New editor hired

Joanna Dodder has been named editor of the Ruidoso News by Sammy M. Lopez, publisher.

Dodder, 33, has covered various beats at the Steamboat Pilot newspaper in Steamboat Springs, Colo. for the past eight years, receiving numerous state and national awards.

Both publications are owned by WorldWest Limited Liability, Co. of Lawrence, Kan.

Dodder was previously an editor in New London, Iowa after graduating with a journalism degree at Iowa State University.

Johnson visits Ruidoso Monday

Gubernatorial candidate Gary Johnson will be in Ruidoso Monday, Oct. 17 to speak to voters.

Johnson will answer questions beginning at 11:30 p.m. in the North Forty Room at the Cree Meadows Country Club.

A buffet lunch at noon is also open to the public. Reservations are requested for the $7.50 meal. Johnson will speak during the meal.

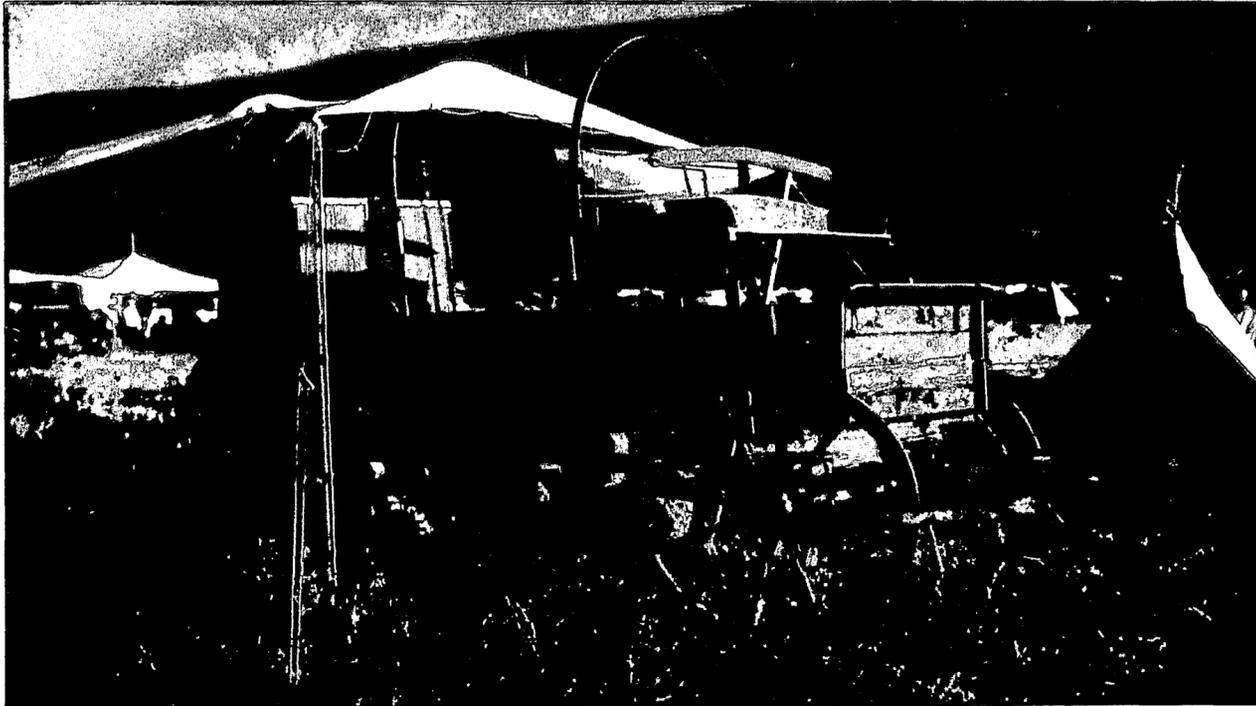

This is Johnson's last scheduled visit before polling booths close.

Johnson backed by Chino in guv race

Joining many other tribal councils in New Mexico, Mescalero Apache President Wendell Chino has announced his backing of Republican Gary Johnson for governor.

That was no surprise since Chino also chose Gov. Bruce King's opponent in 1990. King hasn't endeared himself to Native American groups the past four years, taking stands against the expansion of gambling on Indian land and against the storage of radioactive nuclear waste being sought by the Mescaleros for their reservation.

While the number of Native American voters isn't high in the state, Indian governments and gambling operations have poured money into Republican Johnson's campaign, about $45,000 to date. They donated more than $60,000 to Lt. Gov. Casey Luna's unsuccessful challenge of King for the Democratic nomination.

Old West lives again

The 5th annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium gets underway this weekend at the Glencoe Rural Events Center. It includes western music and poetry, a chuck-wagon cookoff, team roping and horse training.

County candidates disagree on gambling

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Opinions on gambling and its potential for Lincoln County mark the parting point for the two County Commission District 4 candidates.

Incumbent Bill Schwettmann, a Republican, favors passage of a state constitutional amendment to allow lottery and video gambling.

His Democratic opponent, Preston Stone, is against legalizing gambling.

"I feel very sincerely that if the proper research was done they would find that the states that are in lottery and gambling, that it's been as much of a hindrance to their budgets as beneficial," said Stone, a former Capitan school board member.

"I prefer it not pass, but if the voters say yes, (if) they want it, I do not feel it should be limited to the (Indian) reservations and should be left up to individual communities to decide whether they want it."

Schwettmann said gambling already exists on the neighboring Mescalero Apache reservation, so why not spread around the wealth.

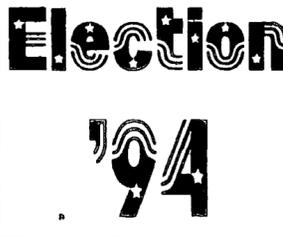

"Why shouldn't we share and get our piece of the pie?" he said. "People are going to gamble. Why not have it, as long as it is well regulated?"

"I think we lost a lot of revenue from the (Ruidoso Downs) racetrack. People might have thought about going to the track, but they stopped to gamble at the (Mescalero) casino and never made it there. Morally, I think, if you're going to gamble, you'll gamble.

"I don't think we should limit it to resort communities. Tell me a community in New Mexico that isn't a resort area."

As far as potential negative impacts, such as increases in crime and property taxes, Schwettmann said that other taxes should decrease as gambling revenues materialize. He doesn't see a climb in property values as a problem.

"When you have piece of property that doubles in value, you have a big asset," he said.

Both Schwettmann and Stone have impressive community service credentials. Besides Stone's 10 years on the school board, he spent 18 years on the county fair board. Besides the boards on which he serves currently as a commissioner and several professional associations, Schwettmann was a member of the state entity that licenses contractors and a panelist for the American Arbitration Assn.

Since being elected two years ago when the commission expanded from three to five members, Schwettmann has received good marks for his performance.

So why is Stone running?
"I feel that being a Lincoln County native, I can offer a more traditional standard of (local) government than is being offered," Stone said. "Our county is really unique with a differential in each community. The needs aren't the same. The income is definitely not the same. I feel a person raised (here) and who knows Corona from San Patricio and knows the culture of the people will understand better than someone not reared in Lincoln County."

"I feel now we have five commissioners who represent five different areas of the county. I think I see too much shoving, pushing and pulling among (them). When a person is elected to public office, he or she represents the entire county. We have to work harder to try to come up with a combination in

Backgrounds of candidates outlined

Election day is Nov. 8, although voters can head to the polling booth in Carrizozo for early voting now. This week, the only race for Lincoln County Commissioner is highlighted. Other commissioner candidates are unopposed.

Below are some of the vital statistics on Bill Schwettmann and Preston Stone, candidates for the Lincoln County Commission District 4 seat. The district includes precincts 3, 5 and 10, covering a section east of Gavilan Canyon, the Alto and Capitan communities and a broad swath across the middle of the county to the east. The winner will serve a four-year term and will be paid $11,235 a year.

Among a long list of professional and community organizations with which Schwettmann has been associated are Rotary, Elks, Jaycees, Masons, American Association of Retired Persons, State Contractor Licensing Board, the National Society of Professional Engineers and the American Arbitration Association.

A sampling of Stone's list includes being a 4-H leader, a volunteer emergency medical technician, a member of the Hondo Soil and Water District advisory board, the Capitan School Board, the Farmers Home Administration board, the Lincoln County Fair Board, and the state cattlegrowers and state woolgrowers associations.

Teens charged with 19 local burglaries

Four Ruidoso youths were apprehended Saturday for allegedly vandalizing and burglarizing up to 19 homes here during the past few weeks.

More than $50,000 in damage is estimated to have occurred in the homes, said Ruidoso Police Detective Jim Biggs. Thousands of dollars of stolen items have also been recovered.

The suspects include one 16-year-old female and three males aged 14, 15, and 16. At least three had apparently not been living with their parents for several days, Biggs said, and one was as a runaway. They were taken to the juvenile detention center in Alamogordo.

The four are being charged with numerous counts of felony residential burglary, criminal damage to property and larceny. The latter charges include felony and misdemeanor charges.

Federal payments may rise

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A new formula tied to inflation would more than double the amount of money Lincoln County receives each year in place of property taxes lost on federal lands within its boundaries.

The U.S. Congress earlier this month passed legislation revising the formula used to calculate Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILT).

Commissioner Bill Schwettmann said Tuesday that, in phases over a five-year period, the inflation factor could more than double the amount received by the county. He based that estimate on information presented during a recent meeting of the New Mexico Association of Counties.

Deputy County Treasurer Joan Park said for 1993 the county collected $340,938 in PILT, up from $319,618 the previous year. The payments are received in September following the tax year.

The total for 1993 represented a drop from $333,000 paid to the county in 1991 and $340,000 in 1990.

First enacted in 1976, the PILT program compensates counties for non-taxable federal lands, but the formula previously has never been adjusted for inflation. Public lands reduce a county's tax base and the federal money is designed to take up the slack.

