she worked for many years at Sandia Laboratories (in Albuquerque) and had no particular fears.

"But I suspect most in Cloudcroft are against it," she said, noting that no resolution has been passed. "Our previous mayor didn't want to offend the Mescalero."

Another Cloudcroft resident called committee members "gutless wonders" and chided them for not educating the public on the technology to eliminate groundless fears in coming to a decision whether to support the proposal.

She accused them of "catering to fear."

"It's not my job to educate the people of Ruidoso," Shaw responded. "The federal level is not doing it either. No one was afraid of the Los Alamos Labs. Why? Because no one knew what was going on there."

"The reason the MRS is feared is lack of knowledge in general. It's going to hurt tourism and discourage the buying of property. I certainly don't think we need to put this stuff near a fault line (for potential earthquakes)."

"It bothers me to be against it for no real reasons, just because others are," the Cloudcroft woman interjected. "It's based on emotions. You are pandering to the lowest common denominator."

Carrizozo Mayor Cecelia Kuhnelt took exception to the characterization. She pointed out that she spent "long hard hours" touring several nuclear power plants and storage areas in the East. On her own, she attended a Washington D.C. conference concerning the casks that are being designed to contain the radioactive rods.

"Most of the rods I saw had been underwater in a pool for eight to 10 years and yet they have a half life of 25,000 to 100,000 years, too much for any of us to comprehend," she said.

Kuhnelt warned that people also must scrutinize the source of their information. While touring the power plants, very persuasive guides were provided by the U.S. Council for Energy Awareness, which she later found out is a proponent of the nuclear industry, she said.

"One of the problems is that we are in uncharted waters," Kuhnelt said. "We have on site storage now, but we have never moved those casks halfway across the nation."

The typical Eastern mentality is to dump problems in the West, where they think there are few people and those that are here, are uneducated, she said.

"These casks will be transported through hundreds of communities," she said. "It's a national problem."

"When these officials voted to move forward on nuclear energy, the problem of what to do with the waste was decades away. Now it's here. Until we can be sure they can be safely transported, I will remain against it."

Kuhnelt said 121 power plants currently store their own nuclear waste on site. Facilities closer to them, already built, worth $300-million and sitting in mothballs could be used.

"My community sits right on the railroad and is more likely to be on the route," Kuhnelt said. "I believe the scientific community will solve the problem whether it's to somehow recycle the rods as John (Underwood) suggested or something else."

"We can't dictate to members how they should represent their areas," Shaw said, "although I feel 99 percent sure, this committee will end up against the idea."

The tourist-based economies of Ruidoso and Cloudcroft especially would be hurt by such storage, she noted.

Brownfield said the idea of a "sovereign nation" such as the Mescalero handling the radioactive material is even more unsettling than if the operation was under local, state and federal scrutiny.

"You're talking about the same government that did secret nuclear testing on people," another woman said.

Uter agreed, noting disclosures years after the fact about radioactive leakage into water supplies and into the air.

The committee agree to meet at 2 p.m. the last Wednesday of each month in Ruidoso Village Hall.

Members of the Capitán High School band strut down the main street of the village during the Annual Chamber of Commerce parade Monday. Rodeos, vendors, a school carnival, races and the parade over

Mescalero man dies in crash

A Mescalero resident was fatally injured Wednesday following a two-car collision on Highway 70 in Mescalero.

BIA reports indicate Dion Enjady, 28, of Mescalero was killed when the 1983 Mercury he was driving crossed the median strip at mile marker 253 to collide with another automobile driven by Alex Montoya, 17, of High Rolls.

According to the report, liquor was involved in the Enjady vehicle. Montoya was driving a 1988 Honda with three passengers, Arlene Zamora, 18; Beth Cox, 18; and Sasha Carruthers, 18, all of Alamogordo.

The report indicates Zamora, Cox and Montoya were in stable condition. They were taken to the Lincoln County Medical Clinic. Apparently, Carruthers was not seriously injured.

Valaris Miller, administrator of the hospital, said that two victims were admitted and are stable, she said one was transferred and was serious. She said the identity of the victims was confidential.

Police nab burglary suspect in pawn shop attic

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Area enforcement officers captured a burglar Saturday hiding in the attic of the High Dollar pawn shop and attempting to steal about 40 handguns.

Jorge Arivenas, 27, of Ruidoso Downs was pulled from the attic at about 1:30 a.m. after police were alerted by a silent electronic signal from Mountain Alarm Systems and Security Inc.

Both Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs police responded to the alarm and surrounded the building.

The officers searched the interior business area before finding Arivenas hiding in the attic.

According to police reports, a large wooden box was next to the rear of the building which gave access to a small ledge just below a vent. The vent had been pried open from the bottom and folded upwards, creating a large enough hole to gain entry.

Officers could hear noises coming from the roof area inside the building.

After entering the building, officers noted a hole in the sheetrock ceiling near the rear of the building. On the floor, a number of guns were scattered with a white plastic bag containing more guns. A green plastic trash bag filled with guns was nearby, and a cardboard box with several guns still in their boxes, also lay beneath the hole in the ceiling.

Police called the Ruidoso Fire Department for ladders to gain entrance to the attic.

After entering the roof area, they saw Arivenas lying on his back among the rafters near the front of the building.

Officers ordered Arivenas to display his hands, but he gave no response. After several more commands two officers crawled under the rafters to reach Arivenas.

In order to move the burglar from the attic, Arivenas was ordered to roll toward the exit and was aided by the police.

Arivenas was charged with aggravated burglary and transported to the Ruidoso jail.

Firefighters battle pair of back-to-back blazes

Back-to-back fires worked area fire departments Tuesday afternoon.

Illegal fireworks may have caused one fire, but no major damage resulted from either event.

Shortly before 1 p.m., residents spotted gray smoke in the Alto North area. Bonito Fire Department (BFD) and the United States Forest Service (USFS) arrived to find fire in a vacant lot just off New Mexico 48.

"Flames are already in the trees," said a fire official. He noted the efforts of neighbors who had attacked the fire with shovels and rakes before the departments' arrival.

Workers confined the fire to one-fourth acre within minutes, only to be summoned to a second fire north of the Flying J Ranch.

