Game warden Ron Moore indicates molding bologna impaled on a pine tree and left as bait for a bear by weekend visitors. Moore said he will issue citations when he sees violations of the regulation against feeding bears.

It bears repeating: Don't feed the bears!

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Slices of browning bologna were stuck to the lower branches of the Ponderosa pine, testifying to someone's attempt to lure one of Ruidoso's black bears within viewing range.

New Mexico Game Warden Ron Moore had to admit, it was one of the more innovative approaches to the favorite illegal pastime in Upper Canyon.

"It's never ending," he said with a touch of irritation showing in his voice. "It seems like all I do is tell people it's illegal to feed the bears, over and over again. But so many of them are weekend visitors, determined to see bears before they leave and then new people take their places.

"They leave bread saturated with honey on top of dumpsters or throw pieces of melons into their back yards so they can watch from an upper deck.

"I don't get bear calls on the weekends, but then when the visitors leave and the bears are used to getting food, they come down and bother the full-time or all summer residents."

Being found guilty of a Game Department regulation equates to a conviction on a criminal petty misdemeanor, said Ruidoso Magistrate Judge William Butts. It could land a person in county jail for up to six months and he/she could face a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $500.

While Moore is cracking down on those who deliberately leave out food to attract the bruins, some residents don't realize they put out a lure when they hang a hummingbird feeder from a deck or tree.

"I regularly see chewed up hummingbird feeders," Moore said. "In Alto (a subdivision north of Ruidoso on State Road 37), so many are feeding the squirrels and the hummingbirds, they've created a lunch counter for the bears. In Upper Canyon with the hummingbird feeders and a dumpster on each block, it's the same thing.

"I don't know what it will take to stop it."

Moore often is asked by residents, agitated by the contents of their dumpsters being strewn over the road, to trap and move a bear that has become a nuisance.

But that's an action of last resort, he said.

"You have to have some concern for the critters, too," Moore said. "Studies show that if you try to relocate a bear, they usually come right back or are killed trying to establish a new territory."

Moore said bears normally are not aggressive unless wounded or cornered. Unfortunately, visitors seem to alternate between being terrified of the animals or thinking of them as "Teddy bears" that can be adopted as temporary pets.

"Bears aren't looking for humans to eat if they are in your home," Moore said. "Most of the time when humans find a bear, the animal is trying to exit. We had an un-

Council resurrects, reforms arts board

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A Ruidoso Arts and Film Board backed by a star studded cast was proposed Tuesday by Mayor Jerry Shaw at the village council meeting. The council scheduled a public hearing on the proposal for August 23.

Shaw said resident Stan Monks met with her about 10 times recently relative to promoting Ruidoso as a working locale for the film industry.

"He's done so much work, that I told him we would look again at an arts and film board, a simplified version," Shaw said. The mayor was referring to a multi-faceted arts and film board dissolved by the council earlier in the year.

Shaw said an artist who sits on the state art board is interested in serving on the Ruidoso board representing the art community.

Shaw said through Monk, film star Richard Farnsworth has agreed to serve as an ad hoc committee person on the board. She said Farnsworth has submitted a list of names for Monk to contact.

Shaw said the board should be permanent as opposed to an all ad hoc committee.

Shaw said the art community has particularly responded. She mentioned Dave McGary, who is moving his studio to the vacant King's building on Sudderth.

She also mentioned J. Chris Morel, Best of Show award winner at last year's Ruidoso Arts Festival, as contemplating a move to Ruidoso, as is potter Tim Wierwille and his wife, Nan.

"There's a lot of art interest that needs promoting," Shaw said.

Village attorney John Underwood drafted the purpose of the new board to act as liaison between the film industry, local governments and others to facilitate locations by serving as a clearinghouse and to attract productions.

Underwood said the advisory board also will initiate, sponsor or conduct public programs to further develop public awareness in the fine and performing arts and cultural properties of the community.

The board is to consist of seven members to be appointed by the mayor.

The mayor agreed with the proposed rate increase by the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA). The council scheduled a hearing for August 23.

"It's something we don't like to consider, and we have trouble selling it to the public, but the option presented to us is pretty fair," said Shaw, who is among the village's representatives on that board.

Village manager Gary Jackson said Ruidoso has five representatives on LCSWA who studied the proposal at a five-hour meeting.

Jackson said the village's last rate increase for solid waste occurred in 1982.

He said LCSWA receives no relief through taxes, but is self supporting through rates. He said federal mandates have escalated costs.

Jackson said the rate increase may not be perfect, but it is a reasonable across the board proposal with several different options. He said the raise would accomplish what is necessary to operate a fully functioning solid waste authority.

Shaw said future billing of solid waste within the village will be handled by LCSWA.

LCSWA director Joe Lewandowski said initially no one had financial information regarding the landfill.

"The new landfill is in. It cost us $3.8 million. It will cost us $47,000 a year (to operate). The guessing is gone. We're the only ones in the state this far along. Everyone else is running around trying to figure out how this is done," he said.

"Last year the first landfill bill I paid was $5,500. The bill I paid for the same time period this year was $14,200," he added.

Lewandowski said the county was dependent on Roswell at 60 cents a cubic yard and that it worked its way to $2.50 per cubic yard last year.

Enterprising but destructive bruin feasts on honey

by YVONNE LANELLI
Special to The News

The thief struck three nights last week, robbing and vandalizing.

Owner Glen Hinkle of Alto surveyed the damage the morning after the second attack.

"All that work gone," he said quietly.

This thief is a bear or bears who on successive nights ravaged three of beekeeper Hinkle's four large hives, dispossessing thousands of bees and destroying years of work.

"They smelled the honey, I guess, and were hungry," Hinkle conjectured as he cleared away smashed beehives and ripped honeycombs littering his yard. Overhead, a few surviving bees buzzed angrily around his netted head.

All summer long, lack of water and food have emboldened wild creatures to steal food from human sources. But this attack proved more than the usual trash can turnover. These ursine marauders plundered Hinkle of several hundred dollars in equipment, bees and honey, plus several thousand hours of labor.

It's a hard loss to accept, especially since he had tried to prevent it.

This beekeeper is no novice. As profiled in The Ruidoso News last summer, the octogenarian apiarist has raised bees nearly all his life. Aware that his valuable hives could tempt bears, he had bolted each 70-plus pound hive to heavy wooden platforms made of 2x6 boards, then lashed them down with bailing wire and three-inch lag screws.

"They're stout," he maintained earlier this summer. "You can't tip them over."

Indeed, during the 25 years he raised bees in Sun Valley, no bear damaged a hive.

"Once in a while, I could see where one came sniffing around, but he never got in."

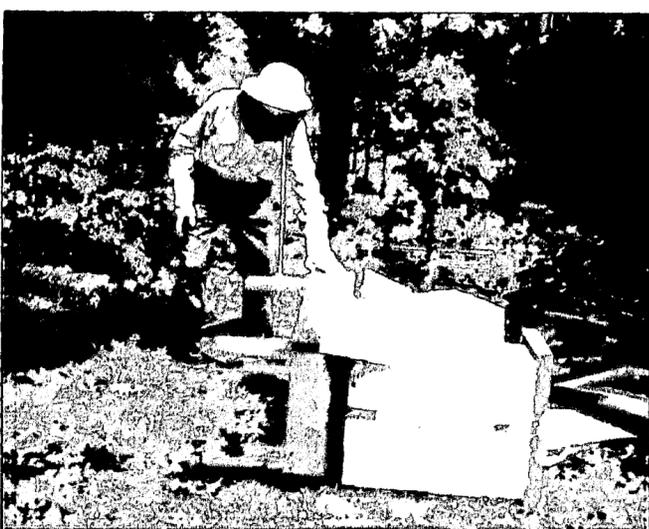

Until last week.

After the first attack, Hinkle contacted New Mexico Game and Fish Officer Ron Moore who delivered a bear trap. The large metal barrel sat next to the hives a scant 150 feet from Hinkle's house. The next morning, however, the baited trap remained empty — but more hives lay broken.

"I guess the bear liked the honey in the hives more than the honey in the trap," he said ruefully. "Funny thing is, there wasn't that much honey in the hive to begin with. There's not many wildflowers this year and the bees haven't gotten much pollen. In fact, I wasn't planning to harvest honey this year. So the bear really didn't get much."

Despite his losses, the Alto apiarist remained optimistic. Locating one overturned hive still intact, he righted it and secured it with stouter wire, longer bolts and heavier lumber.

"If the queen is still here and she's OK, the colony will be all right. I'll just feed them sugar water until next spring's flowers bloom."

