Lawyers can apply for judge positions

The 12th Judicial District will have two vacancies on Jan. 1, 1997, due to the resignation of Judge Richard Parsons in Division III (Carrizozo), and the negative retention election results for Judge Sandra Grisham in Division I.

The chair of the 12th Judicial District Nominating Commission is seeking nominations and applications for these positions from lawyers who meet the constitutional qualifications in Article VI, Section 14, of the New Mexico Constitution. Applications may be obtained from the University of New Mexico School of Law or mailed to you by calling Margaret Banek at 277-4700.

The deadline for applications and nominations is 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 16.

The 12th Judicial District Nominating Commission will meet Wednesday, Jan. 22 in Alamogordo to evaluate the applicants for the petition.

Shelter adoption pets to be neutered free in December

The cost of spaying or neutering any pets adopted from the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter in December will be paid by the society.

"It's an effort to show our appreciation for the caring and supportive residents and visitors of the county, and for the generous donations received throughout the year," said society President Roberta Cox.

For that one month, adoption rates will drop to $20 for dogs and $17.50 for cats.

Gift certificates also are available at the shelter on Gavilan Canyon Road at the same low rate, but can be redeemed for an adoption after the holidays. The certificates will expire at the end of February.

Local teen charged with murder, robbery

Vicente Montes is placed in a police car by Ruidoso officer Luis Torres after his arraignment Tuesday.

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

A Lincoln County teenager has been charged with a high-profile Albuquerque murder as well as armed robbery of a Ruidoso bank.

Vicente Montes, 19, of Glencoe, was arrested Monday for the Nov. 19 murder of Brian Salazar after a traffic confrontation, as well as the Nov. 4 armed robbery of the Ruidoso First Savings Bank.

Montes is the son of Lincoln County Commission Chairman Monroy Montes.

He was arraigned on the Ruidoso charges Tuesday before Ruidoso Magistrate Judge William Butts, who set his bond at $500,000.

During arraignment, Montes told Butts he didn't understand the bank robbery charges.

"I don't understand why I'm being charged with that because I wasn't here," Montes said.

Police stopped him on Carrizo Canyon Road in Ruidoso around 3:30 p.m. Monday after receiving a Crimestoppers tip that he was in town, police said.

Salazar, a 19-year-old national kick boxing champion, was one of two men shot in Albuquerque following separate traffic altercations last week. Salazar was hit in the chest and died from the wound. The other shooting victim was struck by a bullet in the neck and is paralyzed.

An evidence hearing on the armed robbery charges against Montes is set for Dec. 3 at the Ruidoso Magistrate Court. Montes will then be transported to Albuquerque to answer the murder charges.

Two men robbed the Ruidoso bank. Montes is believed to be the robber who wore pantyhose over his face, jumped the bank teller counter, shoved the two tellers beneath, and emptied the cash drawer, police said.

He was identified in a photo line-up Monday by two of the bank robbery victims, police said.

Chief Lanny Maddox helped stimulate one of the victim's memory of the incident with "investigative forensic hypnosis" before she identified Montes from the five-photo line-up, he said.

The other robbery suspect, Alberto Rojas, 18, of Albuquerque, is accused of wearing a ski mask over his face and holding a gun to the bank manager's head. A warrant for Rojas was issued Tuesday.

Detectives started zeroing in on Montes as a robbery suspect after someone called the Lincoln County Crimestoppers Nov. 18 and related the amount of money — $2,144 — taken from the bank.

"This one was more credible than other tips because the amount of money was given on the tip, whereas we didn't release that amount of money to anyone," detective Robert Layher said.

The same caller named a Ruidoso person who knew the suspects. That person was asked Monday to review the bank security videotape of the robbery. The person quickly identified both suspects and said one of the robbers was a relative, detective Jim Biggs said.

The robbery tip came a day before the Albuquerque shooting on Central Avenue. Police suspect Montes was in the vehicle with one other male, said APD detective Pete Lescenski.

Montes was driving a low-rider blue Mazda pickup when he was arrested at 401 Carrizo Canyon Road in Ruidoso. It matches the description of the vehicle involved in the Albuquerque shooting, police said. It is registered to his father Monroy and sister Felicia Montes.

Montes has been charged by Albuquerque police with one open count of murder; four counts of conspiracy to commit murder; two counts of tampering with evidence, a fourth-degree felony; and two counts of shooting from a vehicle, a third-degree felony.

The type of murder charge will be determined by the APD later, along with the degree of felony for the conspiracy charge.

Ruidoso police are charging Montes with one count of armed robbery with a firearm enhancement, a second-degree felony; conspiracy to commit an armed robbery, a third-degree felony; possession of less than an ounce of marijuana, a petty misdemeanor; and misdemeanor charges of pos-

Full casino opens after tense delay

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

First Casino Apache was going to open. Then it wasn't. Then it did.

The temporary delay in reopening Casino Apache at 4 p.m. Friday was "all politics," said an associate of the Mescalero Apache Tribe.

Rob Burpo, the tribe's financial consultant, said Monday the agreement allowing the casino to reopen had been hammered out Friday morning, if not Thursday.

U.S. Attorney John Kelly was blamed for the delay. Burpo called Kelly's action a political ploy against Mescalero President Wendell Chino.

In recent weeks, Chino has asked President Bill Clinton to remove Kelly from office, and also asked for a grand jury investigation into Kelly's alleged discriminatory actions against the tribe.

"Kelly held up everything so Mr. Chino wouldn't have his day in the sun," Burpo said.

Kelly finally agreed to let the full casino reopen around 5 p.m., about a half hour after the end of a press conference scheduled to coincide with a 4 p.m. opening. A good 30 people were already plunking their quarters into the hungry machines by 5:30.

In exchange for the federal government's approval of the casino's reopening, the tribe agreed to abide by the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals ruling in the Santa Ana

Women prisoners clean up before moving into fort

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

While the Johnson administration battles with two state legislators over plans for new prisons in Hobbs and Santa Rosa, a clean-up is underway at Fort Stanton for a temporary women's prison.

Warden Sandra McFadin took several members of Operation Old Fort Stanton/Fort Stanton Inc. on a tour Friday, and they were impressed with what they saw.

Their organization is dedicated to establishing a living history center at the fort, which was closed as a state hospital in March 1995 after 100 years of providing medical care.

"One very good thing is that they are using and repairing the buildings most important for us when we start up," said operation officer Jerry Mattox. "They're working on the dining hall and one or two of the lodges."

Dick Weber of the Operations Steering Committee said he hopes the group can be active at the fort during the next two years, the projected time period for occupancy by women inmates.

McFadin will support Operations using the former museum at the fort, to begin tracking down and cataloging artifacts from the fort, Weber said.

"We're going to apply to General Services Department (GSD) Secretary Stephen Beffort and say we'd like to lease that from you and we'll take care of it. And as Warden McFadin goes around and finds in an attic an old antique clock or painting, she can bring it to us without leaving the grounds. We'll catalog and have it verified."

The arrangement would give the group a space on the property to keep enthusiasm up and for a state historical architect to use when restoration efforts begin.

"We were very impressed with Warden McFadin," Weber said of the reaction of the group, including Operations President Sally Burk-staller. "McFadin seemed to have a real grasp of history of Fort Stanton and the buildings she was occupying and I think she had a sense of caretaking. She knew she is in a historic facility and wants to do right by it."

For instance, electrical plugs were installed in conduits on top of the walls and floors, to be removed easily when the time comes and not do any damage to the structure, he said.

Weber also lauded the effort of the women inmates at the fort about 13 miles northeast of Ruidoso.

"I was impressed with how hard the women were working. It has

Kelly's three demands cut to one

U.S. Attorney John Kelly said there were three things he wanted from the Mescalero in order to let Casino Apache reopen:

— abide by the court's ruling in Santa Ana. If the court says the compacts are illegal, the tribe must close the casino. The tribe already agreed in September to do just that, Burpo said;

— drop an appeal before U.S. District Court Judge Martha Vazquez that will be heard in the spring of 1997. Like the pueblos, the tribe is appealing a lower court's ruling that the its gambling compact is illegal. Burpo said the tribe might agree to drop this appeal, but only if the state Legislature ratifies the compacts; — and drop an appeal to U.S. District Court Judge John Conway's ruling against a 1994 Mescalero lawsuit. The lawsuit charges the state failed to negotiate a compact in good faith, as federal law requires. The tribe's suit was "piggybacked" this spring by Kelly after the state Supreme Court ruled Indian gambling illegal. Kelly asked the court to consider the compact's legality, and Conway ruled it wasn't. The U.S. Justice Department

A crowd of Casino Apache workers, supporters and news reporters gather outside the casino at 4 p.m. Friday to hear whether the casino will open.

ment remanded the case back to Conway for review after disagreeing with his findings, Burpo said.

"The justice department's position is that the compact is legal, but that state law changed so the compact has no force," Burpo said.

Why Kelly would want Chino to drop the Conway case is a mystery, Burpo said, because the U.S. government isn't named in it. And the U.S. Justice Department has asked the tribe if it wants assistance in the appeal, Burpo said.

Burpo also suggested that Conway should have excused himself from hearing the tribe's case.

"He represented Chino's first wife," about two decades ago when the couple divorced, Burpo said. "It was a rather contentious affair, and Conway lost big time. As a result, he filed a suit against Mr. Chino and Mark (Wendell Chino's brother). He lost that as well. So, there are some adverse relations going back two decades plus."

Meeting with Kelly

Kelly made his three demands in a meeting with Chino, Burpo and the tribe's attorneys on Nov. 20. The meeting occurred right after a 10th Circuit Court of Appeals hearing on the legality of nine pueblos' gambling compacts.

"We met with Kelly Wednesday afternoon (after the hearing). Mr. Chino said that based on what he heard in court, we want to reopen," Burpo recounted. He added that Kelly's exact response was, "What's in it for me? What are you offering?"

Then Kelly flew to Washington, D.C. to meet with Reno about the matter.

Reno asked for documentation that the tribe would close if the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals rules against the pueblos.

The documentation was completed Friday morning and Reno gave her approval in a letter to Kelly. But still, Kelly "kept pushing" (his politics) until late Friday, Burpo related.

But about 20 minutes after all the news cameras were packed up and the crowd dispersed, the go-ahead was given and the casino reopened after being closed for almost two months.

The Santa Ana appeal case, which involves the legality of gambling compacts held by nine pueblos in New Mexico, was heard in Albuquerque Nov. 20. The Mescalero were not a part of that case, but the closed status of the tribe's casino was brought up by one of the judges at the hearing.

Only the Mescalero were forced to close their casino after three lower courts ruled the gaming compacts of 11 New Mexico Indian nations are illegal.

At age 19, Montes already has long criminal record

Even before he was charged with 14 crimes Monday, 19-year-old Vicente Montes had a lengthy rap sheet.

In August 1995, he was arrested for stealing beer twice from the Meechem Drive Allsup's Store. Ruidoso Magistrate Judge William Butts sentenced him to 60 days in jail for the theft and issued a year's probation.

But Montes failed to show up at the county jail to serve his time as promised, so Butts issued a bench warrant for his arrest charging failure to appear and contempt of court.

He was found and arrested in early 1996 and served his 60-day sentence. A day after his April release on probation from the county jail, Montes was arrested for driving while intoxicated in Alamogordo.

When Butts learned of the DWI charge, which violated Montes' probation, he issued another arrest warrant.

Montes wasn't found until he was arrested in Albuquerque in July on new charges of aggravated battery, aggravated assault with intent to commit a violent felony, tampering with evidence and escape, police said.

The charges stemmed from allegations Montes attempted an armed robbery of a liquor store, his attorney Leroy Duarte said Tuesday.

The escape charge was tagged on by the APD because while he was being held at a police substation, he hid in a ceiling crawl space. But he never left the building, Duarte said.

Montes was indicted on those armed robbery charges by a Bernalillo grand jury, and a $25,000 cash bond was set. Montes met bond with a 10% payment and was released to the custody of his father pending a Dec. 9 trial.

Before his release, however, Butts dropped the Ruidoso court's $5,000 bond held on him as requested by Lincoln County Commissioner Wilton Howell, who promised to escort Montes to the Ruidoso court July 30 to face the probation violation charge.

The defendant showed as promised and Butts sentenced him to six months of probation for the probation violation charge, court records show.

Montes was still supposed to be in the care of his father during the Nov. 4 Ruidoso armed robbery and the Nov. 19 Albuquerque murder.

Montes is now being held at the county jail on a $500,000 bond. A Dec. 3 preliminary hearing before Butts has been set. Afterwards, Montes will be taken to the Bernalillo County jail to answer the APD murder charges. His bond on those charges is also $500,000.

session of drug paraphernalia, and driving with a revoked license.

Montes' attorney Leroy Duarte, who is defending him against a charge of robbing an Albuquerque liquor store this summer, said he doubts Montes was involved in the Albuquerque murder or Ruidoso robbery.

"Vicente is well aware of the seriousness of the pending charges against him," Duarte said. "He's not that foolhardy. I can't imagine himself getting in deeper (trouble)."

A passenger in Montes' truck when he was arrested Monday, Isaac Isiah Chavez, 20, was also arrested for possession of marijuana, and possession of paraphernalia.

Casino

pueblo case. That ruling is expected no sooner than December. If the court orders the pueblos' casinos to close, then Casino Apache will close, too.

The tribe was forced to shut down the casino Sept. 24 after Kelly threatened to seize gambling machines. About 400 employees were laid off in the weeks following. The casino partially reopened with non-house banked card games Nov. 15.

Tribal president Wendell Chino had planned a 4 p.m. Friday press conference in front of the casino and its workers to announce the reopening. But because of Kelly's delayed approval, the tone of the conference altered from one of celebration to a sullen litany of political struggles.

Chino was been forced to stay in Albuquerque to handle the delay, so he asked tribal Councilor Keith Miller to step in for him at the 4 p.m. press conference.

"Somehow we've run into a problem with one individual, and we all know who that one person is," Miller said to a murmuring crowd. "In the meantime, our man (Chino) is still fighting for us...Mr. Chino is trying to negotiate what is best for the tribe and our people in the area...It's been a great battle for him."

Intervention by U.S. Justice Department Secretary Janet Reno and U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici apparently caused U.S. Attorney John Kelly to back down from some of his demands and allow Casino Apache to open Friday.

Lawsuit could lengthen stay of women inmates

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If two state legislators derail the governor's prison construction plans, it will mean women minimum security prisoners will be staying longer at Fort Stanton.

State Rep. Max Coll (D-Santa Fe) and Jerry Lee Alwin (R-Bernabille) have filed suit to block construction of two men's prisons in Hobbs and Santa Rosa, opposing Gov. Gary Johnson's proposal to privatize the prisons.

Michael Tom, public information officer for the state Department of Corrections, said if the two succeed in stopping or even delaying construction, the department won't be able to move women inmates into the Santa Fe prison where the men are kept now.

Instead of a 16-20 month stay, the women could be in Lincoln County much longer, he said Monday.

"The lack of adequate indoor space undermines this department's ability to perform our basic fundamental responsibility to the citizens — that of public safety," Corrections Secretary Donna Wilpolt said in a news release on the litigation.

The state is under a federal court order and the legislature has agreed to move men inmates out of the state prison in Santa Fe in 1997.

"This litigation by Reps. Coll and Alwin is indeed unfortunate and came when we were so close to a badly needed solution," Wilpolt said. "We don't understand why the administration's approach to add prison capacity is now being called into question."

Although the department is looking at alternatives for housing the 1,200 men inmates, "none are attractive," Wilpolt said.

Coll could not be reached for comment this week.

Long-empty fort needs massive cleaning

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Moving 100 women inmates into a 140-year-old fort isn't as simple as changing a few locks.

Warden Sandra McFadin, who headed nearby Camp Sierra Blanca while it was a minimum security prison for men and for the past few months with women inmates, is tackling the challenge of a move to the fort.

