Christmas light show

Carl and Viola Jackson have put on quite a Christmas light show this year, earning them top honors in the Chamber contest. Even their Jeep is covered with flashing lights, (the police haven't pulled them over yet for distracting other drivers, Carl said). The Jacksons have been decorating like this for three Christmases, and amazingly, their electricity bill only went up $9 last year when the lights were on for three weeks, Carl said as he enjoyed the lights in his Ruidoso Downs yard Saturday. The public is welcomed with a sign that reads, "Merry Christmas. Lights on 5:30-10 p.m. Enjoy!! Pass the word!!"

Hondo Valley Hispanics hold true to holiday traditions

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

There was no room at the inn.
That famous rejection has been echoed in song Dec. 16-24 outside of Lincoln County homes as the Hispanic Christmas tradition of Las Posadas is repeated.

Meaning "the inns" in English,
Las Posadas re-enacts Joseph and Mary's search for a place to stay for the birth of Jesus. The story has been re-enacted in this area for centuries, says Father Richard Catanach, pastor of St. Eleanor's
Catholic Church.

"When the Franciscans came to the new world they used Las Posadas as a catechetical way of teaching faith," Catanach says.

Las Posadas begins nine days before Christmas with the search for a room. It takes place at a designated resident's home each night.
The roles of Mary and Joseph are played by children.

The tradition of nine days is based on the Catholic church's tradition of the novena prayer, which consists of nine days of different prayers, says Father David Burgo of Carrizozo's Santa Rita Catholic Church.

The number nine also symbolizes the nine days between the ascension of Christ and the Pentecost, when the Holy Spirit came down on the apostles who were locked in a room, explains Father Catanach.

During Las Posadas pageant, the participants group inside and outside the house. Singing in Spanish, the group outdoors calls,
"We need a place to stay," and the group inside sings, "No, we don't have any room...Why should we let you in — you might be thieves!"

"They sing that two or three times, and the last time they sing, those inside say, 'Yes, we do have room' and invite them in," relates Father Catanach.

When joining inside, the groups share prayers, songs and refreshments.

Keeping tight with tradition, Hispanic Hondo Valley families began acting out the tale in San Patricio Tuesday night, says Father Catanach.

The pageant continued at the home of Eddie and Novella Chavez Wednesday night, where a group of about 35 people choraled the bitter cold. Once inside, after prayers and songs, the hearty group indulged in a buffet of hot soups and pies.

"We try to do this every year," Novella said. "It's fun — we don't get to see these people a lot throughout the year."

The Hondo Valley Las Posadas will continue until Christmas Eve, when the final ritual will take place at St. Jude's Mission Church right before 6 p.m. mass.

Ruidosoans can participate in the drama at 6 p.m. Friday night at the 308 - Valley View home of Bernardo "Matt" and Chero Perez, says Father Burgo, who is also the pastor of Capitan's Sacred Heart Church and Corona's St. Theresa.

Participants can be innovative with Las Posadas to make it work for whatever the situation may be.

At Las Posadas hosted by the Chavez family, Fred Apache shared a prayer with the others in his native Navajo tongue.

Germany's Saint Nick has crotchety companion known as Knechtrupprecht

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

German children think good and hard about whether they've been naughty or nice during Christmas.

Not only does the jolly old Saint Nick bestow good girls and boys with gifts in that traditional Saxon culture, but a scary, scruffy dude also haunts their doorways to keep tykes in line.

And, instead of on Dec. 25 like in America, all the Santa action takes place on Dec. 6, with the excitement growing each day thereafter, culminating with the magic of a freshly decorated tree on Christmas Eve.

"The story is the same — Santa Claus comes from the North Pole, with a big sack of goodies and gifts for people," recalls Inga Cahill, a Ruidoso area resident for the past 20 years and one of the region's many German transplants. "But he also has a shadow man, a partner, that's bad."

That haunting figure is called Knechtrupprecht, and he comes to the door Dec. 6 behind Santa to take away the children who misbehave.

The crotchety, coal-faced Knechtrupprecht, a dark character dressed in rags, hovers in the doorway with the legs of a child hanging out of his backpack.
"He's obviously a scare tactic, representing, sort of, the devil.

Santa is good, and Knechtrupprecht is bad," says Cahill, who lives on lower Eagle Creek Road with her husband Mark. "If you have not been listening to your parents, not doing the things you're supposed to do, you get in trouble with Knechtrupprecht."

When the sky grows dark on the eve of Dec. 6, Santa knocks at the door and rings the bell on his mighty cane. He's welcomed in by the parents, carrying a big book containing a list of things the parents wish their children would do better — like cleaning their rooms, or doing what they're told.

Santa reads from the big book to the awe-struck children, saying things like, "You've been very good in school, but I've seen from the North Pole that you have not been cleaning up your room, not listening to your mom."

"You're (the child) sitting there with cheeks red and eyes wide because you see Knechtrupprecht behind Santa. He has a backpack, and out of the bottom of the sack there's two legs with shoes. It looks like someone in the bag — he's already picked up a kid to take away!"

Knechtrupprecht remains shadowy and never comes inside, but makes himself fully visible from the door.

"He lets you know, 'This is for you, and you will get in trouble if you don't change,'" Cahill says.

With the not-so-subtle warning complete, Santa's mission is done.

"In the end the child always gets their treats and gifts," says Cahill, who lived in the western city of Bit-burg, Germany until 1977.

Lucky for some children, Knechtrupprecht doesn't appear at all homes. But he still makes an impact.

"Talk about being terrified," recalls Ruidoso police detective Wolfgang Born, another native of Germany. "I'd look out the window and see him going down the street and go back to my room and hide under my bed with the lights out.
He was all black, just like a chimney sweep. Real scary — I thought he was going to give me a whooping."

Born, like Cahill, had no idea it was prearranged by parents for Knechtrupprecht to come to a home with Santa — who was also usually someone who knew the child and knew how to talk effectively.

Apparently, Born's grandparents who raised him in the northern village of Oberhausen never saw the need to ask Knechtrupprecht to their door.

"All I knew was, he was in the

Hispanics have many holiday traditions

The Hispanic people in New Mexico have a couple of other unique Christmas traditions, says Father Richard Catanach, who ministers to three Catholic churches in Lincoln County.

Like the drama of Las Posadas, the Los Pastores is the reenactment of the shepherds being out with their flocks and seeing the star of Bethlehem, Father Catanach says.

Another tradition is breaking a star-shaped piñata, a practice that originated for the birth of Jesus.

The activity symbolizes good versus evil, Father Richard said.

"The piñata breaks open and all the goodness spills out into the world," he said. "With the innocence of children, out comes the goodness."

place in English and Spanish at just one house on Perez's street because the road doesn't lend itself to going door to door, he says. Instead, the callers will go to different doors of the house.

When welcomed inside, sometimes there's Christmas caroling and a big party, says Father Burga.

"Some are very simple, and some are very elaborate with the costume," he says.

The story of Mary and Joseph being turned away and finally welcomed to stay lends itself to a nice verse, Burgs adds.

"It's a story of journey and searching, of searching for God and our own place here in life," he says.

The biblical scene of being refused a room "does sound sad," said Novella Chaver's mother Annie Peña, "but it's something that had to be that way."

"And it does have a happy ending because they do find shelter," concluded Novella.

neighborhood. He'd really make you think about Santa checking his list twice to see if you've been naughty or nice," Born recalls.

But the dark fellow appeared at Cahill's door each year, and when her belief expired by the ripe age of six or seven, he still appeared to impress warnings on her little brother.

Christmas continues

Each day after Saint Nicholas Day, the child puts a shoe on the window sill, hoping to find another surprise in the morning, Cahill says.

"There would always be candy or something small like that," she says.

This ritual lasts until Dec. 24, as does the weekly lighting of an additional candle on the four-candle advent wreath, and the daily opening of doors to the children's advent calendar.

The day of Christmas Eve is the day Germans celebrate most, Cahill says, with the revelry kept closely contained to the immediate family.

In the afternoon, the mother is in charge of blocking off access and view of a living room or den, where she secretly decorates the room with a Christmas tree.

The tree would be freshly cut, and beeswax candles were clipped onto the tree branches.

"The tree was fresh, so green, so it was safe to use candles," Cahill says.

At its base was a fresh forest moss, and a wooden nativity scene is displayed.

While mom was busy adorning the tree with candles and handmade or heirloom ornaments, dad would be doing wood crafts or some type of work with the children.

As evening approached, the family would listen to the church bells ring all across Germany via the radio. They could also hear them ring from the church in town.

The blanket (blocking off view of the room) would come down around 7 p.m. and mother would say, "Christkind was here!"

Christkind is the Christ child and the Catholics believe he was born on Dec. 24 because he was a gift to all on earth. And that's why we get presents from Christkind, Cahill explains.

The family walks into the room holding sparklers ablaze, and everyone gazes at the beautiful tree.

"It's just blinding with beauty, especially as a child. It's overwhelming — Christkind has been here and put up the tree!" she says.

Everyone sings Christmas carols and if someone is talented enough to play an instrument, they do so.

Mom reads a Bible story, signifying the evening while the children's eyes stray towards the gifts.

The children also drop over their personal trays of traditional German goodies like meisen, anisebuns or lebkuchen, says Cahill, who swears off sweets later in life.

Gifts — usually handmade — are exchanged, and then many in the town go to midnight Mass in a church brilliant with trees and candles, welcomed by the priest who is wearing elaborately embroidered vestments.

On Dec. 25 the extended family gets together for more dining and gift exchange, and then on the 26th families visit with their neighbors.

The tree comes down on Jan. 6, the saint day of the three kings.

Santa Claus looks different inside Henry's mind's eye

by KATHLEEN McDONALD

Ruidoso News Staff Writer
Santa Claus stands alone among Adrian Henry's Christmas sculptures as the one with a face.

But it's not the typical chubby, rosy-cheeked mug seen on many a Santa. Instead, it epitomizes the lean look of hard-earned wisdom.

"They all have that twinkling old-time look of Santa with a long beard," Henry says of the clay sculptures she builds by hand.

The Ruidoso artist just finished sculpting, firing and painting a dozen of the 10-inch skinny fellows, which always have a teddy bear at their knee and a sack she personalizes at the request of customers.

Henry, who also sings, writes and plays music, began marketing her sculptures five years ago. An immediate fan of her work, which is on display at Galleria West, started her with the Santa figures after asking her to create a southwestern Santa.

"He's gone from short and fat to tall and skinny," she says. "I have no control over the changes, and that's the neat thing about original art — it's always evolving."

Year to year she changes her Christmas work, alternating from crafting "made-to-order" Santas to the nativity scene, which has faceless characters.

The latter is more in keeping with Henry's unique line of sculptures, mostly six to 12 inches tall, called Earthfolk.

"I have a dozen sculptures in the storyline now," Henry says. "They tell stories of far-away places."

Included in Henry's series are:
— Wind Spirits, which dance in the trees and sing songs and stories from far, far away;

— Wind Shepherds, which gather wind-blown seeds to plant across the land;

— Guardian Angels, which guard and watch over loved ones;

— Earth Angels, as Henry sees them;

— and Milagro, celebrating the joy of motherhood and the miracle of birth.

All are haunting, spiritual images provoking a sobering shiver, kind of like the ghost of Christmas Past, and they carry messages of eternity.

Adrian Henry's Santa sculptures have the traditional look of wisdom, but not the belly.

Henry molds her Earthfolk sculptures to show the spiritual, versus physical, side. They have no faces.

"I wanted to teach my son to see the spirit of people rather than their physical being," Henry relates. "What matters is not whether someone is short, fat or skinny, but what their true light is."

Henry's Earthfolk sculptures are on display in 32 galleries across the United States. The folkloric figures took root with the stories she told her son Joshua Neal about six years ago, when she'd try to calm him from the eerie winds whirling through their home in Lubbock, Texas.

"It was scary there with the wind, and he was real scared of the howling," she recalls. "I'd tell him 'They're wind spirits, just trying to tell you stories of far-away places.'"

When Henry was an aspiring sculptress often busy doing construction or climbing telephone poles for the local phone company, she decided to make the Wind

Spirits out of clay to solidify the tale.

The figures would be explanations to her son's questions about flora in barren places, of guardians and spiritual quests. And they always impress her philosophy that we all are spiritual beings wrapped in an earthsuit to endure the elements and emotions surrounding us.

"Basically, I'd relate each sculpture to my feeling that everything has a spirit and a soul," Henry says. "I believe in all that metaphysical, karmic stuff because I think you should have respect for everything and that's hard to teach children."

But Joshua Neal learned, sharing the stories with his younger brothers and sisters. Today, at ease with the wind, he helps market her Earthfolk.

"He's a great salesperson!" Henry declares.

EDITORIAL

Deadlines, headlines and angels in disguise

With a Christmas Day date on this newspaper, the evidence would indicate that newspaper people know what day it is; that newspapers get published despite last-minute holiday shopping by staff members; that news happens whatever the personal consideration, and must be reported.