Additional units from BFD and USFS augmented by Ruidoso Fire Department responded to property owned by Neil Williams. They found dry grass in flames threatening an unoccupied cabin on adjacent property. Within minutes that fire, too, became contained.

Less than an acre of ground burned and the cabin sustained minor damage.

Crews continued to put out hot spots and soak down the charred areas of both fires for several hours.

Firefighters easily determined the cause of one fire but were less sure of the other.

"The fire on the Williams property was started by an electric fence when it grounded on dry weeds that had grown up around it."

Cause of the Alto North fire remains suspicious. Neighbors said about an hour and a half earlier they noticed three teenagers hanging around the area and heard "pops and a whistle that sounded like fireworks." This fire is under investigation.

Trash troubles

Dolores Rue and her daughter, Trieva, sit among the pile of trash they collected in one hour along a side road in Glencoe. They found bullets and cans used in target practice, old tubs and car parts. The two patrol the road every few months in an effort to keep the area clean, encourage better stewardship of the land by neighbors and passing motorists and to remove items that might be dangerous to wildlife.

Briefs

MRS to be the topic at annual Upper Canyon group's dinner

State Representative H. John Underwood will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Ruidoso Upper Canyon Association July 15 in the La Paz Room at the Enchantment Inn.

He will speak on the proposed storage of nuclear waste on the Mescalero Reservation. The deadline for reservations is Monday, July 11. The cost is $18.36 including tip and tax. The social hour is set for 6 p.m. and the dinner at 7 p.m.

Rural development administration provides $825,000 to the Downs

Senator Pete Domenici (R-NM), recently announced that the Rural Development Administration (RDA) has approved a loan of $425,000 for Ruidoso Downs for community water projects.

RDA will also provide a low-interest loan of $425,000 to the Village of Ruidoso Downs for the purchase of the Agua Fria Water System. The 40-year loan will carry a five percent interest rate.

The project was administered by the United States Department of Agriculture's Rural Development Administration.

Old Lincoln seeks parade entries

The Lincoln Pageant and Festivals Corporation is seeking entries for the annual parade in conjunction with the celebration of "Old Lincoln Days."

All entries in the parade should have a historical theme and judging will identify winners in a variety of categories.

Old Lincoln Days runs Friday, August 5, through Sunday, August 7, in Lincoln. The parade will take place at 11 a.m. Sunday, August 7. Pre-registration for the parade is encouraged. All entries must arrive at the staging grounds no later than 9:30 a.m.

Interested parties should contact Jon Amastae at 915-565-2152 or 505-653-4275.

Science workshop open to teachers

"Nuclear Technology Teacher Workshop," a one-week event for New Mexico science teachers of grades 8 to 12, is being offered July 18-22 at the University of New Mexico Continuing Education Conference Center. Enrollment for the workshop will be limited to 60 attendees.

Registration for the workshop is $25 and admission is on a first-come, first-served basis. The workshop is being offered as CHNE 430—Introduction to Nuclear Engineering for three hours of graduate credit.

This workshop is sponsored through contributions of time and money from members of Department of Chemical and Nuclear Engineering—UNM, American Nuclear Society, Nuclear Criticality Safety Group—UNM, Health Physics Society—Rio Grande Chapter, and National Atomic Museum. For more information please call 277-5431 or 277-2225.

Best of the best

The 1994 Ruidoso Major League All Stars appear ready for their first game in Artesia at 3 p.m. Saturday, July 9, at Langston Field. The Stars include (back, from left) Coach Godfrey Enjady, Lucas Rodriguez, Fabian Chavez, Aaron Kopacka, George

Swimming programs under way

Ruidoso's Parks and Recreation Department summer programs are in full swing.

Swim classes are under way now at the municipal swimming pool, with a Parent & Tot one-week session set to begin on Monday. The class, for parents and children, will be from 10 to 10:35 a.m. at the pool.

Cost of the class is $15. Parents, who must accompany their children, should register at the swimming pool.

Other swimming classes scheduled in July include advanced beginner and intermediate classes from July 18 through July 29.

Scuba diving instruction also will be offered through the Parks and Recreation Department July 18 through August 3.

At least 12 persons must be registered for the class to be offered. For more information about water programs, call Parks & Rec at 257-5030 or contact Ric Bergland, 258-5139.

The pool also may be rented for private parties from 7 to 10 p.m. any night of the week. Pool usage fee is $150 for up to 40 people.

Reservations are required by calling the pool manager, Ellen Bizzell at 257-2795.

Parks and Rec Department's Wilderness Camp continues

The Village of Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department is offering Wilderness Camps for youngsters 7 to 12 years old this summer, with weekly sessions set for the next five weeks.

Wilderness Camp, which includes free lunch, is staged at Wingfield Park by the Parks & Rec office at 801 Grindstone Drive.

Activities include hiking, fishing, archery, canoeing, horseback riding, beach volleyball, arts & crafts and swimming.

Cost is $35 per week or $8 a day if not pre-registered.

Participants must pre-register, they must also have parents' permission slips and waiver of liability forms signed prior to participating in camp.

To register, or to learn more, call 257-5030.

Fishing Report

In the southeast area fishing spots, salmon eggs seems to be the order of the day for catching trout.

At Alto Lake, anglers are using salmon eggs for trout fishing.

Some fish are being taken on salmon eggs in the deeper water at Bonito Lake.

At Grindstone Reservoir, fishing is fair using salmon eggs and yellow power bait.

The water level is low in the Ruidoso River so fishing pressure is light.

Court vandals strike

Jackie Anderson kneels near graffiti left on the newly restored tennis courts at School House Park. Beside the magic marker marring the court surface, someone burned their name into the wind screen. Skateboarders and bicyclists just two days after the courts reopened tore down one of the nets while trying to jump it. Chunks also have been bitten out of the court surface from the skateboard wheels. Anderson and her husband, Dave Anderson, teach tennis for the Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department.

Inside the Outdoors

Bears may be cute, but they're still wild!

Warm weather has a lot of people stirring around out in our forested mountains. It also has awakened some of our critters that have been taking a long winter nap. The first that comes to mind is the black bear.

The black bear, the state mammal made famous by Smokey the Bear, actually is more commonly brown here in New Mexico. Black bear is simply the name of the critter, but they can be any color; black, brown, red or blonde. The true brown (grizzly) bear is an altogether different animal, a relic of history here in New Mexico.

