Trouble for village is in the smell of... WATER County value jumps

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

That bottom of the barrel odor coming from some Ruidoso water faucets reflects the village's dwindling water supply.

To protect against future water crises, village councilors are considering adoption of a water use restriction ordinance.

Village Manager Gary Jackson told council members Tuesday that the unusually dry winter and summer dealt a blow to the water level in Alto Lake reservoir.

"To call it a lake would be a stretch," he said. "It's closer to a puddle."

"I want the public to know that the smell doesn't mean the water is unsafe," said Mayor Jerry Shaw. "It's much better now with Labor Day behind us."

Jackson said many people who call about the water think that the village is hooked up to Grindstone Lake reservoir, but that source of water won't be available until next Memorial Day. By then, a water treatment plant and distribution connection should be completed with the help of a $675,000 allocation from the State Legislature, he said.

"It's a top priority," Jackson said of the project started last year. "We must do it."

"The recent rain hasn't come anywhere near making up the deficit from the spring run-off shortfall," Jackson said. "The past wet years diverted attention from the importance of a water supply."

The staff put together a proposed water contingency ordinance to promote conservation, he said. Councilors agreed to set a public hearing on the proposal.

"It would automatically trigger different phases of enforcement based on prevailing water conditions," Jackson said.

"I hope we have a wet winter and it won't be an issue, but if not, the ordinance will be in place."

During phase one, a state of non-emergency in April and May, public education about conservation would be emphasized.

In phase two, moderate condition, the staff would have determined if the winter snowfall had been light and the run-off was expected to be low.

If the level in Alto reservoir dropped to three feet below the benchmark and/or village wells produced less than a total of 1,800 gallons of water per minute, voluntary conservation would be urged. That would include an odd/even system for watering lawns, whereby homes with even numbers could water on even-numbered days and the opposite for odd.

Municipal water uses would be reduced and warnings would be issued for poor watering practices.

Phase three would trigger water rationing if Alto Lake dropped below 12 feet and/or the wells produced less than 900 gallons per minute.

At that point, no outdoor watering would be allowed and indoor uses would be minimized. Citations would be issued after the first violation and could result in a fine of $500 and a jail sentence of up to 90 days on conviction.

"This can be very serious," Jackson said. "We got very close this summer. We need every drop we can get. We're in a period now where consumption is declining, but we need to have this ordinance, so if it is dry and, heaven forbid, we don't complete Grindstone on time, we have something in place."

The staff also is reviewing rate changes that would include premium prices for heavy water users, he said.

Councilors approved a procedure by which the staff can move ahead on technical steps toward completion of the Grindstone water system without point by point approval. At each meeting, a summary of those steps will be submitted for council review.

"There's no use waiting two weeks to go through the motions," Shaw said. "The staff is on top of it and we take your recommendations."

The taxable value of Lincoln County jumped $5,526,176 since last year, hitting $279 million.

"That's pretty good considering it was not a reappraisal year," chief deputy assessor Doug Whittaker told county commissioners Tuesday.

The increase is due to county inspectors picking up new construction worth at least three times the amount of the taxable value, since it is based on one-third of the market price.

Millage rates are down generally, because of the increase in values. One mill equals $1 for each $1,000 of taxable value.

Whittaker said a breakdown of taxable values and millage rates per village and community area in the county should be available next week after being certified by the State Department of Taxation and Revenue.

Budget master

Gary Jackson, Ruidoso village manager, presents a Distinguished Budget Award from the New Mexico City Management Association, to Loe Ann Nichols, village finance supervisor. Jackson said the judges complimented Nichols for the budget format, which was "an attractive presentation, useful to the public and staff, and an excellent communication device to indicate plans and goals."

Schools add programs

Brand new public school programs aimed at changing approaches at many grade levels are in effect in the Ruidoso school system.

Alternative schooling, the kindergarten home visitation program, approval of a high school athletic period for credit, and Parents as Teachers (PAT)—all were part of the Ruidoso Municipal School Board of Education's regular meeting Tuesday night.

Paul Wirth, director of academic support services, reported on the new Gavilan Canyon School, designed for students 11-18, who because of special needs, require the intensive services offered by the school.

The Gavilan project is to provide appropriate educational programming, therapeutic counseling, and rehabilitative services to students who because of various problems are having difficulty in the general education programs of the public schools.

Wirth reported that the school has three middle school and two high school students attending classes. To maintain program and service effectiveness, enrollment is limited to 15 students.

Family involvement and counseling are important parts of the school program, according to Wirth. "We try to meld together requirements of the children with the family."

Another new program this year is the Kindergarten Visitation Program, approved in July, that allows teachers to visit with parents of children entering kindergarten.

Roger Sowder, Nob Hill Elementary principal, along with a team of kindergarten teachers and parents, said the home visits seemed to ease the first-day jitters of children and parents.

Kindergarten teacher Pat Sullivan expanded on the results of the visitation program: "We were able to visit 100 percent of our families."

After visitation, families attended a special orientation day.

"Children and parents had the opportunity to see the decorated rooms before school started," Sullivan said. "By the first day of school we knew the children's names and they knew who we were."

Parents praised the program's effectiveness in calming fears and helping children cope with the new experience.

"The home visitation dramatically eases the trauma in the first day

Land developers see road blocks to effort

New developers would like to start selling lots in Rancho Ruidoso Valley Estates near the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, but road problems could interfere.

Tom White told Lincoln County Commissioners Tuesday that construction began on the roads in 1989.

"The owner did everything he could to comply and communicate with the commission and the county manager and engineer on board then," he said.

White submitted a letter dated Oct. 22, 1990, from the county indicating the roads were completed to standards applicable at that time.

"We presumed at the end of the two-year wear period, the roads automatically would become part of the county's road system," White said. "We wrote a letter when we didn't hear anything. We did a few touch-up items. Six months passed and then we did a few more. I think the two-year maintenance program is going to drag into 20 years."

County Road Manager Bill Cupit said he could not recommend acceptance of the roads in their existing condition and based on an engineer's report.

Commissioner Stirling Spencer contended the main point is whether the roads failed during the initial two-year wear period or after that point. Since no letter can be found in county files showing they were approved in 1992, no proof exists that the roads were in acceptable condition at the end of the initial two years.

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley urged board members to work with the new developers to help them bring the roads up to standard.

Keith Birch said the lots will be used as sites for regular and HUD (Housing and Urban Development) approved manufactured homes.

He said his company is in the process of acquiring 140 lots in the development, where 75 to 140 homes in the $70,000 and up range will be built.

"The fact that the roads are not up to standard won't stop us," he told commissioners. "I will be more than glad to meet with you and Mr. Cupit to see what can be done."

Cupit said the chip seal type surface on the roads has a life expectancy of five to six years. That drops to three to five years with low traffic.

Commissioner Wilton Howell asked County Manager Carol Cooney to determine how much property tax has been paid by the property owners in the development since 1989. The amount could offset some of the expense of resurfacing the roads, he said.

White said the issue is whether this commission "will honor the promise of a previous commission."

Howell pressed Cupit for specifics on what he thought should be done to the roads.

"I have to follow the engineer's recommendation to rebuild the whole road," Cupit said. "I didn't give a definite no because I thought something else might be acceptable."

"We need to give them some direction on this," Nunley agreed.

The roads issue was tabled until Cupit can show each commissioner what he thinks should be done.

Emergency medical charge boost asked

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

In an attempt to shift the financial burden for emergency medical service from Lincoln County taxpayer to service users, an increase request that would double some charges will be sent to the state.

