Candidates will continue quests

Candidates for the March 1 municipal election will get another shot this week at convincing voters to support them. The Ruidoso Woman's Club is sponsoring a coffee for candidates at 9:30 a.m. Friday, February 25, in the Woman's Club building. Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs candidates have been invited. The public is welcome.

Watch for more on MainStreet history

Good things are worth the wait, and that's certainly true of the next segment of The Ruidoso News' series on MainStreet Ruidoso. Due to the extensive coverage of The Ruidoso News candidate forum, the next part in the MainStreet series will be published Thursday instead of today. The first installment of the series on MainStreet's history was printed last Thursday, and the second installment is scheduled for Thursday, February 24. Meanwhile, read all about the candidates forum in today's edition. Watch for our election special to be published on Thursday, February 24.

County & Ruidoso rake in state funds

Before shutting down Friday, the State Legislature allocated $90,000 toward a major street improvement project in Capitán. The village had requested $226,000 for seven miles of work. "You don't expect all of what you request, but with $90,000 from the Senate and a match from the House, it will be a lot more than we've ever gotten before," Capitán Mayor Frank Warth said Monday. The Village of Ruidoso also fared well. The House allocated a whopping $470,000 for the Grindstone Canyon/water distribution project and the Senate kicked in another $100,000.

Firefighters cooperate to quell blaze

A fire swept across the parched foothills and mountains around Hondo Friday, charring 2,120 acres. The blaze united firefighters from across Lincoln County, who doused, beat and buried the flames for nearly 24 hours before pronouncing the fire under control. "It started on the highway," said county manager Andy Wynham, a volunteer firefighter with the Carizozo Fire Department. "Someone saw it when it was a two-foot circle of flames and in a moment, with the strong winds, it blew up and

Ruidoso candidates make a pitch to voters

Surprises and emotions emerged as candidates spoke off the cuff, with prepared statements or even in song at the The Ruidoso News candidate forum in the Civic Events Center last Thursday. Each of the 18 candidates were given three minutes by moderator and local attorney Don Dutton. In addition to introducing each candidate, Dutton asked questions from cards written by the more than 100 residents and visitors attending. Representatives of sponsor The Ruidoso News chose not to ask any questions of the candidates that night.

The top job

Incumbent Mayor Jerry Shaw is a retired businesswoman running in the March 1 municipal election to continue the change in direction and growth that Ruidoso has experienced since her appointment as mayor six months ago. Her main issues, she said, are "water, water, water," the compliance of municipal buildings with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), senior citizen services and the waste water treatment plant. "I was appointed mayor last July and when I took that appointment, I gave up the two more years I would have had on the council in my term," Shaw said. "My opponent, Councilor (Frank) Cummins, has another option. He's running for mayor, but if he loses, he will still serve on the council.

"I chose to take that chance, because I felt it was important to have someone take the appointment who knew what our issues were and the ongoing things that were happening; and because I believed I could make a difference. "Some people didn't think so, simply because I am a woman. It was pointed out to me that I am the only woman sitting up here. I hadn't noticed, because I didn't look down the line. I look in the audience and see it's about half and half. I don't know why more women don't run, but I can assure you that gender has nothing to do with being a mayor," Shaw said.

"Being a mayor has to do with leadership, being able to unify a council, public relations, and I don't think gender has anything to do with it. I hope you will remember that. "I was a councilor from 1984 to 1988. I served with two different mayors at that time. In 1992; I came back as a councilor, under another mayor, so I have served with three mayors, about 20 different councilors and four different city managers. "I felt I had the knowledge and the background from those experiences to do the job. "Whether I was serving as a councilor or on the airport planning board or many other boards and commissions that I sat on, I have always let it be known where I stand on issues. "Past issues I took a stand on were study sessions and how they were held (objecting to councilors reaching informal consensus before regular meetings), mixing private and public funds, the auction practice (buying unneeded items without inventory) and many others. "In July when I took over I said the two main ingredients I would strive for were communication and open government. I think we have managed to get both of those."

Shaw said she's received a great deal of positive feedback on the workshops she initiated to set schedules and priorities for the department. "I hope you like what's been going on in the village of Ruidoso these past six or seven months," she said. "And I hope you will remember that when you go to the polls (and vote for her as mayor.) I want to make a personal prediction that we will have a hotel sitting next door within the near future."

She added that news from the just finished State Legislature's session is that the council will receive nearly $600,000 for the water distribution/Grindstone Canyon project.

Shaw's opponent in the election, Frank T. Cummins, a retired educator from Arizona, said he is running to offer a choice and his issues are water and the wastewater treatment plant.

He currently is employed at the race track, but will be retiring from that position.

Cummins came to Lincoln County from Scottsdale, Arizona, but visited Ruidoso for the first time in 1955.

In Scottsdale, Cummins worked as an elementary school principal in Phoenix, where he also participated on a number of boards and in civic service positions.

"At that time, is whenever I found out how important teamwork is," said Cummins. "This is what I think is needed to make Ruidoso go forward. We've had many controversies. It seems everyone seems to get personal agendas to the front. What we need to do is pull together as a town. Once elected as council, the whole village should support them. They don't have to agree with all the ideas, but we do have a forum that people can come up and speak. If you do have a difference of opinion, at least speak your piece, because the council needs to know. "In my past experience, issues are not decided over a cup of coffee, but after careful thought," Cummins said. "You can't just keep going back and saying, if we would have done this or if we would have done that. I'm encouraging you to pull together."

"No matter how this election goes, I will support the city council, whoever is elected and the mayor as well.

"The issue is water and we really need to do something about that. We have $11-million invested. It's like buying a house and then not being able to open the doors to use it.

"This was supposed to be the answer for a lifetime. We can't continually go back to the legislature and ask for more support dollars. We didn't get everything we were supposed to this year."

The first question Dutton read from the audience was directed to Cummins.

Question: What did you mean in your advertisement that you are an independent candidate?

MainStreet moves barrels to phase 2

This week the orange and white barrels on Sudderth will move from phase one of MainStreet construction to phase two.

Deputy manager Alan Briley estimates that it will take one month to lay new sidewalk from Center to Eagle streets.

Friday, crews replaced a segment of sidewalk in front of J. Roberts because store owner Ann Bolton had complained of shoddy workmanship, and the courtyard in front of the MainStreet office next door was in danger of flooding.

Those problems are fixed, but many more await designers, managers, and construction crews. For example, a power pole in front of Trent's Gifts was supposed to be moved to the back of the property, but the Trents and the power company have been unable to agree on the terms of the easement.

The village has permitted D&S Contracting superintendent Bob Tackett to run the wall around the pole. Tackett said they'll worry about moving the pole later. Another obstacle in the sidewalk's path awaits crews farther down the road.

been constant conflict with teachers, parents and so forth, and I felt when I left there we were going forward. I'm not running to be critical of Jerry. I just felt that she was appointed and I think it's important that someone in the position of mayor needs to be elected by the majority of voters. I felt this was the best way to do it. I'm not saying I would change everything.

"There might be some modifications I would have, but that would be in keeping with the council, and so forth."

Question: Do you intend to do more for the youth or do you intend to neglect them as you have in the past?

"Our children are the most important asset of any community. I spent 25 years of my life involved with them," Cummins said. "But I think we have to be careful involving the village with the schools and trying to set policy for the schools and so forth. Anytime you start dealing with bureaucracies, from city government to state government and so forth; anytime you have rules and regulations that you got to impose on, we need to work in conjunction and do all that we can with the schools."

"We have been remiss in that we don't make services available that we have available to the schools."

Shaw said she sees promise with the kickoff of Governor Bruce King's proposed Mentor program, designed for youth beginning in kindergarten through high school.

"I think we should be improving and spending more on our parks and recreation," she said. "Through that we will reach a lot of our children."

Question: What is your stand regarding the MRS (Monitored Retrievable Storage-nuclear waste) facility?

Shaw said her stand has not changed and she has stated it a number of times in print and on television.

"I cannot promote a facility like the MRS next door to Ruidoso, because I think that because of fear of the unknown, it would hurt our tourism," she said. "And we all know that tourism is our major industry. Therefore, I cannot take any other stand."

Cummins said, "No, we don't have any use for it in this area.

There's just too many things involved with it. The people that want to store it here, let them store it in their own state, it's their facility."

"We don't need to have them transport it across all the states and put it in our mountains. There's no way I can see that it is beneficial for anyone."

Shaw said since more entities than Ruidoso would feel the impact of an MRS, more should be involved in speaking out against it.

"I do think we need more than a three member committee and spending $10,000 a year only from the village of Ruidoso," she said. "I think it should be a two county committee and that's what I will continue to strive to set up."

Question: What would you do as mayor to bring more retirees to settle in Ruidoso?

Cummins said he thought retirees should be included in any advertising. He said in Silver City has met with success with its promotions to attract retirees.

If people visit Ruidoso, they will want to come back, he said.

Shaw said a program aimed at attracting retirees to the area for several years for some reason has stopped.

She said if advertising is targeted for retirees, it will be through the chamber of commerce.

Question to Shaw: Is it true R.D. Hubbard is financing your campaign?

Shaw said that Ruidoso Downs Race Track owner R.D. Hubbard, who also developed The Links golf course and had proposed a convention hotel, was not financing her campaign, but that he and others were contributors.

"Mr. Hubbard has always been supportive of me, and I hope he continues to be," she said. "But many, many people have contributed to my campaign."

Question to Cummins: Why did you propose giving a substantial raise to our previous village manager in light of the evidence of his purchasing and accounting improprieties?

Cummins said he proposed the raise, because it appeared that former village manager Ron Wicker was moving in a positive direction with the budget.

"I didn't condone, necessarily, the auction (purchases), and I didn't tie the raise into the fact that he had gone to auctions," Cummins said. "But we as a council had directed him to go to auctions."

(The council met in closed session regarding the auction practices after it appeared in The News. Wicker was not directed by the council to go to the auctions.)

"After he did that (purchased auction goods), he should have kept an inventory. He admitted that was a mistake," Cummins said. "I didn't set an amount (raise). I simply thought he was doing a good job for the village and he had been with us for over a year and a half and deserved a raise."

Candidates for four year seats

As a recently-appointed incumbent councilor, Joe Gomez said he wants election to a four-year term to complete the ongoing village projects with which he's been involved, and to continue with the direction of the village's growth.

His three priority issues are water distribution/the Grindstone Dam project, the police department and compliance in municipal buildings with the American Disabilities Act (ADA).

A resident of Ruidoso for more than 17 years, sales manager for Sierra Blanca Motors and a member of the chamber board of directors, Gomez said he's seen the village in its up and down years.

"I feel we have a direction going presently that is only positive," Gomez said. "I'd like to see that carried through. That's why I spend as much time as I do, doing things in Ruidoso."

