Lone Star Airlines announces fares at press conference

Lone Star Airlines of Fort Worth, Texas will hold a press conference at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Airline officials will announce rate fares and flight schedules for Ruidoso flight service at the gathering.

The airline service agreement for Ruidoso was announced by village officials last week. Plans call for Lone Star carriers to establish an air route between Ruidoso, El Paso and Dallas beginning Sept. 5.

New students should enroll now

Ruidoso school officials want parents of new or transferring students to report to their respective schools for enrollment by Friday.

Prior to a student's enrollment, the student must provide school transcripts and/or withdrawal forms showing grades and progress from the last school, social security number, birth certificate, immunization records, custody papers if person enrolling student is the legal guardian, a current diagnostic evaluation and current IEP if the student will be receiving special education services, and exit report from residential treatment center, if applicable.

Feds to hear plan for nuclear storage

The first face-to-face meeting between U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) officials and representatives of the proposed Mescalero nuclear waste storage project is scheduled for 9 a.m. to noon Wednesday, Aug. 30.

The pre-application meeting on the proposed independent storage plant will be held in the NRC auditorium at 2 White Flint North, 11545 Rockville Pike in Rockville, Md.

This will be a get-acquainted session and a review of the project's proposed design, officials said. The Mescalero and a coalition of utilities want to transport radioactive spent nuclear fuel rods to the reservation to be stored for up to 40 years. If approved, it would be the largest independent commercial nuclear waste storage site in the nation.

Capitan trustees consider zoning laws

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Three years ago, a crowd of Capitan residents loudly rejected the notion that their village needs a planning and zoning ordinance.

Members of the planning and zoning board serving at that time subsequently were replaced by new people. The new members were asked to come up with regulations less offensive to the populace, but strong enough to offer the village protection.

"Some people are worried that it would restrict the keeping of livestock, but the ordinance doesn't mention livestock."

BOBBI SHEARER

Their handiwork will be inspected by the Board of Trustees during a hearing at 6:30 p.m. today in village hall. The board could take action on the ordinance at its regular meeting at 7 p.m.

"Instead of what is in the ordinance, I think it's what is not in the ordinance that will put people's minds to rest the most," said Bobbi Shearer, a zoning board member. "Some people are worried that it would restrict the keeping of livestock, but the ordinance doesn't mention livestock."

The proposed regulation would set up three land use zones, residential, rural suburban and commercial.

But this time around, a proposed zoning map also has been colored to show those zones. In 1992, people were reluctant to adopt the ordinance without knowing the boundaries of the zones. A zoning ordinance is unenforceable without a map.

Capitan has supervised development as the Lincoln County Commission has; using subdivision regulations, a law against nuisances and state statutes to provide orderly growth in the village. Its planning and zoning board recommends action to the trustees as the county's zoning board does to the commission.

But Shearer said times are changing.

"One of the main reasons for zoning is to ensure development occurs in a reasonably predictable pattern that doesn't overwork the village's resources," Shearer said.

The commercial zone primarily is composed of highway frontage, the school and county road yard areas, she said. The residential zone covers the original core of the village and all other areas would be classified as rural suburban.

New ballfields proposed for "Playground of Southwest"

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

(This is the sixth in a series of seven stories about proposed bond issues for the Village of Ruidoso Aug. 22 election.)

Ruidoso calls itself "the Playground of the Southwest" for tourists, but some say the community lacks enough athletic fields for its own residents.

The village owns three softball fields, and these fields at the Eagle Creek Sport Complex are in constant use, said Debbie Jo Almager, village parks and recreation director.

"It's the reason there's nothing offered for adults beside softball — there's no fields," Almager said.

It's also the reason that once the men and women's softball season is in full swing, practice time is a precious, often scarce, commodity.

Village officials want to construct seven multi-purpose playing fields, plus a regulation size baseball field and a softball field on school-owned land next to the White Mountain and Sierra Vista Schools.

The playing grounds will be constructed if voters elect a $1 million athletic fields bond issue Aug. 22. The bond issue will pay for lights, bleachers, goal posts, backstops, dugouts, scoreboards, fencing and an irrigation system also, Almager said.

Four of the fields would be youth fields (50 yards by 80 yards); two would be 100 yards by 60 yards; and one would be 120 yards by 80 yards. An 80-yard by 80-yard multi-purpose field could be used for soccer and converted to a regulation size softball diamond.

With the new fields, Almager said she could offer adult flag-football or soccer league. Little league soccer teams would have level, regulation-size fields for play, and little league baseball, which uses a small field on Gavilan Canyon Road, would have more latitude in playing times.

"Those fields will give us a decent place to practice," said Dean Hood, Ruidoso High School soccer coach. "It will help build our programs."

Between practices and league games, the three existing fields are used six days a week, about eight hours a day. Almager said they're also used during the fall and spring by the high school soccer team and little league football, baseball and soccer squads.

The Ruidoso School District has

one. The schools and village could host local and state tournaments in sports for youth and adults with the fields and complex, Almager said.

With the diamonds and additional soccer fields, Ruidoso High School could offer baseball, softball and even girls soccer as varsity sports. Currently, these sports are two soccer fields behind White Mountain School, one field at the high school, and one field behind the middle school. Almager described the two fields at White Mountain as "really bad" because they are riddled with gopher holes offered only through the independent summer leagues.

Via the joint agreement, plans were made for the multipurpose fields and an aquatic/recreation facility on 17 acres of school-owned land. The village would lease the land from the school district for $1 a year. In return, the district's athletic teams would get first priority for games on the grounds.