The black bear is just a small, distant cousin of the brown or grizzly bear. It is a much more adaptable animal and frequently lives in close proximity to human civilization. The black bear inhabits the major wooded and/or mountainous areas from coast to coast and from Alaska to central Mexico.

They are listed, taxonomically, as carnivores, however they'll eat anything from carrion and garbage to insects and vegetables. Occasionally they've been known to prey on elk calves.

Realistically, they could be classed as opportunists. Whatever smells good, to them, they'll try.

by Ben
Hansen

How big are they? Well, putting aside all the reports from people frightened by huge bears standing 10 feet tall and weighing a ton, they aren't all that big. The average wild, free ranging black bear weighs from 100 to 300 pounds. But, like pole, give an old male black bear easy to get, fattening food for a year and he could top 450 pounds! A black bear hit by a car near Albuquerque a few years ago weighed almost 600 pounds.

How strong are they? Strong enough to flip industrial grade boulders like kid's marbles.

They can be very large, but usually are not. They are always very strong. They have poor, near sighted vision, but an excellent sense of smell. These physical attributes fit well with their wandering, catch as catch can ways. An interesting side light to this is that their young are born during the winter hibernation period and weigh only 7 to 12 ounces.

The few encounters I've had with bears in the wild have been uneventful. When they've noticed me, some never did, they're hind legs outraced their front legs trying to get away from me.

I did say in the wild. When they wander into campgrounds, the city (I mean practically downtown Albuquerque), or someone's back yard, they can be as hard headed and belligerent as a rock. Add to that innate stubbornness an empty stomach and you have an accident waiting for a place to happen.

The best way to solve this problem is try to avoid it in the first place. When camping store your food away from your sleeping quarters and don't feed the bears or leave garbage laying around.

Also, leave the smelly perfumes at home — those mystical attractants of the opposite sex might bring in a real hunk.

Bears are neat critters, but it is wiser to keep them where they belong, out in the forest, and us at a distance. A situation desirable to both species.

We have no business creating close encounters by treating them like begging pets.

P&Z sends proposed barbed wire ordinance to the village council for a public hearing

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A municipal code amendment clarifying the use of barbed or razor wire fences Tuesday breezed through the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission.

The action pushes the amendment before the village council to schedule a public hearing and possible final approval by the council.

According to the amendment, barbed wire and razor wire are prohibited fencing materials except for public and private utilities; commercial and industrial development; and public and properties which involve attractive nuisance. Installation of barbed wire or razor wire shall be at the top of the fence.

Site development approval is required by the planning commission for all installations of barbed or razor wire.

Use shall be restricted to properties where necessity has been shown that security is required to protect hazardous processing, product, equipment, storage or attractive nuisance.

Final approval of the amendment rests with the village council after the public hearing.

In other business, the commission:

—approved a zone map amendment for Don Russell and R&F Joint Venture for about two acres of land in the Airport West Second Addition.

The property is currently zoned R-4, high density residential allowing 20 residential units per acre.

Russell requested that the property be rezoned to R-1, single family residential designed to allow subdivision into family residential lots (eight lots maximum).

Final approval of the zone map amendment is with the village council after a public hearing.

Under new business, the council: —approved a replat for Lots 49 through 53, of Palmer Gateway Subdivision for Wilton Howell.

The replat was approved on the condition that commercial use access must be from the Sudderth frontage.

—approved a conditional use for the C-2 District residence of John Fuchs.

Fuchs requested to allow residential use of office units four and five on the second level of his building.

—tabled a request for a side yard variance by Morris Paul until the next planning meeting on July 18.

—approved a conditional use and an amended commercial site development for Roger and Sheryl Hoffman for their C-2 residence at 105 Sutton.

Improvements proposed include an eight feet by 32 feet deck addition; fill in a 90 feet by 25 feet area to level the lot and develop usable area; conversion of a garage to a bedroom and bath; and re-roofing the existing residence.

—approved a commercial site development

Obituaries

John Payne

Memorial service for John Payne, 55, of Albuquerque was conducted Thursday, July 7, at French Mortuary, Wyoming Boulevard Chapel in Albuquerque with the Reverend Jim Williams officiating. Payne died Monday, July 4 in Albuquerque.

He was an avid horseman and sportsman and spent a lot of time in Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs at the racetrack.

Payne was the C.E.O. of Phase One Electronics in Albuquerque. He had been self-employed since the age of 23, having owned businesses in Albuquerque and West Texas. He is survived by his wife, Janet Payne of Albuquerque; his mother, Louise Payne of Amarillo, Texas; his father, John Payne and wife, Phyllis of Las Cruces; five daughters, Ansley Timmons and husband, Troy of Canyon, Texas, Allison Payne of Austin, Texas, Holly Payne of College Station, Texas, Shea Woodard of Austin, Texas and Shannel Denson and husband, Larry of Albuquerque; one son, Shayne Woodard and wife, Sabrina of Austin, Texas; one granddaughter, Madison Timmons of Canyon, Texas; and many relatives and friends.

Alvin E. "Gene" Nabors

Services were conducted Thursday for Alvin E. "Gene" Nabors, 64, of Big Spring, Texas, a part-time Ruidoso resident.

He died Monday, July 4, in Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso.

Nabors was born August 30, 1929, in Big Spring, Texas. He married Bettye Franks on April 22, 1946, in Stephenville, Texas. He attended San Marcos Academy and then finished high school at Tarleton.

He served in the United States Air Force during the Korean War and later transferred to the Army and completed Officers Candidate School.

After his discharge he and his wife moved to California where he studied electronics. He returned to Big Spring in 1953, and operated Nabors Radio and TV Repair. In 1957, he opened College Automatic Laundry, one of the first automatic laundromats in Big Spring. He continued in the laundromat business until retiring in 1992.

He was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Big Spring and on the Board of St. Mary's Episcopal School. He also served on the Big Spring Symphony Board.

Nabors was an avid flyer and pilot and loved to travel. He enjoyed music and played the piano and organ. He was involved in the Big Spring Theater Group for many years.