"When I was asked to accept the appointment of village councilor, I did it with open arms and I'm doing it with an open heart. In the chamber of commerce, we have lots of good things that we are counting on doing, because Ruidoso is in a growth mode and I'd like to see it continue."

"I can't stand up here and make any false promises. We're going to have hard times. Money is our greatest problem. It always has been our greatest problem. We will continue to try to work with Santa Fe and all the federal agencies that will help us."

"Some of the things accomplished during the small time I've been on the council, not by myself, but working with other councilors, is the good news that we are going to get money (more than $500,000), for the water treatment plant at Grindstone."

"If we don't use our money wisely, or work with other people in the know, we won't get it done. We've got to have joint cooperation, and not just with those that we like, but all of those around us."

"I like what I'm doing, and I hope all of you will see that and be willing to help me continue as a councilor."

Leon Eggleston served in local government more than 15 years, first as village clerk/treasurer in Captain, then with Ruidoso and most recently, as finance officer with Lincoln County.

"I do have a good experience in government and especially in the needs of Ruidoso, working for them as long as I have," Eggleston said.

He plans to use that experience to help the village, he said.

He rates water distribution/the Grindstone Canyon project as the number one priority, along with the regional wastewater treatment plant.

"These projects do take money and our number one priority is water, because without available water, we can't develop our tourism program," Eggleston said. "We also know we are out of compliance on our wastewater treatment plant. That's an issue this council needs to address very hardily, because we will end up being fined, if we don't take care of this problem."

Ranking them behind water, Eggleston spoke about other issues needing council attention.

"The MainStreet project, we're hearing a lot of outcry on the project that has been started," he said. "Whoever is elected to the council will have to complete the project to please as many people as they can."

"We do have police protection in which I'm very much in favor of. I feel like the village should support our fire department and our police department to the fullest."

"We also have to address the youth of Ruidoso. I don't have a lot of ideas of what we can do about that right now, but I feel these are items that all the council should definitely look at. But water is the first priority. We've got to get Grindstone on line. We've got a well field that needs to be brought on line.

"We have to be fiscally responsible and I do have a background in the financial theories of Ruidoso and understand the financing and budgeting. With a good council, we can spend our money wisely."

"That's why I'm running for council for Ruidoso. I have earned my living in Ruidoso for many, many years. I feel like I can give something back to the village."

Declaring his freedom from any prior commitments to any individual, entity or groups, Robert Sterchi said as a councilor, he would continue the recent direction the village has taken.

His three priority issues are water distribution/the Grindstone Canyon project, the MainStreet project and the convention center, working actively to attract a hotel. Sterchi said he's visited Ruidoso for 40 years, has owned a local business since 1989 and became a permanent resident in 1992.

"My background is that of a businessman, primarily a banker," he said. "For 21 years, I was associated with Sun West Bank, the largest financial institution in the state of New Mexico. I retired as a senior vice president of Sun West in 1992, and then moved to Ruidoso."

Since that time, he has been acting as an employee benefit consultant both for a national firm and for himself and has worked the last year and a half for the state of New Mexico, New Mexico Retiree Healthcare Authority and New Mexico Public Schools Insurance Authority. He was appointed by Governor Bruce King New Mexico Health Policy Commission.

"Where I see the policy headed, our most critical problem is water. We have to solve the water problems of this community," Sterchi said. "I think Mayor Shaw, State Representative (H. John) Underwood and the current members of the council should be commended for the work they've done these past few months and certainly the past few weeks in Santa Fe."

"Assuming that we have the water problem under way, I think it is imperative for this council to find someone, somebody or some company to build and manage a hotel in connection with and adjacent to this convention center."

"I believe you are aware of what happened on last year (when the former council voted out the potential hotel developer), we don't need to rehash that, we need to move forward. I think the council, with the new makeup it has now, is much more receptive to negotiating an arrangement that is fair to all parties."

"Secondly, we need to follow up with MainStreet. MainStreet is a good idea, a good project. We certainly need to follow up with future enhancements such as the River Walk and of course, long-term parking."

"Finally, I would like to see the council develop a long term project to plan a managed, modified growth in development for the village that will take us into the next century."

"That planning should be ecologically sound and should include 'total' and complete opposition to any type of nuclear storage facility on Mescalero Indian Reservation," he said.

Former Ruidoso village manager, Frank Potter, now serves as an appointed member of the village council and would like to win a four-year term on the board.

With 27 years experience with the village as an employee and manager, Potter rates his priorities as water distribution/the Grindstone Canyon project, the MainStreet program and Parks and Recreation, including expansion of the jogging and walking trails.

He said he started with the village in 1964 in utilities, but there was a cross over policy then, allowing employees to work in different departments. He worked 10 years at the airport and became assistant city manager in 1974. In 1986, he became city manager until 1990.

"I'm a fourth generation New Mexican and a fourth generation Lincoln County resident," Potter said. "I love Ruidoso, but at this point, I want to run because I am not satisfied with the level of service Ruidoso offers. I never have been. You always strive in city government to deliver service of the product, that being water, sewer, streets, airport, parks and recreation."

"The needs of Ruidoso have always dictated the policies that we had to follow. Ruidoso was incorporated in 1946. It didn't have a water system until 1952. It didn't have a sewer system until 1964. Those will have to be improved."

"Tourism is one of those things we have always depended on. We've always hustled and worked hard together and it's great to be a part of that."

Incumbent William Lon Karn, a former Lincoln County commissioner, wants another term on the village council.

A businessman and a builder, Karn said he will continue to fight the MRS (Monitored Retrievable Storage of nuclear waste on Mescalero land) and to continue the capital improvement projects that have been a part of his time on the council.

His issues are water distribution/the Grindstone Canyon project, the regional wastewater treatment plant, and the MainStreet project.

Karn said as a child he grew up along the Ruidoso River. He graduated from the New Mexico Military Institute and UTEP.

A full-time resident who spent two years on the county commission and six years on the village council, Karn said his public service includes being chairman of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission, Chairman of the Grindstone Dam Oversight Commission, a member of the Ruidoso Water Board and chairman of the MRS Committee. As village councilor, he was appointed by the New Mexico Municipal League board to serve on its taxation and revenue committee and resolution committee.

Karn listed other council accomplishments while he served as construction of Grindstone Dam, the civic events/convention center, Sierra Blanca Airport and the Eagle Creek well field, which created 4,000 extra acre feet of water rights. He's on the committee to build the Ruidoso Riverwalk.

"I just want to continue some of these projects to their fruition," Karn said.

Looking to the future, not the past, attorney Charles "Chay" Rennie said he wants to be part of the changes now occurring in

COUNCILOR FRANK CUMMINS

Ruidoso and the new opportunities for prosperity for its residents.

He's been visiting Ruidoso for many years and recently moved here.

Rennie listed his issues as water distribution/the Grindstone Canyon project, the regional wastewater treatment plant and planning and zoning for the village.

Originally from El Paso, Rennie said he graduated from the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque and law school at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Texas.

Licensed in New Mexico and Texas, he worked for the attorney general's criminal division in Santa Fe before relocating to Ruidoso. He traced his Ruidoso roots to his grandfather in the 1920s and his mother in the 1950s.

"I have either been a part time or full time resident of Ruidoso for 20 years," he said. In addition to practicing law, Rennie has worked on the ski patrol at Ski Apache continuously since 1967.

He spoke about tourism, natural resources and government.

"This is a resort town, built on tourism and continues to thrive on tourism," he said. "When we're having a season like we're having now, when the weather is uncooperative, we see the need for increased and diversified recreational opportunities. To do that we must communicate with and cooperate with the various agencies outside of this jurisdiction; federal state, county and tribal."

"These activities cannot prosper without Ruidoso and we cannot prosper without them. As we continue to grow and increase these activities, we must be aware of our natural resources, principally, water."

With the addition of Grindstone to the village's water distribution system, and with the expansion of the regional waste water treatment plant, the village should be adequately covered.

"It is equally important to preserve the beautiful environment that most of us came here for in the first place," Rennie said.

"Finally, in terms of government, I'd like to see a little bit better communication in the government. We have a good village staff that handles its job well. We need to continue to support them. The village council must function openly, and it must remain responsive and responsible to the citizens of the community."

"I would like to work toward those goals with your support."

Speaking in the order of their appearance on the ballot, Norman Smith was the last presenting a bid for one of the three four-year seats open.

Self employed with a background in civic work, Smith has been active as a scout leader and with 4-H projects, as a bank director, and as a director of the Farm Bureau.

His priorities are water distribution/the Grindstone Canyon project, the MainStreet project, and municipal building compliance with the American Disability Act.

Smith said all of the candidates that preceded him had worthwhile ideas, but that all couldn't be performed immediately.

"It's a matter of how much money is in the budget and what are the priorities," he said. "That's one of the things I could offer you. I was in business most of 40 years for myself. I spent most of the time as a consultant for a very large corporation, directing over 200 people."

"I think we have an excellent staff and we should let that staff direct the employees. But I do believe we should have someone that is very interested and cares for the community."

"Due to my retirement, I do have the time and I really care about Ruidoso. Ruidoso has been very kind to me. I've been 16 years in Ruidoso as a permanent resident."

"I first started coming to Ruidoso when at quarter to nine they blinked the lights, and at nine o'clock, they went out. And so we have come a long way. We have a beautiful, beautiful community. I am really impressed with the staff. The people who are running for this office, I think we are going to have a good council."

"I'd like to offer your services and I would appreciate your vote."

Two year candidates

"I'd like to have the people know they wasted their ballot if they voted for me, unless I win, and then I guess I would have to serve," Dick Mound said, leading off the candidates for a two-year council seat. Mound said he tried to withdraw earlier, but missed the deadline, because he was out of town on business with clients.

He said if elected, he would serve, but his time is limited.

"I'd prefer to let everyone know now, don't elect me," said Mound.

Allen J. Full said he's proud of the multiple years he served the Boy Scouts of America.

"One of the most important things that I am proud of is that I was scoutmaster of three national training courses for adults," he said.

Full said he worked eight years for the state of California on a franchise tax board as senior tax representative in compliance.

"We've been in Ruidoso for 10 years," he said. "I'm not a politician, but a concerned citizen. I have ideas, that if elected, I may be in the minority, but I would like an input with the rest of these councilors on what I would like to see happen to this town."

"I'm not a 'yes' man. I don't owe anybody in this town anything. I'm not obligated to anyone. I do know there are things to be done here. We all love Ruidoso, but we can make it much better."

He said his family in California does not know too much about Ruidoso and he would like to see more advertising directed toward the west.

Robert Donaldson, a local ski shop operator, chairs the planning and zoning commission and has been a member for seven years. He also has volunteered with the ski patrol at Ski Apache for 15 years.

