Man sentenced in police assault

Magistrate Court Judge William Butts has sentenced a 29-year-old Ruidoso man to two consecutive year-long terms behind bars after he allegedly assaulted a police officer and battered a man in front of the Sudderth Drive Allsup's last week.

But the sentence for Anthony Estrada, who police said was severely intoxicated during the episode, will be dropped in exchange for 3 1/2 years of supervised probation if Estrada completes a 30-day inpatient treatment program at a substance abuse center.

Estrada waived his rights at last Monday's hearing, and requested treatment for alcohol abuse. He apparently had no memory of his Feb. 18 aggressions, and could not believe that it was he in a police video tape made later that night, Judge Butts said.

Estrada will remain in holding at the Lincoln County Jail until placed in treatment, the judge added.

Nuclear opponents rally Wednesday

Native American and anti-nuclear groups have scheduled a rally at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Enchantment Inn in Ruidoso.

They are calling for a halt to nuclear waste storage attempts on Indian lands in the United States and Canada.

Locally, they are reacting to petitions turned into the Mescalero Apache tribal council Friday. The petitions ask for talks to be reopened concerning a proposed nuclear waste storage site on the tribe's reservation.

Speakers will include Mescalero Rufina Laws, Grace Thorpe of the Sauk and Fox Nation, and Sandra Mitchell of the Tonkawa Tribe, all of whom led successful community opposition to radioactive waste proposals.

Patients' families can call LaFrance

If the public or families of long-term care patients being transferred out of Fort Stanton Hospital want to discuss complaints or concerns, the state ombudsman program has assigned Katherine LaFrance to listen.

The program under the State Agency on Aging is an advocacy office for residents in long-term care. LaFrance is coordinator for 11 eastern counties.

She may be reached at her Clovis office by calling (505) 762-6228. Or, information may be called into the state Long-Term Care Program in Santa Fe at 1-800-432-2080.

Weather

The National Weather Service forecast for the south-central mountain region of New Mexico calls for sunny skies with the predicted high in the low 60s. Tonight will remain fair with a low near 30.

The forecast for Tuesday calls for continued sunny with a few light clouds and a high in the low 60's.

Petitions to overturn nuke vote handed in

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Supporters are trying a second time to get nuclear waste stored on the Mescalero Apache Reservation.

Petitions with approximately 700 names, several hundred more than needed, were turned in to the tribal office Friday. Accompanying them was a letter asking to reopen negotiations with nuclear power companies.

"I wrote a letter to President (Wendell) Chino and the tribal council and also the secretary of the council, and told them I have submitted on this date a petition which will show the names of approximately 700 tribal members," said Fred Kaydahzinne, director of housing for the tribe and the leader of the petition drive.

The petitions are an attempt to put aside the result of a Jan. 31 election in which Mescalero voters rejected a proposal to make the reservation the largest high-level nuclear waste storage site in the nation. The vote was 490 against, 362 in favor.

The petitions ask the council to continue negotiations with a power company consortium, at the council's discretion hold another referendum, and continue to educate the tribe regarding the benefits of the project.

Kaydahzinne said he asked the tribal council secretary to review the names and ensure they are all eligible voters.

"I will be anxiously waiting for their response," Kaydahzinne said. "I don't know when they will meet."

About 20 people circulated the petitions, he said.

"I still feel the project will have a tremendous impact on the economic welfare of the people," Kaydahzinne said. "I found that old and young alike wanted to sign the petitions. A good many of them have changed their minds, as you can see. Only 362 voted for it, now 700 people are saying they are for it. That's almost a 40-50% turnaround."

Some of the signers told those circulating the petitions that they couldn't get to the polls to vote Jan. 31, because they had no transportation, he said.

Opposition plans rally

While Kaydahzinne waits to hear from the tribal council, opponents of the storage plan have scheduled a rally for 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Enchantment Inn on U.S. 70.

The groups are joining together to call for a halt to nuclear waste storage attempts on Indian lands in the United States and Canada, and to establish nuclear-free zones.

A news release on the rally quoted Grace Thorpe, daughter of legendary athlete Jim Thorpe and a member of the Sauk and Fox Nation, which voted against a nuclear storage proposal in 1992.

"In every case where the nuclear waste issue was put before the Indian people, they have voted it down," Thorpe said.

She will be one of the speakers at the rally along with Mescalero Rufina Laws and Sandra Mitchell of the Tonkawa Tribe. All led successful community opposition to radioactive waste storage proposals. The Tonkawa defeated a proposed 'monitored retrievable storage' (MRS) facility in August 1994.

Laws has contended that Kaydahzinne and his group have intimidated tribal members into signing the petitions so nuclear storage talks could reopen.

Economic benefits cited

"I'm still upset with the opposition using scare tactics on our people," Kaydahzinne said during a telephone interview Friday. "I feel they have used a divide and conquer approach on our people. I don't

Senate gambling committee works on own casino bill

by PETER EICHSTAEDT
The News Correspondent

Although the Senate Select Committee on Gaming spent much of last week discussing a bill that would allow casino-style gaming at horse racing tracks, a broader proposal is likely to be endorsed by the committee.

"Our bill will not provide for wide-open gambling immediately," said Sen. John Arthur Smith (D-Deming), the committee chairman, about his new bill (Senate Bill 1052) the committee will discuss this week. "Our bill permits the lottery, video gaming at the race tracks, and a limited number of (video gaming) machines in bars and fraternal organizations."

Smith said his committee will begin discussing the new omnibus gaming bill this week, along with a number of other gambling bills that must all be heard by his committee before the Legislature ends on March 18.

Smith's bill, which will be a committee substitute for an existing bill, would also allow card games and other casino gambling at the state's horse racing tracks by July 1, 1997, at which time the gambling could take place year-round.

Also, every bar and fraternal or charitable organization in the state could have up to 10 video gambling machines. The bill provides, however, that local communities can vote out gambling by referendum after six months, Smith said.

Under the bill, the state would collect 20% of the gross income from the machines and the gambling operations. Smith estimated that this would generate $5 million the first year and $10 million the second.

Race Day rally Wednesday

by KATHLEEN McDONALD

The stick horse race around the Roundhouse is on, with jockeys in silks coming up the back stretch Wednesday to garner support for Senate Bill 526.

Those interested in attending Wednesday's Racing Day rally in Santa Fe are asked by grassroots organizers in Ruidoso to join the caravan of cars leaving Tuesday at 3 p.m. and Wednesday at 5 a.m. from the Mechem Drive Furr's grocery parking area.

Those in need of transportation or placards are asked to call the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce, which may be able to secure a ride.

Wednesday's rally includes some unusual antics, such as stick horse races, and an interview with a talking horse.

According to Jon Sherry, director of resort development for the Ruidoso Downs Racetrack, Wednesday's itinerary is bound to be an attention grabber in its effort to spotlight a united racing industry threatened by significant changes in the state's gambling provisions.

"There's no doubt that the track needs help," he said of Ruidoso Downs, which lost $2.8 million the last two years. "We're planning on directing (legislative) focus on what is needed, which is a level playing field."

Ruidoso Downs Racetrack owner R.D. Hubbard has said he will close the track if not granted full casino gaming rights like those given to Indian reservations through a new state compact.

SB526 provides that "level playing field," Hubbard has said, while

NASA blast-off

Molly Long, White Mountain Elementary 4th grade teacher, prepares to launch a bottle rocket after constructing it during an assignment. The project was part of a two day workshop presented last week to Ruidoso and other local teachers by National Aeronautics Space Administration education specialist Gordon Eskridge, as part of NASA's Aerospace Education program. The program is meant to enhance students' interest in science. Long's rocket launched successfully and returned to earth safely.

Texas father, son rescued from forest

by JOANNA DODDER
Ruidoso News Editor

Rescuers found a Texas man and his son Friday morning after the two became lost overnight in the Lincoln National Forest.

Joey Odom, 31, and his 6-year-old son Thomas, were found near Monjeau Peak about 7:30 a.m. Friday after staying overnight in the forest. The residents of Midland, Texas were here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Odom, Joey's parents.

The father and son were reported missing somewhere in the forest about 10 p.m. Thursday. The White Mountain Search & Rescue team quickly mobilized after the sheriff's office found Odom's vehicle parked at the Dry Mills Trailhead west of Alto around midnight.

White Mountain first sent in a three-person "hasty team" to seek out obvious signs such as tracks on the Dry Mills Trail, said Melinda Headley, co-incident commander for the search with Jim Edwards. The team found tracks that looked like a man and child's.

In the meantime, Alamogordo Search & Rescue and the U.S. Border Patrol arrived. The three groups set up teams, with one driving up to Monjeau Peak to head downhill on Wet Mills Trail, which connects to Dry Mill.

One team saw something orange on a nearby treeline, Headley said. The team headed toward the orange and soon heard a boy yelling.

The team found the father and son about the time a Black Hawk helicopter arrived from Fort Bliss,

Other rescue teams on their way were called off.

Noting the father had a previous hip problem and the young boy could be hypothermic, rescue teams decided to try and fly the two out. The pilot managed to get them on board the copter without landing, since the area is covered with a thick forest of trees.

The search crews felt happy about the results of their work, but never did talk to the father and son, Headley noted. Hospital officials later told her that the two were hungry, thirsty and cold, but appeared to be fine otherwise.

"When you go out hiking in the daytime, be prepared to stay overnight."

The father said he had covered the two with pine needles because he couldn't get a fire going. They were apparently wearing jeans and light jackets.

Headley surmised the two were trying to reach a lookout tower on Monjeau Peak but turned around when it started getting dark, then lost the trail. They were found about one ravine away from Wet Mills Trail. Parts of the trail are covered in snow.

"When you go out hiking in the daytime, be prepared to stay overnight," Headley warned future hikers.

State education funding showdown expected soon

by PETER EICHSTAEDT
The News Correspondent

Gov. Gary Johnson drew a deep line in the sand Friday, setting the stage for a showdown with the Legislature over education funding.

At the midpoint of the 1995 Legislature, Johnson released his "mid-term report" on the Legislature, which was not flattering, then added, "It seems like we're in lala land."

Johnson's accusatory remarks drew a hue and cry from the Democratically-controlled Legislature, which immediately began to strategize an override of his pending veto.

Democrats have the required two-thirds majority in the House, and lack only one vote in the Senate to override the veto on a partisan vote.

Johnson has been goaded by the Legislature's intent to send him a $1.3 billion education budget bill within the next week or so. The bill contains sufficient money to pay teachers a 6% raise next year.

Johnson supports only a 3% pay raise next year and vowed to kill the bill if it reaches his desk.

"We just can't afford a 6%," Johnson said. "I would have to veto it."

The Legislature this year has broken with recent tradition of including the education budget in the state budget bill. This year's budget bill will total about $2.7 billion. This past week the Legislature said it will send the education money to Johnson separately, precipitating a showdown.

Johnson's insistence on holding the line on teachers salaries was prompted in part by an announcement earlier in the week that the state revenues in the next fiscal year will be about $36 million less than expected.

This immediately caused speculation that both the Legislature and the governor would revise budgets. The Legislature's budget — except for the education funding, which constitutes half the state budget — is still being prepared.

Despite the shortfall, Johnson said his budget could still work as presented, with some adjustments.

Johnson said this includes his proposed $80 million tax cut that would repeal the 6-cent gasoline tax, provide cuts in personal income taxes, and remove gross receipts taxes on prescriptions.

Earlier last week, Johnson launched a flurry of bill introductions related to gambling in New Mexico, after he signed gaming compacts with 12 Indian tribes in New Mexico.

By the noon Thursday deadline for bill introductions, 38 individual measures related to gambling had been introduced.