The Corporation Commission will conduct hearings and hand down the final decision.

"I certainly agree that a rate increase is in order, but some are Under the proposal, the basic ambulance charge would double from $75 to $150, as well as the $2.50 per mile charge to $5 and other rates for supplies, extrication and special services. A new $35 emergency lights and siren charge would be imposed.

Gregg Kotila, a paramedic with the county emergency medical service (EMS), offered some background.

"I know doubling is a big jump, but the county charges have been steady for nine years while the cost of providing the service and buying equipment has gone up," he said. "We're trying to get us to a level where we can continue to provide good service. Two of the goals are to make the service more self-sustaining and to generate revenue for equipment purchases and ambulance replacement."

Realistically, an emergency ambulance service cannot be operated without some government subsidy, but that extra can be reduced by ensuring rates are updated, he said.

Ruidoso's ambulance service supplements its income with patient transports from the Lincoln County Medical Center to other facilities in Albuquerque, Roswell and El Paso. The charge can run as high as $1,200. The county doesn't have a chance at those runs.

The new rates would not change the service's attempt to work with those who have difficulty paying, Kotila said. About 50 percent of the billed charges are recovered, he said.

"We can't refuse service based on ability to pay," he said. "A lot of people are traveling through the area and it's a problem tracking them down. We don't want to hound them."

Nunley took exception, saying those who can pay and don't should be hounded.

"Our collectibles have gone down," Chairman Monroy Montes said. "I think the assistant county manager has been making a diligent effort. We can pursue them for up to three years."

The rate increases could generate an addition $27,000 with only basic care and as much as $40,000 with advance life support.

Nunley pointed out that the commission has been supportive of the service, buying two ambulances, uniforms and some equipment this past year. He voted against the motion to pass the request to the state, based on his objection to the percentage of increase. The motion passed 3-1, with Commissioner Bill Schwettmann absent.

Commissioners postponed action until budget time on a request from Kotila for an intercept vehicle that could deliver advance life support and other equipment to county ambulances, instead of turning over cases requiring that level of support to Ruidoso units.

"It would be more of a team approach instead of giving the patient over to whoever comes from Ruidoso," Kotila said. Because of financial limitations, not every ambulance can be equipped with a paramedic and related equipment. They go out on most runs with basic service equipment and emergency medical technicians.

In related matters, commissioners approved writing off $7,995 in uncollectible accounts for EMS. The amount primarily represents the difference between what is charged and what Medicare or Medicaid will pay.

They also noted that under a proposed change in the personnel policy, employees could not be paid for time spent in volunteer activities, such as fire fighting and other emergency services, especially when they are reimbursed for the by the emergency departments.

The employees can use their compensatory or vacation time or take a pay reduction for the hours away from the office.

Commissioners postponed action on all personnel policy changes until next month to ensure that employees have a chance to review and comment.

doubled and that seems like a lot to me," said County Commissioner L. Ray Nunley.

"Look at the summary," said Maggie Bohks, county emergency services director. "The average cost is more than ours and it has been so for a long time. Our last increase may have been as long as 10 years ago."

"I don't care about comparisons. I want to give the best service for the least money possible," Nunley replied.

DA finds Chris Condon not at fault in shooting

Dist. Atty. Bert Atkins has concluded his investigation of a Sept. 5 shooting at the Texas Connection Cafe in Ruidoso Downs, and exonerated the police officer involved.

According to Atkins' office, Ruidoso Downs Police Officer Chris Condon was justified in using his weapon during an altercation with Michael Shirley, 45, of Capitan.

The DA's news release stated that Condon was in uniform and had responded to a request of the restaurant owner to observe an individual acting suspiciously.

After being observed for several minutes by Condon, Shirley left the restaurant, went to his vehicle and returned, whereupon Condon observed him to be carrying a large survival-type knife in his rear pants pocket.

As Shirley was paying for his food, Condon approached the man and asked for identification. Shirley produced the knife and advanced towards Condon with the officer retreating towards the rear of the restaurant.

Condon drew his weapon and repeatedly ordered Shirley to drop the knife, to no avail. Shirley continued to advance upon Condon, who grabbed his right wrist, but Shirley broke free.

Shirley then grabbed at Condon's weapon and at that point the officer fired his weapon three times, striking Shirley in the arm and chest area.

Shirley was transported by ambulance to the Lincoln County Medical Center where he underwent surgery and died on the operating table at approximately 11:30 p.m.

Customers and restaurant personnel provided investigators with statements expressing the belief that Condon acted properly in the performance of his duties and in a manner which was justified.

Thus, the district attorney has closed the case with respect to any criminal prosecution.

Condon has been on administrative leave pursuant to Ruidoso Downs Police Department policy pending the investigation and psychological evaluation provided for all officers involved in shootings.

The officer is expected to return to work within the week.

Sheriff's Posse introduces opera 'Carmen' to Capitan via video

The curtain rang up on the performance of "Carmen" (via video on a life-size screen) in all the splendor, elegance and pathos you expect to see at a grand opera performance, according to a news release.

The opera, presented in Capitan by the Sheriff's Posse of Lincoln County, was sung in French with English subtitles.

"Carmen" was narrated by Bonnie Forlano of the Sheriff's Posse.

The principal character Carmen, the contralto, was a perfect cast for her role — vivacious, fickle, deceitful and definitely not trustworthy — as noted in her flirtatious habenera," reported Forlano in a news release.

"Don Jose, the perfect tenor, threw himself into the passionate aria (La Fleur Que Tu La Montagne) about how he treasured the withered flower that Carmen had tossed from her bosom," she continued.

"Escamillo, the baritone who sings the role of the bullfighter, overwhelmed everyone with his torador song and the love duet with Carmen was so very poignant. Micaela, the soprano also had some stirring arias and duets with Don Jose.

"All of the other characters were well cast in their roles of fortune tellers, inn keepers, mayors, vendors, gypsies, etc. and were in great voice."

After the curtain rang down on the fourth and final act, there weren't many dry eyes, said Forlano.

The matinee was hosted by Mark and Bonnie Forlano at their Ravenswood home. There were two intermissions, at which time the guests relaxed in the banquet hall for refreshments and a lot of opera critique.

The guest list included Sheriff's Posse President and Mrs. James Mataler, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bertramson of Ruidoso Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jones of Alto, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Caster of Ruidoso, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hollingsworth of Ruidoso, Mr. and Mrs. David Boehm and Mrs. Adam, of Ruidoso, the Rev. and Mrs. John Penn of Ruidoso, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith of Alto and Nora Earnest of Ruidoso.

Two hurt in wreck

A Mescalero man and a child were injured Wednesday when the driver lost control of a truck and hit a telephone pole.

According to a report filed by State Police Officer Dennis Bailey, Murray C. Naiche, 21, was driving south on Carrizo Canyon Road at 6:28 p.m. when the 1985 red Ford pickup truck went off the road, ejecting driver and passenger and pinning Naiche against the pole.

The child, who is not identified in the report, may have received head injuries. Both were taken to Lincoln County Medical Center, where they were listed in stable condition.

Naiche was charged with driving while intoxicated aggravated, careless driving, open container in vehicle, lack of child restraint, driving with an expired driver's license and child abuse, third degree.

and the beginning of a child's school career," said Sowder.

Wirth announced that last spring a state grant was given for the Parents As Teachers program (PAT). The program, using regularly scheduled home visits by certified parent educators, helps provide all parents of children, from before birth to age 3, support they need to give their children the best start in life.