Donaldson said one of his special areas of interests, if elected, will continue to be planning and zoning. He wants to work on the various issues such as waste water treatment, but wants input from the public on what they think is a priority of the community.

"I have lived, worked and run a business in Ruidoso for the last 15 years," Donaldson said. "My family, my business and my life are in Ruidoso. Please see Candidates, page 9A."

A dog's barking often can be a sign of loneliness and neglect

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Ruidoso News Staff Writer
The owners said the dog barked too much, but the worn area around Bear's neck supplied the likely answer to Lincoln County Humane Society shelter manager Esther Harper.

"He's been chained up, because the hair is rubbed off his neck," she pointed out. "Most likely that means he didn't get much attention and was left alone outside a lot. He hasn't been a big barker here with companions and human interaction."

"When dogs get bored or feel isolated, it encourages them to bark. Yelling at them to stop only gives them what they are after, attention. Trainers will tell you to give them positive attention, walk over and pet them reassuringly. It tells them everything is all right and they don't have to bark."

Bear quickly endeared himself to shelter workers, with his friendly, outgoing personality.

He enjoys riding in cars and gets along well with children.

"He's not aggressive at all," said shelter secretary Kathy Tetreault. "He's very sweet."

Bear's coat is black with heavy red overtones in places.

"It feels like a rug on the white blaze on his chest and he has white on his paws too," Tetreault said. "We believe he's a Husky mix and is about five to seven years old. He's been here since late January."

Tonya

Another owner release who is looking for a new home with a loving companion. Tonya is a Labrador mix with the slender face and conformation of a greyhound or catahoula.

"She keeps her tail between her legs and paces in the cage," Harper said. "Some of that still could be her timidity and confusion about being brought to the shelter. She's still unsure, but she's beginning to accept us."

"Her owners are devoted to animals and care for them well, but they just had too many. They bring her own food here, because that's what she's used to. They check on her constantly."

"Tonya has gotten along well with the other dogs from the beginning. She just needs to be in her own home and feel secure."

Tetreault said the longer she works with the shelter, the more she realizes that each dog has its own unique personality, talents and eccentricities. For instance, Angel, a Rottweiler mix who has been featured before, but has not been adopted, is totally preoccupied with trying to pick the lock on her cage.

Moe, a friendly Australian shepherd mix, has his own special look to try to convince workers to let him out in the large pen during the afternoon where he can run.

Puppies and follow-up

Unfortunately, some pet owners in Ruidoso are not complying with the mandatory spay and neuter law, and are dropping the products of their neglect in the lap of shelter workers. Three mother dogs have been brought into the shelter with their litters. One is a heeler, one a sheltie mix and the third appears to be an akita inu mix, but much smaller than the standard.

Other puppies available for adoption include chow, shepherd, heeler and assorted mixes.

Society members urge pet owners to have their male and female dogs and cats altered. It will save money in the long run for food and medical expense. But most of all, it will save pain and suffering, and possibly death for their unwanted offspring.

"It's criminal to think that some of these loving and intelligent pets, who could be valuable lifetime companions, are born just to fall ill from disease or to be destroyed a few months later, because someone doesn't care," Harper said.

At the society's general membership meeting last week, Dolores Shorey, graphic artist at The Ruidoso News, and D. Maury Brown, announcer for K-BUY radio, were elected to the board, bringing it to its maximum 11 members.

Chairman Lee McKenna said it's good to see the broad-based community interest in the welfare of abandoned and lost animals. She hopes to see more people volunteer their time to help at the society thriftshop next to Arby's, by exercising and playing with the dogs in the main shelter and by working with the cats in the cattery building.

Sponsorships are another way to help by paying a portion or the complete cost of neutering an animal up for adoption. State law now requires that all animals adopted from shelters be altered to stop the cycle of needless deaths.

But bringing an animal to the shelter is a better option than giving it away to a stranger, who may mistreat it, abandon it later or sell it to a laboratory.

The fates of all animals brought to the shelter are tracked. New owners must pay a fee to ensure they understand that each animal's life has value. Volunteers follow up on each adoption to ensure the animal is spayed or neutered, is given protective shots and that it has settled successfully into a new home.

Harley, the blue heeler who was reported to animal control after wandering in a local trailer park for weeks with broken bones exposed in one leg, has found a home. His leg had to be amputated, but the foster parent who provided a home while he was recovering, decided to make him a permanent family member.

Dobie, the Doberman who was left chained to the outside of the shelter group kennel in a dehydrated and starving state, is thriving. He has been neutered and his coat now shines with good health. Dobie lives in Capitan and has plenty of room to exercise.

For more information about Bear or Tonya, call 257-9841 or stop at the shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road.

Former trucker's career makes a U-turn

Too many years driving too many old trucks convinced Pete Hull he should change careers and find something that he could do in a comfortable, stationary setting.

Now he spends his days silk screening T-shirts, sweatshirts, baseball caps, bags, fanny packs and all sorts of other items.

His clients since he opened Mountain Man Custom Screen Printing a few months ago have included the Ruidoso Warriors, two local Texaco stations, Beauty Craft and the Lincoln County Humane Society.

The transition from the highway to working with silk screens has been smooth in spite of the fact that it wasn't exactly what Hull expected.

"A woman I met had moved up here from Hobbs and wanted to sell the business about the same time I was looking for something to get into," Hull said. "I really had no idea of what it consisted of. In fact, it was the opposite of what I thought. I expected stencils and spraying, but this is different and a much higher quality."

"I'm still learning new techniques every day."

The 31-year-old Hull is a familiar face around Ruidoso. He grew up here, but left high school to work full time after already putting in many hours at a local gas station. He worked four years for a local building supply business and then started to drive trucks full time. Construction work came next, but his back and knees couldn't take the constant impact and he knew it was time to look for something long term in Ruidoso.

"I don't plan on leaving," he said. "When I was six or seven, I started carving leather and I still enjoy it. I wanted a business I could do myself and not have to rely on someone else, where I could work five hours a day or 15. When someone else signs your paycheck, there's always a chance you won't get a second one."

Hull said the broad base of potential clientele is one of the major aspects of silk screening that attracted him.

"All types of businesses and government entities at some time may want this type of service to advertise a product, a project or a sports team," he said. "It's something they don't give a lot of thought to, but they need it."

Some customers arrive with a design in hand and ready to pick out the type, color, style and quality of shirt, cap or bag they want. Others are looking for help in coming up with a logo. Hull works with several artists in town.

He also has catalogs that customers can browse through for ideas. Designs can be applied to dog leashes, athletic bags, shorts and aprons as well as the usual items.

Hull needs about two weeks lead time on a project, although that sometimes can be trimmed, if a group is in a crunch. Once he has the items to be printed in hand, he can put in the necessary hours.

"I don't do transfers, which is the type of technique some of the local T-shirt shops use," Hull said. "They're fine for many uses, but can show cracks or fading after a while. With silk screening, the shirt should wear out before the design. If some of the other shops in town want a special silk screen design, I'd be happy to work with them."

Mountain Man Custom Screen Printing is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on weekdays in the Beauty Craft building at 127 B Wingfield Avenue.

Pete Hull of Mountain Man Custom Screen Printing begins to apply color to a silk screen design for the Lincoln County Humane Society. He enjoys working with groups to come up with a design and product that will meet their goals, whether it's advertising or fund raising. A former truck driver, Hull now spends his time in more artistic pursuits. Customers can see their selected designs appear on caps, jackets, bags, shirts and other more unusual items. Hull opened his new business venture a few months ago in the Beauty Craft building on Wingfield.

Labor department pairs workers with employers

Connecting employers with employees who need training is one of the major goals of the Job Training Partnership program handled by A.R. De La Paz.

As a representative of the Alamogordo office of the New Mexico Department of Labor, De La Paz will be in town Thursday, February 24, at the Lincoln County suboffice on Kansas Avenue to talk to people who want to learn and be employed.

"It's a good arrangement for both sides," he said during an interview last week. "The employer receives a break on wages and the employee either can go for on-the-job training or classroom time. They even can earn an associate's degree at an accredited university."

De La Paz will be at the suboffice from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and he hopes to see a lot of people show up to register.

"I first must determine if they are eligible for the program and that is based on federally established income and household size guidelines," he said.

Job training positions are available immediately. Classroom training will start in the fall semester and can be worked through the local education center of Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso.

For more information, show up Thursday or contact De La Paz in Alamogordo at 437-9210.

Three agents join ReMax

Chris Demarest, Marge Woodul and Jennie Dorgan have joined ReMax Realtors of Ruidoso, according to owner/broker Wayland Burk.

Demarest has been in the real estate industry for 16 years. She moved here from Barstow, California.

Dorgan received her real estate license in 1985, and specializes in trades and exchanges, both residential and commercial. She's been in Ruidoso for 14 years and also owns and operates the InnCredible in Alto.

Woodul has lived in Ruidoso for 21 years and has been a Realtor for 17 years. She's a big fan of Ruidoso and offers her experience and assistance to anyone needing help on what the Ruidoso area has to offer.

"The addition of these agents with their real estate knowledge and experience will be a big asset to ReMax of Ruidoso," said Burk.

Texas Club's new chef Patti Cervantes the nachos are better since Cervantes and restaurant owner Peggy Baker are took over the kitchen at the restaurant on proud to report that customers say even Metz Drive.

Texas Club introduces new chef

The Texas Club is shaking things up in the kitchen, bringing in almost all new cooks and a chef with some spicy plans. Patti Cervantes has served up good cooking in many of Ruidoso's restaurants, including the Incredible, Cattle Baron, the Jockey Club, the Blue Goose, and the Inn of the Mountain Gods. She has recently returned to the mountains after working at Cibola Creek Ranch, a small luxury hotel between Shafter and Maria, Texas. Cervantes is a graduate of the Western Culinary Institute of America in Portland, Oregon. She has traveled the country as a chef, and she has owned her own catering company in El Paso. Texas Club owner Peggy Baker is excited to have Cervantes in her kitchen. "Patti's been here about three weeks and our customers have been giving her rave reviews," she said. Baker said the restaurant's Super Bowl and Valentine's Day buffets were sold out.