"I'm the tenant, not the landlord," McFadin said, pointing out that the property control division of the state General Services Department manages the property and the state Corrections Department is leasing it. "But I assured members of Operation Old Fort Stanton Friday (during a tour of the property) and assure all groups with an interest in Fort Stanton, we're not going to do anything to harm the place."

Taking advantage of the good weather last week, McFadin sent out a large crew to clean up the grounds.

"There was a lot of trash and a lot of weeds," she said. "It just looked trashy. We raked and hauled huge mountains of grass, limbs and things out of there."

At the same time, a smaller crew worked on the inside of a old two-story officers building that had been renovated while the fort still was a state hospital, but needed some work. Once that work is finished, the building will be used as the main housing for inmates.

"I can put up to 76 inmates in the two-story building, while the newer nursing unit buildings,

Hildago and Eddy cottages, only hold 16-24 persons," McFadin said. The plan is to use as few buildings as possible to start with. Until the population grows, they serve no purpose, but I do have them secured."

Her current inmate population is 38, but by February, the total should be closer to 100 and as many as 200 could be housed in the future, she said.

"It's hard to say, because I don't know how many minimum security prisons will qualify" to spend time at the fort, she said.

Numbers were painted over the doorways, and beds were arranged to fit security requirements, McFadin said. Some pipes were installed to set up washers and dryers on both floors for inmates to do their own laundry, she said.

"We are fixing the fire suppression and alarm systems, which were broken," McFadin said. "And we had to borrow people from other institutions to help our people work on the boilers that had been shut down. The boilers aren't working yet in the housing unit."

A locksmith installed all new locks and secured buildings not being used. An alarm system also was installed, she said.

The warehouse needed special attention.

"It had been broken into at least twice in last year," McFadin said. "They stole major things, I understand even a vehicle this last time."

As in any penal institution, signs have been set up to alert the public that cars and people may be searched and one road has been blocked to force traffic to travel past the administration building, McFadin said.

The women are being transferred in early December from Camp Sierra Blanca, where they have been staying since September. About one mile from the fort, the camp is scheduled to be turned into an environmental work center for juvenile offenders by the state Department of Children, Youth, and Families.

Inmates Antonette Arrijo (left) and Judy Janarelli do grounds maintenance at Fort Stanton Friday.

never looked so good," he said, adding his group plans a special treat to thank them for the effort.

"The place was a mess. They were scrubbing on their hands and knees," he said. "If they work that hard when they get out, they're really going to be successful."

One woman began cleaning a green tile fireplace and discovered it was solid brass, he said.

Although the Operations group had hoped to turn the fort into a history center as quickly as possible, they have accepted the prison as interim protection for the structures, Weber said.

"It's the best thing going for us," he said. "We don't have the money. Prisons do and they're going to take care of it."

The group rented a mailbox at the fort post office, P.O. Box 1, Fort Stanton, NM 88323, Weber said.

In the next 20 months, the group will try to raise $5 million for the history center concept.

"We're hoping that as people hear more about this, they will bring back some of the things that were removed at the time the fort was closed," Weber said. "Most still are probably here locally."

The museum is outside the secured area of the prison at the fort, he said. It could also be used as a visitors information point for guests to avoid having them enter the prison area.

Ski Apache Disabled Skiers Program would like to thank Carpet Market for donating carpet for the ski run.

It was dearly needed and greatly appreciated.

OPINION

EDITORIAL

Prison lawsuit doesn't solve broader problems

We have to wonder if State Rep. Max Coll (D-Santa Fe) and State Rep. Jerry Lee Alvin (R-Bernalillo) thought about the broader repercussions when they filed a lawsuit to block construction of two new men's prisons.

Women prisoners are scheduled to be sent to an existing Santa Fe men's prison when the men move into the new ones. So if the men's prisons aren't built, the women's stay at historic Fort Stanton may not be so temporary as 18-20 months.

It's understandable that the legislators don't feel the governor has the sole power to privatize the new prisons without legislative input. And they understandably don't feel the governor has proven that privatization is the best and least expensive route.

But aside from the private vs. public argument, it's hard to argue against the need for more prison space. Overcrowding has resulted in a court order to move male inmates, and right now overcrowding is creating dangerous tension within the prison walls.

The legislators are in control of the laws that create the need to arrest people. If they don't like the plan to build new prisons, maybe they should rethink the laws. But then, that's not what the public seems to be demanding right now; instead, they want more criminals behind walls longer. So it seems we are destined to need more prisons.

The legislators could ask the courts to decide jurisdiction over prison privatization without blocking the construction of prisons we inevitably need. Or they could stick to fighting in the Roundhouse...

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Will garbage rates rise because of non-recycled glass?

TO THE EDITOR:

For years we've been taught that recycling is good for the environment.

This past summer, we were told by the Lincoln County Waste Authority that because there is not enough profit in recycling glass that it will be discontinued. Is recycling only correct if high profits are obtained? Was or is there a contract between LCWA and the village to provide this service?

I wonder if the cost charged by LCWA reduced?

Now a new study on the rates and services is being prepared for the LCWA Dec. 6 meeting.

No doubt that because of the increase in volume of garbage (read glass) that a rate increase will probably be suggested.

Three birthdays for Thanksgiving season

Three Thanksgiving Birthdays

Today on Nov. 25 with the purple-blue sky of Indian Summer overhead and the hills and valleys all shining bright in golden sunshine, I am thinking of three birthdays that fall on the Thanksgiving season: Brother Lynn and C.R. Hicks on the 28th and Jake Harris on the 29th. These three are fortunate on the double blessing on their special day.

Jake Harris

On the 24th, Jake and his wife Florence were hosts for a reception at their home in Ruidoso Downs to help Jake celebrate his 80th birthday.

About 75 to 100 folks came to wish Jake all congratulations and share many happy memories.

Jake was born Nov. 29, 1916 in Royal, Okla., to Jesse Harris and the former Angie Beeson.

Jake describes his birthplace as a small settlement along a stream called "Wild Horse Creek."

When he was six weeks old his parents, his Uncle Charles and Aunt Louise and an Uncle R.D. Kingston, set out with him in a covered wagon, headed for California. When they arrived at Captain all the apple trees were in bloom and the countryside so green that the travelers fell in love with this place.

Jake's father took up a homestead six miles south of Captain, near Alto.

When Jake was 18 months old his mother was called home by our Lord. He was then taken back to Oklahoma where he was raised by his grandmother and aunt.

At the age of nine he was then brought back to Lincoln County where he grew up riding horses and hunting in the mountains.

After graduating from Captain High School he went to California, where he graduated from college with a degree in mechanical engineering.

The Dreamer

DANIEL AGNEW STORM
COLUMNIST

Then he went into the lumber business with his father who owned a sawmill in what was then Palo Verde, later Green Tree, and now Ruidoso Downs. Later he operated a gravel business.

Most of Jake's children and grandchildren attended the reception — daughters Carol Ann Pior and Tracie Leighton, and grandchildren Russ Pior, Eddie Leighton, Ashley Leighton, Felicia Leighton, and Aaron Pior.

In 1966, Jake was married to the former Florence Lohman and they have lived in Ruidoso Downs since that year.

Jake has served two terms as mayor of Ruidoso Downs and on the city council three terms.

We are glad there was such a good turnout for Jake on the occasion of his 80th birthday.

He has been a friend-in-need to many of us through the years.

We wish our good friend, Jake, many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

Happy Birthday to C.R. Hicks

Clifton Robert Hicks was born Nov. 28, 1912 in Louisa, Texas to William Landrum Hicks and the former Mabel Leona Featherhill.

In 1936 he was married to the former Zella, Mae Sherrill in El Campo, Texas.

They have two sons, Jeral Robert Hicks and Douglas Wayne Hicks, and a daughter Carol Ann Dotsey. Also, they have nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

As a young man, C.R. began life as a farmer.

of rice and cotton and a cattle rancher.

Later he became a big game hunter, hunting in several western states and Canada.

About six years ago, C.R. and Zella moved to Ruidoso where they have made many friends and are happy here in the Mountain Land.

We wish C.R. Hicks many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings, and to C.R. and Zella a Happy Thanksgiving.

Happy Birthday to Brother Lynn

Lynn Walter Storm was born Nov. 28, 1914 in Juneau, Alaska to Lynn Whippo Storm and the former Bertha Catherine Kennedy.

He traveled with the family to Oregon, California, and Mexico, then to El Paso and later Glendale.

In Austin, Texas, he met his wife-to-be, the former Maxine Richter while attending Austin High School. He and Maxine were married in Roswell November 29, 1935 with the Reverend Ted Howden in charge of the ceremony; and Kivas Tully attended the service.

They have three children: Lynnette Storm, Ann Geis, and Scott Joseph Storm; and six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

At the University of Texas, Lynn received a degree in Petroleum Engineering and later worked in the oil fields.

Still later he invented a device that was used in the oil fields of the world.

He is past president of the American Polled Hereford Association, and raises cattle today on the Storm Ranch in Dripping Springs, Texas.

So Lynn is one of the fortunate ones in having three anniversaries to celebrate during the Thanksgiving season.

And brother Mark and I, and all our loved ones on earth and in heaven, rejoice and give thanks on Thanksgiving Day with our brother Lynn.

Deer shot in town

Game and Fish officer Ron Moore stands by one of two dead deer found about 30 yards off busy Mechem Drive in Ruidoso last week. Businesspeople in the area heard six shots fired Tuesday and reported hearing more Wednesday, Moore said. Shooting in town is illegal and dangerous, Moore said.

Police finger younger brother in Ruidoso shooting

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Based on results of a gunpowder paraffin test, police have concluded it was 16-year-old Luckie Dacanay and not his older brother Jandy who shot another boy in the leg in downtown Ruidoso Oct. 30.

The test on both hands of Luckie and Jandy, 18, only proved positive on Luckie, detective Jim Biggs said Monday.

But both Dacanays will still be tried for shooting 15-year-old Carlos Anchondo, the assistant district attorney said.

In New Mexico, an accessory to a crime can still be charged with committing the crime, Assistant District Attorney Viola Rhodes said.

Jandy, 18, has been held on a $100,000 bond at the county jail since his Oct. 31 arraignment, Ruidoso Magistrate Judge William Butts found probable cause Nov. 12 for the third-degree felony aggravated battery charge against him, and bound the case over to district court. He is also charged with misdemeanor unlawful possession of a firearm.

A trial might be set for Dec. 10, Rhodes said. He faces a maximum five years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

Luckie faces the same charges. He had been held at the Youth Diagnostic and Development Center in Albuquerque until Nov. 22, and is now being held at the Alamogordo juvenile jail, detective Jim Biggs said.

Luckie will also be tried in December before the juvenile district court. He faces a maximum two years at the Springers Bay School.

A new state statute allows for a 16-year-old to be tried as an adult only if the suspect committed murder or previously committed two felonies, Biggs said.

Police originally charged each of the brothers with the shooting because at one point both claimed responsibility, and the five boys at the shooting scene with the victim said they couldn't tell the Dacanays apart, police said.

Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees clean house

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Downs trustees took a few house-cleaning measures at the regular council meeting Monday.

The board adopted amendments to the village grievance procedures that cut the village clerk out of the loop, except for grievances filed in her own department. Now grievances will be handled by each department supervisor.

A grievance is an employee's complaint concerning working conditions, actions taken by management resulting in a loss of pay, seniority, written reprimands, or suspension, according to the personnel policy.

The trustees also renewed two long-standing agreements, one with the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and another with the Lincoln County Detention Center.

As it has for the last three years, the village approved a contribution to the chamber to help pay the salary of a visitor center employee. The board gave the chamber $6,380 this year, the same amount as last year.

For $50 a day, the county jail will house Ruidoso Downs prisoners, according to a joint powers agreement.

"They house overflow or somebody that needs a cell where he can't hurt himself," Police Chief David Hightower explained.

The county does not charge the village for housing or transporting prisoners bound over to district court by the village magistrate court.

Maintenance foreman Dennis Riddle presented a written operating procedure for the Downs water system, and the board formally adopted it. A recent inspection by the State Environmental Department gave Ruidoso Downs high marks on its water system, Riddle reported, but inspectors suggested a written operating procedure.

"This puts us in compliance with state and federal guidelines," Riddle said.

The written policy is intended to eliminate gray areas by setting standards for checking pumps, tanks and gauges.

The Ruidoso Downs Police Department is down to one typewriter that works, Chief Hightower told the board. Trustees approved $695 to be paid to Ron's Office Supply in Roswell for a new police department typewriter.

Hondo board sets Feb. 4 election for library expansion

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Hondo Valley School District has set a Feb. 4, 1997 bond issue election to seek $325,000 for library improvements.

Two seats on the school board will be filled at the Feb. 4 election, too. Candidates must sign up on Tuesday, Dec. 17 at the courthouse in Carrizozo.

The district is currently bonded at 77% of its $700,000 capacity. The new bond issue would put its bonding at 100% capacity and keep it there for the next three years.

Superintendent Casey wants to max out the district's bonds to keep Hondo eligible for financial aid from the state's Public Schools Critical Capital Outlay fund. This money is partially generated by the New Mexico Lottery and is reserved for school districts with limited resources in desperate need of building repairs or expansions.

The $325,000 bond would probably be used to carry out the library expansion project the school board planned at the last bond issue election in 1994. Voters approved a $638,000 bond that year, and the money was used to repair the agricultural building, the parking lot, and for other general maintenance.

About $300,000 remains from the 1994 bond, but it's not enough to expand the school library. At the Nov. 18 school board meeting, the district hired Architecture Plus, a Roswell company, to write up a five-year facility plan for the library.

Expansion would include adding a computer lab with Internet capability. Phone lines were installed this summer, and a $20,000 grant from Goals 2000, a federal program, is being used to network all the school computers.

School board seats

Terms are expiring for school board members Jimmy Montoya and Stella Herrera, neither of whom have announced yet whether they are running for re-election. Herrera has served one, four-year term on the Hondo Valley board. Montoya was appointed to the board to replace Beatrice Sanchez, who was appointed to replace Diane Romero.

Romero resigned from the board shortly after taking office, and Sanchez resigned before attending her first meeting.

Jimmy Montoya's residency came into question recently when people complained that he does not live in the Hondo Valley School District.

"I don't know where he lives," Casey said.

The school's attorney Frank Albetta is supposed to interview Montoya to find out exactly where he lives. Montoya's official address is a post office box in Hondo, as listed in the New Mexico School Boards Association Directory.

If Montoya is or becomes a Ruidoso resident, he will not be eligible to run for the Hondo School Board.

Young chefs triumph by chocolate

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

It was kitchen versus kitchen at the Tepes Lounge Young Chefs Competition Thursday. Six kitchen teams of four students each created masterpiece desserts for the culinary contest at Ruidoso High School.

A panel of judges ranked each dessert based on degree of difficulty, artistic achievement, amount of work involved, and originality. This judging profile is the one used by the American Culinary Federation.

Kitchen #3 won first place for its "Chocolate Dreams" dessert, a chocolate brown paper bag spilling raspberry sauce and white chocolate mousse.

Kitchen #3's young chefs are Lisa Reyes, Kyla Henry, Kammea Jensen and Jessica Estrada. These young women won a fine dining experience at the La Lorraine French restaurant in Ruidoso.

Second prize, brunch at Inn of the Mountain Gods, went to Kitchen #4 for its white chocolate mousse crepe with raspberry sauce.

Kitchen #2's pumpkin-roll won third place. Kitchen #5 won fourth with a coffee cream flan with caramel sauce. Fifth place went to Kitchen #6 for a chocolate pecan pie with butterscotch cream sauce, and sixth place went to Kitchen #1 for its cranberry apple tarts.

"This home ec class has gone beyond the usual basics of cooking," said Debbie Haines, event coordinator and district manager for Zia Gas.

Tepes Lounge was invented for Ruidoso High School by home economics teacher Rebecca Durham.

