ON THE SIDE

Police cars bashed during D.A.R.E. gathering

Approximately 150 police officers from communities across the state descended on Ruidoso this week to attend a Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) conference at the Civic Events Center.

While in town Monday night, two patrol vehicles suffered smashed windows and dented doors at the hands of vandals. The vans belonged to officers in Farmington and Santa Fe. They were parked on North Street, police said.

A third patrol car, owned by the Ruidoso Police Department, also suffered a busted window while parked on Old Lincoln Road, police said.

Horse vet banned from New Mexico

The New Mexico Racing Commission Tuesday banned Harold Mitchell from racing his horses in New Mexico or practicing veterinary medicine here.

Mitchell is the veterinarian who treated Doo Dominate, a quarter horse that broke its legs in the All American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs Race Track in September. The horse was euthanized after the race.

"He is not allowed at this point to hold an owner's license in New Mexico, ever," said racing commission investigator Wayne Conwell. He said Mitchell would not be eligible for any other racetrack licenses, either.

Mitchell, a resident of Bristow, Okla., was charged with practicing vet medicine in New Mexico without a license and injecting illegal drugs in Doo Dominate.

"I'm glad they took severe action against him," Ruidoso Downs Race Track general manager Scott Wells said of the decision. "And I hope this is an example of how they're going to deal with cases like this in the future."

Doo Dominate's owner, Osvaldo Rodriguez, and trainer, Antonio Hernandez, also face charges. State officials allege the men ran the horse when they knew it had a broken leg, thereby endangering the life of jockey Billy Peterson and the horse. They are also charged with duping the betting public and using Medivacaine, a numbing drug, illegally before the race.

After repeated delays, the hearing for Rodriguez and Hernandez has been rescheduled to Aug. 22.

Ft. Stanton may be nabbed for prison

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

State officials are scheduled to decide today whether Fort Stanton should be used temporarily as a minimum security prison.

State Corrections Secretary Karl Sannicks wants to use Fort Stanton as a temporary minimum security prison, corrections public affairs officer Lee Thompson confirmed yesterday. Sannicks even has plans to spend $1 million to restore the historic fort buildings with inmate labor, Thompson said.

The corrections department is proposing to alleviate crowding in existing state prisons by housing 300 inmates at Fort Stanton by 1997, creating 53 jobs, Thompson said.

The proposal to convert the former state hospital into a prison caught Lincoln County officials by surprise. They've been working with the state general services department (GSD) on a request for proposals to send to private companies interested in using the historic fort. They've been paying former state representative H. John Underwood, now a lobbyist, to represent their interests.

County officials knew Sannicks was coming to Lincoln County to look at the fort, even though department officials earlier in the year had said they were not interested in the facility. But they didn't know about Sannicks' proposal until this week.

Sannicks wants to spend nearly $2.2 million to operate the fort instead of the $2.6 million it would cost to house prisoners out of state.

As many as one-third of the employees would transfer in from other areas, County Commissioner Wilton Howell said he has been told. The county commission had hoped to find a tenant that would replace more of the 200 jobs lost when the state hospital closed at the fort in March, he said.

about two miles from the fort, at Camp Sierra Blanca.

Howell said he heard about the plans this week from a camp inmate who was on work release.

"It's a little pathetic when an inmate tells you what's going on rather than your elected officials," Howell said. "I'm hot about it. If other commissioners agree, we won't stop short of an injunction to stop it."

"We don't need prisons in a tourist community."

When he closed the state hospital eight miles east of Capitan in March, Gov. Gary Johnson said he preferred a private entity take over the fort, which is costly to operate.

"He keeps saying that government should be returned to local control," said County Commission Chairman Monroy Montes. "We're local and why weren't we part of Anti-nuclear protesters waved placards and chanted slogans Wednesday during a demonstration at the Carrizo Canyon entrance to the Mescalero Apache reservation. Inside the Inn of the Mountain Gods convention center, contractors were being briefed on a planned temporary nuclear waste storage plant to be built on the reservation. Tribal police and Bureau of Indian Affairs officers stopped vehicles as they entered the reservation to ensure no protesters could disrupt the conference.

Chino's resignation rumored; protestors draw police to inn

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Mescalero Apache Tribal President Wendell Chino talked about resigning during a recent tribal council meeting, but no official notification has been received, a tribal councilor said Wednesday.

"I have no word on it. I haven't received a letter about it and the rumors are going wild," said Silas Cochise, a tribal councilor and director of the Mescalero nuclear waste storage project, said Wednesday. The meeting apparently took place

Tuesday.

"(Chino) has not resigned, he is on annual leave and annual leave doesn't mean he will be gone a year," Rita Chino, the president's wife, said today.

Chino told the Associated Press he will be on leave through June 30, a break he traditionally takes before tribal ceremonies. He said he has no plans to step down, and attributed the resignation rumors to opponents of the tribe's nuclear waste storage project.

Tribal vice president Fred Peso said today he will assume the duties of president while Chino is gone. But he insisted he is not the new president of the tribe.

"No, at this point there are so many things going on, I cannot say I am," Peso said.

Chino did not attend yesterday's meeting with potential nuclear waste storage contractors on the reservation. Several reports about Tuesday's council meeting indicated Chino had a heated disagreement with the tribal council about

Ranchers wonder about cause of fish, sheep deaths

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Carl Draper saw buzzards hovering near the riverbank before he left for Ruidoso Downs Race Track Tuesday, but he didn't stop to check what they were circling.

"If I had seen all the fish then, I would have kept my mares away from the river," he said Wednesday. "If there was something in the water and my prize mare (Swoons Goodie) loses her foal, I've lost at least $10,000. That's like losing a cotton crop."

When he returned home from the track that day, his neighbor's daughter called to tell him she had found dead fish on her parents' ranch east of Draper's pasture, about seven miles east of Ruidoso.

"I went down to the river and counted 23 dead fish in a short span," Draper said.

His neighbor Roland Haas also was alarmed about the fish kill. He has lost six lambs in the last few weeks and now wonders if their deaths may be connected to something in the water.

Draper said he's afraid to irrigate his pasture, because the water may be contaminated.

Whatever may have contaminated the water, it probably has been flushed downstream by now, an official with the state Environment Department said.

"It probably is a good idea to hold the livestock out of it for a while, but with a flowing stream, the contaminant will be flushed away," said Scott Hopkins, who works in the surveillance and standards section of the surface water quality bureau in the Environment Department (ED).

"If it keeps happening, we'll definitely send a team down there, but right now, there's very little point sending them out to sample, because whatever it was is gone," Hopkins said.

System looks healthy

After receiving a report on the kill, Miles McInnis, fisheries biologist with the Game and Fish Division for the southeast region of the state, walked the river and examined the system.

"I was there (Tuesday) and walked the two ranches and (Seeping Springs) trout farm," he said. "I found about 20 dead trout. I looked for anything I might find to be a cause. I turned over rocks and there was plenty of aquatic insects to feed on. Whatever killed the fish didn't affect that, and that's a good biological indicator."

Whatever killed the trout may have washed into the river when the first significant rains hit the area over the weekend, McInnis said.

Oil and other spills that collect on the highway through the dry season can be washed into a stream with the first strong rain, according to environment department officials. That could account for the fish Draper and Haas saw on top of the water Monday and again Wednesday, they said.

"It didn't hurt the trout at the farm (west of the two ranches)," McInnis said. "It was very localized and selective. Whatever washed in also washed out."

Another possibility is that the fish died from lack of oxygen, McInnis said.

That's the condition he found at Alto Lake, where several hundred of the fish stocked Tuesday died by Wednesday morning.

"When I arrived at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, the water temperature already was close to 70 degrees and the oxygen (content was low)," McInnis said.

"The fish already were stressed and when water conditions are less than ideal, they can die. That can be corrected when it rains more. The lake also is six to eight feet down. When it's full, the water is a whole lot cooler and more conducive to trout," McInnis concluded.

He checked the trout farm and two ranches for signs of petroleum products that might have leaked. He found a small spot on the Haas ranch that looked

Ruidoso Chamber readies for convention business

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce employees are sending out an elaborate message when answering the phone these days.

"Ruidoso Chamber, Convention and Visitor's Bureau," they announce in greeting.

"It's a mouthful," Chamber Director Joan Bailey said. "But it's a good mouthful."

The new title was adopted last week after the chamber signed a contract with the village to also be the Convention and Visitor's Bureau (CVB).

"Although the contract doesn't become effective until July 1, we're taking the benefit of time to practice saying it," Bailey explained. "We should have it down pat by then."

The three-year contract authorizes the chamber to provide a consolidated and comprehensive marketing and convention sales program through its Sudderth Drive office. The goal is to increase the number of tourists and conventions in Ruidoso.

"We could get a 12-month-long economy here..."

JOAN BAILEY
DIRECTOR, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The chamber has already been serving as a visitors center, and it has two contracts with the village to advertise and market Ruidoso.

The chamber will continue to market the village as a four-season resort and convention center using an advertising budget of $300,000 from lodging tax funds. With the CVB contract, the chamber receives another $125,000 to pay for personnel, advertising and a toll-free 800 number.

CVBs new phenomenon

Convention and visitor bureaus are a "fairly new phenomenon" and they are taking on greater importance in local economies, said Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Director Joan Bailey.

"A lot of it has to do with conventions getting to be a very important business," she said. "The convention dollars bring a great deal to communities."

The CVB in Albuquerque brought $45 million to the Albuquerque area last year, Bailey said.