Cervantes has hand selected her staff, a group of highly talented men. Tony Grant was the evening supervisor at the Inn of the Mountain Gods for three years. Brandon Gochenour was the head chef and food and beverage manager at the Bull Ring. And Mike Smith has been with the Texas Club for almost six months. With the new chef come menu revisions. Cervantes is casting a Southwestern flair over many of the dishes, tossing together a chicken salad with piñon nuts and fresh cilantro. She likes to give traditional plates a little pep, serving New York strip steak and broiled shrimp with a chipotle pepper sauce. The rack of lamb is marinated in a tequila bar-b-sauce. Like most culinary experts, Cervantes believes in using only fresh ingredients. She and her staff bake fresh bread daily, stir up fresh soups, and they will soon feature homemade desserts. Peggy Baker invites everyone to savor the new and improved cuisine at the Texas Club. "A lot of people think this is a private club, but it is definitely open to the public," she said. Live entertainment takes the stage Friday and Saturday nights in the restaurant's comfortable lounge. The Texas Club also will book small parties or cater an event. Located on Metz Drive, the Texas Club is hidden from mainstream traffic. Take Mechem to Cree Meadows, and turn at the Texas Club sign. They serve lunch Monday through Friday 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and dinner is served Monday through Thursday 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., Friday and Saturday 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. For casual fine dining, which means you can wear jeans while you enjoy quality New Mexican cuisine, the Texas Club is a fine choice.

RHS senior earns national honor

For the first time since 1986, Ruidoso High School is about to graduate a National Merit Scholarship finalist. Melissa Currin was recently notified that she is under consideration for a Merit Scholarship. Only 14,000 students across the country are finalists, and only 6,500 of those will be scholars. Currin could receive one of 2,000 scholarships of $2,000, one of 1,200 corporate-sponsored scholarships, and/or one of 3,000 university-sponsored scholarships. Currin has been awarded $6,000 in scholarships already. National Merit Scholars will be notified of their awards in April. In any event, Currin is looking forward to visiting Italy this summer. Texas A&M University takes all their NMS Finalists to Europe before they begin their demanding college careers. To come this far in the NMS selection process, Currin had to stand out according to four criteria. She had to maintain a high academic performance throughout four years of high school. Currin will probably be valedictorian of her class. She had to receive the recommendation of her high school counselor. Counselor Linda Hawthorne practically glows when you mention this student. "Melissa is outstanding in every facet," she said. Currin also had to earn an SAT score that confirmed her PSAT performance. On a scale of 240, Melissa earned a 189 on the PSAT, and on a scale of 1,600, she earned a stellar 1,320 on the SAT. Finally she had to choose a sponsor college, which will pay her scholarship. Planning to double major in biochemistry and mathematics, Currin chose A&M. In addition to being an outstanding student academically, Currin is involved in a number of extra-curricular activities. She is a member of student council, National Honor Society, and Students Against Drunk Driving. She is the local president and state secretary of Distributive Education Clubs of America. She also works part-time and teaches Sunday school.

Melissa Currin is the first National Merit Scholarship Finalist at Ruidoso High School since 1986. She scored a 1,320 on her SAT. She is the daughter of Linda and Mike Currin.

Ruidoso Future farmers plan community events

Members of Future Farmers of America (FFA) attended the Made for Excellence Conference in Albuquerque last Saturday and Sunday. The Made for Excellence (MFE) is a two-day personal development conference designed just for the FFA. This conference helps students feel great about who they are and where they are headed in life. During the conference members found out what makes them unique and special. MFE provides students with the knowledge and skills needed to set goals and achieve them in all areas of a balanced life. The conference is about leadership and motivation, just as the FFA is. Next week is FFA week, a time for FFA members to involve the community in their activities. The Ruidoso High School FFA is planning a petting zoo from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Wednesday, February 23, at Nob Hill Elementary School. This is an effort to give the younger children a fun experience with FFA so that later they may be interested in becoming involved. This also gives members a chance to speak about FFA and the different animals. FFA members are also planning a pancake breakfast for the teachers on Tuesday, February 22. This is to get the teachers more involved and to further their knowledge about FFA. FFA members encourage everyone in the community to get involved with FFA for an experience of a lifetime.

Texas gov names local as mediator

Ruidoso part time resident R.F. "Bob" Haynsworth has been appointed by U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton III to mediate the casino gamely dispute between the Tiguas and Texas Governor Ann Richards. Haynsworth, former owner of Surety Federal Savings in El Paso, Texas, and a general contractor, was appointed after the state failed to submit three names for consideration, as the judge had directed. "Haynsworth is an excellent choice. He's level-headed and even-handed, you can't ask for more than that," said Tom Diamond, an attorney who's representing the Tiguas. Haynsworth's wife, Hazel, operates Plaza d'Oros in Ruidoso.

RHS boys break district losing streak

by KENT BEATTY

The News Sports Correspondent
It's over. Prior to Saturday night's basketball game, the Ruidoso Warrior Boys Basketball team had not beaten a district 3-AAA opponent in ... forever.

That 31-game, three-year losing streak came to an abrupt end Saturday night as the Warriors took a thrilling 69-67 overtime win over the visiting Deming Wildcats.

The victory improved the Warriors record to 5-15 overall and 1-8 in district play.

Saturday night's trip to the winners circle was the first for the boys since January 4, against Tularosa — also in overtime.

Despite a tough time in the early going, Ruidoso remained close, eventually taking the lead in the second half off some great outside shooting and tough inside play.

The first quarter of the game saw the Warriors pick up where the last game with Deming left off. That is Deming shooting the eyes out the ball and the Warriors not being able to hit the broad side of a barn.

To make things worse, Warrior coach Paul Kirkwood was whistled for a technical foul early in the game as the officials were mauling Raul Davis inside, with nary a peep from a whistle.

When Kirkwood complained, the Zebras responded, with a technical foul that sent Deming to the line with two free throws and a possession.

The Wildcats responded with Brannon Tollman canning both tosses from the charity stripe and Deming scoring a bucket on the technical's possession.

The hot shooting Wildcats were in control of the game at the end of the first quarter 18-9.

The second quarter saw the Warriors find — and get the ball to — the district's hottest player, Raul Davis. Davis broke the Wildcat press, shot, passed and rebounded the Warriors back into the ball game.

Then disaster struck again for the Warriors.

With the game going back and forth, Deming shot and made an obvious two-point basket but the outside official signaled a three-pointer, with the closer official awarding a two-pointer.

Again Kirkwood jumped up to complain and again the officials nailed him with a technical foul. Ironically, the officials corrected their mistake and changed the basket two a dence, but Kirkwood was still victimized by their incompetence.

Again, Deming went to the line to shoot the technicals and again, the Warriors soon found themselves down by nine points.

But Ruidoso fought back with abandon as they got a free throw, a big three-pointer from Raul Davis and a running, jumping, desperation three at the buzzer from senior Jeff Chapman.

The Warriors trailed at the half by two, 39-37, but the momentum had turned their way.

When the teams returned for the second half, Deming quickly found its shooting touch, as early in the third quarter the Wildcats made three consecutive baskets.

But this time, the Warriors would not let the game get away in the third quarter, as they missed very few shots as well.

Two big three-pointers from J.R. Chino kept the Warriors close while the Wildcats closed in on Raul Davis.

While the going got tougher for Davis, it was the Warriors' two remaining seniors, Chapman and Chino that took up the scoring slack and Ruidoso played perhaps its best third quarter of the year.

The final period saw neither team get too far ahead, although the Warriors probably looked a little better. The only area that Ruidoso did not shine against the taller Wildcats was free throw shooting.

But as the game drew closer to the end, Deming lost its composure and turned the ball over to the Warriors, or took poor shots at the basket.

The Warriors made big shot after big shot and Deming got more and more frustrated, eventually being whistled for a technical foul for unacceptable language.

It was big at the time. With the game tied, Ruidoso came away from the free throw line empty-handed missing on both attempts and turning the ball over on the possession.

Seemingly the Wildcats had escaped disaster.

Not.....
Deming scored two buckets to take a four-point lead with less than two minutes to go in the game, but fouled, sending Daniel Espinosa to the line.

The over-achieving junior responded with one of two tosses and it was now a three-point Deming lead again.

The Warriors got the ball on a turnover and called timeout to set up a play from the sideline to try to score a two-point bucket. But when the team returned to the floor, the officials had moved the inbounds spot under the basket so the Warriors designed play was shot out the window.

Strangely, Deming didn't guard J.R. Chino who was standing all alone in his favorite spot — the corner. With no defenders around, Chino launched another miracle three that popped the net to tie the game.

On the next series, the Wildcats missed a shot and Raul Davis skied for a rebound taking the ball coast-to-coast and hitting a short jumper to tie the game.

Seemingly in control with a two point lead and two free throws on the way, it would take a miracle for Deming to tie the game with just seconds left.

They got it. Rex Comanche got one of two free throws and the Wildcats got the rebound, nailed the three at the buzzer and it was on to overtime. Phenomenal.

The overtime saw Jeff Chapman hit two big buckets, Raul Davis a layup and three huge free throws from Rex Comanche and Daniel Espinosa.

Still Deming wouldn't quit. With the game tied with 17 seconds on the clock, the Warriors strategy was to foul the Wildcats, not giving them the last shot of the game. Things didn't go exactly as planned however as 10 precious seconds burned off the clock before Daniel Espinosa slapped Travis Metebrier Senior Jeff Chapman shoots for two in the Warrior's game against Deming. Warriors won 69-67.

Raul Davis returns the ball to the Warrior basket during Saturday's game.

Lady Warriors play Oñate tonight away

The Ruidoso Lady Warrior basketball team will enter the first round of the district tournament tonight as they travel to Las Cruces for their third meeting with the Lady Knights from Oñate. Game time is 7 p.m.

Oñate has defeated the sixth-seeded Lady Warriors twice this season and seems to have improved as the year went on.

In their initial meeting in January, Ruidoso had a lead late in the game before Oñate took over and stole a 3-point victory from the local.

Their last meeting, however was not the same as the Lady Knights led wire-to-wire.

The winner of Monday's clash will advance to the second round of the tourney on Wednesday at the sight of the higher seed.

The Lady Warriors fell to Deming Saturday night and complete result of that game as well as Monday's action will appear in Thursday's edition of The Ruidoso News.

Warriors' future

Freshman Billy Rogge heads for the basket during a home game this weekend. Warriors C-Team lost to Deming 63-46.

Mescalero girl competes for Miss Indian World

For the first time, the Mescalero Apache tribe will have a representative at the Miss Indian World Competition and Pageant in April.

At the Gathering of Nations April 20 through 23 in Albuquerque, Priscilla Kadayso will compete against other young women from all over the United States and Canada. Unlike the Miss America pageant, this contest features no swimsuit or evening gown competition.

The girls and women wear traditional dresses made by their mothers and grandmothers.

Priscilla will wear her mother's buckskin, a Chiricahuan dress handmade by Priscilla's grandmother, Elbya Naiche Huger. Elbya tanned the deer hide in the traditional way, using beef brains to make it soft and white.

A great granddaughter of Cochise, Elbya is well-versed in the old Apache ways. She sewed every tiny bead onto Priscilla's dress and worked the yellow pollen paint into the neckline. Priscilla's mother, Joyce Waters, made the pollen bag her daughter will carry.