These bills include a wide variety of lotteries and many that would allow expanded video gambling in New Mexico, ranging from limited video gaming with fraternal organizations to full-scale casino gambling in racetracks and resort towns.

Johnson has said he will sign a lottery bill for the state as long as it is privately run, but controlled by the state and benefits the state.

He also said he supports legalizing video gambling at fraternal organizations and racetracks.

Racetracks around the state contend they need the right to have full-scale casino gambling in order to compete with gambling operations on Indian lands and in order to survive sagging revenues.

The last-minute flurry of gambling bills was part of a record-breaking introduction of 2,528 individual pieces of legislation.

Of this amount, 1,185 bills were introduced into the House and 1,205 bills were introduced into the Senate. The remaining bills were memorials, which are non-binding bills, and others are resolutions.

During the previous 60-day session in 1993, a total of 1,961 bills were introduced.

The increase this year comes despite a move among legislators to combine into one bill all construction project requests in their district.

Williams introduces 17 bills before Legislature's deadline

by DON HIXON

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

State Representative Dub Williams has introduced a gambling bill to the house to go along with Senate Bill 526.

Williams introduced House Bill 1090 Thursday. The companion bill, like SB526, seeks casino gambling at racetracks throughout the year.

"In other words, what the Indians do, we can do," Williams said.

In turn, SB526 offers 20% of the revenues to the state.

"This is important to me because we are trying to save both the racing industry and the horse breeding industry," Williams said Friday. "By them being able to supplement purses at the racetracks, it will increase production of horses in the breeding industry and will also be able to raise the purses, which will bring in a better quality of horses running at the tracks," Williams said.

"The Indians, as we well know in Ruidoso, have been playing games all the time for the past eight years and we haven't had any input out there and we haven't gotten any tax money from it," Williams said.

"As I view it, there are still some complications that will probably end up in the courts," Williams said. "Whatever they do over there, we ought to be able to do off the reservation. And likewise, whatever we do, they ought to be able to do. Hopefully we can resolve the problem."

Arrest made in local shooting

by KATHLEEN McDONALD

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Police arrested John Blackmon, 21, of Ruidoso Thursday for allegedly shooting another Ruidoso man, 22-year-old Alan Ryen.

Blackmon is charged with aggravated battery with a deadly weapon, a third-degree felony. He pleaded not guilty in magistrate court Friday and was released on an unsecured $5,000 bond after an attorney was appointed for him. His next hearing is in March.

Police said that because they could not substantiate an intent to shoot the victim, they did not consider charging Blackmon with attempted murder.

Meanwhile, Ryen remains in critical condition at Presbyterian Health Care Services hospital in Albuquerque. Police report Ryen was shot early Thursday at 208 Hart Avenue with one .9mm Ruger bullet, which pierced his left forearm and entered the left lower quadrant of his abdomen.

Police said Ryen lost a lot of blood and required emergency surgery that afternoon at Lincoln County Medical Center.

Blackmon told police he fired the pistol in self defense, alleging Ryen physically charged him after making threats.

Blackmon's claim is supported by the two women who reside with him at the small rental house — Freda Trujillo, 18, and Amber Turner, 19.

The roommates told police that Ryen barged his way into the house at the early morning hour. He brought along 21-year-old Chad Fincher, whom he just met at a party, Ruidoso police detective Wolfgang Born said. Born and fellow detective Jim Biggs investigated the shooting.

Ryen allegedly went directly to Freda Trujillo's room, where he shut the door and began arguing with her. Ryen then allegedly started choking Trujillo, opened the door and shouted for John Blackmon's 19-year-old brother Manuel, who was in the living room, Born related.

Ryen then allegedly threatened John Blackmon, who was by then about 15 feet away, Born said.

Blackmon then allegedly told Ryen to "chill out" and leave the premises. Instead, Ryen allegedly leaned forward and rushed toward Blackmon.

When approximately 10 feet away, Blackmon fired the weapon, sending the bullet that penetrated Ryen's body and forced him to the ground.

Police received a call at 2:05 a.m. telling them someone had been shot. When they arrived three minutes later, they found Ryen on the living room floor, still conscious.

Biggs said that officers attempted to interview Ryen while at the house and again at the hospital, but he refused to comment.

Also found at the scene were the weapon, the two women and John Blackmon. Manuel Blackmon apparently left for home out of fear, as did Chad Fincher, who didn't know anyone in the house.

Police said that if found guilty of the aggravated battery charges, Blackmon could serve up to three years in prison and fined $5,000.

Without SB526, the 500 employees of the track may be out of work as early this spring, Hubbard says, and the 1,500 others involved in the local industry — breeders, farmers and concessionaires — will also lose out on commerce with the famous quarterhorse track.

"SB526 saves jobs, saves a traditional industry, and brings an incredible amount of revenue to the table which is needed by the state now," Sherry said Sunday.

In the cards for the Feb. 22 event are some spectacular antics, Sherry said, events that are bound to draw legislators out from their cloistered offices and onto the capitol lawn for a peek at the fun.

Events on line for Wednesday include a bugler call to post every 15 minutes; a sea of taxpayers, landowners and horse buffs dressed in red to greet legislators entering the capitol building; short speeches by three New Mexico racetrack owners; the first annual running of the Roundhouse Futurity, called by professional race caller Norm Amundson of Sundland Park; an interview with "Lucky" the talking horse (costumed men), who will answer questions from the public and media about SB526; and visits legislators' offices to present them with Racing Day tokens (stick horses and golden horseshoes).

Libel lawsuit dismissed

The New Mexico Court of Appeals has upheld a district court dismissal of a libel suit filed by a former Ruidoso councilor against The Ruidoso News.

Ron Andrews (then a Ruidoso village councilor), his wife Jill Andrews, and the Golden Aspen Rally Inc. sued the newspaper on Nov. 12, 1992 in the 12th Judicial District Court based in Carrizozo.

William S. Dixon, the Albuquerque attorney for the newspaper, called the decision a victory for freedom of the press.

Andrews complained about portions of 14 articles and editorials written by former reporter Charles Stallings and then-editor Frankie Jarrell, published between February 1991 and September 1992. The couple sued the newspaper as well as Stallings, Jarrell and the former Ruidoso News owner, Rajon Publishing, Inc.

Judge Richard A. Parsons dismissed the suit in October 1993. In an opinion written by Judge Bruce D. Black filed Tuesday, the state appeals court upheld Parsons on all counts.

"We as Mescalero people feel we are productive in every business that we encounter and some things we've done already speak for themselves," he said. "I think we are able to continue to work for our people and continue to be productive even with complicated nuclear projects such as we have."

He contended that significant amounts of nuclear material already are in the state or are being transported in and out on a weekly basis.

If the project goes through, it will be the first time the Mescalero will have benefited from the nuclear industry that has fed revenue and jobs into many other parts of the state, he said.

Hospital seeks room for doctors

Lincoln County Medical Center administrators plan to add offices for two new doctors and three other employees at the Sudderth Drive hospital.

Their application for the expansion, which includes purchase from the village of a right-of-way on El Paso Road for setback purposes, will be reviewed by the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission at its meeting at 2 p.m. today.

If approved by the commission, the 100-foot wide portion of the roadway will be purchased for $1 per square foot, or $3,042. The hospital plans a 27.5 x 63 foot addition to accommodate space for two new doctors and three new employees at the existing building.

Also at the meeting:

— a public hearing will be held on renaming Pine Street to Jacobs Place as requested by 911 personnel. A number of street and house addresses were changed by the village last month; officials have just learned that Pine Street, which is a duplicate name, was overlooked in the renaming process.

— a workshop will be held on amending the village's driveway and parking grade requirements.

Wild turkeys to be released near Corona

Department of Game and Fish biologists are hoping to capture about 40 Merriam's turkeys today for relocation to the Gallinas Mountains near Corona in Lincoln County.

The traps are set and baited, with plans to spring the traps today, dependent on the weather conditions, said Jerry Maracchini, director of the Department of Game and Fish. The birds are being taken from the Rainbow Ranch west of Folsom in northeastern New Mexico.

The traps are large nets set up as tents. The net is dropped when enough birds have gathered to feed beneath it. A cannon net, fired from a small gun, is sometimes used.

About 90 turkeys were seen in the transplant area Thursday, Maracchini said.

The Merriam's turkeys are one of three subspecies of wild turkey in New Mexico and the most abundant of the three. It generally inhabits ponderosa and mixed conifer forests.

The trapping and release is being funded by sales of $3.25 turkey stamps to spring and fall turkey hunters from 1985 to 1988. Seventy-five percent of the trapping/relocation costs will be reimbursed to the Department of Game and Fish with federal excise tax funds on hunting equipment (Pittman-Robertson Act monies).

The Dreamer

Washington was destined to lead country

Birthday of the Father of Our Country

"First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

These words will forever echo down through the years as we celebrate the birthday of George Washington, father of our country.

Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, said of Washington, "He was the greatest of good men, and the best of great men."

God reached down from heaven and selected Washington to be the man to lead our country through its birth and infancy.

He was born in West Moreland County, Va., on Feb. 22 to Augustine Washington and the former Mary Ball.

When George was 11 years old, his father was called home by our Lord, leaving the boy in the care of his brother, Lawrence Washington, and his mother.

His mother, a lady of high intelligence and Christian character, was the guiding light and spirit of Washington's life.

When he was a youth it was decided that he should follow a life at sea. All was in readiness, and Washington was at the door saying goodbye to his mother. Up to this point she had held up very well, but now at the moment of her son's leaving, she broke down and wept. George signaled to the men waiting for him in the boat, that they should go on without him.

This was many of the prophetic turning points in the life of George Washington.

Great Fondness for Horses

Washington could tame the wildest colt for riding by patience and gentle treatment. One of his greatest enjoyments was riding over his vast estates.

A Man of Faith

One of the favorite subjects of early American painters was of Washington kneeling in the snow in prayer at Valley Forge.

Washington's Message to Us

In his address to the American people at the close of the Revolutionary War, Washington said, "I now make my earnest prayer that God would have you in his holy protection; that he would incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another, for the fellow citizens of the United States at large; and particularly for their brethren who have served in the field; and finally, that he would most graciously be pleased to dispose all of us to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind, which were the characteristics of the divine author of our blessed religion; without a humble imitation of his example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation."

Back before the Revolutionary War, when we were still English, Washington, as a young officer under the British General Braddock in the French and Indian War, learned valuable lessons which stood him in good stead later when the fate of our country hung in the balance.

After this battle, an old Indian chief who had been present at the battle said, "We were firing at this man from every direction from behind trees and rocks with arrows and bullets. He and his fellow soldiers were out in the open without protection.

"Many fell at his side. Though this man's clothing was torn to ribbons, he was unharmed.

"This man will never die in battle. He is protected by God. He will live to establish a great nation."

Tourism industry hosts state legislators

Members of New Mexico's tourism industry hosted state legislators and their guests at the Tourism Association of New Mexico's third annual "Black Tie and Boots Extravaganza" in the capitol Rotunda this month.

Legislators and Roundhouse staff were treated to a feast prepared by Santa Fe hotels and restaurants. Each legislator was given a special Tourism Day gift bag which contained a "Tour NM" license plate, New Mexico food products, guidebooks and souvenirs from tourist attractions around the state. Participants wore pins with the message "New Mexico tourism is 42.6 billion dollars & 50,000 jobs" and turquoise ribbons that said "Tourism Day."