Children who were enrolled in the PAT program scored higher on tests while parents reported a gain in confidence of child rearing, studies indicate.

The board also heard a request from High School Principal Ron Hodges that the athletic period be certified as part of the curriculum, and credit be awarded for it.

Asked by board members what the "down side" of such a period might be, Hodges said there was none.

The board approved the request.

Child development board to gather

The New Mexico Child Development Board will hold its regularly scheduled meeting on Thursday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Friday from 8:30 a.m. to noon at the offices of the Dulce Independent Schools in Dulce.

Items on the agenda includes an update on the Partners in Change Project, an update on Operation Jericho (the Child Care campaign and council of chief staff school officers), and update on the budget of the CYFD Office of Child Development for next fiscal year, a revision of the open meeting policy of the CDB Bylaws (indicating the CYFD Public Information Officer will be sending out news releases concerning CDB meetings), the request for reappointment of two board members, and other items.

The Office of Child Development and the Child Development Board was created by the New Mexico Legislature on July 1, 1990 and incorporated into the Children, Youth and Families Department July 1, 1992.

Glencoe fire department asks for loan to buy pumper

Glencoe-Palo Verde Fire Chief Angel Chavez seemed well on his way to convincing Lincoln County Commissioners Tuesday that the county should loan the volunteer department about $50,000 to buy a new four wheel drive pumper.

While commissioners stopped short of approving the loan, they directed County Manager Carolin Cooney to review the possibility and to look for good used equipment from other government agencies.

Chavez and assistant chief Rudy Chavez reported that the money set aside this year for equipment by the department was used to buy extrication tools for accidents. The department also is paying installments on a $130,000 main tanker, but could repay the county for a 580 gallon water and foam brush unit at about $4,000 a year. A previous $10,000 county loan already has been repaid.

Elected trash board debated

Lincoln County voters may decide whether the county's garbage collection is governed by a seven member elected board or will continue under the county Solid Waste Authority.

County Commissioners Tuesday asked their attorney to research the law and determine whether a petition submitted by the commission is enough to schedule a referendum or if it requires a petition signed by voters a percentage of voters.

Commissioner Wilton Howell, who serves as chairman of the authority, a coalition of the county and its five municipalities, said he thinks a board, with members elected from each district would be more efficient and responsive.

"The authority has no authority at all," he told commissioners. "It functions through joint powers agreements. It has no right to cite violators, to stop anyone or to set rates. Every time we do something, we have to go back to each entity. This would take the politics and wearing of different hats out of it."

"My only problem is that this might take away from the final authority of the commission," Commissioner Stirling Spencer said. "I want to make sure we still represent the people and we don't create a pseudo government."

A special district commission would have to conduct public hearings on the issue before a referendum could be scheduled. A sanitation district board would have the power to levy a property tax.

New jailer added to staff

A new jailer will be added to the staff of the Lincoln County detention center in Carrizozo.

County Commissioners approved the addition Tuesday to improve safety at the facility. Last month, an attempted jail break nearly freed an accused murderer temporarily staying at the county jail.

Commissioner Wilton Howell also asked County Manager Carolin Cooney to take a look at using jail trustees to clean up loose trash around dumpsters.

Chairman Monroy Montes said one of his concerns is possible competition with private industry. Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said he was worried about legal liability if one of the inmates injured a civilian.

County stationery declared fair game for commissioners

Criticism aimed at Lincoln County Commissioner Stirling Spencer for using county stationery while running for State Land Commissioner fell flat Tuesday.

Commissioner Wilton Howell called for a written policy. He said commissioners should not use the stationery to state personal opinions, especially when they are candidates.

Spencer defended the action, saying he was representing the concerns of residents when he wrote the governor about reform of the state penal system. Howell countered that Spencer was not as vocal last year when officials from Camp Sierra Blanca took exception to criticism of procedures involving the work release program and prisoner selection. Recently, five inmates escaped from the minimum security prison and one is accused of murdering a local resident.

"Gentlemen, we're in a forced partnership of five commissioners," said Chairman Monroy Montes. "We have no policy in place on how the stationery should be used. I hope the issue can be handled in an administrative capacity through our county manager. I don't feel I have to have the approval of the other commissioners or that their disagreement would stop me from sending a letter (on county letterhead) if I felt it was necessary."

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley agreed. "Our names are on the stationery, at least temporarily," he said. "I feel I have the right as a commissioner. I'm guilty of writing the governor on county stationery. I feel it is a necessary tool to flex our muscles as commissioners. I feel we all have a need for political clout."

"I'll be by your office to pick up a pile," Howell told County Manager Carolin Cooney.

"That's a good idea to do your job as a representative of the people," Spencer shot back.

Sierra Blanca camp getting 'more formal'

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Things have become formal at the Camp Sierra Blanca minimum security prison as a result of a rash of inmate escapes.

In a recent interview, Warden Sandra McFadin said a new more formal procedure is being used to count prisoners and a public address system has been installed at the prison near Fort Stanton.

"We have changed the counting procedure to a more formal approach where prisoners stand by their beds," McFadin said. "With informal counts, we would check them at their job sites."

The informal count still may be used on occasion. "If we can't locate an inmate, instead of wasting time running around trying to find him, we call him over the PA system and he has to respond immediately," McFadin said. "It saves us a lot of time."

Some of the suggestions have come from Major Ralph Lucero, a chief of security for the Penitentiary of New Mexico in Santa Fe.

"He's on loan from the Department of Corrections and has 28 years of experience, most recently with the south unit of the penitentiary," McFadin said. "He's done wonderful things. It's good to get ideas from other institutions. Some times, you can't see the forest for the trees."

Lucero will stay until someone is assigned permanently to the security chief's position, with the rank of captain.

McFadin said she's most excited about the prospect of closing a public road that runs through the prison for access to Bureau of Land Management (BLM) property on the Fort Stanton Reservation.

"We had carloads going through this weekend," she said. "They were whooping and hollering in the backs of pick up trucks. I guess it was homecoming (in Captain). I don't think that's appropriate."

She met with officials from the bureau and is confident by spring the road will be realigned and will no longer cut through the prison.

A security review committee, comprised of wardens from two other prisons and a corrections accreditation auditor from the central office, reviewed the camp layout and procedures for three days last week.

During a visit recently with residents of communities around the prison, Gov. Bruce King said he would look into improved security at the prison, including a fence. That's an approach that McFadin would prefer to avoid, because it changes the nature of the prison, she said.

Other suggestions have included altering the manner in which prisoners are selected for minimum security rehabilitation. McFadin said a new psychological test will be used to detect tendencies toward violence.

Simply eliminating inmates with violent histories is not the answer, she has pointed out. David Michael Crawford, 24, the man accused of the murder of Lincoln resident Clark Pfingsten, had no convictions for violent crimes. He walked away from the camp Aug. 14, with only four months left in his sentence for receiving stolen property, his first felony conviction.

He was apprehended a few days later driving Pfingsten's truck. Roswell police officials say Crawford led them to Pfingsten's body. The elderly man died from wounds suggestive of being run over by a car, according to the medical examiner's report.

About a week later, three more inmates working on a plumbing assignment at the camp drove away from the prison in a truck. They apparently spent hours in the Alto Village subdivision before being spotted by residents and arrested by Lincoln County deputies. Two were serving sentences for crimes involving violence.

The Value of Time

Every year about this time, the crimson four-o'clocks near the yard gate come into full bloom. This year they are especially bright and cheerful.