At the pageant Priscilla, whose Indian name Kutunshé means Blue Jay, must present a traditional talent associated with her tribe.

Her grandmother has taught her how to cook the mescal plant, and Priscilla will demonstrate this technique and talk about how the Mescalero name was derived from this traditional food.

Priscilla sees the Miss Indian World crown as an opportunity to serve as a role model for the younger Indian generation.

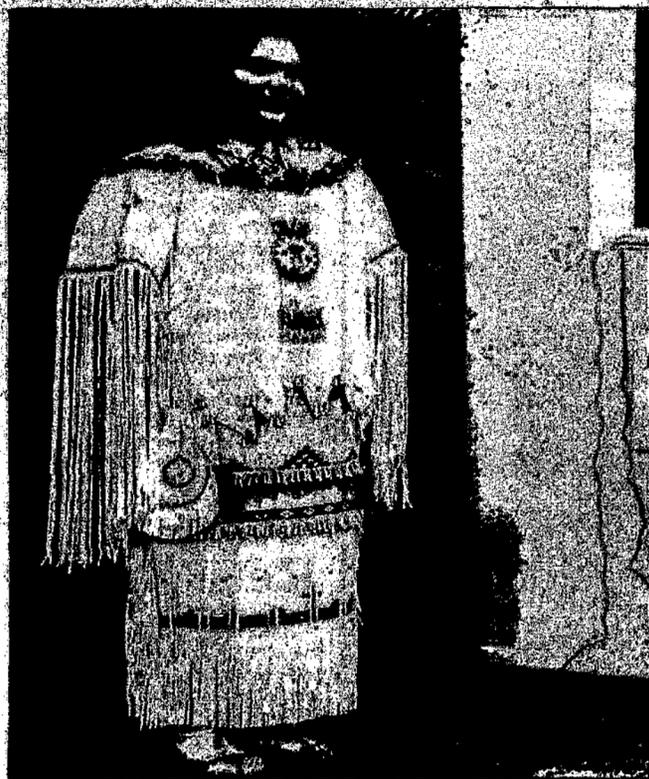

"I want them to know there's more to life than drugs and drinking and fighting," she said.

Miss Indian World travels to powwows throughout North America and serves as an Indian representative at many special events.

Priscilla is earning an associate's degree in childhood development at Eastern New Mexico University. She has received certificates for participating in the New Mexico Child and Adult Care Conference, the Women's Wellness Day Workshop, and the Domestic Violence Workshop.

She works at the Mescalero Child Care Center.

She wrote in her Miss Indian World application, "My main goal is to help children grow, learn, and to succeed in life. I hope they will grow to be strong, learn to be wise, and succeed in almost everything they do."

Priscilla Kadayso will represent the Mescalero Apache tribe at the Miss Indian World Pageant in April.

Remembering the Father of our Country

Birthday of the father of our country

"First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

These words will go forever echoing down through the years as we celebrate the birthday of George Washington, father of our country.

Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, said of Washington, "He was the greatest of good men and the best of great men."

God reached down from heaven and selected Washington to be the man to lead our country through its birth and infancy.

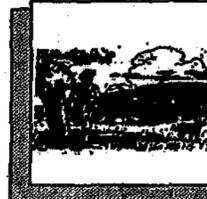

He was born in West Moreland County, Virginia, February 22, 1732, to Augustine Washington and the former Mary Ball.

His father died when he was 11 years old leaving George in the care of his mother and his brother Lawrence. His mother, a lady of Christian character and high intelligence, was the guiding light and spirit of Washington's life.

As a youth it was intended that he should follow a life at sea. All was in readiness and Washington was at the door saying goodbye to his mother. Up to this point she had held up well, now at the moment of her son's leaving she broke down and wept. George signaled to the men who were to take him to the boat that they should go on without him.

This was one of the many prophetic turning points in George's life.

legendary and he could tame the wildest horse however by patience and kindness to which the horses responded.

He loved growing things and added many new crops, trees and bushes to his lands through the years.

A devout nature —
a man of faith

One of the favorite subjects of American painters through the years is of Washington kneeling in the snow in prayer at Valley Forge.

His message to us:

In his address to the American people at the close of the Revolutionary War, Washington said: "I now make my earnest prayer that God would have you in his holy protection; that he would incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one and another, for the fellow citizens of the United States at large; and particularly for their brethren who have served in the field; and finally, that he would most graciously be pleased to dispose all of us to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind, which were the characteristics of the divine author of our blessed religion; without a humble imitation of who's example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation."

Dislike of fighting

Washington was our tallest president at 6-foot-6, a giant in strength, the champion wrestler of Virginia. Yet he was of a gentle and compassionate nature and disliked fighting, and often stopped his playmates from quarreling.

A horseman and farmer

Washington was a natural born farmer and horseman. His fondness for horses is

Exhibit features Jimenez' work

A major retrospective exhibition, Man on Fire, Luis Jimenez, opened February 20, at the Albuquerque Museum and will run through May 15.

The exhibit, which traces the artistic development of internationally known artist Luis Jimenez, includes prints, drawings and sculptures. This exhibition of the work of Jimenez is the first of such magnitude ever to be assembled with more than 300 pieces of work on exhibition.

Monumental sculptures such as

"Border Crossing," "Sodbuster," "Progress II" and "Steelworker" will be viewed in the Museum and in the outdoor sculpture garden.

Jimenez, who was raised in El Paso, Texas, currently lives in Hondo. He received a bachelor's degree in art and architecture at the University of Texas in Austin and studied at Universidad Autonoma de Mexico.

His work has often been compared to Diego Rivera and Thomas Hart Benton because of shared social concerns for ordinary people.

Jimenez reaffirms his Mexican ancestry and identification with community values, especially in the vibrant fiberglass public sculptures for which he is well known. His work has been featured in 228 exhibitions throughout the world. Fifteen public sculptures have been commissioned in cities throughout the United States.

Among other distinctions, Jimenez has received two National Endowment for the Arts Fellowships and the New Mexico Governor's Award.

This exhibit is free.

Business students get high marks

A group of Ruidoso High School business students recently turned in scores that earned them the right to compete in state finals of the Business Professionals of American Regional Testing.

Business teacher Brian Tarvin said teams competing in testing earlier this month were from Silver City, Deming, Coles, Reserve, Alamogordo and Ruidoso.

"There are a lot of different tests, about 30, and we took 16 of them," Tarvin said. "They cover areas such as business, business math, business law, banking skills and word processing."

To qualify for state, students must place in or above the 85th percentile.

The students from Ruidoso included one senior and one junior. The rest were freshmen.

Cathy Cull earned first place in business knowledge skills. Scott Christensen took a first place in business mathematics and a second place in business knowledge skills.

Charles Wood took a first place in economic awareness and Eran McManemy placed second in the same category.

Others earning high ranks included Kelley Stroud with a fourth in business math, Josh Graham with a third in business knowledge skills and Leigh Christensen with a second in business math.

"Two of our kids will compete on the state level," Tarvin said. "Scott Christensen in business math and Cathy Cull in business knowledge skills. Open testing is scheduled for March 10-12 in Albuquerque."

"We'll be trying to raise some money to help offset the expense of the students going up there to compete. They would appreciate any help from the business community of Ruidoso."

Contact Tarvin at the high school, 258-4910, for more information or to contribute.

vested in Ruidoso. If Ruidoso is successful, my family and I benefit in that success. If Ruidoso falters, we share the tough times with everyone else.

"I seek this office to help Ruidoso be successful."

Donaldson said he graduated from University of Texas-El Paso (UTEP) with a degree in finance and with a master's in business administration in 1978.

He served a two-year term on the Lincoln County Extraterritorial Zoning Board and sat on numerous advisory committees. He is former vice president of the Rotary Club, a member of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Realtors.

"People look to government to solve problems," Donaldson said. "Sometimes it can, sometimes it can't. But if government can't be part of the solution, then we must make sure that government is not part of the problem."

"We must emphasize long term capital budgeting for Ruidoso's infrastructure on water, roads and sewer treatment plants. We must provide for the maintenance of these facilities we have to provide for the growth that will come."

"We must start and finish the Grindstone Water Treatment Plant and then begin to plan and develop Grindstone Lake and the surrounding area for the recreational potential we have."

"We must continue positioning Ruidoso to compete in an increasingly competitive tourism industry. We must advertise ourselves with ever more success and aggressiveness. We must attract private enterprises that enhance the opportunity of activities that are available for tourists and citizens alike."

"We must cooperate with the various segments that participate in our economy, the Lincoln County Commission, the Mescalero Apaches, Ruidoso Downs Race Track, the Inn of the Mountain Gods, the Ruidoso business community, Ski Apaches, the U.S. Forest Service, the villages of Capitan and Lincoln. All provide activities or attractions that bring people to Ruidoso," he said.

"We must begin a new era of respect with dignity with this communication. While we argue back and forth on one issue, we can work hand in hand on another. We must seek common ground and work toward the benefit of all."

Strand "Mac" McDougal, a resident of Ruidoso for 32 years, operates Ski West Trading Company and, with his wife, the Sierra Blanca Cabins.

McDougal began his three minutes with a song telling voters that he's Strand McDougal seeking their approval and that the greatest thing in life is having such a good wife that he would never have to be ashamed.

McDougal sees the top priority for the community as MainStreet and has served as a director on that group's board.

He also sees priorities as the wastewater treatment plant and water distribution/the Grindstone Dam project.

McDougal said he was a graduate of Pecos High School in Pecos, Texas, and the University of Texas in Austin with a B.A. degree, as well as postgraduate work at three other universities including UTEP and New Mexico State University (NMSU). He formerly taught school in Pecos, Yuleta, Alamogordo, Mescalero and in sixth grade at Ruidoso.

A former secretary and treasurer of the Ruidoso Evening Lions Club and vice president of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, McDougal currently is a member of the New Mexico State Highway 48 Citizens Advisory Committee and the Roswell Runners Club.

"The reputation I have established as a businessman is one of honest and work," he said. "My family works and what I have to share with you is a program of work."

"I will work to establish better communication between local government and the news media and to encourage responsible reporting by all parties concerned."

"I will work to create a better business environment. We must take steps to make it easier for small businesses to operate."

Ruidoso must encourage the business person and encourage future growth and development. This needs to be responsible growth, without the burden of additional taxes.

"I will work to protect the individual rights of village residents. Freedom to live and enjoy without fear of violence. I will support adequate police and fire protection in our community. I am especially concerned about the young and the very old."

"I will act on behalf of individuals and small businesses, as state and federal projects continue to affect our community. Business interruptions should be held to a minimum as MainStreet and Highway 48 projects continue to enhance our village."