The Flying J Wranglers of Ruidoso entertained the Roundhouse staff with their special brand of cowboy music, highlighted by their signature tune "A Song for New Mexico," an original composition by the group's leader James Hobbs.

ture" is sponsored by the Tourism Association of New Mexico (TANM) in support of the New Mexico Department of Tourism's budget request and local and regional tourism marketing programs. "TANM" is a statewide non-profit association of more than 300 tourism-related businesses and individuals. It seeks to improve the climate for New Mexico's tourism industry through leadership, communication, education, lobbying and cost-saving programs.

I am a true people person who believes if you respect people for their abilities and build their self esteem, they can build mountains."

Jerry Stanley Don Hixon/The Ruidoso News

A-1 Vacuum and Sewing Center opens in Ruidoso

by DON HIXON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Two months ago, Jerry and Sue Stanley bid Aloha to Hawaii and said hello to Ruidoso.

The Stanleys had lived in Hawaii for 22 years, where Jerry had two vacuum and sewing machine shops.

"My wife always wanted to return to New Mexico," Jerry said. "We had lived in Roswell and Clovis before moving to Hawaii and wanted to come back because it feels like home."

After moving to Ruidoso, Jerry opened A-1 Vacuum and Sewing Center. He repairs all makes, brands and models of sewing machines and vacuum cleaners. The business currently sells Panasonic vacuums and will soon carry a line of Viking, Delco and White sewing machines, Jerry said.

Stanley, who has been repairing sewing machines for 26 years, comes from a long line of sewing machine repairmen.

"My father repaired sewing machines for 60 years" Stanley said. "My brother Marvin is becoming one of the largest sewing machine dealers in the United States and my nephew is still in Hawaii working with sewing machines."

Stanley has developed an audio tape that he gives to customers who have a sewing machine repaired.

The tape gives tips on sewing and sewing machine care.

"If a customer ever has a question or needs me to show her something about technique or give some tips, I'm glad to do so," Stanley said. "There is never a charge for that service because I'm committed to helping my customers."

Stanley said he only sells Panasonic vacuum cleaners because they are made of a highly durable form of plastic and in his opinion the machine outperforms other brands.

"The vacuum is made of the same material a 747 jet aircraft windshield is made of," he said.

Stanley demonstrated how the vacuum could pick up a 16 pound bowling ball and said the design allows almost no dust into the air.

"My wife is allergic to dust," Stanley said. "She could have her pick of any brand on the market but she uses the Panasonic."

Using a high pressure air blowing system, Stanley cleans vacuum cleaner motors when he does repairs.

"I use the high pressure air because it cleans much better than compressed air or a low power blower," he said.

A-1 Vacuum and Sewing Center is located at 1925 Sudderth next to the Diamond Shamrock gas station. The phone number is 267-6333.

Capitan's Mandi Aldaz looks for an opening in the Cloudercroft defense.

Laura Clymer/The Ruidoso News

Cloudercroft stuns Capitan

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Capitan senior basketball players Jessica and Amy Cline didn't fully realize their season was over until they got into the locker-room Thursday night.

Then the reality hit them: they would never again put on a Tiger basketball uniform.

"We didn't get out of the locker-room for a long time," Capitan coach Norman Cline said. "They didn't want to leave. They didn't want to take off their uniforms."

Who could blame them? Capitan had just lost to Cloudercroft in the District 6-AA semifinals, 43-42, a team Capitan had pounded by 30 points less than a week earlier.

The winner advanced to the district finals and the regional tournament. The loser called it a season.

Amy said she never doubted Capitan would rally to beat Cloudercroft for the third time this season — even when the Tigers were down 11 points midway through the third quarter.

Jessica simply wanted to play, but with a gimpy left knee she wasn't 100%. Cline refrained from the temptation of putting in Jessica, a three-year starter and the team's floor leader.

Instead, Cline put his faith in his young team, and they nearly pulled off the comeback victory, in what had to be the most exciting game of the season.

In the final two minutes of the game, the Cloudercroft Bears and Capitan Tigers exchanged baskets and the lead. Cressie Watson's offensive rebound put Cloudercroft ahead 43-42.

The Bears fouled Capitan freshman Coye Robbins with 15 seconds in the game. Robbins missed the front end of the one-and-one, but sophomore Mandi Aldaz hit the rebound off a Cloudercroft player and the Tigers retained possession. After a timeout, Capitan ran an out of bounds play. When the first option didn't open up, the Tigers ran their offense. Robbins cut through the lane, got the ball and hit a short turn-around jumper inside the lane. The referee blew his whistle and then waved off Robbins' basket. The foul occurred before she shot.

Robbins shot another free throw with nine seconds left and Cloudercroft got the ball again. Aldaz came up big again when she stole the inbounds pass.

Twice Capitan couldn't get the winning shot to fall in the final seconds of the game. Aldaz's baseline jumper was long. Amy Cline grabbed the board but her attempt missed also.

As the final buzzer sounded, the Bears celebrated while the Tigers stood in disbelief.

Capitan's poor start was more to blame for the loss than the final minutes. The Tigers shot better than 60% from the free-throw line during the season. Against Cloudercroft, they were a paltry 4-for-15. The Bears nailed 9-for-12 from the charity stripe.

"They (Cloudercroft) outplayed us the first half and we had to fight like crazy to get back into it," Cline said. "What bothered us was we didn't execute our defense."

Cloudercroft also took away Capitan's fastbreak. The Bears neutralized the Tigers' speed until midway through the third quarter when Capitan rallied.

Trailing 27-16 with 4:57 left in the third quarter, Cline called a timeout and had a little "heart to heart" with his team. The Tigers needed to play better defense if they were to rally for the win, Cline told his team.

The Tigers started executing after the timeout. Capitan used a zone press to create four steals, force two Cloudercroft turnovers and induce the Bears into several poor shots. The 12-2 run pulled the Tigers within one, 29-28, after three quarters of play. Cloudercroft coach Jimmy Swope said the Bears didn't do anything offensively or defensively different Thursday night.

"We just executed our offense better," he said. The Cloudercroft game plan was to pound the ball inside to Watson and hit the glass. The Bears did just that.

Watson, a senior, finished with 18 points to lead all scorers. Aldaz had 14 to lead Capitan. Robbins finished with a dozen points and Michelle Wilson added six.

Swope did try a different mental approach with his team. Prior to their Feb. 10 game, Swope constantly talked about Capitan. The result wasn't pretty. It was a 67-27 Tiger win.

"I said the word Capitan twice since they beat us," Swope said of Cloudercroft's practices leading up to the Thursday's contest.

"They (Capitan) are tough girls. They play hard and they always will," Swope said. "We beat a good team. We're just glad to be here."

Cline can find solace in his team's overall performance. The Tigers are young.

When Capitan rallied in the third quarter, it did so with two freshmen, two sophomores and a junior.

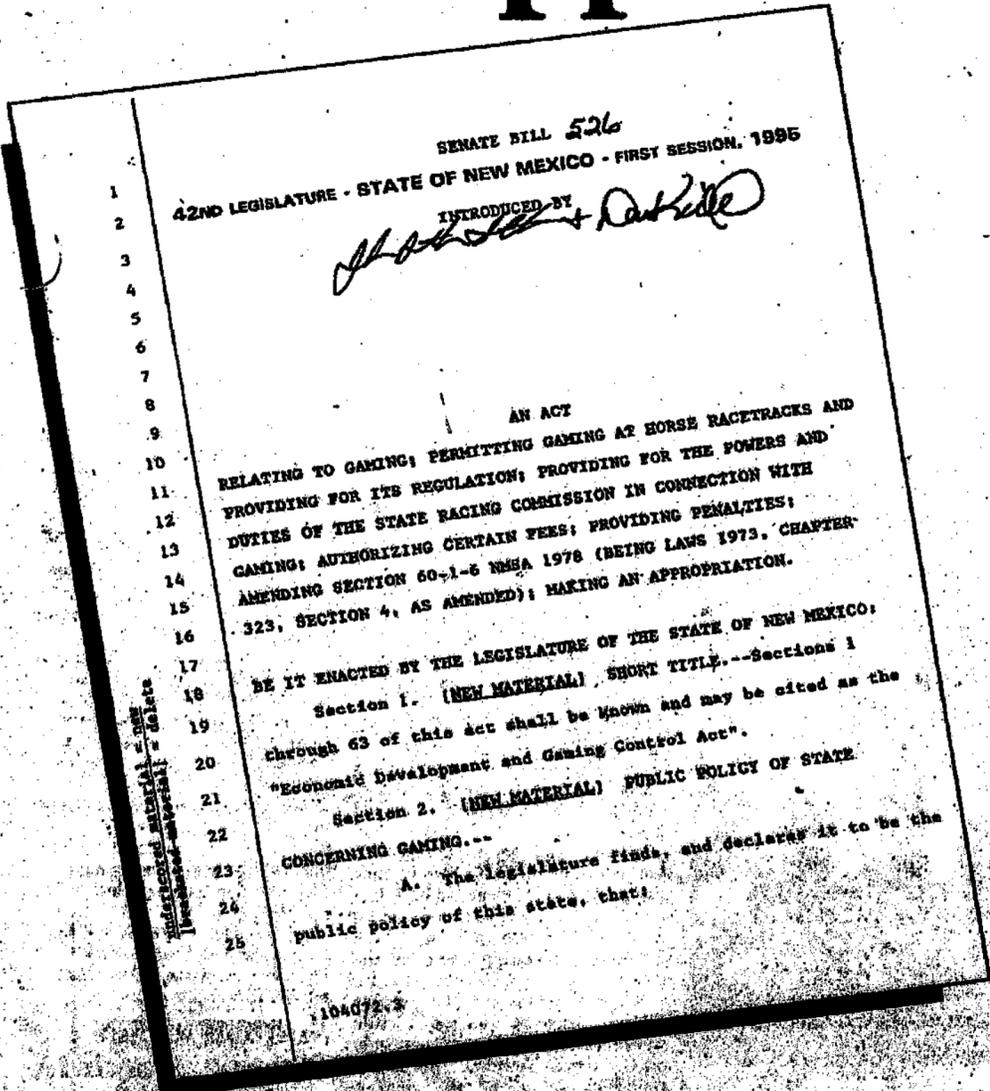

The Capitan coach said the Tigers exceeded his expectations for the season. CHS finishes 11-12 overall.

"They played awfully hard and worked hard," he said. The Tigers also overcame adversity at the beginning of the season and when they lost Jessica Cline Jan. 9 to a knee injury.

"Jessica getting hurt really hurt us, and they overcame that," he said. "We didn't have anybody like her on the floor."

"We talked all year long that this year was a learning experience. They'll be stronger next year for it," Cline said.

From the bench

Some random thoughts and observations from around our world of sports and recreation.

Hecklers beware! If you go to a Ruidoso boys or girls basketball game, you're going to get graded by the game's referees. Think twice before yelling what you think of a referee's call, a coach's substitution or a player's performance.

Players, coaches and cheerleaders are not exempt from the "report card," either.

Credit for this proactive idea goes to Ruidoso High School Principal Ron Hodges, and to athletic director Les Carter for implementing it.

Since January, basketball officials complete a report card grading the behavior of Ruidoso's coaches, players, fans and cheerleaders during basketball games. Game officials rate spectators and coaches as "excellent," "satisfactory," or "needs to improve."

So far, it seems to have worked.

Hodges, who used the report card when he was at Belen High School, says the community, players and coaches have received good marks.

Referees have handed out a few unsatisfactory grades to fans, and Hodges says the administration has responded by talking with those individuals.

"The officials have given some excellent marks," Hodges says. "They think it's a really great idea." He adds that every official has completed the form.

Hodges also credits the Ruidoso coaches for not tolerating unsportsmanlike behavior from their players, whether it's talking trash or showboating. He says the coaches are cracking down by benching or not starting players.