All true statements. The paper you're reading, of course, was published a day early so as to be delivered before the holiday. That means something might have happened on Christmas Eve that won't get reported until Friday. (Not, we hope, anything tragic.)

So, as the clock ticks inevitably toward Christmas Day, we look for meaning in cold winds and un-announced holiday house-guests, drama in the perpetual search for the right gift for Aunt Millie, perhaps a touch of humor in the eyes of street people whose Aunt Millies are long forgotten. Or is it despair?

Here in Ruidoso, with the arrival of official Winter, we see an increase in the number of obituaries in the paper, and know that if historic patterns hold the next surge will be in the spring. So we give some thought to spirits who don't want to face another winter, and to spirits who insist on seeing blooming things one more time.

Up near the Colorado border last weekend a well-known former Indy race car driver named Bobby Unser and a friend nearly met their Maker when their snowmobiles quit above the tree-line on Cumbres Pass. Missing for two days, they used Unser's long experience in the snow to save themselves, and walked out to the safety of a barn that happened to have a working telephone. A guardian angel named Ma Bell?

So we wedge last-minute shopping in among the deadlines, and consider appropriately seasonal headlines. And if we slip on the walk and skin a knee as we rush around, we know that's part of the season, too.

And, yes, in the spirit of the season, we do offer to all our readers a wish for health, wealth and time to enjoy it as we mark off another Christmas in our late '90s dash toward the Third Millennium, and all the mysteries it holds.

POLICY

The Ruidoso News encourages letters to the editor, especially about local topics and issues.

Each letter must be signed and must include the writer's daytime telephone number and address. The phone number and street or mailing address will not be printed, however the author's hometown will be included. The telephone number will be used to verify authorship. Others should be able to have mindless machines

TO THE EDITOR:

Now that expanding, let alone legalizing gaming is again on the menu of the upcoming session of the state Legislature, we may want to take a hard look at what gambling, be it lotteries, casinos or pari-mutual horse racing, means to New Mexico and its multi-cultural citizenry.

For openers, such mindless gaming as slot machines and lotteries are cancers that basically feed on poor people and others on the lower rungs of the economic ladder. It requires no brain power to pull the lever on a slot machine that is rigged to give the "house" the advantage, or scratch a lottery card whose odds are overwhelmingly stacked against the "scratcher."

Chances are a laboratory

chimpanzee could be induced to play a one-armed bandit if after several pulls he got a few grapes or saw another chimp win a banana a few machines away. Chances are he'd wear a machine out in his endeavor to "win" his banana. Same with a "scratch" lottery ticket. Let him scratch a ticket and get the scent (as with magazine perfume ads) of a female of his species in season and the poor monkey would be scratching cards until he became senseless.

On the other side of the coin, racetracks across the country are on the verge of extinction. Although horse racing is as American as the 4th of July and Mom's apple pie, interest in the sport and industry is suffering from gross indifference by both state governments and the general public. Many tracks across the country, in an attempt to increase patronage, offer free general admission. Most track operators blame the proliferation of casinos and state lotteries as basic cause for the comatose condition of racing along with the phenomenon of the new generation's demand for instant gratification ala the instant lotto or the pull of an electronic gaming device.

Racetracks, like casinos, do create employment and pump millions into the state coffers along with players and horsemen that stay for extended periods of time spending money in local hotels, restaurants, shops, and service centers.

Considering 1997 could be the make-it-or-break-it year for the horse racing industry in New Mexico, we should urge our representatives in Santa Fe to open limited gaming to the tracks or any other industries (hotels and resorts) that would qualify.

To allow one ethnic group gaming and close it to all others is probably the worst-case scenario of reverse discrimination to date. It should be a level playing field for anyone that meets a strict criteria.

Lose the track, you lose the town. Don't believe me? Just ask the merchants on Sudderth or Mechem who have just sustained one of the worst Christmas shopping seasons in memory.

Emergency services impressive

TO THE EDITOR:

For the past 15 years we have been summer residents of Ruidoso. During those years we have been impressed with services of the community.

In November, while on a visit here, Betsy's 93-year-old mother had a severe heart attack at 12 o'clock at night. Within eight minutes from the 911 call, eight members of the fire department, emergency services and police were on the scene and working.

Their efficiency, care and compassion was very much appreciated. She died later in the emergency room from a massive heart attack.

Both Betsy and I wish to express our appreciation for the excellence of the hospital and staff and the efficiency of the emergency services.

Christmas visitors and memories of past

Christmas Visits

Just before noon on Dec. 19, a car drove up to the house. And here came Nick Hererra, Ruidoso Downs Fire Chief and his little helper Justin Wehrleka with a box of Christmas gifts.

I wish to thank these friends for this kindness in true Christmas spirit.

An hour later my next-door neighbors, Alex and Lois Conley, arrived with a plate of homemade cookies. Last year Alex helped me decorate my Christmas tree.

This is being sent to you on the eve of the first day of winter, and the cold weather is warming up.

The spirit of Christmas abides throughout our Mountain Land.

And may we all share in the blessings of the birthday of our Infant Savior.

A Memorial Nativity Scene

Forty six years ago, mother and I were decorating Saint Anne's Chapel for Christmas. Our friend Eliego Polanco was helping us.

Our mother had some small figures of Joseph, Mary and the Christ Child which had been a feature of our Christmas celebration for several years. Eliego said "I am going to bring you a home for these sacred little ones."

A few days later, Eliego brought a little shelter fashioned out of cedar boughs, about a foot and a half high with an arched roof. We placed this in the church with a small electric bulb inside — for a Christmas star shining down upon the sacred little family.

The next morning Eliego showed me how to make this little cedar shelter. And every year since then I have put together this little cedar Nativity home out of cedar boughs from around the house, and placed it in the church. And I send up a prayer of thanks to Eliego and mother, and all our loved ones in heaven.

School board candidate rosters show district feasts and famines

□ Hondo beats the bushes for candidates

by PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Hondo Valley School District is hunting for two people willing to serve as school board members.

School board elections take place across the county on Feb. 4, and candidates declared themselves on Dec. 17. In Lincoln County, only the Hondo district had no candidates for its two vacant positions.

Hondo School Board member Jimmy Montoya has already resigned although his term ends in February, and member Stella Herrera has said she will not run for re-election Feb. 4.

The school board will have to appoint people to these vacant seats unless they can recruit two write-ins before the Dec. 31 deadline.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Hondo School Board may file as a write-in at the Lincoln County Clerk's office in Carrizozo. Both positions are 4-year terms. Write-ins should also contact superintendent Barbara Casey to let her know of their interest.

In other races across the county, most school board positions have more than one candidate.

Ruidoso races

The Ruidoso School District has two openings for 4-year terms on the school board.

Jim Varnadore is running for re-election to Position #5, having completed his first term. He owns Varnadore Cleaners and has a sophomore in high school and a son at New Mexico State University.

"I learned a lot during my first term," he said.

His challenger is Jacquelyn M. Branum, a former schoolteacher who currently serves as a Ruidoso Downs trustee.

Position #4 incumbent James Paxton is running unopposed for a second term. He has served one 4-year term as president of the Ruidoso School Board. He is the owner-broker of Century 21 Aspen Real Estate. He has two daughters in school at the sophomore and senior grades. His wife has taught school for 22 years.

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso School Board and its district bond committee have come up with 11 reasons for people to vote for an $8.5 million bond on Feb. 4.

The committee recommended that bond proceeds be used for the following projects:

— District-wide technology improvements (computers, programs, networking, interactive television), at an estimated cost of $1 million;

— Land acquisition for future schools because of population growth, $500,000. The district may build a new childhood center and move upper grades into the Nob Hill school, but no definite plans are on paper. Classroom space at the fifth and sixth-grade levels is getting particularly tight as the student population continues to grow (see chart).

— Addition of 30 classrooms districtwide at an estimated cost of $2.5 million;

— Roof repair at Ruidoso High School for $700,000;

— A 300-seat lecture hall/cultural center for $1 million;

— One auxiliary gym to relieve scheduling back-ups when several athletic groups need to practice at the same time, $900,000;

— Roof repair at Ruidoso Middle School for $200,000;

— An auxiliary gym at Ruidoso Middle School, plus better public restrooms, concession, and dressing room areas for the football stadium at an estimated cost of $1.2 million;

— Enlarging the student ser-

Carrizozo candidates

Carrizozo has a five-member board, with two 2-year seats, and three 4-year seats. Four of these positions are vacant.

Position #1 is a 2-year term being vacated by Joseph Ventura. Elected in 1995, Ventura is now resigning from the board.

Position #1 is sought by Steve P. Harkay and Mario L. Zamora. Harkay is a newcomer to school politics. He owns a ranch near Ancho. He is a long-time resident with two children in school.

Zamora has served on the board since 1993, holding the office of vice president for one term. Zamora is seeking to move from Position #3, where he just completed a 4-year term, so he can serve a shorter term. Zamora works for the county as a maintenance supervisor. He has one child in school.

Position #2 is a 2-year term held by Gary Hightower, who is retiring. Hightower has served on the board since 1991.

Two newcomers are vying for Position #2, Lisa Shivers and Frederick R. Serna.

Lisa Shivers is the mother of three daughters, a third-grader, a kindergartener, and a 4-year-old. She helps her husband run Napa Auto Parts in Carrizozo. Shivers grew up in Carrizozo and graduated from Carrizozo High School in 1979. She holds a master's degree in agricultural education and is a former teacher.

"I am proud of the school and proud of the town, and I just want to help it grow," she said.

Frederick Serna works as foreman for the Lincoln County Road Department. He is a life-long resident of Carrizozo and has been a county employee for 14 years. He has sons in the 7th and 12th grades.

"I believe you have to be in it for the kids and the administration in order to help the school," he said.

Position #3 is a 4-year term being vacated by Mario L. Zamora, who is instead running for Position #1.

The position #3 candidates include Nick Serna, Frederick Serna's older brother, who just completed a 4-year term in position #4. He has been on the board since 1989. Serna is postmaster in Carrizozo, and all four of his sons graduated from Carrizozo schools.

His three competitors are R. Elton Matthews, Gray Gallacher, and Tommy L. Nelson.

R. Elton Matthews is retired from the U.S. Army and holds a master's degree in criminal justice administration. He has two teenagers the 8th and 10th grades. Matthews came to Carrizozo two years ago and noticed problems between the school board and school officials he would like to help resolve.

Gray Gallacher owns a ranch located northwest of Carrizozo and has a 7-month-old daughter.

Tommy L. Nelson owns the rock shop and mining claims in Bingham. He has a first and second grader in the Carrizozo schools. Nelson wants to see a better discipline system and better staff retention at Carrizozo, he said.

Position #4, vacated by Nick Serna to run for position #3, is a 4-year term sought by two newcomers, Ruby White and Eldon F. Offutt.

Ruby White is a concerned parent and has worked as a substitute teacher in Carrizozo. A housewife in Carrizozo, she has four children, two of whom are school age. Her fourth grader attends school in Carrizozo, and her 12th grader lives and attends school in Capitan. Her other two children are 5 months old and 2 years old.

Eldon Offutt lives about six miles east of Bingham. He is a fireman on White Sands Missile range and has two children in the 11th and 7th grades.

Corona competition

The Corona School District has three 4-year terms available on the school board.

Position #2 incumbent Pete Gnatkowski is running for a 4-year term on the school board. He owns a ranch on Corona's southern boundary near Ancho and has a son in high school.

His challenger is Theresa N. Barajas, a long-time Corona resident. Barajas has served on a school board in California.

Position #3 was vacated by Danny Luera. Donna M. Paehl is running unopposed for the seat. She has a son in the eighth grade and is a parent supporter of school activities.

Position #5 was vacated by Melvin Johnson. Jeanene Gibbs, a retired Corona teacher, is running unopposed for that seat.

— Add a full service kitchen to Sierra Vista Primary, which currently gets cafeteria food from White Mountain Intermediate. Estimated cost is $150,000;

— Roof repair at Nob Hill Early Childhood Center for $50,000.

Superintendent Mike Gladden is optimistic about the bond issue. Presently the Ruidoso School District is bonded at 54% of its capacity, Gladden said.

"That's the lowest it's been in many, many years," he said. The district's full bonding capacity is $12-$13 million.

The district wants to sell the new bonds over a period of three years, starting with about $5 million the first year, then $1.5 million the second year and $2 million the third year.

"Structuring it this way has less of an impact on the property owners," Gladden said.

Someone with a $90,000 home could expect a $32 tax increase for the first year of the bond issue, Gladden said.

As the election date nears, Gladden will make presentations to the community about the school board's plans for the bond money.

County's DWI program gets top rating

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Charlie White has more than the usual reasons to celebrate at Christmastime this year.

His DWI (Driving While Intoxicated) program in Lincoln County is one of five in the state with an "A" rating.

"I was told recently it's the best DWI program in the state so far," a beaming White said.

The 1.5-year-old program was evaluated earlier this year by an independent firm, Rocky Mountain Group, Ltd. Co., hired by the state Division of Finance and Administration, Local Government Division. The evaluator specifically was impressed by the compliance pattern since the program was started.