"I will work for cooperation between all city, county, state and school personnel. I would like to challenge all of us to go to work to improve ourselves, our homes and families, our schools and churches, and in so doing, our village, because that's what our village is. Let's be the best that we can be."

Questions and answers

After each candidate completed their three minutes unchallenged, Dutton directed written questions from the audience to the candidates.

Potter was asked whether a commercial use could be found for the airport.

"We have been in contact with Tucson Airline, Peacock Airline, Mesa Airline, Continental Airline and Southwest," Potter said. "It's the chicken and the egg theory in Ruidoso. Destination, origin, passenger and plane numbers dictate whether or not a plane will come to Ruidoso."

"We are not a major destination resort at this time. We would like to think that we are. Until we reach that point, the airline service will be very difficult. Until we have hotels and motels to accommodate traffic, an airline will be difficult to obtain."

Starchi said until we have Class A facilities, we are not going to get an airport to come to Ruidoso. Referring to the theme of the movie "Field of Dreams," he said, "Once you build it they will come. Once we have Class A facilities, we will have airlines wanting to come."

Donaldson said ground transportation also is a piece missing from the puzzle. He said persons coming to Ruidoso have to rent cars. Until the village has ground transportation, even with a hotel, there will be problems, he said.

Question: I understand that for every biker who attended the rally last year, it cost the taxpayers $3 per person in police protection. What do you intend to do this year to put the cost where it belongs?

Donaldson said to start allocating money for different events would cause problems.

"When you're a tourist town, you just have to provide some of these services," he said. "I'd look at the gross receipts at that time and see if it balances out. My guess is that the gross receipts (sales tax) at the time far exceeds the $3 for motorcyclists."

He said the motorcycle festival brings customers into town on an otherwise slow weekend.

Potter agreed with Donaldson that the rally has brought a lot of revenue to Ruidoso.

"I don't like the motorcycle event," he said. "I was on the chamber when we started it, and that is one I wish I had back in my idea file."

Rennick was concerned that people focused on the bad element the rally used to bring to town.

"I think these days are past, and I think it is one of the activities that brings a significant number of people to town during the off season," he said. "In recent seasons, it has gone well, and I would like to see it continue."

Question: Why do you think gambling is important to Ruidoso, or do you think it is important?

Rennick said gambling comes in many forms, such as Bingo or video gambling, not just full casino gambling.

"I do not support full casino gambling in the Village of Ruidoso," he said. "I think it is something that the state needs to negotiate with the Mescalero Apache Tribe as it does with other tribes in pueblos."

As far as opening up state wide (to bring it into Ruidoso), I do not support it. I think there needs to be a legislative change in order to get it negotiable with the tribe."

Question: What will you do for the taxpayers and the programs that come before you as a councilor?

Starchi said, "Any time you spend somebody else's money, you have to pay attention where it is coming from, where it's going to, and be sure you want input from the citizens. That is why participation is important in council meetings."

Donaldson said as a taxpayer, he would be spending his own money. He said it's imperative that more citizens become involved.

Smith said communication is the answer to a number of problems.

"Personally, the fact that I've spent 30 years spending my own money in my own business reflects that I am concerned and know what a dollar is," he said. "We need ideas and input."

Full said, "We need to get to the bottom of every single request that comes across the counter. We have to know what its for, where its coming from and naturally, citizen input."

Question: Will you introduce a nuclear free zone for Ruidoso and work diligently for its passage?

Karn responded, "That position was taken to village hall, and I have no problem with that at all."

He said it was important to know who owned the nuclear fuel rods.

"If the U.S. Department of Energy owns them as they say they do in fact, then they have a say in any privatization," Karn said.

Question: What is your position with attendance at the village council and specially called meetings?

Eggleston said, "I think it is very important that if elected to this office, you attend the meetings. I attended council meeting for 15 years. It is very important that the whole council meet. I know that is not always possible, but it is important."

Full said he has been secretary-treasurer for the East New Mexico Seniors Golf Association for the past three years and he has missed only one meeting.

"I intend to be at every (council) meeting," he said.

Gomez said when someone runs for office, a candidate accepts the responsibility of attending meetings.

"It's hard, a sacrifice at times when you would rather be home, but you're at a council or committee meeting or meeting with people who want to voice their concerns," Gomez said. "If you're not open to time, you cannot function properly. If you're not there at meetings, you don't know what's going on. It's easy to lose track from one meeting to the next."

Gomez said because he missed one meeting since being appointed in July, he lost track of some valuable information. "It is very important to make all meetings."

Starchi suggested docking a councilor's pay for lack of attendance.

Donaldson said attendance is mandatory.

"It's critical and a business person will have to schedule people to work for you," he said.

Karn said in 20 years, he has not been out of the county for a period of three months.

"I was supposed to be missing for three months," Karn said. "I do admit during the last nine months, I missed three council meetings. Since you have two council meetings a month, it's kind of hard to miss three, but I informed the council I was going to be missing. Sometimes things come up, family problems or business."

"In the last four years, I will put my record against anybody as far as attending workshops, council meetings or any specially called meetings. But there was a period of time that I missed three meetings."

(Records reflect another period of time from July 14 to September 16, 1982, when Karn missed seven out of eight meetings including three special meetings.)

Question: What will you do to support new business ventures?

McDougal said he had no specifics.

"I have been here for 32 years and involved in the business community. I know a lot of what works and what doesn't," he said.

Question: What are you presently doing and what will you do in the future for senior citizens?

Potter said Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs have a lot of senior activity including meals programs.

"Our senior citizens building in Ruidoso has outgrown itself and is in need of repair," he said. The legislature set aside money this year for senior citizens and the village could apply for some. Potter said. The village could apply for additional busses for seniors through the Urban Mass Transit Authority, he said.

Gomez said he is a council representative of the Parks and Recreation Committee.

"Part of what we are working for is ADA (American Disability Act) compliance," he said. "It sometimes is difficult for seniors to get around. We are working to make all public buildings more accessible."

Question: Should there be a shuttle bus to the mom and pop motels of Ruidoso as an alternative to any convention center hotel?

Starchi didn't support a shuttle bus as an alternative to a hotel.

"I think the key to the growth of this community is getting a hotel with this convention center, if we're going to use it as a convention center," he said. "Otherwise, we may be trying to get into a senior center, because right now it's a white elephant. We're holding bake sales out here, auctions, arts and crafts fairs, but that's not what this beautiful building was intended for. If we build a hotel in connection with the convention center, there will be plenty of overflow to the other facilities in the community."

"As most of you know, if you have attended conventions, you don't always go to the most expensive place. You look for other places in town. But to attract tourists to spend money here, we need the hotel in connection with this building."

Donaldson said the convention market is a new market for Ruidoso.

"People who come to a convention here, may have not experienced Ruidoso before, but will hope to come back, just as we have," he said.

"The pricing of a convention center hotel will probably be higher than they want, so they will search for accommodations at a more reasonable price. For that reason, I think it actually enhances other lodging."

Full said talk of big hotels coming into town never bothered him or his family.

"It's a whole different class of people coming in, using the big hotel," he said. "Yes, some of the small motels will benefit by it, but it is going to enhance the whole city in the future. I can't see (a former motel owner) getting hurt."

Question: Would you give us your vision of Ruidoso in the next 10 years?

"I don't see anything but absolute good for the community in the next 10 years as long as we properly plan it and not get into the boom and bust cycles we had in the '80s," Starchi said.

Donaldson said with the opportunities in the Southwest and the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), "We are going to see a new beginning for Ruidoso as a tourist resort."

Gomez said, "We are one of the most beautiful places located as far south as we are. We have a lot of people to draw from. We just need a plan, a proper direction. With the quality of people we have in our community, we will go forward."

"We will see lots of tourism here. All we need is cooperation and proper guidance from folks in the tourism business and we will see Ruidoso as one of the major tourist attractions."

Rennick said in El Paso, the talk is constantly of NAFTA. Representatives of a small airline that is considering coming here talked about the Mexican route that would stop at Santa Theresa for a port of entry, he said.

"I don't think there is any question that this community is going to grow in tourism and recreation attracting new people as it attracted all of us," Rennick said. "And in doing so, it makes planning now, very, very essential."

Eggleston said what the village has in place now is very important.

"It's a lot more expensive to replace it than maintain it," he said.

"If we do every bit of maintenance, our growth is going to come on a regular basis. We will run into problems if we don't take care of what we have now. I want to take care and plan that growth for the next 10 years, so we have all those needs for the tourists that come to this town."

Smith said he was very optimistic about the future of Ruidoso.

"It's a good place to live, a profitable place to make an investment," he said. "I think we're going to need good leadership and anticipate we will have that. I think our chamber and our council and citizens developing the spirit of Ruidoso, will see us grow, hopefully not a boom situation, but one that's controlled and very well thought out."

Question: What do you intend to do about gang violence?

Full said the youth of a community is its biggest asset.

"I think we need a task force to work and come up with the ideas," he said. "I'm not going to take credit by saying I have the ideas of what will serve, but I think it is a very important subject, and I would like to see the village or council address it. I don't have a specific answer."

Question: Senior citizens pay $12 for cable in Las Cruces and $24 for cable in Ruidoso. Will you be tougher negotiators with the new cable company?

Eggleston, who works for the cable operation, said the company that recently bought out Lincoln Cablevision just completed a survey for a senior citizen's discount.

"I questioned, myself, 'why not a discount?', because most of the cable systems across the nation do," he said. "I will support senior citizens discounts. I will say that as an employee of the cable company, in issues for votes coming before the council, I would have to abstain."

Donaldson said he would be a tough negotiator with utility companies, but he said those tough negotiations should be for all of the people, not just senior citizens.

"I think any discount that is basic throughout the United States, we should fight for that, but I think we should fight for everybody as well," Donaldson said.

Five for judge

Michael S. Line, the first candidate for Municipal Judge to speak, has lived in Ruidoso six years and operates a private law practice.

The first requirement for a judge is to be honest, to apply the law and act independently, Line said. In applying the law, he must be able to make unpopular decisions in which justice is done.

Line said he attended the University of Texas in Austin and Texas Tech law school. He served four and half years as a state prosecutor in Texas, served as a municipal judge in Snyder, Texas, served as municipal attorney in Snyder and, along with associate John Underwood, served as municipal attorney in Ruidoso.

Line, who worked in a bank when he first moved to Ruidoso, said dedication also is a qualification and that shows up in service. He has served on various public entities in Ruidoso, including being a member of the blue ribbon committee for the school district.

"I am willing to spend the time to make a good judge for the court," Line said. "I want to make a contribution. I was asked what could I give that other candidates couldn't, and after thinking honestly about that, all I could give you is myself. I would appreciate your support."