Village officials took the $12 million three-phase building plan to the state legislature for funding, but didn't receive a penny.

Citing the local demand for playing fields, the joint powers committee agreed in May to pursue construction of the fields independent of state financing.

But they do plan to go back to the legislature this winter and request funds for phase II and III of the project, Almager said.

Village councilors approved the committee's recommendation.

The legislature usually prefers to finance projects that have a lot of community support, Almager said. If the village makes a concerted effort to finance at least part of this project, the state may look more favorably on the entire project.

RHS freshmen face lunch on campus because of new rule

by DON HIXON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

When freshmen arrive at Ruidoso High School Aug. 23, a new policy will prevent them from leaving the campus during the lunch hour.

"This is not punitive in nature," RHS principal Ron Hodges said during Tuesday's school board meeting. "We're not taking something away from the incoming freshmen because it's something they didn't have, so it's not punitive."

Hodges said the policy was enacted because freshmen don't have the maturity to handle an off-campus lunch hour.

"As a parent, I'm not quite sure that I'd want my 13 or 14-year-old son or daughter going to town with a 19-year-old senior, and there are very few freshmen that drive," he said. "I don't feel that they have the maturation level to handle the responsibility."

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

The freshman class had the lowest grade point average in the 1994-95 school year, the highest dropout rate, the highest number of disciplinary referrals, the highest afternoon truancies, and the highest attendance rate in Saturday school.

"We're concentrating on freshman success," Hodges said. "It's imperative that we get those people through their freshman year."

Many school activities such as the chess club and the student council meet during the lunch hour, Hodges said, giving students added incentive to stay on campus.

"We plan on doing some things with intramural athletics and we have excellent cafeteria facilities this year," he added.

Hodges said he met with the student council in July, and "student council gave its blessing."

State official seeks child care opinions at Ruidoso meeting

Secretary Heather Wilson of Children, Youth and Families Department (CYFD) will be in Ruidoso Thursday, Aug. 17.

Rep. Dub Williams (R-Glencoe) and Wilson will discuss juvenile corrections and social service issues with local CYFD employees and judges. They will also discuss how the community and the department can work more closely together to address issues.

They will hold a town hall meeting from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. to discuss changes to child care licensing regulations and other issues at the Ruidoso Public School superintendent's boardroom at 200 Horton Circle.

"When Governor Gary Johnson appointed me to head CYFD, I took the job to make a difference in the lives of New Mexico's children and families," Wilson said. "I believe it's time to take a fresh look at the important issue of childcare because childcare impacts directly on so many families and is a concern for all parents. I look forward to hearing from parents, childcare providers and local leaders."

Across the nation, half of the women and children less than a year old are working outside the home, and by the turn of the century, 80% of the moms will be in the workforce.

In 1993, a survey of 5,000 Albuquerque workers at five corporations showed that 82% had typically used eight work days a year to deal with childcare problems.

"This town hall meeting is a great opportunity for citizens to bring up concerns about state government," Williams said. "Everyone interested in issues regarding the state and this department should attend this town hall meeting."

Ranchers approve predator control tax

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

National newscaster Sam Donaldson, who owns a ranch near Arabela, is among the Lincoln County ranchers who favor renewing a five-year predator control tax.

The star of the "Prime Time, Live" television show runs one of the largest sheep herds in the county on his 11,668-acre ranch about 30 miles east of Ruidoso.

The sizes of numerous ranches and herds in the county were compiled by the county in its effort to determine if the majority of ranchers wanted to continue a self-imposed, predator-control tax.

Currently, ranchers pay 25 cents per livestock head per year for the predator control, but the tax was due to expire this year.

Owners of more than 51% (the minimum required) of the livestock responded by signing petitions in favor of the tax's renewal for another five years at its same rate.

Owners of 64% of the cattle and 79% of the sheep responded, and all favored the tax, said County Manager Carolin Cooney.

The tax should generate $22,002, according to county figures.

The money collected by the program is used with federal and state money to control predators in the county. The program has helped double the number of trappers locally, according to literature supporting the tax. Predator control agents cover more than 1 million acres of private, federal and state land.

Predators were responsible for $183,660 in 1994 livestock losses in Lincoln County, according to Alex Lara, head of the animal damage control program office in Albuquerque.

During the same period, control agents killed nine black bears, 13 bobcats, 525 coyotes, one mountain lion and three gray foxes.

A total of 28,150 cattle and 59,856 goats and sheep graze in Lincoln County, according to the county government's tally.

Donaldson's ranch accounts for 463 of the cattle and 2,983 of the sheep in the responding group.

A New Mexico native who attended the military academy in Roswell, Donaldson started buying property in Lincoln County in 1989. Over the next three years, he purchased a total of 11,668 acres.

Of those returning the petitions, the largest sheep and goat herd belongs to the B & B Cattle Co., with 5,235 head, followed by the Bogle Farm with 3,464 head, and Roadrunner Ranches with 3,324. Donaldson comes in fourth with 2,983.

The big numbers in cattle ranchers who responded are found on the Canning Ranch with 1,242 head, the Hightower, Lord and Latile Ranch with 1,179, and Armstrong and Sons with 986.

Commissioners approved the continuation of the tax earlier this month.

"In the past 10 years, the number of new water taps installed annually by the village has increased from three to four a year to about 30 this past year," Shearer said. "Such growth in the local population places demands on the village's water supply, streets, utilities and other services."

"Our tax money helps support those services and we should recognize that basic planning will ensure greater stability for private property values."