"We went to our own landfill at $3.60 (per cubic yard)," he said. "With this landfill, it's ours. We own 50 percent of it." He said the county now can control its own destiny.

The council opted to stay with a contractual legal service when they approved a proposal by attorney John Underwood to renew and extend his contract.

The council agreed that Underwood's work had increased due to more case loads in Municipal Court and increased code enforcement by the planning and zoning department.

Jackson said that enough carry over money is left in legal services to adequately budget the increase this year.

Underwood's scope of services was expanded from 624 hours per year to 780 hours per year, increasing the total cost from $36,000 to $48,000 per year.

Former village councilor Barbara Duff said past problems with an in-house attorney were a matter of personalities and not competency.

"For the number of hours that Mr. Underwood has proposed, 780, the discussion before was time for research and being on hand all the time. Whether that has any bearing on the overall picture, it's the difference between 1,920 hours that an in-house attorney gives, as opposed to 780 hours. When the extra amount of work is mentioned, that should also be taken into consideration," Duff said.

Councilor J.D. James disagreed with Duff about the reason last year for moving from staff to contracted legal services. He said the village eliminated the legal department, not just the attorney, and saved $46,000 by contracting the service.

In other business, the council:

—approved a preliminary and final plat request for a minor subdivision of 3.549 acre tract by owner Ronald Andrews. The acreage is now divided into three lots with at least one acre in each.

—approved a resolution authorizing a joint powers agreement with the New Mexico Environment Department for the Grindstone Water Treatment Facility.

Consent agenda items approved collectively were:

—a recommendation from the Lodgers Tax Committee for special events receiving funds.

—a contract with the state agency on aging for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

—out of state travel for Parks and Recreation employees to Phoenix, Arizona, to a regional tennis tournament.

Approval of a recommendation from the Utility Dispute Board regarding a bill for water leak adjustment was moved to the August 23 meeting so that the customer could be available for discussion.

The last item of the evening was a report by village manager Jackson regarding the Legislative Interim Capital Outlay Committee Hearings scheduled for Ruidoso.

Jackson said it is important for the council to attend legislative state meetings conducted in Ruidoso and not wait until the last minute to plan capital outlay requests to be presented in January.

fortunate incident recently where a bear was shot and killed.

"Most people are not equipped to start shooting and if a bear is wounded and leaves, then we really have a problem. In this incident, the people said they were real quiet not to spook the bear. If they had done the opposite, made some noise, he probably would have left on his own."

"Many people say they're concerned about children being harmed. I tell them that the bears have been coming down for decades and we've never had an incident. You should treat a bear like a big bully and give him his space. When out walking, talk and make noise."

"I try to tell people the bears are not after us; it's all the food we leave intentionally or unintentionally," Moore said. "It's against the law to feed them either way to allow them to become a nuisance. I'm starting to issue citations."

"I need to get the message out stronger, because people aren't listening."

"The bottom line is a bear won't come back if he doesn't find anything to eat."

Moore explained that land has a carrying capacity and when bears are fed unnaturally, that capacity is exceeded. When the unnatural food source vanishes, the animal may starve, venture into close contact with humans resulting in relocation or death, or become weakened and ill.

"That and destruction of habitat is why we have hunting seasons," Moore said. "I look at the deer in Alto and they're not as healthy as those in the woods, because they are being fed unnaturally and not receiving all of the nutrients they should. Even hummingbirds that go to feeders are being shortchanged nutritionally. There are plenty of flowers, even with the shortage of rain earlier. The dryness was harder on the bear and his food choices."

One way to eliminate an artificial food source is for people to keep their garbage inside their homes until their scheduled collection day, then put the sacks in the dumpsters before the truck arrives, Moore said.

When leaving home, even for a few minutes, shut the outside door.

"Bears have such poor eyesight, they probably don't even notice screen doors and they come right on through," Moore said.

New Mexico Health Care Task Force will meet in Ruidoso

New Mexico's Health Care Task Force will meet Monday, August 1, in Ruidoso, and Tuesday and Wednesday, August 2 and 3, in Roswell.

Highlights of the draft agenda include discussions of local health care delivery, much of which was organized with the help of State Representative H. John Underwood (D-Ruidoso).

The task force is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at the Ruidoso Convention Center. Roswell meetings will be at the Oilfield Training Center at Eastern New Mexico University.

Time has been set aside all three days to hear comments from the public.

Representative Underwood said he is looking forward to Monday's agenda, which includes presentations from school, city, county and tribal officials.

Included will be Valerie Miller, administrator of the Lincoln County Medical Center; Dr. Charleton Wilson of the Mescalero Indian Health Service; Ray Hayhurst of Ruidoso Care Center; Verna Adams, administrator of Home Health Services of Lincoln County; County Commissioner Wilton Howell, board member of Lincoln County Medical Center; Andy Nunez of New Mexico State University, and Terrie Gillespie, the health services coordinator for the Ruidoso Municipal Schools.

"I hope the residents of Lincoln, Chavez and Otero counties take advantage of the Health Care Task Force's trip to southeastern New Mexico by making their views known to the group," Underwood said.

"This is also an excellent opportunity to learn first-hand about some of the complexities of health care reform."

Senator Janice D. Paster (D-Albuquerque) the task force chair, said the group is encouraging public participation in its meetings.

"We want to receive testimony on local health care programs and local concerns," Paster said. "Part of each meeting will be set aside for listening to the public's concerns on this important issue."

Representative Michael Olguin (D-Socorro) said building a consensus on health care reform will be a key to finding a solution.

"This whole issue is too emotionally charged and too important to rely on the proposals for reform that are made by just a few New Mexicans. Everyone must learn about the problem and then help legislators and the governor consider solutions," Olguin said.

The Health Care Task Force was created by the legislature earlier this year to work on a comprehensive health care delivery system for New Mexico with the goal of ensuring universal health care by October 1997. Two key concerns of the task force are that more than 20 percent of all New Mexicans are without adequate health care coverage and that health care costs have risen dramatically in recent years.

The legislature in 1994 approved several pieces of legislation designed to offer short-term solutions to the problem. Highlights include:

—Expansion of Medicaid to cover tens of thousands of currently uninsured children. It is estimated that within three years, more than 59,000 children will have health care under this joint federal-state program.

—Insurance reforms to improve health insurance access and affordability for small businesses.

—The appropriation of more than $15 million for construction, renovation, expansion and operation of primary care clinics and other health services in rural areas of New Mexico.

The task force consists of 12 legislators, who serve as voting members and 10 members of the public and executive branch, who serve as advisory members.

Helicopter crashes near Three Rivers

An Air Force HH-60 helicopter assigned to the 48th Rescue Squadron at Holloman Air Force Base crashed Monday near Three Rivers.

All five crew members exited the aircraft safely with one person sustaining a minor injury.

The helicopter went down about 10 a.m., 30 miles from the base, base officials said.

The crash occurred when the helicopter was on a routine training mission. Air Force officials said the aircraft was heavily damaged in the crash.

The Air Force acquired 98 Blackhawk helicopters - the main transport helicopter for the Army - and modified them to Pave Hawk specifications for special missions. The Pave Hawks provide combat search and rescue and various mission support activities worldwide.

The helicopters are equipped with integrated navigation systems

- including ground mapping radar - that allow them to operate in all weather. An air refueling system and removable long-range internal fuel tanks permit the aircraft to perform rapid response, long-range missions.

Recovery crews are responding to the area to recover the helicopter.

The Air Force will convene a panel of officers to investigate the cause of the crash.

Parking's no problem in Midtown; business owners & village develop new parking lots

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Merchants and Ruidoso village officials are cooperating with planning, time and money to produce parking progress in the Main Street area.

While the village council has been purchasing real estate in the downtown area to expand public parking, some merchants have been improving their own property with added parking spaces for the public.

The end result is more parking for Midtown visitors.

Ruidoso village manager Gary Jackson said it is encouraging to see the public-private cooperation toward a common issue such as parking in the downtown area.

Jackson said in addition to the village council securing land for parking, more off street parking will be accessible through the Center Street Improvement Project.

The narrow Center Street will become one way leading into Sudderth Drive, with parking lanes on one side.

Brunell's clothing store has been a fixture in downtown Ruidoso since 1946. Owner Herb Brunell said response to the streetscape has been positive and he is preparing to enlarge his parking area.

"We're getting such wonderful feedback from our customers on the sidewalk project," he said. "Talk about beauty, wait until we get the benches and lights in. It completes the original concept and goals of the streetscape -- beauty, safety and accessibility."