This American floral favorite is the only flower that I can think of, named for the time of day. It comes into bloom about sunrise, closes up during most of the day and then comes into bloom at four o'clock and stays blooming until a little after sundown.

When you come home at evening time and are welcomed by the cherry-red blooms smiling there by the gate, somehow they speak to you and you are reminded of the time of day an sometimes your mind wanders to the past and to the future as you think about time and what it means.

Toward his later years, Thomas Edison was at a gathering at which he was warned that he was going to be asked some "Tough questions."

Somebody asked him "What is the most valuable thing in the world?"

"Oh that's easy," answered Edison, "time."

To get back to the four o'clocks, they cause you to wonder "What have I done with this day, this valuable day in my life?" Truly for a moment you feel the value of time.

Those great people, the Australians, in their colorful way of speaking, when they disapprove of someone, they will say, "I don't have any time for his type."

Or the other way around, in Brisbane, Australia, an Australian soldier during World War II, told me with a smile, "I have lots of time for you American boys."

During the summer, time seems to stand still, since the days are very much alike. Now very soon, each morning will bring a happy surprise as the days change with the fall, Autumn and Indian summer. So time will seem to move a little more rapidly.

The Best Time of Day

In the early mornings, your "sole rises with the awakening days."

You are reminded of the stirring opening words of the Beloved Welsh song, "Men of Harlech."

Lo the gladsome dawn
Is breaking,
Beauty from her slumbers waking.
It has been said that all the important work of the world is done before nine o'clock in the morning — all the papers signed, all the important appointments made and so on.

What is the best time of day for you?

Each hour of the day has its own special charm. Every hour of the twenty four has its special meaning for us.

Let us be thankful to our Lord for the blessing of each day and all our other many things for which we are deeply grateful.

Motorists traveling to Cloudcroft or other destinations through Lincoln County will have another source for area information if a Convention and Visitors Bureau (CVB) ad hoc Committee has its way.

Meeting Tuesday at Village Hall, the committee discussed the feasibility of establishing a visitors' center, on U. S. Highway 70 or another high-traffic area, and a central system to handle inquiries about convention facilities, Chamber of Commerce activities, visitor accommodations and tourism events.

Attending the meeting was Mayor Jerry Shaw, Village Manager Gary Jackson, and Chamber Executive Director Joan Bailey, along with Giddings Brown, manager of the Swiss Chalet; Bill Chance, Otero County Electric Co-Op representative; Bill Hirschfeld, with Realty Services; and McGary Studios Public Relations Director, Joan Keimann.

According to Jackson, funding will critical to the project. State Rep. H. John Underwood will attend the next meeting to discuss funding possibilities.

Also considered was the impact on the lodgers tax, and use of technology including central call switching and computer linkages among the various tourism, promotional, convention, and area information services.

The next CVB ad hoc committee meeting is at 3 p.m. on Oct. 4. The public may attend.

Warriors host 'perfect' Tularosa at Homecoming

by KENT BEATTY

The News Sports Correspondent

The Ruidoso Warriors will face the undefeated Tularosa Wildcats in the annual homecoming game Friday night at W.D. Horton Stadium. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The Warriors, still smarting from a good old-fashioned woodshed whipping administered by the Robertson Cardinals last week, find themselves facing another team with an unblemished record.

The Wildcats are a perfect 3-0 after posting wins over Cloudford, Hatch and Santa Rosa. While those teams are all smaller schools, Tularosa has proved its record is for real by dominating Cloudford (30-0) and Hatch (35-0), and squeaking by Santa Rosa, last years AA State Champions, 13-6.

Tularosa and Santa Rosa, perhaps the best two teams in class AA, battled virtually even for 48 minutes. Only a blocked punt by the Wildcats separated the two teams.

Unlike Tularosa, the Warriors are trying to regain their sea-legs after Robertson's offensive clinic last week. Ruidoso was just briefly in the game with the Cardinals, who ran, passed and kicked their way to a 29-6 victory over a flat, lethargic Warrior team.

Ruidoso passed the ball with some efficiency against Las Vegas, but the running game was anemic, and the defense was a no show.

Warrior Head Coach Les Carter has some concerns.

"We just weren't ready to play last week... I don't know why. I do know that I think Tularosa is a better team than Robertson. We'd better get ready to hit somebody or (Tularosa) will be just like Robertson," said Carter.

The Warriors haven't started out like last week however. According to the coaching staff, last week's practices were awful. This week may be different as the Warriors have put together three great practice sessions. Maybe the team got a wake up call.

According to Carter, the Warriors will need more than an alarm going off to beat Tularosa.

"They have excellent backs and a good quarterback. Their line is active and tough. This will be a very good game and we will have to play our best to win. But, I know our kids are capable. I also know that they think they can win, and that is probably their biggest asset," said Carter.

RHS Soccer pace continues

The Warrior Soccer team continued its torrid pace Saturday with its third game in five days — a 4-3 loss to district foe Santa Teresa, on the road.

Ruidoso played Goddard last Tuesday, Belen on Thursday and travelled to Santa Teresa Saturday, which is a brutal schedule for a soccer team.

Ruidoso got an early lead, but the Desert Warriors tied it up and then went ahead on a controversial penalty kick. The call and kick seemed to take the wind out of the Warriors' sails and Santa Teresa made another goal to go ahead 3-1.

The fourth quarter saw Ruidoso score two goals in the span of just over three minutes, and it was on to overtime. But again, fatigue seemed to set in, and Ruidoso could not keep Santa Teresa from scoring in the Shootout.

The Warriors got goals from Piper Adamina, Leaf Anderson and Danny Schrader, who is still shaky from a knee injury.

Ruidoso got two days rest after Santa Teresa and travelled to Socorro Tuesday for a rematch of a game two weeks ago.

Cyclists touring Ruidoso region

Twenty-one bicyclists, members of the Bicycle Adventure Club, will be touring in and around the Ruidoso area through Saturday.

Cycling enthusiasts from Mexico as well as New Mexico, California, Colorado, Maryland and Michigan are riding the "Mescalero Apache Land Tour."

These two teams had a whale of a battle last year. The Warriors finally won the game with some fourth-quarter heroics.

Ruidoso, like last year, is at a crossroads. A backward step this week could mean a tough recovery. A win could catapult the team to a winning season — and that hasn't happened since 1989.

Ruidoso again beat Socorro to move to 4-2 on the season.

Adamian scored twice for Ruidoso, while Anderson, Jimmy Stover, Schrader and Beau Jarvis also hit shots for the local cause.

Head Coach Dean Hood was glad to get back into the win column.

"Socorro has really improved since the first time we played them...the program is really coming around. Our kids played very well,

Informal revenge for boys golfers

The RHS boys golf team got a little revenge on Grants, the defending State Golf Champions, last Sunday. The Warriors and Pirates met in an informal "get-together" at Grants' Coyote del Malpais Golf Course, the city's new multi-million dollar golf facility.

Ruidoso defeated the Pirates 321-343 over their home course, while being paced by a pair of 77s posted by Scott Christensen and Goddard-transfer Chad Collins.

maybe their best game of the year.

"We passed and moved the ball, but our shots are still not very good. We had 40 shots on goal to their 15, so we still have to work on that before next game," said Hood.

The Warriors will travel to Roswell for a 1 p.m. game with NMMI on Saturday. The Colts beat Roswell High 3-0 last week, so the Warriors again look to have their hands full.

Double-bill today

Ruidoso's W.D. Horton Stadium will be the site of a football double-header today as the Middle School Braves meet Moriarty at 4 p.m. and the Warrior Freshmen square off against Fortales at 6 p.m.