The money is based on the number of federal acres in a county, minus a deduction for the amount received the previous year for timber sales, mineral extraction and other activities on those lands.

Of the 3,109,312 acres in the county, 35 percent or 1,088,952 are owned collectively by the Bureau of Land Management, the U.S. Forest Service, and the White Sands Missile Range. Private owners hold 1.7 million acres, about 57 percent of the land, and the State Forestry Division accounts for 302,800 acres.

County Commissioner Stirling Spencer, a rancher, has been joined by other commissioners over the last few years in an effort to compel the federal government to update the formula and increase the payment.

Congress has accomplished that goal and now it's up to President Bill Clinton to sign it into law, which he is expected to do within the next two weeks.

Sherry K. Kiesling of U.S. Rep. Joe Skeen's press office, said Clinton had not received the bill as of Tuesday morning.

"The problem is that the Congress passed hundreds of bills in the last few days on unanimous consent, so the President has his work cut out for him," she said.

Skeen (R-NM) applauded the accomplishment of his fellow congressmen in the House by overwhelming approval of the measure. The lack of an inflation factor in the past has resulted in the program's value diminishing to less than half of its value in 1976, he said.

"Thirty-two of New Mexico's 33 counties are heavily reliant on PILT funds to make up the lost taxable values of federal lands," Skeen said in a news release from his office. "They rely on PILT payments to continue providing needed services, everything from road im-every situation to fit the entire county. There has to be some continuity between Corona and Arabela, Ruidoso and Capitan. Just because Corona sits two miles from the county line, doesn't mean we can forget those people up there."

Stone said he'd like to see tighter control of the budget and less reliance on federal grants.

"I believe in a self supportive government," Stone said.

Schwettmann said Lincoln County manages its money better than most areas of the state.

"I don't like the fact that we're a county well known for having surpluses, but they will diminish when we have capital improvements (such as proposed improvements at the courthouse in Carrizozo) and capital purchases. You need to maintain some surplus for emergencies," he said.

Schwettmann said he's an effective commissioner because he has no other political ambitions.

"I'm not of the age that I'm looking to make stepping stones," he said. "I have no desire to go further. The only thing that would bother me is if you would get people there who aren't sincere and would do and say things so they can make another step to a higher office. What I do is kind of from the heart."

On reforms at Camp Sierra Blanca minimum security prison in the wake of six recent escapes, Schwettmann said he has met with community leaders and the warden.

"We have to have more of an early warning when these prisoners escape," he said. "I flat asked (residents) if they wanted it closed. They said no, we just want more security."

"It's a good facility for the economy, but we can't allow this to happen anymore. They need a fence around the perimeter. We have asked in a resolution that we don't want any more prisoners on work release."

Stone, whose background is in ranching, said he's not in a position to say if tighter security or other specific changes are needed.

"I definitely am opposed to working the inmates," he said. "When we have people walking up and down the street drawing unemployment and people on food stamps, why are we working people who are repaying a debt to society?"

Both men object to the proposal to store radioactive nuclear waste on the neighboring Mescalero Apache reservation.

"We've already done our share in New Mexico with WIPP (the Waste Isolation Pilot Project at Carlsbad for storage of defense waste)," Schwettmann said. "What else do they want from us? Or they're going to think we're the dumping ground for the United States. In our type of tourist-based economy, just the publicity alone is bad."

Stone said he's "highly opposed."

"I don't think because (Mescalero President) Wendell Chino and the BIA (Bureau of Indian Affairs) feel they want to, that they should be able to make private contracts and do this, because there are others besides the reservation that this would affect," he said.

With his civil engineering background, Schwettmann has devoted much of his attention since being elected to road problems and expanding the capabilities of the county road department to chip seal surfacing, a less expensive alternative to asphalt paving.

"The county has an ordinance, approved before my time on the board, that tells subdividers they must pave their roads. After a two-year period, if the roads hold up, the county will take them over for maintenance," he said. "I can relate this to the experience in Alto (where he lives). The county accepted those roads and didn't have one piece of asphalt equipment, so they had to hire outside contractors or had to buy the material and patch holes. If we don't buy the equipment, we're going to find the roads are going to deteriorate and it will cost millions, instead of every two or three years maintenance."

Schwettmann cast a nay vote against the commission's decision last year to purchase a former horse sales barn in Glencoe and turn it into a rural events center.

Stone also has his doubts about the purchase.

"Like anything else such as schools, water, growth, you have to have a master plan. You have to look down the road no less than 10 years," Stone said.

"I've seen an amazing center in Farmington, but they stage events four nights a week minimum. That's going to be the kicker in this. How much can we book in and what type of activities? Did we prepare and plan for this before we purchased?"

Commissioners were wise to back away from a proposal by some members of the board to move the annual county fair from Capitan to Glencoe, Stone said.

The Silver Lining

A most appreciated kind of parade

After a down-pour of rain on the seventh, day dawned bright and fair for the parade on the eighth.

A parade is an inspiration to watch; and it is also a special pleasure to take part in the parade and wave at the folks in the crowd, and to be cheered and inspired by them.

It seemed that this year's crowd was especially kind and appreciative.

Folks of all ages lined the streets along the parade route. It was heart-warming to see little children, even babes in arms, smiling and waving with their tiny hands.

The veterans' float was in honor of all veterans sponsored by the three local veterans organizations:

The Jerome Don Klein Post 7072 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; The Coe-Curry Chapter 27 of the Disabled American Veterans; and the Robert J. Hagee Post 79 of the American Legion.

Children riding on the float were Summer Armstrong, Katie Armstrong, Tommie Armstrong, Krystal McNutt and Jerome Montes.

Veterans on the float were Romeo Klein, Bud Skinner, Victor Jaramillo and Dan Storm.

While the floats were lining up ready to begin, Christina Lawrence introduced me to the ladies featured in the parade.

Barbara Graham, holder of the title of International Petite for New Mexico, and Ruby Mosley, New Mexico winner of the Mrs. America National Pageant.

At the national pageant Mrs. Mosley won the prize for the best dress, an Indian Leather dress fashioned by Ethel Caldwell of Cloud Chief Creations of Ruidoso.

We wish to thank all those who made this year's Aspencade Parade an event long to be remembered.

Jack Frost Arrives In The Vale

On the afternoon of the seventh, the woodpecker started calling from the hillside and then came down and started hammering on the house, trying to make himself a winter home inside the wall.

This visit by this bird of winter gives warning that cool weather is on the way.

And sure enough the temperature got down to thirty-two in the early morning of October eighth.

Two more Stellars Jays came down from the tall timber that day, and one lone Snow Bird Scout appeared at the yard gate just before sundown.

On the evening of the ninth, a band of five or six snow birds arrived at the door step.

And this morning the temperature reached thirty with heavy frost throughout the neighborhood.

Jack Frost is bringing us the best of his fall painting among the Oaks Brush in the valleys and the Aspen, Oak and Mountain Maple in the high country.

Let us thank the Lord for the beautiful fall days and all our other many blessings.

County seeks bids for senior center

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A well-equipped kitchen, landscaping and some other aspects of the Corona Senior Citizens building won't be completed in the first phase of work, but the center will still be functional, say county officials.

"These (first phase) plans put the building together and will give them a center they can start to use," said Bill Johnson, representing Architects West, which is handling the project.

Lincoln County Commissioners Tuesday approved advertising for bids from contractors on the work to convert the donated building into a seniors' center for the community in the county's northwest corner.

The bids will cover insulation under the floor, in the roof and possibly the walls, Johnson said. It will also include the interior work, except for the kitchen; handicapped accessibility in restrooms, parking and entry; and stucco outside.

improvements to firefighting. "The consumer price index has increased 120 percent since 1976, but PILT payments have remained flat. This legislation fixes that inequity and provides more reasonable compensation to counties for untaxable lands within their jurisdictions."

Curry County is the only New Mexico county that does not receive PILT money. This year, New Mexico received $10.6 million, more than any other state. If President Clinton signs, New Mexico could gain an increase in payments estimated by the office of U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici (R-NM) at $12.4 million in 1995, $14.7 million in 1996, $17.4 million in 1997, $20.8 million in 1998 and $24.4 million in 1999. The Senate approved a PILT bill earlier this year.

"A lot of this was just wanton destruction," Biggs said. "The damage just sickens you when you walk into these places."

For example, one TV was shot up. Doors and windows were broken in many of the homes, which officials think were unoccupied seasonal homes.

Officers were first called during Saturday's Aspenfest parade at 11 a.m. The caller spotted teenagers with guns on Catron Street.

When Biggs and Detective Wolfgang Born responded to the call, they saw four juveniles coming out of a home, with some carrying guns. The juveniles saw the officers and dropped their BB guns as they ran away. Officers caught the female, and a sheriff's deputy caught up with the boys about 11 p.m. that night, while the boys were walking along Mechem Drive.

Chances for DWI grant look good for Lincoln County

Prospects look good for a local DWI (driving while intoxicated) prevention initiative that would include a full-time counselor, probation officer and program coordinator.

Charlie White, Carrizozo police chief, told Lincoln County Commissioners last week that the program could begin as early as January. White is heading the local effort that includes backing from Magistrate Judge William Butts and law enforcement officials. White said state officials, who reviewed a draft application gave encouraging responses and they gave tentative approval to the three positions.

Priorities include screening, assessment and alternative sentencing. The request asks for a three-year grant to determine the effectiveness of the program. Commissioner Wilton Howell said a tax financed fund is supplying the money. The fund is growing by more than $1 million a year and currently sits at $5.8 million.

Dog killing charged

The same man cited for drunken driving in a three-car accident Oct. 1 has been charged with beating to death a neighbor's dog the same day.

When he was questioned in connection with the death of a male blue heeler dog, Dudley Scroff was already jailed in the Lincoln County detention center on charges of driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and careless driving.

Deputy Sheriff Charlie LaBelle subsequently filed additional charges against Scroff of injury to animals, criminal damage to property (both misdemeanors) and tampering with evidence, a felony.