The first CVB was established in Fort Worth, Texas (Bailey's native city) in the 1940s, she said, when the state of Texas was preparing plans for a statewide centennial celebration.

"Slowly and surely, others took off," Bailey recalled.

With Ruidoso's addition, New Mexico now has six CVBs. The others are located in Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Farmington, Las Cruces and Gallup, and Roswell. It is in the process of creating one.

"It is very exciting," said Bailey, who has served as chamber director since 1991. "It's been a long process which deserved to have the time and attention paid to it that it received."

The chamber's response to the village's request for proposals involved inquiries to 12 other CVBs from Seattle, Wash. to Hilton Head, S.C.," Bailey said.

Ruidoso, which has always sought out tourist dollars for sustenance, started looking for new tourist markets beyond west Texas in the 1980s, Bailey said. This was after the Texas oil bust in the late 1970s and early 1980s forced several business owners to shut their doors and leave town seemingly overnight. A couple of banks in the village also failed.

Following that dollar drought, the chamber was contracted by the village to promote Ruidoso and get the word out that it's a swell place to visit.

Today a good three-quarters of the village's tourist market still comes from Texas, Bailey said.

The chamber's mission, historically, is to promote and develop business in the community, Bailey said.

"But the reality is, the economic development of this community is based on tourism — it's one and the same," she said.

The CVB will seek bookings for everything from major business conventions to family reunions at the Ruidoso Civic Events Center. At the same time, it will inform local lodging facilities about potential convention business.

It will also try to attract tour bus groups to the county, and promote the area more aggressively at travel trade shows.

"We could get a 12-month-long economy here — create a situation that will get us out of the scary part of being a business owner in Lincoln County, which has historically been a winter/summer resort," Bailey said.

The CVB contract is renewable at the end of each year after performance reviews, and the chamber must issue quarterly reports on CVB activities to both the Lodgers Tax Committee and the village council.

The chamber will soon come before the council to renew its land use lease, Bailey said, and the chamber is currently raising funds to double the size of its facility. Plans call for separate divisions inside the building for chamber and CVB activities, plus offices for businesses that would complement CVB services.

quest for proposals.

"More than once they said the correction department didn't want it," Montes said. "We kept saying they needed it, but not for adult offenders, more in the juvenile area. And I just read they're short of space at the juvenile diagnostic center in Albuquerque."

"I'm terribly disappointed no one knows what's going on. It's a shame we have to hear about this from a newspaper."

his proposed removal of a top Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) official from the reservation.

Cochise said he was at the council meeting in question, but declined to talk about what brought about Chino's comments.

Chino "did say (something about resigning) during the time," Cochise said. "But it was never official."

Cochise said he also had heard about a petition being circulated urging Chino to stay on as tribal president, "but there's no resignation, not to my knowledge anyway."

Chino has been tribal president since 1965.

Anti-nuke group shows

Rumors of Chino's action created tension on the reservation Wednesday, but nuclear waste protesters also created some tension.

The protesters gathered outside the Inn of the Mountain Gods early Wednesday afternoon. Inside, a meeting for potential nuclear waste site contractors was being held. Security employees stood on guard as about a dozen protesters marched along the reservation boundary on Carrizo Canyon Road.

At one point, four reservation law enforcement units (Bureau of Indian Affairs and police) and more officers were assembled on the Apache side of a cattle guard at the entrance. They screened occupants of all vehicles before they passed into the reservation.

On the Ruidoso side of the cattle guard, two state police officers and a Ruidoso police officer watched to ensure the anti-nuclear demonstration stayed off the road and under control.

The demonstrators waved placards with anti-nuclear slogans, such as "Merry Xmas and Happy Nuke Year." They chanted their opposition to the storage site and yelled at BIA officers to think about their children.

Inside the convention center of the inn, contractors and companies interested in working on the proposed Mescalero temporary nuclear waste storage site listened to a briefing on the project. Each paid $650 to attend the session.

Security was heavy in vehicles and on foot surrounding the inn, as officials checked for protesters who might try to interrupt the session. The Ruidoso News was asked to leave the convention center by storage project spokesperson Jennifer Byers, who said the press was barred from the session.

The proposed storage site at the far northeastern edge of the reservation could become the largest central storage area for power plant nuclear waste in the nation.

As many as 23 of the originally 33 interested power plant companies may have signed on to join Northern States Power as partners in the storage project.

Northern States officials said they would announce today the final number of companies that would join in the project.

like something was seeping out from the bank, but that area is downstream from the Draper place.

"What I'm suspecting there is, when they built the bridge some heavy machinery spilled diesel and there was enough rain to wash it in," McInnis said. "It's something for Haas to look at, but generally, it's a healthy (river) system."

"Still, it wouldn't hurt for the ED to run a sample."

Dean Bisson, owner of the Seeping Springs Trout Lakes and Campground, said no trout have died at that business. Bisson noted they don't use any poisons. The campground is situated between the two ranches and a sewage treatment plant further upstream to the west.

The plant is owned by the two villages of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs and hasn't experienced any unusual problems, according to a plant spokesman.

Ranchers still nervous

Roland Haas started with 40 lambs this season and now he's down to 26.

Six died within two days while he was in Montana. Since scavengers had already eaten much of the bodies, autopsies couldn't be performed. His best guess about the cause was a poison of some kind, possibly from the early growth of a cockle burr.

"I have them on my property and assumed that might be it," Haas said. "But when I started seeing all these fish die and a film floating on the river, naturally a red flag went up."

"I have lost four or five lambs within the last couple of weeks. One here, one there and nothing in almost one week."

When he called the local field office of the ED, he heard a similar explanation about the water being low and the temperature high, resulting in low oxygen.

"They told me that seeing 15-20 fish dead in a 100-yard span was not real abnormal," Haas said.

"With that (explanation) in mind, I don't want to blow things out of proportion. I would still like to get a water sample, but I can't find anybody who will take it."

Terms of contract

The 19-page Ruidoso Convention and Visitors Bureau contract was released to the public this week. Terms include requirements to:

- host hospitality workshops to educate the business community about necessary services and area attractions;

- provide management and staff for tourism and convention planning and sales;

- submit an advertising plan to the local Lodgers Tax Committee (LTC) by March 1 of each year for recommendation to the village council;

- submit quarterly reports of CVB activities to the LTC and the Village Council;

- maintain a solid, working rapport with hotel management, merchants, attraction operators and restaurants, and provide these businesses with leads for future meetings or convention business;

- monitor lodging availability and help with bookings to ensure high occupancy for local lodgers;

- advise and furnish materials for organizations who are bidding for conventions and meetings;

- perform as a local ticket agent for events, plays, etc.; package special promotions and tour packages; and prepare a calendar of events;

- maintain files on convention leads to be updated monthly;

- work with the village on space bookings and fees;

- develop tour operator wholesale database. Attend tour operator shows and bring local sales material.

"I'm against it. The people in my district are against it," Howell said of the plan for another prison in the county. "The governor would be taking an asset and replacing it with a liability."

"We've spent money on a lobbyist and the state has spent money getting a request for proposals ready. Then they come along with this proposal with no consideration for the people in Lincoln County and it will not be tolerated."

Montes said state officials aren't serving the public very well by changing course at this point, after allowing the county to spend $30,000 and nearly six months of work on the project to find a new tenant. The state has also invested time and money, preparing a re-

The Meter Maids perform "eclectic boogie" here Saturday.

Meter Maids perform at museum Saturday

The Meter Maids perform at the Museum of the Horse at 7 p.m. Saturday. Billed as purveyors of "eclectic boogie," The Meter Maids is a lively all-women's trio of musicians.

Together they create a unique blend of Reggae, Latin, Hip Hop, Blues and funk.

The female core of the Meter Maids is Cathryn McGill on lead vocals, Mary Wommack on keyboards and vocals, and Janet Hermann on bass and vocals. Hermann is also responsible for much of the group's songwriting.

For Saturday's performance at the Museum of the Horse, the group will be accompanied by Cesar Bauvallet on percussion and trombone, and by Tomas White on drums and percussion.

The Meter Maids prides itself on its diversity. A review in the Albuquerque Journal says, "The Meter Maids are as hard to label as any group in the state, if not the country. The wit displayed by their core musicians is akin to that found in their music. Songs such as 'Lament of the Consumer,' a jazzy, rollicking tune, includes references to the 'Blue Light Special' as part of its shopping addiction imagery."

Band member Mary Wommack puts it this way: "We're trying to broaden people's perspectives. Our goal is to put forth the best music possible, and I think people realize that."

Admission for the evening is free for museum members. Tickets for nonmembers are $6 per adult and $3 for seniors and children. For more information, call the museum at 378-4142.

Rental center approved despite concerns

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Despite neighbors' concerns of a possibly unsightly and noisy business, plans for a Sudderth Drive rental center were approved by Ruidoso's Planning and Zoning Commission Meeting Monday.

The building site at 634 Sudderth Drive, which applicant Ray Eidson has leveled to an even grade with fill, sits across the street from the Sitzer Motel. Plans call for a 6,006 square-foot metal building to be erected as a rental store on the approximately 3/4-acre lot.

With their unanimous approval of the site plan, commissioners also eliminated a planning staff recommendation that heavy equipment not be rented at the site.

Eidson argued that without a specific P&Z definition of what heavy equipment is, the proposed business shouldn't be limited by the word.

"You need to clarify what heavy equipment is," he told the commissioners.