And it won't end with the basketball season. The school will use the report cards at volleyball, football and basketball games next year.

The whole idea of the project is to promote sportsmanship by being proactive and by monitoring behavior.

Hey, that's a novel idea. Maybe those folks in Albuquerque and Gallup will hear about it and try the report card. And maybe then those sports writers will have something else to write about.

Speaking of the hoops scene, where are those fans when you need them? Namely the 500-plus who showed up for Midnight Madness way back when boys' basketball practice started.

The Warriors boys' team would love to have every pair of vocal cords in Ruidoso cheering them on when they close out the regular season at home.

Ruidoso hosts Cobre this Friday night and then takes on top-ranked Silver Friday, March 3, at Warrior Arena.

Ruidoso is 4-4 in District 3-AAA play. The team has a chance to finish 6-4 - their best finish in years.

Last year the Warriors were 2-8 in the district. The two wins were the first two since 1991. In 1993-94 and prior to that, the Warriors were routinely thrashed by 20, 30 and 40 points. Has everyone forgotten Silver's 98-32 beating of Ruidoso a year ago?

Losses like this are a part of the past. Coach Sid Wright's Warriors are competitive and fun to watch this year.

But the team needs a 6th player. Not literally, but figuratively. The team needs the Ruidoso community to show its support.

Wright is growing impatient with Ruidoso's fans.

He wasn't too far off base when he said to me the only thing that woke up the fans during a recent game was a Malik Waters' dunk.

The boys team has at least two more home games this season. If you haven't been to a game, try it. I can't guarantee you'll like it, but I do know the players would appreciate it.

One of our local long-distance competitors, Bob Clarke, couldn't keep his date with the Mount Taylor Quadrathlon over the weekend. Clarke's bum heel has prevented him from competing in the event.

The quadrathlon combines bicycling, running, cross country skiing and snowshoeing into what sponsors call "the ultimate challenge."

Clarke says he's disappointed about missing the event, but the injury won't stop him. He's trying to get healthy so he can compete in races this spring and summer.

A little history lesson, the Colorado River didn't carve the Grand Canyon in a day.

It seems we've got good, competent coaches in place at Ruidoso. As a community we need to be patient and give them a couple of years to build their programs.

Successful high school programs across the state have established athletics at the middle and elementary school level - that's where the skills and fundamentals of the game are introduced and taught. By the time they reach high school, players should be familiar already with the terms and skills necessary to have an understanding of the game.

Yahoo! I skied the Apache Bowl last Thursday with lots of help from Ruidoso Ski Team coach Hubert Seigmann.

Seigmann gathered up some of his skiers and we spent the day taking photos.

If you're wondering, I went down the easiest part of the bowl. Couldn't and wouldn't think of going down any other way. I added Upper Deep Freeze and Lower Deep Freeze to my list of trails conquered - only 48 more trails to go.

RHS hoopsters close out regular season

About the only thing pretty at the girls' basketball game between Ruidoso and Hot Springs was the balloon arrangement the Warriors gave senior Cindy Richardson. The visiting Tigers' performance wasn't bad either if you are a Hot Springs fan.

Ruidoso coach Janis Roland and the rest of the team honored Richardson before her last home game Saturday night.

The Warriors' acknowledgment might have been memorable, but their performance on the court surely wasn't. Hot Springs had no trouble putting away an uninspired band of Warriors in the final regular season game for both teams.

Roland was less than amused with her team's performance, describing its effort as "lethargic."

"We didn't seem as focused as I would have liked," she said. "There were bright spots."

When the team is on the court playing a game, it's up to the girls, to perform what the coaching staff has taught them, added

Roland. When they choose not to, it looks like Saturday night's game.

Against Hot Springs, the Warriors played a zone in hopes the Tigers couldn't beat them from the outside. Hot Springs is ranked No. 5 in the state and has one of the district's top post players in Sara Sue Olney. Olney is Class AAA's fifth-leading scorer (18 ppg) and seventh-leading rebounder (9 rpg).

The strategy initially looked as if it would payoff. The Tigers were cold from the field, but then Cheyenne Evans hit a 3-pointer to get Hot Springs going. The Tigers cranked up their fastbreak and then hit four more long-range bombs before halftime.

Olney and her teammates coasted in the second half as well. It wasn't long before both coaches put their junior varsity players in the game.

The loss drops Ruidoso to 2-18 overall and 0-10 in the district. The Warriors, 6th place finishers in District 3-AAA, travel to Socorro Monday night for a first-round district tournament game.

Mandi Lewallen puts up a shot during Ruidoso's last home game of the season Saturday night against Hot Springs. The Tigers had little trouble with the Warriors. Ruidoso finished the regular season 2-18 overall and 0-10 in District 3-AAA. Ruidoso travels to Socorro tonight for a first-round district tournament game against the SHS Warriors.

Hot Springs cools off Warrior cagers

Three players scored in double figures to lead Hot Springs past Ruidoso in boys' basketball Saturday night. The Tigers held off a fourth-quarter rally by the Warriors for a 66-56 District 3-AAA victory.

The loss sends Ruidoso to 8-13 overall and 4-4 in the district. Hot Springs improves to 7-13 and 3-5.

Malik Waters and Daniel Espinosa scored 17 and 12 points respectively for the Warriors.

Hot Springs outscored Ruidoso 21-7 in the second quarter and took an 11-point advantage into the lockerroom at the half. The Tigers expanded their lead to 47-28 after three quarters.

Sluggish third quarter proves fatal to Tigers

Laura Clymer/The Ruidoso News

Jeremy McGarvey pulls down a rebound amid a pair of Dexter defenders. Dexter defeated Capitan in District 6-AA action Friday night, 67-44. Keith Cox led the Tigers with nine points. John Ugalano added eight points and Michael Fish contributed seven in the losing cause. Capitan hosts Tularosa this Saturday night in the final regular season game for both teams. The Tigers are 10-11 overall and 2-3 in the 6-AA.

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

The second consecutive lackluster third-quarter performance by the Capitan Tigers has coach Ron Becker resorting to the ultimate motivator - the bench.

"My top six, seven players don't know how to come out and play (in the third quarter)," Becker said after his team's 67-44 loss to Dexter Friday night. "I only know one way to stop it and that is to sit them on the bench."

The visiting Dexter team broke open a six-point game in the first four minutes of the third quarter. The Demons ended up outscoring the Tigers 19-6 in that period, and the Capitan starters found themselves on the pine.

The 6-AA district win solidified Dexter's hold onto second place. The Demons have a 4-2 district record while Capitan fell to 10-11 overall and 2-3 in the 6-AA.

What frustrated Becker most was the difference in Capitan's play between the first and second halves of the game. Dexter jumped to a 17-8 first quarter lead, but the Tigers battled back.

"We played hard and stuck with it," Becker said.

John Ugalano scored six of his eight points in the second period, and by halftime, the Tigers trailed 31-25.

Becker said he discussed with his team at halftime what they needed to do in the second half. But poor shot selection, turnovers and a lack of execution prevented the Tigers from getting back in the game.

Capitan closes out the regular season, hosting Tularosa this weekend. The Tigers will then take on Clouderoff Tuesday, Feb. 28, in the first round of the district tournament.

"That's when we'll see if we learned anything from this Tuesday versus Clouderoff," Becker said.

County considers tax rebate for low income homeowners

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Lincoln County Commission will consider a tax rebate for low-income residents of the county at a meeting March 7.

The action was authorized by New Mexico House Bill 1045, approved in March 1994. It allows counties to impose up to one mill levy to pay for relief of up to $250 in taxes for each low-income homeowner.

Based on the county's 1995 residential tax roll, one mill would generate $194,206. One mill equates to $1 for each $1,000 of taxable property value. New Mexico taxes on one third of the assessed value. A person with a $100,000 home would pay an extra $33.33.

Eligible residents would claim the rebate on their state income tax returns. The state would then bill the county, which would reimburse the state from the special fund fed by the one mill levy.

"I kept getting calls from senior citizens and I kept calling the legislative council to find the bill they were talking about," said County Clerk Martha Proctor. "They read about it in an AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) publication, but no one seemed to know about it in Santa Fe."

Proctor finally tracked down a copy of the bill while on a trip to the state's capital.

"The way I read it, the act requires counties to conduct a public hearing each January to decide whether or not to adopt it," she said.

Proctor brought the act to the attention of County Manager Carolin Cooney, and a public hearing was set by the commission for March 7.

"But after calling other areas, it seems most other counties are ignoring it," Proctor said. "In reading it, it seems like a lot of red tape and everyone would be paying an extra mill."

The homeowners who would benefit would have to fall within the federal poverty guidelines, which typically account for about 20% of a county's population, according to a state revenue department official. The commission could limit the benefit to a lower percentage at its discretion.

Lincoln County has 12,281 residential units on its tax rolls, including mobile homes. That means approximately 2,456 of those units could be eligible for the rebate, if the 20% estimate is valid.

The homeowners would be able to collect a percentage of the rebate based on their income. The maximum income classification of $14,000-$16,000 could allow the owner to file for 50% of the rebate.

Background

Al Maury, senior economist for the state Revenue Department, said the bill was introduced in 1994 because of the impact of people from California moving into Santa Fe.

Poop Scoop

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Traveling in a car with dogs can be an experience you'll never forget - either because it's loaded with fun or a nightmare of crises.

It's best to sit down ahead of time and decide whether the trip you have planned is appropriate for a pet, and what preparations can help avoid problems later.

Many good bits of advice are contained in a booklet by Donald R. Collins, D.V.M. called "Have Dog, Will Travel," published by the special products division of Nabisco Inc.

If a dog is not a good traveler, it should be left at home, if possible. To be a good traveler, a dog should meet these minimum standards:

- housebroken;
- trained to obey at least the commands of no, come, heel, sit and stay;
- pleasant-mannered with strangers;
- not affected by motion sickness (this condition often can be controlled by over-the-counter drugs, or tranquilizers prescribed by a veterinarian);
- and neutered to avoid coming into heat or running after a female who is in heat.

Collins advised that if you're visiting friends, be certain they approve of bringing your dog and that your animal is compatible with their pets.

Traveling 1,000 miles only to find that you have to board a pet at a strange kennel is a poor option, and it would be better to board the animal close to home.

If you'll be staying in a motel, campground or trailer park, check to ensure they accept pets before you leave.

Collins asks owners to look closely at their reasons for taking their pets.

"Are they selfish ones? Is taking your dog just the path of least possible resistance, because it doesn't require any decision-making on your part?" he asked. "Will the trip be pleasurable for you and the canine, or would alternative arrangements be best?"

Dogs form habits and changes can be upsetting. Adapting to a new climate, new surroundings, stresses and different water and food can be traumatic.

Alternatives to consider include leaving your dog with family, neighbors or boarding the dog at a kennel.

Collins said the longer the trip, the less advantageous the option of leaving the dog with family or friends.

However, the advantages are that it costs less, someone will be there to give the dog attention, an old or ill dog can stay in its familiar surroundings and you're free to stop and stay where you want on the trip.

On the other hand, if the dog is left alone for long periods, it may become destructive and it may escape. If something happens to the animal, it will stress the person doing you a favor.

Boarding the dog may be best for periods of more than four days. A good kennel will keep your dog healthy and safe with the right food and care. However, boarding can be costly and confining to an animal. It's important to find a reputable kennel, one that requires all boarders to be vaccinated against the basic diseases and adheres to a high standard of cleanliness. It also should have ample fenced space for exercise and play time.

If the decision is to take your four-legged friend along, be sure he carries proper identification. Take a photograph and written description of him with you.

If camping, put your camper's license number on the dog's tag.