LaBelle said Scroff told him he was tired of the dog barking.

"After he killed the dog by beating it to death with a five foot steel bar, he put it on top of his car to haul it off. The body fell off at the entrance to Hall's R.V. Park, but he didn't realize."

The owner found the dog dead at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 2 about five hours after the accident at Gavilan and Hull.

"The dog was tied on a chain and couldn't escape or defend itself," LaBelle said. "A couple of weeks earlier, the neighbor had complained that (a friend of Scroff's) had kicked the dog, but didn't want to testify. When I heard the two were in jail and the dog was dead, I went straight down to talk to them."

Scroff is living at Hall's R.V. Park, but is from Hobbs.

Scroff's bail was set at $11,000 cash. The felony charge carries a maximum 18-month jail sentence.

Road action rescinded as neighbors cry foul

Church Street in Nogal, closed by the Lincoln County Commission in August on a petition from Robert and Sue Stearns, was reopened last week after neighbors complained that they were landlocked by the action.

"I don't feel I was fully informed, not by intent," Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said, as he offered a motion to rescind previous approval of the commission to close the road. Commissioners will take another look at the situation in the settlement northwest of Ruidoso with all affected parties present. The easement granted to the landlocked owners apparently was not satisfactory, he said.

"We need to set up a process for sending certified letters or some sort of legal notice when you're considering a road closure," said County Attorney Alan Morel. The three persons affected by the Church Street closing, Thomas Jay Good, Candyce Good Jacobson and Chet J. Southard, were out of town when the public notice was posted on the property and didn't see the legal publication in the newspaper, he said.

Chairman Monroy Montes said that might impose too much of a burden on the small county staff when reviews are scheduled every month. He recommended limiting road reviews to twice a year, unless the situation is an emergency.

Regional landfill in black after nine months

By April of next year, a separate fund will be established to handle the closure and post closure money, Stockwell said.

The financial report showed that member disposal fees for the quarter were $158,259 and non-member fees were $10,722. For the period ended from April through Aug. 31, member fees were $280,248 and non-member were $31,703.

Asbestos disposal started in August and totaled $1,080 for the month, for an overall figure of $313,031 on the revenue side through Aug. 31.

Actual expenses for the period ending June 30 hit $223,343 compared to revenues of $287,355.

The authorities are seeking a waiver on groundwater monitoring based on the depth of the water table and quality of water in the area. Stockwell said a slim possibility exists that the state also may waive a requirement for a liner in future garbage cells. A liner is used to prevent liquids from decomposing garbage and other wastes from leaking into the underground water table.

The two boards also approved adding a $16 rate per cubic yard disposal for entities dumping 1,200 cubic yards of asbestos a year at a special site within the landfill.

An exchange is nearly completed on mineral rights to the State Land Commission. The authorities bought the landfill property from that agency and agreed to replace the mineral rights with substitute rights elsewhere.

Stockwell said by purchasing four separate parcels lying under a railroad right-of-way, he had accumulated the necessary 640 acres of mineral rights needed by the state.

Alamogordo city manager, reported Thursday. "The reserves are right where we projected."

Alamogordo, a member of the Otero County solid waste coalition, manages the landfill for the two groups.

"The figure of $150,000 is our target for a repair and replacement fund and we're still calculating what we'll need for closure and post closure monitoring," Stockwell said during a joint meeting of the two boards in Ruidoso. The authorities, comprised of the county commissions and municipal governing boards of Otero and Lincoln, were formed to handle garbage collection and disposal on a regional basis.

Although Benally told officials that he doesn't want to press charges, that decision is now in the hands of the district attorney's office, said Ruidoso Police Detective Jim Biggs.

Det. Biggs said officers had not yet determined what may have provoked the stabbing. Both men were at party on 339 Park Canyon Drive when the stabbing occurred about 2:30 a.m. Saturday. Both had apparently been consuming alcohol.

Witnesses said the incident happened quickly and they didn't see any argument leading up to the stabbing, Biggs said. The men were apparently acquainted with each other.

Humphreys allegedly used a 2 1/2-inch long awl projectile in a Swiss Army knife to stab Benally.

Downs man charged in awl stabbing

A Mescalero man was stabbed in the abdomen at a party in Ruidoso Saturday.

Perey Benally, 21, was taken to Lincoln County Medical Center and released the next day.

His alleged attacker is Lyle Humphreys, 21, of Ruidoso Downs. Humphreys was arrested and charged with aggravated battery, a third-degree felony.

Warriors take on 3rd place Silver

by KENT BEATTY

The News Sports Correspondent/
The Ruidoso Warrior Football team's realistic playoff hopes are on the line Friday night as the squad makes the long trek to Silver City for a meeting with the Colts. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

The Colts are a perfect 7-0 this season. Fumbles, blocked kicks and interceptions have found their way into the Silver huddle on many occasions.

Under second-year Head Coach Henry Carrillo, Silver's jumbo offensive and defensive lines have literally dominated the line of scrimmage. Senior quarterback Leo Trujillo, along with running backs Angel Carrillo and Rodney Sierra, have overpowered their way through opponents' linebacking and secondary corps.

Trujillo, who is actually from neighboring Bayard, where he handled the quarterbacking chores for Carrillo two years ago at Cobre High, caused quite a ruckus last year when he transferred. After surviving a New Mexico Activities Association investigation which eventually said that Trujillo could play for Silver, the talented QB led the Colts to a playoff trip last season.

The Colts run over people. No secrets, no tricks — just hard-nosed, straight-ahead football.

Silver owns wins over Texas schools, Fabens and Camutillo, as well as Gadsden, Deming, Ocate and Hot Springs from New Mexico. None of those opponents have winning records for the season, but that shouldn't take away from the Colts talent.

Trujillo is an excellent athlete and Carrillo is the winningest coach in the district, with three district titles to his credit in just four years as a head coach.

The Colts are easily the second-best team that Ruidoso has faced this year. Artesia is probably the best team in New Mexico in any class, and if it weren't for the Bulldogs, Silver would be kicking its chops when looking at that elusive Blue State Championship trophy.

Nonetheless, the Colts aren't invincible. The Warriors are a talented football team, but seem to have a tendency to shoot themselves in the foot. They led in last week's district opener against Santa Teresa until the fourth quarter, when the Desert Warriors returned two pass interceptions for touchdowns.

Warrior quarterback John Echols is among the state's elite high school quarterbacks, and the Warriors boast a stable of receivers that any prep coach would die for.

Even the team's running attack has looked very good at times. Junior Kyle Humphreys provides the spark on outside plays while fullback Rex Comanche gets tough yards up the middle.

What's the problem? Ruidoso moves the ball but doesn't score. Poor field position has plagued the Warriors for most of the season,

Team	District Record	Win Record %
Silver	7-0	1-0 1.00
Santa Teresa	5-1	1-0 .833
Socorro	5-1	1-0 .833
Hot Springs	3-4	0-1 .400
Cobre	3-4	0-1 .400
Ruidoso	3-4	0-1 .400

and that can be contributed to a less-than-average kicking game.

That situation has improved over the last two games. Echols and the offensive unit had relatively short field to work with against Fabens and Santa Teresa, and it showed.

Offense has not cost Ruidoso many games. At 3-4, the Warrior defense has been suspect at times, particularly against the pass. The special teams were the big factor in the Portales massacre.

If Carter and his staff can continue to get the team to improve in those areas, all things are possible. Ruidoso is probably the toughest team that Silver has played to at this point, and the Colts may be due for a letdown after seven tough games.

"The kids are excited about the things that we're working on," said Carter. "They can see the things we're trying to have a good chance of working."

Offensively, the Warriors will offer some new wrinkles to counter the Colts' 5-2 Monster defense. As far as the Warrior coaching staff can tell, Ruidoso is the only team to line up against the Colts that will "spread them out."

The Warriors employ a "run-and-shoot" offense as well as a basic running game. Most teams have tried to play Silver head-on, without success.

Ruidoso's playoff chances reside in this week's game. A loss to Silver would seriously affect the Warriors' post-season chances. It would still be mathematically possible to make the playoffs, but Ruidoso would need some help from Santa Teresa, another District 3-AAA team that seems to carry a rabbit's foot in its pocket.

Nathans Rocket, a two-year-old bay stallion owned by J. Bingham Jr. and/or J. Owens II of Ruidoso Downs, earned a second place finish in the New Mexico State Fair Senior Futurity RG3, Sept. 30 at the New Mexico State Fair.

Nathan Rocket, ridden by Chris Zamora and trained by Richard Fry, finished the 400-yard race in a time of :20.05 to earn $13,260.

Cross country team at top in Lubbock

The RHS Cross Country team raced to the top of the field in a huge competition in Lubbock last week.

The boys varsity team finished eighth out of 62 teams in a race that featured 433 runners and the defending Texas State champions in two divisions.

Cody Sparks led the way for the Warriors with a 32nd place finish, followed by Ezra Sandoval (46th), Johnny Martinez (61st), Kenneth Gray, Alley Hosetosavit, Tim Skinner and Eran McManemy.

Team results in the girls race were not available because of some problems at the finish line, but like the boys, the Lady Warriors also fared well.

Bridget Tam was the first to cross the finish line for the locals followed by Christy Smith, America Sandoval, Heidi Mitchell, Althea Palmer, Stephanie Vigil and Nancy Palmer.

The Warriors also entered a boys JV race in Lubbock where Zack Pafford checked in 43rd to lead the younger Warriors, followed by Michael Hufstetler, Sam Chee, Becenti Platero and David Hufstetler.

Head Coach Ronny Maskew was pleased with his team's performance.

"Both the boys and girls did very well. We made some good progress this week. We competed against the field much better than in the past couple of weeks, but we have to continue if we are going to be competitive at our district meet in Silver in a couple of weeks," said Maskew.

Braves travel to Tulie

The Ruidoso Middle School Coach Borde Williams, "Tulie and Ruidoso have a great rivalry, so I expect a good game."