Brunell said parking is more than a necessity.

"We basically are all looking at the need and trying to solve a perception that we are short of parking," he said.

"I always say jokingly that if you mark an 'X' on every spot where a car is parked during the Aspenfest (the village's big event) parade, you'll find out we've got plenty of parking," Brunell said.

He said a top priority should be signage.

"We've got to get our out-of-towners and local people familiar with off street parking," he said.

"What has happened here, we are now facing the private and public parking issue. The sidewalk project has really brought it to our attention," he said.

In September, the south side of the street is scheduled to be completed.

Village manager Jackson said cooperative funds of 60 percent state, 40 percent city, have been approved for a paving overlay of connecting streets in the Main Street area, including El Paso, Rio and Center.

He said it appears that customers and visitors are utilizing some of the off street area in addition to reliance on the Sudderth curb side parking only.

Ann Bolton, owner of J. Roberts said parking in the summer time doesn't bother her because "it's so nice in the mountain."

"Personally, I can't imagine anyone complaining for having to walk in this weather," she said.

Bolton said her concern is winter traffic.

"I can't imagine having to walk far when it's snowing," she said. "I'm used to the altitude, some of my customers aren't. They come from 3,000 feet in elevation to our 7,000 feet and that's difficult," she said.

Bolton said Ruidoso is not built flatly like Santa Fe. She called winter parking a "double whammy."

"You've got not only the weather to contend with, but a steep grade."

Bolton is developing parking behind her store.

She said she recently purchased the cabin behind her store and she intends to raze that cabin for a new parking area which will accommodate eight cars. Bolton said the new parking area will be available to all of the public.

Jay Ross of the Covered Wagon has developed parking behind his store, and created a sidewalk with artist Teri Sodd from that parking lot to Sudderth.

Ross said the new municipal parking lot adjoining his property now has lights and is scheduled to be chip sealed within the next two weeks.

Ross said more disabled customers have visited his store recently than throughout all of last year.

"They (the disabled) are commenting about accessibility. Now they can get up and down the streets. In the past, that wasn't possible."

Other merchants developing parking include Audean Franklin of the Cabbage Rose and Marion Treat of the Covered Wagon Gallery.

Local resident rescues drowning man

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

At first, the man in the water appeared to be swimming toward his overturned jet ski, but a few minutes later Diana Mohrhauser and her family realized something was wrong.

Mrs. Mohrhauser, a resident of the Upper Canyon in Ruidoso, had driven with her husband, her son and friend Darlene Drennan to Elephant Butte July 20. While the younger Mohrhauser rode around the huge reservoir on a jet ski, his parents and Drennan relaxed on shore enjoying the sun.

Mrs. Mohrhauser was watching another man racing a jet ski, when the machine overturned.

"I saw the jet ski turn over and thought the man was yelling," Mrs. Mohrhauser said. "I kept watching. My husband thought the man was all right and swimming toward his jet ski, but I thought, why is he yelling."

"Then he was quiet and it was obvious that the jet ski was getting away from him."

About the same time, her son, Michael, drove up on his machine and she asked him to check on the man in the water.

"The man was unconscious when Michael arrived and somehow, his life jacket had come off," Mrs. Mohrhauser said. "Mike dove in and grabbed him, and then some people in a fishing boat came up and held onto him until we got there in our boat. We pulled him inside and took him back to shore where his wife and some relatives were waiting."

By that time, the man was beginning to regain consciousness. He told the Mohrhausers that he was from Santa Fe, was 40 years old and had suffered from seizures since the age of 10. Apparently, while going through a seizure in the water, he had loosened the clasp on his life jacket.

Mrs. Mohrhauser said she especially was affected by the incident, because her son also has suffered a few seizures since being involved in a near fatal accident in February of 1993.

"The car accident occurred when he and some friends were on their way to go skiing," she said. He suffered head injuries and spent one month in a trauma center in Roswell and another month in a rehabilitation center in El Paso. He recently completed a year as an outpatient at Las Cruces.

Getting there is tough for local angler

by MOLLY WEBER
Special to The News

Betty White may be seen around town with her portable liquid oxygen unit, a petition and pen in hand. She kindly asks if you will sign it.

"All I want is for all of us to be able to fish at Grindstone," says Betty White.

"All of us" refers to both the physically able and those who are physically handicapped. White suffers from asthma and low oxygen in the blood which keeps her attached 24 hours a day to an auxiliary oxygen supply.

"I never used that word 'handicapped' or saw myself as handicapped until I realized that there wasn't any way that I could get down to the lake to fish," White says.

"I might be able to make it down that trail if we could park in one of those four spaces reserved for handicapped, but I certainly would never make it back up. We bought the fishing license, assumed I could use it and when I realized that I couldn't fish, well, actually, I cried."

White has been told by health professionals that fishing is the best physical therapy to escape from day-to-day pressures.

"It is the peacefulness and getting close to God, as well as the camaraderie that makes fishing my favorite sport," White notes. "And I've been fishing all of my life."

She remembers the dust bowl days in Oklahoma when, as a young child, she took sunflower leaves to use as bait.

"You could dig forever, but you wouldn't find any worms, and those fish were so hungry for something green they would bite on those leaves. You were guaranteed a catch every time."

Fishing is almost as important to White as breathing. After a hospital stay last year which put her on oxygen, one of the first places she wanted her husband, Van, to take her to was Upper Canyon to fish.

"I knew I wouldn't catch anything, but I just had to fish," she laughingly says. She is quite familiar with the Upper Canyon since her dad and mom, Joe and Bessie Truitt, moved there in 1962. They owned and operated the Whispering Pines Restaurant and Forest Homes.

"There are over 800 county residents with breathing problems that could enjoy Grindstone if it were accessible, plus countless visitors who come to Ruidoso to enjoy the year-round playground that we promote. From our travels to neighboring states, I guess I've become spoiled because of their wonderful facilities."

White's problem is not just with the inaccessibility of getting to the lake. People fish in the area that is below the handicapped parking area.

"There need to be signs to help people think that if we have a place to park, we will need to be able to get to the water to put our lines in. Even if Betty had been able to get down there, we would have been standing in someone else's tackle box," Van White adds.

Alan Briley, assistant village manager, says he's aware of the problem.

"We have tried to address the needs as outlined by the American Disabilities Act," says Briley.

"There are only so many dollars to go around and we are trying to do the best we can with our budget."

Briley adds that village planners are sensitive to the fact that the grade of the trail needs to be less than what it currently is and there need to be pullout spots as rest stops for those utilizing the trail.

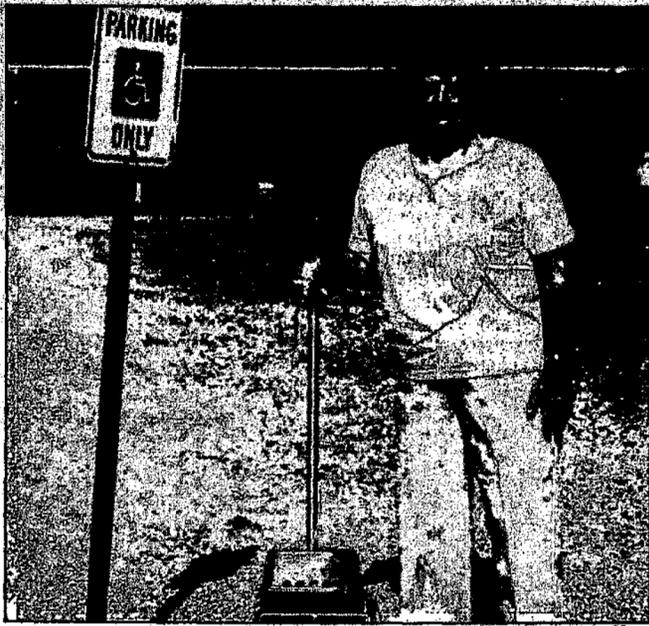

But there is another issue that White notes and Briley says is being changed.

"It would be impossible to get to the restrooms because of their distance and the terrain from the parking lot. I would never make it," says White.

Debbie Jo Almager, director of Parks and Recreation, is in the process of developing a master plan, and is asking all of those who are interested in seeing these and other issues addressed to come to a meeting at 7 p.m. August 2, at village hall.

Each person will be allowed five minutes to speak about their concerns and interests.

In the meantime, anyone wanting to support White's efforts, may sign a petition at Sierra Blanca Realty or Ruidoso Medical Supply.

Mike Riske/The Ruidoso News

Betty White, standing beside a handicapped parking space at Grindstone Lake, is frustrated in her attempts to go fishing at the local reservoir. She's asking the village to improve access for fishing enthusiasts who have special needs.