Always carry proof of immunizations. Give your dog a distemper-hepatitis booster more than 30 days, but less than 90 days, prior to the trip.

Many states and foreign countries require a health certificate, completed by a licensed veterinarian indicating the dog did not originate from an area under rabies quarantine, is free from infectious and contagious diseases and as had no known exposure to such diseases.

Foreign travel carries a whole set of its own problems and regulations, as do travel by airplane, bus or train. Check ahead.

Supplies for a trip should include food and water and the dog's own dishes and favorite blanket, combs or brushes, collar and leashes, papers and certificates, a few favorite toys and rawhide chews, roll of paper towels, a pooper-scooper and plastic bags that lock shut.

If you're traveling with a dog that is unruly, Collins suggested using a crate for your safety and the dog's.

If traveling will mean a change in eating schedule and food, introduce your dog to that change at least a week before you leave home. Try to coordinate your own eating schedule with your pet's. Try picnics or eating near the car.

"And as a result, property values have just gone crazy and people felt the need for relief," he said.

"There has been a Proposition 13 type of legislation that has come forward about three years in a row," Maury said. "The Legislature also passed a transfer tax proposal that would basically impose a little sales tax on the extremely wealthy and distribute that to low-income folks. Gov. King vetoed both of them. They did finally pass this little piece of (rebate) legislation.

"I did an impact study in Santa Fe County and concluded the tax relief that would be provided is extremely modest," he said. "And, as I recall, it's only for a rebate for the county portion of the property tax rate."

Other proposed bills offer relief, too

Two other tax relief bills that some state officials say are better crafted than the rebate proposal have been introduced this year.

"The Proposition 13 proposal is back again. House Bill 32 would provide an option for counties to partially freeze residential values," Maury said. "It would allow (counties) to increase the residential property tax base by only 3-5% for owner-occupied residential properties. It will tend to create wild inequities in the systems like Proposition 13 has in California, because the new buyers will find their property valued at the high rate. There's the prospect of two people with identical properties, one paying twice the rate of the other."

"It does ultimately limit the tax base so it limits what you can do for schools, for instance."

But sponsor State Sen. Ben Lujan (D-Nambé) said as property values are driven up, longtime residents in Santa Fe can't afford the taxes and are forced to sell.

If the bill become law, a special class of residential property would be created called a "homeowner's principal residence."

Currently, tax on residential property is based on a county assessor's estimate of the property's market value. Lujan's bill would allow assessors to increase taxes on that special residential property by only a small percentage each year, based on the value of the property in the year when the owner applied for the special tax rate.

Adoption would be optional in most counties, but would be mandatory in counties where valuation has doubled in six years. Only Santa Fe County falls into that category now.

Lujan has tried for several years to pass similar measures, Maury said. This bill eliminates some of the unpopular previous provisions, such as a fixed rate of tax increase, and a requirement for buyers and sellers to disclose real estate purchase prices.

Another proposed law, House Bill 709, deals with a transfer tax. It is also sponsored by Lujan.

At the option of individual counties, rebates would be financed by imposing a transfer tax on the sale of any property worth more than $200,000.

Chino negotiated well for the Mescalero tribe

No matter what anyone thinks of the Indian gambling compact the governor signed last week, it can't be denied that Mescalero Apache President Wendell Chino negotiated a great deal for his people.

Experts across the country seem to agree. "The tribes negotiated an exceptionally good deal with the state," U.S. Department of Interior spokeswoman Kay Roybal told the Albuquerque Journal.

Chino, who sat next to the governor when the governor announced the compact at a press conference, was obviously a driving force behind the compact. After more than 30 years as leader of his tribe, Chino has developed a keen ability to get what he wants. Our greenhorn governor is no match against Chino. The Mescalero president not only helped get the best possible deal for his people, but also for all tribes in the state.

Governor Johnson may have negotiated 3-5% of the net gambling revenues for the state and local governments, but in return the Indians got a monopoly, or the state government revenues dry up. This monopoly is obviously worth much more to the tribes than the $5-10 million/year Johnson thinks the state will get.

The Mescalero and other tribes also get to decide what local governments get 40% of the net revenues. If the tribe chooses to interpret itself as a local government, it looks like we can chop 40% out of that $5-10 million revenue stream. That's a great deal for the tribes.

The state has oversight powers over gambling revenues, but must give 48 hours notice before looking at tribes' books. Another tribal coup not found in many other compacts.

Tribes can even open off-reservation gambling casinos under the compact. This could turn out to be a very lucrative part of the compact for the Indians.

The trivial investment of $190,000 in Johnson's campaign has provided a great return for the tribes, and now they can sit back and let those returns pour in. Hopefully, the money will help those who need it most.

Letters to the Editor

Support Senate Bill 526 for Ruidoso

TO THE EDITOR:

(The following letter was sent to all the state senators and representatives in New Mexico.)

Dear fellow citizens: When I was elected to the office of councilor for the village of Ruidoso, I swore an oath to provide for the health, safety and welfare of its citizens. I write to you today to fulfill that oath.

Tourism is our economic lifeline in Ruidoso, as well as one of the leading industries in our state. Any threat to a segment of this industry must be taken seriously. Indeed, we should be looking for ways to increase the number of economic tourism segments rather than trading one for another.

I speak of the conflict between Indian gaming and horse racing. On one hand we have a known industry that represents $138 million, 10,000 jobs and a known positive impact on both the local and state economy. On the other hand, we know that Indian gaming will probably increase with or without the compacts, that it will destroy the horse racing industry as well as hurt the communities that depend on it, and provide a very minimal impact on state revenues (at most $10 million but probably much less versus a $2.5 billion budget).

I believe it is important and right for Native Americans to have gaming on their lands. I also believe it is important and right that we provide legislation that enhances an industry (horse racing) that has been benefiting this state for many years and can continue to do so for many years to come. We can help Native Americans and help ourselves by passing Senate Bill 526. The compact will allow for economic self-determination among the tribes and Bill 526 will provide for enhancement and equal competition in our tourism industry.

In the late 70s and early 80s, the steel industry in Pennsylvania was in steep decline due to foreign competition and there was little that Pennsylvania could do to help that industry. Even today, those areas have never recovered from the loss of the steel industry. We in the state of New Mexico have a different option than standing by, watching an industry disappear. We can help our industry evolve and compete in the business that it is already in: gaming. I urge you to give the horse racing industry the tools to compete evenly and fairly; this, after all, is what a citizen should expect from their government. Please support Senate Bill 526.

Ruidoso Village Councilor

Diversification needed here

TO THE EDITOR:

Just a few comments to share with you. In the last couple of months, I have had to drive from here to California to Florida and South Carolina and back. Before leaving and upon my return, I had to pay $1.239 per gallon for gasoline. Except for Tatum, N.M. where the only station open was charging $1.299 per gallon (and I didn't buy), the highest price I had to pay anywhere from coast to coast was $1.09.0 and the average was well under one dollar — some as low as $.84.9. New Mexico definitely has the highest priced gasoline in the nation that I have seen.

In every state except one — New Mexico — the departments of tourism went all out to welcome visitors, supply them with maps, discount coupons, attraction brochures, etc. at the state's border. Also, compared to most of the other states, New Mexico doesn't even have highway rest stops worthy of the name. So much for the lip service our state government gives to the value of tourism.

I arrived home in time to hear the wailing greeting the news that R.D. Hubbard might close the Ruidoso Downs track unless he got other forms of gambling as well. Does anyone remember just a few short years ago when a few of us Doubting Thomases questioned going into debt for a new, unneeded airport, the virtual giving away of the old airport property, and putting all our eggs in one basket (carried by one individual)? Horse racing is a business like any other business. Why has it enjoyed a government sanctioned monopoly all these years anyway? No other business venture has such a monopoly. I thought monopolies were against federal law. Indian gaming is simply business competition. To my way of thinking, any business that can't stand competition has no right to survive in our land of so-called "equal opportunity."

On the bright side, as a partial offset to the loss of revenues generated by the trackers, our communities will also lose many illegal aliens, dope users and pushers, alcohol-related domestic problems, transient thieves and others that cause a constant drain on resources. Might make the area an even better place to live.

Group seeks to inform public

TO THE EDITOR:

Gaming is the issue. Lincoln County is aflame with passion. That passion is ready to take the form of a Western tradition, a lynch mob. The focus of the anger, insult and injury is Governor (Chief) Johnson.

With the current popularity of the Republican efforts to reform government, fewer restrictions on business and less bureaucracy, our governor seems to have missed the message from the voters of New Mexico. I personally believe and hope that the governor has been ill advised on this compact. In his rush to place New Mexico right, he will need more help from the community and the voters.

As a member of United We Stand, America and with the importance the issue of racetrack gambling has become, I attended a meeting in Santa Fe Feb. 9.

The Select Gaming Committee met to discuss the compact between the tribes and the state. Of the seven senators serving on the committee and scheduled to be in attendance, our Senator Pete Campos was absent.

Call Senator Pete Campos with your feelings regarding the importance for an employee of the Ruidoso voters, namely Peter Campos, to be at work as assigned by the voters of Lincoln County. You may call his office in Santa Fe by dialing 936-4518. Will he be in? Will he be in Santa Fe? Your guess is as good as mine.

The efforts by local members of United We Stand, America are to stay informed as voters and concerned citizens. We want all voters to cast informed ballots. We have established a special book section in the Ruidoso Public Library. You are invited to view the Gaming Compact and Revenue Sharing Agreement in this collection. Please suggest additions to this collection. You are invited to write about issues or place transcripts of issues into a three-ring binder provided for that purpose. As the politicians realize that their actions are being observed, we will then raise the standards of government.

Why let established business die?

TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Senator Pete Campos: Senate Bill 526, which I urge you herein to support, is not about morality, it is not about a revival of the Indian Wars, and it is certainly not about a civil war in the State of New Mexico.

It is about not killing off economic activities that have provided and will continue to provide predictable revenues for the State of New Mexico. In that regard, this letter is a plea for common sense: A bird in the hand, after all, is worth two in a bush.

Who would have dreamed last November that a vote for gaming was a vote to give one tiny and fiercely independent minority a monopoly in the trade? Does the governor not realize that more people voted for state-controlled gaming than voted for him? Does anybody really think that a vote for Amendment 8 was a vote to let all of the economic benefits of gaming accrue to a small minority and not by law to the benefit of all?

It will be a sad day, indeed, for all of New Mexico if you, as legislators, do nothing to offset the unilateral and short-sighted actions of a young and understandably sophomoric governor.

Why in the world would the state want to take any chance of losing a highly predictable and highly visible stream of revenue (horse racing) over which it has full control, in exchange for a tenuous agreement riddled with flaws with a clandestine entity over which it admittedly has no control? It makes no economic sense whatsoever for the state to nourish and to protect an industry whose interests are not tied to those of the state.

Nor does it make social sense to mandate discrimination. Increasingly, all forward-thinking minorities in the country are indignant with the presumption that they are not individuals who can compete on a level playing field.

To be sure, we here in Ruidoso and Lincoln County have a great deal more to lose by your failure to act than do our brethren in other parts of the state, but it behooves you to calculate the loss to good people everywhere in the state if its horse racing industry, with all of its sub-industries, is forced to close down. Who will we find with 10,000 jobs and a $20 million tax contribution to take its place, especially with the much higher tax bills that will be left in its wake?