The Braves will try to notch their fourth win of the season today as they travel to Tularosa for a 4 p.m. meeting with the Wildcats.

The Braves fell last week 20-14 in a heartstopper to the Socorro Warriors after trailing 12-0 at half.

"We don't know much about them, but our kids know that they want to beat them," said Braves

Coach Borde Williams, "Tulie and Ruidoso have a great rivalry, so I expect a good game."

The Braves have lost two key two-way starters to injury this season. The loss of Kyle Sparks at wingback and safety, and Brett Meyer at safety and fullback spots, have hurt the Braves, although their replacements are making good progress.

Hunters bounty to be checked at conservation roadblocks

Hunters are being put on notice that state conservation officers will check for game violations and monitor the game harvest at random roadblocks.

In some cases, other law enforcement agencies such as the State Police and sheriff's departments will be involved, looking for criminal activities such as poaching, and to assist in traffic control.

Innovative programs up to bat at school board

by DON HIXON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

National baseball may be on hold but there was no shortage of home runs at the Ruidoso School Board meeting Tuesday, as innovative school programs stepped up to the plate.

First up to bat was Gayla Stanaland, local director of the Graduation, Reality, and Dual-Role Skills (GRADS) program at Ruidoso High School.

Stanaland reported that the new program, which is designed to keep pregnant and parenting teens in school, is going very well. Seventeen students are currently enrolled, and nine of them were previously dropouts.

"The students are responding very well, and with the help of social services such as Women, Infants, and Children (WIC), and Children In Need of Service (CHINS), we have had many referrals," she said.

GRADS hopes to have the childcare portion of the program operational by January of 1995. Childcare facilities are being prepared at the high school to enable teen parents to remain in school, help drop-outs return to school, and provide early intervention so the teenagers' children will enter school "ready to learn."

Next up was the Eighth Grade

Kindergarten Mentorship Program, or the "Buddy" program for short.

Developed by teachers from Ruidoso Middle School and Nob Hill Elementary, the Buddy program's goal is to bring young children together with adolescents to promote self-esteem, responsibility, and learning.

The program places one eighth-grade student with one kindergarten teacher. While teachers provide assistance, each eighth grade student is responsible for developing activities, gathering materials, and teaching his or her kindergarten child. Eighth grade students maintain a journal of activities, experiences, and reactions to discuss within their classroom.

In addition, eighth grade students are required to read to kindergarten children for at least 15 minutes per visit. The middle school students visit their younger schoolmates once a week.

"I've had the opportunity to observe this program," said Superintendent of Schools Mike Gladden. "I think it's one of the great programs of the district."

Eight grade core team teachers are Clifton Neal, Dierly Stiewart, Dean Hood, and Herman Fox. The kindergarten team includes Connie Forrest, Eva Clarke, Pat Sullivan, Pauline Romero, and Cathy Jones.

Ruidoso High School Internship Program Advisor Bob Elder was the next to step up to the plate.

He talked about a course allowing students to intern in a career field with a professional. Students are matched with community mentors on the basis of their educational backgrounds, strengths, abilities, and interests.

The program attempts to match students with careers they are interested in pursuing, Elder said. Current placements include Don's Pharmacy, Ruidoso Printing, Century 21, and Texas/New Mexico Power.

Students must spend a minimum of five hours per week with their mentor, fulfill the mentor's requirements and complete all assignments made by the high school advisor.

"The kids take it seriously," said Elder. "They treat it responsibly."

Programs aside, the school board presented the Friend of Ruidoso Schools Award to Trink Edmunds. A retired principal and teacher from New York, Edmunds has served as a volunteer for the past two years at White Mountain Elementary. She spends two full days each week volunteering in classrooms and assisting librarians and teachers. She also implemented a writing program.

Eighth graders from Ruidoso Middle School work on the simulated archaeological project nicknamed the "dig." Students learn cultural awareness and team skills.

Students dig in at middle school

Learning about three different cultures indigenous to this area is what the archaeological "dig" at the Ruidoso Middle School strives to accomplish.

Winner of a 1993 New Mexico Heritage Award, the dig is a simulated archaeological project currently in its third year of operation.

The Heritage Award is given to recognize excellence in promoting culture awareness and history.

Designed to teach about early area residents, including Native Americans, Hispanics and Anglo, the project instructs students in the best ways of unearthing artifacts, buried by the previous year's project students. Students also graph, measure, research and record findings using skills from other subject areas.

One of the most important aspects of the dig for students is learning team skills. Work teams are assigned a variety of tasks which demand cooperation in order to be accomplished.

RMS Challengers scale obstacles

Ruidoso Middle School's new Alternative Education Program, "RMS Challengers," is designed to motivate and challenge students through hands-on and outdoor activities, plus promote socialization and self-esteem.

RMS Challenger student Felicia Frizzell submitted the following first-hand report on a Sept. 8 Challenger outing on Monjeau Point, when students learned rappelling and rock climbing skills.

"You're suspended 30 feet in the air. Your heart is beating so hard you think that everyone can hear it. You lower yourself down a few more feet, wondering if you can trust your life to the simple equipment which is holding you up, wondering if you can trust yourself. This is the thrill of rappelling."

Rappelling and rock climbing is designed to build confidence in the students and help them feel more confident with teammates and instructors.

"At first everyone was really scared, but then they realized that it wasn't scary at all, but fun," Frizzell wrote.

Jason Leadingham and Jason Jackson are two of the more experienced Challenger students in rappelling. They showed the other students how to put on a harness and the basic steps in rappelling and rock climbing. Julie Miller and James Haddad were trained to tie the basic knots we would need. These two students then taught the rest of the class these skills.

Before the rappelling began, the class reviewed all safety precautions and commands.

"All in all, everyone had a great time and went home with a new experience," Frizzell concluded.

Parents and sponsors help cover the cost of equipment for the program.

To become a sponsor or donate equipment, call RMS Counselor Jack Nelson at 257-2033.

YES group meets Oct. 20

Youth Empowered for Success (YES) - Drug Free Schools, will have its next meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20 at the Ruidoso Schools Administration Building, 200 Horton Circle.

Agenda topics include reports and presentations from Parents as Teachers (PAT), the Alliance Hospital, and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP).

Last month's YES meeting included information about the PAT program, and a parent center based at Nob Hill Elementary School designed to provide a relaxing place for parents to work or share ideas.

Reports were given by students involved in the Ruidoso Middle School Challenge Class (see related story); the Graduation, Reality, and Dual-Role Skills program (GRADS), which helps pregnant and parenting students complete high school; and activities at the Gavilan Canyon School.

In other business, Judge Mike Line has volunteered to initiate a Youth Court at the Middle School which will allow trained students to hear cases of students who have broken rules in the student handbook.

Volunteers were also requested to preview parenting videos donated by Woodmen of the World.

Science students compete in Socorro

Eight high school students and several middle school students from Ruidoso will participate in a math and science competition hosted by the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology campus at Socorro.

These students will be part of the New Mexico Mathematics, Engineering, Science Achievement

Seventh Annual Statewide Mathematics and Science Jamboree.

Students will join in a variety of hands-on events involving mathematics and the sciences. Events range from building on-site designs out of plastic soda bottles to the mind and body exercises of the "hexathlon." Students will also learn about the writing and communication aspects of science and engineering careers by submitting papers and in on-site writing and speaking events.

High school students will travel to this event in Socorro on Saturday, Oct. 15 and middle schoolers go on Saturday, Oct. 22.

Capitan enacts new water rule Contract signed on impounded pets

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Capitan officials will be watching the village's water use much closer in the future.

After a brief public hearing Monday, the Board of Trustees approved an ordinance that limits the number of water taps per lot, increases the charge for water connections outside the village, and will require a coin-operated meter on a hydrant used by some residents.

It also puts the burden on the homeowner to install a cut-off valve if the owner experiences more than two leaks in any calendar year that requires the village to turn off the water.

Mayor Norman Renfro said when people leave for vacation or a weekend, it's handy to have a private shut-off valve instead of having to call out the city crew.

"We've also had people break off our valves," said water superintendent Terry Cox. "That's our reason for trying to implement this."

Trustees saw the need for the crackdown a few months ago when they received requests for new taps from property owners who owned portions of tracts that had been subdivided without going before the village planning and zoning board.

Creating more lots creates more demand for water, a commodity in scarce supply for the village, since it has overdrawn on its existing water rights and is attempting to purchase more.

Village Clerk Deborah Cummins reviewed the ordinance with the trustees, pointing out the changes.

Under the new ordinance, each legally recorded lot will be entitled to one water tap. Requests for additional taps must be submitted to the village Water Advisory Board and the planning board, which recommend action to the trustees. The decision will include consideration of the availability of water.

The charge for extension of a water line will be based on the invoice of materials required. Property owners will be required to install shut off valves on their side of the curb box for all new connections.

Water charges were changed in the ordinance to reflect a 3-cent per thousand additional tax required by the state, raising the rate 12 cents for residential to $12.62 for up to 4,000 gallons. Industrial and commercial rates, which vary according to meter size, also reflect the additional 3 cents.

A new paragraph governs requests for service from outside the village. It requires application to the water advisory board and the planning and zoning board. Their recommendations will go to the trustees, who are responsible for granting or denying service connection.

The cost for installation of the meter will be the same as inside the village, but the monthly rate for water will be one and one-half times greater for those outside.

Compound or multiple meters no longer are permitted.

One meter of any size will serve no more than one residential unit, the ordinance specifies. Existing meters serving more as of Oct. 10, will be allowed to continue, but if the service is discontinued or the meter is pulled, the units will be required to have separate meters in the future.

Water withdrawn from a fire hydrant or well will be charged at a commodity rate of $20 per 1,000 gallons.

A coin meter will be installed on the hydrant at the U.S. Forest Service and will be charged $2 per hundred gallons or $20 per thousand.

If the village is called to repair leaks on the owner's side of the line more than twice in a calendar year, the owner must install a shut-off valve before water service will be restored.