Derby qualifier Chicks Rich N Rare stands out in Thursday's main event

Wandy Ingersoll's 3-year-old filly Chicks Rich N Rare, who made her last start in the Grade I Rainbow Derby, swings back into action against a quality field of allowance competitors in the 400-yard feature Thursday at Ruidoso Downs.

Thursday's 15-race card also includes the final six races from the Del Mar Thoroughbred Club near San Diego, California.

Chicks Rich N Rare has been a consistent performer in all four of her starts here this summer. The Idaho-bred daughter of Chicks Beduino ran her best race of the meet in the Rainbow Derby Trials on June 17 when she ran a close second behind fastest qualifier A Streak Of Cash.

In the July 3 final she ran ninth, but should fare better against the softer company she will face Thursday. Chicks Rich N Rare is trained by Martin Ireland and owned by Ingersoll of Inola, Oklahoma.

Dash On Down and Im Dashing, the second and third place finishers in a competitive allowance contest on July 14, also must be considered in Thursday's main event.

Strummer tunes in for new win streak

Ben E. Wester's Strummer seeks his fifth win in his last six tries as he goes to post the probable favorite in the $10,000 claiming feature at six furlongs, Friday at Ruidoso Downs.

The five-year-old gelding Strummer has been a hot commodity this year as he has won four races and been claimed by four different owners in seven outings. The New Mexico-bred son of Answer To Music was claimed by trainer Larry Byers for Wester on July 10 after he scored an easy 1 1/4-length win over $6,250 competition. Byers immediately entered the gelding in the Land Of Enchantment Speed Handicap on July 17 against some of the top sprinters in the state.

Strummer battled for the lead in the six furlong handicap, but was finished early and ran eighth in the nine-horse field. The loss snapped a four-race win streak for Strummer. The gelding has an excellent record of seven wins in 14 starts going six furlongs and should relish the drop in class Friday. Charles Rollings is named to ride for owner Wester of Midland, Texas.

Ancient Boy, Sky Rider and Captain Beyond, the first three finishers in a talented $10,000 claiming event on July 16, have the best chance of beating Strummer Friday.

The 15-race program also includes the simulcast of the last six races from Del Mar.

Famous football

Countess Blue tries for second straight stakes win in Ruidoso Oaks Saturday

Aspen Cup Handicap winner Countess Blue returns to action against a contentious field of 3-year-old fillies in the $10,000-added Ruidoso Oaks Handicap at six furlongs, Saturday.

Saturday's 16-race program also includes four simulcasts from Del Mar. The $125,000 San Diego Handicap and the $75,000 San Clemente, both Grade III events, are the co-featured races at the seaside racetrack.

Countess Blue, a Texas-bred filly by Blue Chocolate, has blazing early speed out of the gate which she used to win the June 18 Aspen Cup by 1 1/2-lengths. At the start of the six furlong handicap, Countess Blue was fourth, but quickly rushed into contention to take the lead midway down the backstretch.

The Dallas Barton-trainee never relinquished her lead and went on to win handily in a time of 1:12.1 over a wet/fast track. The filly has won three of five starts going six furlongs and was assigned high-weight of 121 pounds for the Oaks.

The filly is owned by James Clark of Santa Teresa. The stakes placed in the Oaks include Leisure Kite and Kasi's Cash Queen also must be respected in Saturday's main event.

Leisure Kite most recently ran a strong third behind multiple stakes winners Acrylic and Pirate's Spirit in the Jockey Club Handicap on July 2.

The Doyal Roberts-charge was the only filly in the Jockey Club Handicap and should be even tougher against her own sex.

Kasi's Cash Queen, who resides in Jon Arnett barn, ran third in the Aspen Cup, but was disqualified for interference in the turn and placed fifth.

The filly has not won a race this year in five tries, but ran second in the Las Senioritas in Albuquerque.

Local Yokel surprises in Saturday's Derby Prep, Mildly Sinful takes the Rainbow consolation

Fifteen-to-one longshot Local Yokel survived an early pace duel then drew off down the lane under jockey Kenny Roller for an upset victory in the co-featured $12,925 Ruidoso Derby Prep Handicap, Saturday at Ruidoso Downs.

In the $96,023 Rainbow Futurity Consolation, jockey Billy Peterson notched his first Ruidoso stakes victory when he piloted the filly Mildly Sinful to a come-from-behind half-length victory over a field of talented 2-year-old quarter horses.

The Jo Ann Hitt-owned and trained gelding Local Yokel jumped out of the gate to take a head lead at the start of the one mile Derby Prep and maintained that advantage along the backstretch.

The New Mexico-bred by Full Choke carved out quick early fractions of :22.4 and :46.4 for the first half mile while being pressured by fellow longshot Lorys Tab and 3-2 favorite Acrylic.

With a quarter mile to run, the gelding had widened his lead to a full length as his rivals began to weaken. In the stretch, Local Yokel stretched his lead to five lengths, then easily held off a late charge from 30-1 outsider Irascible to win by three over the field of 12 three-year-olds.

Santiago Star, at 13-1 odds, closed late for third.

Local Yokel had finished out of the money in his only other career start going a mile, but ran the distance in 1:40 flat, easily the fastest time of the meet.

"We're going to lay off the pace, but Local Yokel had other plans," said Roller who had never ridden the gelding prior to today. "He relaxed well down the backside and had enough left when he needed it. He's a nice colt."

Local Yokel banked $7,755 for the victory which bumped his earnings past the $60,000 mark. The gelding also won the Diamond Shamrock Stakes at Sunland Park in February for Hitt who lives in El Paso, Texas.

The futurity consolation was also a mild upset as 5-1 shot Mildly Sinful led longshots Mega Wish and Ronas Sound across the wire.

Mildly Sinful, a gray Oklahoma-bred daughter of Special Project, broke well from the gate in the 400-yard dash and trailed by less than a length in the early stages of the race.

QUALITY CARE Where the Quality Continues

Regional advisory committee on the MRS gets organized

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Formed last month to gather information and represent the concerns of their constituents about proposed storage of nuclear waste by the Mescalero Apache, a board of elected officials seemed to pick up steam Wednesday.

With more than 20 persons in the audience, members of the MRS Regional Information Committee, led by Ruidoso Mayor Jerry Shaw agreed to invite a member of the Mescalero Tribal Council to join the board. (MRS stands for monitored retrievable storage.)

They agreed that testimony and printed material from experts on both sides of the issues of storage and transportation of radioactive waste will be sought.

And they stated that tribal consultant Miller Hudson will be invited to attend the meetings as a member of the public and allowed to offer relevant insights during discussions. Hudson, a former Colorado state legislator, has been working with the Tribe on the project for about four years.

"Having him here would not be endorsing anything, but will help us keep track (of the project progress)," Shaw said.

Members deferred setting objectives for the committee until more elected officials are present. To enable a Chaves County commissioner to serve on the board, the meeting time was changed to 2 p.m. the third Wednesday of each month. Currently, besides Shaw, members have been appointed from the city of Alamogordo, the villages of Capitan and Ruidoso Downs, the towns of Carrizozo, Tularosa and Cloudcroft. She also hopes to have someone from the Roswell city council. State Representative H. John Underwood sits as an ex-officio member.

"I'd like to get enough here at one time to start electing officers," Shaw said. "I don't want to get up on soapboxes, but we want to keep up with what's happening and allow representatives to express what they feel."

"I asked officials to represent their constituents, so I must stand against it."

Mitzi Brownfield, a Cloudcroft councilor, said her board remains neutral on the issue, and wants more information.

"I personally am against it, but I represent their direction and for that reason I would like to have Miller Hudson here," she said.

All of the other villages in the area around the reservation where the spent nuclear fuel rods are to be stored already have approved resolutions opposing the project.

"I wanted enough people to represent divergent opinions, although I think the majority will be against it," Shaw said.

Jean Holt from the Ruidoso Upper Canyon Association said she is worried that by allowing tribal vice president Fred Peso to serve on the committee, the "facts" he presents might be given an unwarranted aura of authenticity.

"If the committee is to be effective, it must present balance or we will lose credibility. We need information and facts," Brownfield said.

Self-described MRS activist Dave Dale urged board members to take a firm stand against the MRS.

"The history of the Mescalero promises to keep the village informed is abysmal," he said. "I was overjoyed to see elected officials really trying to do something. It would be inappropriate not to take a public stand against the MRS."

Brownfield said she can't advise her council to go against the MRS unless she can present legitimate facts and figures.