An amusement park equipment broker, long-time Ruidoso resident, and a lifetime member of the National Rifle Association (NRA), candidate Jerry R. Propsner started his three-minute speech for municipal judge with a comment on the airport.

He stated there were other things besides passengers that could be done with the airport. He said to look at freight, mail, an all weather year-round airport, flight school and aircraft maintenance.

"There's got to be something we can do with the airport to put up all the money we put into it," he said.

Turning to the subject of his potential performance as judge, Propsner said, "I am a life member of the NRA, so that kind of gives you my viewpoint if you come before the court, and that's what I want to approach, is what I'm going to give you in court, not necessarily dwell too much on my past, or qualifications, maybe."

"But in the court, you come in before me and you defended yourself with a pistol, because I am a life member of the NRA, you already know my feelings on it."

"I am a grad of the EID Institute (radio commentator Rush Limbaugh's title for frequent listeners) and most importantly, I was trained in work at a hospital as a suicide prevention and crisis counselor. And I think right away, you know as a judge what you're faced with when people come before you."

"It's not something we want to do to enhance, or also make a lot of money, you want to go out and be a judge. No, it's a service to the community and I have the qualifications for that."

"There are four candidates running against me. I think you should ask yourself why this incumbent has four people running against him," Propsner said.

"I also come from a lot of work and my volunteer service to the community and to us voters, and to us candidates as a member and a working committee person in the state organization of United We Stand America (Ross Perot's grass roots group)."

"A lot of people have their opinions, but let me clarify right now that United We Stand America is dedicated to education and voter turnout. A typical member is someone who hasn't voted in a long time, who has been disgruntled over the current crop of candidates or the current crop of people that are actually serving in office."

"As stated here earlier, it is important that we have ethics in court. The state has mandated that we pay special attention to victims, not only in our local jurisdiction, but also in Carrizozo. I understand there is negligence on the part of the courts in that (victim rights). So I will be very careful victims are taken care of."

Municipal judge candidate Jerry Wright is general manager of K-BUY radio and a graduate of West Texas State University.

A resident of Ruidoso for 16 years, Wright said, "I understand the problems that kids have growing up in this town. I understand the problems they will have coming before this court."

"This job pays $18,000 a year. I think it is ridiculous that we're paying $18,000 per year for a municipal judge, especially if we are looking at five or six hours a week and that's what I understand we're looking at for both sessions."

"I understand once elected you can't reduce a salary. I would like to use part of that money to help the youth of this community, either with activities or a speaker coming in to motivate them. I think we have good youth in this town. Sometimes, I think we overwork them and expect too much."

"We expect them to park our cars, bus our tables in the summer time, and we probably give less back to them than any other demographic group in the community."

"If you look at what the radio station has done in the past six years, I've tried to keep the radio station neutral to the issues of this community, and this is the way I think a court should be. It should have a good neutral judge that goes in there and doesn't express a lot of opinions that have personal vendettas."

Wright said he has been involved in several community and civic activities in town. He is currently a member of the county planning and zoning commission. Last year, he was president of the Ruidoso Shrine Club, was chairman of the First Christian Church executive board and served as an elder.

"I've been involved in this community for the past 16 years and I'm just looking to give something back to it," he said. "I'm not looking for a job, I'm looking to serve."

Another candidate with heavy volunteer credentials, Danny Garcia, served on the village personnel board, was a volunteer firefighter, organized the group now called Santa Cops and coached a Little League football team for 14 years.

Candidates

"I was born and raised in Ruidoso" and will live here the rest of his life, Garcia said.

A U.S. Navy veteran and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7072, Garcia said his interests are to make sure that Ruidoso remains the best place in the world to live and raise a family.

His professions in Ruidoso have included being a firefighter since 1968, a plasterer, a stone mason, cutting meat, owning an auto repair business and being chief of security at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

"All of those diverse jobs have one thing in common, knowledge of people, human behavior and local attitudes," Garcia said. "It also gives me an invaluable experience of how people react under duress at times of crises."

"I'm personally building on that experience by working toward a degree in criminal justice here at Eastern New Mexico. I carry a 3.8 grade point average, unlike my high school endeavors, I believe my GPA (grade point average) was 1.6. That will tell you something. I believe that is an asset, because I don't have a law degree at this time. That's an asset, not a detriment, especially in being a municipal judge."

"What we have here in Ruidoso, like the rest of the United States, is ignorance. We've all been taught about our rights, but we never hear about our personal responsibilities."

"All elected officials, especially judges, have an obligation to constantly emphasize the responsibility side of our democratic freedoms. This is especially important with young people. For that reason, I would like to set up office hours, with the schools, so we can talk one on one with our youth before they get in trouble."

"It's almost a criminal act itself that people get to know law enforcement and judges only after they become offenders. Any time spent in prevention, will be saved many times over."

"Almost anyone can read state statutes and village ordinances and sentence offenders. But a judge should apply the intent of the law based on the circumstances and what is best for the offender, the victim and society."

Incumbent Municipal Judge Charles "Chuck" Hawthorne also is a practicing Ruidoso attorney with his brother Richard Hawthorne and has been in the area for 16 years.

Hawthorne attended Texas Tech University, taught school for several years, joined the Army in 1966, and served three years as an infantry lieutenant, before re-entering Texas Tech law school.

He practiced law in San Angelo, Texas, for six years. His fondness for Ruidoso brought him to the village in 1978.

"I've been here ever since, and they're going to plant me across the street. I plan to be here forever," Hawthorne said.

"As a judge, you need to be honest, you need to be fair, you need to be qualified. And I am qualified," he said.

"I don't think that there is anyone in this room that believes that a lawyer can't be a better judge than someone who is not a lawyer. Most of the little trials that I have in my court right now deal with just a complainant and a defendant, no lawyers are involved. If it were not for my legal education and experience of 21 years of being a trial lawyer, we would have some real fights and some injustice going on in that courtroom."

"I know what is hearsay evidence, and I'm not going to allow it. If you have two lawyers, one side is going to object and you're not going to get that kind of evidence in, but when you don't have lawyers, you need a lawyer on that bench to make sure the trial is conducted properly. I can do it. I've done it for 21 years, the last four years as municipal judge."

"If Jerry Wright thinks this is a five or six hours a week job, he is sadly mistaken. I get calls in the middle of the night, visit the police station in the middle of the night to let people out of jail..."

Hawthorne stopped in mid sentence, because his three-minute allotment had ended.

Question: What would you do about juvenile crime and how will you go about doing it?

Hawthorne said a municipal judge has practically no jurisdiction when it comes to juveniles.

"The only juveniles you see in municipal court are the ones that come in with a traffic ticket," he said. If a juvenile does any other type of crime, it is dealt with in the district court in Carrizozo. It's not dealt with in a municipal court.

"I do everything that I can for juveniles when they come in to see me," Hawthorne said. "If they come in on a traffic ticket for speeding or something like that, I always give them the option of doing community service, rather than give them a fine."

"The reason I do that is because, if they get a fine that goes on their record, and if it goes on their record, their insurance rates go up. So they and their families have to pay twice and I don't think that that's right. So what I do is give them the option. You do 20 hours of community service. If you do it within 60 days, I'll dismiss the ticket."

Hawthorne said he lectures them not to come back in again, promising they wouldn't like the results.

He is beginning a high school peer court, where high school students get involved and make decisions about innocence or guilt, and mete out punishment. He said he is working with (Region IX Cooperation Education Center Drug Awareness director) Kathy Echols on that program which will go into effect sometime after the election is over.

Garcia said a judge could do a great deal for juveniles, if the desire is there.

"You can go to the schools and start programs, something that hasn't been done until this time, and to wait until this time to bring it out, that's a waste," Garcia said. "It should have been done many years ago."

He said this type of program has been accomplished in the past in Ruidoso.

Line suggested working toward securing money for a juvenile halfway house.

"Our present district judge has no alternative for juveniles except Springer (detention center)," he said. "There are public funds available to work toward that (a halfway house), and I would pledge to look into it."

Question: What is your view with repeat offenders in municipal court?

Wright said community service is good for youth, but that people watching high school drivers at lunch break on Gavilan Canyon Road would recognize the need for more effort in traffic court. He said he nearly has been killed in that area several times.

Wright said he favored a maximum sentence for repeat offenders.

"The only thing a kid's got that means a hoot to them is their drivers license," he said. "A judge cannot lift a driver's license."

He said a bill was introduced in the State Legislature to allow a judge to lift driving licenses and he believed that bill would serve a good purpose.

"If you lift a kids driver's license for three months, that's a third of a school year and that's a heck of a long time for a kid," he said.

"Enforcement of the traffic laws is not a judge's job," Hawthorne said. "If they are having problems on Gavilan Canyon, you need to talk to the police. A judge's job is to take care of it when it gets into the courts."

"My philosophy on sentencing, if you have a case where someone is hurt, either property damage or you have an assault and battery, someone has a nose bleed or has to go to the hospital, I always look to restitution first."

"My first option is, if somebody tears up someone's property or if someone hurt someone, they should pay restitution to that person. Then I go to fines. I do not send people to jail very often because the village has to pay $35 per day over at the Lincoln County jail. I might have sent two people over there in four years. I try every method I can to alleviate the problem. I believe in four years, only twice have juveniles come back on a second ticket."

"On their second ticket, I fine them and their dad gets to pay another $600 to $1,000 a year in insurance."

Question: What will you try to do about drugs and gangs in our schools in Ruidoso?

"First of all, the jurisdiction is with the district court," Line said. "But what would I do personally? I'm regularly in the juvenile courts in Carrizozo, and there is simply no alternative out there, but to send a kid to Springer. We have no intervention process to get a young boy or young girl out of a situation where maybe a cousin or relative is the only one supervising them. They basically run wild. The judge has no alternative, but to put them in Springer or return them to that same situation. I think it will take a community effort, in addition to an effort of the judiciary, to attempt to get a regional facility, a halfway house, to this part of New Mexico."

"Currently, there are only several in the state and they are located in Northern New Mexico. A direct answer to the question, I would pursue avenues, with the assistance of the district court, people in the village, county commissioners, to promote a regional facility where there can be an intervention to take a child out of the situation where the main people running the show are the gangs and others that are the source of the problem."

Propsner said the municipal judge can play a vital role.

"If the municipal judge is not available or if his position is causing an administrative backlog for the police officer in the street, that police officer for however many hours filled up by trying to reach the municipal judge, he's going to find himself not available to be in the streets to patrol the crime," Propsner said.

"In favor of Dan Garcia and myself, if we put the time in, when you consider some candidates are attorneys, they're used to making $100 per hour, so they're going to have the attitude that, well, I put in my two hours this week. But Darny and I are hard working people and we actually have come with specific plans for action in this community."