In other business, the trustees signed a three month contract with the Lincoln County Humane Society for $200 a month to handle dogs and cats picked up by the village animal impounding officer.

The contract will begin Nov. 1. At the end of the term, the village and society will review the number of dogs, the actual cost of care and decide whether to negotiate an annual contract.

The village will handle all licensing fees and tags. The society will retain impounding fees.

Trustees also approved a resolution backing the effort of the city of Aztec in trying to convince the state legislature to allow municipalities to recover a higher percentage of money sent to the state each year from the operation of local Motor Vehicle Department offices.

Capitan mauls Mountaineers for big win, 59-14

The Capitan Tigers rushed onto the field in a winning mood Friday and quickly polished off Reserve in a 59-14 victory.

The tough Capitan defense was hot, holding the Mountaineers to 140 yards in total offense.

Only able to post six first downs, Reserve couldn't move the ball, while Capitan piled up 16 first downs and an impressive 540 total yards of offense.

Quarterback Michael Fish threw for three touchdowns and ran in three more. Ernie Trujillo scored two TDs. Fish and Alan Hazel each kicked one of the extras points.

The Tigers will face the Cloudcroft Bears Friday, an old foe that has eluded Capitan for six years.

In junior high play, the Estancia Bears came to Capitan to battle the Tigers, but went home with a 38-6 loss.

The Tigers stacked up their first two touchdowns in the first quarter with rushing plays. In the second quarter, Ricky Lopez scored, giving Capitan a 24-0 lead.

Nick Pacheco posted the next TD, but Estancia fought back before the final gun to see the lights blink on their side. The Tiger victory gives the team a 5-1 record for the football season.

Capitan beats Bears

A "small mental lapse" robbed the Capitan Tigers of a straight three-game victory over the Cloudcroft Bears volleyball team last week, said coach Pam Allen.

The Tigers won the first two games with scores of 15-7 and 16-8, but lost the third game, 13-15.

They came back fighting in the fourth game, trampling the Bears 15-5.

Allen congratulated Christina Worrell for a good job and all the setters — Andra Fish, Elaine Pichtaini and Joni Autrey — for their strong performances.

"The Bears had some good hitters, so congratulations to all these players who managed to return them," she said.

On Oct. 6, Capitan's varsity volleyball team went up against Tularosa and pounded them in three swift wins, 15-8, 15-9 and 15-12.

Allen said Capitan played a better offensive game, but the team put too much effort into hitting instead of being sure it went over the net and stayed inbounds. She noted the performances of Fish, Pichtaini and Autrey against a Tularosa team that played a very physical game.

The Fort Sumner Vixens were next on the menu and arrived Saturday prepared mentally, winning the first two games, 16-14 and 15-8.

Capitan rebounded in the next two games, 15-6 and 15-8, leaving the fifth game as the cliffhanger.

Unfortunately, it was a tough struggle and a steep drop for the Tigers as Fort Sumner won with a score of 15-13.

Allen said she was pleased with the Tigers, even with a loss.

"They played hard and with solid teamwork," Allen said. "They made a lot of spectacular saves and serves."

Out of 119 balls served, 116 were inbounds.

Less than 20 days remain in the varsity volleyball season and Allen hopes to help the team pull together for a spectacular finish.

The eighth grade Tigers turned in a fiery match against the Vixens Saturday, winning 15-6 and 15-5. Krin Autrey served 10 points in both games. Erin Autrey and Misty Theyford also helped the score.

On Friday, the team played with mental toughness and tons of concentration against Chaparral.

DWI checkpoint in Ruidoso planned

Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs will join 34 other police agencies operating DWI checkpoints throughout New Mexico Oct. 14-23, as they participate in the sixth blitz of Operation DWI.

According to officials of the state Traffic Safety Bureau and Safer New Mexico Now, a statewide safety organization, past experience suggests 50,000 New Mexicans will encounter a DWI checkpoint during the period, and 208 among them will be arrested for driving while impaired. Operation DWI's purpose is to reduce DWI death and injury by making risk of arrest very clear to those who consider driving drunk.

"This statewide DWI checkpoint program, first in the nation, seems to be working," said Steven Flint, chief of the Traffic Safety Bureau for the State Highway and Transportation Department. He stated that alcohol-related crash deaths in New Mexico are down 5 percent for January-September, 1994, compared to the same period in 1993, and down 20 percent from the 1990-1992 average. "There were 166 alcohol-related crash deaths for January-September this year, compared to 175 last year and the 1990-1992 average of 208. For 1994 to date, we are seeing the lowest alcohol-related crash death toll on record. The Legislature's tough new DWI laws of 1993, coupled with this ambitious enforcement effort, seem to be having the right effect."

Coordinator Calvin Shields called the results encouraging, but added that "in good faith we cannot congratulate ourselves that 'only' 166 people are dead. We have to do more. Operation DWI checkpoints aim to convince people through publicity that drinking and driving is a bad idea in terms of the risks it brings.

"More than 200 drunk driving slow learners will get the lesson more directly in the next two weeks, when a checkpoint takes them off the road and into jail. Avoiding that is simple: just don't drink and drive."

Robbery charged

A 17-year-old Ruidoso teenager is being charged with robbing a local store as well as aiding in the stealing of a purse, both within a three-week period.

The police station received a call Thursday from the owner of the TNT Fashions store on 2616 Sudderdth Drive. The owner said a teenager stole money from a drawer when the cashier was turned away, then ran out the door when confronted, related patrol Sgt. Robert Achterberg.

A passerby told officers responding to the call that he saw a teenager running into the woods nearby, and when officers spotted a teenager there, he took off running. The four officers, including Achterberg, gave chase and caught the teen about 350 yards away, at 5th and Keys.

The teenager is also being charged with being an accessory to a purse snatching three weeks ago, Achterberg said. Several other teens were apprehended two weeks ago and gave officers this teenager's name as an accessory, Achterberg said.

U. S. Postal Service can prove itself in Ruidoso

The U.S. Postal Service often says it will operate like a business. Its actions in the near future in Ruidoso will tell us whether this is really true.

Available post office boxes in the main post office and satellite office are becoming scarcer. There are plans to move the Hollywood satellite office to a larger building, and to expand the main post office building.

People who seek a box these days are being accommodated with the use of carousel boxes that rotate in the main post office.

Acting postmaster Richard Gilbert, here for just a few months while a new postmaster is being sought, says there's only been one day during his tenure that people actually could not rent a box. Up to 150 carousel boxes will be available before the office literally runs out of boxes, Gilbert said, but there will be even more as other people leave town and give up their boxes.

Interviews of Ruidoso postmaster applicants are being conducted today. We hope the choice is a businessman who is willing to plan for the future, and push for quick action on the expansion of the main office and the new Hollywood office, which is not only filling up but also somewhat inconvenient for vehicular access.

The new postmaster also will have to decide if new cluster boxes around town will be added. This would be a good idea on wide, level streets where people can easily pick up their mail, but there aren't too many streets like that in Ruidoso.

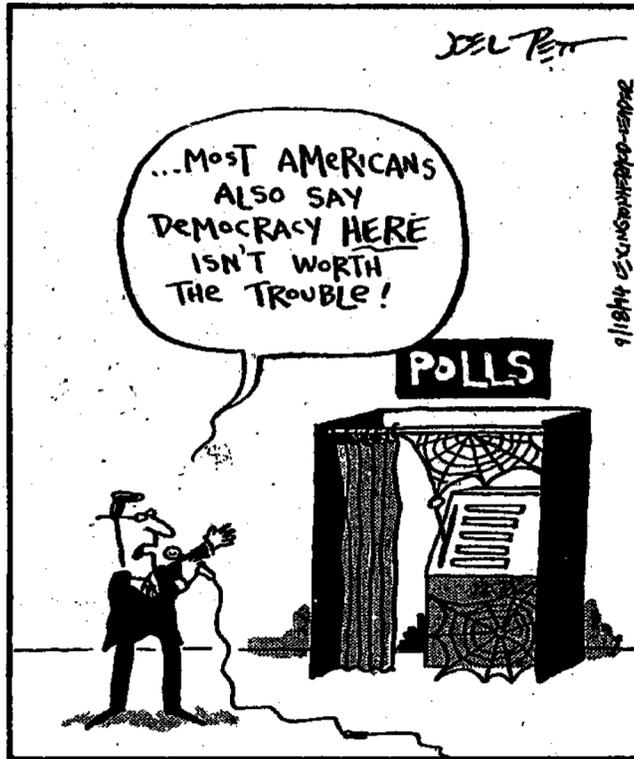

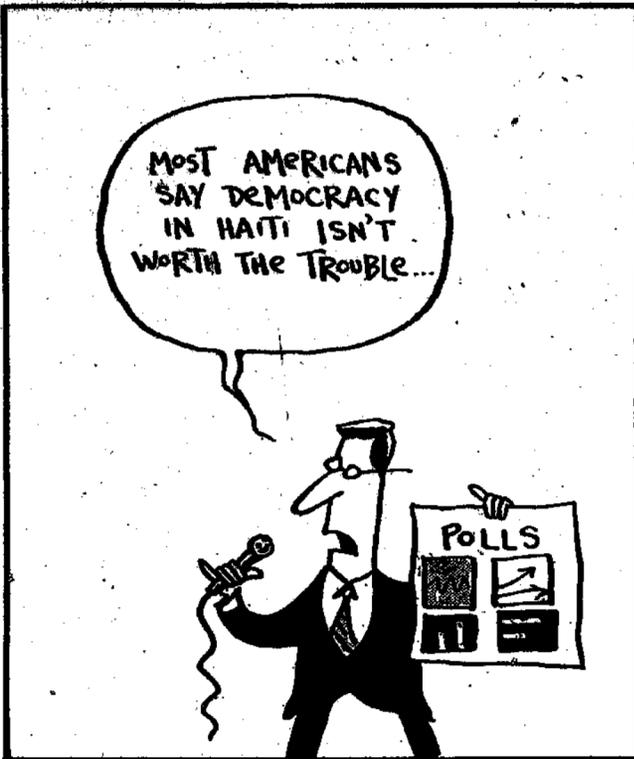

Considering the fact that people who live on streets with cluster boxes must use them or pay more than twice the normal price for a post office box, and considering the fact that the rest of us have to pay for the privilege of picking up our mail while others across the country simply step out their front door and pay nothing, the new postmaster should at least make sure that everyone who seeks a post office box in the near and long-term future can easily get one, and can get to the building conveniently.