Jeff Condrey, former Gallup city manager and now chief operating officer of Fort Wingate MRS Inc. urged the group to support his efforts to bring the radioactive spent fuel rods to the former military depot.

Instead of just rejecting a plan, the committee would be offering an alternative utilizing an existing federal facility built to store explosives, he said.

Jodi Bennett, an instructor of archaeology and anthropology at Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso, said she has worked on several successful drives to block environmentally detrimental projects.

She urged the group to bring in experts to back a massive grass roots campaign statewide.

"The main question you need answered now is what happens if something blows at the storage site," she said. "What do you do if there is a nuclear accident?"

Holt said money is available in Washington D.C. to help citizen groups. Dale said he also has received information about financial assistance for grass root groups.

Shaw asked Upper Canyon president Hazel Haynsworth, who has mobilized a group opposing the MRS, to align the association in that capacity as a subcommittee of the regional information group.

Russ Warwick, who identified himself as the former environmental health and safety officer for the Mescalero reservation, from May 1989 to June 1993, said he was charged with protecting the land.

After seeing how the tribe operated, Warwick said, "There's no way we want them messing with nuclear waste."

Peso has said storage of nuclear waste constitutes a safe industry that could bring great economic benefits and independence to tribal members.

DOE seeking public input

The Department of Energy is asking for feedback on whether the agency is legally obligated to take the high level radioactive waste by 1998, what to do with it and with the $8-billion in waste fund money collected from power companies, if the agency doesn't accept the waste.

The issue is significant for Ruidoso since its neighbor, the Mescalero Apache Tribe, is negotiating with 83 nuclear waste producers about possible temporary storage on the reservation.

Especially of interest to the department are comments on whether such interim away from reactor storage is needed.

Comment deadline is September 22. Mail to Alan Brownstein, Office of Civilian Radioactive Waste Management (RW-432), U.S. Department of Energy, 1000 Independence Avenue SW, Washington DC 20585.

Historial society releases booklet

A 33-page booklet containing eight interviews of Lincoln County pioneers recently was released by the Lincoln County Historical Society.

The interviews, conducted in the 1930s as part of the Work Progress Administration (WPA) Writer's Project, have never been published until "Old Lincoln County Pioneer Stories" was assembled.

Alice Blakestad, chairman of the society's publication committee, said the booklet is the third in a series of studies of the county's history.

"We're proud to be able to bring these interviews to light," she said. "This is just a small part of the work Edith Crawford of Carrizozo did under the auspices of the New Mexico Writer's Project. The interviews were brought to our attention by Crawford's niece, Aileen Lindamood of Carrizozo. Crawford was the daughter of one of the county's pioneer families herself, Frank and Annie Lesnett."

According to Ann Buffington, who wrote the introduction, "An amazing amount of fine work was done under the Artists and Writers Project. The WPA guides to every one of the states, a lot of murals for public buildings, those unforgettable photographs of migrant workers' families by Dorothea Lange are just an example.

"And all this oral history was being collected, at a time when the field was still in its infancy. Yet, much of it in New Mexico remains unpublished, so this is a major contribution to our knowledge of local history."

The stories selected for the volume represent the diverse character of the county's history, both geographically and culturally, Blakestad said. Interviews with early Hispanic settlers, miners, ranching families and merchants tell tales of hardship, Indian encounters, outlaws, holdups, covered wagon journeys and immigration in what Annie Lesnett called "a wild country."

Copies of the book are available by mail from Lincoln County Historical Society Publications, P.O. Box 91, Lincoln NM 88338. The cost is $4.50, plus $1.50 for shipping and handling. Checks or money orders are acceptable.

The book also may be purchased at the Lincoln County Heritage Trust Bookstore or the Torreon Trading Company in Lincoln, The Aspen Tree in Ruidoso or Cobean Stationery Co. in Roswell. Carrizozo residents may call Buffington at 648-2857 to purchase a copy.

Other publications in the series still are available: "Memoirs of a Country Doctor" by James Laws M.D. and "Fort Stanton, NM: the Military Years" by Lee Myers. Each title is $4.50, plus $1.50 for shipping and handling.

Area Masons celebrate lively history

The history of Masons in Lincoln County will be celebrated at the annual Family Day of the Lincoln Masonic Foundation, August 20.

Foundation members will serve coffee and doughnuts beginning at 9 a.m. in the park at the historic settlement of Lincoln.

Masons and their families and friends are invited to watch the Masonic sojourners present their Flag Making ceremony in costumes recalling the Revolutionary period.

Johnson Stearns, a spokesman for the group, pointed out that Lincoln County's turbulent history featured many men wearing white hats and black hats, who were Freemasons, including Sheriff William Brady, Deputy John W. Poe, Major L.G. Murphy, James J. Dolan, Emil Fritz, Albert J. Fountain, Tom Catron, Buck Morton and several of the military men at Fort Stanton.

Stearns noted that in one of local writer Eve Ball's books, she related a true story about how a serious confrontation was averted in Lincoln by two Masons.

One of the Masons was a Presbyterian minister and the other was a member of the Harrell gang, but they were able to call off the fight when they got word to one another.

The Masonic bond often provided safe haven and a place to rest for traveling Freemasons.

"Major L.G. Murphy provided a room on the second floor of his store where these men could get together when they were in Lincoln visiting or on business," Stearns said. "Now this room on the second floor of the courthouse has been restored with furniture and Masonic regalia and has been visited by more than 80,000 people."

The Lincoln Masonic Foundation was formed three years ago and has 200 members, he said. Masons from great distances and around New Mexico, who wanted to be part of the historic organization, were issued Charter Life member certificates.

A 36-page book that tells the story about early day Masons, complete with photographs, will be on sale on Family Day for $6.50 or by mail, $7.50.

Reservations to attend the dinner and ceremonies in the park can be made by contacting Ralph Dunlap at Lincoln or Johnson Stearns, Box 159, Carrizozo NM 88338.

The Silver Lining

Episcopal community gathers at the river

Outdoor church services at Paul Jones Ranch

Members of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County met July 20, at the Jones Ranch picnic grounds near Glencoe for outdoor church services and dinner on the grounds.

Services began by the singing of "Shall We Gather at the River, the Beautiful River of God." The voices of the congregation and the choir from Church of the Holy Mount harmonized with the voice of the river, as it flowed by singing its "Song of Summer," under the shade of the great oak and walnut trees.

The choir was under the direction of Danny Flores with Jans Deyo on the keyboard. Sandy Thomas, on the guitar, played accompaniment to the singing.

The Old and New Testament lessons and the Psalms were read by Dan Storm. The Reverend Anna Gaddy read the Gospel according to Saint Mark.

The Reverend Cannon John W. Penn based his sermon on the Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the Ephesians: "I therefore, the prisoner in the Lord, beg you to lead a life worthy of the calling to which you have been called; with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another in love, making every effort to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," and also the Gospel according to Saint Mark: "Jesus spoke to them and said, 'Take heart. It is I, do not be afraid,' then He got into the boat with them and the wind ceased."

The Reverend Leon Livingston and the Reverend Anna Gaddy assisted the Reverend Cannon John Penn in celebrating Holy Communion.

Nellie Ruth Jones, in the Prayers of the People, gave blessing for the birthdays of Kandra Hart, Barry Hurd, Anita Perry, Thomas Shrecengost, Heather Jackson, Beth Hart, Annelie Reynolds, Charel Senning, John Echols and Jack Frost, and also for the wedding anniversary of Jake and Ingrid Schmitz.

We thank all those who made this year's Celebration by the Riverside an occasion long to be remembered.

Christmas in July

The annual Christmas in July Bazaar, sponsored by Saint Anne's Guild of the Women of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County, will be Saturday, July 30, at the Church of the Holy Mount in Ruidoso.

The bazaar features a wide variety of homemade things, including baked goods, candy, clothing, Christmas decorations, dolls and Afghans. The garage or "white elephant sale" will present bargains of every kind. A cordial welcome is extended to everyone.

Old Lincoln Days

The Lincoln Pageant this year will be presented the evening of August 5 and 6, and the afternoon of August 7. John Shrecengost will play Billy the Kid this year. John is "Kid" number 10, the others being: Peter Hurd, John Davis, John Thomas, Tom Taylor, Earl Taylor, Bill Shrecengost, Ronnie Barone and Thomas Shrecengost.

The Pageant has become world famous. It is the only western pageant that takes place on the exact spot where the historical episode took place. The show takes place every year right in the middle of the rainy season, but has never been completely rained out.

Come one, come all to the Old Lincoln Days.