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST TO RETAIN THE SERVICES OF BUYERS REAL ESTATE SERVICES?
There is no need for you to incur additional cost for our services when Buyers Real Estate Services helps you buy a home. The most common way is exactly the same way other real estate agents are paid. The typical commission paid at closing is usually divided between the listing agent and the buyers agent. The only difference is that our contract says our portion of the commission is paid "on behalf of the buyer" and comes from the proceeds of the transaction.
DOES BUYERS REAL ESTATE SERVICES HAVE ACCESS TO ALL RESOURCES LIKE THE MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE?
Absolutely yes, and more. "We belong to the local Board of Realtors and MLS, so we can show you homes listed with this service. In addition, we also show homes that are "for sale by owner" and "for sale by builder". We can show you any advertised property.

CREATIVE LIVING

Salmon for Dinner, without Reservations!

Fresh salmon has the reputation of being America's most wanted seafood. According to Tamsen Salvador, representative of the British Columbia Farmed Salmon Institute, "You may not be a world-class chef, but you can prepare world-class salmon dishes. All you need is good salmon and a few tips."

Salvador will be a guest on Creative Living on Tuesday, February 21st at 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday, February 23rd at 12:00 noon to talk about selecting and cooking fresh salmon.

Processed immediately upon harvest, B.C. Salmon is packed to order and shipped in less than 24 hours. Atlantic and Pacific species are available whole, or in steaks, fillets, and portions. When you've purchased fresh salmon, rinse the whole and cut portions in ice-cold water before storing or preparing. Refrigerate or freeze salmon in an air-tight container, if not used immediately. At 32 degrees F. the salmon will remain in top condition for two days. Store frozen salmon at 0 degrees F. up to three months. Thaw salmon in refrigerator overnight before cooking and use immediately.

QUICK TESTS FOR FRESHNESS:

- It should smell fresh (mild odor);
- the eyes should be clear;
- the flesh should have minimal scale loss;
- the gills should be clean and bright pink-red;
- the flesh should be firm and elastic.

Steaks are a very handy portion size, while fillets are easy to eat because they contain no bones. For broiling and grilling, steaks and fillets of 3/4 inch or thicker are best and are easy for a quick barbecue.

An average adult portion of salmon is 3 1/2 ounces. When purchasing a whole fish, half a pound per person is a good rule of thumb.

COOKING TIPS:

Extremely versatile, farmed salmon is delicious baked, broiled, grilled, pan fried, poached, sauteed, roasted, or microwaved. To cook salmon properly, Salvador advises measuring fish at its thickest part. For each inch, cook fresh salmon 10 minutes, or just until firm to the touch and opaque in the center. For baking, 350-400 degrees F. is recommended. For broiling or grilling, steaks and fillets should be at least 3/4 inch thick to prevent the fish from drying out.

When barbecuing, place salmon steaks and fillets approximately 4 inches directly over hot fire on an open grill. For fillets, it is best to grill flesh-side first, then turn, and gently lift off the skin when the salmon is done. For a whole salmon, cook in a covered grill, over indirect heat. It is best to wrap salmon in foil to prevent drying out and to keep your grill clean.

TAX SUPPLEMENT

THE FACTS...

THANKS FOR THE HELP.

1995

Higher Tax Rate on Retirement Benefits

People whose income is only from Social Security (SS) or equivalent tier 1 railroad retirement (RR) benefits usually don't have to file a tax return. But people who get income in addition to those benefits may have to pay tax on it if it is over a certain amount.

Beginning in 1994, Social Security and railroad retirement benefits may be subject to a higher 85-percent rate that may increase the amount of those benefits people include in their taxable income. The 50-percent rate will still be used by some to figure their taxable income over the following base amounts. Then the 85-percent rate kicks in.

- $32,000 but not more than $44,000 for married filing jointly (over $44,000 use the new 85-percent rate).
- $25,000 but not more than $34,000 for single, head of household, or qualifying widow(er) with a dependent child (over $34,000 use the new 85-percent rate).
- $25,000 but not more than $34,000 for married filing separately but live apart from their spouse for all of 1994 (over $34,000 use the new 85-percent rate).
- $0 for married filing separately and live with their spouse for any time during 1994 (include in taxable income the lesser of 85 percent of SS or RR benefits received in 1994 or 85 percent of modified adjusted gross income).

People who find that the 85-percent rate increases their SS or RR taxable benefits should take that increase into account when figuring their estimated tax for 1995. Publication 915, Social Security Benefits and Equivalent Railroad Retirement Benefits, has more details, examples and worksheets to help when filling out tax returns. Get a free copy by calling 1-800-829-3676.

Fund the '96 Election

Every year people can choose whether $3 of their federal tax will go to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. They check the box marked "yes" or "no" on their tax return.

Congress set up the checkoff in the early 1970s as a way to help fund presidential elections. Checking the yes box does not increase the amount of tax owed or decrease the amount of refund due back.

The funds help place presidential candidates on an equal financial footing in a campaign. Candidates spend the funds on campaign expenses only. They cannot use the money for personal expenses. Money that a candidate does not use or does not spend on the campaign must be returned to the U.S. Treasury. And whatever is left in the fund is used in the next election four years later.

Tax Credits Available

The tax laws include a number of credits for taxpayers. They range from the earned income and child and dependent care credits, to the mortgage interest and foreign tax credits. Call 1-800-829-3676 to get free Publication 17 for info on the credits available.

Damages Awarded, Not Taxed

If you are awarded damages from a claim of discrimination under the U.S. Civil Rights laws or from a claim under the Americans With Disabilities Act, you do not include it as income when you file your tax return.

Conserve Energy, Save On Taxes

Residential customers who got a subsidy from their public utility for buying or installing an energy conservation measure can exclude it from gross income. This includes measures to reduce electricity or natural gas consumption or improve energy demand management.

Taxes and the Military

Find out what part of your paycheck is taxable and what isn't. Call 1-800-829-3676 and get free Publication 3, Tax Information for Military Personnel.

Taxpayers Have Rights

People may not be aware of their rights when dealing with the Internal Revenue Service. The law says that people must get fair treatment by IRS employees. The law says that people are entitled to privacy and representation. They have the right to appeal an IRS examiner's findings, and can get special help through the Problem Resolution Office if they are unable to resolve their problems through normal channels with the IRS. Know all your rights. Call 1-800-829-3676 and get free Publication 1, Your Rights as a Taxpayer.

Back Up Charitable Contributions

When claiming 1994 itemized deductions, charitable contributions of $250 or more must be backed up by a written acknowledgement from the organization.

"This doesn't mean the total amount in a year that you donate to one charity," the Internal Revenue Service says. "It's $250 or more in a single donation." At the same time, the IRS warns not to try dividing up a contribution by writing two checks to the same charity on the same day. "We'll look at that as one contribution, and you'll need documentation to support it," the IRS says. "And a canceled check is no longer good enough."

People must get written documentation from the charity either by the time they file their tax return or by the due date of their return (including extensions), whichever comes first. The documentation must show the charity's name, the amount of cash or a description of the property donated, and the date. It also must include whether the charity gave a "gift" in exchange for the contribution, a description of it and what its estimated value is.

A contribution over $75 given to a charity that is partly for gifts or services also requires written documentation. The charity must give an estimate of the value of the gifts or services and state that a deduction is allowed only for the amount over that value. For example, people who contribute $85 to go to a charity dinner valued at $25 can deduct $60 as a charitable contribution, as long as they get it in writing.

"You don't need to send the documentation with your tax return," the IRS says. "It's your receipt that you need to keep with your records in case the IRS asks about your donations."

New Payment Method for Some Taxpayers

In a move to speed cash handling, the Internal Revenue Service is phasing in centrally located "lockboxes" to receive and process all tax payments. This means some taxpayers this year will find payment vouchers and special envelopes in their tax packages.

People who owed money and used professional tax preparers last year will receive postcards with vouchers. Those who filed Schedule Cs (business income) and Schedule Fs (farm income) and owed money last year will receive vouchers and either two envelopes or one envelope and two mailing labels.

Other people affected by the new system are those who have a balance due and file with 1040PC, TeleFile, those whose returns are filed electronically, and those who file for extensions of time to file. These taxpayers must send an over-the-counter Form 1040V with their returns to the correct lockbox site. Form 1040V can be obtained at any Taxpayer Service walk-in office or by calling 1-800-829-3676.

People who do not receive vouchers will file their returns with any payments at their IRS service centers as usual.

Death and Taxes

When someone dies, it often means the start of a process that includes collecting all of their assets, paying the creditors, and distributing the remaining assets to the heirs or other beneficiaries. And keeping the old maxim in mind, a tax return for the decedent (the person who died) also must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

All these things can be done by the personal representative of the decedent's estate: an executor, an administrator, or anyone who is in charge of the decedent's property.

Depending on when the person died, the representative may need to file more than one tax return. If the person died between January 1 and April 15, and had not yet filed the previous year's tax return, the representative must file on or before April 15 of that year. Any other prior year returns not filed by the decedent also must be filed at this time.

However, the IRS does not consider this to be the final tax return. The representative may have to file the final return on or before April 15 of the following year to account for any income or liability the decedent had between January 1 and the date of death.

If taxes are owed, the representative must collect the amount from the estate and send a check with the tax return. If a refund is due, the representative must attach to the return a copy of the court certificate showing his or her appointment as representative. This certificate authorizes the IRS to make the refund payment to the decedent's estate. Power of attorney or a copy of the will is not acceptable. Form 1310, "Statement of Person Claiming Refund Due a Deceased Taxpayer," may be required for those who are not court appointed or certified representatives.

Generally, a surviving spouse may file a joint return for the decedent if he or she did not remarry in the year of death. In this case, making a payment or claiming a refund is handled the same way as if the person were still alive.

The surviving spouse or personal representative should promptly give notice of the death to all parties, including financial institutions, who paid income to the decedent. This will ensure the proper reporting of income earned by the estate or heirs.

A person's death can also have an effect on the tax returns of the heirs and the estate. It may be wise to have the representative coordinate the filing of all tax returns to make sure they are done correctly.

Electronic Filing: It's Not Just for Refunds Anymore

Last year 14 million people took advantage of electronic filing. Here's what they learned: Electronic filing produces refunds in three weeks.

But there are other very good reasons for using the Internal Revenue Service's high-tech filing option. With three separate checks for accuracy before processing, electronic filing offers 99.5 percent error-free filing. And in 30 states, one-stop filing for both federal and state tax returns is possible.

And if there are problems with the return as filed, people are notified of them within 48 hours so they can correct them before they become troublesome and expensive. Problems get troublesome because of increased contacts from the IRS. They get expensive with possible penalties and interest.

Also, people who owe tax can file as early as they like and pay what's owed by April 15. By filing electronically, they have the advantage of getting written acknowledgment that their return is accepted for processing. No other way of filing offers this written notice of receipt. The IRS sends reminders to those who "file now, pay later."

Many tax professionals nationwide offer electronic filing. Some even transmit returns people prepare themselves. Electronic filing services and fees vary. Those who are interested can contact tax professionals in their area for specific information.

Who Should Estimate Taxes

Some people who owe tax in 1994 may have to pay estimated tax in 1995.

Employers usually withhold federal income tax from wages. But people who don't have enough tax withheld, or whose income is not subject to withholding, may need to make quarterly payments to the IRS in addition to filing their regular federal income tax return once a year. Income not subject to withholding may include self-employment and investment income, unemployment compensation, interest, rent, gains from the sale of assets, prizes and some gambling winnings.

In general, people should make estimated tax payments for 1995 if the amount of tax they will owe is $500 or more (after subtracting withholding and credits) and:

—Less than 90 percent of their total tax owed for 1995 will be covered by withholding and tax credits, or —less than 100 percent of the amount of their 1994 taxes will be covered by withholding and tax credits.

Figure the tax owed by estimating the adjusted gross income, taxable income, and taxes and credits for the year. Form 1040-ES and its worksheet will help, along with last year's tax return. Then figure the amount that will be covered by withholding and credits. Make quarterly estimated tax payments on the amount not covered by withholding and credits.