Early voting gets a bad review

by HAL RHODES
Sunmount Syndicate

ALBUQUERQUE — Perhaps I'm just old-fashioned. Perhaps, like most New Mexicans, I'm simply by nature a conservative. Still, it's time someone steps forward to object to this newly inaugurated business of "early voting."

Thanks to an amendment to state voting laws passed by the 1993 Legislature, it is now possible for New Mexico voters to cast their ballots up to 40 days in advance of an election, both primary and general. And, according to the top man at New Mexico's state election bureau, Hoyt Clifton, as many as 1,120 New Mexicans may have already chosen to exercise this new voting option. By Nov. 8 — the actual day for this fall's general election — at least another 40,000 are expected to do the same, Clifton predicts.

The intent of this innovation was to encourage greater voter participation in our elections, assuredly a meritorious idea. Call it what you will — and it's been called everything from voter apathy to voter anger — American elections, here and elsewhere, have become but shells of their former selves, with more and more of those qualified to do so participating in fewer and fewer elections.

In some special and school board elections, critical issues have recently been decided by as little as 7% of an electoral district's registered voters.

And, invariably, the outcome of such elections are considered by those on the losing side (and, often, many others as well) to be suspect, as a consequence.

Thus, proponents of early voting concluded, by giving everybody a longer period over which to cast their ballots, participation would be increased and the legitimacy of our elections would be enhanced. After all, they pointed out, absentee voting has long been made available to those who cannot go to the polls on election day because of illness or other just cause.

All of which is true. But none of which renders this essentially bad idea of "early voting" any the better.

Analogies are always imperfect.

In political discourse, however, they can often be informative.

The world of sports, for example, provides much of the vocabulary with which we talk about political campaigns. We speak of the "race" for this office or that. Candidate forums are frequently characterized as "slug-fests" or "sparring sessions." When a candidate answers a question at such events particularly well, he or she may be reported to "have hit the ball out of the park on that one."

The idiom of the theater and films also has infiltrated the language with which we discuss politics. Candidates are sometimes said to have made "dramatic proposals" for dealing with one or another of our social problems. "Like a chorus," it was written not long ago of one campaign, "all of the candidates said they would not raise taxes."

Well, it would be my conservative old-fashioned argument, just as one ought not leave a baseball game in the sixth inning (assuming baseball is ever played again in the major leagues) prepared to say which, beyond the shadow of a doubt, is the better team, so too should one hesitate to cast their ballot with more than a month remaining in any campaign.

Neither can one walk out of a theatrical play mid-course in the second act and consider themselves equipped to write the definitive review of the entire drama. Who knows, the best or the worst part may well be found in the last act.

Absolutely, we should encourage greater participation in our elections. But it should be informed participation, and that obligates all of us to heed what each candidate and all parties say and do in their campaigns — right to the bitter end. Which, like it or not, simply cannot be accomplished by allowing voters to cast their ballots with nearly a month and a half remaining in a campaign.

Besides there are far more rational ways to increase voter participation in elections. Many European countries have long since understood that by arranging their elections over two consecutive days rather than merely one.

Please help walk shelter animals

TO THE EDITOR:
Attention Ruidoso animal lovers: The Humane Society of Ruidoso needs volunteers desperately.

If there anybody out there who has a little time to spare to help walk the darling dogs that some heartless or uncaring humans drop off every day at the shelter like some discarded piece of furniture. Some of them are house-broken and don't want to soil their kennels and are totally miserable when they do.

Please come and help us walk them. The staff of the shelter has a little time and they do the best they can under the circumstances. The dogs are so friendly and grateful to be out of their kennels for just a few minutes a day to run and play.

And please don't say, "I can't do it because I would want to take them all home." We know you can't do that. You also won't have to be involved in putting some of the animals down. The staff has that job. All you have to do is walk and play with the animals, give them some treats and human attention.

You will get so much satisfaction out of it, not to mention health benefits. Walking is good for you. I fit into clothes that I couldn't wear for years.

So, please turn off the television, get off the couch, put on your walking shoes and join us at the shelter to do some good for our loyal friends. You retirees or high school students, please let this letter appeal to you. Come out and give us a little of your time. Call the shelter at 257-9841 or 257-4691 after six at night to set up some convenient time. You will be so glad you did.

No nukes by Ruidoso

TO THE EDITOR:

We have been reading about the possibility of a nuclear waste depository in the Ruidoso area. This is alarming to us as we spend time in Ruidoso each summer and are thinking of purchasing property there.

It seems to us if a state produces this nuclear waste it is necessary that that state keep it in its own state or else stop producing the nuclear products causing the waste.

New Mexico is such a beautiful state and we love it, so why should you be asked to take something that perhaps will be harmful to the environment? We ask you again to reconsider storing any kind of nuclear waste. If we don't begin taking better care of our environment it will not be in very good shape for our grandchildren.

We believe this nuclear waste can certainly be harmful to the environment and its inhabitants.

Main Street in Ruidoso, circa 1930. Traffic mud during the rainy season. This is just was no problem in those days - except one of the historic photos found in when the dirt street turned into a sea of Mangan's new book.

Author autographs illustrated book about Ruidoso's history

Writer, photographer and designer Frank Mangan will autograph copies of his new book Ruidoso Country at the Enchantment Inn, Saturday and Sunday.

The autograph party will coincide with the annual Cowboy Symposium, according to Laura Price Reynolds, marketing director of the Inn. Mangan will personally inscribe copies of the large-format history from 9 a.m. until noon both days. The public is invited to meet the author.

Ruidoso Country's 192 pages contain more than 180 photographs, maps and illustrations, many in full color. It is priced at $39.95. Words and pictures tell the story of the area, beginning when the Sacramento Mountains were the hunting ground of the Apaches. It was claimed by the Spanish con-quistadors, and it later captivated the Scotsman James Cree who ranched and gained title to much of Ruidoso's landscape.

In the 1870s, greed and lawlessness brought about the Lincoln County War and the saga of Billy the Kid.

Mangan has been compiling material on his favorite subject for years, bringing the Ruidoso story up to the present. Cloudercroft also is featured, as well as the nearby cities of Roswell and Alamogordo.

Having lived during summers in Ruidoso from the time he was a child (first visit 1926) and as the ultimate researcher, Mangan is intimately familiar with the area's history and its strong attraction.

He taped dozens of interviews with early builders and long-time residents, getting first-hand knowledge and in many cases using their own words and recollections. These personal interviews uncovered a wealth of lore and local flavor.

Until now, many of the old photographs of the Ruidoso area have blushed unseen in archives and family albums. This is the first time they have been published in a form in which they can be seen together and retained as a group.

In pictures, Ruidoso grows from a tiny settlement at Dowlin's Mill on the Rio Ruidoso into one of the Southwest's favorite places to live or vacation in the high pines.

Frank Mangan and his wife Judy own Mangan Books, a regional publishing firm in El Paso. They live part time in their home in Ruidoso. "We spend a lot of our time commuting," says Mangan.

Horse sculpture unveiled in Glencoe

A bronze sculpture of heroic proportions has been commissioned by the Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs, and the first of three maquettes (small models) will be unveiled at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 15 during the annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium at the Glencoe Rural Events Center.

horse has played in the development of the American West.

According to critics, McGary is fast becoming a living legend among contemporary artists of the American West and is considered the master of realism depicting Native American Indians of by-gone days.

Designed and built by contemporary artist Dave McGary, the finished monument to the American horse will be 25 1/2 feet long, and prior to its completion the masterwork maquette and bust bronze limited editions of the piece will be sold as part of a benefit for the museum.

The work, "Free Spirits at Noisy Water," will capture the movement and motion of seven breeds of horses including the Quarterhorse, Thoroughbred, Arabian, Appaloosa, Paint, Standardbred and Morgan. The piece will consist of eight horses sculptured at one and one-half times their natural size, and will dominate the landscape leading into the Museum of the Horse.

"Free Spirits at Noisy Water" will be the largest equine sculpture in New Mexico, if not the world," said Jesse G. Wright, director for the museum. Founded by R.D. and Joan Dale Hubbard, the Museum of the Horse commissioned the sculpture as a tribute to the role the Operating from his own facility in Ruidoso, his work has been receiving national recognition since the early 1980s. McGary pieces have twice been selected by jury to show in conjunction with the Hubbard Art Award for Excellence, and the City of Santa Fe commissioned him to depict its founder Don Pedro de Peralta in a monument installed in 1992.

McGary's work is found in public and private collections round the United States and in several foreign countries. "Free Spirits at Noisy Water" is scheduled for installation and dedication June 3, 1995.

The Museum of the Horse is a non-profit organization dedicated to exploring the history of man's dependence on the horse. Located in Ruidoso Downs, the museum is open year-round. For more information about McGary's sculpture or other programs, contact the Museum at 800-263-5929.

Reed awarded twice

Ruidoso Downs musician Ray Reed has been honored with the National Cowboy Symposium's cowboy culture award, plus an induction into the Western Swing Hall of Fame, all within the past month.

In the Service

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Scott D. Pilgreen, son of Sam L. and Karen Pilgreen of Ruidoso, recently reported for duty aboard the dock landing ship USS Germantown, forward deployed to Sasebo, Japan.

The 1988 graduate of Ruidoso High School joined the Navy in February, 1992.