Judges of the Young Chefs Competition were:

— Kathy Garber, owner of La Lorraine;

— Sherry Barrow, development director for GSV Title Services;

— Rand Harmon, director of Spencer Theater;

Young Chefs Competition winners Jessica Estrada, Kammea Jensen, Lisa Reyes, and Kyla Henry smile over their first-place dessert "Chocolate Dreams" at Ruidoso High School.

Tepes Lounge is cooking with gas thanks to corporate help.

— Cathi and David McIntosh, publishers of "Ruidoso Lifestyles" magazine;

— Cooper Barnett, chef and owner of Casa del Cocinero;

— Del Salai, pastry chef for Inn of the Mountain Gods;

— and Brendan Gehenour, chef at Apache Tee.

All 24 students in Rebecca Durham's home economics class are receiving special tours and instruction. Cooper Barnett will demonstrate plate painting and presentation.

Students will tour a professional kitchen at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, and Del Salai will demonstrate pastry techniques. David Keaton, a chef at La Lorraine, will demonstrate presentation and garnishing for entrees.

Judges examined and sampled each dessert while Tepes Lounge chefs prepared a Thanksgiving lunch. The home economics department at RHS is cooking with gas these days, thanks to the donation of six gas stoves, a hot water heater, and a gas dryer from Zia Gas. Zia purchased the appliances from E-Z TV and Appliance.

Tepes Lounge is more than a home economics class. It's a business and students are employees. They can be fired, and they can share in the profits of the business. Each student invests $25 at the beginning of the school year for start-up costs.

Accreditation teams from the State Department of Education and North Central Association happened to be at the Young Chefs Competition and the Thanksgiving lunch. Team leader Michael Kaplan commented later that Tepes Lounge is an exemplary program.

Tepes Lounge serves lunch to the public at 11:30 a.m. every Thursday. Reservations are required and can be made by calling the school at 258-4910 and asking for Tepes Lounge.

Casey-Ibrahim cases on hold in Roswell

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Three criminal complaints involving the Hondo school superintendent, her husband and a fired Hondo Schools employee are still awaiting trial in Roswell.

Roswell's city attorney dismissed two cases involving Abdel Ibrahim, former Hondo Schools business manager, and Frank Casey, husband of Hondo Superintendent Barbara Casey. City Attorney Ernie Martinez said there is no case against either man, but the 5th Judicial District Attorney's Office disagrees.

District Attorney Tom Rutledge will review the cases and may prosecute it in magistrate court, he said.

The two men filed conflicting criminal complaints against each other after an allegedly violent confrontation at Ibrahim's home Oct. 14. Ibrahim filed battery and criminal trespass charges against Casey, and Casey filed assault and battery charges against Ibrahim.

The case was scheduled for trial

Nov. 21, but Roswell City Attorney Ernie Martinez dismissed the charges on Nov. 20. City officials and the district attorney's office are still arguing over whether or not the case belongs in municipal court.

Ibrahim also filed criminal trespass charges against Barbara Casey on Nov. 1 because he said she went to his house twice in October, once to deliver his termination notice and again to deliver an amended list of reasons for his termination.

With Barbara Casey's support, the Hondo Valley School Board fired Ibrahim from his job as business manager for Hondo Valley Schools on Sept. 28. Before filing criminal charges, Ibrahim asked the court for a restraining order against Barbara Casey, but it was denied.

Barbara Casey's attorney Sammy Quintana waived a Nov. 18 arraignment on the criminal trespass charge and entered a plea of not guilty, he said. Municipal Judge Hector Pineda will set a trial date for this case.

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Teachers can learn to build rockets

The New Mexico Space Grant Consortium at New Mexico State University is funding a free rocket-building workshop for teachers at the Space Center's Hubbard Space Science Education Building in Alamogordo in December.

The workshop, "Bigger Rockets, Bigger Booms," is limited to 20 participants. Interested teachers of grades four through nine should call the Space Center Education Department at 437-2640 or 800-545-4021 to reserve a place in the class. Reservations are made a first-come, first-served basis.

The workshop is scheduled for 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 6 and 8 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 7 (launch day).

This is an advanced workshop that takes participants to a higher level of rocket building without the use of kits. Teachers will learn to build and launch rockets made from common household materials.

The class will be taught by Jane Murphy-Sandoval, from Zia Middle School in Las Cruces. She will present her methods for building rockets in the classroom or using rocket building as an ongoing homework assignment.

EDUCATION

State gives thumbs up at Ruidoso schools check-up

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

State Department of Education officials expect the Ruidoso School District to correct all its shortcomings by March 1997 — all four of them. They also expect the district to keep up the good work, as both accreditation teams visiting the schools last week gave Ruidoso a rave review.

The state found four minor areas of non-compliance which team member Toni Trujillo reported at an exit meeting Friday. Since this was a preliminary report, Trujillo would not give the specifics of each citation. Those will appear in a final report due from the state Jan. 17.

Trujillo said Ruidoso came up short in the following general areas:

- the district's central office building;
- procedures for assessing students' needs and getting projects approved in the bilingual program;
- certain safety issues in the vocational/agricultural program;
- and the special education program's written reports on children's specific learning disabilities.

All other departments got the thumbs up from the state, including the federal Title programs, which is unusual, Trujillo said.

The list of Ruidoso's good points, presented by the state's team leader Michael Kaplan, far outdistanced the list of citations (please see related story for details).

"The climate throughout this district is conducive to learning," Kaplan said.

Kay Tenorio, from North Central Association accrediting agency, told Ruidoso School Board members they were off to a good start in developing a way to measure the results of school programs.

The district established two main goals for itself in an Educational Plan for Student Success (EPSS):

- showing students how to care for themselves and others, which includes creating a nurturing learning environment;
- and improving writing skills across the curriculum, especially in the use of computers.

The district has successfully collected baseline data in these two areas from every school site, Tenorio reported. The raw data now needs to be interpreted and analyzed so it can be meaningfully compared to new data, she told Ruidoso officials.

"Continue adding new strategies to keep your goals fresh," she said.

Trujillo closed official comments with a pat on the back for Ruidoso's school board and administrative staff.

"You take this process very seriously, and you have an excellent start," she said. "In this district, decisions are first and foremost made (according to what's best) for students."

Superintendent Mike Gladden thanked the Department of Education officials for taking a more holistic approach to evaluating school districts.

"This process is definitely the right direction for the state," he said. "It's not counting up this and that, but looking at what we're doing and why we're here."

Ruidoso teachers were glad to have accreditation officials in their rooms, asking questions, Gladden said.

"Everyone in this room should be extremely proud of this report," Gladden said.

School board President James Paxton said he was pleased with the reports from both the state and North Central, and he is anxious to see the details of any areas the district can improve on.

"We will continue to work toward implementing the rest of those goals," he said. "We're not done. This is a stepping stone toward continued improvement."

What the district does right

Department of Education official Michael Kaplan commended several programs during the accreditation team's exit meeting Friday. The following is a summary of his report.

Administration: Kaplan commended administrators for excellent maintenance of bonds, creating partnerships with the business community, and developing a crisis management plan to help students through difficult times. Also, he noted Gavilan Canyon alternative school, the district's nursing program, and the GRADS program for teenage parents as excellent services.

Instructional Support: Kaplan noted several examples of community support for the schools, such as local employers releasing parents to attend school functions.

He cited Tepee Lounge as an excellent example of applied learning.

Bilingual Program: Kaplan was pleased to see a positive classroom environment, Spanish creative writing assignments, and primary instruction given in Spanish, with English as a Second Language (ESL) taught mainly in English.

Special Education: High school special education students take self-determination classes and are included in the regular curriculum. Kaplan was glad to see a form that helps general education teachers modify courses to meet a child's special learning needs.

Voc/Ag Department: Kaplan named several innovative programs such as Tepee Lounge, the graphics class, the marketing class, the hospitality-tourism class, and the print shop.

Recent studies reveal that most feeder birds prefer black oil sunflower and white proso millet to other types of birdseed.

The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) reviewed the study results in a pamphlet. The society estimated the 80 million Americans spend more than a billion dollars a year on birdseed, bird feeders and birdbaths.

Other types of seeds popular with birds include the striped sunflower seed and niger thistle.

Sunflower seeds attract the greatest variety of wild birds. These seeds are particularly attractive to birds that frequent trees and prefer to perch while feeding. They include chickadees, cardinals, nuthatches, siskins, titmice, finches, redpolls, crossbills, bluejays, grosbeaks and woodpeckers.

Sunflower seeds are most efficiently dispensed in a tube feeder. Hulled sunflower seeds are more expensive, but leave no messy waste on the ground and are recommended for feeders on decks, patios and porches.

White proso millet attracts ground-feeding birds such as doves, juncos, sparrows and towhees.

Although they naturally feed at ground level, they accept seed placed on a platform feeder.

mounted on a post one to two feet above the ground.

No more food than can be consumed in one or two days should be placed in ground feeders, because it may become contaminated by bird feces and could spread disease.

Thistle seed in a feeder designed for the tiny, narrow seeds will attract goldfinches, house finches, purple finches and pine siskins.

Although they will eat sunflower seeds, giving them the niger seeds will create an area they can have all to themselves. Few other birds will eat the seeds.

According to the HSUS, "bargain blends" of seeds should be avoided. They often contain fillers of less desirable seed such as flax, oats, wheat, canary seed and rice. If birds pick through looking for the sunflower seeds, the other seeds will likely fall to the ground where they can become contaminated, and eventually may harm wild birds.

Once you start feeding birds, you must be reliable in providing the source of food or it could impact negatively a whole generation that has come to depend on your feeders.

Also - no antifreeze in the bird bath during the winter. It spells death for the birds and any mammals that may be attracted by its sweet taste.

Mescalero girls win Hondo cage tourney

The Mescalero girls basketball team swept past host Hondo and House to win the girls bracket of the Hondo Tournament.

The Mescalero boys team dropped both its games in the tourney which featured teams from House, Carrizozo and Hondo.

Josephine Duffy led Mescalero to wins over Hondo Friday, 47-27, and House Saturday, 56-45. Duffy scored 16 points in the Hondo win and tallied 23 Saturday. Those efforts earned her the tourney's most valuable player honors. Elena Aguilar was named to the all-tournament team as well.

Sheri Platero added nine points in Mescalero's win over the Eagles, while Tanya Keene hit double figures with 13 versus House.

The pair of victories improved coach Tara Jones' team to 3-0 overall. In the season opener, Mescalero pounded Alamogordo's freshman team, 43-27. Duffy paced Mescalero in that game with 18 points. Platero added a dozen.

Tom Seros' Mescalero boys teams had a tougher time of it in Hondo. The Chiefs fell to a strong Hondo team, 67-47, in the opening round. Avery Belen scored 14 and Anson Magooshboy had 13 in the losing cause.

Lincoln County rival Carrizozo then defeated Mescalero 76-59 for third place. Thomas Lapaz tallied 15. Magooshboy scored 10 versus the Grizzlies, and was named all-tourney.

The Chiefs are now 1-2 overall. They captured their season opener, a 51-38 triumph over Alamogordo's freshman team.

In order for the boys to be more competitive, the Chiefs need leadership, Seros said. "I need my older players to step up," said the second-year coach.

Both Mescalero teams return to action Dec. 3 when the Chiefs play the Capitan junior varsity squads.

Basketball tourney slated for Dec. 14-15

The Christmas Invitational men's and women's basketball tournaments to benefit Ovella Estes will be held Dec. 14-15 at the Ruidoso High School gym.

Entry fee for the double elimination tournament is $125 and due Dec. 10.

First-place teams will receive a team trophy and T-shirts for the players. A most valuable player will be awarded for the men's and women's divisions. Second place will receive a team trophy as well.

Snowmaking allows Ski Apache to open

□ Ski area offers discount lift tickets starting with Thanksgiving opener

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Modern-day machinery will allow skiers to get back to nature—or at least back on the slopes—at Ski Apache Thursday.

Ski Apache opens for the 1996-97 season on schedule Thanksgiving Day for the 17th time in its 35-year history. Seven of 55 trails are open, and four of 11 lifts will be operating.

"We'd like to have more natural snow, but it's going to be pretty good skiing with what we've got," Ski Apache general manager Roy Parker said Tuesday.

Parker is expecting around 3,000 skiers for the holiday weekend.

A couple of teasing autumn snowfalls weren't enough to coat the lower slopes at Ski Apache, but cold enough temperatures starting in late October and through November allowed the ski area's snowmaking machines to start spewing manmade snow on the slopes.

A warm spell a week and a half ago halted snowmaking efforts, but the last four nights have offered ideal conditions—cold temperatures and low humidity, Parker said.

Two to three inches of natural snow fell last weekend.

Forecasters were predicting some snowfall this week as well.

In nature's absence, the ski area's 55 snowmaking guns have created a 23-inch average base on the lower novice slopes.

Four lifts will be toting skiers up the slopes Thursday, including a new quad-lift on chair 3.

"The snowmaking has been very productive the past few nights," said Ski Apache official Riker Davis.

"You know at this time last year we were pulling our hair out," Davis added.

Unseasonably warm temperatures and dry conditions pushed back Ski Apache's opening date to Dec. 15 in 1995—its fourth-latest opening in history.

"Last year was an unusual year. This year is shaping up to be an average year. I'm optimistic that we will get good snow in the near future, and open up the upper mountain," Davis said.

Lifts open Thursday will be chair 2 to midway and chairs 3, 4 and 5. Davis said chair 7 might be open as well.

The average snowbase depth is 23 inches on the open slopes, but as deep as five feet in some areas, Davis said.

Machines will groom the slopes either Wednesday night or early Thursday morning, Parker said. The terrain varies from beginner to intermediate levels on the seven trails open.

Ski Apache's new quad-lift on chair 3 will double the capacity of the old lift. Fifty-five snowmaking machines (some pictured in the background) have helped to create a 23-inch base for opening day, Thursday.

"There's skiing for all levels except real steep terrain," Davis added.

Until more trails and lifts are open, skiers can ski for discounted prices. An adult lift ticket is $30 instead of $39, while children's lift tickets are $20 instead of $24.

The new lift on chair 3 seats four skiers instead of two. Chair 3 services the ski area's busiest beginner slope.

"It unloads a little bit more higher and has more space to accommodate the four skiers," Davis added about the new lift.

Even though it doesn't look like it from town, there is plenty of snow to ski, Davis said.

"It's hard to fight that advertising the mountain (Sierra Blanca) does," Davis added.

Or, doesn't do. With no-visible snow on its peak, visitors might not realize the ski area is open.

Warriors learn Bulldogs' bite bigger than their bark

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

The team usually known for its high-scoring offense relied on an overlooked, opportunistic defense in Saturday's Class AAA quarterfinal football contest.

Artesia's Bulldogs picked off four Ruidoso passes, all of them resulting in scores, as the state's No. 1-ranked Class AAA school rolled to a 51-14 victory over Ruidoso, ending the Warriors' season at 6-6.

"We were able to move the ball; we just could not get it in end zone," Warrior coach Les Carter said.

Whenever Ruidoso got something started, Artesia interrupted the plans.

The Bulldogs' John Calderon had a field day from his defensive secondary position. Calderon intercepted two of Warrior quarterback Corey Saenz's passes. Calderon's first ended a Warrior drive into Artesia territory at the start of the game.

The Bulldogs can strike as quick as lightning, and they did. On the first play after the turnover, Artesia quarterback Paul Maupin hooked up with Josh Miller for a 76-yard touchdown play.

That was just the start of the onslaught.

Artesia scored again on a Chris Olivas 10-yard run, which was set up by Jimmy Hamilton's pick-off.

The Warriors managed to put together a six-play, 53-yard scoring drive. Saenz hit senior tight end Erik Padilla for a six-yard TD pass. Jimmy Stover's point after made it 13-7, and for a moment, it looked like a game again.