Out of 180 clients served by the program, 32 or 17% didn't comply with the condition of their probation or parole.

That's a substantial reduction from the previous two-year period when noncompliance was 32% in 1994 and 40% in 1995, evaluator Heather Hansen pointed out in a summary submitted to the state.

"This indicates an offender impression that noncompliance will result in arrest and suggests that this program shows significant promise and appears to be working in Lincoln County," she wrote. "To date, recidivism for the supervised probation program is at .005% with only one out of 180 clients that has been re-arrested."

The program operates on a $100,000 state grant. During the last grant period, 49 cases were closed and 181 cases were active.

About 90% of the clients live in Lincoln County, with 10% coming from other parts of the state as well as from out of state.

Data collected by White shows the majority of DWI offenders in Lincoln County are an average of 33 years old, non-Hispanic, white males with a high school diploma or GED. They are employed, married and earning about $14,000 for a family of three.

The number of traffic deaths in the county related to alcohol also has gone down in the last year, dropping from four in 1995 to two in 1996, White said.

The success was due to a collaborative effort of a lot of people: police officers, judges and their staffs, attorneys for both prosecution and defense, civic organizations, governing bodies in each community, county commissioners, the business community, school administrators, teachers, students, my staff and county employees, newspapers, radio and television stations," he said. "Their support has gone a long way to help make our county a much safer place to live. It also demonstrates a genuine concern for the safety and well being of our tourists and others who live, work and travel in our beautiful part of the state."

Planners want home elevated with addition because of floodplain

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

After four hours of testimony about plans to enlarge a house in the Rio Ruidoso floodplain Monday, Planning and Zoning Commissioners said no.

The commission heard three hours of testimony Dec. 3 but wanted to clarify Federal Emergency Management Agency rules before issuing a final decision.

On Dec. 3 commissioners thought the couple would just have to elevate the addition from the floodplain. But Monday, after getting FEMA clarifications, they concluded the house needs to be elevated, too.

Agna and Joe Kinnear want to build an 8x50 foot addition to their 967 square-foot home that's less than 100 feet from the river.

The Kinnears' attorney, Alan Morel, argued his clients' case for a total of seven hours Dec. 3 and 16. The couple is discussing whether to take the appeal for the development permit and variance to district court, he said.

If the commissioners approve the development in violation of the FEMA code, the village could lose all its flood insurance, Commission Chairman Mike Radziewicz said.

Also at the meeting, commissioners approved a variance allowing a modular home 14.6 feet from the lot line at lot 52A, block 3, Paradise Canyon, 2nd Supplement Subdivision. Allyne Voss, applicant. D.T. Collins, agent.

Downs trustees keep meeting short

The Ruidoso Downs Village Council set the record for its shortest meeting in history Monday. The council met in regular session, said the pledge of allegiance, approved the minutes of the last regular meeting, and adjourned.

The Downs council has a reputation for brief meetings, but Village Clerk Leann Weibrecht confirmed this is the first time the agenda has been so short. Each trustee receives $100 per council meeting.

Pearl Young

Graveside services for Pearl Young, 91, of Ruidoso Downs were Tuesday, Dec. 24, at Hillcrest Memorial Cemetery at Fair Acres near Las Cruces. Officiating was the Rev. Jim Dixon of Las Cruces.

Mrs. Young died Saturday, Dec. 21, at the Ruidoso Care Center. She was born Aug. 19, 1905 in Tinnie. She moved to the Ruidoso area in July 1992 from Las Cruces, where she had lived since 1955. She was a member of the Calvary Baptist Church in Las Cruces and was a homemaker.

She married B. W. Young in 1946 at Carrizozo and he preceded her in death in 1988.

She is survived by two sons, Buddy Guthrie of Ruidoso Downs and Henry Young of Las Cruces; a daughter, Wanda Oldham of Temple, Texas; 12 grandchildren and many great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by a daughter, Maurine Stubben, one grandchild and one great-grandchild.

Gordon Bigger

Gordon L. Bigger, 71, of Tularosa, died Saturday, Dec. 21 at Betty Dare Good Samaritan Nursing Center in Alamogordo.

Mr. Bigger was born June 28, 1925 in Capitan, and grew up in Lincoln County. He served in the U.S. Navy as a Seaman First Class during World War II. He was a cowboy for many years. He then was a water marshal in Yuma, Ariz. for Continental Valley Basin Water with the Bureau of Reclamation in Arizona. Most recently he was with the Bureau of Land Management at the Three Rivers Petroglyphs. He was a member of the Tularosa Lodge #49, A.F. & A.M.

Survivors include his wife, Marjorie of the family home; three sons, Casey Joe Bigger and his wife Pam of Tulsa, Okla., Fred Payton and his wife Karen of Capitan, and Buddy Payton and his wife Alice of Carrizozo. Three daughters, Bobbie Leann Dicker and her husband Lee of Skiatook, Okla., Janet Leale and her husband Jim of St. John, Ariz., and Susan Morris of Denning, 14 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; a sister, Marietta Wihl and her husband Louie of Albuquerque; and a close family friend, Anna Bigger of Pawhanka, Okla.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Sam and Margaret Bigger; a brother, Robert Bigger; and a son, Phil Diehl.

A memorial service will be conducted at 11 a.m. Monday, Dec. 30, at the White Oaks School House. Interment will be in the Cedarvale Cemetery in White Oaks with Tularosa Lodge #49, A.F. & A.M. officiating. Military honors will be provided by the Capitan American Legion.

Danny McGuire

Lt. Col. (Ret) Danny Weston McGuire, 67, of Ruidoso died Friday, Dec. 20 at Presbyterian Hospital in Albuquerque after a brief illness.

Graveside services for the U.S. Air Force veteran were at 3:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 23, at Masonic Cemetery, Las Cruces. The Rev. Bryan Simpson of St. Paul's United Methodist Church officiated.

Born in Miami, Ariz. on Dec. 14, 1929 to Ivan McGuire and Mittie Caudill McGuire, McGuire had lived in Hatch, Las Cruces, Shreveport, La., and for the last 15 years, in Ruidoso.

He served in the Air Force for 26 years. His first tour was at Kirtland AFB in Albuquerque. He ended his career in 1976 at Barksdale AFB, Bossier City, La. He was an Office of Special Investigations officer and the district commander in Rome, Italy. From 1976 to 1981 he was a professor and taught criminology at Louisiana State University, Shreveport, and from 1981 to 1995 was a Realtor in Las Cruces and Ruidoso.

He graduated from Hatch High School and received a bachelor of science degree from New Mexico State University and a Master of Criminology degree from Michigan State University. Air Force tours took him and his family to Germany, Hawaii, Washington, D.C. and Rome. In Rome he was on the American Ambassador's staff and stationed at Clamping Air Force Base.

He was preceded in death by his father, Ivan "Mac" McGuire.

Survivors include his mother, Mittie McGuire of Las Cruces; two sons, Scott and wife Sharon of Benton, La., and Brett and wife Lori of Nashville, Tenn.; a daughter, Dona Bergman and husband Jeff of Orvieto, Fla.; four grandchildren, Christopher McGuire, Kyle Bergman, Cody Bergman and Christopher Bergman; one brother, Melvin McGuire and wife June of Las Cruces; and former wife Dorothy McGuire of Orvieto, Fla.

A.E. Beavers

Funeral services for A. E. "Chink" Beavers, 88, of Roswell were Monday, Dec. 23 at LaGrone Funeral Chapel in Ruidoso. The Rev. Wayne Joyce and the Rev. Randy Widener officiated. Burial followed at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Mr. Beavers died Thursday, Dec. 19 at Eastern New Mexico Medical Center in Roswell. He was born July 16, 1908 at Glenna, Okla., and moved to Lincoln County in 1928 from Oklahoma and then moved to Roswell in 1980. He was a member of the Community United Methodist Church in Ruidoso and was a retired contractor.

He married Lois Denton on Feb. 8, 1930 in Waurika, Okla.

He is survived by his wife Lois of Roswell; a son, Robert Beavers of Ruidoso Downs; five grandchildren, Angela, Chad, Justin, Dusty and Bradley; and one great-grandchild, Andrew.

The family has requested memorials to the American Diabetes Association.

●From the bench: RHS seniors are special
●Prep basketball scores

Senior gridgers demonstrated leadership on and off the field

Quite simply, Oliver Enjady didn't want to see the Ruidoso High School football season end. I don't blame him; I didn't want it to end either. Enjady's son, Pascal, was one of the senior leaders for Les Carter's Warriors.

The Warriors' 6-6 mark might not impress some — Ruidoso lost as many as it won. Ruidoso made the playoffs, only to lose to eventual state champion Artesia in the quarterfinals.

But there was something special about this group of Warriors — something not found in their stats or final record.

This band of Warriors had class — a strong, savvy, exceedingly modest yet confident senior class. Carter's seniors accomplished more with less. It was a treat to watch them overcome odds with heart and desire.

Coach Carter is a man of few words. He strives to be fair. He measures his words when you ask about teams and players, and who he has enjoyed coaching.

But off the record, I can tell he liked this group of seniors. They were leaders through their words and actions.

He could trust them. He could trust their answers to media questions. He could trust them to lead a talented underclass.

The future of Ruidoso football is blindingly bright. Not only because it returns a backfield led by quarterback Corey Saenz and fullback Brett Meyer on offense, and a defense led by linebacker Arthur Miller and lineman Jason Leadingham, but mostly because its senior class from the 1996 team handed down a lesson not every team learns: heart, desire and effort are just as important as talent when it comes to success.

Oliver Enjady didn't want the season to end, but he soon realized it was right — the clock had expired on a fine season.

It was time for Pascal and his senior teammates to tackle new challenges.

Not wishing for coal in anyone's stocking, but wouldn't it be nice if...

I thought I might tag on some Christmas wishes, as in a wish list for our world of sports and recreation. I'd love to see Santa give some of these gifts to the appropriate party. Others, plant your tongue firmly in your cheek and smile a bit.

From the Bench

LAURA CLYMER
SPORTS REPORTER

The serious gift list:

1) How about a healthy dose of sportsmanship for the state. The two football incidents in the northern part of the state are nothing short of reprehensible. Even some of our Lincoln County athletes and parents need a spoonful of sugar to help the sportsmanship medicine go down.

P.S. Don't blame the influence of professional sports for this one, because there is no comparison. Those men and women make hundreds of thousands of dollars playing a game. We just need to expect our children to be better sports and show them how.

2) And speaking of our youth, how about a greater understanding of the need to provide recreational opportunities for our children and to support their endeavors.

P.S. Make a New Year's resolution to attend at least three athletic or co-curricular activities this year. You don't know what you're missing, and your presence has more of an influence than you think.

3) Snow, snow, snow, rain, rain, rain and then sun, sun, sun. Snow for Ski Apache. Rain for our softball fields and new soccer fields. And then sun for horse racing and hiking.

(The not-so-serious gift list begins here)

4) Vision examinations for all certified referees and officials. Hopefully, this will bring an end to the hackneyed question, "Can't you see?"

5) A season-long supply of Golden Seal for the Dallas Cowboys to help clean out all the "impurities" in their systems. (It just wouldn't be my column if I didn't rip the 'Boys in some way, shape or form.)

6) I truly wish Santa would deliver a Super Bowl title to the loyal, long-suffering Green Bay Packer fans. No one deserves it more.

Finally, I wish you all the merriest of holidays and all the best in the coming new year.

Skiers hope winds bring a change

by LAURA CLYMER

Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Do the winds signal times are changing?

Ski Apache general manager Roy Parker hopes so.

With its last new snowfall more than a week away, Parker hopes windy conditions from Sunday blow in a snowstorm and plenty of natural snow.

"Things are better than last year, but not the way we'd like them," Parker said Monday.

At this time last year, the ski area had been open only a week. Ski Apache opened on schedule, Thanksgiving Day, this year.

More of the mountain is open — 31% or 17 of 55 trails — and conditions are better than Christmas 1995.

Through Sunday, the ski area has recorded 13,000 skier days. Parker said 2,000 skiers took to the slopes Sunday, and another 2,000 skied Monday.

"The folks we've got here have all smiles," ski area official Riker Davis said Monday. Still, new snow is needed.

To combat the lack of natural snow, snowmaking crews are continuing their efforts, day and night when possible.

Wind halted snowmaking efforts Sunday night. The gusts knocked out the ski area's electricity.

By Monday morning, however, the snowguns were spewing manmade snow on the beginner area, Capitan run and the Chair 8 trails, Davis said.

The winds also can blow away new snow before it gets packed down in the base.

Surface conditions on open trails are packed powder and machine groomed. Eight of 11 lifts are operating. The gondola will take sightseers to the top of the mountain when weather conditions permit.

Discount lift tickets of $30 for adults and $20 for children are in effect through Christmas Day. The holiday lift ticket rate will be in effect Dec. 26 through Jan. 4.

After that, Parker hasn't decided whether or not the lift tickets will revert to discount cost or go to the regular, non-holiday rate.