Keep in mind that any change in a person's tax situation, like marriage, divorce, birth of a child, or purchase of a home, can make a difference when figuring taxes. If that happens, consider checking whether estimated tax payments or withholding should be changed.

More information about estimated tax is available in free Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax. Call 1-800-829-3676 to order it and Form 1040-ES.

Social Security Number for Dependents

To claim an exemption for a dependent who is at least one year old by the end of your tax year, you must show the dependent's Social Security number on your tax return. Always use a correct Social Security number on all tax forms and schedules. To get one, contact the nearest Social Security Administration Office for Form SS-5, "Application for a Social Security Number Card."

More Money for Some Workers

Some workers could give themselves an added bonus this year. This bonus is called the earned income tax credit (EITC) and it could be worth anything from a few dollars up to $2,528.

"The EITC is a tax benefit," the IRS says. "But a worker does not have to owe tax to get it." In fact, even those people who have never filed a tax return before, and still do not earn enough income to require one now, should look into the EITC. For those who qualify, all it takes is a tax return to get their EITC "refund" in the mail.

People with children who have claimed the credit in the past may find some changes this year. Instead of the credits for health insurance premiums and for a child born during the year, there is a larger EITC credit for workers with children. The credit is still based on income and the number of qualifying children living with them for more than half the year, for the whole year if the child is a foster child.

Also, workers must still have earned income from wages. Their income must be less than $25,296 if they had two or more qualifying children, less than $23,755 with one qualifying child.

Workers should be careful to use the correct Social Security number when filling out tax forms and schedules. "If they don't," the IRS says, "their tax returns, and any refunds due, may be delayed while the return is being corrected."

New for 1994, some people who have never been able to get this credit now qualify. Workers without qualifying children who earned less than $9,000, were at least age 25 and under 65, and were not someone's dependent may now get up to $306.

For more info, call the IRS at 1-800-829-3676 and ask for a free copy of Publication 596, Earned Income Credit.

Refund Pays Debts

Expecting a refund, but haven't paid certain bills? The IRS may apply your refund to pay off all or part of your past-due child and spousal support, delinquent student loans, income tax or other federal debts. If your refund was used to pay back what you owe, the IRS will notify you.

More Ways to File a Tax Return

Keeping up with today's technology, the Internal Revenue Service offers people a choice of ways to file their tax returns.

Over 10 years, acceptance of electronic filing has steadily increased. Now, 14 million people are using it. Preparers and transmission services accepted by the IRS send their clients' tax return data directly from their computers to the IRS. Electronic filing lets people who owe file when they're ready, then send the payment by April 15. Those who get refunds can have them directly deposited into their bank accounts.

People with home computers can prepare their own returns using tax preparation software sold in computer stores. Many software programs come with a 1040PC format that prints out an answer sheet of the return to mail to the IRS. Unlike traditional forms that may have many blank lines, the 1040PC program prints only the lines that have entries.

The result is a three-column list that fits on one or two pages.

TeleFile lets some people with simple tax returns file by phone. They call a toll-free number using a touch-tone phone and enter total wages, interest and tax withheld. IRS computers figure the adjusted gross income, the tax and any refund or tax owed while the person is on the phone. It is still being tested in certain states. Those who are eligible will get a 1040-TEL tax package in the mail.

Whether people choose the traditional way to file or pick one of these alternatives, they should always double check their return. And keep in mind that the correct Social Security number prevents processing delays, and a complete return address and enough postage will help make sure a mailed return gets to the IRS on time.

What Is Income

The Internal Revenue Service says that income is more than just what's in a paycheck. Here's some examples of what to consider when figuring your income tax.

Canceled Debt Is Income

If a financial institution, credit union or government agency cancels or forgives your debt of $600 or more, you will get Form 1099-C showing the amount. This form is also sent to the IRS. The canceled amount is income to you and must be reported on your tax return.

Unemployment Compensation Is Taxable

Unemployment compensation is income. If you receive any, you may have to pay tax on it. You can do this during the year by making estimated tax payments using Form 1040-ES. Or if you work part of the year, you can increase your withholding to cover the tax.

Pay Tax on Winnings and Awards

Awards, contest prizes or drawings, gambling or other cash winnings are taxable income. Cars, boats and other noncash prizes are included as income at their fair market value. For details on what to report and how to report it, call 1-800-829-3676 and get free Publication 525.

Tips Are Income, Too

Tips are wages and must be reported as income on your tax return. This includes the value of noncash tips, like passes, tickets, goods or services. You also must give a written report to your employer each month you get tips of $20 or more. And cash tips are counted along with wages toward Social Security retirement pay. So don't short-change yourself; report all tips now for future Social Security earnings. For details, call 1-800-829-3676 and get free Publication 531.

What's Gross Income

Any income you receive during the year, including self-employment income and unemployment compensation, is part of your gross income unless it is specifically excluded by law. All gross income must be added together to find out if you owe tax and how much. For details, call 1-800-829-3676 to get free Publication 525.

Everyone's Income Is Taxable

Anyone who earns or receives income from sources in the United States needs to determine if they have to file a tax return. This applies to everyone, not just U.S. citizens or residents. To find out if you have to file, and for step-by-step instructions, call 1-800-829-3676 and get free Publication 17. If you aren't a U.S. citizen or resident, ask for free Publication 519.

MSSP and the IRS Audit

The Internal Revenue Service is changing the way they do audits. How? Using MSSP.

MSSP isn't a secret weapon created by the IRS. It's the Market Segment Specialization Program, which means a fairer, more efficient audit process, and better service to taxpayers.

The IRS traditionally grouped tax returns for audit by income and type; for example, Form 1040 with a Schedule C. They trained examiners as generalists, while businesses were continually becoming more specialized.

The new focus is on studying a given market segment in society by having examiners conduct a representative number of audits and then writing guidelines to help other examiners become familiar with that segment before conducting audits. Discussions with industry and business associations are held for input into the guide. A market segment may be an industry like construction or entertainment, a profession like attorneys or real estate agents, or an issue like passive activity losses.

Under MSSP, examiners will become specialists in how an industry operates, and become familiar with accounting and business practices and procedures common within that industry. They will keep current with industry changes through trade publications, trade seminars and sharing information among other specialists. This helps make sure that issues are treated consistently nationwide, and raises taxpayers' confidence in the IRS's ability to fairly and competently carry out the tax law.

The IRS currently has nine MSSP guides. They are working on over-60 MSSP projects nationwide, ranging from art dealers and mobile cart vendors to timber sales and the wine industry.

They are even working on a market segment guide for foreign athletes and entertainers who perform in the United States. This includes tennis players, boxers, golfers, skiers, race car drivers, rock groups, classical artists, models and actors.

As these guides are developed, they are available to the public through the IRS Freedom of Information Reading Room in Washington, DC. Some cost a nominal fee, depending on the number of pages (first 100 pages are free, then 15 cents per page).

MSSP takes a focused look into specific market segments to evaluate their needs and see if they comply with the tax laws. In the end, the IRS may only need to educate a segment about their business tax obligations. If it is determined that the tax laws are unclear or difficult to comply with, the IRS may propose legislative changes to the tax laws. But for those segments where significant numbers choose not to follow the tax laws, the IRS will continue to pursue enforcement action.

Extra Take Home Pay Available with Tax Credit

It's always news when the IRS takes money from people. But, how often do you hear about them adding extra money to paychecks?

It's no tall tale. The IRS and employers nationwide are working together to help families get the earned income tax credit (EITC) throughout the year. Families who will earn under $24,396 in 1995 and have at least one child living with them for more than half the year may qualify to receive extra money in each paycheck.

"It's a simple concept," the IRS says. "Based on the amount of earnings, the employer adds an additional amount of money, which is actually a portion of the EITC, to eligible employees' pay. That means more money to take home now, instead of waiting to get a refund next year when the tax return is filed."

The earned income tax credit is not new. It's been around since 1974. However, in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993, Congress expanded the credit and raised the income level to make more people eligible for it. The income level will be adjusted each year for inflation.

There are two ways to get the credit. The first is by claiming the credit on the income tax return when it's filed. People who have at least one qualifying child must attach Schedule EIC. The second is "in advance," meaning that the person can get part of the credit in each paycheck throughout the year. The IRS calls the second option the advance earned income tax credit, or AEITC.

To get the AEITC, employees must fill out a Form W-5 and give it to their employers' payroll office. The W-5 should be available through employers. If not, the form and Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, which outlines the rules to qualify for the credit, can be ordered free by calling 1-800-829-3676.

People who get the AEITC must file a tax return by the following April 15th to report the amount of credit they received. In addition, if people find they are no longer eligible for the credit because their circumstances changed, they must complete a new W-5 form and give it to their employer to stop the payments.

The self-employed and people without children are not eligible to get the credit in advance, but they may be able to claim it when they file their return.

"We want to encourage every person who is eligible for EITC to apply for the credit. If people need assistance or have tax questions, IRS-trained volunteers are on hand to offer free one-on-one tax help through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program, called VITA," the IRS offered. "The volunteers can help fill out basic tax returns, tell people if they are eligible to get the earned income tax credit or the advance payment of the earned income tax credit, and help them complete the forms."

VITA sites are available in many cities nationwide. To locate one nearby, call the IRS at 1-800-829-1040.

And, One of the Winners Is Uncle Sam

Nonresident aliens in the United States who are gambling winners will find their winnings immediately taxed at a rate of 30 percent.

This tax is collected at the time it is won, hence no U.S. tax return need be filed provided there is no other U.S. income.

Tax treaties in some countries, though, may reduce the amount of U.S. tax that has to be paid on gambling winnings. Persons in those countries would want to file a tax return to receive a refund of their withheld tax.

Information about specific tax treaties appears in IRS Publication 901, U.S. Tax Treaties. It is available, free of charge, by writing to the IRS Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 25866, Richmond, VA 23289, USA.

Tax Information for Uniformed Taxpayers

Two publications containing federal tax information are available from the Internal Revenue Service for military personnel.

Publication 3, Tax Information for Military Personnel, covers general tax information for military personnel. It includes the types of income included in gross income for tax purposes, such as bonuses for reenlistment and hazardous duty pay.

It also notes those types of income not included in gross income, such as moving and travel expenses.

Publication 945 covers the tax benefits available to those still involved in Operation Desert Storm.

Both publications are available by writing to the IRS Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 25866, Richmond, VA 23289, USA.

Free Tax Services From the IRS

The Internal Revenue Service provides free services to people year round, not just at tax time. They include toll-free telephone service, tax publications, educational programs and audiovisual instructional materials for loan to individuals and groups. Here are a few more examples.

Special IRS Office Helps Resolve Problems

People who have not been able to resolve a problem with the IRS can get help. The Problem Resolution Office (PRO) can cut through red tape to help resolve problems that haven't been settled through normal channels. Call 1-800-829-1040 and ask for the PRO.

VITA + TCE = Tax Help

Someone may be waiting in your community to help you prepare your basic tax return. Each year, the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) and Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) programs bring IRS-trained volunteers to neighborhood locations. Call the IRS at 1-800-829-1040 to find out how, when and where.

Tax Info for the Hearing and Visually-Impaired

Deaf and hearing-impaired people with access to TDD (telecommunication device for the deaf) equipment can call 1-800-829-4059 for toll-free tax assistance. Also, some braille tax forms and publications are available at Regional Libraries for the Visually Impaired.

Spanish Tax Info Available

Call 1-800-829-3676 and get free English-language Publication 910 for a list of topics and telephone numbers for tax information in Spanish.