Artesia responded immediately with an efficient eight-play, 82-yard drive in less than three minutes. Kirk Robbins collected a Maupin pass and juiced his way into the end zone.

"That was one of things we said we couldn't allow them to do (control the ball). They did it and it took a lot out of us," Carter said.

Any thoughts of a Ruidoso comeback were quickly quashed by Calderon. He stepped in front of a Ruidoso receiver for his second interception of the day and ran it back 42 yards for the score.

Boom! Lightning strikes twice, and Artesia leads 28-7.

Going into the game, Ruidoso decided to open it up offensively against Artesia. The Warrior coaching staff had evaluated the Bulldog defense, and noted some changes in their personnel.

"We felt like they had strengthened themselves against the run, and we would be more capable passing against them," Carter said.

Ruidoso managed to find some holes in the Artesia secondary. Saenz finished 16-for-29 for 194 yards and a touchdown, but four interceptions negated those efforts.

The Warriors couldn't run effectively all day, and the Bulldogs kept the lithe Saenz running for his life most of the day. Ruidoso mustered a mere 48 yards rushing.

Meanwhile, the Bulldogs racked up 241 yards through the air and 153 on the ground. Maupin was an efficient 12-for-15 for 218 yards and three touchdowns. Olivas led the 'Dog rush with 70 yards on six attempts and two touchdowns.

After the contest, Artesia head coach Cooper Henderson confirmed what his Bulldogs showed on the field. The whole Artesia defense has played well of late, he said.

By halftime, it was Artesia 41-7, and by then, fans on both sides were enjoying the moderate temperatures in Artesia.

The Bulldogs scored quickly and mercifully in the third quarter to go ahead 48-7. The 41-point margin kicked the "mercy" rule into effect, meaning the game clock ran without stopping.

The Warriors manufactured a 12-minute drive for their second score of the day. A weary and battered Saenz capped off the 80-yard drive with a six-yard run three minutes into the fourth quarter.

Artesia could have added another touchdown with three minutes left in the contest, but Henderson proved he still has feelings for Ruidoso, a team he led to two state championships before following his father's footsteps in Artesia. The Bulldogs recovered a Warrior fumble on the Ruidoso 10-yard line. Without hesitation, Henderson sent in the field goal unit instead of trying for a touchdown.

The Bulldogs (9-2) advance to the Class AAA semifinals, where they will play another tribe of Warriors, Socorro.

Ruidoso bids farewell to a senior class of over-achievers. Playing their last football game for the Warriors were seniors Gilbert Sambrano, Billy Rogge, Tony Lovelace, Arthur Rojas, Jake Graham, Pascal Enjady, Jimmy Stover, Kent Sparks, Bryne Moore, Caleb Hull, Trey Brantley, Matt Wharton, Brad Beavers, Chris Jones, Tommy Richardson, Ricky Pacini, Alex Eckert and Erik Padilla.

In 1997, Carter will have to replace his entire starting wide receiver corps, four-fifths of his offensive line and three key defensive backfield players.

But the Warriors have a strong group of underclassmen led by juniors Seth Bassett, Juan Warner, Justo Quintano and Arthur Miller; and sophomores Saenz, Brett Meyer, Adrian Herrera, Garvin Grant, Jason Leasingham and Josh Varnadore. All saw significant playing time this year.

Carrizozo pioneer celebrates her 100th birthday this Sunday

Friends and family are invited to help Mabel Rentfrow celebrate her 100th birthday at 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 1 at her home on Fifth Avenue in Carrizozo.

Mabel has many more memories of Lincoln County than most, having moved here 74 years ago.

"I was a city girl when I married Doyle in 1922 and moved to the ranch 17 miles west of Carrizozo," Rentfrow recalls. "I had never ridden a horse, but soon became initiated to ranch life, working with my husband all day and then coming home to cooking and keeping house. Of course, there were no electric lights, running water, or telephones or modern conveniences, but it was a good life."

"When Doyle was killed by lightning in 1949, I continued to run the ranch by myself for 14 years before moving into Carrizozo."

Mabel Hennrich was born on Dec. 1, 1896, in Warrington, Mo. and was 3 years old when she moved with her family to Albuquerque.

She graduated from high school there, then attended New Mexico State College in Las Cruces as well as teachers' college in Silver City. She taught in Belen and Albuquerque before serving as principal of the Dona Ana school system.

She met Doyle Rentfrow on the steps of the Aggie college and this city-bred girl. At that time, she little realized she would become one of the top "Cowbellees" in New Mexico.

In addition to being an avid bridge devotee, Mabel's other interests include politics, correspondence with her friends and nieces and nephews, as well as being a student of the Bible.

Many out-of-town relatives and friends, together with her many Carrizozo friends, are looking forward to helping her celebrate this milestone Sunday which so few people reach.

Mabel asks that no gifts be presented.

"Just your presence is gift enough," she says.

Mabel Rentfrow invites friends and family to join in celebrating her 100th milestone at 2-4 p.m. Sunday at her home.

Valley of Fires finishes projects, plans new ones

By BILL LAURRY
Park Manager

With 108,000 visitors this year ending Sept. 30, we were down a little from last year. Drought, temporary closure of the federal government, closure of the forest lands due to high fire danger, and road construction all contributed to the decrease. But even though we had adversities working against us, we still had a good year.

One of the major projects we completed this past fiscal year was the construction of the fully accessible nature trail here at the Valley of Fires. Now, persons with disabilities can access the nature trail and go out on the ancient black lava bed. The trail will accommodate persons with wheelchairs. We are now completing the interpretation of the features found on the lava beds.

The Highway 380 road construction project next to the park is completed, and is a vast improvement. The road crosses the lava beds with acceleration and deceleration lanes to Valley of Fires Recreation Area. Visitors to the Valley of Fires will find entrance into the park much easier and less dangerous, compared to the old road.

We would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to the New Mexico State Highway and Transportation Department for the outstanding manner in which it accommodated us here at Valley of Fires during the construction. Due to its consideration and planning, Valley of Fires never had to shut down. A special thanks goes to Corky McQuinn and Danny Alexander of the State Highway Department.

Some of the projects we hope to do for the upcoming year include: more restrooms at the south end of the campground, an entrance sign, a primitive camping area, a campsite fully accessible by disabled people, and a split-rail fence at the entrance.

We are constantly striving to make improvements to the park every year. Local people will tell us that they see a big improvement each year. We are pleased that the efforts to make this park a first-class recreation area are noticed by the public lands users. We encourage everyone to take advantage of the recreational opportunities here at Valley of Fires.

ART SCENE

Traditional music came to Lincoln County last month with the appearance of folksinger, guitarist and masterful harmonica player SAUL BROUDY at a house concert at Paz de Nogal.

About 30 people crowded into Jane and Don's casita to hear Saul perform a variety of traditional songs including train songs, Vietnam songs, blues, some new to the audience and some old favorites that some of us haven't heard since the '60's. Saul, who lives in Philadelphia, has a PhD in folklore and has been performing for more than 25 years, starting out in Philadelphia coffeshouses in the heyday of the '60's. His infectious personality had everyone singing along. It was a delightful evening for all those who attended. Several people there expressed the hope that Saul's appearance could be the birth of a tradition of live music in our area in an informal atmosphere and intimate setting. Plans are already afoot to schedule more performers.

Nogal's Artists' Open House Oct. 27 was a big success. Despite the miserable weather, a large crowd turned out from all around the county to view the studios and the work of Georgia and Mike Lagg, woodworking, Cathie Eisen, clay and wood, and Sandy Hartley, stained glass. And they came to treat themselves to a fantastic "Garden Harvest" brunch at Paz de Nogal, where Carrizozo artists John West, Ken Payne and Suzanne Donazatti had some of their work on display.

Carrizozo residents Eva Zornwalt, Phyllis Schlegel, and Betty McCreight will be appearing with the ENMU-Ruidoso Community Choir for its free Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 2 at the First Christian Church on Hull Road in Ruidoso. An opportunity to hear this outstanding group, under the direction of Danny Flores, should be on your Don't Miss List. Portions of Handel's "Messiah" will be sung, including the "Hallelujah Chorus," as well as a variety of secular and sacred songs.

ART LOOP STUDIO TOURS will be held Dec. 14 and 16. Fifteen artists from Carrizozo, Capitan, Nogal, and Hondo will have their studios open to the public with their works available for purchase.

Donations sought for Christmas luminarias

It's luminaria time once again. Donation jars to help pay for our spectacular Christmas Eve display are now out at Norwest Bank. Or you can give your donation to Eileen Lovelace. But please, DONATE whatever you can.

CAT beautifies community

The CATS (Carrizozo Action Team) continues with its beautification project.

Bene Burton and Pat Yarn were the hard workers who finished sealing the benches in McDonald Park, and the plaques are ready to be put up. The park sign has been hand-somely repainted by Barbara Langley, and bulbs are ready to plant. Additional picnic tables are in the works for both McDonald and Spencer parks. Members are also working on improved lighting on Central Avenue.

Carrizozo streets are getting a facelift. It also looks as if Highway 64 improvements south of town are on their way to completion, with wider shoulders and magnificent culverts and rip-rap construction.

The Recreation Center surrounds have showed much improvement under the guidance of Sid Wright, as well as interior clean-up.

The Rotary Club continues its mile of American Flags throughout town on every holiday and election day. Their glistening van has been repainted by Mike Shivers and it is a proud sight to see the Rotary members up early to install the flags, and late in the afternoon removing them. This valuable service was started by the Lions Club years ago and has never faltered even when membership was small.

The Rockinbach Family Reunion went on for three days in Sunnyside and Montara, Calif., simultaneous with celebration of the 90th birthday of the matriarch of the clan, Liz Wolf. Of the original 14 members, the remaining nine were in attendance together with spouses, nieces, nephews, and cousins, totaling 60 in all. Dory Forsythe from Carrizozo, the youngest "girl" in the family, spent two weeks before and after, and says it was the best gathering ever. Amtrak brought six members from Chicago; planes and cars delivered others from Japan, Michigan, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Washington, Florida, Indiana, Colorado, Texas, Arizona, Missouri, and California. It is possible they might all descend on Carrizozo next year!

Mary and Dominic Miglionico from Woolbridge, Va., celebrated an early Christmas in October with her sister, Carmen Ramirez and family. Both the inside and outside of Carmen's home was beautifully decorated with lights and ornaments. Mary was in New Mexico in September as well, to be present when their son, Captain Robert Miglionico, was presented with the Air Force "Lance Sijan Award for Leadership." Mary and "Mig" also have three other sons: Dominic, Kenneth and Joseph. With their boys on their own, Mary and "Mig" are looking at Lincoln County for retirement possibilities in the near future.

REGULAR KORNER

Upon entering the Rec Center door on Nov. 6, it looked as though disaster had struck; however, the sight of bare cement floor was no disaster, but a definite sign of progress.

The venerable old carpet was gone. Rolls of new carpet awaited their turn as the new floor covering. While bowlers sink their teeth into the regular league season, the old look of the Rec Center is quickly disappearing, soon to be replaced by — well, stop in and see for yourself the great new look emerging. Fabian Valderrama's expert craftsmanship is evident in the painting job.

Six full teams in each of three leagues take advantage of the well-dressed lanes and functioning machinery, diligently maintained by our own Murphy Hansell.

The pair of lanes not used in league play have been getting a regular workout each week at the enthusiastic hands of a "team" of youngsters eager to bowl.

Hopefully the core of die-hard, faithful bowlers will swell in number as the Rec Center again becomes a focal point of community pride. We have senior champions bowling here and potential ABC and WIBC tournament champions. I hope to see our kaglers enter those tournaments and come home winners. They are already champions in my eyes.

SCHOOL NEWS

Carrizozo students in grades K-12 learned a bit of the Irish place in history and song. During the October assembly, Emmett Downes, host of the Harp & Shamrock radio show in Ruidoso, told how figures of western history had Irish roots. Among them were Billy the Kid and Sheriff William Brady, both of Lincoln County fame.

Downes is a writer of all things Irish and Irish American. He told the students how much of today's country western tunes and singers have Irish beginnings. Several students tried their feet in a few Irish jigs and line dancing.

Carrizozo schools organized several activities for Red Ribbon Week, Oct. 28 - Nov. 1. School counselor Martha Payne showed grades K-5 a cartoon video,

"Cartoon All-Stars To The Rescue," which educates children about the dangers of alcohol and other drugs. The video included a rollercoaster ride through the perils, pitfalls and realities of drug abuse in which the cartoon All-Stars prove there is a smarter way to go.

The counselor showed the high school students an interactive video, "What is your Drug I.Q.?" The video was created to offer accurate, up-to-date knowledge pertaining to alcohol, marijuana, LSD, cocaine, heroin and inhalants.

Students in K-8 decorated grocery bags donated by local grocery stores. The messages on drawings about avoiding drugs were used to sack groceries once the anti-drug messages were added.

The week-long Red Ribbon Week activities included a play, "The Empty Chair," presented by the Ruidoso Middle School Drama Class. The play was staged county-wide and was sponsored by Region IX Education Cooperative.

Middle school art students and Polly Chavez provided holiday art for the People for Kids (PFK) Halloween carnival. Some of the art students' classroom work was also viewed during the open house at school on Nov. 11.

On Oct. 16, The Carrizozo Middle School sent the Knowledge Bowl Team to Cloudercroft for the first Knowledge Bowl this year. The Knowledge Bowl is an academic competition in which a team of six students from each grade competes with other teams from local schools. Representing the sixth grade this year is Maggie Ventura, Tara Earwood, Anthony Beltran, Jesse Ortiz and Cheri Sanchez. The sixth graders came in third place for all sixth graders. On the seventh grade team is Matt Offutt, Brandon Langley, Nick Morero, Adrian Goad, Patrick Hightower and Robert James. The seventh graders came in first among seventh graders. The eighth graders were represented by Lisa Sanchez, Marybeth Bond, Stella Brewer, Kayla Hammond and Sarah Neiderstadt. The eighth graders placed second. Patricia Coale, the Middle School English teacher, is the sponsor. Carrizozo Middle School will be hosting the next Knowledge Nov. 13 and it will be held in the new gym. All are welcome to attend.

Ruidoso's Three-Day Weather Outlook

November 28, 1996

November 19, 1946, was the birthday of the incorporation of Ruidoso. In one year's time things have been accomplished without a penny to start on and without a penny to end on. And many other taxes which other villages have found necessary to burden their citizens with.

Do you know that the village of Ruidoso is existing only on the following forms of taxation? Land, license, occupational taxes, garbage disposal fee and police court fines. Do you know that there have been issued this year 201 occupation and 10 license permits?

(The above story is excerpted from an article by Mr. Clark, Joe Drysdale recounting some of the difficulties and some of the accomplishments that first year of Ruidoso's incorporation.)

STARDATE

The Pleiades star cluster is a unique object in the northeastern sky. The Pleiades looks to the unaided eye the way many star clusters look in a telescope. Several other star clusters are visible to the unaided eye — including the Hyades slightly lower in the east near the orange star Aldebaran. But none appear so compact and distinct as the Pleiades.

They were charged with evading and possession of marijuana less than one ounce and turned over to Clovis police.

The 16 and 17-year-old juvenile males were first observed driving with only one headlight illuminated, so the officer attempted to stop the vehicle. But it didn't stop, and the officer activated his siren while also seeing one of the youths throw a bag out a window. Another officer set up a roadblock down the road, and they were able to stop the car. In the ashtray officers found a green leafy substance which was similar to what was in the bag thrown out the window earlier, police said.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6

David Paul Burgess, 36, of 113 Port Drive was arrested for domestic battery after allegedly hitting his wife, police said.

The couple had been arguing about the political election before the battery, the victim told police.

Officers were called to assist the victim just past midnight. They found her crying and complaining that her nose might be broken. But there was no swelling or bruising to her nose, and she also appeared intoxicated, police said. There was redness to her left wrist and arm, however, where she said Burgess had grabbed her.