Eidson, who also owns the Funtrackers amusement park in Ruidoso, plans to rent home improvement items, including lawn mowers, chain saws, brush chippers, log splitters and concrete mixers.

Eidson also plans to rent back hoses, small fork lifts and small bulldozers.

"At what point do tools turn into machinery? There is a difference between tool rental and earth moving equipment," Joe Malloy, a neighbor to the west of the property, asked the commissioners.

Commissioners agreed there was no written planning definition for heavy equipment, and concluded they would not place limits on the weight of tools Eidson rents. They added that the lot's small size automatically restricts the size of machinery to be rented.

"Large equipment couldn't be trailered into the driveway," Commissioner Scott Ingram said. "I fail to see the need to stipulate what he can or can't rent."

Sitzer Motel owner Neil Freed told the commission, "My primary concern is whether it (the metal building) will be appealing, and that we do not start turning Sudderth into an industrial park."

Commissioners reasoned that they do not have any architectural authority, and concluded that what is unsightly to one person may be attractive to another.

"A lot of people think power lines are unsightly, but I think they look good," chuckled Commissioner Leroy Nowell. "There's nothing I like better than well-constructed power lines."

Eidson said some of the equipment would be displayed out front during the day, but it will be kept either inside or behind the building when the business is closed.

Freed also told the commission that his motel guests pay to stay in their rooms until 11 a.m., so revving of engines from backhoes and other heavy machinery could disturb his sleeping patrons.

Commissioner Ingram countered that a delivery truck that is parked in front of a business, blocking traffic and unloading merchandise at a store, could be a greater nuisance than a rental machine starting up and leaving the site.

Ingram also said Sudderth Drive is extremely busy Thursday through Sunday, so noise from the highway would likely be greater than noise the rental center machinery would generate.

"A dump truck rumbling down the street might bother anyone, where one lawn mower can cause a whole neighborhood to go deaf," cracked commission Chairman Mike Radziewicz.

Also at the meeting, commissioners:

— told planning staff to contact Phil Davis, an agent of the Casa Blanca Restaurant, and ask him to file a site development plan for a parking lot as soon as possible. Apparently neighbors on Embury Drive continue to have trouble accessing their street because restaurant patrons park along the road.

— approved construction of a house on 104 Joe Street. The lot, which pre-date zoning ordinances, is 2,500 square feet smaller than a current zoning ordinance requirement of 10,000 square feet. The homesite will still meet all current building setbacks.

— approved a request to place a six-foot chain link fence along Highway 70 on Gavilan Canyon Road.

THE SILVER LINING

The Drought Breaks on the 30th Anniversary of the 1965 Flood

On the 16th I saw a cloud over the hill and heard distant thunder.

There in the wee hours of June 17, about 3 a.m., I was awakened by the gentle pitter-patter of light rain on the roof. By daylight it was still raining, and at sunrise it was a different world.

About a quarter of an inch fell here in the vale, and the children of Mother Earth were rejoicing. This was the 30th anniversary of the 1965 flood.

Just at high noon on June 17, 1965, I was standing on the new crossing that the highway construction company had made for me with large culverts.

I was watching the river running through, happy that now my years of driving through the stream were over. It was hot and sultry after a long drought and the river was just barely running through the moss.

I was lucky to have any water at all in the stream because down below, the river was dry in many places.

In the midst of my great pride in the new crossing I happened to look up the valley. A tall, pure white cloud extended up over the mountain like a white column. Something told me that this was the sign of a cloudburst, because all the other signs of a heavy rain were in place.

I jumped in my Chevy Corvair and drove up the highway. Just before I left I shouted to some fellows down in the creek with a bulldozer shaping up the bank.

I told them to get out of there, that a flood was coming down. They laughed at me.

I drove up through the narrows and there where the valley narrows out about a mile above Fox Cave, I saw the flood already coming down, carrying trees, trailer houses and other small buildings. I turned around in the middle of the highway and drove back to the construction camp. It was right down on the creek. I shouted to the men to get out of there and not try to save anything.

I then went down and stood on the highway and again shouted to the bulldozer men to get out of the creek.

At this point a state policeman stopped, thinking I was a foreman. He said, "Get your men out of there, your camp has already washed away."

I stood on the crossing and watched the flood come crashing down and then went for the high ground.

The men at the highway camp got out just in time. They included the bookkeeper, a man with one leg. I found his chair later after the flood, up in the branches of a tree.

Devil's Canyon Creek also came down. In the first time in anyone's memory, it was washing away Shorty Ellis' Store and Filling Station, and filling St. Anne's Chapel with quicksand up to the top of the windows.

I stood on the highway watching my crossing wash away, thankful that I happened to see the cloudburst and get word to the men at the highway camp in time. For a while I was stunned to think how suddenly the floods had come down and how little time there was to give a warning.

I said earlier that "something told me." It was the good Lord who told me and as I stood on the bank watching the flood roar by, I sent up a prayer of thanks to our Lord.

Our Old Friend the East Wind

When the east wind began moving into the mountain land, we knew that rain was on the way.

Today on the 19th about 11 a.m., the east wind began picking up the pace. Soon long streamers of clouds began moving in over Storm Mountain, against the wind as they often do. At high noon the large drops came pattering down with pure rain-flavored air — the breath of life to Mother Earth.

Summer is Here

This is being sent to you on June 19th, traditional day for celebrating good will among all people.

By the time this message reaches you; we will be over into "glorious summer."

We remember a quotation from Shakespeare:

"Now is the winter of our discontent turned glorious summer..."

So now we have a running start into a truly wonderful summer, by these rains of June.

While we thank the Lord for the blessing of the rain, let us pray for all those who need help of any kind, and that we may be shown the way to bring this help.

CRIMESTOPPERS

"CRIME OF THE WEEK"

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information that leads to the arrest and Grand Jury indictment or Magistrate Court Bindover of the person or persons who committed this crime or any other unsolved felony crime in Lincoln County. Let's work together to call a stop to crime.

Phone 257-4545

The New Mexico State Legislature has passed an amendment to the penalties for persons who commit the crime of graffiti, effective July 1st, 1995. This new law states that whoever commits the crime of graffiti to real or personal property when the damage is greater than one thousand dollars is guilty of a fourth degree felony and shall be required to perform one hundred-sixty hours of community service within a continuous eight month period immediately following his/her conviction and shall be required to make restitution to the property owner for the cost of damages and restoration as a condition of probation or following any term of incarceration as a condition of parole. A fourth degree felony as defined in New Mexico State statute is any crime punishable by eighteen months in a state penal institution, a five thousand dollar fine, or both.

Don't allow your participation in this senseless crime ruin your future. Remember the Crimestoppers phone line is manned 24 hours a day seven days a week. The Crimestoppers phone number is 257-4545.

This is Chief Lanny Maddox, for the Ruidoso Police Department, urging you to be a crimestopper!

Horse racing commission hears appeals

The appeals of two horse owner/trainers at Ruidoso Downs Race Track will be heard by the New Mexico Racing Commission Monday, June 26.

Owner/trainer Harold Ray Ashford, Jr. is appealing a steward's ruling from a May 23 race, plus results of the 5th race run on June 2.

Owner/trainer Richard L. Parrish is appealing the results of the 7th race held May 29.

Capitan man wins local eight-ball tournament

Buddy Godinez of Capitan captured first place June 13 in the "Tournament of Champions" eight-ball tourney at the Winner's Circle in Ruidoso.

Godinez was undefeated throughout the tournament and managed to win the "battle of nerves" during the final match, when second-place finisher Michael Sanchez of Alamogordo followed the eight ball into the pocket with the cue ball to lose the game and the match by a score of two to one.

Alden Torres and Melanie Koger of Ruidoso took third and fourth place.

Hobbs hosts SB tournament on July 1 and 2

The Slo-Pitch Softball Association of Hobbs, is hosting a USSSA state and divisional qualifying tournament for men's class B, C, D and E teams, and women's class B, C, and D teams on July 1 and 2.

The entry fee is $125 and state and divisional berths are awarded. All rosters must be signed by the area director. Trophies will be given for the top three teams in each class. The entry deadline is Thursday, June 26 at 6 p.m.

For additional information, call 1-800-658-6930.

White Sands Natl. Monument adds hours for summer

White Sands National Monument has extended its hours of operation for the summer season.

Ranger-guided activities will be offered daily through Labor Day, including sunset stroll nature walks, evening programs, and auto tours along the Dunes Drive.

The park visitor center will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and the Dunes Drive will be open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. throughout the summer. For a copy of the summer schedule of activities or more information, call 479-6124.

Cloudcroft hosts archery tourneys

Five archery shoots have been scheduled at the Snow Canyon Ski Area this summer.

Participants can ride the ski lift up the mountain and shoot at 60 Mackenzie targets as they walk down. Plaques will be awarded to the top three shooters out of every 10. The summer's top archer will win a Matthew's Ultra Lite bow presented at an awards ceremony Aug. 13.

The first competition was held May 13 and 14. The remaining archery shoots are scheduled for June 24-25, July 8-9, and August 12-13. Cost is $22 for adult participants, $17 for youths, $5 for cubs, and pee wees shoot for free. Spectators lift tickets for the event cost $8.

Nicole Rodela, 11, works on her volleying technique while "Big Shot" participant Rachael Smith, 9, watches. Tennis coach Dave Anderson is offering three levels of tennis clinics for children ages 5-14 this summer on the Ruidoso Middle School tennis courts. Registration for July and August sessions will be July 8 at the middle school. Anderson says this is the critical time to develop good fundamental skills in young players.

