Veteran gov wins, faces newcomer in Nov.

Although their neighbors in Mescalero voted for Casey Luna in Tuesday's primary, Lincoln County Democrats mirrored their Party's choice statewide and picked Bruce King.

The margin didn't give much breathing space, 690 for King compared to 531 for Luna in line with unofficial state figures of 75,909 and 71,256. (On the Reservation in Otero County, Mescalero Apaches voted 122 for Luna, 12 for King and 6 for Baca.)

King will face Republican Gary E. Johnson, who edged out Dick Cheney 32,054 to 30,777 statewide, but came in second locally, with 501 compared to Cheney's 696.

While Democrats have gained in registered numbers over the past few months, Lincoln County still is dominated by Republicans, 3,871 to 3,109 registered voters. Just under 50 percent of the Democrats showed up to vote their convictions and 47.1 percent of the Republicans made it to the polls Tuesday.

In races closer to home, State Representative H. John Underwood, a Democrat unopposed in the primary and running for re-election, will face former teacher Dub Williams in November for the District 56 seat.

Republican Williams posted a two to one win over Caron Cowan Bremer with a total of 1,158 to 524 in Lincoln County, which constitutes the major portion of the district that also includes Mescalero.

District-wide, the vote was nearly as wide with Williams taking 1,401 compared to Bremer's 808.

Two of the hottest races were for judge's chairs.

The new District 12, Division IV judgeship race in November will see district attorney Bert Atkins, a Democrat, pitted against Republican Frank Wilson.

Atkins beat incumbent James W. Counts, who was appointed by the governor, with 3,118 to 2,562 votes district-wide and squeaked by in Lincoln County 658 to 635. Wilson bested Wayne A. Jordan 2,931 to 1,893 in the district and 886 to 668 in the county.

In Ruidoso's back yard, William Butts, the incumbent Division II magistrate judge, took the Democratic nomination with a 757 win over Danny B. Garcia, who pulled 669 votes.

County deputy Paul Wersich will carry the Republican banner with an impressive win over Trinidad Zepeda and Ken Nosker, 965 to 290 and 433, respectively.

Gerald Dean Jr. was unopposed on the Republican side for re-election as Division I magistrate judge.

In the only county commission seat that will be contested in November, about one-third of the Republican and Democratic voters in District 4 turned out to support their two parties' nominees, although they were unopposed in the primary.

The race for county treasurer promises to be a close one, if the primary vote is any indication.

Both were unopposed. Democrat Steven Eugene Brewer pulled 1,097 votes and Republican Joan E. Park, 1,486.

In national positions, U.S. Senator Jeff Bingaman, unopposed on the Democratic side, now knows who his competition will be in November. He'll be facing Republican Colin R. McMillan, who handily won his primary statewide with 65,045 votes and in Lincoln County, where he took a solid 1,266 votes compared to 274 for Bill Turner and 151 for Robin Dozier Otten.

Republican U.S. Representative Joe Skeen, who took a free ride in the primary, will be pitted against Benjamin A. Chavez in the District 2 race. Chavez won districtwide with 25,700 votes compared to Patsy D. Reinard's 24,242. In Lincoln County, it was the other way around with Reinard garnering 728 votes to Chavez' 501.

In Santa Fe, Patricia A. Madrid led the Democrats running for Lieutenant Governor and will face Walter D. Bradley on the Republican side in November.

Stephanie Gonzales will be the Democratic nominee for Secretary of State against Republican Gloria F. Baca-Griego. Robert E. Vigil will represent Democrats in the state auditor race against H.R. Fine for the Republicans.

S'no deal for snowcone seller

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Vendors in search of summer tourist dollars in Ruidoso must first travel the bumpy road of regulations at the village's planning and zoning commission.

The commission set the tone Monday for vendors by reviewing a series of snowcone stand space requests by Terry Whitaker of Alto. Commissioners indicated all such stands may be disallowed in the near future, and that outdoor vendor stands may jeopardize the new desired image of the downtown area.

Whitaker applied for an amended commercial site development to allow his stands to be placed at Sierra Blanca Motors Body Shop next to Furr's Supermarket; a property owned by Frank Saynor off Mechem Drive; and at 2722 Sudderth Drive on property owned by Jimmy Goodwin.

Whitaker said his request was sailing along smoothly until the village began receiving complaints from another stand operation, Roasted Corn.

He said at that time, restrictions he was unaware of began to surface such as the need for public restrooms for his customers or his help. He said he was under the impression that such facilities didn't need public restrooms.

"We're not a restaurant. We're not McDonalds. We don't do the volume they do," Whitaker said. "To me, we're no different than a Coke machine. The only difference is that someone is handing that (snowcone) to you."

He said not once since he has been in operation at Ruidoso Downs has anyone asked if there was a restroom. He said he had written permission to use the restrooms at the sites he was requesting.

Whitaker said his employees would have weekend access to a restroom at the Sierra Blanca Motor Bodyshop location because owner Johnny Durham will furnish him keys to the bodyshop.

Commission chairman Mike Radziewicz asked if Durham's bodyshop restroom complied with the American's for Disability Act (ADA).

He told Whitaker that he would be classified as a restaurant and his landlord might have to comply with the ADA.

Whitaker said the public has been overwhelmingly in support.

"Everyone we've talked to said you need to be in town, this (stand) should be in Ruidoso, this caters to the tourists and the festive mountain atmosphere," Whitaker told the commission. "It's the right colors, the right architecture, they would love to see this. We have had not one negative comment."

The commission approved Whitaker's request at the body shop because of sufficient parking space and access to a restroom on premises; however, it denied the other two requests because of inadequate restroom facilities.

Marlene Traster followed Whitaker with a request for a hot dog stand outside the Four Seasons Mall near the corner of Eagle Drive and Sudderth.

Planner Richardson said Traster's application was faulted because full plans with dimensions and locations were not provided.

Richards said Traster's area was substantially deficient in providing parking, and the proposed hot dog stand operation would further increase parking deficiency.

The commission denied Traster's request.

ROSLYN ENJADY AND ELIZABETH COMANCHE

Indian maidens will celebrate coming of age

Two Mescalero girls will come of age in puberty rites ceremonies June 16 through June 20.

Roslyn Daaskada Enjady and Elizabeth Pearl Comanche, both 13 years old, will spend the four days praying and dancing in the medicine tepees as part of the purification rites.

Roslyn Enjady is a descendant of Chief Cochise through her mother's side and Chief Victorio through her father's side. She is Chiracahua Apache, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Comanche and Larry Enjady.

She will be an eighth grader at Ruidoso Middle School this fall, and she enjoys playing volleyball and basketball.

Her medicine man is Sidney Baca and her medicine woman is Fleeta Padilla.

Elizabeth Comanche is Chiracahua Apache, a descendant of Shanta Boy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Comanche and Nora Standingelk.

In the fall she will be a freshman at Ruidoso High School. She enjoys playing basketball and spending time with her brothers and sisters.

Her medicine man is Joey Padilla and her medicine woman is Ceda Shanta.

At sunrise on June 16, the medicine men and women will erect the medicine tepees. The medicine fire must burn all four days without dying.

The girls have learned to cook traditional Indian foods such as fry bread and mescal, which is cooked in a pit for four days.

After the ceremony, the young women will take up adult responsibilities in the home, assisting their mother with daily tasks.

The public is invited to attend the puberty rites ceremony at Palmer Loop on the reservation. The family will serve lunch and dinner, and every evening the dance of mountain gods begins at dusk.

82,402, but in Lincoln County, it was King who won with a slim 698 votes to Montoya's 660.

Attorney General Tom Udall, a Democrat and his general election challenger Donald G. Bruckner, a Republican, were both unopposed in their primaries.

Stirling Spencer, a Lincoln County Commissioner who is running for State Public Lands Commissioner was unopposed in his primary. He'll-face incumbent Ray Powell Jr. in the general election. Powell, who was appointed by the governor, effectively pounded his Democratic challengers with 105,684 votes statewide to Sam Bregman's 44,249 and Ronald Miles' 24,010. He also won in the Lincoln County primary with 899 to 371 and 245 by Bregman and Miles.

In the last of the state races, Gloria Tristani emerged as the Democratic opponent for unopposed Republican Peggy Hegleson.

Tristani also won in the county election with 623 votes compared to Louis E. Gallegos with 388 and Juan A. Montoya with 258.

County Clerk Martha Proctor said the local election went smoothly with no technical foul-ups or challenges by those who lost.

Hoyt Clifton, director of the State Elections Division, reported that about 48 percent of the registered Democrats statewide voted compared to 46 percent of the Republicans.

P&Z says fix it up or tear it down

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A Ruidoso man was given 120 days to correct zoning violations of a two story add on to his property, or to remove the structure he built without a permit.

Flavio Vigil of 111 Third Street agreed with the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission that he had built a two story addition to his small cabin without a building permit, against a giant pine tree that cut through the eave of the structure, in violation of the rear and side yard setbacks, and in violation of several building codes, including the foundation of the house.