Upon contact with Burgess, officers concluded he was also intoxicated. He said they had argued about the election, but he couldn't remember anything else.

Two 13-year-old Ruidoso Middle School students were arrested at the Reese Drive school building for possession of less than one ounce of marijuana, police said.

The boys, both Mesquero residents, were turned over to their parents, police said.

Officers were called to the school around 8 a.m. by student adviser John Fritsch, who said students were smoking pot on school grounds. When police arrived, Fritsch gave them a rolled green leafy substance that smelled like marijuana. He obtained the joint (which later tested positive) from school principal Sergio Castanon who said he found the boys near the tennis courts smoking it, police said.

Officers searched the boys and found one of them had a pen in his belt area that contained a green leafy substance, police said.

A 17-year-old Ruidoso High School student was arrested for allowing himself to be served alcohol after the youth was found drinking alcohol in school, police said.

Police, who were called to see the youth at student adviser Bob Elder's office around 1:38 p.m., said they could smell an odor of alcohol on the boy. They were then handed a cup that held a cold drink smelling strongly of alcohol which the boy had allegedly been caught with at the school, police said. The subject was brought to the police station and referred to juvenile probation authorities. He was later released to the custody of his mother, police said.

A Corpus Christi, Texas man found his Ruidoso D Street home vandalized, police said. The damage was limited to the front porch center post which had been pulled out, and the porch lattice work was laying in the yard. There was no indication that the vandals entered the home, police said.

Four males, Elliot Picchi, 18, a 17-year-old and two brothers, one 15 and one 16, were arrested for possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, police said.

Each of the juveniles were also cited with violating their curfew because they were out after 10 p.m., police said.

The teenagers were in a car parked on a dirt track south of Santa Anita Drive when officers pulled in behind them. When police went up to the driver's door and the driver, Picchi, rolled down the window, a large amount of smoke smelling like pot billowed out, police said. Officers told Picchi to get out of the car and go near the patrol unit, and then asked the boys if they were smoking from a pipe or a joint. One of the boys allegedly said a pipe, and later pulled it out from under his legs, police said.

Officers also found a baggie containing a small amount of marijuana near the front seat, police said.

Picchi was released on a $1,500 bond. The teens were later released to the custody of their parents, police said.

THURSDAY, NOV. 7

A Ruidoso High School teacher and coach reported unauthorized graffiti on the track field, police said.

Ronny Maskew found the white spray painted gang tags and obscenities on the rubber surface of the track around 7:30 a.m. The damage is estimated at $100.

Helene Kobelnik, principal of the White Mountain Intermediate school, reported two boys had run away around 8:30 a.m., police said.

The boys, 10 and 11, were seen at the school prior to the bell ringing, but were missing during roll call. Students said they had also seen the boys at the school and knew they planned to leave, police said.

Both boys were later found by one of their parents and brought back to school, police said.

A 13-year-old Ruidoso Middle School girl was arrested for possession of less than one ounce of marijuana after police dog Fanta zeroed in on her purse and indicated she smelled drugs, police said.

The Ruidoso Downs girl and her purse were taken to the principal's office. Inside the girl's purse was a small green box with a green leafy substance that later field tested positive for marijuana, police said.

Upon questioning, the girl said she got the box from another 13-year-old girl who had gotten it from a 12-year-old boy friend. Both suspects were questioned, and both denied any involvement, police said.

The arrested girl was later released to the custody of her parents. Her case is being handled by juvenile probation officials.

An arrest warrant charging telephone harassment, a misdemeanor, was issued for Sutherland Comanche, 28, address unknown after his ex-girlfriend complained he was threatening her, police said.

Comanche was told Oct. 29 by the victim that he could no longer live with her at the Bobby Lane residence. Since then she has received numerous phone calls from him allegedly threatening that if she dates anyone else he will kill her, police said.

The next day, the suspect allegedly called the victim five more times, cursing her and insulting her integrity in one of the calls, and also telling her "you'll die," police said.

A Ruidoso Downs woman complained that the man who found her lost wallet on Sutherland Drive Nov. 6 had kept the $32 in it and now was calling her out for a date, police said.

The driver of a 1985 blue Chevrolet pickup took off from 723 Mesquero Drive Allamogosa without paying for $23 worth of gas, police said.

FRIDAY, NOV. 8

A 39-year-old Carrizozo woman who alleges she was previously raped in the county said she was abducted at Interpoint from the Wal-Mart parking lot on Nov. 3. The abductor was one of the rapists, she said. She said she was taken to the Mesquero area where she was allegedly assaulted and told not to say anything to police. An investigation continues.

SATURDAY, NOV. 9

A Ruidoso man is suspected of assault and battery against a Washington woman he dated for three days, police said.

The victim is visiting her Ruidoso sister until Nov. 12, police said.

Officers were called to the 29 Pine Motel where the battery took place around 10 a.m. They found the victim walking with her daughter a block away. The victim said on the third day she knew the man, who was around 38 years old, 250 pounds and Navajo, he got out of a small red pickup and started hitting and kicking her. Police observed the victim had a cut to her right upper eye and some bruising on her face. She and her daughter were taken to a safe house for the remainder of her stay, police said.

Police filed a criminal complaint against J.D. Livingston, 24, of Colorado Drive after he allegedly assaulted a Hemlock Drive teenager at her home, police said. The complaint charges Livingston with assault against a household member and battery against a household member.

The victim told police that when Livingston came by her home to collect all his things he started arguing with her mother and then grabbed the victim in a headlock, threatened her and hit her on the ear. Police observed a bruise behind the victim's ear and also saw a bite mark on Livingston's wrist from the victim, police said.

SUNDAY, NOV. 10

Someone scratched the driver's door and broke the rearview mirror on a 1986 Lincoln Towncar parked overnight outside a Paradise Canyon home, police said.

A $350 MongOOSE mountain bike with black and green letters was stolen from the front porch of an Evans Drive home. The victim said the thieves also might have damaged the ignition to his jeep which was parked in his carport.

MONDAY, NOV. 11

Sometime over the weekend vandals broke the window to the village's street department hot mix plant at 200 Clovis Drive, police said. No entry was gained to the building.

TUESDAY, NOV. 12

A Ruidoso Drive woman complained that sometime Saturday night someone shot a yellow paint bullet at her house.

Lyndie J. Younger, 22, was bitten by a stray cat at her 3rd Street residence, police said. The victim was seized on her porch with her husband when the large, tan cat with green eyes and flecked fur attacked her, causing four small puncture wounds to the calf of her right leg, police said. The cat was then taken to the Lincoln County Medical Center for treatment. If the cat is found, it will be put in quarantine, police said.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 13

Lynette Jefferson, 24, of Ruidoso Downs was cited for shoplifting $19.99 worth of groceries from the 205 U.S. 70 Food store, police said.

A 24-year-old Wingfield Street victim complained a 21-year-old man named Ricky tried to rape her in her home around 3:15 p.m., police said.

The victim said the suspect, a Hispanic friend of her roommate, came by the home for his friend who wasn't there. He then asked if he could use the bathroom, and when he came out he went into the victim's room and grabbed her.

Officers later contacted the victim's roommate, who said he only met Ricky that day when Ricky came over with a friend to play cards, police said.

THURSDAY, NOV. 14

Police filed a criminal complaint against Jeffrey C. Cook, 21, of Silver City after he allegedly threatened his wife Tamara and W.

Lynn Shepherd in front of the Ruidoso Store at 2301 Sutherland Drive, police said.

The suspect victims live in Ruidoso, police said.

A Mesquero Drive homeowner sustained about $1,000 in damage after vandals tried to steal and damaged furniture, police said. The house is owned by Charles Kemp of Hobbs. The damage occurred sometime between Oct. 10 and Nov. 14, police said.

Police are charging two 14-year-old Ruidoso boys with the felony burglary. The boys are suspects in similar property damage cases in the area, police said.

FRIDAY, NOV. 15

A pipe to a village-owned Ruidoso Drive water tank was broken into, police report.

A two-week tenant took about $1,250 worth of household items from a Mesquero Drive home owned by an El Paso, Texas woman, police said. The homeowner, Alice Jean Sundqvist, took the items and also damaged the property when moving out, police said.

Billy the Kid Scenic Loop Byway

Lincoln County's new Billy the Kid Scenic Loop crosses the trails of the infamous outlaw himself, who made his fame here during the Lincoln County War more than a century ago.

Much of the war took place right in the community of Lincoln, which remains basically unchanged during the last 115 years except for the paved main street. The town and surrounding area have been designated an historic district, guaranteeing it won't change much in the future, either. Historic markers all over town make even a solo walking tour educational and interesting.

Three museums in Lincoln will tell you about the real Billy the Kid, show you the only authenticated photo of the outlaw (owned by one of the museums), and direct you to sites that he frequented. At the courthouse, for example, you can see the hole left in the wall by Billy's bullets when he escaped from jail in 1881.

Although an interpretive center and official Scenic Byway signs won't be erected until mid-1997, historic markers already dot the loop. One on Highway 70 just west of Hondo points to the site of the John Tunstall murder, which ignited the Lincoln County War.

The now-peaceful Hondo Valley also has fruit stands dotting the roadside, historic churches, and the unique Hurd La Rinconada and Fort Meigs art galleries.

The best source of Old West history in the Ruidoso area is the Museum of the Horse, where displays honor the role the horse has played in the settling of the West. A multitude of art galleries and shops can be found in the Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs area, the population seat of Lincoln County.

The loop as it runs north on Highway 48 out of Ruidoso climbs past the Ski Apache turnoff and then heads into Capitan, home of the Smokey Bear State Historical Monument and museum. Smokey Bear was rescued from a fire-ravaged area of the nearby Capitan Mountains, and after making his fame in a Washington, D.C. zoo, he was returned to Capitan for his final resting place. Smokey Bear memorabilia abounds in the museum and Capitan stores.

As you head east on Highway 380 out of Capitan, you come across a Smokey Bear historical marker that points to the Capitan Gap where Smokey was found.

Nearby, between Capitan and Lincoln on Hwy. 380, is the turnoff to Fort Stanton, a 141-year-old fort where the likes of Blackjack Pershing and Kit Carson once served. It's worth a short detour on a paved road.

Fort Stanton is the temporary home of women prisoners of the state for a few years, and then local groups hope to create a living history museum there.

A marker at the Merchant Marines cemetery at the fort tells of the days when these soldiers came here to recuperate from tuberculosis, after the government decided the fort was no longer needed for military protection against the Mescalero Apache Indians.

In a nutshell, if you start from Ruidoso and go clockwise on the Billy the Kid Scenic Loop, you will follow Highway 48 (also called Mechem Drive in Ruidoso) north to Capitan, head southeast on Highway 380 to its end at U.S. Highway 70, then go west back into Ruidoso on Highway 70 (also called Sudderth Drive in Ruidoso). The drive itself takes approximately 90 minutes so give yourself plenty of time to see all the sites along the way.

Many other popular attractions lie on the outskirts of the Scenic Loop: the historic Tinnie restaurant and saloon to the east, the Inn of the Mountain Gods on the Mescalero Apache Reservation to the southwest, and the communities of Nogal, Carrizozo, White Oaks, Ancho and Corona to the northwest. Nogal, Carrizozo and White Oaks (which some still call a gold mining ghost town) have become the home of a variety of talented artists who have moved here to revel in the laid-back and beautiful surroundings. Watch out — it could happen to you!

Shaped skis are latest revolution in equipment

BY KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

They've been called hourglass, shaped, super sidecut, or parabolic skis.

They are the newest revolution in ski equipment, and some compare their importance to the creation of quick-release bindings.

Ruidoso retailers agree they're the hottest thing in the ski equipment market this season.

"It's the latest and greatest in ski technology," says Ronnie Taylor, owner of Mountain Ski Shop.

The shaped ski is shorter and wider than the traditional standard ski.

"Because of the drastic cut like an hourglass, it's easier for turning but still gives the capability of maintaining speed," Taylor says.

Modeled after the snowboard, the tale of the shaped ski is almost as wide as its shovel.

"They actually took the pattern of the snowboard and added the greater sidecut," after noticing how boarders could edge so well, explains Ron Anderson of Wild West Inc. ski shop. "Low and behold, they work."

With the new shaped ski, Anderson predicts better skiing by many on the slopes.

"They really help your technique and ability right away," he says.

The parabolic-shaped ski, which hit the market last year, is a major industry push this year, he says.

"This is probably the last year of the conventional ski," Anderson adds. He compares the parabolic ski's expected dominance in the industry to the over-sized head of graphite tennis rackets. "Almost all the companies are going with the shaped ski," he said.

The shaped ski "gives a little more maneuverability, and allows people who have never known how to edge to edge," agrees Robert Donaldson, owner of Pro Ski Sports.

Its shortcoming is, it's a "turny ski," he says. "With the hourglass shape, it wants to turn all the time."

So skiers at the beginner and advanced-intermediate levels will probably swear by the hourglass, but those at the expert level will likely stick with the traditional ski, he predicts.

Prices of the parabolic, hourglass-shaped skis range between $300 to $650 and can be bought or rented at most of Ruidoso's ski shops.

JoAnn Taylor checks out a pair of Rossingnol Dualteck 9.9 parabolic skis at Mountain Ski Shop in Ruidoso. She's dressed in a Boston Furrier coat (dyed black cut velvet, with opossum fur) and Miura goat fur après ski boots.

In Ruidoso, you can golf & ski in same day

BY PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Après ski options in Ruidoso are seldom limited to coffee houses and fireplace lethargy. The versatile sports enthusiast can usually shed ski boots and don spikes for an afternoon on the golf course.

It's not unusual for Ruidoso greens to be clear and sunny in the middle of winter. In fact, it's more common than not.

"Under normal circumstances, we golf year round," said Mike Massey, who works at the Cree Meadows pro shop.

When snow reaches the village, it usually melts away that day. In general, Cree doesn't lose more than 25-30 days a year to weather.

"That's including summer," Massey added.

Cree Meadows is billed at Ruidoso oldest, most playable and most affordable course. Every hole affords panoramic views of Sierra Blanca. The course celebrates its 50th anniversary in 1997.

At The Links of Sierra Blanca, snowblowers keep the driving range open all the time. As snow starts melting from the fairway, maintenance crews clean off the greens and golfers can tee off.

Snow-capped Sierra Blanca looks over the shoulder of a winter golfer as he takes a swing on the green at the Links.

The Links is a Scottish style course designed by senior tour professional Jim Colbert.

The Inn of the Mountain Gods course is nestled between the pine forest and Mescalero Lake at the Mescalero Apache Reservation's luxurious resort.

"Each hole is surrounded by two to three sand traps and we have water features on four out of the first nine holes and five of the back nine," said golf pro Daniel Nuñez. Carts are required. The course is closed in January and February.

Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club is just north of Ruidoso, but you have to play it with a club member because it is a private course.

Other nearby courses include the Carrizozo Municipal Golf Course, about 45 minutes away from Ruidoso, and the Desert Lakes Golf Course in Alamogordo; about an hour away. Both are at lower elevations for an even warmer game.

Even disabled skiers can enjoy Ski Apache

By LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Nestled in the backside of the main lodge at Ski Apache is the modest office of the nation's third-largest disabled skiers program.

Ski Apache Disabled Skiers Program (formerly Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association) has brought the thrill of skiing to nearly 300 people of all ages and disabilities.

A day at Ski Apache rarely goes by without at least one disabled skier hitting the slopes — whether it be a class of visually impaired students from the New Mexico School for the Visually Handicapped in nearby Alamogordo, or an independent skier who is an amputee.

SADSP director Lisa Maue has 80 volunteers and seven part-time instructors to help her run the program. The highly trained staff has plenty of experience handling disabled skiers, but it can get tricky when other able-bodied skiers aren't sure how to respond to SADSP skiers.

"People are almost too nice (on the slopes)," Maue says. "The minute they see that bib that says 'blind skier' they try to overcompensate."