PET CORNER

These pets are currently up for adoption at Lincoln County Humane Society
Call 257-9841

Tessa is an affectionate and attractive white shepherd. She's about 2 years old, has an endearing personality and a gentle soul. A family willing to take care of her will receive years of loving devotion in return.

Jaz is a 1.5-year-old Sharpei mix, possibly with collie blood. She's fun-loving and would be a good looking companion for long walks or an evening by the fire. Jaz appears to get along well with everyone and other dogs.

POOP SCOOP

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Wild birds can be fed year-around, but the Humane Society of the United States asks people to be sensitive to times of stress and feed according.

Times of peak energy demands occur during severe weather or temperature extremes, during nesting season, during migration and in late winter or early spring when natural seed sources are depleted.

If you stop feeding the birds periodically for a vacation or for short trips, don't worry. Studies show that one in three suburban and urban households has a feeder in the backyard.

Ruidoso probably could match that statistic, even though most rural or isolated areas would not.

However, by not being consistent with feeding, particularly during severe weather, you could create a precarious situation for wild birds.

In selecting a feeder, be sure it is made with a material that is easy to clean.

Wood feeders and some unglazed pottery feeders can grow algae and fungi and removing bird feces from them can be difficult.

Non-porous surfaces such as plastic, steel and glass are better choices.

Chose a small feeder. It will empty out faster, which can be better for the birds, because the seeds have less chance of spoiling.

To protect seeds from becoming damp or wet, add a plastic dome over the feeder and be sure the feeder chosen has drainage holes.

Since feeding birds mainly is for your pleasure, place feeders where they can be observed and accessed easily.

Also consider feeder placement from the bird's point of view. They're more likely to stop at feeders that offer:

— ample cover for predator protection, perching and roosting. Feeders located in dense vegetation will offer safe perching and roosting places. Nearby shrubs and trees also provide escape cover for fleeing birds.

Cats predation is not as easy to solve since they can climb or jump just about anywhere. It's best to keep cats inside.

— protection from window collision. Birds are incapable of perceiving glass as a barrier. You can reduce the frequency of collision by leaving window screens on all year, or by altering the appearance of glass by placing a hawk silhouette or other cutouts about 4 inches apart on the outside of the window.

You also could paint a scene with soap, but some experts say the most effective method is to cover windows with fine plastic harden netting.

Soft Contacts and Comfort

If pressed for a one-word summary of the advantage of the soft contact lens, that word would be "comfort." The patients that most appreciate this are former hard lens wearers who stopped using them because of discomfort. When a soft lens is put on their eye, they are absolutely astounded by the lack of any annoying sensation.

Have you ever wondered why a contact lens placed directly on the cornea does not hurt? I'm sure you've had the experience of a speck of dust irritating the eye and by extension you would expect a contact lens, (which is so much bigger), to hurt just as much. However, the cornea is very choosy in its pain sensitivity. It reacts more actively to abrasiveness than size. Soft lenses absorb the warm tear fluid making them more pliant and natural-feeling to the eye. In fact, a large object touches your cornea all the time ... your eyelid. Yet, you feel no pain when you blink. A contact lens, which is large compared to a speck of dust, won't hurt, provided it is properly fit.

"Cracking the Ice Age"

Imagine a world where it's so cold that one-third of the earth's surface is covered in ice sheets a mile deep, and so much water is frozen solid that sea levels plummet more than 500 feet. That's what it was like 18,000 years ago at the height of the most recent ice age.

Why did it get so cold? The answer has eluded scientists for over a century, but there has never been a shortage of speculation.

Nova covers one new and controversial theory that pins the cause on the highest mountains in the world in "Cracking the Ice Age." The program travels to the Tibetan plateau to report on surprising evidence that the uplift of the Himalayas and the plateau may be behind the big chill.

When paleoclimatologist Bill Ruddiman of Columbia University came upon evidence of the extensive cooling that allowed ice sheets to spread into the northern hemisphere during the last ice age, he noticed a curious coincidence: at roughly the same time that global temperatures were going down, those in the Himalayas were going up. Ruddiman asked his colleague at the University of Wisconsin to run a computer simulation exploring the climatic effect of huge mountains rising in central Asia. The computer model did indeed show a cooling effect in the atmosphere, though not of the magnitude needed to create an ice age.

Next, Ruddiman began to look at the role of carbon dioxide in controlling temperature. The greater the concentration of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, the greater the warming. By contrast, if some mechanism is removing carbon dioxide from the air, then that could lead to a cooler climate and eventually an ice age.

In fact, the Himalayas seem to provide just such a mechanism. Through a complex interaction of air, rain, and rock, the mountains appear to be converting gaseous carbon dioxide into carbonate rocks, as the Himalayas erode away in monsoon rains. It can be likened to a huge sponge pulling carbon dioxide out of the atmosphere.

So is the biggest mountain range on earth behaving like the freon in your freezer, in effect sucking heat out of the air?

"It would be a heck of a story if it turned out to be true," ventures Ruddiman.

"Cracking the Ice Age" on Nova will air Tuesday, December 31st at 7:00 p.m. The program repeats Saturday, January 4th at 9:00 p.m. and Sunday, January 5th at 12:00 midnight.

Billy the Kid Scenic Loop Byway

Lincoln County's new Billy the Kid Scenic Loop crosses the trails of the infamous outlaw himself, who made his fame here during the Lincoln County War more than a century ago.

Much of the war took place right in the community of Lincoln, which remains basically unchanged during the last 115 years except for the paved main street. The town and surrounding area have been designated an historic district, guaranteeing it won't change much in the future, either. Historic markers all over town make even a solo walking tour educational and interesting.

Three museums in Lincoln will tell you about the real Billy the Kid, show you the only authenticated photo of the outlaw (owned by one of the museums), and direct you to sites that he frequented. At the courthouse, for example, you can see the hole left in the wall by Billy's bullets when he escaped from jail in 1881.

Although an interpretive center and official Scenic Byway signs won't be erected until mid-1997, historic markers already dot the loop. One on Highway 70 just west of Hondo points to the site of the John Tunstall murder, which ignited the Lincoln County War.

The now-peaceful Hondo Valley also has fruit stands dotting the roadside, historic churches, and the unique Hurd La Rinconada and Fort

Meigs art galleries.

The best source of Old West history in the Ruidoso area is the Museum of the Horse, where displays honor the role the horse has played in the settling of the West. A multitude of art galleries and shops can be found in the Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs area, the population seat of Lincoln County.

The loop as it runs north on Highway 48 out of Ruidoso climbs past the Ski Apache turnoff and then heads into Capitan, home of the Smokey Bear State Historical Monument and museum. Smokey Bear was rescued from a fire-ravaged area of the nearby Capitan Mountains, and after making his fame in a Washington, D.C. zoo, he was returned to Capitan for his final resting place. Smokey Bear memorabilia abounds in the museum and Capitan stores.

As you head east on Highway 380 out of Capitan, you come across a Smokey Bear historical marker that points to the Capitan Gap where Smokey was found.

Nearby, between Capitan and Lincoln on Hwy. 380, is the turnoff to Fort Stanton, a 141-year-old fort where the likes of Blackjack Pershing and Kit Carson once served. It's worth a short detour on a paved road.

Fort Stanton is the temporary home of women prisoners of the state for a few years, and then local groups hope to create a living history museum there.

A marker at the Merchant Marines cemetery at the fort tells of the days when these soldiers came here to recuperate from tuberculosis, after the government decided the fort was no longer needed for military protection against the Mescalero Apache Indians.

In a nutshell, if you start from Ruidoso and go clockwise on the Billy the Kid Scenic Loop, you will follow Highway 48 (also called Mechem Drive in Ruidoso) north to Capitan, head southeast on Highway 380 to its end at U.S. Highway 70, then go west back into Ruidoso on Highway 70 (also called Sudderth Drive in Ruidoso). The drive itself takes approximately 90 minutes so give yourself plenty of time to see all the sites along the way.

Many other popular attractions lie on the outskirts of the Scenic Loop: the historic Tinnie restaurant and saloon to the east, the Inn of the Mountain Gods on the Mescalero Apache Reservation to the southwest, and the communities of Nogal, Carrizozo, White Oaks, Ancho and Corona to the northwest. Nogal, Carrizozo and White Oaks (which some still call a gold mining ghost town) have become the home of a variety of talented artists who have moved here to revel in the laid-back and beautiful surroundings. Watch out — it could happen to you!

Shaped skis are latest revolution in equipment

BY KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

They've been called hourglass, shaped, super sidecut, or parabolic skis.

They are the newest revolution in ski equipment, and some compare their importance to the creation of quick-release bindings.

Ruidoso retailers agree they're the hottest thing in the ski equipment market this season.

"It's the latest and greatest in ski technology," says Ronnie Taylor, owner of Mountain Ski Shop.

The shaped ski is shorter and wider than the traditional standard ski.

"Because of the drastic cut like an hourglass, it's easier for turning but still gives the capability of maintaining speed," Taylor says.

Modeled after the snowboard, the tale of the shaped ski is almost as wide as its shovel.

"They actually took the pattern of the snowboard and added the greater sidecut," after noticing how boarders could edge so well, explains Ron Anderson of Wild West Inc. ski shop. "Low and behold, they work."

With the new shaped ski, Anderson predicts better skiing by many on the slopes.

"They really help your technique and ability right away," he says.

The parabolic-shaped ski, which hit the market last year, is a major industry push this year, he says.

"This is probably the last year of the conventional ski," Anderson adds. He compares the parabolic ski's expected dominance in the industry to the over-sized head of graphite tennis rackets. "Almost all the companies are going with the shaped ski," he said.

The shaped ski "gives a little more maneuverability, and allows people who have never known how to edge to edge," agrees Robert Donaldson, owner of Pro Ski Sports.

Its shortcoming is, it's a "turny ski," he says. "With the hourglass shape, it wants to turn all the time."

So skiers at the beginner and advanced-intermediate levels will probably swear by the hourglass, but those at the expert level will likely stick with the traditional ski, he predicts.

Prices of the parabolic, hourglass-shaped skis range between $300 to $650 and can be bought or rented at most of Ruidoso's ski shops.

JoAnn Taylor checks out a pair of Rossingnol Dualteck 9.9 parabolic skis at Mountain Ski Shop in Ruidoso. She's dressed in a Boston Furrier coat (dyed black cut velvet, with opossum fur) and Miura goat fur après ski boots.

In Ruidoso, you can golf & ski in same day

BY PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Après ski options in Ruidoso are seldom limited to coffee houses and fireplace lethargy. The versatile sports enthusiast can usually shed ski boots and don spikes for an afternoon on the golf course.

It's not unusual for Ruidoso greens to be clear and sunny in the middle of winter. In fact, it's more common than not.

"Under normal circumstances, we golf year round," said Mike Massey, who works at the Cree Meadows pro shop.

When snow reaches the village, it usually melts away that day. In general, Cree doesn't lose more than 25-30 days a year to weather.

"That's including summer," Massey added.

Cree Meadows is billed at Ruidoso oldest, most playable and most affordable course. Every hole affords panoramic views of Sierra Blanca. The course celebrates its 50th anniversary in 1997.

open all the time. As snow starts melting from the fairway, maintenance crews clean off the greens and golfers can tee off.

The Links is a Scottish style course designed by senior tour professional Jim Colbert.

The Inn of the Mountain Gods course is nestled between the pine forest and Mescalero Lake at the Mescalero Apache Reservation's luxurious resort.

"Each hole is surrounded by two to three sand traps and we have water features on four out of the first nine holes and five of the back nine," said golf pro Daniel Nunez. Carts are required. The course is closed in January and February.

Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club is just north of Ruidoso, but you have to play it with a club member because it is a private course.

Other nearby courses include the Carrizozo Municipal Golf Course, about 45 minutes away from Ruidoso, and the Desert Lakes Golf Course in Alamogordo, about an hour away. Both are at lower elevations for an even warmer game.

Even disabled skiers can enjoy Ski Apache

BY LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Nestled in the backside of the main lodge at Ski Apache is the modest office of the nation's third-largest disabled skiers program.

Ski Apache Disabled Skiers Program (formerly Ski Apache Handicapped Skiers Association) has brought the thrill of skiing to nearly 300 people of all ages and disabilities.

A day at Ski Apache rarely goes by without at least one disabled skier hitting the slopes — whether it be a class of visually impaired students from the New Mexico School for the Visually Handicapped in nearby Alamogordo, or an independent skier who is an amputee.

SADSP director Lisa Maue has 80 volunteers and seven part-time instructors to help her run the program. The highly trained staff has plenty of experience handling disabled skiers, but it can get tricky when other able-bodied skiers aren't sure how to respond to SADSP skiers.

"People are almost too nice (on the slopes)," Maue says. "The minute they see that bib that says 'blind skier' they try to overcompensate."

Maue advises able-bodied skiers to avoid cutting in between visually handicapped skiers and their guides. Abrupt stops in front of the sit-ski and mono-ski can also cause problems for the disabled skiers because they are controlling their speed and movements with their arms. It can get pretty strenuous having to perform a quick stop.