To meet compliance, Vigil told the council he would hire an engineer and excavate to bring the foundation to code, purchase additional land from an adjoining land owner to comply with the back lot line setback, arrange to have the 150-foot pine removed, hire a contractor to correct building mistakes he had made, and pay double to triple permit fees as restitution.

Village planner Cleatus Richards told the commission it may be cheaper for Vigil to dismantle the building. Vigil built the structure himself with, reportedly, about $3,000 in lumber.

Richards said if Vigil followed codes, reconstructed the building at the front of his property where space is available without violating a setback, the council could consider a side yard variance and the cost to Vigil would be at a minimum.

Commission chairman Mike Radziewicz also told Vigil that there were many serious problems with the structure.

"For your cost effectiveness, it sure looks like it would be easier to dismantle, reuse the wood and rebuild in front of the house," Radziewicz said.

Vigil, however, said he preferred the building stay at the rear of his cabin.

Vigil said cost effectiveness is no one's problem but his.

Downs cleanup efforts are stalled by village employee

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

While volunteers are cleaning up Highway 70 in Ruidoso Downs, the village is asking for the fifth time that Ruidoso Downs police officer Ray Montes clean up his own property.

Code enforcement officer Tom Armstrong first notified Montes that he was in violation of the Village Nuisance Ordinance in November 1993. On January 20, after a second notice and a citation, Montes was taken to court and Judge Harold Mansell gave him an additional four and a half months to clean up his act.

Montes hauled off a huge pile of apple crates and two broken down vehicles, leaving only things like haphazard stacks of lumber, some tires, a carseat and a bag of golf clubs on his littered private property.

"I got rid of everything you took pictures of," Montes said to The Ruidoso News. "And I burned some brush — I've had several burn permits — and I cut down a few trees."

Montes' place still doesn't meet Armstrong's standards, and his report to Judge Mansell said so.

"I think the only thing the judge can do is fine him," said Armstrong on Tuesday.

On Wednesday Armstrong said Judge Mansell had found Montes in compliance, according to the letter of Armstrong's citation. Specifically the report noted "the accumulation of boxes, a 4x4 Scout inoperable, one Chevy pickup dismantled must be in storage area."

"That was a long time ago," Armstrong said. "I guess I'll have to cite him again because I don't consider it cleaned up."

Montes said he has resisted compliance with the code ordinance because his neighbor, Ken Allgood, who filed the original complaint, was not civil and did not go directly to Montes.

Allgood said he has offered to help Montes clean up the trash, including offering the use of his truck.

"It would only take a few hours," Allgood said of the remaining trash.

Montes contends that as a police officer he doesn't have time to be a model citizen. Allgood contends that the laws should be applied fairly to everyone, including village employees.

Mayor Hayhurst has said that cleaning up Ruidoso Downs is one of his objectives, a goal set in response to community request. In a recent interview with Montes, The News mentioned that Ruidoso Downs seems to have an image problem.

"Yeah, it always has and it always will," said Montes. "It shouldn't be that way, but it is."

Meanwhile, concerned citizens are making an effort to at least sweep off the front porch in Ruidoso Downs by cleaning up Highway 70.

The back yard of Ruidoso Downs police officer Ray Montes has been in violation of the Village Nuisance Ordinance since November, 1993. After two warnings and a citation, Montes received from Judge Harold Mansell an additional four and a half months to comply. Although Montes is still in violation of the code, Mansell did not charge him the $300 per day fine because the remaining mess, including tires and lumber, was not specifically noted in the citation written by code enforcement officer Tom Armstrong. Montes said he can't see why his non-compliance matters so much.

Council OKs state funds for Midtown parking, restrooms

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council paved the way Monday for a new municipal parking lot and restrooms in the downtown area.

During a special morning meeting, the council approved an amendment to the Supplemental Joint Powers Severance Tax Agreement between the village and the New Mexico State Highway and Transportation Department.

Originally, $150,000 was allocated for MainStreet phase two and three designs.

State Representative John Underwood (D) submitted a bill this year that the legislature approved to reallocate the entire $150,000 for improvements in phase one, such as parking, primarily. Also funds were approved to build restrooms.

Village manager Gary Jackson said the council had wanted a simple agreement that simply stated restrooms and parking to be paid from the $150,000. But he said state procedures disallowed anything but an amendment to the existing construction contract.

Jackson said Ron Forte, deputy secretary for the highway department, assured Underwood that the amendment agreement route would accomplish the village goals of parking and restrooms.

The council also considered easements for pedestrian and vehicular traffic and parking for MainStreet.

Jackson said the village needs to establish an access easement from Sudderth Drive to the parking lot area being purchased off of El Paso Street.

He said the easement would be in two different segments, one a pedestrian walkway between Mountain Arts and the Covered Wagon. The other segment is for a driveway on the west side of the Mountain Arts property.

The council's motion was to authorize village staff and attorney Underwood to secure these easements.

The third item on the special agenda related to the easements and the severance tax money.

A 10,000 square piece of land directly behind Mountain Arts which consists of the west half of Lot 8, all of Lot 9 and the east half of Lot 10 (100 feet by 100 feet) is being purchased by the village for $40,000.

The property abuts El Paso Street on the north, Mountain Arts on the south and the Covered Wagon parking lot on the east.

The council authorized the purchase at $4 per square foot. It was appraised by Bill Carrigan, Realtor and appraiser.

Jackson said, based on the appraisals of comparable land in the area, the $4 per square foot "is a very reasonable price."

Restroom money was made available by the approval of the severance tax amendment.

The village will proceed with the plans for restrooms to be located in the Eagle Drive right of way on the south side of Sudderth Drive behind LeClaires A-frames and next to the Ruidoso Store.

Plans call for the restrooms to be 18 feet by 35 feet, Americans with Disability Act compliance, and recessed 20 feet off of Sudderth Drive. The recess will allow for a plaza area with benches, trash containers and a community bulletin board. The estimated cost of the project is $40,000 and will come from severance tax and village money.

Jackson said the cost would be paid with the severance tax money approved earlier in the meeting.

In a workshop meeting that followed the special meeting, no action was taken, however various portions of the personnel code were discussed such as:

—procedures for appointing the village manager, village clerk and the police chief.

—sick leave accumulation. Jackson told the council the new policy established last September appeared to be imperfect.

Jackson was not with the village at the time the code was amended in September of 1993. He said it was important that the council understand the financial impact of the amendment.

He said sick leave liability for fiscal 1994-95 budget was $171,000. Jackson reminded the council that this policy and resulting liability was discussed in the budget workshop and if not amended will be a continuing financial commitment recurring annually.

Longevity outlined in last September's amendment also was discussed.

Jackson told the council that $4 a month for each month of employment up to a cap of $1,200 is set aside for the employee. He said this was paid early December of each year.

Under the amended September code, upon termination, longevity is paid again. Jackson said this could lead to an inequity.

Several councilors said that was not the intent of the code and suggested village staff review and revise the plan. Jackson indicated he prefers a pro rata system.

The council also discussed an amendment that would present an option of a once a year merit increase or an ongoing raise based on the village fiscal status.

Deputy AG chastises commission for open meetings violation

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer
Lincoln County Commissioners violated the provisions of a new law that allows conference call participation for members who cannot attend meetings in person, according to a state assistant attorney general.

Bob Johnson, executive director of the New Mexico Foundation for Open Government (FOG), challenged the use of a conference call hookup by the commission March 30.

Three commissioners participated over the telephone from their places of business in Ruidoso and Glencoe, another from a location in Albuquerque. The fifth commissioner was out of state and was not involved.

In her letter to Commission Chairman Monroy Montes, assistant attorney general Elizabeth A. Glenn wrote that she had received a complaint from Johnson alleging that the commission violated the Open Meetings Act when it conducted a meeting entirely by conference call. "As discussed in more detail below, the Open Meetings Act ... contemplates that members of a public body may participate in a meeting by conference telephone in some circumstances, but cannot be construed to permit a public body to conduct a meeting entirely by telephone."

But she said her office would not pursue any sanction against the commission.

"Given the apparent confusion over the reach of Section 10-15-1(C), we will not take further action regarding this matter," she wrote. "However, in the future, commission members should be permitted to participate in meetings by conference telephones only in the limited circumstances specified in the provision."

"Finally, all meetings, including those where participation by conference telephone is permitted, must be held in a location accessible to members of the public who want to attend and listen."

Montes said his board and former county manager Andy Wynham never intended to skirt the law.

"I don't want to put any blame on Andy or our attorney," he said. "Andy clearly thought the provisions covered what we did. I appreciate having the confusion on this issue cleared up."

"This was not done in an effort to hide anything. It seemed like an innovative way (of taking care of a short meeting and an absent commissioner). We never intended to exclude the public or go around the intent."

"We announced the meeting in advance and The Ruidoso News carried a story before the fact that it would be our first conference call meeting."

"The public could have attended with Andy and other officials listening on a speaker phone. It was an honest mistake."

The provision for conference calling was passed by the State Legislature in 1993, and was added to the county commission's Open Meetings Act compliance resolution in 1994.