The Braves and Moriarty have had great battles over the past two seasons. The Fortales took last year's game 22-15 and the Braves won in double overtime the previous year.

This year's squad is 1-1 after losing to Alamogordo on opening day and smashing Dexter last 6 to Socorro, last week. Both games were on the road.

Head Coach Boris Williams is optimistic about this year's squad.

"This bunch of kids is one of the best ones I've had. We're really deep at the skill positions and our line play has really come along. We're looking at a very good season," said Williams.

The Freshmen Warriors are 0-2 on the season, losing 20-0 to Alamogordo two weeks ago and 14-6 to Socorro, last week. Both games were on the road.

Tigers trample homecoming foes

The Capitan Tigers trampled Estancia 24-6 Friday, delivering a strong win to an enthusiastic homecoming crowd.

During half time, Jessica Cline was crowned homecoming queen and J.P. Whipple was named king. Other members of their court were freshmen Coye Robbins and Tim McGarvey, sophomores Joni Autrey and Jeff White, juniors Jaylen Ware and Neil Montes and seniors Tracy and Troy Stone and Amy Cline and Michael Fish.

This was the third win of a no-loss season for the Tigers, but not every move was smooth. Thirty-two of Capitan's points were called back from penalties.

On the plus side, the Tigers chalked up 136 yards rushing, with Fish accounting for 104 of those yards as the key offensive player.

Capitan also notched 177 yards with two touchdowns on passes from Fish to Ernie Trujillo and Vincente Lopez. Fish also scored a touchdown on an option play.

The Tigers ended the game with 14 first and 10s, compared to Estancia's four.

On the defensive side, Capitan's line put on a tremendous performance holding Estancia to only six points off a fumble from Fish on the opening kickoff. The Tigers kept their opponents from moving, with only 46 yards rushing and no yards passing. J.P. Whipple was named the key defensive player.

Volleyball victories

The Capitan Tiger varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams battled balls against the Melrose Buffaloes Saturday.

The junior varsity posted two quick wins, both 15-10. Joni Autrey started off the junior varsity game serving and scored three points out of the gate.

In the second game, Andi Griego scored the first eight points serving and finished the game on her final serve.

Varsity players then plunged into their season starter against Melrose, emerging victorious with three games out of five.

The starters were Catherine Sidwell, Stacie Sidwell, Sheryl Dockery, Jessica Cline, Andra Fish and Elaine Pichilani, a foreign exchange student from Brazil.

Melrose beat Capitan in the first game 15-13. The Tigers rallied to win the second and third games, 15-7 and 15-13. Melrose fought back to take the fourth game 15-10, but the Tigers won the final game 15-11.

The final point was awarded to Capitan, because the Melrose coach called an illegal time out.

(Capitan sports reporters Klay Jones and Heather Wooddell from the district's gifted program contributed to this story.)

'Robo-Warden' alive and watching hunters

by BEN HANSON
Dept. of Game & Fish

I sit waiting in the darkness with a radio, video camera and a remote control unit. Across the road waiting also is my companion, "Robo-Warden." I know the cold and wind aren't bothering him, he's just a deer decoy, but it sure is bothering me. Well, the good thing is it probably won't be a long wait, at least not usually.

I hear a vehicle coming down the road and soon see the headlights filtering through the trees. I get everything turned on and ready. The vehicle approaches and it's time for Robo to take over. The headlights of the vehicle light up his eyes and almost immediately comes the sound of squealing tires. The vehicle backs up and its headlights shine directly on Robo. I twist the remote control slightly and Robo's head turns away, then swings back directly into the headlights. I call on the radio to other officers waiting in their units that the vehicle is stopped. We wait.

The driver's side door swings open and the interior lights come on. The sound of the shot is deafening in the dark night. I'm close enough to hear the bolt work on the rifle and hear the spent case hit the pavement. The second shot doesn't startle me quite as bad as the first. I call on the radio that we have shots fired and waiting officers gun their engines and head for the site.

The poacher figures it out when the deer doesn't fall and the tires squeal once again as he tries to make his getaway. He doesn't get far though before being stopped by the flashing lights of a patrol vehicle. The driver and passenger are ordered from the vehicle, handcuffed and searched for weapons. They don't even ask why.

This scene is just one of several such incidents that occurred during last year's deer seasons and will undoubtedly be repeated this year.

The use of the deer decoy by conservation officers is putting a bite in the ranks of the night hunter. The poacher that hunts, not with stealth, but with a blinding light.

There is some good news brought about by the use of our decoy deer. The word is getting around and fewer people are being apprehended shooting at our decoy. This was the goal when the program started to save our deer from poachers. From all indications the number of deer being killed at night is being drastically reduced by the use of the decoy.

Use of the decoy, combined with a law calling for the forfeiture of vehicles used by night hunters has had an effect. The possibility of losing a $15,000 automobile will make anyone think twice before shooting. Remember that during this year's deer seasons. The deer you're shooting at after dark may just be Robo Warden.

Indian arts sell well at State Fair

Macy's or Gimbel's never had a sale open any better than the first day at the State Fair's Indian Arts Building, where buyers were lined up for the door to open.

Before the day was over, more than $50,000 worth of American Indian arts and crafts had been sold—about equal to total sales in 1990 and 1991, according to Dee Vigil, director for the past six years.

All the "best of show" in every class except one was rung up. Along with them went many other ribbon winners, including oil and watercolor paintings.

A Columbus, Ohio buyer, Kenneth Showe, was the single biggest purchaser, leaving with $12,000 worth of rugs and $2,000 worth of silver.

Senior driving classes planned

Drivers who are over 55 and wish to brush up skills may take part in a two-day "55 Alive/Mature Driving" course here Sept. 27-28.

Sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons, the course will be conducted at the Ruidoso Women's Club, 111 South Evergreen St. by trained volunteer instructors Wayne and Mollie Mason.

Registration will close on Sept. 24. A fee is charged. More information and an application blank is available from the instructors, Box 100, Capitán. Phone 354-2666.

School-to-work transition meeting set for Sept. 21

A meeting to brief the public about a program to help students successfully completed the transition from school to work force is set for 9 a.m., Sept. 21 in the Ruidoso School Board room on Horton Circle.

Kathy Smith, chairperson of the New Mexico School and Work Transition Committee, will head the meeting. Area employers are urged to attend. Others expected include representatives from the seven school boards within the Region IX Cooperative Education District, from chambers of commerce, post secondary institutions, the state and federal labor departments, state vocational rehabilitation division and the Mescalero Reservation.

Appointments announced for village arts and film group

Mayor Jerry Shaw announced her selections Tuesday for the newly formed Ruidoso Arts and Film Board. The village council will confirm those nominees at the next regular meeting in two weeks.

Actor Richard Farnsworth, philanthropist and performing arts theater backer Jackie Spencer and artist Gary Morton, who sits on the state arts board, will be ex-officio members.

Regular members will be Museum of the Horse director Jay Wright, performing arts center representative Bryan Seale, community concert connection Bob Rowe, film industry site promoter Stan Monks, local theater contact Sandra Weber, photographer Bruce McElyea and Danny Flores, who has connections to the school music departments and to the Roswell Symphony Orchestra.

Trash-burning ordinance gets approval for Ruidoso Downs

by DON HIXON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso Downs residents will be unable to burn trash or their land in the future, the result of a no-burn ordinance passed by the Village Council at its regular meeting Monday night.

The ordinance will take effect on Oct. 1, said Leann Weibrecht, village clerk/treasurer.