Maue advises able-bodied skiers to avoid cutting in between visually handicapped skiers and their guides. Abrupt stops in front of the sit-ski and mono-ski can also cause problems for the disabled skiers because they are controlling their speed and movements with their arms. It can get pretty strenuous having to perform a quick stop.

Skiers go out of their way to get out of the way, but that's not always necessary.

"When we train our volunteers, we're also training them to look out for other skiers. Just try to be consistent when you're skiing around the visually impaired skiers," says Maue, who is in her fourth year as SADSP director and sixth overall with the program.

The various apparatus used by disabled skiers often generates questions from other skiers. It's OK to ask skiers those questions, but it's best to do it when waiting in the lift line, Maue suggests.

"Most of the students aren't shy. You can come up and ask all the questions you want," she says.

The SADSP office is packed with specially adapted equipment, and Maue invites everyone to stop by and check out the latest apparatus.

"Just because the door is closed doesn't mean we're not there," Maue says.

SADSP director Lisa Maue helps Daniel Goldsmith of Midland, Texas enjoy the slopes at Ski Apache.

Dictionary of amazing disabled skiing equipment

Ski-bra: The equipment attaches to the tips of the skis and is used by beginning students and developmentally disabled students. The ski-bra prevents them from splaying or crossing their skis. It allows them to simply push out their feet to slow down or stop, and to stay in a wedge.

Outriggers: Also called Canadian crutches, they have little skis on the bottom and are attached to the arms of a person with an amputated leg. This is called three-tracking because it leaves three ski tracks. Four-tracking uses the same outriggers for people who lack lower body strength or upper body stability, i.e. spinal bifida, cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy or multiple sclerosis.

Walker: This is simply a walker on skis. A guide, who is tethered to the skier from behind, skis with the disabled person. The student steers with the upper body. By twisting the walker, the skis turn with it. Partial paraplegics, those with more involved cerebral palsy, or those with post polio impairments can use a walker.

Mono-ski: This is a seat attached to a single ski, and the skiers have mini-outriggers on their arms, which allows them to turn. Partial paraplegics, who have use of their arms, typically use mono-skis.

Bi-ski: A seat attached to two skis. Anyone can ski this, essentially for full quadriplegics.

Sit-ski: An older version of the mono-ski. Used with people who are multiply impaired and/or suffering from seizure disorders.

Snowmaking means good base in any conditions

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The sky is clear overhead, not a cloud. But snow showers arch in the air and fall to earth, adding to the powder base already on Elk Ridge at Ski Apache.

As they do periodically throughout the winter when the area is dry, 55 "guns" are spewing their loads of manmade snow onto slopes around the ski resort 16 miles northwest of Ruidoso.

The resort's snowmaking capacity is about 20% greater this year than last, because of the increased efficiency of the guns, said Denny Grover, mountain operations manager at Ski Apache, a job that includes directing the production of snow.

That snow spells insurance for skiers. Even if the weather doesn't cooperate, the main slopes should be covered with snow. And don't get the false impression it's fake.

"Manmade snow is real snow," Grover explained. "It is uniform in crystal shape and therefore, more durable. It skis, grooms and covers like sky snow. It just costs more.

"We have two storage ponds and a transfer system to keep our main pond full," Grover said. "These ponds are filled from our wells at Ski Apache. The water is saved in the snowpack and makes its way into the watershed in the spring as it melts.

"We've been making snow for 15 years here at Ski Apache on a regular basis. Before that, it was experimenting with various systems. Our current system is an evolution of the earlier systems with constant refinement."

The snow guns started up this season in October to assure a great base on nearly one-third of Ski Apache.

Grover, 53, learned to ski at the resort while he was in the military in Roswell.

"I started out to be a history teacher, but I just haven't learned enough about skiing yet," he said. "I love to ski. I do it everyday. I have taught skiing, been a ski patrolman and worked at Ski Apache since 1969.

Four types of snow guns are used at Ski Apache, each classified by the process by which the water is broken up into small particles and converted into snow. They use combinations of compressed air, small nozzles and fan blades.

"We can cover 100 vertical feet, including all trails on Elk Ridge reached by Chairlift 8, and the novice and beginner areas reached by Chairs 3 and 5," Grover said.

Five chairlifts serve slopes that can be covered with manmade snow. These lifts can service more than 10,000 skiers per hour, Grover said.

The snowmaking system is dependent on three pumps and two compressors. The pumps move water up the mountain with 500 pounds of pressure.

The manmade snow at Ski Apache actually comes from natural snow that has melted over the summer.

"There is a booster pump to raise the water up to the top of the system to make snow on Elk Ridge. When the total system is in operation, 2,100 horsepower is being used," Grover said.

In general, it takes water, compressed air, cold temperatures and work — a lot of work — to produce snow, Grover said.

It takes a talented crew, too. Ski Apache has one.

"The most important part of any snowmaking system is the crews that operate it," Grover said. "Ski Apache crews are some of the best in the industry. Many have been making snow since we started the system 15 years ago."

The snow guns still need a little cooperation from the weather to do their thing.

"We're still dependent on Mother Nature for cold temperatures and for water," Grover said. "But if we have those ingredients, we'll make snow for skiing.

"This past season, we made snow all season and the areas we covered were the best skiing on the mountain day in and day out.

"With the limited natural snowfall, the season could have been a disaster, but instead, it was an acceptable ski season."

We're kinda glad Alfred Hitchcock never hung out at Farley's Food, Fun & Pub when he was alive. After all, every time a flock of birds flew over, or someone took a shower (we know we don't have a shower, but think of the restroom stalls...), or someone climbed up on a bar stool and got vertigo, everyone woulda got bummed over the results.

But if Hitch had hung out at Farley's, maybe he'da done some great comedies, instead...and of course, he'da looked a lot cooler in a farley's cap, instead of that dorky derby.

What's new this year on slopes of Ski Apache

Improvements at Ski Apache for the 1996-97 season make beginners the winners, says the ski area's marketing director Riker Davis.

"If the lift capacity has been strained anywhere, it's been strained for the beginners. We had relatively long lines on the lower area at chair 3 and chair 5," Davis said.

Novice skiers are sure to notice the new Ctec quad chair which serves the lower slopes in front of the main lodge. The larger capacity lift replaces the Riblet double chair, transporting twice the number of beginning skiers (2,400 per hour).

Additionally, Lower Deep Freeze has been widened and rerouted to lower Snowpark so the new lift can unload on a gentler pitch with plenty of room for four.

"It's going to make a big difference in getting those skiers more time on the slopes and less time in line," Davis added.

For the younger set, The Kiddie Korral, an all-day ski instruction for children, has been expanded. It can now accommodate twice the number of children, up to 50. A staff of specially trained ski instructors teaches 4- and 5-year-olds the basics of skiing.

"It's just a super program that teaches them ski skills while it lets the parents loose to ski for the day, knowing that their children are being cared for," Davis said.

As before, first-time skiers receive a free all-day lesson with the purchase of their lift tickets. This even applies to seasoned skiers who try snowboarding for the first time.

The ski school is offering a new special for 1996-97. The more seasoned skiers receive a half day upper level session for half price when they enroll a friend or family member in any group lesson.

Ski Apache has also continued to refine and improve its snowmaking capacities. Additional equipment will help maximize the capabilities of the area's 46 snowmaking guns.

Snowmaking crews can add manmade snow on slopes serviced by eight of 11 lifts and on nearly a third of the skiing terrain.

The monumental "Free Spirits at Noisy Water" by Ruidoso artist Dave McGary has become a major attraction at the Museum of the Horse. It features larger-than-life exact replicas of seven breeds of horses.

Museum of Horse houses wonders of the Old West

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Gun collectors visiting the Ruidoso area this winter won't want to miss a new exhibit at The Museum of the Horse called "Two Hundred Years of Firearms."

Part of the museum's pledge not to run a "static" operation focuses on bringing new and interesting exhibits to its floors in Ruidoso Downs off U.S. 70.

Rifles, pistols and commemorative items from the 200-item collection of C.L. "Bones" Wright are on exhibit Nov. 30 through March. The collection includes flint locks, cap and ball rifles, weapons from American and English armors, pistols from the 1870s to present, derringers, shotguns, commemorative rifles and law enforcement badges.

The free grand opening is 5-7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 30.

Wright, the 76-year-old owner of a local lumber and hardware supply company, will be at the opening.

A few of the rarities in his collection are a 7th Cavalry rifle, a pearl-handled pistol from one of Pancho Villa's "villistas" and trap guns for catching thieves.

The "booby trap" guns consist of a firing mechanism and a hook or trip wire. Unwelcome visitors who invaded a man's property might find themselves seriously wounded or worse, according to Jim Dickinson, education curator for the museum. Some were used to thwart grave robbers and were called English flintlock trap guns.

One pistol may have been used by Billy the Kid, although "I couldn't guarantee Billy the Kid ever used it," Wright said. "Everyone you talk to says they've got something of the Kid's."

But the authenticity of another item is beyond dispute, Wright said. He has the only pocket watch ever owned by the Kid, who made his fame right here in Lincoln County. The time piece is documented with photos and a chain of possession.

Wright has collected firearms since his childhood.

"My mother was about half afraid to go into my room, because she knew I had guns in there," he said.

The majority of the items in Wright's collection were given to him as gifts, Dickinson said.

"People just heard I like guns and they'd give them to me," Wright confirmed.

Museum Director Bruce Eldredge said the exhibit will consist of much more than a display of weapons.

"The museum plans to host demonstrations, programs and lectures explaining the major development in firearms and the tremendous social and historical impact of those developments," he said. "This is a fascinating collection and has never before been viewed by the public."

The museum stages its annual free Christmas Party at 2-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14. It includes caroling, treats and a visit with Santa and Mrs. Claus, Dickinson said. At 7 p.m. the Santa Fe Desert Chorale performs a collection of holiday music.

In January, more of Anne C. Stradling's collection will be on exhibit. Stradling, from a wealthy East Coast family, spent her adult life in the West, where she became known for her horsemanship and artifact collection containing 10,000 horse-related items.

In a continuous process of renewal, the museum's staff will be creating "Anne's Attic 2," selecting different pieces than those displayed in the original exhibit opened in 1995. The attic features personal and family items and furniture, in contrast to the western gear in the main display room.

The Ruidoso Racing Hall of Fame opens on Memorial Day 1997. An interactive exhibit will allow patrons to mount a horse in a starting gate.

The museum stages a variety of programs throughout the year - from live demonstrations such as farriers, boot makers and teamsters - to lectures, workshops and performances, including the Santa Fe Opera.

A schedule of museum events is published annually. For more information, call 505-378-4142 or 800-263-5929.

Simulcast racing, pull tabs offer games of chance locally

BY KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you want a chance to make back some of the money you spend on your vacation, check out the simulcast horse races and pull tabs in the Ruidoso area.

Simulcast horse racing runs all winter at the Ruidoso Downs Sports Theater, and pull tabs are available at the main lobby of the Mescalero Apache Tribe's Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The state government also offers scratch games and Powerball through many local convenience stores.

Casino Apache at the Inn of the Mountain Gods was closed in the fall of 1996 in a court battle over whether the Legislature should have approved Indian gambling compacts the governor signed. It remained closed at presstime, so you may want to call to see if the slot machines and card tables are back in operation.

Sports theater

Open September-May, the Ruidoso Downs Sports Theater offers some of the best simulcast pony action in the west, as well as full food service, beverages and parimutuel windows for wagering.

Doors open at 11 a.m. Thursday through Monday, and stay open until the last race, which on Friday and Saturday nights can be as late as midnight.

Thursday, Sunday and Monday, the last race is usually around 6 p.m.

About 45 large television screens are situated throughout the theater, which can be viewed from the kitchen, bar area and corridor for free. Football and other sports can also be viewed on some of the TVs, and about 25 nine-inch monitors also fill the building.

Sloped seating in the auditorium area is also free. Those who want a private table with a nine-inch monitor can reserve one for $3.

With the reserved monitors, spectators have the privilege of switching back and forth from a sport game to a horse race if they wish.

The theater is located a half-mile east of Ruidoso Downs Race Track, off of U.S. 70 on Service Lane. It's the first road east of the Horseman's entrance between the Museum of the Horse and the racetrack.

For more information about the theater or races, call 505-378-4431 or 505-378-4627.

Pull tabs

Those seeking instant gratification when placing bets should make a gamble with a pull tab game.

The cards, for sale at the Mescalero Apache Tribe's Inn of the Mountain Gods, cost from 25 cents to $1 and offer winnings as great as $5,000.

To purchase a pull tab card, just go to the lobby of the Inn, which is located about two miles from Ruidoso on Carrizo Canyon Road.

The game is quick to learn and easy to play. Players just pull back tabs covering symbols on the cards, and with the right matches, there's a win.

Although the U.S. Attorney forced the shutdown of the tribe's Casino Apache in September, he couldn't touch pull tabs.

The game is legal because it mirrors games the state already provides. The tribe has offered pull tabs for play since 1991.

Snowshoes let you explore backcountry's winter wonderland with ease

BY KATHLEEN MCDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Snowshoes allow hikers to continue wandering the forest all year, accessing the steepest terrain without sinking into the cold snow covering the ground.

"It's a whole lot of fun, and if you can walk, you can snowshoe," says Mike Steed, owner of Steed's Ski Sports. "It's pretty low key, but you can make it as difficult as you want by going to quite difficult areas."

The shoes are often referred to as bear paws — they have webbing like a tennis racket and look a little like both. Just wear regular winter boots, strap your feet on top of the wide, oblong, flat snowshoes, and walk.

"When you get on them and start walking, you figure out the technique real quick," Steed explains.

"It's not quite like hiking (the gait), but you figure out in the first 40 to 50 steps how to snowshoe."

Snowshoeing is an ancient sport, he says, likely older than crosscountry skiing. It's even popular with snowboard and backcountry ski fanatics, because they use the shoes to climb the slopes before strapping them on their backs to ski or board down the hill.

"They take you to areas crosscountry skiing can't — between trees — and can climb like you can't with crosscountry," Steed adds.

Styles range from the modern aluminum or plastic, which are lighter and more durable, to the more aesthetically pleasing wooden shoes. They range in price from $75 to $300.

Steed's shop at 1017 Mechem Drive in Ruidoso rents out snowshoes for $10 a day.

Selma Steed shows off a pair of Snow Tread snowshoes — lightweight and durable rentals available at Steed's Ski Sports.

Winter fishing is best here in the mountains

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Summer may draw the biggest crowds to lakes and streams around Ruidoso, but to some experts, winter is the best time to fish in the mountains.

The elusive trout are higher in the water, and approaching storms seem to send them into a feeding frenzy. Rainbow, German browns, cutthroat, cutbow and brook trout are found in the lakes and streams locally.

"July and August is the worst time to fish in the lakes, because the fish are 20-30 feet under," said Dick Ramsay, who guides on fishing trips, teaches fly-tying and stands in for owner Jim Shoop at Fly's Etc. in Timbers Mall in downtown Ruidoso.

In the summer, the fish huddle on the bottom much of the time to stay within their temperature comfort zone. But in the winter, the lake temperatures flip-flop and the warmer water rises to the surface, bringing the fish with it, he said.

"The fish stay in the top 10 feet starting around the first of October when the days start to get colder," Ramsay said.

In December and January, the water will freeze and the fish will move to a new thermal zone about 15-20 feet below the surface, he said.

"As the temperature lowers, the cold filters down," Ramsay said. "The metabolism of the fish lowers, they feed less and with less gusto. They go pretty dormant once the temperature hits 40 degrees."

During the colder months of December through February, the best fishing is at noon with the most intense heat of the day, he said.

During the summer, the best time is in the morning with the sun on your back. By mid-day, the fish are hiding.

Barometric pressure also seems to influence the feeding pattern of fish, he said.

"When a winter storm is approaching, it has a positive affect on their feeding habits," he said.