Glenn pointed out that the provision is to be used "when it is otherwise difficult or impossible for the member to attend the meeting in person, provided that each member participating by conference telephone can be identified when speaking, all participants are able to hear each other at the same time and members of the public attending the meeting are able to hear any member of the public body who speaks during the meeting."

She wrote that three tests must be met to use the provision: that the body is authorized under existing law to conduct the public meeting, that it be used in situations "where their inability to attend would otherwise prevent them from participating," and that members of the public attending the meeting are able to hear all of the officials.

"Merely inconvenience or a desire to save money is not enough to justify participation by conference telephone," Glenn wrote. "Absent an emergency or other exigent circumstances, if a quorum of a public body's members are unable to attend a meeting in person, the meeting should be rescheduled."

"In this case, only those members of the county commission who otherwise could not have attended the meeting in person should have been permitted to participate by telephone conference. Those members for whom it was simply easier to participate by telephone rather than driving to the meeting should have attended in person."

"Accordingly, the commission meeting at issue here should have been structured so that commission members who were able to attend in person met in one location that was open and accessible to the public. Then, the voices of members who participated by conference telephone should have been broadcast to the same location in accordance with the requirement (of the law)."

Johnson, who lodged the complaint with the attorney general, said he's satisfied with the results. "I believe this advice was all that was called for in this situation," he told The News. "I also believe Ms. Glenn's explanation that the legislature did not write the Open Meetings Act as a money saving device is adequate response to (Wynham's) complaining about the mileage expense."

Johnson took exception to Wynham's questioning his motivation for pursuing a complaint.

"My answer to Mr. Wynham's crack about FOG, as quoted in your May 5 story, is that our motive is ensuring open government," Johnson said. "The wording of the statute is clear. Despite Mr. Wynham's protest, it appears the commission's motive was convenience rather than economy or access by the public or compliance with the law."

"In any case, Mr. Wynham cannot rewrite the statute to make life easier for the commissioners or to save $25, the estimated $45 for the mileage less the estimated $20 cost of the conference call."

35 apply for county manager's job

The job must be appealing in a death wish sort of way. By the deadline last Friday, the Lincoln County Commission received 35 applications for the position of county manager.

Among them was a resume from former manager Andy Wynham, who resigned last month amid a dispute over his $200 a month appointment as Carrizozo municipal judge and other philosophical and personality clashes with commissioners.

His departure after more than two years on the job was as sudden as that of Nick Pappas, his predecessor, who was bumped with the rise and fall of political power on the commission board.

Wynham was earning $50,000 a year as manager, but commissioners may start their new helmsman as much as $15,000 lower, according to the advertisement for the job.

Commissioners have made it clear they aren't looking for someone too aggressive. Yet, those on the board at the time of the Pappas's termination complained that his style was not aggressive enough.

Although most of the applicants are men, two women (one local) applied. The names of the applicants will not be released until commissioners come up with a short list scheduled for interviews.

Local applicants besides Wynham who submitted their resumes include four persons from Alto and five from Ruidoso.

Names not on the local list that had been mentioned as possible candidates are Ruidoso Village Police Chief Richard Swenor, who has resigned effective at the end of June, and former county commissioner Karon Petty.

Resumes from candidates in neighboring communities include two from High Rolls and three from Alamogordo.

Applications came in from five Texas residents in Midland, Gardendale, Odessa, Arlington and Lubbock.

Albuquerque was represented on the lineup of hopefuls by seven applicants. Other New Mexicans interested in the job come from Magdalena, Hobbs, Roswell, Las Cruces and Zuni.

From across the country, applications were mailed to Lincoln County from San Jose, California; Kissimmee, Florida; Detroit, Michigan; and Cape Girardeau, Missouri.

Commissioners to canvass & caucus Friday in Carrizozo

Taking advantage of a required meeting to certify the votes from Lincoln County's primaries, county commissioners have planned a full agenda of items to tackle Friday.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. in the county courthouse in Carrizozo.

Commissioners will discuss the process for selecting a new county manager from among the 35 applicants, will designate Martha Guevara as acting county manager, will consider an ordinance to crack down on illegal dumping suggested by Commissioner Wilton Howell, are scheduled to appoint a member to the Extraterritorial Zoning Commission and will take action on requests for proposals.

Chairman Monroy Montes is on the agenda to talk about a county computer hook up that could facilitate process and access to real estate records.

Inn golf course rates 4 stars

The Inn of the Mountain Gods golf course was rated four-star in the Golf Digest 1994-1995 Places to Play course guide.

The guide includes the most complete information currently available on more than 1,700 courses in the United States, Canada and the Caribbean, with an added bonus: candid ratings by Golf Digest's subscribers.

According to a release from Golf Digest, subscribers were asked to play the public and resort courses in their own areas and rate them on two criteria: the golf experience and value for the money.

More than 10,000 subscribers responded with more than 100,000 evaluations — some laudatory, some harsh. Each entry lists subscriber comments ranging from "Worth the loan it takes to play here." to "Lousy tees, lousy greens, lousy starts, lousy golfers."

Golfers said the Inn's course was: "a beautiful setting, located on Indian land and a national forest, a breathtaking experience, a fun course, pretty hilly, some great water holes, an island fairway, greens always 11-12 on the stimp-meter."

Though the Inn was not listed among the 125 "Great" or "Super Values," it was ranked the fifth best course in the state of New Mexico.

Piñon Hills Golf Course in Farmington was deemed the single greatest value among all the courses listed. Only six courses received a five-star rating.

The course guide was included free with all subscriber and newsstand copies of the April issue of Golf Digest. Fodor's Travel Publications, publishers of the most influential line of English-language travel guides, have published its version, called "Golf Digest's Best Places to Play," available for $8.95 in bookstores nationwide.

"We'll be giving out trophies and ribbons," said Dick White. "I expect a better turn-out this year since last year it rained and they had some roping going on at the same time."

Everyone is invited to try barrel racing, pole bending, buddy rescue, balloon racing and many more events.

Inside the Outdoors

Think before you pick up a wild animal baby

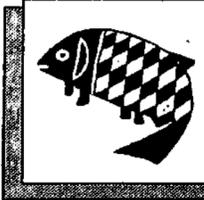

Spring is a wonderful time of year. The forests literally come to life with blooming flowers, small creeks flowing with early runoff, insects buzzing around, and shortly the air will be filled with the chirping of baby birds.

Most wild animals have their young in the spring because the warming temperatures, abundant moisture and plentiful food make it easier to rear their young.

The animals that are being born this spring will grow quickly through the summer and in most cases they will be ready to face life on their own in the fall. That is, if people leave them alone.

If this year is the same as in the past, folks will be bringing in a variety of wild babies to game department offices. Often they mean well, but just don't understand that the Department of Game and Fish is not capable of taking care of every wild animal brought in. Before you, or anybody else, picks up one of these wild critters I would like to point out a few things.

Those young critters are cute, cuddly animals and many think it would be neat to try and raise one. For a while they are fun and easy to handle, however, they soon begin to grow. People quickly realize that an elk calf grows big and that cute baby raccoon, has an attitude problem.

Usually, at this point they have the sense to call up the Game and Fish Department and beg that we come take the animal away!

Then there is the good Samaritan, who thinking that the young animal has been orphaned or abandoned by its mother, picks it up and brings it into our office for us to raise.

Very seldom is the animal in fact orphaned. Wild animals often hide their young while they go off to feed or get water. This is normal and helps protect their young from predators.

In most cases the animal is not lost until somebody finds it and tries to take it for help.

Additionally, many people don't realize that it is against the law to possess wild animals without a special permit. The only people who hold permits to possess these wild animals are trained professionals who rehabilitate injured or young animals and return them back to the wild.

The best thing to do if you find an animal you think is orphaned or abandoned is to contact the Game and Fish Department and let us make the decision. Even if you know for certain the mother is dead or gone, let a conservation officer take care of the young animal. This will eliminate any problems.

Once a young animal is taken out of the wild they are very difficult to raise, even by trained professionals, and many will die. It is also almost always impossible to return them to the wild.

Remember this if you happen to find a young wild animal, think before you pick it up. Your actions may not only affect you, but also the animal you think you are rescuing.

Capitan Volksmarch honors Smokey Bear

Capitan, the birthplace of Smokey Bear the nation's living symbol for Forest Fire Prevention, will be the site of a 10-K volksmarch, Saturday and Sunday, June 11-12, to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the birth of Smokey.

The 10-K event will follow scenic state road 243 northward from the start point near the Smokey Bear State Park visitor center.

The first 50 walkers registering for this event will receive a Smokey T-shirt and cap, and the next 100 will receive a Smokey visitors packet.

The event, co-sponsored by the Ruidoso Mountaimarschers and the Friends of Smokey, will be the second in the Lincoln National Forest developed around the 50th anniversary theme. The first was scheduled June 4 and 5 at Cloudcroft, by the Holloman Sun Runners Club.

In the aftermath of a disastrous fire in the Capitan Mountains, Smokey Bear was found on May 19, 1950, clinging to the trunk of a burned tree.