Carrizozo student artist showcased at university

A painting of a fish by Clint Wetzel, a first grader at Carrizozo Municipal Schools, has been selected by the Art Education Department of the University of New Mexico.

The piece will be included in the department's 1994-95 exhibition, which will run from Feb. 19 to March 17 in the Art Education Gallery on the UNM campus in Albuquerque. An opening reception will be held Feb. 19 to honor the student artist whose work was selected from the State Fair exhibit. Wetzel's art is in the crayon resist style, a method in which a water color wash is applied over a crayon image. The UNM exhibit will showcase outstanding examples of art created by students in New Mexico schools grades kindergarten through 12.

The Carrizozo student's art and that of 42 other Carrizozo students was on display for the duration of the state fair.

At the fair, Carrizozo was one of 55 schools representing 79 school districts around the state. The purpose and challenge of the student art exhibit at the fair was to show some of the students' creations representative of each school and community as seen through a child's eye.

Polly E. Chavez, educational assistant at Carrizozo Schools, was in charge of preparing the exhibit with art created by students K-5th from Carrizozo Schools.

Chavez will distribute exhibitor ribbons to each student whose work was shown at the fair. The fair is currently on display in the school's library. The school district, which has participated in the fair art project for the past six years, again received a certificate of award presented by the New Mexico State Fair and the New Mexico Department of Education.

As the arts become a focus in education and now that the arts have been included in goals 2000 by Congress, Carrizozo Schools is aware of ways in which art education should be included and emphasized in the schools, community and district.

VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO DOWNS

"The village at the end of the rainbow"

A GREAT PLACE TO LIVE

Small towns offer some of the best qualities of life for young couples raising family or older folks, ready to retire, and just about anybody in between.

Probably the best part of small town life is knowing your neighbors as friends, and getting involved in community events.

Ruidoso Downs offers those benefits and more as one of the friendliest little villages in the Southwest.

Besides its neighborly people, this community is well-known for its fantastic view of Sierra Blanca and as a gateway to the beautiful Hondo Valley.

In the small town of Ruidoso Downs, neighbors aren't just the people who live on your block. Everybody in the community is your neighbor and friend, including the people at village hall, the police department and the many businesses you will frequent.

These people greet you by name, and always have a minute to spare to talk about the weather or whatever else you might have on your mind.

Village hall clerks, police dispatchers and any municipal employee will pitch in and help you with just about any emergency you might have — whether you're visiting in Ruidoso Downs or you've lived there a day or a lifetime.

The municipal building and the police department are now located in one building off U.S. Highway 70 by the village park, but a new village hall is under construction on the highway.

Members of a well-trained and active volunteer fire department are just a telephone call away — ready for a quick response to fires and emergencies.

Wherever you go in Ruidoso Downs — be it Ruidoso Downs Race Track, the Museum of the Horse or just down the street for a cup of coffee and conversation — you're sure to see what makes this community such a great place to live or to visit. The people are down-to-earth and know the value of a good friend, but they also know how to have fun.

Ruidoso Downs Race Track is and has been the major attraction to locals and visitors for years, but Ruidoso Downs has many other exciting activities and events throughout the year.

One event with a growing tradition is the annual All American Arts and Crafts Fair sponsored by the Ruidoso Downs Ladies Auxiliary each Labor Day weekend.

Artists and artisans from throughout the area gather to show off their greatest creations in a festive atmosphere that's fun for the whole family.

The fair — with its food booths, drawings and apple pie baking contest — is a great way to cap off the summer racing season.

Holidays are always a great time to get together with friends and family within the community to celebrate the meaning of the season.

The auxiliary hosts an Easter egg hunt each spring for youngsters to gather decorated eggs and prizes hidden in the village park.

Auxiliary members also have started a new tradition of serving a delicious homemade Thanksgiving dinner to senior citizens and people who are alone for the holidays. More than 70 people enjoyed the good food and company last fall in the comfortable senior citizens center in Ruidoso Downs.

The whole community joins in the festivities for the annual Christmas party at the center. It's fun for kids and adults alike as they sing Christmas carols, enjoy cookies and punch and whisper their wish list to Santa Claus.

Family and friends can chat in the warmth of the center before heading home on a beautiful winter night.

During the holiday season, take a drive around the community to see all the decorated houses competing in the annual lighting contest sponsored by the auxiliary. Even if they don't enter the contest, Downs residents enjoy putting up a show for the holidays.

The auxiliary is a strong organization in the community with a continuing commitment to a variety of activities — including area cleanup campaigns to improve the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

Current auxiliary president Shirlene Fitzner believe that when you live in a small community, you try to make it the best it can be, and auxiliary members agree.

The bright, modern senior citizens center is a testament to the auxiliary members' dedication to their town. They joined village leaders in getting the money to build a center, and they've continued to contribute by furnishing the center.

The senior citizens center, located right next to village hall off Highway 70, has quickly become the magnet that draws the community together since its opening in 1991.

During the winter, the center is open from 1 to 4 p.m. each Thursday, but those hours are likely to be expanded in the summer.

The building serves many purposes throughout the year, including being designated as the polling place for Precinct 10, which includes some Ruidoso Downs residents.

The Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department, besides being on alert for emergencies, is raising money for new playground equipment for the village park.

The village board of trustees meets at 7 p.m. the second and fourth Monday of each month and those meetings are open to the public. Trustees, who invite and encourage residents and visitors to attend those meetings, are always willing to hear comments from community members on how projects or procedures can be improved to benefit Ruidoso Downs.

The racetrack draws thousands of people to the area each year, most of Ruidoso Downs population is made up of year-round residents.

Those who do live in Ruidoso Downs for the summer enjoy the lifestyle and hate to leave at the end of the season.

Visitors, too, are drawn back year after year to meet old friends and make new ones in the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

This little community has grown into a home for many people and its residents invite you to come for a visit to see what makes Ruidoso Downs one of the best small towns in the Southwest.

RUIDOSO DOWNS YESTERDAY

Newcomers to Lincoln County may think of Ruidoso Downs as an adjunct to the Village of Ruidoso, but the town boasts a rich history all its own.

When Ruidoso was only a dirt road turnoff, the area that was to become Ruidoso Downs was a major stop from Roswell to Tularosa first on a stage line and later by bus and car.

While the town is legend for its political in-fighting, the high emotions are simply testimony to the dedication of its residents to the best interests of the community.

And when the debates end, most remain friends.

Bernice Jones said her grandfather, Lowrey Hale, owned most of the land there in the 1880s and built the first house.

Parcel by parcel, he acquired about 800 acres, 100 of which cost $400 in a purchase from Indrice Herrah, and later was known as Hale Springs, according to an article written for The Ruidoso News in 1947 by Mary Nell Taeger.

Hale also bought a tract from "Doc"

Scurlock for $400 that became the site of the White Mountain Inn on the banks of the Rio Ruidoso.

The Inn, which still stands, was first an overnight stop for stagecoaches and later for buses.

A man named Johnson, who became a senator, built the two-story structure in the early 1900s, according to Wynema Tully of Glencoe, who remembers his name as Rev. S.M. Johnson. An account written by Taeger stated his name as J.V. Johnson.

According to the Taeger story, Johnson first talked to Hale about the property in Capitan, then returned to the area in 1908 to buy the parcel. Two years later, he was back again, this time with his family and he built the inn. By that time, Johnson owned nearly 1,000 acres.

Dan Storm said the inn was quite a landmark in the 1920s.

"Roderick and Heck Johnson (the senator's sons) owned it then," Storm said. "It was the only thing in what was to be Ruidoso Downs.

"The Johnsons sponsored a big

Fourth of July celebration with big rodeos right around the inn on a flat piece of land.

"They had a swimming pool nearby, but nobody used it much."

Former Ruidoso Downs mayor Jake Harris said the highway from the east turned north across the front of the inn, then veered left (west).

"They had rooms for overnight," Harris said. "They served meals and the bus stopped there."

"Originally it was the only business in this area. Before the buses, the old stagecoach stopped. There were barns there for the driver to change horses or keep his overnight."

Lela Mayo and her family bought the inn in 1971.

"It's the oldest building in the vicinity, older than the Navajo Lodge (which has been torn down) or Carrizo Lodge," she said. "We'd like to see it restored, but it needs a lot of repair and that's going to cost a great deal of money."

Names from the early days of Palo Verde include Frank Allison, Ola Jones, Frank Beavers and D.C. Heath.

At one time, the Johnsons operated a general store, a post office and a dance hall, according to Taeger's account. In 1935, Turner's Tavern, a saloon and filling station opened. Jim Mauldin started a garage and in 1936, Ewing Carter opened a general merchandise store that later became Fox Merchandise. That was the same year the community's first sawmill was started by Ed Hoagland, she wrote.

For years, timber cutting and lumber mills played a significant role in the economic health of the community. However, the heavy cutting activity eventually played out the good timber areas.

Harris recalled the early days when Ruidoso Downs was dubbed Palo Verde and was the hub of activity because of U.S. 70.

It was the Johnson family that set the tone for the future of the community.

Ruidoso Downs is served by U.S. Highway 70. This is well-maintained and rarely closed for any length of time because of inclement weather.

RUIDOSO DOWNS RACING, INC.

Ruidoso Downs will begin its 47th year of racing May 13 for a 68-day meet that will go through September 5.

Race days will be Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays in May. Thursdays will be added in June through the rest of the meet.

Three special holiday Monday race cards will be offered — Memorial Day, Independence Day, and Labor Day, the date of the world's richest quarter horse race, the $2 million est. All American Futurity.

The New Mexico State Racing Commission, in a regular meeting Thursday, approved the stakes and condition book for Ruidoso Downs.

Stall applications will be due March 21 and the barn area will open April 18.

Once again quarter horses take the spotlight with some of the richest and most prestigious quarter horse races in the country being run at Ruidoso Downs.