In very cold water, baits such as salmon eggs cured in sugar and dyed red don't work as well as flies and lures.

Dick Ramsay ties a fly.

"Fish are attracted to odors and color," Ramsay said. "When the water is cold, the sugar isn't milked out into the surrounding water like it is in the summer."

But flies and lures are shiny and bright. They make noise and motion to attract the sluggish fish, he said.

A popular fly is Pistol Pete, an interpretation of a woolly worm with a red head and propellers on the back end. Ramsay ties more than 150 flies. He collects specimens of whatever the trout are feeding on at a particular time, and then designs new patterns to duplicate the insect, larvae or worm of current choice.

Ramsay recommends wearing muted, earth-colored clothes when fishing. White shirts and caps scare the fish, he said.

"A trout telescopes its eyes in and out of its head," Ramsay explained. "There are rods and cones in the eyes. The rods detect movement and respond to size and shape. The cones pick up color."

"When the sun is 45 degrees over the horizon, the rods retract and the cones are dominant, so you have to match the color of the insects they're feeding on. In the afternoon, it's the size, shape and movement that counts, because they go under the banks in the shade and the rods don't retract, so color doesn't make any difference."

Although the state stocks the lakes and streams more often in the summer than the winter — about every six weeks instead of every two weeks — there's plenty to satisfy everyone, Ramsay said.

With Alto Lake closed down this past summer because of a spring drought, Bonito Lake was under more fishing pressure, but is doing fine, Ramsay said. Grindstone Lake right here in Ruidoso is another favorite.

Three lakes, Eagle, Silver and Mescalero, are located on the Mescalero Apache Reservation adjoining Ruidoso. The tribe charges $8 per person per day to fish its lakes.

For other lakes and streams, a New Mexico fishing license is needed. They are available at Wal-Mart on U.S. 70 and Western Auto on Mechem Drive in Ruidoso.

For non-residents, a one-day license is $9, a five consecutive day license is $17 and an annual license is $40.

For residents, an annual license is $18.50, senior citizens and juniors under 14 pay $11.50, and fishermen over 70 fish for free.

Current annual licenses will expire March 31 and new ones will be issued starting April 1.

A habitat improvement stamp is required if you're fishing on a stream where it crosses Bureau of Land Management or U.S. Forest Service property. The stamps are not needed to fish Grindstone, Alto, Bonito or streams in Ruidoso.

Ruidoso's streams are recovering from a two-year drought, Ramsay said. The state didn't stock as often this past summer, because the water was too low.

Fly fishing still can deliver a full day of fun, but newcomers may need to modify their techniques for local conditions, Ramsay said.

"A long cast in the Ruidoso area is 20 feet," he said. "Around here we use what I call 'pick up and lay down' casting, not the big overhead casts people are used to seeing."

Fly's Etc. can arrange guided trips to favorite spots above Bonito

Lake where cutbows (a hybrid of rainbow and cutthroat trout) spawn.

Ramsay, who started guiding in the Kansas-Arkansas area in 1969, knows those special places and where brook trout spawn in November and rainbow spawn in fall and spring.

When the water temperature drops too low in winter in Ruidoso, he has alternate spots in the Hondo Valley where the water is a little warmer. The Mesilla Fly Fishing Club also has access to two private ranches on the Peñasco River and was scheduled to add one in Hondo Valley this winter, Ramsay said. The club charges a $5 fee and permits can be purchased at Fly's Etc.

The novice fisherman can get equipment for as little as $20 (for a rod and reel) or can spend as much as $500 to be completely outfitted for fly fishing.

The shop is open during the winter from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday through Sunday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on weekdays. Gear also can be purchased at Wal-Mart, Western Auto, Buck's Guns and other shops in town.

Be a winter rebel — try snowboarding

BY LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Is the rebel side of you yearning to be released? Then strap on some boots and grab a snowboard. It'll help.

You don't really have to be a bad boy or bad girl to snowboard. That's just the popular image of the snowboarders, who prefer to tackle the mountain on one broad board rather than two.

Snowboarders are allowed on all of Ski Apache's 55 trails, unlike many other ski areas such as Taos.

For five years, Ski Apache has welcomed this alternative to skiing. Cost to rent snowboarding boots and snowboard is $26 for a single or $40 for two consecutive days. That and a lift ticket will get the snowboarder access to the ski area's 55 trails.

Favorite boarder trails include Upper Deep Freeze and The Fingers of the south face of the Apache Bowl, says Ski Apache snowboard instructor Rankin Harvey. Those two are half pipes which provide snowboarders the opportunity to perform tricks much like a skateboarder. Meadows, Chino and Geronimo are runs for intermediate boarders. Harvey's favorite is the black diamond trail Dead End where he can board the moguls.

"A good boarder can ski anything a good skier can," said Harvey, who has been boarding for 13 years.

A board is great in powder because it rides higher. Snowboarders also enjoy unique jumps, spins and other tricks.

"A lot of people like it because it's not skiing," Harvey said. Others like both; Harvey, who is also a ski instructor, likes to alternate a day of skiing with a day of snowboarding.

"As you get into the upper levels of boarding, skiing and boarding complement each other," explained Harvey, who added snowboarding makes him a better skier and vice versa.

Beginners often make the wrong assumption they can snowboard because they can skateboard or surf.

Unlike surfing or skateboarding, where you're on your back foot, snowboarding requires the boarder to move forward to initiate a turn, Harvey said. When he teaches beginners, Harvey emphasizes riding on the front foot.

Snowboarding has only two turns — the skidded turn and the carved turn — for beginners to master. Skiing has four major turning milestones — the wedge turn, the christie, the open parallel and the dynamic.

"The first day on skis is easier than a snowboard, but after that it's easier to advance on a board," Harvey said.

Snowboarders negotiate the hill the same way skiers do, but it looks different — and that has a tendency to make skiers apprehensive about skiing runs with boarders.

The skidding sound the board makes when turning is louder than skiing, and the movement pattern is different, Harvey said.

"It just looks different and sounds different," he said.

Because of snowboarding's inauspicious beginnings, enthusiasts find themselves still struggling for acceptance at some ski areas. They're still not allowed at some places, such as Taos.

Snowboarders made their presence felt in the mid-1980s in Colorado when Denver gangs escaped to the slopes during the winter. They traded their skateboards for snowboards and took to the mountain. Imagine the sight — young gang members cruising down the slopes.

It's been an image tough to shake, but time and the growing popularity of the sport has led to greater acceptance.

"The rebellious part of it is an appeal, but not necessarily what the snowboarding community would want," explained Harvey, who bought his first board the second year Burton manufactured them.

Some ski areas are recognizing snowboarding's growing popularity and have constructed separate trails specifically for snowboarders. Others open trails to both skiers and boarders, like Ski Apache, one of seven New Mexico ski areas to allow snowboarders.

Ski Apache also encourages long-time skiers to pick a snowboard for a day. Just like first-time skiers, first-time snowboarders get a free, all-day lesson with the purchase of their lift ticket — it doesn't matter if you've been skiing for years.

Sledding is for kids of all ages

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

When was the last time you hauled an inner tube up a hill and flew down in the snow? Fewer things make you feel like a kid again.

Here in Ruidoso, sledding is a popular pastime for young and old alike.

The hill behind the Ruidoso Library is a favorite spot. The end of the slick slide is buffeted by some small trees and a parking lane, ensuring no one will sail into the street.

It's always a good idea to bring some hot chocolate and a sandwich for energy, and to help keep your hands warm.

If you drive a few miles north, a longer run can be found at the end of Cedar Creek Road. The turnoff from Mechem Drive is next to the Smokey Bear Ranger District Office of the U.S. Forest Service.

Four decades earlier, the Cedar Creek run doubled as Ruidoso's ski area and had tow ropes. Sledders can still go for the gusto by climbing to the tree line, or pick a tamer route.

If both places are too crowded, ask a young resident of Ruidoso to suggest some out-of-the-way hills or backroads that remain impassable during the winter, but offer some scary snow skirmishes.

Sledding at Cloudcroft

For more tubing opportunities, drive another 40 miles into the Lincoln National Forest around Cloudcroft. Besides many impromptu spots along the road, tubers can whip down the slopes at the privately-owned Triple M Snow Play Area.

"We have three slopes and one is the steepest in New Mexico," said owner Craig Sparling. "We also have an intermediate and beginners hill. All are supervised."

At Triple M, you don't even have to walk back up the slope after flying over packed flakes to the bottom. A lift will gently move you to the top again for another trip down.

The lift is open daily during the Christmas and New Year holiday, then closes on weekdays, except by reservation for groups of 50 or more.

Starting in mid-December, tubing hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lift tickets are $12 for all day and $8 for a half-day. Lift tickets with a tube rental are $16 for all day and $11 for a half day.

Tube and slope rate without the lift is $8 for the day. If you bring your own tube, it drops to $6.

To find Triple M, leave Ruidoso on U.S. 70 West, then turn left (southeast) on State Highway 244 to Cloudcroft. Head left on State Highway 130 out of Cloudcroft for two miles, then turn onto the Sunspot Highway (6563) for another 2.6 miles.

Old Folks Club keeps senior skiers young at heart

By DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you're overtaken by a quartet of skiers tearing by at break-neck speed down a snow-covered slope at Ski Apache, chances are you've just been left in the spray of the Old Folks Club.

The three septuagenarians and one 68-year-old youngster say they came by their group name after overhearing some words of admiration from an amazed cluster of skiers a few years ago.

The onlookers exclaimed, "Wow, lookit them old farts go," as Ward Hook and Bill Wooley sped past.

The description stuck and the men began referring to themselves as the OFCs, modified to the Old Folks Club in polite company.

Regardless of the nomenclature, Wooley, 71, Hook, 72, plus Leo Mitchell, 71 and David Railsback, 68, constitute a robust group of locals who for the last several years have skied together nearly every winter week at Ski Apache. When the snow isn't falling, they may head for slopes farther north to keep in shape.

And they each have their favorite pursuits to keep their muscles toned during the months between ski seasons.

"Everybody plays golf, but me," Hook said. "I use a cane and it's easier to ski than walk with both feet on snow and two poles.

"I've been skiing since 1968 and there was only one year I was really in shape when I started, from working in the attic and duck walking. That really built muscles."

Hook said he takes it easy on the slopes the first two weekends, and then moves to the steeper and faster slopes, staying longer.

Hook's major attempt at toning during non-skiing months is swimming in the pool at Cree Meadows Country Club three times a week.

See Old Folks Club, page 21

Bill Wooley shreds the slopes.

Old Folks Club skis with passion

Mitchell said most of his off-season exercise time is spent on the golf course and walking. For the five to six weeks before he tries on his skis, he intensifies the schedule to build his stamina.

He also starts skiing each year on easier slopes and for just a couple of hours.

Besides golf, Railsback walks and hikes with his wife, and they both do aerobics with a television exercise show.

Last year, he hiked to the top of Sierra Blanca Peak with Wooley, but this year, he wasn't able to make the trip with his friend.

Unlike the others in the club, Railsback didn't start skiing until he was 50, although he sampled the sport in high school when Ruidosoans skied at the end of Cedar Creek.

"My wife and I started a young married Sunday school class in Amarillo (Texas) and brought them to Ruidoso to ski," Railsback said of his attempt years later to get back into skiing. "But when I looked at Capitan (ski run), I said, 'Oh my, I can't do that.'"

"The next year they took me to Red River and made me take a lesson. I fell all the way down the slope."

He finally learned to ski from Wooley when he moved to Ruidoso full time.

Wooley stays busy all summer with lengthy hikes. He just finished a 10-hour, 13.5 mile journey along Crest Trail in the White Mountain Wilderness.

His hike to the top of Sierra Blanca took about 3.75 hours to go up and two hours to go back. When he stopped with his companion to have lunch at the top, he was feeling pretty good about his time. Then Steve Hightower arrived.

"I asked him how long it took him to reach the top and he said 1 hour and 20 minutes," a deflated Wooley said.

When he's not hiking, Wooley can be found on the golf course with Railsback, each carrying his own bag of clubs for a full 18 holes.

They also walk the three-mile path around The Links Golf Course.

Since the Old Folks Club formed a few years ago, Bob Berry, who sold a home in Texas and moved to Ruidoso, has been added, and Marshall Conover often skis with Wooley.

But adding new people isn't as easy as it sounds, because the current members are all crackerjack skiers. And just as it's difficult for a speed hiker to slow down for a stroller, it's not as much fun when

Ski areas compete for seniors

The energetic Old Folks Club typifies a growing group of retired active skiers able to ski mid-week instead of weekends, able to vacation any time instead of just children's school holidays.

Ski areas compete for this affluent segment of the skiing market by offering senior citizen deals.

For many years, Ski Apache has sold a senior season pass. Costing $140, the pass pays for itself after four days.

"It's a real bargain, especially since we don't ski all day like we used to," one of the OFC members admits.

Last year when snowfall was scarce in Ruidoso, the gang tried some other slopes too, although they agree Ski Apache has the best grooming in the country.

"In Colorado, a lot of places are free for seniors," Hook said. The same is true at Angel Fire.

someone is along who can't ski the big slopes.

But if enough older people of varying ability showed an interest, everyone could have fun going up together, would have a partner to ski with and then could get together after the skiing, they said.

Lifetime sport

Three of the gang began their skiing careers as young men.

Mitchell started in 1945 in Germany, Wooley in 1961 when Ski Apache opened as Sierra Blanca Ski Area and Hook in 1968 when he joined the National Ski patrol.

All taught their children to ski and in time, their grandchildren. Now scattered all over the world, those same kids and grandkids return for ski vacations with their grandparents.

Like many others in Ruidoso, some of the club members had second homes in Ruidoso for 20 or 30 years and then moved up permanently.

None of the group knew each other before moving here. They became friends at the Cree Meadows Country Club, where they went golfing or swimming.

"Where else but Ruidoso can you ski all morning and play 18 holes in the afternoon?" marvels Wooley.

"Or ski one weekend with some out-of-town guests and golf the next with a different bunch," adds Hook.

What's hot — and what's not — in skiwear this year

BY KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Day-glow colors and grunge snowboard styles are pretty much out, while a straight-line, more conservative look is in, say some local ski moguls.

"Neon is out — finally," cheers Steed's Ski Sports shop owner Mike Steed. "Thank God!"

Selina Steed and her sister, Skye, model the latest, lightweight Inside Edge skiwear at their parents' store, Steed's Ski Sports.

And notes Wild West Ski Shop owner Ron Anderson, "They're getting away from the snowboard grunge look in styles."

The industry is saying "Sell the thrill, not the grunge," Anderson relates.

That look helped cast a somewhat surly image on the sport of snowboarding, an image some in the industry are trying to shed, he says.

The new style has sort of a 1950s look, with straight line parkas covering the buttocks.

Other hot jackets are the fleece pullovers that now look heavy enough to be Berber carpet, says Rocky Mountain Sports owner Cindy Clayton.

"It's wild the things they're doing with fleece this year," she says.

Leather is also strong, and raw silk is making an appearance as lining in some powder shells, she says.

Earth tones are right in there with wild leopard and zebra prints for ski suits, says Clayton's assistant clerk Kip McClellan.

There's also a lot of purples, yellows, oranges and grays marking the clothing, but such colors are soothed by the darker colors around them, he says.

And what's really in, McClellan adds, "is anything that doesn't show dirt or blood."

Basically, every color under the sun is stylish in ski wear this year, says Mountain Ski Shop owner Ronnie Taylor. "It isn't just neon anymore. There's multiple colors, so we can be our own person. If you're a brown, you can be a brown."

Best of all, the ski clothing is more practical than ever before.

"The clothes don't just have to be for skiing, but can be worn casually, too," Taylor says of the suits, parkas, pants and snowboarding clothing and boots he sells at his shop — the largest retailer of ski clothing in Ruidoso.

This winter's line of high-tech gear is designed to keep you warm without feeling like a bear on skis.