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Summer tennis programs are in full swing on the Ruidoso Middle School and municipal courts.

Certified tennis teacher Dave Anderson runs the 1.5 hour long clinics, designed for children ages five to 14. This week is the first of three sessions for "Big Shots," boys and girls aged 8 to 11. Anderson will conduct six more one-week sessions through Aug. 11.

Anderson said the clinics stress tennis fundamentals, skills and game play. Sessions are limited to six participants to provide better structure and instruction, Anderson said. Classes run from 8 to 9:30 a.m., Monday through Friday.

"This is when they start developing their skills," Anderson said. Those children who learn the basics will have a head start on everyone else, he added.

Anderson has eight players signed up for this week's "Big Shots" session.

"They're all girls, and they are by far the best group I've had," Anderson said.

Next week, Anderson will run the first of three junior sessions for players aged 12-14. Registration for July and August sessions will take place from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, July 8, at the middle school.

The remaining tennis sessions are:

— "Hot Shots" (ages 5-7), July 24-28.

— "Big Shots" (ages 8-11), July

Laura Clymer/The Ruidoso News

Dave Anderson will also offer a free tennis clinic for high school students and adults sponsored by HEAD Sports, Inc. on Monday.

10-14 and July 31-August 4.
— "Juniors" (ages 12-14), July 17-20 and August 7-11.

Cost is $10 per day or $40 per weekly session.

High school students and seniors can work on their game on Tuesday nights from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the municipal courts. Anderson has 10 players who regularly participate in the high school/senior competition, but he expects that number to grow.

"This is when they start developing their skills."

Free clinic June 26

Adult and teenage beginners can take advantage of a free tennis clinic this Monday, June 26. Anderson will conduct the clinic, which is sponsored by HEAD Sports, Inc.

The clinic will cover basic strokes and scoring. It starts at 6 p.m. at the municipal courts by the swimming pool.

"They (HEAD Sports, Inc.) are trying to promote physical fitness through tennis," Anderson said.

Anderson is a member of the United States Professional Tennis Registry (USPTR), an organization of more than 7,500 tennis teaching professionals certified in a standardized method of instruction.

For more information about the free clinic or the youth tennis session, contact Anderson at 336-8143.

Thoroughbreds race for Breeders' Cup

Saturday's $75,000-added Ruidoso Budweiser Breeders' Cup - the richest added money event of the season for Thoroughbreds - and Sunday's $118,285 Zia Futurity for New Mexico-bred quarter horses take top billing this week as Ruidoso Downs presents another four days of live racing and simulcast action.

Racing is slated Thursday through Sunday, with the first live race at 1:15 p.m. The prestigious 1-mile Budweiser Breeders' Cup includes $50,000 in purse money for Breeders' Cup eligible horses, and attracted 12 older stars, plus three also eligible entrants.

While multiple stakes winner and former Horse-of-the-Year Last Don B. is entered for the eight furlong dash, the veteran 8-year-old will remain second on the also eligible list because he was not originally nominated to the Breeders' Cup program. Two of the original 12 entrants must scratch in order for Last Don B. to run.

With Last Don B. on the also eligibles, high-weight status of 119 pounds will be shared by newcomer Shattuck, and Misting Rain who has started twice here this season.

A 5-year-old earner of $80,801, Shattuck is set to make his local debut for trainer John Steinbaugh and owner Allen Kincaid. The son of well-known speedster Murrtheblurr has been competing at Arapahoe Park. He won the Front Range Handicap over six furlongs at the Colorado track on May 14, and placed third in the Arapahoe Sprint Championship on June 4.

Suzann Marney's Misting Rain won a 7 1/2 furlong allowance test on May 13, and followed that effort with a third-place finish to Acrylic and Last Don B. in the Governor's Handicap on May 27.

Set Records, another local hope, will carry 118 pounds for the Ruidoso Budweiser Breeders' Cup. Set Records was the 1993 Horse of the Year here as a juvenile, and is owned by Margaret Bloss and Margaret DuPont, the same owners who saw their impressive juvenile Housefire win last Sunday's Norgor Futurity.

After a five-length victory in his season debut, Set Records was runner-up to Last Don B. in the Mesquero Apache Handicap. Casey Lambert will be in the saddle as the 4-year-old breaks from the outside post.

In post position order, the complete field for the Ruidoso Budweiser Breeders' Cup includes: Misting Rain (Mitchell 119); Victory Sun (Briggs 113); Rum Cooler (109); Personal Profit (Madrid 116); Lt. Roberts (Gamez 115); Polar Ridge (Lidberg 115); Rob Red (Sterling 114); Acrylic (Green 118); Mr. Listo (Zamora 117); Shattuck (Fincher 119); Parentheses (Thompson 119); Set Records (Lambert 118); and the also eligibles: Magic Dreamer (Sherbino 109); Last Don B. (Ortiz 123); and Run John (117).

Zia Derby, Futurity consolation on tap

Saturday's nine live races will also be highlighted by the $45,090 Zia Derby and the $21,202 Zia Futurity Consolation. Both races are for New Mexico-bred quarter horses.

J.A. and Greg Drake of Farmington own two of the 10 Zia Derby finalists, both trained by leading conditioner Fred Danley. All Iced Up was the top qualifier for the Derby when he covered 400 yards in 20.25 in the trials on June 16. Glass Mind also races for the Drakes, and was the fifth fastest qualifier with a time of 20.415. Billy Peterson will be in the irons on All Iced Up while veteran Kenneth Hart has the riding assignment on Glass Mind.

A field of 10, plus three also eligible runners are set to contest the Zia Futurity Consolation. The $60-yard dash will be Saturday's fifth race.

The cream of New Mexico's 2-year-old quarter horses will battle for a rich purse of $118,285 in Sunday's Zia Futurity. Moforce, who ran 350 yards in 17.875, was the fastest qualifier among 69 contenders in the Zia Futurity Trials on June 15. The juvenile is trained by Mark Harper, and races for Stephan Gray Hibbar and Ray Starbuck of Clovis.

Posing the top threat to Moforce will be Mike and Kristi Girsom's Run For Randi, a son of Young Beduino, who is undefeated in four starts. Run For Randi was the fourth fastest qualifier, with a time of 18.005 in the trials.

The Zia Futurity contenders, in order of qualifying time include: Moforce (17.875); Cash N Glass (17.925); Rockin Raz (17.985); Run For Randi (18.005); Now I Know (18.040); Dashing Departure (18.055); Brown Train (18.110); Totality Easy (18.12); A White Diamond (18.135); and Twelve O Six (18.155).

Shack Attack, Flamingos top leagues

With the first half of the season in the scorebook, Radio Shack Attack sits atop the Ruidoso men's softball standings with a record of 10-1. The team is just one game ahead of the Merchants (11-2).

Battling to stay in contention are Murray's Ducks (9-3) and NADS (11-4). The Outlaws, Homeboys and Sonterra all have five losses heading into the second half of the schedule.

The men's schedule has been adjusted because the Death Fighters dropped from the league. The revised schedule went into effect Tuesday.

In the women's league, the Northwest Flamingos team holds a two-game lead over Gray Hawk Construction and Leather and Lace. Both Gray Hawk and Leather and Lace are 8-3.

The Flamingos team is 8-1 overall. That team's only setback came at the hands of Leather and Lace earlier in the season. The Flamingos avenged that loss Monday night with a 20-8 pounding of Leather and Lace.

Women's league play continues through Wednesday, July 12. The league's double elimination tournament begins Monday, July 17.

Warrior linksters pace western stars in all-state golf clash

Four Warrior golfers will lead the Class AAA West All-Star team Monday, when Ruidoso plays host to the sixth annual New Mexico High School All-Stars golf tournament.

The state's top 32 prep golfers will compete in the three-day, 90-hole event.

Representing the west all-stars are 1995 Ruidoso graduates Scott Christensen, Chad Collins, Eric Stephens and Paxton Wright. They will be joined by Socorro's J. C. Griego and Aaron Gonzales, Shiprock's Kevin Price, and Los Alamos' Jarrod Rowison.

This is Stephens' third appearance on the all-star squad. For Wright, Collins and Christensen, it will be their debut on the all-star golf team.

Representing the Class AAA East All-Star team are: Lovington's Mark Terry, Justin Raburn, Kevin Jones, and John Lambert; Capital's Aaron Sreen; Raton's Andrew Tapia; Artesia's Jeff Battin; and Academy's Asa Tyselling.

Similar to the PGA's Ryder Cup Matches, players who competed against each other for the high school golf season will team together and play as partners against the opposing team.

First-round matches will take place at Cree Meadows and Alto Lakes Country Club. Both rounds will be medal-match play, or low total. The top 10 individual scores will advance to a shoot-out at Cree Meadows on Wednesday afternoon.

Tuesday's action switches to The Links at Sierra Blanca. The morning round features low-ball matches, while the afternoon format will be alternate shot.

The final round on Wednesday at the Inn of the Mountain Gods offers singles matches.

A selection committee chose eight players to each of the Class AAAA and Class AAA East and West squads.

The West team will try to win its third straight all-star championship. The East squad won the first two events after the format was changed to match play in 1991.

DON'T WASTE AMERICA!