Violators of the ordinance, which makes it unlawful for burning of any kind to occur within the village, could face a misdemeanor charge and a $300 fine and/or 90 days in jail.

Joan Bailey, director of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce, gave the council a quarterly report on chamber activities.

Bailey said state-wide tourism was down slightly from last year while the Ruidoso area experienced some slight growth.

Ruidoso's new convention center also was mentioned. "What is growing and will soon impact our area," said Bailey, "is the convention center."

She commented that Ruidoso Mayor Jerry Shaw recently announced that ground-breaking is planned soon for a $15 million convention hotel facility.

"Those convention people are not just going to stay up at the convention area," said Bailey, "they're going to want to go out and see and do everything, and so we are all going to benefit."

In other business, the council approved the use of severance tax money to purchase a police department console radio and furniture and a new computer system for Village Hall.

Little Theater's new home requires big committment

by RICHARD CONE
For the Ruidoso Little Theater

Ruidoso Little Theater finally has a permanent home next to the post office on Sudderth Drive—this after 14 years of having to function at a variety of locations throughout the community.

In order to have a home for the consolidation of storage for costumes, furniture, props, lighting equipment, sound equipment, stage construction materials, and for readings, rehearsals and performances, the little theater had to make a committment to accept an overhead cost of some $25,000 per year. That includes the costs of producing four plays for the year, plus such things as rent and utilities.

For RLT to cover the annual cost, ticket sales for nine performances of each play must exceed 80 tickets sold at $7 per ticket. This will bring in approximately $20,000. The balance of monies needed, RLT will work to continue to receive from businesses that purchase advertisements in the play programs and the all-important donations. Monies in addition will be used to upgrade the theater.

Prior to a season of four plays, script reading is necessary to select the plays that RLT can produce, and hundreds of contacts must be made to obtain advertisements and donations for the programs. This must then be assembled for the printer.

For each play, readings are held

Going for 'Betty' adds to the thrill

The "Betty Awards" are held at the end of each season in early December. Entertainment and awards for best play, actress, actor, director, supporting roles, and other services are provided.

Season ticket holders are assured attendance by phone reservation. Dinner is optional at added expense. The "Betty Awards" was named after Betty Bennet, founder of RLT.

It's billed as a fun and enjoyable evening, with lots of...ham.

by the director and assistants to select actresses and actors. Other directors, managers and assistants are obtained for stage direction, props, lighting, sound, costumes, make-up, copy for radio, newspaper and program use, layout for posters, cleaning, design and the building of the set and tearing down after each play, contacts with publicity materials, photography, distribution of posters...

This is all done by volunteers, hundreds of hours consisting of quantities of people no cost to RLT.

For each play, this takes eight weeks of preparation, and the 12 board members are constantly involved. During this period, there are approximately 21 rehearsals.

Think about it, RLT must begin the 1995 season with advance sales of about 670 season tickets, and advance purchase will assure seats for each of four plays and the "Betty Awards." RLT believes that with advanced sales for 1995, beginning now, it can reach its goal and in two or three years, RLT will be pre-sold-out annually.

Mystery awaits your presence

Editorial

If you can keep your head, while others...

Anyone who's lived through the abrupt transition from Labor Day to the next day in Ruidoso knows what change is all about.

Suddenly, only a couple of four-bys wait at the light. Suddenly, orange barrels blossom where visitors trod, and such as are left find it hard to negotiate the maze, and it's even tougher for those merchants on the wrong side of the street.

Abruptly, familiar faces — well, familiar for a few months — aren't around, and lots of doors are closed while shopkeepers take their own vacations and plan new strategies for different customers. Yep, night-time temperatures are sliding into the 30s...and can snow be far behind?

Seasonal changes are benign, of course. Social change, institutional change, system change is something else. In many instances, for many people, the first reaction to change is fear.

In the business world, change often is spelled "competition," and the established firm must look sharp to protect market share. The extra-special established firm will recognize change as opportunity, and go for it.

Even more fearful than change is the rumor of change. We all fear the unknown. After it's known, we can judge and react.

All of which means, in the rampant rumor mill sometimes called Ruidoso, it's a wise soul who waits for the facts before jumping off the cliff...somebody just might be rigging a safety net.

Eagle Creek rooted in history

TO THE EDITOR:

Re: Story in the Sept. 8, issue of The Ruidoso News - "Water holds the key to area's growth"

The referenced story has a few mis-statements, but is accurate overall. A few details need to be corrected and added. When I use the term "Eagle Creek Association" or the "association", I mean the Eagle Creek Inter-community Water Supply Association, Inc.

At Alto Reservoir, the plan is to build an outlet tower so that water can be taken at different depths. At present, raw water can be taken only at one point from the reservoir — off the bottom.

Silt is to be removed from Alto Reservoir to regain storage capacity which has been lost due to sedimentation and bank erosion.

There is no plan to "...to reconstruct the pipeline from the point of diversion...". The plan is to rebuild the intake works at the point of diversion to make it more efficient. The pipeline from the point of diversion to Alto Reservoir was rebuilt in the late 1960s.

The Farmers Home Administration (actually the Rural Development Administration, or RDA) does not want the "...villages to pledge their water rights". Farmers Home wants the Eagle Creek Association to pledge its water rights. The Eagle Creek Board of Directors cannot make any commitments as to the water rights of Capitan and Ruidoso.

My father, Dan Swearingen, did not go to Santa Fe to negotiate with the railroad. James Earl Harcrow, representing Capitan; Dan Swearingen, representing Ruidoso; Frank Boyce, attorney for the Eagle Creek Association; and several representatives of the State of New Mexico went to San Francisco to negotiate with the railroad. The state sent representatives because the state hospital at Fort Stanton was to be a member of the association.

The association did not build the pipeline "...to the Bonito pipeline."

Capitan built the pipelines from their filter plant to the Alamogordo pipeline (the former railroad pipeline from Bonito Lake).

I trust that Mrs. Stallings will write at least one follow-up story after interviewing those former Eagle Creek Association board members still living. Those men made enormous contributions of their time, skills, and efforts.

Without them, this area of the state could not have grown as it has.

All of us owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to who saw the association through those very difficult first years.

D.D. Swearingen

Ruidoso

P.S. Directors of the Eagle Creek Association receive no compensation for their services.

A kind word for the cops

TO THE EDITOR:

With all the current events that have taken place in Lincoln County, the last few months, I feel that it is appropriate to take a few minutes and think of all the law enforcement officers.

Being a resident of a small community, Ruidoso Downs, I have become acquainted with many of the police officers. It really hits home when you get to meet them and realize that they are everyday people.

The officers have to make decisions in a split second. The decision they make will not only affect us, but also will affect them and their personal lives forever. It is a shame that most people look to professional sports figures for a "Hero," when we are surrounded by them. As residents of Lincoln County, I feel like we need to be supportive of all our Law Enforcement Agencies. Each night before I go to bed, I say a small prayer for my "Guardian Angels."

Sincerely,

Tennie M. Swanner

Words of Wisdom

Small tumors can be detected

by DONALD A. WOLFEL, MD
Department of Radiology
Lincoln Co. Medical Center

The incidence of breast cancer has increased during the past 15 years, although the death rate has not changed. It is estimated that one in nine women will suffer the disease during their lifetime. Breast cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer in female patients in the United States and the second leading cause of death from cancer.

Death from cardiovascular and cerebral vascular disease is ten times more common in females than is death from breast cancer. Major risk factors in this disease are positive family history (first degree relatives), early onset of menstruation (menarche) and late first child birth.