Film tells stories of Lincoln County

The Museum of the Horse will host a special presentation of "Storytellers of Lincoln County" at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 30. Admission is free.

In this professionally produced film, the true history of Lincoln County is told through the eyes and voices of the people who lived that history.

"Storytellers of Lincoln County" is the result of more than 80 hours of oral history collected from people with direct ties to the bloody Lincoln County War, the Indian War with the Apache, and the rough and tough honky-tonk days of the 20th century in Lincoln County.

In a recent release, Delana Michaels, the film's director and cameraperson, explained the rationale behind the making of this film.

"My home in Ruidoso, New Mexico, is an historic old grist mill with a big overshot water wheel that was built back in 1868, at the foot of a sacred white mountain in Apache Indian territory. As I began to learn the history of the Old Mill and the early stories of my home town, I realized that it would all soon be lost to time."

Lincoln County Food Bank needs some help

The cupboards are bare at the Lincoln County Food Bank, and that means as many as 100 people may be without food soon.

The food pantry, operated by a non-profit group of volunteers, is settled into its new home at St. Eleanor Catholic Church. Money donated to the Food Bank is used for food, with no donations ever used for salaries. The Food Bank's cash only expense is the monthly telephone bill.

Volunteers are on duty Monday, Wednesday and Friday to distribute food to needy families in Lincoln County, but right now the supplies are so scarce that they're hard pressed to meet the desperate needs.

In a typical month, the food bank supplies one to two weeks of food for 66 families totaling 156 individuals. That figure goes up and down, with the number of people served increasing in the winter, at the same time the donations usually decrease.

Who are these hungry people? They're your neighbors, usually facing some short-term crisis where they need some help. The Food Bank provides food for families when a paycheck is delayed, when a health crisis saps the family resources, and for those who have applied for food stamps, but haven't yet qualified. They're young and they're old, and they all share a common desperate need for food.

Churches and civic clubs provide some support for the Food Bank, but more food is needed. Donations may be dropped off at the food bank, St. Eleanor Catholic Church; Ruidoso Ford on Highway 70; and at any post office in Lincoln County. Cash donations may be sent to Lincoln County Food Bank; PO Box 1372; Ruidoso NM 88345.

Letters to the Editor

What happened to good old-fashioned respect?

TO THE EDITOR:

I was in a funeral procession on July 19. The majority of the vehicles pulled off the road and stopped as the procession approached. A few cars tried to continue by weaving around the stopped vehicles. The pedestrians and shoppers continued about their respective errands.

Two gentlemen on the sidewalk at the intersection of Sudderth and Carrizo Creek Road removed their red baseball hats and placed them over their hearts.

This respect dated back to a bygone era. Then, the flag was respected, parents and students also supported the school teachers, church attendance was high, homes were left unlocked, keys were left in automobiles and people stopped at stop signs.

The respect and courtesy displayed by those two gentlemen was greatly appreciated. It is somewhat comforting to note that on occasion, the respect and courtesy of yesteryear shines through.

Sunmount Syndicate Guest Column

Has American journalism gone bonkers?

If you've sometimes thought the news media have gone to excess in their coverage of Bill Clinton since his election a little over a year and a half ago, you are not mistaken.

In its current issue, the respected "American Journalism Review" reports the results of a recent study revealing that Mr. Clinton has received 14 percent more coverage in a dozen major papers than George Bush did during the same period of his presidency.

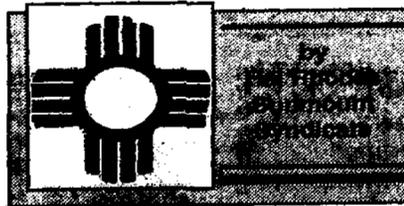

Mrs. Clinton, it continued, received a staggering 243 percent more in the way of coverage than Barbara Bush. Chelsea came in at seven percent more than all five of the Bush kids combined. And — get this — "Socks" the presidential cat garnered 20 percent more than Barbara's famous dog Millie who was, by proxy at least, a best-selling author!

We're dealing here not with sensible and balanced reporting. We're talking obsessive behavior on the part of a national press corps gone bonkers, and it's not healthy in the least.

Small wonder the impression has gained currency that somehow even the slightest global or domestic political tie is directly or indirectly the result of something Mr. Clinton did or did not do.

Not only does it suggest there may be merit to the President's complaints of being hounded mercilessly by the media. It hints of a press corps which has lost its perspective.

What makes the AJR report particularly unsettling is that the survey in question only extends to "a dozen major papers," ignoring the hundreds of other news outlets whose coverage those "majors" influence. Neither does it begin to reach the flourishing if smarmy tabloid industry, print and TV, where extravagance and excess have combined with fabrication and fancy to create a new multi-million dollar "art form" known as "cash book journalism," the business of buying and selling stories, any story so long as it titillates and lars have already changed hands in the O.J. Simpson saga, and before it is over, witnesses, potential witnesses, Simpson friends and doubtless Simpson enemies, stand to pick up far greater sums of money as the tabloids bargain frantically for their "stories," the validity of which ought instantly be in doubt by virtue of the wads of money paid to get them.

This is wrong. Not illegal. Just wrong in the old-fashion sense of the word.

Perhaps the best news coming out of this journalistic cesspool lately was the refusal of an Arkansas shelter for battered women to accept so much as a penny of the tainted money which has enriched Paul Jones since she "came forward" with allegations of sexual harassment against Mr. Clinton.

America has always had its share of raucous and irresponsible journalism. The penny press of Washington's and Jefferson's days so bedeviled our presidents as to prompt John Adams to persuade Congress to pass a Sedition Act outlawing the practice, a law later wisely overturned by the Supreme Court. In the latter years of the 19th century, the yellow journalism of William Randolph Hearst even helped start a war with Spain.

sells papers and advertising.

According to journalist Jeffrey Toobin, who has researched the "cash for trash" journalism business closely, hundreds of thousands of dol-

But what has happened in recent years differs from those earlier exercises in irresponsible journalism, both in quality and quantity. Hardly a month passes without still another TV tabloid "news" program coming to the air or yet another rabid radio talk show host popping up on the dial.

"America's town meeting for the under-informed and angry," one wag has dubbed them.

Nor, so long as these pseudo-journalistic circuses continue to make big bucks for their owners and stockholders, are they apt to go away.

Recently a discouraged reader of this column called to ask what might be done about this kind of "trash."

"Don't support them," I inadequately suggested. "Don't buy them, don't read them, don't watch them, don't listen to them."

"I don't," she laughed, "and they're still around!"

Which we both finally concluded leaves us where we always are in such matters: hoping that somehow the great bulk of ordinary Americans will do what responsible journalists themselves have always been taught. Keep an open mind, maintain a healthy skepticism, look for accuracy, fairness and balance in the news.

The same kind of balance we can hope returns to the "dozen major papers" upon which the "American Journalism Review" recently reported.

Presidents, Mr. Clinton included, matter. They are not the cause of which all else is the effect, however.

A GREAT PLACE TO LIVE

Small towns offer some of the best qualities of life for young couples raising family or older folks, ready to retire, and just about anybody in between.

Probably the best part of small town life is knowing your neighbors as friends, and getting involved in community events.

Ruidoso Downs offers those benefits and more as one of the friendliest little villages in the Southwest.

Besides its neighborly people, this community is well-known for its fantastic view of Sierra Blanca and as a gateway to the beautiful Hondo Valley.

In the small town of Ruidoso Downs, neighbors aren't just the people who live on your block. Everybody in the community is your neighbor and friend, including the people at village hall, the police department and the many businesses you will frequent.

These people greet you by name, and always have a minute to spare to talk about the weather or whatever else you might have on your mind.

Village hall clerks, police dispatchers and any municipal employee will pitch in and help you with just about any emergency you might have — whether you're visiting in Ruidoso Downs or you've lived there a day or a lifetime.

The municipal building and the police department are now located in one building off U.S. Highway 70 by the village park, but a new village hall is under construction on the highway.

Members of a well-trained and active volunteer fire department are just a telephone call away — ready for a quick response to fires and emergencies.

Wherever you go in Ruidoso Downs — be it Ruidoso Downs Race Track, the Museum of the Horse or just down the street for a cup of coffee and conversation — you're sure to see what makes this community such a great place to live or to visit. The people are down-to-earth and know the value of a good friend, but they also know how to have fun.

Ruidoso Downs Race Track is and has been the major attraction to locals and visitors for years, but Ruidoso Downs has many other exciting activities and events throughout the year.