The United States Congress is preparing to change the nation's radioactive waste laws. Unfortunately, Congress seems ready to reduce public safety and environmental protection, and instead -- at the behest of the nuclear power industry -- wants to speed construction of new radioactive waste dumps. But radioactive waste cannot be "disposed" of, and new, unsound radioactive waste practices should lead to a new generation of nuclear reactors and an even greater problem.

Help stop the waste dumpers and the nuclear power industry. There are several basic principles for sound radioactive waste management. Any legislation should incorporate these principles. Congress: Don't let the nuclear industry waste America!

- We demand:
1. An end to generation of long-lasting radioactive waste. It is impossible to consider establishing new radioactive waste dumps while generation continues - which would require even more radioactive waste dumps.
  2. No utility should have access to a radioactive waste dump unless it has stopped generating radioactive waste.
  3. Radioactive waste transportation should be avoided where possible.
  4. All radioactive waste must be isolated from the environment in an accessible, retrievable manner, be constantly monitored for leaks, and be recontainerized to prevent leaks. Our policy must be zero release of radiation.
  5. Liability must remain with waste generations, not taxpayers.

Brett Bundy of Mayhill has been named to the Dean's List at Lubbock Christian University for the spring semester of 1995.

In order to be considered a part of the Dean's List, a student must be taking a minimum of 12 semester hours and achieve a 3.5 grade point average or better for the entire semester.

Martin on spring dean's list

Ryan Martin from Ruidoso has been named to the Dean's Honor List for the spring 1995 semester at South Plains College in Levelland, Texas.

Students on the Dean's List must maintain a minimum 3.25 GPA with the same number of hours.

Longbotham given scholarship

Lee Ann Longbotham, a resident of Capitan, has been awarded a $300 scholarship by the New Mexico Credit Union Education Foundation to help defray the cost of her educational expenses.

Longbotham is among the second group of students throughout New Mexico to receive a scholarship from the non-profit foundation, which was organized in 1993 by the New Mexico credit union community.

The foundation is funded by its members, credit unions throughout New Mexico, and strives to help further educational opportunities for the state's residents.

Longbotham is currently attending Eastern New Mexico University, Roswell campus, and will complete her undergraduate degree in elementary education next fall.

Hasenbuhler on spring dean's list

Michelle L. Hasenbuhler of Ruidoso, a sophomore majoring in accounting, was named to the spring 1995 West Texas A&M University Deans' list.

Students on the Deans' List achieved GPAs of at least 3.250 with a minimum of 12 undergraduate hours.

Three local men finish training

Three local men recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

They are Navy Seaman Recruit Jeffrey A. Chavez, a 1992 graduate of Capitan High School; Navy Seaman Recruit Daniel L. Parker, a 1992 graduate of Capitan High School, son of Johnny W. and Jean E. Parker of Capitan; and Navy Seaman Recruit Cordell J. Balatche, a 1994 graduate of Ruidoso High School, son of Rita J. and Cordell J. Balatche of Mesquite.

During the eight-week program, they completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness. They were taught naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and a variety of safety skills required for working around ships and aircraft.

To reinforce the team concept, the recruits also were trained in preventing sexual harassment and ensuring equal opportunity.

Scholarships still available at ENMU

Numerous scholarships, including two from the Capitan-Carrizozo Natural Gas Association, are available for recent Capitan or Carrizozo High School graduates for the 1995-96 academic year at Eastern New Mexico University Ruidoso (ENMU).

ENMU-Ruidoso is offering more than 50 scholarships to students throughout Lincoln County, including working adults who wish to attend the Ruidoso Center of ENMU in the fall.

Scholarships range from $100 to $1,400 per year. Federal financial aid is also available for the fall semester. Five GED graduate scholarships are also available.

A free eight-page scholarship guide and application form is available at ENMU-Ruidoso at 1400 Sudderth Drive, or call 257-2120.

Mescalero student in WINS program

RosaLinda Baeza, a member of the Mescalero Apache tribe, is attending the Washington Internship for Native Students (WINS) program at The American University in Washington D.C.

The program began on June 2 and will end on August 11.

WINS is a one-year-old program designed to give Native American college students a Washington-based education, experience and training they can use to help their tribal communities.

The summer class represents more than 25 tribes, 15 states and 21 colleges and universities. Students are placed in federal agencies and public service organizations like the White House, U.S. senators' offices, national institutes of health and the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Lions Club gives local scholarships

The Evening Lions Club has given college scholarships to four local students.

They include Jeannen J. Stewart (College of the Southwest in Hobbs), Olivia Miranda (New Mexico State University in Las Cruces), Nancy Kunkel (NMSU) and Mandy Sodd (Texas Tech in Lubbock).

The Lions Club also gave $250 to ENMU for a worthy Ruidoso student of the college's choice.

Ruidoso School Board approves private food service company

by DON HIXON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso students will find some changes in the cafeteria system when they return to school next year.

The Ruidoso School Board, at a special board meeting yesterday, approved school superintendent Mike Gladden's recommendation to accept a proposal from Aramark School Nutrition Services to provide district-wide food service.

Students can look forward to changes in menus, including two entree selections, and a better variety of side dishes, said Aramark Regional Sales Director Robert J. Schrenk. Local fast food restaurants might be allowed to sell their product on campus as well, but that decision is still tentative, he said.

School meal prices will stay the same under the new system.

The existing 17 school district cafeteria workers will remain as school district employees. However, any new employees, including a food service director, will be hired by and work for Aramark, Gladden said.

School officials see the privately-run food service as a way to bolster the floundering cafeteria program, fraught with budget overruns and low participation.

"We have always seen increases in participation whenever we are able to implement and operate a program like we are proposing," Schrenk said.

After studying Gladden's recommendation and listening to a short presentation by Schrenk, the board voted unanimously to accept Aramark's proposal.

Two proposals were received, one from Aramark, based in Dallas, Texas, and the other from Canteen of Central New Mexico, Inc.

An Aramark handout said the company has both nationwide and statewide experience, with 10 schools in New Mexico including Moriarty, Lovington, and Aztec.

"Aramark currently serves all the universities and many school districts," Gladden said. "We checked their references and they were exceptional."

Currently, food for students at Sierra Vista Primary School is transported from Nob Hill Early Childhood Center, about five miles away. Schrenk said one of the first things Aramark will research is the possibility of having SVP food prepared at one of the White Mountain school sites, next door to the primary school.

May good citizens

LINCOLN COUNTY ROUNDUP

County commissioners will take over subdivision roads after corrections done

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Trying to end more than five years of confusion over the fate of roads in Rancho Ruidoso Valley Estates subdivision, Lincoln County Commissioners have placed the final judgment in the lap of acting road department manager Albert Hernandez.

Commissioners recently agreed to accept six miles of roads when a list of deficiencies cited by former road department manager Bill Cupit are corrected, the work is approved by Hernandez and the roads pass random compaction tests.

The motion passed 4-1 with Commissioner Bill Schwettmann voting against it. He preferred that the roads be inspected and ruled acceptable before any action by the commission.

He reminded commissioners that they agreed earlier this year not to make motions contingent on an action.

"I think the time has come to address this (road issue) one way or the other," Howell responded. "It's gone through several commissions. I have faith in our road superintendent."

Hernandez recommended following Cupit's checklist. Hernandez said he drove the roads with Tommy White of Ruidoso Paving Co., the original road contractor, and found weeds growing through the chip seal surface and other problems.

Starting with a February 1989 letter, a summary of the correspondence regarding the roads in the subdivision was submitted for commission review.

The summary included:

— a May 1990 letter from the county to developer Gary Dodson, RNM Inc., saying the roads wouldn't be accepted into the county's two-year test wear period until a program for upgrading them is approved by the commission and security is offered by the company to ensure the work is finished.

— a September 1990 letter from an engineering company hired at the direction of the commission, which said there were too many areas of concern to schedule the roads for acceptance into the test program. A month later the roads were accepted for the two-year test.

— a February 1993 letter sent by Dodson one year and four months after the end of the two-year test period. He asked the county to accept the roads into its system for maintenance.

Dodson later said that the company thought the roads automatically would be accepted for county maintenance at the end of the two-year test period. When he found out later that a formal request and inspection were required, he wrote the letter.

— a May 1993 letter from the county to Dodson containing a copy of an engineering report pointing out problems.

— a November 1993 request to Cupit from a former county administrator to review the roads. In his memo, the administrator said the roads were in "deplorable" condition.

— a May 1994 letter from Bill Cupit's predecessor Tommy Hall, who was road manager during the period when the streets were built. Hall urged commissioners to accept the roads for county maintenance.

— a list of road deficiencies cited by Cupit in a September 1994 memo after his inspection. Action was tabled by commissioners until the developer responded to the list.

Cupit's list still stands, plus compaction tests, commissioners said.

Commissioner L. Ray Nunley said when he drove the cul-de-sacs, they were soft and falling apart in places.

Schwettmann said he's worried about sub-grade (the foundation beneath the surface) failure on the roads, especially the cul-de-sacs, and suggested not including them in the acceptance motion. County Attorney Alan Morel said that would cause legal problems.

"I don't mind accepting if they're going to last," said Commissioner Stirling Spencer. "I see here in two years, the whole thing fell apart. I don't want to have to come back in two years and rebuild everything."

White said the roads have not fallen apart, although they have deteriorated because of lack of use. He said a builder is looking at the subdivision to put in 100 homes within the next two years and that will solve the problem of too little use.