The idea of a "Smokey Bear" had been conceived earlier in 1944-45 by the U.S. Forest Service. The campaign for safety in the forest was well under way when the two-and-a-half month old, four pound black bear cub was found. He was badly burned and the rangers who found him thought it quite natural to call him "Smokey."

When Smokey eventually died in 1976, his body was returned to Capitan from his home at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C. and he was buried at the Smokey Bear Historical Park.

Friends of Smokey also have other activities planned to celebrate Smokey's 50th birthday, including Smokey Bear Day at the races on Friday, July 1, at Ruidoso Downs Race Track and the Smokey Bear Stampede July 1-4 in Capitan.

P&Z goes back to school on parliamentary rules

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso Councilor Leon Eggleston opened the planning and zoning commission meeting Monday with a discussion and lesson on parliamentary procedure.

On May 16, a hearing was held on a request for a zone map amendment. Leah Jones wanted to rezone an easterly portion of her property bordering Mechem Drive from C-2 community business to R-1 single family.

No motion or action was taken at the hearing, leaving the issue unresolved and denying Jones of any right of appeal.

The commission welcomed parliamentarian Eggleston's advice on what appears to be a procedural error at the meeting.

Eggleston told the commission that in order to close hearings on Jones' request, an action by the commission is required. He said issues do not die due to a lack of motion.

According to Eggleston, the commission in all instances should make a positive motion. He said a proper motion would be for approval or table for a specific period. He said to table indefinitely would also deprive applicant of appeal rights.

The commission, after further discussion, made a motion to follow staff's recommendation on the zone map amendment and deny Jones. The denial was unanimously approved.

In other business, the commission:

—approved a replat request by Ron Andrews of a 5.057 acre tract off Gavilan Canyon near the White Mountain Meadows entrance gate.

The replat would divide the property into two tracts: tract one would have about 1.5 acres; tract two, about 3.5 acres.

Water and sewer superintendent Richard Sanchez said the water line on Gavilan is high pressure and individual water taps would not be allowed. Lots must be served from a single tap with pressure reducer according to Sanchez.

The commission followed staff's recommendations with the condition that utilities be extended to each lot.

—conditionally approved a replat request by William Blaney for a replat of Blaney's Lost Mountain Tract, 4.1751 acres with 50 feet of frontage on Bench Street.

Blaney is combining four parcels into one parcel and requested to vacate a 30-foot utility easement along the west and south side of the tract and the dedication of a 10-foot easement over a portion of the tract.

Richard Sanchez reviewed the proposed easement vacation and recommended that the 30-foot easement be retained. Richards said the full extent of the utility needs has not been determined to serve the Grindstone Subdivision and transmission line for the water reservoir, to be located on adjoining lots.

Richards said the full 30-foot may be required in addition to the 10-foot easement long the rear lot line of lots in the Grindstone Subdivision.

The commission approved the replat on the condition that the plat be revised to retain the existing 30-foot utility easement.

Scott Ingram and Jeff Chapman were two dissenting votes.

—conditionally approved a replat request by Blaney Enterprises to further subdivide Tract B, 3.68 acres, into two tracts, containing 1.122 acres and 2.561 acres. This land is located above the Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Richards told the commission that the plan as submitted does not indicate utility extensions to serve Tract B2.

The commission acted to allow the Blaney subdivision with access by a private drive and required extension of water and sewer to the site.

Blaney is appealing the actions on both replats by the commission.

—approved a replat and variance for Emilio and Blanca Cano to replat and consolidate their lots in the Palmer Gateway Subdivision.

The commission granted a 10-foot variance.

Cano plans to build a house in the area.

—approved a conditional use request by the Community United Methodist Church for a daycare center at 212 Junction Street.

Mitchell P. Wright, a neighbor, asked the commission to deny the request, saying that increased traffic and noise would disturb the serenity of the neighborhood.

The commission indicated that changes in the neighborhood would be minimal.

—denied an amended commercial site development request by C.B.J. Development Inc., owners of Four Seasons Mall. Marlene Traister, speaking for owner Billie Tiller, said the purpose of the request was to permit fencing the Four Seasons Mall parking lot and charge a parking fee.

—approved a conditional use, variance and commercial site development by Jace Ensor for his property at 124 Wingfield.

Ensor plans a building materials storage building and possible resale.

Richards said, according to code, materials stored outside at lumber yards are required to be screened from adjacent properties with a minimum eight foot high fence.

Richards said the property, located across the street from Lincoln Cable, has a compatible use with adjoining properties.

Dick Weber, owner of Shadow Mountain Lodge, asked for a delay in approval. He said several nearby owners had not received their notification from the planning department.

Richards said his records reflect all property owners within 200 feet had been properly notified by mail.

—tabled until July 5, consideration of an amended commercial site development by Claude Miller to add a 20-foot by 40-foot storage facility which would eliminate three parking spaces adjoining his retail store.

Richards said that Miller has exceeded the number of sales vehicles on his property and is storing furniture and other sales items on the outside of his building.

The commission examined pictures of Miller's property.

Miller said he would reduce the number of sales cars and stop outside storage display of sales items.

—allowed an amended commercial site development conditional use request by Jack Bauer for Y-Knot Park.

Bauer will substitute a theater operation with a seating capacity not to exceed 216 persons into the auto repair store that closed there recently.

A commission condition of the approval was for the area to be cleared of junk cars, tires and other debris; and all parking areas to be striped and fences removed which limit access to the property and parking areas.

Bauer said Y-Knot Park had been sold recently and is under new management.

Belmont Stakes simulcast joins the $10,000 Mescalero Apache 'Cap this Saturday at the Downs

The simulcast of the $500,000 Belmont Stakes, the third jewel in the thoroughbred Triple Crown, and the $10,000-added Mescalero Apache Handicap highlight the 23-race program scheduled Saturday at Ruidoso Downs.

The 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes looks like a rematch between Kentucky Derby winner Go For Gin and Derby runner-up Strodes Creek. Go For Gin ran a strong second in the Preakness Stakes behind Tabasco Cat, while Strodes Creek skipped the second Triple Crown race in order to focus on the Belmont.

Tabasco Cat and the talented colt Brocco also must be considered in the Belmont, which is the seventh race on the program.

The six furlong Mescalero Apache Handicap drew a solid field of sprinters including recent stakes winner Power Stretch and the consistent performer Speed Alert.

Power Stretch and Speed Alert most recently finished second and third respectively behind the speedy gelding Narbonne High in a $6,000 allowance contest here last weekend. It was the second outing of the meet for Power Stretch who captured the Sunland Park Mall Handicap in El Paso in April.

The Doyal Roberts-charge is owned by Fletcher Hall of Capitan, and will be ridden by Gilbert Villescias.

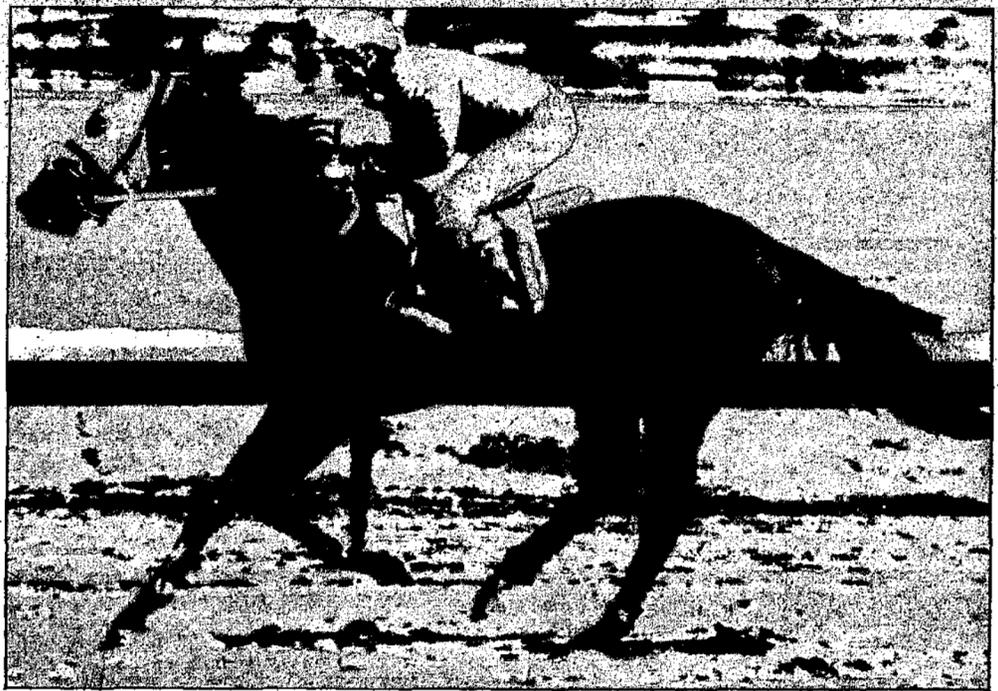

Barr and Black's Speed Alert, who resides in the Jon Arnett shedrow, seems to be steadily improving in each of his last two outings.

The 7-year-old With Caution gelding was fourth in the 870-yard Fine Loom Handicap on May 22, then came back strongly to finish only three lengths behind Narbonne High in his last performance. Oscar Ceballos is named to ride Speed Alert in the Mescalero Apache.