Nine are Grade I races including the Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses (Ruidoso Quarter Horse Futurity, Rainbow Futurity and All American Futurity); Triple Crown for three-year-old quarter horses (Ruidoso Quarter Horse Derby, Rainbow Derby and All American Derby); Rainbow Silver Cup for four-year-olds and older; World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic for three-year-olds and older; and the All American Gold Cup for four-year-olds and older.

Five Grade III $14,000 added events will run including the Mr Jet Moore Allowance Stake for three-year-olds and older; Go Together Handicap for three-year-olds and older fillies and mares; Jet Deck Handicap for three-year-olds and older; Higheasterjet Handicap three-year-olds and older; and the Ruidoso 550 Championship for three-year-olds and older.

One new race for quarter horses has been added for New Mexico-bred two-year-olds. That race is the Zia Futurity and it will have a $50,000 estimated purse.

Several lucrative races for thoroughbreds will also be run at Ruidoso Downs this summer including the $50,000 est.

Norgor Futurity; $75,000 added Ruidoso Budweiser Breeders' Cup for three-year-olds and older; $75,000 est. Kachina Stakes for two-year-old fillies; $25,000 added Sweetheart Handicap for three-year-old and older fillies and mares; and the $75,000 est. Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity.

There are also many rich races for New Mexico-breds this year including the $25,000 added Road Runner Handicap for three-year-olds; $30,000 added Rio Grande double futurities; $30,000 added Land of Enchantment Speed Handicap for three-year-olds and older; and a new race called the Sierra Blanca Handicap ($25,000 added) for three-year-olds and up fillies and mares.

COWBOY SYMPOSIUM

When the weather gets crisp and the aspens start to turn, it's time for one of New Mexico's greatest cowboy events — the 5th Annual Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium!

When it comes to cookin' up fun, nobody does it quite like the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium!

This October, the finest cowboy poets, musicians, chuckwagon cooks and craftsmen will congregate in Glencoe, New Mexico (about 10 miles east of Ruidoso Downs) to celebrate their way of life.

The public is cordially invited to join in the celebration and discover just why cowboys are such a contented lot!

On a glorious fall weekend, visitors from across the United States will enjoy the weekend long event that features everything from a rich chuckwagon cook-off to team roping, trail rides, cowboy poetry and singing and performances by the Mescalero Tribal Dancers and the Hondo Fiesta Dancers.

Last year the Cowboy Symposium added an overnight trail ride through historic Lincoln County and the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation.

The ride was so popular that riders are all set to saddle up again for three days and two nights experiencing the life of the nomad.

The Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium starts on Thursday, October 6, and continues Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 7, 8 and 9, with a series of presentations by cowboy poets and musicians.

ALL AMERICAN FESTIVAL

The fifth annual All American Festival will roll into Ruidoso Downs this may with plenty of events to entertain you!

Ruidoso Downs and the surrounding area always celebrate the end of summer with a full-fledged festival that leads up to the world's richest horse race — the All American Futurity on Labor Day.

In just a few years, the All American Festival has established a set of traditions all its own with events that include lots of food, fun, arts, crafts and fellowship.

The festival is fun, it's wholesome and it's planned with the family in mind.

Some events, like the All American Fiddler's Championship, are repeated every year; and some new activities are added every year.

The All American Fiddler's Championship showcases talented fiddlers from across the United States.

Art events are planned for stitchers snappers and sketchers.

The annual Youth Art Show features the talents of area students, and ends with an awards ceremony and exhibit.

Photographers, both amateurs and professionals, compete for a $1,000 prize in the All American Photography competition.

The art of stitchery stars in the All American Needlework Fair. The Festival will be topped off with the 1993 Charity Celebration. And there's so much more...

MUSEUM OF THE HORSE

Nestled in the tranquil mountains of southern New Mexico is one of the state's newest treasures, the Museum of the Horse.

The Museum was named the "Best Destination" in the state of New Mexico for 1993.

Housing the vast collection of Anne C. Stradling, the Museum boasts a staggering array of saddles, carriages, wagons, Indian artifacts and fine art.

The Village of Ruidoso Downs proudly boasts that the Museum of the Horse plays host to more than 20,000 visitors annually.

The Museum of the Horse is open every day, year-round. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. May through Labor Day, and are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Labor Day to May.

The museum offers plenty of free parking right outside the front door, with additional parking and handicapped parking beside the museum.

Admissions vary and special group and educational rates are available. Please call (505) 378-4142 for specific information.

The amazing collection that makes up the Museum of the Horse began as a dream for a young Anne Schley. Raised in an affluent east coast family, Anne was an accomplished horsewoman. Encouraged to preserve history through collecting, she chose to pay tribute to the thing she loved the most—the horse. The collection sprang from an old stirrup tacked to a barn wall and now includes more than 10,000 artifacts.

Throughout the history of mankind, from the steppes of eastern Europe to the plains of the great American West, one sturdy companion stood by the explorer, the Indian, and the settler—the horse.

The heritage of the horse is something to be treasured and explored and brought to life!

The Museum of the Horse began its public eye in 1960 when Anne and her husband, Floyd Stradling, named the Anne Stradling Museum of the Horse in Patagonia, Arizona. Since then, the collection has continued to expand the collection over the next 30 years.

In 1989 due to failing health she contacted the Hubbard Museum about finding a permanent home for her massive collection. An agreement was reached, and in 1990, the Anne C. Stradling Museum of the Horse began its journey to its new home in Ruidoso Downs, New Mexico.

Anne Stradling died February 26, 1992, in Tucson, Arizona - just a few months before her collection opened to an admiring crowd in a newly renovated building next to Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Since opening in 1992, the Museum of the Horse has become a focal point of educational and cultural activities for the Ruidoso area.

The Museum hosted the prestigious Santa Fe Watercolor Society in a magnificent show during the summer of 1993. Each summer, area artists are highlighted in the All American Art Show and Sale.

Each month, educational and entertaining programs are presented to the public.

"We like to think of ourselves as an evolving Museum," said Museum of the Horse Development Director, Frank Potter.

"We don't want our exhibits to remain static and unchanged. We hope that each time a visitor comes to the Museum of the Horse they'll find something new and different to enjoy."

On the horizon for 1994, patrons of the Museum can anticipate the grand opening of a new exhibit area and meeting room. The new area will open with some of the magnificent artwork found within Anne's collection.

Old English art as well as more modern equine pieces will be featured.

The museum's permanent collection includes everything of and about horses, from a Russian sleigh, to an authentic circa 1860 stagecoach, from saddles and harnesses to bits and spurs.

The Anne C. Stradling collection includes artifacts from throughout the world including exquisite pieces from ancient Greece and Rome.

Visitors relive the West through works of Western masters like Frederic Remington, Charles M. Russell, Frank Tenney Johnson, Henry Alkins and others.

They can browse through Anne Stradling's collection of family memorabilia. Spanning six generations, these heirlooms bring to life the everyday existence of a turn-of-the-century American family.

Discover the heritage of the horse—explore its impact on life as we know it.

And of course, mark your calendars now for the Museum's annual Anniversary Gala held on Memorial Day Weekend.

The gala promises to be another elaborate evening of fine dining and dancing.

For those of you who want to be on the inside track to all of the upcoming exhibits and happenings at the Museum, stay in touch with a museum membership.

The Museum of the Horse offers a number of different membership packages—there is a membership category to meet every persons needs. Membership in the Museum of the Horse brings with it a number of different benefits—one of the most popular being discounts at the Museum Mercantile, a delightful on site gift shop.

Members also receive invitations to special events, such as preview parties of exhibitions.

Perhaps the best benefit is the satisfaction members enjoy of providing vital support for the continuing efforts of the Museum of the Horse to preserve the heritage of the horse.

If you're looking for a unique gift for someone special, the Museum Mercantile is the place to shop.

The Museum of the Horse truly is one of New Mexico's treasures—but more importantly, it is a local treasure.

Come discover for yourself the gold in your own backyard.

tained the right to the spring that still is a source of water for the community and one of the major reasons it was incorporated, Harris said.

Johnson divided the land into two plats for his sons. Henry Johnson received the Palo Verde area that became Green Tree and eventually, Ruidoso Downs, Rod Johnson was given the land that became the Agua Fria development.

But the community's current identity is tied to the Ruidoso Downs Race Track, now owned by R.D. Hubbard and Dr. Ed Allred.

When the governor shut down slot machine and table gambling in Ruidoso, promoters decided it was time to try horse racing in earnest.

Harris said they searched for a field that would be visible from the highway and settled on a pasture owned by Fount Miller. They drew a circle and started running horses. At one point, the race track was called Hollywood Park.

With the know-how to operate, they soon went broke, Harris said. That's when Gene Hensley stepped into the picture and bought the racetrack for $60,000. With Walt Wiggins as promoter, they introduced the All American Futurity, the race that established the track's reputation and now is the richest quarter horse purse in the world.

Hensley was convinced that political leaders in Ruidoso wanted to annex the racetrack into their community.

Harris said he asked Hensley to join the community of Green Tree instead. He did, and soon after the town was renamed Ruidoso Downs.

Although when it was first laid out as a town in 1933, the community was called Palo Verde, the federal government changed all that with the opening of the post office January 1947. The U.S. Postal Administration designated the name as Green Tree.

Dorothy Reilly Parnell was the first postmaster. Her husband, Ray Parnell, was Ruidoso Downs' first mayor and four of the first trustees were Jess Harris (Jake Harris' father), J.B. Gazaway, Sam Stout and Lem Colthorp.

"We never liked that (Green Tree)," Harris said. "Gene wanted it changed to Ruidoso Downs so it would show up on highway maps."

"There was resistance in Ruidoso. They didn't like it. The Ruidoso city limits were at the city pool then and they quickly moved it right down to our limits."

Harris and Alamogordo lawyer Jack Whorton actually walked off the boundaries of Ruidoso Downs.

By special election in February 1958, town residents voted 88-27 to change Green Tree to Ruidoso Downs. But Mrs. Parnell said it wasn't until 1961, that the town officially became Ruidoso Downs when the new post office was opened.