Survivors include his wife, Bettye Nabors of Big Spring; one son and daughter-in-law, Paul and Shannon Nabors of Big Spring; one daughter, Rachel Nabors of Houston; and three grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the St. Mary Episcopal School, 118 Cedar, Big Spring TX 79720.

New Mexico's violent juvenile escapees will face felony charges

Children, Youth and Families Department Secretary Wayne Powell announces the enactment of House Bill 197, an act creating a felony criminal offense for aggravated escape from the custody of the Children, Youth and Families Department.

"Effective July 1, this law will offer an additional option and mechanism for our department employees who work with the sometimes violent youths," Powell said.

The crime of aggravated escape was passed earlier this year by the New Mexico legislature in response to a department request to deal more harshly with violent escapes at the New Mexico Boys' School.

The new law is applicable at all CYFD juvenile justice facilities.

Perry family gathers for reunion in Glencoe

Family Reunion at Perry Ranch

The Perry Ranch at Glencoe was host over the Fourth of July holidays to the children of pioneers Elzy and Mayme Perry and their kin-folks. One hundred and twelve people attended the celebration.

Children of Elzy and Mayme who came were: George Perry and wife, Hazel from Mayhill; Nina Taylor and daughter, Phoebe from Lincoln; Gladys Nosker, Glencoe; Ruth Rasco and husband from Dell City, Texas; Elzy Perry Jr. and wife, Sharon from Tulagosa; Leroy and wife, Lola May from Dell City; Don and wife, Charlotte from Irving, Texas; Jane Stout and husband, Raymond from Phoenix, Arizona and Charles Perry and wife, Anne from Artesia.

Other kinfolks from Timberon, near Cloudcroft, were unable to attend the reunion because of the recent forest fires.

The Perry children were raised with the Storm brothers and I have many happy memories of those days.

The Perry reunion is a gathering of a beloved family.

Donald R. Rawhouser

Graveside services were conducted June 30 at Forest Lawn Cemetery for Donald R. Rawhouser, who was called Home by our Lord on June 28.

Military services were performed, complete with color guard and firing squad under the direction of Romeo Klein.

Other veterans taking part in the services were Frank and Ida Koehler, C.C. Skinner, Doug Houserton, Lemuel Clarke, Julius Fitzner, Robert Stephens, Floyd Danielson and Fred Savedra.

The American flag that draped the casket was presented by Romeo Klein to Don's eldest son, David.

Don served in the Pacific in the Marine Corps during World War II, later in the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam War. Don had lived in Ruidoso for 20 years.

We rejoice that our friend, Don, is now reunited with loved ones in Heaven with our Lord.

Thomas A. Mayo

Graveside services were held July 2, at Forest Lawn Cemetery for Thomas A. Mayo, who was called home by our Lord on June 30.

The Reverend C. Allen Cearley based his eulogy on the Twenty-Third Psalm. "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want..."

The Reverend Mr. Cearley reminded us that the Lord truly is our faithful shepherd — that He provides for us, gives us his eternal blessing and truly restores our life.

Anita Carpenter sang "How Great Thou Art" and "He Touched Me."

Pallbearers were George Westall, Guy Warnica, Ralph Allaire, Jay Riddle, Ira Wallace and R.J. Murray.

Thomas served his country in World War II. He was in the Normandy invasion and several other campaigns. He was awarded the Purple Heart and the Bronze Star.

We rejoice that our good friend is safe and happy among loved ones who have gone on before, with our Lord in Heaven.

Small Storm Reunion

There was a miniature Storm reunion on the Storm ranch over the fourth of July holidays.

Mark's daughter, Carrol Jane Elliott, and her husband, Bill, their daughter, Karen and a family friend, Sara McLean came up from Houston, Texas, and stayed at Mark's new house.

They brought a special fourth of July blessing to the Storm Ranch. I hope you had a good Fourth of July.

Especially fast

Aptly named Specially Fast (#9) noses out Law-yersgunsandmoney (#3) at the wire in the Grade III $12,025 Jet Deck Handicap July 4 at Ruidoso Downs Race Track. The four-year-old Dash For Cash gelding earned $7,125 for owners Six G's Stables, James Helzer and David Gibson of Fort Worth, Texas. The Dwayne "Sleepy" Gilbreath-trained covered the 440 yards in :21.44 seconds.

On the rebound

A Streak Of Cash rebounded from a slow start to score a neck triumph over I Hear A Symphony (#10) and Special Phoebe (#9) in the $115,020 Rainbow Derby Sunday.

Tai Chick seeks 4th win this year

The very consistent campaigner Tai Chick, a winner in three of five starts this year, makes his 1993 Ruidoso debut in the $3,600 starter allowance feature, Friday.

The 360-yard feature is for 3-year-olds and up and offers a purse of $3,600.

Tai Chick, a 6-year-old Utah-bred by Tai It Easy, has yet to finish out of the money this year against allowance and upper level claiming company.

The gelding defeated a talented field of allowance foes at Sunland Park on April 3 and should be favored Friday off of that effort. Glass Hearts, the world record holder for 350-yards, was one of the horses he beat in the race.

The biggest victory of Tai Chick's career came on the local straightaway when he captured the $7,500 Trans-Con Starters Challenge here last year. The gelding is owned and trained by Ray Carlisle of La Mesa.

Cash Proposal and ZV Silver

Bullet, the respective fourth and fifth place finishers in a tough allowance contest here June 11, also command respect in the 350 yard dash.

In his last start, Cash Proposal ran a strong fourth behind Fun Cash, High Siete and Law-yersgunsandmoney, all of whom are solid stakes runners. ZV Silver Bullet made his first start of the summer in the 400-yard race and should be in better shape Friday.

"Hollywood Nights" continues Friday with first post time of 8 p.m. The entire ten-race card from Hollywood Park will be simulcast in the Ruidoso Downs Turf Club. Admission is free. All wagers made on "Hollywood Nights" are common-pooled which allows local handicappers the luxury of betting directly into the Hollywood Park mutual pools. Only three "Hollywood Nights" programs remain before Hollywood's Spring/Summer meet ends on July 24.

Top horses line up in Saturday feature

Fine Loom Handicap winner Stamen and multiple stakes winner Special Masked, who have taken turns beating each other in four meetings this year, stand out among a solid field of eight quarter horses and thoroughbreds entered in the $10,000-added Master Salls Handicap, Saturday at Ruidoso Downs.