Skiers go out of their way to get out the way, but that's not always necessary.

"When we train our volunteers, we're also training them to look out for other skiers. Just try to be consistent when you're skiing around the visually impaired skiers," says Maue, who is in her fourth year as SADSP director and sixth overall with the program.

The various apparatus used by disabled skiers often generates questions from other skiers. It's OK to ask skiers those questions, but it's best to do it when waiting in the lift line, Maue suggests.

"Most of the students aren't shy. You can come up and ask all the questions you want," she says.

The SADSP office is packed with specially adapted equipment, and Maue invites everyone to stop by and check out the latest apparatus.

"Just because the door is closed doesn't mean we're not there," Maue says.

SADSP director Lisa Maue helps Daniel Goldsmith of Midland, Texas enjoy the slopes at Ski Apache.

Dictionary of amazing disabled skiing equipment

Ski-bra: The equipment attaches to the tips of the skis and is used by beginning students and developmentally disabled students. The ski-bra prevents them from splaying or crossing their skis. It allows them to simply push out their feet to slow down or stop, and to stay in a wedge.

Outriggers: Also called Canadian crutches, they have little skis on the bottom and are attached to the arms of a person with an amputated leg. This is called three-tracking because it leaves three ski tracks. Four-tracking uses the same outriggers for people who lack lower body strength or upper body stability, i.e. spinal bifida, cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy or multiple sclerosis.

Walker: This is simply a walker on skis. A guide, who is tethered to the skier from behind, skis with the disabled person. The student steers with the upper body. By twisting the walker, the skis turn with it. Partial paraplegics, those with more involved cerebral palsy, or those with post polio impairments can use a walker.

Mono-ski: This is a seat attached to a single ski, and the skiers have mini-outriggers on their arms, which allows them to turn. Partial paraplegics, who have use of their arms, typically use mono-skis.

Bi-ski: A seat attached to two skis. Anyone can ski this, essentially for full quadriplegics.

Sit-ski: An older version of the mono-ski. Used with people who are multiply impaired and/or suffering from seizure disorders.

Snowmaking means good base in any conditions

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The sky is clear overhead, not a cloud. But snow showers arch in the air and fall to earth, adding to the powder base already on Elk Ridge at Ski Apache.

As they do periodically throughout the winter when the area is dry, 55 "guns" are spewing their loads of manmade snow onto slopes around the ski resort 16 miles northwest of Ruidoso.

The resort's snowmaking capacity is about 20% greater this year than last, because of the increased efficiency of the guns, said Denny Grover, mountain operations manager at Ski Apache, a job that includes directing the production of snow.

That snow spells insurance for skiers. Even if the weather doesn't cooperate, the main slopes should be covered with snow. And don't get the false impression it's fake.

"Manmade snow is real snow," Grover explained. "It is uniform in crystal shape and therefore, more durable. It skis, grooms and covers like sky snow. It just costs more.

"We have two storage ponds and a transfer system to keep our main pond full," Grover said. "These ponds are filled from our wells at Ski Apache. The water is saved in the snowpack and makes its way into the watershed in the spring as it melts.

"We've been making snow for 15 years here at Ski Apache on a regular basis. Before that, it was experimenting with various systems. Our current system is an evolution of the earlier systems with constant refinement."

The snow guns started up this season in October to assure a great base on nearly one-third of Ski Apache.

Grover, 53, learned to ski at the resort while he was in the military in Roswell.

"I started out to be a history teacher, but I just haven't learned enough about skiing yet," he said. "I love to ski. I do it everyday. I have taught skiing, been a ski patrolman and worked at Ski Apache since 1969.

Four types of snow guns are used at Ski Apache, each classified by the process by which the water is broken up into small particles and converted into snow. They use combinations of compressed air, small nozzles and fan blades.

"We can cover 100 vertical feet, including all trails on Elk Ridge reached by Chairlift 8, and the novice and beginner areas reached by Chairs 3 and 5," Grover said.

Five chairlifts serve slopes that can be covered with manmade snow. These lifts can service more than 10,000 skiers per hour, Grover said.

The snowmaking system is dependent on three pumps and two compressors. The pumps move water up the mountain with 500 pounds of pressure.

The manmade snow at Ski Apache actually comes from natural snow that has melted over the summer.

"There is a booster pump to raise the water up to the top of the system to make snow on Elk Ridge. When the total system is in operation, 2,100 horsepower is being used," Grover said.

In general, it takes water, compressed air, cold temperatures and work — a lot of work — to produce snow, Grover said.

It takes a talented crew, too. Ski Apache has one.

"The most important part of any snowmaking system is the crews that operate it," Grover said. "Ski Apache crews are some of the best in the industry. Many have been making snow since we started the system 15 years ago."

The snow guns still need a little cooperation from the weather to do their thing.

"We're still dependent on Mother Nature for cold temperatures and for water," Grover said. "But if we have those ingredients, we'll make snow for skiing.

"This past season, we made snow all season and the areas we covered were the best skiing on the mountain day in and day out.

"With the limited natural snowfall, the season could have been a disaster, but instead, it was an acceptable ski season."

After all, every time a flock of birds flew over, or someone took a shower (we know we don't have a shower, but think of the restroom stalls...), or someone climbed up on a bar stool and got vertigo, everyone woulda got bummed over the results.

What's new this year on slopes of Ski Apache

Improvements at Ski Apache for the 1996-97 season make beginners the winners, says the ski area's marketing director Riker Davis.

"If the lift capacity has been strained anywhere, it's been strained for the beginners. We had relatively long lines on the lower area at chair 3 and chair 5," Davis said.

Novice skiers are sure to notice the new Ctec quad chair which serves the lower slopes in front of the main lodge. The larger capacity lift replaces the Riblet double chair, transporting twice the number of beginning skiers (2,400 per hour).

Additionally, Lower Deep Freeze has been widened and rerouted to lower Snowpark so the new lift can unload on a gentler pitch with plenty of room for four.

"It's going to make a big difference in getting those skiers more time on the slopes and less time in line," Davis added.

For the younger set, The Kiddie Korral, an all-day ski instruction for children, has been expanded. It can now accommodate twice the number of children, up to 50. A staff of specially trained ski instructors teaches 4- and 5-year-olds the basics of skiing.

"It's just a super program that teaches them ski skills while it lets the parents loose to ski for the day, knowing that their children are being cared for," Davis said.

As before, first-time skiers receive a free all-day lesson with the purchase of their lift tickets. This even applies to seasoned skiers who try snowboarding for the first time.

The ski school is offering a new special for 1996-97. The more seasoned skiers receive a half day upper level session for half price when they enroll a friend or family member in any group lesson.

Ski Apache has also continued to refine and improve its snow-making capacities. Additional equipment will help maximize the capabilities of the area's 46 snow-making guns.

Snowmaking crews can add manmade snow on slopes serviced by eight of 11 lifts and on nearly a third of the skiing terrain.

Skier's Code

1. Always stay in control, and be able to stop or avoid other people or objects.
2. People ahead of you have the right of way. It is your responsibility to avoid them.
3. You must not stop where you obstruct a trail or are not visible from above.
4. Whenever starting downhill or merging into a trail, look uphill and yield to others.
5. Always use devices to help prevent runaway equipment.
6. Observe all posted signs and warnings.
7. Prior to using any lift, you must have the knowledge and ability to load, ride and unload safely.
8. You must conform to the provisions of the New Mexico Ski Safety Act.

The monumental "Free Spirits at Noisy Water" by Ruidoso artist Dave McGary has become a major attraction at the Museum of the Horse. It features larger-than-life exact replicas of seven breeds of horses.

Museum of Horse houses wonders of the Old West

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Gun collectors visiting the Ruidoso area this winter won't want to miss a new exhibit at The Museum of the Horse called "Two Hundred Years of Firearms."

Part of the museum's pledge not to run a "static" operation focuses on bringing new and interesting exhibits to its floors in Ruidoso Downs off U.S. 70.

Rifles, pistols and commemoratives from the 200-item collection of C.L. "Bones" Wright are on exhibit Nov. 30 through March. The collection includes flint locks, cap and ball rifles, weapons from American and English armorers, pistols from the 1870s to present, derringers, shotguns, commemorative rifles and law enforcement badges.

The free grand opening is 5-7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 30.

Wright, the 76-year-old owner of a local lumber and hardware supply company, will be at the opening.

A few of the rarities in his collection are a 7th Cavalry rifle, a pearl-handled pistol from one of Pancho Villa's "villaistas" and trap guns for catching thieves.

The "booby trap" guns consist of a firing mechanism and a hook or trip wire. Unwelcome visitors who invaded a man's property might find themselves seriously wounded or worse, according to Jim Dickinson, education curator for the museum. Some were used to thwart grave robbers and were called English flintlock trap guns.

One pistol may have been used by Billy the Kid, although "I couldn't guarantee Billy the Kid ever used it," Wright said. "Everyone you talk to says they've got something of the Kid's."

But the authenticity of another item is beyond dispute, Wright said. He has the only pocket watch ever owned by the Kid, who made his fame right here in Lincoln County. The time piece is documented with photos and a chain of possession.

Wright has collected firearms since his childhood.

"My mother was about half afraid to go into my room, because she knew I had guns in there," he said.

The majority of the items in Wright's collection were given to him as gifts, Dickinson said.

"People just heard I like guns and they'd give them to me," Wright confirmed.

Museum Director Bruce Eldredge said the exhibit will consist of much more than a display of weapons.

"The museum plans to host demonstrations, programs and lectures explaining the major development in firearms and the tremendous social and historical impact of those developments," he said. "This is a fascinating collection and has never before been viewed by the public."

The museum stages its annual free Christmas Party at 2-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14. It includes caroling, treats and a visit with Santa and Mrs. Claus, Dickinson said. At 7 p.m. the Santa Fe Desert Chorale performs a collection of holiday music.

In January, more of Anne C. Stradling's collection will be on exhibit. Stradling, from a wealthy East Coast family, spent her adult life in the West, where she became known for her horsemanship and artifact collection containing 10,000 horse-related items.

In a continuous process of renewal, the museum's staff will be creating "Anne's Attic 2," selecting different pieces than those displayed in the original exhibit opened in 1995. The attic features personal and family items and furniture, in contrast to the western gear in the main display room.

The Ruidoso Racing Hall of Fame opens on Memorial Day 1997. An interactive exhibit will allow patrons to mount a horse in a starting gate.

The museum stages a variety of programs throughout the year - from live demonstrations such as farriers, boot makers and teamsters - to lectures, workshops and performances, including the Santa Fe Opera.

A schedule of museum events is published annually. For more information, call 505-378-4142 or 800-263-5929.

Simulcast racing, pull tabs offer games of chance locally

BY KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you want a chance to make back some of the money you spend on your vacation, check out the simulcast horse races and pull tabs in the Ruidoso area.

Simulcast horse racing runs all winter at the Ruidoso Downs Sports Theater, and pull tabs are available at the main lobby of the Mescalero Apache Tribe's Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The state government also offers scratch games and Powerball through many local convenience stores.

Casino Apache at the Inn of the Mountain Gods was closed in the fall of 1996 in a court battle over whether the Legislature should have approved Indian gambling compacts the governor signed. It remained closed at presstime, so you may want to call to see if the slot machines and card tables are back in operation.

Sports theater

Open September-May, the Ruidoso Downs Sports Theater

offers some of the best simulcast pony action in the west, as well as full food service, beverages and parimutuel windows for wagering.

Doors open at 11 a.m. Thursday through Monday, and stay open until the last race, which on Friday and Saturday nights can be as late as midnight.

Thursday, Sunday and Monday, the last race is usually around 6 p.m.

About 45 large television screens are situated throughout the theater, which can be viewed from the kitchen, bar area and corridor for free. Football and other sports can also be viewed on some of the TVs, and about 25 nine-inch monitors also fill the building.

Sloped seating in the auditorium area is also free. Those who want a private table with a nine-inch monitor can reserve one for $3.

With the reserved monitors, spectators have the privilege of switching back and forth from a sport game to a horse race if they wish.

The theater is located a half-mile east of Ruidoso Downs Race Track, off of U.S. 70 on Service Lane. It's the first road east of the Horseman's entrance between the Museum of the Horse and the racetrack.

For more information about the theater or races, call 505-378-4431 or 505-378-4627.

Pull tabs

Those seeking instant gratification when placing bets should make a gamble with a pull tab game.

The cards, for sale at the Mescalero Apache Tribe's Inn of the Mountain Gods, cost from 25 cents to $1 and offer winnings as great as $5,000.

To purchase a pull tab card, just go to the lobby of the Inn, which is located about two miles from Ruidoso on Carrizo Canyon Road.

The game is quick to learn and easy to play. Players just pull back tabs covering symbols on the cards, and with the right matches, there's a win.

Although the U.S. Attorney forced the shutdown of the tribe's Casino Apache in September, he couldn't touch pull tabs.

The game is legal because it mirrors games the state already provides. The tribe has offered pull tabs for play since 1991.