In other business, commissioners:

— noted that the Association of Counties voted to refund to members on a pro rata basis $100,000 of a $200,000 surplus. That means Lincoln County will receive $3,500 in July as a refund on its annual dues.

— voted to increase the county's contribution toward the state retirement of 13 deputies in the sheriff's department at a cost of $26,684 a year. The increase is part of a settlement to avoid a lawsuit.

"I don't think it's fair to give 18% to them and only 7% to other county employees," Howell said.

"It's a negotiated point of the settlement," Morel reminded them.

The motion to approve the contribution passed 4-1 with Howell voting against it.

Bataan death march survivors who attended last week's county Republican barbeque included Buren Johnston of Clovis, Earl Harris of Anthony and Jack Aldrich of Roswell.

Bataan survivors honored at barbeque

by ROSALIE DUNLAP

The News Correspondent

Lincoln County Republicans held their "First Monday" meeting June 14 on Flag Day at the Boebinger pavilion in San Patricio. The group celebrated the occasion by honoring the survivors of the Bataan March. They also honored those who didn't survive.

The evening ceremonies began with the posting of the colors by the New Mexico National Guard 320th Army Ordnance Detachment of Roswell. The color guard dressed in the uniform of the guard of the 1930 period. Members included Sgt. Randy Hazebaker, American flag, Sgt. Judy Marshall, the New Mexico flag, SSGT. Jaime Fierro, rifle, and SSG Fermin Pena, rifle.

The Bataan survivors present were Buren Johnston of Clovis, 200 Artillery Battery E; Jack Aldrich of Roswell, Headquarters Battery, 2nd Battalion, 200 Coast artillery; and Earl Harris of Anthony, 8th Battery. All were members of the New Mexico National Guard.

Before Bataan, the Guard had been training, winning all the shooting events and other activities, thinking they were going to England. When their orders came in they went to the Pacific, where they were the rear guard for those who were escaping.

The prisoners' only relief from work assignments was during rains.

Mike Villalobos wrote a POW Prayer:

Oh Lord — if it's within thy power

Please send us a thunder shower

But then if that's not too much strain

Please spring for a five-day rain.

Amen.

Dollie Aldrich, wife of Bataan survivor Jack Aldrich, wrote the book "Beyond Courage," containing stories of the survivors. The book will soon go into a second printing by the Yucca Tree Press of Las Cruces, with both hardback and paperback editions. It received the Zia Press award in 1994.

One of her stories from the men talks about their love of their flag. When the men were rescued, many had their little flags made from whatever material they could find. How they were able to keep these flags hidden from the enemy is their secret. When they were rescued, they were given clothes, and using the red, white and blue material they made their own large flag, and flew it proudly over their camp.

Dollie's husband Jack is the stepson of Lois Aldrich of Capitan. The wife of Bataan survivor Buren Johnston is the cousin of Cathleen Massey, also of Capitan. Mrs. Johnston said Buren's brother was shot down over Germany and was kept in isolation in an underground pit before being rescued.

Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority plans to seek out more manager applications

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Although 20 applications were received for the post of Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority manager, the authority board may toss them out and try another approach.

"What we felt was needed in the way of qualifications just wasn't there," said SWA chairman Frank Cummins. "Some had management experience, but in motels and other areas. This business demands very particular knowledge."

Cummins met with SWA executive committee members to look through the applications. He will pass the group's recommendation to the full board at its Monday meeting. The board meets at 10 a.m. in the administration complex on Second Street in Ruidoso Downs.

"We want to run it by the rest of the board to see what they want to do for the next step," Cummins said.

The SWA advertised for the position in Tucson, Phoenix, Albuquerque, El Paso, Roswell, Alamogordo, Amarillo, Lubbock and locally.

"The salary of about $35,000 and benefits to start is good for this area, but those in other areas think they need $75,000," Cummins said.

Outgoing manager Joe Lewandowski, who is developing a consulting business and has a garbage collection company in Otero County, has offered to work a few days a week as manager on a contractual basis.

"We've made a lot of progress and I would hate to see us fall back now," Cummins said.

The authority was formed about five years ago and is a coalition of the county and its five municipalities formed to handle garbage collection and disposal countywide. It is partners in a regional landfill south of Alamogordo with a similar authority in Otero County.

New Mexico health department hears ideas

For the fifth year, state Department of Health officials are gathering information from counties across New Mexico to help develop future budgets.

They converged on Carrizozo recently to talk to residents and health care providers in Lincoln County.

Although some people at the hearing complained about lack of service or service delays, one couple acknowledged that when they choose to live in a somewhat remote area, that meant they realized that services may not be right across the street, said department representative Sue Ellen Rael.

Rael said those attending the two sessions suggested that the state needs to focus on:

— services for the elderly.

— transporting the elderly to medical facilities.

Health Secretary Alex Valdez said he would look to the state Legislature to come up with some strategy for transportation, Rael said.

— housing for the mentally ill.

— substance abuse treatment services for the mentally ill, primarily dealing with dual diagnoses.

In many cases a person may be using alcohol or drugs to self-medicate for the mental illness, Rael said. Not many services or programs can deal with both diagnoses. They deal with one or the other.

— improving the ability of agencies to follow up with patients referred elsewhere.

— helping communities identify their health needs, especially about subjects in which people may be reluctant to speak openly, such as teenage pregnancies and venereal disease.

— protecting program budgets already in place.

The director of Southwest Counseling's substance abuse program said his budget has suffered because after the Legislature approves financial requests, it shaves off a small percentage, Rael related.

With money shrinking over the last four years, the substance abuses program can't maintain services, the director said.

— defining how Indian Health Services will fit into managed care programs being developed by the Lincoln County Medical Center.

Hospital Administrator Valerie Miller also was interested in the potential for Medicaid block grants.

"She's been having discussions with (officials of the) Mescalero (Apache tribe)," Rael said. "I'm not sure how successful."

(Health Secretary Alex Valdez) indicated that the governor is recommending Medicaid block grants go directly to the tribe instead of coming through the state to the tribes.

Valdez and his staff finished up their town meetings last week and will take the information back to Santa Fe to use in designing the department's 1996-97 budget request. The Legislature wants to see the proposed budgets by September. Legislators go into their next session in January.

New Mexico Lions clubs join eye bank network

The New Mexico Lions Eye Bank has joined the TBI/Eye and Tissue Banks International network of medical eye banks. TBI is a non-profit, non-governmental organization.

It will be TBI's 12th full-service eye bank and 23rd location in the country.

Bill Allen of Ruidoso is the current president of The New Mexico Lions eye bank. He is a member of the Ruidoso Valley Noon Lions.

The New Mexico Lions Eye Bank covers the entire state, providing eye tissue for thousands of sight-restoring corneal transplant surgeries, public information and professional education. Its affiliation with TBI is the first step in a program to bring more comprehensive service to the people of New Mexico.

A major goal is to meet local needs for eye tissue with locally-recovered tissue.

"With the continued support of the Lions and now access to the resources of TBI, the New Mexico Lions Eye Bank can look forward to a bright and productive future," Allen said.

PEOPLE

WEDDING

Cody, Puckett,

In an old-fashioned western wedding, Pamela Kay Puckett of Alto and Keith L. Cody of Ruidoso tied the knot beneath an ivy-bedecked lattice June 2. The bride's parents, Howard and Lillian Puckett, hosted the outdoor evening ceremony on the grounds of their lower Eagle Creek home in Alto.

Guests were seated on hay bales beneath juniper trees. Dr. James Fenimore's recorded organ music began the simple, homespun ceremony officiated by the groom's father, the Reverend H.L. Cody. He and his wife Ada attended from Poolville, Texas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a cream-colored western wedding dress that featured cream lace and gold thread running through the bodice, sleeves and yoke inset. Bone-colored western boots with gold trim completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, baby's breath and cream and dusty rose sweetheart roses.

Peggy Lawing of Ruidoso attended her friend as maid of honor. She wore a hand-painted white tuxedo shirt above a black broomstick skirt and black western boots.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith L. Cody

Her flowers were a smaller version of the bride's.

Mike Perry of Phoenix, Ariz. served as best man. He and the groom wore black and white western shirts over black jeans and boots, with boutonnieres of a sweetheart rose and baby's breath.

An outdoor reception immediately followed. Los Tres Románticos, a string trio from Alamogordo, provided background music, a variety of romantic ballads.

Lisa Bartley baked the amaretto-flavored wedding cake with a raspberry layer and buttercream frosting. Fresh white daisies decorated its three floating tiers.

The bride is the accounts manager at Lincoln County Medical Center. The groom is the communications supervisor for the city of Phoenix. Following their wedding cruise on the southern Caribbean, the couple will make their home in Phoenix.

Marckstein reflects life in work

by ELLEN HICKOK-WALL
Ruidoso News staff

Janis Porter Marckstein's oil paintings appear to reflect her life experiences. Some are colorful and light feeling, others are dark and contemplative. Some seem to reflect philosophy, others evoke smiles.

A show containing her work opened at the Hurd La Rinconada Gallery in San Patricio Saturday evening, drawing more than 150 people from as far away as San Antonio, Dallas and Houston.

The one-woman show represents the first Hurd gallery exhibit by an artist who is not a member of the Hurd family.

Visitors sipped champagne and tapped their feet to the elegant jazz of the Michael Francis Trio, while contemplating Marckstein's multifaceted work.

"It's like seeing an exhibit of several artists," one visitor observed. One moment you're looking into deep, vibrant colors in "Impatiens Plant and Rage Red," next you're engulfed in an entire philosophy while gazing at "Wild, Wild Women & Wine."