Question: To my knowledge the hours are set by the judge. Are you planning to work only five to six hours per week?

Wright said he would be available day or night.

"One of the things I think the court needs is expanded hours," he said. "I don't know whether logistically that's possible or not, with the police force and with Debbie (the municipal judge's clerk). But we need hours to go to the municipal court and not have to take off work to do it. You get a ticket in the school zone (and that) is a bad thing, but there is no reason the employer has to be penalized for you to go to court."

Hawthorne said being a municipal judge is not five or six hours a week of work.

"When I took this job, I was appointed by former mayor Lloyd Davis," he said. "The prior municipal judge met on a Wednesday afternoon to arraign people. I found out that it would be better if I held court twice a week. There is just not that much business from an arraignment standpoint that you have to be there every day."

"I'm there from 9 a.m. Monday morning until whenever I get through, and on Thursday afternoon, from 3 p.m. until whatever time I get through."

"I have several trials a week. If someone is arrested, they call me at my office, I come down and take care of it. They call me at night. I go down to the police department and sign arrest warrants. I let people out of jail. It's not a five to six hours a week job."

"I put in every single minute necessary to do a good job for the village of Ruidoso."

Garcia said that Ruidoso needs a full-time municipal judge.

"Currently we don't have that," he said. "Don't take our word for it, go ask the local police officers. Go ask the code enforcement board at city hall. Go ask what kind of problems you have up there. I have and so have a lot of other people. We need someone who is going to be out there not 20, not 10, but we need somebody out there for 40 hours a week or better. We need somebody out there that cares about people. You need somebody that wants to do something, and not go over there and sit behind a desk on Monday and Thursday. I guarantee you that (municipal judge) is a full time job."

Chamber exec reports to council

The Ruidoso Village Council will view a video presentation as part of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Quarterly Report Tuesday at the regular council meeting.

In addition to the chamber quarterly report, three public hearings are on the agenda starting at 6:30 p.m.

The council continues the public hearing on Ordinance 94-2, pertaining to the loan agreement with the New Mexico Health and Environment Department.

Ordinance 94-3 is a public hearing incorporating the excavation ordinance in the Ruidoso Municipal Code.

In the third scheduled public hearing, council will act on an application for a new beer and wine, restaurant license for the Texas Fajita Patio Cafe.

The only other regular item on the evening's agenda is a change order for time on MainStreet redevelopment, however, a MainStreet update is scheduled by the village and deputy managers.

In a closed session, the council will discuss a subject pertaining to threatened or pending litigation and the purchase of real property by the village.

Planners consider conditional use

A conditional use for a new day care center operation for up to 12 children will be brought before the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission Monday at 2 p.m.

Carolyn Wallace of Palmer Gateway Subdivision is requesting her property located in C-1 Neighborhood Commercial District with 70-foot frontage on Sudderth be used for day care.

Other business includes a side yard variance for Wes Owen at Palmer Gateway Subdivision. Owen wants to construct an addition to the existing grade of his garage that will allow garage doors.

Under old business, Douglas Brown is seeking a side yard variance for his lot in White Mountain Estates. Brown is seeking the variance for a carport addition.

raced up the mountains. A Glencoe fireman saw it and responded to his station to get a unit. Some of the other departments heard it on the scanner and sent units.

"Rather than wait to be called, we came on down. By the time we got there, they had paged Alto (Bonito Volunteer Fire Department)."

A spokesman for the State Forestry Division, which was in charge of the fire fighting effort, said the flames burned around several trailers and threatened one home.

"It burned mostly northeast of the highway toward Chavez Canyon, although it bumped and crossed Arabella highway in a couple places," he said. "The main fire and back fire (set to eliminate fuel for the wild fire) didn't meet until midnight."

Hondo firefighters and two units were on the scene east off U.S. 70 early to protect homes. Other responding included the U.S. Forest Service with three unit, the state forestry with one (others were busy with fires at Mayhill, Roswell and Tatum), Lincoln with one, the Bureau of Land Management dispatched one, Glencoe-Palo Verde sent two, as did Ruidoso Downs, which had been battling a small blaze near Fox Cave.

Three crews of Mescalero Hot Shot firefighters showed up, two air tankers and a scout plane responded. The county also posted a front end loader in case anyone got stuck and owners of The Texas Connection cafe came out with some food.

"There were civilians and ranchers out with shovels throwing dirt on it. Others were beating out the flames. One man brought his blade. A lot of people showed up," Wynham said.

The cause of the fire, one in a series that have erupted over the past month in Hondo, is under investigation.

County Commission Chairman Monroy Montes, who was on the scene near Tinnie's Silver Dollar Restaurant, said he was impressed by the response from volunteer fire groups as far away as Bonito and Carrizozo, and the overall spirit of cooperation.

State MainStreet honors volunteers

Individuals from various communities were honored recently by Main Street New Mexico for major accomplishments and for volunteer support.

Bonnie Mattox of Ruidoso was presented a drum for her volunteer work with MainStreet Ruidoso.

Mattox and her husband own and operate The Great Southwest in Midtown Ruidoso. She has been a member of MainStreet Ruidoso since its beginning in 1988 and a member of the Board of Directors for the past four years.

This past year she served as chairperson of the organization and its membership committee.

the existing sidewalk. According to Briley, the basement wall of the building is in disrepair and allows dirt and rock to fall through.

Many people have speculated that old tunnels from Ruidoso's wilder days were not completely filled in and are causing the unstable ground. As the story goes, the tunnels were escape routes for illegal gambling operations. Those who say the stories are just stories say if there are tunnels, they were probably for drainage or access to utilities.

MainStreet lighting is, if not problematic, at least tricky. Since MainStreet is stuck with cedar light poles instead of metal ones, Briley said all the poles should be installed in the final phase of construction.

"The manufacturer recommends they be put in at the same time to avoid uneven fading," he said.

The infamous parking problem, of course, still looms and has been further complicated by a few uncooperative merchants. Don Miller, director of MainStreet, has informally proposed that merchants with room for parking share their lots.

Some merchants, however, have posted signs reserving parking for their customers only. Jean and Harry Sappington, owners of Jean's Cherry Blossom Shoppe, have gone so far as to apply for a permit to fence off their parking.

MainStreet board members will meet Tuesday to develop options for solving the parking problem. They will then call a public meeting to decide a course of action. Board member Don Dutton sees this kind of attitude as a direct affront to the community.

"We come to a community to communicate and share," he said at a recent meeting. "We have merchants who are not community minded and won't invest back in the community as the community has invested in them."

The legislature has redirected $150,000 to be used for parking. That money may be used to purchase private property for village parking, or to pave private lots in the event of an agreement between the owners and the village. Village manager Gary Jackson said he favors an easement that might allow city use of private property.

With all the minor obstacles in the path of the sidewalk, some merchants scoff at Briley's assertion that construction will be finished by July 1.

At the MainStreet coffee Friday morning one merchant said, "If it takes one month to do phase two, and you have five more phases, doesn't that put completion time closer to August?"

Briley said many phases will go more quickly and present fewer problems. Regardless of where the sidewalk ends in June, Briley said the walks and the roads will be cleared July 1 for summer shoppers.

"There will be no construction from July 1 to Labor Day," he said. Don Miller is taking steps to avoid last minute surprises and to accommodate the needs of merchants.

Forum reassures voters

The Village of Ruidoso will continue to be in good hands after the election on March 1.

A big thank you to the 19 candidates for Ruidoso offices who turned out, made well-prepared speeches and patiently answered questions at the candidate forum sponsored by The Ruidoso News on Thursday.

Thanks, too, to the more than 100 people gathered at the Ruidoso Convention and Civic Events Center to get the real scoop on the people who have tossed their hats into the ring for councilor, mayor and municipal judge.

They were treated to very insightful speeches by a list of serious candidates who obviously have the good of the community at heart. Of course, some are better suited for the jobs than others, but over all, the voters are faced with some very tough choices.

The News appreciates moderator Don Dutton who did a great job of introducing candidates and presenting questions from the audience. The forum couldn't have been so successful without the hard work of the civic center crew —Manny and Nelson — who made sure the room was set up comfortably and efficiently, the sound system was working properly and coffee and tea was prepared for guests.

Voters have had a number of chances to see and hear from these candidates, now it's time to make some very hard choices. After hearing the candidates Thursday, we're reassured that we'll be in good hands regardless of who wins.

Letters To The Editor

History buff is searching for old trade tokens

TO THE EDITOR:
I am a lover of history and I have a somewhat unusual hobby. I collect old tokens used by stores, barber shops, pool halls, bakeries, saloons, forts and other businesses years ago. The tokens were "good for" 5, 10, 12, 12-1/2 cents or such in trade or merchandise or "good for" a loaf of bread, one drink, one shave, one ride or whatever. They were usually made of metal and while having the general appearance of a coin, they were made in all shapes and sizes. I am hoping that ... you might mention my search. I know that this request is relatively unimportant, but as our elderly pass away and the younger members of the family inherit their possessions, tokens and other items are considered junk and thrown out. I do get a great deal of enjoyment from my hobby and I do believe that these concrete reminders of our great heritage are worth preserving. I have reason to believe that some of these tokens were used in your area and I would be most interested in obtaining some of them for my collection.

I would like to hear from anyone having one or more of these tokens or from anyone that might be able to help me. Any help that you can give me of any kind is greatly appreciated. My address is Travis Roberts, Box 1168, Bellaire, Texas, 77402. Thank you kindly in advance and best wishes.

Mayor is caring person

TO THE EDITOR:
I concur wholeheartedly with Mr. Bill Chance in his astute assessment of Mayor Jerry Shaw. She certainly possesses all the attributes and accomplishments he commends her with. One only has to have been a viewer of past and present council meetings to be aware of the vast improvements. He did not however, mention one facet of her I know personally — humanity. Having served on the Board of the Lincoln County Humane Society with Jerry, I found her to be a person of true caring and compassion for animals and people of all walks. I admire her immensely for this quality and consider it a plus in her favor toward the office she seeks. How refreshing for a politician in the '90s. She has my vote!

Can't we fix potholes?

TO THE EDITOR:
Once again we're dodging holes on Sudderth, and this less than two years since the last resurfacing, with not a hole-in-the-road gang in sight. We visited Flagstaff in August 1992, and I witnessed a repaving project in progress. They already had three four-inch lifts of asphalt down and were working on another. Flagstaff struck me as very similar to Ruidoso, both in economy and climate, only bigger. I wondered why we couldn't find the same kind of farsighted government officials here in New Mexico. Maybe we should send our highway geniuses out there to ask a few questions. Speaking of government officials, I hope all you people who drove Vic and Virginia out of town are happy. At least when they were here the six in my family could reach consensus on where to spend our dining dollar. Don Victor, we miss you!