One event with a growing tradition is the annual All American Arts and Crafts Fair sponsored by the Ruidoso Downs Ladies Auxiliary each Labor Day weekend.

Artists and artisans from throughout the area gather to show off their greatest creations in a festive atmosphere that's fun for the whole family.

The fair — with its food booths, drawings and apple pie baking contest — is a great way to cap off the summer racing season.

Holidays are always a great time to get together with friends and family within the community to celebrate the meaning of the season.

The auxiliary hosts an Easter egg hunt each spring for youngsters to gather decorated eggs and prizes hidden in the village park.

Auxiliary members also have started a new tradition of serving a delicious homemade Thanksgiving dinner to senior citizens and people who are alone for the holidays. More than 70 people enjoyed the good food and company last fall in the comfortable senior citizens center in Ruidoso Downs.

The whole community joins in the festivities for the annual Christmas party at the center. It's fun for kids and adults alike as they sing Christmas carols, enjoy cookies and punch and whisper their wish list to Santa Claus.

Family and friends can chat in the warmth of the center before heading home on a beautiful winter night.

During the holiday season, take a drive around the community to see all the decorated houses competing in the annual lighting contest sponsored by the auxiliary. Even if they don't enter the contest, Downs residents enjoy putting up a show for the holidays.

The auxiliary is a strong organization in the community with a continuing commitment to a variety of activities — including area cleanup campaigns to improve the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

Current auxiliary president Shirlene Fitzner believe that when you live in a small community, you try to make it the best it can be, and auxiliary members agree.

The bright, modern senior citizens center is a testament to the auxiliary members' dedication to their town. They joined village leaders in getting the money to build a center, and they've continued to contribute by furnishing the center.

The senior citizens center, located right next to village hall off Highway 70, has quickly become the magnet that draws the community together since its opening in 1991.

During the winter, the center is open from 1 to 4 p.m. each Thursday, but those hours are likely to be expanded in the summer.

The building serves many purposes throughout the year, including being designated as the polling place for Precinct 10, which includes some Ruidoso Downs residents.

The Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department, besides being on alert for emergencies, is raising money for new playground equipment for the village park.

The village board of trustees meets at 7 p.m. the second and fourth Monday of each month and those meetings are open to the public. Trustees, who invite and encourage residents and visitors to attend those meetings, are always willing to hear comments from community members on how projects or procedures can be improved to benefit Ruidoso Downs.

The racetrack draws thousands of people to the area each year, most of Ruidoso Downs population is made up of year-round residents.

Those who do live in Ruidoso Downs for the summer enjoy the lifestyle and hate to leave at the end of the season.

Visitors, too, are drawn back year after year to meet old friends and make new ones in the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

This little community has grown into a home for many people and its residents invite you to come for a visit to see what makes Ruidoso Downs one of the best small town's in the Southwest.

RUIDOSO DOWNS YESTERDAY

Newcomers to Lincoln County may think of Ruidoso Downs as an adjunct to the Village of Ruidoso, but the town boasts a rich history all its own.

When Ruidoso was only a dirt road turnoff, the area that was to become Ruidoso Downs was a major stop from Roswell to Tularosa first on a stage line and later by bus and car.

While the town is legend for its political in-fighting, the high emotions are simply testimony to the dedication of its residents to the best interests of the community.

And when the debates end, most remain friends.

Bernice Jones said her grandfather, Lowrey Hale, owned most of the land there in the 1880s and built the first house.

Parcel by parcel, he acquired about 800 acres, 100 of which cost $400 in a purchase from Indrice Herrah, and later was known as Hale Springs, according to an article written for The Ruidoso News in 1947 by Mary Nell Taeger.

Hale also bought a tract from "Doc"

Scurlock for $400 that became the site of the White Mountain Inn on the banks of the Rio Ruidoso.

The Inn, which still stands, was first an overnight stop for stagecoaches and later for buses.

A man named Johnson, who became a senator, built the two-story structure in the early 1900s, according to Wynema Tully of Glencoe, who remembers his name as Rev. S.M. Johnson. An account written by Taeger stated his name as J.V. Johnson.

According to the Taeger story, Johnson first talked to Hale about the property in Capitan, then returned to the area in 1908 to buy the parcel. Two years later, he was back again, this time with his family and he built the inn. By that time, Johnson owned nearly 1,000 acres.

Dan Storm said the inn was quite a landmark in the 1920s.

"Roderick and Heck Johnson (the senator's sons) owned it then," Storm said. "It was the only thing in what was to be Ruidoso Downs."

"The Johnsons sponsored a big

Fourth of July celebration with big rodeos right around the inn on a flat piece of land.

"They had a swimming pool nearby, but nobody used it much."

Former Ruidoso Downs mayor Jake Harris said the highway from the east turned north across the front of the inn, then veered left (west).

"They had rooms for overnight," Harris said. "They served meals and the bus stopped there."

"Originally it was the only business in this area. Before the buses, the old stagecoach stopped. There were barns there for the driver to change horses or keep his overnight."

Lela Mayo and her family bought the inn in 1971.

"It's the oldest building in the vicinity, older than the Navajo Lodge (which has been torn down) or Carrizo Lodge," she said. "We'd like to see it restored, but it needs a lot of repair and that's going to cost a great deal of money."

Names from the early days of Palo Verde include Frank Allison, Ola Jones, Frank Beavers and D.C. Heath.

At one time, the Johnsons operated a general store, a post office and a dance hall, according to Taeger's account. In 1935, Turner's Tavern, a saloon and filling station opened. Jim Mauldin started a garage and in 1936, Ewing Carter opened a general merchandise store that later became Fox Merchandise. That was the same year the community's first sawmill was started by Ed Hoagland, she wrote.

For years, timber cutting and lumber mills played a significant role in the economic health of the community. However, the heavy cutting activity eventually played out the good timber areas.

Harris recalled the early days when Ruidoso Downs was dubbed Palo Verde and was the hub of activity because of U.S. 70.

It was the Johnson family that set the tone for the future of the community.

The property owned by Johnson con-

Highways:

Ruidoso Downs is served by U.S. Highway 70. This is well-maintained and rarely closed for any length of time because of inclement weather.

RUIDOSO DOWNS RACING, INC.

Ruidoso Downs will begin its 47th year of racing May 13 for a 68-day meet that will go through September 5.

Race days will be Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays in May. Thursdays will be added in June through the rest of the meet.

Three special holiday Monday race cards will be offered — Memorial Day, Independence Day, and Labor Day, the date of the world's richest quarter horse race, the $2 million est. All American Futurity.

The New Mexico State Racing Commission, in a regular meeting Thursday, approved the stakes and condition book for Ruidoso Downs.

Stall applications will be due March 21 and the barn area will open April 18.

Once again quarter horses take the spotlight with some of the richest and most prestigious quarter horse races in the country being run at Ruidoso Downs.

Nine are Grade I races including the Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses (Ruidoso Quarter Horse Futurity, Rainbow Futurity and All American Futurity); Triple Crown for three-year-old quarter horses (Ruidoso Quarter Horse Derby, Rainbow Derby and All American Derby); Rainbow Silver Cup for four-year-olds and older; World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic for three-year-olds and older; and the All American Gold Cup for four-year-olds and older.

Five Grade III $14,000 added events will run including the Mr Jet Moore Allowance Stake for three-year-olds and older; Go Together Handicap for three-year-olds and older fillies and mares; Jet Deck Handicap for three-year-olds and older; Higheasterjet Handicap three-year-olds and older; and the Ruidoso 550 Championship for three-year-olds and older.

One new race for quarter horses has been added for New Mexico-bred two-year-olds. That race is the Zia Futurity and it will have a $50,000 estimated purse.

Several lucrative races for thoroughbreds will also be run at Ruidoso Downs this summer including the $50,000 est.

Norgor Futurity; $75,000 added Ruidoso Budweiser Breeders' Cup for three-year-olds and older; $75,000 est. Kachina Stakes for two-year-old fillies; $25,000 added Sweetheart Handicap for three-year-old and older fillies and mares; and the $75,000 est. Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity.

There are also many rich races for New Mexico-breds this year including the $25,000 added Road Runner Handicap for three-year-olds; $30,000 added Rio Grande double futurities; $30,000 added Land of Enchantment Speed Handicap for three-year-olds and older; and a new race called the Sierra Blanca Handicap ($25,000 added) for three-year-olds and up fillies and mares.

COWBOY SYMPOSIUM

When the weather gets crisp and the aspens start to turn, it's time for one of New Mexico's greatest cowboy events — the 5th Annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium!

When it comes to cookin' up fun, nobody does it quite like the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium!