Marckstein's slight physical stature gives no clue to her mighty talent. She groups her pieces into series with titles such as Dark Interior, Painting within Painting, Sticks and Stones, Art in Art.

"If you take Picasso, for example, he went through many periods in his artistic life: blue, pink, cubism. I have done the same thing through my art, but I am more feminine in that I nurture each period, and revisit each period. Each period is ongoing. It never ends," Marckstein related when asked what inspired the various series.

Within the Art in Art series is a piece entitled Wallflower. A colorful sunflower dominates the canvas; in its center is Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa, in black and white.

"As a child, the versions of Mona Lisa I saw were always black and white. Even after I saw the real Mona Lisa in Europe, she was still black and white in my mind's eye. So that's the way I presented her in Wallflower," Marckstein explained.

Marckstein moved to Ruidoso from San Antonio in 1993 when her husband accepted a position as manager of a private club in Alto.

"I was excited, and kept a very open mind that the move to New Mexico might present a new way of seeing things about myself, and, as a matter of fact, the Sticks and Stones series came to be in New Mexico," Marckstein said.

Margaret Ramble was one of the Marckstein admirers at Saturday's opening. A writer for a Texas senator, she related why she collects Marckstein's paintings.

"I began collecting Janis' paintings in the 1970s. They continue to please my eye, touch my soul and astound all those who see them. Her work is timeless," Ramble said.

A bit of Marckstein's philosophy surfaced when she said, "This is a very difficult field for a woman to break into. But I know I am here to stay, and one of these days I am going to be taken seriously."

Marckstein's work will be displayed in the Hurd Gallery until opening. A writer for a Texas June 30.

LINCOLN COUNTY SERRANOBOOK

A glimpse into Lincoln County's past, compiled by Polly E. Chavez.

Capitan Mountaineer June 30, 1918

Lincoln County's Lone Recruit—Perry T. Hightower, who so far as we have any knowledge, is the only Lincoln County boy to answer the call for volunteers, is due to leave Capitan today to join Battery A at Fort Bliss. We published an article in the Mountaineer, stating, among other things, that Lieut. Hird had secured three recruits at Hondo, but this is an error. Mr. Hightower was the only one to sign up. In our write-up we made the statement that Mr. Hightower was a Spanish-American citizen, meaning that he represented both races, and not that he was a "Hyphenated" citizen by any means, but in as much as some of our readers might infer, we take this method of correcting that impression. Perry Hightower was born in Socorro county, New Mexico, but has lived with his father in Lincoln County, most of the time at Capitan, for the past fourteen years, therefore Capitan and Lincoln County claims him as their very own.

The first day of summer began on Wednesday at 3:34 p.m. with the summer solstice. Mars is now lowering in the west. It has faded from its dazzling winter brilliance to the point that it is now nearly as dim as Regulus about 1 1/2 fist-widths to its lower right. Mars has faded so drastically because Earth has left it far behind as we speed around the sun in our faster orbit.

Police seek missing local woman

A Ruidoso woman was listed as missing earlier this week, and is also wanted by police for failing to return a rental vehicle.

Yesterday she was also linked with the discovery of 18.5 pounds of marijuana found in a car she left at a friend's Debord Drive home on the outskirts of Ruidoso.

Police said Pam Waters, 24, rented a 1995 Mazda Protege from Sierra Blanca Motors June 3 and promised to return the car June 6. The car rental business told police they last heard from Waters June 12, when she called to say she was in El Paso and would return the vehicle the next day.

The five-foot-six Waters, who is approximately 195 pounds and has short, dark hair, has not been seen or heard from since then, police said, and the rental car has not been returned. Her mother reported her missing Tuesday, saying she disappeared without even taking clothes.

Police were told Waters was last seen with a Mexican national named Arturo, who called the mother last night to say the rental car was at the Debord Drive residence, right off Paradise Canyon. He also said he didn't know where Waters was.

It wasn't the rental car police were looking for, but keys were left in it and the resident at the house said Waters had dropped it off some time ago with plans to retrieve it later. It is owned by a Las Cruces resident.

Police and county deputies searched the car and found the marijuana stashed in the trunk. Police said they believe Arturo is in town and possibly heard about the drug find on a police scanner, because he called Waters' mother a short time later to say, "What have you done?" and "They're going to kill me."

Teenager retrieving pack arrested

Ruidoso police said they arrested a skateboarder for alleged possession of marijuana Monday night.

Abselin Chavez, who was also arrested May 2 for unlawful graffiti, was charged with possession after the police found a jar with a sticky residue in Chavez's backpack. Their police dog, Fanta, sniffed the substance and signaled it was marijuana, police said.

Officers had been called to the downtown area on a complaint about skateboarders around 7 p.m., police said. They did not locate any skateboarders, but found the green backpack they took to the station and searched.

Police said they think Chavez, who is 19, was skateboarding and left his pack on the sidewalk. He called the station a little later and asked if his bag was there. When he came to identify it they asked him if all the bag's contents were his, and he allegedly said "yes," police report.

B SECTION

Honor thy father and mother year-round

As Mother's and Father's day both pass for another year, it comes to mind that this would be a better place if children treated parents like it was Father's and Mother's day every day.

A lot of things can be blamed for the ills of the world and country today, but one part of the equation is the downright rebellion and disrespect some teenagers have for their parents. While a small percentage of parents may not warrant respect, it's obvious that more teenagers than ever before are choosing to ignore their parents' authority, and do whatever they damn well please.