Saturday's 22-race program also includes the entire ten-race card from Hollywood Park. The Grade II $100,000 Landrace Handicap for 2-year-old fillies going six furlongs on the main track is the Hollywood feature.

Stamen, a well-bred quarter horse by Dash For Cash out of the graded stakes winning mare Trippy Dip, scored an impressive triumph in the Fine Loom Handicap on May 22 and is highweighted at 123 pounds for the Master Salls.

The Fred Danley-trained gelding has been a model of consistency this year with two wins and a second place performance in the Budweiser Handicap at Sunland Park in March.

Stamen won the Master Salls last year by a head over the thoroughbred Way Cool who is also entered in this year's edition. The 5-year-old is owned by Frank and Marilyn Richardson of Houston.

Special Masked, who resides in the Chris O'Dell barn, beat Stamen in two handicap events this spring, but has not been able to repeat that effort in two starts here this summer. The quarter horse by Masked Native ran a close second to Stamen in a 1000 yard allowance contest on June 25 after finishing a disappointing sixth as the favorite in the Fine Loom.

Special Masked has won or placed in eight of his last nine starts including wins in the Budweiser at Sunland and the Tijeras Handicap in Albuquerque in April.

Special Masked is owned by Gary and Janice Caviness of Mal-jamar, and will carry 122 pounds in the Master Salls.

Museum offers charity Bingo

Museum of the Horse Bingo, which had its grand opening last week in the Ruidoso Downs Sports Theater, has announced new operating hours.

The games, which offer up to $1,500 in prize money, will be held on Friday and Saturday nights beginning at 7:30 p.m. and ending at 9:30 p.m. There is also a Sunday matinee session from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the games will benefit the Museum Of The Horse.

In addition to the Bingo excitement, pull tab games will also be on sale in the Sports Theater on Friday and Saturday nights from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Pull tabs also will be available on Sundays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Prize money on the pull tab games can reach up to $1,000.

Fire can rejuvenate the forest and rangelands

Contrary to the teachings of Smokey Bear, recent wildfires throughout New Mexico may not be all bad for the environment, said two New Mexico State University scientists.

This year, people around the nation are celebrating the 50th anniversary of Smokey Bear as the national symbol for forest fire prevention. This Fourth of July weekend, celebrations take place in Capitan, where Smokey is buried at the Smokey Bear State Historical Park.

While in recent years the park has incorporated information about some of the beneficial aspects of fire, the traditional message has been fire suppression.

"Because for 50 years we've listened to Smokey Bear, who told us all fires are bad, we've always tried to contain and control them," said John Mexal, tree physiologist with NMSU's Agricultural Experiment Station.

"But in general, if there's a light ground fire that just burns off the litter, the benefits usually far outweigh the negative effects, except when fire threatens homes."

Recent wildfires have broken out in the Organ Mountains and Lincoln, Cibola and Gila national forests.

"The situation this year is expected because we had a very dry winter and an extremely dry spring," said Jerry Holechek, range scientist with NMSU's Agricultural Experiment Station. "When we get these burning hot temperatures and there's a high accumulation of grass undergrowth, this leads to a very combustible situation."

Suppression of less severe wildfires during the last 50 years has allowed a tremendous amount of litter to accumulate on the ground, Mexal said. This creates a lot of fuel and sets the stage for more serious and damaging forest fires similar to what happened at Yellowstone National park several years ago. This also created more shrubs and less grasses on the rangelands.

"With light or less severe fires, the forest understory including woody shrubs gets burned off, and there's a lot of resprouting of forbs and grasses, a veritable salad bowl for wildlife," Mexal said.

In a light fire, large trees with thick bark are protected because they are slow to ignite.

For the first three to five years following a light fire, there will actually be an increase in wildlife use, he said.

In a few years, except for a little charring on the larger trees, people can't even tell the area was ever burned," he added.

With severe wildfires, however, temperatures get very hot, and fires create their own weather patterns, Mexal said.

"These fires can create their own winds and it is very easy for these fires to get hot enough to move from the ground up into the crowns of trees. Then a lot of damage can occur and large trees can die off," he said.

Foresters today try to use fire as a management tool by letting some natural fires burn themselves out or by setting prescribed fires to burn off the ground litter.

"If we had been burning our forests, either naturally or through prescribed burns every five to 10 years, we'd have virtually no danger of having a fire like that at Yellowstone again," Mexal said.

A disadvantage of natural fires is that they often occur at times of the year when they may be hard to control—during very hot and dry periods.

"The hazard is much greater this time of year," Holechek said. "Everything is so dry and combustible that if a small spark jumps a highway or a boundary, an area can go up very quickly."

In the late winter and spring, however, there is enough moisture in the soil and plant material to get a cool burn that is easier to control, he said.

Light fires can help control disease by burning out witches broom and dwarf mistletoe that infest forests, Mexal said.

These fires also help maintain conifer forests. If the forests weren't burned periodically, young seedlings found in the understory would grow and take over, changing the forest composition.

To reduce the damage of severe wildfires, Holechek recommends proper grazing. Current recommendations call for removing one third of the forage.

Prescribed fires, however, can be beneficial for cattle and sheep ranchers, he said.

"With fire, we see a conversion on the range from shrubs and trees to more grasses, which is good for animal forage," he said.

Prescribed fires on the range also can control brush such as mesquite at one to two dollars an acre, compared with herbicides at about $15 an acre, Holechek said.

However, prescribed fires have limited use on New Mexico's rangelands because there is limited understory to carry the fire. Also, areas that would be best for burning are lands ranchers would save for grazing, he added.

Volunteers restore church

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

An original charcoal sketch by artist Peter Hurd has been donated to help raise money for the restoration of San Patricio Catholic Church in the Hondo Valley.

The 120-year-old church, for decades the only place of worship in the valley, contains many family histories in its graveyard. Although its bell no longer tolls in the green shingled tower for church services and its white stucco surface needs repair, the church remains a landmark and a place of peaceful meditation.

Sophie Hamilton, treasurer of a committee formed to preserve the church, has been circulating posters and sending letters to local businesses. She's sold tickets and solicited contributions from individuals.