Physical examination and mammography are the usual methods of detection; yearly physical examination by a physician and monthly self-examinations are recommended. Mammography is useful in detecting very early nonpalpable tumors, although it is not 100 percent accurate in detecting all breast cancers. Mammography screening seems to be having a positive effect on breast cancer mortality, particularly in the 50-69 year-old age group.

In the 40-49 age group, there is controversy regarding screening, although most medical organizations support this concept. It is difficult to obtain randomized controlled studies with large numbers of patients followed for 20 years, this being essential in obtaining accurate data on the efficacy of mammography.

Worldwide data thus far would suggest that physical examination plus mammographic screening is reducing the disease burden from breast cancer by reducing both morbidity and mortality. In our small series of breast cancers seen at LCMC over the past two years, two-thirds were small tumors, detectable only by mammography.

The screening recommendations (unless clinical factors deem differently) are as follows:

One mammogram before age 40.

Mammogram at 1-2 year intervals between ages 40-50.

Annual mammogram over 50.

Women are encouraged to avail themselves to this mammogram program; it is not restricted to patients having their first mammogram, but is open to patients having annual studies.

The Light of Day

At last, a political certainty

by TOM DAY

Sunmount Syndicate

SANTA FE—Well, now it's official: no matter what ticket wins the governor's office in November, either the governor or lieutenant governor, conceivably both, will have smoked marijuana.

Now we know that, the question is: What do we know?

Bill Clinton's marijuana use became an issue mainly because he couldn't summon the courage to admit it, claiming he hadn't inhaled. We learned from Clinton's answer that he only told the truth when he couldn't think of anything else to say.

Gary Johnson, showing better sense and more political savvy, tried to turn his marijuana use into a quip. When asked by an alert TV interviewer, "Did you inhale?", Johnson replied, "I haven't exhaled." He quickly added that he was joking.

The Democrats jumped on Johnson's case after the Republican candidate admitted to both marijuana and cocaine experimentation in the early 1970s.

The Democrats' self righteousness was deflated when Patricia Madrid, Gov. Bruce King's running mate, acknowledged that she had "indulged lightly" in marijuana as a college student at the University of New Mexico in the 1960s.

Both members of the Great Party ticket, Roberto Mondragon and Steven Schmidt, have allowed as how they also know the effects of marijuana first hand.

Walter Bradley, a Clovis real estate broker running for lieutenant governor on the GOP ticket, has said he's never tried any illegal drugs.

The Democrats, presumably, would dearly love to have someone come forward and swear that Johnson had used cocaine more recently than the 1970s. In the absence of any such affidavit, however, even the issues of cocaine usage, a seriously harmful drug, will likely just wait away.

For one thing, someone looking for a job, or worried about health care, doesn't really care if a candidate got high during some weekend 20 years ago when he should have been studying for a world history final at UNM. For another, a remarkable number of citizens would be able to tell Clinton what it feels like to inhale. If smoking marijuana is a sin, it is one of those widely practiced ones.

No one, by the way, has come forward to say they recall sharing a joint with Bruce King. Come to think of it, anyone who has such a recollection would be better advised to take the story to Believe It Or Not.

In the drug-free (isn't it?) race for the U.S. Senate, Republican candidate Colin McMillan has brought his east-side, down-home, good-old-boy twang to bear against incumbent Democrat Jeff Bingaman.

As the McMillan campaign evidently sees things, the campaign pits McMillan, the country boy whom you're likely to meet at a local cafe on weekday mornings, against Bingaman, the faithful member of the Eastern Establishment who has sunk so low that even he hangs out with people like Bill Clinton and Teddy Kennedy.

McMillan drove the point home while claiming that Bingaman hired private investigators to look into McMillan's business dealings. (Bingaman denied it, saying researchers, not investigators, were hired, and the information they got came from records open to the public.)

McMillan, at any rate, gave the unkindest cut of all when he revealed that the so-called investigators weren't even from New Mexico. They were from New Jersey.

Rain doesn't hamper big open-house for new Sierra Vista Primary School

by DON HIXON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Rain was an uninvited guest at the Sierra Vista Primary School open house Sunday afternoon.

More than 150 school officials, project participants, and visitors grabbed chairs from the new school grounds and headed indoors to the multi-purpose room where introductions and awards took place.

Mike Gladden, superintendent of schools, introduced Principal Don Weems, School Board President Ronnie Hemphill and board member Susan Lutterman.

Weems, Hemphill and Lutterman presented certificates of appreciation to faculty and school board members as well as those involved in the construction and maintenance of the new school.

"We are still going through a transition," said Weems. "We're still putting up playground equipment, but we are 95 percent done."

Also receiving certificates of appreciation were members of the building commission.

According to Gladden, commission members visited other schools around the state and worked with project architect Scott Stafford to come up with plans for the school.

Members of the Blue Ribbon Commission also were presented with certificates.

Special recognition was given to contractor Ron Ward of Ray Ward and Sons, and project supervisor Ken McMurry received a standing ovation when he was given his certificate.

One highlight of the open house was the awarding of a special plaque to 5th grade student Matthew Edwards, whose entry was selected in a contest to name the school.

Sierra Vista Primary School now serves about 375 first and second grade students. Its construction allowed completion of a realignment of grades in the area.

Third and fourth graders now attend White Mountain Elementary and White Mountain Intermediate has the fifth and sixth graders.

Seventh and eighth graders attend Ruidoso Middle School.

After the awards presentation, visitors enjoyed refreshments and toured the new facility, visiting classrooms and teachers.

Center honors Mescalero doctor

A red satin jacket and an award plaque were presented to a surprised doctor by the Ruidoso Care Center on Sept. 7 in a special noon ceremony at K-Bob's Steakhouse.

Dr. Charlton Wilson, on the staff of the Mescalero Indian Hospital, received a monogrammed red satin jacket and the "VIP of the Quarter" award, in appreciation for his help with care center patients.

Dr. Wilson is a doctor with the U.S. Public Health Indian Health Service Division. He has worked at the Mescalero facility for more than four years.

"The hospital is a very challenging place to work. I've been professionally challenged and I find the work very interesting," said Dr. Wilson.

He received his medical training at the University of Texas at Houston and residency training at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, Md., where he also was a faculty member for a year after his residency was completed.

The hospital is located on the Mescalero Reservation and has a staff of five full-time doctors and 20 nurses. The hospital is open 24 hours a day, year-round.

"The biggest thing we are trying to do for the Mescalero community is to provide a hospital that they can be proud of," said Dr. Wilson, "and a place where they can get the very best care."

According to Dr. Wilson, one mission of the hospital is to address certain conditions unique to the Mescalero area. Diabetes, for example, is five to six times more prevalent among native Americans than other ethnic groups.

"We provide education about diabetes and diabetes prevention, alcohol and drug abuse, injury prevention and weight control," Dr. Wilson said. "We also provide prenatal care and pregnancy education."

The hospital also houses a busy out-patient clinic for the community, he said.

Dr. Wilson makes periodic visits to the Ruidoso Care Center to look in on an elderly couple who recently moved from the reservation.

"They are a great couple," said Dr. Wilson, "and seem to be making the adjustment very well."

Dr. Wilson said he and the other doctors and staff at the Mescalero hospital look forward to continuing to provide patients with the most modern treatment and education programs available.