Whiskey Bullet, the third place finisher in the Governor's Handicap and Dart, a stakes winner here last year, round out the classy field expected to go to post in the Saturday feature.

The entire nine-race card from Hollywood Park will be simulcast Saturday.

The Grade II $100,000 Inglewood Handicap for 3-year-olds and up going 1 1/16th miles on the turf is the Hollywood feature.

With the beat

Fine Dance defeats Set Records in a stirring stretch duel in the Norgor Derby Handicap at Ruidoso Downs. Fine Dance is the gelded son of Dance Centre.

Rocket On Over seeks third straight win in Friday feature

Garza and Torres' Rocket On Over will attempt to stretch his unbeaten streak to three when he faces a contentious field of $5,000 claiming foes in the Friday afternoon feature race at Ruidoso Downs.

The 400-yard feature fills the ninth event on the 10-race program which commences at 1 p.m.

Rocket On Over, a 4-year-old gelding by leading sire First Down Dash, easily defeated similar claiming competition in his last two starts at Sunland Park and will make his first start at Ruidoso this summer.

The Ben Torres-trainee defeated a group of $3,500 claimers by 1 3/4-lengths on April 22, then came back one week later to give another winning performance versus $4,000 competition.

Jerry Rodriguez is named to ride Rocket On Over.

Pie Plated, a 1 1/4-length victor here May 27, and Six O One who beat $2,500 claimers by a half-length on May 20, should provide the strongest threats to snap Rocket On Over's win streak in the showcase event.

The full 10-race card from Hollywood Park will also be offered Friday.

First post for "Hollywood Nights" is 8 p.m. Admission is free. Common-pool wagering, which allows local handicappers to bet directly into the Hollywood Park mutual pools, is available every race.

Fine Dance wins the $14,675 Norgor

16-1 longshot Fine Dance rallied from last to first to narrowly defeat heavily favored Set Records by a head in the $14,675 Norgor Derby, Saturday at Ruidoso Downs.

The loss snapped Set Records' five-race undefeated streak at Ruidoso and denied him a chance at becoming the fifth horse in history to sweep both the Norgor Futurity and Derby.

Fine Dance, a California-bred gelding by Dance Centre, was last at the start of the six furlong sprint for 3-year-olds, but moved into contention along the rail as the field neared the turn for home.

At the top of the lane, jockey Joe Martinez guided Fine Dance to the outside and he moved boldly to join Set Records in mid-stretch. Down the lane, Fine Dance and Set Records battled head-and-head, but Fine Dance had a little more left at the finish to get up for the victory.

The Bob Arnett-trainee was clocked in 1:11.2.

"He's a slow breaker, so Bob told me to take him back at the start, but he was still moving good," said Martinez who won his second career Norgor Derby. "As soon as he made the lead he was pricking his ears and wanted to hang, so he should've won easier."

Arnett said that before the race he wasn't sure how Fine Dance would do in his first Ruidoso stakes outing. "I didn't know how good this horse was, but he should get better and better now. It's quite an accomplishment to beat a horse like him (Set Records) because he ran against Polar Expedition and Southern Rhythm who won all those big races."

Arnett was speaking of Set Records' spring campaign at Oaklawn Park where he ran in some early prep races for the Kentucky Derby.

Fine Dance, who is owned by Buck Abbott of Oro Grande, California, earned $8,805 for the win. The gelding has now won three of nine career starts with earnings of nearly $20,000.

Set Records, a career earner of $132,000, received $3,228 for his efforts.

The Kentucky-bred son of Sauce Boat is owned by Margaret Bloss and Margaret duPont of El Paso and trained by Doyal Roberts. David Lidberg was the rider.

Pattonmedicineman with Carlos Rivas aboard finished 3 1/4-lengths back in third. The Debonair Roger gelding earned $1,467 as second runner-up. The Hermengildo Aldavaz-charge is owned by Norris and Jo Anne Patton of Pala, California.

Classical Reason battled for the early lead, gained a comfortable advantage entering the turn for home, then coasted home down the lane under jockey Jimmy Coates to post a two-length victory in the $10,000 claiming feature, Friday at Ruidoso Downs.

The Janice Dunivan-trained filly, sent off the 9-5 favorite in the five-horse field, broke second behind 2-1 shot Rosiego, but led by 1 1/2-lengths along the backstretch. At the top of the lane, Classical Reason had stretched her lead to three lengths, then went on to win handily in a time of 1:12.4 for the six furlongs.

Fabulous Reason earned $2,220 for her efforts.

Specially Fast dominates foes in the $63,294 Rainbow Silver Cup

Specially Fast popped the gates to take the early lead, then held off a late challenge from favorite Yawls Rabbit to score a half-length victory over some of the nation's top older quarter horses in the Grade I $63,294 Rainbow Silver Cup, Sunday at Ruidoso Downs.

Trained by Dwayne "Sleepy" Gilbreath and ridden by Bruce Pilkenton, Specially Fast had a head advantage over 7-5 favorite Yawls Rabbit midway through the 440-yard dash.

Under constant urging by Pilkenton, the gelding maintained a slight lead with 100 yards to go, then edged clear at the wire to secure the win. Specially Fast was timed in :21.89 over a fast track.

"He left the gates like a bullet and ran strong the whole quarter mile," said the veteran rider Pilkenton who won his first Rainbow Silver Cup.

"Sleepy had him fit and on his toes and he ran accordingly."

Gilbreath, who had not started Specially Fast since last December, said the six month layoff improved the 4-year-old son of Dash For Cash.

"We just got him fit through works and he's been wanting to run for two or three weeks. We ran him kind of late last year and he really needed a rest."

Specially Fast earned $31,647 for owner's Six G's Stables Inc., D. Gibson and James Helzer of Arlington, Texas. The gelding ran third in both the All American and Rainbow Derbies last year as well as a fourth place finish in the Kansas Derby.

Specially Fast has a career bankroll of $112,425 from four wins in 18 starts.

Yawls Rabbit finished second, a half-length in front of 2-1 second choice Perfect Sign. Yawls Rabbit was the stronger half of a two-horse entry, which also included Angels Are Special, owned by James Lewter and trained by Tim Cross.

The 4-year-old son of By Yawl won the Grade III Mr Jet Moore in his most recent start, but came up short today. Second place was worth $10,759 to Lewter of Clovis, Jerry Rodriguez was the rider.

Suzann Marney's Perfect Sign was highly regarded coming into the Silver Cup after an impressive allowance victory here last weekend in his first start for trainer John Bassett.

JENNIFER ELDRIDGE

Jennifer Eldridge, the 20-year-old Lincoln County Fair Queen, will be on her way to Albuquerque in less than three months to represent her home county in the State Fair competition on horseback and on the stage.

Fair queen saddles up for state competition

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Boosters think this time Lincoln County's chances of being the home of the State Fair Queen rank high. They're banking their hopes on Jennifer Eldridge, a graceful 5-foot, 11 3/4-inch in stocking feet, an accomplished equestrian and a brain to boot.

"She's wonderful," gushes Mary Dell Jones, who works hard each year trying to recruit candidates, prepare the local contest and usher the winner to the state fair.

"She (Eldridge) looks like a queen on horseback. She's very well poised. I think she'll do it for our county (at the state fair in Albuquerque). She was so inspiring to the members of the Sheriff's Posse, county fair association and other boosters, they're talking about forming a caravan to go up with her and cheer for her during the contest."

Equally enthusiastic is the county's fair queen herself.

"Ever since I was a little girl, I've dreamed of becoming the Lincoln County Fair Queen," she said Tuesday during an interview at the Alto Golf and Country Club, where she manages the swimming pool.

Eldridge was selected last Saturday as Lincoln County Fair Queen based on her horse handling ability and her personality.

As winner, she will be sponsored by the County Fair Association and the Sheriff's Posse to compete at state. She'll spend four days at the fair in Albuquerque with girls representing the other 23 counties that participate.

Jones said they'll be entertained during the day at the fairground and at night, they'll ride in the grand entry and meet the different stars performing at the concerts. Jones promises it will be experience Eldridge will remember fondly whether or not she wins the queen title.

Other appearances at home will include Eldridge's crowning as part of the July Fourth celebration at the fairground in Capitan.

The runner up for queen was Colinda "Coco" Whipple, 18, who will be a senior in Capitan high school next year and who says she plans to try for the title again.

Although a graduate of Capitan High School, Eldridge currently lives in Ruidoso. That's a good point as far as Jones is concerned, because she hopes in the future to attract more girls from the Ruidoso area to compete for the title, as well as the rest of the county.

Eldridge, the daughter of Idy Schweitzer and Jack Eldridge, moved to Capitan 14 years ago. She attends Eastern New Mexico University at Portales, where she's majoring in elementary education.

She was the recipient of three scholastic scholarships and plays on Eastern's volleyball team. Before graduating from high school, she was named to the 1992 All State teams and the North/South All Stars. But she's equally at ease on horseback as on the playing court.