She and her husband, John Hamilton, spend most Fridays pulling weeds and cleaning up brush around the church. Starting at 10 a.m., sometimes they are joined by Manuel Corona and his wife, Lucita, and by Albert Herrera. Tony Archuleta spent one Saturday helping burn the undergrowth.

Joe Gutierrez, president of the committee, has dedicated many hours to work on the inside of the building. He built a new altar, laid a rug, varnished the window frames and brought in church furniture, paintings and statues.

But Hamilton and friends could use much more help, inside and outside. Battling the weeds during the summer is a full-time preoccupation.

"Right now, we could really use someone to come out any time and cut the grass or clip the weeds with a weed cutter," Hamilton said. "They don't have to wait for us to be there."

The community has used the old San Patricio Church for services on St. Patrick's Day and for a rosary on Memorial Day. Mrs. Hamilton said. They hope someday to be able to conduct more services there and breathe life into the structure for another generation.

Tickets for the charcoal sketch by Hurd are $5 each for the drawing at the 8 a.m. mass, September 4 at St. Jude's Church. Send donations to Sophie Hamilton, Treasurer, San Patricio Catholic Church, Rancho Chico, Hondo NM 88886. For information, call 505-659-4434. Tickets also are available at the office of St. Eleanor Catholic Church in Ruidoso.

Quick action saves house from fire

Quick thinking and correct action by visitors may have saved an Alto Village house from destruction, say firefighters.

Angie Quiroga, her family and friends were spending the Fourth of July weekend at 643 Deer Park Drive, the vacation home of her employer, Dr. John Liddicoat of El Paso, Texas.

Shortly before 4 a.m. Sunday morning, a smoky smell awakened Quiroga, who saw smoke coming from the kitchen stove.

Quiroga and her companions immediately grabbed two fire extinguishers, called 911 and put out the fire.

When Bonito Fire Department arrived a few minutes later, firefighters were relieved to find the flames already out.

"Thank goodness these people had fire extinguishers and knew how to use them," a fire official said.

Firefighters first disconnected electric power to the range then removed the Jenn-Air cooktop from its counter. Damage was confined to a small portion of the countertop. Firefighters suspect a short in the range to be the cause and recommended it be checked by a qualified electrician.

Quiroga said when she first saw the stove on fire, "I saw something dripping, like grease." Her husband mentioned the range fan not coming on immediately while they were cooking and suspected an electrical problem.

BLM bans fires and fireworks in the area

Because of the high fire danger, the Bureau of Land Management has prohibited fires and fireworks on the public lands within the Roswell District until further notice. District Manager Leslie Cone signed the Fire Prevention Order on June 28.

Under the order, the following acts are prohibited:

1. Building or using a fire, campfire, charcoal grill or wood stove without permit, except in developed camping and picnicking areas. However the use of petroleum-fueled stoves, lanterns or hearing devices is allowed.

2. Smoking, except within an enclosed vehicle or building, in a developed recreation site, or while stopped in an area at least three feet in diameter that is barren or cleared of all flammable material.

3. Using a chainsaw without a permit.

4. The use of fireworks, including "safe and sane" is hereby prohibited on all public lands within the Roswell District.

Violation of this Fire Prevention Order is punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 and/or imprisonment of not more than 12 months.

When the weather moderates and the fire danger lessens, the order will be rescinded. Questions about the order should be directed to the Roswell District Office by calling 505-627-0272.

Federal government authorizes $22 million in education grants

New Mexico will receive more than $22 million this year from the Department of Education for education programs for children with disabilities, read a news release from Senator Pete Domenici (R-NM).

"This funding will go a long way toward serving the special needs of children with disabilities in New Mexico schools," Domenici said. "The grants will help enhance the educational opportunities for these children from preschool to high school."

Four grants will be awarded by the Department of Education.

—A total of $17.8 million will go to New Mexico educational agencies to assist efforts to provide a free and appropriate public education to all children with disabilities. An estimated 43,178 children will be helped by this funding provided under Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

—New Mexico will receive $2.5 million to assist preschool children

The funding will provide special education and related services to approximately 3,500 disabled New Mexico children ages three through five years. At the state's discretion, two-year-olds who will reach age 3 during the school year may also be eligible.

—A total of $1.6 million will be used by state agencies to implement a comprehensive, coordinated, multidisciplinary, interagency statewide system to provide early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families.

—$93,000 will fund assistance for 300 children with disabilities enrolled in schools operated or supported by New Mexico agencies. The amount includes local educational agency programs for students who are enrolled in local agency special education programs.

The Department of Education will make these funds available July 1.

Is the DWI message finally getting through: Operation DWI blitz continues throughout the state

The recent Operation D.W.I. blitz resulted in fewer drunk driving arrests than previously, according to a news release.

Officers in 47 New Mexico jurisdictions made a combined total of 206 DWI arrests at 74 sobriety checkpoints during the fourth blitz from June 17 through 26. More vehicles passed through the checkpoints this time: a total of 27,156 for an average of one DWI arrest out of every 132 vehicles.

It's still too early to detect any trends because of seasonal traffic variations, but officials on some jurisdictions report that DWIs seem harder to find, continues the release.

Officers in Alamogordo say the use of designated drivers continues to increase as the overall DWI arrest rate declines.

The traffic fatality figures bear out officers' field observations. Through May, the number of alcohol-involved deaths was down 20 percent compared to the first five months of 1993.

The bottom-line goal of Operation D.W.I. is to reduce New Mexico's DWI-related fatalities 34 percent, from 274 in 1992 to 180 in 1996.

The next 10-day blitz is scheduled for early August.

Capitan

Diane Stallings/The Ruidoso News

Bruin's big bash

An estimated 20,000 visitors piled into Capitan over the July Fourth weekend to celebrate Smokey Bear's Fiftieth Birthday. Parade goers sampled roasted corn, Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse members trotted their horses, winners showed off trophies and children waited anxiously for Smokey to lead the parade their way.

CHS 4-H'er elected district officer

Travis Crandall of Capitan has been elected district vice president for Future Farmers of American.

Crandall already serves as treasurer of the Capitan chapter of the FFA.