New air walk snowboarding boots that you can slip right into are hitting the market. And materials for clothing are lighter than ever, too.

"The Inside Edge has come out with some really nice ski gear in their High Tech line," Steed says. "It's very technical ski clothing that stands up to very heavy duty (winter) conditions," he says. "You keep yourself warm when necessary and cool when necessary, without carrying a lot of extra stuff."

The lightweight, high tech fabric is similar to cycling gear, with a "ventilation system" that allows body moisture to dry without becoming cold, explains Clayton.

The ski wear industry seems to be agreeing with Ruidoso's motto this year: just about anything goes.

"If it's warm and comfy, it works," Clayton says.

Lessons help skiers at every level

BY PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you're heading to the slopes this winter and you've never strapped on skis in your life, you may consider skiing lessons essential for your safe passage down the slope.

The most important lesson, of course, comes first — how to stop.

And if you're an experienced skier, a refresher course or graduation to a new skill level might be in order.

Whatever your skills on the snow, the ski instructors at Ski Apache can make your life easier and more enjoyable by sharing a few pointers. Plus, they love their jobs, and that makes the learning experience fun.

Scott Goeller is head supervisor at the ski school. The secret to good skiing, he says, is to relax and balance.

Most beginners take a two-day ski lesson package. On the first day they learn balance and the basics of gliding.

Lesson #1 covers safety, ski etiquette, rules of the slope, and equipment familiarization, Goeller said. The beginner learns to glide in a comfortable stance without having to stop, skiing across the hill.

"We stress balance; practice standing and walking on skis, pushing with poles," Goeller said.

Once the new skier has a sense of balance and comfort on the snow, he gets to face downhill, typically with the skis in a wedge. Keeping the skis in this V-shape allows the beginner to control speed and to stop.

"Then we go into the gliding mode and let gravity take over," Goeller said.

By the end of the first day, most beginners will be riding the lift to higher slopes and learning to glide downhill. About 95% of people have no problem with the morning program, Goeller said.

"The philosophy of our school is safety, fun and learning," Goeller said. "We feel we can keep people on terrain suited to their ability level and make them comfortable."

Lesson #2 takes place in the afternoon, after everyone has had a break and maybe a little warm-up in the ski lodge. Beginners then take to a "beefier trail," Goeller said, learning turns on Easy Street. Turning becomes the speed control device. If the new skier is comfortable turning at the end of this session, the lesson is successful, Goeller said.

Graduation from basic ski lessons doesn't necessarily mean practice will make perfect. Even highly advanced skiers continue to take lessons.

"Many people feel they've learned everything after beginner lessons," Goeller said. "We find people who do that run into problems, going into terrain that's not suitable for them, something steeper."

Life beyond the first lesson includes learning how to perfect wedge turns, and advances to the intermediate level with "matching skis," a parallel stance derived from the wedge.

"We take them on terrain comfortable for learning advanced techniques," Goeller said.

Lessons during the intermediate stage are critical, he said, because most people who skip such lessons develop a lot of bad habits.

At the expert level, skiers develop parallel turns and peripherals involved with turns such as pole plants, edge angles, how and when to make long and short turns, skiing bumps, and racing.

"We have a full line of racing classes," Goeller said.

The Ski Apache ski school is a member of the Professional Ski Instructors of America, a national organization that creates a standard program among member ski areas.

This means you can take lessons at Ski Apache, then go to another PSIA

Children can learn how to ski at an early age.

ski area and pick up where you left off.

The object of taking lessons, ultimately, is to have fun.

"If they're having fun while they're learning basic skills, then they'll learn something," Goeller said.

Ruidoso shopping offers unique experience

By PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso's main street, Sudderth Drive, is better than any big city shopping mall — all the variety, but in a beautiful outdoor strip aglow with Christmas lights.

The clothing stores are boutiques, run by people who aren't interested in cookie-cutter fashion. Original styles in denim, leather, silk, wool, and cozy cotton are tailored to the Ruidoso lifestyle. Shoppers can find casual and comfortable outdoor gear, perfect for a winter hike in the mountains.

A Western spin on elegant men's and women's fashion, will dress you in "Ruidoso formal" attire.

Christmas shoppers are in seventh heaven, able to find something for every personality on the list, including that impossible-to-buy-for cousin. Gift stores, furniture stores and art galleries often feature local artisans and craftsmen.

Shoppers can take several breaks to keep up their energy, partaking of pastries and espresso at the local coffee houses. Strategically located restaurants on the strip serve everything from French gourmet cuisine to California pizza.

Main street is a veritable emporium of Southwestern novelties as well as imports from around the globe. Antler chandeliers, pine needle baskets, Cochina dolls, pottery, and handcrafted Indian blankets are easy to find.

Merchants sell clothing, jewelry, furniture, and home decor from South America, Japan, China, England and India. The gourmet food stores carry specialty coffees, teas, corn meals, seasonings, those chocolate-covered spoons, and more.

Wild Wild West shop co-owner Dan Wimberly shovels an early snow this season in downtown Ruidoso.

Sudderth Drive isn't the only place to shop in Ruidoso. Ruidoso Downs has several antique shops, craft houses, and galleries. Some of Ruidoso's most popular gift shops and restaurants are on Mechem Drive. And it's always fun to spend a day in Capitan and Carrizozo among the woodworks, hand-crafted weavings, antiques, and one-of-a-kind treasures.

Southwestern hospitality abounds around here, and if you're having trouble finding what you want, someone will be happy to help you. Quite often the person serving you is the person who owns the store.

Marked street crossings downtown with pedestrian right-of-ways make it easy to get around, day or night. But it's always a good idea to make sure drivers see you before you step out into the street.

Cross country skis let you escape into the wilderness

BY KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you want to ski in a place with total solitude, cross country boards can get you there.

You'll also spot people with telemarking skis at Ski Apache. You can't miss 'em — they're the ones with heels unattached to their skis.

Tele skis are flat with good metal edges. Lighter skating cross country skis are best for packed snow and gentle hills. Skis for the backcountry are wider than skating skis, and can vary from partial to full metal edges, or single cambre to double cambre (more arch for better kicking).

"The one thing they all have in common is the free heel on the binding," say Mike Steed of Steed's Ski Sports, which rents all styles of cross country skis. They also have another thing in common: they offer one of the best aerobic workouts you can find.

The skis can be rented for $10 per day, $8 for children. Retail purchase prices range from $150 to $800.

Buck Mountain, which can be accessed by a road near the top of Ski Run Road, is a great place to go for the mountaineering and telemark skiing, Steed says.

Skiing along the Crest Trail to Monjeau Lookout Tower is really sublime, he adds.

Places to standard cross country and skate ski surround the Bonito Basin area, Upper Eagle Creek and lower Cedar Creek.

Many fans choose the 40-mile drive to higher yet flatter portions of the Lincoln National Forest around Cloudcroft. Snow Canyon is closed this season, but usually has groomed trails and offers lessons for beginners.

But the Cloudcroft area also has lots of designated backcountry ski trails, and roads to campgrounds become easy cross country routes in the winter.

"You can cross country ski just about anywhere you want as long as there are no signs prohibiting it," says Peg Crim, a forester with the Sacramento District of the forest. "Off the Sunspot Highway, there are many unplowed roads that offer more snow for trails."

The Silver Sky camping area, no longer kept open by the U.S. Forest Service during the winter because of budget cuts, can be accessed on skis and includes multiple trails, she said.

For safety's sake, it's always better to cross country ski with a friend.

Take water, a map, a compass, and dress in layers. And make sure someone knows where you're going in case you get lost.

"In the winter, it can get a little tough following the trail," Steed says.

Avalanches are rare here, but they do occur in the Buck Mountain area.

Local theatre offers royal entertainment

BY PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Once a movie theater called Camelot, then a mountain music variety showcase, the prominent "castle" on U.S. Highway 70 West has now become the home of Ruidoso Little Theater.

The castle hosted Ballet New Mexico's "Nutcracker" Nov. 23-24, performed by local as well as guest dancers.

Rounding out the year, Irish radio show host Emmitt Downes imports an Irish cabaret of singing, dancing and comedy for KBUY's Harp & Shamrock Fiesta.

Featuring Tony Kenny, one of the most popular Irish entertainers in the world, the cast also includes comedian Noel V. Ginnity, musician Dermot O'Brien, soprano Ciara Armstrong, champion Irish step dancer Feargal Purcell and musical director Seamus Brett. Showtime is 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the castle.

On Dec. 7, RLT holds its own version of the Oscars — the Betty Awards. Named for RLT founder Betty Bennett, these people's choice awards recognize the best plays, performers, set designers, etc., of the season. To vote, playgoers must have seen all of this season's shows: "Cheating Cheaters," "Crimes of the Heart," "Star Spangled Girl," and "Lion in Winter."

Even if you didn't catch all the RLT productions, the Betty Awards is a fun gala event celebrating local talent. They start opening envelopes at 7 p.m. in the castle.

In January and February, RLT gears up for the spring season, holding auditions and rehearsals. Anyone with a penchant for drama is invited to participate in RLT productions, either on stage or behind the scenes.

For more information about entertainment at the castle, or to make reservations, call 257-5190. Ticket prices vary.

Lodging packages make visit easier

Ski Apache has teamed up with local lodgers to provide flexible ski packages for winter visitors this season, including a new lodging option at Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The Inn's "Great Escape Package" offers a guest room, two breakfasts, two Inn margaritas and video gambling credits (for adults 21 and older) for $88 a night, double occupancy. Children 12-years-old and under stay free. Visitors can opt to purchase lift tickets and rent ski equipment for extra.

The package is designed to allow greater flexibility, said Ski Apache marketing director Riker Davis. "Mom can shop or gallery hop at will, while dad and the kids are on the slopes. The whole family isn't committed to a lift/lodging package," Davis noted.

For the last five winters, local hotels, motels and cabin properties have designed ski packages to meet the needs of their customers.

Swiss Chalet General Manager

Steve Tally says his hotel's ski packages make visits easier for skiers.

"It's mostly for the convenience. They get to pay for everything ahead of time. They can have their lodging, ski lift tickets and rentals paid for in advance," Tally said.

Like other lodgers, the Swiss Chalet offers one-day, two-day and three-day packages. Visitors can also arrange for ski rentals through the package.

"We discount the room rates and we get the ski rentals at a slightly discounted rate, so we can pass those savings on to the customers," Tally explained.

For more information about available ski packages, call Ski Apache at 336-4356. Ski Apache does not handle the booking of these packages, but does provide a list of the 11 participating lodging facilities. Some packages start as low as $175 for three days and three nights per person, double occupancy.

Escape to outdoors of Cloudcroft

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Although Snow Canyon ski area in Cloudcroft won't be open this year, other entertaining options are waiting for winter sports enthusiasts who want to sample life in the southern Sacramento Mountains.

In town, visitors can join special holiday celebrations or take to the ice on skates.

For more intense snow activities, follow the Sunspot Highway out of town to Triple M Snowplay Area.

Owner Craig Sparling said no matter what Mother Nature decides to do, he's prepared this year with a new snowmaking machine.

"Of course, we'll probably get 15 inches of snow now that we have the machine," he said. "We're looking forward to a great year and are planning a new lodge for the following winter."

Triple M features three sliding slopes at its location just outside Cloudcroft, including the steepest tubing slope in New Mexico, Sparling said. Intermediate and beginner hills also are ready and waiting for the more timid. The tops of all three are reached by a special lift.

By the way, Triple M stands for Mysterious Mountains Magic.

Horse sleigh rides

Romantic horse-drawn 1890 sleigh rides for two can be arranged at Triple M. The two-person, 45-minute ride costs $27.50. Rides for 10-12 people for the same amount of time cost $11 per person.

Reservations are required. The snow play area, about 40 miles south of Ruidoso, will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in mid-December, if the weather cooperates.

Call (505) 682-2205 or 1-800-SNO-PLAY for more information.

Snowmobiles

If the idea of fighting the snow afoot isn't appealing, snowmobiles can be rented at two Cloudcroft snowplay locations and at several outfitters in the community.

Seven days a week through the first week in January, Triple M will give guided tours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

One person per Polaris machine costs $30 per hour, and two on a machine costs $40 for a one-hour guided tour.

The tours move through the Russia Canyon and Benson Ridge area of the Lincoln National Forest, with some of the most spectacular scenery in the state.

Operation days will cut back to Friday through Monday after the first week in January.

A driver's license or learner's permit is required to operate a snowmobile, but riders of any age can tag along.

Group discounts are available if arranged in advance. Reservations are required for all tours.

The Lodge in Cloudcroft, a historic hotel true to its turn-of-the-century period, also plans to offer scenic one- to four-hour tours on Arctic Cats. For information on specific times and charges, call the Lodge at (505) 682-2566 — and you may also want to ask about the cross-country skiing opportunities.

Snowmobilers can head out on trails in the Lincoln National Forest surrounding Cloudcroft, unless an area is posted banning motorized travel.

Snow celebration

A special event is planned for each of the days leading up to New Year's Eve in Cloudcroft, including:

- Melodramas are set for 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13-14;
- skaters can hit the ice with Santa Dec. 21;
- compete in a cookie decorating contest Dec. 22;
- try your hand at building gingerbread houses Dec. 23;
- visit Santa Claus at The Lodge on Dec. 24;
- skate free on Christmas Day;
- a special bingo is set for Dec. 28;
- would-be artists will create shimmering ice sculptures on Dec. 29;
- and the celebration ends Dec. 31 with a children's carnival.

For more details, call the chamber of commerce at (505) 682-2733.

Ice skating

Living in the mountains, not many spots are flat enough for skating.

The Cloudcroft chamber has filled that void by operating an outdoor skating rink on a level surfaced area used during the summer for rollerblading.

If the weather cooperates and temperatures drop low enough, the small outdoor rink on U.S. 82, the main road through town, will open in mid-December.

The chamber uses the same type of equipment to prepare the rink as indoor ice hockey centers use to groom the playing area before a game, said chamber spokesperson Karen Van Doren.

Romantic horsedrawn 1890 sleigh rides and fast, modern snowmobiling are two of the many winter recreational activities in Cloudcroft.

Once winter is entrenched in the picturesque mountain village, the rink at the west end of Zenith Park will be open seven days a week, she said.

Skaters will be able to hit the ice from 3:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. on weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekends, weather permitting.

Don't despair if skates are no longer in your equipment inventory. They can be rented at the rink.

The chamber charges $3 for adult skates and $2.50 for children. No admission is charged to skate at the rink. The chamber has telephone numbers of individuals willing to help with skating lessons.

One Saturday night in early February, people of all ages gather at the rink for a February Full Moon Skating Party.

The only outside rink in the state, James Sewell Skating Rink was the dream of a man who served as mayor of Cloudcroft on and off for 20 years.

When he was a small boy, Sewell and his friends found an underground spring and marshy area off the highway. A place to throw stones and dream in the summer, it was transformed in the winter when the water froze hard enough for children to slip and slide.

Sewell owned the Western Bar and according to oldtimers, after the business closed at night, he would clean the ice and run water over the rink to freeze and present a smooth surface to the children the next day.

The rink was dedicated to Sewell in 1983. Since then, a stone fireplace has doubled in size, and storage space for skates now holds more than 500.

Winter camping

For the extremely hardy, the national forest also will be open for winter camping, although regular campgrounds will be closed, water will be shut off and restrooms locked. No fee is charged.

You can pick up a map of the forest at the Cloudcroft office of the U.S. Forest Service, and you may want to let them know where you plan to camp.

A week before Christmas, the office will start a new schedule and will not be open over the weekend. The winter hours will be from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

For more information, call the Forest Service's Cloudcroft office at (505) 682-2551.

Snow Canyon, the ski area operated by The Lodge at Cloudcroft, is closed this winter. But the owners hope to reopen next year with a better snowmaking machine pump and a source of water to help during years of sparse snow, said marketing representative Lisa Thomassie.