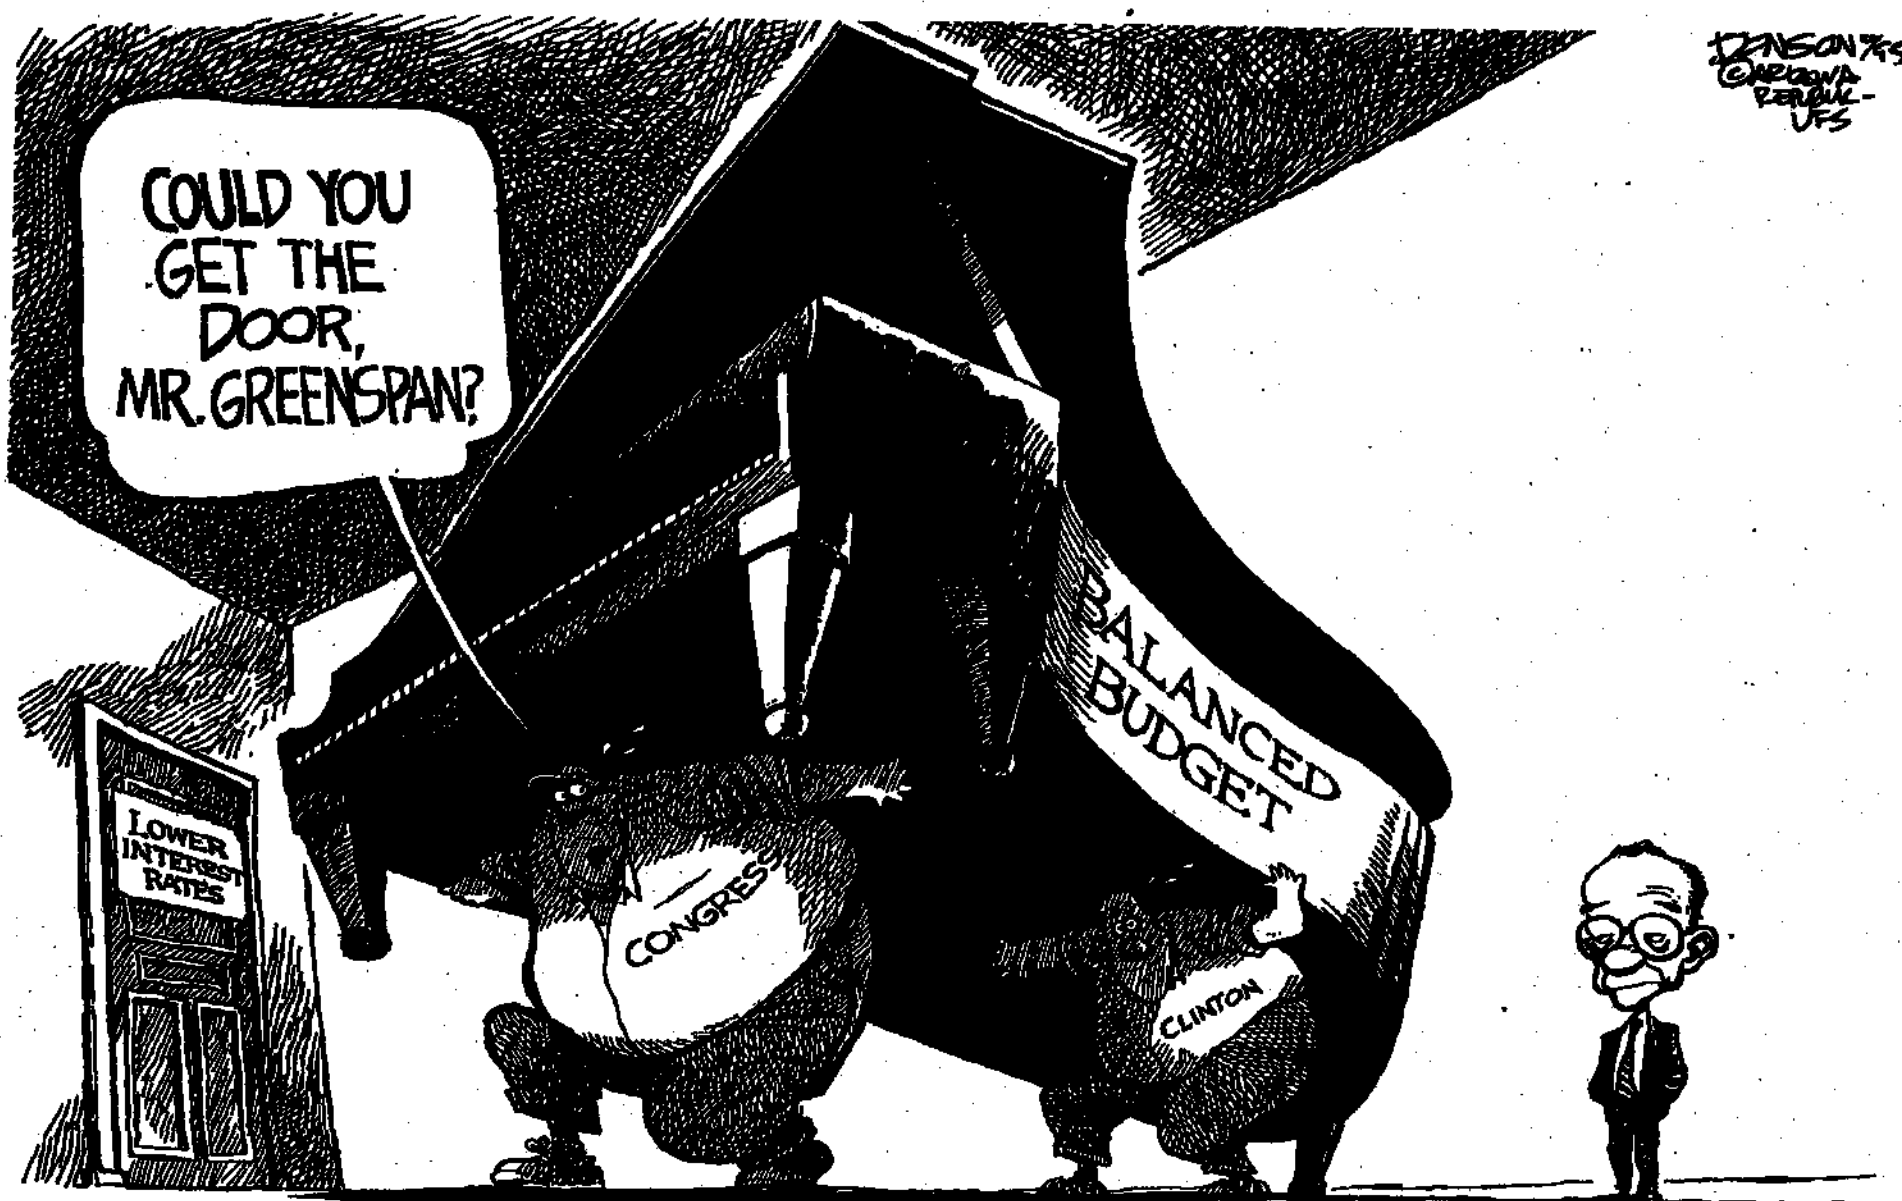

In past generations, children may have disagreed with their parents or thought they were stupid and outdated, but in the end, they obeyed their parents. If they attempted to disobey on occasion (and sneak out of the house at night, for example), they understood that they were wrong and had to be discreet, and they would accept punishment if they were caught.

Today we are commonly seeing children who practice outright defiance, who don't have a problem telling their parents where to "stick it," all the while thinking in their ignorance that they are in the right.

When these children grow up, at some point in their life, we can absolutely guarantee they will realize their parents were right. That's the whole reason for having parental discipline: parents have the knowledge of experience, and oftentimes teenagers can't even comprehend that knowledge.

It doesn't hurt to mention that this respect should extend generally to all people of all ages, from tourists to people driving by.

So please, give this editorial to your children. Maybe it will help.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Where will rollerbladers go?

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing in concern for the new city ordinance that is in the works to ban skateboarding, rollerblading, and bicycling in the Midtown area. The recent uproar of the merchants has not been unprovoked by some skaters, but those of us who do not break rules and act rudely to others are being punished for those few who do.

Since summer has begun I have enjoyed rollerblading in town. It is the only suitable place in Ruidoso and it's nice to get out and exercise. When my friend and I are in town we are polite and courteous to merchants and shoppers, we are quiet, and we skate slowly enough not to endanger anyone.

I think that the argument that we intimidate tourists is false. In fact, people often stop and comment about how interesting it is to watch us. They have never acted afraid or disturbed by us. Though I can understand how some might be afraid to walk at night through a group of 10 or 15 skaters, they are never afraid of the 2-4 of us skating by. It is not fair that we will be punished for the behavior of a few obnoxious individuals.

Through reading the recent letters to the editor, I have realized that a majority of the complaints have been from tourists. Maybe it's time they take a look at their own behavior with the same scrutiny. On many occasions I have almost been run over by tourists who feel that there is no reason to stop for pedestrians in the crosswalks. I have seen them throw trash from their cars out into our streets, and I have been yelled at by them while walking near my home. Before complaining about the skaters in Midtown, they need to realize that their overall behavior is often just as rude.

Before we are thrown out of Midtown, everyone needs to realize that group punishment is not fair. There really is nowhere else suitable for our sport in Ruidoso; anyone who has ever attempted to conquer the killer hills elsewhere in town knows. The proposed skate parks will be wonderful for the skateboarders, but what about the in-line skaters? Many of the skateboarders feel that in-line skaters will only get in their way and ruin their ramps. We will certainly not be welcome at their skate park. Where are we supposed to go?

Seeking information about Lucy

TO THE EDITOR:

In the May 17th issue of the Reporter you published a picture of a dog at the Animal Shelter named "Cosmo."

Before we had seen the picture, we had adopted Cosmo and renamed her "Lucy." She is everything your article said and more. She now has a loving home.

We would like to know more about her history. If anyone reading this letter knows more about her life prior to the shelter we would sure appreciate a call. Our number is 257-5620.

Youngsters great to have downtown

TO THE EDITOR:

For the past week I have been a Ruidoso tourist. I joined my mother Eva in Albuquerque, rented a car and made the long journey here to visit my brother Don and his wife Patti. I stayed at a hotel and we would all gather to share meals at local restaurants and enjoy area activities.

We especially enjoyed evening walks along the new sidewalks downtown. From the Italian sodas at Espresso's, to shopping at Fly's Etc. and the T-shirt shops "up Suddearth," we would encounter teenagers skating up and down the street on skateboards or rollerblades.

When I read about the skating controversy in The News, I was concerned and wanted you to know how much we enjoyed these young people during our evening strolls.

Ruidoso is a special refuge for those of us weary of towns struggling with crime, traffic and overpopulation. The lighting and recent facility improvements downtown create a safer atmosphere, but it is the presence of some of Ruidoso's younger citizens that help make this such a special place to visit.

As you consider proposed legislation to prohibit skating, I hope you encourage these friendly and courteous young ambassadors to continue to frequent the downtown area. Perhaps you could restrict the days and times available for skating.

My position with a health care consulting firm takes me to communities throughout the country, and I would not care to return to many. We have thoroughly enjoyed our first visit to Ruidoso, and I plan to return with my wife next year. I hope we see youngsters downtown again next year — whether or not they are using their favorite means of transportation.

Help keep Starlite Montessori open

TO THE EDITOR:

(The following letter was sent to New Mexico's governor and forwarded to The Ruidoso News.)

Dear Governor Johnson:

We are of Oriental descent and have been in the United States for 19 years, have acquired citizenship, and are proud to be Americans. We own The Great Wall of China Restaurant in Ruidoso and have a son, Glen, who is now 10 years of age.

Even though Glen is now attending public school and is at the top of his class, we are, along with so many other local parents in our community, very concerned about the possible closing of the Starlite Montessori Preschool. You see, we attribute Glen's love of learning to the foundation given to him in a Montessori environment.

As we are sure you know, the Montessori philosophy is worldwide. We feel fortunate to have a Montessori school in our small mountain village.

To base the difference between a school and a child care facility on age alone is nonsense. This is like saying kids don't learn under the age of five, and we are certain you know this to be untrue! Even the Ruidoso Public Schools have kids under the age of five in the Head Start Program for lower-income families. Shouldn't all other parents have the right to put their children under age five in a private school? Starlite Montessori is just that...a PRIVATE SCHOOL (not a child care facility). They do not ask for or receive any government funding. Their only income is the individual choice of community parents to enroll their children in a Montessori educational environment.

We were told that Ms. Heather Wilson is the Secretary of the Children, Youth and Families Bureau and have sent a copy of this letter to her, to our state representative Mr. Dub Williams, and to our local newspaper — Letter to the Editor Department.

We hope that you, as our fine new governor, will please consider our plight and help us keep Starlite Montessori School open!

Thank you very much for your time and interest.

Correction

The Ruidoso News misprinted a number from a June 15 letter to the editor by Judy Van Winkle. She wrote that $12,581,147 was taken from a fire insurance pool in July 1993 and put in the State of New Mexico's general fund, instead of being given to local fire departments for needed equipment. The News misprinted the number, saying it was $13,582.