Guide to Free Tax Services

The IRS has a publication filled with tax information and free services for people at tax time and year round. It lists free tax publications (some are in Spanish), gives tips on filing returns and tells about IRS programs and processes people may want to know more about. It's free, too. Call 1-800-829-3676 and ask for Publication 910.

Bon Social Security Number Needed for Bon Voyage

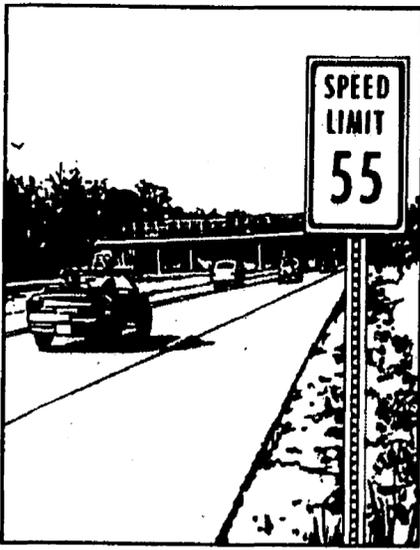

Travelers are required to provide the U.S. State Department with their Social Security number and related identification information as a part of their passport application process.

This information can be used by the Internal Revenue Service to check the status of the taxpayer's tax records.

Double-Check Social Security Numbers

Whenever submitting a tax return or corresponding with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), taxpayers are asked to always include their Social Security number. It is the primary identification that IRS uses to match taxpayers with their tax records. Accordingly, IRS also asks that taxpayers double-check their Social Security number on their tax materials to be sure it is correct.

Tax Changes in 1994

People should be aware of some of the tax law changes for 1994 that could make a difference on the bottom line of their tax return.

The standard mileage rate for the cost of using one's car for business miles is up a penny to 29 cents per mile. And for business travel away from home, people can't deduct the travel expenses paid for someone accompanying them, such as a spouse, unless that person is an employee, has a specific business purpose for the travel, and would otherwise be allowed to deduct the travel expenses.

For those who work and have qualifying children, the earned income tax credit amount will increase. The amount a person can earn and still be eligible for the credit will increase, too. No longer available will be the health insurance credit and the extra credit for a child born during the year.

The earned income tax credit expands to include people who work but don't have any qualifying children. They can file for the credit using Form 1040EZ. However, people with qualifying children must use either Form 1040 or 1040A.

Also in 1994, Social Security and equivalent tier 1 railroad retirement benefits may be taxed at a higher rate. Some people may continue to include up to 50 percent of their benefits in taxable income, while others may have to include up to 85 percent. Whether the new 85-percent rate applies depends on a person's income.

Beginning in 1994, people who make a charitable contribution of $250 or more must get written documentation from the charity before they can deduct it. Also, any charity that gets a payment over $75 that is partly a contribution and partly for goods or services must give the donor a written statement, giving the value of the goods or services and stating that only the amount over that value is tax deductible.

Some work-related moving expenses are no longer deductible. They include meals while moving from the old to new home; travel expenses, meals and lodging for pre-move househunting trips; meals and lodging while staying in temporary quarters near the new job; and qualified home sale, purchase and lease expenses.

Also, to deduct allowable moving expenses, the new main job location must be at least 50 miles farther from the former home than the old main job location. This changed from 35 miles.

Moving expenses will no longer be an itemized deduction. People will be able to deduct these expenses in figuring their adjusted gross income. And they can only deduct the expenses that are not reimbursed by their employer. Employer reimbursements are not included in income.

Starting in 1994, people can deduct only 50 percent of the cost of business meals and entertainment expenses. And there is no longer a deduction for dues and fees for membership in clubs; although people can still deduct specific business expenses, such as meals, that are spent at a club if the expenses meet certain requirements.

Luxury taxes on aircraft, boats, furs and jewelry were repealed. However, for 1994, the luxury tax does apply to passenger vehicles with a sales price over $32,000. The tax does not apply to parts and accessories installed to help a person with a disability operate, enter or exit the vehicle.

For more information on tax changes, call 1-800-829-3676 and get free Publication 553, Highlights of 1994 Tax Changes.

Tax Breaks for Seniors

Age 55? 60? 65? Senior citizens can take advantage of many special tax benefits. Different ones kick in at different age milestones.

Some benefits are for seniors age 65 or older. The Internal Revenue Service considers persons age 65 on the day before their 65th birthday. So those who turn 65 on January 1, 1995, are considered to be age 65 on the last day of 1994.

For 1994, single seniors age 65 or older don't have to file a federal income tax return if their income is less than $7,200. The limit for a married couple filing a joint return is $12,000 if only one spouse is a senior, and $12,750 if both spouses are seniors.

Those age 65 or older who don't itemize deductions can take advantage of a higher standard deduction than that offered to other people. And those who are blind get an added amount on top of that.

Seniors or people with disabilities may qualify for the credit for the elderly or the disabled. This tax credit, based on age, income and filing status, can reduce the taxes they owe. It's usually not available if the person's 1994 income level requires the reporting of any part of Social Security benefits as taxable income. People under age 65 are eligible for this credit if they retire with total and permanent disability and have income from a public or private employer because of that disability.

Only seniors age 55 or older get a once-in-a-lifetime tax break. Those who are selling their personal residence may qualify for the exclusion of up to $125,000 of gain on the home sale. Certain use and ownership restrictions also apply to this one-time exclusion from gross income. There are special rules for persons with disabilities and for widows or widowers.

Persons age 60 or older needing assistance with their tax returns can count on Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE). Through this program, volunteers from many organizations provide free tax information and guidance. Local IRS offices have information on TCE locations.

You may get special tax benefits if you have a hearing or visual impairment, are permanently and totally disabled or have disabled dependent care expenses. Also, you may be able

Turn Losses Into Gains

People who lose personal or business property due to storms, fires, thefts, disasters or certain other events may be able to recoup some of their losses through federal income tax breaks.

This type of loss is called a casualty. For tax purposes, a casualty is the damage, destruction or loss of property due to an identifiable event that is sudden, unexpected or unusual in nature. The Internal Revenue Service says, "At least a portion of the casualty losses to property such as a house or car may qualify as an itemized tax deduction."

To figure the loss in most cases, the taxpayer should make a list of the property lost or damaged, then value the property both before and after the casualty. The difference between the two values is usually the loss amount. For nonbusiness losses, this amount is reduced by any insurance or other reimbursement, then by $100, and finally by 10 percent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income.

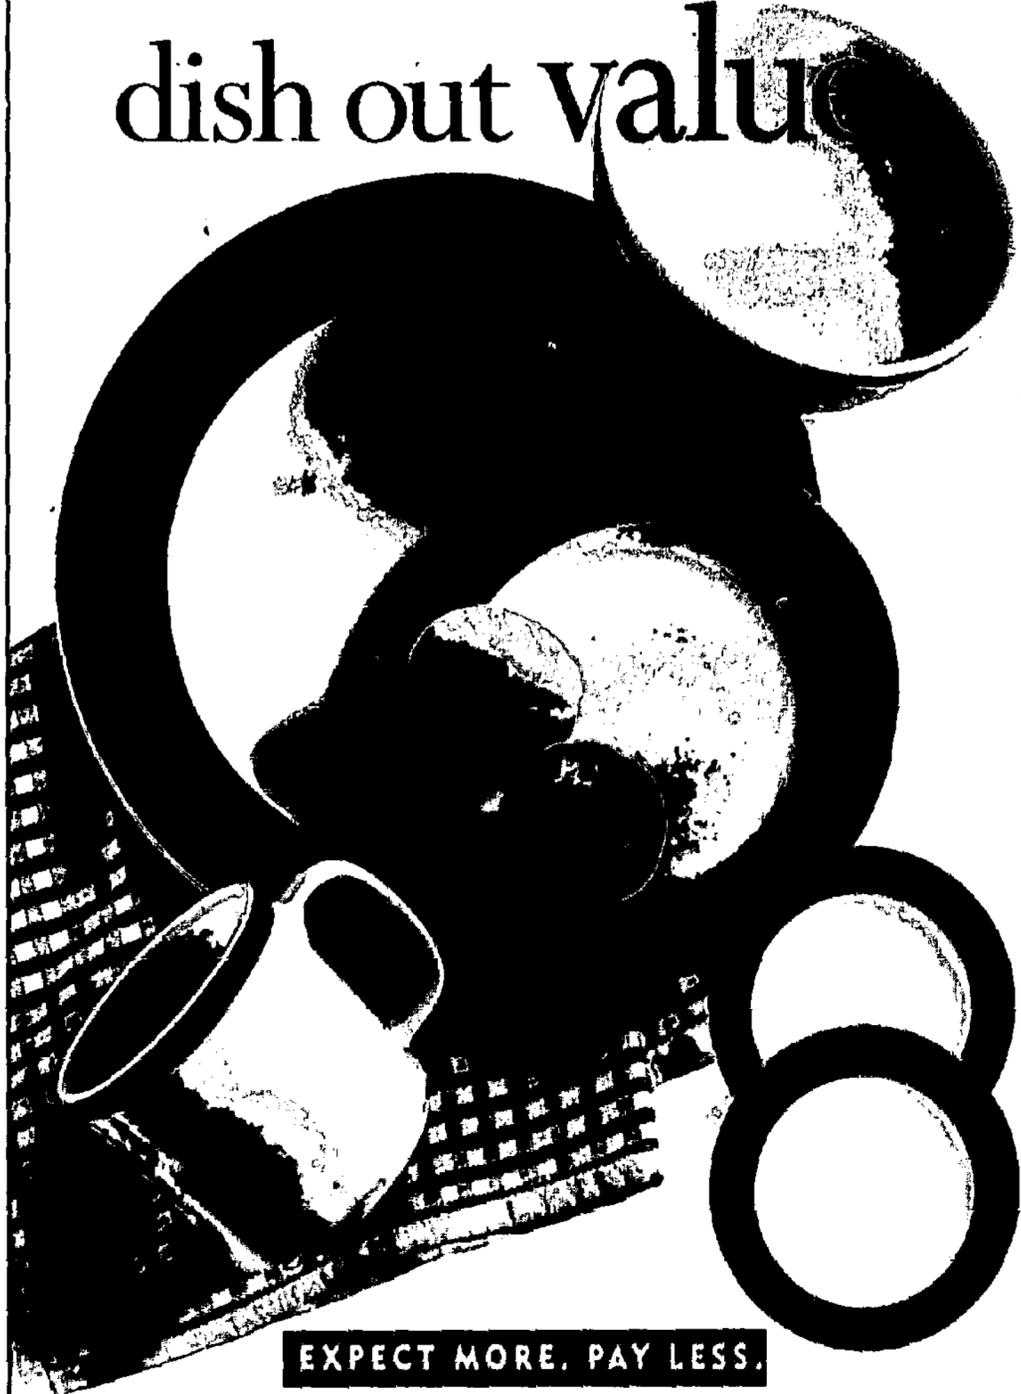

If a loss occurs in a presidentially declared disaster area, taxpayers have a choice of when to deduct the loss. Generally, they can amend last year's return to get a refund right away. Or they can wait until they file their return for the year the loss occurred.

New rules apply to insurance payments for property lost in disaster area declared after August 31, 1991. This means some taxpayers may be able to file amended returns to get refunds.

"Disaster victims may now keep any insurance money they get for personal property in a principal residence that was not covered property for insurance purposes," the IRS says. "And they now have four years, not two, from the end of the tax year that they get the money to replace or repair the property."

More info on casualty and disaster losses is in Publication 547, Nonbusiness Disasters, Casualties and Thefts, and Publication 334, Tax Guide for Small Business. Both are free. Call 1-800-829-3676.