He was selected for the district post during a recent state FFA convention in Las Cruces, highlighted with motivational speeches from state officers and the national FFA president, as well as the election of state and district officers.

Those attending the convention from the local chapter included president Jill Lunsford, secretary Casey Cunningham, Crandall and adviser Todd Proctor.

Serving with Crandall on the district board are president Jennifer Armstrong from Artesia, secretary Chandra Heifner from Roswell, treasurer Jeremy Salles from Artesia, reporter Megan Denning from Artesia and sentinel Carrie Ann Purcella from Goddard.

State officers are president Jesus Trujillo, vice president Avery Colbertson, secretary Carla Hutchison, treasurer Shannan Welby, reporter Jennifer Armstrong and sentinel Vikki Lake.

Money well used

Ruidoso FFA chapter members devised a promotion to raise money for Teri Hall to attend an FFA leadership seminar in Russia.

Hall, with help from Margie Thompson, manager of the Fina Gas Station on U.S. 70 in Ruidoso and a donation from Tony Bernitsky, owner of Sandia Oil Co., was able to award 100 gallons of gas to Amelia Trujillo as part of the fund raising promotion.

A $75 gift certificate from Ruidoso Wal-Mart went to Floyd and Jody Wilcox, former Ruidoso residents.

When Hall was unable to attend the seminar, the money was donated to the high school FFA adviser to be used for 1994-95 organization activities.

A FUN BLEND OF OLD AND NEW

ENMU presents its 2nd annual trail ride

Earn a college credit (one credit hour) and have the ride of your life at Eastern New Mexico University, Ruidoso this summer.

Join The Billy the Kid Trail Ride beginning on Friday, July 15, and ending on Monday, July 18.

The ride begins with a party, according to a news release.

The next morning riders will head into the White Mountain Wilderness, spending the next four days riding through some of the most scenic mountains in southern New Mexico, trails ridden by William Bonney, Pat Garrett, Buckshot Roberts and other gunfighters of the famous Lincoln County Wars. Participants will need to provide their own food, horse or mule, no stallions allowed. Hay and grain will be furnished beginning Friday evening. Local outfitters are available to provide trail animals.

Classes will be conducted on the trail as students learn an important aspect of physical education—recreational trailriding. Considerable time will be spent learning horse science, nature study and utilization of public lands for leisure living, with a heavy emphasis on wilderness survival.

Wildflower and rock identification, folklore and stories, mining district, Native American and Western Americana are all historical topics, pueblo archaeology for the trail and around the campfire.

According to the release, the trail ride staff includes the legendary Bill Thorp, biologist, Lincoln County historian and rancher as the trail boss; and wrangler Randy Bowen, veteran livestock operator, campfire cook and all-around handyman.

Overnight camping and sleeping will be in tents since this will be wilderness experience. Tents will be provided by the trail boss. No cots will be available, so it is recommended that riders include an air mattress or small foam rubber mattress with their bedroll.

Participants should bring outdoor western clothing (for a four-day ride), warm jackets, toilet articles, sleeping bags or blankets, a canteen and a raincoat (a must). No firearms are allowed. Personal gear should be limited to fifty pounds.

The ride will be limited to 15 riders and reservations will be made on a first-come, first-served basis for each ride. Reservations may be made by sending a $25 non-refundable deposit check, made payable to ENMU-Ruidoso or by calling 1-800-934-3668 on or before July 8. Phone registration will not be complete without payment of the $165. The total fee for the ride must be paid prior to hitting the trail.

BLINK

Oops, somebody just blinked and missed your television advertisement. Maybe they went to the kitchen for a snack, or answered the telephone, or changed the TV channel, or just leaned back and closed their eyes. Anyway, your advertising dollar was wasted.

You could have advertised in The Ruidoso News, the newspaper 83% of the people in Lincoln County buy. And what they buy they read.

Remember, it's not just the dollars you spend but the results you get. Invest in an ad that people can read when they want to, for as long as they want to. Use the proven power of the newspaper.

Fourth crowds give Midtown merchants plenty to celebrate

Ruidoso had a lot to celebrate this Fourth of July with beautiful new sidewalks and trees in the MainStreet area.

Midtown merchants are probably hauling their money to the bank from this gangbuster weekend, and it's likely they are taking a moment to say "thanks" to village leaders. The multi-million dollar project that will benefit Midtown for many years was possible through grants and management from local, state and federal governments.

When was the last time someone provided the funding to improve your property with new sidewalks, big trees and lighting? This project was a pretty valuable gift to Midtown, the heart of Ruidoso.

It's wonderful to see families walking along these new sidewalks, pushing strollers smoothly along in areas that used to be hazardous with broken and buckled concrete. Trees planted in cutout areas will do much to enhance the resort feeling as shoppers stroll from shop to shop.

Any lingering concerns over the availability of parking in Midtown were alleviated this busy weekend. Municipal and open parking lots were well-utilized, but never completely full this weekend. Visitors obviously were willing to park at one end of town or on a back street and walk through Midtown. Direction signs are the only thing missing to help drivers find a parking spot.

Of course, the MainStreet project is not over yet. Construction crews are taking a break during the busiest tourist season, but the part of the project that is completed is a great start. Midtown is really looking good!

Policy

The Ruidoso News encourages letters to the editor, especially about local topics and issues.

Each letter must be signed and must include the writer's telephone number and address. The phone number and street or mailing address will not be printed, however the author's hometown will be included.

The telephone number will be used to verify authorship. No letter will be printed without the writer's name.

Libelous letters are not protected by the rules of privilege or fair comment and will not be printed.

Letters will be edited for spelling and grammar to the extent possible without impairing their flavor or changing their meaning. Letters may be shortened to fit the space available.

More on MainStreet from Midtown merchant

TO THE EDITOR:

Hats off to Teri Sodd for her "Thoughts from Midtown on MainStreet" in your Thursday, June 30 issue! I realize you should not admire those who think like you do, but it is inevitable. I admire Teri Sodd for her courage to speak out and tell it like it is in Midtown Ruidoso.

Since the February 28 letter of Bob Barge of Oklahoma, decrying the destruction of Midtown, there has been a growing resentment toward MainStreet and the Village Council.