Snowshoes let you explore backcountry's winter wonderland with ease

Snowshoes allow hikers to continue wandering the forest all year, accessing the steepest terrain without sinking into the cold snow covering the ground.

"It's a whole lot of fun, and if you can walk, you can snowshoe," says Mike Steed, owner of Steed's Ski Sports. "It's pretty low-key, but you can make it as difficult as you want by going to quite difficult areas."

The shoes are often referred to as bear paws — they have webbing like a tennis racket and look a little like both. Just wear regular winter boots, strap your feet on top of the wide, oblong, flat snowshoes, and walk.

"When you get on them and start walking, you figure out the technique real quick," Steed explains.

"It's not quite like hiking (the gait), but you figure out in the first 40 to 50 steps how to snowshoe."

Snowshoeing is an ancient sport, he says, likely older than cross-country skiing. It's even popular with snowboard and backcountry ski fanatics, because they use the shoes to climb the slopes before strapping them on their backs to ski or board down the hill.

"They take you to areas cross-country skiing can't — between trees — and can climb like you can't with crosscountry," Steed adds.

Styles range from the modern aluminum or plastic, which are lighter and more durable, to the more aesthetically pleasing wooden shoes. They range in price from $75 to $300.

Steed's shop at 1017 Mechem Drive in Ruidoso rents out snowshoes for $10 a day.

Selina Steed shows off a pair of Snow Tread snowshoes — lightweight and durable rentals available at Steed's Ski Sports.

Winter fishing is best here in the mountains

by DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Summer may draw the biggest crowds to lakes and streams around Ruidoso, but to some experts, winter is the best time to fish in the mountains.

The elusive trout are higher in the water, and approaching storms seem to send them into a feeding frenzy. Rainbow, German browns, cutthroat, cutbow and brook trout are found in the lakes and streams locally.

"July and August is the worst time to fish in the lakes, because the fish are 20-30 feet under," said Dick Ramsay, who guides on fishing trips, teaches fly-tying and stands in for owner Jim Shoop at Fly's Etc. in Timbers Mall in downtown Ruidoso.

In the summer, the fish huddle on the bottom much of the time to stay within their temperature comfort zone. But in the winter, the lake temperatures flip-flop and the warmer water rises to the surface, bringing the fish with it, he said.

"The fish stay in the top 10 feet starting around the first of October when the days start to get colder," Ramsay said.

In December and January, the water will freeze and the fish will move to a new thermal zone about 15-20 feet below the surface, he said.

"As the temperature lowers, the cold filters down," Ramsay said. "The metabolism of the fish lowers, they feed less and with less gusto. They go pretty dormant once the temperature hits 40 degrees."

During the colder months of December through February, the best fishing is at noon with the most intense heat of the day, he said.

During the summer, the best time is in the morning with the sun on your back. By mid-day, the fish are hiding.

Barometric pressure also seems to influence the feeding pattern of fish, he said.

"When a winter storm is approaching, it has a positive affect on their feeding habits," he said.

In very cold water, baits such as salmon eggs cured in sugar and dyed red don't work as well as flies and lures.

Dick Ramsay ties a fly.

"Fish are attracted to odors and color," Ramsay said. "When the water is cold, the sugar isn't milked out into the surrounding water like it is in the summer."

But flies and lures are shiny and bright. They make noise and motion to attract the sluggish fish, he said.

A popular fly is Pistol Pete, an interpretation of a woolly worm with a red head and propellers on the back end. Ramsay ties more than 150 flies. He collects specimens of whatever the trout are feeding on at a particular time, and then designs new patterns to duplicate the insect, larvae or worm of current choice.

Ramsay recommends wearing muted, earth-colored clothes when fishing. White shirts and caps scare the fish, he said.

"A trout telescopes its eyes in and out of its head," Ramsay explained. "There are rods and cones in the eyes. The rods detect movement and respond to size and shape. The cones pick up color."

"When the sun is 45 degrees over the horizon, the rods retract and the cones are dominant, so you have to match the color of the insects they're feeding on. In the afternoon, it's the size, shape and movement that counts, because they go under the banks in the shade and the rods don't retract, so color doesn't make any difference."

Although the state stocks the lakes and streams more often in the summer than the winter — about every six weeks instead of every two weeks — there's plenty to satisfy everyone, Ramsay said.

With Alto Lake closed down this past summer because of a spring drought, Bonito Lake was under more fishing pressure, but is doing fine, Ramsay said. Grindstone Lake right here in Ruidoso is another favorite.

Three lakes, Eagle, Silver and Mescalero, are located on the Mescalero Apache Reservation adjoining Ruidoso. The tribe charges $8 per person per day to fish its lakes.

For other lakes and streams, a New Mexico fishing license is needed. They are available at Wal-Mart on U.S. 70 and Western Auto on Mechem Drive in Ruidoso.

For non-residents, a one-day license is $9, a five consecutive day license is $17 and an annual license is $40.

For residents, an annual license is $18.50, senior citizens and juniors under 14 pay $11.50, and fishermen over 70 fish for free.

Current annual licenses will expire March 31 and new ones will be issued starting April 1.

A habitat improvement stamp is required if you're fishing on a stream where it crosses Bureau of Land Management or U.S. Forest Service property. The stamps are not needed to fish Grindstone, Alto, Bonito or streams in Ruidoso.

Ruidoso's streams are recovering from a two-year drought, Ramsay said. The state didn't stock as often this past summer, because the water was too low.

Fly fishing still can deliver a full day of fun, but newcomers may need to modify their techniques for local conditions, Ramsay said.

"A long cast in the Ruidoso area is 20 feet," he said. "Around here we use what I call 'pick up and lay down' casting, not the big overhead casts people are used to seeing."

Fly's Etc. can arrange guided trips to favorite spots above Bonito

Lake where cutbows (a hybrid of rainbow and cutthroat trout) spawn.

Ramsay, who started guiding in the Kansas-Arkansas area in 1969, knows those special places and where brook trout spawn in November and rainbow spawn in fall and spring.

When the water temperature drops too low in winter in Ruidoso, he has alternate spots in the Hondo Valley where the water is a little warmer. The Mesilla Fly Fishing Club also has access to two private ranches on the Peñasco River and was scheduled to add one in Hondo Valley this winter, Ramsay said. The club charges a $5 fee and permits can be purchased at Fly's Etc.

The novice fisherman can get equipment for as little as $20 (for a rod and reel) or can spend as much as $500 to be completely outfitted for fly fishing.

The shop is open during the winter from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday through Sunday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on weekdays. Gear also can be purchased at Wal-Mart, Western Auto, Buck's Guns and other shops in town.

Be a winter rebel — try snowboarding

BY LAURA CLYMER
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Is the rebel side of you yearning to be released? Then strap on some boots and grab a snowboard. It'll help.

You don't really have to be a bad boy or bad girl to snowboard. That's just the popular image of the snowboarders, who prefer to tackle the mountain on one broad board rather than two.

Snowboarders are allowed on all of Ski Apache's 55 trails, unlike many other ski areas such as Taos.

For five years, Ski Apache has welcomed this alternative to skiing. Cost to rent snowboarding boots and snowboard is $26 for a single, or $40 for two consecutive days. That and a lift ticket will get the snowboarder access to the ski area's 55 trails.

Favorite boarder trails include Upper Deep Freeze and The Fingers of the south face of the Apache Bowl, says Ski Apache snowboard instructor Rankin Harvey. Those two are half pipes which provide snowboarders the opportunity to perform tricks much like a skateboarder. Meadows, Chino and Geronimo are runs for intermediate boarders. Harvey's favorite is the black diamond trail Dead End where he can board the moguls.

"A good boarder can ski anything a good skier can," said Harvey, who has been boarding for 13 years.

A board is great in powder because it rides higher. Snowboarders also enjoy unique jumps, spins and other tricks.

"A lot of people like it because it's not skiing," Harvey said. Others like both; Harvey, who is also a ski instructor, likes to alternate a day of skiing with a day of snowboarding.

"As you get into the upper levels of boarding, skiing and boarding complement each other," explained Harvey, who added snowboarding makes him a better skier and vice versa.

Beginners often make the wrong assumption they can snowboard because they can skateboard or surf.

Unlike surfing or skateboarding, where you're on your back foot, snowboarding requires the boarder to move forward to initiate a turn, Harvey said. When he teaches beginners, Harvey emphasizes riding on the front foot.

Snowboarding has only two turns — the skidded turn and the carved turn — for beginners to master. Skiing has four major turning milestones — the wedge turn, the christie, the open parallel and the dynamic.

"The first day on skis is easier than a snowboard, but after that it's easier to advance on a board," Harvey said.

Snowboarders negotiate the hill the same way skiers do, but it looks different — and that has a tendency to make skiers apprehensive about skiing runs with boarders.

The skidding sound the board makes when turning is louder than skiing, and the movement pattern is different, Harvey said.

"It just looks different and sounds different," he said.

Because of snowboarding's inauspicious beginnings, enthusiasts find themselves still struggling for acceptance at some ski areas. They're still not allowed at some places, such as Taos.

Snowboarders made their presence felt in the mid-1980s in Colorado when Denver gangs escaped to the slopes during the winter. They traded their skateboards for snowboards and took to the mountain. Imagine the sight — young gang members cruising down the slopes.

It's been an image tough to shake, but time and the growing popularity of the sport has led to greater acceptance.

"The rebellious part of it is an appeal, but not necessarily what the snowboarding community would want," explained Harvey, who bought his first board the second year Burton manufactured them.

Some ski areas are recognizing snowboarding's growing popularity and have constructed separate trails specifically for snowboarders. Others open trails to both skiers and boarders, like Ski Apache, one of seven New Mexico ski areas to allow snowboarders.

Ski Apache also encourages long-time skiers to pick a snowboard for a day. Just like first-time skiers, first-time snowboarders get a free, all-day lesson with the purchase of their lift ticket — it doesn't matter if you've been skiing for years.

Sledding is for kids of all ages

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

When was the last time you hauled an inner tube up a hill and flew down in the snow? Fewer things make you feel like a kid again.

Here in Ruidoso, sledding is a popular pastime for young and old alike.

The hill behind the Ruidoso Library is a favorite spot. The end of the slick slide is buffeted by some small trees and a parking lane, ensuring no one will sail into the street.

It's always a good idea to bring some hot chocolate and a sandwich for energy, and to help keep your hands warm.

If you drive a few miles north, a longer run can be found at the end of Cedar Creek Road. The turnoff from Mechem Drive is next to the Smokey Bear Ranger District Office of the U.S. Forest Service.

Four decades earlier, the Cedar Creek run doubled as Ruidoso's ski area and had tow ropes. Sledders can still go for the gusto by climbing to the tree line, or pick a tamer route.

If both places are too crowded, ask a young resident of Ruidoso to suggest some out-of-the-way hills or backroads that remain impassable during the winter, but offer some scary snow skirmishes.

Sledding at Cloudcroft

For more tubing opportunities, drive another 40 miles into the Lincoln National Forest around Cloudcroft. Besides many impromptu spots along the road, tubers can whip down the slopes at the privately-owned Triple M Snow Play Area.

"We have three slopes and one is the steepest in New Mexico," said owner Craig Sparling. "We also have an intermediate and beginners hill. All are supervised."

At Triple M, you don't even have to walk back up the slope after flying over packed flakes to the bottom. A lift will gently move you to the top again for another trip down.

The lift is open daily during the Christmas and New Year holiday, then closes on weekdays, except by reservation for groups of 50 or more.

You can't help but smile when you hit the slopes — on a sled.

Starting in mid-December, tubing hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lift tickets are $12 for all day and $8 for a half-day. Lift tickets with a tube rental are $16 for all day and $11 for a half day.

Tube and slope rate without the lift is $8 for the day. If you bring your own tube, it drops to $6.

To find Triple M, leave Ruidoso on U.S. 70 West, then turn left (southeast) on State Highway 244 to Cloudcroft. Head left on State Highway 130 out of Cloudcroft for two miles, then turn onto the Sunspot Highway (6563) for another 2.6 miles.

Old Folks Club keeps senior skiers young at heart

BY DIANNE STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you're overtaken by a quartet of skiers tearing by at break-neck speed down a snow-covered slope at Ski Apache, chances are you've just been left in the spray of the Old Folks Club.

The three septuagenarians and one 68-year-old youngster say they came by their group name after overhearing some words of admiration from an amazed cluster of skiers a few years ago.

The onlookers exclaimed, "Wow, lookit them old farts go," as Ward Hook and Bill Wooley sped past.

The description stuck and the men began referring to themselves as the OFCs, modified to the Old Folks Club in polite company.

Regardless of the nomenclature, Wooley, 71, Hook, 72, plus Leo Mitchell, 71 and David Railsback, 68, constitute a robust group of locals who for the last several years have skied together nearly every winter week at Ski Apache. When the snow isn't falling, they may head for slopes farther north to keep in shape.

And they each have their favorite pursuits to keep their muscles toned during the months between ski seasons.