This October, the finest cowboy poets, musicians, chuckwagon cooks and craftsmen will congregate in Glencoe, New Mexico (about 10 miles east of Ruidoso Downs) to celebrate their way of life.

The public is cordially invited to join in the celebration and discover just why cowboys are such a contented lot!

On a glorious fall weekend, visitors from across the United States will enjoy the weekend long event that features everything from a rich chuckwagon cook-off to team roping, trail rides, cowboy poetry and singing and performances by the Mescalero Tribal Dancers and the Hondo Fiesta Dancers.

Last year the Cowboy Symposium added an overnight trail ride through historic Lincoln County and the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation.

The ride was so popular that riders are all set to saddle up again for three days and two nights experiencing the life of the nomad.

The Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium starts on Thursday, October 6, and continues Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 7, 8 and 9, with a series of presentations by cowboy poets and musicians.

For ticket information call 505-378-4142. Hope to see you there!

ALL AMERICAN FESTIVAL

The fifth annual All American Festival will roll into Ruidoso Downs this May with plenty of events to entertain you!

Ruidoso Downs and the surrounding area always celebrate the end of summer with a full-fledged festival that leads up to the world's richest horse race — the All American Futurity on Labor Day.

In just a few years, the All American Festival has established a set of traditions all its own with events that include lots of food, fun, arts, crafts and fellowship.

The festival is fun, it's wholesome and it's planned with the family in mind.

Some events, like the All American Fiddler's Championship, are repeated every year, and some new activities are added every year.

The All American Fiddler's Championship showcases talented fiddlers from across the United States.

Art events are planned for stitchers, snappers and sketchers.

The annual Youth Art Show features the talents of area students, and ends with an awards ceremony and exhibit.

Photographers, both amateurs and professionals, compete for a $1,000 prize in the All American Photography competition.

The art of stitchery stars in the All American Needlework Fair. The Festival will be topped off with the 1993 Charity Celebration. And there's so much more...

Watch for this year's complete calendar, or call All American Festival headquarters at Ruidoso Downs Race Track, 378-4431.

MUSEUM OF THE HORSE

Nestled in the tranquil mountains of southern New Mexico is one of the state's newest treasures, the Museum of the Horse.

The Museum was named the "Best Destination" in the state of New Mexico for 1993.

Housing the vast collection of Anne C. Stradling, the Museum boasts a staggering array of saddles, carriages, wagons, Indian artifacts and fine art.

The Village of Ruidoso Downs proudly boasts that the Museum of the Horse plays host to more than 20,000 visitors annually.

The Museum of the Horse is open every day, year-round. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. May through Labor Day, and are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Labor Day to May.

The museum offers plenty of free parking right outside the front door, with additional parking and handicapped parking beside the museum.

Admissions vary and special group and educational rates are available. Please call (505) 378-4142 for specific information.

The amazing collection that makes up the Museum of the Horse began as a dream for a young Anne Schley. Raised in an affluent east coast family, Anne was an accomplished horsewoman. Encouraged to preserve history through collecting, she chose to pay tribute to the thing she loved the most—the horse. The collection sprang from an old stirrup tacked to a barn wall and now includes more than 10,000 artifacts.

Throughout the history of mankind, from the steppes of eastern Europe to the plains of the great American West, one sturdy companion stood by the explorer, the Indian, and the settler—the horse.

The heritage of the horse is something to be treasured and explored and the Museum of the Horse brings that to life!

The Museum of the Horse began its public eye in 1960 when Anne and her husband, Floyd Stradling, named the Anne Stradling Museum of the Horse in Patagonia, Arizona.

Over the years, Anne continued to expand the collection and she expects to continue the next 30 years.

In 1989 due to failing health she contacted the Hubbard Museum about finding a permanent home for her massive collection. An agreement was reached, and in 1990, the Anne C. Stradling Museum of the Horse began its journey to its new home in Ruidoso Downs, New Mexico.

Anne Stradling died February 26, 1992, in Tucson, Arizona—just a few months before her collection opened to an admiring crowd in a newly renovated building next to Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Since opening in 1992, the Museum of the Horse has become a focal point of educational and cultural activities for the Ruidoso area.

The Museum hosted the prestigious Santa Fe Watercolor Society in a magnificent show during the summer of 1993. Each summer, area artists are highlighted in the All American Art Show and Sale.

Each month, educational and entertaining programs are presented to the public.

"We like to think of ourselves as an evolving Museum," said Museum of the Horse Development Director, Frank Potter.

"We don't want our exhibits to remain static and unchanged. We hope that each time a visitor comes to the Museum of the Horse they'll find something new and different to enjoy."

On the horizon for 1994, patrons of the Museum can anticipate the grand opening of a new exhibit area and meeting room. The new area will open with some of the magnificent artwork found within Anne's collection.

Old English art as well as more modern equine pieces will be featured.

The museum's permanent collection includes everything of and about horses, from a Russian sleigh, to an authentic circa 1860 stagecoach, from saddles and harnesses to bits and spurs.

The Anne C. Stradling collection includes artifacts from throughout the world including exquisite pieces from ancient Greece and Rome.

Visitors relive the West through works of Western masters like Frederic Remington, Charles M. Russell, Frank Tenney Johnson, Henry Alkins and others.

They can browse through Anne Stradling's collection of family memorabilia. Spanning six generations, these heirlooms bring to life the everyday existence of a turn-of-the-century American family.

Discover the heritage of the horse—explore its impact on life as we know it.

And of course, mark your calendars now for the Museum's annual Anniversary Gala held on Memorial Day Weekend.

The gala promises to be another elaborate evening of fine dining and dancing.

For those of you who want to be on the inside track to all of the upcoming exhibits and happenings at the Museum, stay in touch with a museum membership.

The Museum of the Horse offers a number of different membership packages—there is a membership category to meet every person's needs. Membership in the Museum of the Horse brings with it a number of different benefits—one of the most popular being discounts at the Museum Mercantile, a delightful on-site gift shop.

Members also receive invitations to special events, such as preview parties of exhibitions.

Perhaps the best benefit is the satisfaction members enjoy of providing vital support for the continuing efforts of the Museum of the Horse to preserve the heritage of the horse.

If you're looking for a unique gift for someone special, the Museum Mercantile is the place to shop.

The Museum of the Horse truly is one of New Mexico's treasures—but more importantly, it is a local treasure.

Come discover for yourself the gold in your own backyard.

tained the right to the spring that still is a source of water for the community and one of the major reasons it was incorporated, Harris said.

Johnson divided the land into two plats for his sons. Henry Johnson received the Palo Verde area that became Green Tree and eventually, Ruidoso Downs. Rod Johnson was given the land that became the Agua Fria development.

But the community's current identity is tied to the Ruidoso Downs Race Track, now owned by R.D. Hubbard and Dr. Ed Allred.

When the governor shut down slot machine and table gambling in Ruidoso, promoters decided it was time to try horse racing in earnest.

Harris said they searched for a field that would be visible from the highway and settled on a pasture owned by Fount Miller. They drew a circle and started running horses. At one point, the race track was called Hollywood Park.

With the know-how to operate, they soon went broke, Harris said. That's when Gene Hensley stepped into the picture and bought the racetrack for $60,000. With Walt Wiggins as promoter, they introduced the All American Futurity, the race that established the track's reputation and now is the richest quarter horse purse in the world.

Hensley was convinced that political leaders in Ruidoso wanted to annex the racetrack into their community.

Harris said he asked Hensley to join the community of Green Tree instead. He did, and soon after the town was renamed Ruidoso Downs.

Although when it was first laid out as a town in 1933, the community was called Palo Verde, the federal government changed all that with the opening of the post office January 1947. The U.S. Postal Administration designated the name as Green Tree.

Dorothy Reddy Parnell was the first postmaster. Her husband, Ray Parnell, was Ruidoso Downs' first mayor and four of the first trustees were Jess Harris (Jake Harris' father), J.B. Gazaway, Sam Stout and Lem Colthorp.

"We never liked that (Green Tree)," Harris said. "Gene wanted it changed to Ruidoso Downs so it would show up on highway maps."

"There was resistance in Ruidoso. They didn't like it. The Ruidoso city limits were at the city pool then and they quickly moved it right down to our limits."

Harris and Alamogordo lawyer Jack Whorton actually walked off the boundaries of Ruidoso Downs.

By special election in February 1958, town residents voted 88-27 to change Green Tree to Ruidoso Downs. But Mrs. Parnell said it wasn't until 1961, that the town officially became Ruidoso Downs when the new post office was opened.