Eldridge also is a person with a mission. She wants to generate new interest in the county fair queen program in high school girls, and even students in the younger grades.

"It seems that interest in representing the county has been lost by a lot of people," Eldridge said. "I plan to go to the schools and tell them how much fun it can be, the opportunities that could open up for them and how proud it makes you feel. I believe I personally will benefit from this experience by increasing my involvement in the community and with young children, by building my confidence and by helping set goals for the future. Someday I would like to be Miss Rodeo Queen America. I love challenge."

"I also want to thank the Sheriff's Posse, family, friends and the association for their support."

Roswell artists protest nuke waste plans

"Dumb Dump," an exhibition protesting storage of high-level nuclear waste on the Mescalero Apache Reservation, will open Friday, June 10, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Gallery 409 in Roswell.

Work by artists from across the nation who have ties to the area will be on display to show solidarity against a proposed nuclear storage facility on the reservation located in southeastern New Mexico.

According to a news release, the impetus for the show revolved around concerns for safety and a conviction that all who are affected should have a venue for voicing their position.

The possibility that a nuclear waste storage facility on a sovereign nation would not be subject to the same rigorous supervision and survey access as other similar types of facilities added to the general aversion of more nuclear waste storage in the state of New Mexico, continues the release.

The protest show includes well-known area artists such as Luis Jimenez who currently has a traveling retrospective show scheduled to appear at the National Museum of American Art.

His public sculptures are on permanent display in Houston, Albuquerque and San Diego among other cities. Jimenez has a reputation for artistic political commentary wedded with visual talent.

Other artists represented include Anton Van Dalen of New York who frequently makes pilgrimages with his family to the Hondo Valley located nearby the reservation.

Other participating artists such as Colleen Sterritt of Los Angeles, Phillis Ideal of Albuquerque and Walter Jackson of New York are associated with the Roswell Museum and Art Center as current or former artists-in-residence and consider the area their temporary home. Michael Hurd of San Patricio will also display artwork.

A large portion of the show will be dedicated to children's artwork produced in classes at the Roswell Museum. Youth artwork produced at the juvenile detention center in Roswell is also scheduled for display.

The exhibition, located at 309 East College Boulevard, Roswell, will run through Saturday, July 9.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and noon to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

The proposed siting of temporary storage for spent nuclear fuel rods is still in the planning stages. The Mescalero Apache Tribal Council, after working with the federal government for about three years using study grants from the Department of Energy, finally gave up on any government-initiated plans earlier this year.

Currently, 33 private utility companies and two nuclear industry contractors have stepped in, contributing funding for development of a monitored retrievable storage (MRS) facility on the reservation.

Following tribal approval, a licensing process with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is required whereupon an environmental impact statement will be developed in conjunction with extensive public hearings.

"Consider this show one of the first public hearings where the consensus is NO," said Adam Curtis, a participating artist.

EDC revisited: lots of tax money, limited results

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Every June since 1988, the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County was faced with a budget crisis. This June the crisis proved fatal.

Incorporated in 1987, EDC didn't really get rolling until 1990, boosted by a half-mill levy from the Lincoln County Commission. In three years the county paid EDC more than $200,000.

The Village of Ruidoso added $37,000 to the 1990-91 budget and continued the contract until this year. The village contract increasingly picked up the slack as county funds diminished over the years, and the corporation tightened its belt. The executive director salary, for example, was cut from $45,000 to $28,000.

In its first two years EDC garnered 150 members, hired an advertising agency, joined the New Mexico Business Quarter.

EDC claims credit for attracting four new businesses to the area — H&H Enterprises, Juma Farms, Apache Future and Warp Speed.

Of that group, only Warp Speed still exists, but recruits in following years were more successful.

From 1990 to 1991, EDC listed seven businesses which they helped relocate to Lincoln County, including Micrographics, Prairie States Insurance, Precision Wire, Richard's Puzzles, Noisy Water Artwear, Lincoln Laminated Logs and Cimarron Retirement Center. All but Lincoln Laminated Logs are still in business.

During that period EDC had active committees and hosted several seminars.

They sponsored an educational seminar for public leaders and economic development personnel in the states of New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona and Texas. Henry Cisneros, former mayor of San Antonio, Texas and a proponent of economic development was the luncheon speaker.

They hosted an inventors seminar to educate entrepreneurs in methods of proceeding through patenting and getting products into production. EDC hosted the annual meeting of the New Mexico Industrial Development Executives Association. For a while, the director of the Small Business Development Center at New Mexico State University-Alamogordo was available to small business owners twice a month at the EDC office.

They compiled a labor survey useful in informing prospects about the area.

Working with Phil Price Advertising Agency out of Lubbock,

Texas, EDC published an award-winning promotional brochure at a cost of $10 per brochure.

Director George Puckett was running a column in The News and attending trade shows and seminars in those days. EDC hit a slow spell when Puckett resigned in 1991, leaving his secretary, Anita Sanders, as interim director.

It was mid-1992 before Karen Kopp was hired as executive director. By then Lincoln County had withdrawn its financial support for EDC, setting aside $30,000 for economic development projects with accountability requirements. EDC was eligible to apply for those funds for specific purposes, but didn't follow through immediately. They were eventually granted $10,000 for advertising purposes.

Plagued by an inactive board who repeatedly failed to form a quorum, Kopp was limited in her work. She focused advertising on southern California, placing quarterly ads in the Journal of Corporate Expansion and Relocation, which has a circulation of 223,000 in Orange and Los Angeles Counties.

Kopp was also targeting telemarketing companies as a clean industry for Lincoln County. A direct mail piece on Lincoln County was scheduled to go out this month to 1033 companies across the United States.

She continued to host workshops and attend trade shows, relying on EDC membership in the Business Quarter since her budget was tight.

By 1994, EDC membership stood at 157, mostly original members who had paid a one-time $200 fee several years ago.

Citing a lack of measurable results and accountability, both the Village of Ruidoso and the Lincoln County Commission refused to fund EDCLC for the 1994-95 fiscal year.

"They [county commissioners] feel they've poured that money down a hole," said L. Ray Nunley at one EDC meeting.

Kopp managed to raise $17,500 in private and business contributions, but faced an estimated $81,000 budget for next year.

An appeal to their membership yielded only 19 responses, not enough encouragement for new president Dick Mound or the board to pursue another year. Kopp's current prospect list counts 23 prospective businesses and projects considering Lincoln County as their relocation or start-up site.

As of April 1994, the corporation had enough money to survive until September. The board voted this month to dissolve the corporation as of June 30.

Capitan

Playground pundits

Head Start students at Capitan Elementary enjoy the school playground one last time before the summer break. An old tire, at left, is recycled into a swinging twosome; in center, students crawl, cling and climb around the main apparatus; at right, take off down the slide is imminent.

Group works to keep control of education

An informational meeting and discussion session for parents and others who are concerned or confused about the national Goals 2000 education plan and associated Outcome Based Education (OBE), is set for 7 p.m. today (Thursday), June 9, at the fair building in Capitan.

Sherry Goodloe Underwood said her group, Parents Concerned about OBE, are worried about the future or their children's education in the United States.

House Resolution 6, which already has passed, and its companion on the other side of Congress, Senate Bill 1513, would create a national school board.

"That could take away power and input from local school boards and districts," Underwood said. "They're pushing the senate bill through pretty quickly. One of our main points to emphasize is that we want to create a unity among teachers, administrators and parents as a local district to be forearmed against any legislation."

"We want parents to support their children's teachers. What we don't want to see happen is a 'them against us' mentality develop. This is not a case of parents getting involved to make problems or interfere, this is to join forces and present a united front against national interference."

She plans to attend the Capitan School Board meeting June 16 to discuss possible actions.

"We want checks and balances in our school district so regardless of the curriculum used, such as the thematic approach at the middle school, there will be guidelines to keep OBE from creeping in. Unfortunately, some misunderstanding has occurred."

"We believe a complete educational experience requires three elements — parents, teachers and administrators."

Although not much federal money flows into the Capitan school district, the federal government could leverage the state to require OBE, she said.

"I'd like to see our state stand against any big government control over our schools," Underwood said. "They can't possibly know our needs."

School board reschedules meeting

Members of the Capitan School Board will be busy attending special law sessions in Albuquerque

Thursday and have moved the date of their regular monthly meeting.

The board will assemble at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 16 in the school library. A work session will begin at 6:30 p.m. Parents concerned about outcome based education are on the agenda.

Firefighters respond to 2 back-to-back blazes

Fireworks in the Village of Ruidoso are illegal warns assistant police chief Mike Lovelace of the Ruidoso police.

Lovelace and the police department are preparing for the yearly Fourth of July ritual that traditionally celebrates the nations independence with a variety of firework displays.

The handling of fireworks, however, also leads to a yearly tradition of death, loss of limb and fires.

The threat of fires in the heavily forested area of Ruidoso prompted the village council, led by Councilor J.D. James, to create an ordinance banning firecrackers and other volatile materials.

According to village clerk Tammy Maddox, Chapter 6, Article 2, Section 8 deals with fireworks by stating the product to be used has to first be declared not dangerous by fire chief Virgil Reynolds.