A touch of Spain tunes up your diet

by DEL SALAI
American Culinary Federation

In the last few years, nutritionists and others in the know, including thousands of chefs, have come to concentrate on the Mediterranean diet as a healthful way of eating well and pleasing customers in the bargain. Now we may have it right, as the Mediterranean people have for centuries enjoyed a life style that includes living well, longer and healthier than many other peoples of the world.

Those in Spain are a perfect example of a people who ascribe to the Mediterranean diet with gusto. At its most basic, the diet combines a heavy use of grains, as in pasta, rice and bread made simply without a lot of shortening; sparing use of animal fats; little alcohol other than wine with meals; fewer meats and dairy foods; and less sugars. Instead, plenty of good extra-virgin olive oil, lots of fresh fruit and vegetables and garlic by the head are front and center.

Spain, unlike many other European countries, has vastly diverse cuisines. This came about from three primary forces: the diversity of the people and conquerors who stayed; the variety of new foods introduced from the new world and through the spice trade; and the bounty gleaned from the land and surrounding seas.

Because of this, Spain is rightly called "The market garden of Europe." It is also a major importer of foods into the United States; almost all canned pimientos, artichokes and olives come from Spain.

For Cliff Richardson, This Short Ride is Nothing Short of a Miracle.

Cliff Richardson, now 70 years young, still rides tall in the saddle on his 4,200 acre ranch. But three years ago, Cliff Richardson wasn't sure if he'd ever ride again. He suffered a massive stroke and was admitted to HEALTHSOUTH Rehabilitation Hospital for intensive treatment. "I couldn't even walk when I got there," remembers Cliff.

The experienced staff of doctors and therapists at HEALTHSOUTH patiently worked with him for five weeks. It wasn't easy, and there were times when Cliff just wanted to give up. He didn't, of course. And HEALTHSOUTH never gave up on him.

At HEALTHSOUTH, we combine the latest in technology and treatment with caring, knowledgeable medical personnel to help people recover from strokes and traumatic disabilities.

And sometimes the results are nothing short of miraculous. Just ask Cliff Richardson.

NOTICE OF HEARING AND PROCEDURAL ORDER

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on September 1, 1994, GTE Southwest, Inc. and ConTel of the West (collectively referred to as "GTE") filed an Application with the New Mexico State Corporation Commission ("Commission") to restructure and merge the rates and tariffs of the two companies and requesting that the Commission review the fairness and reasonableness of the rates and charges of the companies on a merged operational basis. The Application requests approval of a merged revenue requirement of $45,497,698, a return on equity of 13.70%, and an overall cost of capital of 11.166%. The Application includes the supporting testimony of six witnesses and certain workpapers and exhibits.

GTE's Application was filed in accordance with its February 15, 1994 Stipulation in Docket No. 90-86-TC, which the Commission approved in relevant part by an order of March 28, 1994 in the same docket. As provided by the Stipulation, the proceeding in this docket that was initiated by the September 1st Application shall be bifurcated into a revenue requirement phase ("Phase I") and a rate design phase ("Phase II").

GTE's September 1st filing relates to Phase I. Phase II shall commence after the Commission's entry of an order for Phase I and upon GTE's filing of its direct testimony relating to rate design. Under the terms of GTE's Application and waiver, the Commission has until March 31, 1995 to issue an order concerning Phase I.

GTE does not propose to adjust its rates during the pendency of Phase II. GTE has proposed that, although the effective date of the proposed changes shall be the date of the Order entered in Phase I, any rate increase or decrease shall be deferred until the conclusion of Phase II of the proceeding.

More specifically, GTE has proposed that, at the conclusion of Phase II, all rate changes shall be billed on a going-forward basis. Further, GTE has proposed that any rate decreases or increases accumulating during the pendency of Phase II should be effected through either a surcharge or credit, whichever is applicable. With regard to non-recurring revenue items (primarily those related to usage-based elements such as toll, access and local usage revenues), GTE has proposed that the distribution of any appropriately identified surcharge or credit need not be directly tied to actual individual customers' usage incurred during the pendency of Phase II. GTE has proposed that a distribution method affecting the appropriate surcharges or credits for usage-based revenues be developed as part of the Phase II proposal.

IT IS, THEREFORE, ORDERED:

1. On or before October 18, 1994, any party desiring to intervene and become a party to this proceeding shall file in the above-captioned docket, and serve upon GTE and all parties of record, a Motion to Intervene as provided by the Commission's Rules of Procedure. All motions to intervene shall specify whether the prospective intervenor intends to participate in Phase I of the proceeding, Phase II of the proceeding, or both phases.
2. A prehearing conference shall be held on October 24, 1994 at 10:00 a.m. in the Commission Hearing Room, Fourth Floor, PERA Building, Corner of Paseo de Peralta and Old Santa Fe Trail, Santa Fe, New Mexico.
3. Intervenor's direct testimony for Phase I on or before November 1, 1994.
4. Commission Staff ("Staff") shall file its direct testimony for Phase I on or before November 30, 1994.

5. GTE shall file its rebuttal testimony for Phase I on or before January 6, 1995.

6. A public hearing on the merits of Phase I of the proceeding shall be held commencing on January 23, 1995, at 9:30 a.m., in the Commission Hearing Room, Fourth Floor, PERA Building, Corner of Paseo de Peralta and Old Santa Fe Trail, Santa Fe, New Mexico. The hearing shall continue until completed, although the parties currently anticipate that the hearing will continue through January 27, 1995. The Commission will entertain public comments at the hearing.

7. GTE shall publish a copy of this Notice and Procedural Order no later than September 18, 1994, in the Albuquerque Journal and in each of the other newspapers serving GTE's operating territory. GTE shall provide the Commission with proof of said publications.

8. GTE shall include inserts in its bills for the October billing cycle that describe the proceeding in this docket, including hearing dates. GTE shall develop the wording of the bill insert in conjunction with Staff and the Intervenor Attorney General.

9. The Commission Staff shall mail this Notice of Hearing and Procedural Order to the Commission's telecommunications mailing list and provide the Commission with a certificate of such mailing.

10. The following procedural schedule shall apply to Phase II of the proceeding:

A. GTE's direct testimony for Phase II is due 30 days from the date of the Commission's Phase I Order;

B. Intervenor's direct testimony for Phase II is due 60 days from the date of the Commission's Phase I Order;

C. Staff's direct testimony for Phase II is due 105 days from the date of the Commission's Phase I Order;

D. GTE's rebuttal testimony for Phase II is due 135 days from the date of the Commission's Phase I Order;

E. A hearing on the merits of Phase II of the proceeding shall commence 180 days from the date of the Commission's Phase I Order, at 9:30 a.m., in the Commission Hearing Room, Fourth Floor, PERA Building, Corner of Paseo de Peralta and Old Santa Fe Trail, Santa Fe, New Mexico and shall continue until completed;

F. Following the issuance of the Phase I Order, GTE shall publish such further notice of the date and time of the Phase II hearing on the merits as the Commission may direct.

11. The above schedule for Phase II is based upon the Commission's understanding that the Commission's six-month timeframe for issuing a decision for Phase II starts upon the filing of GTE's direct testimony for Phase II. If GTE does not share this understanding, it shall notify the Commission immediately.

12. Individuals with a disability who are in need of a reader, amplifier, qualified sign language interpreter, or any other form of auxiliary aid or service to attend or participate in the Phase I hearing, may contact Mr. Ken Solomon, Acting Telecommunications Director, by January 18, 1995, at (505) 827-4495. Public documents associated with the hearing can be provided in various accessible forms for disabled individuals. Requests for summaries or other types of accessible forms also should be addressed to Mr. Solomon.