"Everybody plays golf, but me," Hook said. "I use a cane and it's easier to ski than walk with both feet on snow and two poles.

"I've been skiing since 1968 and there was only one year I was really in shape when I started, from working in the attic and duck walking. That really built muscles."

Hook said he takes it easy on the slopes the first two weekends, and then moves to the steeper and faster slopes, staying longer.

Hook's major attempt at toning during non-skiing months is swimming in the pool at Cree Meadows Country Club three times a week.

See Old Folks Club, page 21

Bill Wooley shreds the slopes.

Old Folks Club skis with passion

Mitchell said most of his off-season exercise time is spent on the golf course and walking. For the five to six weeks before he tries on his skis, he intensifies the schedule to build his stamina.

He also starts skiing each year on easier slopes and for just a couple of hours.

Besides golf, Railsback walks and hikes with his wife, and they both do aerobics with a television exercise show.

Last year, he hiked to the top of Sierra Blanca Peak with Wooley, but this year, he wasn't able to make the trip with his friend.

Unlike the others in the club, Railsback didn't start skiing until he was 50, although he sampled the sport in high school when Ruidosoans skied at the end of Cedar Creek.

"My wife and I started a young married Sunday school class in Amarillo (Texas) and brought them to Ruidoso to ski," Railsback said of his attempt years later to get back into skiing. "But when I looked at Capitan (ski run), I said, 'Oh my, I can't do that.'"

"The next year they took me to Red River and made me take a lesson. I fell all the way down the slope."

He finally learned to ski from Wooley when he moved to Ruidoso full time.

Wooley stays busy all summer with lengthy hikes. He just finished a 10-hour, 13.5 mile journey along Crest Trail in the White Mountain Wilderness.

His hike to the top of Sierra Blanca took about 3.75 hours to go up and two hours to go back. When he stopped with his companion to have lunch at the top, he was feeling pretty good about his time. Then Steve Hightower arrived.

"I asked him how long it took him to reach the top and he said 1 hour and 20 minutes," a deflated Wooley said.

When he's not hiking, Wooley can be found on the golf course with Railsback, each carrying his own bag of clubs for a full 18 holes.

They also walk the three-mile path around The Links Golf Course.

Since the Old Folks Club formed a few years ago, Bob Berry, who sold a home in Texas and moved to Ruidoso, has been added, and Marshall Conover often skis with Wooley.

But adding new people isn't as easy as it sounds, because the current members are all crackjack skiers. And just as it's difficult for a speed hiker to slow down for a stroller, it's not as much fun when

Ski areas compete for seniors

The energetic Old Folks Club typifies a growing group of retired active skiers able to ski mid-week instead of weekends, able to vacation any time instead of just children's school holidays.

Ski areas compete for this affluent segment of the skiing market by offering senior citizen deals.

For many years, Ski Apache has sold a senior season pass. Costing $140, the pass pays for itself after four days.

"It's a real bargain, especially since we don't ski all day like we used to," one of the OFC members admits.

Last year when snowfall was scarce in Ruidoso, the gang tried some other slopes too, although they agree Ski Apache has the best grooming in the country.

"In Colorado, a lot of places are free for seniors," Hook said. The same is true at Angel Fire.

someone is along who can't ski the big slopes.

But if enough older people of varying ability showed an interest, everyone could have fun going up together, would have a partner to ski with and then could get together after the skiing, they said.

Lifetime sport

Three of the gang began their skiing careers as young men.

Mitchell started in 1945 in Germany, Wooley in 1961 when Ski Apache opened as Sierra Blanca Ski Area and Hook in 1968 when he joined the National Ski patrol.

All taught their children to ski and in time, their grandchildren. Now scattered all over the world, those same kids and grandkids return for ski vacations with their grandparents.

Like many others in Ruidoso, some of the club members had second homes in Ruidoso for 20 or 30 years and then moved up permanently.

None of the group knew each other before moving here. They became friends at the Cree Meadows Country Club, where they went golfing or swimming.

"Where else but Ruidoso can you ski all morning and play 18 holes in the afternoon?" marvels Wooley.

"Or ski one weekend with some out-of-town guests and golf the next with a different bunch," adds Hook.

What's hot — and what's not — in skiwear this year

by KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Day-glow colors and grunge snowboard styles are pretty much out, while a straight-line, more conservative look is in, say some local ski moguls.

"Neon is out — finally," cheers Steed's Ski Sports shop owner Mike Steed. "Thank God!"

Selina Steed and her sister, Skye, model the latest, lightweight Inside Edge skiwear at their parents' store, Steed's Ski Sports.

And notes Wild West Ski Shop owner Ron Anderson, "They're getting away from the snowboard grunge look in styles."

The industry is saying "Sell the thrill, not the grunge," Anderson relates.

That look helped cast a somewhat surly image on the sport of snowboarding, an image some in the industry are trying to shed, he says.

The new style has sort of a 1950s look, with straight line parkas covering the buttocks.

Other hot jackets are the fleece pullovers that now look heavy enough to be Berber carpet, says Rocky Mountain Sports owner Cindy Clayton.

"It's wild the things they're doing with fleece this year," she says.

Leather is also strong, and raw silk is making an appearance as lining in some powder shells, she says.

Earth tones are right in there with wild leopard and zebra prints for ski suits, says Clayton's assistant clerk Kip McClellan.

There's also a lot of purples, yellows, oranges and grays marking the clothing, but such colors are soothed by the darker colors around them, he says.

And what's really in, McClellan adds, "is anything that doesn't show dirt or blood."

Basically, every color under the sun is stylish in ski wear this year, says Mountain Ski Shop owner Ronnie Taylor. "It isn't just neon anymore. There's multiple colors, so we can be our own person. If you're a brown, you can be a brown."

Best of all, the ski clothing is more practical than ever before.

"The clothes don't just have to be for skiing, but can be worn casually, too," Taylor says of the suits, parkas, pants and snowboarding clothing and boots he sells at his shop — the largest retailer of ski clothing in Ruidoso.

This winter's line of high-tech gear is designed to keep you warm without feeling like a bear on skis.

New air walk snowboarding boots that you can slip right into are hitting the market. And materials for clothing are lighter than ever, too.

"The Inside Edge has come out with some really nice ski gear in their High Tech line," Steed says. "It's very technical ski clothing that stands up to very heavy duty (winter) conditions," he says. "You keep yourself warm when necessary and cool when necessary, without carrying a lot of extra stuff."

The lightweight, high tech fabric is similar to cycling gear, with a "ventilation system" that allows body moisture to dry without becoming cold, explains Clayton.

The ski wear industry seems to be agreeing with Ruidoso's motto this year: just about anything goes.

"If it's warm and comfy, it works," Clayton says.

Lessons help skiers at every level

BY PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you're heading to the slopes this winter and you've never strapped on skis in your life, you may consider skiing lessons essential for your safe passage down the slope.

The most important lesson, of course, comes first — how to stop.

And if you're an experienced skier, a refresher course or graduation to a new skill level might be in order.

Whatever your skills on the snow, the ski instructors at Ski Apache can make your life easier and more enjoyable by sharing a few pointers. Plus, they love their jobs, and that makes the learning experience fun.

Scott Goeller is head supervisor at the ski school. The secret to good skiing, he says, is to relax and balance.

Most beginners take a two-day ski lesson package. On the first day they learn balance and the basics of gliding.

Lesson #1 covers safety, ski etiquette, rules of the slope, and equipment familiarization, Goeller said. The beginner learns to glide in a comfortable stance without having to stop, skiing across the hill.

"We stress balance; practice standing and walking on skis, pushing with poles," Goeller said.

Once the new skier has a sense of balance and comfort on the snow, he gets to face downhill, typically with the skis in a wedge. Keeping the skis in this V-shape allows the beginner to control speed and to stop.

"Then we go into the gliding mode and let gravity take over," Goeller said.

By the end of the first day, most beginners will be riding the lift to higher slopes and learning to glide downhill. About 95% of people have no problem with the morning program, Goeller said.

"The philosophy of our school is safety, fun and learning," Goeller said. "We feel we can keep people on terrain suited to their ability level and make them comfortable."

Lesson #2 takes place in the afternoon, after everyone has had a break and maybe a little warm-up in the ski lodge. Beginners then take to a "beefier trail," Goeller said, learning turns on Easy Street. Turning becomes the speed control device. If the new skier is comfortable turning at the end of this session, the lesson is successful, Goeller said.

Graduation from basic ski lessons doesn't necessarily mean practice will make perfect. Even highly advanced skiers continue to take lessons.

"Many people feel they've learned everything after beginner lessons," Goeller said. "We find people who do that run into problems, going into terrain that's not suitable for them, something steeper."

Life beyond the first lesson includes learning how to perfect wedge turns, and advances to the intermediate level with "matching skis," a parallel stance derived from the wedge.

"We take them on terrain comfortable for learning advanced techniques," Goeller said.

Lessons during the intermediate stage are critical, he said, because most people who skip such lessons develop a lot of bad habits.

At the expert level, skiers develop parallel turns and peripherals, involved with turns such as pole plants, edge angles, how and when to make long and short turns, skiing bumps, and racing.

"We have a full line of racing classes," Goeller said.

The Ski Apache ski school is a member of the Professional Ski Instructors of America, a national organization that creates a standard program among member ski areas.

This means you can take lessons at Ski Apache, then go to another PSIA ski area and pick up where you left off.

The object of taking lessons, ultimately, is to have fun.

"If they're having fun while they're learning basic skills, then they'll learn something," Goeller said.

Ruidoso shopping offers unique experience

BY PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Ruidoso's main street, Sudderth Drive, is better than any big city shopping mall — all the variety, but in a beautiful outdoor strip aglow with Christmas lights.

The clothing stores are boutiques, run by people who aren't interested in cookie-cutter fashion. Original styles in denim, leather, silk, wool, and cozy cotton are tailored to the Ruidoso lifestyle. Shoppers can find casual and comfortable outdoor gear, perfect for a winter hike in the mountains.

A Western spin on elegant men's and women's fashion, will dress you in "Ruidoso formal" attire.

Christmas shoppers are in seventh heaven, able to find something for every personality on the list, including that impossible-to-buy-for cousin. Gift stores, furniture stores and art galleries often feature local artisans and craftsmen.

Shoppers can take several breaks to keep up their energy, partaking of pastries and espresso at the local coffee houses. Strategically located restaurants on the strip serve everything from French gourmet cuisine to California pizza.

Main street is a veritable emporium of Southwestern novelties as well as imports from around the globe. Antler chandeliers, pine needle baskets, Cochina dolls, pottery, and handcrafted Indian blankets are easy to find.

Merchants sell clothing, jewelry, furniture, and home decor from South America, Japan, China, England and India. The gourmet food stores carry specialty coffees, teas, corn meals, seasonings, those chocolate-covered spoons, and more.

Wild Wild West shop co-owner Dan Wimberly shovels an early snow this season in downtown Ruidoso.

Sudderth Drive isn't the only place to shop in Ruidoso. Ruidoso Downs has several antique shops, craft houses, and galleries. Some of Ruidoso's most popular gift shops and restaurants are on Mechem Drive. And it's always fun to spend a day in Capitan and Carrizozo among the woodworks, hand-crafted weavings, antiques, and one-of-a-kind treasures.

Southwestern hospitality abounds around here, and if you're having trouble finding what you want, someone will be happy to help you. Quite often the person serving you is the person who owns the store.

Marked street crossings downtown with pedestrian right-of-ways make it easy to get around, day or night. But it's always a good idea to make sure drivers see you before you step out into the street.

Cross country skis let you escape into the wilderness

BY KATHLEEN McDONALD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

If you want to ski in a place with total solitude, cross country boards can get you there.

You'll also spot people with telemarking skis at Ski Apache. You can't miss 'em — they're the ones with heels unattached to their skis.

Tele skis are flat with good metal edges. Lighter skating cross country skis are best for packed snow and gentle hills. Skis for the backcountry are wider than skating skis, and can vary from partial to full metal edges, or single cambre to double cambre (more arch for better kicking).

"The one thing they all have in common is the free heel on the binding," says Mike Steed of Steed's Ski Sports, which rents all styles of cross country skis. They also have another thing in common: they offer one of the best aerobic workouts you can find.

The skis can be rented for $10 per day, $8 for children. Retail purchase prices range from $150 to $800.

Buck Mountain, which can be accessed by a road near the top of Ski Run Road, is a great place to go for the mountaineering and telemark skiing, Steed says.

Skiing along the Crest Trail to Monjeau Lookout Tower is really sublime, he adds.

Places to standard cross country and skate ski surround the Bonito Basin area, Upper Eagle Creek and lower Cedar Creek.

Many fans choose the 40-mile drive to higher yet flatter portions of the Lincoln National Forest around Cloudcroft. Snow Canyon is closed this season, but usually has groomed trails and offers lessons for beginners.

But the Cloudcroft area also has lots of designated backcountry ski trails, and roads to campgrounds become easy cross country routes in the winter.