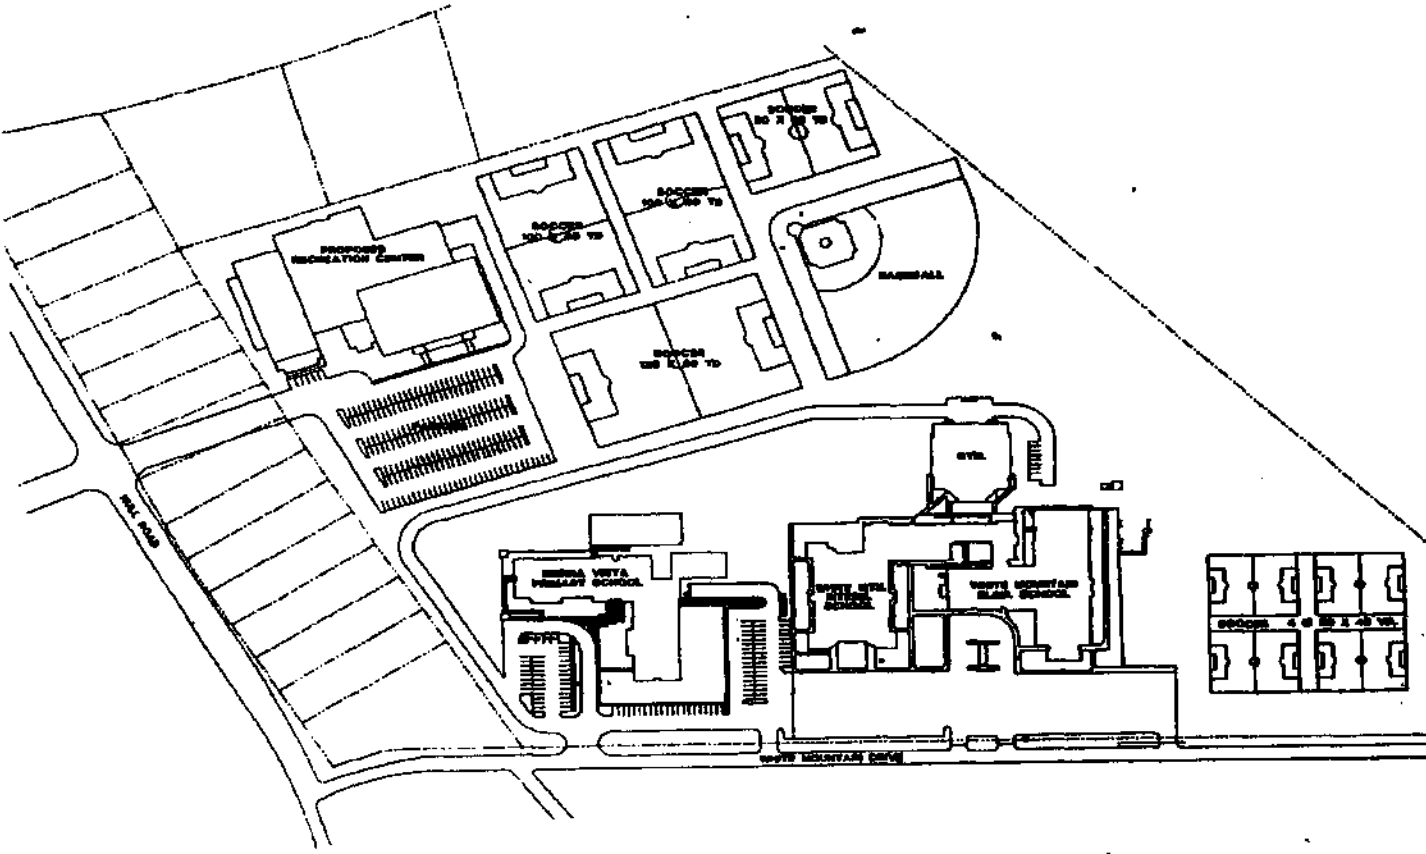

The village adopted a master plan several years ago. But to be officially recognized by the state and federal government, that plan must be accompanied by a zoning ordinance and zoning map, said Village Clerk Deborah Cummins.

"The (local) need for the ordinance depends on who you're talking to," she said. "But without the protection of an ordinance, the village may find itself facing an asbestos dump like Moriarty or some other obnoxious use that it can't stop."

A large map showing details of the zoning boundaries is on display at village hall, where a copy of the ordinance also is available for review.

Teachers on duty will be on alert to catch any offenders, but the majority of the burden to enforce the new rule will fall on parents, Hodges said.

"Parents should tell their freshman children that they can't go to town because it's a closed campus and a violation of school policy," he said.

New RMS principal

The school board Tuesday approved the hiring of Sergio Castanon as the new principal of Ruidoso Middle School.

Castanon replaces Paula Papponi, who accepted the superintendent of schools position in Carrizozo.

Castanon has been superintendent of schools at Hondo.

Fund helps students

A new fund to provide services to children was introduced at Tuesday's meeting by Paul Wirth, director of instructional services.

The Caitlin Robb Partner with Kids Memorial Fund will be managed by the First Christian Church. The fund will provide services like dental and eye exams, eyeglasses, clothing, emergency health care and special tutoring.

"The purpose of this fund is to meet the needs of children when no other resources or funds are available," Wirth said. "The fund is already set up and teachers have seen the application forms."

Employee changes

The board approved resignations from Middle School Principal Paula Papponi, who has accepted the superintendent of schools job in Carrizozo; RHS math teacher Bob Hemphill; district instructional assistant Paula Ingle; and Carolyn Farrar, superintendent of schools secretary, who accepted a job in Texas.

Joining the ranks of the school district are former school board member Mike Morris, who will teach history at RHS; and Linda Montoya, bilingual and math teacher at both RHS and the middle school. District speech therapist Rena Roberts and district psychological counselor Dr. Cara Wilson were also hired.

Board retreat

An executive board meeting will be held at 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18 at board President Ronnie Hemphill's house. The meeting is closed to the public and will deal with litigation, collective bargaining and personnel issues, the agenda says.

The public is invited to attend the second school board retreat meeting of the year, at 8 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 19 at Superintendent Mike Gladden's house. It is located a quarter-mile east of Fox Cave on Hwy. 70 East.

The next regular meeting of the school board will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 12 at the district offices at 200 Horton Circle.

Proposed zoning rules for Village of Capitan

The proposed zoning ordinance for Capitan would:

- establish land use zones called commercial, residential and rural suburban;
- establish set back requirements for buildings from front, rear and side lot lines;
- prohibit subdividing of any lot smaller than 65 feet wide and 100 feet long.
- establish the maximum height of buildings in the village at 35 feet.
- establish procedures for review of subdivisions, for changes in lot lines, for rezoning and to obtain special use permits and water taps;
- require a special use permit to install a mobile home in any zone, if the unit is older than 10 years;
- require mobile homes to be skirted and landscaped.
- establish criteria for fencing and accessory buildings;
- and establish rules for running a business in a home.

Fields

"This is a forward-thinking, collaborative effort," school Superintendent Mike Gladden said at Monday's joint powers meeting. "We're trying to create the best situation possible for kids."

Village Manager Gary Jackson said the athletic fields and a sports complex are not just for children. They will serve everyone in the community. However, he also noted that, "We shouldn't be bashful in saying we want to help kids in the community."

The athletic fields bond issue is one of the seven bond issues totalling $6.65 million that will be on the Aug. 22 bond election ballot. Voters may select the athletic fields bond issue separately from the other bond issues.

Passage of all the bond issues will not cost taxpayers more in property taxes, village officials said. The levies will replace taxes that already are being paid by property owners on maturing bond issues.

The athletic fields bond issue will cost those with property assessed at $60,000 about $29 a year, and those with property assessed at $90,000 about $43 a year.

COUNTY BRIEFS

County subdivision rules to be updated and improved

Lincoln County's subdivision regulations are getting the once-over by planning and zoning board members, county commissioners and residents.

County Manager Carolin Cooney will soak up the ideas for changes during a series of meetings starting with the zoning board at 7 p.m. Thursday at the county courthouse in Carrizozo. Commissioners have scheduled a hearing at 6:30 p.m., Aug. 24, at the Ruidoso Civic Events Center to listen to suggestions.

"We'll probably need two or three such hearings before you take any action," Cooney told commissioners earlier this month.

Commission Chairman Monroy Montes asked Cooney to pay special attention to possible changes, additions or deletions related to:

- outlining a better procedure to follow to accept subdivision roads for county maintenance. The procedure should spell out where the county will find the money to pay for the work and include a mechanism for assessments.
- keeping closer control over water use. That could include requiring a disclosure statement by developers guaranteeing adequate water; requiring developers and lot owners to form a water association to treat and distribute water; and placing limits on the density and types of housing permitted relative to the amount of water available.

Local input needed on water use planning boards

Lincoln County needs a voice on the water basin boards that play a role in deciding the future of water availability, said Howard Shanks of the South Central Recreation, Conservation and Development Council.

During a meeting earlier this month, he urged the county commission to appoint a representative to the Lower Pecos Basin Water Board covering a portion of the county in the Hondo Valley. The board meets in Roswell and, like other basin boards in the county, will look at determining current water needs, creating an inventory of the water supply, estimating future demand and mapping out the steps needed to meet that mark.

Commissioners appointed fellow member Stirling Spencer.

"If we don't have a statement on record that we need the water, another entity will take it," Shanks said, referring to one of the requirements to retain water rights in New Mexico.

The state is trying to establish in writing its population's water needs to provide a basis for fighting any challenge by other states to stream water flowing in New Mexico.

Previous unwise decisions and lack of planning have left Lincoln County officials unsure of the future local water supply, Spencer said. One of the most damaging moves of past village and county administrations occurred about 40 years ago when they allowed the city of Alamogordo to purchase the water rights of Bonito Lake reservoir, he said. The lake is Lincoln County's largest body of fresh water.

"It was a lack of foresight," Spencer said. "The rights were offered to Lincoln County, to the city of Carrizozo, but because of the shortsightedness, we lost it, for about $25,000."

The reservoir was created by the railroad to feed its steam engines, but became unnecessary with the introduction of diesel engines. It was sold with the water rights to Alamogordo, which pumps the water out of Lincoln County and into Otero County.

COUNTY BRIEFS

Sheriff buys four new patrol cars from Texas dealer

Four shiny new patrol cars were delivered Friday to the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office to replace four aging, high-mileage units.

Purchase of the 1995 Crown Victoria Fords from a dealer in Orange, Texas, was approved by Lincoln County commissioners earlier this month at a cost of $87,504.

Orange Ford submitted the low bid of $16,876 per vehicle compared to $20,745 each for 1995 Chevrolet Caprice Classics bid by Tillery Chevrolet in Albuquerque.

The Texas dealer also promised immediate delivery. The agency supplies law enforcement groups in the Southwest and has a 500-car inventory on its lot.

"We're currently outfitting (the cars) with radio and other emergency equipment," said Sheriff James McSwane. "We'll have them on the road as quickly as possible."

Commission may form local community action agency

Belonging to an economic opportunity board based in Albuquerque doesn't make sense to Lincoln County commissioners. They hope to convince state officials it would be more effective to align Lincoln with a board in southeast New Mexico.

Daniel Contreras, executive director of the Albuquerque-Bernalillo agency that works with the board, told commissioners recently Lincoln and Torrance counties were added to his agency's jurisdiction in 1981 in an effort to consolidate counties under existing community action groups.

This year, his agency received $12,643 to help low income households in Lincoln County to become self-sufficient.

"With the funding the state provides, it's pretty difficult to address all the needs in education, housing, employment and nutrition," Contreras said. "That's why we need representation on the board from Lincoln County, so you have a voice. We don't know your needs."

Most of the money goes toward the salary of a staff member who attempts to coordinate education, housing, and employment resources in the county, he said.

The county will either create its own action agency or join a closer existing group, Commission Chairman Monroy Montes said.

THE DREAMER

Evening Cloud Pageants

This is being sent to you just after high noon Aug. 10, a storybook perfect mid-summer day, with bright sunshine and blue sky with clouds moving in, against a light eastern breeze.

We are in the season of white rain clouds approaching over the mountains and rainbows and sunset and early evening color-pageants among the clouds.

Yesterday evening a light shower came riding down the valley on a west wind. Then the clouds moved on carrying their rain over the hill to the east.

While you watched, suddenly there appeared two rainbows arching the sky from one side of the valley to the hilltop on the other side.

Below these sky arches with their stripes of shining colors you could see the rain falling colored purple, gold and silver.

More clouds without rain came in from the west and the rainbows faded from sight.

Then some more clouds began approaching from the east — all with round tops extending high in the evening sky.

The east rays of the sun, now down behind the western hill, reached the top of these clouds turning them gold and pearl and opal. While lower down in this solid bank of clouds there now shone airy cloud and rain colors of crimson, orange, purple and very light green.

As twilight moved into the vale the colors faded away, and then at dusk, the lower ends

Lynn's Dog, Mack

I received a lift to my spirits by the arrival the first weekend of my brother Lynn Walter Storm, his son, Scott Joseph Storm and Scott's son, Joshua Nicholson Storm, affectionately known as "Josh."

Making the trip was Mack, Lynn's little white dog, who is the pride and joy of the Storm household.

Mack feels at home in the mountains, since his ancestors came from the highlands of Scotland.

He looks forward to every morning when Lynn takes him for a walk on the nearby golf course.

On the afternoon of Aug. 8, when I was up at Lynn's house, Mack began barking. I asked Lynn why and he said, "He's trying to tell me it's time to play golf."

With that, Lynn got a golf ball and began tossing it along the floor.

Mack would run after it and bring it back. After a while, Mack brought the ball and laid it at my feet much as to ask, "Do you want to play?" I tossed out the ball and he caught it and carried it away as if to say, "That's all for today."

Often when I think of Lynn and Mack out on the golf course I think of the song, "Old Dog Tray" by Stephen Foster, beloved American composer, author of "Old Black Joe," "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair," "Beautiful Dreamer" and other classics.

Her art is a joy...very special as she herself is...coming from a family in Kansas City her father whom she called "Daddy Bill" and a dancer-writer mother who encouraged her in the Sciences and arts.
Gloria showed a special talent as a child in drawing and had an interest in flowers plants and animals...she loved to do romantic studies of flowers and had a keen like for biology, this interest later would serve her well as she grew gardens and walls of colorful foliage. She began to seriously draw and paint these subjects often imbuing them with magical qualities. At eighteen she attended art school in New York City at the Phoenix School of Design and developed further at the Kansas City Art Inst.; studying under important art teachers like Fred James and Ross Braught. It was here she met art student Bill Rakocy fresh from the C.B.'s in the South Pacific who later became her husband. They both painted watercolors discovering its beautiful qualities. Raising a family they continue to paint and pursue dual art careers. In 1950, Gloria became a designer of greeting cards for the Hallmark Co. in K.C., MO. Gloria has since done commercial art and designing; adding to her business and art careers. Gloria's and Bill's love for the west promoted them to move from Missouri and Ohio in 1966 to New Mexico, her art continues to thrill and enchant art lovers and collectors. The artists have a studio in El Paso, Texas and are active in all the arts at the pass of the north and Ruidoso.

DWI checkpoints shouldn't be only reason to sober up

The 11th blitz of Operation DWI started Friday and it continues through Sunday. Unfortunately, as our county's statistics indicate, the law enforcement officers working the sobriety checkpoints probably will arrest some people for driving under the influence of alcohol.

With one DWI conviction for every 83 people in 1993, Ruidoso ranked 23rd out of 41 selected cities listed by the state for their higher rates. The county's repeat offender rate runs between 25% and 32%. Fifteen people died between 1990 and 1993 in alcohol-related traffic accidents, and 129 people were injured.

The statistics are sobering.

Tougher laws on the books might eventually help. A courtesy ride program that the county's DWI coordinator Charlie White is developing is a positive prevention idea and would undoubtedly prevent some intoxicated people from getting behind the wheel. The concert for youngsters scheduled Sept. 9 will show our young adults how to have a good time without alcohol.

But the real responsibility lies with each of us. We are the ones who must decide not to drink and drive — not just this week because the checkpoints are out, but every week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Vote no on local bond election

TO THE EDITOR:

In the last general election the majority of the people voted for a change in government, responsible people that would cut wasteful spending, lower taxes, better representation & etc.

Our local officials seem to have forgotten the above. The Village budget was originally $17.5 million for the year 95/96, until it was decided they needed $2 million more for a couple of items they overlooked. This budget was approved, whereas the City of Roswell with over three times the population had a budget for $30 million for 95/96.

The present people making the decisions for the budget and operations spent more time on the skateboard ordinance than they did on the fiscal budget. No one suggested a reduction, only a hefty increase for all departments.

No suggestion was made to lower the mill levy, only Wilton Howell, one of our county commissioners made this suggestion, but naturally he was outvoted. Naturally this represents more taxes that property owners will have to pay, since the county increased the assessed value by 15 to 30% this year.

Now our elected officials are asking us to consider an additional $7 million in bonds which will increase the tax base considerably for improvements, modifications, new structures & etc.

Hopefully the qualified electors of the Village of Ruidoso that pay taxes on property within the village limits will go to the polls and vote all issues down.

Naturally the school and the university will be making the same suggestion in the very near future. They seem to think that the taxpayer has a pocket filled that never runs empty.

Sen. Boxer can't cast first stone

TO THE EDITOR:

Watching Sen. Barbara Boxer's (D-Calif.) feigned indignation over the slow proceedings of Sen. Bob Packwood's (R-Ore.) sexual harassment allegations reminds this writer of the old cliché of "The pot calling the kettle black."

Sen. Boxer, while a member of the House of Representatives, had one of the highest incidences of writing bad checks against the House Bank. During Boxer's heated campaign for her seat in the U.S. Senate, she was reported in the press as giving a passionate mouth-to-mouth kiss to her female co-passenger while seated on top of a convertible at a gay and lesbian parade in San Francisco.

Sen. Boxer's outrage against her colleagues in the Senate brings to mind the Biblical quote, "Let he (or she) who is without sin, arise and cast the first stone."

Local artists' co-op is wonderful asset

TO THE EDITOR:

Over the last few months there has been a tremendous amount of publicity, not only in your newspaper, but in numerous other local and regional publications, concerning Ruidoso and Lincoln County, referencing the insurgence and emergence of artists in the area.

There seems to be a lot of people wanting to jump on the Dave McGary and/or The Museum of the Horse bandwagon and who are endeavoring to promote various galleries and other "art" outlets in the area.

Most of these galleries etc., which are being promoted, have nothing to do with local artists, but are strictly local commercial endeavors set up to take advantage of the local tourist trade.

Dave McGary is truly one of the finest artists in the world today and his work deserves all the notoriety and acclaim that it receives. The Museum of the Horse is one of the finest displays of history in the United States. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, the museum staff, and their programs seem very supportive of the local art community and deserve to be proud of what they have accomplished.

There is, however, one gallery, namely Lincoln County Artisans Co-op, (LCAC) which is dedicated to nothing but promoting local artists. I have not seen this gallery mentioned in your newspaper or in any of the other publications I have read over the last few months while visiting your community.

For those of you who are not aware, the gallery has recently changed locations and is now in midtown at the Four Seasons Mall. As I understand, this gallery was established by a small group of local artists who could not afford to individually set up a retail outlet for their work, so these artists got together and formed a co-op.

I have just returned from a visit to the LCAC gallery and am thrilled to learn that they have now grown to include over 30 local artists of varying talents. The work in the gallery is second to none that I have seen in Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico or western Texas, and the work is most reasonably priced.

A visit to LCAC Gallery will make every citizen of Lincoln County proud of the talent that is in your midst.

Local sculpture qualifies as true art

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter is in response to Brett Gorman's letter in the Monday, Aug. 7, issue of The Ruidoso News.

He called Candyce Garrett's sculpture "sex on the sidewalk." Using those values, Michelangelo's "David" and parts of his Sistine Chapel would be considered obscene. Next thing we know, the "Diary of Anne Frank" will be banned from our schools.

Your statement about being "sorry for any woman or girl who has been raped or assaulted that walked up on this so-called art" is unfounded. Just how many women have been raped because a man said this? Ten? Three? Or is it zero?

I won't make the mistake of painting a whole generation with a pretty broad brush. As part of my job, I've gotten to know a lot of older people, and many I consider friends.

LINCOLN COUNTY SCRAPBOOK

A glimpse into Lincoln County's past, compiled by Polly E. Chaves with excerpts from "A History of Lincoln County Post Offices."

White Oaks

In the year 1879, a traveler to California rested from his journey with two prospectors who were camped at White Oaks Springs between Patos and Carizo Mountain.

While sitting, he picked up some rocks he thought were pretty and put them in his pocket.

et. Back at the camp the rocks were recognized as gold ore. This resulted in the White Oaks gold rush and the establishment of the post office June 4, 1880.

The White Oaks post office was named for the trees at the old spring. John M. McCutcheon was the first postmaster. A stage line from San Antonio to Roswell operated by the Ozark Stages brought the mail.

The closing of the post office in 1964 marked the end of a community which started as one of the most promising in New Mexico.

Front-running Sixarunner coasts in Higheasterjet

Heavily-favored Sixarunner broke on top and never looked back en route to a 3/4-length victory in the $15,450 Higheasterjet Handicap.

The 4-year-old filly by Sixarun acted up in the gate prior to the race, but got away cleanly under jockey Nicky Wilson. She held a commanding 1 1/2-length advantage midway down the straightaway.

Nearing the wire, Sixarunner was still well clear of her rivals to win in easy fashion. The time of 17.54 was the fastest of the meet for 350 yards.

"She was real antsy in the gate today and way too anxious to run. Despite all of that she left real good," Wilson said. "She was loafing at the end and didn't run as good as I expected, but regardless I was really pleased."

Trainer Toby Keeton moved his stable to Ruidoso after finishing second in the Remington Park trainer standings.

"She didn't really run her race. She got a little ratty in the starting gate, and she just wasn't herself," Keeton said. "She didn't finish like she usually does. But it feels too good to win a race, no matter how she did it. She's been awfully good to us."

New owners, Betty and H. Henderson of Marble Falls, Texas, purchased Sixarunner privately three months ago and have seen a solid return on their investment.

The filly earned $6,870 for today's win and $6,413 as runner-up in the Grade I World's Championship Classic on July 30. Her career bankroll now stands at $160,000 from 12 wins in 22 starts.

Ole White Lightning and Three Runs finished in a dead heat for second.

Stakes winner Dart returns to form in Thursday's feature

Veteran stakes winner Dart reverted Thursday to the form that earned him $125,000 earlier in his career. He blew past the pacesetters to draw off by 4 3/4-lengths in the $6,250 claiming feature at Ruidoso Downs.

Owned and trained by Lynda Tanner of Phoenix, Dart layed just off the fast early pace of 21.4 and 44.4 set by 2-1 favorite Quinlan. In the turn for home jockey Ron Keckler angled Dart to the outside and he quickly assumed control of the lead to win handily.

The time of 1:03.3 for the 5 1/2 furlongs was the fastest time of the meet for the distance.

Dart, an 8-year-old Kentucky-bred gelding by Copelan, won the $80,000 Ruidoso Budweiser Breeders' Cup in 1993, but has only two wins in the last two years, both of them at Ruidoso Downs this summer.

NOTES: Nineteen-year-old jockey Kelly Evans won her first career thoroughbred race in Thursday's fifth event. She guided 9-5 favorite Special Deb to a wire-to-wire 2 1/2-length win in the six furlong maiden race.

Evans, a native of Sonita, Ariz., received her jockey's license four months ago and won her first race at the track in Safford, Ariz.

She also rode Ole White Lightning to a new track record for 250 yards at Ruidoso July 2.

The up-and-coming jockey rides solely for Arizona-based trainer Howard "Zip" Peterson.

Roythelittleone posts big win in Sunday's Ruidoso Derby

Roythelittleone tied a track record on his way to a convincing seven-length victory in Sunday's Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby.

Roythelittleone's 1:45 2/5 over the 1 1/16 mile tied a 1988 record set by High Aspect.

There was nothing diminutive about Roythelittleone's overwhelming victory in Sunday's $12,500 Guaranteed Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby at Ruidoso Downs.

After jockey Kenny Roller ushered him out of the starting gate, Roythelittleone toyed with Paradise Stranger on his first pass around the grandstand, and had a four-length lead by the time he reached the backstretch for 1 1/16 mile test.

The Kentucky-bred was seven lengths ahead of the pack when he crossed the finish line in 1:45 2/5, equalling the track record set by High Aspect on June 30, 1988.

Moonlight Gambler was a distant third, another 10 3/4 lengths back in the group of nine 3-year-olds.

The Derby was the first stakes win for Roythelittleone since he took the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity in a photo finish last summer. The Kentucky-bred is the first horse to take the double since the inaugural running of the derby in 1968.

Paul Smith conditions Roythelittleone for Roy Davis of McAllen, Texas. The runner is named after Davis' grandson.

"I didn't think he'd win that easily," Smith said. "He's a nice horse but he's kind of a rogue, and he'll get bull headed if you don't watch him. There was no pressure on him today, so he got to run his type of race. I've always known he had a lot of speed. He set a track record for 6 1/2 furlongs in Albuquerque in March."

The Derby was the second straight win Sunday for Roller, who took the day's eighth race with Final Frontier.

"He dropped his head leaving the gate and relaxed the whole way and won as easy as can be," said Roller, enjoying his first stakes win of the meeting. "He's back to his old self, the horse that won five out of five races earlier in his career."

The Derby was the seventh win out of 11 starts for Roythelittleone, who boosted his earnings to $59,788 with the winner's share of the Derby. As the second favorite in the field, Roythelittleone returned $7.00, $5.80 and $5.40.

Runnerup Herewego, ridden by Todd Fincher, returned $5.20 and $3.80 for place, and third place Moonlight Gambler was worth $3.80 to show.

Son of Sol, the slight favorite in the field, finished last in a disappointing performance.

Attack wins league, but the Merchants take tourney title

It seemed a fitting end to the men's softball league when the top two teams split honors.

Radio Shack Attack posted a nifty 26-2 record to capture the regular season title. The Merchants, who ended with a 27-3 mark, cruised through the season-ending league tournament for that crown.

The No. 2-seeded Merchants and the Outlaws, Homeboys and Sharks to reach the championship game. They then eliminated the Homeboys, 5-4, for the tourney title.

New Border Trade Network on-line

Companies interested in selling to U.S. manufacturing plants located in Mexico now have another source of information to help them.

The Border Trade Network is a database service provided by The New Mexico State University Border Research Institute and New Mexico Technet. The service includes NAFTA information, World Bank projects in Mexico, GATT information, trade leads and an annual update of manufacturing plants in Juárez.