"Safe and sane devices shall be approved for sale by the fire chief," the code reads. "Any device that propels any portion, part or projectile more than 10 feet in the air, or has a report louder than paper caps (as in toy pistols), are not considered safe and sane.

Maddox said violations carry a fine of $500 and/or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days.

Restrictions are less stringent in the low elevation areas of Lincoln county.

Carrizozo, in its semi-arid environment with few trees, is the only village in Lincoln County where fireworks are permissible.

The Lincoln National Forest also restricts fireworks from all parks areas.

The last legal fireworks display in the mountains occurred at Fort Stanton in 1991.

Local woman accused of embezzling $5,000

A Ruidoso woman was arrested May 20, and accused of embezzling from a local travel agency, according to Ruidoso detective Johnny Maddox.

Jodie Mowell, 36, of Ruidoso Downs was charged with two counts of embezzlement while she was in the employ of the Afari Travel Center.

Maddox said that Mowell indicated she needed the money, about $5,000, to pay bills.

She was arraigned before Magistrate Judge William Butts and released on bond.

Maddox said the police also are looking for Mary Lou Massey Moore, 39, address unknown. He said Moore drove a car with Washington license plates.

He said Moore cashed many worthless checks in the area, telling residents and merchants that she had a large insurance claim coming and wanted to cash against that claim.

Maddox said any victim of this fraud or anyone knowing the whereabouts of Mary Lou Massey Moore, should contact him at the police department, 257-7365.

Casa Blanca margaritas take '94 Fiesta's top title

Who makes the best margaritas in town? According to Fiesta de Ruidoso, Casa Blanca has the frozen concoction good enough to be called the Official Fiesta Margarita.

A panel of secret judges sampled entries from eight local restaurants and lounges. Fiesta goes can sample the Casa Blanca margarita both at the wine tasting, June 17, at the Museum of the Horse, and at Fiesta de Ruidoso, June 17 and 18 at ArtFest USA in Ruidoso Downs.

"We appreciate the enthusiastic response from the local makers of margaritas," said Lisa Storey of the Chamber of Commerce. "The panel of judges found the area quite well represented in presenting not only a variety of tasty margaritas, but also in serving them pleasantly in enjoyable surroundings."

Fiesta de Ruidoso will be two days of food, music and dancing, and of course, margaritas. Dads get in free when accompanied by their children.

There's no place like home for a holiday

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Like New Yorkers who never visit the Statue of Liberty, many Ruidoso residents never get around to exploring the sights around them. According to Rural Economic Development Through Tourism (REDTT), a little more knowledge about surrounding attractions could mean a little more money for the Ruidoso economy.

Enchantment Inn sales and marketing director Laura Reynolds invested one work day in taking a few interested hotel staff on an area tour.

"It's really important that our front desk people be knowledgeable about what there is to do around here besides ski and bet on the races," she said. "If we can interest visitors in something more, they might stay an extra night, either in our hotel or someone else's. That also means more meals eaten in restaurants, more gas bought, maybe admission paid."

Reynolds was inspired to educate her staff by a REDTT video on New Mexico rural tourism. In the video, a touring family asks a gas station attendant, "What is there to do around here?" The man shrugs. "Here? There's nothing to do here." The family drives on, not spending a dime in the attendant's town.

REDTT and business people like Reynolds envision another scenario, where waitresses, gas station attendants and hotel clerks happily direct tourists to nearby activities.

"Sometimes when you live in a place like Ruidoso, you take for granted things other people would really be interested in," said Reynolds. "I wish all the business people in town would take their employees on a tour and train them to promote local attractions. We have some really great stuff out here."

Reynolds packed up three guest services employees and one Ruidoso News reporter for a day trip to Ruidoso Downs, San Patricio, Lincoln and Capitan. Their first stop was the Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs.

Sunny Hirschfeld led the crew through the museum, talking about plans for the future amidst remnants of the past. The museum's ground floor is a partial replica of a 19th century western town, with store fronts and life-sized photographs to bring the exhibits to life.

The museum has commissioned sculptor Dave McGary to create something that will make the Museum of the Horse more visible from the highway. McGary has started work on seven bronze horses, one and a half times life-sized, which will run from the highway to the museum, jumping over waterfalls and fences.

As a treat, Hirschfeld gave a behind-the-scenes tour, allowing the group into the museum's storage rooms where more artifacts are stacked to the ceiling. Here volunteers lovingly clean, restore and organize every tiny piece of Anne Stradling's remarkable collection of horse-related items.

From the museum, it was on to Conley's Trout Lakes and Campground just off Highway 70. Conley's is a perfect place for young novice anglers to get their first taste of fishing success, or for trout lovers to catch dinner.

"A lot of our campers come over, catch a few fish and go fry them up," said Dean Bisson. For those who like something a little more athletic, Conley's offers paddle boats in another part of the spring.

Conley's fish swim in a natural spring shown on the map as Seeping Springs. Bisson said that next year Conley's will change its name back to Seeping Springs. Not only does Conley's provide the fish, but they also provide old-fashioned bamboo poles, bait and they clean the fish for you.

At the Hurd-La Rinconada Gallery in San Patricio, the Reynolds group toured the gallery of brilliant works by the Hurd/Wyeth family, and they toured the adobe casitas leased out as guest homes. Michael Hurd and Teresa Curry were gracious hosts, eager to share the history and beauty of the Hurd's Sentinel Ranch.

When they were done playing with the fish and the dogs at Conley's, Reynolds and company headed down the valley to San Patricio and the Hurd's Sentinel Ranch. The rooms of the Hurd-La Rinconada Gallery resonate with the art of Henriette Wyeth, Peter Hurd and their children Carol and Michael Hurd.

Gallery director Teresa Curry provided a fine lunch for the Reynolds group in the gallery's sun room. The gallery doubles as guest quarters, with private chambers and a sauna upstairs from the bathroom. The gallery architecture, designed by Michael Hurd, is a work of art in itself. He named it "Rinconada" in reference to the angles and corners that characterize the design.

The ranch features two guest homes, and Michael Hurd is planning a third. The adobe casitas are an elegant blend of farmhouse simplicity and modern convenience. Nestled among cottonwoods and elms near the Rio Ruidoso, the gallery and guest homes are an oasis in the rugged San Patricio landscape. Henriette Wyeth still lives in the adobe, tile roofed ranch house.

The Reynolds group could have stayed a lifetime at the Hurd ranch, talking to peacocks and wandering the property, but it was soon time to move on. The next stop was Lincoln, where they visited the historical center for a refresher on the legend of Billy the Kid.

They walked through Lincoln's history, recalling the Lincoln County War and the strife among Native Americans, Mexicans and white settlers. In the museum store visitors can buy things like miniature gramophones and orange-peel boxes.

In keeping with Lincoln's efforts to preserve its history, all the staff of the historical center dress in period costumes. The buildings where Billy the Kid played out his drama still look much as they did during the Lincoln County War.

Just up the road from the historical center is the Ellis Store Bed and Breakfast. An historical site, the B&B is now owned by the Vigils, who are carrying on the Ellis traditions. Virginia Vigil presented the Reynolds group a sample of her culinary talent, heavenly cheesecake on an Oreo crust, topped with fresh strawberries. The Mill House, part of the Ellis

B&B, is a perfect facility for group functions like family reunions or informal conferences. With five private bedrooms and a large loft upstairs, the Mill House could sleep more than 15 people.

From Lincoln, the Reynolds group drove to Capitan, home of Smokey Bear. The group checked out the museum's exhibit hall and theater. Smokey Bear is the most successful campaign for fire prevention ever launched.

The road from Capitan led the Reynolds group back home to Ruidoso and to a quick stop at Flying J Ranch. In the setting of a wild west town, visitors get a chuckwagon dinner, live jamboree music and an exciting shoot-out in the street.

Reynolds and her staff made note of prices and schedules, ready to refer visitors to these area attractions: Lincoln County legends like Geronimo, Billy the Kid and Smokey Bear may be old hat to locals, but to visitors they're a good reason to spend a little more time in the mountains.

"As the hub of a circle of sights, Ruidoso stands to gain from knowledgeable front lines people," said Reynolds.

Sunny Hirschfeld gave the Reynolds group a behind the scenes tour of the Museum of the Horse. The visitors marvelled at the part of Anne Stradling's vast collection that has yet to be displayed. The museum is a top attraction to this area.

Family fun

Be ready to tap your toes, eat too much and have a good time you won't soon forget at the Bent Tree Jamboree. The Regulators entertained locals on opening night to get ready for this season at their barn-raising riproaring dinner-show.

Head on out to Bent Tree Jamboree for an all-you-can-eat buffet and a western show in the big barn between Ruidoso and Alto. Regulators, pictured here on the pre-opening night entertainment offered free to locals, have so much fun that even the grumpiest audience can't help but grin. Call 336-4976 for reservations.

Editorial

No pain, no gain

Government leaders at all levels are faced often with tough choices, and local councilors have made several such decisions lately that will save taxpayers a great deal of money in the future.

The Ruidoso Village Council, in its new budget, freed MainStreet and Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County from further dependence on government funds. The council's farsighted, fiscally conservative action hasn't been met with wholehearted approval, but such good stewardship of tax money is praiseworthy. Setting these public/private partnerships free to grow up can be compared with cutting the apron strings on a child. Neither MainStreet nor EDCLC were intended to become permanent government agencies, and it's good to see that our elected officials aren't trying to take on the role of "big brother" on a local level.

Both MainStreet and EDCLC were given plenty of funds, plenty of support and every opportunity to grow up. Public monies, to the tune of well over $500,000, have been invested in those two corporations, and now it's time for their leaderships to take over. The village has said, in effect, that it has nurtured MainStreet and EDCLC through their infancy, toddler years and teens, now it's time for them to leave the nest and become self-supporting.

Such liberty doesn't mean that the village leaders and citizenry are not in full support of the goals and objectives of a Midtown boosting organization, and economic development — instead, it means that the village isn't in the business of providing a permanent, or even semi-permanent, supply of funds to private enterprise.

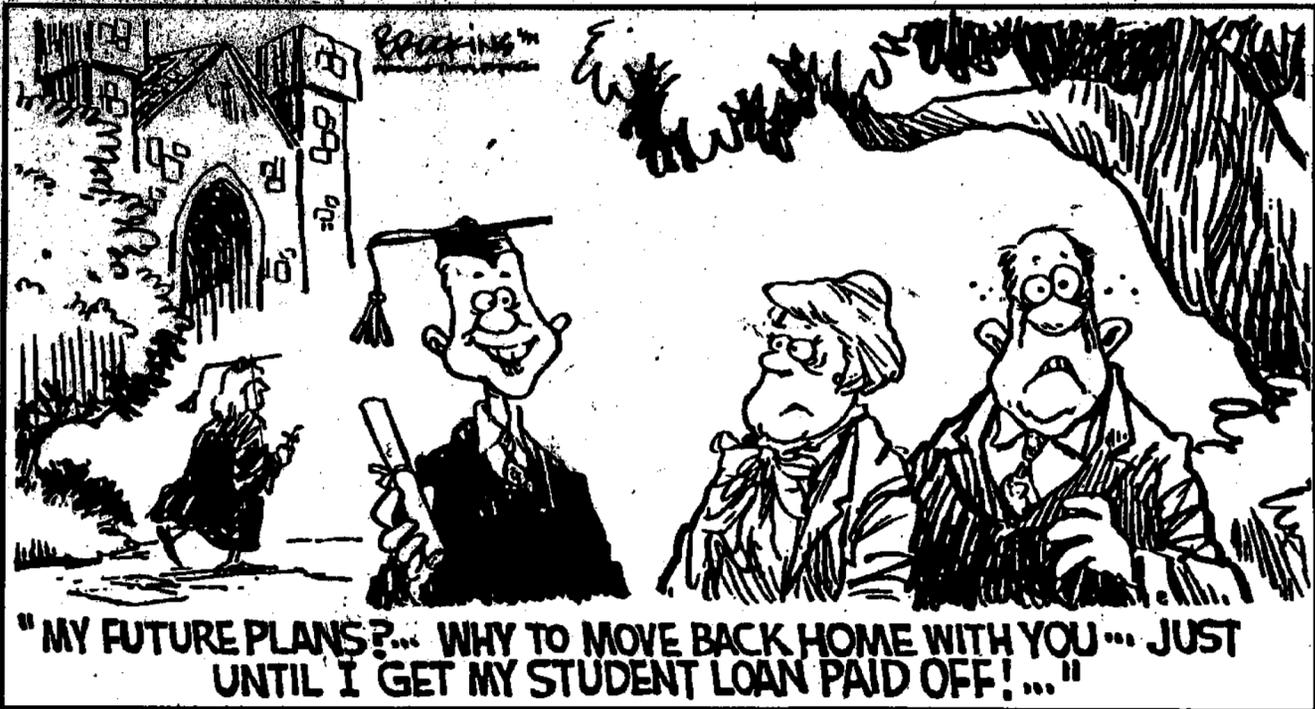

It's appropriate that MainStreet and EDCLC start down this new and independent path during the time of year that young people do much the same thing in graduating from various levels of schooling. Like the new graduates, MainStreet and EDCLC have our best wishes and support, even if they don't have our money.

Growing up isn't easy, but it's worth the time, energy and effort.

Thought for the day:

Letters To The Editor

Former resident comments on nation's problems

TO THE EDITOR:

Would you print a letter from a former resident of Ruidoso? I used to know lots of people there. It's a great place to live.

On Sunday, December 12, on the front page of the daily Palm Beach Post, a big, black, seven-column headline proclaimed "God Says Take a Stand." It was a message describing "A Battle for America's Soul."

It said "Reveille has sounded in America and conservative Christians are rising from the pews and heading for the precincts, striving to build an alliance between God and government. They're fed up with crime, sick of what they see on television, appalled by what's happening in the schools. And they're angry that secular America wants God confined to the churches."

In nearly three full pages, beginning with page one, testimony and comment including statements such as these: "Our founding fathers never intended to keep God out of government. Let's put Him back."

Nearly all point to one watershed event that planted the seeds for the movement: the U.S. Supreme Court's 1962 decision banning prayer in public schools. That marked the beginning of the decline of America. SAT scores fell; crime, divorce and teenage pregnancy rates rose.

Why the call to arms now? Start with President Clinton. He announced he would lift the ban in the military; pledged support for the Freedom of Choice Act; announced his support for the abortion pill RU-486; ordered U.S. military hospitals to provide abortion to American service-women; legalized the use of fetal tissue for medical research; and appointed homosexuals to his administration. "Our President declared war on God," said a Baptist minister. Another gave this message to his congregation: "God's word has answers to the problems of our personal lives and the problems of our nation." ... "And God Says, Take a Stand!"

Let this message be heard throughout the land.

TO THE EDITOR:

To me this is making fun of President Nixon and his mistakes.

How about the whole Kennedy bunch that are sorry rich people who have money (from) the bootlegging days that the old man got rich on.

They are a sorry ... bunch that get away with murder, that are called Democrats.

Apology

TO THE EDITOR:

I can't believe that you would put such trash in your paper.

How would you like someone to call your mother or wife a bitch?

It's all right to make fun of people in public office, but to call names like this is very rude and stupid.

I think you owe an apology to your readers.

CELEBRANT SINGERS

Celebrant Singers to perform here

Jon Stemkoski's Celebrant Singers, an internationally known Christian music ministry will present a community-wide concert on June 15, 1994 at 7:00 p.m. at St. Eleanor Catholic Church. The concert is free of charge and a freewill offering will be taken.

Concert attendees will be treated to contemporary Christian music, praise and worship, and personal witness and ministry. Featuring ten singers and a twelve-piece orchestra, Celebrant Singers will inspire and bless as they share the Gospel of Jesus Christ through a musical celebration.

"Celebrant Singers is not just another music group. Our objective is to share the love of Christ," said Celebrant Singers founder Jon Stemkoski. "It's a powerful ministry! It will touch your heart. Bring your family and friends - it's an experience you won't soon forget!"

Celebrant Singers have travelled throughout all 50 states and 56 foreign countries, and have sung to more than 4 million people in live concerts and countless others via broadcast media. Nations of ministry include India, Iran, Egypt, East and West Africa, Latin America, all parts of Europe (including the former Eastern Bloc), Hong Kong, the Philippines, and most recently Cuba.

During 1994, seven teams of Celebrant Singers will present over 1,400 concerts in some 30 nations, nine Canadian provinces and all 50 states.

Celebrant Singers is ecumenical in nature. Multiple teams of committed, dedicated and talented young adults represent 38 states, nine Canadian provinces and several foreign nations.

In November of 1992, Celebrant Singers took their music and message into Cuba and Haiti. In November '93, they returned to Cuba with "official visas" from the Cuban government, permitting Celebrants to hold the first public religious meetings in over 30 years. Celebrants were also one of the first Christian groups of its kind to conduct outreaches into the previously-closed nations of Bulgaria and Albania in June 1990 and 1991, respectively.

"While similar groups traditionally have had an exclusively Protestant audience, Celebrant Singers is the first full-time contemporary Christian singing group to have a widespread ministry among America's 60 million Roman Catholics," Stemkoski added. "Since 1977, we've sung in over 3,000 parishes throughout North America."

In 1984, Celebrant Singers ministered in St. Peter's Square before an Easter-week crowd of over 120,000 people. Stemkoski and Celebrants were also honored by a private audience with Pope John Paul II. Most recently, Celebrants participated in World Youth Day in Denver, before the arrival of the Pope.

Celebrant Singers founder and director, Jon Stemkoski, is the driving force behind this vital, exciting ministry. Stemkoski has over 20 years of experience in music ministry and is a highly respected minister of the Gospel.

In addition to live appearances, Celebrant Singers have released seven recordings to date.

Jon Stemkoski's Celebrant Singers is an outreach of Stone Ministries, Inc., a non-profit Christian corporation ministering to the needs of people through music and the Arts. Jon F. Stemkoski, President.