This council has little regard for the best interests of Ruidoso or Midtown. The make-up appears to be non-business people with non-Midtown businesses, but whose judgment and decision-making control those of us dependent upon tourism to earn a living in this village. Their administrative vacillation and drift in policy predominate.

Alan Briley tried to save the parking in Midtown, but was blocked by the mayor and a newly-elected councilor who is not a Midtown merchant and who seems intent upon the decline of the Midtown area.

There is no such thing as just good common sense regarding this project. Merchants on the "finished" side of Sudderth were able to secure and retain the parking places on their side of the street, even though the mayor was quoted as saying it looked "Blah." Now the other side of the street, where MainStreet mayhem will resume after Labor Day, is denied any change to retain parking. This is on a whim of council. Is this fair or equitable? More parking lost, more "jut-outs" (my term) or "pop-outs" as Teri Sodd so aptly named them.

Consider accidents — already this scheme is producing havoc in Midtown traffic. Wait until winter with ice and snow. How do snow plows access these cubicles? Village council has a duty and responsibility to determine the effect of their actions!

What happened to sound planning principles? MainStreet, since its inception, has lacked adequate preliminary planning — eliminating parking without providing parking, revising blueprints five or six times when unforeseen obstacles presented insurmountable problems. In the few blocks considered as "finished," no two are matching — some narrow, some wider, drains in the sidewalks, steps up into some buildings. Improvements or chaos?

Now MainStreet is bringing trees to the forest, by reforestation of cement sidewalks, in front of and blocking the view of display windows. It is no wonder that merchants are selling out and leaving Ruidoso. Two in my 2500 Sudderth block have recently done so.

Is this the way to increase a tax return in Midtown?

At an open public meeting in Midtown — a MainStreet coffee — a "wanna-be-mayor" councilor told one merchant to "sell out and move out of town if he didn't like what MainStreet was doing."

The president of MainStreet told another woman to "put her property on the market because someone else would appreciate the project."

This is all recorded by Chuck Stallings as he taped and covered the meeting for The Ruidoso News.

What brand of working together is this? Whose best interests are being served? At this same meeting, I was the target of attack by the mayor because I was not a registered voter in Ruidoso. As a Ruidoso merchant for over 20 years, a property owner and a landlord, where I vote is my concern. Her interest should be that I continue to pay thousands of dollars in taxes in Lincoln County.

Before MainStreet, there was a semi-congenial group of Midtown merchants who worked together and tried to help each other. We now have animosity, bickering, self-protection, suspicion and mean-spirited sniping. One old biddy left a note on my car telling me not to park in front of her store. She has three parking spaces in front of her store because she was on the MainStreet board. That the adjoining stove had its driveway entrance reduced to accommodate this was of no concern to MainStreet.

Another merchant came to my location at 2545 Sudderth to tell me that if my neighbor in the restaurant next door did not quit parking on the side street near his entrance that he would "whip his a--."

Is this what we want for the village, for tourism, for ourselves? The council needs to butt out of Midtown; MainStreet needs to go the way of the Economic Development Corporation. Further, please don't forget that our former illustrious leader/director of MainStreet, who made numerous trips to Santa Fe at taxpayer's expense, now has a "cushy" job in Santa Fe with Economic Development. She bailed out of Ruidoso before the real trouble started.

Many tax dollars have been wasted. When you spend your available money on programs that don't work and practically nothing on those that do, you can't call it a victory for smart. Port-a-Potties in Midtown are not a sign of PROGRESS!

Smokey Bear may be doing too good a job

TO THE EDITOR:

Here in my driveway on Carrizo Valley Ranch, I'm sitting on the tailgate of my pickup watching the most vicious forest fire I have ever seen. The entire Pecos mountain range is ablaze, producing smoke thermal clouds that can probably be seen from 150 miles away. Flames are visible through the smoke leaping at least 100 feet into the air.

A week of extreme heat and low humidity before the lightning strike created favorable fire conditions and today a brisk wind from the West has given us almost Yellowstone fire weather. Nothing can stop this onslaught but backfire and that will start tomorrow.

I have lived at the foot of the Pecos range for over 30 years. During that time I have watched the year by year build up of fuel load and ladder fuels that we all knew had to burn someday. I guess today is the day — but it didn't have to happen this way!

Fighting fire, to most people, is like killing snakes. They feel really good about it and the pay is great! But what if that money had been put to use conducting controlled or prescribed burns when conditions were most favorable? I would be watching the Pecos burn all right, but it would be a much cooler burn that would not be destroying 500-year-old juniper trees and getting the ground so hot that rocks explode.

How ironic that this is happening at the same time as we are celebrating the birthday of Smokey Bear in Capitol. Maybe this coincidence will help people realize that fire is as important as soil, water or sunlight in our southwestern ecosystems.

Tree ring research has proven that this country averaged burning about every 10 years. How could we expect anything but a wildfire disaster after 80 years of fire suppression. A little overkill by Smokey, I'm afraid.

This fire is like major surgery — the patient is going to look pretty bad for a while, but in the final analysis, we will all be better off. Biological diversity will improve, as will wildlife habitat; nutrients that have been tied up for one hundred or more years will be recycled and springs that haven't flowed for 75 years will have water again.

The fire has just reached one of the timbered peaks above my house. Flame lengths must be reaching 200 feet or more. Majestic 200-year-old Ponderosa pine trees will be only charred stumps now. I hope you are listening, Smokey. Happy Birthday!

Smokey Bear Ranger District
Lincoln County, New Mexico

The Smokey Bear Ranger District has prepared a draft environmental assessment addressing the proposed implementation of an allotment management plan on the 7,898 acre Capitan Divide/West Mountain planning area. The scope of the proposed decision is to determine if changes are needed in allotment management, grazing strategies, range improvement projects, road closures, and which alternative described in the environmental assessment best meets the overall public needs.

The proposed project area is located approximately five miles north and east of Capitan, New Mexico, in the area of West Mountain. Jerry Hawkes, Smokey Bear District Ranger is the Responsible Official for this decision. The draft environmental assessment is now available for public comment. A thirty-day comment period will follow the publication of this announcement. A copy of the environmental assessment is available upon request at the Smokey Bear District office. For additional project information, please contact Stanley Dykes or Jerry Hawkes at (505) 257-4095. Comments should be addressed as indicated below:
