Controlled burn turns into wildfire

Fanned by high winds, a controlled burning of wood and brush in the Cibola National Forest west of Corona ballooned into a wildfire that threatened private cabins Wednesday.

U.S. Forest Service officials intended to burn off dead trees and ground cover in the Pinatosa area in the southeast section of the forest. They started the fire at 11:20 a.m. Tuesday, but strong winds unexpectedly kicked up within a few hours, causing the fire to jump Forest Road 99, eight miles west of Corona.

By this morning, about 1,300 acres of mostly Ponderosa pine and mixed conifer had burned. The town of Corona at the northern edge of Lincoln County was not in danger. The flames were about 10 miles away and the wind was headed in a different direction from Corona, according to a town spokesman.

No structures had been destroyed by the time a Forest Service update was issued about 9 a.m. Wednesday. The wind was anticipated to pick up during Wednesday, building to 20-30 mph.

That type of wind could cause spot fires to develop up to a quarter-mile beyond the fire line. If that happens, a few cabins, some wells, power lines and windmills may be endangered, according to Bill Duemling of the state Forestry Division.

Fire incident commander Jerome MacDonald hope the fire will be contained by 6 p.m. Thursday and controlled by 6 p.m. Friday. By the time the hot spots are extinguished, about 6,000 acres inside Lincoln County probably will have burned, Duemling said.

The controlled burn was originally designed to cover 6,000 acres, but the fire is outside the originally-designated boundaries of that burn, he said.

"They've built one mile of fire line (to contain the flames) and have three miles left to build," Duemling said.

About 151 firefighters from villages, tribal groups, the county and the Forest Service are battling the blaze. The cost of fighting the fire so far is estimated at $60,000, but that figure is expected to hit $240,000 before the fire is controlled.

A helicopter is expected to drop water on the fire today.

One airline cuts flights; one flies in

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso's lone commercial airline, Lone Star, is again cutting its flights because of low passenger loads.

At the same time, a new air service will offer charter flights from the mesa-top regional airport for scenic tours and business trips.

Scenic Airlines would also schedule regular flights to specific areas if there is a demand, said Tim Hubble, director of stations.

Lone Star Airlines will cut its two daily Dallas roundtrip flights to one on April 1 because planes aren't filling up, a company executive said.

It's the second major Lone Star service cut since it came to Ruidoso in September, filling a multi-year void in commercial airline passenger service. In October, the airline cut El Paso out of its Ruidoso-Roswell-Dallas weekday route, citing poor passenger loads. Daily flights to Dallas then doubled to two on weekdays, and later were offered twice daily.

At that time, passenger loads to and from Dallas were higher than expected, executive David Rescino said.

But that picture has changed. "The Ruidoso traffic has been the lightest of all our markets," Rescino said Tuesday.

Because a plane is needed for a busier market, "We decided to go in there and get the airplane needed," Rescino explained.

In recent days, much of the traffic out of Ruidoso's Sierra Blanca Regional Airport could fit on one plane, he said.

With 48 roundtrip flights offered to Dallas/Fort Worth in February, only 100 passengers flew out of Ruidoso — an average plane passenger load factor of 12%, Rescino said.

"We were hoping for much better numbers out of Ruidoso when the skiing was good," Rescino said. "But we're expecting wonderful things for the (horse) racing season."

With the flight reduction, Lone Star will offer one midday roundtrip flight to Roswell and Dallas, seven days a week starting April 1. Fares to Dallas range from $358 for walk-up customers to $169 for 21-day advance purchases. Fares to Roswell range from a no-reservation $108 price to the 21-day advance rate of $94.

Bus tours attract Scenic

Scenic Airlines plans to offer the tours on six-seater Cessna 207 planes, beginning April 15. The Ruidoso Village Council on Tuesday approved a $100-per-month airport ramp space lease for the airline.

Based in Las Vegas, Nev., the Ruidoso air service will have two or three planes on hand at the airport, airport manager Tim Morris said.

"Our main goal is to move into Ruidoso and see what opportunities are there for us," Hubble said. "This will be our smallest operation, but we'll try to make it grow."

Roundtrip and single price fares for passengers haven't been established yet, but once the Scenic Airline crew arrives in Ruidoso, Hubble said he will measure routes and set fees.

A contract tied to existing motor coach tours motivated Scenic Airlines to locate in Ruidoso, Hubble said. Tauck Tours motor coach line brings passengers from El Paso to the Inn of the Mountain Gods, and guests will be able to fly Scenic Airlines to Carlsbad Caverns on Sundays and Thursdays (plus Tuesdays in September and October).

The Tauck Tours contract with Scenic Airlines begins April 15 and expires in October, but Hubble anticipates it will be renewed again for April, 1997.

Meanwhile, the airline hopes to keep busy flying scenic tours above Lincoln, the Capitan or the Tularosa Basin. Hubble said airline officials also hope to charter flights to Albuquerque or other areas requested by residents.

"If there's a great demand, we'd set up a schedule," he said from his Scottsdale, Ariz. office. "We'd like to make this a year-round venture."

Sheriff's office may have fake vehicle bids

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A Ruidoso Downs body shop owner says the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office didn't seek a bid from him, even though a sheriff's office telephone quote form says it did. The bid was awarded to an Alamogordo firm.

The employees who collected the quotes and signed the form may have violated the state procurement code.

The issue has prompted County Commissioner Wilton Howell to ask the county manager to study the county bidding rules, because he wants to make sure local businesses get to bid on county jobs.

Sheriff's Office Administrative Assistant Laurie Ventura signed a telephone quote form showing that three prices were obtained Jan. 24 for painting two Chevy Blazers.

The first name listed on the form is Bustamonte's Body Shop with a price of $700 for each Blazer.

But Frank Bustamonte, owner of the shop in Ruidoso Downs, said Tuesday he never was contacted by anyone from the sheriff's office about painting the Blazers.

"I haven't had a telephone for five years," Bustamonte said. "They have walked in from the sheriff's department before, but not on this one. I did a job for them two months ago." The work consisted of fixing a back panel and putting a sign on a door, he said. Bustamonte added he would welcome future jobs from the sheriff's office.

The painting jobs were awarded to S & C Glass and Car Care in Alamogordo for $500 each. The third quote was listed as coming from Vision Ford in Alamogordo for $609.50 each.

Randy Munoz with Vision's body shop said he doesn't recall being

Village building projects move closer to completion

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso should have new athletic fields, a new library, and better water pressure by the summer of 1997.

Four architectural firms have taken the lead in Ruidoso's "fast track" relay to construct $6.65 million worth of projects with voter-approved bond issues.

The design and the construction firm bidding process could now take several months, Jackson said.

After construction firms are chosen, most building projects could be finished in less than 11 months, Village Manager Gary Jackson said.

The infrastructure projects have been kept on the "fast track" because of the community's need and demand for the improvements, Jackson said.

"We had 51 proposals for all the different bond projects, which gave us a very good selection (of firms) to pick from," Jackson said before the meeting.

Architect selections were based on qualifications, he said. Two firms in Lincoln County were among the bidders, but weren't selected. Two Ruidoso firms, however, have been separately hired as subcontractors by Wilson Engineers and Design Workshops.

Councilors last night awarded a contract to Design Workshops, the Albuquerque firm that will design construction of athletic fields.

Two weeks ago, councilors awarded bids to ASA Architects-Engineers for a new library, senior center and convention center renovation, and village hall expansion. Wilson and Company, Engineers and Architects was chosen to design village's water and sewer system improvements.

Conceptual designs are underway.

Grindstone Water Treatment Plant so it can treat 2 million gallons of water each day is also in the works. This bond issue was also approved by voters in August.

John Carollo Engineers of Phoenix, Ariz., the firm that designed the original plant last year, is drafting piping additions. Contractors will then add the pipes to the Grindstone foundation, which already has the superstructure in place.

"This will significantly cut down on cost and time," Jackson said of the existing structural work.

When installation takes place — possibly in July — the existing filtration plant must be shut down for 7-10 days, Jackson said.

"We'll just have to time it right," he said. "If we're at peak (water) use, it won't be acceptable to take it off line for a week or week and a half."

Water, sewer repairs

Wilson Engineers of Albuquerque will design replacements for undersized two-inch water lines serving about 25 miles of Ruidoso.

Water volume will vastly improve with the new lines, Jackson said.

The same firm will be handling improvements to cracked underground sewer lines that allow infiltration of river and ground water. This causes higher expenses than needed at the water treatment plant.

Company engineers will also help village staff figure out how to deal with a "continued, severe drought," Jackson said.

Since being awarded the design contract Feb. 27, Wilson has preliminarily identified sewer line infiltration sites and undersized lines along the Rio Ruidoso and Sudderth Drive.

Plans for that segment of the infiltration repair project (one of several for the system) should go out to bid by the end of March, Jackson said.

Athletic fields

A committee representing the Ruidoso School District and village is involved in the conceptual designs of the athletic fields near White Mountain school.

Plans call for seven multi-use fields and two regulation-sized fields for baseball and softball.

If bids for the fields go out by early May, construction could be completed in the fall, Jackson said. But they'll need to be covered with grass before they're ready for play in 1997.

Building projects

With one contract, ASA Architects of Las Cruces will design four building construction projects.

A 15,000 square-foot library is planned next to village hall on Kansas City Drive. A Library Board committee is helping with this design. Once construction begins, it could be completed in 10 or 11 months, Jackson said.

The village's senior center will expand to take over the existing library.

Design work on expansions of the Ruidoso Convention and Civic Events Center and village hall will take place at the same time as the two other design projects.

"ASA has enough architects to work on the designs simultaneously," Jackson said.

Howell plans bid for second term

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Tackling controversial issues has propelled Wilton Howell to the forefront of many debates since he was elected to the Lincoln County Commission in 1992.

He stepped on the sheriff's toes by calling for more accountability of the sheriff's office narcotics task force. He crunched some other government toes when he advocated a drop in taxes while returning to basics in county government, especially in the road department.

"I like to think that I can help people access the system," Howell said Monday in announcing he will run for a second, four-year term in the June 4 primary. "Certain people need help and don't know how to access on their own. I try to point them in the right direction or seek out the information for them."

The 46-year-old Republican represents District 3, an area primarily in Ruidoso and roughly defined by Eagle Creek to the north, Mechem Drive to the west, Gavilan Canyon to the east and Sudderth Drive to the south.

Howell owns One Stop Auto and Plant Nursery in Ruidoso and a trailer park and car wash in Ruidoso Downs. He said he ran in 1992 "to give representation to this side of the mountain. I've been told that 70% of county taxes comes from this area, but the percentage of representation on the board in 1992 was much lower."

With that election, the commission expanded from three to five members, each elected by voters from the district where they live.

That approach means it's more likely a representative will be elected with views in line with those local voters, Howell said.

Since he was elected, Howell said he has fought for openness in government.

"I believe the process belongs to the people," he said. "Someone in the audience may have the solution to a problem. They can only help if they know what the subject is."

During the past year, Howell has become more vocal about shrinking local government back to handling the basics.

"We have no right to continue to fund special projects, whether they occur in the county or villages, until we can take care of the basic needs — and one of the biggest is a water supply," Howell said.

Some other goals he cited for a second term include lowering county taxes; demanding accountability by employees and department heads for actions and expenditures; encouraging departments to do business at home, if possible; and finding a worthwhile use for Fort Stanton (closed as a state hospital in March 1995).

Howell moved to Ruidoso from Brownfield, Texas when he was five. He graduated from high school in 1968. He and wife, Demaris, a second grade teacher at Sierra Vista, have one daughter.

Municipal judge seeks probate judge position

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

With three years of experience under his belt as Capitan municipal judge, Jack Johnson has decided to take a run at the office of Lincoln County probate judge on the Democratic ticket in the June 4 primary.

"The knowledge and insight I've gained as municipal judge should be an asset in the probate position," he said.

His background has prepared him to step into the job of handling informal probate cases involving small estates and uncontested wills.

Large estates or contested wills are handled in district court. Any property not held in joint tenancy by a husband and wife, parents and child or other partners usually requires a probate judge.

The county probate judge is paid an annual salary of $7,015 and serves a four-year term. J.O. "Bud" Payne, a Republican, is the incumbent probate judge for Lincoln County and has not announced whether he will seek re-election. Primary winners will face each other in the general election on Nov. 5.

Johnson was born in Santa Rosa and graduated from Vaughn High School in 1948.

He was raised and worked on his family's ranches in Guadalupe County until the age of 30, when he was accepted into the New Mexico State Police Academy.

He served as a commissioned New Mexico State Police patrolman for 13 years, was promoted to sergeant and then transferred to Lincoln County. He served both Lincoln and Otero counties for the next 13 years and retired from the force in 1985.

During his police career, Johnson said he amassed many hours of schooling on police and court procedures. He was instrumental in starting the Lincoln County Mental Health Services, and served on the Area Six Mental Health Board for several years. He also was a supervisor on the Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation Board and now is a member of the Capitan Chamber of Commerce and the Friends of Smokey.

Married to Marguerite "Chuck" Johnson for 25 years, Johnson has lived in Capitan for 25 years. The couple has four children, including triplet sons who live in other areas and Jane Terrel, who formerly was greenhouse therapist at Fort Stanton and now teaches special education for the Mescalero schools.

Since Ruidoso's annexation committee reduced a proposed annexation area in Carrizo Canyon to 50 acres, new letters of intent will be sent to affected property owners, committee members decided Tuesday.

The second round of letters, which will go to about 50 property owners abutting Carrizo Canyon Road, will explain the scope of the annexation plan, committee chairman Robert Donaldson said.

The new letters will also let the Carrizo land owners know the village can force annexation if they balk at the proposal.

"The letters of intent won't determine if we'll annex but how we'll annex," Donaldson said after the meeting. "If we get 51% of the property owners to go for annexation, then we can go by ordinance instead of forcing it by boundary commission."

All the village would have to prove to state boundary commissioners is its ability to service these neighboring properties, Robertson said.

About a third of the developed Carrizo-area properties already are serviced by village water and sewer, or they have wells, Planning Director Cleatus Richards said.

Village Planning Department staff will draft the letters.

The land and buildings in the proposed annexation area are worth $1.7 million. The area would yield about $8,658 in property tax each year for Ruidoso, Richards said.

About 70% of the Carrizo area property owners who received previous village annexation notices either didn't respond or responded negatively. At that time, about 100 landowners were notified of the village's intent to add roughly 325 acres of Carrizo Canyon land to Ruidoso.

But in February, after reviewing the high cost of providing water to undeveloped tracts within that acreage, committee members said it was impractical. They opted instead to limit annexation to 50 acres fronting Carrizo Canyon Road.

Tuesday's village council decisions

Following is the action taken at the regular Ruidoso Village Council meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 12 at village hall.

Councilors approved:
— Annexation and initial zoning of nearly 33 acres in three separate tracts of land along Mechem Drive. The annexation was approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission Feb. 5. Tracts are listed below.

— Ordinance 96-02, for annexation of the amended Morgan tract, Montgomery tract number 1, Fowler tract, and Blagrand tract 1&3.

— Ordinance 96-03, for annexation of the amended Tili Thompson tract.

— Ordinance 96-04, for annexation of Forest Lawn Cemetery in the northwest quarter of section 15T11N, R13E, NMPM.

— Ordinance 96-05, creating the Scenic Byways Committee.

REGULAR ITEMS
— Councilors approved a contract award for design of athletic fields to Design Workshops.

— Councilors approved Planning Vacation 96-001, vacation of public right-of-way, lot 3, block P, Ruidoso Springs Subdivision.

— Councilors awarded financial and govt. land base software bid to New World Systems.

— Councilors will schedule a workshop to discuss the Parks and Recreation master plan. Village staff will notify the public of the workshop's date and time once it's set.

— Councilors sent back to the Planning and Zoning Commission a recommended amendment to the municipal code. Planners want to delete sections listing legal and prohibited home occupations. Councilors agreed with Planning Director Cleatus Richards that the sections in question should be rewritten, but kept.

BOARD APPOINTMENTS
CONSENT REGULAR ITEMS

Approval of village council meeting minutes.

— Scheduled organizational meeting of the village council for 4 p.m. Thursday, March 14.

— Authorized solicitation of proposals for job descriptions/pay and classification plan.

— Approved lease agreement with Scenic Airlines for ramp space at the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

Bids

called by a sheriff's employee, but he only keeps records of written bids.

County commissioners agreed to ask County Manager Frank Potter last week to look into possible violations of the procurement code, and a copy of the sheriff's office Blazer phone bid was given to Potter. Potter said Tuesday he had not yet contacted Ventura. He has been focusing on developing clearer guidelines and procedures to ensure violations do not occur in the future, he said.

Ventura said she relied on Frank Hooper with the sheriff's narcotics task force to collect the quotes. Hooper is in Florida this week for special training and was unavailable for comment.

"They are my undercover vehicles," an angry Ventura said Tuesday from her office in Carrizozo. "Let's just advertise to the whole world what we've got and where we get them painted and how much it costs and what color we did it...."

"I can't seem to get anything done around here confidentially, not a damn thing," she said. "These gentlemen want everything done in an open meeting."

Commissioner Wilton Howell said he just wants county employees to do what's right.

"There's a right way and wrong way to do things, and the right way is to let the people participate in the process," Howell said. "When someone goes out for quotes or bids, they need to let businesses in Lincoln County bid on the work. The next time someone wants to circumvent the code, I'd find out first if the business has a phone before putting the name on a phone bid."

"What's been done might not be illegal, but it sure is wrong."

If commissioners had questions, they should have called her, Ventura said.

"What is it with this commission that they can't contact this office?" she asked. "I'm here all the time and these people never call to ask me a thing."

County bidding rules

Potter, who has been on the job about one month, said the county purchasing manual is vague about who has the authority to sign quote forms and who should collect the information.

"I'm not sure how they have been doing it," he said. Apparently, at least one person in each department has been authorized to sign quote and bid documents, he said.

The county approved its procurement code in the form of a resolution, but it is based on the state procurement code.

According to the resolution, purchases from $901 to $1,500 require three telephone or written quotes. Any person who violates the procedure may be subject to a $1,000 civil penalty. However, the manual allows only two documented quotes if three quotes cannot be found, Potter said.

"But we don't want anybody using that to blatantly try to circumvent the code," he said.

County board appointees

Bob Proffit was appointed by the Lincoln County Commission last week to the Senior Citizens Olympic Committee.

David Koch was reappointed to the Public Lands Use Advisory Council. His seat was declared vacant when he missed three consecutive meetings while he was away fighting forest fires. Commissioner Bill Schwetzmann said Koch wanted to retain his post.

Jazz trio third in local concert series

The Lenny Solomon Jazz Trio pays homage to the giants of jazz at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 15, at the First Christian Church.

This program is the third of the 1995-96 Ruidoso Community Concert Association season. Admission is by season subscription to the Ruidoso Community Concert Association.

The Lenny Solomon Jazz Trio is a musical tour down memory lane, incorporating the music of composers such as George Gershwin, Jerome Kern, Duke Ellington and Rodgers and Hammerstein. The bright and breezy trio promises a show not to be missed. Additional information is available by calling 336-4015.

Teen piano whiz performs at Mescalero Nightclub for six days

Veteran 16-year-old "piano man" Tony Ford will perform at the Mescalero nightclub Thursday through Tuesday, March 14-19.

Dance sets will be played from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The nightclub is located Carrizo Canyon Road in Ruidoso. This will be the club's first entertainment venture.

Special arrangements have been made for those under 18 to join in seeing Ford, billed as the newest oldies/rock/country sensation.

Ford has already opened shows for many major stars since the age of eight, when he opened for Cher. He has done the Statler Brothers Show, the Joan Rivers Show and was a multi-winner in Ed McMahon's Star Search series when very young.

Producer Gail Sanborn said Ford is "so incredibly talented it's scary." Aaron Tippin remarked that he was awed when Ford opened for him a few years ago. The piano kid stole the show, and also learned sax from one of Tippin's musicians in the afternoon during the sound check, Tippin related.

On his mother's side, Ford is directly related to Pat Garrett, the sheriff who is credited with shooting Billy the Kid. Ford is planning extensive trips around this area to "go back to his roots," so to speak.

On his father's side, he is also great-grand-nephew of country music legend Tennessee Ernie Ford, and is directly related to the Fords who shot Jesse James. This has been a homecoming of sorts for Ford since he's never been in New Mexico, and has been considering making his headquarters here.

Ford is about to sign a major recording deal in Los Angeles and would be commuting between L.A. and Nashville and his home near Atlanta, Ga.

Mescalero Nightclub officials hope to bring in more entertainers as they pass between Texas and Arizona and on to California for tours. The club has already received calls from George Jones, the Kentucky Headhunters and many more, giving the club their open routing dates.

Crowd cheers Jim Talbot band

by DON HIXON
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

About 400 friends welcomed the Jim Talbot Band to the Ruidoso Civic Events Center Saturday.

When that many people attend an event in Ruidoso, it's a strong vote of support, and Talbot and his band showed their appreciation by letting loose with song after song of traditional and original blues.

The concert was the third installment in the six-part TNT Concert/Dance series to benefit the Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers program.

Talbot was first introduced to Ruidoso by Municipal Judge Mike Line, who caught the blues artist's act in Austin, Texas. Line invited Talbot to play at his birthday party and he's been coming back ever since. Talbot even thanks Line for his years of support on the jacket of his album, "Headed Down The Road."

Looking every bit the part, the three bluesmen — Talbot on guitar, Appa Perry on bass, and drummer Bill Sneeringer — packed the dance floor as they served up tasty blues-plate specials like Willie Nelson's "Night Life" and Albert King's "I Play the Blues for You."

While the crowd whistled and cheered, Talbot perched on the edge of the stage and demonstrated his laid-back blues guitar style with original songs like "Won't Stay Worried" and "Good Little Woman."

Local Realtor Harvey Foster has been a Talbot fan since he saw the band perform at the Texas Club last spring.

"I was just enthralled with the sound," Foster said. "Hopefully they will come back again soon."

The concert series is demonstrating that there is a market for music other than country in Ruidoso, he said.

"The response of the audience, getting up and dancing to the music, was wonderful," Foster said. "It's something different than the country and western, and Talbot has a really good rhythm and blues sound."

Talbot had promised to play long sets depending on the crowd response. With a packed dance floor, the band churned out blues song after blues song.

"I really enjoy coming to Ruidoso," the soft-spoken Talbot said during a short break. "Every time we come we make more friends."

The TNT concert series continues at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 23, with the up-tempo pop/rock sounds of Catch 22 from Lubbock, Texas.

Tickets are $5 in advance and $7 at the door. Advance tickets are on sale at the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce at 720 Sudderth Drive, Farley's Food, Fun and Pub at 1200 Mechem Drive and the main Showtime Video at 1715 Sudderth Drive.

Watch for village newsletter with water conservation tips

When you get a mailing from the Ruidoso government next week, please don't throw it away.

The "Village Views" newsletter will offer tips on water conservation. This area is experiencing an extended drought, and the village is in phase 3 of its water contingency plan, imposing its strongest water conservation measures. Village wells are not recharging as they should, and snow runoff forecasts are bleak. Outdoor watering is prohibited, and indoor rationing is strongly encouraged in this phase.

The newsletter shows how every resident can save up to 47 gallons of water each day with little effort. Shorten your shower to five minutes and you'll save 25 gallons each day. Turn off the faucet each time you brush your teeth and you'll save six gallons each day. Install a 1.6-gallon toilet and you'll save 16 gallons each day (or put a separate container of water in the toilet so less water is used during flushing). If everyone saved 47 gallons each day, that would add up to 329,000 gallons each day and 9.87 million gallons each month in Ruidoso.

Businesses can also do their part; for example, village officials are asking restaurants not to serve water to customers unless it is requested.

The village council Tuesday night joked about a slogan: "If it's yellow, let it mellow; if it's brown, flush it down." Hopefully we won't have to go that far.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Teenager should blame only himself

TO THE EDITOR:

On 03/06/96, The Ruidoso News printed a letter to the editor by Matthew Filip ("Criminal case handled unfairly"). The letter is a sob story full of half truths written in an attempt to attract sympathy.

I researched and found the truth behind Filip's whimper for public support. Filip was arrested for escaping the Boy's School as he stated — not stating the other seven reasons. They are: minor allowing self to be served, two counts of resisting an officer, battery on an officer, possession of drug paraphernalia, possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, and concealing identity.

His letter attacked the arresting officer, Sgt. Achterberg, and the legal system. Filip wrote he went to Springer for assault and battery on school personnel with a Super Soaker water gun. Understand, judges will not send boys to Springer over a water gun. Filip explained that now he has a felony on record. This is not true. Assault and battery on school personnel is a misdemeanor.

Why is Filip angry and why is he blaming everyone for his troubles? It's possible that as a juvenile the legal system worked; now he's over 18 and the system doesn't? That's too bad. Filip wrote his letter not for sympathy but hoped to open the eyes of Ruidoso, especially the parents. Before passing judgment on Ruidoso or the legal system, read this.

He writes that at the time of his sentencing he was a senior, living on his own and supporting himself. Question: "Where were his parents?"

Filip wrote about Sgt. Achterberg's son, convicted of motor vehicle theft then released to his father on probation. Filip did not write that Sgt. Achterberg, acting like a true loving parent, turned his own son in to authorities. The factors in both cases are as different as day and night. For one, how many times has Sgt. Achterberg's son been charged with a crime like Mr. Filip? Compared to Filip's parents, Sgt. Achterberg made sure the first time would be the last; he should be commended.

Why do you think police officers are who they are? Is it because of the money they get for every arrest? Or because they like vast amounts of paperwork? If you believe this, you have watched too much TV. Police officers are people that care greatly about their community. No one is perfect, but Filip leads readers to believe he is and the police are out to get him.

Police officers' motto is "Protect and Serve," and criminals' motto is "Blame it on Someone Else." Filip used the criminals motto all his life, and now he wants us to believe he's a 'good boy.' The way for Filip to correct things he has done is to stop blaming everyone else and stand up like a man, admitting when he is wrong.

Biodiversity Treaty is taking over lands

TO THE EDITOR:

I have before me an article entitled "Explanation of Wildlands Project and Biodiversity Treaty."

The Wildlands Project section of the Biodiversity Treaty was developed by Dr. Michael Soule of the Society for Conservation Biology, Dr. Reed Noss, current editor for the journal of Conservation Biology, and David Foreman, co-founder and long-time leader of Earth First.

Dr. Noss describes core reserves as wilderness areas that supposedly allow biodiversity to flourish.

"It is estimated," claims Noss, "that large carnivores (flesh eating animals) and ungulates (mammals having hoofs) require reserves on the scale of 2.5 to 25 million acres. For a minimum viable population of 1,000 large mammals, the figures would be 242 million acres for grizzly bears, 200 million acres for wolves, and 100 million acres for wolverines. There core reserved should be managed as roadless areas. All roads should be permanently closed."

Dr. Noss estimates that 1,000 wolves would require 100 million acres of core area, displacing millions of people.

What would happen to humans? Dr. Noss would put them into human-inhabited islands surrounded by natural areas.

Does this sound insane? It's happening right now in Florida where land is being condemned or zoned into reserves and corridors to reestablish or save the Florida panther and black bear.

The Biodiversity Treaty was not ratified by the U.S. Senate, so how is the Treaty being implemented? By Presidential Executive Orders and bureaucratic regulations. Folks, we are in real trouble.

St. Patrick brought Christianity to Ireland

Saint Patrick's Day

Now after the Birthday Month, so full of special days, comes Saint Patrick's Day away up in the middle of March on the 17th, four days before the first day of spring.

The patron saint of Ireland was born in the year 389 in what is now Wales when England was occupied by the Romans.

Saint Patrick's grandfather and father were both clergymen, and since early childhood he showed signs of his historic destiny.

When he was about 14 years old he was captured by a band of Irish pirates and taken to Ireland where he was put to work as a shepherd.

Here he began teaching Christianity to his captors, who developed a great fondness for the youth and for his message.

After six years, in a vision, he was urged to escape. He made his way to the coast and got on board a boat carrying a cargo of Irish wolfhounds bound for France.

In France he entered a monastery. He soon began hearing voices from Ireland saying: "We pray thee, holy youth, to come and walk among us as before."

After many turning points in his life, Saint Patrick was sent as a missionary to Ireland.

He introduced Christianity to the local people, and later to all Ireland and into what is now Scotland.

And through his work Ireland became a

The Dreamer

DAN STORM
COLUMNIST

stronghold for the Christian faith.

The Irish in America

The story of the Irish in America begins in the 1840s, when a failure of the potato crop spread famine throughout the land. They came by the thousands to this country, surely among the most thankful people ever to arrive in a new home.

Since that time, they have played a colorful and prominent role in our history, building our railroads, serving in the armed forces (especially the cavalry), and spreading happiness with their songs and happy spirit of friendship and good will.

Let us send up a prayer of thanks to God for Saint Patrick, patron saint of the Emerald Isle.

The Turning Point

On March 5, the apricot blooms were out in full glory with the bees busily at work singing in the wind.

On the morning of the sixth a cold wave moved in, followed by clouds and mist, and about 11 a.m. a snowstorm came driving into the vale.

In mid-afternoon, the clouds and the snow moved on and all the clusters of apricot blooms, of every shape and form, were covered with tufts of snow.

The blooms were like little faces smiling under a heavy white quilt. You looked up through the branches of this snow-and-blossom tree at the purple clear sky above, while the fragrance of the blooms mingled with the frosty breath of snow. And you felt that truly this is a spring-in-winter day.

By evening, all trace of snow was gone from the sunny side of the world.

Then on the ninth, the temperature was 40 degrees in the early morning and by noon it had reached up to 78 degrees.

Today at an hour after noon on the 10th, the cows have gone up the hill looking for the new grass springing up on the edges of the melting snow.

All in a day, the purple buds of the lilacs are appearing among the earliest leaves.

Surely this is a turning point in the year, what with spring only nine days away.

Let us thank God for all our blessings, and let us remember to share these blessings with others.

School board leaders chosen; Legislature reviewed by Williams

by DON HIXON

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

James Paxton replaced Ronnie Hemphill as president of the Ruidoso School Board during its annual reorganization Tuesday.

Board member Jim Varnadore was selected as vice-president, assuming the seat vacated by Paxton. Karen Anderson replaced Susan Lutterman as secretary.

Following the reorganization, State Rep. Dub Williams (R-Glencoe) told the board about the status of education funding after the 1996 legislative session.

Williams, a former Ruidoso schoolteacher who serves on the House Education Committee, read a statement from Governor Gary Johnson. It explains why Johnson vetoed funding for special local projects, including Ruidoso's Gavilan Canyon School.

Williams hopes to encourage an increase in school funding unit values from the current $2,113 per unit. The total number of units is based on student population.

"If we get the unit value in the funding formula raised, it will give local schools more control over their destiny," he said. "That's an important part of the mission that I'm on when I'm in Santa Fe."

Students in the Ruidoso School District generated approximately 4,338 units in fiscal year 1995-96, district business manager Caron Snow said.

"Our program cost is approximately $9,168,168," she said. "That's very close to what we projected."

The Ruidoso School System needs more parent involvement, Williams added.

"I see a lot more teachers than parents here tonight," he said. "I think the involvement should be just the opposite."

There is no Parent Teacher Association in Ruidoso anymore because of parent apathy, he said.

"We had a PTA when I taught school in Ruidoso years ago, and we had tremendous attendance," Williams said. "Then one night we looked around and we had two parents and 30 teachers and we had enough teacher meetings already, so we disbanded it."

People who care about the future of Ruidoso and its children should become more involved, he said.

"That's what public education is all about," Williams said.

The next regular meeting of the school board is 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 9 at the District Administration Office, 200 Horton Circle. Call 257-4051 for more information.

Knowledge Bowl builds academic confidence

by DON HIXON

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you ask seventh grader Kristen McAllister what special parallel is located at 23.5 degrees north, odds are, you'll get the answer.

McAllister is one of 18 students from Ruidoso involved in the Region IX Knowledge Bowl, an academic competition for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

The next Knowledge Bowl competition is Wednesday, April 10 at Capitan Middle School. The championships will be Wednesday, May 8 at Cloudcroft Middle School.

"During competition, we answer questions about math, science, history and language," McAllister said. "They also ask us trivia and questions about current events."

Knowledge Bowl teams consist of four players and two alternates. Participants are recommended by their teachers.

Middle school math teacher Lindy Lott coordinates the Ruidoso team.

Contestants have 20 seconds to press a buzzer after the question is read. They then must begin answering the question within five seconds after being recognized.

Students don't get together to cram before competition, but they do try to stay informed about current events and if they keep up with their studies at school, they stand a better chance of winning, Lott said.

"The questions are all taken from the curriculum," he explained. "It can get rough when they compete against a school with a different curriculum."

There are several trophies awarded through the competition. The school that accumulates the most points receives a trophy. Each winning grade level also receives a trophy, and participating students are presented with certificates and ribbons.

The idea for The Knowledge Bowl began about 10 years ago when former middle school science teacher Jackie Brannum wanted to expand math and science academic competition.

"I was taking the science kids to the Math and Science Bowl that Hobbs Junior College and ENMU Portales used to have," Brannum said. "Some of the other teachers felt like their disciplines were being left out, so we thought it would be great to have an all-knowledge bowl."

High school competitions are hosted nationally and statewide, but she found nothing for middle school grade levels, Brannum said.

Brannum asked teachers to write questions for the bowl, the school invited other schools to participate in an invitational, and the Knowledge Bowl was born.

Lott approached Region IX with the idea of making the bowl a regional competition, and two years ago it became officially sponsored by that organization.

"The Knowledge Bowl puts academics in the competitive realm where they can compete with other students in a collegiate manner," Region IX director Sandy Gladden said. "I think it's important for the students to realize that they can gain knowledge and use it immediately."

The Knowledge Bowl is a way for students with a strong academic base to be recognized and build self-esteem, Gladden added.

There is no statewide Knowledge Bowl competition, and Lott and Gladden would like to have one.

By the way, the special parallel located at 23.5 degrees north is the Tropic of Cancer.

Warriors split with Coyotes

by LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Like a veteran bullpen ace, Ruidoso shook off any signs of the jitters Saturday in Roswell. That's where the Warrior boys baseball team opened its rookie season with a split against Roswell's freshman squad.

Ruidoso High School's first baseball performance surprised the team and even first-year coach Rodney Webb.

"I didn't really know what to expect. Practices have been kind of up and down," Webb said.

The young Warriors didn't play like a bunch of rookies. Webb can thank Ruidoso's little league system for that. The summer teams have helped produce many of the 31 players on Webb's roster.

Still, youth dominates the Ruidoso team in its first year of play. The Warriors aren't eligible for district play this year, but will be in 1997.

"We're pretty young so it's good to be able to play the "C" (freshman) teams and get a little experience," Webb said.

In Saturday's doubleheader, Ruidoso took an early lead and then held on for an 8-6 victory in the first game.

Freshman pitcher Jorge Figueroa got credit for the win. He gave up three hits and three runs in five inning pitched. Figueroa walked one, struck one and yielded no earned runs. Junior Andy Friberg picked up the save.

The Warriors built an 8-1 lead behind the bats of Jorge Garcia, Luis Figueroa and Ricky Pacini. Luis Figueroa and Pacini each knocked in two runs, and Garcia scored three times to lead Ruidoso.

Sprinter paces RHS in the season opener

by LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Ruidoso's track team didn't strike black gold on its trip to the Permian Basin last weekend, but the team did find a way to score the most points its ever tallied at the prestigious West Texas Relays.

The Warrior boys took sixth place of 17 teams. Senior Kyle Humphreys accounted for 19 of Ruidoso's 39 total points with first place in the 200-meter dash, second place in the long jump and fourth place in the 100-meter dash.

The Ruidoso girls managed a 12th place finish of 17 teams. Senior Angelica Figueroa scored the only points for the girls with her fourth place in the discus and sixth place in the shot put.

"I thought everybody did extremely well," Ruidoso coach Ronny Maskew said - especially considering both Warrior teams were up against schools with larger enrollments.

This was also Ruidoso's first real meet of the year, Maskew said. Other teams (mostly Texas schools) at the meet have been to three or four meets already.

In addition to Humphreys' performance, the long-time Ruidoso coach noted the efforts of Trey Brantley, who finished third in the high jump, Joey Bewley, who took third in the 300-meter hurdles, and Ezra Sandoval, who was sixth in the 800-meter run.

Brantley, just a junior, is relatively new to the team.

"He had only been out a week, so we'll try not to coach him too much," Maskew said jokingly.

To anyone who followed the Warrior girls last year, it came as no surprise to see Figueroa leading the team at Odessa. But Figueroa's steadiness wasn't the only girl's performance to catch Maskew's eye.

"We just thought overall the girls did a much better job than they had in several years," said

TRACK

Maskew. He expects the girls to improve in their sprints, hurdles and other field events.

The West Texas Relays meet is one of the toughest meets the Warriors will compete at all year, and Maskew uses it along with the first couple of meets to evaluate his team's strengths and weaknesses and figure out "where we are and what we need to do."

"When you go to Odessa you try to survive, first of all. Then we wanted to see if the kids are in the position that we thought," Maskew said.

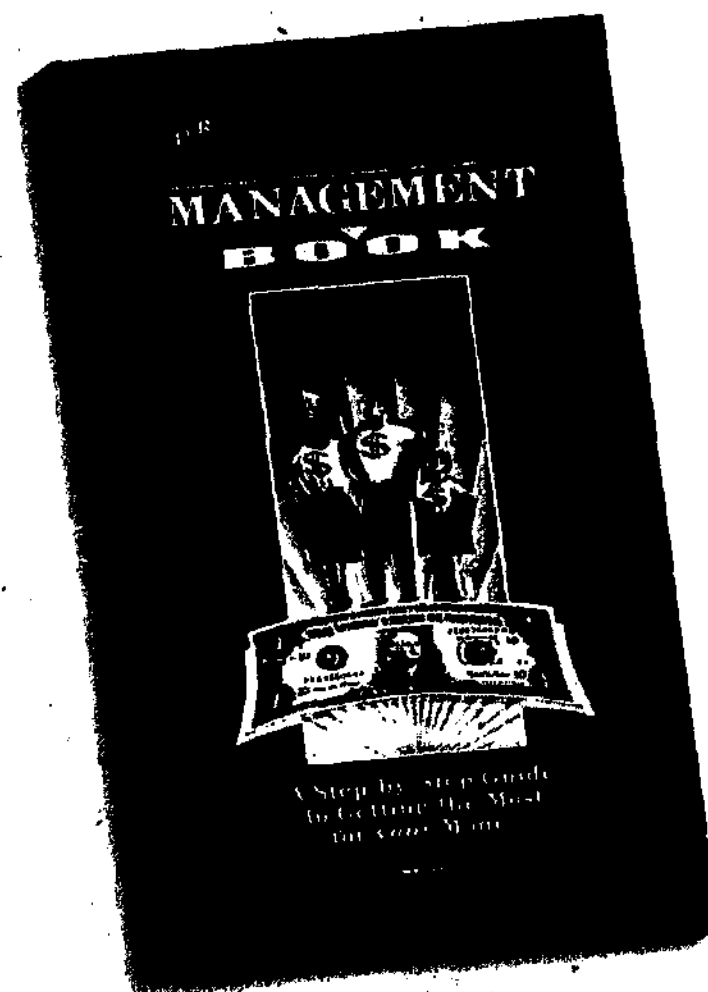

Ruidoso is progressing as Maskew has expected.

"They've been working very hard in practice. But it's going to take us a few weeks to get there," Maskew said.

The Warriors return to the oval Saturday for the White Sands Relays hosted by Alamogordo High School.

The Pool Hall has again changed management. Rowland Sloan sold his interest in the establishment this week to Crabtree McAdams.

Explorers in the old King Tut's tomb have nothing on Cleve Brown. He's been rattling dead men's bones himself during the past week and reports having unearthed three skeletons in the old Indian ruins near the Pop ranch house.

POOP SCOOP

by DIANNE STALLINGS

Puppies are born into a world of silence, but within two weeks their ear canals open up and hearing becomes one of their keenest senses.

A dog's hearing is twice as acute as a human's ability to hear, according to Sandra Ford, assistant director of the Lincoln County Humane Society.

Hearing begins when a dog's earflaps capture sound waves and transmit them to the other inner ear structures that convert them into electrical impulses the brain can identify. But despite their sonar capabilities, dogs' ears are susceptible to numerous ailments. Canine ear problems constitute a significant percentage of the average veterinarian's caseload.

Ford offered a few tips for pet ear care:

When bathing your dog, protect its ear canals from moisture by inserting cotton balls into the ear canals. If your dog likes to swim, dry out his ears after a dip.

Regular ear cleaning to remove dirt and waxy buildup is essential for the health of your dog's ears. Used a cotton ball and some cleaning solution made for canine ears. Don't ever use a cotton swab in the ear canal because that can pack dirt and debris up against the ear drum causing an ear infection.

If your dog is a long-haired, floppy eared animal, be sure to trim the hair around the base of the ear to promote air flow inside the ears. If you have a dog that has continual hair growth such as a poodle, you may need to pluck the hair that grows inside the ear. Be sure you swab the ear with a cleaning solution afterwards.

If you are treating your dog for an ear infection, finish the entire prescription and go back for a follow up visit to make sure the infection is completely healed.

Deafness in dogs can occur for various reasons, Ford said. Repeat ear infections can damage the ear severely enough that it must be repaired surgically, she said.

But nerve deafness arises from damage to the hearing receptors themselves, a condition for which there is no medical or surgical treatment, she said.

Congenital deafness usually is due to nerve involvement. It is transferred genetically as a recessive trait, which means two normal parents can have an affected puppy, Ford said. Dalmatians, English setters, bull terriers and Jack Russell terriers are especially susceptible.

FAMILY VISION CENTER

Dr. D. Joyce Sonnenmoser
Dr. Anatole F. Gutowski
(505) 257-5029

"LAZY EYE"

Amblyopia, or "lazy eye," occurs when one eye does not send as good a "picture" to the brain as the other; in time, the brain ignores the image from that eye and relies more on the good one. It is vital to diagnose this condition and treat it as early as possible.

In a young child's developing brain, there are cells that respond to each eye individually and some that need stimuli from both. For the visual system to mature properly, both kinds of cells require continuous input. In time, there can be an actual loss of brain cells serving the amblyopic eye.

The child doesn't know there is another way he or she is supposed to see, so there are rarely any complaints or symptoms. It may be that a family doctor will detect or suspect an abnormality, but a complete optometric examination is recommended. Drs. Gutowski and Sonnenmoser are trained to spot amblyopia and its underlying causes and to initiate treatment.

A Grand Night for Singing —

Public Television's Gift to You

An all-star ensemble celebrates the music of love in a lush new performance special, A Grand Night for Singing — Public Television's Gift to You. Hosted by actress and Broadway star Tyne Daly, the program is driven by the performing talents of Daly and opera great soprano Sylvia McNair, mezzo-soprano Frederica von Stade, tenor Jon Garrison, and baritone Kurt Ollmann.

The first act is a melange of musical standards, beginning with Tyne Daly's energetic performance of "Everything's Coming Up Roses" from Gypsy and moving on to "Libiamo," the famous drinking song from Verdi's La Traviata. Then it's pure Great White Way. Kurt Ollmann charms with the Gershwin tune "S Wonderful," and Frederica von Stade sings the passionate lament "Losing My Mind" from Stephen Sondheim's Follies. Opera is the next feature, beginning with Sylvia McNair's performance of "O mio babbino caro" — from Puccini's Gianni Schicchi. Frederica von Stade sings "Me voici dans son boudoir" from Mignon.

A Grand Night for Singing — Public Television's Gift to You will be broadcast Sunday, March 17th at 7:15 p.m. on KENW-TV.

Pavarotti on Miami Beach

Pavarotti on Miami Beach took place on a huge oceanside stage and proscenium constructed right on the sand adjacent to Miami Beach's colorful Art Deco district. Mr. Pavarotti attracted an audience estimated at 200,000 people on the beach, as well as countless spectators on adjacent art deco balconies, terraces, and rooftops — and nearly 200 boats and yachts anchored nearby. All were there to enjoy an exciting program of classical arias and songs.

Mr. Pavarotti centered his program on the timeless, intense music of Puccini, Mascagni, and Leoncavallo. He was joined by soprano Cynthia Lawrence in several powerful duets such as "O soave fanciulla" from La Boheme, and Mascagni's "Cherry Duet."

Pavarotti on Miami Beach airs Wednesday, March 13th at 7:00 p.m. It repeats Sunday, March 17th at 9:30 p.m.