Juárez, bordering El Paso, Texas, contains the largest concentration of plants in Mexico, almost all U.S. owned. The Border Trade Network directory provides names, locations, phone and fax numbers and any affiliate companies in the border region and U.S. parent companies.

The Border Trade Network can be accessed via computer through New Mexico Technet. For a demonstration of the directory and its capabilities, or to request information, contact the Border Research Institute at New Mexico State University (505-646-3524) or New Mexico Technet (505-345-6555).

Greenhouse and saw shop helps keep garden green and tools sharp

by DON HIXON

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ce Ce's Greenhouse is a gardener's delight, filled with flowers, trees, plants and herbs.

Ce Ce and Rene Bustamante recently opened the greenhouse in Alto, and their nursery is stocked with annual and perennial flowers, trees and fertilizers.

"We sell only natural and organic manures and fertilizers," Rene said. "We don't use any chemical fertilizers."

Ce Ce's Greenhouse has a large selection of gardening tools and hardware goods, bird baths, feeders and lawn and garden ornaments.

An entire section of the greenhouse is dedicated to herbs.

"We stock different varieties of herbs weekly," he said. "If we don't have it and a customer wants it, we can get it."

The greenhouse also sells vegetable plants, seeds and bulbs.

"This fall we'll be selling a lot of the bulbs in September, because that's the best time to plant perennials with a spring follow up," Bustamante said. "We'll be stocking mostly perennial plants by September."

The Bustamantes' background in plant care makes gardening advice another readily available commodity at Ce Ce's Greenhouse.

Ce Ce was raised as a farm girl in Seagraves, Texas and has always loved plants and gardening, Rene said.

"She's been in farming all her life and loves plants so she decided to go ahead and open the greenhouse," he said.

Rene also owns Tree Masters, a tree removal, trimming, spraying and tree care service that has been in business since 1978. He worked for the U. S. Forest Service from 1978 to 1979, and also gives lessons on tree and plant care.

"I've studied tree and plant diseases and insects for many years," he said. "I try to follow up and offer advice on any problems that people might have with plant life."

Ce Ce's Greenhouse also raises trees and sells small Douglas fir and white spruce saplings, Rene said.

"We're trying to replace some of the Ponderosa pines because of the problem they are having with dwarf mistletoe infestation," he said. "People find it convenient that we sell replacement trees."

Most of the saplings at the greenhouse sell for $5 and are raised on the premises.

Ce Ce's Greenhouse is located at 1700 Mechem Drive behind the Alto Store. It is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Rene has also opened the new Alto Saw Shop next door to the greenhouse. The saw shop is a Husqvarna dealer and features sales and service on small equipment, chain saws and lawnmowers.

"The idea behind the saw shop is to be like a logger's emporium offering items like hard hats, gloves, oils and chains," Rene said. "Everything a woodcutter needs for their job."

Ken Kingston, former owner of Capitan Saw Shop, is the mechanic at the Alto Saw Shop and specializes in maintenance and repair of small equipment, Rene said.

The phone number for both Alto Saw Shop and Ce Ce's Greenhouse is 336-4051.

PET CORNER

These pets are currently up for adoption at Lincoln County Humane Society
Call 257-9841

Buddy is a 2-year-old male, who appears to be a Sharpei/Labrador mix. He was loose on Gavilan Canyon Road. He's lively, alert and looking for a buddy to take care of him and occasionally throw a ball.

Bartholamew, an attractive 6-month-old white retriever/spaniel, was left at the shelter a few weeks ago. He's affectionate and willing to learn with some patient instruction and gentle attention.

Although New Mexico state law prohibits children from riding in the back of pickup trucks, it's common to see the family dog bouncing around in the truck bed.

Carrying an unrestrained dog in the back of a pickup is dangerous to the dog and often to humans following in traffic, said Jim Riggins, director of Lincoln County Humane Society shelter.

The dog risks falling out of the moving truck. The humans risk injury from trying to avoid the falling dog.

"Every owner claims that his dog would never fall out, but after 10 years in this business, I know there is no 'never,'" Riggins said. "I've had to euthanize broken animals or treat their scrapes and bruises."

"I've seen major accidents because a dog has fallen."

A dog's sinuses, ear tissue or delicate membranes of its eyes also can be injured because of the constant wind, Riggins said.

A dog may become territorial with the truck bed as he would a yard, he said.

"While that may be handy to protect tools, it could prove expensive if a dog reaches out and bites someone," he said.

Heat from the truck bed can burn the pads of a dog's feet, Riggins said.

"A small blue heeler was in the back of a dark blue pickup. The paint on the bed was so hot that the dog was literally dancing from foot to foot to keep from burning," Riggins said. "He also was very protective of the empty truck and it was tough for me to get close enough to throw an old towel in with him. Once he noticed the patch of protection, he seemed very relieved to have it."

The only safe way for a dog to ride in the back of a pickup is to kennel or cross tie it, although neither would offer much protection in an accident, he said.

"A cross tie attached the dog's collar and at two places in the bed allows the dog to stand up, but makes it impossible to jump or fall over the side," Riggins said. "A single rope or lead becomes a hangman's noose and often breaks a dog's neck if the animal is thrown or tries to jump."

The safest solution is to treat man's best friend like a best friend and allow the dog to ride inside the truck cab. In the heat of summer, it may be better to leave your buddy at home under a cool shade tree.

Call Riggins at 257-9841 for help rigging a cross tie.