"You can cross country ski just about anywhere you want as long as there are no signs prohibiting it," says Peg Crim, a forester with the

Sacramento District of the forest. "Off the Sunspot Highway, there are many unplowed roads that offer more snow for trails."

The Silver Sky camping area, no longer kept open by the U.S. Forest Service during the winter because of budget cuts, can be accessed on skis and includes multiple trails, she said.

For safety's sake, it's always better to cross country ski with a friend.

Take water, a map, a compass, and dress in layers. And make sure someone knows where you're going in case you get lost.

"In the winter, it can get a little tough following the trail," Steed says.

Avalanches are rare here, but they do occur in the Buck Mountain area.

Local theatre offers royal entertainment

BY PAMELA CROMWELL
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Once a movie theater called Camelot, then a mountain music variety showcase, the prominent "castle" on U.S. Highway 70 West has now become the home of Ruidoso Little Theater.

The castle hosted Ballet New Mexico's "Nutcracker" Nov. 23-24, performed by local as well as guest dancers.

Rounding out the year, Irish radio show host Emmitt Downes imports an Irish cabaret of singing, dancing and comedy for KBUY's Harp & Shamrock Fiesta.

Featuring Tony Kenny, one of the most popular Irish entertainers in the world, the cast also includes comedian Noel V. Ginnity, musician Dermot O'Brien, soprano Ciara Armstrong, champion Irish step dancer Feargal Purcell and musical director Seamus Brett. Showtime is 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the castle.

On Dec. 7, RLT holds its own version of the Oscars — the Betty Awards. Named for RLT founder Betty Bennett, these people's choice awards recognize the best plays, performers, set designers, etc., of the season. To vote, playgoers must have seen all of this season's shows: "Cheating Cheaters," "Crimes of the Heart," "Star Spangled Girl," and "Lion in Winter."

Even if you didn't catch all the RLT productions, the Betty Awards is a fun gala event celebrating local talent. They start opening envelopes at 7 p.m. in the castle.

In January and February, RLT gears up for the spring season, holding auditions and rehearsals. Anyone with a penchant for drama is invited to participate in RLT productions, either on stage or behind the scenes.

For more information about entertainment at the castle, or to make reservations, call 257-5190. Ticket prices vary.

Lodging packages make visit easier

Ski Apache has teamed up with local lodgers to provide flexible ski packages for winter visitors this season, including a new lodging option at Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The Inn's "Great Escape Package" offers a guest room, two breakfasts, two Inn margaritas and video gambling credits (for adults 21 and older) for $88 a night, double occupancy. Children 12-years-old and under stay free. Visitors can opt to purchase lift tickets and rent ski equipment for extra.

The package is designed to allow greater flexibility, said Ski Apache marketing director Riker Davis. "Mom can shop or gallery hop at will, while dad and the kids are on the slopes. The whole family isn't committed to a lift/lodging package," Davis noted.

For the last five winters, local hotels, motels and cabin properties have designed ski packages to meet the needs of their customers.

Swiss Chalet General Manager

Steve Tally says his hotel's ski packages make visits easier for skiers.

"It's mostly for the convenience. They get to pay for everything ahead of time. They can have their lodging, ski lift tickets and rentals paid for in advance," Tally said.

Like other lodgers, the Swiss Chalet offers one-day, two-day and three-day packages. Visitors can also arrange for ski rentals through the package.

"We discount the room rates and we get the ski rentals at a slightly discounted rate, so we can pass those savings on to the customers," Tally explained.

For more information about available ski packages, call Ski Apache at 336-4356. Ski Apache does not handle the booking of these packages, but does provide a list of the 11 participating lodging facilities. Some packages start as low as $175 for three days and three nights per person, double occupancy.

Escape to outdoors of Cloudcroft

Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Although Snow Canyon ski area in Cloudcroft won't be open this year, other entertaining options are waiting for winter sports enthusiasts who want to sample life in the southern Sacramento Mountains.

In town, visitors can join special holiday celebrations or take to the ice on skates.

For more intense snow activities, follow the Sunspot Highway out of town to Triple M Snowplay Area.

Owner Craig Sparling said no matter what Mother Nature decides to do, he's prepared this year with a new snowmaking machine.

"Of course, we'll probably get 15 inches of snow now that we have the machine," he said. "We're looking forward to a great year and are planning a new lodge for the following winter."

Triple M features three sliding slopes at its location just outside Cloudcroft, including the steepest tubing slope in New Mexico, Sparling said. Intermediate and beginner hills also are ready and waiting for the more timid. The tops of all three are reached by a special lift.

By the way, Triple M stands for Mysterious Mountains Magic.

Horse sleigh rides

Romantic horse-drawn 1890 sleigh rides for two can be arranged at Triple M. The two-person, 45-minute ride costs $27.50. Rides for 10-12 people for the same amount of time cost $11 per person.

Reservations are required. The snow play area, about 40 miles south of Ruidoso, will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in mid-December, if the weather cooperates.

Call (505) 682-2205 or 1-800-SNO-PLAY for more information.

Snowmobiles

If the idea of fighting the snow afoot isn't appealing, snowmobiles can be rented at two Cloudcroft snowplay locations and at several outfitters in the community.

Seven days a week through the first week in January, Triple M will give guided tours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

One person per Polaris machine costs $30 per hour, and two on a machine costs $40 for a one-hour guided tour.

The tours move through the Russia Canyon and Benson Ridge area of the Lincoln National Forest, with some of the most spectacular scenery in the state.

Operation days will cut back to Friday through Monday after the first week in January.

A driver's license or learner's permit is required to operate a snowmobile, but riders of any age can tag along.

Group discounts are available if arranged in advance. Reservations are required for all tours.

The Lodge in Cloudcroft, a historic hotel true to its turn-of-the-century period, also plans to offer scenic one- to four-hour tours on Arctic Cats. For information on specific times and charges, call the Lodge at (505) 682-2566 — and you may also want to ask about the cross-country skiing opportunities.

Snowmobilers can head out on trails in the Lincoln National Forest surrounding Cloudcroft, unless an area is posted banning motorized travel.

Snow celebration

A special event is planned for each of the days leading up to New Year's Eve in Cloudcroft, including:

- Melodramas are set for 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13-14;
- skaters can hit the ice with Santa Dec. 21;
- compete in a cookie decorating contest Dec. 22;
- try your hand at building gingerbread houses Dec. 23;
- visit Santa Claus at The Lodge on Dec. 24;
- skate free on Christmas Day;
- a special bingo is set for Dec. 28;
- would-be artists will create shimmering ice sculptures on Dec. 29;
- and the celebration ends Dec. 31 with a children's carnival.

For more details, call the chamber of commerce at (505) 682-2733.

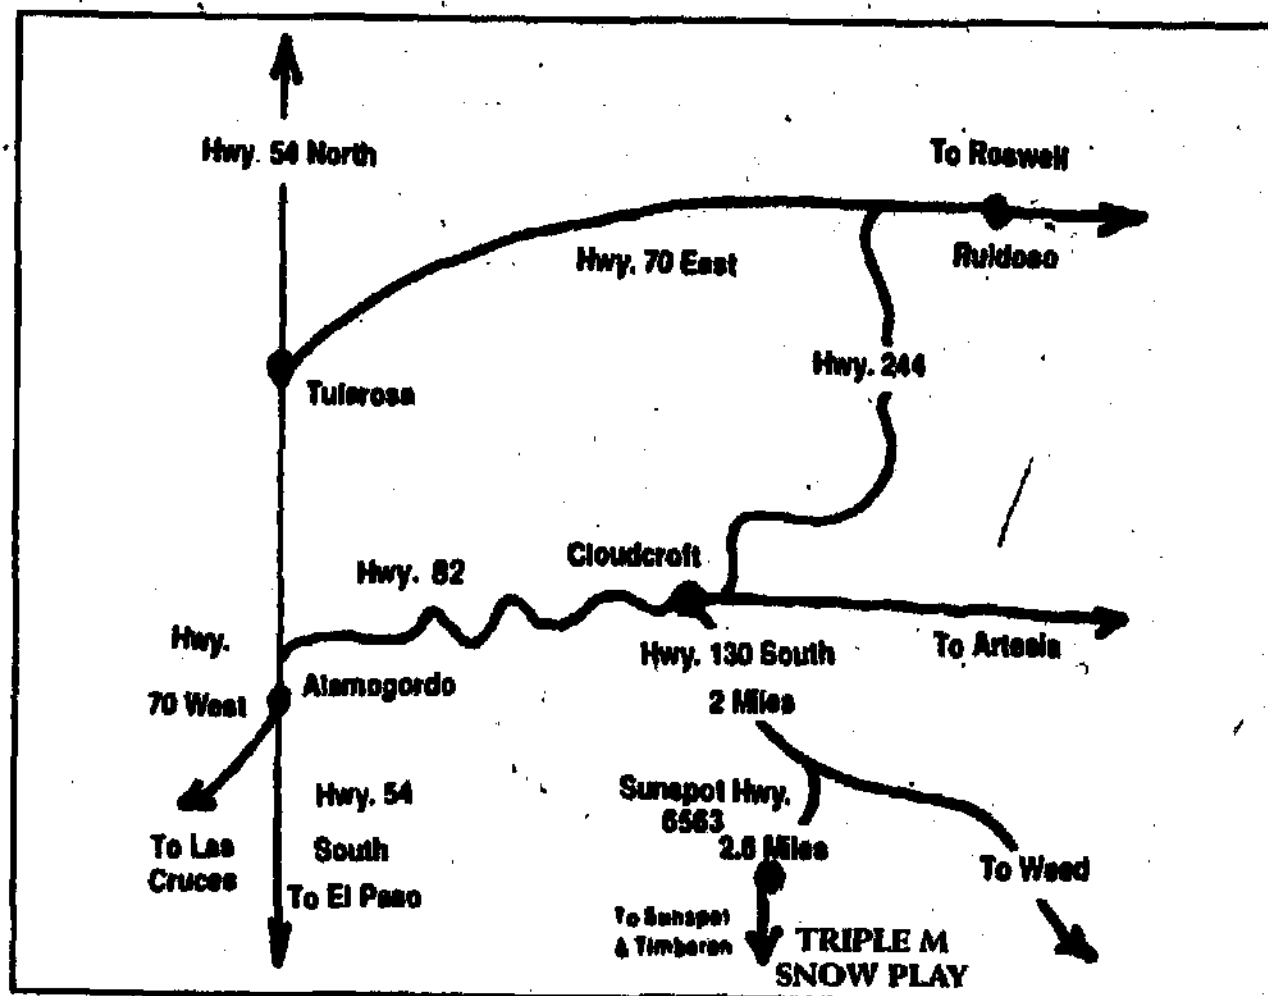

Ice skating

Living in the mountains, not many spots are flat enough for skating.

The Cloudcroft chamber has filled that void by operating an outdoor skating rink on a level surfaced area used during the summer for rollerblading.

If the weather cooperates and temperatures drop low enough, the small outdoor rink on U.S. 82, the main road through town, will open in mid-December.

The chamber uses the same type of equipment to prepare the rink as indoor ice hockey centers use to groom the playing area before a game, said chamber spokesperson Karen Van Doren.

Romantic horsedrawn 1890 sleigh rides and fast, modern snowmobiling are two of the many winter recreational activities in Cloudcroft.

Once winter is entrenched in the picturesque mountain village, the rink at the west end of Zenith Park will be open seven days a week, she said.

Skaters will be able to hit the ice from 3:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. on weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekends, weather permitting.

Don't despair if skates are no longer in your equipment inventory. They can be rented at the rink.

The chamber charges $3 for adult skates and $2.50 for children. No admission is charged to skate at the rink. The chamber has telephone numbers of individuals willing to help with skating lessons.

One Saturday night in early February, people of all ages gather at the rink for a February Full Moon Skating Party.

The only outside rink in the state, James Sewell Skating Rink was the dream of a man who served as mayor of Cloudcroft on and off for 20 years.

When he was a small boy, Sewell and his friends found an underground spring and marshy area off the highway. A place to throw stones and dream in the summer, it was transformed in the winter when the water froze hard enough for children to slip and slide.

Sewell owned the Western Bar and according to oldtimers, after the business closed at night, he would clean the ice and run water over the rink to freeze and present a smooth surface to the children the next day.

The rink was dedicated to Sewell in 1983. Since then, a stone fireplace has doubled in size, and storage space for skates now holds more than 500.

Winter camping

For the extremely hardy, the national forest also will be open for winter camping, although regular campgrounds will be closed, water will be shut off and restrooms locked. No fee is charged.

You can pick up a map of the forest at the Cloudcroft office of the U.S. Forest Service, and you may want to let them know where you plan to camp.

A week before Christmas, the office will start a new schedule and will not be open over the weekend. The winter hours will be from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

For more information, call the Forest Service's Cloudcroft office at (505) 682-2551.

Snow Canyon, the ski area operated by The Lodge at Cloudcroft, is closed this winter. But the owners hope to reopen next year with a better snowmaking machine pump and a source of water to help during years of sparse snow, said marketing representative Lisa Thomassie.
